

IS "BOB" ROGERS COMING TO ORGANIZE CAMPAIGN?

Public Works' Minister Here Next Week and Will Likely Introduce Notorious "Machine" Methods in Interests of East Middlesex Conservatives.

In the Hon. "Bob" Rogers, minister of public works and "the most notorious politician in Canada," to be elected into the East Middlesex campaign?

The Advertiser received word from its Ottawa correspondent today that "Bob" would be in London next week, but is unable to state the purpose of his mission. It may be that he will come into the district under the subterfuge of public works business, but it is generally agreed that he will come to London in order to organize the East Middlesex campaign.

Loaded With Promises.

The general impression is that his presence in East Middlesex will be resented, and that he may be advised by Candidate Glass and other leaders in the party to stay out of the campaign. He will give his aid to the organization work undoubtedly and perhaps make a few promises to the electorate.

At the present time a part of the Rogers "machine gang" is in the riding of South Bruce, where Mr. R. E. Truax is putting up a great fight for the Liberals. That Rogers will leave some of them in East Middlesex and set his own patented organization methods at work is strongly suspected. While it is hardly likely that any meetings in the East Middlesex riding will be planned until after the official nomination, the Conservative forces are already at work on their campaign. Candidate S. Frank Glass is working on his organization, with which the Government forces hope to land him in Ottawa with an M.P. tucked to his name.

Expect a Hot Fight.

According to leading members of the Conservative organization, the campaign started with the decision of the convention last Saturday. "We know what we are up against—one of the hottest fights in the history of the riding, and we are accordingly going to take no chances," said one of the leaders. "We are setting our organization lined up, and it will stay lined up."

The Glass campaign for nomination was the first staged by the forces behind the London alderman, and the second and most important is now on. The Conservative candidate has been working in the riding for practically three weeks now, and longer. That the Conservatives are far from taking Mr. Glass election as a matter of course is indicated by their activities.

To Probe Conditions in All Phases of Life Throughout the City

Dr. Riddell, of Chicago, Engaged by Men's Federation To Head Investigation of Social and Moral Situation in London.

The Men's Federation of London has prepared a live campaign, to be in the first of October, which will be the form of a general survey in London and Huron County. The association have secured the services of Dr. Riddell, of Chicago, Ill., who will also take charge of the work of the Methodist Temperance and Moral Reform Society, and that of the Board of Social Service and Evangelism in the Presbyterian Church.

City-Wide Work.

The intention is that Dr. Riddell shall commence with the work in this city. It will be city-wide in its scope, and general information and conclusions on the changing character of the city will be ascertained.

The work will include the discovering of the predominating nationalities, density of population, and areas of congestion. It will thoroughly investigate social influences and social clubs, consisting of men and boys, and clubs of women and girls.

Investigate Amusements.

Musical and amusement organizations will be considered from all phases. A survey will be made of industrial life and of the organization of labor in the city. The effect on the community of barrooms and dance halls will be thoroughly considered. The housing problem and public health will also be reviewed.

Committees under the supervision of Dr. Riddell will have charge of the several branches of the work. It is not the idea of the association to censor. Their object is simply to obtain a comprehensive view of the existing conditions of the city previous to taking definite steps in mapping out their course of action.

BLAZING BRIDGE SEEN BY ENGINEER IN NICK OF TIME

London, Huron and Bruce Train About To Pass Over Blazing Structure.

PUT OUT BY THE CREW

Flames Would Have Consumed Wooden Span Within a Short Time.

The watchfulness of Engineer Grievies, in charge of the evening London, Huron and Bruce train, alone prevented a serious accident Tuesday night. As the train was on its way to Hyde Park the engineer, who was looking out of his cab window, thought he saw smoke curling up between the timbers of the wooden bridge at the first concession crossing. Throwing on the brakes he brought the train to a stand a couple of feet from the bridge, and on investigation found that several of the lower timbers were blazing merrily.

Would Have Burned Through.

In a few minutes more they would have burned through, and had any of the big engines passed over the weight would have caused the whole structure to collapse and fall into the road 25 feet below.

As quickly as possible Engineer Grievies, with the assistance of Baggageman William Sneath and Conductor Weems, secured fire extinguishers from the passenger coaches, and in a short time the chemicals had put the fire out. The train proceeded cautiously over the structure, and as soon as Hyde Park was reached the bridge repairing gang was notified.

Coals Started Fire.

It is supposed that the fire started from some hot coals dropping down between the bridge timbers from a passing locomotive.

PANAMA CANAL TO MODERNIZE WORLD TRADE

Will Get Commerce Out of a Groove, Says Professor Kirkaldy.

IS VITAL TO ENGLAND

American Policy Plans a Mortal Blow at British Mercantile Marine.

[Canadian Press.] Birmingham, Eng., Sept. 17.—The greatest interest was taken at the meeting of the British Association here today in a paper read by Professor Adam W. Kirkaldy on "The Economic Effect of the Panama Canal," in the course of which he treated the subject with great thoroughness.

Professor A. W. Kirkaldy told the association that such effects could be easily exaggerated. "So far as the outside world is concerned," he said, "the greatest effect of the opening of the canal will probably be to remove commerce and trade out of the groove, and cause an all-round modernization of business methods. The old will have to be scrapped, friction among the factors of production will have to be eliminated, capital and labor in competing countries will have to learn to work harmoniously together. Socially and economically this will effect a very great result. Is it what America dreamed of when she entered upon this stupendous undertaking?"

A Great Authority.

Mr. Kirkaldy is professor of finance at Birmingham University and a recognized authority on economic questions. In his address today he treated his subject under the two general heads of local effects and effects on world-trade. From the industrial point of view, he said, three questions arose: who shall supply certain markets, who shall perform the service of transport, and what routes shall shipping take. The principal factors on the balance of advantages on which the foregoing questions would be decided were, distance, tolls on the route, freights and the possibility of continuous freight-earning; fuel stations; insurance rates; the political factor; (Continued on Page Nine)

John Sullivan Was Stabbed in Detroit

[Special to The Advertiser.] Detroit, Sept. 17.—John Sullivan, aged 27, boarding at 232 First street, was stabbed and robbed of $2 in broad daylight by an unknown man at Michigan avenue and Third street. The man escaped, telling on the route a number of deep stab wounds in his back and had one slash across the face, he staggered down Michigan avenue to Shelby street. There he attracted the attention of Patrolman Samuel Stevenson, who had Sullivan removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where it is said his condition is serious. Sullivan came to Detroit from Brantford, his home, a short time ago. He is an ironworker.

BRING ON YOUR FALL, WAITER!

IF TAKING POWER AT ST. THOMAS IS DISLOYAL, THEN THE HON. ADAM BECK IS DISLOYAL TO THE CITY OF LONDON

It Was the Honorable Gentleman Himself Who Had the Traction Company Take Its Electricity in Railway City—A Pair of Boomerangs.

BOOMERANG NO. 1.

"The company purchases all its power from St. Thomas, giving that city a handsome revenue each month from that source."—London Free Press.

If there is any disloyalty to the city of London in the purchase of power for the London and Lake Erie Railway and Transportation Company at St. Thomas, then that disloyalty is the Hon. Adam Beck's.

It was Mr. Beck who arranged that the company, which is one of the largest hydro customers in the province, should secure its power at St. Thomas.

The company agreed to the taking of power at St. Thomas at the suggestion of Mr. Beck, and he had the power purchased there in order to relieve the burden the Railway City was carrying. At the time the railway took power, Mr. Beck appeared to be very grateful to them, even stating that there would be no thought of electrifying the London and Port Stanley Railway since the traction line had agreed to take hydro.

BOOMERANG NO. 2.

"Electric line with two-cent fares from Hamilton to St. Catharines will be constructed shortly."—London Free Press.

This line will have to be "constructed shortly" for a certainty.

The distance from Hamilton to St. Catharines is 33 miles. If people are to be given two-cent fares on this line it will be the cheapest transportation in the world, figuring out at the rate of .006 cents a mile.

If the London and Port Stanley Electrified received this rate, its charge for the trip to Port Stanley and return should figure out at about 3 cents. Its daily receipts would be in the neighborhood of $54.00, and its yearly receipts at $19,710.

Electrification has been the subject of wonderful promises, but this is the limit.

The truth of this misrepresentation is that the new road, an electric radial feeder planned by the C. P. R., will charge 2 cents a mile, or 70 cents for a one-way trip, and $1.35 for a return journey. If this rate were applied on the London and Port Stanley road, the fare would be $1.00 for a return journey instead of the 30 cents now charged for excursions.

NEW THEATRE PLANS TO BE DRAWN AT ONCE

Proposition May Include a Number of Stores on Wellington Street.

The new theatre proposition seems to be advancing. The son of Mr. John Griffin, head of the syndicate that plans to erect the new playhouse on Wellington street, with an entrance on Dundas street, was in the city recently in company with an architect. It is understood that plans will be drawn at once.

It may be that stores will be built along the side of the theatre facing on Wellington street. The other plan is to erect the theatre without stores.

TIGHT MONEY NEARLY OVER SAYS GOURLAY

President of Canadian Manufacturers Is Optimistic Over the Outlook.

TOO MUCH SPECULATION

Banks However Are Now in Good Shape To Handle Record Crops

[Canadian Press.] Halifax, Sept. 17.—The address of President Gourlay at the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here today was in part as follows: "The year that has passed since our last convention has been in many respects a memorable one, filled with happenings of great moment both at home and abroad. Here in Canada it has divided our two great parties on an issue that should have united, rather than separated them, while the check it has placed on over-speculation and the lessons of business caution it has taught us have been both timely and salutary."

Money Tightness.

