"QUIT SMOKING"

An Up River man's Appeal to the Scribe

FORSAKE THE PIPE

For a Wife is what a Stranger Asks of the Advocate's Scribbler.

"Young man, you will be dead inside of five years," said the man from up river to the scribe as he seated himself in a comfortable chair in the Advocate's sanctum.

"Say that again, please," cried the murderer of editorials.

"You'll be in your grave in less time than it takes a Newcastle alderman to make a speech, if you don't quit smoking," thundered the stranger.

"Well it will take longer than that to square off my creditors," replied the scribe, the smoke issuing from his mouth in a manner that would do credit to Oom Paul.

"I tell you sir, it is the truth, quit it, quit it."

Why man, if it wasn't for the pipe, I'd have to get out of the newspaper business. It's comforting. Many a man drowns his sorrow in a cup of wine, I drown mine in clouds of smoke.

"Nonsense, pure stuff, sir."

"It's not an unusual sign to see ladies smoking in England and the United States now," answered the newspaper man.

"Well they say if things keep on as they are going in the States, every member of congress will be an idiot in twenty five years."

"How about the House of Commons? There are a few idiots there now," said the scribe.

"Well yes, quite true. But joking aside stop smoking."

"Oh it's all very well to talk. You've got a wife and family to soothe your aching heart. The comforts of home are the thing."

"Well why don't you get married?" asked the stranger.

"Can't."

"Can't get anybody to have you, eh? Well I'll get you a wife."

"Good! But she must be good looking and full of sympathy."

"Oh I'll get you a good one, and with this comforting assurance the stranger took his departure."

While waiting for the promised treasure (?) the scribe will not allow the pipe to become dusty.

Concussion

You can walk further in the country than in the town!

You tire less on the turf than on wooden sidewalks.

Your feet strike the ground 6,000 times per hour in walking.

This means 6,000 shocks to nerve and spine—100 every minute.

The harder substance your heel strikes the greater the concussion.

And there is nothing much harder than a wooden sidewalk.

Constant dropping of water will wear away a stone.

Continuous concussion in walking over hard sidewalks will wear out the nervous system, and tire the brain and temper as well as the limbs and feet.

A pair of rubber heels is the remedy for this as they prevent any jar to nerves and spine in walking. They also make walking a pleasure.

Get them at McMillan's Shoe store.

VERY GRAVE

Is the Situation in China--The Allied Fleet Fired Upon

HALIFAX, June 18.—Privates H. E. Durant, Menclon, and H. E. Frodsham, Fredrickson, arrived here to-day on the steamer Siberian. Both are member of Company G, first Canadian contingent. They were in the Paardeberg fight and were wounded.

Durant is crippled for life, having an arm and leg broken. Frodsham was shot through the groin. Both speak highly of Lord Roberts, who visited them at Wynberg hospital and shook hands with them. "We will have them yet, boys," remarked England's field marshal as he warmly grasped the Canadians' hands.

LONDON, June 18.—Kruger has moved his headquarters to Alkmaar, near Selspruit. The Times correspondent with Lord Roberts says it is probable that negotiations will take the place of hostilities. Pretoria is settling down, military jurisdiction has been framed as far as possible on the existing model, a considerable number of Boer civil officials being incorporated.

The Standard correspondent with Buller reports that the Boers have retired toward Paardekop. Sad accounts come from Lourenço Marques of the wretched plight of the British prisoners.

LONDON, June 18.—With the reports coming through Tien Tsin that the Boxers have massacred a number of native converts and servants of foreigners in the east city of Peking besides burning the Catholic cathedral at Peking the situation in the Far East appears perceptibly graver. To add to the difficulties comes the news this morning that telegraphic communication between Shanghai and Tien Tsin is totally interrupted. Consequently the prevailing uncertainty as to the facts and possibilities of the position will be accentuated. It is generally recognized now that the position of the foreigners at Peking is perilous as there is but a short step from the massacre of the servants of foreigners to the killing of foreigners themselves.

London, June 17, 3 a. m.—Lord Roberts, according to a Boer despatch from Machadodorp, sent a message to Botha on June 13, suggesting disarmament and complimenting the bravery of the burghers. It was pointed out that the surrender would be without dishonour to the burghers and prevent much suffering. Botha asked for six days armistice in order to confer and consider. Roberts consented to five days. Finally Botha declined to accept the proposal and hostilities were resumed. The Boer commandos are retiring on Middleburg, followed by the British cavalry and artillery, occasional shells reaching the rear guards. The Boers are destroying bridges and burning the velvet behind them, carrying off provisions and cattle and leaving the country bare. Other advices from Machadodorp say that the Boers have abundance of arms and ammunition with dynamite and oxen and that they are preparing heavy wagon trains for retreat to the Lydenburg district, where the chiefs, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary, are determined to make a stand. Mr. Steyn in his proclamation declaring the Free State still free and independent says that the fact that the army is yet in the field render Roberts annexation contrary to international law.

LONDON, June 19.—In a despatch to the war office from Pretoria dated yesterday, Lord Roberts says Baden-Powell has just arrived there.

LONDON, June 19.—The details of the fighting at Taku are forwarded by an Express correspondent at Shanghai. The ships of the allied fleet consisted of the Yorktown, (American), Algerine, (British), Itlis, (German), and Otago, (Japanese), and Mandashur, (Russian). Early Sunday morning the forts opened fire and the Algerine and Itlis were badly damaged, being struck by shells thirteen or fourteen times. The return fire of the fleet told immediately and the forts were blown to pieces, the Chinese being afterwards driven back at the point of the bayonet. The main body of the attacking force consisted of Russians, 10,000 having landed at Taku. The magazine of the Russian gunboat Mandashur is reported blown up and 7 bluejackets killed and many wounded. Altogether the Russians appear to have lost 16 killed and 45 wounded. The total casualties of the other powers only amounted to 5 killed and wounded. No casualties are reported among the men of the American contingent.

