Is Your Flour, Madam, Milled by Water-Power

When we called last August at the Keewatin mills, we reminded the Local Manager of that moth-eaten story—About the mill owner who boasted that though his mill was the dirtiest in five counties his flour was clear.

The Manager laughed heartily, but shook his head most decidedly.

"My only regret," he said, "is that we're in such an out of the way place here. If we could only get more visitors, it would be the best advertisement FIVE ROSES could have."

"You don't hear so much about water-power mills these days," he continued as we watched the men putting in new stop logs, "maybe because they are so few. It certainly gives us a big advantage."

"In fuel economy?" we asked off-hand.

"In cleanliness above all," he quickly added. You see how light, and airy and free from dirt this plant is. The absence of a smoky chimney and steam power plant helps a lot.

The first impression one has of the FIVE ROSES premises is of immense size and spotless brightness and cleanliness.

The ventilation system is really wonderful. The sunlight penetrates everywhere both on account of the large number of double-paned windows and the peculiar construction of the plant.

Sunlight, you know, is the fatal foe of germs and bacilli.

When our guide regretfully declined a good Havana cigar which we had saved all the way from Winnipeg, we almost fainted.

It was only then we saw the placards on the walls—"Possibly no smoking in the building."

Then the millers all uniformed in white, the spotless machinery with the metal parts polished like piano keys, the floors glistening like a ball-room.

We do honestly believe the FIVE ROSES mills are the most sanitary and hygienic in all America—and we have seen a few.

When you have been through the mills, Madam, you cannot but say to yourself—"FIVE ROSES flour must be pure, and nutritious, and wholesome."

And you are right.

THE VOGUE OF THE LACE SCARF

Lucky now the woman who has access to a trunkful of attic treasures where very likely reposes a generation-old scarf of Spanish or chintilly lace, all ready to add smartness to this year's afternoon or evening toilette. The craze for these transparent shoulder scarves increases every day and all summer the gauzy scarves will doubtless be worn over light evening frocks. The scarf pictured is of black chintilly lace in an especially handsome all-over pattern which almost covers the fine mesh in which the designs are woven.

It is the unexpected that happens. Mrs. R. C. Small, of Ottawa, Ont., says: "I suffered from Rheumatism for years and did not appear to be free from pain, but I tried 'Fruit-actives' and they cured me." Hundreds of others write similar stories. After suffering for years, paying heavy doctor's bills, and trying all sorts of remedies without benefit, they are cured by 'Fruit-actives'.

All that day he could not, or did not, speak. He suffered agonies, but his face betrayed no sign as he lay upon the grass of Judith's bed. Some ecstasy within him gave him far more exquisite torture, for such is the way of an overwhelming joy still struggling to get its head above the waves. Judith looked more of her scorn cakes and put them in his hand to eat. In her eyes burned some light of exultation, for joy had possessed her in its wildest mood.

"That night she made him almost comfortable in her silent, affectionate way. He slept in fitful naps, and was often awake. So often as he stirred, however, there was Judith at his side with her shallow, eager, above him, or sitting near at hand. Her half-clad figure wondrously beautiful in the soft white light of the moon.

Her womanly ministrations had only commenced on that first spring day. With the pangs of healing in his muscles, bone and flesh, John Ghent became weak and fevered patient, over whom Judith yearned with all the tenderness of her paternal motherhood.

"And still they did not speak.

He never had occasion to request so much as a drink. Her thoughtfulness was always a trifle in advance of his wants; he could not thank her, for such was not his way. The words that his heart would have prompted him to utter were confused, hence his love was dumb. There was nothing to talk about, nothing to say, so much had been said between them.

It was far more wonderful and joyous to lie there and look upon her face—far more ecstatic now and then, as she looked at her eyes on his, as the earth sank away from their two lone selves, taking with it all its heavy burden of sin and sorrow, and leaving them nothing but nature, the dear, and God.

He mended slowly, for his wounds were deep, and new blood was making in his veins. Day after day they spent their companionship went by his feet, and he passed through travail such as theirs could lie so naked, side by side, in the sanctifying silence that reveals the uttermost of all there could be to reveal.

A week passed, and Ghent was barely strong enough to sit with his back against Judith's cave, while nature worked at his cuts and injuries. He never complained, not even in his sleep, and never overtook him. His progress now was rapid—his progress in everything save speech. He and Judith seemed farther from speech than before.

