"There is but one best piano, and that is the Steinway, and no other piano approaches it. I want to give the greatest possible pleasure and satisfaction to my audience. By accomplishing that I gain the greatest reputation, and that is what I want. This end I attain by using the Steinway. I desire you to distinctly understand that there is no money consideration whatever to influence me in my opinion. You have asked me my candid opinion about pianos for the benefit of the public, and I have told you what I honestly think on the subject."

BADEN-POWELL BUSY. Gen. Baden-Powell is arranging for the distribution of mounted constabulary in various districts. The police, railroads and telegraphs will be handed over to the civil authorities as soon as possible, and the restrictions of martial law will be gradually relaxed.

BOERS CORDIAL. The Boer delegates who, during the The Boer delegates in Europe arrived in Utrecht Tuesday afternoon. They held a prolonged conference in the peace negotiations were stiff, formal and unfriendly, are now extremely cordial. All the commandants are returning to their commands in order to explain the situation.

Gen. Louis Botha, the Boer commandant-general, has written an open letter to the burghers thanking them for their obedience in the past and exhorting them to be equally loyal in their obedience to the new government.

KITCHENER'S COMPLIMENT. Lord Kitcener's address to the Boer delegates at Vereeniging, in which he said that if he had been one of them he would have been proud to have done so well in the field as they had done, made the best possible impression, and drew forth a hearty response from Gen. Beyers, the chairman of the Boer conference, who expressed the pleasure the Boers' experienced at meeting Lord Kitchener as a friend, adding that they had fought so long against him that they had acquired

The trains conveying the Boers started late, and, the night being extremely cold, sentries along the railroad track lighted huge bonfires, around which groups of Boers and Britons gathered, forming a highly picturesque scene. The late opponents joined in such songs as "Hard Times Come Again No More," and "Old Folks at Home," the British soldiers and the burghers outvying one another their demonstrations of joy. In brief, the scenes at the departure of the trains resembled nothing so much as the starting of huge picnic parties.

The same signs of rejoicing were witnessed throughout the Flags were displayed everywhere and thanksgiving services were held in all

He says Canada must now prepare to take advantage of the splendid opportunity offered for extension of trade with South Africa. While he quite understood and sympathized with the British Government's desire to promote the settlement of British emigrants to South Africa, Canada would be disappointed were any state-aided emigration scheme devised which applied to South Africa only. Lord Strathcona denied the alleged fast service agreement between the Elder-Dempsters and the Canadian Government. Negotiations might be proceeding, but nothing had yet been definitely settled. Strathcona said it would probably be early in July. SIXTEEN PERSONS KILLED. Sixteen persons were killed and ofur more were wounded as a result of an

One amendment is the lowering of license fees to meet the re-quirements of a change in the Ontario act since the old bylaw was passed. Other amendments are designed to advise the council as to the power given it by the act.

TO PURCHASE THE PROOF LINE. Mr. Elson gave notice that he would on Thursday move that a bylaw be passed to sanction the purchase of the Proof Line road, under an act known as the act for the improvement of highways, passed 1901.

Mr. Elson, it is expected, will ask the council not to purchase the road, but to act as guarantee for the township of London, the latter municipality to purchase the road. By taking advantage of the act named, it is expected that a government grant of one-third the purchase price may be obtained

PEOPLE IN NO MOOD

Britain Was Magnanimous With the Brave Boers.

SIGNS OF EXULTATION

Gen. Dewet the First to Sign the Terms of Surrender Rejoicing in Concentration Camps.

London, June 3 .- Neither the metropolis nor the nation is in a mood for a critical examination of the terms of peace. Every British flag is flying, and every English face is beaming with joy and relief over the close of a war which has cost £223,000,000 and 21.000 lives.

NO EXULTATION OVER THE BOERS.

Grotesque and noisy as was the demonstration in London over the return of peace, there was no sign of exultation over the fallen Boer forced to surrender after a long and desperate fight. The English crowds in this respect were as merciful and magnanimous as the government, which had made peace on most generous terms. The terms were so magnanimous that even pro-Boer radicals in parliament found little fault with them. Such criticism as was heard among members was based upon the EXTRAORDINARY LENIENCY: shown by the government, and the apparent lack of safeguards against the reopening of military operations after the release of the prisoners. The compromise on the language question was also regarded by aggressive Unionists as a source of future disturbance. There was much comment upon the official recognition of the representatives of the South African Republic and mitigate the nuisance of irresponsible the Orange Free State in the first agents and traders. Action on the by- article of the agreement, and the exlaw was deferred to allow the solicitor planation was offered that this revival of the dignity of the prescribed and wandering governments was not without utility, since it enabled Lord Kithener and Lord Milner to remand the Cape and Natal rebels to the mercies of their own governments.

MR. KRUGER'S CASE. The Chamberlain proclamation of last September has been allowed lapse, since no Boer leader can condemned to exile or be deprived of property. Mr. Kruger is not mentioned in the agreement, but apparently he will not be liable under the fourth article to any proceedings, civil or criminal, if he returns to Pretoria.

REJOICING IN CONCENTRATION CAMPS. Pretoria, Transvaal, Monday, June 2. -There was great rejo women weeping with joy.

Arrangements are being made the Canada Atlantic Railway by Dr. send representatives of each unit of the British army in South Africa to participate in the coronation festivities in London.

OVER 25,000 BOER PRISONERS. London, June 3.—Answering a question in the House of Commons today, the war secretary, Mr. Brodrick, said the total number of Boer prisoners in South Africa and elsewhere was 25,-565, of whom 783 were under 16, and 1.025 over 60 years of age. The chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, answering a question, finally announced that it was not proposed to remove the tax on grain from the budget. GLAD PRISONERS. Bombay, British India, June 3.-In the Boer prison camps here a majority of the prisoners rejoiced over the news of peace in South Africa, but many considered it bad because it meant the loss of all they fought for. 'We would have stayed in captivity for years without complaint," said many of the Boers, "had such been the judgment of the burghers."

