CHAPTER XXXII.

Then the reading of that sad letter alarmed her. What was coming on the day which had already dawned? What did she mean by speaking of death and dying?

A dreadful thought flashed across her for a moment, and rendered her helpless, and she fell back, unable to move. What might be happening while she delayed? Still, true to her promise, she destroyed the letter before she quitted her room. She was hurrying along the corridor when she met Stephanie, her sister's maid. The girl looked pale and frightened.

"Miss Lynne," she said, "I was just coming to fetch you. I have knocked twenty times at my lady's door, and she has never answered me."

Agatha's heart almost stood still with fear; she knocked, and called Inez, but no answer came. Then she opened the door gently and entered the room. All that was mortal of Lady Lynne lay upon the bed before her, the beautiful face white and still, the lips forever silent and cold.

"Fetch Lord Lynne!" cried Agatha, with a low cry, as she fell upon her knees. It seemed but a moment and the terrified husband stood beside her. "Great Heaven!" he cried, in a voice they never forgot, "she is dead!"

Yes, dead and at rest, with a look upon the exquisite face that awed them by its peaceful solemnity.

Doctors were summoned, the terrified servants, with loud cries, seeking aid, but it was all in vain. She had been dead for hours.

"I will not believe it," cried Lord Lynne; "she was not ill last night—not ill enough to die. I am mad or dreaming—I cannot believe it!"

They could not persuade him to leave the room where she lay; he would not, could not believe that she was dead.

It was not until the first bewilderment of this surprise had passed away that they thought of asking how she had died. Alas, the question was soon answered. There lay the little phial empty, and marked, "Laudanum—poison," and the odor of it still lingered upon the white cold lips.

Then the weeping, frightened Stephanie told how her lady suffered agonies with neuralgia, and how she took opium to lull the pain.

"Last night," said the poor girl, "my lady was ill with it; she must have intended to take enough to quiet the pain, and have taken too much."

So every one believed; there was no reason to doubt it. The wretched and unhappy commit suicide; but no care or trouble, they said, had ever come to the brilliant and beautiful young Lady Lynne.

The news gradually spread, and a crowd of people assembled around the Palazzo Giorni. They spoke in whispers of the terrible accident, of the wealth and loveliness of the lady who lay dead, of the grief of her husband and the sorrow of her friends. But amongst that vast crowd no one whispered that the lady upon whom Nature lavished their fairest gifts had by her own hand cut short the life that her own folly had blighted.

Agatha and Lady Florence were bewildered by the dreadful shock. Lord Lynne was incapable of attending to anything. His valet fetched Sir Allan Leigh, thinking his master's friend would best take his master's place.

The young baronet's horror at hearing of the tragedy was unbounded. "Can it be really true, Holland?" he asked of the trembling servant. "When we left Lady Lynne last evening, she looked well and happy."

"It is true, Sir Allan," said the man, "and my master is half mad. There is no one to superintend the arrangements. Will you come to the Palazzo, for I do not know what is best to be done? Lord Lynne seems as though he could neither hear nor speak."

"Tears rose to Sir Allan's eyes as he remembered the look upon his friend's face last evening, and how he had smiled when he had bidden him call at three to-morrow. As soon as he arrived at Lord Lynne's, he asked to see Agatha. Years of bitter sorrow seemed to have passed over that sweet face since he saw it last. It was white, and dark shadows were beneath the large sad eyes.

"Agatha," he said, "my dear one, you must not grieve so much. You will be ill yourself."

But he could give no comfort. Agatha Lynne sorrowed as one who has no hope. Others grieved for what they considered the consequences of a sad accident; she alone knew the truth, and it weighed her down nearly to the grave. Every word of that letter seemed burned upon her heart. She could not forget it; she could not forget the last despairing clasp of her sister's arms, or the look she had seen upon her face. It was a fearful secret for one so young to keep, but she guarded it well.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

To this day, in the great cemetery of San Lorenzo, at Rome, people show the grave of the beautiful lady who died at the Palazzo Giorni, and whose husband sorrowed so deeply that he became ill, and nearly lost his life. There is a fair white marble monument, and it tells the age and name of the ill-fated lady who sleeps beneath. Years afterward, when the sad story was fading in men's minds, there came one day to the grave a young English officer. He had travelled from Canada, he said; and the guide who took him to the cemetery saw him lay his head down upon the marble, while deep, bitter sobs shook his frame.

Bertie Bohun never forgot Lady Lynne; no other woman's face ever charmed him. He never spoke of love again; his heart was buried in the grave of the beautiful, brilliant girl, who had remembered his love in the last and most bitter hour of her life.

Never had any event caused a greater sensation than the sudden death of Lord Lynne's young wife. The Palazzo Giorni was thronged with visitors, callers, and friends. Agatha Lynne saw but one, and that was the Count Rinaldo. She gave orders that, if he called, she wished to see him; and he was shown into the darkened room where she sat. He was pale and agitated.

"Miss Lynne," he said, in a low voice, "I dare scarcely ask can this sad news be true?"

"It is true, Count Montalti," she replied. "Who should know it better than yourself? You hunted her to death. I will give her last message to you, and then never let me see you any more. For your own base and cowardly sake, you will keep my poor sister's secret. Its betrayal will harm no one but yourself. She is safe out of the reach of all the harm your slanderous words can do her."

He listened while she repeated the words Inez had written. The power of speech seemed to have left him. He had, in his mercenary schemes, pushed his cruelty and persecution too far, and they had recoiled upon himself.

Agatha Lynne spoke but few words to him; they were what a good spirit might have used, but they were spoken in vain.

His schemes and plans were over; the fate of the wicked was upon him. Go where he would, do what he might, the face of the girl he had deceived and hunted to death haunted him. He tried everything,—he plunged into mad scenes of the wildest dissipation,—he sought refuge in the haunts of the gay and worldly; but all in vain. Sleeping or waking, by night or day, he saw that face. There was no oblivion for him. He left Rome before the funeral of Lady Lynne took place.

Three years afterward Agatha read in one of the French daily journals a short paragraph, which told of the death of Count Ronald Montalti. He died in a quarrel which took place in a Parisian gambling-house, and Lady Lynne was avenged.

After her interview with him was ended, and he had left her presence frightened and subdued, Agatha went to the room where her sister lay. She knelt by her side, and kissed the cold lips, murmuring the while that she had done her bidding, and would keep her secret well. Agatha never gazed upon that beautiful face again; it was soon hidden from all eyes.

It was on a bright sunny day that Lady Lynne was laid to rest in the cemetery of San Lorenzo. Those who saw Lord Lynne then barely recognized him; he could not recover from the shock. He could not endure the sight or the name of the place where he had lost her. Two days after the funeral he left Rome, and went, he hardly knew whither.

Society had received a shock in the death of its most brilliant ornament. But no stranger perhaps felt more sympathy with the bereaved household than did good Mrs. Cadwell. She discussed the event in all its bearings with Mrs. Godwin, who had changed places with her, and was now patronized instead of patronizing.

The Hyack Anvil Battery

By P. W. LUCE.

