The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held in the Council Chamber April 4th, with Mayor Hoyt in the chair and all the councillors present.

The following resolution was passed:—
“Whereas F. L. Milner, Town Clerk and Solicitor has tendered his resignation to this council which took effect on the first instant and is about to leave for Amherst, to take up his residence and to practice his profession there.

“And whereas Mr. Milner has occupied the positions of town Clerk and Solicitor from the time of our incorporation in 1897, and has conducted the business of the town during that period in his official capacity in a most thorough and competent manner.

“Therefore resolved by this council that we place on record on behalf of ourselves as well as our predecessor in office our high appreciation of Mr. Milner's services in the offices held by him and although expressing our most sincere regrets at his departure from the town we wish him every success and happiness in his new home and know that he will soon occupy the same high position professionally and as a citizen there that he has so long enjoyed here.”

Successful Social Club

During the winter months the families of the West End of our town have enjoyed the benefits of a society known among themselves as “The West End Mutual Improvement Club.” It has met once in two weeks at the homes of the different members and has been well attended by old and young. In addition to social exercises a musical and literary program has been followed at every meeting. The interest in the work of the club has been well sustained to the end of the season.

Much of the success of the society is due to the earnest efforts of its President, Mr. W. B. Jewitt and its Vice-President, Miss Emma Wilkinson. The last session was held at the home of Mr. Frank Charlton, March 28th, when the Club adjourned to meet again in November.—COM.

It was ordered that the Bridgetown Electric Light Heat and Power Co. Ltd. be paid the sum of $340.92 in full of their account against the town for street lighting from October 1st, 1908 to April 13th, 1909, this being at the rate submitted to them by the council in July 1908.

The auditor's report in accordance with the resolution passed at the last Council meeting to cover the period from January 1st to March 31st, 1910 was laid on the table and considered, and on motion adopted.

The petition of Jos. I. Foster and a number of other ratepayers of the town, regarding attention needed on certain streets of the town was read by the Clerk and upon motion referred to the street Committee.

The rate book of the town for the year 1910 was laid before the Council by the Clerk and approved by the Council as a committee of the whole and it was thereupon resolved that the date on and before which the rates and taxes rated and set down in such book in respect to property and income shall be payable; and it was also resolved that two and a half per cent be established and fixed as a rate of discount, and that any person paying to the town treasurer his or her rates and taxes on or before the first day of June, 1910 shall be entitled to such discount therefrom of two and a half per cent. It was further resolved that interest at the rate of three per cent per annum shall be paid on any rates and taxes or balance thereof that are unpaid after the said first day of June, 1910, and such interest shall be added to the unpaid rates and taxes or balances thereof due by any person, firm, company, association or corporation.

It was resolved that the street committee look into the matter of naming the streets of the town and obtain an estimate of the costs of sign boards.

Minutes read and approved and council adjourned.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

Has Accepted Unanimous Call

Rev. Denton J. Nelly, of the First Baptist church of Danielson, Conn., has accepted the call of the First Baptist church of Gloucester, Mass., to succeed Dr. Gibbs Braslin. The church has been without a pastor for nine months. The call was unanimous on the informal ballot the first in the history of the church. The following tribute was paid to Mr. Nelly by the Norwich Bulletin, just previous to his decision to accept the Gloucester church call:—

“The call to Mr. Nelly comes from the most influential Baptist church in that part of Massachusetts and one of the leading churches of the city of Gloucester. Mr. Nelly has preached at the church on two recent Sundays and the unanimity with which the call for him to accept the pastorate was made is evidence of a quick appreciation of his fitness for the place, which has heretofore been filled almost exclusively by doctors of divinity. While Mr. Nelly is sensible of the fact that a great duty presses upon him in this opportunity, he has not, as yet, filed his resignation with his Danielson church. This is his first pastorate, he having come here in 1905, the year of his graduation from the Newton Theological seminary. The five years since that time have been fruitful ones for the church under his charge. He has had the united and cordial support of his people and the influence that has counted much in making the success that he has achieved. His church has grown. It has a half hundred more members, it has a larger Sunday-School, its financial condition is strong. It is an active, well organized, contented society reaching out to fill a wider sphere of usefulness. Mr. Nelly has had a leading part in bringing about this happy condition. This call that may mean the separation of the pastor and his present charge, comes to the knowledge of Danielson people to cause sincere regret, overshadowing the realization that it has been extended in recognition of exceptional efficiency and eagerness to carry on a greater work.”

The tendency of our throats toward flatness can be corrected, and the teaching by a competent musical master in the city schools will go a long way toward giving us an improved generation of readers. To round out our O's and broaden our A's and deepen our E's with more of the pleasantness of the curriculum a burr, are simple points which might with beneficial effects not only upon the singing but speaking voices. . . .

“I attribute the flatness of the average Canadian speech first of all to carelessness. Very few keep a watch on the quality of their utterance, and there seems no premium placed upon mothers and fathers on correct speaking in the home. If the musical supervisor of public schools can rectify what could perhaps better be accomplished about the dinner table, he is performing a service of inestimable value.”

Big Rush of New Settlers

Five Thousand Passengers Were Landed Here Last Week.

That this season will be a record one for the number of immigrants landed here from Europe, is quite evident by the way the new settlers are being rushed in during the last few weeks. For the past two months all the passenger steamers have been bringing large numbers of passengers and every boat is bringing a few more than the one that preceded her. Last week was the busiest yet, about 5,000 passengers having been landed at Deep Water Terminal, and sent forward to their destinations. The Immigration and Railway officials have been kept busy and the immigrants have received quick despatch.—Halifax Chronicle.

Care of the Forest

(For the Monitor-Sentinel)
The care of the forests is not one of the white man's privileges. To do a work that we know will not be of any direct benefit to us but to someone else, is to bring into existence and to exercise one of the noblest characteristics of mankind. So apt are we in this practical age to do only that which will give us a financial return for our investment that we hesitate to do that for which someone else will reap the benefit.

The men who plant forest trees cannot expect to be the harvesters of the crop but the very act of doing something whereby the wealth of the world will be increased and the generations yet unborn will be made happier, must stimulate the good of our natures.

Still in one sense, forest protection and forest culture are our duty. The forests were a noble heritage handed down to us by those who have gone before. We have done our part towards destroying this heritage but we did it without realizing it and now the time has come to make strenuous efforts to restore it, to preserve and keep intact that wonderful storehouse of so many of the essentials of our civilization.—COM.

Upholds Teaching of Music in Schools

(Toronto News)

J. D. A. Tripp, the noted Canadian piano virtuoso, is a great believer in the teaching of music in the public schools. Speaking of the difficulties in choral instruction which a Canadian conductor must face and overcome, Mr. Tripp referred to “accent” as the chief stumbling stone of all. Proper instruction in the public schools, however, observed Mr. Tripp to a News interviewer, “will to a large degree give the children a groundwork for more advanced instruction. As it is, the voices of our Canadian children, singing in union often pitifully unmusical. The work at schools or other gatherings are instruction being carried on at present in our public schools deserves commendation from every teacher who has had to spend previous hours on an individual or a class trying to obtain a correct accent before vocal development could even be hoped for.

The tendency of our throats toward flatness can be corrected, and the teaching by a competent musical master in the city schools will go a long way toward giving us an improved generation of readers. To round out our O's and broaden our A's and deepen our E's with more of the pleasantness of the curriculum a burr, are simple points which might with beneficial effects not only upon the singing but speaking voices. . . .

“I attribute the flatness of the average Canadian speech first of all to carelessness. Very few keep a watch on the quality of their utterance, and there seems no premium placed upon mothers and fathers on correct speaking in the home. If the musical supervisor of public schools can rectify what could perhaps better be accomplished about the dinner table, he is performing a service of inestimable value.”