The Express correspondent says it is felt certain that the real explanation of the failure of Seymour's expedition was the divided counsel among his force. Only the American troops honestly co-operated with the British admiral. The ninth regiment

A MIRAMICHI BOY

Mr. M. J. Monahan at the Head of His Calling

CITY PRINTER

In one of the Largest Cities of the Union--Born in Nelson.

Residents of the Miramichi will be pleased to hear of the success of Mr. M. T. Monahan, in the land of his adoption. A short time ago he was appointed city printer of Boston and last week the appointment was confirmed.

Mr. Monahan is the head of the Boston co-operative Press, with headquarters at the corner Sulbury and Allen Streets.

Mr. Monahan was born in Nelson, Miramichi, N. B., twenty-nine years ago and learned the printer's trade in the office of the Miramichi Advance, and leaving there to take a position on the Restigouche Pioneer. After six months he went to work on the St. John Globe, finally going to Boston, he secured employment in several of the largest and best printing offices in the city, acquiring a complete and thorough education of all the various branches of the printing trade. Mr. Monahan conceived the idea which developed into the above named co-operative organization by a perusal of Henry D. Lloyd's book on Labor Co-partnership.

The organization is exceptionally fortunate in possessing a manager so competent as he. It augurs well for its future.

J. W. H. Myrick, formerly with the well known firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., bankers and brokers, is president, and H. F. Morrison, Treasurer.

The following compose the board of directors: Messrs. J. W. H. Myrick, James J. Slattery, John J. O'Leary, James J. Fennessy and M. T. Monahan.

The Co-operative Press was organized under the laws of Massachusetts for the purpose of carrying on a general printing and publishing business under the co-operative plan.

The total value of the plant aggregated approximately $18,000.

The Nickel Magazine and the National Magazine are printed here and negotiations are pending for other publications.

Business men, brokers, etc., have been induced to patronize the Co-operative because of the prospective rebate, and to such an extent has the volume of business increased that it seems imperative that the capital stock must be greater in the near future.

FULLY APPRECIATED.

The following is self explanatory:—

St. John, N. B.,

June 16th.

Mrs. Osburn Nicholson,

Newcastle, N. B.,

My dear Madam:—

I have to acknowledge receipt of yours of the 15th inst. enclosing Draft for $374.14 in aid of contingent fund and I assure you the committee of the funds fully appreciate this remittance, as it is short in funds, to enable it to pay allowance of 50c. per day to each member of the several contingents up to Sept 18th. next, by which time it is hoped the men will receive their orders for return.

On behalf of committee I thank the ladies for the large remittance.

Yours truly,

H. D. McLeod,

Treas. N. B. contingent fund.

of the United States infantry, now at Manila, has, says a Hong Kong telegram, been ordered to China.

While the number of foreigners in China is supposed to be 12,000, including 1,600 Americans, at least half are at Shanghai and not more than 600 if so many would be huddled together in the embassy enclosures at Peking. Native converts to christianity and servants of Europeans would considerably increase the number of refugees at the embassies. The British enclosure was the largest, but all the legations were virtually defenceless.

LONDON, June 18.—With the exception of a rumor at Cape Town that Lord Roberts is about to seize the Delagoa Bay railroad at a strong strategic point and the announcement of the completion of the new Cape cabinet, there is no news from South Africa. A belated dispatch from Lord Roberts sent from Pretoria under date of June 16 gives an official version of an attack on a British post at Zand river on June 14 by eight hundred Boers with three guns. It says that General Knox with a mixed force drove off the Boers, who left four dead and four prisoners on the field. The British loss was Major Seymour and two men killed and nine wounded.

Capt. C. F. Harrison, St. John. N. B. of the second Canadian Contingent died at Cape Town last week from fever.

Della Fox, famous in theatrical and comic op-er-a circles and a once great favorite, has been committed to a private sanitarium at River Crest, L. I. Her malady is said to be incurable.

H. E. Gilroy, not long ago a prominent lawyer, and Mrs. Julia Frothingham, a wealthy lady both of Philadelphia, were together committed for drunkenness at one sitting of the police court, May 7. Both were once prominent in society, but have now reached the lowest depths of degradation.

Her Highness Princess Aribert, Anhalt, daughter of Schleswig Holstein, and grand-daughter of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, arrived in Ottawa, Thursday, and is a guest at the Government House. Her Highness was in the speaker's gallery Thursday afternoon. She was accompanied by Lady Laurier and a party from Rideau Hall.

Observers at Shanghai and Tien Tsin think there is a great deal more trouble ahead for the concert of powers than merely reaching Peking with 2,000 men. Serious disturbances are taking place at Yun Nan Fu and Meng Tse as well as at other points at a considerable distance from the capital.

The whole Chinese Empire seems to be in a ferment.

Mrs. Gladstone, wife of William E. Gladstone, the English statesman died 5.40 p. m. Thursday. Mrs. William Ewart Gladstone was eighty-eight years old and has been slowly sinking for some time past at Hurler Castle, the family seat. She was married to Mr. Gladstone in 1839. He died in May, 1898. She was a woman loved and admired by the vast circle of those who came in contact with her busy and varied life, and had great influence over her husband's actions.

Maldie Macmillan, a beautiful Nova Scotia girl is dying at the home of Dr. John M. Miss Macmillan, as she stepped from the car was thrown on the back of her head by the car suddenly starting. She wore valuable diamonds and expensive clothes, and bore the appearance of being a refined wealthy woman.

The most gruesome experience Gen. Baden-Powell ever had, one that makes light of the siege of Mafeking, was his voyage in a little 20-ton steamer, en route to Molokai, the famous leper settlement of Hawaii. Maj. Baden-Powell, as he was then, did not realize the situation until too late to retreat, and when he remonstrated with the captain he got the cool reply: "They won't hurt you. You don't catch leprosy like that." They were all packed like herring in a box, and the Maj. woke during the night to find a leper's head reposing on his feet. But no doubt he remained as cheery and philosophical then as while enduring the Mafeking anti-fat siege.