At the end of ten days he could be kept no longer on his back or sitting down throughout the day. He got to his feet from time to time, to limber the sinews and flesh newly knitted in his legs. It was one of these days that some strange oppression came to haunt the very air.

Both Ghent and Judith were affected. They knew not how or why. A sense of impending disaster, or a realisation of the inner self that was responsive to hidden warnings, took possession of them both, yet nothing seemed to follow, then a third. It was a terrible, inescapable sensation that seemed to have been born of the earth itself. On its face, it seemed not of air or earth or sun, yet was singularly present everywhere.

It was nearly at sundown that the awesome silence and the pause of the earth were broken. The thing came not suddenly then. A distant roar, that swept ever onwary him, with incredible velocity, ushered the mighty cataclysm to the mountains.

Sounds of wack and devastation made articulate, but concentrated in a tumult such as sea nor gale nor earthquake may ever create, involved entire creation. On its heels came the dreadful thing itself—the earthquake—rending the very hills and flapping the earthquake like a rag of rock and sand, and heaving through adamant ledges and gravel like a tidal wave on some molten sea which the earth may no longer contain.

It opened the mountains and closed them again, as if the things had been created, gasping for breath of life. It shook and rocked the solid peaks. It split vast walls and tossed the dust of ruins in the air, which, in turn, assumed the awful motion.

Ghent had staggered galvanically to his feet. He looked about like some straggled, shivering creature, who had been struck by lightning. He was looking at the earth, and the words that his heart would have prompted him to utter were confused, hence his love was dumb. There was nothing to talk about, nothing to say, so much had been said between them.

FORGED CHECK IS PASSED ON BANK OF ENGLAND

Sum of £1,500 Obtained By Cool Customer—Two Arrests Are Made on Suspicion

A daring check, fraud by means of which the sum of £1,500 was obtained from the Burlington gardens branch of the Bank of England, has been discovered.

Two men have been arrested by Inspector Fowler of Scotland yard and taken to Vine street in connection with the robbery. It is probable other arrests may be made.

Just before closing time the other afternoon a man of gentlemanly appearance, about thirty years of age, and wearing a brown cloth coat, jumped out of a taxicab in Burlington gardens opposite the bank.

When he reached the paying counter he produced from his pocket case a check for £1,500 to be paid, signed by a well known man.

The check appeared to be in perfect order, and the man, leaning confidently across the counter, said: "I want it as an just of old."

"How will you take it?" asked the bank cashier suspiciously.

"Oh," he replied, carelessly, "I think I'll have six £200 notes, sixteen £50's and the rest in gold."

The numbers of the notes were taken, the money was quickly paid over the counter, and the man, folding the notes carefully, sauntered out of the bank.

Early next morning it was discovered that the check was a forgery and a description of the man was given to Scotland Yard, and the numbers of the notes were sent to all bankers and money-changers.

Detectives were at once put on the case, and two men were arrested a few hours later.

THE SUCCESS OF THE IMPERIAL PENNY POSTAGE

In course of a eulogy on the Rt. Hon. Sidney Buxton the British postmaster-general, the London Chronicle says:—"A memorable triumph of Mr. Buxton's administration was the establishment of the penny post between this country and the United States of America—a reform that has done much to facilitate intercourse between the two great English-speaking peoples of the world. The penny post had already been established, as from October, 1907, between the United Kingdom and the colonies. A few months later Mr. Buxton proposed—and obtained for it in due course the cordial assent of the postmaster-general of the United States—an arrangement under which the scale of the British Imperial Penny Post, namely, a penny an ounce, came into operation between the United Kingdom and the United States from October 1908. A letter which a few years ago cost 5d can now go through to the States for 1d and one which then cost 10d now costs 2d only. This reduction in postage rates has resulted in a substantial increase in the letters passing between the two countries.

Very gratifying results have followed the reduction of postage on newspapers, magazines and trade journals from England to Canada. The rates were reduced from 4d to 1d a pound. Consequently upon this change the circulation in Canada of British literature, with British advertisements, has already greatly increased. Over 8,000,000 additional copies of magazines went to Canada last year as a result of this change.

Another help to British trade has been the establishment of cash-on-delivery systems between the mother country, several of the colonies and Egypt. Under this service a customer pays the postman on delivery for the British goods which he may have ordered by post."

