GORDON'S EXPERIENCES.

A LETTER DECLARING "HE HAD ABANDONED HOPE.

and the Mudir Invested - An Attack That Had to Be Postpened.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—One of Gordon's lets "Since the river rose we have driven off the Arabs in four fights. We fired their towns. We sent expeditions to Sennaar. We had alfight on Sept. 4. We were defeated, with heavy loss, our square being always broken. It has been quiet since we fired three million rounds in these fights. Arab Krupp guns often hulled our steamers. We have lost three steamers and built two. All the captives with the mahdi are well. Seaton Bey is well treated, but is kept in chains. The nuns among the captives ostentatiously married the Greeks in the party to save themselves from being compelled to marry Arabs. There is a mysterious Frenchman from Dongola with the madhi. Don't let Egyptian soldiers come. Take direct command of the steamers at Metemneh and turn out the fellaheen."

In a letter to a friend at Cairo, dated Dec. 14, Gordon wrote: "It is all up with us. I expect a catastrophe within ten days. It would not have been so if our people had kept me better informed of their inte tions. My adieux to all."

KORTI, Feb. 24.—The prisoners captured in the skirmish of the 17th state that 2000 Arabs from Metemneh were encamped near the British front. The chiefs intended to make a night assault, half of the men being eager for the attack, but the others were disinclined. The attack therefore was postponed. The mahdi has written a letter promising reinforcements, impressing them to follow and harass the British troops while crossing the deserts. The mahdi's most active general, Abdullah Khalifa commanded the Arabs at Abu Klea. It is reported that the mahdi has offered the Egyptian garrison in the equatorial provgyptian garrison in the equatorial prov-nces of the White Nile and Sennaar a sate conduct out of the country if they will give up their arms.

Korri Feb. 24,-Lord Wolseley res ceived a visit to-day from a number of friendly native chiefs. He announced that it was the fixed determination of the British to recapture Khartoum and avenge the death of Gordon. Rumors that the mahdi was advancing arose from the mahdi's making a pilgrimage to his father's tomb at Kerrers with an immense retinue.

Gen Buller has an ample supply of food and water at Abu Klea.

A grand durbar was held yesterday in the presence of the Rabbabish and other sheikhs and the British troops. Lord Wolseley personally invested the mudir of Dongola with the order of St. Michael and St. George. The mudir asked Wolseley to convey his thanks to the queen.

A hitherto unpublished account of the battle of Abu Klea says it is ascertained beyond doubt that Col. Burnaby, who held no official position in the regiment, ordered a heavy camel corps to advance. This broke the square and caused heavy mortal-ity. His counter order to retire came too

THE PENALTY OF INFIDELITY.

An Unfaithful Wife Swallows the Poison She Prepared for her Spouse. Paris, Feb. 24.—The Figaro and other papers publish the following most sensaonal drama, which, they allege, has just occurred here in the family of wealthy, well-known Americans, residing near the Avenue de Bois de Boulogne. The married couple lived most happily together for several years, but last week the husband discovered that his wife was guilty of clandestine relations with his gardener. Ten days later he found in one of his wife's desses a love letter from the gardener containing the following sentence: "Empoisonne ton mari, et nous fuirons ensemble a New York, ou nous vivrons heureux." The husband said nothing. In silence he awaited the moment for a terrible revenge. Last night as the husband and wife were going to bed the wife placed, according to her usual custom, two glasses of sugar and water—one for herself and one for her huswater—one for herself and one for ner nus-band—on the dressing table near the bed, the wife, as she had always done, putting the sugar in the water. The husband watched the operation, betraying no un-usual expression. Just as his wife was about to drink her husband asked her to about to drink her husband asked her to hand him a handkerchief that was hanging on the back of the chair. As his wife turned to take the handkerchief her husband quickly and adroitly reversed the tray, upon which were placed the two glasses, so that the one intended for him atood in the place of that intended for his wife. The husband and wife then drank at the same moment. As the husband are the remaining to the Grand Trunk railway have agreed to accept a continuance for three months of the 5 per cent, reduction in their wages enforced about a year ago. They are promised positively that at the termination of the present extension the former rate of pay will be restored.

A SENSATIONAL EPISODE.

Mr. O'Brien, M.P., Becoming Unruly Suspended by the Speaker.
London, Feb. 24.—Mr. Gladstone in the use of commons this evening moved to postpone all notices of motions until after the order of the day resuming the debate on Sir Stafford Northcote's motion had bsen disposed of.

