The Heir of Bayneham

—AND—
Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER IV.

Ten years passed away, and brought with them great changes to Brynmar. Sir Ralph and Lady Erskine slept with their ancestors in the family vault; Lady Hutton was sole mistress of the Hall, and of the large fortune left by her father. She heard once from Magdalen Hurst; and then a silence, deep and unbroken as the silence of death, hid the mother of Lady Hutton's ward from all who had ever known her. The letter was a brief one, stating that she had found her husband, and in accordance with her promise never told him to whom she had confided her child. Hilda had been adopted, she said, by a lady who did not wish her name to be known; he seemed quite indifferent about it, and asked no questions.

Lady Hutton read correctly enough that a broken heart was revealed in every sad word of that letter. Magdalen Hurst sent no address; she asked no questions, and Lady Hutton never heard from her again.

Day by day Lady Hutton grew fonder of her adopted daughter. Hilda was taught to call her mamma, and in every way she was treated as her own child. No expense or trouble was spared in her education; the most accomplished governesses were provided for her. The child spoke French and German fluently; she was a good musician and a skilful artist, but she excelled most in singing. Nature gifted her with a magnificent contralto voice, rich, passionate and full of melody; cultivation and science did their utmost for it.

Once in a way nature is thus kind; she will give a face such as one imagines an angel to wear, and with it she gives a voice that matches the face. She had been thus prodigal to Hilda Hutton.

Brynmar was situated in one of the

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Health better than ready-made. "Felix" cough and croup remedy. Ready and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar-syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saved only 5¢. Takes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the misery throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the primary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept any thing else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

most picturesque and beautiful parts of the Scotch Highlands. Hill and mountain, river and lake, woods and dells, glens and valleys, were there in their highest perfection. Broad woods were covered with the purple heather and golden broom; but the finest portion of Brynmar was its bonny green woods. The Hall was built near them, and one or two cottages were scattered around, and but for them the large, rambling gray house would have been isolated. No other habitation was near; for long miles the woods extended; and when they ended the chain of lakes began. No home in Scotland was more picturesque or more lonely than Brynmar. Its quiet and solitude suited the widowed Lady Hutton; she was not one who could parade her grief. It was very rarely that the name of her dead husband or child passed her lips, but her heart lay buried with them. She was still young when Lord Hutton died, but from that time she had adieu to the world. Her only source of happiness was her warm and deep affection for her beautiful young ward.

No one knew the girl's history; and even among the servants, only a small number knew that she was Lady Hutton's adopted daughter—most people believed her to be the lady's own child. She was called Miss Hutton of Brynmar; and it was generally known that she would inherit Lady Hutton's fortune.

Few visitors ever came to Brynmar, so the beautiful, graceful girl grew up like a rare flower in deep shade. She loved her adopted mother; she was happy with her books and birds and flowers. Of the great world outside Brynmar she knew little, and cared less. She was in many respects unlike other girls. For one thing, she had never associated with those of her own age; she had never talked pretty girlish tales about love and lovers. Dimly and vaguely she knew that there was a great and mighty gift given to most, and it was called "love." She never wondered if it would come to her. She wore bright fancies and fair visions; but the heart of a sleeping child was not more innocent than hers. If she ever thought about the future it was but to see a bright continuation of the present. What could be more fair than her home at Brynmar? Who could ever be dearer to her than the calm, gentle, stately lady who loved her so well? She had no longing for the great world. The beautiful face that smiled amid the blooming flowers was contented and happy; there was no restless eagerness in it, no vague hopes, no great wish. The course of her life was calm and serene, untroubled by love—its depths unmoved by human passion. All that had to come, in the sleeping breast there lay a wondrous power of love and endurance—powers that in after years were well tried.

No question ever came to Hilda as to what she would do with her life. Its calm, simple pleasures sufficed; she never looked beyond them; but Lady Hutton was ambitious for her. Day by day she watched the growth of that wondrous loveliness, and built her hopes upon it. The world she had given up and ceased to care for should smile upon her ward. She spared no pains over her education, and she rarely allowed her to be long out of her presence.

There were times when Lady Hutton asked herself if she had done quite right. She had taken this young girl from her own natural sphere of life; she had taken her from her parents and brought her up in the midst of luxury and wealth as her own child. Had she done well in trying to alter and shape a human destiny to suit her own purposes? Should she not have been contented and resigned when her great bereavement came? These questions haunted her at intervals; but even had she been wrong it was too late to undo what was done. The cottage from which she had taken her could never again be a home for the graceful, accomplished girl, whose every word and action were full of refinement. The beautiful young peasant-mother could never now take her right place as superior to her child.

It is a serious thing to undertake to shape out or alter a destiny, and so Lady Hutton felt it. But her plans were all arranged; she hoped that Hilda would preserve her beautiful childlike simplicity; nothing like it was ever seen in the great world. As soon as she reached her seventeenth year Lady Hutton intended taking her to London. With her beauty and prospects, talents in plenty would surround her, and from them Lady Hutton decided she should choose the noblest and the best; but not one word of these plans did she ever mention to Hilda.

"Her heart will be untouched," thought Lady Hutton; "her fancy will be free. If I use my influence she will marry whom I please, and that will be the most eligible man who presents himself. She will be something different from the general run of young ladies. I shall have no troublesome love affairs with her."

With her talents and wealth Lady Hutton could do much, but she could not control fate. One day, and once only, had the girl asked any questions about her parents.

"Mamma," she said one day to the stately mistress of Brynmar. "I am not your very own daughter, am I?"

"Who has been talking such nonsense to you, Hilda?" was the impatient question.

"Elsie, your old housekeeper," replied Hilda. "She says I am your adopted daughter, and that I have another mother living away from here."

"Elsie will leave Brynmar if I hear any more gossiping," said Lady Hutton laughingly. "Listen to me, Hilda. You are my dear adopted child; no one else in this world has any claim upon you. I had a little daughter—my own once, and when she was taken from me you supplied her place. You have no friend but myself."

"Lady Hutton," said the young girl earnestly, "who was my mother? Tell me something of her."

Her fair young face was pale and wistful.

"There is nothing to tell you, my dear," replied Lady Hutton, "she was my friend—we were children together—I adopted you; and surely, Hilda, you want no one else save me!"

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

The tilted bristles and the curved handle of the Propyl-lactic Tooth Brush make it possible to clean even the backs of the teeth and in between them.

"A Clean Tooth Never Decays"

THE curved handle makes the back teeth about as easy to clean as the front ones. Adult's, youth's, and child's sizes. Always sold in the yellow box. For sale by leading druggists.

Besides twice-a-day brushing of the teeth, it is wise and economical to visit your dentist four times a year for examination and attention, which is sure to be slight.

Yacht Goes Near to Top of World.

The Hon. Arthur Guinness's yacht Fantone II has just returned from a 1000-mile voyage to the northern coast of Spitzbergen, in which she won the distinction, according to experts, of sailing the farthest north ever made by a pleasure yacht.

As reported in the London Times, the yacht left Dover in August with a party of 14 men and women, made several calls at Norwegian ports, cruised among the fjords, and then rounded North Cape, and made for Spitzbergen. At Green harbor, a dismasted wireless station, the party found a man who had lived alone there for two years with a few dogs, and no other persons within several hundred miles.

The Fantone went through the Ice Fjord, where a large quantity of birds were seen; and called at Lockyear, the headquarters of the Spitzbergen coal mining industry, where most of the employees are Scottish, and are able to work only four months of the year. Off the coast of Spitzbergen the Fantone was frequently among ice floes, and the hull had to be protected by fenders. She encountered some heavy gales on the homeward voyage to Aberdeen.

Bees Don't Sting Him.

After a swarm of his own bees had settled on him, P. E. Brown of the post office at Wymeswold, Loughboro, Eng., walked thus laden to a hive, to which he successfully transferred them. Recounting his experience, he said:

"I had no jacket on when they settled on me, and my shirt sleeves were turned up. I shouted to a friend to come and take a photograph, but he dared not come anywhere near me. I then tried to find the queen, and after a few moments espied her running up to my shoulder."

"I quickly caught her, and then walked to a hive I had previously prepared. I took two good handfuls of bees from my hips and put them at the entrance of the hive with the queen. Then I gave several jumps and shook the bulk of the bees off me, but not for half an hour did I rid myself of all the bees."

"Throughout the whole operation I did not receive a single sting."

Violin Music

Charms Moose.

