Journeay washed the windows of M. V. Paddock's pharmacy, and Cowan cleaned those of C. S. Everett's furniture store. Judge Ritchie observed jealously that it would give him unbounded pleasure to fine the women for violating the bye-law governing window washing, but he was inclined to be lenient toward the boys.

Dakin, a trusted employe of the mint in Denver (Colo.), was arrested in this city yesterday by a secret service agent. Dakin is said to have made a confession of his guilt. THREE MASTER FIDINGTON IS ASHORE ON BAR

New York, Aug. 17.—Seven men including the captain of the three masted schooner Fiddington, of Boston, were rescued from a perilous position on the craft, stranded on a sand bar off Long Beach, L. The schooner was driven on the sand bar 300 yards off Long Beach at four o'clock this morning by the northwest gale. Soon after daylight seven men of the crew were clinging to the bowsprit, having been driven there by the waves which were washing over the vessel. Life savers from two stations were called and preparations were made to shoot a line over the stranded ship, so as to rig a breeches buoy in the hope of taking off the imperiled men. New York, Aug. 17.—Madden Pierson was the sailor from the Fiddington who put off on a life raft from the stranded vessel. He was washed ashore alive at Hookaway Beach during the morning. Eight men in all were rescued from the schooner. The schooner is owned by John S. Emery & Co. of Boston and was commanded by Captain Ira Small. Judge Ritchie observed jealously that it would give him unbounded pleasure to fine the women for violating the bye-law governing window washing, but he was inclined to be lenient toward the boys. Henry O'Leary withdrew a plea of guilty to intoxication and asserted that as he was walking along Prince William street at eleven o'clock last night, and that Sergeant Campbell and Night Detective Lucas darted across the street at the corner of Duke, and without more ado arrested him. Enroute to the police station he said, they jostled him and attempted to induce him to resist. Lucas said it was one o'clock this morning when O'Leary was escorted by Sergeant Campbell and himself. O'Leary advised the former that it should not concern him where his destination was, where he came from or where he obtained liquor, and as he was intoxicated they locked him up. According to Lucas, O'Leary was profane and resisted somewhat, and threatened to purchase a firearm and exterminate him. The Judge fined O'Leary $4.

ing thing save the birds since he breathed the hill.

Wen his hands rested on the broken stonework of the window he was naturally elated. Soot-lens eyes drew level with it, and he could peer into the interior. It was all one great apartment, not lofty, though an arched roof gave an impression of height. A staircase led to the upper stories, but it was broken. Desolation reigned supreme. Some startled pigeons flew out with loud clatter of wings at the sight of him. Then he raised himself steadily up, and leaped inside, while the walls echoed the noise of his spring with the hollow sound of sheer emptiness.

There was plenty of light, but after a first hasty glance, he got further scrutiny to his surroundings. Where he was spying out the land in an enemy's country, he would have looked at the littered floor to find traces of any recent visitor. Most certainly he would not have begun operations in Garcia's hiding-place without first visiting the upper rooms. But he was too eager and excited to be prudent. Evelyn seemed to be very near him at that moment. He remembered how her impetuous attempt to throw the calabash into the Solent had led to the discovery of a long-forgotten tyrant, who persecuted alive again today in one of those three negroes he had seen in Figure's company. No wonder, then, that Warden was impatient. Ten seconds after he had reached the interior of the building, he was bent over the "deep crack" between the centre stones of the window described by Garcia.

There could be no doubting now which window the seribe meant. It stood next to that by which Warden had entered, and sure enough, just in that place the stones were more than ordinarily wide apart. The word "crack" was ambiguous. It might be applied more accurately to a break in one particular stone, but Warden was no adept in the Portuguese tongue, and the dictionary maker might be translating "interstice" or "crevice" or "division," when he wrote "crack." At any rate, the "crack" was unambiguous. It might be between them was partly eaten away, and Warden saw at once that in order to make good his search one of the stones must be prised out bodily. A crowbar would have ended the job in a minute when once the chisel had cut a leverage, but, in the absence of a crowbar, he set to work with the chisel.

