ROBBER ELUDES PURSUIT

Cool Youth Who Looted Thorndale Bank Leaves No Trace Behind.

HAD AN ACCOMPLICE

Man in Straw Hat Kept Car Running While Job Was Pulled.

The cool youth who, single-handed, robbed the Bank of Montreal branch at Thorndale of between $6,000 and $7,000 yesterday afternoon, and then joined an accomplice in a motor car, after locking Manager Arthur Reid and his staff of three in the vault, has so far baffled pursuit.

The car, which came from the east, parked 50 feet west of the bank on the opposite side of the road. The engine was kept idling by another young man wearing a dirty straw hat, and the minute that the bandit's foot was on the running board, the car shot forward and disappeared down the street, with the paper package containing the loot.

There is a standing reward of $5,000 offered by the Canadian Bankers' Association for the apprehension of information leading to the arrest of a bank robber, and it is expected that the Bank of Montreal will offer a substantial addition to this amount. Middlesex county will not offer a reward, County Clerk John Stuart stated, pointing out that no person had been killed as in the famous Home Bank robbery at Melbourne in 1921, when Russell Campbell, garage man, was shot and killed.

High Constable Wharton is again on the trail after a few hours' sleep, arriving home from a fire at Denfield at 5 o'clock this morning. The high constable was on the road at 9:30, endeavoring to trace the movements of the old McLaughlin touring car in which the robber vanished from the village.

A Cool Customer. The youthful robber stood carefully by the side of his car in front of the bank yesterday, waiting for a customer to conclude a conversation with the manager. The customer came out of the bank and noticed the youth slowly entering the front door. He was a hard-headed customer, dreaming that the slight young man was about the coolest bank bandit who has ever operated in this district.

It is believed that the robber hailed from Detroit and is a former resident of the district, knowing the exact layout of the Thorndale bank. A close watch is being kept at all border points, especially Windsor and Walkerville.

While bank clerks are expected to do everything possible to protect the bank's money, they are not expected to jeopardize their lives, a local bank manager stated this morning. "If a bandit asked me to open the safe, I know quite well that I would open that safe," he declared, "the banks may be a little hard-headed in some respects, but they are human in some respects, as far as holdups and robberies are concerned."

No Ill-Effects. Manager Reid, in conversation with The Advertiser this morning, stated that he were no new developments as he knew. He said that none of the staff was suffering from any ill-effects after being locked up in the vault for over half an hour. Mr. Reid came to Thorndale from the village of Denfield, where he is a resident. He is a former resident of Oxford street, London. Miss M. Baker, the other member of the bank staff, hailed from Lakeside.

Week-End Tips For Motorists

In planning week-end trips, motorists are advised to bear in mind the following roads closed to traffic:

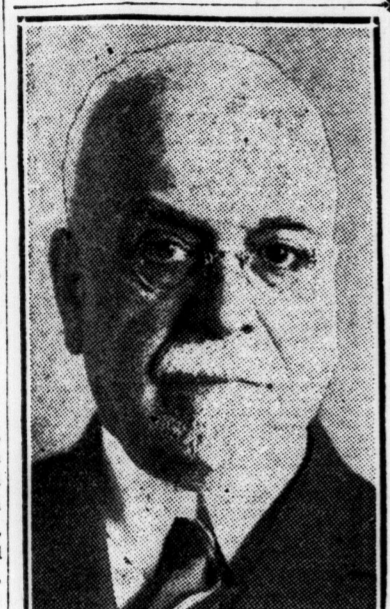

Hyde Park highway—Detour advised by County Engineer Talbot is from Line road to 5th street, west to Sarnia. To concession west to Sarnia, to get to Hyde Park village or turn south on first road east of Melrose.

Byron bridge still closed to traffic. Will open next Wednesday night.

Longwoods road, Delaware to Strathburn, closed for paving. Detour from Delaware to Mount Brydges, via Glenora to Strathburn. Detour in good shape.

Starting Monday, Wayne road south of Thorndale is closed for three weeks; Detour to Mills' side road and on concession of W. Nissouri.

DR. W. J. ROBINSON, superintendent of Ontario hospital, London, was yesterday elected honorary president of the medical alumni association of the university of Toronto.

GOLFING STARS FIGHT FOR TITLE

Ross Somerville and Don Carrick Playing Before Big Ottawa Gallery.

Canadian Press Despatch. Royal Ottawa Golf club, Ottawa, July 4.—Don Carrick, of Scarborough, Toronto, and C. Ross Somerville, of London Hunt club, aged 13 and 23 years, respectively, athletes who have been taught in other branches of sport how to battle at close grips, commenced here this morning a 36-hole golf match, the winner of which will be crowned Canadian amateur champion for 1925.

Both have amply demonstrated their undying spirit on frequent occasions this week in the Canadian amateur tournament, and a rare struggle is expected before a decision is reached.

A heavy rain was falling at 9 o'clock and prospects were for continuation of this throughout the day.

Somerville was runner-up to Frank Thompson in last year's final, and Carrick, young as he is, has also performed before large galleries in the Canadian junior championship, which he won, and in the Ontario final, which he lost this year to W. J. Thompson, of Toronto. "Gallery fight" probably had something to do with the downfall of Jack Cameron, of Ottawa, in yesterday's semi-final, as he never seemed to adjust himself to the task of playing before so many people. He is a recent comer in championship golf.

The match was all square at the third. Both had a birdie two for which a splendid shot on the green 25 yards away was responsible. Carrick got into a trap on the fourth. His approach shot was short and he took two putts, while Somerville was down in four.

Somerville was into a trap on his first shot on the fourth and Carrick found a bunker on his second. Carrick was down in five and went one up. Carrick found another bunker on the right with his drive on the blind fifth. He got out in one, his ball dropping twenty yards over the six-foot embankment onto the fairway. He was on the green two feet from the pin with his third. Somerville's third was four feet from the hole. Somerville missed his putt and Carrick took his ball for a four, becoming two up. Carrick was on in one on the short sixth, Somerville finding. Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Arab Sheik Beats N. Y. Belle Over Back With Horsewhip

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, July 3.—Her back still bearing the marks left by a horse-whip in the hands of an Arab sheik, Miss Gisella Wattenberg returned today on the United States liner George Washington with an entirely different conception of the desert bedouin from what she had previously found in fiction.

Miss Wattenberg is the daughter of Philip Wattenberg, a wealthy real estate owner of the Bronx, who is president of the Galician Federation and who gave $100,000 to the Epstein university, a branch of the Jewish university of Jerusalem. Her father and mother returned with her several months in Palestine. Miss Wattenberg, leaving her parents in London Dealers Even Suggest That Levy On Gasoline Might Be Cut.

BUSINESS INCREASING

Tourists Credited With Much of Increase in Two Taxed Fluids.

Eventual redress from the recent provincial government levies on gasoline and soft drinks is predicted by London dealers and retailers, after a survey of trade since the taxes were enforced. Substantial sales increases have been noted in both industries locally during the past month, and as London is considered a dependable barometer of general conditions, city businessmen foresee an over-subscription of taxes, which should bring, they claim, a cut in the levies.

Government officials set a tax objective of $2,000,000 in both soft drinks and gasoline. If the local business jump is indicative of a general increase then the year's total will likely show an overflow in each line. H. R. Colbert, city distributor for Kuntz Brewery, announces a large increase in the consumption of soft drinks where his own lines are concerned. Mr. Colbert pointed out that in their case the sales tax is absorbed at the brewery, and the retailer is charged the bare levy, doing away with the stamping of drinks when sold. This has been the chief complaint from local retailers, and when enforcement machinery was placed in motion a few weeks ago the creditable high school building on the site chosen would be a serious mistake, in his opinion.

Many Uphold It. Quite the opposite view is entertained by other prominent citizens, who believe that the erection of a site chosen would make the finest possible entrance to the city from the east. They point out that even if London's growth in the future is much more rapid than it has ever been in the past it would be a great many years before there would be so far east.

Meanwhile the proposal by one of the utilities commissioners, that part of the site might be used as the Archie McMahen memorial playground and park, is said to be viewed with disfavor by Sir Adam Beck, who is adverse to the board re-selling any of the property. It was secured, he contends, at the price named on the understanding that it was to be used for educational purposes, and he is said to feel that any attempt by the board to re-sell part of the site would be a breach of faith which would justify the Ontario government in withdrawing from the deal.