West Paradise

The swallows are with us again and we hear the notes of the frogs and the robins, May-flowers in bloom and everything begins to look like spring-time.

Lower Granville

Our citizens, who were spending the Easter holidays with friends and relatives have all returned to their respective homes.

Sneezing seems to be the source of amusement about here, nearly everyone has a cold and some are quite sick with it.

We are pleased to see “Uncle Pete” sitting in his accustomed place on the front verandah, these warm spring days. Although his age is four score years and six he is ever ready with his jokes, and his smiling countenance is good to look upon.

Uses of Seaweed

From San Francisco there is annually exported to China nearly $100,000 worth of seaweed, while on the Atlantic Coast about $20,000 worth has been shipped from the Rimouski district of Canada to American cities. The following report from Consul Deedmeier, at Charlottetown, indicates a development of the export trade in seaweed from Prince Edward Island:—

“Seaweed (Fucus visiculosus) has been shipped from Charlottetown to Boston. As the demand for this article is getting more active large quantities are being gathered by farmers and fishermen along the shores of Prince Edward Island, dried and prepared for shipment to the United States. When dry the weed is pressed into a bale like hay and shipped in that shape. It brings $7 a ton f. o. b. Charlottetown, and the freight to Boston by water is 33 a ton, and by rail $7 a ton.

“Owing to the formation of the coast, seaweed is present in great quantities along the shores of Prince Edward Island. The high tide leaves a long stretch of territory between high and low water mark, where it grows. This entered into the export trade of this province. It has been used heretofore locally as bedding for cattle, its contents of soda resulting thus in a valuable manure. As a fodder it is eaten by oxen, sheep and deer in winter, and when boiled with a small quantity of meal added, it makes a desirable food for hogs.

From seaweed when reduced to ashes are extracted some of the most beneficial preparations in use today. Some of these are iodine, bromide, hydrochloric acid, iodides of sodium, mercury, potassium, magnesium and calcium. From it are extracted coloring matters, to stiffen soil, and its ingredients are used in photography. It is further employed as coverings for flasks in the packing of glass, china and other brittle wares, for packing furniture, stuffing pillows and mattresses and in upholstering. The claim is made that furniture stuffed with seaweed is kept free of moths and other insects, owing to its salty flavor.

“The use of seaweed as a preservative of heat and finds use in thermotics, especially in the insulation of refrigerators and in refrigerating plants. It is also used between walls and floors to prevent the transmission of sound.

A Most Unexpected Evil

We have heard much of late about the great lack of reverence among the people. I think this can be chiefly placed to the low language, and the great disrespect shown for the name of the Supreme Being. It is really surprising that more is not done to stamp out this most unnecessary evil which is doing so much harm. In Toronto, some time ago, steps were taken in this direction, but they seemed to be spasmodic and not followed up.

There are many newspapers in Canada and the United States, that have done a great deal by printing articles and trying to enlist the police in having the law enforced. Occasionally we hear of an offender being brought before the court and fined, but the police who should be looking to stamp out the evil seem to give but little attention to it, and in many cases have become offenders themselves.

I think the time is ripe when some permanent action should be taken in all cities and towns to have the law vigorously enforced. This common use of profane and low language is gradually lowering the better instincts of the people, and goes far to prompt to crime.

Death has again visited our community and claimed for its victim one of our young men, Mr. Gates Sanford, aged thirty-seven years. His mother, Mrs. Florence Sanford, moved to this country some seven or eight years ago and purchased the farm they now occupy. Although “Gadie” has only been with us these few years, yet he has a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Wherever he went in the social circle he was always the life of the party. At home he was “mother's boy” and she most of all will miss him. Besides the mother he leaves a brother and sister, who will greatly miss him. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Lewis Wallace on Friday, the first day of April. On Saturday his brother, Henry, went to Gloucester, Mass., with his body where he will be buried. We will all miss his genial presence among us, and we tender our deepest sympathies to the family.

WASHED AWAY HIS HOME.

The Fortune That Came to a Man and His Clever Wife.

An Irishman named Whalen found a fortune in a very amusing way, says the Cape Town Argus. With the savings of his wife he bought not far from Ballarat a few acres of ground containing a water pool and a sluggish spring. With the mud and gravel from the bottom of the pool he made sun-dried bricks and, building a cabin for himself and family, started a bar for the miners.

Quite contrary to their usual habits, a colony of Chinamen living near by commenced to visit his bar every night. Then Mrs. Whalen discovered that some one had bit by bit carried off the mud pigstye and its surrounding wall so gradually that it had almost gone before she noticed it. Soon the chimney and the cabin walls also began to vanish. After a careful watch Mrs. Whalen discovered that while one band of Chinamen kept her husband busy in the bar another band was stealing the chimneys and walls. Whalen knew the Chinamen were no fools, and, acting on his wife's suggestion, he also "wote a pan of dirt" from his own chimney and washed it out. Then he ordered tents for his family to live in and washed away the entire house. It was literally built of gold dust. After that the pool and the spring were also attacked, and the result was a big fortune for the lucky Irishman and his cute little wife.

THEIR FATHERS.

All Three Were Trimmers, but One Was a Star.
The story, long since familiar, of the little boy whose boast that his father had put a cupola on his house was capped by his playmate, who remarked proudly that his father had just put a mortgage on theirs, is brought to mind by an occurrence which was told the other day by a prominent politician.

The small son of a man who was in politics for revenue only on moving into a new district went out and struck up an acquaintance with two other kids of the same age who lived in the neighborhood. They were interested in the newcomer and began to try him out as to what his parents amounted to anyhow.

"My father is a window trimmer and an awfully big man," said the first kid.

"Ah, that's nothin'," said the second. "My father's a dump trimmer, and he's twice as big as yours."

It was plainly up to the stranger to make good. And he did it with much gusto.

"My father is a politician," he said, "but I heard a man tell him last night that he was the biggest trimmer in this ward."

And it was apparent to any one that the new kid had again at a strong impression upon the neighborhood—New York Herald.

Wood Too Hard to Burn.
There are certain kinds of wood that are too hard to burn or refuse to ignite for some other reason, such as iron-wood and the good bird's nest, but it is a curiosity to come across a piece of common deal—the soft, light wood of which so many boxes are made—that cannot be set fire to. The piece of wood in question was common white deal from Sweden, but was remarkable for its comparative weight. It had formed part of a boat belonging to a whaler and had been dragged below the surface of the water to the depth of more than half a mile by a harpooned whale. The length of line and the short distance from the point of descent after being struck at which the whale rose to the surface was a proof of the depth to which it had dragged the boat. Only part of the boat came up again at the end of the line, and it was taken on board when the whale had been killed. That piece of wood was so hard that it would not burn in a gas jet. The weight of water had compressed it.—London Standard.

They Were "Over."
He was a regular patron of the restaurant. Perhaps that is why he felt justified in making clever remarks to the waitresses, remarks which they were puzzled to know how to answer. One day, however, the smallest and timidiest girl happened to be serving this irritating customer, and it fell to her to answer him in kind.

"I'll have some steak," he said, coming into for dinner, "and some baked potatoes, fine, brown baked potatoes?"

"Baked potatoes are all over," said the girl.

He leaned back in his chair and gazed at her quizzically.

"Baked potatoes all over, are they?" he replied. "All over what?"

"With," she replied simply.—Youth's Companion.

Original Story

WHEN MOTHER WAS A GIRL

(Written for the Monitor-Sentinel, and founded on facts)

"Oh aunt Jane, please tell us tonight about some of the jolly times you had when you were a girl."

