Death of Le Caron. London, April 2.—The Times announces this morning the death of Major Le Caron, who was once employed by the British Government as a spy upon Irishmen in America. The Times says: "He died yesterday atternoon after suffering some time from a painful malady. He bore the pain with the fortitude and iron resolution characteristic of his whole career." Turned Into Tragedy.

LIVERPOOL, April 1. - The principal actors in the pantomime being presented at the Prince of Wales Theater, this city, chartered a coach on Friday, and accompanied by friends drove to Aintree to witness the Grand National steeplechase. While on the way to Liverpool the coach was overturned and everybody on board was seriously injured. Arthur Wilkinson, the commian, had his skull fractured and died yesterday.

Discount Rates.

London, April 1 .- The rates of discount last week were 14 for three months and 13 for 30 days. The influx of gold at the bank continued, and there was no sign of a strong demand abroad. The price of silver was firmer and higher. Business of the Stock Exchange increased in the volume, and an animated and confident tone was noticeable. The general tendency of prices was upward. American railroad securities showed a decided improvement in price and the number of sales.

German Women on the Move.

BERLIN, April 1.-The women's movement is making great progress. The congress called by the lady delegates to the World's Fair at Chicago met here on Thursday last. It is the intention of the ladies to form a union of all the charitable and humane societies in Germany in order that the work of the societies may be conducted upon a broader plan. A thorough exchange of views between the different societies is proposed, and it seems likely that the movement will have a decidedly beneficial effect upon the female mind in Germany. In order to avoid politics, the ladies confined their discussions to questions interesting women, but the delegates decided to exclude social democrats from their meetings.

The Anglo-Canadian Steamer Line. LONDON, April 1 .- Deputations representing Southampton, in the south of England; Milford-Haven and Swansea, in Wales, and Queenstown, in the south of Ireland, waited upon Mr. Huddart, who is promoting the fast Atlantic line between Great Britain and Canada, and severally urged the advantages of their respective ports as the home terminus of the proposed line, each claiming special time saving merits. Mr. Huddart replied at length, stating that the claims submitted would receive all the consideration which their importance demanded. The designs and specifications for the vessels to be employed in the proposed fast route are to be ready in course of a week or two. A number of financial syndicates have made overtures to the promoters of the Anglo-Canadian line, and the latter regard the prospects for a successful floating of the scheme as most encouraging. Buried in Hungarian Soil,

BUDA-PEST, April 1. - Louis Kossuth was buried to-day. Enormous crowds had gathered from all parts of Hungary to attend the funeral and mourn with the people of the capital. The streets were filled almost from wall to wall until sunset. The police and military had prepared for disorder and even riot, but nothing happened to disturb the solemnity of the day. The whole city mourned in silence. The streets leading to the National Museum, where Kossuth's body lay in state, were packed with people before 9 o'clock. While the coffin was being removed to the funeral car the throng outside the museum sang the revolutionary air "Szczat." More than 300,000 persons from all over the kingdom had gathered in the neighborhood of the museum and the song was echoed and re-echoed down the streets to a point half a mile from the spot where the procession was forming.

The head of the procession left the museum at 11 c'clock. The Honveds of 1848 led the line, carrying with them their old standards and flags. Behind them walked 1,000 women clothed in black. Then came twenty canopied cars, the clergy and Kossuth's son on foot, two carriages with wemen related to the family, deputies, delegates, committees, sccieties, peasants and peasants' wives, and hundreds of little children in mourning. The procession was almost as broad as the railway and was five miles long. Between 14,000 and 15,000 volunteers guarded the route of the procession and prevented the crowds from packing the streets through which the body was borne to the cemetery. The Honveds ente ed the cemetery at 2:30 o'clock. As the body passed through the gate a students' chorus began singing a hymn.

Kossuth was buried between Deak and Batthyanyi, two Hungarian patriots of his time and political tendency. Several orations were delivered at the grave. M. Justa, leader of the Independence party. declared that Kossuth's spirit would forever encourage Hungarians to combat Bismarck's Birthday.

FRIEDERICHSRUHE, April 1. - To-day Prince Bismarck colebrates his birthday anniversary. The crowd is beyond all precedent. The Prince's birthday presents are spread out in the reception room of the castle. Among those on exhibition are Lelenbach's portrait of the Prince, several of the costliest and oldest Rhine wines, half a dozen loaves of Kneipp bread and a table cover in the German colors, a long pipe, 2,000 Cameroon cigars (made in Bibundi), paintings poems and six chests of

At 11 o'clock a messenger arrived at the castle with this dispatch, dated at Abbazia April 1: "I send you my heartiest congratulations. My aide-de-camp, Major Von Moltke, is commissioned to hand you in my name a cuirass. The firm steel of this cuirass, which is designed to lie round your breast, may serve as a symbol of German gratitude which your firm fidelity has brought you, and which I for my part desire to express most vividly. WILHELM, Imperator Rex."

Major Count Von Moltke arrived at the Friederichsruhe station and rode directly to the castle, where Bismarck welcomed him at once and received from his hands the steel cuirass sent by the Emperor.

& Shortly after the arrival of the Ludwigslust dragoons and a deputation from Lower Saxony the Prince retired and put on his belmet and the cuirass sent by the Emperor. At 6 o'clock he appeared in uniform and entered an open carriage at the door and took a drive which lasted about 30 minutes. The enthusiasm of the people passed all bounds. Hundred gathered by the roadside and sang "Die Wacht am Rhein," and "Deutschland Uober Alles." When the Prince reached the castle the great throng which had been steadily increasing since moon, took up the songs and led by the Hamburg singers raised one grand chorus for half an hour. Bismarck entered the castle at 6:30, but the singing continued until 7 o'clock. Dinner was served immediately after Bismarck's return. There were 25 guests present. The number of letters and dispatches received by the Prince is beyond all records of his former birthdays. The messages have been received by the basketful every fifteen minutes during the day. They have come from all parts of the world. At 5 o'clock this afternoon 5,000 letters and 4,580 telegrams had been counted, and the messengers are still busy bringing more. Presents have been brought to the castle so rapidly that it has been impossible to unpack them all. The castle yard looks like a freight depot. It is piled high with barrels, boxes and bundles of all shapes and

"CLERICAL ERRORS" COME HANDY. No one ever expected that Minister Foster would bring down a budget speech that would please every one of the 5,000,000 people who go to make up the tax-paying population of Canada, but it is doubtful if the Minister of Finance ever calculated that the strongest kickers would be found holding seats on his side of the House in Parliament. It is a fact, nevertheless, but do you notice that every kick unearths a clerical error in Mr. Foster's tariff? What a convenient loophole the clerical error furnishes the Government to crawl out of when they discover they have by their proposed tariff legislation hit one of their own followers, or pet manufacturers, in the vital parts, a spot Clarke Wallace once accused the Liberals of knifing Canada in.

Mayor Dargan and other prominent citizens addressed the men and advised them not to make any such demonstration, but to remain perfectly quiet, as the understanding was that Gov. fillman, upon the advice of Gen. Bill to Carry Out the Regulations of the Arbitrators.

The Measure Laid Before the British House of Commons Withdrawn.

Daring Seal Poacher Captured by a Russian Man-of-War.

