Ottawa, Oct. 22.-Prorogation will be reached by Saturday evening at the latest. That is the expectation cherished last night Mr. Borden has expressed himself favorable to that course. It would be difficult to retain Senators and members beyond that time, as they are slipping away daily, and soon only a corporal's guard will be left.

The Senate made rapid progress, and cleared the order paper of all business save a few items, which will be taken up to-morrow. The redistribution bill, after all the tempest raised about it in the Commons, was read a third time and passed without a

A Delightful Musical and Liter ary Treat-Those who Took Part-Legend of the

An otherwise magnificent entertainment was marred and the entire effect ruined by reason of the negligence of the Electric Light Company in not having advised the ladies at an earlier hour of the accident that occured to their engine. There was no electric light and the Gas Company failed in their supply just as the program was about to open.

The entertainment given under such unfavorable circumstances was in itself a success. The subject chosen by the class for illustration was the Holy Grail. The essays were most interesting, and those of the literary cult in the audience followd the subject with intense interest. The musical part of the program vas, as ft always is, a pronounced uccess, Miss Edmondson graduated with first class honors, receiving a gold medal and diploma. The "Monstaloat Bells," given by the singing class, was an echo of the essay just read and the "Distant Chimes," in which Olive and Laura Mather sang the duet, prepared for the dramatic reading of the legend the Grail as treated by the Italian poets. Miss Gavin did splendid work n her two solos. Her beautiful soprano rang out clear and sweet in the song of triumph. Anna Carson, Mabelle Parker and Bessie Brackin deserve special mention. Their ensemble work was carefully and artistically done. It is to be regretted that the teachers of the city could not have been present, the concert having been at too early an hour, but at the request of some the "Grail" story may be repeated on some future occasion. The program

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—A shooting ac-cident happened at Mr. Bulman's shooting box, near High Bluff, by which Harry A. Bexer, manager for Merrick, Anderson & Co., hardware merchants, met with instant death. Mr. Boxer was shooting with several companions, when one of them named Bulman aimed at a duck beyond the canoe in which Boxer was sitting He gave warning that he was about to shoot, but just as he pulled the trig-ger Boxer stood erect in the canoe and received the full charge in the top of the head. Boxer was knocked into the marsh, and when the body was recov-ered life was extinct. The victim was one of Winnipeg's finest young men.

A Furious Attack on the Press Representatives.

New York, Oct. 22.—During Dr Dowie's sermon in Madison Square Garden to-day a number of students marched out in squads. Dr. Dowie was forced to stop, and, after he began again, he was interrupted by a college yell from outside the garden, ending with "Dowie, Dowie,"

"They are like most of the students

Reporters were excluded from the hall to-day. Dr. Dowie's orders to his guards being to "clear the tainted vipers out of here. Be careful how vipers out of here. Be careful how you handle them, not to get any of their filth on you. Now get out, you mean dogs, you yellow scoundrels of the press. We will have no more of you in here. I am paying for this place, you liars. This is my building. Hurry up, guards, the sight of them disgusts me. Don't waste any restoration talk on the liars. It is useless. A squad of inspectors from the Health Department invaded Madison, Square Garden to-day and ordered sweeping changes in the method of quartering the "host." The fact that forty-three members of Dowie's followers are sick warranted the Health Department in taking action, Commissioner Lederle said.

ilton the other day that will interest you, but doubt if you will be able to believe the story. It really happened, though, for I saw it with my own eyes."

This was the extraordinary statement made by Will Coupland as he entered Turner's drug store this morning. A look of real pity crept into Will Turner's eyes, but The Planet reporter, who realized that "Copie" should be humored when he felt like that, took out his pad and "Copie" rattled on-

P. B. Fetterly and I were in Hamilton the other day and saw one of the most exciting runaways that ever happened. "Now if you know anything about Hamilton you will know that right in front of the post office there is a big telegraph pole. Well, these horses were heading straight for that telegraph pole. Owing to the heavy weight behind them they couldn't turn and the tongue of the wagon struck fairly in the centre of the pole. The horses slipped out of the harness just the same as if they had been unharnessed in their stalls and proceeded in their mad flight without a strap of harness on them"—At this point a customer who had arrived in the store just in time to hear the last sentence, made a hasty exit with a startled look on his countenance.

"Now here is the funny part of the story," continued 'Copie,' turning to the errand boy who was setting on a stool with mouth and eyes wide open. "When the tongue struck the pole, neither pole nor tongue was splintered, but the tongue pierced right through the pole as if it were a huge nail. They tried to pull it out but couldn't, and they had to cut off the tongue on either side of the pole, and if you don't believe this just go to Hamilton and you can see that piece of the tongue where it was cut off on each side of the pole."

Winnipeg Man Loses His Life While WILL THERE BE BIG DEFICIT?

Startling Rumor Concerning the Report of the Auditors on City Finances.

