An Indispensable Favorite OR Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER XVI.

"No, I don't," Belle declares, shortly. "Why are you worried and perplexed when I can help you, if you will let me? If Mrs. Murray annoys you, why don't you get rid of her and her daughter? They haven't even the excuse of poverty to hang on here week after week as they are doing. They can live well on Miss Murray's money now."

"I should think so, indeed!" the viscount agrees, with a covetous glimmer in his eyes. "Why, it is close on seven hundred a year—I know the stock it's invested in; and she'll have her mother's three hundred a year, too, when she dies."

"A thousand a year, and a beauty," Belle says, quietly—ominously so. "A diabolical, capricious, flirting beauty who has filled half a score of young and handsome lovers—our dear cousin, handsome Dallas, among the number—and provoked you with her girl's insolence a hundred times! Oh, I see why you won't quarrel with Mrs. Murray. Viscount Glynn!"

"I don't want to quarrel with Lady Maria's relatives," mumbles the viscount, confusedly. "And now, at such a time as this, too, Belle, really, families ought to be united—"

"In holy matrimony when there's a good deal to be gained by it!" Belle finishes, with a dangerous glitter in her eyes, and a low, sibilant laugh, making his lordship look very uncomfortable. "You are over-greedy, my lord; you are grasping after the shadow as well as the substance," Miss Bella Glover declares, with cool audacity. "You want poor Lord Dunsen's fifteen thousand pounds in your pocket, as well as poor old Dunsen's fifty or sixty thousand, though you have made heaps of money in the city, and though you are going to step into an earldom and seven thousand a year. Of course, I know your private expenses are very large—such a good, generous, charitable, pious gentleman as Lord Glynn is!"

The viscount fairly quails beneath the scorn of her piercing black eyes, and her little laugh of mockery.

"But I won't add you in your last scheme, my lord, and so it will never come to anything," she tells him, coolly. "Lady Maria shan't die these twenty years if I can keep her alive to spite you and Joyce Murray!"

"Miss—Miss Glover! I am shocked—absolutely shocked—at your speaking in such an improper manner about Miss Murray and me! Most improper! Most unwarrantable!" the viscount exclaims, with stern dignity, rather marred in effect by his mean, flustered countenance, his very forehead dyed an ugly red, and his eyelids blinking nervously. "What a suspicious, jealous laugh. 'Til tell you something I've discovered about you, my clever little lady!"

"Joyce Murray is much more likely to be Dallas Glynn's second wife than ever she is to be yours," interrupts his tormentor. "I see behind the scenes and read between the lines, as you know, Lord Glynn. Dallas Glynn is as madly in love with her as ever he was, and she is as much in love with him as she can be with any one but herself. His unfortunate little wife will die of a broken heart, maybe—he's treating her coldly and neglecting her shamefully already. I found that out before they had been twenty-four hours in the house."

"He's a scoundrel, a good-for-nothing, heartless scoundrel!" the viscount declares, with sudden fury. "I am glad I have persuaded the earl to treat him as he deserves."

"To cut him off with a shilling?" Bella asks, smiling.

"No, without it!" snarls the viscount. "His name is not mentioned in my father's will—and most properly and justly"—with a fine Pecksniffian air of rigid virtue—"if what you say is true."

"Quite true," she says, coldly. "But if his wife, Yolande, dies without children, he inherits two-thirds of her property for his life. With that and Joyce Murray's fifteen thousand, he can afford to do without the five hundred a year you have kindly deprived him of, viscount. In any case," she adds, decisively, looking up steadily into his angry, unpleasant face. "Miss Murray will never be Countess of Pentreath, however much you or she may wish it."

"Bella, my dear," the viscount retorts, with the sweet smile and snarling tone he assumes when he is about to say something particularly unpleasing. "I'll tell you what I have found out about you—the cause of your enmity to Joyce Murray."

"Well, what is it?"

"You want to be Countess of Pentreath yourself!" he answers, with spiteful emphasis.

But Bella laughs up at him as audaciously as ever.

"So I shall be, if I live long enough," she declares, slyly; and, kissing the tips of her fingers to him, she curtseys gracefully, and disappears through the narrow doorway.

Lord Glynn—pious and sedate gentleman—chuckles with half-angry admiration as he looks after her.

"What a plucky little demon it is!" he says.

CHAPTER XVII.

Mrs. Murray is gone; but the sting of her bland, obtrusive presence remains, to unhappy Yolande at least. Dallas was asking for her, seeking her, and could not find her. Dallas wished for her company on this long, delightful mountain excursion, repenting perhaps of his coldness and unkindness of the previous evening, and his frigidly careless question this morning whether she would join him or not. She half refused, hoping that he would urge her to put off her visit to Lady Maria, until Joyce Murray came to his side, and pressed her with much gracious and pretty condescension, to go with them.

"We are such a small party, we shall be quite dull if you don't give us the pleasure of your company," Joyce said, with a sweetly sarcastic smile, her sunny, blue eyes gleaming with amusement; for the British bride was looking very pale and grave.

"Captain Glynn knows I have an engagement this morning, Miss Murray," Yolande replies, chillingly, and, without another word, turned away, leaving them talking together in low tones in the great, embayed window of the breakfast-room.

She hurried away, indeed, with a miserable, humiliated feeling of not being wanted in either their walks or their talks, gladly seeking the distraction of mademoiselle's society and the rather dreaded visit to Lady Maria in the endeavor to forget them—Dallas Glynn, her husband, and the girl he loves—to forget the sight of two fair heads side by side, and a pair of bright, blue eyes smiling into a pair of bright, gray-blue eyes, in mutual understanding and confidence.

And now, implicitly believing Mrs. Murray's false words, she thinks perhaps she was too hasty. Perhaps Dallas really wished her to go. Perhaps she has displeased and grieved him by not going; it is "bad form" to parade their wretched married estrangement so openly.

And then she thinks of the delights of a long, bright, breezy day out on the mountains and in the green valleys and wooded glens, out among the heather and the trout streams and the waterfalls and the old-fashioned farm-houses.

Oh, that she had gone! she thinks, her heart swelling with an agony of childlike grief. Oh, if she could only repent now, at the eleventh hour, and hurry after them—for miles, if she might only overtake them—overtake Dallas! If she could but come up, panting, laughing, victorious, full of joy in being with him, and hear him chide her and tease her, and then ask her gravely why she had come! If she could but put her hand on his arm, and say earnestly and in simple truth, putting aside all false pride or false shame—"Because I thought it would please you if I came!"

Might he not be pleased to find her obedient and humble, and reward her with a smile and a whispered word of kindness, and draw her hand within his arm and press it softly, as he did last night, and say, "Can't we be better friends than we are, Yolande?" when she would whisper back, "Yes, Dallas, if you wish," and then—

Yolande's heart is throbbing madly at the scene her romantic fancy conjures up, at the wild hopes that rise before her in rainbow hues of promise, when Lady Maria's voice breaks the spell.

"Now, Mrs. Glynn," she says, with plaintive cheerfulness, "you shall see me go through my muscular exercise with the Duffer-Muller machine."

And Yolande is obliged to acquiesce as pleasantly as she can, with the hot tears starting to her eyes, and her heart aching with wild regret.

"One, two, three! One, two, three!" repeats Lady Maria, as she sits in her swaying wooden chair, pulling at dangling ropes and pressing down clicking bars like treadles. "This is my leg and arm exercise," she explains, Lady Maria goes on, smiling, has tugged and clicked for five minutes. "Now, these are the extension planes," Lady Maria goes on, smiling at Yolande's frightened face, and elevating her feet so that her heels fit into sockets from another swaying bar of the machine, while she, in her chair, is pulled backward and forward in a manner horribly suggestive of the holy office.

What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yet San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in pantry, kitchen, dining room, and cellars, moreover San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all fetid or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

British Expert

SUGGESTS LIMIT ON AIR ARMAMENTS.