In face of this attitude public utilities commissioners do not feel like pressing their suggestion. The board, but none of the local parlors is experiencing what could be termed a big rush. The past two days have strengthened the belief of hotelkeepers that the big tourist trade has lost much of its glamor.

The majority of tourists who are circling Western Ontario over the 4th are accessible to border points when they are home and have had ample opportunity of putting the new Canadian beer through its paces. With the inflow of American cars, which numbered some ten to one, after the breakfast hour, however, the situation eased and commercial vehicles found the going better. Most of the downtown hotels had full houses last night, while those with dining-rooms and grills were filled at meal hours. Downtown restaurants suffered from lack of help, and many places were kept open the night catering to the fast caravans striving for mileage records.

Will File Foreclosure Order Against D. U. R. Detroit, July 3.—Foreclosure proceedings against the Detroit United Railways will probably be filed early next week, according to a statement today by company officials. The "foreclosure" is expected as a result of the action of stockholders in failing to subscribe in sufficient amount to a proposed $8,000,000 general mortgage bond issue.

Interest payments on three of the company's bond issues were defaulted July 1. Although the railway had about $600,000 in cash on hand, at that time it was deemed inadvisable to pay the interest charges on any of the consolidated 4½ per cent bonds sold to the city of Detroit. The Central Union Trust company of New York is holding $500,000, ordinarily to be applied to sinking fund payments on the bonds, to be used for the pro-rate benefit of the bondholders.

Halbert Is Nominated To Contest New Riding. Canadian Press Despatch. Gravenhurst, July 3.—At the convention of the Progressive party held here today, R. H. Seven other names were proposed, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Halbert.

Miss Wattenberg said the Arabs, far from being the heroes of fiction, were dirty, slovenly and vicious. They ignored the plea of the guide of the party, being taken to the shoulder, and then the leader of the band brought his whip down several times across Miss Wattenberg's back. As the Arabs were looting their victims, a party appeared on the scene and frightened them away.

WENIGE RAPS SITE ON DUNDAS

Mayor Believes Hospital Location Wrong For School—Cites Technical.

PLAYGROUND FADES

Hopes For Two Collegiates Raised by Amount of Cash Available.

Popular interest in the school boards' choice of a site for the east end collegiate shows no sign of abatement, and suggestions for the proper use of the 20 acres acquired vie with such topics as golf and the weather in conversation.

There are still some who contend that the board will make a mistake by locating the new collegiate on Dundas street, the city's main thoroughfare. Among these is Mayor Wenige, who insists that Dundas street is not the proper location for a school of any kind. He instances the technical and art school as an example of a wrong idea of location. The mayor is looking to the future development of the city, and thinks that the logical growth of its business area will be east on Dundas street. Therefore the erection of any building which may at some time serve as a block to the extension of retail stores would be a serious mistake, in his opinion.

Quite the opposite view is entertained by other prominent citizens, who believe that the erection of a site chosen would make the finest possible entrance to the city from the east. They point out that even if London's growth in the future is much more rapid than it has ever been in the past it would be a great many years before there would be so far east.

Scenes At Disastrous Denfield Fire

The disastrous fire which menaced the whole of the village of Denfield last night left the ruins of three houses in its wake. Upper left is seen the home of John Saunders, where the fire started. Upper right, the Rosser residence, next door to the Saunders home. Ruins of the home of William Harding across the road, are shown in the lower right picture. In the other corner are Mr. and Mrs. Saunders and their two children, Eva and Cecil, who were rescued from their blazing home along with Bert Paisley, a cripple.

HOTELS HERE SWAMPED BY U. S. HOLIDAY RUSH

Highways Black With American Cars For "Glorious Fourth" Trek.

RESTAURANTS BUSY

U. S. Motors On Downtown Streets Far Outnumber Local Cars.

Sullen and sultry weather greeted the thousands of American tourists who poured into London this morning on 4th of July jaunts. But still they came. Ontario, the home of good roads and 44 beer, is today amusing the greatest trek of American tourists that ever spent an Independence Day abroad.

Starting early yesterday, the flow of holiday cars swelled until this morning saw the highways leading into and out of London black with flag-decked vehicles. The majority stopped over for a breathing spell before speeding on to Toronto, Hamilton or Niagara Falls to complete the half of the week-end dash.

Four-point-four is enjoying a brief revival, but none of the local parlors is experiencing what could be termed a big rush. The past two days have strengthened the belief of hotelkeepers that the big tourist trade has lost much of its glamor.

Convicts Are Recaptured

Marquette Prisoners in Hospital After Pistol Fight With Officers.

Associated Press Despatch. Marquette, Mich., July 4.—Three of four convicts who escaped from Marquette prison Monday night were in a hospital at Iron Mountain today with wounds suffered in a pistol fight with officers near Sagola early this morning, while a fourth, also believed wounded, is sought in the woods.

Early reports that Eddie Weisman, reputed leader of the quartet, had been killed in the fight proved to be erroneous. It is understood his condition is not serious. Isadore Londe and Joe Delorio, taken with Weisman, suffered a wound in the chest and through the hand, respectively.

Vance Hardy, fourth of the quartet, escaped.

SULPILIAN FATHERS ARE REPORTED TO BE LOSERS

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, July 3.—Rumors that the Sulpician Fathers had lost considerable money because of the falling through of reorganization plans for the Detroit United Railway brought a statement today from the local seminary of that order. Rumor estimated their stock holdings at $1,500,000, and the Sulpician Fathers' comment. He promised to bring the attention of the Sulpician Fathers to the matter.

CHINESE ATTACK JAPS. Associated Press Despatch. Shanghai, July 4.—Mobs attacked three Japanese here last night. The victims were rescued by Chinese police. Reports received in Shanghai state Japanese and British stores were looted yesterday at Swatow, Kwangtung province.

Peel Statue Following Example of Famous Venus

The tragedy of Venus de Milo, considered the most beautiful of Greek statues, which was found aimless in the island of Melos in 1820, is the prototype for a similar tragedy in London.

The Grecian statue is on view in the Louvre. The other is a Canadian work of art. It stands in the public library here. It is Paul Peel's creation, called by the children, "The Lady With the Pussy Cats." Alas! The lady is suffering the same fate as the world-famed Venus. She is going to pieces. One arm has disappeared. Bit by bit the plaster falls away. The kittens with their one-time fuzzy tails have long since turned to Manx cats. Now it looks as if nothing will remain of the lady but the torso. But she has accomplished something. It is whispered in the library corridors that now and then a woman passing by catches a glimpse of the natty hat that pleases the feminine mind and it is copied. Such is style. And such is fashion.

HOMELESS FIND NEW SHELTERS

Residences Destroyed by Fire at Denfield Will Be Rebuilt.

Special to The Advertiser. Denfield, July 4.—The three families whose homes here were destroyed by fire last night, are being cared for at the homes of friends in the village, and in the surrounding country, while steps are being taken to rebuild their own homes.

Cecil and Eva Saunders, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Saunders, who were rescued along with a crippled cousin, W. Paisley, of Ilderton, from the burning dwelling by Walter Peterson, are staying with their parents in the village, while two other Saunders children are living in the country with friends. Paisley has gone to his home in Ilderton.

The other dwellings destroyed were tenanted by Miss Margaret Rosser and William Harding. They were burned to the ground, and nearly all the contents destroyed. Clothing has been given by neighbors to the destitute families, while it is expected that a subscription list to aid them will be started.

Aided by the London fire department and a sudden rain storm the flames were prevented from spreading to adjoining buildings. The general store of A. Freeborn, the general hotel owned by Hugh Bowman and the C. N. R. station were threatened, but a continuous stream of water was poured on the buildings and further outbreaks of fire were prevented.

Most of the residents of the village were at a picnic at Springbank park yesterday, being civic holiday here. The fire broke out late in the evening, but the Saunders and Harding families learned of the fate of their homes.

DIAMOND SCULLS WON BY J. BERESFORD, JUNIOR

Associated Press Despatch. Henley-on-Thames, England, July 4.—J. Beresford, Jun., of London, won the diamond sculls in the Henley regatta today by defeating G. H. L. Golan, of the Leander club. Beresford won the event last year. Yesterday he eliminated Walter Hoover, United States oarsman, from the competition for the jeweled sculling trophy.

EIGHT DIE AS DANCE HALL FALLS

Boston Is Scene of Disaster At Early Hour This Morning.