The Royal, Ancient, and Honorable Hyack Anvil Battery, of New Westminster, B.C., fired its fifty-third annual salute on May 24th, in the presence of a large crowd assembled to witness the curious ceremony.

Away back in 1870, when the town was very young, the pioneers desired to express their loyalty to Queen Victoria by the firing of a royal salute on her birthday, according to the traditional British custom. There was no cannon on the mainland of British Columbia, but the ingenuity of the settlers overcame this handicap.

Two anvils were borrowed from Tom Owens, the village blacksmith. One was turned upside down, and powder poured in a small cavity in the base. The other anvil was then lashed on top of its fellow, and the powder "touched off" with a long stick from a safe distance.

With a report that was a very fair imitation of a cannon, the top anvil was blown high in the air. The performance, repeated twenty-one times, furnished the Royal Salute.

Ever since that memorable day, the old timers of New Westminster have assembled in front of Tom Owens' blacksmith shop, and fired off the Anvil Salute. All the members of the original battery are dead, with the exception of Mr. Owens, who still runs his blacksmith shop. He is an ex-mayor of New Westminster.

Most of the present members of the brigade are sons of the Old Originals, though newcomers are not barred. Some of the duties are onerous. The Right Hoister and Left Hoister, who have to place the heavy anvil in position after every shot, have no sneaker, while the Toucher-Off has a job which calls for steadiness of hand. The Swapper, the Blower-Up, The Powder Monkey, the Official Observer, and the Timer, have an easier time, but the Medical Officer is faced with the tremendous responsibility of keeping up the health, strength and courage of the members of the Battery until the twenty-one guns are fired. How he does this is not for outsiders to know, but there is no record of collapse since 1870, though signs of faintness are observed every year, and have to be given immediate attention.

The Medical Officer is never a practicing physician. He is always a brewer or a retired hotel-keeper.

When Indian Maids Wed

The modern "society" fapper, with her coming out party, has nothing on the American Indian maiden, whose marriage announcement party has been among the tribal customs from time immemorial.

Among the Washoe Indians of Nevada there is a dance or ceremony known as "The Girl's Dance." In honor of the young girl who becomes eligible for marriage. Her white cousin, however, would hardly care to be the star of such a feast, for the guest of honor is allowed to eat nothing at all for four days previous.

On the fourth night, the dance starts at about eight o'clock, and continues until sunrise the following morning. The Indians form a circle, joining hands, and move by short side-steps in a ring, humming a sort of chant without words or meaning. The girl, accompanied by an elder woman as a sort of chaperone, and carrying a long staff to support her because of the weakness induced by her long fast, weaves in and out of the dance, joining in the step.

As the dance proceeds late into the night the girls family gives money and other possessions to the dancers to keep them moving and to induce others to join in. The greater the number of dancers, the greater the popularity of the family. Shortly after midnight a feast is given by the girl's relatives, and all participate. The ceremony closes at sunrise when the girl is taken to her tepee and attired in bunches of sagebrush, in which money is concealed. She appears before the assembled dancers and throws the money to them, amid a wild scramble. A can of water is then dashed over her head as the concluding ceremony, after which she is ready to receive a proposal of marriage.

Miners and Steel Workers Strike at Sydney.

Approximately 100,000 People Directly Affected--MacMillan Off for Far North.

MINERS GO OUT.

Sydney, July 3. Although the strike was not scheduled to begin until midnight, the miners of Cape Breton South started to walk out at four o'clock this afternoon, in support of striking Sydney Steel workers and to force withdrawal from the district of Provincial Police and Federal troops. The day shifts finished work at four o'clock and the night shifts in most instances did not report for duty. Dominion No. 1 Colliery continued to work as usual, and there were a few men in the No. 25. By tomorrow morning the strike is expected to be complete in Cape Breton South with the possibility that it would be joined by miners on the north side of the harbor. Approximately eight thousand miners are affected and directly another two thousand workers are involved in the miners' strike. More than three thousand steel men are out. The total population dependent upon the coal and steel industry and directly affected by the combined strike is approximately one hundred thousand. It is not expected that the miners of the mainland, in Pictou and Cumberland Counties, will join the Cape Breton men in their strike. Troops from Halifax numbering about two hundred and fifty, which have been stationed at Sydney Steel Works since Saturday, were reinforced today by the arrival of three hundred and fifty more from London, Ontario. Seventy-four horses also arrived.

FURTHER TROOPS ARRIVE.

SYDNEY, July 3. Three hundred and fifty additional troops and seventy-four horses arrived this morning from London, Ont., and are stationed at Whitney Pier. The night passed quietly.

WISTARIA AT SYDNEY.

SYDNEY, July 3. H.M.S. Wistaria arrived here from St. John's, Nfld., to-day and her commander paid the usual official visit to Mayor Fitzgerald. The miners are apprehensive that the sailors may be used to pump the mines, as was done at the time of the great coal strike in England in 1920, when naval ratings manned the pumps of the English collieries.

LABOR DEPARTMENT TAKING NO ACTION.

OTTAWA, July 3. No immediate action is contemplated by the Federal Department of Labor in connection with the ultimatum issued by the Cape Breton Mine workers that they will cease work unless troops are withdrawn from Sydney at once.

MACMILLAN OFF FOR FAR NORTH.

SYDNEY, July 3. Capt. Donald MacMillan and his men cast off from their wharf here at four minutes after six this evening, and headed their vessel Bowdoin for the Far North. "If I am not back in Sydney Harbor by September 1924, then I will remain in the Arctic one more year," said the intrepid explorer to-day.

DUSSELDORF, July 3. The first seizure under General Legott's decree, giving occupation proceeds to take over private property for reparations purposes, were announced yesterday. Three plants were taken over by the French.

JAPAN AND THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

TOKYO, July 3. Japan has decided to approach Great Britain and the United States in view of reaching a tri-party agreement to enforce the provisions of the Washington Treaty without awaiting ratification by France.

LORD BYNG VISITING MARITIME PROVINCES.

FREDERICTON, July 3. Governor General Lord Byng of Vimy, accompanied by Her Excellency, Lady Byng, and members of his staff, arrived here at noon to-day on his first visit to New Brunswick, inaugurating his initial tour of the Maritime Provinces. Those to be held at Herschel Island represent tribes from all over the western Arctic. Their capture and subsequent handing over to the police at Herschel by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was commended. A number of the Eskimos were brought in by dog team for 1,000 miles or more along the bleak shores of the Arctic. One constable charged with the delivery of a prisoner had no companion but the prisoner himself. Every night one helped the other to build snow igloos and make camp. Despite almost insurmountable obstacles, the "mountie" won through and delivered his prisoner.

To-day we are holding our annual commemorative services for the young men of this parish who made the supreme sacrifice. Yesterday the soldier's monument was covered with flowers, and all who passed by the way knelt in prayer. This is one of the most beautiful monuments in Newfoundland—a fitting tribute to those "gentlemen unafraid." If pride be a sin, we must plead guilty to being proud of these lads, who on land or sea, went smiling down the "long, long trail" of duty to a glorious death. Their mortal remains lie far from home, but their memory is forever enshrined in the hearts of those who knew, as well as those who loved them. In life as in death they were true to their heritage. They were born in the ancient capital of Britain's oldest colony in the new world—they were nurtured in an atmosphere of historical memories and loyal associations, and when the time of testing came, they proved beyond all question or doubt, that they had not forgotten their traditions, and they did not fail in their loyalty. "Better love than this no man hath, that he should lay down his life for his friends." COR.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULT—CADETS, 3; C.E.L. 0. (Morning News.)

