Canadian Who Shot American Constable In Hospital Here

Minneapolis Officer of Law in Precarious Condition as Result of Mental Delusion on Part of Toronto Man.

Assistant Medical Superintendent Dr. W. T. B. Mitchell of the Westminster Military Psyopathic Hospital here, and Chief Attendant G. Murdock of the same institution, returned from Minneapolis last week with a dangerous patient who was handed over to them by the police of the above city. The patient, who is a discharged Canadian soldier, shot a Minneapolis police constable in the mouth, two weeks ago, while laboring under a mental delusion and the courts there notified the Canadian authorities, with the result that the man will be contined to It that the man will be confined to hospital here for treatment.

The veteran, who is a Toronto man, and whose name is withheld, was shell shocked in France, and attacks of insanity are periodic in his case. Some time ago he left the Queen City under the impression that he was being followed, and according to his own story, walked to thet border, ultimately arriving in St. Paul. Possessing funds he was not forced to beg food, but was always in a hurry lest the imaginary foe on his trail should catch up.

Obsession Grew.

The obsession grew upon him in St. Paul, and he obtained a revolver determined to kill his Nemesis. Finally his antics landed him in a St. Paul hospital, and later he was transferred to a mental institute in the nearby city of Minneapolis. The nurse on the ward which the Canadian was quartered discovered that he had a revolver uncer his pillow, and she notified the police.

amination was made, he was ordered to be given into the custody of the Canadian authorities. Dr. Mitchell and Chief Attendant. Murdock, journeyed to Minneapolis for the man, and he is now locked in the Military hospital Without Handcuffs. Without Handcuffs.

A feature of the patient's demeanor is the fact that throughout the entire journey from Minneapolis to London, it was not necessary to handcuff him as at no time was he violent. This is explained by the fact that the patient is satisfied now, believing that he killed the constable, whom he declares has chased him for months. Since his incarceration in Westminster Hospital the insane man has continued to act rationally with the same man has continued to act rationally with Hospital the insane man has contin-ued to act rationally with nothing to worry him, now that his foe has been dispatched.

Shortly after his arrival here he arranged to exchange some American money which he possessed for Cana-dian currency, and was shrewd enough dian currency, and was shrewd enough to wait until exchange was at its peak, in order that he might gain on the deal. This is cited as an example of his present intelligence, but how long this model behavior will continue, is a mystery which will only be solved by close observation by the hospital authorities.

For two days more the composition of the city council will remain a mystery to all except the members of the striking committee. Conjectures are rife, however, and general indications point to at least one change in the lineup from last year, as well as the addition of the three new aldermen.

It is generally concedel that Ald. B. F. Brighton, who served on No. 1 committee last year will be switched to No. 2 committee this year. He was assigned to that body last year, but later changed places with Ald. John Ashton, who has been assigned to No. 1 committee, but did not wish to stay there because it dealt with street railway matters.

With this change, two vacancies will be open on No. 1 committee. It is understood that these will be filled by Ald.-elect G. A. Wenige and Ald.-elect W. A. Boss. The vacancy on No. 2 committee will be filled by Ald.-elect G. A. Wenige and Ald.-elect G. A. Wenige and Ald.-elect W. A. Boss. The vacancy on No. 2 committee will be filled by Ald.-elect G. A. Norfolk, Va., Jan. 7 .- The story of how he had boarded the steamer West Cannon at Cork for his secret passage to this country was told by Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who came here late yesterday from Newport News with Peter MacSwiney, brother of the late lord mayor. "Getting aboard ship was not so difficult as it may seem." O'Callaghan said. "Dressed as a laborer, I hung around the quays for about an hour watching my chance. Many of the crew were absent from the ship, and when I saw my chance I climbed a ladder and slipped aboard and into the hold."

He added that MacSwiney had boarded the ship ahead of him.

PENNY BANK DEPOSITS BELOW AVERAGE HERE

Knollwood Park Leads Local Schools in Savings.

Economy is a virtue which can be practiced by London school children to much gréater extent than at present without danger of leading them into miserly and penurious habits, according to the reports of the Penny Bank for September and October. These state that London children saved an average of only 19 cents during those two months. Many other places averaged as much as 50 cents. Guelph reported 92 cents per pupil. Only eight of the 47 municipalities listed in These were all much smaller centres.
The average for the Dominion was 43 cents.

The new Knollwood School surpassed this with average deposits of 93 cents. Many of the others came fairly close to it.

During September the total deposits here were: $734.47 compared to $993.55 in 1919 and $1,004.80 in 1918. During October. the total deposits were: $1,215.58 compared to $1,266.59 in 1919 and $269.68 in 1918.

The deposits for the Dominion in September were: $34,556.77 compared to $45,516.25 in 1919 and $43,210.80 in 1918. In October they were $52,631.51 compared to $43,684.73 in 1919 and $12,105.55 in 1918.

Dr. Ramsay of the Academy of Medicine of Western Ontario declared that the medical profession is in sympathy with the public health movement, and ready to do anything that it may to encourage any efforts along that line. He expressed the opinion that educational methods rather than rigid enforcement of regulations would have better results. Revolutionary methods of promoting public health, he declared, generally fall. Evolutionary methods are the best and most permanently successful.

School Inspector C. B. Edwards Gives Report for December, 1920.

Increases both in the registration and the average attendance at the public schools during the month of December 1920, over those of a year previous were reported to the board of education last night by Senior Inspector C. B. Edwards. The total registrations for the public schools were δ,176; average attendance 7,332, increases of 180 and 276, respecschools were 8,176; average attendance 1,332; increases of 180 and 276, respectively over a year ago.

The supervisors' reports showed an enrollment in the manual training and household science classes for December of 1,164 and 1,153 respectively, and an average attendance 1,073 and 1,058. The supervisor of art reported 125 visits made and 52 lessons taught. The supervisor of music reported 128 classes visited and 96 lessons observed. The supervisor of school nurses reported: Number of inspections, 1,792; visits to homes, 53; contagious diseases, chickethox 22, diphtheria 14, scarlet fever 11, mumps 3, whooping cough 2, measles 1. The chief dental inspector reported 280 operations at the central clinic, and 513 examinations at the prophylactic clinic. Mr. Edwards made the following recommendations: That an additional school nurse be appointed; that recognition be accorded the following teachers who have taken special courses previous who have taken special courses previous to 1920, and whose work has thereby become more effective—supervisors of art household science and school nurses, and the teacher of Grade 1 in Tecumseh Avenue School; that the board decide how rules 4, page 42, and 10, page 43, of the Fules and regulations of the board, be carried into effect.