The Montreal Star's London correspondent says: Preston, Canadian Government Immigration Commissioner, left London Tuesday for Antwerp where he will meet Hon. Mr. Tarte. The Daily Express to-day connects this Antwerp meeting with schemes for Boer immigration to Canada. Preston says in the Express to-day, invitations have been offered for Boers to settle in Western Canada but we want to see the Imperial Colonial scheme of immigration put into effect on a large scale as it will remove many of the causes of ill feeling between the white races more quickly and more effectively than any other way.

Dreaded Meal Time.

THE STORY OF A DYSPPEPTIC WHO HAS FOUND A CURE

There Is An Intimate Connection Between Good Health, Happiness and Good Digestion—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Bring About These Conditions.

From the Tribune, Des Moines. Without good digestion there can be neither good health nor happiness. More depends upon the perfect working of the digestive organs than most people imagine and even slight functional disturbances of the stomach leaves the victim irritable, melancholy and apathetic. In such cases most people resort to laxative medicines, but these only further aggravate the trouble. What is needed is a tonic; something that will build up the system instead of weakening it as purgative medicines do. For this purpose there is no medicine equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They enrich the blood and strengthen and stimulate the digestive tract from first dose to last. In proof of this assertion the case of Mr. Thomas A. Stewart, the well known and genial proprietor Oriental Hotel, Des Moines, may be quoted. To a reporter of the Tribune who mentioned the fact that he was suffering from dyspepsia, Mr. Stewart said: "Why don't you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills? Asked why he gave this advice Mr. Stewart continued: "Simply because they are the best medicine for that complaint I know of. For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, and during that time I think I tried a score of medicines. In some cases I got temporary relief, but not a cure. I fasted several times and the food that I ate gave me but little nourishment. On the recommendation of a friend I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a little over a year ago. I soon experienced relief and no longer dreaded meal time, but as I was determined that the cure should be permanent if possible, I continued taking the pills in light doses for several months. The result is every vestige of the trouble left me and I have as good an appetite now as any boarder in the house, and my digestive organs work like a charm. I may also add that my general health was greatly improved as a result of using the pills."

"Do you object to my publishing this in the Tribune?" asked the reporter. "Well, I have no desire for publicity," said Mr. Stewart, "but if you think it will help anyone who suffers as I did, you may publish the facts."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves thus driving disease from the system. If your dealer does not keep them, they will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Not a dollar of the monies collected for the insurance fund is or has been used for the expenses of management. The death rate per 1000, of membership in 1898 was 4.56, and since the organization of the society in 1879, the average death rate has been only 4.54.

The sick and Funeral Benefit Branch is a very popular department, and upwards of 16,000 of the members of the society are participating in this feature of the order. The benefits are $3 per week for the first two weeks of illness, and $5 per week for the succeeding ten weeks; and $50 during any year, besides a funeral benefit of $30. Indigestion can be Cured

An Open Letter from a Prominent Clergyman.

C. GATES, SON & CO., Middleston, N. S.

DEAR SIR,—Please pardon my delay in answering yours of weeks ago. Yes, I have no hesitation in recommending your Invigorating Syrup.

During the fall and winter of '98 and '97 I was greatly distressed with indigestion. I tried several remedies, each of which gave me no relief. I was advised to try your Invigorating Syrup, which I readily did, and have felt grateful ever since to the one who gave me such good advice. The very first dose helped me, and before half of the first bottle was used I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the disease since. I have taken occasion to recommend your medicine publicly upon several occasions, and heartily do so now. You are at liberty to use this in any way you please.

Yours truly, (Rev.) F. M. YOUNG, Pastor Baptist Church, Bridgetown, N.S. Sold everywhere at 50c a Bottle.

NORTHUMBERLAND POLITICS.

The political situation in Northumberland County is again open for discussion. Not since the famous Northumberland deal has this county been as prominent in the minds of politicians and political writers as it is to-day. And yet, the paragraphs in the provincial press are mere preludes, for we have good reason to believe that this county will be the observed of all observers during the campaign of the approaching Dominion elections. "A Restigouche gentleman," says the Moncton Transcript, "would not be surprised if Mr. Robinson, M. P., were the next liberal candidate in Northumberland County." Mr. Robinson is a man of scruples, his interests are the interests of the people of this county and unquestionably he will not take a stand which will jeopardize the welfare of the County of Northumberland. Another prophet hints that Mr. Robinson will retire in favor of Hon. A. G. Blair. If the residents of this county can see the benefits to be derived from having the minister of railways as their representative in the House of Commons by all means receive him with open hands. On the other hand if there are any who can see in Mr. Blair's record as minister of railways any sign of retrogression or disingenuousness let them speak out. However, we must simply stand with our ears open and confess our utter inability to explain the political situation of this county on any reasonable hypothesis. Of course this ought not to surprise us, for we know that we are encompassed about by mysteries of all kinds. In these extremely practical days we have little patience with the man who takes time to delve into this unknown political field. But at the same time it behooves the electors of this county to be prepared for any reliable information which may be gleaned during the next three months. Study the question from a common sense point of view and not as a bigoted partizan. Bah! What is a partizan? A man of the past. Every citizen should be a politician but there should be no partizans. The welfare of our country before everything. Be patriotic and then you will not cleave to the coat tails of any organization or political party regardless of its present principles or ideas.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