There was a large attendance at last night's football game between the Cadets and C.E.L., as a good exhibition was anticipated. The Cadets elected to defend the eastern goal and this gave the C.E.L. the slight advantage of the sun's rays. With the sound of the starting whistle play became fast and for the first 10 minutes the C.E.L. had probably the best of the play. Too much loose shooting, however, meant they lost chances to score. After a particularly fine dash through the Cadet ranks Drover of the C.E.L. nearly scored a goal and secured a corner but the referee had not followed the ball and being in mid-field did not see it and allowed a goal kick. The Cadets then woke up and began to besiege the C.E.L. territory. Flynn took the ball up the line and passed to Walter Callahan, the goalie ran out but missed it and Flynn ran up and scored number one. Resuming play the Cadets again attacked and after some general play secured a corner. Flynn placed the ball well but Meaney kicked it over the post. Several wild shots were made by both teams and nothing of moment occurred until within a minute of half time when Young sent in a smart one to Noseworthy who made a splendid save. The half time whistle found the score Cadets 1, C.E.L. 0.

After the short respite play was resumed and found both teams struggling hard. Much exciting play was witnessed with the ball going back and forth for some time. At length Walter Callahan got control and sent in a beauty which beat Noseworthy and made number two for Cadets. Play was close after this and several attacks were made by both teams but nothing occurred. Noseworthy making some fine saves. The third goal was scored by Flynn, who kicked the ball from near the back line, it carried off Noseworthy in his attempt to save it, and went in, making number three. The C.E.L. then tried very hard to score but were unable and after some general play the final whistle sounded Cadets 3, C.E.L. 0.

AT THE HOUSE.

Estimates 1923-24 Tabled—Mr Higgins in a Forcible Speech Denounces Government Ownership of Railway.

The Assembly met at 3.15. Mr. Hunt presented a petition from M. Hampton in relation to the local manufacture of blocks. Questions were asked by Sir M. P. Cashin after which the House went into Committee of the whole on Supply.

Hon. Mr. Cave, Minister of Finance presented the estimates for the coming fiscal year. The House then went into a Committee of the whole on the Humber Project to which some amendments, submitted by the Opposition, were accepted.

Mr. Higgins asked the Government's acceptance to the amendments which called upon the Company to pay taxes after 30 years operation. Sir Richard Squires replied that this particular amendment could not be accepted, which means that the Company is relieved from all taxes for life.

Mr. Higgins brought up the minimum wage amendment to learn that it would be accepted at $2.50 a day at all costs.

Mr. Higgins and Mr. Fox discussed the Taxation Amendment with the result these clauses were left over until later and the other sections were read and passed the Committee.

The House then rose and entered into a committee of the whole on the Railway Resolutions. Mr. Higgins in a very forcible speech dealt with the seriousness of the Government's indefinite policy regarding the Railway. He made it very plain that he, with the Opposition, was determined to oppose the Clause which exempted the Company from Municipal Income and Business Profits Taxes for all time. He likewise condemned the statement that the Humber Deal was contingent upon the Railway settlement which were as far apart as the poles. It was quite clear to him and his colleagues and no doubt many members of the Government that it was the Reids who were putting this forward and he gave the Company credit as shrewd business men and much credit for all that was coming to Mr. H. D. Reid, the President of the Company. It reminded him of a statement accredited to a former Prime Minister when he looked across the floor of the House of Assembly and said to a member "I will get you when I want you. It can be said with truth now that the Reids got both the Prime Minister and his Government when they wanted them. The country is going to pay a terrible price in order to get clear of the Reids. The payment of $2,000,000 is nothing compared with the millions that must follow in order to operate the Railway. It is a railway now that we have to advertise to the world which nobody wants. The country cannot afford to run it. The Reids won't; and no outside person or company would fund it and all because of the bungling of the Government. It is a frightful position for the Government and Country to be placed in. It is a situation entirely of their own making and would not, in any shape or form, be endorsed by the Opposition. He condemned the actions of the Government in 1920 which was the outcome of a ridiculous policy, outlined in 1913, when they wished the country to believe in their antagonism towards the Reids with the result the same policy in less than six months after, put it all over the Premier and the Government because of the Government's refusal to seek expert counsel in England. After three and a half years the Government was still without any future policy except the admission of their past mistakes and a proposal to take over the services as outlined. It was quite evident that the Reids were not fools. They had advice and well knew the outcome of the Government's bungling and mistakes. The Prime Minister stated in his speech that the Government had to be cautious. What a pity they were not cautious at the beginning of their career. Newfoundland would have been millions of dollars better off to-day. Most of the trouble; in fact all of the trouble, was brought through Minute-of-Council or Executive responsibility. The House was closed and not allowed to open last fall because then, as now, the Government had no policy to put forward other than pay Reid off. Not one member of the Government gave a slight thought to same during the three and a half years and now we find out what the cost is going to be or who will be in charge. It was quite clear to him that we will now have a railway that will be a something for party politicians a position that only members of the Government care for. It will be run on lines similar to that of the Agriculture and Mines Department, a department which is a standing joke and a Government convenience and unfortunate burden for the taxpayers. The Government have not brought down what the Premier announced a business like proposition and conditions.

from now on will be worse than heretofore. If the unlucky hands of the Government had not interfered for two years we would be in a much better position to-day. We would be $5,000,000 better off. The resolutions if passed were the birth of new difficulties and new troubles. It is going to be very difficult to get people to operate the railway, we spoiled our own chances in this respect. To use an old expression, we are like the man who cut off his nose to spite his face. He then referred to the paragraph in relation to the St. John's Light & Power Co. which the Premier said was a run down condition, the much delicate manner in which the Premier seeks to work out his despicable plot. On the 3rd day of July, we begin our real big difficulties yet the Premier would have us believe that to-day for the first time for 15 years, the country can draw a fresh breath ignoring the fact that we are embarking upon an unfortunate experiment as a result when we can't afford to shoulder the burden. So for no statement as to how it is going to run or be operated whether by a board, a department, or a Minister of the Crown and because of the seriousness of the situation and the lack of future policy he was not going to support the resolutions before the chair.

Mr. Grimes said he was in favour of Government Control, he forgave all about the terms of the Government's Commission which proved so costly to the people of the Colony. He said Government Control would mean more efficiency than we had in the past. Countries such as Australia, New Zealand and Canada approved of it and he for one was glad the present Government thought likewise. He admitted somebody's got to pay and offered a weak apology for Sir W. F. Cookers attempt. At this point Mr. Higgins mentioned the name of Mr. John Fowell. Mr. Grimes replied, anyone would suit provided the Government did not interfere; which ridicules his own statements and wishes as to Government ownership and control.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the Committee rose at 6.30 p.m. to meet again this afternoon.