An additional room has been opened in Knollwood School, making three classes in this school. Two small classrooms have been equipped in the cottage adjoining Wortley Road School, and thus, in a measure, the overcrowding adjoining Wortley Road School, and thus, in a measure, the overcrowding there has been relieved.

Principal Mooney's report on the attendance at the Collegiate Institute for December was as follows: General course, 1920, on roll 876, average 832; for 1919, on roll 887, average 837; commercial course, 1920, on roll 1,078, average 1,029; for 1919, on roll 1,112, average 1,046; evening classes, 1920, on roll 150, average 103.5; for 1919, on roll 74, average 35. tendance at the Collegiate Institute for December was as follows: General sible a resolution will be passed by the board asking that deserving cases of widows who have not been in Canada for the required three years be considered.

1.029; for 1919, on roll 1,078, average 337; commercial course, 1920, on roll 1,078, average 1,046; evening classes, 1920, on roll 150, average 103.5; for 1919, on roll 74, average 35.

Principal H. B. Beal reported the attendance at the Technical and Art School in December as follows: Day classes, number enrolled 168, average daily attendance 158; evening classes, number enrolled 660, average attendance 209.

"The guardians" recently decided not to increase the scale of relief work in Norwich on the ground that the taxpayers were unable to afford it, but the chief of police notified them he had received a communication to the effect that if help was not granted the unemployed had determined to use "direct action." He declared the police did not desire any disturbance of public order, and under this threat the "guardians" yielded and doubled the taxes applicable to feeding the poor. In his retiring address as chairman of the public library board, B. C. McCann drew attention Thursday evening to the growing need of a permanent building for the east branch of the library. The present quarters in the East End Town Hall have always been regarded as a temporary provision, and the fact that the upper floors are now being used for athletic contests is interfering seriously with the branch library, especially in the evening. Mr. McCann suggested the advisability of the board considering ways and means of providing a library building suited to the needs of the east end.

Pow Dr. McCrae heat also brought be. of providing a library building suited to the needs of the east end.

Rev. Dr. McCrae has also brought before the board the need of some provision for readers in the southwestern part of the city which has had such a marked growth in recent years. It is possible that during this year a small branch or distributing station will be opened in that part of the city.

A resolution of thanks to Mr. McCann for his services as chairman of the board was moved at last night's meeting by Rev. Dr. McCrae and seconded by W. H. Winnett. Dr. McGrae drew attention to ing delayed two or three weeks as at present.

As London's delegate to the Ontario municipal convention last year, he moved a resolution to this effect, together with City Solicitor Bert Doherty of St. Thomas. It was heartly indorsed by the convention, and sent to the Ontario Legislature for consideration at its next session. This may be followed up by separate resolutions from each municipality.

Ald. Wilson suggests that nominations he made December 1, and elections held a week later. The council would be in office by December 15, and ready to grapple with the business of the coming year. Under the present system of holding the election New Year's Day, it is well on toward the end of January before real, serious consideration is given to civic problems.

The chief reason for holding it at this time is to give commercial travelers an

OF MRS. R. M. GRAHAM The chief reason for holding it at this time is to give commercial travelers an opportunity to vote, as they are out of the city at other times. On the other hand, it is pointed out that many other citizens are away a this time for holidays and are disfranchised. citizens are away a this time for holidays and are disfranchised.

Last year the city suggested to the Legislature that similar provision be made for taking a preliminary vote of the travelers, as is provided for railway employees. The Legislature did not agree to this. It is an expensive method. In St. Thomas, where there are many railway employees, who vote previous to the regular municipal election, it is estimated that the cost is a dollar a vote. No railwaymen took advantage of the plan in London this year.

Another argument against the New Year's election is that the citizens are London Women Receives Per-COMMEND THE taoin-F cm f wytaoin Announcement has been made from the central commission of the mothers' allowance act in Toronto of the perma-nent appointment of Mrs. R. The youth, who is employed as a Great akes sailor during the navigation season, came to this city two weeks ago with the girl, whose home is near Port McNicholl. At first the two stayed at his mother's home, and when they were driven from there they moved to a boarding house and then to a local hotel. They were arrested one week ago.

When the pair were arraigned in the police court the girl felt her position keenly. They were remanded to jail one week, but before the time elapsed the brother of the girl came to the city and took her away.

The magistrate told Widdicombe that he felt confident that he had induced the girl to leave her home under a promise of matriage.

"It is not the first time that you have done this, for you deceived the girl's sister in the same way not long ago. Her family has suffered a great deal from you, so I do not advise you to go near that place again, I warn you to keep away, but I do not suppose you will need a warning from what I know of the case. I have talked to the brother." said the magistrate.

Widdicombe told the court that the girl had come here promising to marry him, but refused when she arrived here. The magistrate told him that he did not believe it. The mother of the youth, who was in the courtroom, shouted it was true. The boy offered to produce letters proving it.

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF THE LONDON BRANCH OF THE O. V. G. A.:

GENTLEMEN,—

Another year in our history has passed away and we are again met for the purpose of receiving reports of the past year, and the election of officers, and to make preparations for still bigger and better things in the year upon which we shall soon enter.

As President of our Branch for two yéars I am delighted with the manner in which I have been supported by the officers and members, and this accounts in no small degree for our successes during the past year. In many respects I am now sorry that my term of office has expired. However, the men who have stood behind me so nobly will now have a chance to take the lead in this great and what is becoming one of the most important branches of industry.

Perhaps during my term of office one of the things I have a chance to take the lead in this great and what is becoming one of the most careful attention to has been to create a more social interest among our members. This, to me, is always important in any society, for it tends to promote interest and co-operation among its members.

The trips to the different gardens this year is an evidence of this fact. The visit to Fuller Bros., Davis', Sanderson & Son's and Mr. By-croft, where over one hundred enjoyed the hospitality of the ladies who provided us with delicious supper. I wish to thank Mrs. By-croft and the ladies who assisted her so well, and may I also take the liberty of paying tribute to our noble secretary, Mr. Moulton, for his faithful services, and I hope we shall be able to see our way clear to remember him in some tangible way again for the work he has done. I would ask you this evening to consider the advisability of creating still a greater interest in our work from an educational standpoint. While this can be done very largely in our meetings through the winter months by way of addresses, etc., I would suggest that we spend more afternoons in visiting gardens next summer, for I think this cannot be superseded.