The opposition became so noisy that the speaker interfered, informing the house following call issued by the major general speaker interfered, informing the house that he thought the subject had been adequately discussed. The Parnellites joined in a prolonged howl and derisive cheers. O'Brien, home ruler, shouted "We will remember this in Ireland." The remark was greeted with cries of "Oh!" "Name him! Name him!" The speaker named O'Brien.

Mr. Gladstone at once moved that the named member be suspended. O'Brien shouted, "This is an honor it has been my ambition to attain".

After the uproar had subsided Mr. Gladstone's motion was carried by 244 yeas to 20 nays.

The speaker ordered O'Brien to withdraw irom the house. The latter straightened

The speaker ordered O'Brien to withdraw from the house. The latter straightened himself to his fall heighth and exclaimed with great precision and sarcasm: "Certainly, sir; I will withdraw from the house with more pleasure than I entered it." He then strode out.

The Gladstone-OBrien episode was quite a sensation. Mr. Gladstone's conduct was firm and determined.

O'Brien was suspended for a week.

Mr. Gladstone explained that he never mentioned abandoning the Sondan after thr capture of Khartoum. He had merely said the evacuation of the Soudan by Egypt has formed the original policy of the government. That policy remained unaltered, but recent events had prevented its immediate execution. Mr. Gladstone stated that the government was taking steps to secure the entire Afghan frontier, including Herat.

Mr. Gladstone's motion to resume the debate on the motion of censure was then adopted by 222 to 19.

Mr. Gibson violently attacked the government, accusing the ministry of deliberately gambling away the life of Gordon. The present policy appeared to be one of going to Khartoum to please the whigs and running away to please the radical.

Mr. Goschen (liberal) severely criticised the government's 'policy and announced that unless a different one was proposed he would support Sir Stafford Northcote's motion.

Important if True.

The Montreal Herald has the following special from Halifax, dated Sunday, which is certainly very important if true :

A Probable British Premier. The rumors that Mr. Gladstone's failing nealth will compel his retirement from public life at an early day, whether the sending vote of censure be carried or not, are increasing in frequency and coherence. The cable correspondents speak of this as a foregone conclusion, and even venture to eginning to see more and more that the name his successor, also several probable members of the next ministry. The Ottawa Free Press denounces the reresentatives of the metropolis for not upporting the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court. Its reasons for doing this are very narrow, and entirely foreign to the merits of the question. It regards the court as an "Ottawa institution" which "is the means of an annual expenditure of watch $200,000 in the city," and "gives employment" to citizens. If these be the purposes for which the court exists the people of Canada, who pay the $200,000 afore said, may well inquire if the whistle be not too dear at the money. We trust that our Ottawa friends generally have a more dignitied conception of the court's duties than the Free Press entertains.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER's CHERRY PECTORAL. 'I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

From what Ellen writes me Ishould think Jennie to be as much opposed to it as Russell. She says that she can't bear to hear his name mentioned, and that it was as much as she could do to get her to consent to come at all when she heard that Russell was at home."

"They are a couple of simpletons," said the old gentlemen testily. "I've got half a mind to make another will and leave my property to some charitable institution."

bound, Russell Wilder had to travel part of the way by stage.

There was only one passenger besides himself, for which he was not sorry, the day being very hot and sultry.

This passenger was a lady—there was an unmistal sable air of ladyhood about her which told him that. He noticed particularly the daintily gloved hands and well fitting boots.

Her graceful form indicated that she was both young and pretty, but he could not see her face on account of the envious

But as soon as she got comfortably set-tled in the corner to which Russell gal-lantly assisted her, she threw it back dis-

They taked of the beautiful scenery through which they were passing; of the newest books and latest magazines, some of which Russell had with him.

The lady inwardly thought her companion to be the most entertaining and agreeable man she ever met with. And as for Russell, he often lost the thread of his discourse in admiring the rad, dimpled mouth and the pearly teeth disclosed whenever she spoke or smiled. Certain it is that his four hours' ride from P-- to Dighton were the shortest four hours he had ever known in his life.

"Where do you want to be left, sir?" enquired the coachman, as they entered the village.
"At Mr. Charles Hunt's, Locust Hill.
Do you know where that is?' said Russell, putting his head out of the window.

'Certainly, sir; take you there in a jiffy."
"Why, there's where I'm going," said her eves widely.

the lady, opening her eyes widely. "Nellie," Mr. Hunt's wife, is my most particular friend; we used to go to school together."
"And Charlie Hunt is my most particular friend, and one of the finest fellows in the world."