WITHOUT WARNING

Building Under Repair Collapses, Carrying Merry-makers To Death.

Associated Press Despatch. Boston, Mass., July 4.—Police estimated at 9:30 o'clock this morning that at least eight persons had lost their lives in the collapse of a wall of the Pickwick club, an all-night dancing resort in Chinatown, early today. One unidentified girl was taken from the ruins and rescue workers reported seeing the bodies of two other women and five men in the wreckage. It was believed others would be found as the work of clearing away the debris proceeded.

A man who was on the second floor when the crash came said that there was no warning. "The place came down with a rush," he said. "I heard what I thought were firecrackers popping, but that must have been the cracking of timbers. I ran into a corner by the piano and then down a fire escape."

A fire swept the three top floors some months ago, and the weakening of the partitions therefrom was believed to have helped in the collapse. Survivors said the crash came with a rumble that resembled an earthquake.

Firemen and doctors arrived, the scores and until dawn poked about the ruins with flashlights. An iron fire escape fell as the men labored and delayed their work for a time. Interiors from the city hospital crawled beneath the ruins wherever they could, giving hypodermic injections to survivors in pain, but who could not be released. A priest from St. James church, just around the corner, gave absolution to the victims who were carried out.

Crews of wreckers and riggers arrived soon after daylight to aid the firemen in clearing away the debris. Little hope was held out, however, of reaching all the victims before nightfall, and it was thought likely that the work would continue through most of tomorrow before all could be found. The labor was considered extremely precarious as it was believed the front and rear walls of the building might fall at any time and thus delay for a much longer period the end of the search.

The wall fell outward, firemen said, but seemed to fold in the center and the top of it crashed to the ground, and nearly all the upper floors were unoccupied. The building formerly was the Dreyfus hotel.

A patrolman who had been on the roof of the building said that there was a noise like an earthquake, and that three walls and then the roof went down. He leaped to an adjacent building and made his way to the street. He said that there had been 125 men and women dancing and drinking in the place when the collapse came.

SEVEN DIE IN FIRE. Associated Press Despatch. Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 4.—Seven persons are dead and one is believed to be dying as the result of a fire in a three-story apartment house here early this morning.

THORNDALE BANK ROBBED OF $7,000 BY LONE BANDIT

Bandit Locks Up Members of Staff at Point of Gun, Scoops Up Big Pile of Bills From Counter and Tills and Coolly Leaves Bank, Making Clean Getaway.

POLICE HAVE DESCRIPTION, BUT FEW CLUES
Villagers Move in Peace Unconscious of What Occurred Until Passing Students Hear Faint Shouts and Youth Releases Manager of Bank and His Staff From Stuff Prison.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Thorndale, July 4.—Thorndale's branch of the Bank of Montreal was robbed of more than $6,000 in cash shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a lone bandit held up three clerks and the manager at the point of a gun, and after locking all in a vault, made his escape in a waiting motor car.

The bank officials were confined in the vault, a small, dingy inclosure, for more than an hour. It was not until passing school children heard their shouts for assistance that they gained their freedom to spread an alarm.

After Closing Hours.

The man drove into Thorndale on the St. Marys road shortly before 3 o'clock. He parked his car directly at the front entrance of the bank on the main street. Entering at a time when the bank was closed to customers, he proceeded to the office of the manager, Arthur Reid, and forced him into the main office of the building, and there gave commands for three clerks, Alfred Waugh, teller and accountant; M. McMaster, ledger-keeper, and Miss M. Baker, to line themselves against the wall and then proceed to the vault. He closed the heavy metal door upon them, but neglected to turn the combination, locking them in with a snap fastener.

Between $6,000 and $7,000, composed mostly of $50 and $100 bills, was lying in drawers and on the counter of the teller's cage. These he picked up and scattered out into the street. He entered his motor car after leaving the bank. It is believed, however, that he headed for London, although at Thamesford he may have turned towards Hamilton.

The car was seen standing in front of the bank by many Thorndale residents. They paid little attention to it, however. Few could give definite description of the auto, nor could any tell whether or not others waited in the car. It is not definitely known what course of escape the man took after leaving the bank. It is believed, however, that he headed for London, although at Thamesford he may have turned towards Hamilton.

Those who had noticed the man entering the village in his motor car, declared shortly after he had been released from the vault. "He was a young man, about 25 years old, five feet six in height, and weight about 140 pounds. He wore a grey suit.

Typhoid Traced To Public Beach

Canadian Press Despatch.
Windsor, July 3.—Public bathing at the Bridge avenue beach has been ordered stopped as the result of the discovery that one of the victims of typhoid fever in Windsor has been traced to bathing in the sewage-laden waters at the foot of the avenue. The beach has been cut close to the shore and operations to carry it out into the river to a distance of 80 feet are not yet completed.

Sent Out Description.
Reid's description of the man was immediately sent to Chief of Police Birrell, who in turn relayed the news to police of other cities of the district. Local police scoured provincial highways near London all of yesterday afternoon.

After High Constable Wharton had made his investigation, Reid returned to the bank to compute the exact amount of money stolen. As far as could be determined the bandit made away with about $6,000 in Bank of Montreal notes and an additional $700 in currency.

The amount is not unusually large for a bank to have at the end of the day, the manager stated. It is customary to have a large sum of money on hand towards closing hour. The Montreal branch of the Bank of Montreal is situated in the centre of the town, about a stone's throw from the railway station. It is a two-family in the village. Reid lives with his family in the village. His wife is now ill at Victoria hospital.

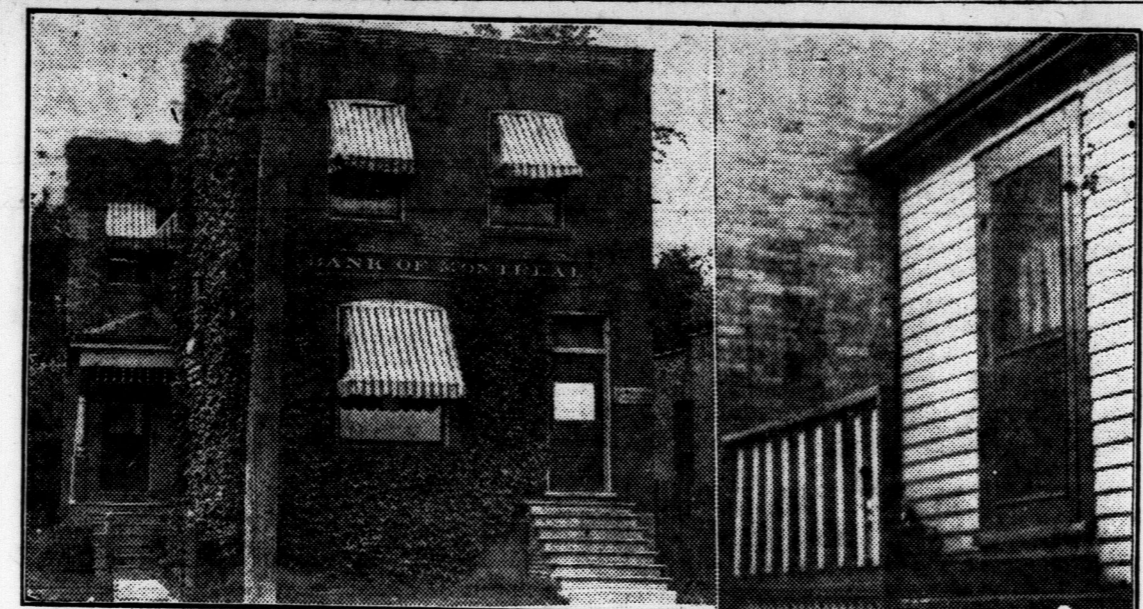

The bank was surrounded by a first of curious citizens soon after the first news of the holdup was spread about the village.

Those who had noticed the man entering the village in his motor car, declared shortly after he had been released from the vault. "He was a young man, about 25 years old, five feet six in height, and weight about 140 pounds. He wore a grey suit.

Fortunately, the bandit had not turned the combination of the vault. Otherwise the victims might have been suffocated, for the work of releasing the imprisoned staff might have been a long and tedious one, as no one else in the town had any knowledge as to the combination. The door of the vault is secured by a bar, and this had been slipped into place by the robber after he had herded the staff inside.