The tale of a strange friendship between a lonely trapper and a large bull moose through the common language of music has been brought back from the Stony river territory in northern Minnesota by Thomas Denley, chief forest ranger of that district.

Thirty-five miles from the nearest human habitation in the heart of the remote Clony river district lives Charley Lanie in a trapper's cabin, Denley relates.

Besides being one of the most successful trappers in the Minnesota wilderness, Lanie has ability with a violin bow and spends many of his evenings in the lonely woods playing old songs, favorites of years ago.

One of his most interested listeners is a large bull moose which comes to the river near the cabin and stands belly deep in the water while it hits its heavily antlered head toward the cabin and listens to the violin. When the concert is over he turns and disappears in the woods.

Lanie has had numerous opportunities to shoot the animal, but the kindred appreciation of music has stayed his hand.

Awkward.

The angry man rushed into the newspaper office. He had been reported as being present at a boxing-match. "You referred to me as the well-known light-weight champion," he roared. "Well—" said the editor. "I'm not. That's my brother. I'm the coal merchant."

WEATHER SHARPS SAY IT MEANS MILD WINTER.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Nov. 16.—J. Beaver, a farmer near here, yesterday picked several quarts of strawberries on his farm. Mr. Beaver reported thousands of plants are in blossom. That this is a sure harbinger of an open winter is the verdict of local weather sharps.

Met Married Parted in Three Weeks.

How's that for a whirlwind romance? They met, were married and separated within the period of three weeks. A foreign husband made his appearance before Recorder Semple of Montreal, Nov. 16. He wanted to know what he could do to recover the sheets and silverware that disappeared along with his bride. "Isn't that the girl I suspended a sentence against last week on a charge of vagrancy, when it was reported in court that she had married?" asked Recorder Semple. The husband admitted the facts. He said that she had come to work for him and that he thought she was too frail for hard labor, so he proposed to her. "We were married and I spent $900 furnishing an apartment for her. Last night when I came home she was gone and most of the apartment with her." Recorder Semple explained that nothing could be done in the court as long as they were legally married, so the husband strolled out dejectedly.

Mrs. MacSwiney Freed, Expected Nothing Else.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, freed yesterday after her arrest for picketing the British Embassy, said to-day that she had expected nothing else. She added that after a short rest in Virginia she would continue her tour of the country in behalf of the Irish Republican movement. "This," she asserted, "will certainly win in the end."

Giving It Up.

In a remote country hamlet, the post office was also the local store. One of the post office inspectors found fault with the way the postal business was being conducted. On leaving, he threatened with a lousy air: "You will hear from me when I return to headquarters in London."

The harassed postmaster disappeared for a moment, returning with a cigar box under his arm containing two books and a few shillingsworth of stamps. He held the box at arm's length towards the inspector.

"Here," he said, "take your bloomin' post office w' ye. I'm finished with it!"

Bluffing the Fishermen.

As we stated yesterday, few fishermen connected with the Union have an opportunity of seeing any other newspaper than the Advocate, consequently they are obliged to accept the dicta laid down by that journal, not being in possession of any evidence in rebuttal. Knowing this, Mr. Coaker is deliberate and studied in his outbursts to Council and Convention alike in promulgating the Kill-Coaker cry throughout the Coasts of Unionism. But thanks to the forward movement of the United Fishermen of the North, there are hundreds of men in St. John's to-day who are affiliated with the various Councils working in their particular localities. These men have been able to see other papers than the Advocate, and from them learn that the bubbleblings of Coaker are but froth. They have discovered that whatever hostility prevails, it is not directed against the commercial venture of the Union Trading and other Union Companies, but against the political influence which has been welded into these concerns. Coaker as a business man is as immune from criticism by the public press as any manager of like influence in Newfoundland. But Coaker as a politician, as a member of the House of Assembly, as a Minister of the Crown, is not beyond the realms of criticism or censure. Therein is all the difference in the world. As head of a department and administrator of that department, his conduct of the business thereof is something which concerns the public out of whose pockets comes the money wherewith to pay his salary. There is a wide gulf fixed between the General Manager of the Union Trading Company and the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, though they be both one and the same person. The former is responsible to the public at large for the conduct of the department of which he is head, and therefore the public reserves the right to criticize or praise, as the case may be, the working of that department and the actions of its head. The following gem is taken from the President's address, upon which we have advertised somewhat already: "For twelve years the Trading Company has been the political football of every political parasite and party; of almost every business concern and peddler." Note please that the President's vocabulary grows more extensive as year succeeds year, but his arguments decline, and it is only by luridly of language that he is able to hold his own. If the Trading Company has been kicked, as a football, all over the political gridiron, is it not the same Mr. Coaker and his parasitical following in the House of Assembly who have been the kickers? No use for him to cry touch down now. He has to carry on the bluff, and hoodwink the people who will shortly be pulling off the blinkers, which he has put upon them, and seeing for themselves the things that are. It is all both for any man or body of men to circulate whole cloth manufactured stories that everybody is antagonistic to the Trading Company. No such antagonism exists. Let those men of Bonavista and other places, who are in the city at present take back with them, when they return home, copies of all the newspapers opposed to the Squires-Coaker Government, and let an hitherto deluded people see for themselves that there is not an iota of truth in the President's oft repeated declarations that there is hatred of the Trading or associate Companies in existence outside his fertile imagination. Mr. Coaker must be made to remember, that he is a servant of the public, and if criticisms are directed against him, in his official capacity of Minister of Marine and Fisheries, such have nothing whatever to do with his management of the trade ramifications of the Union over which he presides, and to which he has, we learn, been again re-elected. The wonder would be if he were not.

To-Night's Meeting.

IMPORTANT MATTERS TO BE DISCUSSED. The public meeting being held to-night in the Star Hall, by the Opposition members of the House of Assembly promises to be largely attended. Many important matters will be discussed and the meeting promises to be full of interest.

Silver Cup Prize.

FOR RACE BETWEEN BELL AND JACKSON—IMPORTED FROM TORONTO.

Mr. Charles Scater, jeweller and optician on Water St., west, has ordered a specially designed silver cup, suitably engraved, from the Standard Plate Co., of Toronto for the 10 mile race between Bell and Jackson, which event takes place at the Prince's Rink next Monday night. Mr. Scater is hopeful that the cup will arrive on time. The trophy is being especially made at the factory for the occasion. It will be a beauty, and will no doubt be very much prized by the winner.

Enjoyable Luncheon.

U.F. DELEGATES MEET AT FESTIVE BOARD. The United Fishermen's delegates, and several guests enjoyed a very fine luncheon served in the small dining hall of the Grenfell Institute last night. About fifty persons were present. Capt. Jesse Winsor occupied the chair, making an ideal presiding officer. After the menu had been disposed of and toasts to the King and Chairman honored, general discussion was the order, and a decision was reached that no matter what happened in other circles the U.F. movement had to be carried on. Some little misunderstandings arising out of the day's activities were happily adjusted, and ere the close each and every member pledged himself to the other that the crusade originating at West-leville some two months ago, was not to be abandoned, but its doctrine preached in every district in the island. Five districts were represented at last night's gathering, and the determination of all expressed to see the movement through. Shortly before midnight the singing of the National Anthem terminated a very enjoyable and successful evening.

Supreme Court.

In the matter of the petition of Robert Templeton of St. John's, Merchant, alleging that S. M. Taylor of Millerton is insolvent and praying that he be so declared. H. E. Knight for J. B. Orr, attaching creditor, C. E. Hunt for certain creditors, Gibbs, K.C., for petitioning creditors.

The insolvent not being present, the further hearing was adjourned until Dec. 6th.

In the matter of the petition of Henry J. Brownrigg, Merchant, alleging that Philip Raynes of St. John's, General Dealer, is insolvent and praying that he be so declared. Gibbs, K.C., for petitioner; C. E. Hunt for insolvent.

Gibbs, K.C., moves that the petitioner be declared insolvent and that the petitioner's costs be allowed, and that Mr. Oxley be confirmed as trustee. It is ordered accordingly.

Prospero Sails.

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Field, sailed at 11 o'clock this morning for northern ports of call, taking a heavy cargo of freight, and the following passengers:—Mrs. James Winsor, F. Hill, Miss E. Parsons, W. and Mrs. Rowe, K. Way, Miss Etta Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Ivany, Miss Washburn, Mrs. J. Keen, W. Duggan, and 75 in storage.

Masonic Entertainments

OPENED WITH GRAND DANCE.