NO TROUBLE AT ALL

"May I trouble you to pass the H. P.?" How many times in one day does this simple request go round the tables of those happy people who have been acquainted with H. P. and know all its distinctive and good qualities.

It is no trouble at all to pass the H. P. provided that you know it will come round to you again—otherwise it's a self-sacrifice not to be demanded of a man with a discriminating taste in success.

H. P. Sauce is thick, rich, delicious. Its flavors are the combined expressions of choicest Oriental fruits and spices and pure malt vinegar. Its taste, borne out by let us say "H. P." and a picture of the British Houses of Parliament upon the bottle, is worth remembering by every man and woman who desires to taste, for the first time, a perfectly delicious sauce.

THE NAVAL BILL

There is no essential difference between the views of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and those of Mr. R. L. Borden regarding the Canadian navy. They only differ in opinion regarding the need of an emergency contribution at the present moment.

But he and the great majority of the Canadian people believe with Chancellor Lloyd-George and other members of the British government (who ought to know) that Britain's naval supremacy is assured not only for the immediate future but for some years to come.

The Liberals may safely leave to the leader of the opposition the defence of their naval policy. He endorses it. He defends it. His only criticism is that it should be supplemented by a cash contribution to meet an emergency which he says exists.

Two new senators from Nova Scotia have been appointed. Hon. Edward M. Farrell, speaker of the Nova Scotia assembly, is a son of Patrick Farrell, who was a native of Newcastle, N. B. Farrell was himself born at Liverpool, N. S., in 1855, and is therefore 55 years old.

Canada cannot properly take a permanent part in the naval defence of the whole empire unless we are to have some voice as to the way. I do not believe that Great Britain will in the future engage in any great war, except indeed it may be a war forced upon her without a moment's notice, before consulting the great dominions of the empire.

The remedy is in the hands of the people. Unless we are prepared to abrogate the power of self-government and to admit that we are unit for the privileges we now enjoy, it is idle to put forward any such reason or excuse.

Permanent co-operation in defence, in my opinion, can only be accomplished by the use of our own material, the employment of our own people, the development and utilization of our own steel and iron-ore, and above all by impressing upon the people a sense of responsibility for their share in international affairs.

Other quotations might be given, but these suffice to show that Mr. Borden's only objection to the government's policy is that it does not call for as large an expenditure as he would approve. That being the case, the debate, except Mr. Monk's part in it, and that of a few who may perhaps share his views to some extent, will turn upon the question of an emergency contribution.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, without any attempt at a general discussion of the measure, laid the naval programme before the house yesterday. The story is told on another page of this issue. The scheme will commend itself to the country, and the fact that it is so large a scheme effectively deprives the opposition of their chief weapon of attack.

Mr. F. D. Monk is plunging a lonely ocean furrow. His attitude on the naval question will find very few supporters, east or west.

The Lumsden charges against the National Transcontinental Railway Commission are to be investigated. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will move for a committee. The Standard will hardly believe it.

It will hardly be conceived that the members of the school board would pursue a course calculated to deprive any citizens of their rights. There does not appear to be any reasonable ground for apprehension on that score.

Few men raised to an executive position requiring commanding talents have made a better record than Deputy Minister Butler, who has resigned to become second vice-president and general manager of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company.

One of the most business-like calendars of the year comes to the Times from the Edmonton, Alberta, board of trade. The town is represented by the centre of a white disk on a red field, showing thirteen railway lines branching out in all directions.

HOW TO WORK IN THE ESSAY CONTEST

Boys and girls in the public schools who contemplate competing in the board of trade essay writing competition will be well to buy themselves early in securing data for their writings. A great deal of this information is forthcoming from older members of the household, friends occupying prominent positions in civic life, or from the files of newspapers to be had in public institutions. A healthy interest has already been stirred in the contest, through the general support it is receiving from press, public and educational officials. Indeed, this little competition offered in hand with school work, and will be of lasting practical benefit to all who enter it. The $45 in cash prizes is an incentive of no mean order, but from what can be learned most of the competitors are inspired from a patriotic standpoint and with a disposition to make good.

Skin Diseases.