WASHINGTON, April 1 .- Secretary Gresham has submitted to the Senate committee on foreign relations the draft of a bill intended to carry out the regulation of the arbitrators as to the conduct of the seal fisheries in the North Pacific and Bering Sea. The bill prohibits sealing within a zone of 60 miles around the Pribyloff Islands, and prohibits sealing outside of that zone and including Bering Sea north of 35 north latitude and east of 180 longiinde, between May I and July 31. The use of steam vessels in sealing is forbidden, and masters of vessels are required to render an official statement of seals taken, with penalties for false statements. Nets, firearms, airguns or explosives shall not be used, out shotguns are allowed; United States Indians not employed by other persons and who do not contract with other persons to deliver skins are exempted from the provisions of the act. Fines of not less than $200 or imprisonment of not less than six months, or both, and the confiscation of vessels, cargo, tackle, etc., are prescribed United States District Court of Alaska, California, Oregon or Washington. It is made the duty of the President to sufficient naval force in the scaling waters. offending against the prohibitions of this act or the regulations thereunder may be seized and detained by the navy or other duly commissioned officers of her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain, but when so seized and detained they shall be handed over as soon as practicable, with any witnesses and proofs on board to any naval or revenue officer or other authorities of the United States, whose courts alone shall have jurisdiction to try the offense and impose the penalties for the same; provided, nowever, that British officers shall arrest and detain vessels and persons as in this section specified only after, by appropriate legislation, Great Britain shall have authorized officers of the United States duly commissioned and instructed by the President to that end to arrest, detain and hand over to the authorities of Great Britain vessels and subjects of that Government offending against any statute or regulations of Great Britain enacted or made to enforce the award of the treaty mentioned in the title of this act.

Although the submission of the above bill would seem to indicate an understanding that the British authorities are ready to plan, it appears that there are yet stumoling blocks in the way. These are probably due to the urgent remonstrances of their bill in time to be of service this season. Sir Julian Pauncefote has again come forward with a proposition to renew the that in case this is done the British act station a British agent on the seal islands | reflect. to see that our catch does not exceed the maximum of 7,500 skins. If this is accepted it is believed that the closed zone will extend down to the 42nd parallel at the northern boundary of California. So far as can be learned no cause is assigned for the failure to pass the bill this season, and the fate of Sir Julian's last proposition is extremely doubtful.

THE BRITISH BILL TO BE AMENDED. LONDON, April 1 .- As a result of further exchange of views between London and Washington the Attorney-General, Sir Charles Russell, has withdrawn the Bering Sea bill providing for enforcement of the award of the board of arbitration, which he recently introduced in the House of Commons. That will be a great day for civilization, and an example comes to us from the United States. There exist a laborious people who seek their well-being in industry and commerce. Here with us are continual corruption and intrigues from which results ignoble and humiliating struggle."

Fearful Persecution.

Stories multiply of the fearful persecution of Armenians in the Sultan's domains. Here is an example to which there are many similar. Kurds attacked an Amenian village of Herfer and demanded that a beautiful daughter of the priest be delivered to them. The girl, hearing that the villagers intended to comply with the order, and to escape further barbarities, fled with her brother toward Russian territory. The Kurds heard of the escape and followed. In the mountains they overtook them. The brother and sister defended themselves behind a rock until they had fired all the cartridges but two. The sister then threw herself into the arms of her brother and begged him to shoot her with one of the cartridges so that she might not fall into the hands of the Kurds nor see the death of her brother. With the second he should deliver himself from the Kards. This was done, and the sister was killed, but the brother was taken half-dead and delivered to the Turkish authorities. He is now in Astounding Revelations.

The papers of several European capitals have made, within a few days, guarded allusions to an astounding crime, or series of crimes, alleged to have been committed in Belgium. It concerns the head of one of the departments for the Belgium Govern. ment and his wife, who was the daughter of an eminent general, now dead. They are accused of murdering by poison no less than five of their relatives in order to oh. tain large sums of insurance on their lives. Suspicions were aroused over the manner of the death of the brother of the accused woman early in the present month. This led to an investigation by the insurance company with startling results. The account of the discoveries sent by a Brussels correspondent is confirmed by the officers of the Guardian Insurance Company, of London, which prompted the inquiry. The young man was insured a few weeks before his death far $20,000 for the benefit of his sister. He died suddenly, March 6, at the residence of his sister and brother-in-law in 136 DUNDAS STREET

It was learned that there had been four similar deaths in the same house within four years. The victims are all relatives, each carrying a fresh insurance of $20,000 or $30,000. Their bodies were also disinterred this week and poison is said to have been found in some, but the analyses are not completed. Arrests have not yet been made but will follow soon. The suspected persons move in the highest circles and their reputation has hitherto been untarnished.

A Wonderful Musical Discovery. The keenest interest is manifested throughout Europe over reports of the reproduction of Apollo's hymn at Athens Thursday. The news has already been cabled, and making due allowance for sentimental enthusiasm over the resurrection of the harmony which has been buried for 2,000 years, the accounts agree in ascribing the highest musical merit to the melody. One correspondent declares that everyone present was ravished by the charm of the music, its mingled originality, simplicity and grandeur. The hymn occupied a quarter of an hour in its presentation, and was sung by a choir with piano accompaniment. The king was overcome with emotion and requested a repetition.

Milwaukee A. P. As. Attempt to Break Up a Meeting. MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 11 .- About 30 Polish members of the American Protective Association to-night broke down the doors of the St. Vincent Catholic school on Sixteenth avenue with axes and hatchets. The St. Vincent branch of the Catholic Columbian League, organized to counteract the A. P. A. agitation in this city, was holding a meeting in the hall and had locked the doors.

This aroused the anger of the Polish A. P. As., who were determined to break up the meeting. Arming themselves with axes, hatchets and knives, they proceeded to the school hall, and after having broken down the doors made a vicious assault on their fellow-countrymen assembled in the hall. The latter were prepared for the attack

THE OPEN FORUM.

Facts for the Consideration of Working-

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: It is an old maxim and worthy of acceptation, that it is well to look before you leap. This maxim has not been observed by workingmen in the United States nor in Ontario-many being induced by false pretenses to become members of societies known in the United States as the American Protective Association, and in Ontario as the Protestant Protective Association.

These associations would be more correctly termed destructive associations, for such is the influence they are expected to have by the promoters on labor organizations. This is the opinion of nearly all leaders of labor organizations in the United States. Many of them have expressed these opinions with no unshooting of William Wilson, an American | certain sound. One of them says: "The citizen, by the acting governor of Rama, in | so-called American Protective Association is the production of a combination of capitalists for the purpose of creating dissensions in labor organizations, by arraying Catholics against Protestants, and vice versa, and by so doing destroy the workingman's present safeguard and hope for the future, viz., organization." Another leader says: "The American Protective Association is causing much bad feeling in the stage as Ludella Perry, of Erie, Mich., our order and must receive attention at our next convention to prevent disruption." morning by taking morphine. The act was These deductions must be apparent even to those of the dullest comprehensions, who have been duped into becoming members of the Protestant Protective Association, while this association cannot fail in having the same disastrous effect on labor organizations as its American progenitor. But such was not the intention of Mr. W. Meredith's friends when they imported the fraud into Ontario. It was introduced here for a far different purpose, viz., to enable the Opposition to plot and plan in secret for the purpose of defeating the Liberal Government at the approaching elections. But this cunningly devised scheme will fail like those that have preceded it. For the purpose of proving the P. P. A.'s Conservative parentage let us turn for a moment to its leaders, who are without exception Conservative wirepullers, and who, under cover of the absurd cry of Roman Catholic domination, have induced men of intelligence to become members of the organization.