THANKSGIVING SERVICE. London, June 3.-King Edward will attend a peace thanksgiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday, June 8. The lord mayor, Sir Joseph O. Dims-dale, will be present in state.

MESSAGE FROM THE POPE. Rome, June 3.-Monsignor Stormer, the archbishop of Trebizond, officially communicated to the Pope yesterday the news of the termination of the war in South Africa. His holiness answered: "God be blessed. I pray you to communicate to the British Government the fact that the news has filled

SITUATION IN CAPE COLONY. Cape Town, June 3 .- Sir John Gordon Sprigg, premier of Cape Colony, during a meeting here yesterday, announced that the colonial secretary had informed him that the imperial government did not contemplate the suspension of the constitution of Cape Colony. The premier further declared that the "disfranchisement of the rebels of Cape Colony will defeat our enemies in the house as effectually as they have been beaten in the field.'

The premier said that at the colonial conference to be held in London at the coronation he intended to uphold free trade within the empire. Considerable opposition to the premier's views developed among the audience, while the crowd outside the hall was so hostile that some of the windows were broken with stones.

The impression has gone out that there are some vacancies in the contingent, and the department of militia is being inundated with applications from men desirous to go. All such applicants are being informed that every place in the contingent is

Cured By Powley's Liquified Ozone

NATURE'S BLOOD FOOD.

Miss Lily Hall Writest A year ago I was unable to go out doors without a veil covering on account of eczema and pimples covering my face. I tried all sorts of drugs and lotions without effect. Walter Knowlton's Little Boy Suffered. When our little boy was 2 years old a rash broke out on his face. We called in the doctor to see if he could do anything for him, but he said he could do nothing, as the disease would have to pass out of the system as he got older. The next fall the disease broke out worse than ever. We heremed are would not know became very much alarmed, as we did not know what to do. A neighbor came in and advised us to try Powley's Liquified Ozone, but I had no faith in it as I thought it was like all other advertised cures. However, after a day or two I felt like trying your remedy, and procured a bottle. In a short time after commencing the preparation, we noticed a visible improvement in our son. The disease was drying up. I ought to state here that after taking the Ozone just at first, the disease broke out worse than ever. We became alarmed at this, as we thought it was a bad sign. But we were assured that this was a good sign, as it proved afterward to be. He is in perfect health now and his face is as smooth and soft as velvet. He has since had no return of the disease. We feel very thankful we have obtained such a good cure, as we feared his face might become badly marked. We keep Ozone constantly in our house, and would not be without it for any consideration.

(Signed) WALTER KNOWLTON, 87 Brunswick Ave., Toronto.

A Running Sore. In the fall of 1901 I had a very severe attack of eczema on my left leg, which became very angry and sore. The disease ate right into the flesh, which gave me great pain. I was nearly o.. of my mind,

Both Mr. Newton, 66 Dundas Street, and Mrs. Hepton advised me to take Powley's Liquified Ozone,
I obtained three bottles and started taking it and to my astonishment the disease was healed up.
I can also add to this my testimonial to the general good I received to my health.
I am a great believer in Ozone and I feel that I ought to be, as I have been so wonderfully benefited

It purifies the blood by increasing its oxygen-carrying power; helps the body dispose of waste matter through the natural channels. Most people get the best results by applying Ozone locally as well as the internal dosage. Its healing action is surprising. It disinfects and renews the right kind of tissue. This warm weather

Because we did mad things in the way of exploring their beautiful island—things very harm-less and natural to persons in strange countries, but utterly impossible to the well-regulated Creole. But Martinique, the Pearl of the Antilles, was too fascinating to leave without having seen it thoroughly. So on fere-days and Sundays we half-score mad English exiles slipped the chains of work that tied us to the busy old-world town and scoured Martinique like the common or garden tourists. EMPRESS JOSEPHINE'S BIRTH-

Diamond, as a rock in the sea near Forte de France is called, where in the grand old wars a handful of Rodney's bluejackets for several months laughed o scorn all efforts of the redoubtable De Grasse to dislodge them; I had seen Behanzin, king of Dahomey, exile and prisoner of state in Martinique. and photographed him in the midst of his wives and children; I had seen the Fontaine Chaude, when high above the sea in the balmy air of a bamboo forest the fever-stricken French soldiers bathe away the malaria in a hot sulphur spring that gushes out of the rocks; I had seen the wonderful Grande Anse, where the Atlantic breaks on the shore in billows half a mile long; I had made myself hail- (Con.), 419. fellow-well-met at all the Usines, where the French Royalist planters, as in the good old times. TAIN. Two miles out of the town we passed the Usine Guerin, one of the largest sugar factories in Martinique, which in these very days has been obliterated by the lava river as it rushed with incredible velocity down the slope of Mont Pelee. In the great yard strewed with newly-reaped sugar-cane young Guerin was standing in the midst of his laborers, who were singing a patois song as they worked to a weird African air. He hailed to us to CANADIAN SOLDIERS stop, and insisted on our drinking a stirrupcup of rum and water to give us luck. Five miles further on at the fishing village of Precheur we found the parish priest pruning his rose trees in a quaint Creole garden. He made us breakfast with him, and an hour later we were climbing the mountain on our hardy Creole ponies. It was not long before the road came to an end in the midst of a tiny negro hamlet. Here we dismounted, sent the ponies back to St. Pierre by a negro lad, and armed with machetas -cutlasses used for reaping the sugarthe hamlet, men, women and children, stood in the single street regarding us nounced at her home, 21 Prince Arthur with a silence full of timid curiosity. avenue, Toronto, early Monday morn-ing, June 2, of Leonette, the second the mountain was said to be infested They never expected us to return, as PARADISE FROM THE INFERNO. After three hours hacking our way through the dense underbrush, we came to a vast, rocky clearing, and mit of Mont Pelee-the shaved mountain, for there is no vegetation worth ney, a. Grantham farmer, was found speaking of on the slopes of its last one thousand feet. Beneath us, over a veritable green sea of tree-ferns and bamboo, lay the Caribbean as smooth as a turquoise. We couldn't see the red roofs of Precheur, but something that glittered like a diamond we took for the city of St. Pierre four thousand feet below us. In spite of the rough climb, having to hack every foot of our way through the forest, we were not fatigued, for a balmy breeze like an anodyne was blowing down the mountain, and we were too high to feel the sun. The rest of the way was comparatively easy work, and it was with a feeling of intense exhilaration, such as all those who have scaled a great mountain experience, that we finally reached the summit.