Count Gargana and Eltora Romagnoli to Give Performances at Syracuse.

ROME, Jan. 6 .- A revival of some of the great Greek tragedies on a gigantic scale intended to approach as nearly as possible the conditions under which they were originally given is being planned for the coming spring in Syracuse, Sicily. The performances will be given in the theatre described by Cicero and also in his recent essays by Professor Rosso as the largest and finest in the world. The revival is expected to be the most impressive that has yet been attempted anywhere and is being sponsored by Count Mario Gargano, assisted by Eltore Romagnoli, the great Greek scholar, and by Cambellotti, who will supervise the stage craft.

The idea is to give an exact reproduction of what took place there when Pindar sang to Zeus of Olympia and Plato ascended the marble steps. Six years ago a similar representation between the stage of the production of the control of the production of the product possible the conditions under which they Plato ascended the marble steps. Six years ago a similar representation before an audience of 20,000 spectators was so realistic that the Sicilian peasants returned to their homes so deeply impressed that they themselves, though many could neither read nor write, reenacted scenes from the play "Agamemnon" in their market places.

In addition to this revival Syracuse is to have a library and museum as memorials of a glorious age, but with competent professors to lecture on the Greeks, their tragedies and the way of presenting them. These lectures are to precede the performance. Count Gargano hopes to have the support of every

BOLSHEVISM EXPOSED.

After the exposure of Russian Sovietism Euring the last eighteen months only extremists will continue to champion Lenin's political system and endeavor to introduce it to western civilization. Many individuals and group investigators, formerly sympathetic towards Bolshevism, have reported it as entirely unacceptable. British and French labor and socialist organizations have had special commissions visit Moscow and Petrograd to study conditions at first hand, and without exception they report Russia in a state of dreadful collapse. And it should be remembered that these, in many instances, were organizations trankly revolutionary. Under Lenin and Trotzky Russia is suffering from an economic paralysis unmatched in history.

The investigators found a great nation ruled by a very small faction after the most arbitrary fashion. Russia under the Bolshevists is a tyranny worse than that of the ezars. There is no popular election or representation, as in democratic countries, labor is conscripted and forced to excessive activity, personal liberty does not exist, the educated and cultured elements have been massacred or driven from the country, the press is permitted to publish only what pleases Lenin and his cabinet. The whole Soviet system is hostile to the British and American conception of popular government. British labor was at one time given to excusing Bolshevist excesses on the ground that they were an immediate necessity, justified by the goal it was hoped to Now, even such extremists as Snowden, Ramsay Macdonald and Smillie repudiate any connection with the Moscow system. An official statement on Bolshevism, signed by Arthur Henderson and Ramsay Macdonald, says: "Socialism means peace. Bolshevism means violence and war. We accuse the leaders of the Third (Moscow) Internationale of demoralizing the workers. They trod the desires of the Russian people in the dust and in place of democracy they established an armed dictatorship, not of the proletariat, but of a committee. Now they are attempting to impose their will and their decrees upon the Socialist and Labor parties of the whole world. They belong to the old world of czardom, not to the new world of socialism. They have insulted 27,000,000 of organized trade union workers by calling them blackless, and have declared their intention to disrupt the trade unions, the organizations of the class struggle of the proletariat. They have established state slavery and misery. They have robbed the workers of freedom of movement and of combination and are preventing the creation of economic democracy.

That is a terrific indictment, and it is the ccusation of men who were at one time seekopenly and directly a way to unite with the Russian Reds. Only fools and those who lesire to wreck and destroy society will continue to defend Bolshevism. The world gengrally has now no illusions about Bolshevism.

There seems to be need for more drastic steps to prevent the promiscuous carrying and use of firearms by criminals and would-be imitators. Bad men will always get possession of them in some way or the other, but if officers of the law and citizens generally must run the risk of assessination by this class of the community, it should be made as difficult as possible for the lawless ones to get firearms. One of the papers read at the convention of the Chief Constables' Association pointed out that at the rate they were now being imported, some 6,000 revolvers would come into this country this year. Good Times Will Return In the Spring

As day follows night, and flood-tide follows ebb, so inevitably must the existing business depression some time come to an end and the inflooding tides of prosperity begin to rise. But what the anxious businessman asks just now is, "When will the tide turn, when will the dawn break, when will the buyer cease from striking and the wheels of industry again begin to revolve?" To these questions, after a careful search of the daily and financial press, THE LITERARY DIGEST, this week, is at least able to give an answer from men who should know whereof they speak. Herbert Hoover, E. H. Gary, J. Ogden Armour, Francis H. Sisson, B. C. Forbes, Guy Emerson, Charles M. Schwab, Roger W. Babson and Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, are some of the men whose opinions are mentioned.

This article is of more than usual interest and value to the American public and constitutes a survey of business conditions and prospects that should hearten every reader.

Other striking news-features in the January 8 number of THE DIGEST are:

scott—FAIRBAIRN.

December 31 was the occasion of a pretty wedding which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott, 34 Bruce street, Betty, daughter of Mrs. Fairbairn, Calton Hill, Edinburgh, Scotland, becoming the bride of Mr. George Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott, this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. A. Symington of Knox Presbyterian Church. The bride was charming in her wedding gown of ivory crepe de chine, with bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and bouquet of white roses and narcissi. Miss Annie Fairbairn, her sister, in a pretty frock of navy taffeta and corsage of roses and narcissi, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. R. H. Jeffrey was best man. "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. James Hamilton, and during the signing of the register, Miss Oille Suhr sang "O Promise Me."

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, the house being prettily decked with palms and flowers. Pink and white roses were used on the bride's table, where in the centre was the beautiful cake, the gift of General and Mrs. Panet. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside on Bruce street. The home of Mrs. D. C. McNaughton, Dufferin avenue, was thrown open last night to the girls of the Y. W. C. A. industrial clubs, when she received there in their honor. MANY OLD SCORES TO BE SETTLED IN 500-MILE STAKES

Europe Still Smarting Under Last Year's Defeat.

Indianapolis, Jan. 5.—The curtain has been rung up on the Ninth Interaonal 500-Mile Sweepstakes, to be run the historic bricks of the Indianapon the historic pricks of the simulation of the bills Motor Speedway, the world's greatest race course, on May 30, 1921.

Five hundred entry blanks have been listributed to prospective contestants in a half dozen countries that are expected to send delegations into the fray, hlef among them France, England, Italy and the United States.