The money stringency is a point I should perhaps elaborate upon, considering how closely it affects us all as businessmen. We have heard a great deal of late months about the tightness of money, and various theories have been advanced to account therefor.

The war in the Balkans, and the widespread trouble which for a time it seemed to portend, undoubtedly induced a hoarding of gold, and diminished the supply of money available for ordinary business. That influence, fortunately, has now ceased to be operative.

The German war tax, prompting as it did a concealment of assets, no doubt led to further hoarding of gold. These and such like causes, however, do not to my mind satisfactorily explain the situation so far as Canada is concerned.

Key to the Situation.

The key to the situation here, as it appears to me, lies in the fact that Canada is financing her rapid numerical and material growth and development on borrowed capital. The wealth of our resources is unquestioned, but that wealth has not yet been converted into money, or into merchantable commodities that can be used to pay our debts. Meanwhile our immediate requirements in goods from other nations are far in excess of anything we have to offer in Continued On Page Four.

MR. ALLAN JACKLIN, formerly of this city, reported accidentally killed Tuesday at Detroit.

London Brakeman Fractures Skull

[Special to The Advertiser.] Woodstock, Sept. 17.—Justin Hoy, a C. P. R. brakeman, residing at 274 Lyle street, London, is in the local hospital in a very precarious condition as a result of having his skull fractured here last evening. Hoy was caught between a milk car and the baggage coach as he was uncoupling them at the station. He has been unconscious ever since the accident.

The fracture is at the base of the skull. Hoy has only been on the road a short time. Relatives from London are with him.

ENGLAND FEARS NATIONAL STRIKE

Rumblings of an Approaching Labor Storm Heard Throughout United Kingdom, Although Serious Trouble Has Occurred Only in Large Cities.

[Canadian Press.] London, Sept. 17.—A great national strike, as it was described today by one of the trades union leaders, threatens the United Kingdom. Beginning with the lockouts of large numbers of workmen last week in Dublin in consequence of the strike of a number of members of the Transport Workers' Union, because of the employment of non-union laborers, rumblings of discontent have since been heard throughout the entire labor community of the British Isles, but thus far eruptions have occurred only in the larger cities.

Badly Crippled. The sympathetic strike of the Liverpool dockers and the transport workers on the railroads there and at Birmingham has already partly crippled the three great trunk railways serving the Midland Counties of England, namely, the Midland, the London and Northwestern and the Great Western, while the Manchester Ship Canal company also is contending with a strike of its dock laborers for better wages.

At Liverpool seven of the great freight depots are idle this morning and others are likely soon to be closed for want of traffic. "Peace, too, seems to be a long way off between the workmen and employers in Ireland, as all attempts have hitherto failed to settle the Dublin trouble, which was the direct cause of ances."

A Direct Challenge. The Labor members of Parliament declare that the trouble in Dublin, London and elsewhere, has been caused by the determination of the employers to challenge the results of labor to organize, and they state that the lockouts in Dublin and the refusal to allow the trades unionist workmen in London to wear their union badges were decided upon only after the men had begun to talk of seeking redress for other grievances.

MR. JUSTIN HOY, Grand Trunk brakeman, seriously injured while coupling cars at Woodstock.

BURNED GIRL IMPROVES. [Special to The Advertiser.]

Dorchester, Sept. 17.—Miss Hazel Barr, who was horribly burned here yesterday when a coal-oil can exploded as she was putting oil in the stove, spent a fair night, and every hope is now held out for her recovery.

Jacklin's Sad Death May Cause Another

Mother of Former Londoner, Who Met Tragic Death in Detroit, Lies in Hospital Seriously Ill, and Shock May Prove Fatal.

The body of Alexander Jacklin, formerly of London, who died from injuries received while at work in Detroit, as stated in Tuesday's Advertiser, will be brought to this city for burial on Thursday. A pathetic feature in connection with his death is the fact that his mother is ill in a Detroit hospital suffering from heart failure, and his sister, Mrs. Fred H. Young, of 293 Ottawa avenue, fears

POLICE ARE REQUESTED TO SEARCH FOR BOY

Theford Lad Came To Visit the Fair and Has Not Been Seen Since.

Police Chief Williams received a communication from W. J. Orton, who is employed on a farm near Theford, asking that the police of this city institute a search for Orton's son, who has been missing since the early part of last week. The boy left home to come to London for the fair, and since then nothing has been heard of him. He is described as being 16 years of age, medium height, dark eyes and slightly crippled in the left leg.

The father is quite anxious about the boy, and says he cannot understand what has become of him.

Many Divorces Are Asked at Ottawa

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The Senate divorce mill promises to break the record this session. Last year forty-two cases were dealt with by the Senate. Already this year there are fifteen cases on the list, which is headed by the application of Lorne Hamilton, who has twice already tried and failed to obtain divorce.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Lady of Ostend," a Grotesque Comedy.

Londoners should be sure and go to the Grand theatre tonight or tomorrow night and see Lawrence Brough, one of England's famous actors. "The Lady of Ostend" is reputed to be a grotesquely amusing piece, after the style of "The Private Secretary" and of "Charlie's Aunt," welded together in such a way as to compel the laughter of its audience. The performance from whom the piece takes its title is not.

MISS CYNTHIA FANE, a member of Lawrence Brough's All-English farce-comedy company, appearing at the Grand tonight and tomorrow night.

as might have been expected, the biggest role in the story, her victim is really the head and front of the comedy. He is a young man of impressionable temperament, and the lady, who has been commissioned by an enterprising cinematograph proprietor to secure funny subjects for films, easily makes him her prey. At the Belgian watering place she plays her part so well that he is unwittingly captured by the camera and is turned into a moving picture subject, in circumstances that prove only too conclusively that he is in holiday mood and not averse to participating more or less in the gaieties, not to say the frivolities, of the place. The subsequent accidental views of the moving picture as seen by his wife is said to lead to situations of merriment for the audience and of embarrassment of the husband-subject. The cast supporting Mr. Brough comes direct from England, and is said to be made up of clever artists. Miss Olga Esme is his leading lady. Highly flattering criticisms were given this comedy by the Montreal and Toronto papers.

Maude Adams comes to the Grand Saturday for two performances, and with her will be that elusive youth of Barrie's delightful imagination, "Peter Pan," the boy who wouldn't grow up. Miss Adams is always welcome, but it

SUES STREET RAILWAY FOR $20,000 BACK TAXES

Startling Evidence Regarding the Sale of Bonds at Trial in Brantford.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Brantford, Sept. 16.—The city of Brantford today commenced legal battle against the street railway for the cancellation of the 50-year franchise and the recovery of $20,000 tax arrears.

The case, which promises to continue for several days, is being heard before Mr. Justice Meredith. An array of legal talent represents the different interests, including W. T. Henderson, for the city; George H. Watson, N. Sinclair, Wallace Nesbitt and J. A. Patterson, for the trust companies and bondholders.

The city set out to show that every agreement made with the street railway company had been broken, and the city had suffered greatly as a result. Bylaws by the score were produced by the city clerk, each one of which, he stated, had not been complied with.

A wagonload of documents was conveyed from the city hall to the courthouse at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The most startling evidence submitted was that $1,700,000 bonds had been sold by the company, and it was expected that during the progress of the case it will be shown how these bonds were disposed of. In this connection a scandal involving the names of certain parties interested in the company is expected. It is alleged that there is no record of this bond issue.

Although the city might succeed in having the franchise cancelled it is pointed out that the city could not take possession of the car lines, and if running rights were cancelled a complete tie-up of great inconvenience to citizens would result.

Regardless of the result of the trial a strong effort is being made to have municipal ownership of the railway, although this would not apply to the line between here and Paris and Galt.

Open Verdict in Peterboro Probe

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Peterboro, Sept. 17.—Shortly before midnight, the jury which inquired into the collapse on Aug. 28 of the Turnbull Building, which took a toll of five lives, returned an open verdict.

The evidence was not sufficient to determine the person or persons responsible for the collapse of the building. The jury recommended that the city council provide a building inspector, whose duties would include the inspection of buildings undergoing alterations.

G. W. Gouinlock, architect, Toronto, was the principal witness. He said he had made an inspection of the premises last Thursday, at the request of the Attorney-General's department, and found that the basement wall, on which the supporting pillars were placed, had not been properly built. The bricks were soft, the mortar was very poor, and it did not adhere to the bricks. The wall was not of sufficient strength for the weight placed upon it, and he was of the opinion that the cause of the collapse was the wall, brick after brick, with his hand.

John Belcher, the architect for the alterations, said he made an inspection almost daily, and was satisfied that all necessary precautions had been taken to guard against accident.