The evidence that capital punishment is a dark blot on the pages of history of the civilized world, is accumulating daily. Although there have not been any cases of legal murder in Canada to our knowledge, yet scarcely a year passes without the proof that one or more persons have been executed in the United States for a crime which they did not commit. We are aware that we approach a question which is both delicate and irritant to the majority, but we have no hesitation in discussing it after the shocking declaration of guilt made by the Rev. Mr. Simpson, of California, on his death bed a few days ago. He confessed that he murdered Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, a crime for which Theodore Durrant paid the penalty. It is only a few years since this crime occupied the attention of the whole continent. There were many who believed in the innocence of young Durrant, notwithstanding the strong circumstantial evidence against him. But the court could not discover the real perpetrator and rather than lose its prestige passed the sentence of death upon Durrant. What has that court got to contend with now? The wrath of the civilized world. The memory of an innocent face on the gallows, writhed and distorted; a man paying the penalty of another's crime, must haunt, forever, the men who sent Durrant to his doom. Circumstantial evidence. Bosh! We have only to look at instances in our every day lives to see the utter injustice of convicting anybody of an offence on presumptive evidence. How many wives, for instance, or husbands either, have suffered untold of tortures on account of strong circumstantial evidence of their spouse's unfaithfulness, but which eventually proves false, and then the disturbed ones murmur "how could I be so foolish." Writers of fiction demonstrate day after day the injustice of circumstantial evidence. But, at the same time there are often cases that demand the conviction of persons on such evidence, but not in cases where the life of a human being hangs in the balance. The day is surely coming when capital punishment will be a thing of the past. It must either be this or the public will not accept the condemnation of a prisoner for murder on circumstantial evidence.

MAINE'S LIQUOR.

Maine, the prohibition state, a state which has become famous for its unique bar rooms and decanters, is reported to be rapidly suppressing the liquor traffic. Hitherto if a stranger in a Maine town wanted a glass of beer or whiskey he found some difficulty in reaching the spot where glasses were filled up from the carafe at a surprisingly quick rate. It wasn't because bar rooms were scarce—if we can call them by that name—but because the roads leading to them were very complex, there were too many doors and too many passages to pass through. A stranger generally considered that he was repaid for all his trouble, although it surprised him greatly to discover what a lot of bother the residents underwent in order to obtain their grog. But his surprise would generally increase ten fold when he would see the "gas" jet turned by the bartender and his beer flowing out of the fixture.

According to reports all that is over. The British consul at Augusta says:—"All breweries and distilleries have been suppressed; the liquor traffic has been reduced to one-twentieth of its former proportions. Grog shops are unknown in the smaller towns and villages."

The Hon. Wolcott Hamlin, ex-Supervisor of Internal Revenue for Maine, says:—

"In the course of my duty as an Internal Revenue officer, I have become thoroughly acquainted with the state and extent of the liquor traffic in Maine, and I have no hesitation in saying that the beer trade is not more than 1 per cent of what I remember it to have been, and the trade in distilled liquors is not more than 10 per cent of what it formerly was."

The United States will enter into no entangling alliances with any European nation or nations on the Chinese or any other question. It declined England's invitation for a joint action in 1823 against the holy alliance, and, in the Monroe warning to that coalition, which was issued in that year, established a policy of independent action which will be followed in the Chinese crisis.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Where are the Boers heading for? Not German West Africa, they are not wanted there; not South Bechuanaland, they are not wanted there; not Portuguese territory, they are not wanted there, and not Canada they are not wanted here. Pack them off to St. Helena, bag and baggage, and give them the island.

Lord Roberts owed his command of the expedition into Afghanistan, against Ayoub Khan, to the late Lord Lytton, then Viceroy of India, with whom he was a great favorite. There was great opposition to his appointment, but Lord Lytton made a personal appeal to Lord Beaconsfield.

The Great Western Railway Company has named a spanking new engine "Baden-Powell." If it has the endurance of its name sake it will be a valuable piece of property.

Easily Digested.*SUCH A FOOLISH MAIDEN.

"What is love?" asked the Maiden. The Misanthrope replied: "Love is the most dangerous form of insanity teaching its victim to disregard the first law of nature—self preservation." "What is love?" asked the Maiden, turning to the child which replied: "Love is that which leads my parents to bring me things home and the regard I have for them on such occasions." "What is love?" asked the Maiden once more this time of another Maiden of many years. "It is," said she, "an unsatisfied longing or something you cannot get." So the Maiden sighed and went into a convent. Foolish Maiden! Had she asked me I would have given her a few ideas on the subject.

TO RUN A PAPER.

It is astonishing how many otherwise intelligent people imagine it is an easy thing to run a paper. Given a certain or uncertain education, a little knowledge of men and events, a facility for writing and they believe that the person so equipped is fully competent for the work. Many professional men in other callings think they could edit to such advantage that they would establish a new precedent and set the town a buzzing. As a matter of fact however to achieve success in the newspaper world is most difficult. Look around and you will see successful lawyers, doctors, architects, engineers, business men tens and even hundreds to the one successful editor. The country at large in fact furnishes only a limited number for we are not estimating from the business office standpoint or including publishers. Those not newspaper men have in fact but a hazy idea of the ability necessary to the makeup of a successful editor. He must be a man of all trades and a master in his own. He must be born with the news instinct. A good paper like a great painting speaks for itself however. The public are quick in appreciation. To use a common expression they know a good thing when they see it.—St. John, N. B. Monitor.

Gossip

About Women, Their Children,
and Their Home.

may be overlooked. Anyway toughs will get them. After years of age horses should be fed hay moistened and with meal
on it. But any horse that is hard at work every day should have his grain in meal and on cut hay.
The meal is chewed with the cut hay just as oats would be. It is well mixed with saliva when it enters the horses small stomach and passes into the intestines. So it does the greatest good possible for the nutrition it contains. All old farmers say that horses will stand hard work better on cut feed
than on either whole grain or meal.

There is one thing to which I wish to call attention says Waldo F. Brown in Home and Farm and that is the fact that prosperity on the farm gives a chance to take things easy in the decline of life
better than most other callings.
Once out of debt and with the farm in good condition the farmer can hire the hard work done and take the light work on himself looking after the poultry and the garden and let younger and stronger hands take the lead while in many other callings the man must work in the harness every day or give up entirely. The successful lawyer, doctor, preacher, or manufacturer has built his success by personal qualities and cannot delegate the care to others
but the farmer can direct the work of his farm and do the head work
while others furnish the muscle.