LONDON, August 8.—Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice, who was Chief of Military Operations for Great Britain during the war, declares in an article on the increase in the air forces of France and Britain that "it is high time the question of limitation of armaments is taken up seriously." He says that the British Government's recent decision to nearly double England's present air equipment meant a return to competition in armaments and that such competition is not likely to lead to improved relations between the two countries.

General Maurice emphasizes Great Britain's willingness to enter into a conference on the reduction of air armaments similar to the Washington conference on naval armaments. But for the present, he says, Britain must, out of self-protection, bring her air strength up to that of France. "France," says he, "is the only country which within the next ten years is likely to be able to consider seriously an attack upon England from the air. To-day we are not in the most remote danger of invasion which comes by sea. Therefore, for the first time for centuries, the navy has ceased to be our 'first line' of home defence, and that role has devolved upon the air force."

The Lighter Side.

Little Willie was of an inquiring turn of mind. He was always asking questions.

"Daddy," he said one day, "is to-day to-morrow?"

"No, my son, of course it isn't to-morrow," was the reply.

"But you said it was," murmured Willie.

"When did I say to-day was to-morrow?" asked father.

"Yesterday."

"Well, it was. To-day was to-morrow yesterday, but to-day is to-morrow, just as yesterday was to-day yesterday but is yesterday to-day, and to-morrow will be to-day to-morrow, which makes to-day yesterday and to-morrow all at once. Now, run along and play."

THE EVENING TELEGRAM

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS. All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd. and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Monday, August 13, 1923.

Approval of the Prime Minister's Decision.

The Prime Minister in deciding to request the Home Government to select a man in England to conduct the investigation into our political affairs, has again adopted an attitude which will be generally approved.

We endorse the suggestion made by our morning contemporary that the people of this country should be represented by counsel at the inquiry as well as those who are more directly concerned.

If we are to have a house-cleaning in our public affairs, it must be thorough. Every facility must be given to the Commission to enable it to arrive at a definite and satisfactory decision.

Give Us a Leader.

We welcome the endorsement of the Daily News to our suggestion that most of our troubles can be traced to lack of leadership. The assertion of another contemporary that what we need more than a strong leader is a strong people presupposes the fallacy that the people are weak.

"Give us a Leader" has been the cry that has echoed down the ages. As in the past, so in Newfoundland to-day, the need is urgent, and the cry is insistent. To suggest that it is not so much the need of a strong man that is required as a strong people is either a confession of ignorance of history, or a disregard of its value in dealing with problems of to-day.

There is no necessity to go back very far to find existing in other lands a state of affairs which, if not identical in detail with our own, brought about conditions such as we are facing to-day. The untold hardships imposed on the people of England under a restricted franchise were alleviated by the Reform Bills, the first of which was the result of nearly half a century of striving and directing of public opinion on the part of Earl Grey.

Can a better illustration be given of the loyalty of a people to a leader who has won their confidence than the attitude of the British towards Lloyd George? Prior to the war his views were at variance with those of the majority, but once he undertook the Herculean task of winning the war, by sinking political and religious differences and applying the whole of his strength and ability to the one purpose, he gained such a measure of popularity as was perhaps never before bestowed on any statesman.

Italy believes she has found the man in the person of Benito Mussolini, and the people have given him twelve months in which to prove himself. In November next the ballot will indicate whether or not he still retains their confidence.

We want a Leader who is without fear and without reproach, and uncontrolled by individuals or corporations. Broad-minded and sincere, he must set his face against extravagance, and having decided upon a plan of action approved by the people, he must carry it through, and if need be remove from the path of progress those who would block the way.

When the Leader unfurls that banner, our slogan to the youth of this country will be, "Stand to!" As they went over the top before so they will go again. This Island will see a revolution, and this time it will be won not by bayonets but by ballots.

Perhaps we have found the man. Time will show if we must continue the search.

Two Burin Fishermen Missing.

WENT ON FISHING GROUND A WEEK AGO.

A message received by the Justice Department Saturday evening from Magistrate Hollett, Burin, States that two men of that place, William Inkpen and Maxwell Inkpen, were missing, and it was feared were drowned. It seems the two men were fishing together, and on Monday of last week went on the grounds in their motor dory and since then no trace of them has been found. The people of the place, when they did not put in an appearance, became alarmed, and a search was instituted without results.

Annual Flower Service.

HELD AT C. OF E. CEMETERY YESTERDAY.

The annual flower service in commemoration of our faithful departed was held in the Church of England Cemetery at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Despite the uncertain weather conditions a large concourse of people attended, and placed their floral offerings over the graves of the departed. The service, simple though impressive, was conducted by Rev. E. C. Earp, rector of St. Thomas's. Special hymns were sung by the St. Thomas's Choir to mark the occasion, and were joined in by the entire congregation. A celebration of the Holy Communion was held in the Cemetery Chapel at 3 a.m. Collection was taken up to be devoted to the upkeep of the cemetery grounds.

The Bishop's Visitation.

The following message which we have received indicates that the people of Channel were not to be outdone by other places on the South Coast in their welcome to His Lordship Bishop White on the occasion of his visit: Special Evening Telegram.

CHANNING, Aug. 11. The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland arrived in this parish on Tuesday, August 7th, and immediately began his episcopal work. The reception given His Lordship was wholehearted. Salvoes of guns greeted him at each settlement visited, augmented by cheers and a display of bunting. Channel, the headquarters, was reached at 5 p.m. where he was met on his arrival by 200 children and many prominent citizens, who gave him a hearty welcome. The Confirmation services were inspiring and the addresses cannot but leave a lasting impression upon the lives of all who were privileged to hear His Lordship.

In Passing.

At a special meeting of the Executive Council on Saturday it was decided to secure the services of a qualified English jurist to be Chief of the Commission that will, on behalf of the Government, conduct the investigation into the many serious public scandals of the past year or so.

The suggestion of seeking the services of the Home Government as remarked in this column a few days ago, met with the approval of the general public and yesterday it was freely acknowledged that this was the one and only proper course to pursue under existing circumstances.

The decision of the Government has been already made known to His Excellency the Governor who is requested to ask the Secretary of State for the colonies to appoint a competent official to act as presiding officer of the Court of Enquiry whilst the Crown will be represented by counsel and the defendants in the alleged charges will also be represented at the sittings of the Commission.

The Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Higgins, deserves well the tributes accorded to his timely address in the Assembly on Friday evening when he had occasion to refer to some nauseous writings contained in the editorial columns of the Daily Mail the day previous.

The inability of that portion of the city press serving personal and private and prejudicial interests to disseminate the truth is a public nuisance that does not consistently champion the people's cause but prefers or is compelled to espouse the cause of the privileged few has no justified reason for public existence.

It has been the conviction that a newspaper is as much a public servant as he who is elected by the people to protect the public interests. A newspaper that does not consistently champion the people's cause but prefers or is compelled to espouse the cause of the privileged few has no justified reason for public existence.

All newspapers wield a great influence for good or evil according to their degree of independence. The publication that lives upon or is prompted by an insidious policy is a tall menace containing within itself seeds of its own decay.

It marks the decadence of independent journalism, and the centralization of the power and the press too often in the hands of those who use this power to hoodwink the people whom they are exploiting.

When newspaper men to earn their livelihood are forced to compromise with conscience by writing things they know are untrue and are intended to serve a sinister purpose, we are witnessing the breakdown of the newspaper man's sense of public responsibility; for falsehood cannot and never will harmonize with the concept of truth or honour. It destroys that public confidence in the daily press upon which rests the stability of the newspaper. Those who own or edit the newspapers in this country can render valuable assistance towards removing the partisan, personal, sectarian, and political prejudices which have been debasing journalism for many years and particularly during the past two or three years when we have had glaring evidence of a desire to cause dissension and discord by a certain section.

