The Almanac of 1913 and Others.

WHITTAKER'S ALMANAC needs no introduction to the homes, business and legal firms, Government institutions and clubs of Newfoundland.
Its fame is far wider and its information more general than that of any other "Annual" in the English-speaking world. The publishers have for 1913, at the suggestion and with the assistance of a large number of people outside of Great Britain, prepared The New International Whittaker, which provides information concerning every country on a uniform method, so that one may know just where to look for the particular subject or point desired. The International is a book of 500 pages, chock full of accurate information, largely contributed by responsible British, Colonial and Foreign Government officials. An index of forty pages gives it additional value as a book of reference. This Almanac appeals to the intelligence of every man and woman in Nfld. Strong set back, imitation Cal-pas cover, 60c. by mail, 65c. When ordering enclose $1.00 and receive the Whittaker Almanac, Newfoundland Year Book for 1913 and an attractive Wall Calendar, worth from 10c. to 40c. All orders filled in rotation as received.

CHAPTER XXXV.

"Not much wonder after Jamaica, considering that this is about the severest winter we have had for years." Major Constable said, in his good-humored way. "By the bye, Ned, you know that he is off, I suppose?"

"Eh?" I questioned, startled from my somewhat absent gaze across at the snow-capped fir plantation. "Know who's off?"

"Why he—St. George!"

"St. George is?"

"Of course. Didn't you know it?"

"Not a syllable. Are you sure?" I said, astonished.

"Sure unless his late landlord has let his fancy run away with him. I dropped into his place to-day after a coat he is altering, and he told me he was off. Packed up his things all of a sudden, and was off last night—late, I believe."

"How extraordinary!" I returned, pondering. "Why, I saw him about this time last night, and he didn't say a word about it—although, to be sure, I guessed he wouldn't be here much longer. What a queer fellow he is!"

"Queer enough!" responded the major, giving his broad shoulders a shrug. "You didn't know anything about it then?"

"Not a word. I wonder where he's gone?"

"Goodness knows! Back to Jamaica most likely. Where else should he go?"

"Nowhere that I know of. But it is odd that he should have gone off without a word to anybody."

"Odd enough; but, as you just said, he is a queer fellow. About the handsomest, too, that I ever saw. Here—let's hurry up, Ned—the rector's freezing!"

"For all this time we had been standing still where the halt had been made to admire the scenery, the rector's jolly face—what little could be seen of it between the brim of his clerical hat and his turned-up coat collar—changing steadily from red to purple with cold. I laughed, and we walked on again, my thoughts busy with the news which I had heard of Raby St. George."

Certainly it had astonished me a good deal; and it was indeed odd that on the preceding night he should have said not a word about an immediate departure—and that he had not most decidedly. Well, after all, perhaps he was better off out of the way, I thought, wondering if he had carried away with him as rankling a wound as poor old Roger would carry in a day or two.

Walking with my eyes moodily upon the ground, hearing without heeding the talk which was now being carried on between my two companions, and keeping my footing mechanically upon the uneven icy path, I did not notice where we were or how far we had advanced. Consequently I started violently when the major suddenly clutched my arm.

"What's that?" he said.

I stared about me almost as dazedly as I might have done had his words awakened me from a sound sleep. We were close to the group of pollard willows which stood at the edge of the water, their lower branches drooping heavily into the sluggish stream. Snow was clinging about their boughs and lying thick around them; but just where the moonlight fell brightest a red stain showed through the whiteness, horribly distinct. I recoiled with a cry, for our feet were almost upon a motionless figure, and a red mist seemed to float before my dazed eyes, as though that horrible satin had dyed earth and sky crimson.

"Good heavens!" I heard the rector ejaculate, horrified. "What is this?"

Hardly knowing what I did, I dropped upon my knees, and, lifting the arm that was lying across the face, exposed it. Ghastly white as I had seen it on the previous night, the black eyes wide open, and even now in death the gleam of the teeth was visible in a cruel smile through the black moustache, it was the face of Fraser Froude! I staggered back stumbling in the snow, with a horrible singing in my ears, as the rector said, as he too stooped down—

"He is quite dead—must have been dead for two or three hours, I should say!"

"Dead!" the rector gasped.

"Murdered!" answered the other, rising. "He has been shot through the heart!"

"Shot through the heart!"

I reeled back dizzily against the rector's portly figure. I do not know whether I echoed the words or only fancied that I did. My eyes were fixed upon something which lay a few feet from the dead man—something which shone and glittered as the moonlight fell upon it. I pointed toward it, and the major stooped, and picked it up. It was a dainty pocket-revolver, almost like a toy, bright with silver mounting. The major held it out to me.

"Ned, do you know this?"

"Know it?" The red mist swam before my eyes as I clutched the rector's shoulder, and the words burst from my lips—words which I had neither the sense nor the strength to keep back—"Know it? That is Roger Yorke's pistol!"

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Never shall I forget the misery of the next day or two after that horrible discovery by the river. I bring only to close my eyes now to bring

Reduced in Flesh Sleepless Nights

Kidney Disease and Gravel Caused Keenest Suffering—Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. W. Smith.

That diseases of the kidneys cause the greatest suffering is well known, and when stone or gravel is formed in the bladder the torture is almost beyond human endurance. The disease should never be allowed to reach this dangerous stage. Pains in the small of the back, pain or smarting when passing water, frequent urination, loss of flesh and weight tell of the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate and invigorate the kidneys and restore these organs to health.

Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont., writes:—"For some years I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most dreadful agony. As the disease wore on, I became reduced in flesh and passed sleepless nights. No doctor was able to do much for me, and I used many medicines without obtaining more than temporary relief. My attention was directed to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by using this treatment the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well, and feel better than I have for twenty years."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one-half a dose, 25c. a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

the whole scene back before me in a flash—the turbid river, the moonlight, the great group of pollard willows, the cruel glitter of the snow, the terrible red stain which dyed it, and the ghastly figure of the murdered man, with his white face upturned and his glassy eyes staring blindly upward at the sky.

I must hurry over what I have to say here. Past and gone as it is, I can not summon courage to write it in detail. Roger Yorke was arrested for the murder of Fraser Froude and taken to Market, Waxford, where he was the next day brought before the magistrate and committed for trial, bail being refused. Not that that was to be wondered at. It was more than a case of mere suspicion. The finding of the pistol, lying discharged beside the murdered man, was almost conclusive in itself, people said; and I suppose it is what I should have said in the case of anyone else. And, bad as the matter was, it had not rested with my wild words to make worse, for Roger's name in full was engraved upon the weapon. And now it turned out that the unhappy quarrel in the lane had been overheard by a man belonging to Whitesford who had been going home from work at the time, and, attracted by the loud voices, had listened from behind the hedge on the other side on which he had been passing along.

He swore—and truthfully, of course—that he had seen Mr. Froude knocked down by Dr. Yorke, and that then the doctor had angrily threatened the other. He had heard too the talk between my friend and myself afterward, and detailed that too. What effect this had upon the minds of people in general I have not the heart to enlarge upon. It seemed to me, in the very bitterness of my soul, that even those who knew my friend best must surely have longed for him to be proved guilty. It was merely the usual horrible morbid feeling, I suppose, which, being once excited, must have sensation at any price; but I know that it maddened me then. Then I was questioned and, with what misery and reluctance I will not say, was obliged to corroborate the wretched story. And of what avail was it that, when it had been dragged from me piecemeal, most eagerly and earnestly I declared my conviction of my friend's innocence of the crime imputed to his charge! Less than none! There—I have not the heart to write of it. I will only add that Roger asserted his innocence, passionately, swearing that he did not know how the pistol came to be out of his possession, and that since the night of the quarrel he had not even seen Froude—and that I believed him most implicitly.

Nat heard the news—it had been impossible to keep it from her—and, when the facts reached her ears, blurted out loudly by a scared maid-servant, she had neither screamed nor uttered a word, but dropped down in a dead faint. And she recovered from the swoon, not, as I thought, to rave wildly and cry—not, as madame expected (my mother attributed it to the shock at the awful death of the man who was to have been her husband), to toss and turn in delirium of brain- fever; but to lie tearless and speechless with her face to the wall. Nothing aroused her. My mother talked to her; Alice Deeping came, brimming over with affection and sympathy; I had tried to make her speak, dwelling with eagerness and earnestness upon the certainty of Roger's innocence and how it must be absolutely proved—I am sure I did not know how, but I fully believed it—in a day or two most likely, or at any rate before the trial. All in vain! I might as well have tried to comfort a stone figure, and endeavored to make its speechless lips open to me. She lay on her bed, seeming to hear, see, and feel nothing, motionless and dry-eyed. So she had been since the blow fell, and so she remained when the middle of the second day after that of the murder had come.