Mr. P. J. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries if the Marine Grants for the District of Ferryland have been sent out to the various settlements in the District within the last six weeks, to whom allocated and at what request.

Hon. Mr. Halford replied. That no grants had been sent out.

Mr. P. J. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister, in the absence of the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, to lay on the Table of the House a statement showing the daily receipts of the Telegraph Office recently opened at Ferryland from the date of opening until the present date.

No reply was given.

Mr. Walsh—To ask Hon. the Minister of Shipping if it is the intention of the Government to send a coastal steamer to serve the section of the country between Trepassay and Placentia. If so, when may we expect a steamer to be sent.

The Minister replied that when the occasion calls for a steamer one will be sent.

Other questions asked by Mr. J. Moore, P. F. Moore and Sir M. P. Cashin will remain on the Order Paper.

Singapore Once Deserted Jungle. HUGE CITY OF 400,000 HAS GROWN UP IN CENTURY.

Singapore, which by a vote in the British House of Commons is to have $50,000,000 expended on it to make it an impregnable naval base, already is heavily fortified, and in strategic position is the Gibraltar and Aden of the far east, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The great trading centre and fortress of to-day is a shining example of how Great Britain has "muddled"—as the British themselves put it—into possession of some of the world's most important strategic gateway. Singapore is an island 17 miles long by 14 wide, and just misses being the southernmost point of the continent of Asia by a half-mile channel. It is at the funnel point of the Strait of Malacca, which extends between the Malay peninsula and the island of Sumatra, the great water highroad between India and China.

Little more than a century ago the island, owned by the Sultan of Johore on the nearby mainland, was a deserted jungle save for a little fishing village. Ships in the China trade used it by as they passed many an other jungle shore; the only ports of call in that region of the world were those on the Dutch islands of Sumatra and Java. But these ports took a big toll in fees, and Sir Stamford Raffles, an official of the East India Company, began to dream of free British ports that would facilitate trade. In 1819 he obtained the seemingly worthless island of Singapore for his company for a small fee.

Developments quickly proved him a prophet, for within two years the little trading centre he established had a population of 10,000. It was only in 1822 that the British government consented to take an interest in the place.

In the little more than 100 years since it was founded the jungle of Singapore has given place to a huge city of close to 400,000 population, carrying on trade valued at a billion dollars annually—one of the metropolises of the British Empire.

Its quays and anchorages serve thousands of craft of all sorts and sizes, from the picturesque, graceful Malay sampans and the stately Chinese junks to the familiar freighters of the West, and what Kipling asserts are the "ladlike" liners. They built up Singapore's shipping to the tremendous total of 17,000,000 tons yearly.

Why do Women Take So Long to Get Ready.

Much more refreshing than most novels is "Webs," the magazine of the "Endowed Boys' school, Bowness-on-Windermere. The Christmas number is full of good things, says the London Daily Chronicle.

"Why Women Take Such a Long Time to Get Ready" is the subject of an essay by T. Atkinson, aged 9.

"If a woman has to go anywhere she always takes longer to get dressed than a man. Supposing they thought that they would go to the theatre, the man would have to pay. The man would just have to put his good suit on and do his hair. He would be ready in about 10 minutes.

"Then he would have to wait for his wife, while she put some scent on her frock, and she would curl her hair with the poker. That would take nearly all the time.

"Women always have so many faddo-dolls to arrange. After that they go for some chocolates to eat in the theatre. Then they would go to the theatre and be late through her."

Bath night tempted many boys to make confessions: "Bath night is very nice sometimes I do sail a boat. Our bathing night is on a Saturday. I do like bathing. Wednesday my father was bathing, he was leaning up a ganst the side of the bath. He fell fast asleep, and I soon wock him up. I go right under the water, my eyes as well. The water bubbles when I come out of the water!"—Roy Robinson, aged 7.

A charmingly express description of clouds is given by Hubert Richardson, aged 8: "Sometimes the clouds say: 'Let's dress up and make ourselves nice,' and they dress themselves up in a blue frock with little bits of white on, and it's a fine day.

"They put a gray frock on to go to work, and then it begins to rain."

To Develop Paper Resources of B.C. A NUMBER OF GROUPS OF OUTSIDE CAPITALISTS ARE CONSIDERING PROJECT.

VICTORIA.—Indicative of the interest being shown by capitalists in the pulp and paper future of British Columbia, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, under whose department negotiations are being carried on, announced a few days ago that six separate groups of financiers are negotiating with the provincial government for the establishment of pulp and paper mills in the province.

"It takes about $10,000,000 to get one of these concerns going and the details take time to work out, but I am confident that two or three of them will be under way in a short time," says Mr. Pattullo.

A powerful group composed of Chicago and San Francisco financiers, interests is angling for control of the Bridge River Power Company, which will provide the power for a new pulp and paper enterprise.

Minneapolis capital is said to be behind a move to establish a big pulp and paper mill at Uak, on the line of the Canadian National (G.T.P.) and is reported to be interested in the rehabilitation of the plant of the Prince Rupert Pulp and Paper Company, formerly held by the Emerson interests.

Following the death of John A. Emerson the company went into liquidation and recently has been operated only as a sawmill. If the new interests take hold of the property, it will be developed as a pulp and paper concern.

KENNEDY-NEWELL.

On last Tuesday morning a quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Butler, Mantels, when Miss Winifred May, daughter of Mrs. Mary M. and the late William Kennedy, Western Bay, was united in Holy wedlock to James Henry Newell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Newell, Bridgus. The wedding room was very prettily decorated for the occasion, and to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Flora Kennedy the bride entered leaning on the arm of Sir John C. Crobie, as father-giver, and attended by Miss Nancy Newell as bridesmaid, while Mr. Chesley Ayre Kennedy supported the groom. Rev. J. G. Joyce, pastor of Wesley Church, performed the ceremony. The wedding party partook of a very sumptuous spread and Sir John C. Crobie in a happy manner proposed the toast of the bride, which was responded to by the bridegroom.

The happy couple accompanied by their friends then motored to St. John's, where they joined the S.S. Ssua for Catalina to spend the honeymoon. Their future home will be in St. John's. The large number of presents and telegrams testified to the popularity of the young couple. The Telegram joins in wishing both a happy voyage over life's matrimonial sea.

ROSE-HEARN. A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church on Sunday, July 1st, by the Rev. Dr. Kitchen, when Mr. Matthew Hearn, son of Mr. John Hearn, of Alexander Street, led to the altar Miss Margaret Rose, daughter of the late William Rose, of Placentia. Mr. G. Kavanagh ably supported the groom, while Miss Mary Hearn, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid. The groom served with the 1st Nfd. Regt. overseas. The presents received were numerous and costly, testifying to the popularity of the bride and groom. The Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Hearn many years of prosperity and happiness.

Five Arrests in Brutal Murder. German Variety of Ku Klux Klan Makes Initial Appearance.

Berlin, June 27.—A German variety of the Ku Klux Klan, mysteriously allied with the Right Radical organizations, again upset the minds of country Germans when a brutal murder, surrounded by all the dark rites of the middle ages, became known to-day.