CHAPTER XV.
A Rehearsal of the Pack.
"You are Claude G. Waverton," said the coroner, squaring several sheets of legal-looking foolscap on his desk and evidently settling down for another long spell of note-taking.
"What address?"
"Saginaw, Lake Champlain, and East Sixty-fourth street, New York."
"You have heard the evidence of the previous witnesses. Do you contradict them in any important particulars?"
"No."
The coroner permitted himself to look bewildered, and Waverton smiled.
"May I make a statement in my own words, sir?" he asked. "It will facilitate matters greatly, and I shall, with the witness's firm disclaimer of the drugist's identification."
"It must be plain to you, sir, and to every unbiased observer," said Waverton, "that I have hardly recovered from a severe accident sustained at Palm Beach early in May. When I regained consciousness after having been thrown out of an automobile, I soon found that my memory had become very much impaired, and the defect remains, though it is gradually improving. I can recall certain incidents of the past, but my mind is a blank where others are concerned. I suppose that, at the time I am said to have gone to Jose Vullimo's shop, I regarded the purchase of the poison as a trivial matter, and it evidently comes within the second category of forgotten things, I mean. When I was charged today with a personal share in something that Mrs. Kyrie's legal adviser very properly called a 'conspiracy,' having for its apparent object the murder of a man I had never seen, I resented the imputation as monstrous. It was that notion which predominated in my denial of the poison transaction. I am well acquainted with Jose Vullimo's store, and can describe its situation exactly; so it is quite probable, therefore, that I did execute Mrs. Kyrie's commission, though I certainly do not recollect it. I withdrew my earlier implied repudiation unreservedly, since Mrs. Kyrie's evidence has convinced me that I was mistaken."
The coroner wrote every word and so there were frequent pauses in Waverton's statement. In ordinary conditions, the cautious official would have deferred some phases as being mere comment, but it was clear that he meant to allow the witness to express himself exactly as he thought it on this occasion.
"Do you know anything whatever of Mr. Kyrie's death?" he asked, after glancing carefully through what he had written.
"Nothing, beyond the accounts in the newspapers."
"When did you first hear of it?"
"Last Sunday morning, at Providence. My valet showed it to me in the Sunday newspapers."
"Why?"
"He recognized the address. He was aware that Mrs. Delamar—both he and I have always known Mrs. Kyrie's name—went occasionally to a cottage at Abasco called The Roseary. It was understood that the cottage was to be properly—at least, such was my impression. I do not wish it to be assumed that I was misled in the matter by Mrs. Delamar."
"Did the lady ever mention her husband to you?"

May I go into this matter somewhat more fully? I have noticed that my memory is not affected in its accuracy as regards scenes, places and historical events, either personal or general. When I returned to my country place, after an absence of nearly a year, I remembered the position of certain shrubs, pictures, pieces of statuary, which had been removed during my absence; but I was often at a loss for the name and identity of an indoor servant, or of some person employed on the estate. I knew an old dog, and the dog, I am glad to say, knew me; but I could not properly associate the levers and brakes of an automobile with their functions, though, prior to the accident, I was a skilled driver. I remembered all about certain proceedings instituted by my wife, but failed to look upon the incidents that led up to them in the same light as before I got the knock on the head. To cite a purely personal phase, I used to indulge freely in stimulants; now I rarely touch a intoxicating liquor other than a glass of claret for dinner. Shall I go on?"
"Pray do."

"Well, I have consulted various specialists, both in Palm Beach and New York, and they tell me that one of two things have happened—there is either a clot of blood resting on some nerves in the central ganglia of the brain, or I have sustained a slight indentation of the skull in that locality. They advise me against an operation unless the symptoms show increased gravity; whereas I find that the yare slowly disappearing."

Many Fine Silos Are Being Built

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wyoming, Sept. 17.—That the silo as a method of preserving the corn crop is growing in favor with the surrounding farmers is quite apparent. Two more have been added to the number this fall in this vicinity. McKinley Bros. have a frame one in course of erection, while Mr. D. McMurry has just completed a handsome cement one.

Almost daily some farmer is seen drawing the material for one to be erected on his farm. It is claimed by those who have tested their worth for years that without the ensilage they would abandon cattle feeding entirely rather than revert to the old laborious method of dragging cornstalks about all winter, with such unsatisfactory results.

Apart from the convenience in handling the crop since the introduction of silage, is the improved condition of stock fed in this manner, more easily fattened, while a sickler cost is in evidence, which adds to the saleable quality of the animal.

The dairy cow perhaps derives double advantage, particularly the winter milker, as coming in off the grain in good condition the silage keeps her up to the mark and a larger flow of milk consequently results.

BEST HORSES SCARCE

Col. McEwen, of Byron, on Stallion Enrollment Board of Ontario.

Toronto, Sept. 16.—John Bright, commissioner of live stock; Peter White, K. C., of Pembroke; Dr. Grenville, of Guelph; and Col. Robert McEwen, of Byron, sat at the stallion enrollment board of the Dominion in the live stock branch of the Ontario department today. A very large number of applications were received for certificates, which cannot be granted until the inspection and approval of the board has been given.

Commissioner Bright states that the horseflesh of Canada, and particularly Ontario, is good, but there is a growing scarcity of horses of the best class and type.

Historic Country Seat FIRED BY MILITANTS

Women Were Seen Fleeing Just After Blaze Was Discovered.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Sept. 17.—A desperate attempt by a suffragette "arson squad" to burn down the historic fourteenth century country seat of Lord De Lisle and Dudley, at Tunbridge, Kent, was made in the course of last night.

The inmates of the great mansion, awakened by the crackling of wood and by clouds of smoke, found the framework of a number of windows ablaze. A working party of household employes soon succeeded in extinguishing the flames, with the efficient apparatus on the premises.

Two women were seen fleeing across the lawn in front of the building, and a large amount of suffrage literature was found in the grounds, with heaps of rags soaked in petroleum were discovered in several places.

Great indignation prevails among the neighboring residents, as it is thought probable that the mansion, hitherto open to visitors, may be closed. It contains invaluable portraits of ancestors of the holder of the title, whose family name is Sidney. Among them are that of Sir Philip Sidney, the famous English general and poet of the sixteenth century, and that of Algernon Sidney, the politician beheaded in the seventeenth century for complicity in the Rye House plot to kill King Charles II.

TURN HAIR DARK

WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The oldtime mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. For sale by W. T. Strong, London.

Save One Ton of Coal in Every Six

The Economizer will do it.

While the cost of living has undoubtedly been growing greater, at the same time it is true there are some inventions that will offset this increased cost of living, and the careful housewife takes advantage of these inventions.

On every Gurney-Oxford range there is an Economizer which controls not only the drafts but also the entire combustion or burning of fuel to create heat.

This Economizer will save 1 ton of coal in every 6 that you would use with the ordinary range.

The Economizer is a simple device, absolute in its control. By merely moving the lever you can obtain any degree of even heat in the oven. This insures the satisfaction of always having light, delicately crusted bread and biscuits.

The kitchen fire ceases to be a worry if the Economizer is on your stove.

The Gurney-Oxford is the final result of experimental thought. Science has given it a Divided Flue, a new Special Grate, and a Broiler attachment.

This Gurney-Oxford range is primarily a savor of money, time, and energy.

Unscrupulous manufacturers and dealers sometimes seek greater profit from base imitations and substitutes of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey because it is the standard of purity. But remember

It is an absolutely pure distillation of selected, clean grain, thoroughly malted, so palatable and free from injurious substances that the most sensitive stomach has no difficulty in its retention.

In the treatment of pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, malaria, low fevers, stomach troubles, and all wasted and diseased conditions, it is used with remarkable results.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in sealed bottles only. The "Old Chemist's Head" is on the label and over the cork is an engraved seal. Sold by dealers and hotels everywhere, $1.25 a large bottle.

DUCKED? GET DRY CLOTHES FROM "LADY OF THE LAKE"

"A boy overboard! A girl bumped over by a wave!"
All summer long and way into September this cry is heard wherever young folks are holiday-making.
There is a picnic at the park nearby. The youngsters go wading and some tumble in.
There is a Saturday holiday at the beach and some boy or girl stubs a toe and gets overtaken by a big wave.
Well, it isn't so bad to tumble into the wet, wet water on a hot day. But it is just horrid to have to stand or run around all the rest of the day in damp clothing!
There have been so many cases of unexpected duckings among the boys and girls who go pleasureing at Brookwell Park, Lake, London, that a new official has been named by the London County Council just to dry their clothes.
She is known as the "woman with the mangle!"
Here is a picture showing her at work, drying the clothes of these little chaps who took a header when they didn't mean to do it.
The woman with the mangle has been renamed "the lady of the lake" by the boys and girls who have come to look upon her as a sort of second mother.
The mangle is to be seen at use at unexpected duckings among the boys all hours from sunrise to sunset.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

The Tea Room and Its Attractions.

The really smart tea room has so far not invaded Canada's large cities. I don't mean a room in a large hotel where society's dames and demoiselles gather to drink afternoon tea and eat delicious little cakes. I mean a tea room as that word is known in London, Paris, and the other large continental cities, where smart women gather to chat and discuss the day's gossip, to look at each other's frocks and hats, and generally to spend a frivolous idle chatty time. London and Paris have their places like Rumpelmeyer's, and it is one of the things to do in these cities to take afternoon tea there, to see the world of fashion, the social leaders, the celebrities in literature and art and the stars of the stage who are also of the fashionable world. The styles in dress and millinery will be found there in all their extremes. Not that these are always worn by the women of fashion, the society beauties and lovely debutantes. But here, as at the races, the horse shows, the manikin is sent by the houses of fashion to display their latest creations in gowns and millinery. The novice at such things, the stranger, so often thinks that she is gazing upon some very distinguished woman. Indeed, a great actress or poetess, a duchess famous for her charities or her entertainments, when in reality they are only gazing upon that fearful and wonderful thing—a manikin, or dressmaker's model. Nevertheless, the celebrities, the fashion leaders are there if the stranger only has some guide or initiated person to point them out. In New York the tea room is known as a lovely, exquisite music by famous players is discoursed, and all the world of fashion turns out at the tea hour to meet friends, gossip over the teacups, and generally to have the appearance of peacocks spreading their tail feathers for the admiration of all the world that cares to gaze upon them. And it is a pretty and an amusing sight to see the groups at the tables, to hear the soft bubble of well-bred voices, to see the chance meetings and the arranged rendezvous, to drink the perfect tea and to eat the most delectable pastries and petit-fours in the world.

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Going to Handkerchief Shower.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly answer the following questions:
1. What would a girl be expected to take to a linen handkerchief shower, or only handkerchiefs, how many?
2. What are the meanings of stamps?
3. Can you give me a nice recipe for salad dressing?