Mr. Higgins is to be commended for his fearless denunciation of the Mail as is also Premier Warren who likewise availed of the opportunity to censure its writers by decriing a suicidal attempt to set class against class to suit personal whims and purposes.

Playground Apparatus Damaged.

TOO MUCH HOOLIGANISM PERMITTED.

If stern measures are not taken the playground apparatus recently erected in Banerman and Victoria Parks will be quickly destroyed. In spite of the fact that the equipment is "all steel." Too much hooliganism by boys bordering on the young men stage has been permitted, and as a result the swings designed for small children have been put out of commission. The chute the chute too has been damaged by boys jumping on it, and it will be only a matter of a few days before it will be useless, that is if better order does not prevail. The occasional visit of a policeman and a salutary lesson directly applied to the person of the first offender caught would put a stop to this wanton destruction.

Returned From Special Police Duty.

TROUBLE OVER DISTRIBUTION OF WORK.

Sergeant Keefe and Constables Dawe, Strange and Pitcher, who had been doing special police duty north during the past fortnight, returned Saturday evening by express. The police detachment was sent from here as a result of a dispute at Lethbridge, over the erection of a telephone line. It appears that a number of the men claiming that the work was unfairly distributed, caused the suspension of operations. Seven of these were summoned before Magistrate Rowell, of Bonaville, and fined. The work was afterwards allowed to proceed, but when the line reached Brooklyn, the men at that place objected to a public phone being placed in a private house. The police were called there fearing trouble. No disorder, however, occurred and the phone was installed as intended.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

ESTIMATED DAMAGE OF MONTRIAL FIRE.

MONTRIAL, Aug. 13. Damages are set at five hundred thousand dollars caused by a fire here Sunday afternoon which destroyed premises at the corner of Osborne and Mountain streets of Ledoux Jennings Carriage Company Ltd., and which, spreading to neighbouring buildings including Bell Telephone Company's Garage, three dwellings and hotel, caused great damage. Four men, including two firemen were slightly injured, and more than two hundred automobiles were destroyed.

CUNO AND STINNES HANGED IN EFFIGY. BERLIN, Aug. 13. Three times Sunday Communists at Reithausen, near Gelsenkir, erected gallows with effigies of Chancellor Cuno and Hugo Stinnes swing from them, but each time the police tore them down. The proceedings ended in ugly rush on the police by the crowd in which one policeman and five demonstrators were killed and ten wounded.

STRESSMAN ATTEMPTS FORMATION OF CABINET. BERLIN, Aug. 13. After accepting the task Sunday of forming the new government following the resignation of Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno and Cabinet, Dr. Gustave Stresemann, leader of the German People's Party, held a conference with representatives of various parties. The greatest difficulty seems to be in connection with Foreign Minister, and it is thought possible that he will take the post himself temporarily. The Cabinet, it is thought, will be of a strictly political character, including representatives of United Socialist, Clerical, Peoples, and Democratic parties. The United Socialists have made it known they expect to have four seats in the ministry. The abandonment of Chancellor Cuno by Socialists was commonly accepted as a concession to their Radical following, and a counter to Communists who are utilizing the nation's distress as a means of mobilizing working classes around Red Flag. It may be said that Herr Cuno was purely a victim of the economic crisis, as the middle parties supporting him were still inclined to stand by his government. But at last they realized the futility of maintaining him in position of Chancellor in the face of two hundred hostile Labor votes in the Reichstag. The Chancellor's political supporters and President Ebert finally impressed him with the hopelessness of such a proposal and he concluded to resign. The party coalition which hereafter will occupy the government benches will command the majority, which is opposed by only seventy-one Nationalist and twenty-six Communist votes out of a total of four hundred and sixty-nine. Dr. Stresemann, born in 1878, is one of the most fluent speakers in the Reichstag and an out and out party man. He is regarded as an adept politician. The new Chancellor has been identified with industrial activities. He is presiding chairman of the German-American Economic Conference, which is occupied with endeavoring to further trade relations between the United States and Germany.

SPORTOGRAPHS

NEW WORLD'S RECORD.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 13. Hermann Tirabochi, the Argentinian swimmer, landed here this afternoon after swimming the English Channel from Cape Gris Nez, France, in a record time of sixteen hours, thirty-three minutes.

INTERMEDIATE RACE OFF.

"Sportographs" on behalf of the St. John's Intermediate crew I regret to say we are unable to accept the challenge to row St. Bon's again owing to the coxswain and one of the rowers out of town.

holes, winning the match on the 16th green by 3 and 2. Mr. Willis Macenzie won his match in the third round against J. R. Hoise.

AN EXPLANATION.

The challenge of Jack Dunphy, the St. Bon's stroke, in "Sportographs" on Saturday, has since been repudiated by the balance of the crew, on the grounds that in the first place he apparently had no right to take upon himself the authority to issue such a challenge to St. Mary's, and secondly that St. Bon's consider it would not be living up to the ethics of the game to even suggest that the race be re-rowed after St. Mary's winning in such a sportsmanlike manner. We have not been favored with a copy for publication of the letter which the challenger saw fit to write this morning. In it he states that the editor of "Sportographs" is in no way responsible for the challenge. Well, we should say not, seeing that it was put in and signed at Mr. Dunphy's urgent request in the presence of Mr. John M. Tobin, Secretary of the St. Joseph's Regatta Committee. When he suggested that the challenge be published in the Telegram he was

H. Rogers, (St. Mary's Stroke).

GOLF.

The third and fourth rounds of the 1923 Amateur Championship were played at Freen on July 28. Mr. John Wilson, the holder, was defeated by K. B. Symington, a local player in the third round. There was heavy wind blowing. Mr. Symington turned 1 up and won the next 2

LAWN TENNIS.

Scotland beat England. Scotland beat England by three matches to two in the International Match, which was concluded at Ravelston Dykes, Edinburgh, on July 28.

REGATTA TONIGHT.

Should weather conditions at all permit the balance of the St. Joseph's Regatta program will be run off tonight. The first race will be the District at 8.30, followed by the Old Comrades, Fishermen, and Championship, all of which should be most exciting. The Mount Cashel Band will be in attendance. For the Old Comrades race a most unique silver trophy in boat shape will be presented. It was presented through the kindness and generosity of Messrs. Fred and Gus Wadden and it is at present on exhibition at Millier's where it is attracting much attention. The programme will conclude with a dance in the Parish hall.

SQUASH RACKETS.

The Tennis and Rackets Association have received an invitation from America to send a team of squash rackets players to represent England in the American and Canadian Championships and in an international match. The invitation has been accepted, and probably a team of six players will sail in February. The Squash Rackets Championship in this country will be held on December 10th, and following days at the Harcourt Club, on two standard courts, which are now in course of erection and should be completed by the end of October.

GRAND FALLS TEAM.

Mr. R. E. Innes, who is going to Grand Falls as manager of the city team, has received a letter from the Secretary of the Grand Falls Club, stating that all arrangements are finalized for the later-town series, the opening game of which will be played on Monday next, and the remaining games during the week.

An railway accommodation must be arranged by to-morrow, all who intend going out with the team should send in their names to-day, as in case sufficient fans offer, a special excursion train will be made up by the General Passenger Agent Pittman, to leave here Saturday night, the fare for the return trip being $13.90 first class. Last year Grand Falls almost turned the tables on the city eleven, and it was only Walsh's goal tending that saved the situation. This year Walsh is again going out, while Tatt, Thistle, Maddigan, Meaney, Duggan, Hunt, Flynn, Ewiar and Coultas are also going which will make a strong aggregation and an interesting series is anticipated.

$50,000 OFFER TO DEMPSEY.
NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Harry Verner and Simon Fishery, boxing promoters, to-day deposited with a bank a cheque for $50,000 which they said would be given Jack Dempsey if he would meet Harry Willis for the heavyweight title before battling with Luis Angel Firpo. The promoters declared they had an option on an arena at Greater New York that would seat at least 90,000 persons.

