VEGETINE.

About nine and a half years ago I had a fever the doctor gave me some poisonous medicine, drove the visease into my leg, and it broke out, and has been from two to ten running sores ever since. I could not sleep a fourth of a night occe in six months, and a great many nights was compelled to get up and take opium, a piece as a large as a pea-to deaten the pain. I have tried everything I could hear of, inefact, I have paid out hundreds of dollars, and found no relief until I commenced taking Vegetine, and now I can go to bed at eight o' lock at night and sleeep until seven o'clock in the morning, and no occasion to waken from pain. I was used up, perfectly dead inwardly, and frequently when I would get up would be disty, and have to put my hand on something to keep from falling; but since I commenced taking. Vegetine it has all disappeared, and I feel like a new man. My honest courietton is that it will ture my leg entirely, from the present looks and rectings. I shall continue taking Vegetine, and recommend it to all whom I come across; and I hope the man who introduced Vegetine into the United States will have a home in the Celestial Uity.

DRUGGISTS TAKE VEGETINE

AND RECOMMEND IT. I have been sel'ing Vegetine ever since it came into existence, and have recommended it to my customers. I have tried it upself and find it a great blood purifier and renovator of the system.

A Treasure Claim. Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a kero sene lamp at Chicago some ten years ago Jolicure cow as enterprising, through less vicious, tumbled into a hole a year or two was to have twenty games made, but the made a stir, in the County of Westmorland at least, ever since. So important had the matter become that the erudite editor of champion took his position. On the out the Chignecto Post sent a reporter a few side were seated Me to some past operations. The pith of the interview was as follows:—

Mr. G.: "You, of course, know the discovery of the extraordinary place was by a cow breaking through the material covering the hole. Attention was directly reached a platform of timber in the centre of which was a stick of timber estanding vertically, with a large flast stone placed on the top. On removing the platform was found marsh mud filling an oval hole over 16 feet long, and a feet wide. This was excavated down for about 25 feet. In the marsh mud and leaves excavated with which the hole was filled, was found an old plate which, however, was broken in being taken out. The walls of the hole were eemented and hard as stone, and when near the bottom there were plain marks of picks on the hole. A stone care fully aquared was found in the centre of the hole near the bottom. Having reached this distance the bottom was hard, made apparently with red clay and cement; passing through this, quick-sand, was found, and water become troublesome. From further indications which were observed and which I do not care to divulge, and a shaff was sank on the southerly side of the blee for a start was suspended, and a shaff was sank on the southerly side of the blee for a south of the place of the southerly side of the blee for a south 20 feet. At a blee for a south 20 feet and 20 feet. A served and which I do not care to divulge, the working in the hole was suspended, and a shaft was sunk on the southerly side of the hole, for about 30 feet. At about 20 feet from the surface a gallery filled with marsh mud, chalk and rounded pebbles was struck, running from the direction of the first hole, dipping southerly obout 45 degrees. This is the extent of our operations. Work has been suspended until next season."

Reporter: "What led you to dig the second hole?"

until next season."

Reporter: "What led you to dig the second hole?"

Mr. G.: "I have declined telling you. I may however, mention that singular as it may appear, several mineral rods which have been brought there by parties not interested, have all, within a circle of 2 miles, pointed in the direction of this mysterious hole. When near the hole the rods dip into the earth. When at the bottom of the hole they pointed upwards, and in the direction of the side gallery."

political rights appear to promise good results within a short time, although the with the Archduchess and her mother commencement of reform, has probably the day was sure to be kept as a been retarded by the murderous policy of the Nilhists, which has reflected disgrace never neglected any occasion of giving on the cause of those engaged in the emancipation of Russia from its despotic form of Government. The London Standard has published the following forecast of prospects of reform:—"At present nobedy can say what the outcome of the forthcoming Council will be. One version of the question to be debated in whether the collecting at million of a terms. the question to be debated is whether the collecting a million of stamps, in represent system of absolutism shall be continued, or whether reforms shall be introduced, but the question is framed thus only to soothe the outer world. The real further his darling's wish. The young question is whether Russia wishes for Archduchess, when seventeen years of peace or war, and it is expected she will decide for the former, as his recent tour has convinced the Czarewitch of the neces sity of observing the Berlin Treaty, and the Pfince has hitherto been the Chancellor's trusticat friend. Should the Prince's conviction be overborne. Prince she had not to take the veil and go into Gertschakoff and his disciples who are now in office will, it is affirmed by these properts, be dismissed, the Car will abdicate if he does not accept the necessity of giving up absolutism, and the Czare-wifth then as Ozar will introduce reforms, girlish looking, and appears younger Dr. J. CHATHAM. - - - DECEMBER 25, 1879. CHRISTMAS DAY.