A young man of about twenty was the speaker. Several days he had been visiting the comfortable home of his aunt, greatly enjoying himself. Several bright girls and boys, between the ages of thirteen and twenty-two, full of life and innocent fun, were members of that happy home circle. Eagerly they joined in their cousin's request.

"Mama, we are tired of playing games and singing," exclaimed a tall pretty girl of seventeen. "Come now and tell us some of the good times you had long ago. Please do."

"Mama, we are tired of playing games and singing," exclaimed a tall pretty girl of seventeen. "Come now and tell us some of the good times you had long ago. Please do."

"Why, I don't know what to tell about," said Mrs. Cann. "I have so often told you about those days. There is nothing now that you have not heard."

"Oh, tell anything," urged her nephew. "You can make anything so interesting and so funny. Tell us about the time you and my mother kept house while grandma and grandpa went away visiting."

"Yes, do," was the general cry. "Very well," said Mrs. Cann, smiling. "For a moment she sat watching the glowing embers and dancing flames of the fire, and then commenced."

"I was about nineteen years old at the time of my story, Lizzie, your mother," addressing her nephew, "was fifteen months younger than I. As we were the eldest of the family, your uncle Charlie being three years younger than Lizzie, we had the whole responsibility of looking after the smaller children, when father and mother would be absent from home."

"It was a few days after Christmas. Father and mother had gone to spend New Years with some relatives about a dozen miles away. As there was no work to be done on the farm at that time of the year, except the chores, and cutting what fire wood was necessary, the boys were in the house nearly all the time. What fun we did have in that large, old-fashioned kitchen!

"I think it was the first evening we were alone that Lizzie and Charlie gave each other a great fright. In the garret over the kitchen was where we stored the corn. A ladder led up to it from the pantry. The boys were doing the evening chores, and we girls were getting supper. Charlie had gone up to get some corn to feed the hogs, feeling his way up in the dark. Not knowing he was up there, Lizzie went into the pantry with a candle to get something, setting the candle just below the opening in the ceiling through which the ladder passed up into the loft. Just at that moment, having got what corn he wanted, Charlie started towards the ladder to come down. Accidentally his foot set one of the ears of corn on the floor rolling towards the hole in the floor by the ladder, down which it fell striking and putting out the light. The sudden noise and upsetting of the candle, coming so unexpectedly, frightened Lizzie badly, and she exclaimed, 'Oh, my gracious! What's upstairs?' Charlie, thinking she knew he was up there, and hearing her cry, commenced to think there might be something else up there in the garret besides himself. So, with a startled grunt, he scrambled towards the ladder as quickly as he could. This new noise frightened the other still more, and she commenced to scream. Thoroughly frightened now, Charlie dropped down the ladder in a manner endangering the safety of his neck and limbs. It would be hard to say which was most frightened by this time. Just then the other children rushed in the door with a light, and soon matters were explained, causing a hearty laugh all around."

"Scarcely had the dishes been washed and we were getting ready to have a quiet dinner, when amongst ourselves when we heard the sound of merry voices outside and a loud knocking at the door. Several young friends about our age had seen father and mother go by that morning, and had come to stay while they were gone."

"Well, if we didn't have a good time. It does not seem that young people now enjoy themselves the way they did when I was a girl. At the present time when young folks have a party, everything is so conventional. They must sit and act and talk according to the best rules of etiquette. Even in the games they play, there seems to be lacking the true spirit of real enjoyment and enthusiasm. In those days, however, the young men and women in the country acted in their natural manner, and heartily enjoyed the various games and amusements.

"The first thing we did that evening was to make some molasses candy, pop some corn, and bake some apples. I am sure we enjoyed the candy, the pop corn, the baked apples, and the roasted beechnuts better than you do your ice cream and other refreshments at some of the modern parties. And how we enjoyed getting them ready. Every one, even the youngest child present, had some share in the work. Many were the little tricks we innocently played on each other as we worked, harmless in themselves, but adding to the general merriment."

"Then came games. None of your kissing and forfeits, but such jolly games as 'Blind Man's Buff.' I remember that, while playing this game that evening, one of the fellows jumped over the stove. He had taken off his boots, so he could move about more quickly and with less noise. Fortunately the fire had almost died down in the stove, for in jumping over, he stepped on one of the covers. This tipped and his foot slipped into the stove on top of the hot embers. He was not burnt much, only several holes scorched in his sock. I tell you though he was more careful how he jumped after that."

"Then we sang some songs and hymns. Everyone did his best, whether he could sing well or not. And then we sat around the fire and told stories and ate our candy and the other little refreshments we had prepared. By ten o'clock, however, we were all in bed, for in those days people generally retired for the night earlier than they do now."

"Some time in the night I awoke. Just as I was falling asleep again, I heard a strange noise overhead in the attic, a kind of tapping, knocking. Instantly I was wide awake. The sound was so weird in the stillness of the night. One of our girl friends, about my age, was sleeping with me, and I gently shook her to awake her. When she heard the noise, she became frightened. Something was being dragged across the floor apparently. There were rats and mice in the house, but this noise was different from that made by them. We determined to wake up the others. Quickly and quietly we slipped on some of our clothes, and went to the other bedrooms. Soon, an excited group, all were partly dressed and standing in the upper hall listening. Two of the boys slept in an unfinished room out of which a ladder led up to the garret. In awed tones they told us they saw something white for an instant in the moonlight up at the head of the ladder. We were sure there must be a ghost up there, and most of us were very frightened."

"Finally the bravest of the boys screwed up their courage to investigate. Well, what do you suppose they saw? It was our old white tom cat trying to gnaw a bundle of goose wings that had been hung up there a few days before. After our merriment had subsided, we hurried back to our beds, and peacefully slept until morning."

The next day was New Years. Unexpectedly we had a turkey to cook for dinner. This was how it happened. The morning being mild and sunny, all the poultry were outside enjoying

ZAM-BUK

Zam-buk spells spring to you! Suppose husband, wife or some member of the family sustains a cut or a bad sore, a sick fever or turns to blood poisoning. Result—of work! What does that mean as pay day? Zam-Buk prevents wounds, cuts or injuries by "ringing the wrong way." Apply it immediately, and it kills the poison and starts healing.

There is another aspect. If you have in the family, even a minor ailment, or any skin disease, try Zam-Buk. It does not depend on experiment. You will find it will do what Zam-Buk does. It is not a cure, but a relief. It is not a cure, but a relief. It is not a cure, but a relief.

Mr. A. M. Brooks, Wallington Street, St. John's, N.S., says: "If only I had got Zam-Buk at first, it would have saved me scores of dollars as well as hours of agony." Mr. Brooks has been cured of eczema. He says: "My neck, chest and body were covered with the terrible disease. The itching, burning and smarting I suffered, none who has not gone through it can tell. Doctor's lotions, salves and prescriptions didn't do me a bit of good; and from one thing or another I passed only to find I was worse. With Zam-Buk it was different, and without going through a long story, I can say that a few weeks' treatment with this great healing balm healed my neck, chest and body of the terrible disease, which had held me in its grip for over ten months."

SARTORIAL NEWS.

Eklima Caps Are Newcomers in Motor Fashions—A Dress Hint.
Eklima caps are the latest in motor tops. Seal, unsmoked and stable squirrels are employed for the caps as well as the motor bonnet.

Afternoon frocks and smart boned blouses for two piece suits have small yokes and lower sleeves veiled with the finest black chiffon. It is always better when doing this to add a lining under the lace of silver or gold net.

PLATED PRINCESS GOWN.

This gives a brilliancy to the black chiffon and keeps it from becoming the gown.

This is a very stunning princess frock that is easy for the home dressmaker to make, and there are few such patterns about. The model includes novel and attractive sleeves and a chemise. JUDIC CHOLLET.

