

ANOTHER COSTLY EXPERIENCE SRC APPROVES BIG "HANDOUT"

In a surprise move, and a "gesture of goodwill", at the SRC Meeting last Monday night, President Preston Thom introduced a motion, that, for the current year, St. Thomas students be allowed to participate in all UNB clubs and activities under the SRC constitution upon payment of club dues by each student. The sole exception made was the spring production of our Drama Society, to which St. Thomas students will have to pay the regular admission. The council passed the motion, which in effect, hands over to St. Thomas for nothing the privileges, which under Article VIII, Section 11 of our Constitution, a UNB student who does not pay his SRC fees can not have.

With 299 students, no Student Center, and moving problems, the St. Thomas administration has allowed its Student Union a $5,400 preliminary budget estimate; these funds being extracted from tuition fees at a little less than $20 a head. Most of the $5,400 the Union has spent financing their Yearbook, the Aquinian, the Debating Society, a religious organization, and the House Committee. Little remains for the kind of activities and clubs in which our students are able to indulge with an SRC budget, even after extraction of the $10 SUB levy, well in the excess of $50,000. A senior St. Thomas student, commenting on this stated that many St. Thomas students think that the privileges of the big campus are available to them for nothing. About 60 STU students are from the Miramichi district, which makes them eligible for a $300 "transition grant" from the provincial government that is annually renewable for five years.

UNB Council member, Bob Bancroft, one of four members who opposed the motion, stated that, in his opinion, it was not a fair deal, and that, although a financial agreement should have been made at the first of the term, one should still be worked out. "A good intercampus relationship," he said, "would result not from hand-outs, but only if both universities held up their end of the stick." In an interview with Pete Toner, President of the St. Thomas Student Union, it was learned that St. Thomas did not ask for this "hand-out."

Following a St. Thomas Student Union meeting on Friday night, Mr. Toner made a statement for the Brunswickan to clarify the stand of the Student Union of St. Thomas, and "some misunderstanding concerning the terms of this resolution". In it he stated that the Student Union was, and is, willing to pay for any privileges enjoyed by the St. Thomas Students in societies, clubs, or organizations drawing funds from the SRC of UNB; provided that St. Thomas membership in the respective clubs, society or organizations is approved by the Student Union Executive, the SRC, and by the club, society, or organization concerned. Mr.

Toner went on to say that his Student Union was not willing to pay proportionally to the number of St. Thomas students actually participating in the approved clubs. In closing he states that "if a proportional arrangement could be worked out, we would pay accordingly".

Unfortunately no provisions or terms of this kind were included in the SRC's motion, which places Mr. Toner and his Student Union under no obligation to "pay accordingly". As the motion now stands, a non-paying St. Thomas student can take part in activities sponsored by the SRC or organizations subordinate to it for nothing.

THE VOICE OF UNB

RADIO UNB YEARBOOK

Ross MacLeod, Director of Radio UNB, said Monday that it would be possible now, with Radio UNB's modern equipment, to produce a 'Yearbook in sound'. "We were wondering how many students would be interested in purchasing such a record," he said.

"It will be called 'The Groove', and will be one of two prices, $1.50 or $2.00 depending on the deal we can get. The profits on this will amount to about 50¢ a record and will be put into a fund for Radio UNB's new facilities in the Student Union Building. It will be a 12-inch full high-fidelity, monaural LP. It will include the best selections from Red 'n' Black, Freshman Week (e.g.: Stan Wilson), Winter Carnival, and other important UNB activities."

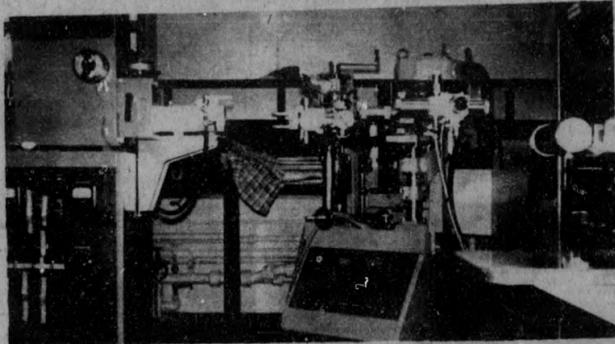

He said that it was thought of last year, and that the SRC said that Radio UNB should look into the possibility of undertaking such a project. In future years the SRC will back the project but Radio UNB would be responsible for it.

"To get an idea of what the record might be like, students can listen to 'University Review' on CBZ Saturday at 12:30 p.m.," he said.

Dorm stripper frowned upon

HAMILTON (CUP)—Action will be taken against students responsible for bringing a stripper into a residence at McMaster University.

The action is a result of a party sponsored by both resident and non-resident students in one of the rooms in the dorm.

The above machine is used to analyse the molecular structure of solids, liquids, or gases, and unknown mixtures, it also has many uses on the theoretical side for research. Professor George Semeluk disclosed some very interesting information regarding this new piece of equipment called a Mass Spectrometer.

The Mass Spectrometer cost approximately $50,000 and was financed by The National Research Council and the University. The machine consists of three units now, a fourth unit, costing $30,000, may be added to increase the usefulness of the machine. The Mass Spectrometer was built by an electronics company in Japan and arrived here in August, it is the fourth in Canada. The only other University to have one is McMaster, the other two being owned by industry.

Dr. Semeluk told us that the comparable American model built by G.E. or Westinghouse would cost $90,000 in Canada and that the one we possess is better-built and designed. Although it looks quite complicated we were assured a high school graduate could be trained to use it.

Dr. Semeluk assured us that our equipment compares favourably with other Universities and that our facilities are used quite extensively. The Mass Spectrometer will also be used by the New Brunswick Research & Productivity Council and possibly by the Geology department.