Where black color in yarn or woolen goods is desired it is far better to have it natural black
than that which has been scoured and then dyed with some of the many coloring mixtures used for dyeing woollens says The American Cultivator all the old dyes weaken
the fiber of wool and many of them
contain matter poisonous to tender flesh. When brought into close contact with it on a rough woolen surface which scratches the skin a poisonous rash is produced that is sometimes quite inconvenient and may be serious enough to produce blood poisoning. In the old days when farmers wives used to spin and weave for home use instead of buying woollens from the stores farmers used to save the wool from the black sheep to be worked up into clothing for themselves and families.

While the horse is kept during winter mostly in the stable whole oats are probably better feed for him than meal says The American Cultivator. The hulls of the oats as farmers say tickle his insides and increase the activity of his digestion.
Some oats may pass through undigested but unless the horse is old and has lost his teeth this

Don't forget the "good morning"
at the early morning meal. Well bred people on entering the breakfast room generally give a salutation, which is a rule in good form.

An acquaintance of mine who owns a hilly farm manages it in such a way that he gets about as large an income from it as most men do from level farms of equal size writes F. Grundy to Farm and fireside. A small creek runs across the farm the valley along which it flows being deep and its sides very steep. This valley including the greater part of the gullies leading into it is fenced in and used as a pasture for cows and sheep. There is a fine sod over the whole and he keeps only sufficient stock in the pasture to keep the grass reasonably short. If any spot is grazed too short or the grass is killed out it is heavily manured and seeded with a mixture of redtop, blue grass and white clover. The manure prevent the stock from grazing it too close until a firm sod is established.

In the deep gullies where usually we see only a tangle of brush crab apples, wild grape vines and weeds he has planted several varieties of native and Japan plums
and Moor's Early Concord and Niagara grape vines. He says these deep gullies are fit only for brush and vines and he sees no reason why they should consist of wild grapes, wild crabs and other trash when good fruit will answer
the purpose just as well.

Inside the pasture he has planted
the lower part of these gullies with ash and catalpa trees while the sides of the little creek are lined with these and maple trees. In a few years he will have all the fence posts and firewood he needs. The upper level or nearly level land he farms growing corn chiefly which he feeds to the stock in winter months.

In speaking of his methods and practices he said to me I'm a sort of theoretical fellow and have been laughed at a great deal by some of my neighbors on account of my notions about planting trees and managing the hillside and gullies
on my farm but I've paid no attention to their fun though I must confess that I did feel a little silly
when I cleared out that gully near the house and planted it to plums Siberian crabs and grapevines also when I planed those trees along either sides of the creek. I see now that it was the right thing to do and I am getting lots of fruit from those gullies while I am getting enough posts from my timber plantings to keep my pasture fence
up. I may be an 'odd genius' as some people call me but I am making a good living and something more off this ragged 80, and I'm not working myself to death either.

MINARD'S LINIMENT Lumberman's Friend.

A philosopher in petticoats has discovered that cynicism becomes active in spring and autumn.
Summer checks the ravages of the microbe; winter almost destroys it.
Lovemaking is prominent in springtime you see, and the tender passion is peculiarly provocative to cynics. There was a man once—he is dead now, fortunately—who always gained the confidence of young lovers. After hearing about their rainbow visions and melodramatic imaginations, he would ask quietly: "Don't you think she is a little—only a little, common?"
Not refined enough for you, my dear fellow? Denials were answered, of course but those engagements
never resulted in matrimony.
The man said he had prevented more than 2,000 weddings and was a public benefactor. No doubt he was a barbarian.

"Madam," he began as the door opened, "I am selling a new book on 'Etiquette and Department.'"

"Oh you are," she responded.

"Go down there and clean the mud
off your feet!"

"Yes'm. As I was saying, ma'am
I am sel'—"

"Take off your hat. Never address a strange lady at her door
without removing your hat."

"Yes'm. Now, then, as I was saying—"

"Take your hands out of your pockets. No gentleman ever carries his hands there."

"Yes'm. Now ma'am this work on et'—"

"Throw away your pipe. If a gentleman uses tobacco, he is careful not to disgust others with the habit."

"Yes'm. Now, ma'am in calling your attention to this valuable—"

"Wait. Put that dirty hankerchief out of sight and use less grease
on your hair in the future. Now you look a bit decent. You have a book on 'Etiquette and Department.' Very well, I don't want it.
I am only the servant girl. Go up the steps to the front door and talk with the lady of the house.
She called me a downright outright no doubt about it idiot this morning, and I think the book
you're selling is just what she requires."—Pearson's Weekly.

Many of the most fascinating women of history have been without a single beauty of feature.
Therefore their attraction must depend on expression, either inwardly or acquired. Its subtleties depend as much on temperament
as on education. A perfectly irregular face is sometimes magnetic by reason of its animation and earnestness.

Irregularity of that kind is preferable to a beautiful and immobile
countenance that smiles perpetually like an everlasting blue sky.
There is only a hair line between repose and stagnation, and one is as pleasing as the other is dull.

It is the quality rather than the quantity of the mind that affects expression. Excessive brain work is detrimental—it strains and con-
torts the features, tightens the lips,
wrinkles the forehead and dulls
the eyes—but, on the other hand,
where beauty is absent a certain amount of brain work will add it to the face, for the eyes gain depth and earnestness, the nose becomes determined and the shapeless lips and jaws grow powerful. Expression to be really beautiful must correspond with and enhance the individuality already expressed.

Violent temper renders the eyes
dry and staring, making them devoid of that clear serenity which is so charming. Concentrated thought and pessimism, jealousy or discontent deprive the mouth of its mobility and compress the lips to a thin line in time. Cynicism has a lasting effect on the corners of the mouth. No matter how ugly
a face is it may become to possess
rugged grandeur and homely sweetness but neither of these is to be obtained by those who frivol
vacillate or have no appreciation for the higher things of life and
and the larger emotions. A pretty expression, a poor mind and a shallow heart cannot add to the expression of a face.—Chicago News.