If we are correctly informed as to the oath sworn to by members of the P. P. A., I am more than surprised that any workingman should be so foolish as to conform to the following part of it, viz., "Nor will enter into any agreement with a Roman Catholic to strike or create a disturbance whereby the Catholic employes may undermine and substitute the Protestants; that in all grievances I will seek only Protestants and counsel with them.' Now, workingmen who are members of the P. P. A., you should certainly see the unfortunate position the above portion of own foolish acts. There is not a large em-employer of labor either in the United States or in Canada, but who would be able to conduct his business solely with Roman Catholic employes or vice versa; After the solo the men joined in singing divided as the P. P. A. divides you, you are at the mercy of combines and capital. The question now is what are you going to do about it? Retrace the path that led you into the trouble until you regain the right path, or will you still blindly follow the false friends until the work of destroying the labor organizations has culminated? It is for you to decide whether the work of 25 years in your interests is to be undone by unprincipled schemers with your assistance in a few months. I have done my duty, it rests with you to do yours.

JAMES THOMSON. Yours truly, LICKED UP BY FLAMES.

A Komoka correspondent says: It will be interesting to your readers to learn that Komoka has furnished not only an historian of some note and a writer who swings a limber pen, but a prophet of considerable importance. "And thou Komoka, in the importance. "And thou Komoka, in the land of Ontario, art not the least among the villages of Middlesex, for out of thee shall come a scribe and a prophet that shall astonish the nations." According to this noted scribe and prophet the neighboring Republic is doomed to destruction, for she is a very proud, haughty, wicked nation. It is the opinion of some that the prophet's late tour off west has something to do with late tour off west has something to do with

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

A Hill bury Couple Wedded After Nine teen Hours' Acquaintance.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., April 1 .- The village of Hillsburg has in its history of 50 years been the scene of some strange and stirring events, but none have come to light surrounded by such romantic interest as the marriage of Mr. Alexander McClung to Mrs. A. J. Sargent, which took place there a short time ago. Mr. McClung is a farmer from Glenelg township, and tiring of bachelor's life he looked about him for a wife. Failing to find a suitable one who was willing he asked a friend for advice. Mrs. Sargent, a widowed lady, who was living as a domestic with a farmer near Hillsburg, was recommended to him as the person suitable.

Acting on the advice of his friend-who turned out to be the lady's father-Mr. McClung wrote to her stating his situation and asking that she appoint a day and a place of meeting for the transaction of business. Promptly by return mail he received his answer, which informed him that she was willing to meet him in Hillsburg on March 15 and accordingly on that evening when the train steamed into the peaceful village it carried with it Mr. McClung. He was met by Mrs. Sargent, who recognized him by a prearranged signal and she conducted him to the house of a friend of hers who lives in the village. After supper the lovers thus brought together began to talk business, but although the question was argued pro and con far into the night and resumed early on Saturday morning, it was 2 o'clock p.m. before the bargain was closed. A minister and a license were straightway sent for, and at 3 o'clock on the same afternoon Rev. R. W. o'clock on the same area. Ballah pronounced them man and wife.

STATE OF TRADE IN THE STATES.

One Grave Element of Uncertainty Cleared Away-A Better Tone. NEW YORK, March 30 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The President clears away one grave uncertainty with his veto. The more confident tone observed this week is partly due to the belief that no disturbance of the currency will be permitted, but other causes helped forward the improvement. Slowly, but yet quite perceptibly, the force at work increases. The approach of spring compels thousands of dealers to replenish stocks, and the aggregate of orders, if smaller than usual at this season, is distinctly larger than in January or February. Except in speculative markets, prices do not recover, and in a few instances have gone lower, but the absence of sensational record-breaking inspires hope that the bottom may have been reached. Business though small, is exceptionally cautious and safe, and its slow gain is more encouraging than a frothy and flighty expansion. Domestic trade continues about 30.4 per cent. less than a year ago. The failures for the week number 238 in the United States, against 166 last year, and 30 in Canada, against 28 last year. BRADSTREET'S. NEW YORK, March 30 .- Bradstreet says: The features of the business week include evidences of increasing volumes of trade at western cities, which are offset by checks to the movement of staple merchandise at other centers, owing to storms and cold weather and by damage to crops caused by the unusually low temperature west, northwest and south. There are 3,699 actual business failures in the United States, failures from which creditors suffered financially, reported to Bradstreet for the first quarter of the current year, 900 more than in the quarter of last year, an increase of 29 per cent. The liabilities amount to $49,085,000, an increase of 20 per cent. The industrial situation is unimproved, although more operatives are employed at leading centers east and south. IN CANADA. The report of 585 actual industrial and commercial failures in the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland during the quarter shows no very striking gain as compared with 582 such failures in the quarter of a year ago. Total liabilities this year are $6,515,000, against $4,788,000 in the quarter last year, and a corresponding increase is noted in assets. Bank clearings for the week, Dominion of Canada: Montreal, $9,449,163, decrease 10.1; Toronto, $3,829,536, decrease 27.4; Halifax, $882,553, increase 24; Hamilton, $472,944, increase 20.9; Winnipeg. $607,-555. Totals, $14,634,195, decrease 14.6.

To Aid Home Rule.

OTTAWA, April 1 .- The Hon. John Cosigan yesterday received from Right Rev. Dr. Cameron, Bishop of Antigonish, a bank draft for $530, being the contribution of the bishop and his diocese to the Irish parlia mentary fund. The proceeds were at once cabled to the Hon. Edward Blake.

Terrible Snow Slides. PORTLAND, Ore., March 31 .- All trains are tied up on the Burke branch of the Union Pacific Railway in Idaho on account of snow slides. There were six slides on Thursday between Burke and Black Bear, each from 1,000 to 2,000 feet in length and from 100 to 2000 feet deep. Nine lives are believed to have been lost. so far have been recovered. All creeks are dammed by the snow and floods are imminent. The road in some places is covered by snow to the depth of twenty feet.

Awful Fight for Life. POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 1 .- An uneven struggle for life was waged for two hours by Joseph Weismiller, who was digging coal for his own use in an abandoned mine. There was a cave-in, and he was buried to his neck by coal, dirt and rock. Only one arm was left free, and he worked this in desperation to keep his face from being covered by loose dirt that was constantly falling. For two hours he kept yelling for help and fighting with his free hand until the flesh was worn off the bones. When rescued he became unconscious, and is out of his mind. No bones were broken, but he is hurt internally. Mann Married Too Much.

STRATFORD, April 1 .- On March 3 Mann, who is a jewelry peddler, eloped with a daughter of Mr. Bryan, a Fullarton farmer, was married in Mitchell, and a few days later was arrested in Buffalo charged with bigamy. He eloped with his first wife, who is a daughter of Geo. J. Frost, janitor of Upper Canada College, in 1889. At his examination before the police magistrate Mann admitted his previous marriage, but claimed to be of the opinion that the fact of not living with wife No. 1 and marrying wife No. 2 was equivalent to a divorce.

Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD. Lowell, Mass.

Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

stated the other day that Lord Aberdeen was present and listened to the debate on the tariff changes. It was Lady Aberdeen who was present while Sir Richard Cartwright spoke. The rule is that the representative of the sovereign must not appear on the scene while the Commoners are at work, though we know of no calamity that would ensue if Lord Aberdeen were to pop into the House of Commons while the members were in session.

