A QUEEN UNCROWNED

— OR —
THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"No, Miss Macdonald is abroad—has been for some time—but is expected to return, shortly."
"Indeed! Where is she?"
"Can't say, positively. Somewhere where, among the wilds of Scotland, I think. Of course your marriage must be postponed now."
"Of course," said Disbrowe, with a promptitude that rather surprised his friend. "There can be no two ways about that. To-morrow morning I will start for Disbrowe Park."
"Do so, by all means. Lady Margaret intends spending the winter in Italy, I believe, and cannot leave home until she sees you. I will go down with you, if you choose."
"My dear George! the very thing. I would have asked you to do so, only I feared it would be too much even for your good nature, to bury yourself at Disbrowe Park. How are all my friends in London?"
"All quite well, I think—some have gone abroad, and some got married. Apropos of nothing—how did you like your visit to America?"
"Well enough."
"What is the place like?"
"A fine country—you should see it." "I know. I never care for wandering beyond the precincts of the Serpentine; the world beyond that is only half civilized. Do you like the Yankees?"
"Very much—never saw people I liked better."
"Particularly clever and wide-awake, I have heard—the men all smart, and the women all handsome. Well, I don't know but I shall take a trip over there, some day, just to see for myself. It's such an old story doing the Grand Tour, as they call it—like the journey nurses give children to Banbury Cross, it's slightly monotonous. But you look terribly used-up, my dear fellow; had you not better retire?"
Disbrowe, or, more properly, Lord Ernecliffe—but the former name is too familiar for you and I to give up, dearest reader—arose, and Lord Austrey rang the bell. A servant appeared and showed him into an elegantly-furnished apartment, where the greater part of the night was spent, not in sleeping, but in pacing up and down his room, lost in his own thoughts.
After an early breakfast, next morning, the two young peers were in their saddles and ready for their journey.
"And now for Disbrowe Park!" exclaimed Lord Austrey, as they dashed off together at a rapid pace.

CHAPTER XIX.

Never fell the sunlight on a fairer English homestead than the one on which streamed the warm, golden sunshine on the bright September morning of which I write. A large, ritated soliloquy. "Come in," he called.

Women Journalists on the Princes Trail

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press)—Byrra L. Staves, writing of the activities of press-women during the Prince's visit says:—

Before the arrival of the Prince of Wales, Calgary was the Mecca of American women journalists. They came chiefly from New York and Chicago, and varied from the bobbed-hair, flapperish type sent out by the Hearst publication to the sedate, silver-haired veteran of the press, who hides her real purpose of collaring our poor prince under the too transparent cloak of collecting material for a Canadian novel. There was even one armed with a letter from Queen Mary's secretary, written at the request of Her Majesty, commending this particular American lady for her war work, which the dear lady, who is also stalking the prince, was confident would serve as sufficient introduction to gain her an audience with his Royal Highness.

The imagination of another pen-pusher, feminine of course, has quite run away with her since coming to Calgary. Womanlike she believes that her's has been the unique experience of discovering why the prince bought the Alberta ranch and makes such a point of visiting each year. Romance and not the lure of the great open spaces is the real reason for Lord Renfrew's interest in Alberta, she declares. Obsessed with this idea, she has been sitting up nights dashing off a Sunday supplement feature story on the rumored (?) fascination a certain Alberta girl has for Britain's bachelor heir-apparent.

The members of the local press, calm and unexcited at the royal visit, were looked upon by their confreres from the other side of the line as a "bunch of dubs," to use their own expression, who do not know a good story when they have it handed to them. What the abnormally developed nose for news of the visiting scribble does not sense, is the considerate attitude of the Alberta newspapers in their appreciation of Lord Renfrew's desire to be treated as a private citizen.

The drain pipe of the refrigerator should be rinsed with soda water at least once a week.

New England Hen

MAKES RECORD IN OLD ENGLAND.
LONDON, Sept. 29 (A.P.)—England has a world-record layer in a Rhode Island Red hen from Wiltshire county, which produced 313 eggs in 303 days. The hen laid an egg every day for 44 weeks and on four days doubled up.

The hen was entered in egg-laying trials of the country council show, and its performance is given by the secretary as a world's record. The hen, he said, laid every day for a fortnight before the trials opened and every day after they closed until her owner took her away. This is the second contest in which the hen has been entered. In the first she laid 263 eggs in as many days.

Freak Block of Ice Found Buried in Earth

RENO, Nev., Oct. 12. (A.P.)—A freak of nature near here in the form of a huge solid block of ice buried 12 feet underground, measuring 60 feet in length, 20 feet in width and 10 feet in thickness, was uncovered recently by a steam shovel, while working on the new Truckee River highway. The workmen, after making numerous attempts to go around the ice, finally were forced to blast their way through it with high explosives.

It is believed that originally the ice, which is estimated to be about 40 years old, was a field of snow on the mountain side above and was compressed into its present form by an avalanche of earth, rocks and trees.

NOMINATION DAY.
LONDON, Oct. 18. Nominations of candidates for Parliamentary elections to be held on October 29th are being made to-day throughout Great Britain and Northern Ireland. There will doubtless be the usual eleventh hour surprises affecting individual constituencies, but it is calculated before hand that candidates will number approximately 1400. It is noteworthy that Liberals are nominating about 100 fewer than in last election while Laborites will have about 100 more than on that occasion, and, according to a statement made last night, will total well over 80, representing the biggest effort they have yet made. The number of women seeking to enter Parliament grows steadily with every general election. As against 34 last December there are 40 now, with the possibility of a slight increase when the papers are handed in to-day. Twenty-two of the women are on the Labor ticket, 12 are Conservatives, 7 Liberals and 1 Independent. All Cabinet members, except perhaps the Postmaster General Vernon Hartshorn will have to fight at the polls to retain their seats, and few of the leaders of the other parties will escape contests. There are many instances of fathers and sons appealing for election, mostly on the same ticket. Noteworthy among parents whose Parliamentary lead is thus followed are Prime Minister MacDonald, John Robert Clynes and Arthur Henderson, and among Liberals former Premier Lloyd George and Sir Alfred Mond. A striking exception to family political agreement is that of Baldwin, the Conservative leader whose son is an ardent champion of Labor.