4. What is proper for a young lady to say to a young gentleman when introduced, if it is proper to say "I am pleased to meet you, Mr. —"?
Thanking you very much, and hoping I have not troubled you too much, I remain,
Yours truly,
Topsy.

A.—1. The number you took would depend, of course, upon the value of each handkerchief. For instance, let us suppose you desired to spend fifty cents. You could buy one very nice "handy" for this money, or else three plain linen handkerchiefs with the initial in one corner, just as you wished. Either way would be nice, Topsy, and I am sure that this is all you are expected to take.

2. The stamp language was published in this column on August 15th. I scarcely feel as if I should take the room to republish it, but if you care to acquire at the business office of The Advertiser a paper of that date, you can see it for yourself.

3. This dressing is an excellent one for general use: Mix well one egg, one tablespoon flour, one of butter, one of sugar, one-half teaspoon mustard, salt and pepper to taste, and two-thirds cup of sweet milk. When all have been smoothly mixed, beat in lastly one-half cup vinegar, a little at a time, or it may curdle the milk. Place on the fire and cook until creamy. For any white salad, such as potato or cabbage, the egg may be omitted.

4. This would be quite alright for you to say, only for the fact that the gentleman invariably says "I am pleased to meet you, Miss —" and "Thank you," that is all that seems really necessary.

Visit From an Old Friend.

My Dear Miss Grey: I'm here to bother you again. May I?

1. What would be a nice suitable gift for my friend, whom I am engaged to, for Christmas?

2. A good recipe for fondant.

3. Tell me how I may improve my writing, please.

Your grateful reader, VIOLET.

A.—1. Consider his tastes, first of all, and then purchase your gift accordingly. If he is fond of reading, Walt Whitman, or Kipling, a daintily bound volume of poems is sure to please. Or if he favors the popular novel, their name is legion. Then there are leather articles that come in handy for gifts, such as pocket comb cases, writing pads, etc. A fountain pen makes a useful gift, and there are always stick-pins, cuff-links, cigarette cases, muffers and handkerchiefs.

2. I think it is probably the "uncooked" fondant you desire to make, as the cooked is a very tedious process. Simply use confectioner's powdered sugar for this; have a very little water or milk heated till lukewarm, mix with the sugar until a stiff paste is formed, using a little sugar at a time, and mixing smoothly; work in a little vanilla, lemon juice, almond, or whatever flavor is desired. When a paste, stiff enough to handle with the fingers is formed, work portions of it into candies, pressing half walnut bits of candied peel, or crystallized fruits on each. Dates or figs mixed with the fondant are excellent. To make orange creams, grate the rind and add juice of an orange to the sugar instead of water or milk.

3. Well, since you ask, I'll mention two or three little ways in which I think you might improve. Don't loop your "s's" so much; watch your "t's," they look really more like "y's" than anything else; and lastly, turn your "n's" and "m's" upside down. They resemble "u" and "w" rather too much. Now, are you satisfied?

Help For Unhappy Wife.

UNHAPPY ONE.—No, indeed. Do not take any such step as you speak of in your last sentence. You would only be adding a second mistake to the first one. Do you ever pause to think that there are two sides to the question? Without doubt your husband is absent from home all day, earning bread and butter for yourself and him. And many a man after a day's work does not enjoy putting on his Sunday clothes and being dragged out to a party to meet a lot of people he probably doesn't know, and cares nothing about.

I do not blame him for wanting to rest and enjoy your company. Why, woman, it is a compliment to you! Many and many a wife in this very city would be delighted beyond measure to have their husbands seek their company in the evenings instead of going down town or to the club.

Just sit up and think of the matter a little from this standpoint, my dear. It may save you from wrecking your life. And don't you know, that I am about why you married him is, to me, pretty weak. He could not have made you accept him if you had not been a tiny, wee, little bit willing. No? could he?

A Widow of 38.
"Dear Miss Grey: I am a widow of 38, and have a girl of 12 years old. I feel since my husband died that I don't know what to do with myself, as I am so lonesome. I met a man two years ago, and I see him often as he passes my house to go to his farm nearly every day. He is a bachelor and has plenty of money. He seems to think a great deal of me, and wanted to go with me before, but I wouldn't consent, as I thought I ought not to have company so soon. Could you tell me how I could let him know that I love him. Shall I write him or not? I have had many admirers, but didn't care for any of them."

G.—A.—You might write him a note and invite him to call. This would give him a cue that you are interested in him. If he is earnest, he will take advantage of your invitation. Under no circumstances tell him that you are in love with him before he proposes to you.

Tea-Table Talk

This is the true tale of a dog. (Now don't look huffed for the sentence was not written in a facetious mood.) To begin with, it happened right here in London.

It was no high-bred, blue-blooded member of the canine family. He had never been exhibited at a dog show; had never been fed upon porterhouse steak, and so far from wearing a ribbon, about the only thing that had ever been tied to his shaggy person, was a string attached to a noisy tin can, which some bad boys fastened to his tail one day. He was, in fact, just plain "dog" with no pedigree, and nothing to recommend him particularly but a loving heart and affectionate nature.

He came to the B's. Father B. and Mother B. did not care very much about his company, but the little B's fell in love with him right at once.

He adopted him as a brother. And the B. children pleaded so hard, and the plain dog himself looked up so wistfully and so pathetically that finally Father B. and Mother B. consented, and both the plain dog and the children had a fine old frolic in consequence. "Ted" they christened him, and soon Ted was a favorite not only with the B. youngsters, but with all the neighborhood children as well.

Every night at 9:30 o'clock, when Mother B. folded up her sewing and the children shut up their books or put away their toys, Ted was on hand to watch the nightly undressing and prayer-saying. Solemnly he watched every movement, even to the tucking in and the good-night kiss which Mother B. bestowed upon his playmates. Then, when the house was quite quiet, Ted would silently steal away and curl himself up in his own little bed, there to dream and doze until daylight brought him back to his ears the welcome voices of the household.

But one night Ted did not come home for supper, although Mother B. had some nice bread and gravy all ready for him in his granite basin. The B. children wandered about disconsolately, lost without their playmate. At last Mother B. said they must go to bed, and reassured them with the hopes that Ted would have arrived by morning. And sure enough, they had not been tucked into their white coats half an hour before "pat-a-pat" was heard along the verandah, and "Whine" sounded at the door. "Why Ted, where have you been?" asked Mother B., who, to tell the truth was by this time almost as fond of the plain dog as were the children. Ted wagged his tail. He could not tell her that a naughty farmer-man had tied him to his wagon and taken him away out to the country, and that as soon as he could he had broken loose and found his way back to town. He could only whine a little, and begin on the belated supper which Mother B. set before him.

It was perhaps half an hour afterwards that Mother B. came out into the hall to find Ted peering solemnly about. Onto the verandah, he went; then in again, into the dining-room behind. "Why Ted, it is high time you were in bed," said Mother B. "Run along now." But Ted only eyed her wistfully and continued his search through the house. It was not until he reached the floor above, where the children slept in separate cots in one large room that he was satisfied. Filled with curiosity, Mother B. followed him, to find Ted pausing at the familiar door. He pushed it open with his paw and trotting silently from one little white cot to the other, took a long peering look at the little forms huddled beneath the clothing. Then, having evidently convinced himself that the children were really in the house, he returned, and crept quietly out with a good-night wag of his tail to Mother B.

Ten minutes later Ted was curled up in his own bed, sleeping not only the sleep of the just, but also of a faithful old dog who felt assured that his little playmates were safe, even though they had, for once, gone to their nests without the aid of his protecting eye.

As for the B's when the story was told, they thought him quite the cutest dog in the world. Do you wonder? "Neither do we," to quote a favorite saying of the editor of "A Few Lines" column.

"DON'T SCORN WARMED-OVER MUTTON," SAYS CAROLINE COE

Mutton served a second time may be better than it was at a first. It all depends on how you serve it.

The essential thing is to know how to make good gravies. So let me remind you of the basic principles of gravy-making.

The proportions of a sauce of proper thickness are two level tablespoons of fat and two of flour to each cup of liquid. The fat may be butter, drippings or savory fat, and the liquid may be water, stock, milk, tomato juice or a combination of any two of these. If you brown the flour in fat use an extra tablespoon of it.

Cold mutton reheated in gravy or sauce is served with rice, on toast, on baking powder biscuits, with a pastry or biscuit crust, with a crust of mashed potatoes, or with a crust consisting of mashed potatoes and mashed turnips in proportion of 2 to 1.

From a leg of mutton, which has been cooked rare, cut pieces about the size of an ordinary loin chop. These may be fried in a little fat, or eggs, crumbed, and fried in deep fat, or they may be brushed over with fat and broiled. The result is like meat cooked for the first time rather than like the ordinary warmed-over meat. Cutlets thus prepared may be served with any of the sauces suggested for serving with chops.

MUTTON CROQUETTES.
Combine two cups of finely chopped cooked mutton (or the same amount of a mixture of meat, rice and potatoes) with one cup of thick sauce.

You can make the sauce by heating one-third of a cup of flour, or one-fourth cup of corn starch, in three tablespoons of fat, and adding a cup of liquid which may be stock, water, milk, tomato juice, or a mixture. Also the yolk of a raw egg, if you like.

After mixing the meat and sauce let it cool, then form it into rolls of uniform size, dip them in flour, then in a mixture of two tablespoons of water and one egg, and finally in cracker crumbs, and fry them in very hot, deep fat.

"Samantha," Ealing P. O., tells Advertiser readers how to make a nourishing, tasty, yet economical beef stew.