'How very odd !" "How very data" "exclaimed Russell, with a meaning glance at his fair companion, which made the rosy cheeks still more rosy. "Might I take the liberty of inquiring"

"And I had no idea of. being able to come until just before I started. You see, mamma—my step-mamma, you know—was going to Uncle Wi.der's, and she insisted on my going with her to see the hateful, disagreeable prig of a cousin of mine that they are determined to marry me to. So when mamma was busy packing I just put on my things and slipped off, leaving them a note to tell where I was going. Wasn't that a good joke on them all?

"I should think it was," said Nellie, with a burst of merriment, for more than the occasion warranted. "When I saw down stairs. There's Sarah waiting to see them from the depot."

"Can't. Am going away myself, sir."

"The deuce you are!" responded the old gentleman, pushing his spectacles up over his forehead and regarding his nephew with an air of surprised consternation.

"Yee, sir. Charley Hunt invited me out to his place for a few weeks, and I thought that I might as well go now as any time."

"I should say that it was a very strange time to be leaving home. Your aunt and cousin will consider it a personal affront," in response to a meaning glance from his wife aried. in response to a meaning glance from his wife, said: cousin will consider it a personal affront, your cousis, Jennie; Miss Carleton, your cousin, Russell Wilder."

The embarrassment which followed the blank astonishment into which this announcement threw the parties, so unexpectedly made known to each other, was quickly dispelled by the turn that was given it by their host and hostess.

"I suppose you'll want to book yourself for the next stage!" said Mr. Hunt, slyly, to Russell, who had been taken into his friend's coufid ne.

"And you," said his wife, turning to Jennie, "I don't suppose anything could tempt you to remain, now that you are to have that hateful, disagreeoble"—

"Nelie!" interrupted Jennie, crimsoning, as she remembered her words.

"Well, I wont then. But you must let me laugh. Just to think of you both running away from each other and running in the same direction and to the same place."

The ringing laugh that burst from Nellie's lips was too contagious to be resisted even by those at whose expense it was raised.

This merriment was followed by a general good feeling, and a pleasanter teaparty never gathered around the social board. We need hardly say that Russell did not take the stage next morning, nor did Jennie seem at all disposed to cut short her visit on account of her cousin's did Jennie seem at all disposed to cut short her visit on account of her cousin's unexpected appearance. When they did go they went as they came together. Mr. Wilder's astonishment was only equalled be his delight, on looking out of the winonclusions that I am anxious to avoid.

But I tell you what I will do: I will relinquish all claims to the property you are so anxious should not be divided. As that seems to be the main object, I think that it ought to be satisfactory to all parties."
A few minutes later Russell passed by the window, valies in hand.
He nodded good humoredly to his uncle as he glanced in, who glared after him in speechless rage.

-it has been said; but, when a woman is dragged down, emaciated, wan and a shadow of her former self, with never a "What's the matter now?" said the gentle voice of his wffe Polly, who had just entered the room.

A Friendly Talk at the "Athletic"-Pro posed Benefit to Tom Best—What the Nembers of the Gun Club Are Doing. The boxing match for scientific points between Scholes and Mitchell, which was decided in favor of the latter, was the leading topic of conversation in sporting circles contestants were about to start on a tour through the provinces giving scientific exhibitions, and a World reporter called on John F. to ascertain if there was any truth in the report. He was found in one of the private rooms of his fayorite hostelry in company with Charlie Mitchell, and in answer to an enquiry said: "No, there is no truth in the rumor. I am not going on any hippodroming expedition. Mitchell don't want it, neither do I. I have my business to look after, and you don't catch me on any 'moonlight excursions.' Mitchell may remain here for a day or two, as we may give an exhibition under yesterday. It was rumored that the two Mitchell don't want it, neither do 1. I have my business to look after, and you don't catch me on any 'moonlight excursions.' Mitchell may remain here for a day or two, as we may give an exhibition under the auspices of the Hamilton fencing club, but that will be our only move. I wanted the heave an unand up exhibition. but that will be our only move. I wanted to give the boys an up-and-up exhibition, and I have done so." John looks little the worse for his encounter with the English champion, save that he bears the marks on his cheek and forehead as evidence of the Englishman's skill with the gloves. Mitchell likes Toronto, and is loud in his praises of the fair play he received here.