Said to Contain Announcement of Large Overdraft-No Definite Information Yet Obtaniable.

Although nothing has yet been announced in official circles and efforts. to secure interviews for publication are unavailing, it is generally understood that the report of Government Auditor Macpherson on the civic finances, which will shortly be submitted to the City Council, will tell a startling story. The auditors themselves will say nothing pending the formal presenting of their official report and the civic authorities profess to be quite in the dark as to its contents.

It is generally understood, however, that an immense overdraft will be reported. Rumor has it that the accumulated debt of the city will be reported at $50,000 or some figure in that neighborhood. This is an enormous deficit for Chatham to be carrying. This indebtedness extends over some ten years or thereabouts, since the last consolidation of debentures. The manner in which it has accumulated will doubtless be set forth in the report. If the facts are as reported it may require special legislation to deal with the matter.

Sentence Interviews With Busy Citizens Secured by Planet Reporters.

"You might say in your valuable paper," said a Queen street butcher to The Planet this morning, "that it wasn't a butcher on Queen street who bought that week old calf, because Queen street butchers are too wise for anything of that sort. They, know by the look of it what condition its in and how old it as and think too much of their customers to pawn anything like that off on them. "I wouldn't be surprised at any time now to hear of some one being killed now to hear of some one being killed on Wellington street, east between Prince and Princess streets," said a citizen to The Planet this morning. "There is a chasm there that should either be bridged or filled up at once as it is most dangerous. I have told the members of the Board of Works on several occasions, but they don't seem to take any notice."

"We had an awful rush this morning," said J. U. Thibodeau, of the firm of Thibodeau & Jacques, to The Planet in reference to his handkerchief sale. "There were fully seventy women and girls around before the sale had started."

"One of the prettiest and best back and front lawns in the city was overlooked by the committee which distributed the lawn prizes," was Jack M. Park's remark to The Planet this morning. "I think I have one of the prettiest lawns in the city. My back lawn is especially pretty and I don't see how it was overlooked."

MR. ROSS AND RENFREW

It is noticeable that not a single Liberal paper in Ontario has ven-tured to defend the disfranchisement of North Renfrew by the Ontario Government. They maintain a judicious silence but refuse to attempt any justification of the conduct of Ministers. They recognize that defence is impossible, but they lack either the disposition or the courage to condemn the Government's pitiful proceeding.

Muskoka and Sault Ste. Marie have been vacant for a few months only. For nearly a year and a half North Renfrew has been denied representa-tion in the Legislature. In the Sault and Muskoka elections have been ordered. No date has yet been fixed for the contest in North Renfrew. The Constitution is deliberately violated, and even the ethics of decent sport are dishonored by the Provincial Ministers. Still not one Liberal journal, nor a single member of the Liberal party; prominent or obscure, ventures to challenge the conduct of the Government and to demand loyal observance of the Constitution and fair treatment for the Parliamentary Opposition and the people of North Renfrew. Even the Liberals of the eastern constituency sacrifice the party exigencies their right to representation in the Legislature.

In Great Britain party relationships are thrown into confusion, and the existence of a powerful Administration is jeopardized by honest differences of opinion on the fiscal question. Office and patronage and the party interest count for little against principles and convictions. There they still have free speech in the press and free men in Parliament and in the constituencies. Here, where we boast of our freedom with all the fervor of the American stump, we seem to be sinking into absolute party bondage.-Toronto News (Ind).

In a moment of emotion, some time ago, the Hon. James H. Tillman, of South Carolina, killed an editor. Through the failure of the officers of the law to make allowance for the exuberance of a political temperament, and a chivalrous heart, Mr. Tillman has been forced to submit to the indignity of a trial for murder. On Monday this trial gave occasion to an affecting scene. The defendant's counsel was setting forth the early struggles, the beautiful character, the spring lamb-like nature of that much-wronged man. As Mr. Tillman heard the trle of his own virtues and sorrows, his tears gushed forth in a freshet. He wept till his feet were wet. Half the women in the courtroom wept. Several jurymen sobbed. Stern and rugged con-stables blubbered.—New York Sun.

TERSE SPEECHES. T. P.'s Weekly.

Perhaps the tersest and most effective election speech ever made was that of Mr. John Peel at Accrington, when at last, after the most urgent solicitation, he was induced to address there the electors of Northeast Lancashire. "Men of Accrington, if you are so backward in coming forward, we shall all be behind as we were before." The only deliverance comparable with this in terseness and effectiveness was the sermon of Dean Swift's, which, taking as his text, "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord," began and ended thus "Brethren, if you like the security, Everyone admits that another line of railway is required, but the question as to who will build the road, pay for it and profit by it when built, is something which calls for serious consideration. As yet the people are not enlightened at all on the question. We hear all kinds of prices that the road is going to cost. The whole question seems to be a mass of contradiction coming from men who are equally versed on the subject. We must have something tangible on the question before deciding on such a great undertaking.

THE KING'S NEW POST.