Rules for the contest will remain subtantially the same as this year, limiting the piston displacement of cars to ing the piston displacement of cars to 183 cubic inches and the weight to 1,650 pounds, minus ballast, gas and oil.

The same rules have been adopted by the Automobile Club of France for the revival of the French Grand Prix, to be run in the latter part of July or early in August, 1921. This will enable European entrants to prepare for both contests at the same time, and is expected to result in the largest field from overseas that has yet faced the starter in an Indianapolis championship event.

Old Scores.

Europe has some old scores to settle

Europe has some old scores to settle in the 1921 struggle for international speed supremacy. Supremely confident, she entered the Indianapolis tourney of this year, only to receive her worst setback since 1912, when Joe Dawson wrested championship laurels from her grasp at the wheel of his flying National.

Gaston Chevrolet, of late lamented memory, kicked the dope bucket into smithereens when he led the trailing European field over the wire in this year's classic, driving a Monrie.

Europe le still smarting under this defeat, which to her had seemed impossible, and consequently her preparations for 1921 are proceeding on a broader and more comprehensive scale than ever before. Foremost among the celebrated European racing teams that are expected to make the journey across the Atlantic in an endeavor to retrieve lost laurels are the French Peugeot and Ballot, the Italian Fiat and the English Sunbeam.

This quartet is of such formidability and demonstrated power as to warrant the most serious thought and preparation on the part of America's defenders, if they would repeat their triumph of the season now closed.

England's celebrated field at Hurling-ham.

That neither British nor American pole authorities or players possess any great over-confidence is best demonstrated by the thoroughness of the properatory campaigns mapped out for both teams. British ponies expected to be used in the international matches have been in training or at finishing schools for more than a month, while a consignment of fifty American ponies leaves here for England in a day or so aboard a vessel specially equipped for their safe transport. This will afford plenty of time in which to insure the accimation of our mounts.

Will Cobb Be Good Manager?
The question is being asked whether Ty Cobb will be a good manager.
There is a difference of opinion as to whether he will succeed or not. Some say that Ty is too temperamental to make a good manager. Others say that if the Georgia Peach is given a free hand he will become a fine leader, for there are few, if any, players who know more baseball than he does.

If Cobb. like Tris Speaker, is able to restrain his temperament, to rule with a blend of kindliness and sturdy aggressiveness, he should lead the

PUBLIC SCHOOL HOCKEY LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

Twenty Teams Expected to Be En tered-Rinks Secured.

Definite steps in the organization of public school hockey league were taken at a meeting called for the purpose in the board room of the public utilities the board room of the public utilities commission on Thursday afternoon.

The league, it is said, will be operated in a manner similar to that followed in 1920. There will be at least 20 teams in the league, the same number that competed for the cup won by the Riverview School team last year. Games will be played on Thames Park, Queen's Park and Victoria Park rinks. The public utilities commission has authorized the playing of the league's games on these areas.

LABOR CRISIS IN ENGLAND

Analysis of Workers' Strength Indicates No Early Control of Governme nt by Them.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—In watching labor developments in England during the past six weeks I have been constantly impressed by the equalimity with which a most serious situation was viewed by the British. Troubles in Ireland and India, disaccord with France, muddle with Russia, heavy debts, huge taxes, local and national, and declining trade, all capped by a threatened strike that might cause a paralysis of all industry, would strike the average American as combining to create a desperate situation. But the British either do not have, or knew how to conceal, morbid thoughts. When things were at their worst a Britisher calmly commented as follows: "Generally speaking there is nothing essentially unsound with labor in Great Britain. With the disappearance of profiteering a fall in the price of commodities and more stable economic conditions unrest should gradually decrease. Extremists are hoping to increase their ranks by the threatened extension of unemployment and the best things that could happen would be for employers and trade union leaders to co-operate to pilot industry through the troubled waters which lie immediately ahead so that a fair course may again be set as speedily as possible. The like calmness was encountered everywhere, though nobody could quite make it clear how Labor could go on putting wages up through the power of organization without destroying Britain's ability to compete in international trade, to say nothing of the effect on the home population through further increase in the cost of living. But British habits of thought have been formed not only out of phlegmatic temperament but also by ingrained confidence in 'he strangth and recuperative power of the rease in the cost of living. But British habits of thought have been formed not only out of phlegmatic temperament but also by ingrained confidence in the strength and recuperative power of the country based on past experience. This wast empire with its interlocking political and business system and its varied resources has always been able to overcome its difficulties. If things have gone wrong in certain particulars there were enough things going right to maintain the momentum which carried the country forward. There were hundreds of sources to supply sustenance. These historic conditions have authorized that sense of superiority which enables England to treat her troubles as a mere passing phase. But a lookeron wonders whether the great war has not altered world conditions to such an extent as to make this attitude of mind unsafe. Would it not be better if England had worried just a little bit more about Ireland? Can she continue to "ease along" with Labor without incurring the danger of losing her place in the industrial competition? Whatever may befall, "laissez faire" will be the British policy. Among the continue to the British policy.

Can she continue to "ease along" with Labor without incurring the danger of losing her place in the industrial competition? Whatever may befall, "laissez faire" will be the British policy. Among all the people I have talked to I haven't found any advocate of fighting it out to a finish with labor. In fact, every mention of a beiligerent policy was received depreactingly.

The industrial Ferment.

Careful students of the labor and trade union movements and of the psychology of the workers in this country are convinced of two things. There will not within the present generation be any genuninely proletarian attempt at revolution on a grand scale, and there will not within the present generation be an pseudinely proletarian attempt at revolution on a grand scale, and there will not within the out-pume of the economic stitute ation. The cost of living has persistent, by outstripped advances of wages concerned in maintaining a "decent standard of existence." Communists, Bolshevlets and the entirely selfsh preach ers of syndicalism have sought to turn discontent. created by conditions of others. In every world in discontent, created by conditions of others are still employers who seem unable to learn anything from the expensions. shevists and the entirely selfish preachers of syndicalism have sought to turn discontent, created by conditions which could scarcely have been avoided, into channels which might further their own extreme plans, but they have met with a very small measure

The fact which continually defeats the agitation of extremists is that trade unionism is powerfully influenced by the innate conservatism of the British race. The membership and power of the trade unions have increased enormously in recent years, but the trade unionism is powerfully influenced by the linnate conservation of the Britade unions have increased movement which has brought trade union organization to its present states of strength and efficiency has been in the eighteenth century through a strength and efficiency has been in the eighteenth century through a strength and efficiency has been in the eighteenth century britade and counter-petitions reveal and the existence of journeymen's association of the movement in the eighteenth century period may be in a particular industries which culminated in the comprehensive statute of 1795 of the acts against combinations in particular industries which culminated in the comprehensive statute of 1795 of the acts against combinations in particular trades. There are still employers who seem unable to learn anything from the experience of others. In certain trades where the workers were unable to help themselves the state has had to interfere to secure for them a subsistence wage. This is done through the medium of trade boards. The boards are set up under an act of parliament designed to secure the fixing of minimum rates of wages for stated industries. Each board consists of representatives of the employers and the workpeople in the trade, together with several persons (usually three) appointed by the idinister of labor. Apart from their primary

The British way of allowing agitators to blow off all the steam they wish works out well in practice. Wild works shouted in Hyde Park no Sunday afternoon are mostly lost in the air. FRENCH TELEGRAMS SENT THROUGH MAILS

Officers Unable to Cope With Increasing Flood to European Countries.

