London, Feb. 10.-Hon. Cecil Rhodes. formerly Premier of Cape Colony, started for Buluwayo this morning. Mr. Rhodes' departure was managed very quietly. He will go to South Africa via the Suez Canal. The Duke of Abercorn, president of the British Chartered South Africa Company, and a few friends were the only people who saw Mr. Rhodes off. It is understood that he will return to England for the trial of Dr. Jameson, which will take place in June next.

THE TRANSVAAL PRISONERS.

Pretoria, Feb. 10.-At the trial of the prisoners, Police Commandant Schuette, deposed that the Government withdrew the police from Johannesburg on Dec. 27 in order to avoid a collission with the rebels. Other police evidence was given, alleging that the rebels were armed and drilled, and that earthworks were formed outside the city. When the news of Dr. Jamieson's march was received some of the leaders of the National Union denied any knowledge of the affair.

OF NO IMPORTANCE.

Madrid, Feb. 10.-The Government organ regrets the resolutions of the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in favor of the recognition of the Cuban insurgents as belligerants as being of no importance. They declare that the relations between the Spanish and the American Governments are very cordial, and that the campaign in Cuba has not chanaged them. Marshal Martinez De Campos dined last evenning with the Queen Regent.

SEXTON IS NOT AMBITIOUS. Dublin, Feb. 10.-Saturday's meeting of the Irish Parliamentary party was conducted with closed doors. A deputation was appointed to wait upon Mr. Thomas Sexton, Anti-Parnellite, with instructions to ask him to accept the chairmanship of the in succession to Mr. Justin McCarthy, reported that Mr. Sexton is not willing to accept. He promised the deputation, however, to give the matter careful consideration, and said that he would communicate to them his decision in a few days. The meeting then adjourned until Feb. 18.

> RHODES' LATEST SCHEME. London, Feb. 10.-The Times has an Hon. Cecil Rhodes in South Africa, of which it says: "The first chapter in the scheme is the creation under a British administration of a British Johannesburg in Rhodesia. Mr. Rhodes believes that the mineral wealth of Rhodesia justifies a reasonable hope that within five years the population of Rhodesia will that of the existing Uitlander population of the Transvaal. In addition to splendid climatic advantages, experts believe that the plateaus of Mashonaland and Matabeleland are highly mineralized. Coals exists in enormous quantities, and it is supposed that there is gold. It is also understood that Mr. Rhodes' project includes an intention to lead the way by putting the bulk of his own large fortune into the local enterprises, and also to encourage the cultivation of wool, coffee, tea and spice, and possibly cotton."
> The Times says in an editorial on Mr. Rhodes' plan: "The foregoing grandiose scheme rests wholly upon the condition that gold can be found. If it fails, the scheme must fail, too." The Daily News publishes an article by a person who knows Mr. Rhodes' views, and who says that he has abandoned the plan of addressing the meet-ing of the shareholders of the Chartered South African Company, because it is undesirable to prejudice the trials arising out of the Jameson raid. The Fate of the Bill Dealing With Manitoba Schools.

Madame Laurier's Victory-The Plight of a Violent Preacher-Electric Railway and Steam Railway Crossings.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.-Tomorrow, at 11, . Conservative caucus has been called. It will be the first general caucus of the party as represented in Parliament since it became a certainty that the bill to meddle with the Manitoba school question would be introduced into Parliament. It will also be the first assemblage of that nature since the question of leadership became one of public discussion. The intention of the bosses was to do without a caucus till towards the end of the session, but in response to pressure, Premier Bowell was determined to over-rule the desires of his antagonistic colleagues, whose conduct recently moved him to call them "a nest of traitors," and accordingly both the leadership and the school bill will be discussed in caucus. A lively time is expected.

A Conservative M.P. says: "Although Sir Charles Tupper's success in Cape Breton is regarded as satisfactory, it does not allay the apprehension felt here amongst the knowing ones as to the future. There is a deep-seated behef that Sir Mackenzie Bowell has no intention of relinquishing the leadership, and that there will be an unpleasant time when the Conservative party in caucus assembles."

Sir Charles Tupper was given a demonstration by the Conservatives of Montreal. He is expected here today.

In the 46 days left to the Government they hope to put through the Remedial Bill and the Supply Bill, the two measures in which they have a vital intrest. The opposition to the school bill is so prenounced that I do not believe that that measure can be got through in that time. Mr. Mc-Canthy, Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Wallace, Prof. Weldon and others will oppose it at every stage. Major Hughes has also made a similar declaration. If this is so, they can take up many days in talking against the bill on its general principles, and against every clause in it. They say they will never let it go out of committee. In regard to the supplies, the Opposition have, it is believed, determined to fight very item and prevent any sum, big or little, being voted. They have declared that if the Government got a supply bill through they need not go to the country until March, 1897, and they intend to run no such risk."

sion the Minister of Agriculture had asserted in this House that the em-bargo in Britain against our live cattle was maintained because the British Government desired to protect the agriculturists of Great Britain against Canada. How then could Sir Hibbert Tupper or any member of the Govern-ment object when they declared Eng-land was suffering for want of this valuable system of protection in vogue in Canada? What did all this tend-to? It tended to the closing of the one free market the Canadian people had for their products. Mr. Paterson quoted the Liberal resolution moved a few sessions ago by Mr. Davies in favor of reducing the duties on Brit-ish goods and asked Canada to mark that the Government and every one of their supporters voted down that resolution. This Government taxed British goods ten per cent higher last year than American goods, they refused to give even fair play to the mother country which admitted our goods free.

Armenia's Gry

Heard and Heeded by the First Presbyterian Congregation.

tion in Her Behalf Carried by a Standing Vote.

de Government Called Upon to Preis a Recurrence of the Mas acres - Rev. W. J. Clark Preaches on the Rubject.

At the First Presbyterian Church last evening, before a large congregation, Rev. W. J. Clark dealt with the Armenian massacres in a vivid and impressive manner. In the course of his deliverance he said:

of Haman's plot against the Jewish nation, and give thanks that such plans are impossible in the nineteenth century, and yet in the year of our Lord 1895, a more horrible plan has not only been conceived, but executed. The Armenians are an ancient people, and are of the Christian faith, although both Greek and Roman Churches have at different times branded them as heretical. There are said to be some 2,000,000 of them under Turkish rule, and the last half-century has been one of shameful misgovernment."