RETURNED UNOPPOSED.
LONDON, Oct. 19. Speaker J. H. Whitley was returned for Halifax by acclamation at the official nominations Saturday. The following were elected by acclamation. Conservatives—Former Premier Stanley Baldwin, Bewdley Division of Worcestershire; H. L. King, South Paddington; J. M. St. Mary's Church

FAMOUS MISSIONARY PRESENT.
St. Mary's Church was the scene of a memorable service last evening, when the building was thronged with worshippers eager to hear Rev. S. M. Stewart of Ungava tell the story of his life and work in the north land. For over half an hour the great missionary held the attention of the immense congregation as he related story after story of his experiences. Incidents were told which brought tears to the eyes of listeners, while other facts of the conversion of heathen Eskimos to Christianity caused joy of heart. The address must surely have increased interest in Missionary work in the far North. The clergy present with the Missionary were Revs. H. L. Pike, C. Elliott, E. B. Gabriel, G. Camp, J. Goodland (Assistant Priest of St. Mary's), and A. B. S. Stirling, Rector. There was a full choir who led the singing of such hymns as "Soldiers of the Cross Arise!" "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and "Lord, Her Watch Thy Church is Keeping." It was a wonderful outpouring of praise. The collection amounted to a goodly sum. At the close of this memorable service the congregation—some of the largest ever seen in St. Mary's—left the building with feelings of thankfulness to the God of all men everywhere for having raised up Stewart of Ungava to give his life for the elevation of the children of the North Land.

Funding of French Debt Not Yet Considered

WASHINGTON—Much has been written recently about the probability of early funding of the French debt to their country and reports from Paris have said that proposals would soon be made for a settlement. The French Minister of Finance, according to these reports, is preparing several proposals. In some quarters here advice tends to throw much doubt on whether there is any early agreement between the two nations on a plan for funding.

Senator McCormack of Illinois, just back from abroad, does not think any of the larger continental countries of Europe will make an early settlement with the United States. The French proposals, according to one version of the matter, will amount merely to a gesture but will not be agreed on.

Canned Fruit to Britain

The B.C. Berry Growers Co-operative Union shipped eight cars of canned fruit within one week, four of them direct to Great Britain from Vancouver by water. Those four make the tally of direct shipments from Vancouver to the Old Country this season so far seven car lots—and this is one of the entirely new markets developed this year by the Union for B.C. fruit.

Seven thousand cases of canned fruit put up at the Mission plant by the Co-op have already gone through Vancouver for Great Britain this season, and more is to go.

The last shipment was canned raspberries and loganberries. In addition, a straight car of raspberry pulp went to Ontario—another entirely new market for B.C. pulp produce for jam making. And three cars of canned and jammed fruit went to Prairie points during the week referred to.

A quantity of apples are to be canned in gallon containers, and the market for them is chiefly for camp and logging outfit trade so far, though it is hoped to develop a shipping supply market also for this product. Large quantities of pears and prunes have been handled at the Mission plant—and already sold—which in former years growers could find no market for at all.—Farm and Home.

THE SOLUTION.

At a barber's the other morning there was an old gentleman with a head as smooth as a billiard ball. "I say, now, barber," he snarled, "pert my hair evenly!" "There isn't much left to part," said the man of lather. "You have always said that, and yet you have finished by parting it somehow, and I darsay you can now."

"No use to try, sir; but I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll make a line with a piece of red chalk."

Out To Get Fifth Win in Marathon.

Newfoundland Star Is Popular.

INTER COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL—

GAME ENDS IN DRAW.

The final game of the first round of inter collegiate football games was played on St. George's Field, Saturday afternoon, when the Collegians and Felidians played to a draw, each scoring a goal. The ground was in poor condition, the heavy rain of the previous days having made it soft, and there was a good breeze of wind which made it difficult to control the ball.

With the wind in their favor in the first period, the Felidians were successful in registering the first goal.

Rendell doing the needful. The second period was well advanced and victory for the Felidians seemed certain, when Puddister, for the Collegians, beat the Felidian goalie, registering the equalizer. Both teams now put on an extra spurt in an effort to get the advantage, but the full time whistle left the score standing one goal all. Mr. Ern Churchill was the referee.

This afternoon the first game of the second round will be played between the Felidians and St. Bon's.

Another Mammoth Production at the Nickel

"RED LIGHTS" WEEK OPENING

FEATURE ATTRACTION.

One of the greatest mystery plays of the year was "The Rear Car," by Edward Rose. The play ran for a long period at the Majestic Theatre in Los Angeles with Richard Bennett in the role of "the crime defector."

It was so successful that it was immediately taken East. Many were of the opinion that it was the best mystery play since "The Bat."

The Goldwyn company made the screen version of this mystifying piece, "Red Lights," as the screen story is called, was directed by Clarence Badger, and has in the cast many of the screen's best artists including

Raymond Griffith, Marie Prevost,

Johnnie Walker and Alice Lake. Raymond Griffith assumes the role of "the crime defector."

The consensus of opinion among the film producers is that the American audience prefers first of all good clean comedy. Its second choice is the mystery drama. In "Red Lights," which is at the Nickel Theatre to-day, the mysterious complications keep a tense interest throughout, and hold the audience in a state of suspense until the very last scene. During the production of the stage play members of the audience shrieked and grasped at the thrilling situations. The screen version, "Red Lights," promises to present much more of a thrill as the different scenes can be made more realistic than they could possibly have been on the stage.

The greater part of the action transpires in the rear car of the Continental Limited.

This photoplay will be accompanied by special music by Newfoundland's master-pianist, Prof. P. J. McCarthy.

by H. Wilmot Young and Marjie

Adams arrived by to-day's express.

On their visit here four years ago

they made numerous friends and it goes without saying that they will make numerous additional friends this season. The company is all new except the name, as apart from Mr.