HIGHLAND GAMES WEDNESDAY.
Competitors are reminded that entries will be received to-day and to-morrow between 8 and 9 p.m. at the St. Andrew's Club Rooms by Mr. Jack MacNeil. The games will be held under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor, and nothing is being left undone by the energetic committee to make it the most successful event ever held in Newfoundland. The final meeting will be held to-night.

SWIMMING.

The most important event at the gala of the Croydon Ladies' Swimming Club, which was held at Croydon Baths, was the semi-final tie of the Southern Counties Water Club Championship, in which the Otter Swimming Club beat the Otter Swimming Club by six goals to three. The Otter Swimming Club will now meet the City Police in the final tie.

The 100 yards boys' championship of the Borough of Croydon was won by P. J. Weston, who beat the existing "record" made by K. D. MacLennan in 1913, by three-fifths of a second.

BROAD COVE REGATTA.

The Broad Cove Regatta will be held at Broad Cove on Wednesday next, the 15th. The energetic committee in charge has prepared an excellent programme for the day and the following races will be run off:—Single Scull, Double Scull, Farmers, Fishermen, All-Comers. Entries for the races are to be in to the Committee not later than this evening. At night a dance will be held in the old school house and the presence of friends from the city will be appreciated by those in charge.

STATED WITH FIRPO.

OMAHA, Nebraska, August 2.—Luis Angel Firpo was forced to go through ten rounds with Homer Smith of Kalamazoo, Michigan, heavyweight, to-night, before winning by a referee's decision. Firpo won the bout by a large margin, newspaper men at the ringside said, scoring knock-downs almost at will. It was the first time since the Argentine's entry to his country that he did not win his fight by the knockout route.

DRAWN BIG CROWD.

The arranged match between the West and East teams to augment the Inter-town Football funds attracted a large gathering on Saturday evening, the gate being worth about eighty dollars. The West Enders put it all over the wise man from the East by a score of 4 to 0. It was really too one sided to be interesting, but at times there were flashes of really good soccer.

Mr. Lewis Pricks the Moscow Bubble.

(Saturday Evening Post.)
When the other day John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, expelled from his organization the Reds of Cape Breton and revoked their charter, he did not mind matters. He reminded Livingstone, McLachlan and others of their Moscow affiliations, and made it clear that people of this revolutionary stripe had no place in the U.M.W. Livingstone, and his evil genius McLachlan, as President Lewis called him, may kick and squirm for a time, but the power of the U.M.W. wrested from them, and their Red followers will eventually subside. It is quite possible that the fare-up may result in another miners' union being formed by the Reds, but this, getting little or no public support, would eventually die in its tracks.

Shrewd leader that he is, Mr. Lewis realizes, as does Mr. Gompers, that labor unions on this Continent must be kept clear of Moscow influence, else their death knell is sounded; and moreover they must, to be successful, obtain and retain the respect of the large mass of people who are in no wise affiliated with unionized trades. As Mr. Lewis pointed out in his official communication, a union must, like any other concern, live up to its contracts, a thing which leaders like McLachlan take no account of.

In this country "papier-mache revolutionists" such as McLachlan, can in the end get nowhere, and while the situation in Cape Breton is serious, it is, thanks to the presence of armed forces, in no way dangerous. Law and order in this country are going to be maintained, and Mr. Lewis' declaration denouncing this "mad adventure," as he calls it, is going to be a great help in restoring the reason of many who were taking too much stock in such gas bags as these Red leaders have proved themselves to be.

In the meantime the steel workers are going back to work in large numbers, and the miners, with no funds upon which to draw, and no union status, are bound to follow.

The Leading Light

for home illumination now-a-days is unquestionably Electricity. It is superior to gas in many ways—cleaner, too, and not nearly so dangerous. Every home should now be lighted with Electricity—it is so easy to install, so easy to operate. And the light it gives far transcends that of gas. We are prepared to install electric light systems in households at a most reasonable figure—to fix the same complete and attend to all details and necessary repairs.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR RHEUMATISM.

Our Last Day in Camp.

Fine day all day, probably the most agreeable day during the camping period. Morning devoted to thorough cleaning up of grounds and lines preparatory to inspection by His Excellency the Governor. Everything was up and span. Lt.-Col. Rendell arrived in Camp about 11 a. m. and His Excellency the Governor with Lady Allardysse, Major Bell and Capt. Goodfellow, arrived at 11.45 and inspected the guard at the entrance to the camp. The Battalion was drawn up in close column of companies on the parade ground and received the Vice Royal Party with the General Salute. The total on parade were 10 officers and 100 hundred other ranks. The officers were:—Lt.-Col. Rendell, C.B.E., Major Tait, M.C., Capt. Snow, Short, Lewis; Lieuts. Reid, Hayward, Mott, and Ash, 2nd Lieut. Early. The latter was Orderly Officer for the day.

The special guard was under Sergeant L. Hooker. Lt. Harold Hayward was in charge of the Colour Party. His Excellency inspected the Companies which were in charge of Capt. Snow and Lieut. Reid, respectively. The Battalion then marched past in fours under the Camp Commandant and advanced toward the saluting base in review orders and saluted the Governor. His Excellency then addressed the ladies and complimented them upon their numbers and appearance. He was glad to see the Outpost detachments in a common camp, and reminded the ladies that the C.L.B. was doing a great work for the young manhood of the Island and advised them to get their pairs to join up. He said it was a good training ground for development of citizenship. After the address, the Camp Commandant called for three cheers for His Excellency and Lady Allardysse. The Governor's party then made a thorough inspection of camp and appeared greatly pleased with the layout and the conveniences for the ladies. They were especially interested in the new mess hut and cook-house. He greeted the staff there and complimented them. He then came back to the parade ground where the battalion gave him the general salute, on his departure. The afternoon was spent in dismantling the camps and preparing for the return to headquarters. The Colonial Cordage truck came about 4 p. m. and marked the first step in bidding farewell to camp. The staff, Bell Island, and Bay Roberts contingents left at 9 a. m. and both contingents were given a hearty send off. Motor cars began to arrive at 7.30 and return to town was made at 8.30. Many thanks are due to kind friends who placed cars and trucks at the disposal of the brigade. Gen. Lester lent his bus and truck. All got home by Sunday's express.

Major Tait brought up the rear and saw all ranks underway. Quartermaster Mott and staff are deserving of great praise for their efficient and whole hearted service. The cooks stayed over to look after the final cleaning up of their department. Grand Falls contingent left for their homes by Sunday's express. This Company's contingent made themselves very popular and we hope to see more of them next year. In fact Camp Commandant, Major Tait, M.C., reports he had nothing to complain of. All the ladies behaved like gentlemen and no breaches of discipline were on record. All ranks break camp with great regret and wished the period was two weeks instead of ten days. This may be Major Tait's last camp for some time as he leaves Newfoundland next month to reside in Boston, Mass. with his family on account of climatic conditions. The Major is a most popular officer with the Brigade and it is a hard blow to his comrades to hear of his intended departure. However, we hope he will organize the C. L. B. movement in Boston—where there is a bigger field and a crying need for an institution of this sort. Well 1923 camp is over—the attendance has been the biggest on record. Notwithstanding the weather tanks to all kind friends, everybody voted it a great success and we are sure has given the campers a new lease of life.—Q.

Mike Resents the Light of Truth.

Mike Healy, of Fort Worth, Texas, did not like my last reference to his invitation to British mugs to send him cash for "pool interests" in what he described as "the irresistible oil-fortune-making opportunities" of Mike Healy, Limited. He sat down and addressed to me yet another letter, from which I extract the following:—
"I dread that you have never concentrated or built anything worth while in your entire career; you belong to the howling dervish class; you thrive on malice, sarcasm and mischief; you are a circulator of dirty, malicious and libellous lies.