It was an easy matter to open the door from the outside, but an impossibility for a person on the inside. Within a minute after Gumb had entered the premises the staff was at liberty and the manager notified town constable Heby by telephone of the occurrence. He along with a number of others, had just returned to town after attending a barn raising in the neighborhood. Up to this point a soul in Thorndale had any idea that a robbery had been committed, although the bandit had by this time more than an hour to get clear of the neighborhood.

The whole affair appears to have been carried out with such a degree of cool nonchalance that scarcely anybody could be found who had even noticed the presence of the car in front of the bank. A number of ladies sitting chatting on a veranda not more than thirty feet away, were unable to recall having noticed the car drive up to the bank. They admitted that they probably saw the car, but as the occurrence was in

WHERE LONE BANDIT AT THORNDALE STOLE $7,000.
Above is shown the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Thorndale, where yesterday afternoon a bandit stole nearly $7,000 from the counter and tills after locking up three clerks and the manager and three other members of the staff. The bandit, described as a man of 24, dressed shabbily and covered with grime, parked his car in front, entered the front door of the bank after closing hours, proceeded with the robbery, and coolly left the building and unostentatiously drove away. It was not until an hour later the robbery was discovered and the staff released from the vault. The door on the left rear of the bank is the entrance to the manager's residence. On the right of the picture is shown the rear door of the bank, through which Lloyd Gumb, a student, forced his way to rescue the victims from the vault.

IDEA OF UNION IS SPREADING

Sentiment Makes Itself Felt in Anglican Churches of Diocese.

Church union, recently consummated by the Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist churches, is seemingly making its influence felt in the Anglican church, especially in the diocese of Huron.

Rev. David Williams, D.D., bishop of Huron, has given his cordial consent to Church of England services being held in the United church of Canada at Grand Bend during the summer months, while the Anglican church at Melbourn is being rented to the Presbyterians for the purpose of holding their regular services there for an indefinite period of time.

Several Anglican clergymen have publicly voiced sentiments approving of the formation of the United church as a step in the right direction, including Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, St. John the Evangelist church, Rev. (Capt.) T. G. Wallace, acting rector of St. James' church, and Rev. (Major) Canon Edward Appleby, R.D., M.C., New St. Paul's church, Woodstock, and formerly of St. Matthew's church, London.

At the meeting held a few days ago by the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans to hear Capt. E. Browne Wilkinson, Winnipeg, doyen of the speakers, Canon Appleby eulogized the church union movement as setting a fine example which should be followed by the veterans.

"The thought of union is in the atmosphere," declared Canon Appleby, "especially amongst the churches and in favor of it. I hold both hands up for it; it is coming along nicely. The church union returns from Manitoba and New Brunswick are overwhelmingly for it. The fact that the churches are weakened by divisions is a great cause for grievance and thus I believe that the church of the future will be a step in the right direction and I am very pleased indeed."

no way out of the ordinary, they paid no attention to it.

Somehow more observant was W. E. McCutcheon, who operates a garage immediately adjoining the bank property. In company with E. Atkinson, he was sitting in the back corner of the garage when the car drove leisurely up to the bank and a man of quite ordinary appearance got out, walked into the bank and disappeared. He got into the car and drove away.

Probably from professional habit Mr. McCutcheon observed that the car was a McLaughlin four-cylinder touring car with the side curtains up on all but the driver's seat of the car, but stated he could not be sure on this point.

The man who entered the bank was the driver of the car he was certain, because he had noticed that his face was smeared with oil or grease. Mr. Atkinson also casually observed the car when it drew up in front of the bank. He saw only the rear end of it, but noted that the upper left hand corner of the stop light had been broken. The license plate was heavily coated with dust which led to some confusion as to whether it was a Michigan or Ontario license. Mr. Atkinson recalls that there were three figures preceding the hyphen in the numerals, which would tend to strengthen the belief that the license plate was an Ontario one.

Had Visited Vault.
William T. Stone, another well-known resident of Thorndale had been in the bank's vault only a short time before the robbery. He had gone to the bank with the intention of renting a safe deposit box and the manager, Mr. Reid had shown him the boxes in the vault.

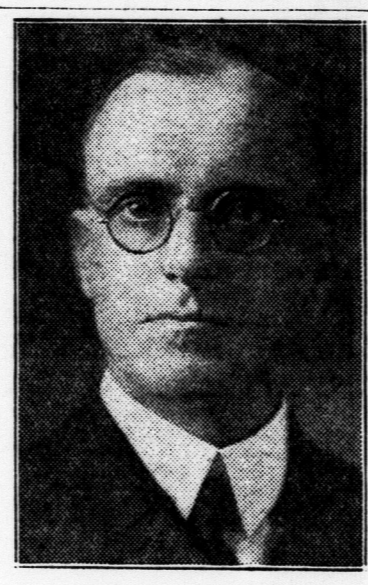

Commenting on the imprisonment of the staff in the vault, Mr. Stone was puzzled to know how they had survived in such small quarters for over an hour. The vault appeared to him hardly large enough to hold four people.

Military Notes

Lieut.-Col. F. Gilman, D.S.O., G.S.O., M.D. No. 1, goes on leave of absence from July 14 to Aug. 13, inclusive.

ANGLICAN SERVICES AT BEND ARRANGED

United Church To Be Used For Summer by Congregation.

Morning services will be conducted by Anglican clergy in the United church, Grand Bend, during the present summer.

Rev. John Unsworth, curate of St. Mark's church, St. Johns, N. B., will have charge during July, while the Rev. Denny Bright, formerly curate of St. Paul's cathedral, London.

A special invitation has been extended to all Anglicans who are spending the summer at Grand Bend, and also to Episcopalians of the Anglican church in the United States.

Rev. David Williams, D.D., Bishop of Huron, was empowered at the last meeting of the diocese of Huron to make arrangements for summer services at Grand Bend this year, and the arrangements were made by the bishop as above.

G. WRIGHT APPEALS JUDGMENT OF $375

Damages Awarded to Tenant Excessive, Landlord Also Claims.

Gordon Wright has appealed the decision of Judge Macbeth, who awarded J. C. Fairley $375 and costs in his action against Wright for wrongful removal from one of Wright's apartments.

Mr. Wright claims that the damages awarded by Judge Macbeth are excessive and that his honor erred in allowing such a large amount. When the case was tried early in June, J. M. Donahue appeared for Fairley and Winnett, Morehead and Neely for Wright.

WINDSOR ASKS TENDERS FOR TWO NEW SCHOOLS

16-Room Collegiate and 24-Room Public School To Be Built.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Windsor, July 3.—The Windsor board of education is asking competitive bids for the construction of a 16-room collegiate institute at the corner of Mercer street and Tecumseh road, in the southern part of the city; and also for a new 24-room public school at Hall avenue and Tecumseh road. In addition, from four to eight rooms are to be added to the Victoria avenue public school. The city's rapid growth within the past year or so has made the need of new schools immediate, the board was informed. Some of the new schools are at present overcrowded.

MEDICINE MAN'S AUTO FIRE
DISPELS FEARS OF BIG BLAZE
A call from the market square this morning brought the apparatus from central to the congested area in record-breaking time. Big fire fears were dispelled when the auto of a medicine man was found ablaze. Chemicals extinguished the fire which is believed to have been caused by a short circuit.

FRANCE PREPARES TO LAUNCH LOAN

Big Drive To Put Over Gold Basis Flotation Will Be Opened.

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, July 4.—Work on the details of the new gold basis loan to be issued in exchange for the national defence bonds is proceeding at the finance ministry day and night and announcement of the conditions is expected early next week.

An organizing committee headed by under-secretary Georges Bonnet is planning a drive along the lines of the Liberty loan campaign in the United States and a special appeal will be made in the country districts. The 1925 budget is expected to be finally disposed of by parliament by a week from tomorrow, the outstanding differences between the chamber and Senate being slight. This will leave finance minister Caillaux free to devote his whole energies to promoting the loan and studying means of settling the inter-allied debts.

These questions are in a large measure interdependent since the improvement in French finances which is held essential to a debt solution is expected to be materially advanced by the success of the loan. The loan plan is being presented to the cabinet today by M. Caillaux with his colleagues, and the approval of his colleagues on certain points, notably the tax exemptions to which the bond holders will be entitled.

MANY OLD BOYS ATTEND RODNEY CELEBRATION

Two Thousand Visitors Take Part in Dominion Day Demonstration.