Young, Miss Adams and the winsome

Marguerite the players are all new to St. John's. They carry a cartload of splendid scenery as well as a beautiful wardrobe together with necessary effects. Special vaudeville features have been secured for this territory only, the principal attraction of which is The Durands, the Dancing Demons

on Roller Skates.

The plays for the week will be "The Velled Woman" by Wm. Devereaux,

Wed. and Thurs., Myron Fagan's

Thrillodrama, "Thumbs Down," Fri.

and Saturday "Mary's Ankle," the famous comedy-drama by May Tully.

A Scene That Will Hold You Breathless

"THE ACQUITTAL"

He had brought consternation to the season's most fashionable wedding with his startling accusation. They stood aghast at his daring; they were speechless as the burning words of his bitter denunciation roared in their ears. A tense, dramatic moment that you will never, never forget!

But it is only one in a picture filled with big, stirring moments. A magnificent production made from a powerful mystery play, a tremendous cast, lavish homes, and the most powerful, gripping court-room scenes ever filmed. Truly, a picture that you will never forget!

C.L.B. Promenade Dance

The C.L.B. Band will hold another of their popular Promenade Dances in the Armoury Harvey Road, tonight. Owing to the Prince's Park being taken over for the Industrial and Mercantile Fair, the Band had to give up their night at the rink. The excessions at the Armoury has been tastefully decorated by the N.C.O.'s of the Brigade and these decorations will be left standing during the concert season. A special programme has been prepared for to-night and an enjoyable time is anticipated.

Justice to All; Favor to None

A TRIBUTE TO THE FINANCE MIN-ISTER.

The Daily News, commenting on the recent seizures at Corner Brook, said among other things "that it caused a sensation on the West Coast." It did more. It went a long way to restoring public confidence in the Department of Customs at St. John's, which had, of late years, by its acts of discrimination and its concessions to so-called local influences and demands, made itself a by-word and a laughing stock to the people on parts of the Coast.

The present head of the department has been but a short time in office, but within that time he has made it plain to the country that in his campaign for reform and a square deal to all, that his course of action is not to be governed by political expediency nor by opposing influences, but they are so powerful or far reaching.

It is evident that his programme of reformation is founded on the maxim of "Justice to All and Favor to None."

Leave It to Bonavista

$7.10 for Labrador and $9.50 for Shore Fish is a statement of fact which is far more satisfying to the fishermen than all the promises made by the Opposition of good things to come.

Monroe does not claim to be able to see into the dim and distant future. He is satisfied to scrape the hull of the Ship of State clear of barnacles, to repair the damage which resulted from bad management, to close the leaks, restore her to an even keel, and to put a capable crew in charge. Then if bad times come, nothing is left to chance. With a captain and a mate who are ready to take the rough with the smooth, who will not retire to their cabins when the clouds look black, or blame someone else when difficulties arise, the ship will fight the elements and outlive the storm.

The desperate straits in which the Opposition know themselves to be, their miserable record of wasted opportunities, blundering statesmanship, and squandering have led them to resort to the same methods in which they proved themselves adepts during the spring election. Saturday's Advocate described with pride the disorders caused at a meeting in Bonavista in order to prevent anyone from hearing what the Prime Minister had to say. What a confession of weakness! A loud noise to drown argument, and because the statements made by the speaker cannot be contradicted, Bedlam!!

The Advocate shows a surprising ignorance of the intelligence of the people of the District to imagine that their judgement is going to be influenced by a handful of rowdies, and it does its cause far more harm than good by insulting the electorate in such a barefaced manner.

This method of influencing an election may have been effective in the days when the franchise was controlled by a few and the people were little better than slaves of their bosses. It may still have an effect in Red Russia; but this is a part of the British Empire, the time is the twentieth century, and the voter has the right to think for himself and vote as his judgment directs.

Catch up to the times, friend Advocate; give the people the credit of possessing a little sense; understand that they cannot be rushed, and remember that the times are good, that the price of the staple is high, that the fishermen are fully aware of the fact and also of the reason why times have changed.

Monroe and Winsor went to Bonavista when the affairs of the country were in a state of confusion and they won a great victory. They are again submitting themselves to the electorate with a strong party behind them, and a proud record of what they have accomplished in a few short months, and the District will acclaim them.

Comparative Revenue Statement.

The following comparative statement of revenues collected at St. John's from July 1st, 1924, to October 18th, 1924, is another glowing testimonial to the efficient manner in which the finances of the country are being managed and to the business-like steps which have been taken to make everyone share the burden evenly:—

1922	$1,362,891.30
1923	1,749,686.66
1924	2,031,706.22

The figures show an increase for the current period of $282,066.86 over the amount collected last year, and 169,174.42 more than was obtained by the Department in 1923.

This growth in the Revenue is the best indication of returning prosperity and of capable administration. The increase is all the more remarkable, as it has followed the removal of duties on several commodities, and is the best indication that the Government will be in a position to continue this policy.

Two labourers and two Norwegians were arraigned, each charged with attempting to steal from the store of the Furness Withy Co., Ltd., on the 18th inst. Owing to the Crown not being ready to proceed the case was postponed. In the meantime the accused are held in custody.

An assault case between two women residents of Sebastian Street was dismissed.

Held Enthusiastic Meeting at Bonavista

We learn that the Prime Minister and his colleagues, Capt. W. Winsor held a most successful and enthusiastic meeting at Bonavista on Saturday night. The hall was packed to the doors and the speakers were given a tremendous ovation. On Friday night when a meeting was to take place a number of Conservatives entered the hall and made it impossible for the speakers to be heard by their disorderly conduct. Mr. Monroe and his colleagues felt confident of being returned with greater majorities than they had in the general election.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

October 19th.—The weather turned to rain, so I brood wearing solaces on my feet, and the first time of my doing so since the winter, yet am minded to protect my shoes against the mud which covers the streets.

Little news all this day, save that the price of fish do soar steadily and is the best thing possible, being that the whole country will benefit mightily from it. And indeed, business conditions have been on the mend ever since the Monroe party did come into power. Mr. Munn tells me how the Governor this day visits his office to see the polar bear skin which he has there and was mighty interested in it. This night, my wife busy with her seamstress, who sets about the business of shortening my wife's dresses since the new fashion will have them so.