Truth. There are reasons for believing that Lord Roberts will in the near future cease to be commander-in-chief, and that he will have the distinction of being the last subject of the crown to bear the title in time of peace. It may be proposed that the King should assume the title, and if His Majesty is as successful as - nominal - commander-in-chief as he has been since his accession as voluntary philanthropist-un-chief and ambassador-inchief, the country will not have any cause to regret the change.

"You remember how largely they used to talk about inviting Sir Edward here, and the rest of the county gentry. Of course, that was to make you fancy they were on visiting terms with them, and finely they used to chuckle over it to me in private.

"But I had the laugh on them all the time. Do you remember, one night I told you a lot of stories of my college days? Well, they thought it was all 'make up,' and hugely it tickled them.

Little did they dream that all those tales were true, and that it was Trevor, the detective, who was telling them. Marjorie pressed his hand.

Marjorie pressed his hand.

"I'm glad you are," what you are," she whispered, gently. "It almost broke my heart when—"

"I know, dearest, I know. And, Mar-Jorie I've got something else to ask your pardon for. Although I'm not a thief, in the main, I've stolen something away from you."

"My bit of blue enamel!" she ex-

"My bit of blue ename: she ex-tlaimed, with an eager look. "Yes. Will you forgive me? You see, dearest, when you told me about that, I saw it was necessary for me to get it into my own possession at once. They'd have soon got it if I hadn't. I can tell you I didn't half like 'burgling' at my little girl's boxes and drawers; but I knew it would be all right in the end, and that she'd forgive me."

"Of course," said Marjorie, with another tender pressure of his hand.

After a moment or two she added, gravely:

"I am so grieved for Madeline." "So am I. At first I took it for granted that she was as bad as they; but afterwards I decided differently; and when you told me of her kindness to you, I was deeply sorry for her. "She knew I abstracted the bit of enamel from your drawer. I wanted to get some information from her, and so took her, or pretended to take her, into my confidence. She wanted the bit of enamel, but, of course, I didn't let her have it. She wanted to screen the murderer; I wanted to bring him to justice. Everything's fair in hunting such vermin down; but I can tell you I didn't like deceiving her." "Poor Madeline," sighed Marjorie. "We must do all we can for her, dear."

"We will," said Trevor, firmly.
"And it was really Edgar who killed my father?"
"Yes. He made a full confession before he died. It appears he knew your father had the notes in the house that night, and determined to rob him. "He was prowling about the window of your father's room, for he meant to get an entrance through that as soon as the light was turned down. But your father, no doubt, moved by some memory of that mysterious dream you told me of, went to the window, unfastened it, and stood for a moment looking out. The robber, who was try-ing to hide behind a tree close by, felt sure he was discovered, and in his des-peration, he stepped forward and stabbed your father to the heart. He fell where he had stood, just inside the room, against the window. Edgar secured the notes and the locket, and made good his escape, just as you came back to the room. is just nine years ago today," said Marjorie, in a low, awe-struck voice, "and he was traced by my valen-tine. Oh, how mysterious it is!"

And she shivered a little as she Her lover put his arm round her, and drew her fondly to the shelter of his strong young breast.

"Let us forget the sin and the misery, darling," he whispered. "We have brighter things to think about. This is St. Valentine's Day, sweet, and I think you know I want you for my valentine!"

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Whitney Brothers Quartet is new name to the Lyceum Committees, but it is sure to have a multitude of friends. The uniform admiration that has been expressed by the nearly one hundred audiences before which they have appeared durfore which they have appeared during the last season has placed the company safely beyond the experimental limits. A Quartet of such voices is rarely heard, but it is a close approach to the marvellous that four such voices should be found in the same family. In every Quartet it is the first tenor and the second bass that appear most conspicuously, and it is only now and then that you hear voices of such peculiar mellow and musical timbre as those of Alvin Whitney, the first tenor, and you hear voices of such peculiar mellow and musical timbre as those of Alvin Whitney, the first tenor, and Yale Whitney, the second bass, while the second tenor and first bass are admirably adapted to their parts.
The voices have all the same quality and produce the most beautiful blending. The ensemble work approaches the ideal. It is a union of nature, method and art. Individually each singer is a soloist of real merit.

Reader and Humorist. Mr. Edwin Whitney contributes largely to the success of the program by his versatility as a Reader. He has taken full course of instruction at the Emerson School of Boston, and delivers his numbers with intelligence and artistic conception and ability.
The management of the Bureau has heard this organization in several programs, and are glad to add our endorsement to its excellence, by the fact that we have contracted with the Whitney Brothers for three years.

SADIE MARTINOT IN "THE SECOND MRS. TANQUERAY.