PARIS, Jan. 6. — French telegraphic officials are worried by their inability to find a real method for handling the everincreasing number of dispatches for European countries. According to the statistics presented at the last conference of postofice employees, it was shown that more than a thousand messages had been sent in one day by mail instead of over the land wires to Marseilles despite the fact that as much as half a franc a word was paid by the senders.

call a franc a word was paid by the senders.

On December 19, 500 messages for Turin, Italy, which had been handed in two days previously remained unsent until the postoffice inaugurated a special bag for telegrams. The same day 1,000 dispatches, many of an urgent nature, likewise were mailed to Milan, 3,000 to Rome and 500 to Florence.

Thousands of telegrams are sent to London daily by aeroplane instead of telegraph. According to some officials, the failure to handle the situation is due to the inability of the Government to see the wisdom of scrapping the wornout apparatus, an unusually slow dupil-cating keyboard type established forty years ago, and installing fast American vibratory keys, although that would necessitate training the operators and probably would result in a demand for higher wages as technicians than is now paid to the youths who are able to masid to the youths who are able to mas-the older system.

DEFLATION ON WANE?

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The belief that business readjustment and deflation is "more than half completed" and that "the worst is over," was expressed by Alba B. Johnson, president of the Philadelphia and Pennsylvania chambers of commerce, in an address before the Boston Chamber of Commerce today.

"Is it not good business as well as good patriotism to start buying now, to set the wheels of industry once more into motion, to relieve unemployment and to spread the improvement of conditions over a longer period? Let me warm you not to wait too long," he said.

BERLIN IN THROES OF STRUGGLE FOR Landlords Must Delve Into Savings to Meet Expense of Upkeep.

Berlin, Jan. 6 .- A Socialist deputy in the Reichstag made a point of it that Countess Wartensleben had a 24-room house standing empty in the Tiergartrasse, while she herself lived on estate outside the city. The 24 rooms of Countess Wartensleben inrooms of Countess Wartensieven Instantly became the sensation of Berlin. The newspapers devoted columns to them, and the municipal housing office had to make a public explanation how this could be. It could, because Countess Wartensieven had signed bogus contracts with relatives and had sworn that the relatives were living in her 24 rooms, even the relatives furnishing affidavits to the same effect. And now the 24 rooms have been confiscated by the city and are being partitioned off to make homes for six families.

But the 24 rooms of Countess Wartensieven will not help the other 40,000 families waiting for homes, nor is it likely that many other Countesses Wartensieven will not help the other 40,000 families waiting for homes, nor is it likely that many other Countesses Wartensieven have signed bogus contracts with their absent relatives.

Berlin is overcrowded, and it is in no worse plight for houses than other German cities. The population is increasing, and virtually no houses are being built.

"During the twelve years that I suffered with indigestion and stomach trouble I tried nearly every medicine I heard about, but nothing helped me and I lost faith in everything. So, my wonderful restoration to health has been one of the greatest suprises of my life.

"I began to feel an improvement on finishing my second bottle of Tanlac, and now after taking six bottles I am like a new woman. I have a splendid appetite, eat three hearty meals a day, enjoy them thoroughly and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or any other disagreeable after effects.

many is going through a great unconscious upheaval, trying to adjust all its inflated prices to the world market standard. And the Government in spite of it is trying to keep rents down. In Berlin a pound of meat costs only a fourth or a third less than it does in Paris or Seattle. And so does a ton of coal or a cord of wood. But rent, figured in world currency, costs one-fifteenth as much. That is because the state does not permit a new contract to be made for a rental more than 30 per be made for a rental more than 30 per cent above the peace time level—30 in-

Landlords Walt and Lose.
It might be supposed that a la with forty thousand prospective tenants waiting at his door was enjoying an enviable blessing. But, no, he is digging into his saving to pay upkeep and biding his time until the Government policy has defeated itself. The only relief the state has granted him is freedom from the obligation to heat his house. The renters have to supply the furnace themselves either by committee action or by paying the landlord the price of coal.

The policy of the Government is the result of fear. Should rents go up to anything like world market prices ninetenths of the population could not pay the bill. The whole wage scale is figured to a cheap rental. If rents rise, th forty thousand prospective tenants the bill. The whole wage scale is figured to a cheap rental. If rents rise, wages must be increased not in one or two branches, but universally. And that means another series of fights between groups and individuals, another series of strikes, another struggle against the exploitation of the situation by profiteers. The state prefers to keep the capital of the capital of the employers. It is safer for society, at least for the is safer for society, at least for the is safer for society, at least for the present.

The renters have formed a league which embraces a strong representation of all apartment house tenants. And this league is aggressively resisting every concession to the landlords. It has able paid leaders, and as a body the householders have political power. They have no trouble keeping on the alert. The average German city resident is too close to bagkruptey to bear paying his landlord another pfeunig. It does not bother him that the landlord's capital is working at a loss; or that 40.000 home hunters are on the waiting list, or that nobody will erect new houses without a guaranteed profit on the investment.

The end of the story is yet to be written. But an end must come, unless the population stops increasing or more houses are built. At preesnt it is a situation of bitter hatged. The landlord, the tenant, and the house-hunter are caught in a perolexing confusion of passions. The girl at the housing office shakes her fist at the tired official in the yellow stained uniform, the league of renters goes on calling mass meetings, the landlords go on writing letters to the newscapers, and paying for upkeep out of their savings, or refuse to, and let the one-time famous Berlin apartment houses grow dingy and unkempt.