CANADA AND THE BUTTER TRADE Australia is said to be gradually supplanting Denmark, France and Sweden in the supply of butter for the British market. The value of this year's imports of butter into Englandamounts to $5,000,000, or about nr times the value of Canadian imports t year. The Trade Bulletin points uch is "the esteem in which the can product is held, that Manchester is now making a bid for this desirable trade which heretofore has been confined to London. At an important meeting of traders held in the Manchester Chamber of Commerce recently, Mr. Dowdall said the development in the export of butter from Australia during the past few years had been something phenomenal, and there was every prospect, from what they had heard that day, of it increasing. Of course the provision trade of Manchester would be glad to divide the sale of colonial provisions with the London importers and merchants, who had the monopoly at present; but until they in Manchester had direct communication with Australia, they would continue to be largely shut out from the trade. The extra freight they had to pay and the commissions at it had been brought forward. present going into the hands of London importers and agents completely shut out Manchester provision merchants from competing against them. There was no doubt, whatever, that the whole provision trade of Manchester would welcome more direct communication with Australia, and they are all deeply interested in the growing provision trade with the colonies. They were fortunate in being in the center of a very large consuming population, and to stand up against Mr. Mackenzie. They they had most favorable opportunities for had no faith in Mr. Marter's ability to distributing the produce when it arrived at carry the riding or they could have had his Manchester. Our commercial contemporary holds that she fault rests entirely with Canada-that her butter products do not command as much attention in the English market as enter the lists against Mr. Mackenzie, and Government aid is extended toward the defeat. It is not probable that the staldevelopment of the dairying interests in wart Liberals of the west riding will fall all the Provinces, more particularly, it may be added, in this Province. To regain its lost prestige, Canadian butter must be marketed as soon as possible after manufacture, while it is fresh, wellcolored, palatable and in good condition enerally. Till this is the rule rather than the exception, we coincide in the declaraion that we will make but small headway the profitable export of butter.

OBJECTIONABLE BONUSING. At a recent meeting in this city complaint was made of the difficulty experienced in obtaining money with which to provide for the neglected children that are the care of the benevolent and the civic authorities. It is somewhat remarkable that while the waifs and strays of this country are so plentiful, the Dominion Government continues to take public taxation and to apply it to bonus professional philanthropists in the old world to send poverty-stricken little children to Canada in order that the rich of that land may be relieved of making provision for their wants and their future. The money so spent could be much better applied to providing for the poor and needy little ones in

LONDON'S TORONTO CANDIDATE. The Free Press is endeavoring to reconcile the people of London to support Mr. W. R. Meredith in the ensuing general elections by stating that he is "a native of London." Perhaps our former fellowtownsman will go down in history as the man who was born in two different coun-

Where a candidate for public office was born, or who his parents were, is of small moment to the electors of London. They have a right to demand, however, that the representative of London shall be a man who has not accepted many thousands of dollars to fight the battles of a rival municipality. That Mr. Meredith has done in accepting the solicitorship of the city of Toronto, with yearly emoluments of $13,-500. First, he deserted this city and took up his residence in Toronto, where he has built himself a handsome residence, and now, after several years of acclimation to his new surroundings, he becomes the paid officer and advocate of a city which is the rival of every other city in the Province, and especially of this western center of trade, commerce and education. It is to be expected that Mr. Meredith will duly carry out the promise which he made when his retention as city solicitor of Toronto was announced-that his new clients (the people of Toronto) should in future have his first consideration.

As to an opponent for Mr. Meredith, there seems to be no doubt that he will be placed in the field in good time. Our city contemporary is needlessly fretting itself on that score. It certainly cannot advance the interests of its Toronto candidate by deliberately misrepresenting the attitude of the city Liberals through its publication of anonymous and ill-founded statements regarding them. And the business men of the city will not thank it if, by its persistent nagging, it forces on London an active of thanks to the executive and to the city will not thank it if, by its persistent nagging, it forces on London an active of thanks to the executive and to the cricus Druss. -Through a typographical error it was campaign, with all its disturbing influences,

> "HIDE AND SEEK" IN WEST LAMBTON.

There is great significance in the decision of the Conservatives of West Lambton on Friday. Mr. Marter, who has adopted so many expedients to push his claims to the Conservative leadership, journeyed all the way from Toronto to retail all the petty objections which he and his associates in the Legislature have conjured up against Sir Oliver Mowat. The man from Muskoka made the most of a bad case. He was quite sure, he affirmed, that Sir Oliver and his Cabinet were very wicked men, and that the people of West Lambton were but waiting to drive them from power.

As Mr. Marter spoke many of those in attendance must have had vivid recollections of a famous declaration by Mr. Meredith in a previous campaign. At Mount Brydges, Mr. Meredith, "pointing his hand to high heaven," as a versatile reporter of a Conservative journal then described it, called for a witness of his vow that when the Legislature reassembled he would impeach the late Hon. T. B. Pardee for the gravest offenses against the State. Parliament was called together, with Mr. Meredith still in the cold shades of Opposition. He was faced by Mr. Pardee, who continued to serve his native land faithfully till he was gathered to his fathers. But no impeachment was ever undertaken by Mr. Meredith. No serious charge was ever promulgated against Mr. Pardee. No serious charge could have been sustained if

It was made apparent from the speech by Mr. Marter and from the subsequent action of the assembled Conservative leaders in West Lambton that they have no more hope of defeating Mr. Chas. Mackenzie, the esteemed successor of Mr. Pardee, than they had in defeating the late Commissioner of Crown Lands or of bringing his administration into discredit. The West Lambton Conservatives could get no one in their ranks candidature without a demur on his part, Ing their magnificent cold store and chill enter the fight. They will try to accomplish by a side wind what they know they cannot hope to attain in a straightforward manly fight. It is understood that they are urging a so-called "independent" to Australia, notwithstanding that they hope by this means to secure his into the trap so adroitly set for them.

IN GREAT TRIBULATION.

(Sarnia Observer.) Tories of East Middlesex met in convention last week and solemnly decided not to name a candidate just yet. Uncle Richard Tooley, the present representative, was on hand, and did his best to secure a renomination, but there were too many of the delegates who felt like coquet. ting with Mr. Wm. Shore, the Patron candidate, so Uncle Richard had to possess his soul in patience. Since then Mr. Shore made a speech at a public meeting in which he declared if "he owned a hundred acre arm, all paid for, he would just manage to live on it." This state of affairs he charged to Government mismanagement. Uncle Richard's friends are denouncing Mr. Shore for his fatal frankness in execrating the N. P., and the London Tory organ is doing its best to make the nomination of that gentleman by a Tory convention an impossibility.

A PROFITABLE CONFERENCE

Of Sunday School Teachers at Dundas Center Church-Interesting Topics.

In response to invitations sent out by the executive committee of the Dundas Street Methodist Sunday school nearly 100 officers, teachers and friends of the school assembled in the church parlor last evening. The first part of the evening was devoted to a series of five-minute papers on various phases of Sunday school work presented by well-known Sunday school workers, a timekeeper with a bell seeing that none overstepped the limit. Refreshments were served at 9 c'clock and an hour spent in social chat. Following was the programme of the first hour as introduced by the chairman, D. A. McDermid, superintendent of the school: Address of welcome, W. Yates, assistant superintendent; "What I know about managing a mission Sunday school," T. W. Birks; "How to conduct a bible class successfully," T. B. Escott; "How to keep our boys in the school," R. MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

"TRUE IRISH HEARTS." "True Irish Hearts," an Irish play full of the wit of the Emerald Isle, with much beautiful scenery and specialties enough to make an excellent entertainment, will be the attraction at the Grand on Wednesday. The scenery is natural and the setting realistic, while humor and pathos run alternately through the play, making it interesting from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The catchy music, dancing and specialty features introduced enliven the action of the play, and there is not one dull moment. Many scenes in Ireland are naturally portrayed and the characters represented to a fault. The light and shade of the rapidly-varying scenes of the deepest interest render this entertainment a most acceptable pastime.