Looking away from the mountain, the view was magnificent; the whole of Martinique was spread out beneath us, and on one hand St. Lucia like a Ponce, Porto Rico, June 3.-Bernabe gray ghost rose out of the filmy sea, while on the other, seeming almost near enough to touch, towered the green gigantic volcano of Dominica-Mount Diablotin. But what met our eyes immediately around us was uncanny. A lake of black water without a ripple lay in what looked like an iron giant. It was the crater of Mont Pe-

Towards sunset, without mishap, we reached the beautiful little town of Morne Rouge, on a plateau surrounded with hills, which give it the appearance of having been the bed of a former crater. Some friends put us up for the night. We were so tired that we went to bed at once. We had not been asleep a half hour when I awoke in a cold sweat. At first I thought I was dreaming that I was at sea. The wooden walls of the room creaked like the timbers of a ship; there was a rumbling like the breaking of waves; the bed was swaying; I was very dizzy, and it was very dark!

The Terms of Peace. The text of the British-Boer agreement shows that the conquerors have been magnanimous in the extreme. The Boers sacrifice nothing but their national independence; and in the Transvaal at least this was only nominal, as the so-called republic was ruled by a corrupt oligarchy, and was subject to Great Britain in all its external relations. The Boers do not lose their personal liberty; they do not lose their property, except such as has been destroyed by the ravages of war, for which they are themselves responsible. Even these losses will be repaired to a considerable extent by the British Government's grant of $15,000,000 for the purchase of food, shelter, seed, stock and implements. Not only this, but, the Transvaal is to bear no share of the cost of the war. This is a retrocession from the original position of the British Government The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his first budget speech after the opering of the war, expressly stated that the Transvaal would be required to indemnify Great Britain to a large ex tent; that it was only fair that the great mining interests of South Africa,

which would profit by the new conditions after the war, should bear a portion of the burden. No doubt Sir

Michael Hicks-Beach was sincere at in the terms relating to the future government of the new colonies, and to the dual language problem. As expected military rule cannot be immediately abandoned, but it is to be succeeded as soon as possible by a civil government and representative institutions leading up to self-government. The Boers are put upon their good behavior, and if they show themselves peaceable and law-abiding, within a few years they will be enjoying equal civil liberties with their British fellow - citizens. Under the more enlightened and more progressive conditions of British rule, their opportunities for social and material betterment will be much wider than ever before. As to the language question, Dutch is not officially recognized; that is, there is no provision that public documents and parliamentary records shall be printed in two languages, as in Canada, but Dutch will be taught in the public schools where the parents desire it, and allowed in the courts of law when it will serve the interests of justice. Of course it would be useless to try to extirpate a language by law, and in any event duality of language is not necessarily a bar to political or national homogeneity, as Switzerland has proved. The probability is that Dutch will continue to be the language of the home and fireside among the Boers for generations, but, like the French-Canadians, they will learn English, the language of commerce, becauseit will be to their interest to do so. Altogether, the settlement is one that makes every allowance for the pride and spirit of a brave people, consistent with the surrender of their political independence. Mercy and generosity could go no further than the British

The coal barons of the United States will get little sympathy either in this country or across the line in their present troubles. Mr. Whitney is going through the same performance as after the elections of 1898. Mr. Whitney's idea of strong action seems to be strong language, and no doubt the Province will be deluged with it again, though the public looked for some respite after the campaign. Thank heaven for that!

The Boer war began in October, 1899. Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet and practically annexed the Philippines in May of the previous year. Great Britain has finished its task, but the United States sees no finish to its own job.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review says the good impression made by Dr. Mc-William in East Middlesex did much to smooth the path for Dr. Routledge. East Middlesex Liberals will always be grateful to Dr. McWilliam. He fought two campaigns, and nearly won them both. At any rate he won the esteem of political friends and opponents alike, by his manly conduct, and his fine personal qualities.

From the moment Mr.Lumsden made his famous sharp curve on the Temiskaming Railway matter and followed it up by using every means to destroy Ottawa's chances to secure the selection of the Mattawa route, we knew that he was doomed .- Ottawa Citizen.

Certainly. Mr. Lumsden was not defeated on the record of the Government, but simply because he refused to take a parish view of a great public undertaking. Modern Love Story.

[Chicago Record.] I wrote her letters daily. Wrote her letters daily,
With love in every line;
I wrote of all the glory
I'd win when she was mine;
I wrote to praise her beauty,
My every thought, indeed,
I tried to put on paper,
For her alone to read.

She gathered up my letters, All—all of them she took,
And sought and found a printer,
Who put them in a book;
She published them and called them
"Love Letters of a Fool,"
And sold a million copies
Before the types were cool.

Today she lives in splendor, Her love is mine no more;
Today she lets her servants
Repulse me at the door;
With lofty scorn she passes
The corner where I stand.

WEEKLY REVIEW. The attendance at the market here during the past week, with the exception of Saturday, was not up to the average for this season of the year. The interest taken by the farmers in the late elections, and the rainy weather of the past few days, no doubt had an effect on the attendance.

Raising Snails.

Snail raising for profit is the unique occupation of a California man, and his snail ranch at Los Angeles is supposed to be the only place in the United States where snails are bred and Revs. H. M. Manning, T. H. Oliraised as an article of food. This odd industry is little more than a fad in this country, but in France the succulent escargot is in high favor with the gourmet, 800 tons of them being consumed last year in the city of Paris

l alone. A few years ago Mr. A. V. Pernot, of Los Angeles, a native of France, imported two dozen of the variety known as "escargot Bourgogne," and attempted to found a colony of the slimy and repulsive appearing creatures. He knew their food value, and he knew also that 'sirup d'escargots' is esteemed of benefit in the treatment of throat and lung affections. The variety imported is carnivorous, and they lived but a short time on the vegetable diet to which they were subjected.