She writes: In making beef stew, one of the most economical pieces is a flank steak; it is not expensive and has absolutely no waste; other portions which are tough but yield to the long cooking are the shoulder, lower part of the round, leg, etc. Cut the lean meat into finger lengths; try out the bits of fat, and in it quickly brown the toughest, stringy pieces. As soon as browned transfer them to the sautépan; add to the fat remaining in the pan two tablespoons of dry flour, and stir until well absorbed. Gradually add one quart of boiling water (or one-half water and one-half strained tomato) and stir until smoothly thickened. Season this well with salt, pepper, a little catsup or Worcestershire, and strain it into the sautépan with the meat. Now add the raw meat, cover, and simmer very slowly for three hours, adding, when half done, one or more chopped onions. This cooking of the meat in a thickened sauce gives it a much richer result than to thicken the gravy just before serving. The dumplings will need one pint of flour mixed with a half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of baking powder and sufficient flour to make a thick batter or very soft dough. Drop this by spoonfuls into the pot every twenty minutes before serving and keep at a slow boil until done.

The HAPPY FAMILY

AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

CHAPTER II.

"The ants and the caterpillars were called in to discuss the matter. The gnats and the frogs joined in at the big evening conferences. Whom should the snail take for a wife? Before the conference had been going on for long six little ants jumped up what she looks like. Then we will decide."

Do you think it was strange that the young snail was not consulted, children? Yes, it does seem so to us. But, you see, in those days, and in Snail-land, things were done quite differently.

In eight days the little lonesome snail made came to the home of the old snails.

on the stem of a burdock leaf and demanded a hearing.

"We know the dearest little creature in the world who would make an excellent wife for the little snail," they shouted in chorus.

"Who is she?" asked the daddy and mother snail together.

"Has she a house? Where does she live? How does she live? Is she good enough for our child?"

"Indeed, and she has a mansion. She is a queen. She lives in an ant-palace with seven hundred passages," answered the six ants, glibly.

"Why don't you have him marry a small black snail?" asked a frog.

"I have seen many such in my wanderings. One of these would be glad to come and live here in the burdock grove, I think."

"Of course, we could get as many black snails as we pleased for the wife of our son," answered the mother snail, proudly.

"But we would not have one for a daughter-in-law under any circumstances. Why, the black snails are the commonest things living."

"Well, well," quoth the gnats who had been buzzing around on a hundred burdock leaves without having said a word.

"We know just the wife for son snail. She is a nice little maid who lives all alone in her own house not a hundred paces from here."

"That sounds more like it," said daddy snail, with a knowing nod.

"Let her come over that we may see

She seemed modest, and quiet, and pleasant to look upon.

She had a very good house, of her own, too.

"Do you live in a burdock grove, too?" asked the mother snail.

"No, ma'am," said the little stranger, shyly. "I live under a gooseberry bush."

SECOND DIVISION PLAYERS PLAY TODAY AT BROOKLINE

[Canadian Press.] Brookline, Mass., Sept. 17.—Another army of golf followers tramped the hills and valleys of the country club course today to watch the performances of the second qualifying division for the American open golf championship, real play for which begins tomorrow.

The section today included the two English players, Edward Bay, of Oxford, and Wilfrid E. Reid, of Banstead Downs, companions of Harry Vardon in the British golfing invasion this year, and the two American champions, Jerome D. Travers, of Upper Montclair, the amateur titleholder, and John J. McDermott, of Atlantic, who won the open last year at Buffalo. There was also a strong array of players of more or less renown in both the professional and amateur ranks.

Yacht Lipton Is Building Throws Scare Into Yanks

New York Yacht Club Has Ordered Another Defender Built—Lipton's New Yacht Will Be Dangerous Competitor, It Is Claimed.

[Canadian Press.] Brighton, R. I., Sept. 17.—Another New York Yacht Club syndicate, to include Frederick Bourne, George F. Baker, jun., and probably C. Oliver Iselin, to back a second boat to compete in the trials of the America's cup defender next year, is a strong probability, it was learned today. Plans for the syndicate were discussed last night at a meeting of certain members of the New York Yacht Club at Newport. While "Nat" Herreshoff, the designer, has let it be understood heretofore that he would accept only one commission, that of the Vanderbilt syndicate, for a cup defender candidate, it is said that he is now in more receptive mood. Another meeting of New York Yacht Club members to plan for a new syndicate will be held early next week. Mr. Baker and Mr. Bourne, who were mentioned as being included in the prospective syndicate, are already members of the group headed by Cornelius Vanderbilt, which has placed an order for a 75-foot sloop with Mr. Herreshoff. Mr. Iselin has been the manager of four winners in the big international contests. Reports brought back from England by yachtsmen that the lines of Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger show her to be a dangerous competitor, and are said to have impressed members of the New York Yacht Club with the necessity of taking every precaution to retain the America's cup in this country. These same reports, it is understood, have also made the designer of previous successful defenders willing to consider another commission for a sloop to enter next year's races.

HUERTA TO TRY AND ARRANGE FOR NEW ELECTIONS

Provisional President in National Message Deals With the Unfortunate Situation.

UNMERITED AFFLICTION

Over Twenty-Five Millions Have Been Spent Trying To Arrange Peace.

Mexico City, Sept. 17.—Provisional President Huerta delivered his semi-annual message last night at the opening of the second session of the Twenty-seventh Mexican Congress. In it he promised to spare no efforts to bring about the unrestricted elections of president and vice-president of the Mexican Republic next month, declaring that it would constitute the greatest triumph of his career, to turn over the office to his successor with the country at peace, as he hoped to do.

Unfortunate Situation.

General Huerta said the strained diplomatic relations between Mexico and the United States had caused the Mexican nation to suffer unmerited affliction, and had retarded the pacification of the country. Nevertheless he asserted he had good grounds to hope for an early solution of the differences between the two nations and to see Mexico and the United States once more united in bonds of friendship.

The provisional president drew a distinction between the attitude of the Government of the United States and that of the people of that nation, saying "the tensions of our diplomatic relations with the Government of the United States of America, although luckily not with that people," had put Mexico into a state of apprehension.

Many Disappointed.
The message was disappointing to many who had expected that Provisional President Huerta would deal at some length with recent diplomatic exchanges. This subject, however, he said, "being so delicate and the permanent commission of Congress being already informed," and owing to the fact that negotiations were still pending, he would pass over with a bare mention.

The deputies and senators in joint session filled the floor of the Chamber of Deputies. The balconies were packed, the diplomatic gallery being lined with foreign representatives and their families.

The silence which prevailed during the reading of the President's document by the reading clerk was broken at its conclusion by prolonged cheering, in which the congressmen were joined by the crowds in the galleries.

Restore Peace.
In his peroration Provisional President Huerta said:
"The Mexican Government regards the pacification of the country as an urgent necessity in order to restore to the public services to their normal state, to re-establish the political, social and economic equilibrium and to make possible a program of reforms which will satisfy the national aspiration."

A significant portion of the provisional President's address was related to American warships in Mexican ports. He said:
"There have been sent to our ports various foreign war vessels with the object, it is said, of extending protection, if that should be necessary, to

YOU men and women whose faculties are intact—have you ever stopped to think how blessed you are in having a good mind in a sound body?

The other morning, while I was being shaved in an uptown barber shop, a youth of about seventeen came in and applied for a job. He wanted to be a lather boy in that shop. He was deaf and dumb. (I know that the jokesters say right here that he would have made a good barber. But to me an affliction like that of this poor lad is not a laughing matter; so let's be serious for a moment.)

Here was a boy terribly handicapped in life's struggle. I do not know whether he got that job, for he was still writing on a pad and passing it to the proprietor when I left, but the incident set me to thinking of the thousands of men, sound of limb and senses, who go through life complaining that they "never had a chance."

Chance! Every moment is filled with chances for the man or woman who really wants to succeed. Every sunrise brings to those of us who earnestly want to "go on" fresh opportunities to build ourselves anew. Every day is filled with possibilities for the man or woman who is willing to pay the price of success.

Your chance may be, not a few years off or a thousand miles away, but right now, in the newspaper you are holding.

LIBERALS FULL OF FIGHT; BIG CONVENTION PROMISED

Will Gather Solidly Behind Nominee of Saturday's Meeting To Battle With Government, Which Will Use Any Means To Retain Riding.

East Middlesex Liberals are taking no uncertain interest in the by-election campaign that will start in earnest after Saturday next, when a Reform candidate is placed in the field. With the Tories before the country at the present time the Liberals of the East Middlesex riding are fully alive to their responsibilities, and anticipate a victory for their candidate who in all likelihood will be R. G. Fisher, London attorney and farmer.

Machine Will Be Busy.
To avoid the possibility of such a contingency, the Government is preparing to ship in men, money and speakers to cajole, coerce or command the electors of the riding to vote for the Government candidate. As an indication of just how the wind is blowing, the presence of Hon. A. E. Kemp and Lieut.-Col. Hugh Clark at the meeting of the Conservatives on Saturday last, speaks volumes.

Other cabinet ministers are scheduled to make another bow to East Middlesex electors and the entire organization of the Conservative machine will be turned into the riding to win it by any means possible. East Middlesex's previous record of standing by its convictions rather than by any party allegiance has proved troublesome to the Conservatives in the past, and may well do so again. This fact is causing anxiety in Conservative quarters, and hence the determination to win at all hazards and by any means.

Convention Will Be Large.
The convention on Saturday next, in Hyman Hall, will be one of the largest, it is expected, in the history of the East Middlesex Liberal Association. From all sections of the riding, the divisions are preparing to send their delegates to start the ball rolling that will win East Middlesex to the support of Sir Wilfrid Laurier once more.

Hot Campaign Ahead.
Whatever the outcome of election day, one of the hottest political campaigns in the history of the riding is being assured. The Borden Government will spare no efforts to help keep the riding in the Conservative fold. It is imperative to their cause that the

WEST MIDDLESEX FAIR

KEEPS ITS HIGH STANDARD

Showing at Strathroy Exhibition in All Branches of Highest Class—Weather Bad on Second Day But Excellent Crowds Turn Out.