The mortar became flint-like when the deodorizing influence of the water ceased to make itself felt. Nevertheless, the amateur house-breaker labored manfully. Half an hour's persistent chipping and twisting of the tool was rewarded by a sudden loosening of the stone.

Then he lifted it out of its bed, and there, nestling between it and its fellow, hidden beneath a layer of dust and feathers, lay a ring!

Now Domenico Garcia spoke of a "ruby" not of a ring, but it needed no skilled eye to detect the cause of that seeming discrepancy. The ring was a crude affair, made of gold, it is true, but fashioned with rough strength merely to provide a safe means of carrying the great, dark stone in its claws. Garcia did not waste words. To him the ring was naught, so why mention it?

The gold was discolored, of course, and he reached for a cloth to wipe it. As he did so, he noticed that the stone was not as he had expected. It was a large, oval, and often paused to make sure of the deepest niches. It must be confessed that so thought of other danger entered into his calculations. His military training should have made him more wary, but what had his experience or text-book do with this quest of a jewel, hidden for safety in a Moorish tomb so many years ago?

And he was armed, too, quite sufficiently to account for any prowling thieves who might be tempted to attack a stranger. A service revolver reposed in one pocket, and the chisel in another—but there did not seem to be the remotest possibility of human interference; he had not seen a livread somewhere that a flawless ruby was of considerably higher intrinsic worth than a diamond of the same dimensions. The diamond he had in mind was priced at three thousand pounds. If, then, this ruby were flawless, its appearance in England would create something of a sensation.

And Garcia's story was true—that was the most astounding part of the business. The magnificent jewel winked and blinked in the sunlight. It might almost be alive, and telling him in plain language that the gods do not lead men into strange paths without just cause.

Suddenly he caught a blood-red flash that reminded him of the uncanny gleam in the eyes of the face on the gourd. The thought was disquieting, but he laughed. "I am becoming a mere bundle of nerves," he said aloud. "The sooner I get soaked with quinine the fitter I shall be. It must be the malaria in my system that makes me see things. Really, the proper thing to do just now is to give that heavily made-to-the-head jolly man at Oku. Then it will be off my hands, and he will own the boss fetish of the whole West Coast."

He was about to pocket the ring when the question of its subsequent disposal occurred to him. It was such a remarkable object that any one who saw it could not fail to question him as to its history. Under existing circumstances, he did not care to inquire in that shape, and the queer fellow's hasty glance, he got further scrutiny to his surroundings. Where he was spying out the land in an enemy's country, he would have looked at the littered floor to find traces of any recent visitor. Most certainly he would not have begun operations in Garcia's hiding-place without first visiting the upper rooms. But he was too eager and excited to be prudent. British Ambassador Gets Hearty Welcome—Meeting With Lumbermen Added to His Programme—His Canadian Club Address.

(From the Daily Telegraph)

The Right Honorable James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, accompanied by Mrs. Bryce, arrived in the city on the Boston tram last night and will, this evening, address the Canadian Club after their luncheon in the assembly room. Sir Frederick Pollock, the noted author, who has been visiting Mr. Bryce at his summer home, North East Harbor, Maine, came as far as McAdam with him and will return home after a brief visit at St. Andrews.

Premier Hazen, C. B. Allan, J. N. Harvey and Dr. A. W. MacKaye were the gentlemen officially designated to meet Great Britain's most distinguished representative at the Union depot, the premier representing the government and Messrs. Allan, Harvey and MacKaye the Canadian Club. They performed their duties informally, entering Mr. Bryce's private car as soon as it arrived in the depot and extended to him a hearty welcome to St. John. It was when he appeared on the car steps, however, that the ambassador received the unofficial, spontaneous welcome of St. John's people. A ripple of applause, three cheers, and then the crowd parted in respectful silence and Mr. Bryce walked between two lines of welcoming faces to the waiting coaches.

The party drove at once to the Royal Hotel, where a suite of rooms had been engaged for them. At the hotel Hotel Doherty was introduced and in person accompanied the party to their rooms.