He then proceeded to give the following details of the misgovernment that prevail:

"A summary of what has been going on is contained in the following selection from an article by Mrs. Dillon in one of the reviews: 'During all these past seventeen years, written law, traditional custom, the fundamental maxims of human and divine juse have been suspended in favor of Mohammedan Saturnalia. The Christians, by whose toil and thrift the empire was held together, were despoiled, beggared, chained, beaten and banished or butchered. First, their moveable wealth was seized, then their landed property was confiscated, next the absolute necessaries of life were wrested from them, and finally honor and liberty were taken with as little ado as if these Christian men and women were wasps and mosquitoes. Thou-sands of Armenians were thrown into prison by governors like Tahsin Pasha Pasha and tortured and terrorized till they delivered up the savings of a lifetime and the support of the helpless families to ruffianly para-sites. Whole villages were attacked in broad daylight by the Imperial Kurdish cavalry without pretext or warning, the male inhabitants turned drift or killed, and their wives and deughters transformed into instru-ments to glut the foul lusts of these bestial murderers. In a few years the provinces were decimated, Alogherd, for instance, being almost entirely "purged" of Armenians. Over 20,000 woe-stricken wretches, once healthy and well-to-do, fled to Russia or Persia in rags and misery, deformed, diseased, or dying; on the way they were seized over and over again by the soldiers of the Sultan, who deprived them of the little money they poswearing, outraged the married women in the presence of their sons and daughters, abused the tender girls before the eyes of their mothers and brothers, and then drove them over the frontier to hunger and die. Those who remained behind for a time were no better off. Kurdish brigands lifted the last cows and goats of the peasants, carried away their carpets and valuables, assaulted the daughters and dishonored their wives. Turkish tax gatherers followed these, gleaning what the brigands had left, and, lest any-thing should escape their avarice, bound the men, flogged them until their bodies were a bloody mangled mass, cicatrized the wounds with redhot iron rods, plucked out their beards, hair by hair, tore the flesh from their limbs with pincers, and often, ever then, dissatisfied with the financial results of their exertions, hanged the men whom they had thus beggared and maltreated from the rafters of the room and kept them there to wit ness with burning shame, impotent rage and in a great madness, the dishonoring of their wives and daughters, some of whom died miserably during the helish outrage."

ties. How infinitely more horrible for men and women to have suffered them. And all the while the great Powers of Europe have looked on. True, they have remonstrated with the Sultan, but that monarch has calculated on the jealousles existing between them preventing any vigorous interference, and the results have proven his calculations to be accurately made. More than a year ago a European commis-sion representing England, France and Russia visited Armenia and saw sufficient to bear out all that had been the extent of the massacres. Various reform projects were proposed and discussed, but the massacres continued. A fleet of warships anchored off the Turkish coasts, but nothing came of the implied threat. The latest I have seen is that Lord Salisbury stated in effect that Britain could not Interfere because of the danger of precipitating disaster, in comparison with which the massacre of the Armenians would seem insignificant. There is certainly nothing more absurd than I, or any man in my position, should speak in harsh criticism of the British Government's action, inasmuch as it is impossible to have that large view of current events that responsible statesmen have. Nevertheless it should be born in mind that England is under peculiar obligation to the Armen-ians. Seventeen years ago Armenia was under way to obtain some measure of good government through the influence of Russia, but Great Britain interfered and prevented the carrying out of the treaty between Russia and Turkey, for the sake of her own poli-tical ends. Moreover, nations as well as individuals should be willing at times to take risks, and it is a great pity that some of the national enthus-lasm which flamed up over the German Empire's telegram had not prevailed in regard to the Armenian massacres.

Mr. Spicer Will Hear from London Be fore He Resigns-New Electric Locomotive

The tenders for the annual coal contracts of the Grand Trunk Railway have all been rejected by General Manager Hays. General Manager Hays, accompanied by several officials, has left Montreal on a tour of inspection of the Grand Trunk.

It is the intention of the Toronto Board of Trade to tender a reception to General Manager Hays, of the G. T. R., when he returns from St. Louis.

Detroit Free Press: Charles M. Hays. the Grand Trunk, stated yesterday, just before leaving for St. Louis, that there would be but one manager of the consolidated Grand Trunk Railway—himself. "All of the divisions of the road," said he, "will be under one general manager, and that's what I came to the road to be. There is no more reason why we should have a general manager here and one in Montreal than that the Michigan Central should have one in Buffalo and another in Detroit." It has been learned that Mr. Spicer will resign as manager of the Michigan division of the Grand Trunk only upon the request of the London, England, directors of the road, by whom he was appointed.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia have just completed their first electric engine upon the model of the Westinghouse system, which, it is claimed, will revolutionize the running speed of railroad trains. It has been forwarded to the works of the Westinghouse company in Pittsburg, and as soon as the electric apparatus has been adjusted a test will be made of its drawing capacity. At regular intervals be-tween the rails over which the locomotive is to run contact buttons are placed. A slide rail under the locomotive touches these but-tons, one after the other, thus keeping up, while the engine is run, a constant current of electricity, which travels from the rail through the car to the slide rail and thence to the buttons. After the engine has passed the buttons they are left unconnected, so that there is no danger then from contact. A possible speed of 200 miles an hour is expected, and it is apparent that, if even a partial success is achieved, the locomotive will make a great change in railroading.

Mr. Dodworth is 74 years old.

THE WIFE IS BARRED. Washington, Feb. 10.-Judge Reeve the solicitor of the Treasury, has held that a Chinese laborer who has a right under the law to remain in the United States and to return to China temporarily, is debarred from bringing his wife with him on again returning to this country. This decision is based upon the fact that no Chinaman can acquire citizenship in the United States, but he is held to be simply a sojourner, and hence the law inhibiting the landing of Chinese must apply to the case under consideration.

A GRAVEYARD BUSINESS.

Systematic Robbery of Washington Cemeteries-A Startling Discovery.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Owing to a misunderstanding of addresses on a large box left on the Baltimore and Ohio depot in this city to be forwarded by express, the existence of a trade in corpses for dissecting purposes has been unearthed. The box bore two ad-dresses, and the employes of the United States Express Company were undecided as to what address it should be sent. After the box had been at the station all day, the employes forced its cover, and one of them thrust in his hand, hoping that the contents would indicate whether the bex should go to Baltimore or Detroit, which were the two addresses. The employe caught hold of a human foot. The box was then opened and was found to contain the bodies of two women. It first appeared that murder had been committed and the bodies of the victims were being shipped out of the town. The bodies were entirely nude, and one was that of an old colored woman. The other seemed to the corpse of a white woman 25 years of age. After working all day the de-tectives came to the conclusion that the bodies had been shipped by grave Mr. J. Foulds, deputy registrar for robbers. It is also learned that a regular system for the shipping of bodies stolen from the cemeteries about Washingt on exist. The work has been carried on with astonishing boldness, and dozens of bodies have been sent out of town recently. This box was addressed to Angus McLane, 223 Pullman street, Detroit, Mich. Large boxes sent by the same set of men have been followed to New Haven and Hartford, Conn., Baltimore and other cities. Some were so heavy as to leave the belief that they contained three bodies.

In the forenoon, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, the parents of the murdered girl, and her sisters and brothers, visited the cemetery and entered the vault. Mrs. Bryan was so overcome by the sad spectacle of the headless trunk of her daughter that she swooned in the vault, and the father was nearly over-come in a similar manner. While the relatives were in the vault there was a meeting of the young and middle-aged men of the city, and it was said later that 25 or 30 of these pledged themselves to each other to avenge the girl's death if the murderers were not hanged by law.

The War Horse Rampant as Never

The following report, bearing the heading given above, intended for the Toronto Mail-Empire, has by misdirection, reached this office. It is of so momentous import, as disclosing the Tupperian intentions, that we give it roar unabridged:

From our own Special Correspondent.)