[By Our Own Man.]
Strathroy, Sept. 16.—What was hoped to have been the banner day of Strathroy Fair for years, was marred today by very unfavorable weather, and the attendance, which should have been 8,000 or 9,000 at the least, was not much above 3,000. Even this number in view of the inclement and annoying rainfall, showed the popularity and drawing power of West Middlesex's big three-day fair. The track events, fireworks and other grandstand attractions scheduled for this afternoon and evening have been postponed until Wednesday, when a full program will be carried out.

An Excellent Fair.
The live stock and other exhibits under cover were generally up to the high standard of excellence maintained by Strathroy, although old-timers deplored that there was a slight falling off in the number of exhibits in the fruit, ladies' work and fancy work departments. However, there may have been. With the showing in these departments as it was, Strathroy need take second place to no district or county fair within a wide radius of territory. The fruit, root, and vegetable exhibits would have been creditable to one of the provincial or other big exhibitions of the Dominion, and the flower exhibit was equally excellent.

A feature of unusual interest in the flower department was the exhibit of the school children of Strathroy and district, prizes being offered by the Strathroy Horticultural Society for the best school collections. The entries in the competition were highly creditable to the teachers, pupils and all others concerned, including the Horticultural Society for the interest aroused.

The Poultry Exhibit.
Too many prizes could not be heaped upon the poultry exhibit, which entirely filled the building devoted to this department. Big white Pekin ducks quacked out their greeting to the fair visitors and tried to tell how they wanted to be outside with the rain which pattered on the roof. Some fine geese were exhibited, and among the other fowls, the Houdans, Silver-Sprangled Hamburgs, Brown Leghorns, Black Minorcas, Polands, Cochin, Dorkings, Langshans, Rhode Island Reds, Indian Games and Plymouth Rocks, all richly deserve especial mention. Mr. D. Bogue, of Lambeth, was a leading exhibitor in a number of classes. Mr. George Bogue, of Strathroy, showed some really fine ducks. Ernest Wright, of Strathroy, carried off enviable honors with Brown Leghorns and Black Minorcas. Mr. Sutherland, of Strathroy, showed fine Black and White Polands. The big Cochin fowls, both white and buff, made a creditable showing. Fred G. DeGex, of Kerwood, won a lot of seconds in Silver Gray Dorkings, and a nice bunch of firsts in Langshans. E. J. Wright, of Strathroy, not content with the bulk of the firsts in Brown Leghorns, carried away practically all of both the firsts and seconds in the Minorcas. Orlington fowls also showed up to advantage.

Live Stock.
In the live stock department, Anthony Hughes, of Sarnia, swept the prize lists with his Jerseys and Ayrshires. In Jerseys he won eight firsts, three seconds and two thirds, and in Ayrshires, six firsts and two seconds. Demary Bros., of Kerwood, were the leading exhibitors in Holstein-Friesians. William McLean & Sons, of Kerwood, Leicester sheep and Berkshire swine. D. A. Graham, of Wanstead, also showed a lot of fine Shorthorns, Leicesters and Berkies. The Shorthorn exhibits were a feature of the fair. Strathroy's not content with the bulk of the firsts in Brown Leghorns, carried away practically all of both the firsts and seconds in the Minorcas. Orlington fowls also showed up to advantage.

Double Roadsters.—1 Oscar Daniels, Denfield; Frank Lewis, Strathroy; 3 W. H. Tanton, Strathroy.
Best single turnout.—1 J. H. Pickering, Forest; 2 David Leitch, Walkers; 3 D. M. Munroe, Glencoe.
Lady drivers.—1 Mrs. Poole, Glencoe; 2 Mrs. Moore, Glencoe; 3 Miss McNeill, Appin; 4 Mrs. Woods, Kerwood.

Best carriage horse, any class, diploma, first prize only.—David Leitch, Walkers.
William Hodgins, of Lobo, won a first and diploma for agricultural horses, and Mr. J. Cline, of Adelaide, carried away a first for heavy draft horses. Mr. McIntyre, Alvinston, taking second place.

The judges for horses were: Messrs. John Coursey, Lucan, and John Buchanan, heavy horses; and John Kelly, of Listowel, for light horses. Mr. George Bogue, of Strathroy, showed a great many of the finest exhibits at the fair. Mr. Thomas Benstead, reeve of Strathroy, practically cornered the firsts with his collections of celery, potatoes and vegetables.

Mr. John Stacey, of Strathroy, exhibited some mammoth squash and a fine aggregation of potatoes, carrots, onions, pumpkins and cabbage. Fine roots, potatoes and onions were also shown by Mr. Walter Cuddy, of Strathroy. Mr. Thomas Luscombe, another local exhibitor, won practically all the firsts in onions, a better exhibit of which would be hard to find.

The Buttery family, W. E. Buttery, R. M. Buttery and W. G. Buttery, shared the firsts in Peweeke, Ben Davis, American Golden Russets, Superior Kings, Canadian Reds, Northern Spy and other varieties of apples; also in grapes, plums, pears, peaches, watermelons and other fruits. Some extra large squash were shown by Mr. Joseph Stewart, also of Strathroy.

In the flower department, A. McPherson & Son, of Strathroy, had a large and beautiful exhibit, winning 17 firsts, 11 seconds and 5 thirds, dahlias, asters, balsams, cut flowers, plant designs, honeycombs and pansies, being among the flowers shown. A beautiful jet black pansy attracted a lot of merited attention. Some beautiful varieties originated by McPherson, Jun., were exhibited. Mr. Joseph Stewart, of Strathroy, was the leading exhibitor of gladioli. Miss Smith and Miss Medina Taylor exhibited some fine cut flowers. Mrs. Payne, of Strathroy, showed a fine old cactus in a collection of 25 plants. McPherson &

Son had a beautiful exhibit of many varieties of cactus. But some lovely asters. Nearly all the flower exhibitors were local people.

A demonstration of sprayed and unsprayed fruits will be given Wednesday by Mr. F. B. White, B. S. A., agricultural county expert for Middlesex.

Picturesque Midway.
The midway was a centre of attraction, where were picturesque gipsy tents where picturesque costumed "talented Egyptian ladies" read palmists' fortunes with lucky numbers that won teddy bears; hoop-la games with poodle dogs for prizes, and among a long line of other games of chance and skill (more or less), was a hoop-la game in which twice old geese offered a Thanksgiving dinner to the lucky thrower who dropped a ring over their heads. The hot dog artist was very much in demand and all the other refreshment booths folks did a thriving trade.

Mention should be made of the fine exhibit of stoves, pianos, harness, furniture, household appliances, clothing and fur, wall papers, made by local manufacturers and merchants. The majority of the exhibits were "Made in Strathroy." The Chisholm-Dunn Telephone Company, of London, made an exhibit of telephones.

Art and Fancy Work.
In the room where the departments Miss Nesbitt, of Watford, showed some beautiful paintings, portraits and pen and ink work. Mrs. J. B. Nesbitt, of Watford, showed a good share of the prizes in ladies' work. Other meritorious exhibits were made by Mrs. Walter Cuddy, Strathroy; Miss Elliott, Blenheim; Miss McPherson, Forest; and Mrs. Ryerson Moore, of Strathroy. Miss Whistler, of Strathroy, showed some fine art and pen and ink work. Old-fashioned rag carpets and beautiful rugs were shown by Mrs. York, of Strathroy. Home-made socks and knitted goods exhibited were very much to the credit of Miss Elliott, of Blenheim.

In the dairy department Mrs. first prize for a tempting workman's dinner. Mrs. Robert Jennings was another prizewinner. Letitia, of some of the best array of homemade biscuits and cake. Mr. John Henderson, of Adelaide, won first prize for honey and candied fruit. Mr. Galbraith, of Adelaide, took the premier prize for comb honey and candied fruit. The use of some of these, which was first prize for maple syrup, which was first in keeping with her excellent biscuits.

PIEST MURDERER SAYS HE DID IT AT GOD'S COMMAND

Detectives Declare Rev. Hans Schmidt Is Only Feigning Insanity.

A DANGEROUS CRIMINAL

Aumuller Girl Threatened To Kill Priest, Says Suspected Counterfeit

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 17.—Catching up the loose ends of the evidence that connects Hans Schmidt, priest and confessed murderer of Anna Aumuller, with the making of spurious money, has been begun by detectives under Inspector Joseph Faurot. Facts being brought to light in this search show that Schmidt has been a man of varied activities.

Everything in the rooms occupied by Schmidt in the rectory of St. Joseph's Church, where he was assistant rector, have been seized, and today the work of translating the contents of letters and documents found in his trunks began. Inspector Faurot hopes through this mass of correspondence to learn definitely many things concerning Schmidt's history that will throw light on his masquerade as Dr. Emil Molitor.

May Be Doctor.
The manner in which the body of Anna Aumuller was dismembered leads the detectives to believe that Schmidt may have practiced medicine at one time in his career. Schmidt's familiarity with photography and his knowledge of engraving are other points the police will seek to weave into the evidence to present in the event that the priest is insane at his trial for the murder of Anna Aumuller.

A Master Criminal.
No man of Schmidt's varied pursuits could be insane, the detectives say, and they took upon him as a criminal with a master mind, a man trained in many things which he turned to account in his operations. Schmidt's explanation of everything—the murder of Anna Aumuller and of the counterfeiting—is that he did it at the command of God. These declarations, the detectives say, are part of a plan to frighten the public.

That Schmidt did pose as Dr. Molitor, a physician, as he is said to have admitted, was indicated last night by the finding among his effects of medicines and drugs. The use of some of these, the police say, is prohibited by law. Dr. Ernest Arthur Muret, the dentist, who was arrested following a raid of his rooms, is said to be the physician who was arrested at the hands of the police, say, is prohibited by law.