A Telegraph representative had a minute's chat with Mr. Bryce in the East Harbor, but as I returned to talk to them it would be hardly fair to give an interview to you. We have had a pleasant evening I shall speak in general terms on Canada's prospects and chances of development. I would not care to discuss that now but I have a typewritten abstract of the address which I shall be pleased to let you have tomorrow if you wish it. Good night," and he walked to his rooms.

The British ambassador at Washington is a big figure in the world of international politics and consequently he is most discreet as to what he says when he speaks it. When he has a statement to

PICTURE HAT TRIMMED IN AGRETTES.

For dress wear there is nothing so suitable as a big hat of the Gainsboro type. It is a style that comes every season; true there are slight variations in shape and great difference in the trimming. This chepaan has a slightly rolling brim toward the left side, and a trimmed edge toward the right side. The hat itself is of white moire. A hat of this type requires a handsome gown to be worn with it.

G. T. P. Liquor Cases—Miss Davis is Appointed to School Staff.

Fredericton, Aug. 16.—Hon. L. P. Farrin, commissioner of police for the Transatlantic Railway, is here this evening en route to Edmundston, where he will try nine liquor cases tomorrow.

The Houlton base ball team will arrive here at noon tomorrow to play two games with the Tartars.

E. R. Golding, barrister, who has been at Vienna undergoing treatment for deafness, has returned home. He underwent an operation at the hands of Dr. Alexander, an eminent specialist, and has been greatly benefited by his treatment.

The Methodist Sabbath school picnic will be held tomorrow at Burton. A number of other Sabbath school picnics will be held during the week.

The school board at its meeting today appointed Miss Edith Davis, B. A., to the vacant position on the High school staff caused by the resignation of A. S. McFarlane, lately appointed.

Miss Davis is a native of this city and a graduate of the U. N. B. She has recently been teaching at Moncton and formerly taught at Riverview.

Robert Vandine and T. Amos Wilson left this evening for Halifax to attend a meeting of the Grand Lodge K. O. P.

Dr. Allan Sterling, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway physician on the construction work in the Stanley district, stated today that five men who went over with the work train when the trestle at Mullin's Brook collapsed on Saturday afternoon, killing John McMullin, of Cape Breton, instantly, would recover, and that several of them were about ready to resume work again. Only one man suffered any broken bones, James Reynolds, a laborer from Ontario, having his hip dislocated. Most of the men were painfully burned by the steam and hot water from the boiler of the "dinky" engine, which went over with the rest of the train.

Howard Patterson, an Ontario man, who was in charge of the engine, did not have time to jump, and he was frightfully burned about the right shoulder and was also badly bruised about the groin and abdomen and may be internally injured.

Reynolds was also badly scalded about the left arm and body, and was taken to Griffiths' Hotel across the creek. The other men who went over with the train and all of whom were badly scalded, were John Robinson, of Scotland; Fido Dominic and Dominic Dantino, Italians, and John McAuley, laborer. The last two named were not badly hurt.

EARL GREY AN "ARCTIC BROTHER"

Dawson, Aug. 16.—The people of Yukon have presented Earl Grey who is on his first visit to the gold country, with an address inscribed on moose skin, decorated with native gold. His Excellency was initiated an honorary member of the Arctic Brothers and throughout his visit charmed the people by his democratic manners, and his evident interest in the progress of the territory. As usual, all his Excellency's speeches have been felicitous and touching the people on the right spot.

He predicted a great future for the gold dredging country and was very happy in his references to the settlers from the United States, both in the Yukon and in the new provinces, asserting that they were welcome and pointing out that by coming they were but paying back to Canada for the 1,000,000 men loaned in the early days of developments of the republic.

CARRIED OVER NIAGARA FALLS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 16.—August Sporer, an eighteen year old boy of this city, went to his death this afternoon in the whirlpool rapids after a gallant battle with the giant waves between the lower bridges and the pool.

With three companions Sporer went for a swim in the river at the Old Maid of the Mist landing. He struck out at once for the middle of the stream and then turned toward the bridge. His companions called to him to turn back for the current is very swift at that point, but he kept on down stream and was caught in the great sweep, the first break from the smoother water to the rapids.

The boy battled for a time against the current but to no avail.

