THE future of any town depends entirely upon its citizens. If friends come to see you tell them what a fine town we have. If you have a legitimate "kick" put it on file and cease to go about in search for trouble. There is much in our town for which we should all be thankful and can all be proud. Look on the sunny side. Be a "booster."

THE following composition by a little public school girl on the subject of where the suffragette movement got on air:—Men are what women marry. They drink, smoke and swear, but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women, also more zoological. Both men and women spring from monkeys, but the women spring further than the men.

WILFRED ROCHE, of Forest, recently completed his third year course in the School of Art, in Cleveland, and spent last week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Roche. If you are going to be away from home for a few days, use this method to water your house plants; Place a pail of water among the plants at a higher elevation. Have strips of muslin long enough to reach from the bottom of the pail to each plant. Tie one end of each strip to a weight and sink in the water in the pail. Arrange the other ends among the plants, giving those requiring the most water the wider strip.

THE latter part of May was very wet and disagreeably cold, too much so for the comfort of those who cleaned house early, and for the good of the corn, a large acreage of which has been planted. Where the crop is up the growth is backward, but where the seed is in the ground and unspouted there is grave danger of rotting, making replanting necessary. On the other hand the heavy rains have been good for the spring crops, hay, fall wheat and pasture, all of which are in excellent condition.

LAST Sunday, the local Oranegen were treated to an interesting service and instructive address ably and eloquently delivered by Rev. R. Stephenson, pastor of the Congregational Church. The Watford Concert Band led the procession playing appropriate music from the hall to the church, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion and special music rendered. The speaker based his remarks on Gal. 5, 13, and was evidently at his best, for although standing room was at a premium, his remarks were followed with the closest attention, the crowded audience appearing delighted and charmed with the pointed and pungent paragraphs. After the service the parade returned to the hall where a palatial banquet was in waiting, a number of lengthy addresses were given, expressing appreciation of the brilliant address and extending votes of thanks to the band, church officials, and Rev. Mr. Stephenson for the various parts performed.

THE editor was in Toronto this week attending the 53th annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association. On Tuesday the members of the Association and their ladies were the guests of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, who took them for a sail on the lake in their magnificent fleet of private yachts. On Wednesday the City of Toronto took the ladies of the party for an automobile trip around the city and environs and entertained them at luncheon at the Lambton Golf Club. On Wednesday night the pressmen started for the mining camps of Porcupine and Cobalt, to enable them to see at first hand the development of that section of the country. The trip was made by special train of Pullmans, arriving at Temagami Thursday morning in time for breakfast. The day was spent between a sail on Lake Temagami and the inspection of the mines at Cobalt, at which place they were the guests of the Cobalt Mine Owners' Association. The next day was spent among the gold mines of Porcupine as guests of the managers of the Dome and Hollinger mines. The forenoon of the following day was spent at Algonquin Park, thence home.

A NUMBER of school reports and other matter unavoidably crowded out.

WORLD'S GREATEST SINGERS

The Royal Gwent Glee Singers of Great Britain in Concerts Extraordinary

The fact that the Royal Gwent Glee Singers, of Newport, Great Britain, so charmed the musical critics of New York in their opening concert at Carnegie Hall, last October that immediately demands were made for their services in and around New York is of itself the greatest recommendation these noted singers could have. After being busily engaged in New York appearing at the largest theatres, churches and at the homes of many of the four hundred including concerts at the residences of Andrew Carnegie, the steel king, Rockefeller, and others, they come direct to us from Florida and will appear at the Lyceum, Watford, Wednesday evening, June 11th, in concerts extraordinary. Every member of the choir is an artist of rare merit. The chorus as a whole is as perfect as a pipe organ. Their program embraces choruses, quartets, duets and solos. Melody and music that appeals to everyone from the most exacting of musical critics to lovers of mere popular melodies. Audiences laugh and cry in turn, so realistic is their singing in their laughing and crying songs.

Nothing is so inspiring as good music. Nothing can touch tenderer chords of human heart like the Irish, Scotch, and Welsh and Southern melodies as sung by these famous singers. So perfect is their work that practically every program they give is more than doubled on account of insistent encores. The Brooklyn Standard Union says: "They are the most wonderful combination of male voices." "Deserve the highest praise for their most excellent work." "Should be heard by every musical loving audience in America."—Dr. Cadman New York. "Did not realize that such perfection in singing was attainable."—Prof. Schindler, New York. "Would like to tour the world with such a chorus."—Dr. Cowan, London.