Every girl has a desire to be at least pleasant looking. She may not long to be a great beauty—indeed she may be satisfied with what is known as an agreeable face
—but she can achieve nothing unless she possesses one jewel—the jewel that endows her with charm,
grace and loveliness—the jewel that is called good health. The girl of the last generation—she of the obignon and crinoline, of tiny waist, of narrow shoulders and,
worst of all, of the head piled with false hair—is a thing of the past.
In Hawaii they have a proverb, "If strong be the frame of the mother,
her sons will make laws for the nations," and surely every girl can understand as she looks into that future wherein she hopes to be wife and mother how necessary it is for her to have the greatest of all blessings, good health.

The girl who is dyspeptic, bilious and nervous, with her stomach continually fermenting, is not the girl to succeed in any position in life. It is impossible with a splitting headache to manage a set of books correctly, and if a back aches
so that it feels as if composed of a thousand shrieking nerves, it is improbable that a girl can work or even enjoy herself. Coping many of the follies of England, we have also copied one of her virtues, the cultivation of good health. As a result, the girl of to-day especially the girl of good breeding, is upright, well formed, has a finely poised head, while around and about her is a suggestion of physical perfection. Few sports are kept from the English maiden.
She begins by swinging the croquet
mallet, soon learns to play tennis,
controls the golf stick and rides
well, but, best of all, she can walk
well and holds herself erect,
whether she sit or stand.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The WHIRL of the TOWN

Since Ethel went to Paris
She gives her folks a wrench,
By writing all her letters home
In nerve disturbing French.
But as the months roll onward,
And she needs cash to fling,
No doubt, to ask for checks, sh'll find
Her native tongue the thing.

Mr. Frank Parlee, the popular commercial traveller, and Wm. Cummings, the well known Harcourt sportsman, enjoyed a day's fishing at Mobs River, Kent, and returned to the Eureka hotel with two hundred and fifty of the speckled beauties, says a correspondent. There is good fishing in the Mobs River, the correspondent adds—Moncton Times.

Mr. William Rae, a highly respected resident of Strathadam died early Thursday morning. He had been ill for about a week with pneumonia. The interment took place in the Presbyterian cemetery, Chatham, Friday morning. Deceased who was well and favorably known in this county, left a wife and five children. His wife is a daughter of Mr. Neil Gordon, Strathadam.

A Newcastle man who has just returned from the Seyrols reports that a worm, known as the army worm has invaded that section of the country. They are making great havoc with the poplar trees, leaving not a vestige of a leaf, and the whole country has the appearance of being devastated by fire. The same gentleman says that there must have been 10,000 of these worms around his camp at night. It is feared the crops will be destroyed.

Residents of Blackville, N.B., have been much disturbed over the report that the trustees intended to build a new school-house on the old site. Inspector Mersereau held an informal meeting on May 15th, to discuss this question of location. It is now said that the trustees have chosen the highest, driest and best location in the village and that the Inspector has given his sanction to it. But this does not please those who wish the school at their doors. John L. Murray of Douglastown has been awarded the contract. —Educational Review.

Private J. M. Aitken of company G. first contingent is ill at Bloemfontein with fever.

Mr. Peter McKern, Newcastle died on the 9th. in the 68th year of his age. He left two daughters and three sons. Interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery.

It is altogether likely Newcastle will celebrate "Dominion Day." A petition has been largely signed favoring a celebration and a public meeting will be held in the Town Hall tonight for the purpose of discussing the matter.

A telegram was received here yesterday announcing the death at Woodstock of Rev. Frederick Harrison. He was a brother of Rev. George Harrison, Newcastle. The remains were brought to Chatham today to be interred in the Methodist cemetery.

Mrs. J. W. Miller who sang with so much success in the recent patriotic concert, rendered "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own," in the Methodist church Sunday evening. The rendition was faultless and Mrs. Miller's rich contralto voice stirred the congregation profoundly.

The first race of the Miramichi Yacht Club was sailed Thursday in rain squalls for Governor Fraser's cup. The Maud won.

Through an error the Oriana started at the five minute whistle and was almost up to Hutchison's wharf before the Maud started. The Oriana then returned and started again, but by this time the Maud was almost up to the first buoy. "The time of the Oriana was taken as she rounded the first buoy and at the end of the race she was 21 minutes and 28 seconds behind the Maud. There was a light wind at the start giving a slight advantage to the Oriana, but later the wind increased giving the Maud the advantage.

"Joshua Simkins," a story of farm life, will be seen at the Masonic Hall, Newcastle, Monday June 25th. It is said to abound in novel features, wonderful mechanical effects, excellent singing and dancing and plenty of refined, wholesome fun, and brings to light in the third act a real saw mill in full operation, which is claimed to be the greatest realistic stage effect ever produced. Between the acts a high-class orchestra renders some excellent music, and also aids in the introduction of many pleasing singing and dancing specialties during the progress of the play. The fine band carried by this company will make a street parade at noon. Reserved seats 50c, now at sale at Street's Drug Store.

The following is from a Wisconsin paper of a recent date and is of interest as the deceased was formerly a native of Miramichi. The funeral of Stafford Holmes a nephew of William, Peter, James and John Holmes was held yesterday afternoon from the Presbyterian church. The young man was drowned at the Stoddard dam near Amberg early Friday morning. Mr. Holmes was 22 years of age, a young man of sterling worth. Several fellow workmen came to attend the obsequies and pay tribute to the memory of a dear friend. They concur in the statement that the deceased was one of the most steady workmen and affable fellows that ever handled a peavey. He was ever mindful of the welfare of his fellow.

Rev. George M. Young, Chatham, has been invited to accept the pastorate of the Methodist church, Charlottetown, the largest and wealthiest Methodist congregation in the Maritime Provinces says the World.

Mr. Young had already received and accepted an invitation to remain in Chatham a fourth year and is not asking for release but the the Quarterly Board of St. Luke's will probably not feel that it would be right to stand between him and the professional advancement that has been offered to him. The matter is of course in the hands of Conference but that body will try to please all parties concerned. It will send to the Charlottetown congregation the man of its choice if it can find one for Chatham who will be acceptable to this congregation.