Then evidently realizing that he was beyond human help and was to be carried through the rapids which took the life of Captain Webb, the great English swimmer, and which have resisted every unaided human effort at passage, he deliberately turned down stream and began a fight for life.

Not in all the history of the river has such a brave battle been witnessed. Sporer went into the rapids swimming strongly and held his own until he struck the giant wave which curls up opposite the Old Battery elevator. Then he went under and for a second was lost to the view of the score of people who stood on the lower arch bridge.

Again and again he disappeared only to reappear each time fighting desperately against the terrible current, but within 300 yards of the whirlpool his strength gave out, he sank and was lost to view. Even then he had swam perhaps 100 yards further than did Captain Webb. The body can now be seen in the whirlpool where rivermen are waiting for it to be brought in shore far enough to be caught.

FLAG HALF MAST, FISHERMEN LOST?

Canoe, N. B., Aug. 16.—The arrival of the schooner J. W. Mills, Captain Hiltz, this morning, with flag at half mast, tells another story of the loss of two of her crew.

Sam Hiltz and William Hyson left the vessel on Wednesday, as usual, with other duties to get their gear and did not return. A heavy fog shut in early in the day and although the schooner lay by for two days, making search in every direction, no trace of the missing men could be found.

On Wednesday night a heavy gale developed and blew almost a hurricane all day Thursday, so Captain Hiltz does not think it possible for the dories to have weathered such a high wind.

Both men were unmarried. Hiltz belongs to the Narrows, and Hyson to Pleasant Point, Lunenburg county.

Captain Hiltz reports very good fishing and has 1,000 quintals.

MURDER OF OLD MAN, BOY CAUGHT

Simcoe, Ont., Aug. 16.—Michael Hall, an old man seventy years of age, and a cripple, was shot at his home two miles west of Wainah shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the ball entering the back of the head, and he died in ten minutes.

Five shots in all were fired, and Mrs. Hall narrowly escaped.

Emmerson Schelly, a lad of fifteen years, is charged with the shooting. He has been carrying firearms, and has been warned several times about being careful. The boy says he was not near the Hall property when the shooting occurred, but admits he was shooting with a rifle.

The boy has been placed under arrest, and was brought to Simcoe at noon today in charge of Constable Able. His hearing is set for Friday.

A-GONE CASE.

Kiander—Well, that's always the way. If a man gives a girl the least encouragement she'll marry him.

MacKaye were the gentlemen officially designated to meet Great Britain's most distinguished representative at the Union depot, the premier representing the government and Messrs. Allan, Harvey and MacKaye the Canadian Club. They performed their duties informally, entering Mr. Bryce's private car as soon as it arrived in the depot and extended to him a hearty welcome to St. John. It was when he appeared on the car steps, however, that the ambassador received the unofficial, spontaneous welcome of St. John's people. A ripple of applause, three cheers, and then the crowd parted in respectful silence and Mr. Bryce walked between two lines of welcoming faces to the waiting coaches.

The party drove at once to the Royal Hotel, where a suite of rooms had been engaged for them. At the hotel Hotel Doherty was introduced and in person accompanied the party to their rooms.

A Telegraph representative had a minute's chat with Mr. Bryce in the East Harbor, but as I returned to talk to them it would be hardly fair to give an interview to you. We have had a pleasant evening I shall speak in general terms on Canada's prospects and chances of development. I would not care to discuss that now but I have a typewritten abstract of the address which I shall be pleased to let you have tomorrow if you wish it. Good night," and he walked to his rooms.

LIEUT. GEN. FRENCH

The announcement made by Rt. Hon. Mr. Haldane, secretary for war, that the imperial conference on imperial military and naval defence had arrived at an agreement, was coupled with another to the effect that while Lord Kitchener, the newly-appointed inspector-general of the Mediterranean forces, was in Australia, Lieut.-General Sir John French, commander of the first army corps, was coming to Canada to work out the details of the plan here.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Deaton French was one of the few brilliant commanders in the South African war, and his name, through his exploits in that campaign, is well known to Canadians. He was not born, as is generally stated, in 1856, but in 1855, at Perth, Scotland. He joined the army in 1873, and served with distinction in the Boer war, commanding the 1st army corps since 1902, and the 2nd Cavalry Brigade, being transferred in 1906 to the post of major-general in the 1st Cavalry Brigade at Aldershot, and in the same year, at the commencement of the war, appointed as major-general to command the cavalry brigade in Natal. He has been mentioned in the battles of Elandslaagte, and commanded the cavalry division in the operations culminating in the relief of Kimberley, and in the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria. Commanding the left wing of Lord Roberts' forces east of Pretoria, in the engagements of June 10 and 12, 1900, he was eight times mentioned in despatches, and commanded the forces that captured Burberston, and the force in Eastern Transvaal in the spring of 1901, and directed the operations against the rebels in Cape Colony up to the end of the war.