Don't fail to hear them. The greatest musical treat of the season. An opportunity of a life-time. Plan of hall at McLaren's drug store. Tickets 50c.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Tells How She Keeps Her Health—Happiness For Those Who Take Her Advice.

Scottville, Mich.—“I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

“I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her.

“I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine.”

—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R. F. D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for woman's ills known.

Experiments are being made in Boston with bamboo poles to take the place of steel in reinforced concrete. Steel is scarce and dear in China, while bamboo is plentiful and cheap, and it is hoped that it may be possible to substitute the wood in certain kinds of concrete work.

The Kingston penitentiary now boasts of a population of 492, the largest since 1839, when 629 names were on the roll call. Of these 60 are life prisoners, also a record number. Despite these figures there has been a slight decrease in number of convictions, especially those of a serious nature. Of the 492 souls, only 11 are women.

In the supplementary estimates there appears no provision for a monument to Tecumseh although $7,500 has been granted towards a Champlain monument at Orillia, and grants made to several other projects of like character. This will be a keen disappointment to the Thamesville Tecumseh Memorial Association, as a goodly sum has been subscribed locally and it was confidently expected that government assistance would be given.

One of the most striking phases in the deposit books issued by some of the larger Canadian Banks is as follows: ‘Interest allowed at current rates.’ Because of the scarcity of money, discount rates, call loan rates and commercial paper rates generally have been advanced the world over, but the Canadian savings bank deposit rate remains unchanged. Why is the word ‘current’ used when it is meaningless? Why not change it to ‘fixed’? —Ex.

The New York Herald warns those who contemplate going to the country for the holidays to be careful to select a healthful neighborhood. Every fall, it says, after the return from vacations, there is a large crop of typhoid fever cases, due to unfortunate sanitary conditions in the country. It is extremely important, then, that in planning a vacation the first inquiries should be made not as to the convenience or the comfort or even the character of the board provided, but as to the healthfulness of the location.

Hereafter, according to a resolution adopted by the Episcopal diocesan convention of Michigan applicants for marriage by Episcopal clergymen will be requested to show a clean bill of health before the ceremony will be performed. The convention also provided that the marriage banns must be published at least three days before the wedding. The determination to demand clean health of all persons wishing to marry was the most important business transacted by the convention. It marks the determination of Episcopalians to back up the campaign for cleaner moral and hygienic conditions with something more tangible than sermons.

A project to build a great peace memorial in Detroit or its environs to commemorate the hundred years of peace that has existed between the British Empire and the United States along this frontier took definite form at the banquet tendered by the leading citizens of Detroit Saturday night to the peace commissioners from England. The memorial will possibly take the form of a monument on Belle Isle to be built by appropriations from the governments of Canada and the United States. In addition to this, twin water gates may be built on opposite sides of the Detroit river. The fact that Detroit was so frequently the scene of hostilities during the last war with Great Britain makes this the point where one of the most elaborate memorials will be erected.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer
Compelled to Act Purse

When Jesus told Simon Peter to pay the Jewish head tax with the proceeds of his morning's catch, He taught the world a lesson in paying up! No man can really enjoy wealth which is obtained by defrauding commonwealth; corporation or individual.
I know a man who will never dare to flourish his money. He will always be compelled to turn away from the gaze of by-standers when he draws out his purse. He never can boast that he is comfortably fixed. And by the way, have you ever noticed how few people, comparatively can be induced to confess that they are well off. They seem to fear that making the admission may shortly cost them something. The income tax collector, too, might hear of it. Methinks if I were rich I should like to tell about it once in a while; point to my house and announce that I am going to have a new verandah added next spring; comment on the price of Canadian Pacific, and say that I expect to buy a little more if it goes down to two hundred.

Well, this poor fellow I was speaking of dare never indulge in that kind of pleasure, though I suspect that he could do so truthfully. The reason is that he had not paid what he owes. He has unsatisfied judgments out against him. There are those who are watching him, hoping to discover where he keeps his pile, so he keeps the location of the pile a secret. He has no employment; he must be classed as a vagrant, having no visible means of support. Yet he looks very comfortable. He wears good clothes, and dines on succulent steaks. He and his wife take extravagant vacations, and go to the best shows. But for fifteen long years they have never been heard to say one word about their circumstances.