Sadie Martinot, supported by ar excellent company, will appear at the Grand on Tuesday, Oct. 27th, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," by A. W. Pinero

A. W. Pinero has written "Iris,"

SADIE MARTINOT THE SECOND MRS TANQUERAY,

'The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith," and other similar plays, which have been eagerly sought after by the most prominent actresses of Europe and eagerly sought after by the most prominent actresses of Europe and America. The royalties exacted by Mr. Pinero have precluded the possibility of any second-rate actress assuming the part of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," which has only been played in America by Rose Coghlan, Mrs. Kendal, Olga Nethersole, Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Eleanore Duse. The reputation of Miss Sadie Martinot, Mr. Pinero, and the established status of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," which is now being presented in five European countries and languages, together with the elaborate production and capable cast of characters provided, are sufficient guarantees of an unusually pleasing dramatic performance.

Miss Martinot's superb costumes, regal stage presence, and knowledge of her art are too well known to need dilating upon. Her performance of Paula is so virile, magnetic and finished that it is hard to determine her place among the famous actresses who have essayed this difficult role, though it is conceded—by prominent critics to be in the front rank.

J. W. Mallon, Inspector of legal offices, was in the city to-day. He complimented the officials of this country on the systematic manner: in which the wor kof their offices was handled. Mr. Mallon expressed his intention of securing the adoption of the systems in vogue here, in the offices of other places, so as to have a uniform system throughout Ontario. Mr. Mallon complimented the Crown Attorney upon his conviction book. He said he considered Mr. Smith's system the best way to handle these matters that he had ever seen, and that he was going to notify all the crown attorneys in Ontario to adopt the same system.

It was Solomon—or some other wiseacre—who is alleged to have said that of making stories there is no end. Manager Brisco, of the Opera House, heard of i', so he made a story, and it's a dandy.

"Once upon a time," states Mr. Brisco, "a farmer had some stumps which he wanted to blow up, so he purchased a quantity of dynamite and hid it in a field. A pig discovered the dynamite and ate it. The hired man was out ploughing in the field and the hog kept getting in his field and the hog kept getting in his way. Now, this hired man was a cruel, heartless fellow, and kicked the dynamite-charged hog, and there was an explosion. Of course, he did not know it was loaded. When the spectators arrived they found that the horses had been killed, the plough broken, the hired man's leg had been blown broken, the hired man's leg had been shattered, the end had been blown out of the barn and the pig had almost beer killed."

"Too Much Spending Money.

"Too much spending money in boyhood starts more young men on the wrong road than any other causeperhaps than all other causes combined," said a well-known sociological expert a day or two ago. "This conclusion is the result of years devoted to the professional 'piping' of hundreds of cases of commercial dishonesty. Such an experience compels the conviction that parents are generally more responsible for the dishonesty of the boys than are the boys themselves. They cannot be legitimately construed into an excuse for the boy who goes wrong, but it should show the way to prevent moral failures from the same cause.

"It is not the young men on the vent moral failures from the same cause.

"It is not the young man who has had the hard boyhood who goes wrong. More embezzlers and defaulters come from the kindergarten of luxury and extravagance than from poverty—ten times over.

"Would you give your boy the best possible safeguard against the temptation to become dishonest? These keep his fund of spending money down to what he would have for the little personal luxuries of life if he had to earn his own living and support his own indulgences from surplus earnings."

ESTIMATES ALL VOTED.

The Campaign Literature Question Disposed of-Mr. Sifton's Report on the Boundary. Ottawa, Oct. 22.—The House managed to get through a very large amount of business, and prorogation is practically assured on Saturday at the latest. When the House adjourned all the estimates had been voted, and nothing remains upon the order paper but a few Government bills and concurrence in supply. The Premier yesterday laid upon the table the cable from Hon. Mr. Sifton, and explained by the aid of the map the effect of the Alaskan boundary award. The Opposition had a regular field day upon the question of the distribution through the mails of their campaign literature. The Premier stated that the Postmaster-General had ordered a thousand terms with his cash of the ca literature. The Premier stated that the Postmaster-General had ordered a thousand new mail bags to relieve the situation, and later it was learned that two special trains will leave in the morning to carry away the accumulation of literature. The House opened with evidence of extraordinary interest in the Alaskan boundary case. Before the orders of the day were called, Sir Wilfrid Laurier read the following cablegram from Hon, Clifford Sifton: "London, Oct. 20.—To Laurier, Ottawa. Award signed to-day by Chief Justice and Commissioners Root, Lodge and Turner, being under treaty binding majority. Line commences at Cape Muzon, goes directly to southern entrance of channel between Wales and Sitklan Islands, proceeding northward between said islands to Portland Channel, thence along the middle of Portland Channel to its head; from there line formed by going from peak to peak of mountains, distance from tidal water varying from ten to thirty miles, speaking generally. When opposite Thomas Bay, line stops undefined from there to point about niteen miles north of head of Taku Inlet; thence follows summits peaks of mountains about northwestward to White. Pass, follows summits of White and Chilcoot Passes, thence by peaks of mountains to Mount Fairweather, passes close to police post summits of White and Chilcoot Passes, thence by peaks of mountains to Mount Fairweather, passes close to police post situated near Klehini River. In this course the line will be from eighty to twenty miles north of the provisional boundary line, from Fairweather a short distance northward, and then on a fairly direct course to the rear of Yakutat Bay, thence from peak to peak by somewhat circuitous route to Mount Elias. Marked map follows to-morrow. (Signed) Sifton."