Walter Cadow, member of the Right Radical organization of Miffling, whom his friends suspected of revealing their secret plans to the German Government, was murdered by his associates on June 1, with canes, swords and bullets and buried in a forest near Parchemin until two members of the organization reported the murder to the police, who exhumed the body.

Five persons were arrested in connection with the murder and they are members of the former party of the German national freedom, closely connected with Herr Rossbach, who is now in jail charged with conspiring against the government.

Relics From Old Gold Camp. Kettles in which "Big French" John boiled his beans, and the helmets from "Sandy" Bower's brogues are among the relics of the Comstock being cleaned daily by powerful magnets from ore that was once the shallow soil of the '69 camp of Slippery Gulch Nevada.

From the historic spot on which these two and scores of other famous Nevada characters rose from poverty to riches at the stroke of a pick or the roll of a miner's cradle the huge stamp mill of the United Comstock Mines Co. now grinds out the gold they daily trod upon.

With the undermining of the ground on which Mark Twain published his Virginia City "Enterprise" and Dan De Quille wrote his anecdotes of western mining camps, horsehoes, nalla, tin cans, stoves, lids, anvils and the metal whatnots of the '60's fall into ore-cars and are carried to the mill at American Flats.

In order to protect the machinery powerful magnets sift the metal from the ore.

The gathering scrap heap looks old and rusty, but there is an air of romance about it. The tide of humanity that flowed past Slippery Gulch laid the foundation of the wealth that helped build San Francisco and the same tide of gold and silver floated Nevada into the Union.

ESSAYS OF ELMO. JULY--July is the Month of Lilacs

The poet says "Oh what so rare as a day in June," meaning of course a fine day when all Nature is radiant with the promise of many such days to come. As applied to Newfoundland our fine days in June are rare indeed, especially in recent years and we have to look to July for the realization of the poet's desire. Such a day as yesterday and one is struck with the thought how easily we forget all the miseries and depression of the cold rainy days once we are vouchsafed a fine spurt of weather. As a day for driving or walking in the country yesterday was ideal. The air was balmy, the sunshine not disagreeably hot and the odors of the trees and flowers invigorated the olfactory sense like the grateful spices of the Indian Ocean so famed in song and story. Everyone who had a motor car seems to have made use of it yesterday, and there was a perfect cloud of dust over the suburban roads, which, by the way, are in better condition now than ever before. The fact that there were no collisions and no serious accidents speaks well for the care exercised by the drivers of the motor cars. July has always been the month of plenty in Newfoundland because it is the month when our great piscatorial wealth in codfish and caplin strike in most abundantly on the coast and keep the people busy sixteen hours of the day at the outports when codfish is plentiful. July gives the record of fewest deaths in Newfoundland, because everybody is able to get out of doors who is not bed-ridden and when people are able to enjoy the gladdening warmth of the sunshine and the pure invigorating air such as we have in our country in this month they are least likely to die. Emerson, the American Essayist and Philosopher says "In a fine day in August death becomes almost problematical." In Newfoundland it can be more appropriately applied to July, as August is a hard month on young children and holds a record for Cholera infantum. July brings nearly all the beauties of the field and forest to their fulness of garniture in branch, leaf and flower, and there is no keener or purer pleasure to one who has a love of Nature's operations in her rustic laboratory than to spend a day in the country reading the many song and story. Everyone who has so lavishly displayed for human enjoyment. This cannot be done by driving out in an automobile at 30 miles an hour when one sees only the sky and the road. The Nature-lover who prefers the primitive way of locomotion in the country in July is the only one who granted the full enjoyment of the sylvan life. Finally July is the school boy and school girls month, the month of release from the grind of examinations and monotonous school exercises to the exquisite freedom of field, forest and stream.

Trees and Potatoes. How shelter-belts can increase potato yields on the prairies was well illustrated by an experiment recently carried on at the Experimental Farm at Scott, Saskatchewan. In 1920 Gold Coin potatoes in the open field yielded at the rate of 166 bushels per acre, while within the shelter-belt the yield was at the rate of 479 bushels per acre. The following year that variety yielded at the rate of 249 bushels in the open field and 761 bushels inside the shelter-belt. Another variety, the Everitt, in 1920 gave 121 bushels per acre in the field and 418 bushels per acre inside the shelter belt, and in the following year the yields were 156 and 576 bushels respectively. The ancient cities found by Dr. Spinden were brought to light by cutting down the dense tropical forests covering them for centuries in regions where railways are being constructed or banana plantations laid out.

THE QUARTERLY MEETING OF THE G.S.F. will be held in the Synod Hall to-morrow, Thursday, at 8 p.m.—July 4, 1923.

AMERICAN FLAG PRESENTED.

At yesterday's weekly meeting of the St. John's Rotary Club, a very interesting event took place when the United States Consul, Mr. J. S. Benedict on behalf of the Rotary Club of Detroit, presented a beautiful Silk American Flag to the Rotary Club of St. John's. The presentation speech of Consul Benedict was as follows: On behalf of the officers and members of the Rotary Club of Detroit, Mich., I have the honor of being invited to present to the Rotary Club of St. John's a silk American flag, which privilege is greatly appreciated. I can assure you, but before making this presentation, possibly you may be interested in having a short account of the origin of the American flag, or as it is frequently called the "Stars and Stripes." It is now generally accepted that a National Flag was inspired or suggested by the Coat of Arms and the Crest of General George Washington's family, who may be traced back to the reign of Henry the 8th, when the major of Solgrave, Northamptonshire was granted to Lawrence Washington Esquire, of Gray's Inn, Esq., Mayor of Northampton, who is said to have been a shrewd lawyer and a man of power and influence. But these church lands never turned out lucky to the grantee, as it appears that the first heir (Robert the son of Lawrence) had to come to terms with his son (Lawrence) to cut off the entail and sell the estate, which sale was effected in 1610 and the estate was purchased by one Lawrence Makepeace. (By the way "Makepeace" it would seem, was a very appropriate name for those days.) I will give a condensed outline of the Washington genealogy as taken from a booklet in my possession, containing from Lawrence Washington, son and heir of Robert Washington, He, Lawrence Washington, married Margaret, eldest daughter of William Butler, Esquire, of Tees, Sussex. He died December 15th, 1616, and lies buried in Great Brington Church, where there is a mural monument recording the same and having the stars and stripes on a shield—coupled with the arms of the Butlers. Robert the brother of this Lawrence died in 1622, and his remains are also at Brington and have a brass plate to his memory, with the Washington shield in excellent preservation.

John Washington the second son of Lawrence was knighted at Newmarket February 1622; he emigrated to Bridge's Creek, America, in 1657; he married Ann Pope; will dated 1675. Now next in line with George Washington's forefathers we have another Lawrence Washington, the son of John aforesaid; he married Mildred Warner; and he died 1697. We come then to Augustine Washington, the second son of Lawrence; married first Jane Butler, by whom he had three children; secondly to Mary Ball by whom he had six children. The eldest son of this second marriage was George Washington, the first President of the United States of America; he was born February 22nd, 1732, and was the great-grandson of John who emigrated to America in 1657, and sixth in descent from the first Lawrence Washington of Solgrave. He died December 14, 1799 at Mount Vernon, his home, a beautiful spot located in the State of Virginia on the banks of the Potomac River, where also lie his remains.