"GLORIANA" TO-NIGHT. An evening of finished and furious fun can be enjoyed at the Grand to-night, when Emily Bancker and a strong company will present that most pronounced of comedy successes, "Gloriana," a play by Edward Mortimer, of the comedy farce order. "Gloriana" is said to be a "joy forever," this term having been applied to it by one of the most accomplished of New York critics. Its fun is incessant and produces one continuous roar of laughter from the rise until the final curtain. It is full of delightful bits of character acting, and the company producing it is credited with making more distinguished individual hits than any that has appeared in New York in a long time. Geo. W. Barnum, the leading man, has a big reputation as an actor of brilliant methods and marked versatility. Emily Bancker, as the gay and indiscreet widow Gloriana plays the part with such exquisite refinement and intelligence as to win for her emphatic indorsement from ali who have seen her in this role. The rest of the cast is composed of artists of well known ability.

The penalty for piling upon men when down will be fifteen yards. In fair catches the man thrown shall be given fifteen yards. Flying and momentum mass-plays shall not be allowed. Rule four deals with the drop kick, and an emphatic effort will be made to encourage this style of play. Insistence upon actual kicks when called for by the rules will be enforced. There will also be a material change in the scoring of points. Instead of a touchdown with a goal counting six points, it will hereafter count only three points. A down failing goal will count only two points, and a safety only one point. In case of a tie the side which kicked the greatest number of goals from touch-downs

London, April 1 .- The question of the destruction of the House of Lords as a hereditary legislative body is rapidly gaining strength, and is in a much more vigorous condition than its most ardent supporters have had reason to expect. The Hon. William St. John Freemantle Broderick, M. P. for Surrey, the Hon. George Nathaniel Curzon, M. P. for Southwest Lancashire, and Viscount William P. Wolmer, M. P. for West Edinburgh, all heirs to peerages, are living in daily dread of the elevation to the Upper House, and to mitigate their fate they have prepared and given notice of a bill to change the present order of things, which removes a member from the House of Commons upon his succession to the peerage. The bill prepared by these gentlemen provides that any person elevated to the peerage shall have the option of remaining in the House of Commons if he be a member of that body at the time of his accession to the House of Lords, or of offering himself as a candidate for election to the House of Commons in The Toronto club has secured the services preference to taking a seat in the Upper England treats her peers in a manner similar to the punishment inflicted upon these malefactors. But even so the condemned felon has the better of it. He is walled up so ightly that he is physically suffocated within a few hours and his misery ends. In the case of the peers they are condemned to a walling up that inflicts political strangulation upon the victims for the remainder of their lives." WIDESPREAD COMMENT EVOKED.

The announcement of the provisions of the proposed bill, and the publication of the appeal signed by the framers of the measure, have excited widespread comment. The Radicals admit that if the bill were to become a law it would deplete the House of Lords of all of the ablest men in that body and leave it without a shred of politican vitality; but they also contend that the Lords would still be able, when their hereditary privileges should be assailed, to offer as much resistance to the House of Commons as they are enabled to do under the present condition of things. captain, W. G. Owens; first lieutenant, G. | ability, and such deprivation would inevitably lead to the extinction of the House of Lords as a legislative body. They are mindful, too, of the indisputable fact that whatever authority, legislative ability and statesmanship still apper-tains to the House of Lords is due to the presence in that body of statesmen who have received their training in the House of Commons, and the very next election after the passage of the bill would find every one of the recognized leaders of the House of Lords seeking indorsement of the voting classes for a seat in the representative body. A LIVE ISSUE. The bill will have a very small chance of being discussed in the House of Commons during the present session. Now that its purport has been made public it will infallibly receive sufficient attention in the columns of the newspapers and on the platforms at public meetings to prevent its becoming a dead issue before the House of Commons can reach it. The measure obtained a place near the bottom of the calendar, and is far in the rear of a mass of public and private bills that must be disposed of before it can be taken up. The possibility is suggested, however, that before Mr. Broderick becomes Lord Middleton, Mr. Curzon succeeds to the title of Viscount Scarsdale, and Viscount Wolmer becomes Lord Selborne, their proshall have one point added to its total posal may be embodied in a drastic law

ABOLISHING THE VETO POWER of the House of Lords. The Radicals will raise no objection to peers sitting in the House of Commons if the law that permits them to sit as Commoners also destroys the principle of hereditary legislation. Both Mr. Broderick and Mr. Curzon are excepceptionally able men, and each aspires to the loccupation of a high office under the next Government. Mr. Curzon even entertains the ambition to become the Conservative leader in the House of Commons. THE ABOLITION LEAGUE.

The basis of the Duke's demand for the appointment of the Duke of Connaught is the principle that the chief command of the army ought to be held by a prince of the blood royal. There was a large attendance and the Cigarmakers' Union, No. bearers were chosen from that organization. They were: Frank O'Neil, William Johnson, Frank Hornsby, Martin Morkin, hail on Carling street to-day and to-James Donnelly and Patrick Sherlock. Police Court Notes.

John Tomlinson, a Clarence street hotelkeeper, was at the Police Court this morning charged with breach of the license commissioners' resolutions. On the night of March 23 Mr. Tomlinson closed his bar at the usual hour, but his bartender, Mr. Balkwell, remained in the room to "clean the same time Tomlinson entered by the rear door, and these two incidents happening as they did together alarmed the bartender so much that he retreated to the cellar. As there were no other persons overhauled and handsomely improved. in the bar at the time the case was withdrawn.

Noble Cook and Patrick Crolley had been charged by Alfred G. Stroyan with ill-treating a horse, but as the complainant did not appear the case was dismissed. A youthful bicycle rider made his first ap. pearance for breach of the bylaw, but was discharged with a warning.

Smashup on the C. P. R. The C. P. R. way-freight, which left this city on Saturday morning for Toronto, met with an accident near Dixie, a small village about ten miles this side of the Queen City. As the train was pulling into that place about 5 o'clock an axle broke, resulting in the derailing of ten cars. Fortunately no person was hurt. The train was in charge of a London crew under Conductor Owen Mulvey. The local auxiliary was sent out yesterday morning, and it was not until 10 o'clock last night that the tracks were

April Fool Joke.

An April fool joker played a troublesome trick on several local coal and wood dealers this morning. On Saturday each received a postal card on which was a request to send a ton of coal and half a cord of wood to "Mrs. Brown, 33 Stanley street, South London." This morning Stanley street held more coal and wood rigs at one time than it has in a large number of years. Everybody was looking for Mrs. Brown and 33 Stanley street. When they found that there was no such address, and incidentally learned that they were basking under an April sun they tumbled to the fact that somebody had been sold. Dealers in the west end also received orders by mail to send wood and coal to a fictitious address in East London.