The first event of the series of entertainments arranged for the 1922-23 season, by the Masonic Entertainment Committee, was held in the Temple last evening and took the form of a Grand Dance. Owing to the success attained by last year's events, which resulted in the ballroom being overcrowded, it was decided that the number of guests be limited and this worked with entire satisfaction. The inimitable Masonic Orchestra was present, with only the regrettable absence of Bert Noseworthy, who has left the country, and it discussed a selection of the latest hits in a manner which evoked repeated accolades to every number. A feature of the arrangements was the make up of the engagement cards. In addition to the programme the cards bore the choruses of the most popular fox trots which were sung by the dancers. At 11 o'clock supper was served by the Masonic Ladies' Auxiliary, and it was in keeping with the excellence of the affair. Following supper dancing was resumed. The elimination dance proved most exciting. The prizes were won by Mr. G. F. Kearney and Mrs. H. F. Glass, who were the last couple on the floor. Messrs. F. J. Wornell, H. F. Rendell and W. E. Pippy, looked after the floor arrangements very capably. In every way the affair was most successful and enjoyable, and it was with regret that the final item was received. The Committee is holding another dance on Tuesday, December 19th, and, no doubt, will prove another big success.

A Timely Regulation.

SALE OF FIREARMS RESTRICTED.

An order has been issued to the various hardware stores forbidding the sale of revolvers or firearms to foreigners, unless through an order from the Chief of Police. This action on the part of the authorities has been made necessary through evidence submitted at the recent Chinese murder trial, when it became known that many Chinamen here were in possession of revolvers.

Danish Ship Arrives.

IN FOR BUNKER.

Last evening the Furness Withy Co. received a wireless message from the Danish steamer "Olaf L. Kongsted" stating she was making this port short of bunker coal. The ship arrived in port to-day and will take supplies immediately. The Kongsted is bound from Chicoutimi, P.Q., to England and is about one week out. She is owned by T. Neilson of Copenhagen, and is of 2327 tons gross and 1235 net register.

Successful Card Party.

The members of St. John's Lodge, S.U.F. held a very interesting forty-five tournament at their rooms last night, over 80 gentlemen taking part. The prize was a beautiful smoker's chair presented by Messrs. Pynn & Spurrill, Cabinet Makers, Barter's Hill, and is a very fine piece of work. The chair was won by Mr. Fred Reid and the second prize by Mr. Wm. Strickland. The proceeds were for the aid of sick brethren of the lodge.

Harvest Sale and Concert.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING.

A successful vegetable sale was held last evening in the school room at George Street Methodist Church. Although the weather was disagreeable, the attendance was fairly large and the sum realized fully up to expectations. All the proceeds left over after the sale, were auctioned off at good prices by Mr. R. Dowden. The affair was concluded by a short concert in which some of the city's leading talent took part.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.—The members of the Guards Old Comrades Association are holding a handicap billiard tournament, beginning in their rooms next week. At the monthly meeting held a few nights ago, 17 applicants were admitted to membership.

Rotary Luncheon.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF CLUB YESTERDAY.

"Business ethics from a banking point of view" was the subject of a short address by Rotarian B. C. Gardner at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club held yesterday at the Green Lantern. Rotarian Alton Perkins presided, and included among the guests were Dr. Arthur Anderson, Messrs. L. Mowat, F. M. Ruggles and M. J. Mulcahy. In the course of his address Rotarian Gardner showed how bankers were great borrowers, receiving large sums of money from the general public, and it was incumbent on them to invest same thus obtained in a prudent manner. The people of this Colony had eighteen million dollars in savings banks and this faith in the banks could be justified only by integrity on the part of the bankers. On the part of those who sought to borrow from them bankers looked for honesty and frankness.

Rotarian T. V. Hartnett speaking on "Employers and Employees," said that it was the duty of employers to give employees proper compensation, to supply proper working conditions and to take a practical interest in industrial welfare. He instanced conditions in the Ford factories and at Lever Bros. Port Sunlight. His own Company had adopted some welfare schemes which had resulted favorably, including the creation of a doctors and medicine fund, a sick benefit fund, a restaurant for workers and group insurance. The employees of the factory had a voice in the government of all these plans.

Magistrate's Court.

A man given in charge by his boss for being drunk and disorderly on his premises, was allowed to go, the charge not being pressed.

A lewd and abusive language case was withdrawn.

A woman was sheltered in the lock-up last night. This morning a well known city clergyman secured a position for her.

Vessel Stranded.

MIRIAM H. AGROUD AT BEL ISLAND.

Messrs. A. S. Rendall & Co. are in receipt of a message stating that their schooner Miriam H. had grounded on the beach at Bell Island last night. Further particulars stated that the vessel was in no danger and was making no water. The tug Hugh D. was despatched this afternoon to the scene, and it is expected to get the vessel off at high tide. The Miriam H. discharged a cargo of coal at Carbonara on the first of the month and was loading from ore for North Sydney when she went ashore.

Shipping.

S. S. Belvernon is due to arrive from Boston to-night.

Sch. Ida M. Clark has arrived from Congo Islands to Bowring Bros. with 200 qtls. fish.

Danish sch. Uranus finished loading at Fogo with 3,000 qtls. of shore fish by the N.S.D. Labrador Export Co. for Oporto.

Sch. Over the Top, which sailed yesterday morning for Bahia, was forced to return against the weather conditions outside. Capt. C. Marshall, formerly of the Haabet, goes in command of the vessel this trip.

S. S. Mapledawn, leaving Montreal to-morrow, will be calling at Charlottetown en route, according to a message received by Messrs. Harvey & Co. yesterday.

Sch. Elizabeth Rodway, Captain Ross, 27 days from Barbados, arrived last evening with a molasses cargo to James Baird, Ltd. The Rodway met fine weather on the passage up but was obliged to harbor at Cape Broyle to await a favorable time down the shore. The vessel has about 200 puncheons of molasses on board.

S. S. Stella Maria has entered at Bouze Bay to load Scotch curie and pickled herring for Halifax.

S. S. Alceda sailed last midnight from Botwood for Manchester with 3,800 tons paper from the A. N. D. Co.

When Yer Fishin' on The Humber.

(By EMANINE CAMERON PARSONS, Macaulay, New York)

St. John's, Nfld., in the "Caledonian" (Macaulay, New York) There's a haze along the Humber On a morn in mid July, An' the spruces soft are noddin' To the waves a' passin' by, An' 'tis see' the day for fishin', An' ye sure have got yer wish, 'Fer the Lord made fishin' An' a feller orter fish.

Pole yer punt up near the shingle, Till ye find a likely nook, Stunt yer basket in the bank there, And prepare to clean the brook. Joint yer rod, an' hitch yer reel on, Set yer fly, 'n' swing yer line, Draw it soft like long the water Where the haze is settin' fine.

Steady now, and watch 'em movin' If the risin' seems too slow, Shift yer stuff, an' move up higher, 'P'raps ye hit the underflow. Take yer hook a-ways up river, Throw agen an' have a try, Soon ye'll find the big uns comin' Cosh, ye feel jes' what ye mean, When yer fishin' on the Humber, On a morn in mid July.

Incipient Conflagrations.

FIREMEN HAD TWO CALLS.

The firemen were called last evening at 5:40 to the residence of Miss Bennett, where soot igniting in the chimney made it appear as if a big blaze was in progress. No damage was done the premises.

At 8:30 p.m., in response to an alarm from box 34, situated on George Street, the Central and West End Fire Companies were quickly on the scene. The blaze was found in the residence of Mr. R. Condon and was caused by a lighted candle falling amongst some shavings. The fire was put out before any damage to the premises was done.

McMurdo's Store News.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 29.

Eli's Cream Bo'm has long enjoyed a great reputation for catarrh, cold in the head, and nose cold, and is very largely used for these and similar troubles in the United States. It is less known here, and this is rather a pity as it really is one of the best things for its purpose that we know of. We recommend a trial for all who need a quick cure for head colds. Price 70c a bottle.