Sir Wilfrid said the telegram alone would give little information, but the presentation of maps would show the situation. He thereupon opened a large would give inthe information, but the situation. He thereupon opened a large map upon the table of the House and at once there was a rush of members from their seats to the centre of the room. Thirty-two of the people's representatives swarmed around the table, listening to the explanation of the Premier, who pointed out the new boundary line and the situation around the Portland Canal. Mr. Gourley stood next and manifested unusual anxiety, while Mr. Borden and a host of his other followers stood over the table their arms reaching out for support. In reply to a question by Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid was heard to say:—"That's what I can't understand."

This extraordinary seene lasted five minutes, after which the members scattered, and other business was taken up.

To secure accuracy in a stage effect of moonbeams shining through a stained glass window and illuminating the figure of Paula Tanqueray seated at her piano, Sadie Martinot got the biggest lens procurable and concentrated a calcium light upon the white costume she intended to wear. The dress was an elaborate and costly affair. The calcium rays made its color appear a delicate champagne or biscuit color, and that is the color of the fabric now worn by Miss Martinot in Pinero's play. "There's no use soiling white on dirty stages when it looks like yellow," says Miss Martinot, "and the ccru crepe dress I now wear looks yery much righer in the light from the window. An example of the serious results which sometimes occur as the result of the scratch of a pin is the serious condition in which lies the serious condition in which lies the seven months' old son of Richard Lowe, in the employ of John Hoon.

The unfortunate little fellow in some way scratched the back of his heel on a pin and it was not long before the blood poisoning set in and the leg was soon badly swellen.

Damages done at the Clarke and the Stevens' roadhouses by the ma-rauders amount to hundreds of dol-lars. Both houses were entered and pillaged when the people were all ab-sent.

MacPherson was attacked at the Jennings roadhouse when about to leave the building. He had stepped out the door and was a few feet dist-

The bear seemed to like the music and the senorous intonations pouring from the frightened Mac-Pherson. The big fellow advanced with quick strides and a smiling countenance and outstretched arms. Charley waved his sombrero and said, "G'wan, go back, whatcher want?" and increased his delsarte exercise. The bear failed to halt. MacPherson thought the situation serious. #### STEVENSON.

So Limp He Looked as Though Just Fished From the Sea.

He was tall, thin, spare—indeed, he struck me as almost fantastically spare. I remember thinking that the spare. I remember thinking that the station draft caught him like a torn leaf flowing at the end of a branch. His clothes hung about him as the clothes of a convalescent who has lost bulk and weight after long fever. He had on a jacket of brown velveteen—I cannot swear to the color, but that decannot swear to the color, but that de-tail always comes back in the recalled picture—a fiannel shirt, with a loose necktie bundled into a sailor's knot, somewhat fantastical trousers, though no doubt this effect was due in part to their limp amplitude about what seemed rather the thin green poles fa miliar in dahlia pots than the legs of a human creature. He wore a straw hat that in its rear rim suggested forget fulness on the part of its wearer, who ness, treated it are a cloth cap. These however, were details in themselve trivial and were not consciously not till later. The long, narrow face, the almost sallow, with somewhat long loose hair, that draggled from i eneath the yellow straw hat well over the ears, along the dusky hollows of temple and cheek, was what immediately attracted attention. But the extraordinariness of the impression was of a man who had just been rescued from the sea or a river. Except for the fact that his clothes did not drip, that the long black locks hung limp, but not moist, and that the short velveteen jacket was disreputable, but not damp, this impression of a man just come of ing.-William Sharp in Pall Mall Mag

Thackeray's Mustache.

In a note on Samuel Laurence's portrait of Thackeray—that representing the novelist's face in full—the Illustrated London News of Oct. 13, 1855,

"It is not, we must confess, alto-gether true to his present appearance, for it wants a recent and becoming addition to the upper lip in the shape of a black mustache that contrasts most admirably with a head of silver gray, but it is like the man and will be welcome to his many admirers."

The reference here to the mustache is interesting for the reason that every portrait of Thackeray, with one exception, represents him with a clean shaven upper lip, the exception being Maclise's pencil drawing of the famous "Titmarsh," which, however, belongs to a much earlier date—viz, about 1840 - and in which there is just a suspicion of a mustache. Presumably the hirsute appendage of 1855 was merely a passing fancy, which the ra-zor speedily disposed of.—Notes and

What He Was

A man of letters of poor physique recently knocked a policeman down and is still at large to tell the tale. It was on the bank of the upper Thames, where a notice bids "Pedestrians to en-ter the towing path by the roadway." The man of letters, however, knew the short cut and took it, running into a huge Berkshire constable. "See that notice board?" remarked the constable, blocking the narrow path. The man of letters looked, considered, and replied, But you see I'm not a pedestrian. The constable considered him from his hat to his boots and back again. "Why, what are you then?" he asked. "I'm a Congregationalist," said the man of let-ters. The constable dropped.—London Chronicle.