George Washington had the Solgrave arms in many ways about his person. There were two watch seals and also a book mark; the design was blazed, too, on the panels of his carriage. No item was omitted—the red bars, the five pointed stars and the raven issuant out of the ducal coronet, were all there. In the red and white bars and the stars of his shield, and the eagle issuant of his crest, the framers of the Constitution assuredly got the idea of the Stars and Stripes and the spread eagle of the national emblem, and this is the opinion of the Archaeological Society of England—the highest authority in the world.

I may say that frequently people confound Arms with Crests. They are totally distinct. The Arms is the shield—protection in battle. The Crest is that ornament which surmounts the shield. The crest in this case is the bird issuant, which bird, the raven with open wings suggested the spread eagle of the national emblem. It is an honor to explain why the ducal coronet is in the Washington crest, but evidently there is a dual connection somehow, possibly it may come through the marriage of Sir William Washington, knighted by James the 1st, with the sister of Villiers, Duke of Buckingham.

Respecting the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as a national flag, I will read what is printed on the back of a picture, taken from the original historical painting—entitled "Birth of Our Nation's Flag" by Charles H. Wegscheider and exhibited at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago in 1893, it reads as follows: "The first definite action taken by the Colonies toward creating a flag was in 1775, when Congress appointed a committee to devise a national flag. The result of the deliberation of this committee was the adoption of the 'King's Colors' of 'Union Jack' combined with thirteen stripes alternate red and white, showing that although the Colonies united in opposition to certain procedures or acts of England, they still acknowledged her sovereignty.

This flag was used in 1776, but later Congress appointed General George Washington, Robert Morris, and Col. George Ross to devise a new flag. This committee called upon Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, of Philadelphia, and engaged her to make a flag from a pencil drawing furnished by General Washington. Betsy Ross, as she was familiarly known, was noted for her skill in needlework.

The story goes, that General Washington, after explaining his drawing to Betsy Ross, directed that the stars should be six-pointed ones. Mrs. Ross objected to this, and argued that the stars in the sky seemed to have five points; following her argument by a practical demonstration, she folded a piece of paper, and with a single clip of her scissors, cut out a perfect five-pointed star. This was too much for the committee, and without further argument the Star of Betsy Ross prevailed. This flag was the first legally established emblem of the new nation.

On Saturday, the 14th of June, 1777 Congress resolved that the flag of the Thirteen United States be "Thirteen Stripes, alternate Red and White," that the Union be "Thirteen Stars, White in a Blue Field," representing a new constellation.

Because of the admission of Vermont and Kentucky, the flag was changed in 1794 by act of Congress, which by adding the flag of the United States should consist of fifteen stripes and fifteen stars; but in 1816 the flag was re-established as thirteen horizontal stripes alternate red and white, the union to consist of twenty stars, white in a blue field; one star to be added to the union upon the admission of each new state.

Such addition to be made on the 4th day of July succeeding such admission. This flag went into effect July 4th, 1818, and remains the present regulation national emblem of the United States of America.

Some description of the symbolism of the colors in the flag is not without interest:

Red—Representing "Courage and Divine Love."
White—Representing "Integrity of Purpose, Truth and Purity."
Blue—Representing "Steadfastness and Loyalty."

Now Mr. Chairman, officers and members of St. John's Rotary Club, I have great pleasure in presenting to you this flag, the Star Spangled Banner, and national emblem of the United States of America—from the Rotary Club of Detroit, Mich., which I can not help but feel is a mark of brotherly friendship, and a guarantee of its members' co-operation with you in various worthy objects and undertakings for the betterment of business and social conditions as between man and man from boyhood up.

SPEECH OF MR. ARTHUR MEWS.

Rotarian Mews on behalf of the Rotary Club of St. John's was very pleased to accept the flag presented by United States Consul Benedict, and in replying said as follows: MR. CONSUL BENEDICT:

On behalf of the Rotary Club of St. John's, Newfoundland, I accept from your hands as representing the Rotary Club of Detroit, this beautiful silk flag which is the National Standard of the Great Republic of the United States of America. I account it particularly fitting that you, in your representative capacity, have been chosen to make this presentation, for you, with your good wife and family, during your stay here, have ever sought to identify yourselves with everything that made for the welfare of the people of Newfoundland. We regard you with such sentiments of good will and friendship, that we would fain take you and account you as Newfoundlanders indeed.

We have been greatly interested in your address which set forth succinctly the origin and development of your National Emblem. We can not but notice that the colours in your flag and in our Union Jack are the same—Red, White and Blue. And we are proud of the fact that in our two great English speaking races, the qualities denoted by these colours, and mentioned by you in your address, are inherent. Both races have courage, both stand for righteousness and purity and both have the highest regard for honour and fidelity. The greatest guarantee that the world can have for peace, is the establishment of these characteristics and virtues in the minds of all men, and their observance in all the Councils of the Nations.

We have noticed that, in setting forth the origin of your flag, you went back to the time when the forefathers of your great people lived in the Old Land across the water, and our thoughts also went back to Old England whence came our forebears. Our peoples came from the same good English stock, and we are kin. We bear you not only friendship and good will, but we are held by the closer bond of blood. Together we fought in the fields of France and of Flanders and your sons and ours fell together in the great struggle for righteousness and liberty.

It is fitting that the Rotary Club should be the medium of this presentation, for our Club is an international one, knows no bounds of country, nor creed nor colour. Rotary stands for service to all.

It is therefore under the most happy and auspicious of circumstances that we meet to-day, both in regard to your good self as the honoured representative in this land, of the Great Republic of the United States of America, in respect of the Rotary Club of Detroit, and in relation to the two great peoples which we represent, having a common origin in standing for the same principles and virtues, and both seeking peace and good will upon earth.

In accepting this beautiful flag, I beg that you will convey to the Rotary Club of Detroit, our appreciation of their courteous act, and our thanks for their very kind thought.

Turning to Vice-President, Ernest Watson, Mr. Mews said: MR. VICE PRESIDENT:

In passing to your custody this National Flag received from the Rotary Club of Detroit, I feel that this Emblem will have a fitting resting place here. It has come to us from the land of the free, and the home of the brave, and it will find here a people blessed with the fullest freedom, and a race that responded gallantly and quickly when the call came to do battle upon the plains of Europe.

Amongst the guests present were Major Phillips, Mr. Wm. Dwyer, Mr. Hugh Anderson, Mr. Elliott, and Mr. R. M. Patterson. The pleasing event concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

Flowers and Sunshine.