For the twentieth time I had been endeavoring to rouse her—to make her speak, if only a dozen words. My mother had been with her, vainly trying the same thing, and had come down with tears in her eyes, begging me, as she had often done before, to see what I could do. Now I had failed, and I turned away, feeling despairing. Virtue Dent was in the room, sewing quietly by the fire, and I went across to speak to her softly. She herself was pale and miserable-looking enough, poor girl—as well she might be, considering the unreluctant suspicion under which she lay, although for the time this present trouble had pretty well driven the stolen jewels out of everybody's head.

"Does she keep like this all the time?" I whispered.

"All the time, sir," she whispered back. "I don't think she has moved so much as a finger to-day."

"And she doesn't speak?"

"No, sir—not a word."

"I don't know what's to be done," I said, forlornly. "It's miserable all round. And you are in trouble, too, poor girl! I'm forgetting that."

"It doesn't matter," she answered, in her quiet way. "Don't trouble about that, Mr. Ned. It will all come right, I dare say; and at any rate you don't think I'm a thief, nor does Miss Natalie; and I don't believe madame does really."

"I know I don't," I said heartily.

"Thank you, sir, I don't much mind as long as she believes me"—with a glance toward the bed and the motionless figure lying upon it. "You know how fond I am of her—don't you, sir?"

"I know—you always were," I returned.

"Yes, sir, always—from the first day I saw her. I was jealous of Val-la, then, you know—just as I am now, for that matter. And yet I don't know why it was, excepting that she was always so kind, and treated me always almost as she might have done if I had been a lady myself."

"Well, you must keep up your spirits and hope for the best, Virtue," I said, kindly—"just as the rest of us have to do now, you know. It is to be hoped that this horrible mistake will soon be rectified. It is dreadful for her!"

"For Miss Natalie? Oh, Mr. Ned!" and Virtue dropped her voice lower yet—"if it doesn't soon come to an end, I believe it will kill her! I do indeed, sir."

9495.—A SIMPLE STYLISH GOWN.

Ladies' Dress.

Brown taffeta was used for this model, with ecru lace for inserted vest or dicky, and green satin for collar and belt. Self covered buttons ornament the front of waist and skirt. Blue linen, with the free edges of skirt and waist scalloped and embroidered and white linen embroidered in blue for chemisette and collar would make a good combination for this model. The skirt is a four piece model closing at the left side of the front. The waist is made with surplus fronts and a Robespierre collar. The sleeve is close fitting. The design is equally appropriate for wash goods, silk, velvet and cloth. The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches but measure. It requires 6 3/4 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

9496.—A UNIQUE AND GRACEFUL MODEL.

Girls' Dress With Vest.

Brown cashmere was used for this design, with simple stitching for a finish. The fronts are crossed below a vest that meets and forms part of the jaunty collar, which is cut square over the back. The plaited skirt is gored and stitched in panel effect. The set in sleeves are finished with a deep cuff. Silk, velvet, panama, volle, serge, gallica, percale, chambray, linen or corduroy will develop this model effectively. White cordelene with trimming in pink or blue would make a serviceable washable dress in this design. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 3 yards of 44 inch material for a 10 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

The Woman Movement.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A group of women old and young, one day drifted into a discussion in regard to how much their husbands told them of business affairs.

Of the four women who represented the older generation, only one knew exactly what her husband's income was, and she was the wife of a man who has always been noted for his progressive ideas.

Of the five women who represented the younger school, there was only one who did not know exactly what her husband's income was, and she was the wife of a man whose work is of such a nature that he does not know that interesting fact himself.

It seems to me that the little incident has a great deal of meaning in it, because it aptly illustrates the new position of woman in the home—or perhaps I should say, the position of the new woman in the home.

There was a time when the man who talked to his wife about his business, told her his income, and expected her to plan the proper use of that income with him, was an exception.

Today the man who does not do these things is the one who serves to prove the rule.

Even the men who do not approve of women going into the business and professional world, who frown upon the Woman's Suffrage Movement, and look upon it as a dangerous and unbecoming thing, are not so dead to the new spirit in the air as to deny their women-kind at least a voice in the home government.

I am thinking of such a man now. He has always been a violent opponent of the Woman's Rights Movement, and yet he confides all his business secrets to his wife and turns over every cent of his salary to her. Thirty years ago a man of his temper would probably have kept both his business affairs and his salary strictly to himself.

There are many men to whom Women's Suffrage is the great question of the age. "White" I believe thoroughly in woman's right to the suffrage and feel sure that we will soon get justice in that quarter. It seems to me that, after all, that is only a small part of the great woman movement, the movement toward getting ourselves recognized as at least the potential equal of man.

And mind you, by equal I do not mean identical. I realize that the sex differences between men and women are vastly more than physical. They affect mind and heart and character. But I do not believe they are such as to prevent women from being a responsible, intelligent partner for man, rather than a servant or a plaything.

And so I hail with joy every new sign—even so slight a one as that I chronicle to-day—that women are being admitted to their proper position.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman of the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, headache, or hot flashes and many symptoms of degeneration of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women.

Mrs. G. H. Williams.

Mrs. G. H. Williams, of Lynnhaven, Va., writes: "It is six years since my health gave way. I had female trouble and all the doctors I employed there and here failed to do me any good. I had to read to him someone all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and decided to try it. I had not taken but one bottle and I had done me good. I took it all five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my housework and my usual fourteen pounds. I feel as if all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery'."

Public Meeting at St. George's.

A most enthusiastic public meeting was held here on Thursday, the 27th February, attended by His Lordship Bishop Power and all our leading citizens, except such as were incapacitated by illness or unavoidably absent.

The meeting was strictly non-political but was representative of those who have the future well-being of our native land and our beautiful and fertile District of St. George's at heart.

It was called for the purpose of impressing upon the Government the fact that the time has now come when the rivers of Bay St. George should be bridged and communication established between the north and the south shores of the Bay; between town and town; between the farms of the fertile agricultural sections and their natural markets; the mining towns of our coasts and the logging camps of our forests.

As we are at present situated, there is scarcely a ten-mile section which is not divided from its neighboring section of the District by a river barrier.

Progress under such conditions seems utterly impossible; yet we have progressed, and we appeal, Mr. Editor, to the Government of our country, the party in power, and the Opposition, the Press and public spirited and intelligent Newfoundlanders of all shades of political opinion, to help us obtain this boon, which granted, we venture to affirm that we will show such improvements in Bay St. George in the next ten years as shall astonish our friends of the East and justify beyond measure the expenditure.

ST. GEORGE'S.

Situated on the tranquil waters of St. George's Harbor, the name, town and capital of the District of St. George's, holds a commanding position which when it has attained the growth to which it is evidently designed, will make it one of the most beautiful towns in Newfoundland.

From the sea level the surrounding country slopes gradually upward to the foot-hills of the coast range, which are of a blue and picturesque from a 5 to 7 miles in the southern distance.

East and west it is (liquid) crystal called by two sparkling streams, Flat Bay and Barachois Rivers. Within these boundaries from east to west St. George's measures about 6 miles.

Nearly all this land, from the cultivated farms along the coast to that which unites with the encircling hills, is of an excellent quality for agriculture, and up the banks of Flat Bay and Barachois Rivers are miles upon miles of excellent land.

On the banks of Flat Bay River gypsum in abundance has been placed by a beneficent Providence to fertilize the farms and ranches of our future farmers and shepherds. About 5 miles back of St. George's, Steel Mountain lifts its crests and "spinnakered pinnacles" above the dark waters of the Farm Pool (the home of some of our largest and picturesque fishery).

Here are some facts to remember about St. George's:—

1. Fifteen years ago it did not exist.
2. It is now the seat of a Bishop.
3. The Catholic Cathedral is steam heated and electric lighted.
4. The Bishop's palace and St. Michael's Convent are hot water heated and electric lighted.
5. St. Michael's Academy for the education of young ladies is one of the most ably conducted and best fitted teaching institutions in Newfoundland.
6. The value of the Catholic Church property is not less than $30,000. (The enlarging and remodeling of St. Michael's Convent, the steam heating of the Cathedral, the electric lighting of that and the other buildings on Cathedral Hill is the work of the present Bishop, His Lordship Rt. Rev. M. F. Power.)

7. There is a fine Church of England Church in course of construction; it is nearing completion and will be a great ornament to the town.