VAPORINGS OF THE VOGUE.

Artificial Flowers on the Coat Worn by Modish Women.
Many women are wearing dainties of gardenias on their outdoor suits. They are artificial, and delicate perfume is used on their silken petals. It is just a novelty and a very pretty one, and young and old are under the spell of these flowers.

A beautiful ball gown recently exhibited was composed of brilliant rose scarlet satin embroidered elaborately with silk in various colors and veiled with a very fine close meshed silk tulle in rather a dull iridescent shade of gray, tinting down the brilliancy.

Gowns that are trimmed with non-tactile braids applied over stamped designs are always handsome. The costume illustrated has a decoration of this smart description. It is carried out in cashmere, with the guimpe portion of tucked net chiffon. The little overblouse is very new and is cut in one with the sleeves. The skirt is new and up to date. JUDIC CHOLLET.

WITH TRIMMINGS OF SOUTACHE.

These May Manton patterns come in sizes for the blouse from 34 to 42 inches bust measure, No. 523, and for the skirt No. 524, sizes from 22 to 30 inches waist measure. The making pattern is No. 524. Send 25 cents each for these patterns to this office, and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

A Question of Quantity

A partial solution flashed into my head a few days ago as I sat opposite a trio of schoolboys making away (that is just the phrase) with bountiful second help of roast beef. It was a lordly piece of meat presented for the father's carver at the beginning of dinner, and he dealt out lavish portions to each of the boys—twice as much per boy as went upon any other plate. He made no remark when each plate returned to him emptied. It was plainly an every meal affair—that bountiful second help. Being a marketer as well as a domestic caterer, I computed silently, and as I believe, accurately, that each of those boys ate three-quarters of a pound of roast beef at a sitting. There were six in the family and two servants. I leave it to the arithmetician to reckon how far a seven-pound roast (at thirty-two cents per pound) would go toward supplying the piece of resistance for two dinners.

I am convinced that what I have described is enacted daily, in its general features, in 10,000 American homes for years together. It may be essential to his health that the working man shall have his bit of meat. I take exception to the size of the 'bit.' Those boys and the thousands of which they are types, would be as well off in body—nay, better—had the second help been withheld from their voracious appetites.

We are familiar with the anecdote of thoroughbred Mary Lamb—the clever sister of a cleverer brother—who invited two unexpected guests to her table cordially and with no hint of any shortage. When the dish before her was uncovered, she remarked merrily, "Here's just a chop spiced, and this can make out the rest of the luncheon with bread and cheese and talk."

Let the boys make out the rest of their meals with something besides meat. I have said, until I am tired of the iteration, that we all eat more meat than is good for us. Tom and Dick and Harry train for the ball ground and race course by cutting down regular rations of certain articles of food, among them meats. Does it not occur to parents, if not to the boys themselves, that temperance in this matter of the crosser foods would fit them for the lonser race and the fierce contest of life?

Henna Leaves and Sage Will Grow Hair

It has only recently been discovered that Henna leaves contain the ingredient to grow new hair. England and Paris have become flooded with preparations containing the extract of Henna to grow hair, and every one of these preparations has an enormous sale. All other hair tonics are practically at a standstill, and the one containing Henna are found in every home. Society ladies purchase them by the dozen bottles. On the streets of London and Paris can be seen women with beautiful, luxuriant heads of real, fluffy hair. The same women only a few months ago had their heads decorated with artificial hair. The first one of these preparations to reach Canada is called SALVIA, and is sold and guaranteed by Mr. Warren. SALVIA will grow hair in abundance and cure Dandruff in ten days, or your money back. A large bottle 50c.

When there's love enough you can stand everything. When there isn't you can stand nothing. There are a great many things that are no use. One is in telling people what they don't want to know. —From Kate Langley Boshers' "Mary Cary."

FOLLOWING THE BAND.

Paganry Appeals to the Negro's Tropical Imagination.

Once upon a time a Philadelphia lawyer came south. He had a pair of big spectacles, an inquisitive mind, and he wanted to know, says Harris Dickson in Success Magazine. With his southern friend he was hurrying to the courthouse. A negro parade metted the street—negroes in carriages, on horseback, on foot; negroes with swords and axes, stumpy negroes with muscled banners, fat negroes with Phryian devices, fat negroes with Old Fellows' insignia, miscellaneous negroes with miscellaneous emblems.

The Philadelphia lawyer looked through the crowd and ran back in great excitement. "What's it all about? What are they doing?" The southerner couldn't explain, but beckoned to a very intelligent young negro—who, by the way, was a prominent politician—and asked, "Tom, what the occasion for all this parade?" The young negro laughed. "Now, judge, you ought to know that a nigger won't be no 'nigger' for a parade did not Tom had spoken a mouthful. Paganry appeals to the Negro's tropical imagination. Churches and lodges furnish most of the social life that he knows. He does not ask why the brass band is playing. He keeps step with the fellow that beats the drum and is happy.

DANCING ROLAND.

A Scotch Shepherd's Remedy For All Kinds of Maladies.

A highland shepherd, one Donald McAlpin, a famous dancer, was reputed to have cured his mistress of a mysterious malady by means of dancing a reel with her, and this story being nosed abroad gained him the reputation of being a successful physician. His humble cottage in Stockmilt overlooking Strathapey, was besieged with crowds of patients who hoped to get rid of their ailments by a dance with the shepherd. The doctor did not hesitate to take advantage of this stroke of good luck and soon had a large and thriving practice.

The treatment adopted was very simple, the main features being as follows: In cases of indigestion moderate doses of medicated "mugs" were taken followed by the centum did not promenade step. For catarrh Donald prescribed in order to produce perspiration a large dose of gruel mixed with honey and butter, followed by cum crak, or highland fling. All the different processes terminated in the patient being well wrapped up in warm blankets, and the doses of medicine and dancing were repeated, according to the patient's constitution and the nature of his disease.—British Medical Journal.

The Telephone and Julius Caesar.

Julius Caesar missed a great deal in not knowing the telephone or at least in not using it if he knew it. One can see the telephone engineer attached to the Roman postoffice endorsing, but without avail, to get an instrument installed at the capitol and at the palace. "I am instructed by the emperor to say that he does not desire these barbarian novelties, and so Thomas Alva Edison need not call again with his magician's apparatus." A great blunder! "We call imagine what would have happened. "Hello, 2157 Tiber! Is it thou, Artemidorus? I understand thou rangst me up this morning. What? Details of a plot? Go not to the senate today! Beware of Brutus! Go not near Casca? Right, and I thank thee, Artemidorus. I will have an extra guard put on instantly and the conspirators arrested." And so, though Artemidorus was unable to give his warning in the street, he saved the life of the emperor, and Caesar's valuable life and with it the fortune of Rome were saved.—St. James' Gazette.

A Gloomy African Pool.

There is a large, deep and mysterious pool in the valley of the upper Kafue river, northwestern Rhodesia. This wonderful pool lies in that country, and one comes to it quite suddenly, its banks being concealed by dense forest. There is a small native village near the pool, and the inhabitants have a superstitious dread of it. They refuse to drink the water or use it for any purpose whatever. To sit beside this still, pellucid pool of unknown depth, surrounded by precipitous walls in the heart of the tropical forest, would induce a feeling of awe in the breast of even the most civilized man.—London Mail.

Sport and Athletics in America.

Sport and athletics in America are vastly different terms. Sport should be play, not work. Athletics as practiced in general are too strenuous, too spectacular and too exclusive. We are not an athletic nation. Far from it. We talk athletics, but there is too much grand stand and too little actual participation in games.—Malcolm Kenneth Gordon in Century.

Poetic Justice.