Bull Head Cove, Feb. 8.—This has dreaded by political economists and been a red-letter day for this rising sages who expect Canadians to travel place. Sir Charles Tupper, M.P., Secretary of State, came here to speak who form so large a part of this grand to Ottawa, where the richness and district, but through them to the people of all the Canadas. Fully 100,000 people, the bone and sinew of our fa- ing Sir Charles retired to the official vored land, assembled to greet the car and read himself to sleen with the grand old war horse and see him shake tures of Baron Munchausen. his mane in his own and only style. The enthusiasm was so great that the impatient multitude met the train ten miles away and took the locomotive out of the traces and hauled it into this young city by dint of willing hands. Sir Charles, on his journey by hand power, was entertained by his devoted followers pointing out the great opportunities there exist in this part of the country to build some of the largest cities in the world if Sir Charles, whom they all love, would only bend his great intellectual power to the task and bring the people here. With the greatest possible difficulty, the local expectant office holders, custom house officers, together with the party stalwarts and lighthouse keepers, made a clearance for the train. The vast audience could not restrain itself when their beloved war horse was sighted, but burst out into cheering and applauding the "lion in the path." At last silence was restored, when the war horse let himself loose as follows: "Gentlemen,—Standing on the rock-ribbed coast of Nova Scotia, which has existed long anterior to the N. P., which I established, and having in my ears a delightful blending of your ears a delightful blending of your cheers and the roar of the deep, sounding waters of the mighty Atlantic, I carnot help expressing to you how great is my joy, and seraphic my happiness, to be once again in your midst and to have an opportunity of telling you what I have in store for every part of Canada, and particularly the great future I have in my mind for Bull Head Cove. (Cheers.) You all know that I was for ten years in London, where I distinguished myself as Canada's greatest son. (Hear, hear.) The Prince of Wales was my dear and good friend. (Cheers.) So was her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, who would insist on my frequent visits to dine with her. (Loud cheers.) The Prince always spoke of me as the greatest man on earth, and was never done asking me for tips on the C. P. R. stock. (Applause.) I was his best friend, and his august mother knows 1t-(cheers)-and the Princess, his dear wife, was always contented and happy when she knew he was in my company. (Loud and long continued cheering.) I was the patron of 500 Y. M. C. A.s in Britain, and the bishops wanted to obtain from Parliament permission for me to speak from their pulpits. The British Parliament would have granted me this privilege, and so honored the church, only my modesty forbade it, and I told my friends, the Archbishop of Canterbury and Lord Salisbury, that nothing could induce me to preach to the people of England, for there was neither wealth nor fame to be derived from saving souls. (Hear, hear.) My friends the Rothschilds wanted me to deal with the great African question. I declined, for my heart was ever on Bull Head Cove. (Cheers.) The South African Company wanted me to take charge of their affairs, but I sternly refused, for my friend Cecil Rhodes demanded that an audit be kept—a most insulting proposal. (Cheers.) Gentlemen of Bull Head Cove, there millions of gold in South Africa, bu confidential advices inform me that every rock in this favored land is full of gold. (Tremendous appleurs) will take it out for you, and make you thereby all wealthy. (Cheers.) After the general election I will secure a the general election I will secure a Parlimentary grant of $100.000,000 as a first gift installment to the part of Nova Scotia to develop the rich gold deposits Nature has dowered you with. ("Hurrah for Sir Charles!") I will order a like amount for British Colum-bia and the Rainy River, and to sweeten Sir Mackenzie Bowell I will put say $5,000 down for the Madoc gold mines. (Murmurs of dissent.) I will bring the British fleet to execute its matchless and far-famed maneuvers in your glorious harbor—(cheers)—and the Queen and my friend Salisbury will order all the supplies to be purchased from you for cash an long credit prices. (Loud cheers.) I will give Nova Scotia ten winter mail ports, and every one shall have lines of steamers sailing to every part of the globe—(cheers)—and to every other Province and district I will grant blessings after the election. (Oh! oh!) A deep ship canal has long been needed from Bull Head Cove to Lake Ontario, thence by the great lakes and across the Kicking Horse Pass to British Columbia. (Loud cheers.) We need this in case of war, and in peace it will serve the growing commerce of our land and build up Bull Head Cove and make its name famous through-out the globe. (Applause.) The tunnel to Prince Edward Island, also one to Newfoundland, shall be built after the elections—(Cries of "No! no!")—for the islanders have votes-(hear, hear)and votes count. (Cheers.) I will in-stitute a financial system of lending farmers, merchants and speculators money on personal security at British Government rate of interest, all from our inexhaust-ible Canadian treasury. (Loud and enthusiastic cheers.) Your gold (Applause.) Immediately after the election I will establish at the Government expense creameries, cheese factories, pork packing factories, condensed milk and preserving factories, where all you grow will be put up in good shape and shipped to Britain free of charge. (Loud cheers.) I will build the Hudson Hay Radway—(No, no!)—as the first section of the North Pole and Arctic transcentinental system and I will transcontinental system, and I will want at least 5,000,000 superintendents at good salaries. (Cheers.) The Nova Scotlans are the right stuff to make superintendents of. (Cheers.) Gentlesuperintendents of. (Cheers.) Gentle-men, a glorious future presents itself to my vision for this great country of ours. You need a man of genius. The Queen and Lord Salisbury say I am the man. (Cheers.) I hope I am, for did I not give you the N. P. and the 8,000,000,000 bushels of wheat per annum from Manitoba alone, and did I not build and pay for the C. P. R. out of the sale of lands in Manitoba to the English suckers?—(loud cheers)—and I will do more as soon as I jerk old Bowell off the perch and get the elections over. (Loud cheering.) Men of Bull Head Cove, hear ye me, and act as men having confidence in your great future. The Grits shall tremble at the name of Tupper the Terrible, and hon-est men shall leap with joy at the name of Tupper the Magnificent. The Hon's roar shall reverberate and re-echo from the billows of the Atlantic to the Rickies, and down the deep valleys to the placed waters of the Pacific main, (From our own Special Correspondent.) and everywhere shall the name of

PERISHED AT HIS POST.

The Foreman of a Pennsylvania Printing Office Burned to Death.

Pittsburg, Feb. 10 .- An early morning fire at McKeesport, Pa., resulted in the loss of one life and the destruction of $200,000 worth of property. Among the buildings destroyed was the Altmeyer Theater, in which was the McKeesport Herald. The fire started on the fifth floor of the Altmeyer building, and is supposed to have caused by defective electric light wir-

The flames were discovered by the printers of the Herald as the fire began to eat its way through the sixth floor. The night's work had just been finished, and the paper was about to go to press. When the flames were rush was made for the usual seen a rush was made for the usual point of egress, but the stairways were already impassable. The only resource left were the windows and the elevator shaft. All but G. M. Barton, the foreman, succeeded in sliding down the rope.

ope. His escape was cut off, and he was burned to death.