8. A new school building is an important asset of the Church people; it is situated in the east end and is large and commodious.

9. There is a pretty Methodist Church situated in one of the beauty spots of St. George's, and a very fine school building.

10. The value of the annual hay crop of the townfolk at present prices amounts to $7,760.

11. The value of the potato crop, $3,962.

12. St. George's is one of three towns in Newfoundland that has a Board of Trade, and yet St. George's is cut off from civilization but for the railway trams and telegraph wires. On the east is the barrier of Barachois River, on the west is the barrier of Flat Bay River, and our means of passage must end, alas! like the old nursery rhyme:—

"They came to the river And they couldn't get across." A. J. O'REILLY, Sec'y of Meeting.

Fashions and Fads.

Military styles are fashionable in separate blouses.

Flowered material will be very fashionable this spring.

Many coats show high waist line and three-quarter sleeves.

Narrow velvet ribbon trims some of the new lingerie.

All the new models show a decided feminine gracefulness.

Many sleeves are trimmed with a piping of contrasting color.

Amber and all the various shades of yellow will be very popular.

A return of flower-trimming is noticed on the new straw hats.

Ottoman silk is much-favored material for afternoon costumes.

A very pretty evening color for the young girl is cherry or coral.

Men's wear serge is the material used for the strictly tailored suits.

Draperies of fine cobweb and tulle lace will be very much used.

Materials are more costly than ever, and are of extreme suppleness.

The simple little evening dresses are all of the loosely draped description.

The small hats are in boat, tricorn, bowler and tam or spunter shapes.

A new sleeve which seems to be favored shows a cuff extending to the elbow.

Many of the little dancing frocks have their edges finished with a scallop.

A white crepe de chine blouse is effectively trimmed with scarlet bullet buttons.

Collars of bright-hued velvet are seen on the white suits of serge, linen and ratine.

Favorite materials for children's dresses are gingham, percale, linen and chambray.

The shoulder line of some of the new sleeves is two or three inches above the elbow.

Bright Bulgarian colorings are very prominent in the decorations of the new parasols.

Bulgarian embroidery is being used both on white and colored dresses for children.

On the more dressy frock, buttons and buttonholes are arranged in a startling fashion.

The new tailored coats have soft dainty linings of flowered mousseline or embroidered linen.

The combination of black and white is favoured. The addition of a vivid color is much used.

Modish are the broad sailor collars of embroidered net attached to revers of the same material.

A MELANCHOLY RECORD.

MARY MARCH.

There are no darker chapters in the white man's progress than those that record the fate of the original inhabitants of the conquered territories. As noted in our feature "This Date in History" on Wednesday, Mary March was brought to St. John's in 1819. While not the last of the Beothicks, a short four years after saw the finish of this Indian race found in Newfoundland. The first rude trappers, hunters and fishermen, as they spread into the northern parts of the island, were outside the control of the law and were but little disposed to try conciliation and kindness on a tribe of savages whose presence interfered with their pursuits. The poor Beothicks were hunted down as vermin and destroyed, and in something over three hundred years, when an expedition was organized to penetrate to their last retreat at Red Indian Lake, only their graves and the mouldering remains of their wigwags were found. Their tools, their arrow-heads were to be seen, but they had gone.

A few minutes after Zam-Buk is applied to a cut, a burn, a scratch, or any sore place, the pain is stopped. Mothers should never forget this, because it is one reason why Zam-Buk is the best thing for children's injuries. It stops their crying and gives them ease. Right from the instant of application healing begins, and Zam-Buk heals quickly. Note these statements from reliable persons, some of whom you may know.

Baby's Sore Healed.
"My baby girl had a bad sore on her chin, which was very painful, and caused her to be very restless. We put on some ZAM-BUK, and in a wonderfully short time it gave her ease. In a few days the sore was completely healed."
Mrs. E. COCKER, Yorkton, Sask.

Rusty Nail Pierced Finger.
"I ran a rusty nail under my thumb nail while at work. The pain was terrible as I feared blood-poisoning from the dirty, rusty nail! I meted some ZAM-BUK and ran it into the wound, and it stopped the pain almost instantly. It kept away inflammation and in a few days the wound was quite healed."
Mr. A. H. SHIPLEY, Ont.

A Bad Burn.
"In moving some wood in the store, I burned my thumb very badly. In a few minutes it was covered with a big white blister, and the pain was very bad. ZAM-BUK was applied, and in quick time it gave me ease!"
H. E. JENNER, Organist, Carman, Man.

Take this Advice!
"If you have some sore place, some skin disease, some cut, or burn or ulcer, why continue to suffer pain? Every hour you suffer is an hour wasted. You cannot do your best work in pain; you cannot enjoy your leisure. ZAM-BUK saves far more than it costs, by saving you time in this way.
ZAM-BUK is a "short-cut" to skin healing. There is nothing which acts so quickly and so surely. Use it for all skin injuries and diseases, Eczema, Ulcers, Blood Poisoning, etc., and for Piles. All druggists sell it, 50 cents a box, or post free from ZAM-BUK Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations."

Stevenson's Grave.

Its Romantic Site, in Samoa, Atop the Forest Clad Vaila.

No English novelist rests in a more eccentric spot than that chosen by Robert Louis Stevenson, who is buried on the summit of the forest clad Vaila, in the island of Samoa that genial spot in the South Pacific that the gifted writer loved so well.

The day after his death at Vallima, in 1894, his remains were carried to the top of this precipitous and picturesque peak by sixty sturdy Samoans, who had loved and now mourned their dead chief, Tusiuta. A party of forty had previously cut a pathway through the thick, tangled wood with knives and axes, while another party had prepared the grave. With infinite care and trouble they bore him shoulder high over the rough ground to his last long home, and there, under the starry sky, they left him to sleep for ever, with the Pacific at his feet.

On either side of his tombstone is a bronze plate. One bears the words "The tomb of Tusiuta," while the other is inscribed with his own requiem, beginning: Under the wide and starry sky, Dig the grave and let me lie.

IS YOUR COUGH GOING FROM BAD TO WORSE.

If you catch a cold (which very often develops into a cough) everyone can tell you how to cure it! If one tried half the things his friends recommended he would be a physical wreck!

Fortunately it isn't necessary to experiment with ginger tea and such things, get a bottle of Stafford's Phorato Cough and Cold Cure, take according to directions and you will be relieved in a few hours.

Phorato is not like most things put up for this purpose. There isn't a particle of Quinine in it. It relieves the inflamed congested condition of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat, and soon rids the system of the poisons that cause colds.

Don't wait until you get that horrible, hacking cough which you are not able to get rid of. No treatment having been found successful up to the present time, try Phorato Cough Cure at once.

SAVED SOUTH-WORTH'S LEG

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment Checked the Blood Poisoning.

When Blood Poisoning sets in you have to do something mighty quick—and the right thing, too. Mr. Edwin Southworth, of Comery, Alta., found to his great relief that the right thing to use was Douglas' Egyptian Liniment.

Writing of the Liniment, he says: "I prize this Liniment highly as it saved me from the loss of my leg. Four years ago I was hurt while working in the lumber camps and blood poisoning set in but was stopped by Egyptian Liniment."

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is a sure preventive of Blood Poisoning if used promptly on cuts, burns, frostbites, or sores on man or beast. If proud flesh has already formed, festering started, or if Blood Poisoning itself has not gone too far, Douglas' Egyptian Liniment will clean out the wound, remove the unhealthy conditions, and heal, clean and quickly.

FRIDAY, March 7, 1913.

At the House.

Yesterday the business done at the House of Assembly was not of a very important character and an early adjournment was taken until 3 p.m. today.

The Minister of Finance and Customs tabled the Customs Returns for 1911 and 12. He also gave notice of supply on which the House will go into committee on Monday.

Mr. Bennett presented the report of the committee appointed to Draft the Address in Reply, but at the request of Mr. Clift the adoption of the Report was deferred until this afternoon.

Petitions were presented by Mr. Kint from Outer and Pouch Coves for a caplin seine and repairs to roads, respectively; and Mr. Downey, from Codroy, for a road.

Mr. Kent asked for details of expenditures on Public and Marine Works in St. John's East and other matters. The information sought is being prepared. Mr. Kent also asked for copies of all letters, correspondence, documents, agreements and Minutes of Council upon or in relation to the survey, construction, equipment or operation of the railway branches, or any of them, provided for by the Railway Extension Act, 1910, including correspondence between the Contractor and any Department of the Government, or the Government itself, or between the Prime Minister, the Colonial Secretary, the Government Engineer or any one Department of the Government and any other Department.