Taking into consideration the inclement weather that prevailed last evening a large gathering turned out to witness the final masquerade dance of the season in the Prince's Rink. Some eighty masqueraders took part. The costumes worn by many looked very neat and attractive. The ladies' prizes were won by Miss Margaret Murray as a 'Lady of Olden Time', Miss Marion Doyle as the 'Quaker Girl' made a good second. The gentlemen's were awarded to Mr. C. Three Former Greek Premiers Face Firing Squad

Convicted of Treason, Six High Officials Were Shot

SHOT AS TRAITORS.
ATHENS, Nov. 28.—Six former cabinet officers and army officials, convicted of high treason in connection with the Greek military disaster in Asia Minor, were executed today by shooting. They were: former Premier Gounaris, Protapadakis and Stratos; also M. Theodoris, former War Minister; M. Baltassis, holder of portfolios in several former cabinets, and General Hadjiannis, Commander of the Greek forces at the time of the Asia Minor military disaster. General Stratos and M. Goudas were sentenced to penal servitude for life. A statement by the court martial, giving the reasons for the death sentences, says in effect that defendants knowingly concealed from the people the danger involved in King Constantine's return to the throne, and that although Greece was breaking away from her alliances, they did their utmost to consolidate Constantine, in order to enjoy office under him. By terroristic methods, the statement adds, they stifled all public opinion, contrary to them, and arranged with General Hadjiannis a pretended offensive against Constantinople, and thereby brought about the enemy's offensive and the collapse of the Greek front in Asia Minor. Demetrios Gouraris was Prime Minister under King Constantine when that monarch was striving to keep Greece from joining the Entente in the war. With the return of Constantine he became Premier again from April last year until May, 1922, and then entered the Coalition Ministry under Premier Protapadakis as Minister of Justice. This cabinet was in power when the Asia Minor crash came, and five of its members were executed today.

WANTS TREATY WITH U.S.
LAUSANNE, Nov. 28.—Imat Pasha informed the press that Turkey would like to make a general treaty with United States, and will begin negotiations at any time.

LABOR MEMBERS OUTBURST.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Jack Jones, Labor Member for Silverton, Westham, created a scene in the Commons yesterday, when Major Tryon was speaking on the treatment of mentally afflicted ex-soldier men. Jones shouted "you are a lot of dirty dogs." Cries of "turn him out" and speaker admonished him, whereupon the Labor member shouted across the Ministerial benches "I don't care a damn." The speaker ordered Jones to withdraw, which he did, shouting "you

AUCTION OF SCHEM. INSPIRATION.
The three masted schooner Inspiration was offered at auction sale today in the Board of Trade rooms. Very few were present and no bids were made. Auctioneer Canning of A. S. Rendell & Co. after reading the list of the vessel's equipment stated that there was a reserve price of $19,000 held by the owners. As no offer over this price was made the sale was called off. The Inspiration is only five years old and is in first class condition except that the bows, which were slightly chafed, by contact with sea, need a little repairs. The vessel cost $53,000 to build.
An evening dress of antique gold cloth is finished with a heavy tassel at the side.

Prince's Dagmar's Romance Begins Happily.

COPENHAGEN.—The recent announcement of the engagement of Princess Dagmar, youngest sister of King Christian of Denmark, has disclosed a romance between a maid of royal blood and the poor colon of an ancient family. The Princess, who is 23 years old, is understood to have been quietly engaged to her future husband, Joergen de Castenkeid, for some time. He is a nephew of Grevenko de Castenkeid, until recently the Danish ambassador to the court of St. James. The engagement was officially announced late in October at Zealand, the summer residence of Dowager Queen Louise, mother of King Christian and Queen Alexandra. All other members of the royal family and those of the de Castenkeid family were present.

QUEEN BLESSES COUPLE.
Queen Louise rose at the end of the dinner and said—"It gives me great pleasure to announce the engagement of my beloved daughter, Dagmar, to Joergen de Castenkeid. May God bless them both." The Queen then beckoned to Mr. de Castenkeid. He went to the Queen, who kissed him on the cheek, and then King Christian shook him heartily by the hand. There was a special warmth in the congratulatory words of Prince Age, who himself a few years ago married a "commoner," the beautiful daughter of Count di Calvi, the Italian Minister to Denmark. Before obtaining King Christian's consent, Princess Age had to resign all claims to the Danish throne. The marriage of the Princess is to take place the end of November. Wealthy members of the family have presented the prospective bridegroom with an extensive estate in North Jutland, and it is understood that Queen Louise has given the young couple an allowance of 50,000 crowns a year. For young de Castenkeid is only a salaried man. He was formerly an officer in the King's Guards and later assistant manager of a salmon fishing enterprise in Alaska. King Christian made it a condition, before giving his consent to the marriage, that the couple must have a country estate.

FREE STATERS DETERMINED.
DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Alderman Charles Murphy, one of Valera's chief supporters, was arrested here today. National troops raided the residence of Count Plunkett, and reported the seizure of a quantity of explosives and military equipment.

NEWS CASE—A GLOOM.
LAUSANNE, Nov. 28.—The Conference, sensitive to any political or economic happenings elsewhere in Europe, is greatly excited by news of the execution of former Greek Ministers in Athens. A gloom has been cast over the whole assembly.

TO CONFER WITH CURSON.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—A Central news despatch from Athens says F. O. Lindley, British Minister to Greece, has left for Lausanne, to confer with Lord Curson, the British Foreign Secretary.

A PRINCE TEST.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Whether Prince Andrew of Greece will have to stand trial on charges of disobeying orders of the Greek General Staff in the Asia Minor campaign is still an unanswered question here. The Prince was arrested late in October, and brought to Athens. He was understood his trial was to follow the disposal of Greek former Ministers.

MANY CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.
COVINGTON, Georgia, Nov. 28.—Twenty children are still missing in a school fire yesterday. Thirty five are badly burned, some fatally. Rescue parties, searching the ruins for the missing, found three bodies.

HISTORICAL RESIDENCE.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Lloyd George's new home is on Cheyne Walk, in Chelsea, once occupied by Carlyle, also George Eliot and other literary celebrities. It is a comfortable dwelling of twelve rooms, overlooking the Thames.

Kyle's Passengers.

S.S. Kyle, Capt. Stevenson, was delivered crossing Cabot Strait last night, having met with head winds, and a very rough sea. The ship arrived at Port aux Basques at 10 o'clock, bringing the following first class passengers:—F. Duguay, P. B. Murphy, J. O. and Mrs. Williams, W. McLean, F. Neel, M. Lipkin and Miss Riggs.

All The Colours.

When we understand all about colours, we shall be able to regulate our emotions and attain our ideals of perfect peace. Meanwhile, colour experts continue to advance their theories, and the latest comes from a famous eye specialist, who has studied colours and their effects upon human passions. Here, briefly, is his list:
Yellow brings out bad qualities; inducing vulgarity, noisiness, jealousy and revenge.
Red excites one, and produces violent effort—sometimes for good, but generally for bad. It is the colour of crime.
Green promotes joy, if not of the most peaceful kind.
Blue promotes joy.
Blue is the peaceful colour. It induces peace and happiness, a desire not to be disturbed, and a dislike of argument or contest.
White brings out one's activity, and people who live among the snow and ice are the most active.
Black, appropriately, is the hue of sorrow and evil. Amid black surroundings, life degenerates. It is every bit as black as it is palid.
Browned biopass are trimmed with Spanish lace, and satin brocade resemble metals.
Contrary to all expectations, the weighing is to be more upward from the hips.

THE TIGER AT CHICAGO.
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Clemenceau, speaking here yesterday, pleaded with United States to save France from extinction. He declared France sought only peace, but war was being forced upon her. He said if France does not get help, she needs may disappear like Athens.

LARGE ENOUGH TO HOLD THEM.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Sir Henry Thornton, newly appointed President of Canada National Railways, arrived last night on the Olympic, to take up his new duties at Ottawa. Asked how new headquarters would be, he replied "for awhile the offices will be in my hat."

VERY DULL BIDDING FOR TREASURES OF BOSTON FINANCIER.
A crowd of about 500 attended the Lawson auction at Boston last week, but bidding was listless. A Paxton bronze of an Indian horseman went for $550. The next highest price was $115 for a massive carved wood bed which originally cost Mr. Lawson $1,500. A pair of white wood bedsteads also brought $150. A porcelain stepladder surmounted with bronze figures went for $125, while one of the Lawson stuffed bears brought only $8 and a pair of Chinese Manchu silver trays brought $50 each, and the Lawson price went up to prices ranging from $5 to $20, with monogram liquor sets went from $15 to $25 per set.

Counties More Expensive.
The title-garment of Vienna is up against the severe competition of an institution in Berlin which endeavours to supply something better in the line than mere Barons. True, they have a number of baronial titles in stock available at bargain-floor prices, but they are not recommended or guaranteed. Counts are a specialty here, and are far cheaper than one might suppose, although naturally more expensive than Barons.