The flames spread to the residence of Peter Strong, adjoining, which was totally destroyed. Pollard's jewelry store and Dietrich's livery stables were also on fire, but the flames were extinguished without much damage. The loss on the Altmeyer theater building and the Herald plant is estimated at $175,000, and on the other

Must Answer to the Charge of Murder-Poison Found in Her Husband's

Windsor, Feb. 10.-Mrs. Hattle Nolan, who was arrested two weeks ago cn a charge of poisoning her husband, Geo. Nolan, will have to stand trial on the charge. Nolan's stomach was sent to Toronto, and Government Analyst Ellis in making his report stated that it contained poison similar to rough

The inquest was finished Saturday, and the evidence went to show that the prisoner had repeatedly threatened to take her husband's life. It was also shown that she had purchased a box of rough on rats in Gesto previous to her husband's death. After hearing the evidence the jury retired for a couple of hours, and brought in a verdict of death from willful poisoning. The prisoner was defended by D. R. Davis, while A. H. Clarke, of Windsor, looked after the interests of the Crown. Mrs. Nolan was brought back to Sandwich iail, and will stand trial for murder at the fall assizes. which will be held next September.

RAID BY ROBBERS.

They Get $14,000 in Bonds and $300 in Postage Stamps.

st. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 10.—Bank robbers made a bold raid on the State National Bank at Savannah, Mo., sixteen miles from here. They beat the night watchman into insensibility and but were unable to open the safe containing the funds of the bank.
In the private boxes connected with the vault the robbers found $14,000 in bonds, which they carried away with them. The coupons on the bonds, due Jan. 1, 1896, had not been detached.

Dr. Daniel preached from the appropriate text in the sixth verse of Psalm xcvi.: "Strength and beauty are in thy xcvi.: "Strength and beauty are in thy sanctuary." The doctor said this memorable old Hebrew Psalm had no superscription to indicate either its author or the date of its origin. But if what scholars asserted be true, it might very well ventured that this old al hymn was written for that special occasion when the ark that was brought back to Zion was reproduced on the restoration of the temple, and the grand old Psalm was made to double service as they returned from their long exile back again to their ecclesiastical city, to their new house, whose glory was, according deavor to increase the membership of to prophecy, to be greater than the glory of the former house. The text then might not be altogether out of ly and the benediction was pronouncplace in view of their return to the new sanctuary, just one week from the anniversary of the fire, as they looked up in this second temple and repeated the wonderful words. "Strength and beauty are in his sanctuary." The preacher declared that art was interwoven with the world's religion, and as an evidence of the truth of the statement said that when men began to worship God they wanted to erect a temple to the glory of his name. This was bedeep down in the human na-were sentiments struggling for expression and finding their magnificent utterance in the music of poetry or the symmetry of a faultless archi-tecture. This was the material conception. Graceful curves and stately columns were beautiful to the eye, but they were only a symbol of the higher type of beauty that presented itself to the clarified view of the Hebrew. Pagan architecture appealed to the sensuous, and this was the difference between Pagan and Hebrew. Very much of the religious life lacked the quality of being preeminently attractive because it did not touch the highest point of beauty in our religious life. There was a virtue that was not attractive to the populace. Why? Not because it ceased to be virtuous, but because it had not been developed into its most perfect form. Not because they were not fruits of the Spirit, but because they were fruits only in the germ.

The difference was like that of the orchard fruit in the springtime and in the harvest time. When the fruit was unripe the acids were so very acrid you did not enjoy it. But the summer sun took away these bitter acids, and mellowed and transformed

Here they secured about $300 worth and listened with close interest to the of stamps belonging to the postoffice, addresses and joined lustily in the singing. The ground floor was reserved for the members of the church and outsiders, and was fairly well filled. On the platform were seated the choir, Rev. Dr. Daniels, Rev. Mr. Kennedy, Rev. A. L. Russell (chairman of the London district), Mr. Wm. M. Spencer (the popular superintendent of the school), and five ex-superintendents of the school—Messrs. Wm. Bowman, Thos. McCormick, John Green, R. J. C. Dawson and George T. Mann, who occupied the position of superintendent in the order named. Mr. J. Frith Jeffers, another former superintendent, was unable to attend.

The service was begun at 3 o'clock by the singing of the well-known hymn, the first verse of which reads:

"God bless our Sunday school, Increase our Sunday school, God bless our school. Send down thy grace divine, May every child be thine. And love all hearts entwine; God bless our school."

Rev. Mr. Russell read a passage of Scripture, and was followed by Rev. Dr. Daniels, who read the dedicatory service of the Methodist Church. In a very earnest prayer, Dr. Daniels invoked divine blessing on the new school. "We pray thee," he said, "to accept the dedication of this building for they purposes, and to bless the work of our hands. Bless, we beseech has prepared for all who love and serve thee. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, we dedicate this school, and to thee be the glory and praise."

A hymn followed, and Mr. Spencer made his first address in the new school in his official capacity. He thanked God for the beautiful home given the school, which he believed was given in answer to a fervent prayer offered in the old Wesley Hall several years ago, when a new school was so badly needed. A year ago the old building was burned down, and it was said when the City Hail was secured that if half the scholars could be held together until a new school was built, the teachers would be doing well. Instead of the membership falling off, however, it had increased considerably, and it was desirable that the membership should not remain at 500, but grow to 800. Mr. Spencer thanked the officers and teachers for their fidelity to the school since the fire. He urged them to continue the work more zealously, if possible, and to understand that the new building brought greater responsibility upon everyone.

Mr. Wm. Bowman was the first of the ex-superintendents to speak. "How many in the room were con-nected with the school when Mr. Bow-man was superintendent," asked Mr.

Mr. John Green also spoke briefly, joining with Mr. McCormick in hearty wishes for the school's advancement. Mr. Dawson, as a member of the trustee board of the church, extended a cordial welcome to all who attended the service. He spoke of the pleasure it had always afforded him to attend Sunday school during the last 45 years, and he wanted every scholar to enthe First school.

Surprise for the Political World--Reforms for the "Randers" -- Rhodes Satisfies Chamberlain.

British Liberals Solid for Arbitration-The Anti-English Feeling in Germany Subsiding - The Silver Question Comes to the Front-Birdie Sutherland's Suit.

