FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.
—A fearful cattle disease has appeared in Wasco County, Oregon. It is believed to be blackleg.
—At the Shorthorn sale of A. L. Hamilton, of Kentucky, forty-seven young Marys were sold at an average of nearly $539.
—The Shire horse is very highly spoken of for his ability to start heavy loads and to draw them long distances.
—The Southdown breeders of America are about issuing their first record, containing the pedigrees of about 1,000 Southdown sheep.
—The mammoth herd of Holsteins owned by Smith & Powell, of Syracuse, N. Y., is said to number 700 head, including the animals yet in quarantine.
—A Newburgh, N. Y., man has 200 different sorts of apples grafted upon one tree. One hundred and thirty-seven of them were in bearing last year.
—Cattle are dying from thirst and starvation in Mexico by thousands; the drought is terrible. The financial condition of the Republic is also deplorable.
—Eight Hereford heifers have recently been sent from the herd of Mr. Will. M. Dawes, New House, Craven Arms, Salop, England, to Senor Don Miguel T. Salas, Buenos Ayres, South America.
—The amount of capital employed by farmers and landlords in British dairying is said to be $1,575,000,000, and yet this branch of farming is said to be capable of further expansion.
—The production of beef in Britain by no means keeps pace with the constantly increasing consumption. This cannot but have a favorable influence on the foreign cattle trade in stall-fed beasts.
—Mr. Chas. Chapman is one of the most successful exhibitors of Southdowns in England. He has, for five years in succession, won the first prize for best Southdown ewe at the great Birmingham Christmas show.
—The harvesting on Dalrymple's 32,000 acre wheat farm in Dakota—the largest wheat farm in the world—has been completed, and the result is an ingathering of over 600,000 bushels, averaging about 19 bushels of excellent quality of wheat per acre.
—The total meat product of the United Kingdom is 1,100,000 tons from cattle, sheep and swine, and thus it has been, with some variations, for 20 years past. This would supply 26,000,000 of the population at the present rate of consumption, leaving 9,000,000 dependent upon the supply from other countries.
—The directors of the approaching Centenary Show of the Highland Society, to be held in Edinburgh, have cordially invited Hon. Mr. Pope, Minister of Agriculture, to be present. Mr. Pope is admirably fitted to represent the Dominion, and it is to be hoped that he will be able to attend.
—Lord Falkland's stud, one of the very best in England, was sold about the end of June. Most of the best blood remained in England, being purchased by the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Portland and others. Queen Bertha was purchased by Mr. Abington for $5,000 guineas, said to be the highest price ever paid for a brood mare.
—The Southdown sheep originated on the Southdown hills in the county of Sussex, whence they derive the name of Sussex Downs, and are known to have existed there 800 years ago. They are, we believe, the oldest pure-bred sheep of all the English breeds. They were then a small, light fleeced sheep, of good quality of wool and mutton, and being of a hardy and lively nature, were well suited to their surroundings where the pasturage was scanty.
—Sheep in Great Britain are said to be in a much healthier condition this season than for many years past. Foot and mouth disease is also steadily declining, inasmuch that the British agricultural press are urging the Privy Council to use the powers vested in them to stamp out the disease by slaughtering all the infected animals and paying full compensation, which would only entail an outlay of some $4,000.
—The total number of animals imported into Great Britain during 1883, from countries outside of the United Kingdom, is 1,624,882, against 1,483,888 in 1882. From European countries, exclusive of the Channel Islands, the numbers were 929,455 cattle, 929,944 sheep and 34,723 swine. From Canada, were received 53,177 cattle, 94,286 sheep and two swine, against 37,371 cattle and 68,873 sheep in 1882, a most encouraging increase.
—At the late meeting of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, held on the 18th inst., Mr. McKenzie, of Portmarnock, reported that in the experiments of the past season with ensilage, the results were, on the whole, satisfactory. As pitted against a ration of turnips and straw when fed to cattle, the cost per week was 4s. to 4s. 6d. and 9d. During the experiment, the silage-fed cattle cost $2.10 each, and the other lot $3.11, 10d. The former gained 134 pounds, and the latter 104 pounds.