Students anti Bunnies

CINCINNATI (CUP-CPS) — Seventeen students from Xavier University marched silently in front of Cincinnati's new Playboy Club for two hours, carrying signs bearing the slogans "Hide From Reality Here" and "Do You Want Your Daughter to Be a Play-mate?"

The leader of the group, Thomas Conway, a sophomore from Cleveland, said the demonstrators objected to the presence of the key club because of its connection with Playboy magazine, which he described as "pornographic trash."

"In picketing the Playboy Club," said one student, "we as university students wish to point out that the entire Playboy philosophy not only opposes the basic Judeo-Christian principles of our society but openly advocates their overthrow. We decry Hugh Hefner's 'new morality.' It is nothing but plain old immorality."

Arnold Morton, vice-president of Playboy Club International, told reporters, "The presence of the pickets was embarrassing to some of our guests. We are not immoral."

He said, "Conway has never been inside a Playboy Club. He reflects an uninformed attitude of emotional blindness. 'He is doing what he is told to do by adults.'"

CAMPUS MEN, DON'T GET SICK: YOU DON'T HAVE AN INFIRMARY

The Men's infirmary in LBR no longer exists. This fact came to light when the Brunswickian investigated several recent cases of illness in one of the Residences. The space that used to be the infirmary has now been given over to revenue-producing living space for residents.

In an interview with the Dean of Men, R. H. Grant, it was found that several factors brought about its closing. The primary reason was that it was not being used enough to justify its continued existence. Residents seemed reluctant to use its facilities because it lacked constant, qualified medical supervision and it isolated people from both their work and their friends. The Matron, Mrs. Olive Christian was always willing to make patients comfortable and arrange their meals but her other duties made full time attendance impossible.

Dean Grant stressed that he and other University authorities are very concerned about the lack of health services for men on this campus. He pointed out that plans exist for a Student Medical Service Building that will house treatment rooms, nurses in full time attendance and hospital type rooms for the sick and injured. The plans, unfortunately must await priority to be given them in the University's already extensive building plans. This may take a long time.

In the meantime, Dean Grant laid down these guidelines in case of illness or accident among resident students. First, tell your proctor or don about your condition. The Residents are all equipped to handle minor complaints such as indigestion, headaches, and minor scrapes and burns. If a doctor's help is needed, one should be called and the patient taken to him. Except in dire emergency, doctors prefer that the patient come to him because outside calls interfere with the treatment of other patients. If immediate hospital care is needed, call a Doctor first. The Fredericton Hospital is always operating at its full capacity and treatment may be delayed longer than necessary if a doctor does not authorize immediate admit-

As the delegate from the Dominion of Canada speaks to the UN in the crowded assembly chamber, voicing his view on the problem of the admission of China to the UN, as is evident from this photograph, the delegates in the background are giving full attention to the Canadian's exposition of our government's policy on this matter.

Poor attendance at UN- Red China admitted

Communist China has been admitted to the United Nations replacing the Nationalist delegation there, it was announced Saturday. On the same day, the UN passed a Canadian-made resolution to set up a Peace Force in Viet Nam.

This sudden change in the policy of the United Nations

Organization came as little surprise to people in the Assembly chambers, because this was the WUSC Model UN at UNB, and at this annual event it is the influence of speakers, not government policies, which determines the fate of the world.

Twenty countries were represented at the event which started early Saturday morning and concluded in the afternoon at the end of the China debate. Most delegates thought the event was at least moderately successful.

"The debate was fairly good, but the turnout could have been better," said the delegate from Bulgaria. "I hope the next one, in the spring, or whenever it is, has a greater number of students participating."

At times there were noticeable lags in the debate as delegations hastily prepared rebuttals. "A greater number of participants would have alleviated this," one observer noted.

Under the presidency of Des Green, the program went smoothly. Dick Lindo was Secretary-General, always at the President's side, and expressed his hope that there would be continued successes in the model United Nations.

Tickets for the RED 'N' BLACK REVUE are still available at the Student Centre, and in The Playhouse. $1.25.

tance. In any case of sickness, the first step should always be: notify the don or one of the proctors.

In complete contrast with the health situation in the Men's Residences, are the facilities for treatment and confinement of the fair sex in Lady Dunn Hall. In the course of this inquiry a reporter made a tour of the ladies' infirmary guided by the Dean of Women, Miss Jean Ramsay, and the nurse in charge, Mrs. Mackenzie. Men are not allowed in the infirmary normally and it was empty when this reporter visited it.

The ladies' infirmary may be favourably compared with a ward in a modern hospital. It is a separate section of the building devoted wholly to the ladies' health service. It contains an office, well-equipped treatment area and several comfortable and cheerful rooms. The beds are the type that may be shaped for the patient's comfort and convenience. The nurse, Mrs. Mackenzie is on twenty-four hour call and she lives in the infirmary itself.

The treatment and comfort available to the girls in this infirmary must be seen as a total contrast with that available to the male residents here on the hill.

Attention freshmen: Xmas gift from administration

"The new policy of three exam periods per day applies only to Christmas exams," said the Registrar, Miss E. G. McLeod. The new system has been instituted in order to "reduce the exam period" and it will provide three, two-hour exam periods, with the blood running at the times of 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m., 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

As Miss McLeod said, "It doesn't allow time for cramming . . .", but also, as she said, ". . . it will not affect the people who know their work."

With the official confirmation that this "New Deal" will not affect the May extravaganza, the majority of UNB students will surely have a tremendous sigh of relief.

There has, although, been one remark that may cast some doubt to the wisdom of this new move: "What about the repeating student who is perhaps having his future university career laid on the line? Could this innovation be construed as discrimination against him?"

The above questions will probably have to remain unanswered or wait until the results of this new move are evaluated.