About 1840 he removed to Markham, where he remained but a short time, coming west to what was known as London-a small hamlet consisting of a few log houses. Here Mr. Anderson remained a few years, when he took up farm land near St. Johns. For twenty years his attention was occupied on the farm, and accumulating considerable wealth, he again took up his residence in the city, occasionally working at the carpentering. Deceased leaves two sons-Edward, of Dundas street east, and John, of Cleveland-and one daughter, Ada, who resides at home. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

Mrs. M. Angus, a native of Suffolk, England, died at the residence of her son, Mr. Maxwell Angus, 904 Elias street, this morning. Deceased had been a resident of London and St. Marys upwards of 40 years. Four sons and two daughters are left to mourn the loss of a loving and devoted mother. Maxwell lives in this city and the three other sons reside in California, Saginaw, Mich., and the Northwest respectively, and the daughters are Mrs. Williams, of Brantford, and Mrs. Herrington, of Toronto.

BULLY VS. BLUECOAT.

Desperate Struggle Between a Toronto Policeman and a Tough.

TORONTO, April 1 .-- Last evening as Policeman John Egan was making an arrest at the corner of Elizabeth and Hagerman as an expectant hush came over the constreets, Peter O'Brien, a notorious tough, assaulted the officer and attempted a Egan released his hold on his prisoner and gave chase to O'Brien, who sought shelter in the house of his sister, Mrs. Lyons, Hagerman street. The officer followed him into the house, and here a desperate conflict took place.

O'Brien resisted arrest so fiercely that Egan was obliged to draw his baton. The first blow was dealt with such force that the baton flew in fragments. O'Brien then seized a large lamp and struck the officer a nearly five inches long and two inches on it.

Mrs. Lyons here interfered by throwing herselt on to the back of the officer, who. was so blinded with blood that he was un able to help himself. C'Brien seized a sec ond lamp, but seeing the already helples condition of the officer he made his escape. Egan was assisted to No. 2 police station, where his wound was dressed. The wound will not be fatal unless erysipelas sets in. O'Brien had not been captured up to a late

Conference, lectures in Dundae Street Methodist Church Tuesday night, on 'Carey, the Pioneer Missionary," under the auspices of the mission circle. Mr. Ross is a former pastor of thechurch. Rev. W. J. Clark, First Presbyterian Church, prefaced his sermon Sunday evening by briefly replying to a question asked him by a young man, "Is it right to attend the theater?" It could not be answered by simple "yes" or "no," said he. He did not think any church or convocation, preacher or priest, had the right to lay down a specific rule in regard to such a question. It must be looked on in a personal relation. One must ask himself: "Is attendance at the theater making me a better Christian?" There was another aspect to it-the effect of one's example If by yielding to the inclination to attend the theater a person thought Mr. Peter Anderson, a pioneer of the his example was injuring somebody else Forest City, died at his residence, 745 Elias | then he should resist the temptation for the sake of his influence upon others. There and pleasure and might do a man good, and he believed a strong Christian might attend a play of that kind. But it was a universal rule that the habitual theater-goer was not the best kind of man or woman. Judging from the posters and in other ways, his impression was that the majority of plays were distinctly immoral. The financial side was also important. Many people were willing to pay $1 or $1 50 to the opera and would begrudge 25 cents to send the Gospel to the poor heathen.

The evening congregation was very demonstrative, and applauded and laughed outright once or twice. Incidentally he told of his two years' fight with the grip and his cure by taking the waters at Clifton Springs. He felt like a new man the very next day, and could eat and drink as of yore. "I may just say this," said the preacher,

But if I get the grippe and can neither drink coffee, nor milk, nor tea-but by the way the very first day after I got cured I wanted meat. So that's all right. You can count me on the temperance line absolutely again-

The latter part of the doctor's sermon was directed against church exemptions, and the speaker pointed out the fact that churches in Toronto and American cities made a habit of buying a whole block of terrific blow on the head, inflicting a gash | church land and selling and speculating that an affidavit be taken. The attorney complied and the stranger made this deposition: "I, Robert Dutton, being first duly sworn on my solemn oath, do say and depose that I, and I alone, did kill a farmer and his wife, who were old people, and are the same people as one MacWherrell was a short time ago found guilty of murdering at Brampton, Canada. I swear that the man MacWherrell, who has just been found guilty, does not know any more about the killing of the old farmer and his wife than if the judge himself was accused. I have just seen an account of Mac-Wherrell being sentenced to be hung in June, and I make this statement in the hope that it may be the means of saving from the dreadful death of being hung a man who is utterly guiltless. The other man, Walker, cannot know anything about it, for, as I said before, I did it alone, and am guilty alone. The farmer was called Williamson, or some name like that,

Mr. Stevenson, the attorney, dared not undertake to stop Dutton, but as soon as the office door was closed he stepped to the telephone and rung up the chief of police, J. W. Ponsford. There was some delay before the officer could be informed, and Dutton made good his escape. Sheriff Caldwell and his deputies and the chief of police and entire force started out in search of Dutton. But thei search has been unavailing. Stevenson says that Dutton is rather tall, that he wore a dark suit and was fairly well dressed. He weighed about 175 pounds, had a stubby, unkempt beard and very bright eyes. Dutton was in the office with Notary Stevenson about 25 minutes. During that time he seemed nervous and excited. He asked Mr. Stevenson to send his deposition to MacWherrell's attorney. He said he thought the attorney's name was Robinette, or some such name. Mr, Stevenson sent the deposition by mail. Mr. Stevenson is himself a Canadian, and with others of this city is familiar with the published accounts of the crime which Dutton confesses, as well as the trial that was so lately finished. The Missing Steamer Ems Turns Up-Broke Her Screw.

LONDON, April 2 .- The North German Loyd steamer Ems which sailed from Bremen for New York on March 17 was towed into Fayal, Azores, this morning by the British steamer Wild Flower, from Wilmington. The propeller screw of the Ems broke a few days after she left South. ampton on March 18, and the big ship was forced to proceed as best she could under canvas until the Wild Flower was sighted and took her in tow. A steamer will be sent to Fayal to take the passengers of the Ems to New York.

"Turn to the Right."

Pausing in the shadow of the house while man might count ten, I impressed on my memory the position of the particular window which bore the knot; then I passed quickly into the street, which was still full of movement, and for a second, feeling myself safe from observation in the crowd. stood looking at the front of the house. The door was shut. My heart sank as I saw this, for I had looked to find it still open.

The feeling, however, that I could not wait, though time might present more than one opportunity, spurred me on. What I could do I must do now, at once. The sense that this was so being heavy upon me, I saw nothing for it but to use the knocker and gain admission, by fraud if I could, and if not, by force. Accordingly I stepped briskly across the kennel, and made for the en-

When I was within two paces of the steps, however, someone abruptly threw the door open and stepped out. The man did not notice me, and I stood quickly aside, hoping that at the last minute my chance had come. Two men, who had apparently attended this first person down stairs, stood respectfully behind him, holding lights. He paused a moment on the steps to adjust his cloak, and with more than a little surprise I recognized my acquaintance of the morning, M.

I had scarcely time to identify him before he walked down the steps swinging his cane, brushed carelessly past me, and was gone. The two men looked after him awhile, shading their lights from the wind, and one saying something, the other laughed coarsely. The next moment they threw the door to and went, as I saw by the passage of their light, into the room on the left of the

Now was my time, I could have hoped for, prayed for, expected no better fortune than this. The door had rebounded slightly from the jamb, and stood open an inch or more. In a second I pushed it gently from me, slid into the hall, and closed it behind

The door of the room on the left was wide open, and the light which shone through the doorway-otherwise the hall was darkas well as the voices of the two men I had scen, warned me to be careful. I stood, scarcely daring to breathe, and looked about me. There was no matting on the floor, no fire on the hearth. The hall felt cold, damp, and uninhabited. The state staircase rose in front of me, and presently bifurcating, formed a gallery round the place. I looked up, and up, and far above me, in the dim heights of the second floor, I espied a faint light-perhaps the reflection of a light.