Special to The Advertiser.
Rodney, July 3.—The First of July celebration in Rodney was a huge success. About 2,000 people, among whom were many Rodney old boys and girls, came to spend the day at their old homes. Much credit is due the Rodney Amateur Athletic association for the program prepared.

The celebration began with a callithumpian parade, headed by the Rodney band and fire brigade. The prize winners in the parade were: Best decorated car, Mrs. J. E. Mistle; best comic outfit, Morris and Janaway; jazz band; comic, not on wheels, C. Martini and Vern Morris; with their colored friends; decorated bicycle, Billy Graham; tradesmen's outfit, Mistle's Limited.

A baseball tournament, in which Highgate, Turin and Kintyre competed, was held on the fair grounds. Highgate won.

An O. B. A. baseball game was played between West Lorne and Rodney, won by the latter by a score of 14 to 6.

In the evening, the Rodney ladies' softball team defeated Mulrirk by a score of 20 to 17.

John Morningstar, as the oldest man on the grounds, was presented with a cane. In the evening, a dance was held at Port Glasgow.

SUNDAY BAND CONCERT.

CHILDREN AND CRIPPLE RESCUED WHEN FLAMES DESTROY THREE HOMES

Fire, Believed To Have Started When Children Attempted To Light Lamp, Spreads Rapidly—Old Hotels and Landmark Goes—Other Buildings, Including Stores and Garage, Are Saved With Difficulty.

LONDON FIRE BRIGADE RESPONDS TO CALL
Owners of Houses and Other Villagers Were at Springbank Celebrating Denfield's Civic Holiday When Fire Begins Destructive Work—Learn of Loss Late in Evening.

HEAVY RAIN HELPS STOP SPREAD OF FLAMES

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.
Denfield, July 4.—Three houses were swept by fire and surrounding buildings were seriously threatened last night, when a blaze, believed to have been started by children attempting to light an oil lamp, demolished the home of John Saunders and spread with startling rapidity to neighboring houses.

W. Paisley, a cripple in the Saunders home, and Mr. Saunders' two children, Cecil, 7 years old, and Toots, 5, were carried to safety after being trapped in the first floor of the burning house.

Burned to the Ground.
The Saunders home and houses tenanted by Miss Margaret Rosser and William Harding were burned to the ground. The entire village was at one time threatened with destruction as the flames, fanned by a heavy breeze, leaped from one structure to another. It was only through the splendid efforts of volunteer firemen and the timely arrival of the London fire department that a more serious loss was avoided.

Denfield's countryside witnessed the case of hundreds of motorists were spectators as the three frame structures spectacularly burned in less than an hour. Crowds of people surrounding the blaze hampered the work of firemen as they strove to prevent further spread.

Alarm of fire was first sounded at 8 o'clock last night, a few minutes after sparks from the Saunders' home fire broke out in the Rosser house. An hour later the blaze had gained serious proportions, and aid of the London fire department was sought.

Rescued Three.
Walter Paterson saved Paisley and the two Saunders children. He entered the burning house and aided the three in making their escape.

Sparks from the Saunders' home ignited the roof of Miss Margaret Rosser's house. It was only a few minutes before the residence of William Harding, formerly known as the Orr House, a 50-year landmark of the district was ablaze.

Harding himself strove to save furniture in the house, and in so doing risked his life. While the upper floor of his home this burning he worked below, throwing articles from the window. He was finally persuaded to abandon his possessions by shouts from the crowd as they advised him the building was about to collapse.

Owners at Picnic.
Mr. and Mrs. Saunders and other villagers were at the picnic at the fate of their homes until late in the evening. The majority of residents were absent from the village attending a picnic at Springbank park. Yesterday was Denfield's civic holiday.

The loss was not definitely estimated last night. It is believed, however, that it will amount to more than $20,000. The three homes and contents being completely destroyed.

The pumper of the central fire station of London arrived in Denfield at 9:30 o'clock, making the hose less than 30 minutes. A line of hose was laid from a nearby creek to the blaze. Chief Aitken himself, assisted by seven firemen, took charge. The chief declared that difficulty in securing permission in London to attend the fire hampered them in making an earlier response.

No sooner had chief Aitken managed to secure a substantial water pressure in hose lines by utilizing water in a nearby creek, than a heavy shower of rain began to fall. The rain helped greatly in extinguishing the fires.

Foundations Remain.
Only cement foundations of the three houses remain. Before the rain fell, the wooden portions of the structure were reduced to masses of burned embers.

Temporary lodgings for members of the three families were secured after residents of the village had gratefully thrown open their homes.

The C. N. R. station, east of the burned dwellings, the Denfield hotel, owned by Hugh Bowman, and the Denfield general store, owned by A. Freeborn, were threatened when sparks from the blaze alighted on the roofs. Volunteer firemen, after the arrival of Chief Aitken's men, confined their efforts in preventing spread of the blaze, and water was poured in continuous streams on these buildings.

LONDONER IN COURT ON FRAUD CHARGE

L. & P. S. Complains Excursion Ticket Used For Stop-Over at St. Thomas.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, July 3.—G. N. Smith of London, appeared before Magistrate Maxwell in police court Friday morning, charged with illegally using a through trip ticket from London to St. Thomas for stop-over privileges. The information was laid by Chief Hammersley of the L. & P. S. police department. Mr. Smith, who is a former employee of the London & Port Stanley Railway, is alleged to have boarded the car at St. Thomas for Port Stanley and to have obtained a trip ticket, purchased in London, and good only for the through trip to Port Stanley, for the conductor. The through trip fare is $6, while the regular ticket with stop-over privileges is sold for 90c. Chief Hammersley explained that although the amount involved was small, only 40c, the principle at stake was important. "If this were allowed to slip by, many others probably would attempt the same thing and the company would lose considerable money."

William Proudfoot of London appeared for Mr. Smith. The case was adjourned.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO MEET IN LONDON

Annual Ontario Convention Will Be Held Here in 1926.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Historical society will be an added convention to the many which will take place in London in 1926. This was decided at the concluding sessions of the 1925 meeting at Welland yesterday.

Prof. Fred Landow and a telegram from the mayor were largely responsible for swinging the next convention here. It is expected that more than 100 delegates will attend. The following officers were elected: President, W. H. Bartch, Kitchener; first vice-president, Prof. Fred Landow, London; second vice-president, Louis B. Duff, Welland; secretary, A. F. Hunter, Toronto; treasurer, J. S. Carruthers, Toronto. Council was elected, consisting of the following: Mrs. Lynch-Staunton, Hamilton; James Mitchell, Goderich; Dean Starr, Kingston; J. S. Robertson, St. Thomas; Ernest Greene, Ottawa.

SARNIA TOURIST RECORD LIKELY TO BE BROKEN

Expect Record Influx of American Visitors For July 4.

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, July 3.—The advent of the July 4 holiday rush from the United States through this port of entry made itself felt at noon today and traffic increased steadily in volume as the day wore on. This evening there were long queues of cars waiting at Port Huron, another queue forming as fast as the one ahead was cleared. Arrangements have been made for a day and night customs and immigration inspection service from today until Monday. Four boats will operate continuously until tonight, and as many after that hour as the amount of traffic warrants.

Customs officers who are familiar with the signs that everything points to Saturday's traffic constituting a record in the history of this port, particularly as the holiday comes in the week of the summer permits today was heavier than the usual pre-July 4 influx.

NOTED MUSICIANS TO COME TO CITY

Harry T. Dickinson Arranges
Attractive Concert Series.

London music lovers will be delighted to hear that a number of distinguished artists are being brought to the city next session by Harry T. Dickinson, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral.

The series will open on Thursday, October 15, with an organ recital by Alfred Hollins, F.R.C.O., Mus. Doc., the celebrated blind organist from "St. George's", Edinburgh, Scotland.

The second concert will be given on Thursday, November 5, by Madame Stanley, the world famous metropolitan soprano and by Paul De Marcy, pianist of this city.

Ernest Hutchinson, the great English pianist comes to London, Thursday, December 10, with the Flouza string quartet of international fame, will give a concert here on January 7.

The fifth and last concert will have its artist the incomparable English tenor, John Coates, and will be held on Thursday, February 12.

With the exception of the organ recital by Alfred Hollins, blind musician which will probably be given in St. Paul's Cathedral, the series will be held in the Patricia Theatre on Thursday evenings.