Oct. 19th (Let's Day)—Lay long, but am waked by Pevoy coming to tell me how Mr. Monroe has a splendid meeting at Bonavista last night and nigh on 300 supporters there, which augurs well for his success.

Am on with Pevoy and to take a walk about the pond, albeit the weather too chilly for comfort, and my shoulder still gives me much discomfort. To my great joy many friends come this afternoon, contrary to my expectation, and we to pass the evening in drinking and much good discourse.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

BALDWIN'S DESCRIPTION OF CONSTITUTIONAL REBELLION.

LONDON, Oct. 20.
 Stanley Baldwin in his speech at Cardiff said it was intolerable insolence to look to Russia for a gospel suitable for progressive people who had fought for their rights eight centuries ago, while the Russians had been given their freedom only within the lifetime of many people now living.

It was Great Britain's duty to lead the world and not follow anyone. Mr. Baldwin referred to the election Manifesto issued by the leaders of the Trades Unions which referred to constitutional rebellion. These two words together, he said, meant nothing. "You cannot any more speak of constitutional rebellion than you can speak of chilly hell."

FIRE ALARM IN A MOVIE CAUSE 35 DEATHS.

ATHENS, Oct. 19.
 Twenty-five persons were killed and eighteen injured in a stampede in a movie house in Athens this p.m. caused by a false fire alarm. Most of the victims were children. It is believed the alarm was raised by pickpockets.

MACDONALD GIVEN A GREAT RECEPTION.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
 (Can. Press)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald was accorded a magnificent reception at the opening of his campaign in Aberavon. He declared that this battle will play a great part in this election and the trouble is that being without a great and widely read press, we are going to be at the mercy of those who speak recklessly and tell what is not true.

MONTEAL GREETED THE PRINCE.

MONTEAL, Oct. 20.
 His Royal Highness the Prince received both an official and popular welcome on his arrival in Montreal this P.M. Representatives of the province, the city, and local military headquarters extended the official greetings at Bonaventure Station, but as soon as the Prince came in sight of the assembled crowds there was a spontaneous shout followed by continuous cheering during his passage to the street.

HON. J. M. P. PELLETIER DIES SUDDENLY.

QUEBEC, Oct. 19.
 (Canadian Press Bulletin)—Hon. Dr. J. M. P. Pelletier, Agent General for Quebec in the United Kingdom, died suddenly to-night while visiting his daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Belleau. Upon entering the house he suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died instantly.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TREATY CAUSES HOT DISCUSSION.

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.
 M. Tchitcherine made an exhaustive review of Russia's foreign relations during the year at a session yesterday of the All-Russian Parliament which provoked a hot debate amongst six hundred delegates, principally on the subject of the Anglo-Russian agreement. Some of the delegates said it was a great mistake for Russia to sacrifice so much to the treaty. They asserted that the Soviets' claim against the Powers for intervention and property damages were ignored without discussion. M. Litvinov, Assistant Commissary of Foreign Affairs, and others defended the treaty arguing that it furnished insurance against increasing hatred which was the outgrowth of Soviet Russia engendered among the Great Powers.

HIGH SPEED TRAINS WRECKED.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 20.
 Four inquiries are under way today into the wreck of two international railway high speed freight trains at Tonawanda yesterday, in which two persons were killed and more than three score injured five of the latter probably fatally. Homer E. Foreman, motorist of a three trolley train that crashed into another section bearing Pennsylvania and New Jersey excursionists from Niagara Falls to Buffalo enroute to their homes was still unconscious at hospital and may die. His testimony is essential to an explanation of the excursion train which rushed at a speed of more than 80 miles an hour along 100 feet of straight track into the rear of a standing train.

HOSPITAL SHIP FOR LABRADOR.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
 A volunteer crew of four will sail a 100-foot hospital ship across the Atlantic from Yarmouth to Labrador next summer. Despite the risks they will run, they will not be paid a penny for their services. The ship "Strathcona the second" is to be used in connection with missionary work among fisherfolk along the Labrador coast. It is designed to replace the "Strathcona" which was wrecked off the Labrador coast a year and a half ago.

Nfld. Highlanders

ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE.

Yesterday morning the Newfoundland Highlanders, numbering about 80, under command of Lieut.-Col. W. H. Herder, O.C., attended the Congregational Church, where an eloquent sermon was preached to them by the Rev. D. L. Nichol, Pastor of the Church. Taking for his text, Revelation 2-10 "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life," the preacher treated his hearers to a masterly discourse, dividing his subject into three heads, viz:—1st, Loyalty to Christ; 2nd, Loyalty to our Church; and 3rd, Loyalty to our Country.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Nichol made mention of several notable incidents in military and civil life, of what "Loyalty" to duty meant, strongly urging on all present the necessity of being faithful to the great "Captain" of all, and emphasizing the ultimate reward to be obtained.

Before the sermon, the pastor welcomed the Highlanders to Queen's Rd. Congregational Church—although he himself was a comparative stranger to them, they were not strangers to the Church as the Memorial Tablet in its walls contained the names of some of their old comrades in arms, who had been faithful to duty even unto death.

The service all through was an inspiring one, the congregational singing being hearty, whilst the choir rendered the anthem "Rejoice greatly O Daughter of Zion," in a very pleasing manner.

After the benediction was pronounced, the service was closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Highlanders on parade attracted the attention of many citizens on the line of march, to and from the Church. Before the parade was dismissed Mr. Reid, the photographer, took a panoramic photo of the full Battalion on the Parade Ground.