"Pa. did you ever hear of a real case of poetic justice?" "Yes. A man who once swindled me out of $800 in an irrigation scheme died of water on the brain."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not a Bit Conceited.

Huband—How conceited you are, Earn! You're always looking at yourself in the glass. Wife—I'm sure I am not. I don't think I'm half as pretty as I really am.—Illustrated Bits.

Golden Wedding

A delightful social event of interest to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Eagleson and their friends was the celebration of their Golden Wedding anniversary, which took place Tuesday evening March 22nd, at their home on Water St. Many relatives and friends of this well-known and highly esteemed couple were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Eagleson in their earlier days were associated with the business life of Bridgetown, having kept a hotel for many years, known as the Quirk House, situated at the corner of Granville and Queen Sts., known as the Old Golden Ball Corner. Later for over twenty years Mr. Eagleson kept a meat market, and afterwards a confectionery and restaurant business.

About nine o'clock Mr. John F. Hicks, of the firm of J. H. Hicks & Sons, was called upon to make a speech, which he did in a pleasing way saying he had known Mr. and Mrs. Eagleson for over fifty years. Mr. Hicks then presented Mr. and Mrs. Eagleson with a purse of gold from their children, William and Blake, of Boston Mrs. Adna Mayberry, of Macanic Falls, Maine; Mrs. Fred Mayberry, of Poland, Maine; Samuel, of Bridgetown and Mrs. Willard J. D. Brown, of Lawrencetown. Mrs. Eagleson was presented with a handsome brooch from Miss Keylor, also a purse of money from other friends.

Mr. Eagleson responded giving a very pleasing and appropriate address, reviewing the many changes that had taken place since their marriage. Among the guests were Mr. Eagleson's two brothers, Robert of Granville and Samuel H. of Bridgetown; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Young; Mr. Charles Parker, Mr. John Hicks, and Councilor Wm. H. Burns, all of whom were veteran friends of Mr. and Mrs. Eagleson. About ten o'clock a bountiful repast was served after which the guests all assembled in the parlor where a flash-light snapshot was taken of them in two groups. Mrs. Brown presided at the organ and many appropriate hymns were sung. The guests dispersed to their several homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Eagleson many more years of health and prosperity and all feeling that they had spent an evening to be remembered with pleasure.

Do You Ever Make "Jelly Roll," Madam?

When we were just about so high, ours was an insatiable sweet tooth for "jelly roll" and such like. Sometimes, however, the cake wouldn't roll right, broke on the turns—mother was "unlucky" those days, and the keen critics didn't insist on the biggest piece. Mother, you see, didn't know flour—took whatever the grocer offered—also took her chances.

Do YOU ever make "jelly roll," Madam?
 Is it always a perfect oval, even layers of light porous, golden crumb, without streaks or holes unightly? Why doesn't it roll over so easily and smoothly; why does it crack and break in spite of the careful fingers behind the dainty napkin?
 All on account of the infamous "cousness" of cheap flour.
 There's an elderly Madam, a customer of FIVE ROSES flour responding to your every effort. The strength and fineness of FIVE ROSES hold your batter together in the long well-greased pan. Bakes evenly, giving smooth texture, soft, golden crumb, spongy, porous and yielding—no holes nor lumps to vex the soul.
 And when you turn it out on the damp napkin and spread the under side with jam or jelly—it doesn't get soggy soon nor crumbly.
 And when you roll it gently, while the kiddies watch this most critical proceeding, there is no crack nor break in the perfect smoothness of the surface—is a perfect roll.
 Mighty hard to make "jelly roll" like that, Madam, and it's impossible with cheap quality flour.
 But it's easy if you use FIVE ROSES. Easy to make melting puff pasts, flaky pie crust, toothsome rolls and goodies galore. Be flour-wise, Madam, join the millions using FIVE ROSES. If you are accustomed to cheap flour the results will seem like magic. But you must use FIVE ROSES.

click of the trigger, and with a surprised "putt-r-r!", he stretched his neck high in the air in the direct line of fire, and was shot through the head, while the hawk flew away with the loss of a few feathers. Nothing remained to be done now but to dress the dead turkey, and all unanimously agreed it must be roasted that day.
 "One of my younger brothers in the afternoon went down to look at his rabbit snare in a piece of woods about a quarter of a mile from the house. He came running back as wild as he could, saying there was a wild cat or some kind of animal in one of them. The other boys ran down to the place where the snare was and found the latest cat owl in it. I ever saw in my life. When George, my little brother, first found it, he could only see the head. He had never seen an owl, and the big fierce eyes of the one in his snare frightened him. They killed the bird and brought it up to the house. For a long time afterwards George would eagerly tell about the incident, and soon his schoolmates gave him the nick-name of "Cat Owl."
 "The day after New Years father and mother returned home. We had many things to tell them, and they had a hearty laugh over some of our strange experiences, and, especially overlooked the accident to the turkey.
 "Many other little amusing incidents occurred. Some I have since forgotten. Others would be uninteresting to you. Yes, we certainly did have good times then."
 EVERETT EVERGREEN.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

What is one to do? Now "The Family Doctor" comes out with the statement that "it is safer to sleep in bad air all night with a temperature over fifty than in a pure air with the temperature under forty. The bad air may sicken you, but cannot kill you, the cold air can and does kill very often." Other Hubbies announce their intention of continuing their habit of at least attempting to get plenty of good pure air in their sleeping rooms, and find the cold storage method makes them feel much better, whether it is strictly correct or not. They say that it is more inviting to take the remote chance of the cold air's killing one, if one can feel cool during the process, than to go on living with a dull, headachy languor for which one can't seem to account.

HEALTHY CHILDREN
 Psychine Made Her A Robust Child

It is not necessary for us to speak any words of praise for the facts given below are strong enough to convince the most skeptical. Mr. John S. Loomis, of Toronto, Ontario, writes: "When Nellie was about a year of age, she had wasted away so much that she could not walk, and she had been sick for three or four months, but the child got worse, and the doctor said he could do nothing more. We called in another doctor who told us every- thing was all right, but he said the child would not get better. We decided to take the little thing to a Montreal doctor, who said her tongue was filled with pus and that she would have to undergo an operation if we would save her life. The next day he came, down from Montreal and operated upon her, but the operation was a failure, so he was unable to get any pus from the lungs.
 "We were disappointed, and fully thought little Nellie was going to get better. He was cruel to let her suffer so. At this time we heard what a wonderful medicine PSYCHINE was for the lungs. We had been reading some of the advertisements in the papers of people who had been cured through PSYCHINE. We thought it would suit our little girl, and so decided to give it a trial. This we did, and in one hour she had taken the first bottle we saw an improvement. Gradually she got better, and by the time we had used 8 or 9 bottles, she was quite well. That was two years ago, and she has been well and robust to-day as the other children are.
 "We have a great deal to be thankful for. We firmly believe little Nellie would never have lived if it had not been for PSYCHINE. We shall be pleased to answer enquiries at any time."

MANDY KNEW HOW.

A certain Louisville social leader, whom we will call Mrs. Fayette County, to avoid identifying her, was told by her husband over the telephone that he would bring a number of guests home to dinner. The party was altogether unexpected, and in all the house, which has become noted for the generous and sumptuous dinner spread in it, there was not enough food.
 Mrs. County got busy at once and instructed the cook to order certain supplies while she planned the rest of the dinner. A little later Mrs. County happened in the room where the telephone was and was horrified to hear the cook talking ferociously into the telephone as follows:—
 "An' Ah want six dozen soft-shell crabs and ef yo' doan get dem up here mighty quick Ah'll skin every one of yo' yo' yo' doan—Who is this?"
 This is Mrs. Fayette County, dat's who dis is, and Ah means every word Ah say!"
 "Mandy," cried the mistress, "what do you mean? You must not."
 "Lawsy," returned the cook, "dat's all right, Miss Fay. Ah talks to um like dat for yo' all de time."—Louisville Times.