The Boys In Gray.

A question often asked, according to the United Service, is why the army cadets at West Point wear a gray uniform, while the uniform of the army is blue. The origin of the distinction dates back to the war of 1812-14, when the commissary general of the army could not procure the blue cloth required for General Winfield Scott's brigade, and so they were clad in gray. So distinguished was the conduct of that brigade at Lundy's Lane and Chippewa that when, after the war of 1812 a reorganization of West Point Mili tary academy was made, out of compliment to General Scott and his brigade the uniform of the corps of cadets was changed from blue to gray.

The Twelve Jurymen.

A prisoner is tried by twelve of his fellow countrymen. This custom is s thousand years old, and we get it from the Vikings. The Vikings divided their country up into cantons, which were subdivided into twelve portions, each under a chieftain. When a malefactor was brought to justice it was usual for each chieftain to select a man from the district over which he ruled and com-pel him to try the prisoner, the verdice of these twelve men being declared by the judge to be final.

"MUST BE FRIENDS."

Mow Sir Walter Scott Began His Life-Long Friendship With the Grandmother of Tem Mughes.

The correspondence of Mrs. Mary Anne Hughes, grandmother of Thomas Hughes, of "Tom Brown" fame, with Sir Walter Scott, which has lately been published in the Century Magazine, is full of pleasant and interesting things, but nethers not her tury Magazine, is full of pleasant and interesting things; but perhaps nothing is more delightfully characteristic of both the correspondents than the manner in which their friendship began. Mrs. Hughes was very fond of dogs; her intimate friend, Mrs. Hayman (also a friend of Scott), whom she visited twice a week, strongly disliked them. Near Mrs. Hayman's house, where Mrs. Hughes must pass it every time, was a stable in which was kept a wretched dog so obviously half-starved that the compassionate woman fell into the habit of bringing him a parcel of the habit of bringing him a parcel of bones wrapped in newspaper and tucked inside her ample muff.

The dog soon knew and watched for her, and manifested touching signs of gratitude and affection. Mrs. Hayman found the performance a fruitful subject of mirth, and made much fun of the "folly and greasiness," as she termed it, of her triendly appulser formed to the first of her triendly appulser formed to the first of the state expected."
"No, ma'am. We charge according ness," as she termed it, of her friend's peculiar form of charity.

"On the morning when I went to meet Sir Walter Scott," Mrs. Hughes noted in her journal, "he had arrived, and was sitting with her, and immediately on my entrance she cried out, "Well! Have you been pampering your nesty maney cur?" pampering your nasty, mangy cur?'
And when I answered in the affirmative, she turned to Sir Walter and said, 'I don't know, Mr. Scott, whether you will thank me for the pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Fire beetles as Candles

An interesting fact, vouched for by the natives and confirmed by by competent European observers, is that the Baya, or "Bottle Bird," of India, after weaving its nest with wonderful ingenuity and art, affixes about the entrance to its odd-shaped home numerous tiny clay balls. These clay balls serve as so many candlesticks for some extremely odd candles, the candles in question being nothing else than fire beetles, which in that part of the world, glow with a brilliancy unknown to the natives of colder regions.

The birds catch the beetles and stick them, while alive, of course, into the clay balls, where they remain and furnish quite an illumination

Good Type of Welsh Clergyman Canon Griffiths Roberts, rector of Peterson-super-Ely, in the Diocese of Liandaff, has been appointed Dean of Bangor. He was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and has spent the whole of his ecclesiastical career in the principality. The new Dean is a good type of the native Welsh clercyman. A man of mederate clergyman. A man of mederate views, a good parochial organizer, a preacher and writer who, in either English or Welsh, is listened to gladly, he has done much quiet, sound work for the Church in Wales. Canon Roberts has, among other lit-erary work, edited the Welsh weekly journal Y Llan, and he was one of the four Welsh clergymen chosen to translate the Coronation Service into Welsh and to make, on the Accession of the King, the necessary alterations in the Welsh prayer-book. The chancel of Bangor Cathedral has just been reopened after complete ren-oration, the expense of which was borne by Lord Penrhyn. The work of beautifying the chancel occupied over six months, the whole of the old fresco work being reproduced.