Obituary

Martin Christopher, whose death occurred at the City Hospital a few days ago, following an illness of several months, was a native of Tanyen Norway, but had lived in Sydney 17 years. He was 74 years of age and during the early part of his life followed the sea, sailing on schooners all over the world. He afterwards settled in St. John's, Newfoundland, where he married his first wife, Ellen White, who died several years ago. His second wife was formerly Jane Neal, a sister of the late George Neal, a prominent merchant of St. John's. The late Mr. Christopher came to Sydney in 1907, and until a few weeks of the time of his death he was an employee at the machine shop of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company's plant. Besides his second wife he is survived by three sons, James Christopher, of Sydney; Thomas Christopher, of St. John's; and John Christopher, of Grand Falls, Newfoundland, as well as by a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Mellon, of Boston, all children by his first wife. One brother, Bernard Christopher, of Norway, also survives. Floral tributes at the funeral, which was held at Sacred Heart Church, were as follows: Sprays, Miss Pauline Smith, Captain George Rumsey, Mr. and Mrs. James Graven; cut flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mercer, and Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham and Miss Martha Cunningham; wreath, the employees of the machine shop of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company. Spiritual offerings were also received from Mr. and Mrs. James Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dawe and Mrs. Dawe and Miss Josie Dawe.—Sydney Post.

Forlorn Tactics

WINSOR'S REPUTATION IS HIS BOND.

Unable to produce a single reason wherewith to condemn the public record of Capt. Wm. Winsor, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who has rendered such commendable services to the country, and his constituents especially, since his appointment to that office, the Advocate seeks to belittle the gallant Captain by means of low down personal attacks worthy of the most despicable literary assassins who have been accustomed to such contemptible conduct. As others who have indulged in such personalities have ever been thoroughly despised, so too will public opinion regard the scribbles who descend into the gutter in order to furnish material for the Advocate in its attempts to injure Captain Winsor.

Allusions of a family nature that have no bearing on the Captain's public acts, and sneers at his residing here and driving in a motor car, which by the way is maliciously, and wrongfully imputed to his ownership, are made the main features of the Advocate's attacks on him lately. Now as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, with his office duties obliging him to be continually in the city, it would only seem natural for the Captain to take up his residence here, and why Mr. Richard Hibbs, one of the Advocate staff, should sneer at this is not quite clear, considering that when Mr. Hibbs himself gave up his former occupation after he became a Member, and came to St. John's to live, neither the Advocate or any other paper worried about it. As for motor cars Mr. Hibbs and his political associates, during the reign of terror from 1919 to 1923, could readily jump upon a public platform to-day and speak for hours on every grade and make of motor cars that the world produced, and all from personal experience in the using of these gliders of the road, whilst the pedestrians of our city streets and suburban roads who can remember a day in all that period when they had not to hop out of the way of a Hibbs or a Mosdell, a Coaker or a Collishaw skimming along in a high geared car, could be counted on the fingers of one hand.

The comparison between the political leeches of that squandering era, and the gallant Captain is so strikingly manifest that it is almost unnecessary to refer to it. To-day they are howling with envy at the great fisherman and sealing Captain occupying the position of Minister of Marine and Fisheries and occupying it merely for the sake of doing good for the fishermen of Newfoundland. For no one will deny that Captain Winsor is quite capable of earning a free and independent living for himself clear of political occupations altogether.

As a public benefactor and wealth producer the record of Capt. Winsor is one that every Newfoundland should be proud of. It is because of the unceasing labors of such as himself, at the seal and codfishery that this country has kept upon its legs, whilst on the other hand it is his attackers who did their best to impoverish us and drive us all to the Poor House to end our days. When political leeches incapable of producing a dollar's worth of wealth for the country, but on the contrary out for the sole purpose of seeing right and left the fishermen and every other taxpayer, attempt to belittle such men as Capt. Winsor every right-thinking person naturally resents it.

We are quite sure the electors of Bonaville Bay will resent more strongly the despicable allusions to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who as a native son of their own district has always been associated with them in their fishery avocations, ever ready to extend the helping hand and never too proud to mingle with even the lowliest among them.

Actuated by these feelings they will rightly conclude that he is more entitled to their votes than the representatives of those who gave the taxpayers four years of misery and torture, from the day they took office, until the electorate booted them out last spring, but who now little ravening wolves are howling to get back into a position again where they can fleece the taxpayers as unmercifully as before.

THE STORY

John Briggs, a young Englishman of humble parentage, has been employed for many years as a chauffeur to a Russian nobleman; he has thoroughly mastered the Russian language and customs as a result of his long association with the noble. When the communists revolt, John is made a prisoner because of his association with the nobility. He escapes and makes his way toward Poland through the forests. He comes across the lifeless body of an officer, whom he identifies as Alexis Triona by means of a small diary—the story of the man's thrilling exploits among the Bolsheviks—which he finds on the officer's person.

When John returns to England he again becomes a chauffeur. He devotes his spare time to writing, but all his manuscripts are rejected. In desperation he uses the adventures enumerated by Triona in his diary and signs his manuscript—Alexis Triona. He becomes famous overnight. He poses as Triona from then on.

One day he sees a beautiful girl, Olivia Gale, an heiress, being insulted by her male companion. He defends her and escorts her home. A brief courtship follows which culminates in their marriage.

John secretly feels the deception towards his wife and he confides in Major Oliphant, a friend of his, who has leased Olivia's former home. He leaves the Major resolved to tell his wife everything. John no sooner arrives home than he receives a telegram from Newcastle telling him that his mother is dying. He tells his wife that he has been called to Russia on a secret mission.

Meanwhile Olivia has learnt John's real identity, and she leaves their home in a fit of rage and resentment, and seeks solace at her home in the company of Major Oliphant and his sister. John returns from Newcastle and becomes aware of his wife's absence. Before he has a chance to search for her, he is attacked by highwaymen and is taken to a hospital in an unconscious condition. When he recovers, he becomes a mechanic and a chauffeur for a small garage in an English hamlet.

One day while driving around a dangerous bend overlooking a precipice, he stops his car to help a man who is having some trouble with his machine. He comes face to face with Olivia, who is in the car. The sight of her revives in him his fierce longing for her. He believes that his double-faced existence can never be forgiven. Without her, life has meant nothing.

He jumps into his car and drives it over the cliff; but he is saved from death by a tree which breaks his fall. Olivia, who in spite of everything, has always loved John, hurries to him. Confessions are made and accepted and they start life anew as Mr. and Mrs. John Briggs.