Later Mr. Pernot received a consignment of the variety "escargot Bordelaise," which is herbivorous, and the success of his experiment has been phenomenal. The colony has increased so rapidly that in the breeding seasson the services of one man are required constantly in the care of the thousands of snails that crowd the confines of their pens.

Snail raising is beset with few difficulties. All that is needed is a small inclosure in a moist place, so protected that the crawling gasteropod cannot stray away with its shell-house on its back.

In the Los Angeles snaillery the pens are built under a large windmill-tank, where water is plentiful. Several long half feet in height, are arranged about an open space, and the tops are covhinges. Inside the boxes are numerous lengths of drain tile, in and upon which the snails cling in great numbers and in all stages of development The eggs of the onail, tiny in size abandoned in a season.

Ordinarily the young snail gnaws its way out of the shell, and to the surface Edward Olivant; Dorchester John within twenty or thirty days, but instances have been noted of eggs that have been dried and kept for many Wm. McMullen; Delaware, Samuel R. years, and then returned to a moist McVitty. place, where they hatched in the usual period.

The snails are liveliest in the early norning. This is their feeding time, and they come out in myriads to receive a shower bath from a garden ose and to feast on the cabbage, lettuce and grape-vine leaves that comose their diet. They are voracious eaters, and when several thousand of them are eating the noise they make track of one, but the other three are with their horny jaws and cartilaginous tongue is not unlike the champing of a horse on its bit.

In their native haunts the snails are reat pests, resembling grasshoppers n their destructivity, and instances are cited where entire gardens of cabage and strawberries have been derastated in a night.—Chicago Tribune.

Lacrosse, Wis., June 4.-A tornado struck this city Monday night, unroofing houses, piling pedestrians up in street corners, smashing plate glass windows and blowing down signs. A number of people were hurt, but none, t is thought, fatally. A strange phenomenon accompanied the storm. Black louds, with livid lightning, rose out of the west, but a dead calm prevailed. Suddenly an awful deafening roar was leard, and in a moment the torrent fell. From a height of 150 feet a great ball of fire descended, striking in front of a saloon and exploded. An unconfirmed rumor was received that a town o the south, Brownsville or Desoto, is ompletely wiped out, but every telegraph and telephone wire is down A report from the south says that one man was killed and a score were wounded at Desoto.

STRIKERS CLASH WITH POLICEMEN

Serious Rioting in Several Sections of Chicago.

STREET TRAFFIC WAS STOPPED

Policeman Slashed With a Razor-Broken Heads Numerous-Effect of Coal Strike Felt in Toronto.

Chicago, June 4 .- There were numerous fights between the policemen and those who sympathized with the striking teamsters yesterday. Street traffic was stopped, the police and employes of the packing companies were stoned, and at one place the police, 50 strong, under the command of Lieut, Collins, maddened by the numerous stones with which they had been pelted, drew their revolvers and charged full into the crowd. When the fight was over there were a number of strikers needing surgical attention. None were dangerously injured, as far as known, however, and the wounded strikers were carried off by their friends. The fighting continued practically all afternoon in different parts of the city.

IN "LITTLE HELL." The most serious trouble of the day occurred in Crosby street, in the district which is known in police circles as "Little Hell." A detachment of policemen, under the command of Lieut. Collins was escorting a number of wagons loaded with meat to the distributing stations down town. A large crowd followed the wagons, shouting and jeering, and now and then throwing stones. The line of wagons escorted by the police was frequently stopped by other teamsters, who would pull across the street just in the proper place to prevent the meat wagons from making any pro-gress. The police would order the man away, and in a few minutes the per-formance would be repeated. Finally one teamster refused to pull his team out of the way, and the police placed him under arrest. In an instant a shower of stones and mud and sticks flew around and on the officers, bruising some of them bad-ly. Lieut. Collins ordered the march of the meat wagons to be stopped, and then charged the crowd, which refused to budge when the police came on.

WOMEN ASSIST. A large number of women came up to the aid of the strikers, and were the fiercest fighters of the lot. One officer was knocked down with a brick, and his mpanions then drew their clubs an made war with such energy that in a few minutes the street was filled with men with bleeding heads. As soon as the police started away the mob formed again, and though at a respectful distance, kept after the wagons until they had reached the barns at Halstead and Division streets.

In this fight about a dozen officers were badly bruised, and nearly all of them had torn clothing. Many more of the mob were badly used up, but as they were all taken off by their friends it is impossible to give their number.

A TWO HOURS' FIGHT. When the barns were reached the anger of the crowd had reached fever heat. An attempt was made to cross Halstead street, but in less than a minute a blockade was formed, which it took two hours to release. Finally, after pushing and fighting for a long time, the police managed to get the wagons to the barns, and aged to get the wagons to the barns, and the doors were closed.

At night another serious fight took place at Twelfth and State streets.
Police Sergt. Mooney was badly slashed with a razor. During the fighting 38 prisoners were taken by the police and locked up.

locked up.

GOT A BROKEN BACK. In front of the stores of Irwin Bros. and Wagner, Winslow & Co., who use meat from the big packers, as the wagons were being unloaded, spectators and strike sympathizers began interferand strike sympathizers began interfer-ing with the non-union drivers. A mob-of nearly 2,000 people gathered. The police guarding the wagons could not preserve order. The two Irwin brothers seized axe handles, and with the police beat back the crowd. In the melee Isaac Bean was thrown down a stairway and big heat was broken his back was broken.

TWO MEN MAY DIE. In spite of the strikers and their riends, 33 wagonloads of meat were de-ivered from the stock yards to down-own stations. A score of policemen and rioters were injured and 50 persons placed under arrest. Two of the injured may die. To add to the burdens of the police 1,300 drivers and their helpers employed by the State street general retail mer-chandise stores went on a strike. EFFECT OF COAL STRIKE.