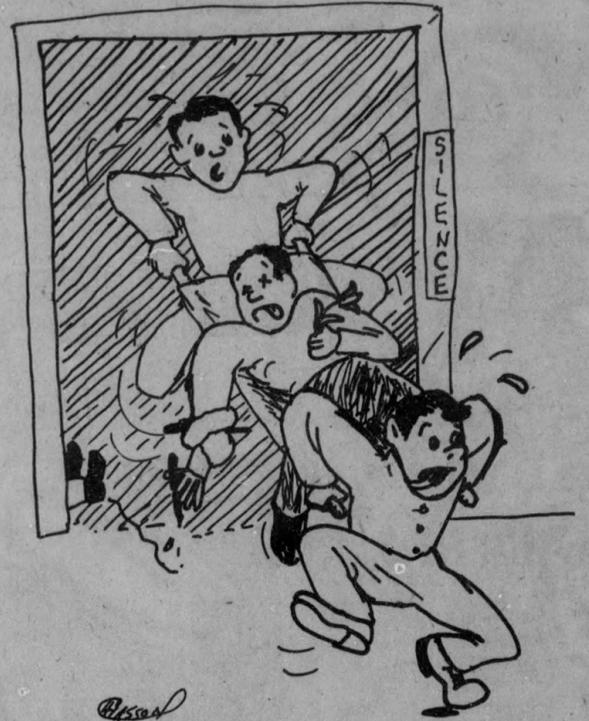

Student center needs policeman

John Shepherd, ticket sales chairman for Red 'n' Black, expressed his view of the problems of selling tickets at the Brunswickan office window.

"People want to know where they can buy student directories, and to find accommodations, they want SRC cards, yearbooks, the Air Canada representative, and sundry other things. They ask to borrow the Brunswickan stapler, to use the Brunswickan telephone, and to use the Brunswickan office as a corridor to the yearbook office. I'm surprised to see that people ask for tickets to the Red 'n' Black."

He informed the Brunswickan, however, that ticket sales were "good", but there are still many seats left. Waiting till the last minute may prove to be foolish, he implied, because ticket sales have been in the hundreds-per-day bracket.

EXAMINATIONS IN PROGRESS

Don't Wait For The Breaks

Go after them. That's how success begins.

At Hawker Siddeley Canada success begins with a 5 year training program of challenging work assignments designed to develop specialist and management skills. Your success may well begin in an interview with the representative of this all-Canadian company employing over 20,000 people.

Challenging positions are available in their steel, steel fabrication, gas turbine, transportation and mining industries as well as in their engineering laboratories. These positions are open to graduates and post graduates in all branches of Engineering, Arts and Commerce.

How about you?

When you join Hawker Siddeley Canada you will start on a satisfying and rewarding career. It could take you, if you wish, to locations in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver and other urban centres across Canada. You can be sure the opportunities will be there for the taking.

Now there's no more misunderstanding?

Following is a statement to The Brunswickan made by P. M. Toner, President of the Student Union of Saint Thomas University, regarding the Thom/McDerby Resolution at the meeting of the SRC on November 16, 1964:

Lady Dunn plot against Murray House!

"There must be something wrong," a pretty co-ed remarked tearfully as she wandered into our office late Saturday night. "We girls in Murray House just don't seem to be getting any calls these days."

A reporter took her into the Brunswickan inner office for a further interrogation. "It can't be because we aren't nice to the boys. We REALLY try to give them a good time. There must be some other reason."

The Brunswickan's reporting staff was called in to investigate the problem. Matt Ford, a student in first year Law, came back from Lady Dunn Hall with the following report: "I tried to get some information from the girl at the desk, but she refused to speak on the matter. After accosting a few LDH co-eds, however, one freshette did break down and told me that there was a conspiracy by a few dozen girls in the residence to 'cut those (censored) out of our territory. We simply changed the Murray House number on all the Student Directory cards."

Checking this out with the New Brunswick Telephone Company, we found her testimony to be correct. "The num-

There appears to be some misunderstanding concerning the terms of this resolution in the minds of some UNB students. To clarify the stand of the Student Union of Saint Thomas University:

(1) The Student Union was, and is, willing to pay for any privileges enjoyed by Saint Thomas students in societies, clubs, or organizations drawing funds from the SRC of UNB provided that Saint Thomas Membership in the respective club, society, or organization is approved by the Student Union Executive, the SRC, and by the club, society, or organization concerned.

(2) The Student Union was not willing to pay a "blanket" fee to the SRC for the privilege of joining any or all clubs, societies, or organizations, but preferred to pay proportionally to the number of Saint Thomas students actually participating in the approved clubs, societies or organizations.

I should like to point out that both the Student Union and the SRC are free to close any or all UNB societies to Saint Thomas Students and that the individual society may discriminate in its membership. During the discussions concerning this topic, Saint Thomas agreed to pay for society membership, but refused to pay on the "blanket" arrangement. It was mentioned that all but $200 of the Union money had been designated prior to the discussions, and the Saint Thomas delegates were unwilling to hand this over for society privileges. It was further pointed out that we expected further revenue, and that if a proportional arrangement could be worked out, we would pay accordingly.

Lively debate... UNB victorious

What might have promised to be a dull debate was transformed into an exciting and humour-filled evening when UNB played host to a British debating team on November 17th at McConnell Hall.

In a dramatic change from normal procedure the audience was given a chance to select the victors and, loyal to tradition, Ed Bell and Desmond Green triumphed over the exiles from England.

The two-man team representing British universities consisted of John Sutherland Thane, Exeter College, Oxford, and David Penrey-Davey, King's College, London, who upheld the affirmative on the resolution "Nationalism is an Anachronism."

An air of friendly hostility pervaded the air as the Irishman from UNB revived an historic feud between England and Ireland. Mr. Green's re-latory speech to the first speaker ended in the exclamation, "I have drunk the wine of Irish Nationalism!" This was prompted by the first British speaker, Thane, relating what seemed a hypothetical tale concerning Mr. Green's uncle.