MIXING UP FORMER ENEMIES

SHANGHAI, Oct. 13. — Although the situation here is unchanged, it is expected that as the outcome of conferences among leaders to-night 25,000 Chekiang and Kiang troops surrounding Shanghai will be transferred to concentration camps in the vicinity of Woosung, north here. The plan is for the Chekiang soldiers to occupy Woosung with the former enemies.

Do You Know How to Read?

"Hardly anybody really knows how to read," said one whom the St. John's Dispatch calls an "exacting critic." But he exacted so little of himself that he went no further with the subject. Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick, however, who is head of the St. John's Public Library, and who selects for our readers the subjects in the department of Science, is more helpful in the matter. But he disposes in the latest Bookman of one of the common excuses from the non-readers:

"He who complains that he has no time to read is one who does not fundamentally care for that method of making contact with the minds of others. We always find time to eat and to sleep and to do other things that we consider necessary to the upkeep of our physical life. When we have realized that mental food is equally necessary to the maintenance of our intellectual life, and that we like best to get it from the printed page, we shall take as much time as is necessary for this also."

"We are apt to blame our schools and colleges for not achieving various things that they could not be expected to achieve. After all, formal education merely turns a man out with a certain equipment, and even his ability to do this is conditioned on the man's inborn qualities. You can not equip a dog to do research work in physics—but, on the other hand, neither can you equip a man to follow a trail by his sense of smell. Similarly John will always be John and Peter will always be Peter. As someone has said, if we break a potato in two, and give half to each of the boys to eat, half of it will turn into John and half into Peter."

"Granted, however, that our machinery is able to turn out a perfectly equipped person—equipped, we shall say, for acquiring the reading habit—whose fault is it if he does not acquire it? Librarians have gone a step further; they offer a vast stock of material for selection and endless opportunity for exercising the habit after it has been acquired. But in the last analysis the credit for acquiring it will have to go to John, and the blame for not acquiring it to Peter, if that is the way in which the gods have distributed their favors."

"The reading habit requires plenty of time. Fortunately, with him who acquires it intensely, it is a primary consideration, and other interests and occupations must necessarily yield to it. I have seen people reading under circumstances that would seem to render it impossible. I myself must confess to having read habitually while walking from a suburban train to a Hoboken ferry-boat, until I fell over a baggage truck and nearly broke my neck. I knew a boy of seven who, locked in an attic for his sins, picked up 'Queen Victoria's Diary' and passed a pleasant afternoon. Plenty of noon-day lunches read while they eat and seem not to require indigestion. A maiden on a farm once told me that she kept an open book at one end of her ironing-board. 'You can pick up lots that way,' said she."

Household Suggestions

RENDER FAT.

To render fat cut it in small pieces and melt in the upper part of a double boiler or in a basin set in the oven of a coal range. Then strain through cheesecloth laid on a wire strainer.

CUSTARD FOUNDATION.

Do not make the custard foundation of your ice cream too sweet, for too much sugar interferes with the freezing process.

RUBBERS FOR CANNING.

It is best always to use new rubbers for canning, since they are much cheaper than failures that may result from the use of old rubbers.

FOR FLY PAPER.

Remove sticky fly paper from fabrics by saturating with alcohol, kerosene or turpentine.

SUBSTANTIAL SALAD.

A salad that has substance as well as taste is made by combining cold boiled potatoes, deviled ham, hearts of lettuce and mayonnaise dressing.

LEAVE IN WATER.

After washing, all vegetables with the exception of onions should be left in water until they are needed again.

USE A FORK.

Sponge cakes and angel foods should be pulled apart with a fork rather than cut with a knife.

SOAK IN BORAX.

Remove stains made by chocolate or tea by soaking in cold strong borax water for a while and then pouring boiling water through in the usual manner.

WORKING THE NEIGHBORS.

WALT MATCH

I had a headache in my brow, and said to Gaffer Gray: "Oh, neighbor, will you milk my cow, and feed my hens their hay? I feel too ill to do my chores, I'm frantic with the pain, I feel as though a dozen sores had festered in my brain. When you have spasms in your back, or boils that need the lance, I'll do as much for you, by heck, and glad to have the chance." "Your own dire burdens you must pack," old Gaffer

Gray replied: "I have lumbago in my back, and stitches in my side. I have the foot and mouth disease, my life is far from sweet, and I have spavins on my knees and ringbones on my feet. I'm feeling like an earthquake now, a tortured frame is mine, and still I milk my old roan cow and feed my spotted swine. And still I round up ducks and geese, and lock them in their shed; and in my bosom there is peace when I repair to bed. My neighbors have their chores to do, and they are sorely distressed, and they are anxious to get through and shed their shoes and rest. And if I asked them over here to do the evening chore, they might obligingly appear, but they'd think me a bore. I do not call upon my friends while I can walk a yard; for nearly always friendship ends when it is worked too hard." And so I fed my hungry fowls and groomed the raging swine; the neighbors shuddered at my howls, but thought my courage fine.

London Letter

(By PANTON HOUSE for The Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 21.—"Show me the oldest London relic," said the Canadian guest. He went on to explain that he did not want to see Egyptian mummies or Assyrian sculpture, or even flint knives and axes belonging to the prehistoric men who lived where London stands; he must have the oldest relic of the oldest London.

Not much is left of London's Roman buildings, above ground, but we did our best. We showed our visitor two fragments of the Roman city wall—those in the Tower of London and the street called "London Wall." (What is now called the City is very nearly the area enclosed during the Roman occupation, the walls having been completed in 350. William the Conqueror pulled down, in 1077, part of the wall to clear a site for his Keep, which we know to-day as "The White Tower.") We then proceeded to the Strand, and inspected the Roman Bath, which for a long time was regarded as of doubtful antiquity. Until a few months ago the whole affair has been covered with a thick covering of cement, but this has now been partly chipped away, disclosing unmistakable signs of Roman tiles, and tiles themselves. The Bath still fills with water that filters through the soil from the Thames; the exact place of entry has not yet been discovered. Dickens' David Copperfield tells us that he had "many a cold plunge" here.