Japan Abandoning Warlike Preparations.
TOKYO—Naval and military preparations in Japan appear to be definitely on the wane, the new decline being influenced by economic conditions as much as anything else. The great Yokosuka naval dockyard dismissed 8,000 workers in October, and 3,000 more will be dropped from the payroll in March, although the government is making an allowance for them in the form of employment insurance. It is announced that 5,000 men will be dismissed from work in the army arsenal next spring. Employment in Japan is now about 10 per cent. of the normally working population, and it is expected that at least half of those thrown out of work by the closing down of the naval and military programmes will be absorbed by the farms.

Press Criticizes Military Administration.
TOKYO—Japan's military administration has been severely criticized lately by the Japanese press because of its alleged dual diplomacy with Chang-ko-Lin, the Mukden War Lord and the Russian authorities. From some mysterious source Chang has come into possession of a large quantity of munitions with which to carry on his campaign against Wu-Pei-Fu. The Japanese military command at Vladivostok has been openly accused of having disposed of the war materials to the Chinese leader, although the charge has been vigorously refuted. Premier Kato has promised a thorough investigation and meanwhile a court martial is in progress. One report is that the munitions were brought in from the anti-Soviet "White" authorities in the maritime provinces of Siberia, and that 10,000 articles of shell, 8,000 bombs and a quantity of small arms and rifles changed hands, but nothing very definite has so far been revealed. The alleged complicity of the Japanese military leaders in the case has, according to some authorities, fanned the flame of distrust already kindled against the military party in Japan and in addition, it has to some extent upset the plans of the Japanese government to conclude a trade agreement with Soviet Russia in respect to Siberian concessions.

CHERRY ON FIRE.—Shortly after one o'clock today a fire broke out in one of the chimneys of the residence of Mrs. R. Johnston, Queen's Road. The Central fire company was called to the scene and the blaze was quenched by the use of the hand chemical.

A Title for Ten Shillings. Will Enforce Child Labor Principles.
WHY NOT BE A COUNT?
If your butcher informs you that he has become a Baron there will be no occasion for assuming that he is either suffering from delusions or trying to be funny; it may be a fact. Similarly should the milkman "go one better," and declare that he is now a Count, he may be telling the truth, for there is no earthly reason why he should not be. Titles just now are going cheap; it is unlikely that they will ever again be so easy to secure or obtainable at such a low price! Why not therefore take advantage of the rate of exchange, and substitute for plain Mr. Mrs., or Miss something more dignified and more impressive?

The fact that these high-sounding designations are of foreign manufacture does not much matter—they sound alright, and can be used for years before the chance of getting within measurable distance of a British title presents itself. It is just a matter of putting your money down and becoming great almost by return of post.

Should you aspire no higher than to become a Baron, the whole thing can be arranged for the price of a saphyr shirt; an expenditure of ten shillings only is all that is required. A gentleman circulating Great Britain from Vienna will fix up the affair within a few hours of having received your Treasury note and satisfied himself that it is a good one. It will be necessary to send with your application a copy of your birth certificate, and such particulars of your ancestry as may be available. It may, however, be said that a recent applicant enclosed with his remittance a gas bill and a patent medicine advertisement instead of a Treasury note, and was signed Count De Money. It was indorsed "John Doe, Purgatory Street." The bank in returning the check, wrote on it, "No account here."

Bankers tell a story of one of their number who suffered the loss of one eye and had a glass substitute made. The glass eye was wonderfully fashioned, so much so that its wearer was satisfied no one could tell it from a real organ. A day or so after he began wearing it, a customer of the bank sought a loan, but the banker was not quite satisfied with the collateral. After much persuasion from the would-be borrower, the banker said:
"It will make you a sporting proposition. If you can tell which of my eyes is glass I will make you the loan."
"That's easy," replied the other, "It's your left eye."
"How do you know?" asked the banker.
"It is the more sympathetic of the two," responded the borrower.

Count de Money" Check.
A merchant in one of the suburbs of Seattle is displaying a returned check and laughing with his friends over the wording of the paper, which was for $1 and came back to him from his bank with a request that he carefully examine the same. "I took it from a woman while busy waiting on customers," said the merchant, "and hardly gave it a glance."
The check was made out to De Less & Seemore, and was signed Count De Money. It was indorsed "John Doe, Purgatory Street." The bank in returning the check, wrote on it, "No account here."

GET STARTED TO DAY.

There are many good things which we are urged to do for purely altruistic reasons. Virtue is its own reward, and then are urged to be good. There is something lacking in the person who will never do a thing purely for the other fellow's good with no hope of reward except the consciousness of having done the right thing.
 There are other good things which we are urged to do for altruistic reasons, but these are worth while to do for our own sakes. We have come to see that more and more in the last few years.
 Honesty Pays.
 Business men have banded together to make advertising honest, not only ethical reasons, but because honest advertising pays best in the long run. Big corporations have come to care more for the health and happiness of their employees, because it is the best business to have healthy and contented workers.
 Have you done your Christmas shopping yet? No, that is not a sudden and surprising change of subject.
So Does Shopping Early.
 I have not forgotten what I am writing about. I am writing about things that are worth while doing not only because they bring great benefit to others, but because they bring great benefit to ourselves. And doing one's Christmas shopping early, is most emphatically one of those things. It brings immense benefit to others because it makes the inevitable rush less.
 It means that there will be fewer clerks who will say, as they drag themselves home on Christmas Eve, what one of whom I heard, said: "Oh, God, I hope I'll be dead before another Christmas."
 It means that you will be showing the Christmas spirit, not only to the clerks, but also to expression, and postman, and hundreds of other workers who are involved in this vast Christmas demonstration.
 And if Christmas is really to be a Christian, and not a pagan holiday, surely these things must have some weight.

What It Means to You.
 But do not forget that it also means that you will have better service than even the best intentioned clerk could give you in the last few days, when she is more tired and has more customers to the minute to serve.
 That it also means that you will have fuller stocks to select from; that there will be fewer tangles in the matter of delivery; that you, yourself, will approach Christmas less tired, and more able to enjoy it.
 Of course, this is rather late to say: "Do your Christmas shopping early." You really should have done it now, to be early. And perhaps you have, I hope so. But if you haven't, well--can you tell me one good reason why you should put it off a day longer?

Yarmouth, N.S., Nov. 24--Omar Roberts, self-confessed and convicted murderer of his nineteen-year-old housekeeper, Flora Gray, on August 28, was hanged here this morning at 12:17 o'clock.

Omar Roberts Hanged.

TRAP WAS SPRUNG AT 12:17 O'CLOCK.

The execution took place within the walls of the Yarmouth county jail. Those present were Sheriff Lewis, who supervised the hanging, the sheriff's assistant, William Smith, Jailer Simms and Rev. Dr. Edwin Crowell, spiritual advisor.

The condemned man was notified at 12:15 that the hour of his execution had come. Accompanied by Rev. Dr. Crowell and William Smith, he walked with firm bearing to the scaffold. The trap was sprung at 12:17. The body was cut down at 12:23 and Dr. Webster pronounced life extinct. There was no hitch in the carrying out of the death sentence.

It was said at the fall that with the exception perhaps of a few hours recently when the sounds of the carpenters building the scaffold was brought to his cell, Roberts had showed no sign of faltering since his incarceration last summer.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN HIS GREATEST COMEDY TO-MORROW

"One of the greatest social dramas to reach St. John's in a decade is 'Suspicious Wives' the feature attraction at the Nickel last night and which will be repeated to-night. Owing to the inclement weather, many desiring to see the picture could not do so, for their benefit the management is presenting it again this evening.
 The feature for to-morrow is 'Not Guilty.' Here is an uncommon plot uncommonly well interpreted by a well balanced cast. You are transported on the magic surface of the silver sheet half around the globe and see the curtain of life drawn back by the shadowy hand of the motion picture. Your heart and imagination will be fired as you see a brother assume the guilt of his twin for a crime which makes him an outcast. Apart from this, Charlie Chaplin will be seen in his BEST comedy, 'Shoulder Arms.' It's a scream from start to finish.

Used After Shaving Keeps Skin Soft and Smooth

Many men suffer from irritation of the skin as a result of shaving. With some it assumes a form of eczema and becomes most annoying and unsightly. By applying a little of Dr. Chase's Ointment after shaving the irritation is overcome and Barber's Itch and Eczema are prevented or relieved.

Wedding Bells.