TWICE SURPRISED

The pastor of a West Philadelphia church was very much surprised and pleased last Sunday night when in the course of the service a crowd of persons, fully forty strong, entered and seated themselves in the rear pews. The service continued with the clergyman congratulating himself on his unusually late congregation when suddenly the door opened and a man sat in his head—"Who is this?" "Here she comes," he announced in a loud whisper.

Instantly the late comers arose en masse and rushed for the door. The pastor was so perplexed at the strange occurrence that after service he spoke to one of the vestry who had been standing at the door.
 "Don't you know what happened?" asked the vestryman, laughing.
 "No," answered the clergyman, "I would like to."
 "Why a cat broke right in front of the church. Everybody got out after a few minutes, and seeing a chance to sit down they all came in here, leaving one man to watch."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

NOT A FAT MAN

"A friend of mine," said a politician, "was once a good deal annoyed by attending a meeting by a man in the front row who howled like a dog. At every telling point in my friend's argument this man would emit frightful howls and spoil the effect. My friend asked the name of the man, and was told that it was Harry Loff. Then he said in a loud voice: "Mr. Loff, it is plain that our friend Goldsmith had you in mind when he said:

The watchdog's voice that bayed the whineering wretch.
 And the loud "Loff" that spoke the vacant mind.
 "He said that, did he?" cried Loff, furiously, and he turned and struck a little fat man behind him a sharp blow over the head. It was only after a five minute's scuffle and much profane abuse that Mr. Loff was convinced that the Goldsmith referred to was the lone dead poet, and not the little fat man of the same name."—The Bits.

IRONING BOARD

SAVED WOMAN'S LIFE
 Cool-headed Neighbor Placed it Across Arway and She Crawled to Safety from Burning Building
 That homely household article, the ironing board saved the life of Mrs. Mary Covert, in Brooklyn. When fire swept through the apartment house in which she lives, Mrs. Covert remained to pack up valuables and found her escape cut off. A cool-headed woman neighbor, then, showed the ironing board across an arway and Mrs. Covert, scared and scorching, crawled to safety in the adjoining building.

Undoubtedly there is one richest woman in the world, but who she is no one knows.

Old earth today has many rich women—women whose vast fortunes would have staggered the famous old king of Lydia. There are, for example Mrs. Hetty Green, Mrs. Anne Weightman Walker, Madame Cressel, wife of the Mexican ambassador to the United States; Bertha von Bohnen, formerly Bertha Krupp, head of the great Krupp gun works, of Germany; Princess Marie Bonaparte, of France; Mrs. Russell Sage, the Marchioness of Graham, England's richest heiress, and others. But who actually possesses the greatest amount of the world's goods is still a question.

THE LAST RESORT

When all else failed, the Doctors said, "try Fruit-a-tives"

And "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Cadieux

PLANTAGENET, ONT., JANUARY 31st, 1910.
 "About March 1st 1909, I was taken deathly sick with Stomach Trouble, Backache and General Breakdown. I failed from 120 pounds down to 80 pounds, was confined to bed for eight weeks, and was unable to eat or keep anything on my stomach, vomiting nearly all the time. I expected to die, and took many remedies as well as employing different physicians. The doctors said they could do nothing for me and, as a last resort, one of the doctors told me "to try Fruit-a-tives—if they would not cure me, nothing would!"

Mrs. LAURENT CADIEUX

My husband bought "Fruit-a-tives" from Mr. Arthur Kolan, merchant of Plantagenet, and I started taking them at once, and inside of ten days, I was able to leave my bed. My stomach got strong and I could eat and retain my food. I gained rapidly and soon had my usual good health back again, and today I weigh as much as ever, 125 pounds.

ME. LAURENT CADIEUX.
 Even the doctors are recommending "Fruit-a-tives". They realize now that these wonderful fruit juice tablets will positively cure all Stomach Troubles, Indigestion and Dyspepsia—and they are using "Fruit-a-tives" in their practice.

Few people realize the vital importance of keeping their blood pure. Impure blood is the chief cause of Stomach Trouble, because it is from the blood that the stomach obtains the fluid which digests food. When the blood is laden with impurities, the dissolving fluid (or Gastric Juice) will be impure. These impurities may come from a congested liver, from Constipation, from weak kidneys, from an inactive skin, or from all four. Naturally, the ordinary "digestive powders" and "peppin tablets" will not cure the trouble, because they only help to dissolve the food—they do not go to the seat of the trouble. "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest remedy ever discovered for all forms of Indigestion, Dyspepsia and other Stomach Disorders, because "Fruit-a-tives" is unequalled as a blood-purifying medicine. "Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver, regulates the bowels, strengthens the kidneys, stimulates the skin, and thus cleans the whole system of all impurities. "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure you of any kind of Indigestion. "Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. If you are unable to obtain "Fruit-a-tives" conveniently, do not accept substitutes but send to "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa and the regular size packages will be mailed you, postpaid, on receipt of price.

An agricultural college education, whether short or long, is now recognized as invaluable to the young man or woman who expects to live on a farm. Agricultural education is essentially practical, but unless it helps to make people better and happier it fails in its object. Education by making men better farmers helps to increase their powers in earning money. Every farmer's son should make up his mind to secure the very best agricultural education he can afford. The best is in the long run the cheapest.

Appendicitis has reached the epidemic stage in New Glasgow. We understand no less than fourteen cases of this disease are at present in Aberdeen Hospital, and they have gone in there since the eighth of the month.—Eastern Chronicle.
 England within recent years has loaned Canada a billion dollars for legitimate development, and last year London sent over here more than two hundred million dollars. Furthermore, it is said that another billion dollars is available, so long as Canadian credit is maintained abroad as it now is.

Regular Habits
 An Absolute Necessity For Good Health

You might as well expect to find a man or woman healthy with constipated bowels as to find a city healthy when its sewers are blocked with refuse.
 Nature demands that the indigestible food and waste matter which collects in the lower bowels shall be got rid of at least once in twenty-four hours. If this is not done it decomposes, filling the bowels with poison, which is taken up into the blood and carried all through the body.
 Naturally, this poison affects the work of every organ. The liver is deranged, digestion is upset, and biliousness, headaches, lassitude and dizzy spells follow.
 Literally millions of people suffer these results of constipation without realizing the cause, or doing anything to remove it. Yet it can be removed, easily and with certainty, by using Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Take, for example, the case of Mr. George Andrews, Halifax, N.S., as he himself describes it: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic constipation. This ailment never comes single handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. At last I read about these Indian Root Pills. That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed by the statements contained therein that I determined to give them a fair trial. They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation and claim they have no equal as a medicine."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were first taken to cure constipation nearly a hundred years ago, and during the last half century they have been very extensively and very successfully used throughout the world. They are entirely vegetable in composition and do not sicken, weaken or gripe like mineral purgatives.

UNION BLEND TEA

The Tea that satisfies

YOU are the best judge of how much Union Blend Tea is worth—but you can't pass an opinion until you have tried it. You are in no position to say—as I say—that it's worth 40c, a pound because it goes easily half as far again as any 50c. tea. You don't know the truth of that until you use it for yourself.

But that's a fact. Sixteen ounces of Union Blend will make as much tea as twenty-four ounces of any ordinary kind. And not only as much tea, but better tea—tea that is more fragrant than that of any other brand.

There is only one way for you to prove this—buy a pound and try it. Or if you are in doubt, let a half pound packet tell the story. Your own tongue will convince you if you will give it the opportunity. Look for my picture on the end of the packet.