Finally we visited London Stone, probably the most venerable relic of all; a shapeless chunk, built into the wall of St. Swithin's Church in Cannon Street, and protected by an iron grating. Of this Stone it was written by John Stow, the London chronicler who died in 1605, "the cause why this stone was set here, the time when, or other memory hereof, is none." It may be a prehistoric monument, marking the meeting place of the city fathers, but it is generally supposed to have been, in Roman times, the "Golden Milestone," from which all roads radiated and distances were measured.

One of the charms of London is the quaintness of its church-names and street-names; for instance, St. Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe.

This church, with the neighboring Wardrobe Court and Place and Wardrobe Terrace, commemorates one of the London treasures which perished in the Great Fire of 1666. King Edward III. (1327-1377) acquired a house hereabouts in Blackfriars for the storage of his robes of state. His successors also kept their ceremonial garments here, and when the house was destroyed it had become a perfect museum of the royal clothing of nearly three centuries. St. Andrew's is one of the 32 survivors of the 50 post-Fire churches built by Wren.

From early spring to late autumn—from the first snowdrop to the last chrysanthemum—the flowers in the London parks rank high among the popular free shows of this city. Just now dahlias are providing the star turn. In St. James' Park for example, facing Birdcage Walk, there are two huge banks of these gorgeous flowers, of every shade of colour—white, yellow, rose, scarlet, crimson, purple and mauve—and of many different forms. All day long they have hordes of admirers, many with notebooks, taking down the names (well displayed) of varieties that they themselves desire to grow. Those magnificent efforts by the gardeners of our parks are of the greatest value to the amateur gardener, whose name in this country is Everyman. Dahlias chosen from specimens of cut blooms in a flower-show are not always satisfactory for garden decoration, as some of the finest varieties have weak stems, or hide their blooms amid the foliage. Here the varieties have been selected to give a good out-of-door effect.

Birdcage Walk, by the way, is one of the London names which please the Canadian friend quoted above. St. James' Park, first enclosed by King Henry VIII. about 1539, was remodelled and improved by Charles II. In whose time it became, as one may read in Pepys' delightful diary, a fashionable resort. Charles caused a number of scattered ponds to be joined together, forming the present lake, and took pleasure in feeding the waterfowl, just as the modern Londoner and his visitor do to-day. by him is said to have given its name to Birdcage Walk.

Most popular among the waterfowl of St. James' Park are the four pelicans. King Charles would have appreciated these grotesque fowl, with their enormous bills and their dances, wings outspread. These creatures are considerably bigger in the body than a swan, with none of the swan's elegance; they are not even graceful in the water. Their beaks, to which elastic pouches are attached, must be getting on for 18 inches long.

During the day the pelicans are usually to be seen squatting about the green margins of the lake. They scorn the bread which the people bring for the small waterfowl, but condescend to take an interest in offerings of scraps of meat, which they catch in their enormous mouths. (If those beaks were only hooked instead of being straight, they'd be Jew ducks, a visitor remarked in our hearing.) Just before 4 o'clock the intelligent birds assemble near the keeper's lodge for the serious meal of the day. When the attendant appears with his bucket, they range up in line, and catch the big flat-fish which he distributes, four or five to each. It is easy to see how the trick of catching was acquired, for the pelican's bill is not adapted to picking up food from the ground, and if a course of the dinner is missed it is only scooped up with difficulty.

Scandal says that the pelican is a cannibal. The tame London sparrow, which hop about fearlessly among the great birds in search of the crumbs that they despise, are sometimes engulfed in their pouches.

New Plane

SOON TO ENTER CROSS-CHANNEL AIR SERVICE.

LONDON, Sept. 26 (A.P.)—The largest single-engine passenger-carrying airplane ever built will shortly be put into service between England and the continent. The air screw will be nearly 16 feet long and the plane has adjustable wing flaps, which help to reduce the landing speed and add to the safety of the plane. The cruising speed will be about 105 miles an hour, and the plane will carry 14 passengers.

Venerable Birds Pass On

VIENNA, Sept. 25 (A.P.)—Some old birds have been using the Vienna zoo as a stopping place. The records show the death recently of a vulture, aged 108, and an eagle aged 104.

Never put anything but ice in the ice chest of your refrigerator. Siphon the water from the fish bowl with a small rubber tube. Waters filled with soft cheese are nice served with fruit cocktail.

Belle of Yorkville
Attains Life Ambition With Highest Grades—And She's Giving up Higher Pay as Designer to Make Dream Come True.

Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill—that sounds like the refrain of an old Irish song. It might well be, too, for Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill is going to be a cop—aye, Captain, and a good one, too.

Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill—that name is wonderfully engaging—in thirty years old and her home is in the old Yorkville section, No. 450 East 84th Street. She led all the girls in the recent examination for policewomen with a percentage of 92.35. Physically she scored 100, mentally 87.70, orally 100, in citizenship 75, which is the top figure allowed; in experience 90, and in knowledge of police duties 73 per cent. Of 110 examined only fifty-two qualified. And of the fifty-two, thirty-seven bear Irish names, which is as it should be, according to police tradition.

Twenty years ago, when Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill played "cops and robbers" with the other children of Yorkville, she insisted on being a "cop." She has always wanted to be a cop, and now her dream is about to come true. She also took the examination recently for court attendant and passed. But she is prepared to decline that honor, which pays $2,500 a year at the start, to be a police-woman, and she will have to wait five years to reach that salary rating. Also, she is going to give up a job as designer in a Fifth Avenue gown and millinery house, and that means a considerable reduction in income. But Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill just can't help it. She was born to be a cop, and she is going to meet her fate with a smile.

The new policewoman was a Red Cross worker during the war. She is well educated, having gone to a convent in Elmira after finishing the public schools here. She is a member of the Thanawaga Democratic Club in Yorkville, and is interested in politics from the woman's point of view. In her new work, she is particularly interested in welfare work among young girls, and she hopes to get an assignment that will give her a chance to visit the dance halls and see how young girls are protected there.

When she found that it was possible for her to join the Police Department—even though she was handicapped at the start—by being born a girl—Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill started to learn the things a policewoman should know. For months she went to a preparatory school four nights a week. The other three nights in the week she fitted up her home as a station house and she practiced being a police-woman, using her father and mother and two brothers and a sister as other actors in the game. It was great sport for all of them, as the whole family had become imbued with the idea that sister "must get on the force."