- HODES WILL RETURN. London, Feb. 9 .- A dull and dreary week has been ended with a surprise for the political world in the announcement by the Times that the Hon. Cecil Rhodes, the former Premier of Cape Colony, sometimes termed the "Napoleon of South Africa," whose collapse as a leader of men and manipulator of important events, was looked upon in many quarters as assured, is to return almost immediately to Rhodesia to resume his work in behalf of the chartered company. This announcement, which is fully authenticated, with Mr. Chamberlain's message to Gov. Robinson, of Cape Colony, almost monopolizes the attention of the politicians. Having conferred with the directors of the chartered company, Mr. Rhodes, it is said, will soon return to Buluwayo, where he will reside in the fine house he has caused to be erected in the neighborhood of poor King Lobengula's former capital, except during the sessions of the Parliament of Cape Colony. Mr. Rhodes, however, will await the arrival in England of Dr. Jameson, as he is desirous of conferring with the famous leader of the raid into the Transvaal before returning to South Africa. The ex-Premier may also make an address to the chartered company at a meeting of its shareholders soon to occur, and he may take this occasion to explain in detail his position towards the com-The friends of Mr. Rhodes, naturally, claim that the latter's return to South Africa indicates that the Sec- ard, Englishmen will cordially recog-State for the Colonies is satisfled with his explanations, and the idea (if it was ever really entertained) that tions between the two nations. Sir Edward Clarke, Q.C., M.P., former-ly Solicitor-General, has been engaged commissioner. These districts were the starting points of Dr. Jameson's col-umn, and the effect of the change is to place the British territory adjoining the Transvaal under the Imperial control. Thus, it is asserted by the opponents of the company, the dream of incorporating the rich gold fields of the Rand into the territory of the chartered company must be definitely abandoned, and, consequently, they expect Mr. Rhodes to settle down at Buluwaye and devote his energies to the work of exploiting the resources of Rhodesia. But there are people who know Mr. Rhodes intimately, and they smile, at such anticipations, quietly remarking, "Wait and see: Rhodes will never rest until his dream is an accomplished fact."

REFORMS FOR THE RANDERS. Mr. Chamberlain's message to Gov. Robinson, published by the official Gasette, has created an excellent impression on all sides. It is looked upon as being firm and unequivocal in its terms. It is said to clearly define Great Britain's position toward the Transvaal, and is warmly applauded by the press. The effect the loan is likely to produce on the treasury is also exaggerated. It is very probable that enough gold will be accumulated to pay the first couple of installments; but it is more than Royal Academy until the end of the likely that the treasury itself will be called upon to furnish a portion of the gold for further payments. Even if the full amount of the loan is encached in gold by the treasury, what likelihood is there of its being retained there? What President Cleveland described as the "endless chain" which empties the treasury reserve almost as fast as it is refilled continues and will continue until the Legislature is persuaded to pass a measure to reform the currency on a sound basis. There is no present prospect of it, and the mere issue of a loan has altered nothing and improved nothing. It can at best be only a temporary respite, and it is utterly fallacious to regard it as inaugurating a new era of confidence

The Speaker also warns investors, saying that the success of the loan does not in the least improve the position of the United States; but it admits it shows the party of sound finance is unquestionably strong.

THE SILVER QUESTION IN GER-MANY.

Berlin, Feb. 9.-The pressure brought to bear upon the Government by the German bimetallists has resulted in squeezing from the Ministers a statement on the subject. The Imperial Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, in the Reichstag, made the following declaration of policy in this connection: "We have gone exhaustively into the question of raising and strengthening the value of silver with the federal Governments, being guided by the conviction that the fluctuations and the heavy fall in price in silver entailed economic prejudice in Germany in spite of the fact that her monetary system rested securely on the gold standard. The first point to be considered is the serious injury to German silver mining. The production of German silver amounts to about 9 per cent of the total output of the world. A fall in price is not of such moment in the immensely larger production of foreign ores. But to Germany it implies such a decrease in value as to endanger home silver mining. Another point is its influence upon German exports to fall in silver, although lately the fluctuations have been comparatively small, and those interested have been able to find means of security against losses. But German export trade to silver countries has suffered from the conditions of exchange.

"I do not under-estimate," he added, "the importance of the effects produced by this cause. But they must not be placed too high. Our exports to silver countries amount only to threequarters per cent of our total exports. and in spite of the setback during the months when silver fell they, on the whole, have made favorable progress. The official statistics prove that the depreciated currency of silver countries contribute to facilitate competition with the exports of these countries until the moment when a com-pensating influence rises and home prices and wages establish themselves, the final result being that silver coins become degraded to the level of paper money. This depreciation, however, does not endanger our currency because our trade is abundantly sup-ported by gold and the imperial bank notes adequately covered by the gold reserve and the silver money does not exceed the demand which, even in times of crisis, is not likely to dim-

"On the other hand, the danger from counterfeiting coinage has been increased by the fall in silver, although there was only one case in 1893. Yet, a fall in the price of silver will always serve as an inducement to counterfeiting. Therefore, although a rise in the price of silver is highly desirable from economic and mint standpoints, yet no doubt the goal can only be attained by an understanding with the countries interested in international commerce, of which there is no present prospect. The bimetallists recognize in the reopening of the Indian mints a condition precedent to un-limited coinage, and I concur, as I believe that otherwise all efforts to raise the price are vain. The opening of the Indian mints is not expected within measurable time, as I have learned from preliminary negotiations with the British Government." Prince Hohenlohe concluded by saying: "A monetary conference would not bring the question nearer to a practical so-lution, and therefore it appears to be undesirable that Germany should take the lead in summoning a conference. The federal governments, acting upon their conviction, have decided not to take further steps in pursuance of the resolution of the Reichstag of Feb. 16, 1895. If, however, definite and acceptable proposals promising success were made on behalf of amother state, I should duly consider the question of German representation at a confer-

for extending her foreign trade. Germans have acquired large interests in the Transvaal gold mines and they built the railroad from Pretoria to the coast. The Krupps and other great German fronmasters have established agencies in the Transvaal, and Germany counts upon checking British influence there through the develop-ment of its iron trade. In consequence the German trade with the Transvaal has increased from 1,000,000 marks in 1889, to 6,000,000 marks in 1884, exclud-

On Monday quite a large number of strikes will be inaugurated in different parts of Germany, the most important being that of the home work seamstresses in Berlin, Hamburg, Stettin, and Breslau, affecting altogether about 65,000 persons. The carpenters, bricklayers, etc., are also declaring a strike, and other trades, it is announced, will do likewise. The building trades strike, it is said, is in anticipation of the demand for labor which will be caused by work upon the Ber-lin Exposition.

COLD AND HUNGRY.

The pressing need of relief for the destitute in the disturbed region of Turkey is illustrated by a letter from Arabknir, received Saturday, in which it is said: The refugees wander about from morning till evening begging, and are obliged to return empty-hand-ed, hungry, weary, cold and almost dead, to sleep on the stones. Con-tinuing, the writer says: "Hundreds are women, violated in Turkish houses. "Hundreds Some have embraced Islam because of their wretchedness, and some have given their daughters to Turks. A letter from Erzingan refers to the work of relief which has already been begun there, saying there are 15,000 persons who need help. "For four days," says a correspondent, "we have been giving bread to 530 persons. We examine the applicants carefully and get the certificates from the leading Armenians of the district whence the people come before helping them. Even with these restrictions the number is very great. Besides being hungry, many are naked and have neither bed-ding nor fuel. At present we can give them only bread."

A letter from Kranoos states that the local government gives no permission for relief and does not look on it with favor. In fact, without a positive and direct order of the vali pasha, which it is impossible to obtain, this work is exceedingly dangerous. MUCH TALK.