The following Bills after being introduced were read a first time: A Bill to further provide for the security of moneys entrusted to the Registrar of the Supreme Court; A Bill to consolidate the law in relation to the Election of Members of the House of Assembly;

A Bill to confirm an agreement entered into with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company; A Bill to amend "The Customs Act, 1898."

After notices of question were given by Messrs. Clapp, Kent and Clift the House adjourned to meet at 3 p.m. today.

M. C. L. I.

At last night's meeting of the M.C.L.I. Rev. J. W. Bartlett, B.A., lectured on a Night with the Brothers. At the opening, the Institute was the recipient of a beautiful hand-painted portrait of the late Mr. Henry, who was succeeded as Principal of the Old Academy by the late Professor Holloway. The artistic portrait was the work of Prof. Nichols, who presented it. The Rev. Mr. Bartlett then began his lecture which continued for two hours. The Rev. gentleman was eloquent in dealing with the works of these gifted people, quoted from their beautiful productions and related incidents in their lives. Recitations from the works of the poets, the subject of the lecture, were given at intervals by Mrs. E. Lindsay, Mrs. Horwood and Misses Roberts, Wiley, Herder and Watson. A hearty vote of thanks was given the Rev. lecturer by acclamation.

C. of E. Orphanage.

The annual meeting was held yesterday afternoon. His Excellency the Governor, who is Patron of the Institution, presided. After the opening prayer by the Hon. Chaplain, Rev. G. H. Godden, the Governor addressed the meeting, expressing his pleasure at the neat and well-cared for appearance of the children, and the excellent condition of the building. He paid a high compliment to the children of the north, dwelling on their general behaviour and the character which the daily struggle with the sea gave to them and their parents. The Hon. Treasurer, Mr. W. B. Grieve, then read his statement, showing a substantial balance on the credit side. The Hon. Secretary, Mr. Walter Rendell, then read the Manager's report for the year. Mr. C. McK. Harvey, in moving the adoption of the report, referred to the good financial condition, which, after an extraordinary expenditure on structural improvements, showed a substantial balance; and spoke of the work done in connection with the Sunday School League by Mr. W. C. Jobb. Mr. B. B. Jobb moved a vote of thanks to the retiring officers. On motion of Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, seconded by Hon. E. Watson, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson for their presence. The meeting was closed by Canon Bolt, with the Benediction.

Hr. Grace Notes.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parsons, on Sunday, and the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Parsons was also increased on the same day by the arrival of a baby girl. Congratulations.

Another of our old citizens passed away on Tuesday morning in the person of Mr. Thomas French, "Skipper Tom," as he is generally called, was known to all our citizens. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

By a letter from a friend in South Boston, we learn of the death of Mrs. Fitzgerald, widow of the late Patrick Fitzgerald, formerly of this town. Mrs. Fitzgerald had resided in Boston for a number of years. The sad event took place on February 13th, and the remains were interred in New Calvary Cemetery on the 15th.

The heavy undertow of last night broke up the ice in the harbor, and we will no doubt soon have a clear harbor again.

Mr. Charles George met with an accident while in the woods on Tuesday night. The thumb of his right hand being opened the full length by coming in contact with a sharp axe.

We offer our congratulations to Nurse Cron and her parents on the success that attended her first examination, and wish her a continuation of her success.

Two young ladies (?) were seen coming up Water Street last night, each smoking a cigarette, and puffing to beat many of the sterner sex. It is doubtful if either had reached the age limit, when males are allowed the privilege. Another step towards Coney Island.

Business at the Archibald Bros. Shoe Factory is now rushing to such an extent that the help are compelled to put in overtime. The whistle sounding at 7 and 10 p.m. is a healthy sign, and one that all our citizens are pleased to hear.

It would be well for the police to watch the docks where young lads are constantly "copying," and prevent them from indulging in that very dangerous pastime. Parents would be pleased if something in this line could be accomplished before an accident happens.

Negro Declared Dead Knocks Down Undertaker, Runs Three Miles and Takes Pledge. Wilmington, Del., Feb. 26.-Ozell Williams, a negro, living at Middletown, Del., came within an ace of being embalmed to-day. He was pronounced dead by an undertaker, and was about to receive an injection of the fluid when he opened his eyes. He was only drunk.

When the undertaker pierced the negro's skin preparatory to draining his heart, Williams jumped up and knocked him down. Then he jumped through a window and ran three miles. He has taken the pledge.

The Late J. M. Sullivan.

There passed away at the General Hospital at 12.30 yesterday, a citizen of sterling qualities, in the person of J. M. Sullivan. The deceased was a man that made work the predominant passion of his life-day and night alike found him engaged, ever trying to fulfill to the utmost the command that man must earn his living by the sweat of his brow.

Born in King's Cove some forty-four years ago he received his early education in the village school and later was a student at St. Bonaventure's College, this city. After leaving the latter place and after having been engaged in the teaching profession for some time and being desirous of engaging in some more remunerative occupation, he entered the office of James Ryan & Co., King's Cove, as Assistant Accountant, serving there for several years with much satisfaction to his employers, and by his affable, courteous and obliging manner, won the confidence and good will of all with whom he came in contact. Later he was transferred to the firm of J. J. St. John, Esq., being engaged in the latter place previous to his death. As a member of penmanship J. M. Sullivan stood alone in this country, and the many artistic addresses executed while in life, will stand out for all time as living monuments to the memory of one who was an artist and in this particular stands without a peer. In his demise the city suffers the loss of a good citizen and his family, an industrious and loving father. But he is gone to reap the reward of a well-spent life and to hear the words that are dearer than all: "Come thou good and faithful servant, inherit the Kingdom I have prepared for you." To his sorrowing family, we extend our deepest sympathy. Requiescat in pace. J. M. D.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADEER WEAKNESS BAGKACHE-RHEUMATISM QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After A Few Doses Are Taken. Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism, are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fall to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to permanently and positively cure such troubles, is to remove the cause.

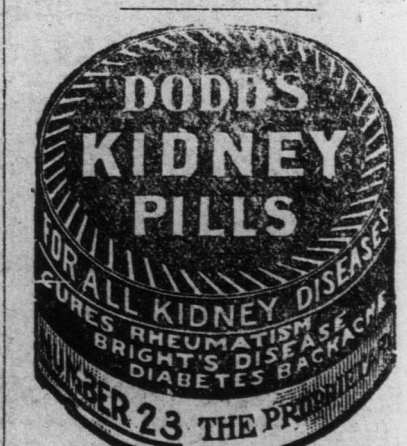

The new discovery, Croxone, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, lifeless kidneys so they filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system. So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to cure you.

Won't Take the Bait!

During the last two weeks the P.P. Candidates for Bonaville, Twillingate and Trinity have been visiting the electors and wonderful enthusiasm has been aroused at scores of harbours. R. G. Winsor, the candidate for Bonaville, has visited the north side of the district from Fair Island to Cape Freels. He held a meeting at Greenspond on Monday night and got a splendid reception. The Chairman turned up in torchlight procession to receive him. The following message was received by Mr. Coaker from the Chairman of the P.P. Greenspond, which speaks for itself:

GREENSPOND, March 4th, 1913.
W. F. COAKER, St. John's.
Wonderful meeting last night, grand torchlight procession through town. Council showed great interest. This is the best ever felt here.
J. B. WORNELL.

On Monday night a big meeting was held at Change Islands to consider Aaron Stone's petition for a government wharf at Change Islands, which petition has been sent to Change Islands for signatures. The people express their greatest contempt for the petition and resolved to capture votes and resolved to have nothing to do with anything connected with the Petition Party, and the hall shook with cheers for Coaker.

Mr. Coaker received the following message from Change Islands on this public meeting:

CHANGE ISLANDS, March 4th, 1913.
W. F. COAKER, St. John's.
Wonderful meeting held here last night to consider petition for government wharf and lighthouse for Tickle Point. The petition was drawn by Stone and Cook. The people are indignant and refused to sign it and decided to have nothing to do with the petition; hall shook with cheers given for Coaker and F. P. U.

T. W. PECKFORD.
In the 1908 election there was no stronger Morriste at Change Islands than Mr. Peckford and Change Islands cast a three-fifth vote for Morris. Mr. Wornell, whose name is signed to the message from Greenspond, was another active Morriste last election. Coming events cast their shadows before. If this is not an indication of the handwriting on the wall, perhaps Edith or McGrath will explain what it is. Is it not a sure indication and intimation that Morris's day is done—that the grubs must go.