May Be Counterfeiter.
The hope of the federal authorities of connecting Muret with the counterfeiting, which Schmidt admitted yesterday he had entered into with the dentist, was heightened last night by the discovery in his rooms of a photo-engraving machine, of a new set of photo-engraving tools. These tools, the police said, were of the same pattern as those found in the counterfeiting flat.

Muret denies connection with the counterfeiting plot and denounced Schmidt for having mentioned his name in this connection.

Girl's Testimony.
Bertha Zech, Muret's servant and office assistant, following her release yesterday, returned to the St. Nicholas avenue apartment occupied by the dentist. There she discussed her detention of the night and told of her employment by the doctor last December through an advertisement. She had come to New York only a few weeks before that time, she explained, and she said she knew nothing about the affairs of Muret and Schmidt, but threw some light on the occurrences in the dentist's office. Schmidt visited there frequently, she said, as did many women, who remained until late at night.

Inspector Faurot's investigation has disclosed what he considers might have been a motive for the murder of Anna Aumuller. In the presence of a doctor about a month ago the girl threatened to kill Schmidt, according to a statement made by the physician. The inspector, when Schmidt called on this physician, he was in citizen's clothes, and he had no idea his visitor was a priest.

PANAMA CANAL

rates of exchange; investments of capital and banking facilities; the factor—manufacturing and commercial ability, experience of trade and markets, and present possession.

Help West Indies.
The canal, he said, will add enormously to the commercial facilities between the various regions of the American continent and the adjacent islands, hence important developments may be expected. The West India Islands will enter upon a new period of prosperity, especially when the internal combustion engine takes the place of steam and oil replaces coal. English business and fiscal methods will have a great effect on making the West Indies important to shipping, and thus assist the development of local industries, especially the export of raw material. The comparatively unprogressive states of Central and South America will undergo remarkable developments owing to increased immigration of Europeans and increased trade. These local benefits will be the chief, and ample, justification for the construction of the canal.

Blow at Marx.
Of the effect on world trade, he continues: "America realizes the importance of the canal to the United Kingdom; there will be a strenuous attempt to displace British coal throughout the world in order to give American shipping the advantages at present enjoyed by British. If successful this will deal a mortal blow at our mercantile marine. Thus the British coal industry must realize the situation, and both the capital and labor interested resolve to hold the market at all costs until the fuel question—coal or oil—is finally settled."

The published scheme of tolls which frees American coasting ships raises an international question. If the canal be worked on business principles, higher tolls will be exacted from other shipping; this will either cause grievance, or decrease the tonnage using the canal. The question might be made domestic instead of international if America charged equal tolls to all and gave bounties to such shipping as it wishes to favor.

In the Far East.
"As to the effect of distance, he thought that on Australasian and far eastern markets it would be considerable, as the mileage run by a steamer was a serious factor in cost of service. In this shipping offered a contrast to railways, for when trucks were loaded, length of haul had but little effect on cost of service."

"Taking London and New York as the typical European and American ports," he said, "the markets of the world fall into three classes: 1. Countries in close proximity to the canal; here the effect will be greatest, and in many cases the use of the canal a necessity. 2. Countries in the far east. At present there is a choice of routes to these markets; Panama will offer another alternative. 3. Ports not directly affected."

World Trade.
"Class 2 is receiving most attention from those estimating the effects on world trade. There is a parallel equidistant from London via Suez, and from New York via Panama. On the south coast of Australia this is Port Lincoln, Adelaide being the nearest great port. All Asiatic ports west of Japan will continue to be nearer to London, e. g., Manila, will be 2,000 miles nearer. But all Japanese and New Zealand ports and all Australian ports east of Adelaide will be nearer New York. If it costs 2½ to transport ton of goods 100 miles, distance saved will give American manufacturers an advantage of from 2½ to 7½ per ton on all goods supplied to ports between Melbourne and Wellington, N. Z."

Tolls—Panama differs from Suez here, Suez has an immediate monopoly; with Panama there is in many instances a choice of routes, and high tolls will deter the use of the canal.

A Big Problem.
"Freights—To benefit American shipping freight must be available both out and home. To benefit American manufacturers freight must be available both out and home. To benefit American shipping freight must be available both out and home. To benefit American manufacturers freight must be available both out and home."

A Deciding Factor.
"Fuel Ships. This will be one of the decisive factors, and lead to the keenest commercial rivalry. The American Government are planning to supply good coal at either end of the canal at 19¢ per ton. The English coal at 19¢ per ton. The English coal at 19¢ per ton. The English coal at 19¢ per ton."

The Political Factor.
"The working of the Imperial ideal in Great Britain, America and Germany should be noted. Preferences granted by the dominions have a great effect on the trade. The possession of the Philippines has displaced Spain from the position of chief trader there in favor of America. The importance of this factor can be seen in the case of Japan, and China, when settled government comes, will be another notable instance."

Rates of Exchange.
"The Far East is a silver, Europe and America a gold, standard. Rates of exchange affect trading relations. The whole question should be carefully studied. About seven years ago, when a Chinese merchant could get exchange on the value of 100,000,000 of dollars at the rate of 119 taels for $100 gold, it paid him to import those goods and sell them for $100 gold, this, namely, 160 taels for $100 gold, this, namely, 160 taels for $100 gold, this, namely, 160 taels for $100 gold."

Many Advantages.
"Great Britain is a great creditor nation. It will have a great advantage in made in goods, and though the interest has to be paid in gold, it comes in goods covered by bills in terms of sterling, so that investors get their interest in gold. The British, too, have banking establishments all over the world. London is the great settling place for international trade. All this gives England a very great advantage. Germany has followed England in this. Finally, the Englishman is, roughly speaking, the man in possession, and though at one time he seemed somewhat asleep, at present he is very wide awake. He has many advantages: (1) for the transport services; cheap, economical working ships, carefully organized trading facilities throughout the world, and the knowledge and experience which enable him to retain old trades and be the first to enter new ones. (2) So far as retaining the markets for manufactured goods is concerned he has an unrivaled labor force endowed with hereditary skill, he can get the pick of the raw material, thanks to his knowledge of markets, and a fiscal policy which favors England as a buyer of raw and semi-manufactured materials; finally, British goods are known all over the world for their quality. Honest goods and honest dealing on the part of the seller are their own market."

DIED A MOUNT ELGIN.

BORDEN HOPES TO FORCE BILL THROUGH HOUSE

Tells Halifax People That Navy
Proposition Is Only Temporarily Defeated.

HAS FULFILLED PLEDGE

Premier Touched Upon Many Important Subjects at Conservative Club Meeting.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 16.—"Through men not directly responsible to the electorate of Canada our naval proposals have been defeated for the moment, and an increased burden has for the present been imposed and accepted beyond the seas. We have every confidence that this defeat is but temporary, and that the duty of Canada will yet be honorably discharged. The highest future for this Dominion lies with the Empire, but the unity of the Empire cannot be maintained if its greatest dominion adopts the policy of scamping under the cover of neutrality in time of danger or trouble."

Other Matters.
In these words Right Hon. R. L. Borden brought to a close an address delivered before the Conservative Club of this city this afternoon. The address was a review of the activities of the Government since its assumption of power. In addition to naval defence, closure, highway legislation, branch railways, agriculture, bank revision, port development, parcel post, were all touched upon, and the Opposition was scored for its alleged opposition to several of the number on the ground that its members believed "the people of Canada were pining to restore them to office."

Pledges Fulfilled, He Says.
Referring to the Government's pledges with respect to the question of naval defence, Mr. Borden said: "These pledges have been fulfilled in the letter and in the spirit. We went to England, we consulted the British Government, we placed before the country the statement from the British Admiralty, and we submitted to Parliament the proposals for temporary and immediate aid which in our judgment were justified by the need."

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Walkerton, Sept. 17.—The present by-election campaign in South Bruce is the hottest in years, and R. E. Truax, the Liberal standard-bearer, is meeting with hearty support in every district.

Mr. Truax came to Walkerton 47 years ago, a young man of 20. He owns one of the largest sash and door factories in the province now, and is building another big new plant. He was first elected to Parliament in 1891, defeating the late Henry Cargill, father of the present Conservative candidate, and has since that time represented South Bruce in the local House for twelve years. He resigned his seat in 1911 to contest South Bruce for the Dominion House against James Donnelly and was defeated.

He has occupied every official position at the gift of the electors of Walkerton, and among his best friends are many of the foremost Conservatives of the community.

Will Send Davison to London Asylum

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Sept. 17.—Alex. Davidson, who was arrested last Friday on complaint of his wife, who believed him to have gone insane, is still confined in a cell at police station. Davidson's case put the police in a quandary, as under the new statute insane people cannot be confined in a lock-up or jail. Just how the authorities got around the law is not known. Similar cases will in the future be handled in a different manner. The person who is believed to be insane will be locked up on a disorderly charge and turned over to the sheriff for detention in the jail, who under this charge cannot refuse to accept them. It will then be necessary for the sheriff to prove the man insane by medical examination. It is understood that the papers for Davidson's confinement in the London retreat have arrived and been signed and sent back. They must, however, be returned again before the prisoner is committed.

Popular Bosanquet Young People Celebrated Their Nuptials.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Forest, Sept. 17.—A very pretty wedding took place recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lloyd, com. 16, of Bosanquet, when their eldest daughter, Rowena Pearl, was married to Frederick J. Dew, also of Bosanquet.

While the Wedding March was being played by Mrs. Cannon, the happy couple took their places beneath a bower of white clematis, evergreens, and potted plants, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter Cannon.