SPHIRE--COREY.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Patrick's Church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Rev. Dr. Kitchen, P.P., united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Elizabeth Sphire, daughter of Mrs. N. Sphire, of 188 New Gower Street, to Mr. Peter Corey, late of New York, the nuptial knot being tied before a large gathering of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who entered the church, leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Kaleem Noah, wore a handsome costume of satin with white over-lace Irish trimmings, with pearls and a veil with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Mrs. J. Ellis, who wore a champagne colored dress with large hat to match, and also carried a bouquet of sweet carnations. Miss M. Richards, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Lillian Michael, daughter of Antoni Michael, were the flower girls, and looked very neat and attractive in dresses of white silver, while each carried a basket of flowers. After the ceremony had been performed, the newly married couple, with their friends, numbering 70 couples, motored through the suburbs of the city, after which a reception was held at the cottage of Mr. Kaleem Noah, Water Street West. The health of the bride and groom was enthusiastically drunk by all. Mr. Kaleem Noah proposed the health of both parties, which was responded to by the groom, in a very happy speech. The groom presented to the bride was a gold bracelet and silver hair pin, and to the bridesmaid a gold ring. After the wedding supper had been served, dancing was indulged in by all, while many songs were contributed throughout the evening. Miss Nellie Golby kindly acted as accompanist. The presents received were both costly and numerous, while several telegrams were acknowledged from friends in the United States and Canada, all of which testified to the esteem in which the happy couple is held. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. N. Sphire, on Monday night, when a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. The affair did not conclude until an early hour in the morning. Mr. and Mrs. Corey will reside in the city.

Secret History of Sinn Fein

(By SHAW DESMOND in London Magazine.)

In the first place, the Easter Rising of 1916 was not something arranged on the spur of the moment, but was being carefully thought out by leading Irishmen when the first gun boomed over Europe in the Great War, and in a more indirect sense for many years before that. The fact, hitherto unknown, is that the Irish Republican Brotherhood, the famous secret society formed seventy years ago, which even to-day has hundreds of thousands of adherents in the United States had never been suppressed, but had only been driven underground, and had always awaited "the Day," which came when England went to war and England was in a tight corner.

The second point is that Sinn Fein, as Sinn Fein, had very little to do with the 1916 Rising. Sinn Fein never had stood out for physical force, which, indeed, of all things is the most futile so far as finally is concerned, and was captured by a man who, taking no part in the Rising, has told me with his own lips that he, Arthur Griffith, like Professor Eoin MacNeill, first chief of the National Volunteers and Chairman of the Dail, was a pacifist! Its tactics were based on "passive resistance."

The men who actually stood behind the Rising itself was Padraic Pearse, schoolmaster and orator, who was its heart, and Jim Connelly, economist and Socialist labour leader, who was its brain. It was the Irish Labour Party at the Liberty Hall headquarters which actually made the Easter Rising possible. Imagine Mr. Arthur Henderson and the English Labour leaders starting a revolution from the Party headquarters in London!

Where did Ireland get her arms? She got them partly by fighting for them—partly by purchase—partly by cajolery. Of the Howth gun-running which gave Erin a thousand rifles, and without which the 1916 Rising could never have taken place, I am not now permitted to speak, although it is one of the most exciting stories of adventure of our day. It is enough to say here that these guns came from the Continent, were not stolen, and were bought in the open market by a London writer of eminence. They were sailed into Ireland and through the British Fleet by an indomitable woman whose name is entirely unknown to the great world. It is an amazing fact that Sinn Fein never at any time had any difficulty whatever in getting all the arms it wanted from English manufacturers, who placed pocket before ing sight of him went down a side turning, said, "a quick and queer finish." The man was Michael Collins. Collins has been seen standing under the Nelson Column in O'Connell Street, in the trench coat and "tooth-brush" moustache, coolly listening to the conversation of the soldiers about him, any one of whom could have earned a small fortune by his shooting or capture.

Here is the place to lay bare one of the secrets of the Irish Sphinx. It has puzzled the astutest brains of Scotland Yard, and in Downing Street, as to how the most intimate plans, made usually only behind the closed doors of Dublin Castle, seemed to be known to Sinn Fein even before they could be conveyed to the men who were to carry them out.

The fact is that Irish Civil Servants were amongst the most loyal servants of the Sinn Fein Secret Service, and the writer has himself known of a prominent Civil Servant who masquerading as a Conservative member of a Dublin golf club, over a period of three years, was one of the cleverest members of the Sinn Fein Intelligence. It should be made clear, however, that almost all the high officials were pro-British, and strictly loyal to the Imperial connection.

A typical example of this co-operation of the Civil Service was an ambulance in Kerry, personally investigated by the writer, where a trench was dug and concealed, which resulted in shooting a military lorry into a stone wall, the driver falling on his head. Some of his companions got away and wired to the nearest British station for ambulance and sheets. The telegraphist who sent the wire, seeing his opportunity, added to the list revolvers, ammunition, and in fact anything he fancied the local Sinn Feiners would like. These were sent at once, and, of course, ambushed by the I.R.A., which captured the lot.

Almost every child in Ireland was at one time a potential agent of the Secret Service. At the height of the troubles, I, myself, found a little yellow-haired girl of four or five as sentinal over the most "wanted" man in Ireland at that time. Against such a service, no wonder that even Scotland Yard and the army detectives, working as they were under phenomenal difficulties, were powerless.

THE SECRET BRAIN OF THE I.R.A. There was a man behind Collins who was the most dangerous enemy the British Government had in Ireland—the man who was the secret brain of Sinn Fein—Cathal Brugha. Brugha, whom I knew well, was an indomitable little man, of clean, clergyman-like face, steel-black eyes, and firm jaw, who, implacable though he was, for he is now killed, was beloved not only by every soldier in the I.R.A., of which he was the ruling spirit, but even by his enemies, many of whom owed their lives to him. Of this man, not a single British officer who has come into contact, often deadly contact, with him has other than a good word.

It was this little man who was the chief of the I.R.A., all unguessed by the great world. It was he who planned the larger ambushes, who did all the active work, and whose slightest word was law in Ireland. The story that he told me with his own lips in a tiny Dublin room of how step by step, plan by plan, he, with others, developed the scheme which finally brought to nothingness the really amazingly clever plan for the demoralization and defeat of Sinn Fein, excels anything that Conan Doyle or Eugene Sue ever conceived. He had been shot literally to pieces in the 1916 Rising, and it is an open secret that he was released because it was believed that he never more could be any good for anything. Yet he lived to send more British soldiers to their deaths than any other Irishman.

The cunning by which Sinn Fein masked its really dangerous men was extraordinary. Eamon de Valera, who kept the wires of the world red-hot, was never one of the really "dangerous" Sinn Feiners like Collins or Brugha. He was a figurehead—although a picturesque and inspiring figurehead—and his phantom visit to the United States will live as long as Irish history. There has been much talk about his parentage, but in the last conversation I had with him at the Sinn Fein headquarters, he told me that he was born within a few hundred yards of the Great Central Station, New York, his mother being an Irishwoman, a Miss Coll, and his father died when he was two, and at two and a half he was sent to Ireland to his grandmother, and was brought up in a County Limerick cottage.

The "underground railway" by which he was transported to America has long puzzled the world, which always quite erroneously believed that he vanished into the bowels of an engine-room. As a matter of fact, what the world never realized was that in some of the big liners a majority of the deck-hands are Irishmen and usually Sinn Feiners, and if the men of a certain 30,000-ton liner cared to speak, they could tell the story of the de Valera disappearance, transportation, and materialization. But although some two hundred of them knew and knew the story, they have never told.

Nor did the British Intelligence ever discover the former president's hiding-place after his return from his successful American visit. He was actually hidden in Cathal Brugha's house in Dublin, and was once intensely amused to hear a devoted woman admirer declare to his friend in the next room: "Of course you can't deceive me. I know 'Dev' isn't in Ireland. I'd know it if he were within a hundred miles of me!" (To be continued)

THANKSGIVING IN THE COUNTRY I suppose out in the country they are still in the puffs. The jellies and the cookies, makin' And the women in the kitchen are as busy as can be. With their baking and their stewing, and in fancy I can see The old man in the doorway dressing Mister Turkey Cook. Who was proud up to the minute that he visited the block.

Thanksgiving in the city yearly comes and goes to us. And we've little time for planning and we're not inclined to fuss. But Thanksgiving in the country means a week for making plans. With the clatter of the dishes and the rattling of the pans And the sweeping and the dusting and the baking of the pies For the visitors who're coming with real hunger in their eyes.