Died in Hospital.
There passed away at the General Hospital early yesterday morning Mr. John Sullivan, after a brief illness. Deceased entered the institution a week ago suffering from a tumour in the stomach. An operation was performed but the ailment had reached such an acute stage that a cure could not be effected, despite the best medical attention. He was a native of King's Cove and up to the time of his taking ill was a book-keeper with Mr. J. J. St. John, grocer. Mr. Sullivan was an able penman and had an appetite for artistic work. He it was who did the illuminated address which was presented to A. Hiscock, Esq., President of the Regatta Committee, last summer. Much sympathy will be extended to the bereaved family.

Ice Caused Delay
Heavy ice is still in on the West Coast at Chant and Port aux Basques, and the Bruce had not succeeded in getting into Port aux Basques up to a late hour last night. The Portia and Ethie received this morning and a wire received this morning says that the Neptune in company with the Viking, is 6 miles off Port aux Basques. The whole coast is set with the ice and the Inghram on her way to Branch to take the Labrador's crew here, had to harbor at Bay Bulls.

Will Newfoundland Join Confederation?
Ottawa, Feb. 21. — Mr. William Wyatt, a St. John's, Newfoundland, manufacturer, is here to-day, interviewing Parliamentarians on a Confederation mission. He says there is a strong feeling for union in Newfoundland, as a relief from combines, but that, what is required is a campaign to explain the benefits. Politicians there, he adds, are afraid of the question.

"T.J.J." Writes From Vancouver.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Allow me space in your valuable paper to say a word or two in regard to an item I saw in the Fishermen's Advocate, a few days ago. The heading was thus: "Not all Gold in Vancouver." It went on to say that the Salvation Army provided for 210 families. Well now, it seems that it did not refer to any other church but they had their share, you bet. I was in one church the night before Xmas Eve and I saw a lot of things that the school children were providing for the poor. (I mean Sunday school children), besides the money that was collected, which amounted to a good many dollars. Another thing I noticed was a double row of stockings that were on strings which numbered something like seventy-three pairs, for boys and girls, to be given for Santa Claus. Now the roll of that school is about six hundred, of which I had the privilege of being one of the teachers, but to tell the truth, it was no easy task to rule them. I could not do it, so I quit. All the things that were gathered together by the children went to the poor of this city. I was surprised to see this thing here in Vancouver, while at home it was only what one expected, if anyone did poor during the summer voyage. When at home you would hear one say it was a poor voyage, "Let us go out of this country we cannot live here, let us go to Vancouver, where there's lots of money," no doubt, but I tell you, it is not so easy earned when they come here, and I tell you that it's hard to get the chance here now. Ever since the first of January until now, almost everything has been tied up; one can hardly buy a job if he wanted one. And another thing you will hear also, "When you get to Vancouver they will not rob us of what we earn like some do at home," I have heard it said. Well boys of Terra Nova, harken to me—if you come here without a few thousand dollars you will soon find your mistakes. If you have the money you can live at home and that is all you will do here, for I can tell you that as soon as you put your foot on this soil all you will hear is money! money! and it almost seems as if the cry comes from the ground. If you go down town you will hear some one telling you, go inside, everything is going cheap, so you may go in and buy, but I tell you it's no sale, it's a graft in most places. It seems as if most things here are done by graft. Now barbers at home do not look at this, you may get wise to this price which I'm going to say a word about, so as you may get to learn a little of this rich city. I suppose they saw me coming. I went in to a barber's shop to get a hair cut and a shampoo. I went through the process and when he was finished I asked what he charged and the feeble answer was "two dollars and fifty." What do you think of it? That was the Union price, he told me. Now boys can you get treated any worse at home? I doubt it; no use of kicking, pay and get out. It seems as if they can charge what they wish. I suppose this is about the worst place in the world for graft. Poor people have but very little chance to live here, especially if they have a large family to keep; it would take them all their time to keep the wolf away. What about now, you may say. Well it's bad enough. According to reports people are starving for the want of food and coal. Yes, that is another thing. Coal at the pit is $3.50 and added and carted to Mount Pleasant 7th Avenue is $8.50, some $9. What would it be by the time it would reach the 5th Avenue? I don't know. There are quite a number of things I could write about that would be about the same as I have told you. It may take up too much space in your valuable paper. Thanking you for space, I remain,
Yours truly,
—T. J. J.

The Deadlock Still Continues.

Special to Evening Telegram.
OTTAWA, March 6.
At 3 o'clock this afternoon the fourth day of the continuous session commenced. It is evident that the battle over the Naval question must end either in an election or the closure. Both sides are able to continue speaking indefinitely. There have been a number of splendid speeches delivered at most unreasonable hours. Fiery eloquence has been poured over empty benches while the sun has been rising, and long before sun up, as well. Experienced observers have seldom seen two parties so determinedly divided. Parliament is not quite as jaunty as yesterday, as the novelty of the continuous performance has worked off.

 The first demonstration in America of Dr. Friedmann's treatment, which the visiting Berlin physician declares will cure tuberculosis, was given by Dr. Friedmann himself yesterday in the presence of physicians representing the city, State and staffs of hospitals in several cities. Three patients, two men and a woman, were selected by Friedmann from fifty tuberculosis sufferers gathered from all parts of the city, all hopeful that they would receive treatment. The woman had been ill three years; hers is a chronic case of disease at the knee, and was the most serious of the three chosen. The two men have tuberculosis of the lungs and their cases are not beyond the incipient stage, according to the authorities of the People's Hospital, where the demonstration was held. The physicians present brought forward a dozen persons suffering with the disease in all its stages, the medical history in each case being available for Dr. Friedmann's use. Statistics had been prepared at his request. The Berlin physician declined to treat any of those cases, however, but made his own selections. Each of those treated received double injections in muscle and in veins. Dr. Friedmann explained to those about him that the first reaction might be expected to be observed after seven days. The patients went to their homes with instructions to return three weeks hence, when Friedmann promised to treat them again. Meanwhile the Medical Board of the Hospital will have these three under constant observation, and as soon as results are observed a statement will be issued.

LONDON, To-Day.
 The fall of Janina to Greek arms after more than three months' gallant defence by Essed Pasha is expected to have the effect of expediting peace negotiations. It will at the same time add complexities after the war settlement as Janina is the one city which it has been claimed would be included in new autonomous Albania. There has been no change in the diplomatic situation. A reply to the allies in regard to mediation by the Powers is still awaited. Orders for mobilization by Austria and Russia, which is daily expected, have not been issued. No confirmation has been received re the reported sinking by a Turkish cruiser of three Greek transports, and it is semi-officially denied. An Athens-Scutari dispatch published at Vienna says: The Crown Prince of Montenegro, during the recent fighting, had a narrow escape from capture by the Turks, who surrounded him, and afterwards killed every man of a Serbian battalion which went to the Prince's rescue.

Special to Evening Telegram.
ROME, To-Day.
 The surrender of Janina was learned by members of a large Greek colony here with great satisfaction. The fall of this Turkish fortress prior to the surrender of the citadel of Adrianople and Thrace is especially pleasing to them, as it demonstrates, they point out, the good military organization of the Greeks. It is the general belief, however, that the undisputed possession of Epirus by Greece will delay the conclusion of peace, as the claims of the allied Balkan nations will now become larger.

Cochrane St. Church
 On Sunday morning the congregation of the above Church will have the privilege of hearing the Rev. Dr. Edicott who will deal specially with the great missionary question. Dr. Edicott, for a number of years, was stationed in China and has therefore large experience of the actual work and conditions prevailing in the mission field. He occupied a unique position in the work there, had the privilege of travelling over a large extent of the territory, and the honor of meeting the Viceroys and other high public officials. His story is a most interesting one, and being a man of great magnetism, his portrayal of events and conditions brings such very clearly before his audience, while his appeal is thrilling. The large congregations who have already heard him have been greatly inspired, and no doubt many will take advantage of the opportunity to hear him on Sunday morning. Visitors will be gladly welcomed by the Church officials, and everything possible will be done to make the service one to be remembered.

An Explanation.

