CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

"Inquiries for bills for next season are already coming in, and prospects for the season of 1901 are considered very bright." This is the manner in which a manufacturer in western Ontario refers to the out-ook for the lumber trade, and his views are endorsed by other manufacturers from whom information has been received the past week. Some Georgian Bay mills have already sold their coming seas-on's cut of British deals, while an increased inquiry for the lower grades is report-ed from all sections of the province. Without being too optimistic, it can be safely said that an active trade in lumber will characterize the early spring, and there is reasonable hope of higher prices at least for certain grades. Michigan consumers of lumber will, in all probability, obtain a greater portion of their supply in Canada this year than ever before, as the production of pine lumber in that State is now of no account.

There are considerable stocks of hard-wood lumber in some districts, but it is not anticipated that there will be any general reductions in price, as this is scarcely possible unless sales are made at a loss, owing to the high prices paid for logs It is expected that there will be a small production of hardwoods the coming season.

QUEBEC AND NEW BRUNSWICK.

The outlook for the lumber trade of the castern provinces is brightening, although sales for immediate delivery are few. For spring delivery, however, many en-enquiries are being made. During the past few months there has been little de mand for spruce clapboards, the price of which his remained low. Enquiry has now become more active, dry stocks are getting cleared out, and prices are showing a tendency to advance. British trade is quiet. Shippers are still unable to close contracts on account of the uncertainty of the European marker. New Brunswick cedar shingles are again a little weaker, selling as low as $280 for extras, $2.40 to $2.50 for clears, and $1.75 to $2 for second clears.

UNITED STATES.

While there was a falling off in trade towards the end of the year, all kinds of lumber give evidence of continued stabil-ity. An encouraging feature is the conity. An encouraging feature is the con-tinued volume of enquiry and the placing of many orders for early spring delivery. The end of the year found stocks at many manufacturing points badly broken. On the upper lakes there is said to be a short-age of 12-inch No. 1, 2 and 3 boards, 10 inch No. 1 and 2 boards, and 2x12 piece stuff in 12, 14 and 16 foot lengths. Laths are also in short supply. A few sales of the cut of 1901 have been made at a slight advance on last season's prices. In the saginaw valley manufacturers, with few the saginaw valley manufacturers, with few exceptions, have little stock in their yards. Log run is quoted at $16 to $18, box lum-ber at $12 to $16, Norway bill stuff at $16 and upwards, and mill culls at $12 and $14. At Buffalo the stock of pine lumber is not heavy, and a general scarcity of the higher grades is reported. Some efforts have been made by dealers to add to their supply from Ontario, but it is said that prices generally have been found too high. Spruce continues to gain in strength and advances are looked for early in the year. advances are looked for early in the year. Although hardwoods are quiet, no weak-ness is shown. More than the usual number of enquiries are reported, and there has been some good buying for Jan-uary delivery. Plain oak has gone up another $1.50 in New York, now selling at $46 and better. The tendency of shingles is strong. Buffalo dealers are finding more enquiries

Buffalo dealers are finding more enquiries for red cedar shingles than for pine, the d fference in price being 50 cents. On the Pacific coast cedar shingles have been advanced another 5 cents.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Advices from Great Britain tell of an unchanged condition of the lumber market. Importers are declining all overtures, and few sales of importance market. have been made. One report states that London importers have not yet pur-chased any deals and battens for next year, but several contracts for special goods, such as slating battens and weather boards, have been closed. There is yet much uncertainty as to the prices which will rule for spring shipments. Some Baltic manufacturers are said to have Baltic manufacturers are said to have sold 11 and 9 inch deals at the same prices as ruled last season, and 7 inch battens 5 shillings lower. Prices for goods on spot are not improving. Notwithstanding the drop in spruce prices, there is little movement in the sale of deals and planks, and it would seem that consumers are expecting a further decline in prices. A few sales of third pine deals have been made at £11 12s 6d per standard for 3xo in, 12 to 13 ft. in length. At an auction sile held by Hodson, Mabbs & Company, 3x11 Quebec spruce brought only L9 5s, which is considered a little below market value.