It's a time for hallelujahs and a day for being glad! It's a family reunion with nobody feeling sad. With a table set for twenty, piled with every sort of treat. And more good stuff provided than a regiment could eat. With the children most impatient to be set upon the food; Oh, it's there there is real meaning in a prayer of gratitude.

I suppose out in the country they are working hard to-day. Getting ready for the children who have grown and gone away. And are coming back Thanksgiving with a dim and misty eye. I can see a dozen barnyards where the turkey feathers fly. But we're living in the city, and we've now no place to go For the old-time glad Thanksgiving which the country people know.

Dried Fish.

In our last report that the markets were about as had been expected. They are no better, in fact, if anything, they are worse by reason of the fact Newfoundland has maintained shipments to Ontario, one of the main markets of western Europe. Stocks there have reached a total of 80,000 quintals. The trouble with conditions these days is that there is an excessive supply of dried fish. It is probably less dried than there was a year ago. It is said to have taken about 100,000 quintals in her fishery this year. On the other hand Newfoundland Labrador have only one million quintals this year as compared with a million and a quarter in the year. Probably it would be estimated that world supplies are at least 100,000 quintals a day. The kingdom of Greece is now producing and will perhaps be producing within a hundred thousand quintals of her usual purchase. It is being flooded with cheap fish from the Argentine, and so, with the American exchange conditions as they are now, more than ever why purchase of dried fish. Unless the purchase of dried fish imports may be as much as several hundred thousand quintals this year. There is a feeling that things do look bleak. What can you do in a time like the Brazil where beef is just half the cost of fish? The low price of beef of course is due to the depression in the Argentine. It has gone forward for Brazil from Newfoundland, but the price to the shippers once they are there are likely to be disheartened.

There still has about 130,000 quintals of codfish to sell—not a large lot if markets were healthy. It is too early to get depressed about the returns from Porto Rico. The price per quintal for recent catches are not asuring. Cuba is not in moderate quantities, but she did last year. As for the West Indies a light trade of business is reported. But it may have another side. Better conditions are frequently related to political changes, and it may be that a settlement of Europe's near eastern situation which seems now would make for improvements in business at many Mediterranean ports. Other changes may affect the South American exports and changes in turn would help fish catching and the purchasing capacity of the South American people. Therefore things look decidedly bright today, there is no cause for alarm that they will surely come. A few months hence there will be quite a different story to tell. It may not be a great deal of comfort to the man who has fish to sell, but the best we have at the present—Maritime Merchant.

 I have used Minard's Liniment and have found it a good one. After the explosion I was well shaken up having quite a few bruises and cuts, but Minard's Liniment I am my old self. It healed the sores and bruises and gave me much relief. It is true to say as the King of Pain, for it got the pain almost at once. I first saw the ad in the Montreal Standard. I decided to invest in a bottle, but I am not sorry, but can say that I am thankful for it. It does all it claimed to do, and does much more, and a satisfied customer is the best ad one can post. That is my view of it and you will agree with me too.

Interest to Tennis Players.
 LONDON (Canadian Press)—England's Old Man of Tennis J. G. Ritchie, celebrated his 52nd birthday today as he enters into the final in the Longwood Courts Lawn Tennis Championships, a fine achievement. It is the entry was of a very venerable veteran who has played tennis for 40 years. He plays tennis every day of his life. Ritchie is one of the most successful tennis players who have ever lived. He is a man in too old at 40 for strenuous exercise, but Ritchie, who has been playing thirty years, is a junior, but a compensatingly the subtle brain of a great tennis "general." That, and a little more, is what has kept him in the game. He gets every day and works with one eye on the ball. He has won 31 titles. That accomplished, he finishes his rally with a neat and reasonable shot.

Grateful.

The Passing of The Milkman.

GROCCER MAY FILL HIS PLACE.
 LONDON. (Canadian Press)—Some day the milkman may vanish from the earth and the grocer fill the place that may never know the milkman again. Some time in the future the milk trade, as it is in these days, may be a thing of the past, and people may obtain their milk from the grocer in a dried form. Dr. Leonard Hill made the suggestion at a recent sitting of the National Milk Conference in London. Dr. Leonard Hill is director of the National Department of Applied Physiology, National Institute of Medical Research at Mount Xernon, Hampstead, and was formerly a member of the Army Medical Advisory Board. He was serious in his suggestion that dried milk might yet take the place of the lacteal fluid, and he expressed himself in favor of this. Dr. Dreyer, Professor of Pathology at Oxford, also pronounced for dried milk. He said it was the best way out for the mass of consumers in large cities. This was in connection with a discussion on pasteurization on which conflicting views were expressed at the National Milk Conference. Dr. Dreyer leaned towards absolute sterilization and suggested that under such a system two of the three vitamins would not be impaired. If the third suffered, he said, its place could easily be taken by a few drops of orange or tomato juice. The danger of pasteurization, one of the speakers said, was in giving false confidence. The process should be allowed only under definite control, and all Pasteurized milk should be sold with its age stated on the bottle. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus, of New York, well-known advocates of Pasteurization, said they had discovered in London so-called Pasteurized milk which still contained dangerous micro-organisms. Mr. Straus advocated the use of milk bottles with rounded ends, so that they could be left to stand open, exposed to the air. Several medical officers of health made plans for more investigation before Pasteurization was decided upon. Sir Daniel Hall, Chief Scientific Advisor of the Ministry of Agriculture, expressed the view that it was "easy to be unnecessarily scared by bacteria." Dirt in milk was a bad thing," he admitted, but what the people need is more milk.

Churches Plan Big Temperance Campaign.

LONDON (Canadian Press)—Fourteen Christian Churches and religious organizations in this country, including Anglicans, Roman Catholics, Quakers, the Salvation Army, and all the great Free Church denominations, are planning a temperance campaign for the beginning of next year. The campaign will urge the following four points:—
 1. No sale of intoxicating liquor to persons under 18 years.
 2. Local option for England and Wales.
 3. No sale or supply of intoxicating liquor on Sunday.
 4. Supply of liquor in clubs to be subject to the grant of an annual license by the local justices.
 Prohibition is not included in the programme of the campaign. Rev. E. Benson Perkins, Honorary Campaign Organizer, said in a recent interview. The Temperance Council of the Christian Churches which is responsible for the campaign, he said, was concentrating upon an agreed policy, which would not divide but unite. Thirty-six Anglican bishops have promised their support in the campaign, including the Bishops of London, Manchester, and Exeter.

"Knocking Wood" For Luck.

Why does a person "knock wood" whenever he does not want his luck to desert him?
 It is believed to originate from an old Danish myth.
 According to the legend an old Danish sea captain, just before starting on a voyage, would always tap on the side of his ship, and then stand in silence and listen for a few minutes.
 His belief was that as there were so many millions of their kind in the timbers of the ship, the elves of the wood would come out and bless the ship and ensure it a safe return.
 Other Danish skippers followed this practice and, strangely enough, at least so we are told, the vessels so submitted to this quaint ritual, seemed to acquire immunity from the perils of the sea.
 As a result the superstition became a custom which has lived to the present day.