"One day Mr. Green was roaming the green streets of Dublin with his pet alligator in tow and he dropped into a strange pub. Meandering over to the bar, he whispered to the bartender, "Tell me, kind sir, do you serve Protestants here?" "Certainly sir, we serve anyone," he replied. "Well, then," said Mr. Green, "I'll have a pint of beer for myself and three Protestants for the alligator!"

He continued in his address pointing out some nationalistic trends, one of which had to do with a problem presented to the United Nations, the growing scarcity of elephants.

Various nations produced helpful ideas but four really made a deal of it. Germany produced a five volume treatise on the history of the elephant. Britain brought out a three volume production concerning the sex life of the elephant. A Swede composed an "Ode to an Elephant", but it took Canada to get down to the bare facts with the pamphlet entitled, "Elephants — A Federal, Provincial or Municipal Problem?"

Another nationalistic trend, he said, was sex life. After making love, the following husbands said to their wives,

Russian — "Now, back to the caterpillar tractor."

German — "Goodness me, I'm just dying for a big sausage!"

Frenchman — "Encore, cherie, encore!"

As the first speaker for the negative, Mr. Green stormed onto the floor, seething with pent-up nationalism, and flouted the opposition soundly, marking the turning point in the conflict. With references mainly to Ireland for examples of Nationalism, he discounted the opposition on nearly every point.

The second speaker for the affirmative, Penrey-Davey, denounced Mr. Green and his comments are summed up in these quotations. "Desmond comes to you full to the eyes with prejudice." "I hate their style of debating, because they whirl you away in a swirl of leprechauns and myths." He emphasized that the manifestations of nationalism are dangerous. "Seek more to internationalism, world government is eons away, but it is retarded by nationalism."

Mr. Bell opened his dissertation with, "Someone should tell Winston Churchill and Harold Wilson that nationalism is a thing of the past." Since he was the only Canadian,

Mr. Desmond Green, one of UNB's victorious debator twosome, is seen here expounding his argument "... pizza parlours are subversive...". The British team suffered their first defeat in their tour as the impartial (sic) UNB audience voted resoundingly in favour of Messrs. Green and Bell.

REVUE REVIEWED

This was my fifth Red 'n' Black. Four I saw in the old Teachers' College auditorium. This year, representing the Brunswickan, I saw a dress rehearsal in the Playhouse.

Everything is better. The skits are sophisticated. Some of them, anyway. Anne Murray has a wonderful voice, and the other singers do very well. The Henchmen... well, it goes without saying, but they performed unmatched on Sunday.

This year's kickline was high-stepping, and excellent in two numbers which seem, to me, considerably more complicated than in other years. They kicked high, and on the whole they looked great. This is indicative of the hard work of Mrs. Roberts and the sixteen girls in the line.

Other entertainers in the Revue are to be congratulated for their fine performances.

The new band adds much to the quality of the show. They replace the piano in the pit, and do it very successfully.

The Playhouse, and all its facilities, presented a new challenge to the production staff. They seem to have solved most of the problems, and lighting and sound effects are used to great advantage. The fact that there isn't a bad seat in the house becomes apparent in a musical review like the Red 'n' Black. The sounds big and small, carry to the back rows. If actors in skits talk more slowly, as I am sure they will tonight, there is no reason why every syllable should not carry to the back of the hall.

Most of the credit for what I would call a very successful Red 'n' Black goes to Producer Dave Tilson and Director Gerry Rogers, and the competent staff they organized. When I go again tomorrow night, I expect to laugh again, all the way through as I did on Sunday.

The Maritime attitude: Nothing ventured, nothing lost

We have been reading in New Brunswick's daily newspapers of the plans for the development of large base metal deposits in northern New Brunswick; it may be that these deposits are the biggest in the world. Moreover, there are investors who think that this undertaking is worthwhile and will sink $117 million to back up their claim.

Premier Robichaud speaks of the great steps forward; other provincial politicians echo his sentiments; and businessmen talk of new investment opportunities in New Brunswick and in the Maritimes in general.

This is all very good. No one can be against economic development: it's like being against motherhood or cancer research. But the thing that disturbs us is the fact that this optimism in the future of the Maritimes is not as widespread as the leaders of this area tend to think it is.

In fact there seems to be a whole philosophy of life here in the old "maritimes" that is antagonistic to economic growth. It goes something like this: "We like the slow pace down here. No one is in a hurry like they are in Upper Canada. No sir, very few ulcers down this way; we don't worry about money so much."

There is nothing wrong with this attitude, if the people who like to say this really believe in it. Many of our more affluent Western governments have suffered under the illusion that all countries in the world are concerned with economic development, and have consequently made many blunders when passing out foreign aid. Manufacturing plans have been built when no one wants them; in fact no one will even work in them.

But this is not the case in the Maritimes. The same people who say that they are not worried about money so much are typically those who demand that their provincial governments go after more federal assistance. Few people in our region want to take the risks involved in a new undertaking, but want to share in all the benefits. Now, we won't deny that the Maritimes need more Federal assistance; this is certainly needed. What we can certainly do without, however, is that large group who say they like the unhurried pace down here, but are certainly in a hurry to get another handout.

Unfortunately this attitude does not tell the whole story. While provincial governments have been devoting a lot of attention to the development of industry in the Maritimes other powerful groups are doing their best to discourage new business. The reason for this is quite simple: they don't want competition. We are probably blessed with more back-room-fixers per capita than any other region in Canada. While they profess the benefits of more businesses locating in their area in public, they are active behind the scenes in discouraging any new undertaking which may compete with them.

In essence, what we all must realize is that economic development depends on effective planning by government — which necessarily entails qualified experts — and a public which is optimistic and seriously interested in attracting new industry to this area. We have the former; let us hope that it won't be too long until there are more people in the Maritimes fitting the latter description.