NEEDLEWORK DESIGNS. One That Can Be Used to Advantage

Needlework is always in vogue, and its beauty as a decoration in the home is always appreciated. Among the old time designs used in this dainty work there lingers an atmosphere of charm, and the colonial design shown in the accompanying illustration can be used in various ways. For chair backs and arms it is wrought on natural gray linen in colors of blue and green blend ed in solid shaded Kensington stitch making in effect what we call iri descent work; berries in burnt orange in satin stitch, stems in outline in

Daughter and Father. There are two things that can be done by a father for his daughter and that, if they were always done, would in the course of a single generation make our womankind approach a level which they have never yet reached. The first is to gain the confidence of his daughter in her earlier years, and the second is to keep it unimpaired and to perpetuate it. If he be his daughter's friend and chosen companion, sharing all her little confidences and imparting to her much of what he knows, with the intuition of a woman and the breadth and sanity of a man the girl will grow up with a mind unlike the minds of many women in whom femininity verges upon fatuity. From close association with a father the young girl quite unconsciously acquires something of the largeness of the man's nature and loses something of the pettiness and narrowness of the woman's. His tolerant, genial spirit will moderate her tense emotionalism; his sense of humor will rid her of sentiment and imbue her with a sense of true proportion; his fun, his good comradeship, his affection and his knowledge of life will help to send her forth into the world strengthened and de-

Jacob Sobel gives the results of his own experience with the paroxysms of whooping cough treated by pulling the lower jaw downward and forward. Pulling the lower jaw downward and forward controls the paroxysms of whooping cough in most instances and most of the time. The method is usually more successful in older children than in younger ones and infants. In cases without a whoop the expiratory spasm with its asphyxia is generally overcome, and in those with a whoop the latter is prevented. It is as successful as any single drug, or ever more so. Mothers should be instructed in its use, so that attacks, especially at night, might be arrested. The manipulation is harmless and painless. Its only contraindication is the presence of food in the mouth or esophagus. Patients thus treated are less likely to suffer from complications and sequelæ than those treated only medicinally. It is advisable to try this method in other spasmodic coughs and laryngeal spasms.-New York Medical

"They dry it with a fan, which is quite proper but the way they use the fan is entirely improper. Instead of wielding that so as to send the wind through the strands of hair they manipulate it in such fashion that they blow a regular gale right into the ear, and the consequence is that for several days after the shampoo the cleansed locks clothe a head that is the seat of a mighty assortment of aches and pains. If, instead of the ears, the hair itself were made the center of the artificial cyclone, the drying process would be effected more quickly and a severe attack of earache avert-

Lip Soreness From Thread Biting. Ladies who do a great deal of sewing frequently suffer a great deal from soreness of the mouth and lips and are often at a loss to ascertain the cause of the trouble. Half the time it is simply the result of biting off thread instead of using a pair of shears for cutting. In the case of silk thread the danger is quite marked, because it is usual to soak the thread in acctate of lead, partly to harden it and give it a good surface and also perhaps to in-crease its weight somewhat. If this practice is followed regularly and very much silk thread is used, the results may be quite serious and even lead to blood noisaning.

AWARD INCOMPLETE.

ANOTHER BOUNDARY DISPUTE MAY BE PRECIPITATED.

Alverstone Criticized by a Canadian Lawyer in London-Made Arrangement With Americans Without Consulting His Colleagues.

London, Oct. 22.-A prominent aCndian lawyer resident in London, when interview, said that the United States representatives would decide against the Canadian contention was clear. They were chosen for that pur-Of Lord Alverstone the Canadians were suspicious from the beginning. The Canadian commissioners claim that Lord Alverstone's decision was not judicial, and was not meant to be judicial; therefore, they were compelled to refuse to sign the award. In proof of this statement they point to his judgment, pronounced a lew days previously, giving Sitklan and Kannaghunt Islands to Canada, and its subsequent reversal, without an explanation. To what extent the instrument signed to-day is effective remains to be seen. The mountain boundary, as far as laid down, is indicated by a line of peaks, but by the award they are not connected. Are they to be joined by straight lines, or does the connectdians were suspicious from the begin-of peaks, but by the award they are not connected. Are they to be joined by straight lines, or does the connecting boundary follow the intervening ridges? On this the instrument is silent. As many peaks are far apart, it is evident that the work of the tribunal has been left in a very incomplete state, and another commission may be necessary to determine what is meant. More amazing still is it that 120 miles of boundary has been left entirely undetermined, on the ground that a further survey is necessary to determine what mountains were intended by the treaty. Over the whole of the space from the mountain near Patterson Glacier to a mountain called Devil's Pass, north of Taku River, the line has not been defined at all. In the decision Taku Inlet and River afford means of communication with a large extent of the interior country, and it is possible a route to the Klondike, but the boundary line crossing it has been left unsettled. The discovery of gold any day in the interior, at the head of Taku River, would at once precipitate as serious a dispute as that which has taken place over the Lynn Canal. The same may be said of Endicott Arm, Tracy Arm, Port Sveltisam and tributary river. Unfortunately, therefore, the Alaska difficulty is as much on the slate as ever, and British diplomacy, which may be concerned more in the finality of the award than its effect upon Canada, has nearly all its difficulties still before it.