CLUBS FOR BOYS

An English letter gives a very interesting account of the growth of clubs for working boys and young men in the large cities, which have the effect of educating them along lines of healthful, physical and moral development, and giving them social advantages which save them from the temptations of the street. He learns self-respect, finds a welcome retreat after his day's work, and is given an opportunity for intellectual as well as physical culture. The movement has grown rapidly in the last 25 years, and the churches, which at first stood aloof, are now forming clubs of their own. We quote from the letter:

"In London the clubs are mostly smaller than those in the north of England, and more particularly in Manchester, where the movement has taken the strongest root. Some of the finest clubs in this city were started almost simultaneously, yet quite independently of one another, some 25 years ago. Perhaps one of the prime causes of their success has been that they commenced in a very modest fashion, and did not try to run before they could walk. To thoroughly describe one of the principal Manchester clubs of today would take up too much space but, stated briefly, a well equipped club contains a good sized gymnasium, five-courts, dressing and bathrooms, senior lads' room with billiard table, a good-sized room for table games and bagatelle, library, a concert room to hold about 40 lads, class-rooms, committee room and caretaker's quarters.

In a well organized club the different sides of a lad's character are all catered for. Besides the games in the club, there will probably be half a dozen cricket and football teams, a harriers' or cross-country running club, a swimming club, etc. The managers of the principal clubs have long since realized that these must be not merely places of amusement, and consequently well organized educational classes under government or municipal authority are carried on.

Many clubs hold sacred services on Sunday evenings and put pressure, but only gentle pressure, on their members to either attend or go to some other place of worship. The annual camp, generally at the seaside, during Whit week, must not be forgotten. This is a great feature of club life. As regards numbers, several of the Manchester clubs have a slightly winter attendance of from 200 to 400 lads, and there must be a membership of at least 10,000 lads in the different Manchester clubs. Respecting the system of government, it has seemed most advisable in the hands of boys, though the older fellows especially are encouraged in every possible way to assist the officers in their duties.

Rev. Dr. John W. Hill of New York, who is supplying in a London pulpit for a few weeks, is said to have created a profound impression by his utterances on the subject of international amity, and especially of the friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States. A London cable quotes this extract from one of his addresses:—"The Anglo-Saxon integrity, which is stronger than the greed for land, and the Anglo-Saxon moral sense, which is deeper than the passion for power, is a cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, directing the real forces of civilization. I see more in this federation of English speaking peoples than the movements of our Dreadnought police of the seas and the barking of our dogs of war. The time is coming, and it is not far distant, when the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, floating together, will make it impossible for a gun to throw a bullet beyond its muzzle or for a soldier anywhere on the globe to lift his foot against the peace of the world unless the order is given in the English tongue."

Woman suffrage is making great strides in New Zealand. The London Times' Wellington correspondent cables statistics indicating that within twenty-five years the majority of the voters in New Zealand will be women. In 17 electorates, the women already enrolled outnumber the men. The attorney-general, speaking on the subject said there was a reduced degree of domesticity among the New Zealand women. The women were less inclined to make home their only sphere, and their sympathies and activities were widening. He is of the opinion that when the reform of the liquor trade, for which women have long been struggling, had been achieved, their zeal would be diverted toward securing other social and political reforms. Generally, he thought, their influence would be for good.