The bride, who was unattended, was daintily attired in a gown of blue charmeuse silk, trimmed with heavy cream lace and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Congratulations being over, the company went to the dining-room for the wedding dinner, the table being decorated in pink and white.

The day before the bride-to-be was the recipient of a china shower from her young lady friends of the Lake Shore Sunday school, Mr. and Mrs. Dew left by auto to spend their honeymoon in Sarnia and Detroit, the bride wearing a suit of navy blue whipcord and white hat, with touches of Bulgarian. They will be at home to their friends after Oct. 1.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—The run at the Union Stockyards yesterday totalled 300 cars, containing 6,000 cattle, 500 calves, 877 hogs and lambs, and 14 horses. "One of the most remarkable runs in the history of the market," was said by one dealer, "and the fact that several went as far as to say that it eclipsed all previous records in the history of the local yards. In spite of this fact the cattle market failed to show any signs of weakness, but at times appeared to advance. While most of the buyers agreed that the market advanced about 15¢ during the day, the commission men and drovers would not admit the fact, and they agreed that the market was holding steady. The consignments to the other markets, with the exception of the fact that there was a trifle below the ordinary opening day run, and as a result all the markets except hogs (which fell) and calves (which were steady) were higher than last week. Hogs opened steady, but declined as the market advanced, and at the close were quoted 25¢ below last week's prices. The call for stockers and feeders has not diminished, and a ready sale is to be found for all offerings. While the run today has not greatly affected the cattle market, there can be no doubt but that anything like a large run on Wednesday will cause this market to decline. The weather has not yet become cold enough to warrant an unusual demand for meat, and the market has not yet sufficiently recovered from its summer laxity to remain steady under such enormous consignments. It is quite probable that this week will see a slight decline, at least in the cattle market. The quotations were:

Export cattle, cwt. $5.50 to $7.00
Butcher cattle, choice 6.25 to 6.75
Butcher cattle, medium 5.25 to 6.25
Butcher cattle, common 4.25 to 5.25
Butcher bulls 3.50 to 5.50
Butcher cows 5.00 to 6.00
Butcher cows, medium 4.50 to 5.00
Butcher cows, common 4.00 to 4.50
Feeding steers 5.00 to 6.00
Canvases and cutters 2.50 to 3.00
Under such enormous consignments, the market was not greatly affected. The call for stockers and feeders has not diminished, and a ready sale is to be found for all offerings. THORNDALE.

Thorndale, Sept. 17.—The Woman's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. James Wheaton this afternoon.

The district meeting of the Methodist clergymen will be held in the Methodist Church on Sept. 23. Dinner and tea will be provided by the ladies of the church.

St. George's Church held its harvest home services on Sunday morning and evening. The church was tastefully decorated with the autumn fruits and flowers, and the services were bright and interesting.

Rev. Roger Howard, of Chatham, who was rector of St. George's from 1897-1901, conducted the services and gave two splendid discourses. Special music was rendered by the choir.

The Women's Guild of St. George's Church will meet today at the rectory.

Was Engine Driver on Great Western

Body of Mr. Richard Anderson Was Brought Here for Burial.

The Evanston, Illinois, Daily News of Sept. 15, refers to the death of Mr. Richard Anderson as follows:

Richard Anderson, father of Mrs. C. D. Macpherson, 1819 Ashland avenue, died in the home of the latter last night. He was 82 years old.

Death was caused by infirmities incident to old age. For several months he had been in a feeble condition.

Short funeral services were held at the Macpherson home this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The body was taken to London, Ont., for burial in the family lot besides the bodies of his wife, one son and one daughter, who died several years ago. Funeral services will be conducted in London, Ont., tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Anderson had been a resident of Evanston for twenty years, living a retired life in the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. D. Macpherson. He was born in Scotland, Dec. 8, 1831. At the age of 21 years he came to the United States and settled in Detroit, Mich., where he was married a few years later. In 1855 he moved to London, Ont. For many years he was employed as a locomotive engineer on the Great Western Railway until that road was merged with the Grand Trunk system.

In 1893 Mr. Anderson came to London to make his home with his daughter. Since that time he has lived a quiet, retired life. Besides Mrs. Macpherson, he leaves three other daughters, Mrs. Richard Wilson, of this city; Mrs. J. H. Doyle, of Sarnia, Ont.; and Mrs. Charles Davies, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Anderson was one of the oldest members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, having become a member of that order in 1857. He was also an old member of the Masonic Order, having joined that prominent organization in 1859.

PORTABLE SCHOOL IS PROPOSAL OF MR. DENNIS

Could Be Utilized To Relieve the Congestion at Various Schools of City.

Absence of several of the members of the board of education from the school trustees' E. R. Dennis, chairman of the board, believes that the only solution of the Empress avenue problem would be the erection of a portable school building, a wooden, temporary affair, at the rear of the present school. This could relieve the situation until such times as a nucleus to a new school for West London district could be started. It could then be taken down and removed to some other quarter, where it would accommodate as at a premium.

EXPRESS HIT TIES WHILE TRAVELLING FAST

Grand Trunk No. 14 Narrowly Escapes Being Derailed Near Stratford.

Grand Trunk Express No. 14, in charge of Conductor McAuliffe, this city, narrowly escaped derailment near Little Lake station, a local stop a few miles east of Stratford, Tuesday afternoon.

The train was travelling at a good rate of speed, after leaving Stratford, and shortly before arrival at Little Lake ran into a couple of ties that had been placed across the tracks.

But for the fact that the ties had been exposed in the open for some time and were partially decayed, a bad wreck would have occurred. As it was the heavy drive wheels of the engine ground them into powder, and no resistance sufficient to stop the train was offered.

The train was stopped on the other track would have been more effective, however, as the ties lying there were comparatively new.

A thorough investigation will be made into the affair.

COURT GIVES GRACE CHANGE TO REFORM

London Woman Remanded by a Toronto Police Magistrate.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—"Grace Langdon," called Officer Chapman, a round-faced young woman, head bare, had done low at the back of her neck, clad in a good gown of light raw silk, and somewhat dilapidated black silk coat, came forward in answer to the summons.

The face, with its fresh coloring, somehow could not be associated with any deep tragedy. Yet twice during the past two months Grace had tried to commit suicide. The latest attempt was made on Saturday, when she was found suffering from laudanum poisoning.

On Tuesday the charge was one of drunkenness, further hint of some of the undercurrents in the young woman's life lay in Crown Attorney Corley's words:

"She has no home, your worship, no place to go."

But the prisoner's view did not seem to coincide with this.

"I'll go back home if I only get a chance," she repeated.

"Will you go with Miss Williams?" questioned Magistrate Ellis, ignoring her remark. A glance toward the corner where sat the gentle Scotch lady of the Bellamy Home, a quickly spoken "Yes," and the round-faced girl was on her way to the shelter.

That was after the magistrate had given the sentence, "Remanded till called for." On the bench of safety, Grace said some things.

"Yes, I think someone would give me money to go back home with. I came here to work, and know I was getting on all right, but I shouldn't have taken the laudanum. I was all right, but somebody tore my coat very badly last night."

When found on Saturday on John street, ill with effects of the laudanum, the young woman told a strange story. It was to the effect that in a lodging-house—situated she knew not where—she was forcibly given the drug by a woman for whom she had purchased it, after being overpowered by a man. Before returning to court on Tuesday morning she confessed to Inspector Kennedy that her story was false.

Said to Have No Home.

The woman said she had agreed to leave London two months ago when charged with vagrancy. She did so. But instead of going to Blenheim, which was supposed to be her destination—she had an uncle and aunt there—she started for the United States, was stopped at Detroit by immigration officers, and while being escorted back to Chatham, attempted to jump into the Detroit River. After the arrest at Chatham she was sent back to London, but came to Toronto last week.

OF

The O-Cedar Polish Mop and O-Cedar Polish

We are featuring a special demonstration this week on the O-Cedar goods.

The O-Cedar Mop is round and ring-shaped, enabling the user to get under extremely low furniture such as radiators, etc. It is saturated in O-Cedar Polish, a vegetable compound that contains no grease and will not soil the most delicate surface when filled with dirt. The only mop that can be used from 60 to 100 days. Washed with soap and water, and re-treated with the O-Cedar Polish—about 10¢ worth—makes it as good as new.

O-Cedar Polish has no equal for cleaning and polishing autos and pianos. All goods sold on a guarantee.

Ontario Passes Films Barred by Others

Condemned in Most Places Toronto Sees the Thaw Pictures.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Ontario stands in a somewhat lonely position in allowing the pictures of Harry K. Thaw and his visit to Canada to appear in its theatres. The board of censors for moving pictures in this Province has passed the film and it was shown at a local picture theatre Monday morning, afternoon and evening.

Alberta censors refused to pass the pictures. The Winnipeg censors afterwards placed a ban on them.

Many large American cities have set down the law that the fugitive from Matteawan shall not appear on the screens within their boundaries.

The film depicting Thaw at Sherbrooke and Coaticook is a very short one and hardly shows Thaw plainly at all. He is caught in flashes while passing through crowds with a police officer and just as he enters an automobile.

"There is absolutely nothing objectionable in the two films that we passed of Thaw," said Chairman G. E. Armstrong. "The first one we allowed to go was about a thousand feet film and the other was about 250 feet. They show simply Thaw's movements in Quebec."

"We condemned one picture of Thaw which was taken," he continued. "It showed the whole Thaw case from the beginning of his escape to Canada. The only reason for objection to the other films is that they are identified with the name of Thaw, and that is not sufficient to condemn them. These pictures do not give nearly as much publicity to the Thaw affairs as the newspapers have done."

To Grow Hair On A Bald Head

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will make the hair glossy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavender de Composee, 4 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics.