Is not that an awful life to live? And all because he holds what someone else ought to possess. He never intends to pay up. Consequently his life is dwarfed; he has no close friends; he lives alone in the world to about the same extent as if he had absconded to New Zealand. He is being automatically punished for having broken God's law.
Oh that our preachers would say more about this class of sins! We have bitter denunciation for transgressions that vividly appeal to our imagination. We can easily portray the misdeeds of the prodigal, and look with horror upon them, forgetting that they are really abnormal phases of virtues. But the meaner sins of selfish greed cast men into an earthly hell which makes the drunkard's lot look like a paradise.
For remember that God is the author of all rules of commercial morality. He framed the first statute against short weights, and wrote it upon the fleshy tables of our hearts. All who break this code lose the zest, the charm, the peace of an open life.

Advice to Boys

See here, boys! Whatever you try to do, do it the very best you can; do it better than it was ever done before. Don't yield to the temptation to slight your work. And above all things do what is right. Be brave about it too. Everyone hates a coward. And another thing, don't be afraid of doing right for you will make enemies. Enemies are as necessary to success as vinegar is to pickles. Don't be above all things be a hypocrite. The thief may steal our property, but the hypocrite betrays one's confidence and only waits an opportunity to stab him in the back. If you have a

is an enemy within the camp. It will undermine the strongest constitution and ruin the most vigorous health. It leads to indigestion, biliousness, impure blood, bad complexion, sick headaches, and is one of the most frequent causes of appendicitis. To neglect it is slow suicide. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills positively cure Constipation. They are entirely vegetable in composition and do not sicken, weaken or gripe. Preserve your health by taking mind of your own don't be afraid to express your opinion, and if you feel that it is right, stand by it. People will talk and fools will turn grindstones for others to sharpen their axes on. Think for yourself. Lay your course of action in accordance with the idea that some day you will be a man and called upon to take an important part in life's great battles. Don't imagine for a moment that you can please everybody, not yourself. Few people care for you and you must care for yourself or be left in the cold.

One Day of Rest in Seven

Every economic and social reform contemplated by other nations is of interest to the Dominion. The country prides itself on that very lack of rule that makes revolutionary action so difficult of execution. Canada is the envied of older countries that it can, without violating the custom of ages, give impetus to reform or systems which seem the best for the majority. In the light of a certain nation's demand, not on religious grounds, but economic, the proposed One Day in Seven law that the United States contemplates, has more than ordinary significance. Statistics show that the man with one day's rest a week does more actual work than he who plugs along for the entire seven days. But quite apart from this economic saving, there is that of human life when it comes down to railroadings. Here is what the Labor Gazette says: “The rule of fifty-two days of rest per year on the railroads of Switzerland is said to have helped more than any other cause to reduce accidents due to fault of employes by fifty-eight per cent., and to prevent seventy-two per cent. of bodily injuries.

Milking Machines

The milking machine is becoming a recognized part of the equipment of large dairies. It has already reached the point where it compares favorably with ordinary hand milking in the item of germ content of the milk and in its effect upon the flow. There is still room for much improvement from the mechanical viewpoint especially in the matter of simplicity and expense of installation. The success of the milking machine, is closely associated with the personality of the operator. Unquestionably it takes a higher grade man to operate a milking machine successfully than to hand-milk a cow equally well. There is every reason to think that in the hands of careless operators the machinery will work injury to the cows, but the same result is too often obtained from inefficient hand milking.