A movement in the room on my left warned me that I had no time to lose, if I meant to act. At any minute one of the men might come out and discover me. With the utmost care I started on my journey. I stole across the stone floor of the hall easily and quietly enough, but I found the real difficulty begin when I came to the stairs. They were of wood, and creaked and groaned under me to such an extent that, with each step I trod, I expected the alarm. Fortunately all went well until I passed the first corner—I chose, of course, the left-hand flight—then a board jumped under my with a crack which sounded in the empty hall, and to my excited ears, as loud as a pistol-shot. I was in two minds whether I should not on the instant make a rush for it, but happily I stood still. One of the men came out and listened, and I heard the other ask, with an oath, what it was. I leant against the wall, holding my breath.

"Only that wench in one of her tan-trums!" the man who had come out answered, applying an epithet to her which I will not set down, but which I carried to his coming face to face presently. "She is quiet now. She may hammer and hammer, but-

The rest I lost, as he passed through the doorway and went back to his place by the fire. But in one way his words were of advantage to me. I concluded that I need not be so very cautious now, seeing that they would set down anything they heard to the same cause; and I sped on more quickly. I had just gained the second floor landing when a loud noise below-the opening of the street door and the heavy tread of feet in the hall-brought me to a temporary standstill. I looked cautiously over the balustrade, and saw two men go across to the room on the left. One of them spoke as he entered, chiding the other knaves, I fancied, for leaving the door unbarred; and the tone, though not the words, echoing sullenly up the staircase, struck a familiar chord in my memory. The voice was Fresnoy's!

CHAPTER X.

The certainty, which this sound gave me, that I was in the right house, and that it held also the villain to whom I owed all my misfortunes-for who but Fresnoy could have furnished the broken coin which had deceived mademoiselle?—had a singularly inspiring effect upon me. I feit every muscle in my body grow on the instant hard as steel, my eyes more keen, my ears sharper—all my senses more apt and vigor-ous. I stole off like a cat from the balus-trade, over which I had been looking, and without a second's delay began the search for mademoiselle's room; reflecting that though the garrison now amounted to four, no need to despair. If I could release without noise-which would to pass through the hell by a tour de of one kind or another. And a churchck at this moment striking five, and rending me that we had only half an hour o do all and reach the horses, I was the ore inclined to risk something.

The light which I had seen from below

nung in a flat-bottomed lantern just beyond the head of the stairs, and outside the en-trance to one of two passages which apeared to lead to the back part of the house. uspecting that M. de Bruhl's business had in with mademoiselle, I guessed that the ght had been placed for his convenience. Vith this clue and the position of the winow to guide me, I fixed on a door on the ight of this passage, and scarcely four paces rom the head of the stairs. Before I made ny sign, however, I knelt down and ascerained that there was a light in the room, d also that the key was not in the lock. So far satisfied, I scratched on the door with my finger-nails, at first softly, then with greater force, and presently I heard someone in the room rise. I felt sure that the person, whoever it was, had taken the alarm and was listening, and putting my lips to the keyhole I whispered mademoiselle's name.

A footstep crossed the room sharply, and I heard muttering just within the door. I thought I detected two voices. But I was impatient, and, retting no answer, whispered in the same manner as before. "Mademoiselle de la Vire, are you there?" Still no answer. The muttering, too, had stopped, and all was still—in the room, and in the silent house. I tried again. 'It is I, Gaston de Marsac,' I said. 'Do you hear? I am come to release you.' I spoke as I dared, but most of the sound seemed to come back on me and wander in suspicious murmurings down the staircase. This time, however, an exclamation of surprise rewarded me, and a voice, which I recognized at once as mademoiselle's, answered softly:

"What is it? Who is there?" "Gaston de Marsac," I answered. "Do you need my help?"

The very brevity of her reply; the joyful

sob which accompanied it, and which I detected even through the door; the wild ery of thankfulness-almost an oath-of her companion-all these assured me at once that I was welcome-welcome as I had never been before-and, so assuring me, braced me to the height of any occasion which might befall.

"Can you open the door?" I muttered. All the time I was on my knees, my attention divided between the inside of the room and the stray sounds which now and then came up to me from the hall below. "Have you the key?"
"No; we are locked in," mademoiselle

answered,
I expected this. "If the door is bolted inside," I whispered, unfasten it, if you

They answered that it was not, so bidding them stand back a little from it, I rose and set my shoulder against it. I hoped to be able to burst it in with only one crash, which by itself, a single sound, might not alarm the men down stairs. But my weight made no impression upon the lock, and the opposite wall being too far distant to allow me to get any purchase for my feet, I presently desisted. The closeness of the door to the jambs warned me that an attempt to prise it open would be equally futile: and for a moment I stood gazing in perplexity at the solid planks, which bid

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Con-quered.—A Great Medical Triumph. GENTLEMEN, - My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat any-thing with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. violating the sanitary laws. Fischer for the past year has been running a sausage factory, but no one ever heard of a pig being brought there. Old and decrepit horses were made into fresh country sausages and shipped to New York and Philadelphia. The factory has been in operation

Fischer is said to be very rich. He conducted a similar factory at Newton Creek and was raided by the health officers, fined and his place closed. He owns a fine residence near his tactory and spends money like water. Several weeks ago he owned the finest team of fast horses in the county. They ran away and threw him out. When the horses were caught he drove them down to the factory. He ordered his men to kill them and grind them into sausage. He watched the proceedings with joy.

Emigration Falling Off. WASHINGTON, April 1 .- Official figures show that the number of immigrants entering the port of New York since Jan. 1 up to March 25 this year, as compared with the corresponding period of last year, had decreased 16,767. Superintendent Stump says this decline is due to dull times and strict enforcement of immigrant laws. Ocean steamship lines report that the number of immigrants booked by them for the

THE HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE.

"The hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rules the world,"
Ye advertisers, one and all,
With banners wide unfurled, Beat loud your drums, and carol forth Your trumpets wild and clear, Your trumpets wild and clear,
To catch the weman's optic,
And to chain her listening ear.
For while her hubby's poring
Over "crops" and "stocks on 'Change,"
Her eyes, with eager searching.
Near the "bargain columns" range;
While to earn the coin he's planning,
How to spend it is her aim;
Then excite her curiosity. Then excite her curiosity, And yours shall be the game. While her right hand rocks the cradle, Swaying gently at her knee, The left upholds the "daily," Its "ads" to better see. And after baby quietly
Has gone to slumberland,
You'll surely find her hovering
About your "bargain stand." So blazon forth your banners, Let them flaunt against the skies, And don't forget the woman When you aim to advertise.

Only the prompt action of the fire brigade saved the premises. Ex-Ald.

Winnett owns the property. -Numerous complaints have been received of late of the conduct of a crowd of boys who nightly congregate at the corner of Blackfriars and Center streets, London West. They hold the fort until the appearance of the village constable, when they generally make for their respective homes or the outskirts of the village. The names of the youths are known, and if they repeat the offense they can count on an appearance before Squire Lacey.