Summer days are here again. The country invites lovers of nature to dwell amidst its myriad charms. The scent of the honeysuckle—the charm of hidden violets—the glorious morning atmosphere is calling to all who appreciate things that are natural. Unfortunately all cannot accept nature's invitation and spend the summer days in flowery bowers. But we can all enjoy, right in our own homes, the most fragrant flower garden scents, for Hudson's Three Flowers Perfume is the natural odor of beautiful flowers, and can be obtained at little cost in any drug or department store. You will just love this delightful, delicious, captivating odor and imagine yourself dwelling amidst the most wonderful flowers every time you remove the stopper from this dainty bottle. The Three Flowers scent is used in their Face Powder, Vanishing Cream and other toilet necessities—Jly4.

Popular Actress in Story of the Stage. "EVIDENCE" IS ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN'S BEST. Devotees of the screen who fancy a good story, well acted and equipped with a "surprise finish" to baffle their ideas of how everything is going to turn out will revel in "Evidence," the new Elaine Hammerstein picture now at the Nickel Theatre with Niles Welch again the star's leading support. "Evidence" tells a story of stage and society, shows the shallowness of the aristocracy, and proves that a girl of spirit and inventiveness can overcome opposition and keep every that seems almost insurmountable. As Floriole the actress Miss Hammerstein is seen to great advantage. Married into an aristocratic family, a line of cleavage is soon established by the offensive manner of the snobs who try to make life unbearable by the girl whom they consider an intruder. Comes into the picture an actor who seeks revenge for having been jilted and in a despicable plot to ruin the actress- bride he is abetted by a jealous female of the profession who has hoped to marry as her rival had done.

Seeded raisins are a delicious addition to oatmeal muffins. Serve whitefish in cucumber aspic without toasted crackers. Eggs spiced with tomatoes make an excellent luncheon dish. Chilled sliced watermelon is an appetizing breakfast fruit. Cottage cheese is best when served with cream and currant jelly. Chopped sweet pepper and caviar make a tasty sandwich filling. Onions and carrots are good scalded together with breadcrumbs. Vegetables should be cooked only long enough to make them tender.

SIDETALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE IRRITABLE MAN'S WIFE.

Recently I made some remarks on the irritable man and the unhappiness he causes in the family. For to-day I promised to say something about the wife of an irritable husband.

If the feminine readers are expecting another dose of sympathy such as I gave them recently I am afraid they will be disappointed.

This time I am going to sympathize to a degree—with the husband.

For I think some women make too much fuss over the occasional nervous outburst of an overworked, nervously overdriven husband.

The Terrible Strain.

Modern business life puts a tremendous strain on the individual. The fear of not being able to keep in comfort those who look to him so confidently for comfort, the constant haunting terror that the man behind him is gunning for his job, the fear of not being able to lay aside for old age, the dread of illness and incapacity—all are daytime nightmares that stalk forever in the back of many a man's brain and often crowd their way into the forefront.

More men over 40 commit suicide than women. And their reason is generally business troubles or the fear of them.

A Time For Tenderness.

Sometimes the outburst of irritability comes from an almost intolerable state of mind caused by these fears.

When this is true, a wife surely should be willing to think of the husband as sick rather than sinning, and instead of resenting such an outburst and making a quarrel of it, should pass it over as quietly as possible.

The wife who will do this earns her husband's gratitude. (And sometimes she gets it.)

A Right to Complain.

Then there are times when a man lashes out at his wife when he has some grounds for his irritability. When she is spending money unwisely when she isn't carrying her fair share of the partnership, is careless about making the home as comfortable as possible and the food nourishing, I know a woman who says her husband is always finding fault. But there is no question that she is always supplying faults for him to find. I think he might make his manner of pointing out defects a little pleasanter. He would doubtless get more out of it if he did. Nevertheless one can sympathize with him as well as with her.

This is the man's side of it. It isn't given in justification of the habit of uncontrolled irritability into which so many men get. There is no justification for that.

It is just offered to set the women folks thinking and to make them more tolerant. It is not offered for men folks to show their wives as an easy excuse for self-indulgence in the habit of irritability.

Prize Butter Maker.

California Pieterje Bloom Mead, a pure bred Holstein cow, owned and bred by the University of California, has just completed a year test which makes her the 67th Holstein in the United States to produce over 1,000 pounds of butterfat in one year. In 165 days she produced 28,236 pounds of milk containing 1,004.62 pounds of butterfat, according to official announcement from the Holstein Association of America. This fat production is equal to 1,255.77 pounds of butter.

World's Most Amazing Clock.

Austrian Craftsman. After Twenty-Three Years, Completes Clock Which Weighs 3,300 lbs. and Shows 15 Kinds of Time

It was stated during the world war that Austrian genius was responsible for many of the unique inventions which Germany used against the entente allies. Just as the Welsh race in Britain and its descendants in Canada and the United States has contributed in a very large measure to the list of modern inventions and daring engineering feats, so has the Austrian apparently been one of the mainstays of mechanical genius among the Teutons. One of the signs of Austria's recovery from her recent nadir of depression is the attention which she is once more giving to the products of her inventors, engineers and scientists, and men of letters.

One of the most recent of these, a London Sunday Times correspondent tells us, is a wonderful clock which is exhibited in a Vienna restaurant, with which its inventor, Jacob Jawrurck, is to be sent around the whole world to exhibit his masterpiece. For twenty-three years Jawrurck used all his spare time in the completion of his amazing invention. The clock is made entirely of wood, about twelve feet high, about seven feet wide and weighs more than 3,300 pounds.

Eighteen dial-plates show the time at Vienna, Cologne, Amsterdam, Paris, London, Madrid, Buenos Aires, and several cities in Asia. Built into the clock are the sun, the moon, the date, the figure of hour and second, a chime of sixteen bells, and a terrestrial globe which turns around its own axis in twenty-four hours.

No less ingenious is the "rondelle" connected with the clock. Every half-hour a door opens and the picture of the patient craftsman who has produced the clock becomes visible. Every minute two wooden figures appear, one a shoemaker knocking busily at his boots, and the other attending a playing automaton. The sun and moon rise and set. To the pedestal a castle with two turrets is fastened, and every hour two cannons come running out. Every half-hour six sentry-boxes open and soldiers appear before their doors. Up on the turret death swings his scythe. Every hour and a half a mountain railway express passes a historic castle.—London Sunday Times.

THE DRIFTER.

The drifter drifts to Driftersville and gets a job collecting junk; he works a fortnight with a will, and then remarks "This town is punk. The girls are fat, the climate's rank, and all the whippersnappers are brown; I'll draw my six bits from the bank, and move along to Tarrytown." He moves along to Tarrytown, and there he's hired to train a Spitz; he holds that situation down a week or two and then he quits. "The water isn't fit to drink," he writes in letters to a friend; "the city has no skating rink, so I'll move on to Bitter Bend." To Bitter Bend the drifter slides, and gets the job of melting lead; he works a week and then decides he can't endure a burg so dead. In all these towns live ardent lads who do not think surroundings wrong; they do their chores and save the seeds and make their lives a grand sweet song. To them the Old Home Town appears a pleasant place, with charm, repose, and in the fullness of their years their lots are cast in Easy street. And to their doors the drifter comes, a weary figure bent and gray, and springs the tale of thrashbare bums, the tale of chances thrown away.

Big Battle To-Day.