She says she got her idea of taking the examination from reading the stories of crime and police work in the newspapers. She saw the need of just such a police-woman as she is prepared to be and decided it was her duty to go into the work.

Her physical perfection is due to the fact that she is a lover of outdoor sports. She swims and plays tennis and golf whenever she has the chance. But her beauty is a gift. Even the pretty girls of Yorkville admit that Mary Isabelle Agnes O'Neill is a perfect beauty.

SIDE TALKS.
By Ruth Cameron.

IS THIS A GOOD METHOD?

The family was enjoying the Indian summer breeze on the porch. Mother was reading the paper, father smoking his after dinner cigar, the two older children chatting about school work, Dorothy, the youngest, was playing with her doll.

From somewhere in the neighborhood a child set up a whining, petulant cry.

"What's all the racket?" someone asked.

"Sounds like the noise Dorothy makes when she doesn't want to go to the store," remarked father pointedly.

In the midst of all that peace, Dorothy looked up from her play with a hurt expression. "I don't think that's fair, papa," she declared indignantly, "I wasn't whining now."

"No," said her father sternly almost angrily, "but that's just the sort of noise I've heard you make when you didn't want to do something you were asked to." And forthwith he began an exaggerated imitation of the sort of thing to which he referred. "That's the way you sound."

Quick tears sprang to the child's eyes. "It isn't fair, it isn't fair," she whispered hotly to herself.

Neighbors stopping in created a happy diversion and the subject was dropped.

Shaming the Children.
What do you think of dealing with childish derelictions?
I have heard this father hold forth at length on the subject with a considerable degree of conviction. He believes in "shaming children out of their faults." And the shaming process consists in continually hounding them in regard to the fault, bringing it up at times like I have illustrated when the fault isn't in evidence, talking about it, mocking it, impressing it upon the child at every conceivable opportunity.

Outrages Their Sense of Justice.
Of course father's idea is that, given a chance to see how hateful the fault appears to others, the child will be shamed out of it. But it doesn't work that way as a rule. Children are sensitive, the hurt of the ridicule is apt to blind them to its justice.

I prefer the opposite way. I believe that a word of commendation on some occasion when the fault has been over- come for the time being, is worth any amount of sarcastic comment on the falling at other times.

Just Folks.
By EDGAR GUEST.

JIM JOHNSON.

Jim Johnson wasn't much to see. No swell aristocrat was he. No stylish clothes he wore. He never owned a pair of spats. He had no use for high silk hats. Or butlers at his door. A suit some one might give to him Was plenty good enough for Jim.

Jim Johnson was no learned man. His grammar never smoothly ran. His "did" was always "done." You'd say: "I say," he'd say: "I seen."

I think you gather what I mean. He was no polished son. He fished and hunted all year through And made his living by it, too.

That power divine which shapes our ends In curious ways provides us friends, And so it was with Jim; Each summer to his village came, Great men of wealth and wordly fame.

To hunt and fish with him, And they would sit the whole night through To hear him tell them what he knew. Jim knew the stars, the birds, the trees, The habits of the honey bees, And all of nature's lore; He knew a thousand secrets hid From men who always say: "I did." And here is something more: These polished sons of life rejected To hear the stories that he voiced.

They loved him. Underneath the rough Exterior and his manner gruff They saw the soul of him. Nature had taught him all he knew. And in spite of fawns critics view, Had made a man of Jim. The man who knows what you don't know Always has something to bestow.

An Amazing Story From Real Life
"THE FOOL'S AWAKENING."

The tremendous popular clamor for stories of true realism taken from the lives of everyday human beings—the absorbingly interesting experiences of actual people—has been answered by numerous magazines whose amazing success is entirely due to this democratic demand for stories of the people, by the people and for the people. The huge number of their readers, which is estimated at over five million, is rapidly increasing month by month, with the result that the "true story," "true romances," "real life," and "confessions" type of narratives have revolutionized the entire magazine world.

This great ready-made audience is YOURS for the asking, when you see "The Fool's Awakening," for here is the dramatization of the true story of a man's confession—a vivid page from real life, torn out of a Russian nobleman's diary by a humble chauffer who used the account of another's terrible experience, during the horrors of the Russian revolution, to benefit himself. The man impersonated the Russian and finally confessed his deception, after meeting with numerous adventures and nearly wrecking his life and the happiness of the woman he loved.

This true narrative has been remarkably presented to the public by William J. Locke in his famous novel, "The Tale of Triona," and pictured with supreme skill by Metro. Every angle of intense human interest and gripping appeal that has won the vast following of these five million readers is in "The Fool's Awakening."

This amazing film will be the feature at the Majestic Theatre to-night. It will follow another one of those mission in back again to the standard price, 20 cents. The complete shows nightly.

Are all Diseases One Capable of One Cure?

What is disease? Is it possible that all diseases are really one, and one antidote might be discovered to cure every ill?

That is the startling theory of Mr. R. R. McDonagh, F.R.C.S., discussed in the World recently by Mr. Johnston Abraham, the famous surgeon. Mr. Johnston Abraham believes that this theory may be the beginning of a new creative crisis in medicine.

"Disease," he writes, "if Mr. McDonagh's thesis be accepted, is simply a successful attempt on the part of the invading organism to rob the protective particles in the blood of their free electricity; and recovery from disease is a reversal of this process. Due to the protective particles finally getting the upper hand, the invading organism by reaping this electricity.

It will thus be seen that the idea of this revolutionary doctrine is based on the electron theory of physics, which has already nullified all modern ideas of physics, chemistry and electricity."

Mr. McDonagh's view, the body resists a general protective substance which resists generally. The idea of cure would be to every case of organic illness the strengthening of this substance; and, given certain conditions, the antidote most suitable for increasing the condenser power of the protective particles could be worked out by chemists.

This antidote would be a cure-all. It would put reinforcements into the system to fight the germs of all disease.—London Tit-Bits.