The Canadian Associated Press has the following very interesting item of news of imperial importance:—"The King has approved the appointment of Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Patterson of Canada, Sir Dickson Poynter and Sir Daniel Morris to be commissioners to investigate and report upon measures that may be taken for the promotion of closer trade relations and for the development of mutual trading facilities between Canada and the British West Indies. His Majesty approves of the appointment of H. R. Cornwall of the colonial office to be secretary of the commission. H. H. McCarthy has been selected to accompany the commission as technical adviser."

TO WED AMERICAN

Roman Nobleman to Marry Niece of Nat Herreshoff.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 17.—Another Italian nobleman has won a well-known American girl. He is Luigi Masambo, member of one of the oldest Roman families, it is said, and it became known today that his bride will be the beautiful Miss Sarah Lothrop Herreshoff, daughter of Mrs. J. B. Frances Herreshoff, daughter of Mrs. J. Iron, of No. 40 West Sixth-street, and niece of Nat Herreshoff, the famed blind designer of American cup-winning yachts.

Mrs. Herreshoff and her daughter are now at the Hotel Aspinwall in Lennox completing arrangements for the marriage ceremony, which will take place here during the latter part of next season.

Masambo joined them yesterday, and will remain in America as they start upon their honeymoon to his family's estate.

Miss Herreshoff met the Italian nobleman during one of her numerous visits to Italy. She is an accomplished young woman, who has recently gone in for literature so successfully that several of her short stories have been widely praised.

CANADA'S TRADE BOUNDING; HIGH MARK IS REACHED

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—Canada's trade is booming again and at the present rate of growth will soon reach the high water mark of a couple of years ago.

The total trade of the dominion during the first four months of the present fiscal year, which is to the end of July, approached the $200,000,000 mark, totalling $191,919,304.

PYTHIANS REPORT GAIN MADE

Review of Year at Annual Meeting in Halifax Today

MEMBERSHIP 2,276

Increase Over Last Year—New Brunswick Lodge of St. John Still the Banner One—Order Strong in This City.

The reports of the grand chancellor, grand keeper of records and seal and grand master of exchequer submitted to the grand lodge knights of Pythias at their opening session in Halifax this evening are of interest.

The grand chancellor, S. A. McDonald, says in part:—

"On this, the twenty-third annual convention of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias of the maritime provinces, it is my very pleasant duty to extend fraternal greetings to you, the officers and members of this lodge.

"We have today reached the twenty-third milestone along the great highway to that perfection which is the aim and ambition of all true and loyal Pythian Knights, and I think it quite in order that we should pause for a brief space and review the ground over which we have travelled that we may take to heart more fully any mistakes that may have marred our past record and receive added enthusiasm from our many successes to stimulate us to greater efforts for the future.

"As we meet from year to year at this bearing time, when, to use a commercial expression, we find to which side of the account we must credit or debit the year's work, we comprehend more fully the meaning of the great word brotherhood, embodying the three beautiful principles of our order, namely friendship, charity and benevolence.

"The Pythian Order, based on such principles, is to day one of the greatest factors for good in the world. I feel that I am guilty of no exaggeration when I make this statement which is fully warranted by the records of our achievements.

"I am sure it is gratifying to you as it is to me, to note the great success attained by our order in this dominion. Slowly but surely we are climbing to a high and honorable position among the orders of a similar nature, notwithstanding that as a matter of years, we are but infants compared with many of the older organizations.

"I believe by every individual member endeavoring to appreciate the principles of the order and exemplifying the same in his daily life, the Pythian Order will become a synonym of all that is good and noble.

"The ideals and lessons taught the countless thousands of graduates from rank to rank must surely have a lasting influence in their lives.

"We are proud to know that our beloved order is enlarging its membership, extending its influence, and commanding today a leading position as one of the greatest fraternal organizations in the land.

"When you elected me to the high office of grand chancellor, I accepted it with a feeling of responsibility. My own desire then was to have the pleasure of visiting every lodge in the dominion, and to carefully study conditions as they existed. But I regret to say that private business matters over which I had absolutely no control deprived me of that cherished duty. I trust some day to be able to avail myself of this privilege, although not as your executive head.