After exhaustive experiments before the finedical faculty the theory that any mechanical interference such as displacement of the centre of gravity has been definitely discarded by doctors and physicists who are almost ready to believe they are on the eve of new discoveries in powers of inhibition or objective suggestion which are possessed by everyone, but have never before been noticed.

Only one husky Frenchman, Cadine, the Olympic champion weight lifter, has so far been able to budge Coulon. This feat is explained by the latter as "in-

ELDERLY people know how much more difficult it is to avoid the ill effects of chronic constipation. The stomach and bowel muscles relax as age advances, and as you are naturally less active, in time they work only by stimulation. You try dieting and exercise, and then take medicine.

All medicines, however, are not suited to elderly people any more than to children, so you will be glad to know of a par-

Charles Nordmann, the great military rathematician, who personally conducted a score of experiments, discards the gradity hypothesis, as he found Coulon was just as immovable when the fullest force was applied as when merely touched. M. Nordmann inclines to the belief that it is a question of the projection of will power, as he noticed that when the boxer at a given signal ceased to exert his will he was lifted with the utmost ease, although he had not changed the position of his fingers.

Academy Will Get Report.

Dr. Ruffler, one of the earliest interested in the physical phenomenon, noticed on certain occasions that a similar result was obtained when he held merely a sheet of paper or a towel between Coulon and the lifters. The thoroughness of the scientific inquiry which has been made is shown by M. Nordmann's report, which will be transmitted to the Academy of Sciences next month. He shows that Coulon remained riveted to the floor even when the lifter formed the central figure in a chain of six or eight spectators, the sunject touching merely the persons who formed the extreme ends of the chain.

This, he belleves, proved conclusively

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Johnny Coulon, an American boxer, has held the limelight in Paris affairs for more than a week now while the greatest French savants are trying to explain why the nation's strongest men are unable to lift a hair's breath off the floor once Coulon touches them lightly behind the ear and on the right pulse.

And as it is not a question of voluntary hypnotism, as Coulon does not respond to any ordinary psychical tests of this nature, it is believed that the future will reveal an ability in every one to direct physical force without exertion, merely by the projection of mind power.

Staggering Salaries Compared With Poor Ones of War Heroes.

Germany's Ability To Pay Cannot Be Stretched Too Far, Is Warning.

PARIS, Jan. 6.-That the French press is beginning to realize the burden of the League of Nations, at least from the financial point of view, is shown in a recent article by M. Raymond Recouly in the Paris Figaro wherein he reviews in his customary brilliance of style the ease with which international diplomatists of the League of Nations waste the public's money. His views will undoubtedly coincide with the opinion of many Americans who have taken the time to study the league's organization from the standpoint of its annual cost. M. Recouly said:

"We have often protested against the waste of public money, and the orgy of spending which is raging in the majority of ministries and administrations These disastrous habits are a legacy of the war. But the war, were it not an excuse, might even be invoked as an

the war. But the war, were it not an excuse, might even be invoked as an excuse, might even be invoked as an extenuating circumstance were it not for the fact that the war has been finished for more than two years. Nevertheless the waste continues.

"A very remarkable report by M. Noblemaire regarding the expenditures of the League of Nations has given us a few figures which are specially impressive and which surely merit the closest attention of the public.

A Costly institution.

"One might say of the League of Nations as Aesop said of the tongue that it is capable of much good just as it is capable of much evil. Its gravest fault lies in the fact that it, for many questions is too closely interwoven with the treaty of Versailles. The realization of peace was one thing; construction of a league of peoples was another. The first was born of the past and present; the second, above all, concerns the future. Reason and common sense urge us not to counfound the two. But that was the great idea, the whim of President Wilson; England, finding material advantages in it, sustained it with all her force and secured its adoption.

"Beneficent or otherwise, the League of Nations is going to be, in any case, a most costly institution. Judge for yourself! It has at its head a secretary-general, Sir Eric Drummond, who receives £10,000 a year, which under present exchange is not far from 600,000 francs. No ambassador, not even of the richest country in the world in the most expensive capital of the world, attains anywhere near a salary so of the richest country in the world in the most expensive capital of the world, attains anywhere near a salary so royal. Let us note, by the way, that one of the articles of the pact stipulates that the aforesaid secretary-general shall be elected periodically by the league. This article up to the present has been absolutely disregarded. It is to be honed that it will be applied shortly. For if these high salaries are to be maintained—and we ardently hope to the contrary—it is better that a certain roone to direct physical force without exertion, merely by the projection of mind power.

An interesting phase in this thesis is found in the suggestion of certain doctors that Coulon's discovery may even result in the explanation of ancient incidents where vital force restored invalids merely by the laying on of hands, which was used with great effect in the early days of the Christian era and even by certain practitioners in America's early history.

Coulon's one regret is that he falled to make use of his power on the stage before he started the present sensation. He has suffered himself to be grasped by sinewy hands at least a thousand times since he first made his declaration. His sides have been painfully crushed and grazed almost to the bleeding point after some experiments when investigators anxiously tried to after his equilibrium by the excessive squeezing of the short ribs.

But if Coulon is not gaining by his experience, other French actors are not letting the grass grow under their feet. At least five vaudeville theatres already have billed for next week so-called strong men, who defy the audiences to lift them off the boards a la Coulon. Meanwhile interest in Coulon's feat is growing so fast that it is not uncommon to see passengers in subways demonstrating that they are as good as Coulon.

maintained—and we ardently hope to the contrary—it is better that a certain rotation should be established in order that such manna, in comparison with which that of Moses was indeed worthless, does not fall forever on the same heads.

Many Fancy Salaries. Many Fancy Salaries.

"Then come two undersecretariesgeneral, each receiving £4,000, or more than 200,000 francs; then another undersecretary acting, on occasions, as secretary-general. This one, one of our compatriots, M. Jean Mounet, is paid £5,000, particles, M. Jean Mounet, is paid £5,000, or nearly 300,000 francs. I have not the honor of M. Jean Mounet's acquaintance. I am convinced that he is a most distinguished gentleman, whose merits cannot be small, judging by the manner in which they are compensated. But nelwhich they are compensated. But neither his distinction nor his merits would be in the least diminished if his salary were reduced by half; if he agreed to earn but 150,000 francs a year, or as much as the best paid of our ambassadors and two and a half times as much as our ministers.

"Following this we find six directors who are paid 100,000 to 150,000 francs; among these there are two of our compatriots, one of whom, before the war, was a journalist, the other a college professor. 'After the general staff come forty-eight members of various commissions—political, administrative, judicial—with average salaries of from £1,000 to £1,500; then a host of more humble peronages who receive from £500 to £1,000.