NO LACK OF MONEY.
Suffragette Headquarters in London Is a Luxurious Place.
The suffragettes have recently established themselves in one of the finest office buildings in London, a veritable palace situated on Kingsway, the new street built by the London County Council, and intended to be the handsomest in the whole city. Apparently they have not lost confidence in the ultimate triumph of their cause; nor had they much belief that they would be assisted by the Suffrage Bill. Otherwise they would not have thought it necessary or desirable to establish themselves to all appearances as solidly as a bank, and to commit themselves to a huge annual rental for a number of years. The desertion of the Pethwick Lawrences has not troubled the suffragettes as serious as was predicted. The Pethwick Lawrences were supposed to be their chief financial backers, and when their support was removed it was supposed that the Pankhurst adherents would either have to practice a very searching economy or redouble their appeals for assistance. They have done neither, but have gone on with their plans in the new building as though they had as much money as they have enthusiasm. As a matter of fact the suffragettes have never been troubled by lack of money. Apparently they can get all the money they need by the simple process of asking for it. Two or three times a year the suffragettes organize monster meetings in Albert Hall, and on each occasion they raise between $20,000 and $30,000 in a few minutes. Apart from these organized public appeals their exchequer is being continually replenished by a stream of private contributions from sympathizers who do not care to publicly identify themselves with the movement. The extraordinary violence of the recent demonstrations which stupidly destroyed letters and other valuable property caused many of the suffragettes' supporters to discontinue their contributions; but the same cause drew other backers to their aid, and in the face of all predictions to the contrary, the movement goes on well supplied with whatever money the leaders need. All the backers ask is that they shall see some stir and excitement in return for their contributions. Whether the excitement shall be the burning of the Parliament Buildings or the assassination of a Minister, it is a matter of indifference to them. The history of the movement might be inferred from the rooms* it has occupied in its six short years of activity. The militant suffragettes began their campaign to arouse England in a little room to Chelsea. In a year they found it necessary to rent three rooms in Clement's Inn. It really electrified the country, and they remained in these hallowed quarters long after they required more room. When they shifted they conducted their business in 27 rooms, to say nothing of local branch offices scattered over London. Their new headquarters is said to be one of the finest buildings erected in London in recent years. Including the basement it has six floors, which are devoted exclusively to the use of the suffragettes. Their local rooms in various parts of the city are still kept in commission, and are being added to almost weekly. They have reception parlors, offices, and a printing establishment from which issues The Suffragette. There are scores of rooms piled with literature and stationery for the distribution of pamphlets, and the production of letters is one of the chief activities of the suffragettes. Hundreds of girls are employed in the headquarters, and a recent observer noted that most of them were young and attractive looking, there being very few elderly women, visible, which struck him as odd, in view of the passionate declarations of the leaders that they were inspired chiefly by a desire to do something for broken-down, middle-aged spinsters.

WARLIKE ALBANIANS.
Quick to Shoot and Have Blood Feuds and Blood Fraternities.
Albania has been compared to the highlands of Scotland in the sixteenth century, when all the clans were in constant feud one with another. "Many a time," says Foster Frazer, "I have thought of similarities between Albania and Scotland. There are parts of the country reminiscent of the highlands. The passionate love of country is characteristic of both peoples. The alertness of the highlander to resent insult is equalled only by the quickness of the Albanian to shoot any one who may disagree with him. The quilted petticoat of the Albanian is certainly similar to the highlander's kilt, and if you hear the wail of Albanian music in the hills you can without much stretch of imagination fancy you are listening to the skirl of the bagpipes." The blood feud is the best known of Albanian institutions, but there are fraternities as well in which blood also figures. Two young Albanians will take a vow to stand by each other through life, and the relation established is so sacred that the children of the two may not marry. Among the Mirdites young men who take this vow drink wine with which a few drops of the blood of both have been mingled. Two such vowed friends, the story goes, once discovered that they were both in love with the same woman, a Turk. Their solution of the difficulty was peaceful—from their own point of view—for they drove their daggers together into her heart.—Chicago News.

Much More Amusing.
A little four-year-old girl whose parents had been discussing an approaching meeting in connection with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children begged to be taken. Her mother explained that the meeting would not amuse her, but she persisted in her demand, and finally her mother agreed to take her if she promised to be very quiet. She was very good throughout the greater part of the proceedings, but after listening patiently to the speeches for some time she whispered to her mother: "Mummy, this is dull. When is the mummy going to begin?"—London Globe.
She Was Really Sorry.
"You say your wife threw a plate at you?"
"Yes; it was a fine china plate. It broke against my head."
"Didn't she appear sorry after she threw it?"
"Yes, she appeared very sorry."
"Ah, indeed. And what did she say?"
"She said she was a fool not to control her temper."
"Good. And what else did she say?"
"She said she didn't believe she could match that plate again if she hunted the town through."
Marvel of Mechanism.
"I want to congratulate you," said the man with whiskers, "on that music machine you sold me."
"Thanks," answered the music dealer. "It plays remarkably well."
"Why, it plays with human intelligence. Its selections are so appropriate! We had a cyclone out our way and the first thing I knew your machine was tearing along through the treetops. But it never lost its presence of mind. It started right in playing 'There's Music in the Air.'"
Perhaps Not.
"The man who invented gunpowder should be held responsible for a great many broken hearts."
"But not for so many as the man who invented face powder."
A Reasonable Favor.
"So you have determined to sue me for breach of promise?"
"Yes."
"With damages?"
"Of course."
"Well, say, I've got just one favor to ask of you. Don't sue me for less than $100,000. I haven't got a dollar in the world that I can call my own, and it might help my credit."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
A Model Cookbook.
"What—you have written a new cookbook for your wife? How did you do it?"
"Easy enough. I wrote the name of each dish and underneath it the restaurant where it can be had best."—Fliegende Blatter.