DAN SCANS

Have you ever tried to order anything as simple as two 5x7 prints from the downtown photographic studio? Unless you are of singularly obstinate mind, don't. The central sequence of events goes like this.

"I'd like to have two 5x7 prints made of my graduation photo."

"Name please."

"Mersich, Dan Mersich."

"How do you spell that?"

"M-E-R-S-I-C-H"

"Oh yes, here it is. Now you wanted two 5x7 prints did you? My goodness it seems as though the minimum order for 5x7's is three."

"But I only need two."

"Well, we can only make three, and you can take two of them if you want."

"No, that doesn't sound very good; you see I only need two so there is no sense in paying for three, is there?"

"Well, just a minute and I'll talk to the manager."

It is at this moment that those of weak constitution begin to feel the pressure. "Certainly", they think to themselves, "my magnificent order doesn't require the attention of someone as important as the manager."

"I'm sorry sir, but Mr. Shudder says that you must order at least three."

In an attempt to get the whole unpleasant business over with you offer to buy the negative and have the prints made elsewhere. This, even in the completely dull mind of a salesgirl, is on a par with trying to buy the original copy of the Bill of Rights to show to the Russians as toilet tissue. With an indignant curl in her lip, she says "Just a minute, and I'll give you to Mr. Shudder", leaving no doubt that you have now become chattel, to be given, taken, bought or sold, as your owner sees fit.

Mr. Shudder appears, looking from the backroom doorway looking for all the world like a grizzly bear that's been disturbed from its evening meal.

"Well, you're Mersnik are you?"

"No—No Sir; M-Mersich, M-E-R-S-I-C-H"

"Yes, well that's fine; now I understand that you only want two prints."

"That's right sir."

At this point you are again offered what he makes out to be a grand bargain.

"I'll tell you what, we'll make three prints and you pick up the ones you like most."

You are now so completely rattled that you don't realize all three prints are identical and gladly scoop up this offer, as if it was completely obvious, you consider Mr. Shudder as having done you a great favour. You pay Shudder right

Why don't people TELL me these things

One of the main complaints students here can raise against the SRC and its sub-committees is that a small group of people are "in the know" and have all the information about what's going on, while the rest of us are consigned to the outer darkness outside the privileged circle. Of course it's always possible to find out something IF you know whom to ask and IF you're on good terms with the people you're talking to. Official public announcements about almost any aspect of student activities are few and far between. It takes a lot of determination to wade through the minutes of a Student Council's meeting. More often than not important decisions are given the barest possible mention. Besides, most things that really matter aren't decided in Council at all, but in casual talk and small committee meetings.

Instead of "hard" news, we are forced to rely either on rumour or else to have no idea at all of what's happening. Most committee decisions affecting students don't become general knowledge until weeks or months have gone by. A case in point is the Winter Carnival. For weeks there have been rumours (but nothing official) about changes in the usual schedule of events, about pushing opening night back to Wednesday, and, most alarming of all, stories about the rock and roll singer Bo Diddley. Come clean, Carnival Committee, what are you DOING in there?

This situation is the fault of our SRC representatives. Most of them seem to feel that they have done their duty when they've rubber-stamped the latest request for money. Not one of the members this year takes any pains at all to ask questions at Council meetings.

A few of them are reasonably well informed, but they do their questioning outside Council meetings, so their information remains inside the "charmed circle". This is always a much more comfortable situation for the ruling group since embarrassing questions aren't asked in public, but in private. Whenever there's been anything faintly controversial discussed at SRC meetings this year (e.g. the Entertainment Committee or Wrigley's Communist motion) — most of the questions were asked by spectators, not by Council members.

While it's true that the Carnival Committee is set up as a semi-independent organization, it is still a student activity and we ought to hear what's going on. Council members don't do much to justify their existence. Most people consider them time-serving social climbers, and with good reason. The first thing they can do to lose this reputation is to start asking questions right now. The SRC costs us $54,000 and it's about time we heard a lot more about where the money's going.

Editor:

For the last couple of weeks my name has been prominently involved in a number of articles and letters concerning the entertainment committee and Brandywine Singers fiasco. I feel that I owe the student body a full explanation of the whole since any information heretofore has been scant and not altogether exact.

All bookings were made by myself this summer and for any lack of foresight I am fully responsible. The reasons I didn't wait until school had resumed where I would have had stable outlook on coming events and the feasibility of the contracting any or all of the performers are two-fold. Firstly, I was anxious to get the whole entertainment idea rolling and, secondly, all of these entertainment contracts require signing at least two months ahead of time. When I returned I found that Nancy Ames was booked on Thanksgiving week-end and virtually unknown in the Maritimes. After haggling and bargaining with her agent, Preston Thom and I managed to change the date to the 16th of January. But the Nancy Ames story isn't over yet. She has been paid in full for performance that has not gone on yet and judging by the reception given the Brandywines she is going to have to be changed for a much cheaper entertainer for us to regain our investment.

On to the Brandywines, I signed them for October 24th which unbeknownst to me was the date of the Mount A away football game. All efforts by myself and the SRC to change the performance to the 23rd were quelled by the fact that the Brandywines were appearing in Portland, Maine that evening. For this lack of foresight and planning I assume full responsibility and I have had a lawyer at Limerick and Limerick draw up a declaration of my intent to repay the full loss of $1,428.50 incurred by this mistake. The first payment is to be made on Dec. 31, 1965, the remainder of which is to be covered in six month quarterly payments thereafter.