Under this name such troubles as Salt Rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Tetter, Shingles, Psoriasis, Scurf, Itching Rash, Eruptions, Bolls, Pimples, etc., are included. Skin diseases, as a rule, are not dangerous, but are unightly, irritating and often terribly annoying to the sufferer; they depend mainly on bad blood from one cause or another, for if the blood is pure and the circulation good no skin disease can exist, except it arise from lack of proper cleanliness or from contagion. To get rid of skin diseases it is necessary to observe strictly all the laws of health; maintain regular action of the bowels; avoid high living, eating only plain nourishing food. Cleanse and keep the blood pure by taking Burdock Blood Bitters, which unlocks all the secretions, and causes new rich blood by acting on the entire system.

Mrs. F. M. Myers, East Java, writes: "I don't think there is anyone in the Dominion can recommend Burdock Blood Bitters more than I can. I suffer terribly with Salt Rheum for six years, and did everything for it without relief. For curiosity sake I bought six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. I would advise others to use it."

SHIPPING OUTLOOK ON PACIFIC

Development in Northern Trade
In the northern trade there will be great development. The three-funnel liner Prince Rupert, will run to Prince Rupert for the G. T. P., and the Princess May, Princess Royal, Princess Beatrice and Amur, probably another will run there for the C. R. P. The Princess May and Princess Royal continuing to Skagway, and the Amur to the Queen Charlotte Islands...

Never a Year of Such Development as the New Year Promises

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 11--This year will see the greatest shipping development in the history of the port of Victoria. Not only will the coasting fleet be greatly increased, but big additions will be made to the ocean lines and the home navy will have its beginnings at Esquimalt where the naval stations will be given over to the Dominion from the Imperial government...

Unprecedented Advance

In no year since the old Beaver paddled into the harbor with its old-time fleet of scattered Indian villages set about the frontier city that was Victoria then, has there been anything like the advance in the shipping and kindred industries that is to be this year. A new Princess liner, probably a two-funnelled steel twin screw steamer with speed of 17 knots, is to come in June for the Victoria Vancouver night run...

Whalers and Fishing Fleet

In the whaling and fishing business big development is also anticipated. The British Columbia Packers' association having decided to enter into the halibut business, is bringing the steam trawler Roman from Liverpool and she is to be followed by four or five other steamers which are to be purchased as a fishing fleet for the big portion which has heretofore confined its activities to the operation of salmon canneries on the Fraser, Skeena, Rivers Inlet and other northern waterways...

Sealing May End

In the sealing industry there will be developments also; but of another kind. The United States government has for many years been seeking to put an end to pelagic sealing. The G. T. P. company has purchased the steamer Bruno at Hull and this vessel is to leave shortly for the coast to be operated from Prince Rupert to Naas, Stewart and Queen Charlotte Islands ports and negotiations are expected to be concluded shortly for another steamer. The steamer Alaskan, that was once the steam schooner Mischief operated from Victoria to the west coast of Vancouver Island many years ago, will also be used from Prince Rupert to the Queen Charlotte Islands, running to Massett, the centre of a growing district at the north. Several other steamers are expected to operate from Prince Rupert.

Trans-Pacific Trade

Second only to the development of the coastwise steamship trade during this year will be the development of the ocean service, notably in the transpacific trade. Several lines are to be improved. It is expected that announcements will be made early in the year regarding extensive improvements to the C. P. R. service to the Orient. Rumors in this regard have been many. It was announced from London recently that the Allan line steamers were to be taken over by the C. P. R. and the turbine steamers Victorian and Virginian sent to the Pacific to run from Victoria to Hong Kong and long ago Sir Thomas Shaughnessy announced that the C. P. R. liners Empress of Britain and Empress of Ireland to the Pacific. The transfer will follow the improvement of the Atlantic line, and in this connection the Liverpool Journal of recent date says 'The Canadian Pacific Railway Company are credited with the intention of placing faster steamers on the Atlantic in connection with the transcontinental service.' The Bank line, operated by Andrew White & Co., with a traffic arrangement with the C. P. R. under the agency of Frank Waterhouse & Co., will add the 11,000 ton steamers Orlic and Luceric to its line in which the American, Suvetic and Kometic will also be operated. These steamers built at the Russell yards at Glasgow will have saloon passenger accommodation for 200 passengers and will be modern liners in every respect, fitted with wireless apparatus. The steamer Proteus has been added to the Blue Funnel line, and will leave Liverpool in a few days.