FOLLOCK—In loving memory of Ellen Lett, beloved wife of James Follock, who departed this life June 10, 1912.
Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where slumbers o'er,
Soon to meet and part no more,
When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care,
We will find our missing loved one
In our Father's mansion fair.
But O dear mother, you have left us,
And our hearts have grown so sore;
But some day we know we'll meet you,
Then we'll meet to part no more.

"Father grows younger every day." And his new photograph hits him to a "T".
The old portrait taken twenty years ago, made him look so serious and old-fashioned—not a bit like he really is.

We wouldn't part with it of course. But isn't it splendid to have a picture of him as we know him—just as he looks to-day.

And father says that he's glad he gave in and had it made—that having your picture taken is far from an unpleasant experience nowadays.

Men Who Have Lost Their Hair Should Wear one of Dorenwend's Sanitary Patent Toupees.

We recommend all bald-headed men to see Prof. Dorenwend, who will be at the Roche House, Watford, Thursday, June 12th, with a sample stock of hair toupees and wigs, which are designed to suit both young and old. Do justice to your looks by appearing young and wearing a Dorenwend Patent Hair structure. Indetectable, strong, featherweight, sanitary and ventilated. They are so securely kept in place that they cannot come off, except at the wearer's wish. Beneficial to health and comfort, adding a younger and softer expression to the face. They can be combed and brushed as one's own hair. Do not fail to call for a FREE DEMONSTRATION.
Over 25,000 bald men in all walks of life are now wearing his Toupees. Why not you?
Remember—The Roche House on Thursday, June 12th.

SOUR RISINGS FROM STOMACH

Those Who Experience Fullness and Pain After Meals, Stomach Disorders, and Indigestion, Should Read Below.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fullness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it. Refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butter-nut, sold in yellow boxes, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarhosone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Proved His Case
Everyone knew Jonathan Skinfint as a millionaire, with the exception, so it appeared, of Skinfint himself. He invariably wore the shabbiest of clothes and is reported to have dined one day on a couple of peas and a grape skin.
One day an old friend endeavored to persuade the old miser to dress better. "I am surprised," he said, "that you should let yourself become so shabby."
"But I am not shabby," expostulated Skinfint.
"Oh, yes, you are," replied his friend. "Remember your father. He was always neatly, even elegantly, dressed. His clothes were very handsome."
Skinfint gave utterance to a hearty laugh. "Why," he shouted triumphantly, "these clothes I've got on now were father's."—Ideas.

A Duel Between French Statesmen

In Which an American Participated

By FRED L. YOUNG

One day during the election for president of France, which resulted in the choice of Poincare, Gus Franklin, an American sojourning in Paris, was walking on a road in the environs of the city when he espied from a rise in the ground down in an opening in a wood a party of men whose actions interested him. There were two groups, each group evidently in attendance upon a central figure divested of coat and vest. At one side a man knelt by a box in which he was arranging some instruments, but the distance was too great for the American to see what they were. Another was selecting from a bundle something that looked like rapier.

Having chosen two of these instruments, which Franklin could now see were either swords or foils, he approached a third man, and the two examined the weapons with the utmost care. Then each took one and carried it to the central figure of the group to which he belonged. The two thus armed advanced and took positions within a few feet of each other.