Just to enlighten your polluted and destructive brain, I enclose you a reprint showing several reports about the big gusher well we completed on May 27, that in nine days has made over 70,000 barrels of oil. Do not think for one minute that we are after little stock sales, as our plans are constructed on sound business lines that will be carried out over a period of years with long-experienced and capable management.

Some day the writer trusts to have the pleasure of meeting you personally, and at that time you will probably hear ringing in your ears the echo of 1776, when a few Yankee colonists gave a bunch of aesine British redcoats the damnest thrashing your race has ever suffered since its organized Government was formed. After chastising you properly and fully, we will consider old scores at an end, and in a spirit of a true sportsman will entertain you with a few choice woodcock and ample portions of the best champagne. Take an inventory of yourself, old sport, and get a brand new set of ideas. Cut out all that bally rot in your poison pen, and mend your ways from the "Holler Than Thou" spirit you employ from your pedestal of mutton piss and barley water."

This effusion gives colour to the stories one hears about the dogin' of the Prohibition law in America, for it is incredible that Mike finds his inspiration in barley water.—Truth.

How Population is Lost to Canada.

(By Dr. Clifton D. Hows, M. F., Acting President, Canadian Forestry Association.)

(Saturday Evening Post.)
The disastrous effect of a forest policy which compels the lumber industry to migrate from place to place is to be found not only in the forest itself and on the farm, but also, in the larger towns. Throughout Eastern Canada there are many towns once growing and prosperous, but now declining and discouraged because the saw-mill, or other wood-using establishment, has gone out of business through the failure of forest supplies. They are in the condition which the commercial traveller so aptly designates as "dead."
The older men of my readers will at once recall illustrations of what I mean, but for the benefit of the younger men let me give one example. Forty years ago the town had a population of 1,300. Then came a saw-mill, or at least the old mill was rejuvenated and enlarged. In ten years the town had a population of 3,000 and in another decade it had reached 5,800. From this point the output of the mill declined and about fifteen years ago the work became spasmodic and finally the mill went out of business because the river valley above had been logged out. The population decreased with the declining fortunes of the mill until now the town has less people than it had 40 years ago. Stores and shops have been abandoned; whole streets have vacant, tumble-down houses. Discouragement and despair are written everywhere in that village—in the faces of its people as well as in the condition of its streets.
This town, like many others, is the victim of an administrative policy on the part of the Government which regards a forest only as so many trees to be cut and not as a restorable resource capable of producing crops indefinitely when properly treated. The river valley had and still has forest soil enough to support three such towns as the above under the time of its best development, and under intelligent use and conscious effort to keep the forest continuously productive.

Forty-Four Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram.

What is Needed in Newfoundland.

"It there is one portion of this continent that would especially like to see a settled Europe at the present time," said Mr. Charles Rowlings, of Parqular & Co., "it is the Dominion of Newfoundland; for Newfoundland's one big industry is suffering for markets which only a settled Europe will supply. So long as conditions in Europe are bad, not only will fish markets there continue depressed, but also depression will be continued in South America and other countries which look to Europe as a market for their products. South America, that is more especially Brazil, is a very large market for Newfoundland fish in normal times, but Brazil to-day is handicapped in her purchases by the inability of Europe to buy Brazilian products. Before the war two-fifths of Brazil's coffee crop was sold in Hamburg. How much do you think she could sell there to-day?"

However, it may be that a change in European affairs will come very shortly. The news regarding the prospect of an agreement between France and England regarding the question of German reparations seems more hopeful during the last week or so than it has been yet. It may be therefore that a change is a great deal nearer than some of us would be willing to believe. I would say, however, that it cannot come too quickly so far as Newfoundland is concerned, for practically her little all is tied up in fish, and the fishing industry to be profitable must have the freest access to and the maximum trade with all consuming markets of both hemispheres. Nova Scotia is suffering in a similar way to Newfoundland, but here of course we have a variety of industries; we are not absolutely dependent on any one thing."

Mr. Rowlings' remarks recall to our mind the war-time discussions as to whether this country, the British Empire, should ever again have any truck or trade with the Germans. Mr. Hughes, an Australian Premier of that time, secured an immense temporary popularity in England by his advocacy of an eternal boycott. We wonder what Mr. Hughes thinks about the matter to-day. We recall that while his propaganda was raging in London we received a letter from an "over-seas" man who was evidently much impressed by the Hughes' effort. He, the writer, expressed the hope that the Hughes idea would prevail; in fact he went so far as to express a belief that it would do so unless perchance men engaged in merchandising in the allied countries should think more of their own pockets than they did of their country's flag. It was a bit dangerous to argue against this writer's views at that particular time, but we ventured to tell our friend that in all probability the first people who would be likely to protest against a continuous boycott of Germany would not be the merchandisers of the allied countries at all. Instead it would be the producers of those countries. The Sambre fisherman, for instance, unable to sell his fish to Brazil, because Brazil through poverty in Germany was unable to sell her coffee in Hamburg, he, we suspect, would have something to say. The fact is it is far too interdependent a world that we live in for any one country to suspect that with Germany in distress other countries might hope to escape suffering. And in connection with this question we think there is one thing that should be said for the English. It is this. They will fight the other fellow until both have had enough, but once the fight is over they are ready immediately to get down to business, for no matter how much they may still hate their old opponent they do not forget that he is part of the world's machinery, and that this machinery will not function so long as any one of the cogs is not meshing properly with the others. This is not only good business, it is more than that, it is a good sporting spirit. The English, needless to say, are past masters of both.

Investigating Alleged Scandal.

As referred by us a few days ago the Justice Department is now investigating an alleged scandal involving a Magistrate who was slated as a candidate for the Government in Placentia and St. Mary's District in the recent election and a postal official of the same District. Both officials have been suspended. The investigation, it is said, is to find out what has become of the sum of $10,000, supposed to be transferred to the Magistrate for his election expenses.

Following the ceremony refreshments were partaken of in the Cable Hall. Brother Cowan in proposing the toast to Lodge Mackay, reviewed briefly its progress and growth since its inception in 1914. Brother Uphill, a visitor to the city from the United States also made a very pleasing address, outlining briefly some of the work of the fraternity in that country.

More Direct Action Wanted.

Why should it be necessary to employ a Royal Commission to inquire into the necessity or otherwise of prohibiting the export of pulpwood? At the recent session of Parliament this matter was left very much in the air. What is obviously required is an enactment whereby pulpwood cannot be exported in its raw state, with certain provisions that would protect the bona fide settler who is clearing land and who for various reasons cannot sell his cut to advantage to the Canadian paper mills. Instead of an act prohibiting the export of raw woods, we have now a modified act whereby a Royal Commission may after investigation prohibit the export "if and when it is considered desirable."

Of course this is just so much soft soap for the United States paper makers who are greatly perturbed at the prospect of losing Canada as a field from which to draw their raw materials. Between forest fires and the woodchopper we are wasting a great source of natural wealth at a rate which will within a few years strip our country of one of its great assets. We should do what we can to conserve it, and this can best be done by making Canada the home of the paper manufacturers who depend upon Canadian pulpwood.

There was no hesitation on the part of the United States when it came to directing a tariff against our exports. Why should we hesitate when it comes to preserving for ourselves our own natural resources. What we want is direct action.—Saturday Evening Post.

STAR MOVIE TO-NIGHT.

When a brute gets to be powerful among his people it is certain that a woman will come into the situation somewhere. Give a brute power and the first thing he thinks of is possessing by force the most beautiful woman in sight. "Bavu" was no different. The human monster of "Bavu" the Universal-Jewel mystery feature at the Star theatre, got what he wanted when he wanted it until a man clever enough and brave enough to successfully oppose him stepped into the fight. Wallace Beery is "Bavu". "Bavu"—"Bavooooooooo!" The name of the Universal Jewel mystery photodrama at the Star theatre has a weird sound, but it is more weird than the actions of its characters, who move grimly about their mystifying deeds. The intangible Wallace Beery is "Bavu", the brutal monster of the story, and Estelle Taylor and Forrest Stanley are the romantic leading players. Stuart Paton directed from a scenario by Raymond L. Schrock and Albert G. Kuyper of the Earl Carroll New York stage success.