"We have in France three marshals whose names and glory will dominate history, who by their military genius have saved our country and civilization. Well, there is not the humblest scribe of the League of Nations whose salary is not as high as those of these illustrious soldiers.

is not as high as those of these illustrious soldiers.

"I have reserved for the climax the international labor bureau, which is a dependence of the league. At its head, and dominating by far all the rest, is its director, M. Albert Thomas, with a salary of £6,000-more than 300,000 francs. When M. Albert Thomas, the Socialist deputy, works, you can see that it is not for nothing!

Need of Serious Revision.

"All these salaries, the last more than the rest, are veritably scandalous. It is costing our budget (and France is only one of the twenty odd participating nations) the round sum of three billions a year. In addition they have advised us that this contribution will be insufficient and that it will have to be incient and that it will have to be in-

"Objection may be made that the bad condition of our exchange gives a momentary overvaluation to these emoluments. But our franc, alas, everything makes us fear, will require a long time to recover and even if the accounting is not made in pounds sterling the ma-jority of these salaries demand a very serious revision.

Democratic opponents of the bill pointed out that they, with the aid of Senator Penrose, had succeeded in getting open hearings and expressed confidence that the story of "the other side" would carry sufficient weight to make passage difficult, if possible at all. They added that they hoped to annex so many amendments to the present bill that the House would reject it in conference, thereby defeating any tariff legislation until the extra session.

Hears Witnesses.

While the Senate committee was holding its initial hearings and while senators were attempting to assess the effect of Senator Penrose's statement, the House ways and means committee heard more than twenty witnesses on revision of the present Underwood tariff act. The House committee took up schedule A, and the witnesses discussed from technical standpoints questions of higher import duties on chemicals, paints and oils, which are included under the first division of the Underwood law.

ACCIDENTS COME TO THE DESERVING

The science of electromagnetism, which now plays such an important part in medicine, is just 100 years old, as it dates from what is called "Oersted's Experiment." "It was during the winter of 1819-1820," says the Journal of the American Medical Association, "that Oersted observed that a wire uniting the ends of a voltaic battery affected a magnet placed in its vicinity, and after prosecuting his inquiries some months later, in July, 1920, he published his Latin quiries some months later, in July, 1920, he published his Latin tract, 'Experimenta circa effectum Conflictus Electrici in Acum Magneticum.' It is interesting to know that this distinguished Danish physicity where know that this distinguished Danish physicist, who was a professor at the University of Copenhagen, where the centenary of his great discovery has just been fittingly celebrated, was the son of a country apothecary and originally studied medicine. Thus, like many others who have achieved distinction in science, Oersted began his career with ambitions for a knewledge of medical disciplines. His observations, connecting electricity with magnatism in ways retains with magnetism in ways not anticipated before the 'Oersted experiment,' are a lasting monument.
"It has been said that Oersted stumbled upon his discovery by sheer accident. The answer, given to a similar remark about Newton, is illuminating: 'Such accident's only meet persons who deserve them.'"

Anti-Glare Headlight Regulations Are Now in Effect.

A long, dark alley, a long garage without windows, or windows that can be tightly closed, or some other kind of be tignify closed, or some other kind of building which will serve for testing the various new anti-glare headlight fixtures, required under the anti-glare motor vehicle legislation, is being sought by C. EE. Bernard, secretary of the London Motor Club.
In Detroit the police commissioners In Detroit the police commissioners solved the problem by erecting on Malcolm street a long dark sheet-iron building through which motorists drive, and if their headlights are all right, stickers to this effect are pasted on the windshield as the cars emerge from the testing tunnel. In London the matter, is being left entirely to the Motor Club, and official certificate will be issued to motorists whose headlights are satisfactory.

The result of the test will only enable the motorist unofficially to feel satisfied that the anti-glare device which he has installed on his car is correct. Possibly, however, this might stand in his favor, should the police afterwards find fault with his headlight, and hale him into court under the act.

QUEBEC'S MOVE FOR PROHIBITION PLEASES SPENCE

Toronto, Jan. 7.—The intention of the Quebec Government to bring down a bill at the next session to absolutely prohibit the exportation of liquor for any purpose and to bring vendors under Government control will meet with the decided approval and sympathy of the Dominion Alliance, according to the Rev. Ben Spence today.

"I knew it was coming." he "I knew it was coming," he said when the dispatch from Ottawa was read to him, "and I must say that the fact that the Quebec Government has come to a realization that that province is the but for the North American the bar for the North American continent, and the stamping ground for the hoodlum element is exceedingly encouraging." KIWANIAN SPEAKER

Kingship of Service Is Keynote of Kiwanis Club, He Declares.

"Kingship of service is the keynote and initial letter of the Kiwanis Club." This was the thought which today's speaker, Rev. (Capt.) Jeakins, Brantford, put before the members of the club at their first weekly luncheon in the Tecumseh House today. There was a splendid attendance, and Alf. Mitchell, president, occupied the chair.

Capt. Jeakins was a chaplain in France during the great war, and his frousing address was interspersed with apt illustrations and racy stories drawn from his experiences of soldiering. After congratulating the members of the club on making such a magnificent start, Capt. Jeakins proceeded to elucidate the significance of each letter of the word "K-i-w-a-n-i-s." The fdeal of service, he said, had been superbly consecrated by our fighting men in France, and this kingship of service was the master key to all our living and thinking.

There was no danger of crumbling thrones so far as the British Empire was concerned, so long as it possessed men of the type of King George and the Prince of Wales.

"The speaker then dealt with each letter in turn. "I" stands for the word "international," and in this connection he deplored the dangerous propaganda which was going on in the United States and overseas for the disruption of the Empire. "W" stands for the poison of Bolshevism, unrest and chaos. "A" for "aim"—some definite purpose in life, an aimless man being of no use to any community. "N" represents "nonsense"—in the spirit of "a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men," and it also stands for "neighborliness." "I" signifies "independence," and embraces the spirit of unity for one great purpose, and, finally, said Capt. Jeakins, "S" stands for the gospel of "smiles," optimism being a great asset to the businessmen of London.

The speaker was warmly cheered for his stirring address, and the "lions" Toared their loydes."

The speaker was warmly cheered for his stirring address, and the "lions" roared their loudest.