ALMA SUMMER SCHOOL FOR HURON DIOCESE

Will Be Opened By Bishop
Williams on 13th of July.

The third annual Huron diocesan summer school will be held at Alma College, St. Thomas, July 12 to 20 inclusive, being opened by Right Rev. David Williams, D.D., Bishop of Huron.

An excellent staff of teachers and lecturers has been secured for the school this year, as follows: Rev. Professor S. A. B. Mercer, D.D., Trinity College, Toronto; Rev. D. M. Rose, B.S.A., Palampur, India; Miss F. B. Hawkins, Rev. H. H. Corey, M.A., Mid-Japan; Rev. H. W. Smith, B.A., Wingham; Rev. J. N. H. Mills, B.A., Brantford; Canon Armstrong, B.A., Church of the Redeemer, Toronto.

Ven. Archdeacon J. B. Fotheringham, Brantford, will give a number of open-air addresses on the church calendar, while Rev. C. E. Jenkins, M.A., B.D., St. John's church, Brantford, will give the school, will have charge of the quiet hour at the close of each day's activities.

The attendance at the Anglican summer school at Alma college last year was 100 students. It is hoped by those in charge of the school that the attendance this year will be fully double that of last year.

TREATIES SUBMITTED FOR RATIFICATION

Pacts Relating to China Were Drawn Up During Washington Conference.

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, July 4.—The two treaties relating to China which were drawn up during the Washington conference were yesterday recommended for ratification by the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies. Foreign Minister Blandin requested this action be taken.

Sir Robert Borden, Canada's delegate to the Washington disarmament conference, had a leading part in the framing of the treaties relating to China. The first dealing with the safeguarding of foreign powers in the country, and the second providing for the Chinese customs duties in order to bring about increased revenue for the Chinese government.

BRITISHER PLEASANT WITH TRIP THROUGH MIDDLESEX

H. J. Fear, representing a British shipping concern, toured Middlesex county yesterday, accompanied by R. A. Finn of the department of agriculture. Mr. Fear, who has been visiting practically all Ontario counties, told The Advertiser that he was most favorably impressed with the county, and considered it the best of all the districts he had visited, and would recommend Middlesex to British settlers.

Farms visited by Mr. Fear and Mr. Finn included the stock farms of Arthur Little, Col. Robert McEwen, H. King, the vegetable gardens of Sanderson Bros., Byron, and the fruit farm of Purdon F. Love, Westmount.

PATIENT LOST AFTER LEAVING INSTITUTION

Mrs. Mary Brooks, patient at the Ontario hospital, escaped from the institution yesterday, and local police are endeavoring to locate her. She was described as being about 55 years old, of slight build, and height of 5 feet 4 inches. It is believed that Mrs. Brooks left her home in Wingham and lost herself en route. The Wingham chief of police has been notified.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC HEAVY

United States citizens celebrating the glorious fourth in Canada have created a heavy movement in passenger traffic through London. The C. P. R. train which left Detroit for Toronto at midnight last night passed through here at 4:30 this morning in two well filled sections.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

MURDER.—At St. Joseph's Hospital, Saturday, July 4, 1925, Richard Murray, 34, was pronounced dead at 8:30 a.m. He was 40 years old, a native of Ireland, and was employed as a laborer at St. Peter's cemetery.

Liquor Cases Hold Lead In London Police Court; June Fines Total $2,451

LIBERALS HAVE GOOD MATERIAL

North Huron Association Will Meet July 15 To Choose Candidate.

Special to The Advertiser.
Wingham, July 4.—North Huron Liberals, when they meet in convention here on July 15, will have a fine choice of men from which to select a candidate for the forthcoming federal election.

At least four names have suggested themselves, all of whom are considered to be excellent material, including the following: Gordon Young, Carlisle, Hugh Hill, Ben Miller, Chas. Robertson, and W. H. Robertson, Goderich.

The Conservatives of the riding were badly split at their convention held here a short time ago, as the late George Spotten, who secured the nomination over H. J. A. MacEwan, mayor of Goderich, by a 137 to 110 vote. The party is still split, and the resignation of officials, not in sympathy with him as the candidate, meaning Peter Scott, Belgrave, president, Mr. MacEwan, secretary, and two or three others of the riding executive, which Mr. Spotten requested to be made immediately, have not as yet been tendered. Many Conservatives who voted for Mr. Spotten in the 1921 dominion election in which he was defeated by J. W. King, Progressive, Bluevale, have openly declared their intention to support him again.

With the Conservatives so divided amongst themselves, and Mr. King said to be lukewarm toward running against the prospects of electing a Liberal in the riding seem bright indeed. The Progressives have not yet called a non-electing convention, and thus it is not known what action will be taken by that party.

Gordon Young, who is president of the Liberal association for the riding, has had considerable experience in municipal and county politics as mayor of Colborne for several years. Hugh Hill is an energetic member of the Colborne county council, and has a splendid record as school trustee for the same district. Mr. Hill is a vice-president of the provincial Liberal party. Charles Robertson, at present warden of Huron county, has also many years experience in Colborne municipal affairs, and has interested himself particularly in matters pertaining to education and good roads.

W. H. Robertson, who is the signal, believed by many to be the man likely to be chosen, has the reputation of being one of the two Canadian editors to stand behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier consistently and steadfastly throughout the entire political career. Mr. Robertson has been a tower of strength to the Liberal party throughout the whole country, and could have secured the nomination for the provincial riding of Center Huron at the election of 1921. He has not, however, declined to stand against J. M. Govenlock, Liberal, Seaford, who at that time was the sitting member for the riding, having defeated the late Wm. Proudfoot, prior to the latter's elevation to the senate.

L. R. SHORTT, EX-MAYOR OF TILLSONBURG, DIES

Death Comes Suddenly To Leading Citizen—17 Years
Customs Collector.

Special to The Advertiser.
Tillsonburg, July 4.—L. R. Shortt, ex-mayor, and collector of customs here for the past 17 years died suddenly at 11 o'clock last night from heart disease. He was 63 years of age.

Going to a meeting of the Tillsonburg and Dereham Agricultural Society early in the evening, where he was to present a report as chairman of the executive committee, Mr. Shortt became ill at 8:30 and was compelled to leave the sessions. His condition was not thought serious, however, and his death was unexpected.

Mr. Shortt had played a leading part in municipal affairs here for a number of years. He had been a member of the board of trade and also served on the industrial commission.

His wife, he leaves one son, Roy, manager of the Standard Bank in Brantford.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon.

WAR VETERAN SUCCUMBS TO SELF-INFLICTED WOUNDS

Canadian Press Despatch.
St. Catharines, July 4.—With a bullet hole in his temple and a 22-caliber bullet in his chest, Mac McVittie of Port Colborne was found in a dying condition near the Lake street bridge over the Welland canal this morning by Bridge Tender Ellis McVittie, who was apparently a helper on the canal, was a Canadian great war service button and carried letters showing that he had a brother, Robert, in Southampton, England. He was taken to the General hospital in this city, where he died at 11 o'clock. Another letter from his sister at Glenora, advised McVittie that he had been forgiven.

WRIT FOR $327.85

James Morrison has issued a county writ on behalf of J. W. McLaughlin against Frederick N. Hudson for $327.85, which the plaintiff claims he advanced to Hudson against his commission account, not earned.

Thirty-Five Drunks Were Con- victed and Six Autoists Were Jailed.

49 H. T. A. BREACHES

Convictions Registered in 135 of 219 Cases Tried by Magistrate.

Liquor cases occupied the greater part of Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon's attention in police court during the past month. Thirty-five were convicted on charges of being intoxicated and 18 paid substantial fines for having liquor in places other than private dwellings. The total fines imposed amounted to $2,451, a sum not in excess of that for the previous month of May.

Six drunken drivers were sent to jail for periods of one week and more. Forty-nine Londoners paid fines for breaches of the highway traffic act. Nine were tried and convicted on other charges.

Fifty per cent of persons convicted on liquor charges chose jail terms rather than payment of fines. This fact is revealed in the amount of fine paid for the month which totalled $1,035. Of the total penalties imposed, the municipality receives $1,391 and the federal government only $25.

Of 219 cases which were tried before Magistrate Graydon, convictions were registered in 135. On charges of having liquor in a public place the minimum fine of $50 and costs, as provided under recent O. T. A. amendments, was imposed on eight persons. Three persons were fined $20 and costs and another $50 and costs.