Robert Bonner said last week that in his opinion the two hardest records to beat are the 2:08 3-4 of Maud S., to high-wheel sulky on the regulation track at Cleveland, O., July 30, 1885, and the 2:10 3-4 of Arion, as a 2-year-old, to high-wheel sulky on the kite

Toronto has nineteen baseball players under contract. They are: Catchers Dowse, Casey and Kinsella; Pitchers Moran, Berrett, Dean, Dunn, Mc-Parlin and Dinneen; Infielders Lutenberg. Padden, Smith, Stuart and Al. Wagner, and Outfielders O'Brien, Sanford, Freeman, Walsh and Dietrich. Statistics in England show that from 1892 to 1894, both inclusive, 334 year-lings brought a total of $4,330,000. These same purchases during their racing career won about $1,000,000, or less than a quarter of their cost.

James Watson Pays for His Offense Struck a Man Without Cause-News-Sporting Life (London) says: Ex-Champion Billy East is very busy just now. He has been taking sculling exboys on the Carpet - Tramp Sent to the Hospital. ercises with Ellis Chinnery at Ted-

The list of cases on Police Magistrate Parke's blotter today was unusually long for a Monday morning. It was disposed of in short order.

James Watson, of East London, was charged with assaulting Charles Ferguson, also of No. 5 ward, and he pleaded guilty. The assault, it appears, was most unwarranted. Ferguson and his wife were walking along Dundas street one evening recently, when Watson, without any provocation, interrupted them, and committed the offense. Mr. Hubert Dignan appeared for Watson, and asked that a very light fine be imposed. Watson, he said, belonged to a respectable family, and was under the influence of liquor when the assault occurred. He had since apologized to Mr. Ferguson for his ing is to keep a careful watch upon the movements of Maher and Fitzsimmons, to Police Magistrate Parke strongly censured Watson for his disgraceful act, and said that such an offense should not be punishable by a fine, but by a term in jail. Under the circumstances, however, he would only impose a fine of $5 or a week.

The fine was paid. Joseph Niosi and Joseph McRoberts, two little newsboys, were on the carpet, also charged with assault. Willie Hynd, another newsboy, was the com-plainant. He alleges that Niosi and McRoberts administered a whipping to him on the street, and then threw him down and took away some of his change. The case was enlarged for a

A Stabbing Affair.

One 17-Year-Old Boy Makes a Playful Lunge at Another

And Severs an Artery-Albert Giese, London West, the Victim-Lost Two Quarts of Blood-Very

A boyish thrust with a boyish knife came nearly costing a boyish life on Saturday afternoon. And now there is a very sick boy with a severed artery somewhere in his right chest and another badly scared boy with a pock- xvi., 10: "And his kingdom was full et-knife that has assumed the proportions of a bayonet, all gory and red, in his fevered imagination, Between 5 and 6 o'clock on Saturday afternoon Ben Clark, who works at Reid's Crystal Hall, was cutting twine. Ben is only 17 years old, and has apparently not yet cut his wisdom teeth.

At any rate, when another 17-year-old lad named Albert Giese passed close to him Ben made a playful lunge at the passing boy. He either expected Albert to jump out of the way or miscalculated the distance.

If Albert had known, as he did a moment later, that Ben had a sharp knife in the hand that was swinging from a diplomatic standpoint. towards him he doubtless would have jumped, and perhaps might have es-tablished a new amateur record for either high or long distance jumping, according to the angle in which he

Both boys discovered that the knife was in evidence about the same time. Unlike the majority of boys' knives this one unfortunately was sharp. It cut through Giese's clothes and sank into his right chest, anywhere from 1 1-2 to 2 inches deep. It also severed an artery.

It would be hard to say which boy was the most frightened. Albert was deeply pained and cut with Ben's action and bled profusely. Ben was pale and exceedingly sober. At the time he did not know an artery was severed, or he would probably not have set out to walk with the injured boy to a Queen's avenue doctor's office. They had not gone very far before Ben had almost to carry Albert, he became so weak. A policeman interfered, and visions of an indictment for manslaughter at least floated before Ben's imagination. But guardian of the law knew young Glese and assisted them. The doctor's office seemed miles away, although only a short distance, and at last it was reached. The medical man dressed the wound and Mr. Glese, sen., was sent for. The boy lost two quarts of blood and was weak with exhaustion. He was taken in a cab to his home at 29 John street, London West. Bright and early yesterday Ben called on Albert. He was considerably relieved to find that there was no crape on the door, and the scene when the two chums met—for they were chums—was affecting in the extreme. Clark caressed the sick boy fondly, and, weeping, kissed him. Meantime the doctor does not know whether the knife injured the lung or not, and it is difficult to say just how it will all end.

But it is safe to say that when Ben next cuts twine he will confine himself exclusively to that article. The sick boy was resting quietly today, though very weak.

ADAIR ON TRIAL. The Strathroy Man Who Is Charged With

Assault-Judge Wm. Elliot Hears Wm. Adair, the Strathroy man charged with assaulting Mrs. Baker at Strathroy on the night of Dec. 24, was put on trial before Judge Wm. Elliot at the court house this morning. The details of the case have been fully published in these columns. Mrs. Baker and a daughter live together in Strathroy, and on Christmas eve, about 8:30 o'clock there was a rap at the door of their house. Mrs. Baker answered it, and as she opened the door she received several hard blows on the face by a man, whom she claims was Adair. Her assailant immediately decamped, and Mrs. Baker ran into a neighbor's, where she fainted three times in quick succession. She was badly hurt and was laid up for over a week. Adair disappeared from Strathroy that night and was arrested in Hamilton and brought back about two weeks Adair was called in his own behalf and admitted that he had called at the Baker house, but only to inquire a companion. He also stated that he left Strathroy to work in Hamilton. Adair was found guilty and remanded until Saturday for sentence.

FIRES AND ACCIDENT.

Chatham Colored Girl Seriously Injured by a Blazing Lamp Shade -Two Other Fires.

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 10.-Last even ing, while lighting a large parlor lamp in the house of Mrs. A. Robert-Water street, the servant, a colored girl, named Amanda Hutchinson, in some way set fire to the shade. The unfortunate girl seized the shade and rushed out of the house. In a moment her clothing was in a blaze, and before help was obtained she was so badly burned that it is feared she will die.
About 7 o'clock the same fire was started in Alex. Hall's shoe store, but was soon extinguished. Loss, Before many minutes had elapsed after this alarm, fire was discovered on the McGregor farm, the doomed building being the residence of Louis Kinney, owned by Duncan McGregor. Mrs. Kinney, who is very deaf, was alone in the house, asleep, when Archie McCoig and A. McCallum, driving in from Harwich, noticed that the roof was ablaze. They, with some difficulty, aroused Mrs. Kinney. The house was burned to the ground. Mr. Kinney had the place insured for $300 and the furniture for $400. The furniture was destroyed.

Rev. J. W. Pedley's Denunciation of Turkey-Unmitigated Liars - Salisbury's Disappointing Speech-Glacstone to the Front - No Right to Interiere.