Susu Arrives.

FISHERY SHOWS SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT.

S.S. Susu, Capt. Roberts, arrived in port at 5 p.m. yesterday from the Fogo mail service route. The captain reports a big improvement in the fishery north, although the wretched weather conditions has prevented the men from going on the grounds. Good catches have been made with hook and line, but the weather has been too stormy to do anything with the traps. The ship brought a part freight and the following passengers: Miss G. Oake, Miss B. Brown, Miss F. Burden, Miss D. Burden, Miss E. Winsor, Miss B. Gill, Miss A. Stratton, Miss Dewey, Miss Peckford, Miss Hall, Miss E. Kelloway, Miss N. Buckley, Messrs. A. A. Burden, W. Jameson, Rev. Produce and Provisions.

(Trade Review.)

It is now a foregone conclusion that the codfishery of 1923 will be a poor one though of course the sections both on the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts good weather has occurred, but taken all together it is pretty safe to bet that the aggregate will be the lowest for a number of years past. The average was in the main very low, but does it look, at this writing, as if the hook and line voyage will be much better. In fact so bad is some large stretches of coast fishermen have abandoned the fishery and have gone in quest of other employment. Some observers of the fishery believe that the shore markets will be reasonably good, but should make a considerable advance in the early fall before much new offerings have reached their allotted destinations. We have mentioned some of the exporters during the week as to what might be the price for our new fish in the early fall, but they would not in any statement, as much depends upon the amount of old fish on the competition of Norway and as well as France, and also upon the question of exchange. Some do not think that the offer of 43 shillings on Geape fish to which we alluded last week could be regarded as setting up a standard for our goods, and the hope is expressed, that matters will be brighter than at first was anticipated. It looks as we have long ago predicted that the stock of "old fish" held in Europe will overlap with the new fish, though consumption of our goods is holding a good average, especially in the Oporto market, the report from which this week showed stocks aggregating $9,615, of which 7,372 quintals had been disposed of, while the Norwegian consumption was only 2,500 quintals. The stocks of old fish carried here are fast diminishing, and with a few more cargoes sent abroad will have reached the vanishing point. The exports during the week were by the schooner Andrea from Chantal for Oporto, 3,000 qts. shipped by E. Pike, Ltd.; Jean McKay from Grand Bank for Oporto, 4,000 qts. shipped by J. B. Patten, and the Jas. and Stanley from Grand Bank for Oporto with 3,500 qts. shipped by Samuel Harris. There were shipped by the Rosalind for New York for transshipment to Italy and the West Indies, 3,500 qts. by various shippers and by the Digby for Liverpool 1,000 qts. for transshipment to Italy. By these same conveyances there were also exported 20 tons cod oil, 150 tierces of salmon, 150 cases lobsters and 45 barrels herring. The aggregate of the codfish exported during the week was 14,500 qts.

Cod Oil—The market shows no life whatever. There is no interest shown in prospective purchases, and the tone continues easy. The English market has been well supplied with Norwegian oil. The fishing industries on the East Coast of England that supply this market with such large quantities of fresh fish are now giving greater attention to the by-products of the liver, and manufacturing this into industrial oils which supply their trade to our disadvantage. The American markets are getting all they require, which is said to be very little, as the tanneries to a very large extent have been shut down.

Cod Liver Oil—Quite a number of the refiners have started operation, and if fishing continues good during August and September there will be quite a lot of oil manufactured. We would like to see some encouragement given to continue this business, but unless the livers are purchased at a very low figure, it will be impossible to make two ends meet under present conditions.

Flour—In dealing with this market last week the statement was made that the farmers would strenuously resist any further reductions in wheat, and that their opposition in this matter has borne fruit is now quite evident judging by the action of the American government in evolving a scheme for the regulation of wheat prices. As no news confirming the report that "black rust" had attacked the growing wheat was received last week, it was hoped the report was unfounded, but news received Wednesday is of a sensational character, at least as far as the Canadian crop is concerned. During the past three weeks most unfavorable weather has had a very damaging effect, especially in Saskatchewan, where rust, heat and an excess of moisture is playing havoc with the grain, of which nothing more than a fair average crop will be milled, though at first a record crop was reasonably anticipated. Rust heat and what is known as the "new fly" have done their full work with the Manitoba grain and the loss there has been very heavy, while in the Central and Southern districts the adverse weather conditions of the past three weeks will cut the expected big yield down to about one-half of what was promised a month ago. Alberta, we learn, has been fortunate in this respect and her wheat yield will be the best since 1915. Shortage of harvest labour is a feature which is also causing trouble, and at this writing all the indications point to a Canadian wheat crop far less in volume than was expected a few weeks ago. Nothing, as far as we know, has been heard of anything similar affecting the wheat crop in the great Republic to the south of the Dominion, where it now seems to be an assured fact that a very large crop will be reaped. Argentina has an exceptionally large crop this year also as well as Australia, but despite this it is not likely, in view of what has occurred, that prices will be much below those now prevailing. During the latter part of the week the four market became very much stronger as a result of the unfavourable reports as to the damage caused by rust, hail and snow and prices advanced about 25 cents all round. The cold weather has set in very early this year and is having its effect on the market. Prices locally quoted during the week were $7.25 to $13.00 per barrel wholesale according to grade. The importations were: by the Silvia from New York 257 barrels; Sable I. from Halifax 750 barrels; a total of 1,007 barrels.

Pork—There is not much change in this market since last week nor is much looked for until the autumn. The market is much more firm in tone than it has been for many weeks past and as we stated last week the quotations later will be appreciably higher than those ruling at present. There were no importations of pork this week and the prices quoted in the local market during the week were, Spare Ribs $22.50, S. C. Clear $27.00, Fat Back $27.00 and Ham Butt Choice $27.50, wholesale.

Beef—This market is depressed locally and the demand for goods is very slack owing to general stagnation in trade prices generally are a good deal easier, but we understand from importers that packing of this article at present is very small. Higher figures are anticipated between the present and the early autumn. The imports during the week were by the Silvia from New York 470 barrels and by the Sable I. 100 barrels a total of 570 barrels. The figures in this market are for Bos Finck $13.50, Bos Packet $20.50, Family Special $13.50, Bonides, New York, $18.00, Boneless, Light, $12.25.

Sugar—Though it looked last week as if a sharp advance would be experienced in the price of sugar, owing to the thinning out of stocks by the large consumption both in the United States and England; still a further decline was experienced, much to the surprise of those experienced in the marketing of this commodity. The importations for the week were by the S. S. Silvia from New York 450 cwts., and by the S. S. Sable I. from Halifax 1,125 cwts., a total of 1,575 cwts. Granulated sugar was quoted in the local market this week, wholesale, at $8.50 the barrel as compared with $10.00 last week.

Molasses—This market still retains its quiet aspect and not much business is expected before the early fall. No importations that we know of were recorded this week nor are any more expected, as the market is now pretty well stocked. Though fancy was quoted at 90 cents during the week there was a decline of 2 cents the gallon on choice which now sells at 78 cents per gallon, wholesale.

Hay—The local crop of hay which is now being cut is of very good quality, a surprising fact, considering how cold the summer has been and the adverse weather we are at present experiencing. No importations of hay were noted this week and the market for Canadian is very dull with no sales being made. The price quoted is anywhere from $32.00 to $35.00 per ton.

Tea—A good deal of tea is now being imported and as we stated some time ago the market is firm with a tendency to higher prices later. The importations this week were by the Sachem from England 8,500 lbs., and by the Sable I. from Halifax 15,000 lbs., or a total of 23,500 lbs. Prices vary from 35 to 80 cents per lb. according to quality.