Air-Board Operations
 FOR 1922 TOTALLED 2900 HOURS FLYING TIME.
SEASON JUST ENDING NOTABLE IN MANY RESPECTS.
 (By J. A. WILSON, Secretary of the AIF Board.)
 The operations of the Air Board of Canada for the aviation season of 1922 now drawing to a close, have been notable in many respects. The work done during the previous year was largely experimental. Its success is proved by the increased demand for flying during this season, when the total flying time in all stations was in the neighbourhood of 2,900 hours. The scope of the operations has been wide, extending into many new fields. This is specially true in regard to aerial photography. The pioneer work done last year for the International Joint Commission on the St. Lawrence Waterways and the Forestry Branch in various districts, drew increased attention to the possibilities of flying in connection with survey work. At every station there has been an increased demand for photography. Through in British Columbia and Alberta, owing to the smoke caused by forest fires, it was not possible to start this work until well on in the season, much has been accomplished. Each operation was undertaken with the cooperation of technical officers of other branches of the Government service to whom the results obtained will be the subject of study with a view to improving the technique of aerial photography and determining the best methods of transferring the information obtained to existing maps.
FIGHTING FIRES IN WEST.
 On the Pacific Coast during the great fires which raged in June and July the demands on the Station at Vancouver for transportation of fire fighters and material were constant. A great deal of excellent work has been done under very trying conditions, the smoke rendering visibility almost nil at times. The patrol of the forest reserves on the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains from High River station has been extended considerably by the establishment of landing grounds at the northern and southern extremities of the patrolled area. This district is now covered twice daily, machines going out in the morning and returning from the sub-bases in the afternoon. The extension of the patrol system into the Rocky Mountain Park has been under consideration. If sufficient funds are available this will probably be done next year. The establishment of emergency landing grounds in the valleys is an essential before patrols can be safely undertaken in mountainous country. The National Parks Branch are greatly interested in this work and have undertaken to prepare suitable open spaces. Reconnaissance flights from Jasper in the Yellow Head Pass, in connection with the Interprovincial Boundary Survey, over the practically unexplored territory for 150 miles north of Mount Robson, were successfully carried out in July.
USING WIRELESS FOR PATROLS.
 In Manitoba the forest patrols have been greatly extended by the establishment of bases at Norway House and Le Pas. The efficiency of the patrol has also been notably increased by the use of wireless on the machines and at the stations. This renders prompt communication possible between forestry and station headquarters and the districts lying several hundred miles north in a country where rapid means of communication at present are non-existent. The types of machine available for this work have not proven satisfactory. The F. 3 twin engine boat is unwieldy and obsolete. Until new machines are available which can be more easily handled by the small crews on the stations, the full benefit of the patrol will not be obtained. The work done during the past two years proves conclusively that flying is a prime factor in forest conservation in Manitoba, provided that suitable aircraft are employed. Much transportation work has been carried out in Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan for survey parties. Depots of provisions have been laid and reconnaissance and inspection work done by air. Many photographs have been taken amplifying the results of surveys being made in that country. The success of this feature of such operations is very gratifying. There is no doubt that, in the exploration of northern Canada, the use of flying boats will increase the territory covered each year and give much more detailed and complete information as to the areas covered.
 In Ontario fire patrols from Pembroke on the Ottawa River, to Parry Sound on Georgian Bay, and from the Ottawa River and Lake Nipissing, south to the edge of the forest country, have been carried out on repayment for the Ontario Government. Daily patrols have been maintained during the whole season. The increased efficiency flying brings to the fire fighting forces, in a district such as this, has been demonstrated beyond question.
 For the Quebec Government the work at Roberval Station has been continued and extended. Exploration by sketching and photography in the region lying north and west of Lake St. John, as far as the watershed to James Bay, has been continued. Reliable information has been obtained as to the extent and nature of the forests in that area.

EXPLORED TIMBER RESOURCES.
 An interesting operation was undertaken for this Government on the Nantuxkwan River on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, due north of the easterly point of Anticosti Island. A machine was flown there in September, and several days were spent exploring the timber resources in that valley, back about 100 miles into the interior. Little flying has been done from the Blenheim Station during the season. Photographic work for the Water Power Branch in connection with Hydro Electric developments in Nova Scotia has been successfully carried out.
 Advantage was taken of the opportunity to investigate flying conditions in the Arctic by despatching an experienced Air Force officer, who had a special study of navigation and meteorology, with the steamer "Arctic" on her voyage to establish police depots at Ellesmere Land during the season. Information obtained there is every reason to expect that the exploration of the Arctic Archipelago can be materially assisted by the use of aircraft. Flying can be carried out with success during several months of the year in northern latitudes. Intercommunication between posts in remote districts will be greatly facilitated by the use of aircraft.—Canadian Forestry Magazine.

Jackson Has Left Halifax.
WILL RACE OUR LOCAL BOY.
 Our local long distance running champion Jack Bell is sparing no effort in conditioning himself for the big 10 mile running event with Laurif Jackson, the Halifax flier, which takes place in the Prince's Rink on Monday night, next. Our Newfoundland hope who has been undefeated for a number of years back, feels quite confident that he can still hold the laurels, and will enter the challenge race against Jackson with the supreme hope of living up to his past reputation. On the other hand the Halifax papers give glowing accounts of the Canadian boy's prowess, who is looked upon as the coming record breaker of the Maritime Provinces. In comparing the records of the two men over a 10 mile jaunt, their is very little to choose between them. Jackson has a record of 56.07 which he ran over the Halifax Herald and Mail course on the 11th of October, last, being only 23 seconds behind the great Mac-Aulay, while Bell's best time over the Topsail Road, which was an accurately measured course was clocked in 56.38, which is a local record. The local champion's time is therefore 26 seconds slower than that recorded by the Halifax boy. In comparing records run over two different courses, it does not necessarily follow that Jackson has got the shade over Bell. Our local wonder will probably have a slight advantage over his opponent in that he has the experience of running the course as laid down in the rink, which he has gone round on numerous occasions. This in itself should stand him in good stead and will tend to minimize any slight margin which Jackson might hold. The course at the rink is 16 laps to the mile, which means that they will have 160 laps to go. The big meet is evincing great interest among sporting enthusiasts judging by the rush for reserved seat tickets at the Royal Stationery store. Laurif Jackson is accompanied by his brother Stanton, as trainer, they both having left Halifax by the Silvia yesterday morning, carrying with them the best wishes of the Halifax sport followers who were at the pier to bid them adieu.

Nfld. Poultry Show.
 All arrangements were in good shape at the C.L.B. Armory last night for the opening of the 10th Annual Poultry Show this afternoon. The official opening, however, takes place at eight o'clock to-night by his Excellency the Administrator Sir William Horwood. Nearly seven hundred birds are exhibited and the largest class in the show and most number of exhibitors is S.C. White Leghorns, with Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes and Barred Rocks next. Contractor W. R. Butler, who is always keenly interested, has the Armory well fitted up in extra good shape. Mr. W. K. Chancey the Barred Rock King from Grand Falls has a splendid string of Rocks again—and also exhibits a model commercial poultry farm—made from paper which is well worth seeing. A few new breeds have also appeared. Speckled Sussex and Red Caps. Mr. Eric A. Bowring is showing on Friday night a litter of his famous breed of thoroughbred Nfld. pups—five in number—only three weeks old. The Association has had built a large model poultry house 12x12 in sections, showing a practical illustration of what a hen house should really be like. This will be lotteried and drawn for on Friday night at 10 p.m. Other prizes will be a pen of White Leghorn birds, settings of eggs, a trio of Rhode Island Reds, etc. Teas will be served daily by Spencer Club so patrons can invite their friends there and see the show in comfort. Exhibitors and visitors will find this arrangement on behalf of the management most convenient. Professor J. P. Landry of the staff of Truro College arrived by Monday's express to make the awards, and will also give a lecture on poultry culture each evening at eight o'clock illustrated with movie pictures. The Association are giving him a banquet on Thursday evening in the Armory at 6.30 P.M. when they will also entertain Hon. Dr. Campbell, Minister of Agriculture and Mines, Secretary A. J. Bayly, Hon. President, H. W. Messersmith, C.M.G., Percie Johnson, Hon. Vice-President, Chas. H. Haywood, of Grand Falls, and J. A. Hughes and members of the Bell Island Association. The show closes Friday when Lady Horwood has kindly consented to award the prizes and Championship Silver Cups to the various winners. All the members of the Association are sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. W. K. Chancey's son at Grand Falls necessitating his return home by yesterday's express, and hope, however, his boy is now recovering.
Courage Failed.
 The worried countenance of the bridegroom disturbed the best man tipping up the aisle, he whispered: "What's the matter Jack? Have ye lost the ring?"
 "No," blurted out the unhappy Jack. "The ring's safe and so. But mon, I've lost me enthusiasm."

The Time is Opportune.
 So much has been said to that in the postal service and yet this seeming disease yet lingers in our midst. Cannot the Hon. W. W. Halford attend to these complaints? Does he not know? Is he not familiar with the present sad condition of affairs in this district? Well, Sir, we can say to you now, search for the culprits who steal from his Majesty's mails. Money destined to us as well as others, never reach the rightful owners. More complaints have come and yet the practice goes on. If the P.M. G. does not know where the leak is perhaps he can be assisted by some of the Clyde's officers. If he should write us we may also supply interesting information.
 One postal official has already threatened us with action, so we've had, and if the beloved squawder wants to court action, we are well prepared. It is no use trifling Mr. Post Master General, the cry is going the rounds, and people cannot suffer very long with such a condition of affairs. Officials who endeavour to be honest, feel it keenly when money is lost, or cannot be located when called for, and these officials are as anxious as anyone that this matter be aired to the core, so that the waiting public can be served with satisfaction at their hands.—Twillingate Sun.
Delicious Turkey teas will be served at the L.C.A.S. Sale on Wednesday and Thursday in the Methodist College Hall, from 6 p.m.—nov27,4t