Union Blend one pound packets—the pound packets only—contain coupons that are worth money to you. But this is only an advertisement—the tea itself is worth the price, fully.

I Take all the Risk

THERE would be no sense in my spending thousands of dollars in advertising if I couldn't back up what I say. If you try Union Blend and don't like it, I am worse off than before, for I can never get you to try again. To make money, I've got to make satisfied customers—and I do. Of all who once buy Union Blend ninety-five per cent. continue to use it. You know what that means, don't you? What will your decision be?

Harry W. Frost

THE PLANET VENUS.

Night Eternal Reigns Over One-half of Her Globe.

To have the same hemisphere exposed everlastingly to sunlight while the other is in perpetuity turned away must cause a state of things of which we can form but faint conception from what we know on earth. Baked for weeks without letup and still baking, the sunward face must if unshaded be a Tophet surpassing our powers adequately to portray. And unshaded it must be, as we shall presently see. Reversely the other must be a hyperborean expanse to which our polar regions are temperate abodes, for upon one whole hemisphere of Venus the sun never shines, never so much as peeps above the star studded horizon. Night eternal reigns over half of her globe. The thought would appall the most intrepid of our Arctic explorers and prevent at least everybody from going to the pole, or rather, what here replaces it, "through the dark continent." It exemplifies the actual effects of a force in astronomical mechanics the importance of which is only beginning to be appreciated, tidal friction. It has brought Venus as a world to the deadly pass we have contemplated together. Starting merely as a brake upon the rotation, it has ended by destroying all those physical conditions which enable our own world to be what it is. Night and day, summer and winter and cold and are vital vicissitudes unknown now upon our sister orb. There nothing changes while the centuries pass. An eternity of deadly deathlessness is Venus' status quo lot.—Dr. Percival Lowell in Popular Science.

Making a Hotbed

Horse Manure Gives Best Results.—Make Frame Tight to Prevent Escape of Heat.—Use of Flats Advantageous.—Judicious Ventilation and Watering Very Essential.

As spring approaches thought is given to the sowing of seed and developing plants ready for planting in the garden as soon as the ground and weather permit. Plants for this purpose can best be started in the dwelling house, but usually owing to varied temperature and lack of abundant direct sunlight in the average house window the plants are often anything but thrifty.

The hotbed should be started immediately and will be ready to receive seed or plants in about ten days' time. It is wise to select a sheltered southern spot. If a pit has not been made the manure may be piled on the ground first shovelling off any snow that may be there. If a frame six by twelve feet is used it will be necessary to make the hotbed eight by fourteen feet. The manure should be 2 1/2 to 3 feet deep if made at this season.

HORSE MANURE BEST

Horse manure with litter in it is the best to use. Fire-sieved manure should not be used as it will give little heat. Separate horse manure and pile in heap alongside where the bed is to be made. If the litter is dry sprinkle on some water which will prevent burning out. Do not, however, drench the pile and check fermentation. The object of turning the pile once or twice before making into a permanent bed is to evenly distribute heating parts of the manure; to scatter parts not moist with those that are, and to allow warm gases that form with the first fermentation to escape. Usually one turning is sufficient providing the above requirements are met. This manure should be ready to form into a hotbed in ten days time after piling.

The manure should be forked evenly to the various parts of the hotbed, making one layer at a time and gradually building up in this way. As each layer is forked on it should be tramped. The tramping excludes air and prevents too rapid fermentation. As to how firmly to tramp it will be determined by the dampness of the mass and the amount of litter it contains. See that the edge of the pile is made as firm as the centre, otherwise the frame will weigh down the edge and give a rounding surface inside the frame.

THE FRAME.

The frame is then placed and the glass put on. The frame can be made of any inch or 1 1/2-inch material. The 1 1/2 inch grove and tongue flooring is preferred. It makes a tight frame which is very important to prevent heat escaping during cold nights. The front should be seven to ten inches high and the back ten to fifteen inches giving five inches of a pitch to the glass. The usual size and the most convenient sash for handling is three by six feet using ten by twelve inch glass.

The sashes should be shovled back slightly during the day to allow warm gases to escape. The first fermentation is rapid and a high temperature obtained; this will cease after a week or ten days, as soon as the manure settles. When the temperature falls to seventy or eighty degrees seed may be sown or plants put in. A common dairy thermometer can be used to obtain the temperature by placing it in the manure to the bed.

FLATS PREFERABLE

The use of flats instead of putting the usual six inches of soil into the frame is preferred. These flats can be easily made out of soap or similar boxes, ripping them in through, making two or three flats out of one box. They should be three or four inches deep. If they are all of the same size, so much the better as the space can be used to better advantage. Thirteen to twenty-two inches make a convenient size for handling.

The advantage of the flat is that plants requiring different treatment can be handled to better advantage and as plants develop they can be set outside with slight protection to be hardened off and those requiring more protection given their place. The flats can also be taken inside after the seedlings are ready for picking off and the work done with greater ease and under more favorable temperature conditions than those usually obtaining around a hotbed in the early spring. Seed may be started in flats in the house and removed to the hotbed in flats after they have 27minated.

VENTILATION.

It is necessary to give great care to the ventilation if thrifty plants are to be secured. An even temperature should be maintained of forty-five to fifty-five degrees for cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce and similar cool season crops. More ventilation should be given during bright days than on dark days, and cold winds blowing upon the plants chilling them should be avoided especially during April. It is usually advisable to close up the frames in the afternoon as soon as the temperature begins to fall. An atmosphere of water is not desirable. Watering should be carefully done, and while the whole of the soil should be moist throughout it is not advisable to have it soaked. Drainage of the flats by making holes or not placing the boards close together would prevent this, although judicious watering, not making this necessary, should be the aim. The plants should be dry when the frames are closed. If when the frames are opened up water is on the foliage and on the glass inside, indicating a damp close atmosphere, withhold water. Such an atmosphere is liable to encourage the damping off fungus, and also produce weak plants.

TRAINING IN ORAL EXPRESSION

One of the most important phases of English training seems to be entirely neglected in the majority of our schools. We refer to training in oral expression of thought. The fact of the case is: many people, after they have left school, have little practice in the written expression of thought. They write from one to perhaps five letters a week, but the clerk behind the counter, the farmer before the institute or association, the politician before the convention, and the physician in the presence of his patient must give expression to thought clearly, forcibly and readily in good English. It would seem to us that in every school greater efforts should be made in the training of the pupils in oral expression. In the social world, the ability to express one's self in a pleasant manner will open wide many gates which money or honor fame will not open. One who has the ability to say the right word at the right time is a person much sought after. This power may be, to a very large extent, acquired. It is not altogether a gift. Demosthenes, at his first appearance in Athens, made a most signal failure but he persevered, and finally became the greatest orator the world has ever known.

Smith Cove

(March 30.)

The services in the Methodist church last Sunday were of an appropriate Easter nature. The music, which had been especially arranged, was very choice, the anthems and solo parts being exceedingly well rendered. Rev. Mr. Glendening who preached an eloquent sermon on the resurrection of the Redeemer, prefaced his remarks with a reference to the new silver collection plate and baptismal font that had been presented to the church by ardent members of the congregation. These gifts, together with the individual communion services donated by Mrs. M. Sullivan, made an equipment of which any church might well be proud, and he was sure that he echoed the sentiments of all when he said that the interest and zeal thus displayed were more than appreciated and would tend to stimulate the work in all departments of the church. The decorations adorning the walls were worthy of note. Back of the pulpit appeared a handsome white banner with the inscription: "Christ the Lord is Risen." Above this was a cross of chaste design, trimmed with Easter lilies. It turned out that these were artificial, but they were so skillfully worked that the uninitiated, unless informed, would not have recognized them as such. The decorations of the church were in every particular. The credit of making them belongs to her work. Mrs. Robert Austin was received into the church, and along with the other members partook of communion, which was administered at the close of the regular service.