WHOLE NO. 746.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

—France is giving much attention, at the present time, to the early maturing of animals.
—The cattle drive out of the State of Texas for the season of 1884 will foot up 450,000 head.
—The best results in dairying are secured where good feeding is practiced the year through.
—Revised estimates of the number of sheep which have perished in the Australian drought place them at 10,000,000 to 14,000,000 head.
—The Assessors' returns show that the number of hogs in the State of Illinois on May 1, 1884, was 2,808,898, against 2,583,136 on May 1, 1883.
—The Prairie Farmer tells of a Steam Thrashing Machine that is doing one hundred rods of ditch a day, at a job cost of eighteen cents a rod, and is doing it right along.
—The University farm at Champaign, Ill., has over a thousand different kinds of apples under trial in its experimental orchards. Such work is of unmeasured value to the people of the State.
—The estate of the late Nicholas Ashworth, of Buenos Ayres, purporting to be the richest person in the world, consisted of 1700 square miles of land, 400,000 sheep, and 150,000 cows, besides houses in the city.
—New-crop oats are low in the market. Instead of selling, save them to feed to choice calves, ewes, and lambs. In this way they bring more money than their value in market. So says the Maine Farmer.
—Mr. Goffart, the inventor of the ensilage system at his farm in France, tried ensilage 21 years before he said much about it. It costs him 3.6 cents per day to feed a cow, and he estimates the cost of ensilage at 80 cents per ton.
—Sir John Lawes and the distinguished chemist, Dr. Voecker, have recently made some interesting statements concerning the effects of food on milk. They agree that the quantity of water given to a cow does not affect the quality of the milk, but that the quality of the feed does. A poor food, especially if watery or very succulent, reduces the percentage of fat, while rich food increases this percentage.
—Don't let the calves at pasture run down at this season. Ordinary pasture in the latter part of the season does not afford them the right kind of food to keep them flourishing. If left to depend alone on the pasture on which they have run through the summer they will grow thin in flesh in the fall. If fresh second crop pasturage cannot be supplied in the field, then they should be put up at night and fed. At any rate keep them growing every day.
—The intelligent writer of "Samples," in the Mark Lane Express, of London, gives us this bit of good advice: "Avoid the landlord-and-tenant system, my American Cousins, as so much poison. Keep it out of your land system at all costs. Make occupancy more than ever inseparable from ownership. The man—say, a foreigner—who brings his thousands of pounds to invest in lands to-day, may appear to be a benefactor; but the next generation will see in him a mere parasite, feeding upon the industry of the nation."
Potash.
Iodide of Potassium is one of the strongest of the minerals used in medicine, and has produced much suffering in the name of Sussex Downs, and are known to have existed there 800 years ago. They are, we believe, the oldest pure-bred sheep of all the English breeds. They were then a small, light fleeced sheep, of good quality of wool and mutton, and being of a hardy and lively nature, were well suited to their surroundings where the pasturage was scanty.

A Remonstrance.

The August number of the Canadian Stock-Raisers' Journal contains the following pertinent observations. They appear to be made in a friendly spirit and should be carefully considered by our farmers and stock-raisers:—
We would like to address a word or two by way of remonstrance to our brethren of the Provinces whose homes are near the sea. You are one thousand miles nearer the market than we in the West, and yet what do we hear about your livestock shipments? Much of your country possesses valleys of great fertility, the favorite home of some of our best grasses. Why are they not stocked with broad-backed, deep and well-fleshed steers? Your hills and mountains will fatten the hardy breeds of sheep, but where are they? We are told that you are wakening up in the dairy interest, which we are delighted to hear; but with your running streams and rich pasture lands and facilities for shipping, why is it that your shipments of choice beef are not household talk around the tables of the old world? One thousand miles nearer the old world gives you a great advantage over us in the inland west. Indeed the additional carriage of this 1000 miles must go far to take away the cream of the profits from our shipments. Let our eastern friends, be up and doing, and lose no time in pushing the improvement of the stock. If the value of a steer in Ontario can be doubled without adding one to the number, and we are sure it can, so can it be in the Maritime Provinces; and all the easier when you have the additional stimulus of being 1,000 miles nearer the market. Why do our provinces containing so large a flow of Anglo-Saxon blood have not sooner awakened to the importance of this interest, we cannot satisfy ourselves.

GENERAL NEWS.