Tale of Woe Poured Into Ear of Chief Williams.

An irate woman called on Chief Williams yesterday and demanded the arrest of her husband and the editor of a Brantford newspaper. Her husband, she said, had not treated her right, so she decided to live with him no longer. On leaving him, however, one of the Brantford papers published a statement that she had run away with another man. This was only a partial truth, she explains, for while she went away with a man, the man was her own brother, and he took her to her mother, with whom she now lives. Chief Williams advised her to explain the circumstances to the newspaper and secure an apology.

It would be twice as good if it were half as long. Bessie Bans sings coon songs well, but she makes a mistake when she tries to render sentimental ballads. DECENTATION OF THE PROPERTY OF Doubly Blest §

He held out his thin, white hand, and bent a wistful look upon the young man's colorless face. It semed to Max as if he were in a trance—as if he were bound hand and foot in some supernatural state that would not allow him to move, he was so stupefied by the wonderful revelation to which he had just listened.

But it passed in a moment, and a flood of joy and gratitude surged up in his heart and loosened his spell-bound nerves.

He sprang forward to the invalid's Bide and cordially clasped the hand that was extended to him.

"Can it be possible!" he exclaimed, Bear ling the emaciated countenance of his companion with eager interest. "I cannot realize it, but if you are indeed my father, sir, be assured that I am ready to give you a warm place in my affections. But you are tired—ill," he added, seeing how pale the man had become; "I am afraid this interview has been too exciting for you. I beg that you will rest before we have any further explanations."

Mr. Wellington certainly did look both Mr. Wellington certainly did look both all and weary, and, for a few minutes, seemed unable to talk at all.

Then a violent fit of coughing selzed him, which lasted so long that Max became really alarmed.

But it subsided at last, and though he seemed weak and explanated he assured

"I suppose it was the excitement that caused such a severe turn," he said; "but it is over now. Sit down-right here beside me, where I can look at you-

Max; that is what you told me that good woman calls you, isn't it?"
"Yes," Max answered, as he drew his chair close beside the man, "the whole name, Maxwell, seemed too long, she said, when I was a little shaver, so she shortened it to Max, which has clung to

'Are you sure you are strong enough to tell it?" Max asked, anxiously; "would it not be best to rest? I can wait any length of time, rather than exhaust your strength."

"No, I am perfectly able to tell the tale. I feel as if I had suddenly acquired a stronger hold upon life," the invalid returned, laying his hand affectionately upon his son's arm. "This quaint old cradle was purchased by my greatgrand-father in the year 1771, upon the arrival of his first-born on this mundane sphere. Three children were rocked in arrival of his first-born on this mundane sphere. Three children were rocked in it between that time and 1776, when he joined the continental army to fight for his liberty, and thus leaving his wife and three little ones to get along as best they could without him. Their home, at this time, was in New Jersey, only a few miles from where the memorable battle of Trenton was fought. A short time previous to that event a party of red-coats, while out on a foraging expedition, came upon my ancestor's farm and robcoats, while out on a foraging expedition came upon my ancestor's farm and robbed them of their horse, two cows and a quantity of grain that was stored for winter use in the barn; while one of the officers rudely entered the house, and, upon espying this cradle, remarked that he 'had a young one over at the barracks, and that he was in need of just such a thing.' He roughly seized the infant that was sleeping in it, tossed it into my ancient relative's lap, and unceremoniously bore away the cradle, together with pillows, blankets and coverdid. The infant thus rudely handled was my grandmother. Of course, none of the family ever expected to behold the thing again; but, strange to relate, after that again; but, strange to relate, after that notable battle was fought, which resulted in the complete rout of the redcoats, it came to light in the barracks which the officers of the English army had oc-cupied. My great-grandfather, who was one of the victorious regiments, saw and claimed it, and at once sent it to his home. When my grandmother married, years later, it was given to her.

because of the romantic incident con-nected with her childhood. Eight chil-dren were rocked in it in her family, and when I came on the stage of existence i was given to my father, who was the eldest of that number. I had three sisters, but they all died before reaching the age of womanhood, consequently the cradle was a portion of my inheritance. "In May, 18—, I married one of the loveliest girls the world ever knew, Grace Eldredge by name. A year later a fine Eldredge by name. A year later a fine son was born to us, and, of course, he was rocked in the ancient heirloom of the family, of which we were very proud. family, of which we were very proud. You—I cannot realize, to look at you now, that you were that bright, laughing baby—were just ten months of age when a terrible tragedy occurred, which bereft hundreds of husbands of their wives, wives of their husbands, and children of their parents, in the thriving town of ——, Pennsylvania. I had resided there only about a year. I was cashier and one of the directors of the town bank. The town was surrounded by and built upon hills, while several factories were located upon the river, which and built upon hills, while several factories were located upon the river, which ran directly through the heart of the town, and there were of course, dams about to regulate the power by which they were run. One of these dams, and the largest, had for a long time been thought unsafe, and there had been a good deal of grumbling on the part of the opertitives who lived in the lower portion of the town, near the business, and feared disaster on account if the unsafe condition of the dam. At last they safe condition of the dam. At last they won a promise from the corporations to have it repaired. It was never done; if it had been I should not have had this sad story to tell."

Mr. Wellington sighed heavily as he reached this point in his narrative, and, for a moment or two, seemed to lose for a moment or two, seemed to lose himself in a sorrowful reverie.

"In the spring of 18—," he resumed.

"there came a prolonged season of storm; such winds and such torrents as beat down upon us I never saw before, nor since. The river was terribly swollen by the rain and the melting of the show on the mountains above us. One snow on the mountains above us. One night—I can never forget it—the people of the town were startled from their slumbers by the clattering of a horse, as a man tore through the place, crying in a hoarse, ominous voice, "Fly! take to the hills for your lives! the north shore dam is giving way!"