On the 4th day of June last there appeared in the Evening Chronicle an article entitled "More Trouble in Coakerite Banks," and on the 5th day of the same month there was published by the Chronicle an article entitled "Coker Nuts For Coker." On the 10th day of June two sections for libel were taken in respect of these publications by the Fishermen's Union Trading Co., Ltd., against the Chronicle Publishing Co., and proceedings for the two actions have been intermittently proceeding ever since. Both actions have now been settled, the defendant agreeing to publish the following explanation:

The Trading Company had shipped a cargo of coal to Cupids, and it was measured out there in coal tubs, about which it was complained that they were undersized. About the same time a shipment of salt, forwarded by the order of the Trading Company to the Local Council at Greenspond, turned out 17 lbs. short of the amount invoiced. Commenting on these two matters of fact, the Chronicle, in the first article referred to, made comments which, according to the Trading Company, were capable of the construction that there was some dishonest practice on the part of the Trading Company. Both the above proceedings were again referred to by the Chronicle in the second article above mentioned, and comments were made to the effect that similar shortages might be expected to occur with relation to further shipments of oil or goods by the Trading Company to the members of the P. P. U., and it was said that the moral of the situation was that purchasers from the Trading Company would be wise to weigh or measure before taking delivery of purchases.

In the course of the proceedings it has developed that the Chronicle was inaccurately and insufficiently informed concerning the matters of fact commented upon. As regards the coal, it is now clear that the Trading Company, having sold a cargo to the Cupids Local Council, had no direct or financial interest in the distribution of the coal amongst the members of the Local Council, that purchasers could really obtain all that they were paying for, and nobody was defrauded by the use of the tubs. As to the salt, the fact is that the cargo was shipped by a commercial firm in the city, at the request of the Trading Company, and that if the shortage did not occur the tubs to Greenspond from St. John's, the shippers were responsible for the shortage, and not the Trading Company. It is therefore perfectly clear that neither in the matter of the coal nor the salt was there, in the facts as they have been ascertained, even the slightest ground for attributing any fault whatever to the Trading Company.

It only remains on behalf of the Chronicle Publishing Company to express regret for such insinuations of dishonesty, if any, as may fairly be drawn from the language used in the articles referred to. The Chronicle published its statements and made its comments in good faith, believing the statements to be true and the comments warranted, but examination has proved this not to be the case, and this explanation is willingly made.

Mr. Kent, K.C., and Mr. Morine, K.C., acted for the Trading Company, and Mr. Warren, K.C., for the Chronicle. (Sgd.) Chronicle Publishing Co., Ltd.

 Clinging to the topmast head, with their heads barely above the waters of the Delaware Bay, Capt. Campbell and crew of three were rescued after his schooner "Samuel Bateman" had sunk near Morris River Cove. A heavy gust of wind struck the vessel causing her to careen over, allowing the water to pour in through open hatches. The masthead with four men clinging to it was only a few feet above water when the tug arrived and effected the rescue.

MEXICO CITY, To-Day.
 Ten thousand seasoned troops are to be placed under the command of Brigadier General Cuello, former Chief President of Porfirio Diaz's staff and hero of the battle of Casas Grandes, in the early Madero revolution, has been ordered to move against the rebels in the North at an early date. Two thousand men in addition to those already dispatched are preparing to proceed to Coahuila to give combat to the rebels under Carranza the rebel Governor. According to latest information reaching here, Carranza now has 3,000 men, six cannons. His forces are spread over a large extent of territory from Llanquihuap through the eastern half of Coahuila.

LONDON, To-Day.
 Municipal reformers for the third time have secured a big majority in the London County Council. Although not so large as in 1907, when they held a majority of 40, they have improved this position, however, over 1910 when their majority was only two; of 118 members elected, 97 are reformers, 51 progressives. Nine seats gained by reformers and 27 by progressives are so widely distributed that they indicate no specially noteworthy change of opinion of the reformers who are called in opinion to Conservatives in Parliament. Besides increasing their majority to 16, they will be able still further to strengthen it by the election of ten aldermen.

NEW YORK, To-Day.
 The acceptance by President Wilson of the Honorary Presidency of the American Peace Arbitration League is announced by the League.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Mar. 7, 1913.

As a spring tonic at this time of year you can find nothing better than McMurdo's Quinine and Iron Tonic. This will revitalize the system and enable it to throw off the effete matter that has accumulated during the winter. It will strengthen the digestive organs and improve the appetite. As a general tonic when there is weakness and no organic disease, we have nothing better to offer. Price 10 cents a bottle.

Andrew Jergen's Glycerine Soap is going to make its mark as an emollient and soap for shampoo and toilet purposes generally. We sell it at the low price of 25c. for two cakes; by the single cake 15c.

FURRIER RETURNS.—Mr. John Griffin, the old trapper and hunter, who is 50 years old, arrived by train from the interior yesterday. He spent the winter alone at his work at the half-way house amidst the solitudes and had it cold and stormy, but looks as fit as a man not more than half his age.

Here and There.

SNOWING TO-DAY.—It is snowing to-day up west but the weather is very mild.

The Argyle left Baine Harbor at 10 a.m. yesterday, inward.

The Ethlie is detained at Placentia.

FURNACE LINE.—The s.s. Almeriana arrived at Liverpool at 10 a.m. to-day after a passage of eight days from this port.

PORTIA ICE-BOUND.—Bowring Bros. had word to-day from Channel saying that the Portia was still detained there by ice.

SEALS REPORTED.—Messages received to-day say that the ice is moving out of the northern harbors and that bedlamer seals are plentiful.

B. I. S. TOURNEY.—The B. I. S. are preparing for a billiard tournament to be played for a dinner which will be held during the Easter season.

SAGONA STRUCK.—We learn that the s.s. Sagona, which arrived last night, struck a shoal going into Louisburg harbor and will be docked before going to the icefields.

STILL JAMMED.—The Reid Ndd. Co. has the following wireless from the Bruce this forenoon: "At 9 a.m. am in position 8 miles off Channel Head! Gale W.S.W. wind, ice in heavy sheets; am keeping off until weather improves."

RANGER SAILS.—The s.s. Ranger did not get away for Wesleyville until noon to-day. The delay was caused by an iron chain fastening around the ship's rudder. The mishap was adjusted this morning by Diver Squires.

Joseph Gibbs, John McGrath and James Foley, three vagrants, who were arrested last week and remanded pending an investigation by the police, were arraigned to-day before Judge Knight charged with stealing a quantity of provisions valued at $10 within the past two weeks from the Horwood Lumber Co. The prisoners were convicted. McGrath and Gibbs got six months each and Foley two months.

A local express left Port aux Basques for St. John's at 8 a.m. to-day. Yesterday's west bound express left Notre Dame Junction at 11 a.m. to-day.

Why Who's Who.

BY H. L. RANN.

Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt is a living example of the solemn truth that an actress does not need to be constructed on the lines of a straw stick in order to succeed in her profession. Sarah has something to fall back upon besides amplitude and the set of full, dimpling curves which Robert W. Chambers uses in his magazine novels. That something is brains, a commodity that does not run riot on the French stage.

Mrs. Bernhardt came over this fall to renew her acquaintance with American folk and show a little acting which does not rely upon the lack of costume. The first time a stranger sees Sarah under way, he is harassed by the fear that she will not hold together throughout the first act. It is evident to all who see her that she is not harboring any adipose tissue. To express it in terms which will not bar this journal from the home circle, Sarah is slender. She has the appearance of one who has set out to beat Dr. Tanner's forty-day fast and is just rounding into the home stretch. Mrs. Bernhardt is a versatile actress and can play any role except that of Falstaff. Her best hold is Camille, a dubious individual who lies down in the last act and expires in a very satisfactory and wholehearted manner. Mrs. Bernhardt's Camille has sent thousands of people home to remove the chills from their spines over a hot-air register and incidentally to look up several long French words. Mrs. Bernhardt has excellent command of the French language and can make it sound almost like the real article.

Some time ago Mrs. Bernhardt got tired of being bossed around by theatre owners and stage hands and built a play house of her own in Paris, where she can put on anything from "Ben Hur" to a sheath gown. She has lately taken to vaudeville, which has a very soothing salary attached to it in this country. She carries a large cluster of dogs with her, and thinks more of them than some men do of their wives. Mrs. Bernhardt's farewell visit is scheduled for 1912.

Firemen's Strike.

Last night the Firemen's Union held a meeting which occupied three hours, when the trouble between the Union and Bowring Bros., was fully considered. At their previous meeting they had resolved to invite Mr. Coaker, President of the F.P.U., to attend and tender their advice. Mr. Coaker attended last night and received a splendid reception and was vigorously cheered by the men who entered and when he left the meeting. Resolutions of a very reasonable nature, were passed, which, if accepted by Bowring Bros., will end the trouble. The men were delighted with Mr. Coaker's remarks and vowed they would stand by him next fall, as his plans to uplift the toilers were just what every working man should support.

TWO DRUNKS.—The police last night arrested two drunks. The city for several weeks past has been very orderly.

The Mission.