The monthly fine in comparison with corresponding months of other years. The O. T. A. breaches were on an average with the same periods of other years.

The work of compiling the monthly report, copies of which are sent to the crown-attorney and attorney-general, was carried out by Police Court Clerk John Moule and his assistant, Miss Ida Jackson.

GOLFING STARS ARE BATTLING FOR TITLE

A trap on the right of the green. His approach was too heavy and Carrick holed out for a par three. Somerville had two putts. Carrick was now three up, and maintained the lead at the ninth.

The cards follow:
Carrick: Out 426 343 444—36
Somerville: Out 434 654 436—33
Somerville's start on his second hole was a long putt, but he made it. Carrick had a bad lie on a slope at the left of the green. They halved the seventh hole. Carrick drove on the eighth about 260 yards, Carrick going into a bunker on the right. He made a nice approach. Carrick did not sink it, but he could not get it. Carrick was down for a birdie three. Carrick took four.

Playing is close.
Somerville's second went into the woods on the left of the ninth green, and he played a provisional ball. Carrick's approach was too heavy and Carrick holed out for a par three. Carrick had two putts. Carrick was now three up, and maintained the lead at the ninth.

They both reached the edge of the green with their drives at the eleventh hole. Carrick again became nervous, getting down in two putts. Somerville missing an easy two-footer.

Somerville took the short twelfth hole. Carrick falling by inches to put a six-foot putt down. Carrick took two.

Carrick's approach was short at the thirteenth hole. Carrick was on in two. Carrick put down a four-footer for a birdie four, while Somerville's fourth stopped dead on the edge of the green. Carrick took two.

They continued to alternate at the fourteenth, which Somerville won with a birdie four by sinking a nine-foot putt after driving an advantage by good drives and approach. Carrick took two.

They halved the fifteenth in five. Carrick took two. Carrick took two.

TURNER CORRECTS ERROR CONCERNING NEW LEAGUE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, July 4.—In order to correct false impressions which, he said, he had found prevalent here, Sir Richard Turner, who was in Montreal yesterday, gave out the following statement:

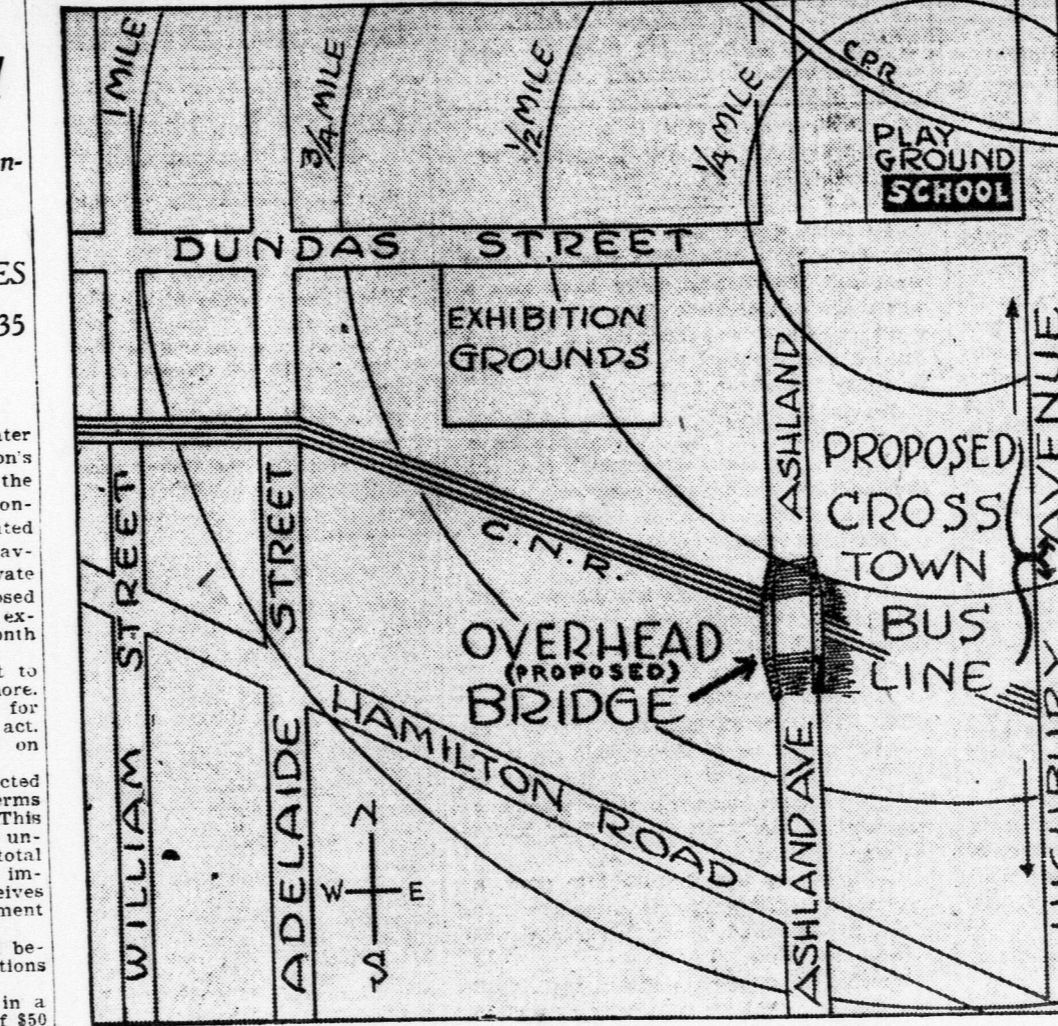

In connection with the formation in Canada of an united ex-service league it is important that all should know first that the preliminary work is not being done under the auspices of any existing organization, and that the name to be selected is not yet decided.

HAMILTON POWER FIRM WILL MERGE INTERESTS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Hamilton, July 3.—There is a report here that the Dominion Power and Transmission Company of this city is to be merged with the Southern Power Company of Quebec. The report follows a sudden demand for common stock in the D. P. and T. Co. made during the regulation 305-day period, this cow gave 16,861 pounds of milk, which by test contained 561 pounds of fat and 701.25 pounds of butter.

The highest average on record prior to this is said to be some 13,000 pounds of milk.

Plans To Make New School Site Accessible

EAST END COLLEGIATE SITE AND ITS DISTRICT.

The accompanying sketch shows the new site purchased Thursday by the board of education for the erection of an East London collegiate, the district from which it will draw pupils. The site, which comprises about twenty acres, is bounded on the east by Highbury avenue (the old Ashland road), on the north by the C. P. R. tracks, on the south by Dundas street, and on the west by the western boundary of the Ontario hospital property.

The first problem to be solved is to make the location easily accessible to children from the district bordering on the Hamilton road. Highbury avenue is already opened from Hamilton road to Dundas street, and Sir Adam Beck believes that a motor bus line operating on this street, connecting the Dundas and Hamilton road car lines, will be the solution of the transportation problem. Trustee B. N. Campbell favors approaching the city council to have Ashland avenue opened right through to Hamilton road. At present it ends just north of the C. N. R. tracks, but is continued a block or so to the south.

The railway tracks at this point run through a deep cut, and the construction of an overhead bridge would be a comparatively simple matter and would eliminate the level crossing menace.

Neither street is paved, nor are there sidewalks at the present time. No matter which solution is decided upon it will be seen from the above sketch that no pupil will have to come more than about a mile to the new collegiate, which, the trustees consider, is no hardship.

IMPROVEMENT PLANNED ON ST. CLAIR RIVER ROAD

Association Formed To Press
For Government and County Aid.

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, June 3.—Realization of the tourist possibilities has resulted in the formation of the St. Clair River Improvement association, backed by the resident ratepayers along the river highway from Froonfield to the Snycarre. Organization was completed last night at Corunna.

Arthur W. McNally, local barrister and secretary of the association, announced today.

The association aims to popularize the river road for tourists, and particularly to bring the highway up to a standard commensurate with the needs of the district and the ever-increasing amount of traffic which flows from Sarnia and the river villages and from six ferry services operating eighteen boats along the river.

CALL IS NOT PRESSED BY STRATHROY CHURCH

Rev. D. E. Foster of Toronto and Congregation Fail To Agree.