"The factory operatives were quick to heed the warning, for they alone had been living in constant dread of such a been living in constant dread of such a catastrophe; but those living in the upper portion of the town were either paralyzed by fear or did not credit the frightful message. My own home was in a slight hollow adjacent to the bank, but it was upon much higher ground than some other portions of the place, and at first I apprehended no danger and made no effort to get to a place of safety. It was a fatal delay, and presently my ears caught the rush and the roar of the angry waters as they leaped down the hills and filled in the hollows all about us, and began to creep in at our doors, before we were hardly aware of our terrible danger. Even then, so ignorant was I of the mighty force above us, I thought that the water would settle below us and then sweep onward into the valley beyond. But it continued to rise and we and then sweep onward into the valley beyond. But it continued to rise and we rushed to our chambers to get out of the way of it. Soon we were flooded even there, and my beautiful wife, as well as myself, was nearly distracted, for, all around us outside, there was only a whirling waste of water, and we had no means of escaping from our terrible.

a whirling waste of water, and we had no means of escaping from our terrible situation. Suddenly my darling seemed to be inspired with a bright idea.

"You can swim, she said to me; I will put baby in his cradle—it is strong and water-tight, and will float—I will bind him in securely with a new clothes-line that I have in the store-room, you shall take him to a place of safety there ine that I have in the store-room, you shall take him to a place of safety, then get a boat and come back for me."

"But the water is rising very rapidly—it will be up to the eaves in a short time," I objected nearly frantic with my culpable negligence in not heeding the warning we had received.

"I will go to the attic; then, if the water comes there I will take to the roof through the scuttle," my brave darling replied.

I knew also that I could not save them both at once, and I hoped to reach a hill, only a few rods distant, where already many people had congregated, procure a boat, and return for her.

IT MAKES WOMEN HAPPY.

"I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications," writes Mrs. O. N. Fisher, of 1861 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. "I was constantly going to see a physician or purchasing medicine. My hus-band at last induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After taking one bottle and following your advice I was so encouraged that I took five more bottles of Favorite Prescription.' I continued taking it and felt that I was improving faster than at first. I am not now cross and irritable, and I have a good color in my face; have also gained ten pounds in weight and one thousand pounds of comfort, for I am a new woman once more, and your advice and your 'Pavorite Prescription' is the cause of it."

under my arms, clasped my wife for one brief moment to my breast; then, lifting the cradle through a window, I was soon the cradle through a window, I was soon struggling in that waste of waters, which seemed to leap after me like angry demons hungry for their prey. It was a terrible battle, and but for those two lives, that were dearer to me than my own, I must have given out before half the distance had been accomplished. I managed to reach rising ground at last—I could reach bottom, and gathering fresh courage at this I looked back to see if my other dear one was still safe. When I left her she had been standing at the window where I got out—now she was window where I got out—now she was seated upon the roof, and only the attic windows of the house were visible. The gray dawn was just breaking, and as I turned she waved her hand to encourage me, when suddenly—oh, horror!—I saw a sight that made my brain reel, and my heart stop its beating."

The man stopped and covered his eyes with his hands, as if even now he could see the sickening scene that had cost him so much, and would shut it from his sight.

sight was too much for n leadly faintness seized me, and I knew tothing more until hours after I found myself lying upon a pile of clothing high up on the hill, out of all danger. The terrible scene that I had witnessed reurned at once to my mind, and a deadly chill seemed to my mind, and a deadly chill seemed to run through me. I knew my wife was lost—that I should never see her alive again. Then I called for my boy. No one knew anything about hirr. I insisted that I had saved him, that he had been securely tied to my body. But those who had rescued me said that I was floating down the stream alone and helless when some one in a lone and helpless when some one in poat saw that there was life still in me,

AN AFFLICTION TO MANY WOMEN.

Piles or hemorrhoids are small tunors which form in and about the orifice of the rectum. They are caused by an inlarged and inflamed condition of the veins, which are very numerous in this part of the body. As any oustruction of these veins induces piles, t is very common for women during the expectant period to suffer keenly from piles and itching of the skin. To all such we can commend Dr. Chase's Dintment with every confidence that it will prove of prompt and lasting benefit.

Mrs. W. E. Jeffries, 44 Hicks avenue Kingston, Ont., states: "I suffered agony with itching piles. In fact, I don't believe that any person who has not had piles can realize what I have endured. I had tried many remedies and almost despaired of ever being cured, when my husband brought me a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. The first application brought relief, and after using half a box I can truthfully say that I was entirely cured. I give this recommendation in hope that it will be the means of bringing comfort and cure to other women suffering as

Mr. James Elliott, Gananoque, Ont. states: "My wife was greatly troub!ed with piles, and put in an awful time of it. She could not get relief from the terrible itching and burning sensations. I bought a box of Dr Chase's Ointment, and on the application she obtained relief. After using the one box she was cured of piles, and I can fully and heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all who suffer from piles." If we could only make known the virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment there would not be a family but would keep it constantly on hand. It is the greatest healer that the world has ever known, and acts like magic in relieving itching and burning of the skin. 50 cents a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE KING AT THE RACES. London, June 3.-King Edward and a suite watched the Epsom races which will culminate tomorrow in what is Time, 1:521/2. expected to be the most brilliant Derby in years. Nearly all the members of the royal family and the foreign potentates in England will be the King's guests for the Derby, and the demand for coaches threatens to exceed the supply. Today's racing was marred by accidents to three jockeys, in the race for the Craven stakes. Reiff, who it is said had the offer to ride R. S. Siever's bay filly Sceptre, the favorite at 50 to 4 against, and had W. C. HOW TO BE A GOOD HOSTESS

Art of Entertaining Is a Matter of Unselfishness-

One Should Be a Good Conversationalist and Yet Avoid Small Talk-Good Manners.