Had Weak Kidneys For Two Years.

Doctor Failed to Help. Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Him. Mr. Edmund Assels, New Carlisle, Que., writes--I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. I tried a doctor, but he failed to help me. I read in the B.B.B. Almanac about Doan's Kidney Pills, and began using them, and after the first box began to feel better. I only used four boxes and they completely cured me. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure, and would advise everyone suffering from kidney disease to try them.

"Young Mitchell" in a Position to Help Towards Getting the Big Fight

HE OUSTS NELSON

New Claimant for Championship—Hilton Belyea Wins Honors in Victoria Races—Bowling, Hockey and Other Matters of Interest in Sport

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 12.—John L. Herget, formerly "Young Mitchell," the lighter, now chairman of the police commission of the board of supervisors, tonight declared unequivocally in favor of granting a permit for a 45-round boxing contest in San Francisco in July.

He said he thought the Jeffries-Johnson fight could be better handled in this city by local promoters than anywhere else.

Herget's committee on Friday will decide the fate of the application made by Jack Gleason, of the promoters, to hold a 45-round fight here. Gleason and Herget are lifelong friends.

"The promoters have shown their ability to handle great ring contests," said Herget tonight. "I have participated in some of them myself and I was always satisfied with the way things were conducted. I can see no harm in 45-round fights, the only argument against them is a moral one and if the fight is not held here they will be held just over the county line. So what's the difference?"

Honors to Hilton Belyea

The championship races in the Victoria rink last night under the auspices of the L. Tour Skating and Bowling Club, attracted a good sized crowd and some good sport was witnessed. Hilton Belyea, National pitcher, who was drafted by the Chicago National club from Toronto, won four firsts and one second.

CATARRH CURED

No Cure, No Pay, is a Most Generous Offer

To get an antiseptic strong enough to kill catarrh germs and not destroy the delicate membrane the same time, has been a problem which was never solved until the discovery of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mee).

Hyomei is prepared from eucalyptus, the most powerful yet healing antiseptic known. Breathe it through a bottle, afterwards wash the nose with the same, and the inflamed condition will go, too, and the sniffling, hawking and offensive breath, and the discharge of mucus and crusts in the nose will cease.

They who should any catarrh suffer in haste, when Chas. R. Wasson has faith in Hyomei that he offers to return to them a dollar if it does not cure their catarrh.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including the inhaler, costs $1.00, and extra bottles, 50 cents each. Cost but 50 cents. Hyomei also cures asthma, croup, sore throat, coughs or grip.

MI-ONA Cures Dyspepsia.

Your money back if it doesn't. Gives relief from heartburn, sour stomach, stomach distress and sick headache. 50 cents a large box at Chas. R. Wasson's in which he would compete the 70 yards handicap and 70 yards scratch.

BUTLER MAY GET $25,000 SALARY

Place of Deputy Railway Minister Hard to Fill, Says Hon. Mr. Graham

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—(Special)—"I do not know of a man who can be called upon to fill Mr. Butler's place," said Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways and canals, when the resignation of Mr. Butler, chief engineer and chief engineer of the department, to take the position of general manager and second vice-president of the Dominion Iron and Steel and Dominion Company was mentioned to him.

"The loss to the department is a serious one," the minister went on to say, "and it is going to be a difficult task to fill the vacancy. Mr. Butler has been doing what he has done for three years, and it is not likely that any other man will be able to do it as well as he has done it."

"It is needless to mention the ability with which he has discharged his duties in all of these positions. His resignation is a serious loss to the department, and it is not likely that any other man will be able to do it as well as he has done it."

THE ORIGIN OF GOLF

Now that the coldest conditions of our climate have made golf, which was only practically confined to the three or four seasons almost as much a winter game, it is rather curious to remember that in Holland, where many people think golf came from, it was only played in winter.

All the literary and pictorial records of Dutch golf represent it as a winter pastime and played on the ice, and there is literally no evidence that the Dutch ever played golf on land. There are present in a Book of Hours in the British Museum which shows some children, playing golf at a hole in the ground, but it is not clear that it is the same game as the Dutch game which has little resemblance to our golf except that the weapons are similar. The Dutchman played at an upright mark, a post or stone or door, instead of a hole.