The New Manager. A Windsor dispatch dated Saturday says: "Last night a number of the employes of the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railroad presented C. C. Young with a silver tea service. The reason for the presentation was that Mr. Young, who has been train dispatcher at Walkerville, has been appointed manager for the London and Port Stanley Railroad, which will be taken over by the Lake Erie road in a few weeks. Mr. Young will remove with his family to London.

Calverley's Condition. Calverley, the plucky rope-walker, is still very much under the weather. So long and protracted has been the poor fellow's illness that the money he saved in his risky profession has entirely run out. It has been proposed to get up a benefit in his behalf. On Wednesday Dr. Sweetnam, of Toronto, again opened the right arm, which refuses to heal, and scraped the bone. The doctor expects that the operation will prove successful, but it will be June under the most favorable circumstances before he will be able to get out. Meantime he continues hopeful and bears his suffering with marvelous fortitude.

The Late Richard Gough. By the death on Saturday of Mr. Richard Gough, of this city, an old and esteemed settler of London township, passed away. Mr. Gough was born in Herefordshire, England, in the year 1799. He received a liberal education, learned the trade of cabinetmaker, and was drafted for the King's service in 1815, but Napoleon having been defeated the drait was never called upon. Mr. Gough came to America in 1831, and after a residence of ten years in Cleveland, Ohio, came to Canada and settled on con. 6 of London township, where he resided up to within the last fifteen years. He for many years was a local preacher in the Methodist Church, a strong advocate of temperance and a reformer in politics. He took an active part in municipal affairs, and was for several years a member of London East Council. The wife of Mr. Gough died some years ago. There are three sons-Richard and daughter, died some time ago. Thirteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren are also laft.

Exorbit at Book Duties. Rev. Dr. Briggs, head of the publishing house of the Methodist Church of Canada, formerly of the city, referring to the greatly increased duty on books levied by the new Canadian tariff, says: "I view with dissatisfaction the change in the tariff on books of general literature from an ad valorem rate to a specific rate, inasmuch as it means an increase of the cost of those books likely to have the most popular sale in the Sunday schools and in the homes of the masses of the people while lessening the cost of the higher priced books, such as are generally procured only by those well able to afford them."

Dr. S. F. Huestis, controlling one of the big Halifax book establishments, and now visiting in Toronto, says: "Prices of the cheaper books, especially Sunday school literature will have to go up, and the demand will as a result greatly decrease."

London Chinamen Go for a Fast Drive

And Break the Sabbath Instead of a Record-They Went to Vist Their Countryman's Grave-The Police Step In.

Yesterday being the 1st of April, those who could make tools of somebody else and some of those who could not succeeded very well in making jays of themselves. Among the latter was about a quarter section of London's Chinese colony-usually the best behaved Chinamen in the world. As a rule they spend Sunday in the church and Sunday school, wither they go in bands almost invariably in single file, with a seraphic smile on the smooth faces, their books under their arms and a satisfied air born of last week's washing well done and of the fact that "allee samee Melican man" they know enough to observe the Sabbath. But some of the Oriental residents of London did not observe Sunday yesterday, as was their wont. In pretty Mount Pleasant, a mile or two west of the city, there is a lonely Chinese grave, where the first and only Chinaman to die in London lies buried, far from the land of his birth. Whether the spring had anything to do with it the police were not certain, whether last week's washing or tea trade had been more than ordinarily remunerative could not be positively ascertained, but certain it is that shortly after dinner yesterday several Chinamen hied themselves to "Doc" Hunter's livery and "allee sames Melican man" paid out several soapy shekels for three rigs. The Mongol ians were going to visit the lonely grave of their countryman on the hillside and thither they proceeded in true Sabbatarian decorum and mournful aspect, the result of the occasion and inexperience in driving. Upon the lonely grave they planted six eggs, eleven buns, two bouquets and a bag of his journey to the spirit land, for such is the funeral custom in the flowery kingdom, Whether they felt better for the tribute paid the deceased or in having navigated as were adents with the ribbons and complete masters of horsemanship.

Alas! the poor Chinamen. They forget the difference between a livery horse and a clotheshorse, and this act of forgetfulness was their rain. These livery horses were steppers and when the Orientals in one rig tried to pass the Celestials in the other veterinary surgeon. The pavement was either the horses or the Chinemen objected animal appeared to have been seized with one had dropped a red fing just in front of them. This was on Dundas street on Sunday! Heads protruded out of windows as the rigs flow down the street. In their anxiety to stop the Chinamen drew the horses from one of the street to the other. Timid people thought the wheels would complete the work begun by last year's council and tear up the rails of the street car track. But the track was stronger than the wheels and spokes began to fly. When the rigs reached Colborne and turned north, about eight of these pieces of wood lay on the road, silent witnesses to fast and furious driving. A couple of other witnesses, however, were not so silent. They were P. Cs. Birrell and Toohy, and they followed the unlucky Chinamen with true police instinct. Jung Hing Gane was one of the party, and, as Jung had had experience in American courts in the capacity of interpreter, he gallantly became interpreter for the half dozen badly scared brethren of his. The policemen, by a system of phonetic or sound writing managed to reproduce the names in English. Jue Sing was the other driver. All were "solly, velly solly," over the escapade. Said one, bemoaning his sad fate, "First pay for rig, now pay for bleaks, and then ray police clost, oh! oh!" The whole party will probably be sum-The Chinamen explained to the police that they were driving fast so as to get home in time for Sunday school.

Stage No. 13 Collapsed to the Surprise of Its Thirteen Occupants. (Thursday's New York Sun.)

As stage No. 13, which is on run No. 13 on the Fifth avenue line, was passing Thirteenth street on its uptown trip early vesterday afternoon-the driver, Lewis Wallin, who lives on East Thirteenth street, says it was about thirteen minutes past the hour-the nut on the off hind wheel dropped of. At any rate, just after Fourteenth street had been passed the wheel went off also, and the rear end of the stage went down with a crash, startling the eleven grown peeple and two children who were inside. None of them were injured, but several were angry. One woman blamed the company for not having examined the stage carefully enough before sending it out; another blamed herself for ever getting into a stage with the number 13 on it, and still another. who had a lot of packages in her arms, found that there were just thirteen of them, and said she might have known that something would happen to her.

Upon investigation it was found that one of the children of the party was 13 years of age. The stage was about thirteen years old, also, having been used by the former Fifth Avenue Stage Company, and it had thirteen windows in it. The driver said he thought one of the horses was about 13 years old, but was not sure as that would be pretty young for a Fifth avenue stage horse. He did know, however, that there had been only thirteen fares put in the box on the uptown trip.

A new nut was soon obtained and the stage finished the day without accident.

LONDON, Aug. 30, 1889.

Ich Tourist Hard Campon, Aug. 30, 1889.

To Mr. Williams:

It is not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to you and the suffering world that I add my testimony with the many you have already received. Royal Crown Remedy cannot be too highly praised; it has saved my life. For nine years I suffered extremely with Dyspensia and Liver Complaint and could not retain anything at all onmy stomach without excessive vomiting. Erysipelas set in, which confined me to my bed. Doctors could do me no good. I also tried many other plans with no success. I was induced by Mr. Issac Williems to try his medicine, which I did after much persuading, Three bottles completely cured me and for twelve years I had no symptons of return. Your medicine is worthy of praise. I advise all suffering humanity to try it for it is the best. It should be used until the cure is complete. used until the cure is complete.