The magical art of entertaining is largely a matter of unselfishness. The best entertainers are those who try to draw others out instead of keeping their own personality always to frent. For a woman who would win for herself the name of a delightful hostess-and what woman would not? -two things are essential-charm of manner and a perfect mastery of the art of conversation. Manners are like sacraments, the outward and visible signs of an inward and spiritual grace. They constitute a silent and subtile language which we speak in spite of ourselves, and entertain or repulse according as they are gracious or disagreeable What are they, indeed, but thoughts entering into our hands and face and controlling the movements of the fingers, the eyes, the lips, the behavior? The woman therefore who would acquire what Emerson calls the finest of the fine arts, a lovely and distinguished manner, that woman must first put herself in a proper mental attitude toward her neighbor and her own manner as will adequately express that attitude in its subtlest and most deli-

It is bad form to take complete and perfect control over her and keep the lead in a general conversation. Much of course must be forgiven of genius, but it is well to make sure that you have the divine spark before you assume its prerogatives. That exquisite tact which tells one when to speak and when not to speak is one of the secrets of the art of entertaining. The clever woman of the world at first talks to cover up the embarrassment of a diffident companion but afterwards endeavors by artful if apparently artless, questions him shine in turn. The most delightful conversation is of course that which is most suggestive. As in the game of chess, the whole force of the conversational game depends upon how much is taken for granted and one person, a bit too literal, may spoil the talk of a whole tableful of people of esprit. As a letter is not an essay, so conversation is not a lecture or a learned dialogue-neither is it a medium to impart dry information. It is not facts which make conversation brilliant, but thoughts and fancies about facts. There is one thing that has spoiled more good talks than anything else, and that is a longdrawn-out argument between people who differ on the fundamental principles upon which these points depend. SMALL TALK TO BE DESPISED. The ripple of small talk is not to be despised. It opens the game and if well managed may lead to something

The monthly meeting of the trustees of the Protestant Orphans' Home was held at the home on Monday afternoon. The president, Mrs. McCallum, occupied the chair, and the attendance of the board was large. The meeting was opened by devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Gregsten, when the reports from the several committees were read and adopted, the ladies stating stating that everything was most satisfactory at the home. Some necessary repairs to the home were discussed at some length, and finally settled to the sat-FOOD AND GIRLS.

Right. Some time ago one of the ladies' papers published a long list of extracts from letters from mothers, speaking of broken down school girls.

Study Don't Hurt If They Are Fed

True, overwork and too much confinement is largely responsible, but, on the other hand, if the girl is fed the right kind of food to rebuild the daily waste she can stand more work and the matter of food is the real foundation of the subject.

A 17-year-old girl writes from Caro, Mich., about how a change in food helped her. "I am only a school girl 17 years old, but I am old enough to appreciatet what the wonderful brain food, Grape-Nuts, has done for me. "I was put on Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food. In about three months I recovered my strength, my mind became much more clear and acute and I was able to resume school work. "I continued to use Grape-Nuts until I discovered that I was getting too fat. I gained so much in weight that I had to discontinue it. It is the best food I ever heard of for building up a broken down system.

I have an aunt who went to India as a missionary and while there, she was ill four times with Indian fever and became a mere skeleton. When she returned here her muscles were as flabby as could be. She was put on Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food and quickly recovered. Her muscles grew hard and firm and she entirely regained her health, has greatly increased in weight and never knows a sick day now. She is still eating Grape-Nuts and says she would not do without

Board of Education Does Not Favor the Idea.

NAMED

Consummation of Peace To Be Celebrated by All School Children of the City.

The board of education met last night in the council chamber of the city hall. A number of matters were brought up, chief of which was the drafting of committees for the school picnic and peace celebration at Spring-bank on June 13. Principal Latta, of the Colborne street school, petitioned for leave of absence on June 26, as he purposed going to England. His request was granted and Miss Yates was appointed to take charge of his classes for the remaining days of the term. Mr. Edward Wyatt was appointed principal's assistant for the next model school term. A request, signed by about a dozen persons, was read, that the boys be permitted to play baseball in the northeast portion of the London Collegiate Institute grounds after 6 o'clock on summer evenings. As objection had been raised to the noise incident to a game of baseball, the board referred the matter to No. 2 committee to set-

Principal Radcliffe's report in regard wards of Ailsa Craig (piano pupils of to the attendance at the Collegiate Institute was as follows: General attendance, total number enrolled, 467; av-Brown), Miss Edwards' execution of erage attendance, 434. The number en rolled in the commercial department was 67: the average attendance, 61. The standing committees' reports regarding payment of accounts were

The thanks of the board were tendered Col. Peters for his valuable suggestions in regard to the school cadets. Col. Peters emphasized the importance of rifle practice, which British experience in South Africa had proven to be the essential of good soldiery. THE SCHOOL PICNIC. The following motion was carried. namely, that a union pionic of the public schools of London, including the Collegiate Institute, friends and par-ents to celebrate the declaration of peace in South Africa, to be held at Springbank, on Friday, June 13, and that the chairman proclaim the said day a holiday from 10 a.m., the teachers to accompany their children to Springbank. The various committees for the completion of plans for the day's outing were drafted as follows: Entertainment Committee-Trustees MacRobert, Hamilton, Strong, Gam-

mage, Evans, Dromgole and Secretary McElheran Printing Committee-Trustees Hamilton, Strong, Evans, Teasdall, McLean and Macpherson. Committee on Sports-Trustees Gillean, Macpherson, Colerick, MacRobert, and Dr. English, Police Magistrate Love, Mayor Beck, R. K. Cowan, Dr. J. B. Campbell, J. S. Bell, R. A. Little, C. B. Edwards, Fred McCutcheon, Col. Principals Beal, Baker, Latta, Kirk, Macqueen, Radcliffe, Graham and Secretary McElheran.

Car Committee-Trustees McCormick (chairman), Dr. Teasdall, Hamilton, Dr. English, Gammage, Evans, Mc-Lean, Strong, Dromgole, Macpherson, MacRobert, Blackwell and Secretary McElheran

On motion, the sum of $100 was set aside to provide music for the day. An invitation was issued to the septrate school board and schools of the city to join in the picnic. Trustee romgole was instructed to convey the invitation, and if it was accepted, to request, on behalf of the board a deputation to be sent to the sports and entertainment committee.