The Mission Services at St. Patrick's Church were again largely attended last night when Rev. Father Holland recited the Rosary and gave short instructions. Rev. Fr. McPhail held the pulpit and from a passage out of St. Paul to the Corinthians preached a most forceful, instructive and impressive discourse on drunkenness and sins against holy purity. He denounced the vengeance of an outraged God against those who would appear before Him with their souls contaminated with these awful vices. He exhorted all to do penance for their sins, to avoid unchastity and intemperance as they valued their salvation and to turn to God for strength to keep the good resolutions which all had made during the mission. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament followed at which Rev. Father Holland officiated.

Hundreds of men received Holy Communion in the Church at the 5 a. m. and 8:30 a. m. Masses this morning while many last night were enrolled in the Order of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

C. L. B. Annual.

The W. and N. C. O.'s Mess, C. L. B., held their annual meeting last night. There was a large attendance and the various reports submitted showed a substantial surplus on hand despite the fact that over $300 was paid on the building debt last year. The election of officers resulted as follows:—

Chairman—Sergt. P. G. Reid.
 Vice-Chairman—Staff-Sergt. Rees.
 Secretary—Corp. W. Moty.
 Treasurer—L. C. C. Stevenson.
 Committee:—Sergt. Major C. B. Dicks, Sergt. Ins. Ebsary, Sergt. G. Strong, Col. Sergt. F. Miles, Sergt. P. Marshall and Sergt. H. Barnes.
 Votes of thanks were passed the retiring Chairman and Secretary, Sergeant Instructor Ebsary and Sergt. Barnes. The annual dinner will take place April 9th.

Lt.-Colonel Rendell read a letter from Major Davenport to His Excellency the Governor on the excellent turn-out and the splendid appearance of the C. L. B. at the opening of the Assembly.

The meeting adjourned until next Thursday night when arrangements will be made for the indoor sports.

Special to Evening Telegram.

BERLIN, March 6. The total number of German blue-jackets and navy officers killed as the result of the ramming of the torpedo boat destroyer, S 178, by the cruiser Yorck, off Heligoland, is greater than was at first supposed. The official death-list issued by the Admiralty to-day shows 2 officers and 69 men perished, not, however, by drowning, but because most of them were frozen to death while clinging to loose spars after the vessel sank. A belated account of the disaster stated that the Destroyer, while crossing the bows of the Yorck, became unmanageable, owing to terrific seas, and was cut in two by the bigger vessel, which was going at full speed. The storm made rescue impossible. Many of the corpses were not picked up until this morning.

VIENNA, March 6. According to a Constantinople despatch, the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh, to-day sank three Greek transports, loaded with Servian troops on their way to Serbia. The attack on the transports occurred near the peninsula of Hagion Oros in the Aegean Sea. This would make it appear that the transports were proceeding to Gallipoli, where it was proposed some time ago by the Balkan Allies to make a flank attack on the Turkish troops defending the Bosphorus. The convoy of Greek transports was a large one, consisting of 24 vessels, which carried 34 guns. They were encountered by the cruiser shortly after they had left the coast. With her powerful 47 guns she was able to create havoc among the practically unprotected transports loaded with soldiers.

ATHENS, March 6. The Turkish fortress of Janina was entered at 9 a.m. to-day by three squadrons of Greek Cavalry under General Souzo. The Greek Army took 32,000 Turkish prisoners, comprising the whole of the ordinary garrison and many refugees from Monastir and other places. The capture of Janina places Greece in a much stronger position to deal with Bulgaria when the time comes for a division of the spoils of war.

ATHENS, March 6. Premier Venizelos announced the victory in the Chamber of Deputies, to-day. All leaders of the opposition congratulated the Crown Prince and Army on the brilliant achievement. A telegram was despatched to the Crown Prince, on behalf of the Chamber, by the Premier, expressing the gratitude of the nation.

BARBADOS, March 6. The British schooner Nettle Louise, from Bahia to St. John's, Nfld., has arrived here with her rudder damaged. [The Nettle Louise is owned by Messrs. Bowring Bros., and is in charge of Capt. Mark Burke. The ship was formerly owned by Munn & Co., Harbour Grace.]

From British Columbia.

Messrs. James Hearn, Ed. Barnes, M. Sullivan and Eosun Jno. Murphy, who figured so much with Peary in the Arctic, arrived from Seshort, B.C., yesterday. They had been two years in the whale factories at Vancouver, and went forward with Mr. M. F. Carroll, when the old Bruce was lost and most of the men did good work landing passengers. The men made good wages, getting $50 per month and 25 cents per hour overtime with 40 cents per hour on steamboats. Mr. M. Carroll has resigned the position he held with the whaling combine and has gone into the insurance business. The other men out there are all well and some of them will likely return home later.

Hockey.

A hockey match was played Wednesday night at the Prince's Rink at 6:30, between the Blues and the Regals. The game resulted in a draw the score being 4 goals each. The following were the players: Blues—R. Field, goal; R. Volsey, point; J. Bugden, cover; E. Chafe, rover; R. Royal, left; W. Knight, centre; P. Cornick, right. Regals—A. Burgess, goal; E. Jerratt, point; P. Snow, rover; M. Stick, rover; L. Croucher, left; F. Willis, centre; W. Hall, right. Mr. F. Rendell acted as referee. During the game Chafe, of the Blues, and Croucher, Regals, received slight injuries, but were able to continue the game.

From the Wreck.

Mr. H. Baird wired Captain Martin yesterday for further particulars of the wreck and received a reply last evening that he (the Captain) had not been aboard the ship since Wednesday morning owing to the condition of the ice, which was holding the ship tight to the land. A message was received from Branch stating that the Labrador was in an upright position and apparently semi-submerged. A number of the residents of Branch and the crew are engaged salvaging the ship's stores. It is thought that the best way to send the crew back would be by the s.s. Portia, which is due here about Sunday.

Sealers' Concert.

The Grenfell Hall of the new Seamen's Institute was filled to its utmost capacity last night with sealers and fishermen who attended the concert given by the C.L.B. Band, which discoursed a series of pleasing selections. A couple of motion pictures of the sealers were then shown. A grand concert will be held to-night.

Would Keep Him Busy.

Father and son lived in the heart of the little mining town. Father was a pitman, but son, up to now, had not exactly made up his mind what he wanted to take up as a career. Of one thing his father was certain, and that was that Bill should never descend a pit, whatever else he did, or didn't do.

As luck would have it, a man who owned a live-stock shop advertised for a boy just about this time, and father, on behalf of Bill, applied for the job, and got it for his young hopeful.

Naturally he thought his worst worries were over now that the boy was settled. But possibly he might have had one or two uneasy qualms on that score could he have seen Bill's behaviour in his new sphere of activity.

After taking fully two hours to feed one small canary with three diminutive seeds, Bill turned to his master, and asked, slowly:

"Wot will I do now?"
 "Do," replied that worthy, who had been an interested, if exasperated, spectator of the canary pantomime.
 "Why, now you'd better let the tortoise loose, and take him for a run in the park."

In 1662 Dr. Stubbs wrote a book about chocolate called "The Indian Nectar."

Here are some passages from his treatise:

"the Indians (of the tropics) by the help of cacao nuts (cocoa beans) alone do subsist all day, notwithstanding their great labor, and heat."

"I dare avow that one ounce of Cacao-paste (beaten cocoa beans) well digested, will yield more fat than a pound of fat beef or mutton."

Were he alive today, what a good time Dr. Stubbs would have over a cup of Lowney's Cocoa.

Lowney's is simply cocoa at its best. The cocoa beans used are carefully chosen from the best yields of the tropics. They are carefully roasted, blended and ground in our Montreal factory.

The flavor of a properly prepared cup of Lowney's Cocoa is simply delicious.

Our London Letter.

The excitement last night and today over the death of Capt. Scott and his brave companions reminds one of an episode in the Boer War—the Siege of Ladysmith; as then every one is affected by this melancholy occurrence, and the nation is stirred to the profoundest depths. Every Englishman feels the glory as well as the sorrow of it and realizes that the traditions of his country are still upheld. Capt. Oates' words are on every lip—the most unselfish ever uttered: "I am going outside and I may be some time." "He went out into the blizzard and we have not seen him since."

"Greater love hath no man than this." He'd surrender to the Boers, but his brave spirit passed amid the icy Regions of the Southern Zone! 14th—I went to the Memorial Service at St. Paul's to-day held in honor of the dead heroes. It was grand, impressive and melancholy. The King was present, and having a seat on the second row of the side aisle I was thus enabled to see him all through the ceremony. He wore an admiral's uniform and looked much better than when in St. John's as Duke of Cornwall. Although a small man, yet he carried himself well, and though with none of his Royal father's strong personality, still he has a very distinguished presence. One thing I noticed particularly—the never moved from the time he took his position in front of the altar till he knelt down, and then he did not use the priedien placed before his chair, but knelt on the kneeling pad like the rest of his subjects.