Miss Nettie Merritt has come to Boston to visit her brother, Charles L. Merritt, and other relatives and friends. She will be gone a month or more.

Mr. Willard Merritt spent several days at his old home here last week. This is his first visit since he left at years ago, during which time he has been working in a shoe factory in South Framingham, Mass.

Mr. Lenest Bugles, Principal of the Bear River Academy, was in the village one day last week. He discussed the advisability of instituting for free annual transportation for school teachers over all lines of railways. Members of parliament, journalists, and certain business men now enjoy this privilege, and Mr. Bugles takes the reasonable ground that it should be extended to include teachers, who are doing more for the public good than any other class of citizens. It is quite probable that Mr. Bugles will bring the matter before the next provincial conference of teachers with a view to having definite action taken, and a plan adopted for getting the question before the railway managers.

Postmaster Potter has painted Annapolis Basin as he imagines it looked in the year A.D. 90. Mr. Potter produces plausible arguments to prove his contention that Goat and Bear Islands would be all one. His painting shows many other features that have been completely altered by the hand of time. Altogether it is a novel work. The author is considering the wisdom of publishing it in picture post card form. Such cards should prove good sellers, bringing fame and fortune to the genial and artistic Squire.

Mrs. J. S. Potter and her young son, Charles, have returned from Scotch Village.

Earl Cossaboom and Rev. Mr. Carter were in a mix-up at the east end of Bear River bridge last Sunday night. Mr. Carter was driving to Clementsport and Earl was driving to the Cove. They met near the residence of William Hazelton. The war on wheels collided. Mr. Carter's horse became unmanageable, kicking himself clear of the rig and bolted off at a break-neck pace. Mr. Carter was injured in the back, and his wares were damaged somewhat. The Cossaboom rig was not hurt and the driver escaped without bruises of any kind. After the accident he drove home in good order. Mr. Carter had to walk, as his horse is at Clementsport, the distance he had to cover being five miles, quite a tramp for a man suffering from shock and injuries.

The music in the Baptist church Easter Sunday evening was of an Easter nature and was well executed. Rev. Mr. Carter's sermon on the resurrection was a masterly effort, and held the closest attention of the congregation.

A public tea under the auspices of Home Mission, drew quite a large number to the hall Tuesday evening.

Mr. A. M. Gidney will probably receive his commission as Collector of Customs at the port of Digby, and will enter upon his duties at the close of the session. He will likely continue to live here during the summer and move into Digby in the fall.

Friends of Mr. Charles L. Merritt are glad to hear that he has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Experience has amply demonstrated that when a child is intractable or deficient and is at the same time suffering from a removable physical defect the aid of proper moderate treatment would almost immediately work a wonderful change both in deportment and ability. The matter deserves the most careful consideration of the city and particularly of the Board of Education. It seems folly to go to the expense of supplying books to children who cannot read well, or to place things on the black-board which children cannot see half way down the room. If the slight defect of the child is hopelessly handicapped. Medical inspection would in many cases reveal easily removable defects in children whom we now regard as stupid or incorrigible. Dr. McLaren in calling public attention to these facts has aided a movement which promises much for the welfare of our city.—St. John Sun.

The Methodist donation party was held at the residence of T. O. Morgan on Monday evening. There was a nice program of music and readings. A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. George Austin of a handsome writing desk and chair. Rev. Mr. Glendening had charge of this and his remarks in handing them over to Mrs. Austin were very happy. He complimented her on her faithful service of twenty years as finance minister of the church on behalf of the congregation. He hoped that she might be spared to a long and useful life. Mrs. Austin was much surprised and although considerably overcome, returned appropriate thanks. The collection for Mr. Glendening amounted to forty-two dollars.

Mr. A. H. Weir had very bad luck with two cars of turnips he shipped recently to Boston. Mr. Weir bought the turnips for good stock, and it is hoped he and all concerned will come out of the transaction all right.

Obituary

MRS. CLARENCE STEVENS

It becomes our painful duty at this time to chronicle the death of Mrs. C. E. Stevens, which took place at her home in the city of Chicago, Ill., on the 14th, after a short illness. She died leaving an infant son a few days old—giving her life for another. Her marriage she was Gladys Genar, daughter of the late DeLancy Genar. In consequence of a wish expressed by her on leaving the home of her childhood, that when she died she wished to be laid to rest beside her parents in the beautiful hamlet of the dead, where all her ancestors slept, the promise then made, her sorrowing husband fulfilled.

Interment took place at Belleisle on Saturday the 19th. The casket was covered with wreaths of beautiful flowers placed there by kind and loving hands in her far-away home. She had very many friends and to know her was to honor and esteem her. A devoted and consistent Christian in her childhood she learned to walk the narrow way that leads the Christian through the gates immortal to the deathless home beyond.

She leaves a sorrowing husband, an infant son, Everett G., two brothers, Jacob V., of Manchester, N. H., and Arthur W., and two sisters, Mrs. Lansdale Hall, of Beconsfield, and Mrs. Frederick McAndrews, of Belleisle, to mourn her early death.—COM.

OBADIAH B. TROOP

On the 31st ult. Mr. O. B. Troop passed away at his home in Belleisle, at the advanced age of sixty-two years and six months. He was the last but one of a large family, well-known as among the most respected citizens of Granville. On the 6th of December last his children celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage to Lillias Maria Stark of Digby. For the last five years his powers failing, but he did not come of body and mind had been gradual and unexpected. For more than fifty years he was a consistent and ardent member of the Methodist church. Six surviving children and his aged wife mourn the loss of an affectionate father and husband.

H. GATES SANFORD

H. Gates Sanford died at West Paradise March 30th, aged thirty-seven years. He had been sick only a short time. He came from Gloucester to West Paradise about nine years ago, and since then has, with his mother, been farming in this place.

A short service was held at the family residence, on Friday at 3.30, at which Rev. L. F. Wallace officiated. Henry, brother of the deceased, started on Saturday to take the body to Gloucester, Mass. for burial. Mrs. Sanford and family have the sympathy of the entire community in their hour of sorrow.

As to the reality of the German menace, Mr. J. S. Wilson who is now in London writes his journal, the Toronto News, as follows:—

"The German peril is not a booby. It is a thing of fact and blood. Amongst many of those whose opinion is best worth having, who love peace and not war, who have never opened their lips to increase the tension between Great Britain and Germany, there is a solid conviction that the British Empire approaches one of the great crises of its history, and that it must gather up all its energies to maintain not merely its naval supremacy, but its existence as an Empire."

CURED OF LAME BACK WHEN 84 YEARS OLD

Gin Pills did it.

Anyone, seeing Mr. Samuel Martin, of Stratford, Ont., for the first time, would guess his age at about 60 years, instead of eighty-four. He is as spry on his feet as a cat and in the picture of health.

It is hard to believe that Mr. Martin passed twenty years of his life in misery, suffering tortures from Lame Back. He tried nearly all the advertised remedies and household recipes, but received no benefit from any of them.

Some months ago, seeing Gin Pills advertised, Mr. Martin purchased a box from W. H. Seidler, a popular druggist of Stratford. The relief, which Mr. Martin experienced after he had taken one box, was so great that he knew he had found the right remedy at last. He bought and used two more boxes of Gin Pills, which completed the cure.

Age is no barrier to Gin Pills. They never fail to cure Lame Back and Stiff Limbs, because they cure the Kidneys and Bladder, which are the cause of the troubles. Gin Pills also act on the Liver and assist in curing Biliousness.