"The grand chancellor pointed out that there are some weak lodges in the domain that require attention, namely—Collingwood No. 29, at Perth (N. B.); Border, No. 8, at Milltown (N. B.); and Seaside, No. 9, at St. Andrews (N. B.); Crescent Lodge, No. 24, at Summerside (P. E. I.) had its charter withdrawn during the year, owing to lack of interest on the part of the members. Reference was made to visits made during the year to several of the lodges.

Congratulates Col. Dodge.

In referring to the military branch of the order, the grand chancellor compliments Colonel Alfred Dodge, of St. John, commander of the regiment, in bringing this branch of the order to a high state of efficiency.

Grand lodge cards were issued to the following—E. B. D. Armond, Winnipeg; H. R. Pickett, Campbellton; W. Baird and J. McDonald, Moncton.

The bye-laws of a number of lodges, as amended, were agreed to, and dispensations granted.

The grand chancellor made the following suggestions:—

(1) "I would suggest that an effort be made to give the military branch a more prominent place at our annual conventions, with this in view I would suggest that the grand lodge donate a suitable trophy to be competed for on conditions that may be agreed upon.

(2) "That we take into consideration the advisability of an effort being made with a view to have more temples of the Pythian Sisters organized in our domain."

The grand chancellor made feeling reference to the death of George H. Parsons, of Halifax, a former member of the grand lodge, and also extended his thanks to the grand K. of R and S. for assistance given him.

Mr. Moulson's Report

James Moulson, grand K. of R. and S. in his report submitted to the members on June 30, 1908, was 2,257, and on June 30, 1909, was 2,276, a gain of nineteen members. During the year 197 members were added to the membership roll, but 178 were lost through death, suspensions for non-payment of dues, and by the Summerside lodge surrendering its charter.

In the three St. John lodges, a substantial gain in membership was made. New Brunswick lodge added 16 and lost six, making a net gain of 10. Union Lodge added 19 and lost 10, making a net gain of 9, and St. John Lodge led the entire domain with 34 added, and 2 lost by death showing a net gain of 32. The total net gain in St. John was therefore 51 members.

New Brunswick Lodge still holds the position of the banner lodge of the do-

FRUIT--THE GREAT PHYSICIAN

Wonderful Medicinal Value of Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes

How many people realize what remarkable curative principles are contained in fruit juices. There are two—the bitter and the sweet. There is about ten times as much of the sweet as of the bitter though the bitter principle is the one which has the curative effect on disease. Apples, oranges, figs and prunes contain the highest percentage of bitter principle and thus are the most healthful.

It was a theory of a physician in Ottawa, that if the amount of bitter principle in fruit juice could be doubled, the curative property would be increased, not twice but many times.

After many tests, this physician succeeded in forcing into the combined fruit juices an additional amount of bitter principle, and in doing so formed an entirely new compound. To the combined juices were added valuable tonics and antiseptics and the whole made into tablets.

These are "Fruit-tives"—the only remedy known to science that is made of fruit. The wonderful cures in cases of Stomach Trouble, Bilelessness, Constipation, Rheumatism, Chronic Headaches and Neuralgia, Kidney, Liver and Skin Diseases are due solely to the fact that "Fruit-tives" contain the medicinal properties of fruit. 40c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. WOMAN MAKES WILD SCENE IN THE COURT

Florence Davidson shrieks and fights when sentenced to Dorchester for five years

Shrieking and sobbing Florence Davidson was carried bodily from the police court this morning through the jail yard to the jail preparatory to being taken to Dorchester to commence a five year term. When the woman was arraigned before Judge Ritchie on Monday last week she pleaded guilty to stealing $11 from John P. McElwaine at Misses on the preceding Saturday and was remanded as the judge desired to prosecute enquiries into the woman's past.

In the interim it was ascertained that she was sentenced to a term in the penitentiary from Prince Edward Island in 1903 for perjury and before the expiration of the term was liberated on ticket-of-leave by the department of justice. However, soon after being freed she was convicted of theft in Halifax and sentenced to another term in the penitentiary. This term she served and at its expiration she came to St. John and after frequenting houses in Sheffield street for two weeks was arrested for lying and lurking in a box car on the Ballast wharf.