Rev. J. W. Pedley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, preached to a large audience last night on "Chadstone, Salisbury and the Unspeakable Turk." He spoke particularly of the Armenian outrages, and left no doubt in the minds of his hearers as to the feeling entertained towards the barbaric Sultan and his followers. He chose for his text, Revelations,

"Those words." said Mr. Pedley, "describe the land of Turkey, to which attention has been particularly called of late owing to the recent utterances stone and Lord Salisbury have expressed themselves strongly. Mr. Gladstone seems to stand for the national feeling of indignation and horror which has been shown against the outrages; Lord Salisbury represents those who keep the motions and feel-

"Turkey truly stands representative of the barbaric ages. The stream of civilization seems to have swept by, leaving it stranded on the low banks of the far past. I do not suppose there is a government in the world so rotten, so ignorantly cruel and fanatical as the Government of Turkey, and

"It is a land to be hated, and I do hate it with all my soul. I would like to hear no better news than that the dirty thing had been wiped out of existence or dropped into the depths of the sea.

"The devil is said to be the father of lies. If that be true, it seems to me that he must have made Turkey his particular breeding ground, for it is above all nations a nation of liars. The Government is maintained by deceit, by false reports, by the vilest of intrigues. The officials are unmitigated and unrivaled liars. They cannot tell the truth. "The whole world of Christendom seems paralyzed. The nations are afraid to venture. England, who has lately shown her face to the world, stirs not, though English men and English women are being butchered there. America, that a few weeks ago made a row for the sake of some few Venezuelan barbarians, is very gentle while her missionaries are being destroyed. "Salisbury has spoken a little about this subject, and there is one ominous thing about his speech—it has rejoiced the Sultan's heart. It may be improper for us to cuiticise so great a statesman—a statesman in whom England has always had confidence, but that confidence is being strained. No speech in twelve months has been so disappointing to all parties in England, as that remarkable one delivered by Salisbury the other day, in which he said he stood alone, and that the Sultan was not to blame for the outrages. Let Salisbury settle it with the Duke of Devonshire, his righthand man, who says the Sultan is a demon in human form, and is personally responsible. If he is, why Lord Salisbury would say England had no interfere.

"Another old man has spoken-a man whose work was generally thought to be done. He had left the world of active politics and the scene of so many victories and defeats, but he has come forth and called upon the nations in words that thrill the blood. The speech he delivered was unparalleled, giving voice to the world's in-dignation, and thundering out his denunciation of the unspeakable Turk."

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wenderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Lord Salisbury meets Parliament without a forsboding of danger or disaster on all foreign questions. He has behind him a united country, there is a large surplus in the Treasury, and public opinion sanctions in advance an increased outlay in support of a foreign policy of defiance. The "Unionist" majority in the House of Com-mons is so great that any measure of domestic policy can easily be enacted. The Opposition is weak in numbers and debaters. Momentous as are the issues of diplomacy and the Imperial policy, the political risks of conducting the Government during the coming session are not serious. The public attention is so completely absorbed by foreign questions that the domes-tic programme of the Government excites little interest. There will be an agricultural bill of some kind; some palliative measure for Ireland; some project for relieving voluntary schools without disturbing the dual system of national education, and possibly some scheme of government reform for London. No large measure will be proposed. The important measures of the session will be bills for increasing the efficiency of the fleet and providing means for imperial defenses. These will be popular. THE SPEECH.

The Queen's speech will probably announce that the Venezulan question has reached a stage where an adjustment is possible. There are strong reasons for believing that Lord Salisbury has received assurances from Washington that the Monroe doctrine does not apply to the claim for indemnity for the Yuruan affront to the British flag. Secretary Olney, in his elaborate argument, seemed to exclude that incident from diplomatic discus-sion, and the State Department was already committed by the precedent of the Corinto affair. It is generally believed that Lord Salisbury is press-ing the claim for indemnity, and that the State Department is advising President Crespo to settle that branch the case, with the understanding that the boundary dispute shall be sub-mitted to arbitration. That progress has been made in directing the adjustment of the questions at issue by the direct action of England and Venezuela now seems certain, and it is also evident that the American commission

A correspondent contends that Mr. Chamberlain has never appeared to better advantage than in his diplomatic statement of the Transvaal case, on which a strong line is taken throughout, yet everything is done to conciliate President Kruger and promote leniency in the trials at Pre-. Mr. Chamberlain has shown lelf a match for Kruger, Rhodes, the German Emperor, and everybody on the strength of it.

Mr. Rhodes, it is claimed, admitted to Mr. Chamberlain that he sanctioned the mobilization of the Chartered Thurst Mr. ATIONS TO GER. forces on the Transvaal border. He did it because he felt sure that the Johannesburg people would revolt, and Dr. Jameson's men might serve to protect refugees from Boer vio-lence, and be ready to carry out imperial instructions at the shortest no- ain and Germany, which was greatly tice in case the Boers did anything which Great Britain could fairly say opposed her interests. Mr. Rhodes African Republic. The effort has obstrenuously denied that he ordered Dr. Jameson's men to cross the frontier, and could only explain his preciated by Lord Salisbury. If the action by the urgency of the mes-sages addressed to him. Whatever Mr. Rhodes has done was for the ultimate glory of Great Britain. Mr. Chamberlain consented to take this view of it, and the only punishment or restriction which the Government will, for appearance's sake, impose upon the Chartered Company will be to put the armed forces of South Africa under the direct control of the Crown.

RHODES' DEFENSE. Rhodes personally maintains reticence regarding his recent conference with Mr. Chamberlain. His immediate friends, however, state that as a result of the conference the suspicion that Mr. Rhodes was responsible for Dr. Jameson's raid into the Transvaal has been removed. He merely authorized Dr. Jameson to concentrate a small force and to watch the threatened rising in the Transvaal. He never intended this force to operate against the Boers. He was astounded when he heard that Dr. Jameson had cross-ed the frontier. This sums up the defense of Mr. Rhodes to the charge that he was personally cognizant that an attempt would be made by the forces of the British South Africa Company to overthrow the South African Republic.

A CURIOUS SPECTACLE. Capt. Coventry and Capt. Gosling, both of whom have been in hospitals suffering from wounds sustained lat Krugersdorp, are to surrender themselves on their arrival in England to be tried with Jameson. Thus the curious spectacle will be presented of a son of the Earl of Coventry, a high official at the Court of St. James, being arraigned for an effense which is in effect modified treason. It is as-serted that Dr. Jameson and his confederates will be indicted under the Foreign Enlistment Act, the maximum punishment for his offense being two years' imprisonment. It is now apparent that in order to allow the collecting of evidence in South Africa the trial cannot take place before May, and it is shrewdly suspected that the effect, possibly intended, of this long delay will be to make it less likely than ever that anything more than a nominal punishment wiff be inflicted.

THE IRISH LEADERSHIP. Intrigue has had less to do with the retirement of Justin McCarthy than the discernment of the fact that the unity of the Irish party may be restored by his retirement. Respected as he was by the men of all parties, he was not a leader to unite factions and re-establish Parnell's drastic discipline. It is doubtful whether his successor can accomplish such a mir-acle. The unanimous choice of Mr. Sexton as Mr. McCarthy's successor is a show of acquiescence on the part of Mr. Healey, if nothing more, but the two men have been rivels and bit-ter enemies, and probably will be again. The feud between them existed long before Mr. Parnell's deposi-

Mr. Healy dislikes Mr. Sexton less than Mr. Dillon or Mr. O'Brien, it is because new resentments have caused fresher irritation than the old hatred. Neminally, peace has been made, and Mr. Healy has pledged his support to the new leader. Mr. Sexton has taken no part in the recent dissentions, and on that account is well fitted for the leadership. He is also the best speaker on the Irish side, and a man of pre-eminent ability, without having marked talent as an organizer.