At the conclusion of the picnic arrangements. Trustee McLean brought forward a motion in regard to placing the label of the Typographical Union upon all printing done under the authority of the board of education, and that all advertisements for tenders should call for bids from offices employing the required number of union men. The matter caused some discussion, it being found that of seven printing offices in the city engaged at Job work, only two of them employed the required number of union men to entitle them to membership in the Typographical Union. Mr. Macpherson, while favoring self-protection on the part of the laboring men, thought it would be wholly unfair, for a body such as the educational board, representing all classes, to discriminate against the five non-union offices, thereby giving a monopoly to the two union offices. The proprietors of the non-union offices fulfilled their functions as citizens, and were, therefore, entitled to their share of the work in fair competition. Mr. MacLean spoke of his motion, stating that other cities had adopted similar resolutions, and sooner or later London would do the same.

Upon being put to vote the motion was lost. Principal Radcliffe drew the attention of members of the educational board to the instruction in domestic science, which was begun about three months ago in the Norman School by Miss Butchart. He asked them to consider the advisability of continuing the work. He was pleased with the progress that had been made. The course of instruction had also been satisfactory from the parents' point, as their daughters took a greater interest in the work of the home. The following members of the board were present: Trustees C. J. McCormick (chairman), MacRobert, McLean,

Dromgole, Evans, Gammage, Black-

well, Teasdale, Colerick, Hamilton, Birtwistle, Macpherson, Gillean and Strong; Principal Radcliffe, Inspector Carson and Architect Matthews.

PASTOR PREACHER ON THE STREETS

outside the age limit, and the replies His Cleveland Congregation Greatly Surprised.

IS UPHELD BY THE MAYOR

Rev. C. A. Eaton, of Rockefeller's Church, Formerly of Toronto, Follows Christ's Example.

According to the Detroit Free Press, the Rev. Charles A. Eaton, formerly pastor of the Bloor Street Paptist Church, Toronto, has been achieving a certain distinction in Cleveland, Ohio, by preaching on the streets. Mr. Eaton is fairly well known in London. The Free Press goes on to say:

The aristocratic and wealthy congregation of John D. Rockefeller's Cleveland Church, the Euclid Avenue Baptist, are all agog over the strange action of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, who has been preaching upon the street. Some approve, a few condemn, but the majority are waiting for a sign from Rockefeller, who has already given the church $1,500,000, and whose slightest word is law in this ongregation.

Dr. Eaton took the first step six weeks ago, when, from the pulpit and to one of the richest congregations, probably, in the world, he said:

DR. EATON'S DECLARATION. "People no longer go to the church. The church must go to them. Christ went out into the highways and byways and preached to the multitude. Are we, his ministers, better than the Master? I have felt for some time that my work is a failure-that all our work is. Here in Cleveland, with a population of 400,000 souls, scarcely 100,000 ever go to church and only 25,000 of these are Protestants. We must reach these other 300,000. There is only one way-go to them. So, dear friends, I propose to go out upon the streets and preach Jesus Christ. The Salvation Army has the only right idea. I shall preach twice every week upon the public square, at noon time, and I believe I will do more good there than here in my own church. I want to take my congregation into my confidence, that they may replace me, if they do not approve of my course.' Dr. Eaton's hearers were aghast. And when it is remembered that his salary is $10,000 a year, his church one of the finest in the West, and that a palatial home goes with the salary, his congregation's astonishment need not be wondered at. The trustees at once decided that Dr. Eaton was in poor health. He was, and they sent him South for four weeks. He returned vastly improved and more determined than ever to follow the unusual course mapped out. PREACHING TO THE MULTITUDE. His first street sermon was delivered a week ago last Friday, just at Every car in the city passes through versed by thousands. Accompanied some church. by a young man with a cornet, Dr. Eaton, who is a tall, earnest, asceticlooking young man, took up his stand described how he sat by her bedside on his pulpit-a soap box-began to speak. "I am going to preach to you the told me that Clevelanders didn't want | man who had gone down into the fire | can, is a beautiful story of Newfoundreligion. They said if I announced that I would preach in my night shirt out purified. or talk politics from the pulpit, I would be popular. But they were wrong. I have simply preached religion and filled my church. Still, I don't reach the people I want to reach. I want to reach you men." By this time the hundred or vorkmen on the federal building had dropped their dinner pails and were pushing over to hear what "Rockefeller's $10,000 a year preacher" had to say. They came out of curiosity. but they remained to listen to the earnest, heartfelt flow of splendid. words that rushed from the speaker's lips. And when he had finished they crowded around him to grasp his hand, while nearly everyone of them said, "Come again, sir; we like to hear you."

MAYOR TOM APPROVED.

Dr. Eaton spoke the next day, but he planted his soap box this time in front of the Society for Savings buildng, the big bank of which Myron T. Herrick, the friend of McKinley and Roosevelf, is president. The agent of the building objected because the throng blocked the entrance. With a courteous, 'I'm sorry, sir," Dr. Eaton crossed the street to the Old Stone Church. He had scarcely begun there when a park policeman—the square is part of the park system of Clevelanddemanded a permit. Mayor Tom, as Mayor Tom L. Johnson is familiarly known, was passing. Stopping his automobile, he ordered the park policeman to desist, and, grasping Dr.

Eaton's hand, said: "You may preach here or anywhere else any time, day or night, you wish and I'm coming to hear you, when-ever you speak." After that there was no trouble, and Mayor Tom is a regular attendant.

REACHES MANY CLASSES.

Dr. Eaton's street congregations are made up largely of men. They come from all walks of life. The courthouse is only a few blocks away, and lawyers and judges by the score listen eagerly to his words. From the city hall, nearby, too, come politicians and officials. Drivers of drays and wagons stop their horses to listen to the sermon. Business men on their way to lunch hesitate look at their watches,