A term of six months in the Salvation Army Rescue Home was imposed on her and she promised faithfully to remain in the institution and endeavor to reform with the assistance of the Army women. She, however, escaped from the home and obtained employment at a Mincee boarding house. In the absence of McElwaine, a boarder, she picked open his trunk and extracted $11 with which she walked toward the city.

However, McElwaine telephoned Detective Killen of his loss and, spying the woman crossing a field adjacent to the Municipal Home, the detective accosted her and she confessed to the theft and was taken into custody.

This morning the woman said that she was not a native of Nova Scotia but hailed from Prince Edward Island where her parents now reside. She further asserted that she did not authorize the police to state her age as 33, as she was only 24.

Judge Ritchie alluded to her reluctance to avail herself of opportunities to amend her habits and when he dwelt on the necessity of confining her in the penitentiary rather than the jail the woman commenced to weep and expostulated with his honor.

The judge referred to a possibility of a commutation of the sentence he would impose whereupon the woman interrupted with "My grandmother got me out on ticket-of-leave the last time but I can't get out that way again." She pleaded repeatedly not to be sentenced to the penitentiary and when sentence of five years with hard labor was imposed on her she threw herself into a chair, gripping the chair and shrieking so that she could be heard a block away she could not be separated from the chair for some minutes and, struggling violently, Policemen Joseph Scott and William Belyea carried her and the chair down the stairs leading to the guard room where the chair was dropped.

"They'll kill me up there. I know what it is," she shrieked.

Reserve Officer Ghaline assisted in carrying her into jail and it was ten minutes before she could be taken over the intervening distance. She kicked, scratched and bit the policemen, tore her hair and apparel and was dishevelled when she reached the jail. It is a similar predicament were the policeman.

When assigned to a cell in the jail she threw herself against the wall and bars and to prevent the hysterical woman from committing suicide she will be kept under constant surveillance until removed to Dorchester in a few days.

CAPT. PITT IS QUITE BADLY HURT

Capt. William Pitt of the Gondola Point ferry, was badly hurt yesterday afternoon. His ferry is run by a gasoline engine and a cable, and some way his clothing was caught in the machinery and he was injured. It was some time before medical aid could be secured. Dr. Marcy of Cambridge (Mass.), who is visiting at Miss Vandall's in Fairview, attended the injured man.

It is reported today that Capt. Pitt's head and shoulders were bruised badly, and that he is hurt internally.

HAD GOOD OUTING

Rev. J. E. Purdie, curate of St. Luke's Church and Lieutenant Howes of the St. Luke's cadets returned home today from Day's Landing where they have been in charge of the boys' camp. There were twenty-five boys in the party, and all had a delightful time. In every way the outing was a success, fine weather prevailing throughout, and the boys returned home on Friday happy and contented. Rev. Mr. Purdie and Lieut. Howes remained over to pack up the tents and supplies, and reached Inlandtown this morning.

Among the amusements enjoyed by the boys were swimming, boating, canoeing, running races, baseball, football, croquet and quoits.

Four ladies accompanied the party and looked after providing for the boys' appetites. One of the number, Miss Ramsay, succeeded in learning to swim.

Three services were held on Sunday, August 8. The morning service was conducted by Rev. Louis Duval, a returned missionary from West Africa; the afternoon service was in charge of Mrs. W. Watters, and in the evening Rev. Mr. Purdie was the preacher.

In the probate court today the matter of the estate of Thomas J. Dunlop, steamfitter, came up. He died intestate leaving a wife and three infant children and an interest in the estate of his mother, the late Eliza Dunlop, who predeceased him, the whole value of his interest being under $100. The widow asked that George H. V. Belyea, barrister, be appointed administrator and he was sworn in as such.

On Sunday afternoon, F. A. Dykeman with his motor boat Ogiath started from Benford for Millidville, where his daughter had been spending a week with friends, for the purpose of bringing her home. When off Bishop's Point his motor met with a mishap, blowing out both cylinders. After it rode at anchor for several hours, John Lipsett, who also figured in the rescue of the Fairweather party, last week, happened along and took Mr. Dykeman in tow, bringing him to safe anchor at Benford. This is the second time within a week that Mr. Lipsett's speedy motor boat has assisted in