A BRILIANT CAMPAIGN. Englishmen are proud of the brilliant exploit of their own arms in Nyassaland, where Lieut. Alston has waged successful war wii a native horde of 20,000 men, captured 50 villages, and closed the slave route to the Zambesi. This is a decisive reverse for the Arab slave traders. Mr. Rhodes' friends are quick to point out that but for him there would have been no protectorate in Nyassaland, and that this brilliant and useful campaign would have been impossible.

THE CZAR'S CORONATION. The French Government is hurrying forward plans for representation at the Czar's coronation at Moscow in May, which will eclipse anything on record in such matters. It happens that the present French ambassador in Russia is by seniority of service the doyen of the diplomatic corps at St. Petersburg; so he is to enjoy the right of receiving the young Czar and Czarina in the name of his colleagues when they enter Moscow. He will do this on a scale of extraordinary magnificence, two of the larges noblemen's palaces, in Moscow, rented for the occasion, being all refitted in the costliest manner from France. mile and a quarter of the costliest carpeting that France can produce is merely one item in the bewildering equipment. The supper alone, when their Majesties attend the first ball under the French roof, is to cost $70,000. Louis XV.'s state chariot is to be used for the ambassador on the occasion, with trappings for the horses and liveries for postilions and footmen of the same highly monarchial period. Orders are already placed in Morocco, Algiers, and the Riviera for the choicest fruits, vegetables, and flowers that the season will permit, all to be shipped to Moscow. DECADENCE OF THE FRANCO-

All this wild ostentation may not improbably prove in the nature of a funeral demonstration over the corpse of the Franco-Russian entente. Many signs point to the conclusion that the Russians are already tired of the thing. Fewer of their princes and millionaires are spending the winter in France than for years before, and France is hardly mentioned nowadays in the Russian papers. Meanwhile, Verestchagin's new collection of paintings, recently removed from Moscow to St. Petersburg, is attracting exceptional attention at the latter capital. Their principal feature is a dozen huge canvasses devoted to the Napoleonic invasion and retreat of 1812-13, and they lay almost malicious stress on the French brutality to the Russian peasants and prisoners, the French cowardice when bravely op-posed, and all the French sacrilege in desecrating the Russian churches and shrines. When it is remembered that the Russian official censorship is get much more direct hints presently

The entente with Russia has gone too far. Unless the German Govern-ment renounces its South African schemes, supports Great Britain in Egypt, and generally reverses its recent line of diplomatic enmity, no return of cordiality in the Anglo-German relations will be possible. English court influence, to which Lord Salisbury is specially amenable, may modify this strain. The Queen's decision regarding her review of the flying squadron shows how this influence will operate. She assents to merely watching the squadron from a window of the Osborne House, and declines to give the review the appearance of a state formality. The reason for this is known. The court circle is anxious to avoid everything that might be interpreted as a hostile demonstration against Emperor Wil-The Queen has not only no liam. enthusiasm about the squadron, but is displeased because of its formation. MORE FRIENDLY.

Within the past week the officially inspired German press, which formerly had been pounding England as hard as violent language could do, has suddenly ceased its blasts against Great Britain. The debate in the Reichstag on Friday on the naval estimates gave Freiherr Marschal Von Bieberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the members of the Reichstag who are in touch with the Government an opportunity to make de-clarations which were decidedly friendly to England, and the occasion was made the most of. Apart from the reassuring speech delivered by Freiherr Marschal Von Bieberstein, the most notable of the statements made in the Chamber was the declaration of Prince Von Arenberg (Centrist), the President of the Colonial Society of Germany, that at no time has there been any reason for the anti-German excitment, which has prevailed in England. This utterance was received with applause, in which members of all parties joined, with earnestness. The debate has made an astonishing change in the opinions expressed by the leading newspapers.

He also referred to the feeling which had even penetrated Ottawa itself that the Liberals would be triumphantly returned at the coming election. Mr. Purdom instanced the fact that the country was being put in debt at the rate of $6,000,000 a year—half the capital of the Bank of Montreal. To meet this would necessitate increased taxation on the part of the present

Ald. Parnell was also given a good reception, and he was applauded frequently during the course of a short address in which he reveiwed the situation. He referred in complimentary terms to Mr. Gillison, who was a good speaker and a man who thoroughly understood the needs of the far-

Mr. Gillson, who was cheered on rising, mentioned the fact that he had been the nominee of the Liberal party since January, 1895. In that time he had gained some experience if nothing else, and he lost nothing in point of zeal, determination or persistent will to do what he had pledged, as far as possible, to relieve the country from the burden that at present rests upon When he accepted the nomination did not promise to support the Liberal party through thick and thin. He would not be the candidate of any party to support it on all lines. Yes the principles of the Liberal party were the principles that had blessed the Canadian people, and they could look to the development of those principles for nearly all measures that had laid the foundation upon which this country had grown. Continuing, Mr. Gillson spoke of the vain promises of the high tax party that by the year 1890 the national debt would have been reduced to $100,000,000. They clapped on all sail at Ottawa and spent money freely, and on the contrary the debt had been increased one and a half times. In other words there was over $250,000,000 debt resting on the country, allowing the Conservatives their own estimates of the assets. Sir Charles Tupper shut out the very lines

J. H. Shaw, John Sutherland, C. O. The rascally conduct surrounding the release of McGreevy and Connolly was worthy of the times of Henry VIII. Justice had been sacrificed.
In conclusion Mr. Gillson said he would never be found betraving his trust, executing a double shuffle, or resorting to equivocation in any par-ticular, and all he wanted was the united support of those who believed in fair, honest, progressive manage-ment of public affairs,

Mr. J. D. Clarke, who followed, took a most optimistic view of the situation. He showed how the Government's ma-Vice-Presidents—S. B. Gorwall, London township; Jas. Wheaton, West While it was in power, and pointed Nissouri; W. McConnell, North Dordout that the conditions were much better for the return of a Liberal in East Middlesex than they had been in sev-eral of the constituencies where Liberals had been returned in the late bye-elections by large majorities. Mr. W. E. Jackson spoke briefly, and was followed by Mr. Geo. C. Gibbons. Q.C., who said that by their recent actions at Ottawa the leaders of the Conservative party had only confessed what the Liberals had been thinking for a long time. The times the country had been passing through had discredited and discounted their policy and everything pointed to a change.

The following resolution was ther

"That this association reindorses its decision of a year ago with regard to the nomination of Mr. Gillson, and the

Departmental Stores!

The old-fashioned custom of storekeeping, whereby the purchaser who needed dress goods had to go to one store and if he needed a coat and vest had to go to another, thus wasting away his time, is now superseded by the