TOM GIBBONS VS. JACK DEMPSEY.

Gibbons Warmes Up Before He Enters The Ring.

(By DEAN SNYDER.)

SHELBY, Mont., June 29.—An idea made Thomas Edison the greatest inventor the world ever had. Another idea made Henry Ford the richest man the world ever had. And the idea may make Tom Gibbons the next heavyweight champion of the world here to-day.

A lot of fighters have good hindsight. Gibbons has foresight.

Before he steps into the Shelby Shell to face Jack Dempsey he will be warmed up like a race horse before a race or a baseball pitcher before a ball game.

Here is Tom's idea.

"I never get in the ring for a battle without warming myself up to a sweat," says Gibbons.

"In my dressing room I do three or four rounds of shadow boxing.

"When the bell rings I don't have to fool round getting started.

"I'm ready to go at top speed the first minute.

"I first began to do this warming up stunt three years ago.

"I piled up my knockout record after that.

"When I am warm my opponent is cold I have the percentage on him.

"It is easier to knock a fellow out when he is cold. His blood hasn't started racing fast through his veins to recuperate him if he gets in a bad way.

"On the other hand my blood is shooting through my body a mile a minute so if I get nailed a comeback is easier.

"Eddie Kane can tell you something about my dressing room shadow boxing.

"I was using him one night to warm up on. He got in the way of one. It broke his collar bone. He swore off being my sparring partner then and there.

"A driver jogs a race horse over the track until it starts to lather up a bit before facing the get-away barrier.

"When a pitcher goes in the box without getting his arm warm, the chances are ten to one he'll get knocked out of the box before he gets a sweat up."

Europe's Surplus Spinsters a Host.

25,000,000 Must Go Unmarried.

The German statistics office has made the announcement that there are on the continent of Europe 25,000,000 women, the majority of them young and marriageable, who must either embrace polygamy or go unmarried, as there are not sufficient men to furnish them with husbands.

In 1913 Europe had a recorded population of 460,000,000 people, and a surplus of 9,500,000 women. The present population is estimated at 475,000,000 with a surplus of 25,000,000 women. To each batch of a thousand men there are 1111 women.

Russia has the largest number of women, 1229 to 1000 men; Germany stands second with 1100; Austria third with 1049. Holland is the most favored in this regard; for in that country the surplus has decreased from 1020 to 1010 women to 1000 men.

New Town at Bay of Islands.

GREAT DEVELOPMENT OF PULP AND PAPER ENTERPRISES AT HUMBER RIVER UNDER WAY.

"We expect, inside of two years, to have a town with a population of not less than 15,000 people on the shore of Bay of Islands," said A. L. Barrett, Managing Editor of The Western Star, Curling, who was in Canada attending the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association Convention. "With the erection and operation of the new pulp and paper plants on the Humber River, we look for an influx of at least that many workmen and their families. The Northern Construction Company of Ontario has at the moment a gang of engineers and laborers working at Corner Brook, where the finishing plants will be erected. A shipload comprising several locomotives, five steam shovels and other machinery is already on the ground, and the work of running out the shipping piers is now well under way. Other steamers with cargo for the Construction Company are due in a few days. Three hundred men are employed at this point.

"The mill at Corner Brook will have a capacity twice that of the big Northcliffe Plant at Grand Falls, which turns out 2 1/2 tons of paper daily. At this place 5,000 men will be employed, with another 2,000 in the pulp works and timber cutting in the woods.

"The company owns hundreds of acres of wilderness of the finest woods, stretching along the Humber and inland to Grand Lake, which with an adequate reforestation policy would be inexhaustible.

"The pulp plant will be located about thirty miles from the mouth of the Humber, at that point where Junction Brook empties into Deer Lake. The latter river, a wild, turbulent stream, dashes through impassable gorges impossible to navigate. About half way along is a fall 200 ft. high. At this point, a dam will be constructed and a canal dug to a smaller stream, for the purpose of diverting the heavy flow of water to the power-house, where electricity will be generated to operate the plants.

"The company plans to develop 160,000 h.p., half of which they will use, and propose leasing the remainder. The Newfoundland Government hopes to realize $160,000 a year royalty on the power utilized.

"Another English company is at present negotiating with Sir Richard Squires, looking to the erection of a nitrate plant on the Humber, which would be a subsidiary to that operated by the Armstrong Whitworth Corporation. It is quite likely this proposition will be accepted and a contract entered into during the present session of the Colony Government. The exact nature of the proposed operation has not been disclosed.

"A third proposal before the Government is the working of copper areas at Gull Pond, located on the Reid Railway, about half way between Grand Lake and Millertown Junction, a distance of about ninety miles. Should cheap power be available from the Humber plant it is the intention to erect electric smelters at this point. An assay of mineral taken out shows sufficient ore to warrant operations on a large scale. Slate and marble abounds in the Bay of Islands district; both prove present in marketable quantities. With the operation of these plants I look forward to the West Coast enjoying unprecedented prosperity."—Morning Chronicle.

New Premier of England.

HAD RAPID POLITICAL RISE.

LONDON, June 10.—(A.P.)—There is a common impression that the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin is a rather young man to attain the Premiership of Great Britain, but this is due to the few years service he has rendered in politics before attaining the highest position any subject of the king can hold. Three living ex-Premiers reached the distinguished post at an earlier age than Mr. Baldwin, who is 56. Lord Roseberry was only 47 when he succeeded Gladstone. Lloyd George became Prime Minister at 53. Lord Balfour at 54, and H. H. Asquith at 56. Bonar Law was 64 when he took the task last October. His predecessors served much longer in the House of Commons before they were selected as Premiers than has Mr. Baldwin, who has been in parliament only 15 years and did not hold any government post until six years ago. Both Bonar Law and Asquith sat 22 years in the House before they became head of a government. Lloyd George had 26 years' service, and Lord Balfour 28.

Britain has five living ex-Premiers, three of whom are beyond the age of 70. The task is called a difficult, exacting one, but those who fulfill the duties as head of the government of Great Britain seem to survive it better than the presidents of the United States.

Caterpillars Block Train in Oregon.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—An army of caterpillars has invaded this section, delaying trains and covering roadways. Trainmen arriving here say the army is coming over the hills between here and Albany, covering the railroad tracks to a depth of several inches in spots and making passage nearly impossible. According to Prof. W. J. Chamberlain of the department of etymology of the State Agricultural College, the incursion is a periodic one caused by a temporary advantage gained by the caterpillars over a parasite which normally destroys most of their species in this section.

Dr. Kinsman's Heart Tablets and Powders

COULD NOT SLEEP ON LEFT SIDE.

Your Heart Tablets and Powders are a wonderful medicine, and I wish all to know what they have done for me. Before I commenced their use I could not lie on my left side at all nights, and had such a choking sensation in my throat that I could hardly breathe. I would have to sit up in bed nights my heart would beat so hard, and my left arm and side pained me very badly. My heart would also flutter terribly when I would go upstairs, and I would have smothering spells. I have felt none of these symptoms since using your Tablets and Powders, and can lie on my left side with ease. Please accept my gratitude for ever offering so good a medicine.