Tom Best, an enthusiastic sportsman and landlord of the Woodbine park hotel, has had a pretty tough time of it ever since he broke his leg last fall. The injured limb mended sufficiently to allow him to get mended sufficiently to allow him to get around for a few weeks, but a month ago it broke again in the same old place, and he is now lying on the broad of his back deprived of all amusement except the somewhat wistful and melancholy one of gasing out of the window to see others enjoying themselves in all the vigor of ruddy health, superinduced by the pleasures of a steady old-fashioned Canadian winter. Tom's friends, not unmindful of that fact, and also of the fact that when in health he and also of the fact that when in health he is ever foremost in all that is going on in the way of sport, have resolved to give him a benefit at the track on Thursday afternoon, when, a series of three sweepstake races will be trotted. The first will be between Dr. Andrews' Golddust roadster, Ryan's Billy E., Wiley's pacing pony, Holland's Bobtati, Mike O'Halloran's Doer Park Maid and George Incas' George B. The second will have for starters C. Wenman's Victoria, A. Henderson's Harry, Richardson's Lady E., Barnes' Paddy Tricks, Brown's roan pony and R. Pricks, Brown's roan pony and I. Crewe's Lady Mack. The third will bring out Tom Connell's Dan, W. Arksey's Czar, A. H. Dixon's Photographer, Far-rell's pacer Bob, Edsall's J. H. McLean, A. Brown's Too Too, Tom Best's Lady Banker, and Caldwell's Iolanthe. There is material here to provide for an admir-able afternoon's sport, and it seems reasonable to predict, more especially considering the occasion, a large turn out. Often they pick up a quar-ter from such a man. They tackle a half-drunken citizen on the street and de him up. The police know them by do dozens, but do nothing to them. They do not sell papers in the day—night is their markin. The genuine The police know them by the main time of operation. The genuine newsboy on the contrary does most of his work in the day. He is up with sunbreak, he is on the corner with a blacking box over his shoulder, he is on the alert, now MARKET HOTEL, paper, now boarding a car, now pitching coppers up a lane. He scorns to work the rying racket; as soon after 6 as possibl he is on his way home, sold out, ready for his supper, and thereafter perhaps to take in the dime theatre.

Another nuisance is the newsgirl cigarette smoker. There is a store within five 246 * doors of Yonge street, on west King, where the newsboys and newsgirls spend every cent they earn in smoking the vilest of cigarettes. They go without grub to sat-isfy their craving for these cigarettes. The police ought to run in all newsgirls found on the street after 8, and they ought has been achieved in modern science has been attained by the Dixon treatment for catarrh attained by the Dixon treatment for catarrh. Out of 2000 patients treated during the bast six months, fully ninety per cent, have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent, of the patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefitted, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissues, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination; this accomplished, the catarrh is practically cured, and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him four years ago, are cures still. plished, the catarrh is practically cured, the permanency is unquestioned, as cuffected by him four years ago are cures s No one else has ever attempted to cure tarrh in this manner, and no other treatm has ever cured catarrh. The application the remedy is simple and can be done at how the treatment of the view is the process of the view is the process. the remedy is simple and can be done at nome, and the presentseason of the year is the most favorable for a speedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Catarrh-A New Treatment.

Hey, the Thirsty Millers : It was in the queer, old-fashioned tavern in Pompton, N.J. A New Yorker, waiting there for a train, saw a miller all covered with flour rush in, throw down a nickel and toss off a glass of beer. It was done like a flash, without a word hexing been spoken. Before the New Yorker recovered from his astonishment the same thing was repeated—the miller rushed in, threw down his nickel, tossed off his glass beer again, and was off. "Does that or beer again, and was oir. "Does that man drink every two minutes?" the New Yorker inquired, "What man?" said the tavern-keeper, "That miller who keeps running in here." "Oh," said the tavern-keeper, "them's twins."

How to Get Rich. Nothing is more easy than to grow rich. It is only to trust nobody, to befriend none, to get everything and save all you get, to stint ourselves and everybody belonging to us, to be the friend of no man, longing to us, to be the friend of no man, and have no man for our friend, to heap interest upon interest, cent upon cent, to be mean, miserable and despised, for some twenty or thirty years, and riches will come as sure as disease and disappointment. And when pretty nearly enough wealth is collected by a disregard of all the charities of the human heart, and at the expense of every enjoyment, save that of wallowing in filthy meanness, death comes to finish the work, the body is buried in a hole, and the heirs dance over it, and