Whatever may be the experiences brings with it a train of associations days are reminders of great concerns | Boyd is thus reported :-

Polemical writers have attached what appears to be undue importance to the question whether the Redeemer was really born on the twenty-fifth of December. That, however, is but a matter of tradition. Since the more you rub him the brighter he gets. middle of the fourth century the There are persons who say that Sir Church has celebrated the Nativity Leonard is very anxious to bury party on that day and the correctness of the date may well be left out of that Mr. Boyd's calling down imprecathought when the human mind entions on himself are very much like deavors to contemplate the great cen- tempting Providence; that both he and tral fact of the Incarnation and its Sir Leonard know the old party cries purposes. It is fitting that such a can never rally a majority about them day should be set apart for special in St. John again; that Mr. Boyd's thankfulnes to God. It is a remind- prophecies respecting lines of steamers er of the crowning act of His love etc. are but repetitions of clap-trap indulged in by Sir Leonard for many and mercy to the human race, and hence the joyous thanksgiving of the turns to St. John in the regular course Church to day. It is the natal day of events, its people will know that the of Him who gave us the "New Com- N. P. has had about as much to do mandment," and we cannot rejoice with bringing it as "those tears" or in the love wherewith He hath Mr. Boyd's gushing and vehement proloved us" unless we have done all testations of regard for the author of that has been possible, in our circumstances of life, to deserve the love of those by whom we are surrounded. Mave we done what we could for our neighbors less comfortably off in the world, than ourselves? If not we have not worthily prepared for our own enjoyment of to-day.

The experience in the homes of hundreds o families in the Miranichi lumber region is that their young men have taken to roving. They have left the country altogether and, still, there are enough left to do all the work the country siftords.

Sir Leonard Tilley in St. John. [St. John Globe, Dec. 18th, '79] VISITING THE INDUSTRIES.

The Minister of Finance vesterday after noon completed his tour of the manufac tories. He first visited the St. George Granite Works, Carleton, where he was met by Mr. F. T. C. Burpee and Mr. Moses Lawrence, "Mr. Burpee," said the Minister on alighting, "I have come over to see what you are doing in the stone line." "Very little, I assure you," was Mr R's reply as he led the way into the works. Large and small granite or there is lower freights on our lumber, blocks and pillars were in different stages etc., going to the West Indies, which is so of polishing. In a large lathe a huge red granite pillar was just being turned. The grey granite, Mr. Burpee said, came from fineries. We find that a project is on foot "old Wetmore Quarry," Spoon Island, and is known as the famous Spoon Halifax to establish a sugar refinery there, Island granite, the superiority of which over other grey granites is well established throughout the Dominion and the United Leaving Newfoundland, Cartier sailed to States. Under the former tariff we lost our West India trade altogether, but since the new tariff came in the result has been that where 12 millions pounds of St. John by forwarding to His Worship sugar were imported in one quarter of last the Mayor a cheque for $500, to be disyear; this year is the same quarter there has been imported over 18 millions, nearly note accompanied the landsome gift: 19 millions, pounds of sugar into the Dominion. We are sending out vessels for return cargoes, and will either get higher freights, which is good for the shipping, etc., going to the West Indies, which is so much in the pockets of our Maritime dealers. And then there are sugar refineries. We find that a project is on foot and that capital has been subscribed in Halifax to establish a sugar refinery there, and we find that Moneton is moving in the matter also. I would much rather see it in St. John. Moneton is, no doubt a very proper place for the establishment of a sugar refinery, but I consider that St. John and Halifax are, from their situations, the content of the courage displayed by the citizens of St. John in struggling against disaster and depression of trade,—a courage which deserves future prosperity.

Human Hair Goods of all kinds including Ladies' Switches, Curls, Frizzettes, Braids, &c.

Deciming it desirable in the interest of common sense and lair play, we have decided on making a change in the manner of conducting our business in the future.

After 1st January, 1880, we will sell STRICTLY FOR CASH, a course which will appear resonable and right when looked into; for instance, we have lost on an average yearly, between $500 and $600 in bad debts and interest on sums owing, and not paid. The jarties who have to pay this smount are those who have-bought for cash, which is manifestly unfair, by adopting this plan we will be enabled to sell, at least, 10 ger cent. lower than before thus benefiting our customers to that amount.

It is unfortunate, however, in these poor times, that goods have taken such a tremendous rise in price. All rubber 1,00ds have advanced twenty per cent, and all leather goods ten per cent, but, notwithstanding this, with our proposed method, we will be able to sell NEARLY ALL LINES AT OLD that anything we used NEARLY ALL LINES AT OLD that anything we have heard and some a sell nearly and the charged 5 per cent, over our selling price, unseless to those who have contra accounts.

gone to stay with grandma, who was sick, Kate attempted a beginning. She brought the scrap-bag from the attic, and settled little Dora by the window to report Johnny's approach. He had gone to the baker's for a loaf of bread. Then she emptied the bag in the middle of the floor and began picking out the woolen pieces which would do to put together for the cover. She had set aside a scrap of yellow flannel, and a piece of Johnny's new pepper-and-salt suit, and was thinking about taking a third bit,-s blue merino, bright, but moth-eaten,-when there was a cry from the sentinel at the "Johnny's comin' !" Kate, in a panic, snatched up the pieces by great handfuls, and crowded them back into the bag, asking if he was almost to the gate. She wouldn't have little Johnny see even the thread and needle she was to make his present with; it must be a complete surprise to him. When the scraps were all in the bag under the lounge, Dora said :

"Why, no; it isn't Johnny, it's "Well, I think it's a pity," Kate said, "if you can't tell Johnny from Aaron Bridges, who is a head taller