All the Cabinet in Diplomatic Dress occupied seats to the left and slightly back from the King; even "plain John Burns," not eschewing the "lawdy tinsel." The Prime Minister and Miss Violet Asquith were the first to take seats reserved for the ministers—Miss Asquith being in black, as were many among the congregation. The splendid band of the Coldstream Guards took part in the musical renderings of the service, which, with the magnificent organ and choir, made almost incomparable harmony. To hear "The Dead March" from such a combination was a thing to be remembered. It was all so sad, with the memory of the dead bodies lying so far away frozen in the ice glaciers "under the snow"—under the snow forever.

There Were Many Tears Shed among the vast audience, as I presume similar thoughts passed through their minds; but presently a crash a beating of drums, and the welcome strains of "God Save the King" filled the vast building, the tune of which every one filed into into the rush and roar and tumult of London.

No New Fashions. To speak of new fashions is ridiculous—I don't see any. Every woman in the street still wears the "straight line" skirts and there's not the slightest change from a year ago. In fact they are worn narrower at the hem than they were last year, and the draped effect we heard so much of doesn't seem to take at all. To be sure there is some on evening gowns but it's more lace, chiffon, &c., is being used to create such effects, and panels of such are again being introduced as were seen about three years ago. Every one knows that operas or plays rule the fashions to some extent, or at least give modistes many hints; for instance, "The Merry Widow" gave us some of the Prettiest Dresses Ever Worn—the most stylish hats and the high osprey in the hair, which for evening wear is still the favourite, only now it's worn more drooping. Let us hope that "Drake" now being played at "His Majesty's," will not give us the ruffs and crinolines and other abominations of that time. One thing it has revived the rich brocades and colours of the Court of "Queen Bess," and while very rich and handsome and I think very ancient-looking for youthful gowns, all the same many of the Court trains at Buckingham Palace the other night were of this same material. Speaking of

The Drama "Drake," it is gorgeously staged—the night attack by the Intrepid Drake—the report of a cannon, the smoke, the flickering lights—in fact all the "pomp and circumstance" of war; even the galleons of Spain—the proud yet vanquished Spanish Armada in Portsmouth Harbour! And then the ringing of the "thousand tongued bells of London"—the shouts of the populace, the general rejoicing! Certainly Sir Herbert Tree knows how to stage his pieces! There are many fine things on in London this winter—"Ready Money," "Milestone," &c., &c., but to me the most astonishing drama is ever London itself, with its miles and miles of streets traversed by millions and millions of every nationality.

Its Dazzling Shops, its palatial hotels, its places of amusement and interest, and the order by which its gigantic traffic is conducted, guided by the vigilant finger of the "monarch of the street," the incomparable police! But to return to the all-important topic of Fashion, there is certainly very little change. Coats and skirts in tweed, serge, "whip cord," corduroy, velour velvet, &c., &c., are still de rigueur while the "kimona" wrap has again returned to favour only more on the lines of the Japanese garment than ever, being wide and much collared and trimmed at the shoulders and very narrow at the hem; in fact many ladies may be taken for Japs so closely do they follow them in both raiment and the mode of wearing the hair. In the latter, though, there are many pretty ways, the prettiest and most simple to part it at the side and wave it right over the ears, making a coil at the back of the neck, which shows to advantage under

The New, Elongated Shaped Hats. Of course bandeaus are still as fashionable as ever, and very brilliant ones are to be seen at dinners, where the Englishwomen shine to advantage; then of course in the stalls and boxes at the theatre one gets a good idea of what is best and most becoming in the fashionable "world of women." In colours, shades of purple and erise hold their own—in fact are prominent, the dark shade of the first often used with the latter. Hats are both small and medium and the shapes are very becoming; not so many monstrosities as formerly, and are not trimmed nearly so heavily.

A New Shade Called "Lime" (like faded grass) is among the spring showings, both in costumes and hats; but every colour is to be seen, and never had individual tastes such chances to assert itself. "Tigal" and Crimoline are still the favourite materials for the fashionable chapeau. I don't see many long coats among the spring wraps; presuming they were so generally worn the past winter, and so many ladies have to use them motoring, we conclude the coat and skirt and kimona wrap are more of a change. Here is a Real Dyspepsia Cure.

"Pape's Dipepsin" settles upset Stomachs and ends indigestion in five minutes.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic jot this down: Pape's Dipepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Dipepsin comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Dipepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

The Kicker.

I'd hate to be a kicker, and fuss around and beef; so many folks are sicker than those who deal in grief. I'd hate to be a-knocking, and have the knocker's fame, and spending my lifetime blocking some fellows' useful game. In every town and city the kicker wield his jaw; it seems a frightful pity he's not suppressed by law, that people cannot rally around the croaking jake, and take him to an alley and burn him at the stake. The kicker is contagious, like every other here; his arguments outrageous make other people sore; he's like a rotten apple that spoils the other fruit, and so we all should grapple with this condemned gnat. One kicker in a village, who kicks with might and main, is worse than pest or pillage or surf-fraught campaign. One kicker in a hamlet will flood the place with woes, so when you see a jam let his muddy waters flow. And yet we only snicker or spring a feeble sneer when we behold the kicker do deadly damage here. We should at once endeavor that kicker to surround, and lock him up forever safe in the village pound.

Overhill, 1911, by Max Moore
The S. S. Bellaventure returned from the Northward at 3 p.m. yesterday with sailing crews numbering 500, having called at Pool's Island, King's Cove, Trinity and Catalina. She also brought up Captains J. Kneec, G. Darbour, and Jacob Keen. All Bonaville Bay is packed tightly with ice and the Bellaventure had a difficult task butting her way along.

Curtain Secrets.

No article of house furnishing adds more to the comfort and elegance of the home than Lace Curtains.

How to wash and dry them—how to keep them fresh and clean—is a problem every housewife should face.

Curtains to be kept in good order should be carefully washed every 60 days and dried on a stretcher.

To save money, to save curtains, and to get results in washing and drying, you should wash your curtains at home.

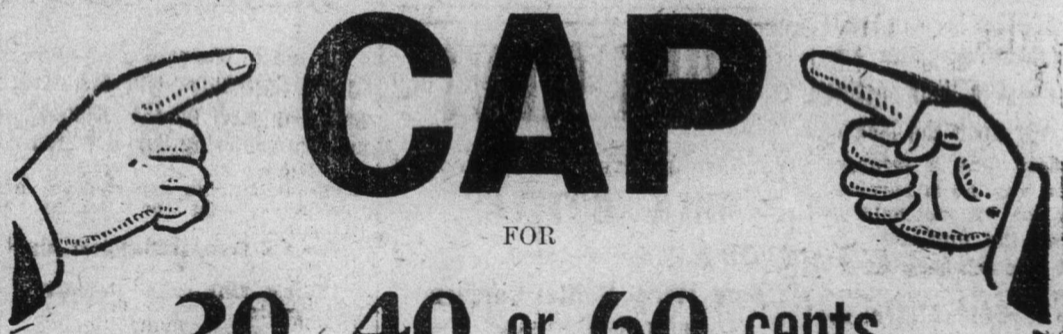

We sell the NO-PIECE CURTAIN STRETCHER. Call and we will demonstrate how they work.

Roses, Roses

King Solomon in eloquent and appreciative language paid tribute to their beauty.
 To the Ancient Greeks the Rose owes its title of "Queen of Flowers."
 The Romans at public and private festivals used them profusely, even making couches literally beds of roses.

We offer you every variety:
Garden Roses.
Tea Roses.
Climbing Roses.
Standard Roses.
Moss Roses.
 The kinds that give satisfaction.

Published by Authority.

On the recommendation of the Minister of Agriculture and Mines, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to order that the cutting of timber on any Crown Land within the following area be prohibited, except for firewood, for the purposes of the fishery, or for building and other purposes in connection with farming operations. The area above referred to is described and bounded as follows:—
 All that piece and parcel of land bounded on the South East by the Bay Bulls Road, and extending along said road from Doyle's Bridge seven miles more or less towards Bay Bulls; thence running South West-erly seven miles more or less at right angles to the general trend of the said Bay Bulls Road; thence about North West-erly seven miles more or less; and thence in a straight line seven miles more or less to the place of commencement. Containing forty-nine square miles more or less.