SPLITTING ATOMS IS A WEARYING TASK

How delicate and difficult is the task of breaking up the atom of nitrogen is indicated by some remarks of Er. E. Regner in an article translated from Die Umschau (Frankfortam-Main) for the Scientific American monthly. The method was devised by Sir Ernest Rutherford, the distinguished English scientist, and consists of bombarding nitrogen atoms with helium atoms and observing on a scintillation screen the flashes caused by the collisions. When an alpha particle (helium) directly strikes the nucleus of a nitrogen atom, this is decomposed and the portion liberated is apparently the nucleus of a hydrogen atom.

Dr. Ragner says "the method of observation of the scintillations (at present the only one) is so wearisome, in the exact sense of the word, that the development of further investigation must necessarily be very sloy. Rutherford himself declares that no one can perform this task of counting for more than one minute at a time and then giving the eye one minute of rest."

The details of this epoch-making experiment are too complex to be entered into here, but its The details of this epoch-making experiment are too complex to be entered into here, but its far-reaching significance may be stated. It seems to prove that nitrogen is not a simple element, as has been supposed, for it contains hydrogen. This revives the old hypothesis of Prout that all elements are composed of contains hydrogen. This revives the old hypothesis of Prout that all elements are composed of hydrogen. We know that the atoms of the radio-active elements—radium, uranium, etc., contain helium, and it is probable that other elements also contain it—carbon and iron, for example, which do not seem to contain hydrogen.

Thus we have learned how to decompose the atoms of certain elements, even to decompose the nucleus of the atom. This is the nucleus of the atom. This seem it must not be supposed that we are yet ready to go on to decompose these atoms and thus make gold out of lead or platinum out of carbon. This seems still far away in the future, but who knows what the creat scientists who are working on the problem of the atom may yet discover?

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Further recovery was made by Atlantic Sugar on the stock exchange this morning, following its sudden revival yesterday afternoon. Assuming the leadership of the market the sugar stock soon led the entire list to higher levels. Brazilian, which has been steadily climbing during the present week, was the only exception, belated profit-taking resulting in fractional depression.

Sugar soon ran up to 27½ on sales of 25-share lots, but eased off to 26% toward the end of the morning for a net gain of 1½. C. P. R. was stronger, closing for an advance of ½. Steamship issues held steady.

In the unlisted section Whalen Pump jumped 3% to 25c, and Brompton added a large fraction.

Victory bonds were strong.

MORGANS HOUSE POULTRY FEEDS

CATALOGUES Morgan's Scratch Feed and Lay Feed are put up under government analysis. You therefore know that you are getting feed with egg-producing qualities. Nothing but the best of grains, sweet and clean. Mixed right to give the best results. Do not pay high prices for feeds because someone hands you a beautiful catalogue, full of testimonials and other junk on how to raise chickens. These testimonials and catalogues cost a lot of money, and you pay for them. Try an order from us.

Take a cupful and a half of steamed and strained pumpkin, two-thirds of a moved, and the inner part of the rind cut into small pieces and bolled until tender, in a very little water. Steaming is really better than boiling, and a double boiler may very easily be used. When soft the pumpkin is put through a sieve, and beaten eggs, milk, sugar and spice are added to make the pie filling. Following is a good recipe, but the spices may, of course, be altered to suit individual preference, and for a richer pie an extra egg yolk may be added.

Take a cupful and a half of steamed and strained pumpkin, two-thirds of a cupful of brown sugar, a teaspoonful each of salt and ginger, two eggs, a cupful and a half of milk, and half a cutful of cimnamon, half a teaspoonful each of salt and ginger, two eggs, a cupful and a half of milk, and half a cutful of brown sugar, a teaspoonful of cimnamon, half a teaspoonful each of salt and ginger, two eggs, a cupful and a half of milk, and half a cutful of cream. Mix them in the order given and bake in one crust. Only an undercrust is necessary, though strips of thin crust across the top are good. The oven should be fairly hot, and the pie dates soon after it is baked. If whipped cream, soon after it is baked. If whipped cream or a meringue of two egg whites beaten stiff, with two tablespoonfuls of how beaten stiff, with two tablespoonfuls of how powdered sugar, browned in the oven, it is spread on pumpkin ple, the comes a real delicacy.

Doctors are just people. Most doctors are, at any rate. Some are not so just. I have prescribed and administered my share of calomel in my time. I used to accept what the medical fathers passed on down, and without even thinking of questioning their traditions. I used to dole out some calomel to almost every patient I attended; you know, a wee bit of a tiny teenty dose every hour or half tended; you know, a wee bit of a tiny teenty dose every hour or half hour for a day—something to keep the mother or nurse out of mischief while I was watting to see what alled the patient. while I was waiting to see what alled the patient. Not only that. I really harbored the fancy that somehow the little course of calomel at the outset would sort of cheer up all the organs and put them in a proper receptive mood for any further abuse I might feel constrained to thrust upon them as the illness progressed.

TO GRAND FOR SPECIAL RETURN ENGAGEMENT.

The annual engagement of Mr. F. Stuart Whyte's English pantomime at the Grand Opera. House will be the outstanding event of the season with a great majority of local playgoers.

Mr. Whyte brought his first company to Canada five years ago and each production since then has been more elaborate than its immediate predecessor. This season the fairy legend of "The Babes in the Wood" has been chosen as the background for Mr. Whyte to draw the series of brilliant scenic and costuming displays, which together with the usual bevy of stunning girls and abundance of clean comedy has gone to make the name of this clever British producer stand for all that is wholesome in theatrical entertainments.

"Babes in the Wood" will be the attraction at the Grand for one night only. Thursday evening next, January 13. Seats go on sale Monday morning next at 9 a.m.

AT LOEW'S.

"Doug" Fairbanks never got a greater reception during his whole European trip than London movie fans accorded him when his first picture since returning to America, "The Mark of Zorro," was shown at Loew's for the first time Thursday. They had good reason to welcome him, for it is undoubtedly his best picture from all standpoints, and particularly it brings

1921 Shoe Prices

January Announcement

E have taken stock of our entire store and have readjusted our prices to meet the present costs, which are much lower than when we purchased these shoes. It means hundreds of dollars loss to us, but we must keep on doing business, so are forced to meet the new conditions by reducing our prices to what we can replace them for.

THIS MEANS FROM ONE TO THREE DOLLARS A PAIR OFF OUR MEN'S AND WOMEN'S SHOES.

We are not having our regular January sale this year, as we are taking this method of keeping our sales up to previous years. We thank our many customers for their patronage, and assure you we will keep up the same high standard of Shoes and service during 1921.

Yours truly.