With regards to the SRC and their interference I have only to say this. On the 21st of October without consulting myself the SRC executive and finance committee decided to reduce the price of the tickets by 40%. At that time we had collected $600.00. After rebates for the reduction in ticket prices and a money collected for additional tickets sold after that time our total receipts totalled a figure in the vicinity of $60.00 less than the $600.00 initially taken in. For this I do not feel morally or ethically responsible because I knew that most people usually wait to the last minute before they buy their tickets. To point this out, on Oct. 16th the Chartbusters were scheduled to appear at the Beaverbrook Rink. On the 21st their promoters had sold some 14 tickets. By the 16th there was a

"The Joker"...Sexy movie

It is the dreamer's fate to remember the trivial details of important events. These may grow into obsessive symbols which demarcate that other private and stylised world. In the JOKER (France 1960), de Broca expresses in realistic and literary terms the dream world of the seducer, that man that is in all of us. Jean-Pierre Cassel plays the seducer with charm and ease and with apparent ignorance of the censorious jealousy with which his type is regarded by some presumably less successful members of the species.

De Broca creates a completely original set, the complexity of which is never fully understood or revealed. The hero moves in the house of Theodore (PALAU) his uncle, through a world of emotional possibilities, his ex-mistress (Genevieve Cluny) who is married to his brother, his two children from a previous romance, the maid who comes into her own in the absence of outside interest.

Helene cuts across this homely background, throwing Theodore and his proteges into a state of feverish anticipation.

Each member of the family participates through Cassel in the seduction of Helene; the action is a catalyst to their own dreams, as it is also to ours.

The hero has his own remedy for the climatic post-coital sadness — next please!

Many carefully constructed episodes impress the viewer and the stylised presentation of these reminded one of Jacques Tati. The overall impression suffers from the producers insistence on telling us a story as if his film was a book produced for easy consumption in film form. The start was slow with extensive laboured scene setting which was perhaps necessary in view of the complexity of the personal relationships.

"RASPBERRIES ON STRAWBERRY BOXES"

It has been said that the architectural style employed in the UNB building program is Georgian. That may be true. Most of the new buildings look as if they were designed by George III... except that he was more noted for playing with flowers than he was with bricks.

This writer once asked a prominent New Brunswick architect, Mr. John Disher of Saint John, what he thought of the new buildings. He said that they were not really Georgian, they were not even Pseudo-Georgian... they were Pseudo-Nothing. Mr. Douglas Johnson, who is the chief architect for the Province of New Brunswick, has expressed a similar opinion. Both men have said that it is too bad that those responsible for the details of the building program do not see fit to utilize New Brunswick architects, of whom there are several of outstanding reputation.

Professor Cogswell once said of the new Arts Building that it reminded him of a jail, right down to the bars on the windows. Those of us who have had classes in the basement of that building liken the experience to sitting in a wind tunnel which is situated at the bottom of a well. Another interesting feature is that, in a building where space is at a premium or seems so, there are separate comfort stations for the staff. No doubt the Georgian influence...

It is the general opinion that the most distasteful of the more recent buildings is Lady Dunn Hall... if Sir Thomas Carleton Hall looks like a prison, the women's residence looks as if it were specifically designed by the firm of Dickens, Bronte and Austen as a detention home for wayward girls. Where there was a choice opportunity for a sweeping circular drive was substituted a wind-swept, crooked path leading up to a claustrophobically narrow gate in a brick wall. To alleviate this dismal aspect was no doubt the intention of whomever decided to paint the front wall white... but however laudable the intent, the result has a revolting resemblance to a patch of snow on a blood bank. The burglar alarms-in-reverse which has been installed on the doors seem most fitting, considering the looks of the edifice.

It is difficult to discuss the design of the new mens' residences, for obvious reasons... These quadrangularly arranged collections of kiln-work appear from the outside to have neither front nor back, and a well-trained Spaniel is required on the inside to guide those who can't fathom out which floor they're on... let alone those who are not even sure they are in the right house.

Most visitors to UNB say that the buildings which they like best are the old Arts Building and LBR... possibly because they are about the only two buildings which don't look like every other building... and every other building besides that.

Not all of us can be expected to admire the style of the UNB buildings, although we are all entitled to fair comment. Soon, if not already, we will all be asked to contribute money for further construction on the campus of our alma mater. Perhaps, if enough people were to indicate their preferences and dislikes in building styles and techniques, we could influence those in authority to instill some life, some style and some variety in the plans for future buildings on this hillside. Perhaps...

MORE LETTERS

Editor:

I have just read your article on South Africa. And I would like to know who was so stupid as to write it; worse still, who was so stupid as to allow it to be printed.

The writer has singled out the Union of South Africa for, I suspect, personal reasons. Does he think that South Africa is the only country in these times, which has been forced to take these measures? He wants the people of the "Western" nations to turn their backs on South Africa and condemn her, a faithful ally. It may come as a shock to the writer but there are many countries who are supported by the United States and the Commonwealth, which are worse than South Africa; some examples are Ghana, some Southeastern Asian countries, and others in Central America. As I see it, South Africa has been very patient indeed. She has born many abuses and unless these "do gooder" leave her alone, I wouldn't be surprised to see her driven into the Soviet camp. By bringing pressures to bear, you will deprive her of many things necessary to her continued growth. If these cannot be obtained in the Western camp she will out of need, turn to the communists. The loss of South Africa would be a heavy blow to the West, they would lose South Africa's mineral resources which include gold, uranium, and others. Her strategic place on the Dark Continent would also be lost.

The price the West will pay for meddling is too great, especially since it will do no good. The state will remain as it is until the government policy and plans are carried out. This calls for a Negro State within the Union of South Africa. Heed and leave South Africa alone or you'll end up with another Congo or worse another communist state in Africa.

I feel that you, the Brunswickan, have degraded yourself by printing political matters. That might be over looked, but when you condemn the policies of other countries, that can't be over looked.

If your going to print political articles, why don't you jump on the bandwagon and clean up your own country? I understand that you have several prison riots each year, that speaks for itself, the MP are also talking.