in a pretence that further survey is necessary is not accepted by anyone who is even passably familiar with the facts. No survey of the mountains has been made since the treaty of 1825, in which mountains extending in a direction parallel to the coast are referred to, was signed. Quite as full a survey had been made over the 1,820 miles when the tribunal failed to run a boundary as in any other part of the coast. The maps before the commissioners show the sea and mountains as fully surveyed, and affording as good a selection of peaks as any that have been chosen. The real reason for refusing the local boundary between the Patterson Glacier and Devil's Pass is because the United States commissioners feared that any mountains selected might afterwards be found to be conserved. Devil's Pass is because the United States commissioners feared that any mountains selected might afterwards be found to be penetrated by some arm of the sea or fiord along that stretch of coast, thus affording to Canada a means of entering her interior territory from the coast. The mere possibility of this caused them to refrain from completing the work of the tribumal. The only other possible suggestion is that, having decided everything else against Canada, this portion of the boundary was left open to force some future concession elsewhere. It was convenient for the United States commissioners that this portion of the boundary should not be settled, and that appears to have been sufficient for Lord Alverstone.

Canada affirmed that the Portland Channel intended by the treaty ran north of Kannaghunut, Sitklan, Wales and Pearse Islands. The United States insisted that the channel ran south of these islands. We other water houndary should a sufficient for the sufficient of the sufficient insisted that the channel ran south of these islands. No other water boundary was claimed by the United States in arguments, printed or verbal. The Canadian case proved by demonstration was approved not only by Lord Alversione, but the United States commissioners as well, and received the votes of the two Canadian commissioners. Subsequently some arrangement, which was not communication. rangement, which was not communi-cated to the Canadian commissioners, was made by Lord Alverstone with the United States representatives, giving them the two outer islands of Kanna-ghanut and Sitklan, making the boun-dary line pass south through the Ton-gas passage in order to do so. This one act of Lord Alverstone's, for which he has given no reason to his Cana-dian folleagues, alone stamps him as utterly unfit for the important dities dian olleagues, alone stamps him as utterly unfit for the important duties entrusted to him, and unworthy of the confidence reposed in him.

Another contention was with regard to the ownership of Lynn Canal. This has been given to the United States, presumably on the ground of occupation. They also have been given the greater part of the Chilkat Valley, and much territory on the Canadian side of the provisional boundary of 1899, notwithstanding that all occupation north and west of the provisional boundary took place under Canadian laws. No case was ever better presented than Canada's. Two of her principal contentions were so powerful that even the United States commissioners were forced to accept them; and yet, with United States commissioners were forced to accept them; and yet, with the assistance of Lord Alverstone, they have managed to deprive Canada of the fruits of her hard-fought victory.

London, Oct. 22.—The Financial News gives prominence to an article showing that the immense increase in the pulp trade of Canada has caused the Americans to cast envious eyes on the islands ceded to the United States by the Alaska award. Before long Canadians may consider it more advan-tageous to become an integral part of the United States, rather than rely upon the questionable and shallow protection the questionable and shallow protection afforded by an Imperial parent who recklessly gives everything away.

The Chronicle refers to the irony of fate, by which the meeting of the Toronto branch of the British Empire League was held on the very day of the disastrous announcement of the Alaska decision. It believes that The Toronto Star crystallizes Canadian feeling in the statement that the British navy has been of as much service to navy has been of as much service to the Dominion as the non-existent Canadian navy. It says that Mr. Chamber-lain's offer of preferential duties seems absolute mockery after this painful disappointment.

The Financial Times believes that while Toronto advocates closer Imperial relations we need not fear the consequences of the Alaska award, but, says the promotion of Anglo-American friendship can scarcely be attained by an action stirring up bitter feeling between Canadians and Americans.

PURITY. LAGER B

"The Beer That is Brewed in Glass"

Lager Beer made in an impure cellar or imperfect vats becomes infected, is un healthful, and liable to cause headache, sour atomach, and bowel troubles, and, ae it will not keep, unprincipled brewers use preservatives to prevent its getting wors and the consumer has to suffer for it.

In Munich, supposed to be the home of Lager Beer, glass-lined steel tanks are rapidly superceeding the wooden ones. This is done because they are thoroughly convinced of the bad effects arising from the use of wooden fermentation tanks.

In older times Lager Beer was fermented and stored in underground cellars and left in damp, monidy cellars to acquire "At-E" but all the time it was gathering bacteria and other wild ferment. Now, in a modern brewery, Lager Beer is brewed in glass, in the light, remains above ground and is watched carefully from the moment it leaves the kettle until it reaches the consumer. Frequent analysis has proven its superiority over beer made in the old way, and any one with the least judgment can see that it must be purer and more wholesome.

Welkerville Beer is the thing that will cheer The cockles of your heart; But the miserable stuff, made in cellars of must, Is worse than a poisoned dart.