The trustees of District No. 2, Nelson, N. B., having enlarged the schoolhouse and ceiled and painted the walls, did not feel able to erect a flag-pole and buy a flag for Empire day, says the Educational Review.

They were quite willing but lacked the means. But where there is a will there is a way. The energetic teacher, Miss A. Maud Menzies, assisted by the trustees, gave a school entertainment on the evening of Friday, May 18th, at which about $88 realized. Next day orders were given for a 40' foot flag-pole and a five yard Dominion flag. Long may it wave! both as an emblem of the loyalty of the district and of their enterprise and spirit. Miss Menzies is an excellent teacher and spares no pains to promote the welfare of her pupils. She is ably supported by a very efficient secretary to trustees, Geo. A. Platt, who takes time from a large and extending business to help all he can in educational matters.

DOAKTOWN

The weather in this locality is all that can be desired being a succession of sunshine and showers. The crops though late in are doing well; the hay crop particularly is looking fine and farmers faces are not nearly as long as a month ago. The seeding is about all done.

Doaktown is going to have a side walk. The enterprising Councilors for Blissfield having made arrangements at the last session of the Municipal Council to devote a portion of the statute labour to that purpose. Mr. Samuel Holmes the Bye Road commissioner for this district will begin to put down the planking in a few days. Most of the people regard the movement as a great improvement.

The Rev. Thomas Johnston of Newcastle visited the Presbyterian Church here on Sunday last at their communion season officiating both morning and evening. The congregations were large and the services very impressive. All were glad to see and hear the Rev. gentleman who in former years was pastor of this church.

The Baptist church is being painted both inside and out. The improvement in its appearance is very marked. Mr. James Holmes of this place is the contractor for the work. The New Brunswick Baptist association convenes with this church shortly. Many ministers and delegates are expected and a good time is anticipated.

Mr. Thos. F. Butler of Newcastle visited the village a few days ago. Also James Sims of Blackville remained over Sabbath here on his way to Fredericton. Doaktown like most other places celebrated Lord Robert's occupation of Johannesburg and Pretoria. Loyalty is above par and Union Jack flies on many of the house tops and Buller, Kitchener, Roberts etc., are household words. Nothing succeeds like success.

A pie and basket social was held in Swims' Hall on the evening of the eleventh June in aid of Baptist church now being painted. It was successful financially and otherwise.

The foundation of Mr. Magnus Betts' new house is now being laid. Mr. Jas. Holmes is the contractor.

This court is in a very flourishing state, the membership being over sixty, and is rapidly increasing.

William McK. McMillan has opened a new grocery store and is doing a big trade. Miss Bessie Taylor, the popular teacher of the West Ludlow school, Miss Grace Murray and Miss Freeze of Doaktown were here on Saturday.

Mr. P. Saunders has purchased a fine trotter.

Mr. Harry Kendall has recovered, after having been ill for some time.

Mr. William McMillan has taken the agency for the Massey Harris Co's farm implements and is doing well in that line. W. T. Sharpe, J. P. handles the McCormick goods, and is also doing a fine trade.

WAYERTON

All is very quiet here now since the drives belonging to Messrs Burchill, Sullivan, Johnston and Allison went down. Owing to very high water the logs spread over meadows and fields; there was a big "jam" upon the cow and calf.

Arbor Day was fittingly celebrated by the school children, who were eager to get the school and grounds into better summer condition. They cleaned up the grounds, planted trees and flower seeds, decorated the school room, and had recitations and singing in the open air.

BATHURST

Mr. Frank Curran has gone to Moncton for a few days.

The concert given by the C. M. B. A. members was a very successful one. The principal feature of the programme was a drama—"Comrades." This was the first presentation of the drama to a Bathurst audience and all enjoyed the rendering. The parts were well taken, each actor being specially adapted to his or her part. The other numbers were very much enjoyed. The sum realized was over sixty dollars.

On Tuesday evening the Village band gave several selections. This is the first time this year an open air concert has been given and it being so enjoyable, it is to be hoped we will hear another soon.

AN INTRODUCTION.

One would scarcely credit the flourishing and growing town of Mandeville—city by courtesy—with a well authenticated and respectfully vouched for ghost story, and yet it had one—has one perhaps, one might say, for three of its oldest citizens must join the choir invisible before it becomes a matter of pure tradition.

To quote from the geography, "Mandeville is remarkable chiefly for the excellent quality of the glazed tiles and the superior cylinder stoves which it manufactures in large quantities and ships annually to all parts of the United States and Great Britain."

Mandeville does not set as much store by its ghost as it does by its tiles and stoves, which it advertises with laudable liberality, but should any stranger chance to express his views on the subject of the finest old mansion in its suburbs, Broxton Hall, in the hearing of Uncle Benjie Braddock, as half the town calls him, he will be very apt to hear something that will astonish him, coming, as it does, from such very respectable lips, in an atmosphere from which one looks for nothing but trade and market quotations.

Uncle Benjie has reached the remnant age, and he always seizes with avidity upon the chance to describe "the most remarkable experience of my life, sir."

If his listener happens to be a skeptic who has nothing but a veiled sneer for the Broxton ghost, Uncle Benjie will refer him to "Major Dan Mercer, sir (I guess nobody ever cast discredit on a statement of his, or Simon, who was care taker at the Hall after Colonel Rufus Broxton died. They saw what I saw, and I take it that three more unimaginative men can't be picked up in all Melton county."

And so, whether you believe it or not, stranger, it will be well to report yourself respectfully toward the Broxton ghost so long as you are in the neighborhood of Major Dan Mercer.

The people who live in the handsome old house itself are not such old world aristocrats as to consider a ghost good form in shape of family indorsement. Whatever they may know or think about this elusive member of their fine old family they keep strictly to themselves.

Whether or not the Mandeville ghost story is worth relating or listening to each reader of the following pages must determine for himself.

CHAPTER I.

THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

When Miss Malvina Spillman, who lived midway between the small town of Mandeville and the large estate of Broxton Hall, saw Dr. Govan for the second time that day drive rapidly up the avenue of laurel trees that stretched from the big outer gates to the very doorstep of the Broxton house, she lifted up her voice:

"I think Colonel Broxton must be worse, mother. Dr. Govan's gone by again."

"Me, me, my, my!"

"That makes twice since breakfast, and he does not often drive that old sorrel of his fast enough to lather him. He is doing it now, though."

"Twice, Malvina? Me, me! And that poor motherless boy off at school the Lord only knows how many miles!"

"I think Thomas has been sent for, mother. When I was up to ask about the colonel yesterday, Jessy told me he had."

"But maybe he won't get here in time. Go back to the window, Malvina. Something else might happen."

Miss Malvina's mother was getting old and had got deaf. Just now she was planned to her armchair with a sprained ankle. To use her own pathos, she was nothing like the woman she used to be.

Sometimes Miss Malvina could project a bit of gossip across the room without having to leave her sewing machine or ironing board. It depended largely on the state of the atmosphere. As a rule, she had to filter it carefully through the perforated ear trumpet that was swung by a black ribbon about her mother's neck.

The wheel of Miss Malvina's sewing machine filled the little cottage with its pleasant whirr for a few moments of renewed activity. Then something else did happen, and she bustled across the room once more to report it. Her mother held the trumpet in a state of eager readiness.

"And Daniel has just gone galloping by on the colonel's black mare, mother."

"Which way?"

"Toward town. He'll just kill that mare, and the colonel loves her next best to Tom."

"You say he's on the black mare Winnie? Why, Broxton never would have let Daniel or any other man get astride that brute if he had his senses about him!" "Mother" Spillman shook her white head dolorously and added: "Gone after Horace Matthews, I suppose. Broxton had better be sending for the minister, if he is but a poor crooked stick, and settling his account with heaven instead of worrying with the lawyers at such a time."

Mrs. Spillman could afford to put her own estimate upon the new preacher she spoke as one who had been in anthority. Mandeville had but one church, and for years her husband had filled its pulpit. She knew every foot of the ground between Broxton Hall and the little church over which the "crooked stick" now presided, to her austere dissatisfaction.

The window in which her big armchair was immovably planted gave her a glimpse of the tiny white steeple in one direction and the wistaria wrapped walls of Broxton Hall in the other. Honeysuckle and clematis vines clambered over her window sill. She loved the scent of them. Bees hummed about the double petunias and gay phloxes around her doorstep. She could not hear them, but she knew they were there, so she lost nothing.

The front of the Spillman cottage was pierced by one door and two windows. Miss Malvina's sewing machine occupied one of these. Evidently events were not moving rapidly enough for the older woman. She interrupted the resumed whirr of the sewing machine querulously.

"I think you might give over tucking a white petticoat when a neighbor's soul is passing, Malvina, and that neighbor Rufus Broxton. It is a sorry day for us."

Miss Malvina looked penitent and put the lid on her machine as softly as if the sick man had been in the spare room of the little cottage instead of in his own stately four poster a half mile away.

"I meant no disrespect, mother. Nobody thinks more of Colonel Broxton than I do or will miss him worse. It's just my way to keep busy."

"Ah, ah, we'll miss him, Malvina! You'll miss him, I'll miss him, and all Mandeville will miss him. But what does he want with Horace Matthews at such a time? Oh, if your own dear father was only here now!"

"I guess he wants the lawyer to get Tom's affairs well in hand. Colonel Broxton is rich, mother, and Tom is young—so young and helpless."

"Only 14 years old, poor lad!"

"And I suppose the colonel is trying to arrange everything for Tom's best interests. I guess he never once thought, being so well and strong just a week ago, but what he would be here himself to look after Tom for many a long year yet. Jessy says Mr. Matthews and the colonel are just like brothers."

"Mother" Spillman jerked her trumpet away from Miss Malvina's lips with fierce petulance.

"Jessy is a gossiping simploton. Brothers, indeed! Don't speak of them in the same breath. I know Horace Matthews. Then, with shrill, rising voice, "I know more about Horace Matthews and Rufus Broxton than Jessy could ever find out if her mother cooked at Broxton Hall till kingdom come."

"I know my father prepared them both for college," said Malvina proudly.

Then quietly she seated herself on a hassock near her mother and possessed herself of the pile of gray wool the old lady worked up into articles of doubtful beauty and undoubted utility, just as the whim seized her. In off moments Miss Malvina would seize the needle and hasten the hour of completion.

Confident of a flood of familiar reminiscence, she settled resignedly to crocheting. It was her way to keep busy. Once fairly launched on the backward dawning tide, she could trust her mother to entertain herself for an indefinite period of time.

"I have known Horace Matthews and Rufus Broxton since they were both boys in knickerbockers and roundabouts coming to Mr. Spillman for Latin and mathematics. That was before you ever saw the light, Malvina. They were always together as boys, and I marvelled at it then. Rufus was a handsome, high spirited, clean souled lad who would have cut off his right hand if he detected it doing a dishonest thing. Matthews was just everything that Rufus wasn't. I never understood the liking Broxton had for him."

Malvina put in a word for the maligned. "Mr. Matthews must have been very winning in his young days, mother. He's got such friendly manners and he is so dreadfully good looking even now."

"Oh, there's no gainsaying his good looks. They came pretty near landing him on the topmost round of his ambition once upon a time. He just missed being Rufus Broxton's brother-in-law and coming in for half of old Marsden Broxton's estate. When Lucetta Broxton came home from boarding school—my, but she was something to look at!—Horace Matthews did not let the grass grow on the road from Mandeville to Broxton Hall."

"He was a struggling young lawyer then, waiting for his first client. She was the handsomest girl in the country and the richest. Before she had been home a half year they were engaged to be married. Before she had been home a whole year she was dead of pleurisy, contracted by going to a come out party at Butterworths', ten miles from Broxton, wearing her ball dress and slippers in the carriage."