I might also mention that your paper should take heed and leave the politics to the politicians. Look at the governments of Korea and several other countries, which shake every time the student's meddle in government affairs. Their governments are shaky and they only survive as long as the students mind their own business.

An Observer

Print this if you feel you can take criticism publicly.

Editor's comment:

We can take criticism publicly. It appears that you can't seeing that you insisted on a pen name.

We must remind our readers that this is not one of our "fixed letters"... this whole thing is genuine. The last time we can recall listening to this type of comment it came from a little man with a funny moustache. He did more to destroy confidence in the human race than any other being has ever managed to do.

You are not much of an observer if you can't distinguish the difference between a communist and a fascist state. We would think that you should have absolutely no difficulty in distinguishing the latter. How South Africa could ever go communist we are at a loss to explain, barring revolution of course.

One of the functions of a college newspaper is to comment on issues that should interest students: the broad area of politics should interest students. If we left the politics to the politicians exclusively we certainly wouldn't have a democracy. Perhaps that is what you would prefer.

House mother criticises coed

VICTORIA (CUP) — A coed at the University of Victoria was chastised by a university residence director for dating a colored East Indian foreign student.

Mrs. Lola Moore, who reportedly asked the girl why she was dating a colored student, said, "I asked her what her mother would think."

Asked why she thought it was her concern to determine who a student in residence should date, and warned that her action would contribute to racial prejudice on campus, she replied, "When these girls are away from home I am like their mother and I have to look after them."

Admitting she was an American citizen and a Goldwater supporter, she said "I don't see what my politics have to do with the way I run the residences."

Reaction from student leaders was swift and direct.

Student council president Olivia Barr said, "Who a student dates is his or her personal business. I am shocked that such a thing should have happened."

"Prejudice has no place in an academic community," she said. Larry Devlin, past students' council president, said, "Strong measures should be taken against anyone disseminating racial prejudice."

WILLIAMSON TOPS FIELD

BEST IN CANADA

CHRIS WILLIAMSON

GUELPH (Nov. 21) — Chris Williamson, a tall eager young man from Fredericton, New Brunswick, today won the Canadian Intercollegiate Cross Country Championship. Although Williamson won the meet in 31.45.4 the UNB team finished fourth over the snow-bound and windy five mile course.

Manitoba upset McMaster to win the team championship while RMC, representing the Ottawa St. Lawrence Conference finished third.

Chris Sproule was the second UNB Harrier to finish as he came in 18th with a time of 35.57. Robin Carr finished 22nd in 36.38, Bill MacDonald 23rd in 36.58, Bob Jarvis 24th in 37.11, Charley Cleary 25th in 38.12 and John Fairchild 26th in 38.47.

Williamson, a protege of both Amby Legere and Fred Foote won the race by two hundred yards over his nearest competitor Ron Knox from McMaster. Although the conditions were bad Williamson showed his experience and ability to adapt as he outclassed the field. This is the first Canadian Intercollegiate Individual Championship that UNB has ever won.

Mermaids defeated

The UNB Mermaids were defeated 65-29 in an exhibition dual meet with the Bangor Y girls in the Maine city last week.

Kathy Glover, Marg Cameron, Carol Scarborough, and Helen Sinclair swam well in the 200 yd. medley relay, but could not match the powerful American team.

In the freestyle events, UNB's Pat Hanson and Heather Spencer finished third and fourth behind D. Wood and Hawkes of Bangor in the 50 yd. race. Helen Sinclair of UNB became the second Canadian to hold a record in the Bangor pool with her time of 1:05.5, the best time ever had by a UNB female swimmer in the 100 yd. race.

Marg Cameron was tops for the Mermaids in the breast-stroke events. She finished second in the 50 yr. event to Chalmers of Bangor, while Goss of Bangor finished third; and Vicki Holden finished fourth. Goss captured the 100 yd. race for Bangor, with Marg Cameron second.

Wood of Bangor won both backstroke races. In the 50 Kathy Glover of UNB finished second, Solarzand of Bangor was third, and Sue Kinnear of UNB was fourth. Carol Scarborough was second for UNB in the 100 yd. race, with team-mate Kathy Glover third, and Shubert of Bangor fourth.

Trowbridge of Bangor swam away with the 50 yd. butterfly. Her team-mate, Wadsworth was second, and Joan Dickison and Helen Connor finished third and fourth respectively for UNB.

Chalmers of Bangor captured the 100 yd individual medley over team-mate Kellogg. Joan Dickison of the Mermaids just out-touched team-mate Janet Eastwood for third place.

Bangor forfeited the diving to UNB and in the competition, Elaine McEwan was first and Jenny Adam second.

The final event saw the American team of Trowbridge, Wood, Mathias, and D. Wood win the 200 yd. freestyle relay over UNB's team of Judi Ritchie, Heather Spencer, Carol Scarborough and Helen Sinclair.

on the spot and run out the door to the peace and quiet of downtown traffic.

Although this anecdote is drawn out of proportion, it points out that we should take some care before having photos done. Photographers, especially those in university towns prey on the one obvious weakness of people — in particular prospective graduates, that being vanity. The grand array of little deals they offer usually entices you into buying twice as much as you need, with the end result that most people pay at least $20.00 for a copy of what you can see for nothing in a mirror.

performance which they were an hour late for and I cancelled. The SRC executive intends, I think foolishly, to pay for this since I have witnesses to back up my argument. Further, they intend to pay off Nancy Ames' agent somewhere in the vicinity of $1000 to keep her from coming and I have personally suggested to them that they try and transfer the money already paid out to two or three cheaper performers spread out over the Spring season.

With regards to Oscar Brown and the Mysterious

$945, the money was mistakenly sent to the Oscar Brown account when it was supposed to be the deposit for the Brandywines. This was rectified and the SRC has in its hands now correspondence to prove it. As far as the checks go I did not personally sign any checks as many of the articles in the Brunswickan have construed.