—A curiosity in the shape of a bearded girl only 7 years old has been discovered at Trenton, N. J. She is two feet and a half high and weighs 110 pounds.
—Libbie Van Wic, 15 years old, and the beauty of the village of Greenbush, N. Y., eloped with Nelson Matthee, a rag picker, 60 years old, a few weeks ago.
—General Butler believes he can poll 2,000,000 votes. Why, certainly. There are Ben and Charles A. Dana—they are 2—and the other 000,000 will be easy enough to pick up almost anywhere.
—A few years ago the women of India were not allowed to learn to read. Now there are 126,340 girls attending schools established for them, and in a short time the life of the Indian husband will be no more than that of any civilized Benedict.
—Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sun, it is said, married when he was only receiving $5 per week for literary work. His salary at present is said to be $25,000 a year, and he also draws a large income from the paper as one of the largest stockholders.
—Widow Mairé Durand, of Aubaine, in the Department of Isere, France, shows a baptismal certificate stating that she was born 129 years ago, March 16, 1761, and claims to have lost her husband ninety-six years ago, which makes her the most remarkable widow on record.
—At the famous ball given by Minister Montan at the Hotel de Ville, Mackay is said to have outshone all French or American millionaires by the display that she made of diamonds and precious stones. She wore the famous set of sapphires which attracted so much attention at the Paris Exhibition in 1875. It is valued at $300,000.
—A disastrous fire occurred at the town of Cynthia, Ky., Sunday morning, 31st, ult. The Abdallah Park stables, containing some of the finest trotting horses in Kentucky, were burned, and in one of the buildings containing 17 horses, 14 of them perished; some of them were valued as high as $15,000, and the loss in horses alone will approach $75,000. A groom named James Homan was burned to death.
—The London Truth, referring to the announcement that the Queen is about to make a new will, says: "Her Majesty possesses an immense fortune. The estate of Osborne is at least five times as valuable as it was when it was purchased by the Queen and Prince Albert about forty years ago. The Balmoral property of Her Majesty now extends over 30,000 acres. Clarenceau was granted to the Queen for life in 1866, with reversion to the country; and Her Majesty purchased the property about right three years ago for $78,000. Probably its market value is not much less than $150,000. The Queen also possesses some property at Cobourg, and the Princess Hohenlohe left her the Villa Hohenlohe at Baden, one of the best residences in the place. With regard to personal property, Mr. Field left the Queen over $500,000, and the property left by the Prince Consort is believed to have amounted to nearly $600,000; but the provisions of his will have been kept a strict secret, and the amount has never been proved. The Queen must also have saved vast sums out of her income, which has always been very well managed. Since the death of the Prince Consort the general administration of the Queen's private affairs has been confided to Lord Sydney, who is a consummate man of business.

Sunset on the St. Lawrence.

BY JOAQUIN MILLER.
Here room and kindly silence keep
Companionship in state austere;
The dignity of seas is here.
The large, lone vastness of the deep.
Here toll has journeyed to the West;
Here time has set him down to rest.
Above you gleaming clouds of gold
One lone imperial peak is seen:
While gathered at his feet green
Ten thousand foresters are told.
And all so still! So still the air
That duty drops the web of care.
Beneath the sunset's golden shroud
The awful deep glides to the deep
Where wreck and storm their revels keep.
While commerce keeps her loom and weaver.
The redmen long have gone to rest.
Their ghosts illumine the lurid West.
—A young lady called at a lawyer's office and asked to have suit begun against a former lover for breach of promise. "He promised to marry me four times," she said, "but he hasn't kept his word; and my affections are all blighted." "How much damage do you wish to claim?" said the lawyer. "No, sir; I want to get a guarantee for my future happiness." "I will do that," said the lawyer, "and I will think $100 a light in none too much." So suit was entered at $400 damages for four blights.
—"I'm afraid I was cheated on those lightning rods," said a man who had been a month in a fearful storm of lightning knocked 'em all away for Sunday, and burned my barn and everything in it." "But didn't the agent give you a guarantee?" "Oh, yes, I wrote to him and he wrote back very consolingly." "What did he say?" "That lightning never strikes twice in the same place."
—Young gentleman caller, who has forgotten his watch—"I see you don't keep a clock." Young lady (snatching at the opportunity): "No, sir; I wrote to him and he wrote back very consolingly." "What did he say?" "That lightning never strikes twice in the same place."
—"Hullo!" shouted one boy to another whom he saw running wildly down the street. "Hullo! Are you training for a race?" "No," called back the flying boy, "I'm racing for a train."

MANHOOD

HOW LOST! HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a New Edition of Dr. Cameron's Celebrated Essay on the value of permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Impairment, Impotency, Marriage, etc., resulting from excess.

Price in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effective, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
