Dur Revolutionista, 'rom motives perfectly ellipsibe—from, in fact, the consciousness their uter inability to make good a title the grievances complained of, have evergit to identify their present factious strugg, with that which is now carrying on for renovation of Ireland. Their cause chi is almost wholly baseless, needs such statical sid. It cannot stand on its own rits; and its advocates, therefore, fling ut on all sides for props on which it may ut on all sides for props on which it may not be the constitution of the intervisw and dinners, except, indeed, that the abilition or election of except the sympathy and and of the British public also, by uphold that it is allied to the cause of wholese re reform, and not of revolution. The stant attempts to trace a resemblance been the stingless grievances of the Nineswar Resolutions, and the fruits of the as tree of misrule and faction, which have been again and in exposed. The grand distinction to be well of the soft which a majority of the Ireland polymphians, are real and felt; those which our adian patriots parade, exist only in the of of a party.

We would take this opportunity of districtly denying that Constitutionalists fight the weapons which the above extracted of the British as accordancy it is not over the word. The advices from Halifax are up to the 22d ult. The large purchases of West India Produce, which had been made for the Canada and duce, which had been made for the Canada and New Brunswick markets, had reduced the stocks at Hatifox very low. Of Sugar but very little remained in first hands, and that article was 1stols. 6d. dearer than at the date of the last advices, 37s. having been paid for Trinidad, and 37s. 6d. for Demarara. Our Correspondent states that the improvement in the English Markets encouraged holders to look for still higher prices, and that after the vessels then loading were dispatched, it was expected there would be little Sugarshipped to Canada. Jamaica Rum is quested at 2s. 10d @ 3s. 2' according to strength. ted at 2s. 10d @ 3s. 2'. according to strength and quality, Demerara of ordinary proof 2s. THE CONFESSIONS OF ALCOHOL. "Art then so have said full of wretchedness. And feat'st to die? Famine is in thy checks. Need and Oppression storeth in thy eyes, Upon thy back hange ranged misery; The world is not shy friend, nor the world's law. The world sifteds no last to make ther rich."

Alcohol being very near his end, in consequence of a wound received from the Temperance Association, calls together his associates. Murder, Theft, Issanity, Disease, Blasphemy, Poverty, and makes the following confusion of his aims at the suggestion of his aims at the suggestion of his attending Physician, Dr. Abstinence.

I. I confess that through my whole existence I have caused more muchief in the world, and been the instrument of occasions and the devoted at tachment of the friends of temperance ta the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow and the opon, to the cause of the widow.