"YOU MUST TAKE ME FIRST"

Franklin, put it on the arm, bandaged it and withdrew. Then the fight was renewed.
During the second round Franklin, happening to glance toward a road that wound away till it was lost in the distance, saw a mere speck slowly coming. But as it advanced it gained in rapidity and presently assumed the shape of a person on horseback galloping as fast as the animal could go. In another moment fluttering skirts indicated that the rider was a woman.
"By Jove," exclaimed Franklin, "she is probably the wife or sweetheart of one of those statesmen. She's got wind of the affair and is hurrying to stop it. She's coming like a white squall."
True enough, the woman, who as she drew nearer appeared to be young, made straight for the opening in which the men were fighting. When she was yet half a mile away it occurred to Franklin that he would like to be near enough to hear as well as to see what would pass in the coming scene, so he ran down the slope before him and reached the dueling ground just as the woman who, he could now see was closely, rode up and threw herself from her foaming steed within a dozen yards of the duellists. Looking through flashing eyes at one of the duellists, she said fiercely:
"How dare you, a young man, draw your sword upon one past fifty—you, whose life is worthless, to attack one who is dear to the French people?"

"Stand aside, mademoiselle!" said the man she had addressed. "This man has ridiculed me in the eyes of my constituents and I will have his heart's blood."
"I will not stand aside," replied the girl, "and if you have his heart's blood you must take mine first."
The younger man began to thrust at his antagonist, endeavoring to reach him without injuring the girl, who was continually trying to get in his way. The scene was wildly exciting. The attendants were dancing about with all that excitability inherent in the French people, shouting: "Stop the fight! Shame! The victim of this affair will be a woman, and we shall all be disgraced!" The older man stood on the defensive, parrying his assailant's thrusts as well as he could. Several times when it seemed that the point of the other's sword was about to pierce the girl's man for whom it was intended saved her by turning it away from her with his own weapon.

The American blood coursing in Franklin's veins boiled at such an exhibition. Why did not some of those dancing French attendants stop such an ignominious fray? The girl would surely be killed. Franklin was noticed by some of those participating in the affair, and it seemed to him that from their looks his appearance was regarded as an intrusion. He heard a voice shouting from a distance in French, "Get out of the way!" But so excited was he, so indignant, that he paid no attention to it.
Then the younger principal made a thrust at the older one, driving his sword through the sleeve of the girl's dress and striking his antagonist. The latter clapped his hand to his side, and blood ran down over his shirt. Franklin supposed that surely this would end the matter, but he was disappointed. The younger man thrust more wildly than before.

This was too much for Franklin. Looking about for some weapon, he spied a bundle of swords lying on the ground. Taking up one, he ran to the combatants and, putting his blade between them, called on them to desist.
Both stopped and looked at him with a curious expression, as much as to say, "What business is this of yours anyway?" The girl, too, who might have been expected to look grateful, showed only surprise. None of the three seemed to know what to do. Then one of them, the younger duellist, looked past Franklin and evidently saw something that decided him. At the same time the American heard a voice from behind him say:
"Stop the fight. Go right on."
What this contradiction meant he did not know, and he was too excited to consider. The duellists wiped their swords, and the girl, seeming to gather her wits after the unexpected interruption, said to Franklin, who understood the French language tolerably well:
"Thanks, monsieur, for your kind intervention. You have saved the life of my father's life. I shall be happy to receive you at our apartments, No. Rue St. H., where I hope to be able to show my gratitude to better advantage than here."

Franklin bowed, threw down his sword and, feeling that to remain longer would be indeed intrusion, took his departure, not looking behind him.
That afternoon, when the evening journals were issued, he looked to see if they had got wind of the duel, but more especially to learn the names of the statesmen who had fought. The affair had evidently escaped the reporters.
Burning with curiosity to know whether or not he had saved the life of the president of France, Franklin bent his steps to the address that had been given him by the girl he had championed. The place was an apartment house. Since the young man had not learned the lady's name and there were a large number of apartments in the building he was at a loss how to find her. He described her to the concierge, but the man said there were a number of women living in the house and the description fitted several of them. Franklin went away disappointed.