In closing, I would like to add that myself and my committee are trying to make up as much of the deficit as possible throughout the forthcoming year and I resent any attacks on the people who are making an honest attempt to help me out of my predicament. By this, I mean that $28.00 for a cake sale may seem paltry when compared with $1400 but it represents a week of hard and unselfish work by at least three co-eds helping me and I feel it was completely unfounded. I hope that in the future if you or any other student has any questions regarding the whole business they will not hesitate to call or write me.

Yours truly,
Brian Copeland.

DARRELL LeBLANC scores his second goal of the night as he fakes out Tommies netminder from in close.

LeBlanc Stars Red Devils Humble Tommies

by ROLY MICHENER

Last Saturday night at the Lady Beaverbrook Rink the UNB Red Devils once again proved to everyone that they are worthy Maritime Intercollegiate Hockey Champions by overpowering the Saint Thomas Tommies to the tune of 6-1 in their league opener. The Tommies were completely outclassed throughout the encounter and couldn't muster an organized attack against the powerful and superior Red Devils.

The first period opened with both teams battling for possession of the puck in a wide-open, free-wheeling twenty minutes of play. The Red Devils looked a bit shaky at first, but the tenacious back-checking of the defence led by Jack Drover kept the team out of danger. Austin Duquette and Darrell LeBlanc came up with several sparkling rushes and barely missed scoring. Similarly Jeff Leach was a real workhorse with his relentless checking when the Red Devils were shorthanded. The period ended in a scoreless tie.

Saint Thomas came on strong early in the second period and broke the goose egg on a screen shot by Ed Lester with Jeffrey of the Red Devils in the sin bin. UNB quickly tied the count at one apiece on a fine effort by rookie Martin Winslow from Darrell LeBlanc and Jim Morell.

From then on the big Red squad left no doubt as to their superiority to the chagrin of the Tommie netminder Nestor. Late in the period Dave Peterson passed to Winslow in front of the Tommie goal and he promptly banged home his second tally of the night. With only seconds remaining, Drover blasted a siser from the blueline on which Nestor made a fine save, but Darrell LeBlanc was right there to scoop in the rebound for the third and last Red Devil goal in the second period. Claude MacKinnon and Drover were solid on defence in the period, nullifying several Tommie rushes. Forwards Rolie Belliveau and Darrell LeBlanc also stood out due to their consistent aggressiveness.

The third period was all UNB as they added three more goals to win handily. The Tommies tired after the first few minutes of play and all but fell apart. Darrell LeBlanc completely fooled the Tommie netminder on his second goal of the game early in the period as he hit the upper right corner of the net on a pretty play which featured passes from MacKinnon and Peterson. Midway through the period with the Red Devils shorthanded, LeBlanc stole the puck from a slack Tommie defence and skated in alone to score his third goal, giving him a well-deserved hat trick. Austin Duquette tallied the sixth and final goal for the Red Devils at the fifteen minute mark of the game to round out the scoring. John Wrigley came up with a stirring performance in the UNB nets, making several fantastic saves.

The three stars as selected by Prof. Burma were Darrell LeBlanc, Jack Drover and John Wrigley. Judging by the score and the calibre of the play in this first league encounter, one might safely predict that this is the strongest Red Devil team ever.

Beavers defeat Bangor "Y"

BANGOR, ME. — On November 21 at Bangor the UNB Beavers defeated the Bangor YMCA swim team by a score of 49-45 in a closely-contested dual meet.

The first race was the 200 yard Medley Relay. Swimming for UNB were Taylor, Pentland, Price and Walker. In the 200 yard Freestyle race, Bangor won again in a time of 2:10.5 with Robb of UNB second and Meth of UNB third. The 50 yard Freestyle was won handily for UNB by John Champ in 25.6 sec. The team captain Bob Jack then won the 200 yard Individual Medley easily, with a Bangor swimmer second and Colpitts third for UNB. Mike Hutchins won the diving event with his usual good form while teammate Totten came third, missing second place by less than one point.

Fillmore and Price came in first and second respectively in the 100 yard Butterfly. The next race was the 100 yard Freestyle. John Champ had a bad race, losing first place to McAlary of Bangor, whose time was 56.5 sec. Hutchins was recruited from the diving team for this race and swam to a commendable third place.

In the 100 yard Backstroke Dorsky won easily for Bangor in a time of 1:08.2 while Jack and Taylor came second and third respectively for UNB. In the 400 yard Freestyle Bangor took first and second place while Meth of UNB came in a very close third.

At this point the score was 40-39 for Bangor and there were only two events left. UNB had to win the Freestyle Relay, worth 7 points, in order to win the meet. A bit of last-minute strategy saved the meet for the Beavers. Charlie Colpitts was withdrawn from the Freestyle (each contestant was limited to two events) and placed in the Freestyle Relay. That left George Pentland as the lone entry in the Freestyle. Pentland swam to an each second place, leaving the score 45-42 for Bangor. Then the Freestyle Relay team, composed of Robb, Colpitts, Barry, and Fillmore swam the 200 yards in a time of 1:44.0, winning hand touch over Bangor, whose time was 1:44.1. The final score—49-45 for the Beavers.

dian in the group, he used Canada in a variety of ways as an example of modern-day nationalism. In closing, he said, "If nationalism were not with us tonight, the accent of the chairman (Roger B. Harley) would not be what it is tonight."

Both sides presented convincing summations although Mr. Green was caught with his guard down and at first started muttering incoherently about pizza parlours in Dublin bringing about the downfall of England. He went on to say, "If you say that nationalism resulted in the death of six million Jews, then democracy resulted in the drop of atomic bombs on Japan!"

After Bell and Green were declared winners, the moderator thanked both competitors and audience for an exciting and interesting evening.