Golf as we know it is more akin to the ancient French game of jeu de Mail which was still played in the south of France in the neighborhood of Montpellier, and it seems probable if golf is not a purely Scottish creation that it is a modification of the old French game. There was much intercourse between France and Scotland in the middle ages, and it is not unlikely that the French influence on Scottish manners and customs and even on the language was very great. Of course, the French in Holland had much trade with Scotland at the same period, there is practically no doubt that Dutch influence on anything Scottish.

It is possible, however, that the Scottish form of golf club was taken from the Dutch. So far as can be judged from the old pictures the Dutch clubs were identical in form and construction with the old Scottish clubs. The Dutch copied the clubs from the Scotch, and as a matter of fact there is an old Dutch poem which is a "Koller" as described as using a "Scottish club," or Scottish club. But however that may be, the old Dutch clubs would pass the rules of golf committees today as "legitimate" weapons whereas it is to be feared that the weapons used in the French "jeu de Mail" would be condemned as croquet mallets.

Whether the Dutch or the French are our golfing ancestors is perhaps doubtful, but it is certain that at the present day they are our golfing children, for the golf now played in Holland and France is the true Scottish variety directly descended in Holland the game appears to languish but in France its progress is nothing less than astonishing.

In the case of the position, it was testified that he was placed in the "backing" machine and given twenty-seven blows with a heavy leather strap, the blood from the cuts on his body running down his legs and leaving his body a mass of sores. Green testified that he was unable to work the following day and for this he was strung up to the wall for more than two hours.

INHUMAN ACTIONS IN A PRISON

Women Hung up by Hand Rings and Left Until They Fainted

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 12.—D. M. Vining, recently suspended as superintendent of the Atlanta city stockade and pet corral, a guard at the stockade were found guilty yesterday on charges of assault and battery. Vining and the other guards were charged with the beating of Floyd Green, a negro convict. Sentence was deferred.

The indictment against Captain Vining and his whipping boss followed an investigation of the city by a special committee of the Fulton county grand jury which created a sensation by declaring in a lengthy report that conditions at the stockade were a disgrace to a civilized community.

In the report it was stated that the prisoners were with filth and vermin, that the food was unwholesome, the clothing of the prisoners and the bedding dirty, and that men and women inmates of the prison were cruelly beaten. For trivial breaches of the prison rules, the report stated, women were fastened to the walls by iron hand rings, their feet barely touching the floor and left in that position until they fainted.

In the case of the negro, it was testified that he was placed in the "backing" machine and given twenty-seven blows with a heavy leather strap, the blood from the cuts on his body running down his legs and leaving his body a mass of sores. Green testified that he was unable to work the following day and for this he was strung up to the wall for more than two hours.

The service will be continued until 5 o'clock and if it is found necessary will be continued at high tide each day while the traffic warrants. Good progress is being made with the repairs to the east side floats.

The water board may be called upon to investigate a report which comes from Loch Lomond to the effect that the supply of water which is used by the city, is being polluted by drainage from manure. This drainage is said to flow from the farm of J. E. Fitzgerald, which has a frontage of about 2,000 feet on Lake Latimer. The drainage is supposed to have been in progress for the past four or five years and it is said that if it is not checked in some way by the city will probably continue this year. The leakage is said to be particularly noticeable at the present time.

They are open to all registered amateur athletes in the maritime provinces, will be under M. P. A. A. rules, will be conducted by the Abegweit, and will take place on Jan. 28th.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MISS KATHERINE MCBRIDE

The many friends of Miss Katherine McBride will be shocked to learn of her death which took place this morning at an early hour at the home of her uncle Richard N. McBride, Babbaron Road. Since the death of Mr. McBride's wife in December of last year, his niece has cared for his home and three small children. Miss McBride was only ill since Friday of last week with a severe cold which bordered on pneumonia, but the physician in attendance found her much improved yesterday and all through the night she rested very comfortably, taking considerable nourishment.

Her death, coming suddenly this morning was a great shock to her friends. She was a young lady of beautiful and retiring character and much loved for her kindness and gentleness of manner. She leaves besides her uncle and family, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. McBride, of Annapolis, Queens Co., and a brother, James, of this city, and four sisters, Mary, of Portland, Me., and Blanche, Pearl, and Evelyn, at home. The body will be taken from her late home on Saturday morning via the Intercolonial Railway to Crownwell Hill Catholic cemetery, Queens Co., for interment.