One evening after his return to America Franklin while passing along a crowded street saw a billboard in large letters, "Duel Between French Statesmen."
The sign was near a moving picture show, and Franklin, watching carefully, could see that he squeezed a sponge on his shirt sleeve filled with a red fluid to represent blood.
Presently in the picture a speck appeared in the distance. It grew larger, and the girl he had seen near Paris dashed up and threw herself from her horse. The exciting scene that had moved him followed. It was so intense that it moved him again with something of the force as before.
Suddenly he started. There he was himself taking up a sword. He ran to the combatants and stood between them. They stopped fighting, but for a few moments it seemed to Franklin that they did not act their parts as they should have acted them. But presently the play, as it should have been, was resumed. The lady seemed to be speaking to him, he bowed, and then came that sudden oblation which follows the end of a moving picture scene.
Franklin's theory in the matter was this: Moving picture men in Paris, when it was reported that two statesmen would fight a duel over the presidential election, with an enterprise worthy of America, concluded to have a picture of the fight ready for the public while it was fresh. Since the duel had been interrupted the owners found the films more available in a foreign country.
When Franklin went to sleep that night, thinking of what he had seen, he remarked to himself:
"Well, I'm glad to have been before the public once in my life, even if only in a moving picture show. I've been mixed up in one big thing during my life if it was only a moving picture show, and the bow I made was a fit closing for the performance."

In a U. S. Government report it is said: "The farmer's wife is now so occupied with social affairs that she has lost the art of making butter and jam and doing the work of the farm that her grandmother did. This results in a great economic loss to the country."

The farmer's wife in early days got up at half past two, and shined the plows and milked the cows, and put the prunes to stew. The breakfast for the hands she set upon the stroke of four.

And then she'd bake her bread and cake and scrub the kitchen floor. But nowadays the farmer's wife has time to call her own.

"Good gracious!" says the Government, "how idle she has grown!"

The farmer's wife, in days gone by, brought up the calves and lambs, and sacked the oats and fed the shoats and fed the hickory hams.

And when she'd cook three great big meals she cheerfully arose. And with her churn sat down to earn the money for her clothes.

But now she often visits 'round and gossips, like as not.

"My goodness!" says the Government, "how worthless she has got!"

The farmer's wife, some years ago, was wholly free from nerves; Twelve hours a day she'd slave away at putting up preserves.

Six children dangling at her skirts, a seventh on her arm.

She'd gamely set herself to get the mortgage off the farm, But now she sometimes takes a rest, like city women do.

"Great heavens!" cries the Government, "What is she coming to?"

The farmer's wife departed from this vale of toil and tears For happier climes, in those old times, when under thirty years.

The farmer got another mate, he somehow always found.

The ideal wife who toiled through life and rested—underground.

But now sometimes her years add up their full allotted sum, "Great Scott!" exclaims the Government, "how shiftless she's become!"

—James J. Montague, in San Francisco Examiner.

A THOROUGH PILL.—To clear the stomach and bowels of impurities and irritants is necessary when their action is irregular. The pills that will do this work thoroughly are Parneelee's Vegetable Pills, which are mild in action but mighty in results. They purge painlessly and effectively, and work a permanent cure. They can be used without fear by the most delicately constituted, as there are no painful effects preceding their gentle operation.

Co-Operation and Fruit Growing

To outline in more or less detail the principles of co-operation, the more desirable methods to adopt in putting these principles into practice and the objects to be gained in apple growing by their adoption there has been issued from Ottawa a comprehensive bulletin entitled "Co-operation and Fruit Growing."

It has been prepared by Mr. Alex. McNeil, Chief of the Fruit Division, who is recognized as one of the foremost authorities of the day on the subject of fruit culture, commerce and co-operation.

In this work of 46 pages the subject is treated from practically every standpoint that interests the Canadian apple grower. Not only are the essentials and methods of co-operation clearly brought out but the advantages being derived through its agency are clearly shown. The aims of co-operation as applied to the fruit industry are enumerated as follows:

(a) To bring fruit products as directly as possible from the producer to the consumer.

(b) To encourage the best methods of production.

(c) To encourage thrift in the fruit grower, and economy, intelligence, enterprise and honesty in the packing, grading and marketing of fruit.

(d) To make it possible for a number of small growers to establish a commercial standing that will be a guarantee for grade marks or contracts.

(e) To act as a credit organization to make advances on products in the process of being sold.

Dealing with the labor problem which confronts every kind of farming it is shown that Nova Scotia growers through their central association in 1911 were able to take care of a crop twice the usual size.

Besides the other great advantages of sure markets and good prices secured for fruit the bulletin cites the savings that are effected in buying supplies. There is given a list of the purchases of one society in which the manager claims to have made a saving of $15,000 in one year on goods which cost in the aggregate $75,000 and included packages, spraying equipment and materials, fertilizers, drain tiles, etc.