Salmon—Several new parcels of this year's new pack of salmon came into the city during the week, but the market was very slow and sales were almost a blank. Hopes are, however, entertained for a revival during the late fall and winter months when there is as a rule a better demand for the goods. The lobster market is also dull and packers find it difficult to make sales at present. A good deal of lobsters were received during the week but not much sales were effected owing to the low price offered.

Hardware, Tinware, Etc.—An active market in these goods has been succeeded by quietness on account of the slump in the salmon and lobster fisheries. The market is well stocked with goods and the prices we quote will likely obtain for some time to come. L. C. tin plate is quoted at $8.50 to $10.00 per cwt.; L. C. charcoal $11.00; solder 37 cents per lb.; bar lead 11 cents lb.; linotype metal 12 cents lb.; stereotype 15 cents lb.; manganese 40 cents; black sheet iron $8.75 per 100 lbs.; galvanized sheet iron $17.50 per 100 lbs. and sheet zinc 15 cents per lb. There was also imported during the week by S. S. Kition and schooners Olive Moore and Evelyn 2,500 tons coal.

Tinplate—Tinplate is usually at its lowest point in the foreign markets in the month of December, because then it is that consumers begin to place their orders. At the present time the price is rather high. Quoting tinplate, basis for price is usually figured at one box 14 by 20 inches containing 112 sheets the contents of which weigh 108 lbs. This is

Diplomats Abroad

MUST PAY HEAVILY TO ENTER-TAIN KINGS.

Washington, Aug. 8. (A.P.)—The pomp of European courts has not decreased noticeably since the war, according to reports of American diplomats to the State Department. American Ambassadors are continuing their complaints of inadequate salaries to meet the heavy drain of social entertainment, and are citing post-war troubles of entertaining royalty at functions which equal or surpass the glided affairs of pre-war days in Europe.

For instance, the state dinner given recently by George Harvey, American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, to the British royal family set back the American envoy something over $,000—for one dinner and trimmings. In fact, the trimmings constituted a large part of the bill, which contained an item of $750 for palms and ferns given standing room in the fireplaces of the American embassy for the occasion.

Tradesmen holding the royal favor have to be reckoned with in the entertainment provided by American diplomats. The caterers are virtually chosen for the American entertainer by the lord chamberlain of the royal palace, no unknown or plebeian chefs being permitted to cook for or serve the king or queen. Decorators florists and a train of other tradesmen having the royal approval, also must be selected by the American host and their work, as well as their bills, go a long way in directing the function.

Entertainment occasionally of the rulers of the nations to which they are accredited is an inescapable duty of American diplomats, who are provided with no entertainment fund to cover the costs of food and service. A few are wealthy enough to bear extraordinary expenditures for social entertainment, but the poorer ones say that the war has not toned down the "class" of the required social duties.

The higher standing abroad of the American dollar is said to help some in bearing the expense, but in many cases local tradesmen add to their bills, in the cases of the "rich American" diplomats, more than sufficient to meet the difference in the rate of exchange.

Peat Fuel Should Receive Attention.

The peat bogs at Alfred, Ont. have up to date cost $300,000 of public money. It has been demonstrated that peat is a useful fuel, as well as an economical one, where haulage is not too great a factor. The engineers directly concerned in these experiments state that they have developed a commercially feasible process of extracting and drying this fuel for use, and the departments of mines in Toronto and Ottawa are said to agree that the undertaking is one that should not be allowed to lapse. The Dominion Government has done its share in placing this undertaking on its feet. It is now up to Ontario's Provincial Government to nurse it along until such time as private enterprise will take hold and make it a commercial success. Ontario's former Conservative Government did its share in the development. The late Drury Government did nothing at all, being too busy making roads and looking after the public's morals to give it any attention. It would now seem a matter of good business on the part of the new Ontario Government to see that the development proceeds to the point where a plentiful supply of this use-

Are Our Forests Worth Saving.

We have 150 million acres of soil in Eastern Canada better adapted to tree crops than to farm crops. And no other forest region in the world is so accessible by water and by rail. This vast area, properly stocked and under intelligent use, could supply the markets of the world. No other forest region contains such a large number of commercial species and so widely adapted to various uses.

With an adequate forestry program we could, in the future, replenish the diminishing supplies of the eastern states with lumber and paper made in Canadian mills by Canadian labor. Why should not this country go into the business of raising forest products to compete in the markets of the world, as well as wheat, beef, butter and cheese for the same purposes?

Our forest lands now yield us products to the value of 500 million dollars annually. This enormous economic advantage cannot exist many years longer unless there is more effective fire protection. In order to get more effective fire protection the public must invest more money in it. The amount spent on licensed lands averages less than a cent an acre a year. When we consider the total forest area of Canada, then we find we are investing less than a fifth of a cent an acre annually to ensure the continuance in the future of the second largest wealth-producing industry in the country. If the people of Canada think it worth while to keep their industries going they must pay more for forest protection than they are paying at present.

Wedding Bells.

MARCH-BARRETT.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Gower St. Church August 6th at 8 p.m., when Marion, daughter of Sergt. and Mrs. March of Carbon-ear, was united in the holy bonds of Matrimony to John Barrett, of Old Perlican, T.B. The Rev. Hammond Johnson officiating. The bride was charmingly dressed in tawn costume and wore fox furs, gift of her father, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Miss Estelle Lewis who wore costume with hat to match and carried a bouquet of carnations. Little Miss Helen Martin performed the duties of flower girl. The groom was assisted by Mr. Walton March, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the happy party motored to Bowring Park and returned to Spencer Street where a honnifood repast was partaken of. The bride and groom left on the train next morning for Carbonear where a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. From there they proceeded to Old Perlican where another reception awaited them. Bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful presents testifying to the esteem in which they are both held. The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque, to the bridesmaid and flower girl rings, to the best man gold links. The bride was formerly a teacher and the many friends, far and near, join in wishing both bride and groom many years of happiness, in which the Telegram joins.

Torbay Annual Garden Party.

During the past five years very heavy work has had to be undertaken at Torbay. On his arrival in the Parish Fr. Ashley found all the church buildings in a tumbling down condition and beyond repair. A new site for Church and Presbytery had to be bought at a cost of two thousand dollars. Moreover just as this work had to be faced the Parish was divided and comprises since then Torbay Proper. The people shouldered their burden and are working overtime to get things into shape, but next Wednesday, August 15th, they would like to see their many friends from St. John's and the surrounding settlements present at their annual Garden Party, which will be on the Presbytery grounds. Torbay is only five miles from Mount Cashel gate and many pretty sights are to be seen, such as the "Mantle Piece," to which the cabmen bring all the American tourists. They can come by way of Outer and Middle Coves to Torbay or come to Torbay first and return via Outer Cove, the prettiest drive in this country. There will be dance and refreshments at night, which will help to pass away a few pleasant hours. So make up your mind to go to Torbay on Wednesday next and lend a little aid to the object for which this Garden Party is being held.

THE PASSING YEARS.

The years seemed long when I was young, impatient for that gorgeous day when I would win, with pen or tongue, a fame that never could decay. The future was a lovely land, in which I longed to roam afar, and on its summit stand, and hitch my name to a star. I had no past, I went ahead, to shining deeds in spheres; the days dragged on like months were years. And that I am old and gray, I still dream beneath my oak; the years slipping on their way, and I behold the trail of smoke, Alas, I have no more, no splendid hopes enliven my mind; I sit at evening with you, and always, always look back. And ever shorter grow the days, like dewdrops the seasons pass, the summer comes and disappears, and winter's blasts begin to

Some Optimist.

An Irish construction foreman suffered the loss of a hand by the premature explosion of a blast, and as he stood holding the bleeding stump the gang crowded around were profuse in their expressions of sympathy. "Whist, lads," consoled the injured one, "Tisn't as bad as it might be. Suppose I had had me pay in me hand?"