The work is issued as bulletin No. 38 of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner's series and is for general distribution by the Publication Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

TO ASTHMA SUFFERERS. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy comes like a helping hand to a sinking swimmer. It gives new life and hope by curing his trouble—something he has come to believe impossible. Its benefit is too evident to be questioned—it is its own best argument—its own best advertisement. If you suffer from asthma get this time-tried remedy and find help like thousands of others.

The Old And The New

(An Old Dance Song)

Salute your partner, let 'er go; Balance all and do-si-do; Swing your girl and run away; Right and left, on; gents sashay; Gents to right, an' swing or cheat; On to the next gal and repeat;

Swing your pard an' swing 'er high; Bunch the gals an' circle round; Whack your feet until they bound; Alaman left an' balance all; Lift your hoofs an' let 'em fall; Back to partner, do-si-do; All join hands, an' off you go.

—An Exchange.

Salute your partner, grab her there, Snap your fingers. It's a bear! Glide an' then your shoulders shrug, Do the willow bunny hug. Write and wriggle round the hall, Hold her tight. Don't let her fall.

Sinewy, snaky, movements now, Be as graceful as a cow; Swing arouse one little spot, Break off in the turkey trot. Now the tango. Now be quick. See how high you two can kick. Twist and turn and squirm and sway, That's what's termed a dance today.

—Detroit Free Press.

THE OIL OF THE PEOPLE.—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Its sterling qualities have brought to the front and kept it there, and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

Telephoning Simplified

To do away with two of the worst irritations of telephoning—the possible missing of an important message if the telephone is left unattended, and the "Line Busy" annoyance—telephone exchanges now often have a message operator. A doctor may be forced to leave his office or his home when there is no person available to answer the telephone during his absence, and by so doing he risks missing a call from some patient. Under the new system he tells the message operator at the telephone exchange that he is to be called, and gives her his number. She has his telephone line switched to her own desk, so that any call for his number rings her bell. If a call comes for the doctor she takes the message, promising to deliver it to him later. All that the doctor has to do on his return to his house or office is to call up the message operator and enquire whether any message has been left for him.

ORANGE CELEBRATION

Thirty Thousand Orangemen Expected to Visit Sarnia July 12th

The Orangemen of Sarnia are arranging for one of the most imposing demonstrations on the 12th of July next, ever held in Western Ontario. Members of the various lodges throughout Western Ontario, also from Michigan, will be there and the Sarnia lodges are figuring on giving the brethren the time of their lives. It is estimated that 30,000 Orangemen will visit Sarnia on that day.

The program that is being arranged will furnish continuous entertainment for the visitors. Interesting features in the program will be competitions for liberal prizes for both brass and pipe and drum bands.

Gas Well Struck at Oil Springs

The deep well which was being sunk at Oil Springs, after being put down at a depth of nineteen hundred feet, met with an accident and had to be abandoned. About the time the accident happened a vein of gas was struck which when tested gave a flow of 135,800 feet per day, and the directors of the deep well company will apply for a franchise to lay mains and supply gas to the village.

The striking of gas at this unprecedented depth has greatly encouraged the directors, and a new well will be put down about fifty rods east of the spot selected for the first test. Work will soon be commenced and with ordinary luck the well should be down in the latter part of July or August.

AFTER EFFECTS OF FEVER

Banished Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Following wasting diseases such as fever, most people find it difficult to regain their former strength. They become breathless and tired out at the least exertion; their appetite is fickle and they often feel as though death was staring them in the face. The troubles lie with the blood which has not returned to its normal condition and is lacking in the red corpuscles without which good health is impossible. It is at a time like this that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills prove their great tonic value. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood which means health and vitality. Mrs. Theodore Foley, Athens, Ont., says:—"Following an attack of typhoid fever I was left in a very weak and disheartened condition. The smallest exertion left me worn and tired out, and I was hardly able to get around, and naturally felt despondent. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they proved of the greatest benefit to me. I am now as well and strong as ever, and can do all my own work, and, as we live on a farm, it goes without saying that there is much to do. I feel, therefore, that I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.
If you are suffering from the after effects of fevers, la grippe, or any acute disease, you should begin to get new strength to-day through the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