SIDE TALKS.

PEOPLE WHO ENRICH US.

Fifteen years ago a dear friend of mine was called from college to her mother's bedside. Her mother had unexpectedly had to have a serious operation and the doctor doubted if she would recover. She did recover, but for years she was a semi-invalid, at first in bed, then able to get about the house, finally able to get out a little under the most favorable circumstances.

That was the condition the last time I heard from my friend. When I met her the other day I asked about her mother with that timidity we feel when we do not know but what we may be touching upon a grief.

"Oh, my mother's fine," she said. "She and father are going abroad next winter."

You can imagine how that took my breath away!

Begins To Travel At Sixty. And then she went on to say that her mother had also been traveling about this country for the last year or two, as she had always dreamed of doing before she was sick.

And her mother is a woman well over 60!

While there is life and courage, there is certainly hope!

Her mother has not been the subject of any miraculous cure. She has simply made her slow way back to health, helped out by courage and optimism. And now that she has won back part of her health, she has not been afraid because of her advancing years to do the things she has always wanted to do.

While there is life and courage it is never too late to fulfill one's dreams. Every once in a while I read or hear of someone like this who has had the courage to make the after-50-years as rich as those before.

The Alps At Eighty-Three.

I read in my daily paper that a man of 83 is going abroad. And when the reporters at the sailing of the ship ask him what he is going to do there, he tells them he is going to take a walking trip through the Alps!

Sarah Farley, of Pennsylvania, mother of four and grandmother of a dozen, has seen her four children safely through college on a widow's means. They do not need her help longer and so she fulfills her own dream and goes to college herself. A friend tells me of an old aunt of hers who has worked as a nurse all her life and inherited some money when she is 78. She has always wanted to travel. She takes the money and travels around the world, and then goes happily back to work.

They Live All Of Life.

A man of 54 who has never had the leisure for outdoor sports, finds himself at last in the position to indulge in them and takes up a sport which has been thought pre-eminently a sport of youth—skiing.

"There are not many Dr. Johnsons," says Stevenson, "to set forth upon their first romantic voyage at 64." (The age at which Johnson took his famous journey to the Hebrides with Boswell.)

I think Stevenson is unduly pessimistic. Or perhaps there are more now than there used to be. Anyway, it seems to me that I am hearing of them all the time, these folks who lengthen life by living all of it instead of only part of it.

And every time I hear of them I feel a sense of gratitude. They have not only made their own lives richer, but have helped enrich yours and mine by their encouragement that we may some day do likewise.

Wonders of Wembley.

THE BUILDINGS AND THE GROUNDS.

So vast a scheme requires space on the same scale to carry it out. The Exhibition ground is the largest that has ever been laid out for such a purpose, and on this ground a spacious town is now springing up. Some idea of the measurements may be gathered from the Stadium, the outer circumference of which is half a mile. But the Stadium does not cover the greatest floor space among the Exhibition buildings. The great Hall of Machinery extends over half a million square feet. The whole of Trafalgar Square, with the National Gallery, Charing Cross, and the Strand as far as Duncannon Street on the west and Spring Gardens on the east, could be laid out within this colossal Hall. Five railway bays are now provided inside the building for the transhipment of exhibits directly into their beds. The Palace of Industry is nearly at large. That, too, has direct communication with the adjacent railways. Yet here as these buildings are, practically all the space available is already let to exhibitors.

Besides these two gigantic erections, Australia's great building will have an area of 130,000 square feet, and the Commonwealth is spending £200,000 upon its exhibits. Canada will have a pavilion that will cover nearly 100,000 square feet, while two great Canadian railway companies will occupy another 20,000. New Zealand is spending £50,000, South Africa £100,000, the West African group £100,000, India £187,000. The other members of the Imperial family are spending proportionate amounts. Nearly twenty buildings have been designed for the different countries. Some are in process of erection; some of them have not yet had their foundations laid. In addition to these—the Exhibition buildings proper—there are restaurants, places of entertainment, colonnades, and kiosks innumerable.

Spacious as they are, however, the buildings will cover nothing like the whole of the 216 acres which now comprise the Exhibition grounds. Ample room is left to display some of the special charms of Old England for those who are cut off from her by the seas. In a very real sense the British Empire Exhibition will be a garden city. The woodland amenities of Wembley Park have been carefully preserved. Not a tree that can possibly be saved has been sacrificed. The gardeners are already busy. The lawns are made or in the making, and might have been seen last week shielded from the hot sun under the swathings of hay. There will be lakes and rock gardens; in fact, all the arts of the gardener will be concentrated on the effort to show England at its best to those who return "home" after many years, or those who visit her for the first time. English gardens will be the background of the setting—like for the halls in which are displayed the latest achievements of civilization and the native village where industry will be seen in its early infancy.

Two problems arising from the wide extent of the Exhibition may be mentioned here, (1) that of artificial light; (2) that of artificial locomotion—for the big distances make it necessary to consider the fatigue involved in merely moving from one point of interest to another. Arrangements have been made for the installation both in the buildings and the grounds of a system of foot lighting in varying tones of colour, which will get rid of the ugly glare of the arch lamp. Some two miles of moving roads are also to be installed, travelling at two rates of speed, upon which passengers may stand or sit as they desire. It is proposed to supplement this contrivance with a service of small electric trolleys some-what similar to those in use to-day at the railway stations for the conveyance of luggage.

Misgivings have been expressed regarding the accessibility of the Exhibition, but they may be dismissed once and for all. The fact is that Wembley to-day is as easily accessible as Hyde Park was in 1851; perhaps even more so. The railway communications have been amplified; the road approaches have been enormously improved; parking grounds are being provided for motor cars and omnibuses. That there is no sort of difficulty in getting to and from the Exhibition the "Cup Day" experience showed pretty conclusively, when the only trouble was that the transport authorities "delivered the goods" in the shape of visitors at a rate for which the football authorities were not prepared. That lesson was perhaps a useful one, and will not need to be repeated.

THE FACTORS OF SUCCESS.

With a world wide appeal to business interests and national sentiment—in which the acceptance of the Presidency by the Prince of Wales is of no small import—an inexhaustible store of attractions to suit all tastes, arrangements which leave nothing to chance, and every facility for coming and going, the British Empire Exhibition commands everything necessary to make an undertaking of this nature a huge success—a success in point of any economic ends which it is designed to serve. The only point on which there has ever been any doubt was the wisdom and competence of the executive command—without which all

PRICKLY HEAT

Minard's counteracts the inflammation, eases and heals the skin. popularity, finance, and those second the other ingredients may fail to make a sufficiently attractive pudding. It is desirable to refer to this point because the public has already heard a good deal about it in the press—in the columns of Truth among others. But fortunately, all ground for uncertainty under this head has been removed. There has been a complete reorganization of the whole administration. To-day the Exhibition is not in the hands of a dictator. Its destinies are controlled by a "Big Five." The board is eminently one to inspire confidence. Sir James Stevenson is chairman. The deputy-chairman is Lieut-General Sir Travers Clark, who, as Quartermaster-General of the Army during the war, had an unrivalled experience in solving problems involving huge numbers of men and large masses of material. The other members are Lieut-Colonel Sir Henry Mackintosh, who presides over the General Management Committee, Sir Charles McLeod, chairman of the Finance Committee, and Colonel the Hon. Sir James Allen, High Commissioner of New Zealand, who represents the Dominions. Under them a group of departmental heads of proved ability controls the whole work of construction and administration. The right men are in the right place.

There is therefore every reason to expect that the British Empire Exhibition will achieve a success worthy of its name, and of its ambitious design. It does not appeal to the patriotism of traders and manufacturers, it will undoubtedly appeal to their pockets, for there will be big business to be done. If it does not appeal to the patriotism of the pleasure-seeker, it is equally certain that he will be unable to resist the many attractions offered for his entertainment.