Special to The Advertiser.
Strathroy, July 3.—The call which St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here extended to Rev. D. E. Foster of Toronto, was not presented to Sarnia Presbytery yesterday, as Rev. Foster was unable to satisfy the congregational committee that he was wholeheartedly in agreement with the continuing Presbyterian Church. He desired the congregation to remain independent of the Presbyterian Church if he accepted, but this proposal St. Andrew's would not consider, and the call was dropped.

It is the intention to proceed at once to hear further candidates for a call.

ASSAULT CASE BOOKED.

Two husky Delaware farmers who staged a snappy fight in the township yesterday, will fight it all over again in a legal manner before Magistrate Hawkshaw next week, one man having charged the other with common assault.

Calamity May Be Her Name But She's a Winner At That

Byron, July 4.—A new record for the Dominion of Canada, so far as Holstein cows are concerned, has been established by a member of the famous Queen Alexandra Sanatorium herd.

The cow is listed as Artis Fayne Calamity and is registered with the Holstein-Friesian branch of the federal department, 62455. And in a recent test, made during the regulation 305-day period, this cow gave 16,861 pounds of milk, which by test contained 561 pounds of fat and 701.25 pounds of butter.

The highest average on record prior to this is said to be some 13,000 pounds of milk.

Hayfield, Man., June 4.—The average of bovine births received a boost here today when Aggie Segis Calamity, owned by W. E. Lawson, gave birth to four healthy calves. Three of them were heifers.

Aggie has been an industrious worker during the past year. She has been on test for official record of performance, and in 363 days she produced 19,215 pounds of milk, with an average test of 3.47 per cent butterfat, and, in addition to the family, today, has been the mother of one other calf during the year.

The four calves have a distinguished lineage, their sire being Hector Calanthus Payne.

ADMIT PASTOR TO PRESBYTERY

Rev. F. S. Okell Reported On Favorably by Assembly Commission.

Rev. F. S. Okell, B.A., Leamington, formerly Methodist pastor of the Mersey circuit, is now a full-fledged Presbyterian minister.

Mr. Okell's application to be received into the Presbyterian ministry, approved on Thursday by the London Presbytery presbytery, was last night passed upon favorably at Toronto by the executive of the general assembly commission under Rev. D. T. L. McKelvie, D.D., Toronto, appointed to consider the applications of all ministers seeking entering the Presbyterian ministry from other denominations.

Mr. Okell will take charge of Chalmers' Presbyterian church, London, to which he was called some weeks ago in place of Rev. John Richardson, B.A., who resigned when Chalmers' church voted to remain out of the United church of Canada.

Arrangements have been completed for Mr. Okell's induction at Chalmers' church on Thursday, July 16, at 8 p.m. when Rev. James McKay, B.D., moderator of presbytery, will officiate, and Rev. John Crawford, London, Rev. John Galloway Glencoe, and Rev. J. N. McGillivray, St. Thomas, will participate in the service.

MAYOR OPPOSES DUNDAS ST. SITE

creation ground and park is established there under the commission on the board, really matters little so far as the children of the district are concerned.

May Mean Two Schools.

Hopes of residents of South London that it may be possible to have both south and east collegiate built this year, have been raised by the fact that the board has been able to save a very considerable sum by the purchase of the asylum property, and that the knowledge that building costs are no longer what they were in days when it cost $10,000 a room to erect a school. Elimination of domestic science and manual training facilities in the new collegiate building would also bring the cost down to very material figures. Debentures were authorized by the city council on March 30th last for a total of $245,000 for the east end collegiate, and $215,000 for a building. The board has now saved $25,000 on the site, if the $20,000 for a site, and additional don public school, already has a site purchased for the South London collegiate there are grounds for hope that both schools at the same time under one contract may prove feasible.

FOREST PASTOR GETS PORT HOPE INVITATION

Rev. H. D. Cameron Has Served Seven Years in Present Charge.

Special to The Advertiser.
Forest, July 3.—A call from the Port Hope Presbyterian church has been received by Rev. H. D. Cameron, pastor of St. James' Presbyterian church here, carrying with it a minimum stipend of $2,400, a free manse and a month's vacation.

Mr. Cameron has signified his intention of accepting. The call will be dealt with at a meeting of the Sarnia presbytery in Wyoming on Friday.

At a congregational meeting of St. James' church, F. Jenken, M. Graham, H. McColl and W. Middleton were appointed to attend the Wyoming meeting to present the call. The Port Hope church has over 450 members and property valued at $60,000. If the call is sustained, Mr. Cameron will take up his new duties in August after seven successful years here.

CLINTON DOCTOR HEADS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, July 3.—The new president of the medical alumni association of the University of Toronto is John W. Shaw, M.D., of Clinton, who graduated from Trinity Medical College in 1881. He served three years as medical officer during the war at home and overseas. He is now a lieutenant-colonel in the Huron Regiment. Other officers of the association elected are: Hon. President W. J. Robinson (M.D.), London; Dr. Fred Hall, a vice-president, Chatham.

HOUSES ARE DESTROYED IN JAPANESE QUAKE

Associated Press Despatch.
Tokyo, July 4.—Numerous houses crumbled today when a severe earthquake struck Yokohama, 100 miles west of Kobe, which also was shaken. No casualties were reported.

15,132 PASSENGERS CARRIED BY L. AND P. S. ON HOLIDAY

The London & Port Stanley Railway enjoyed heavy traffic on Dominion Day, according to a statement issued today by C. E. Richards, manager. The number of people carried to the lakeside resort was 15,132.

FAILURES ON INCREASE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, July 4.—Thirty-five commercial failures were reported throughout the Dominion during the week ended yesterday, compared with 30 for the corresponding week of 1924, according to the report of R. G. D. and Company today. Fifteen of this week's failures were in Quebec province, seven in Ontario, five in Saskatchewan, three in Manitoba and one each in Alberta, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

SLIPPERY ROADS BRING MANY ACCIDENTS TODAY

Slippery roads were responsible for several clashes between motor cars this morning. Garages reported several cars towed in. The first collision took place near the normal school when two cars came together at 7:30. One lost a wheel.

Other accidents were of a minor nature. Six cars suffered smashed fenders and scratches.

BICYCLE STOLEN.

Fred Lee, 345 Gable street, reported to the police today that a bicycle, owned by him, and bearing serial number D-16678, was stolen yesterday afternoon from Thames park.

SETTLERS' DRIFT TO U. S. DECLINING

Value of Effects Exported Shows Heavy Decline in 1924.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, July 2.—Drift of Canadian settlers south—so far as is indicated by the value of settlers' effects exported—is declining.

The Canadian government does not keep statistics of outgoing Canadians, but the value of settlers' effects, both outgoing and coming, is kept. Those recorded by the Dominion bureau of statistics for 1914 show a heavy decline in settlers' effects going to the United States as compared with the previous twelve months.

At the same time, settlers' effects imported from the United States show an increase.

FINE OF $200 IS IMPOSED ON AUSTIN

Sentence Passed by Magistrate
Hawshaw in Case of Lukan Man.

W. J. Austin of Broughdale was fined $200 and costs or three months in jail by County Magistrate Hawkshaw this morning on a charge of having liquor in his possession, knowing it to be illegally manufactured.

The charge was laid by Inspector Cecil Webb of the inland revenue department, and added the Home of Austin in February, 1924, with Inspector Bolton and ex-Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton.

In giving the sentence this morning, both inspectors stated that Austin admitted his guilt at the time. Austin was not placed under arrest, and a few days later left the Home. On his return a week ago he was placed under arrest by the city police.

J. G. Gillandere prosecuted for the department, the case being defended by J. M. Donahue.

FOREST HAS CAMPAIGN TO SECURE TOURISTS

Community Association Names Committee To Prepare Publicity.

Special to The Advertiser.
Forest, July 3.—The Forest Community association was the new name adopted by the recently-organized board of trade at a meeting of the association, with D. Rymer, the president, in the chair. A constitution and bylaws were read, discussed and adopted. J. E. McIntosh, A. H. Baumbuster and W. D. Mackenzie were appointed a special committee to secure 2,000 advertising circulars and have them distributed to American tourists at the Sarnia ferry dock, inviting the tourists to visit Forest.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting on the third Monday of August each year, and other general meetings to be held at the call of the directors.

FORTY MILES AN HOUR COSTS $10 IN COURT

A lone speeder caught driving 40 miles an hour on the Forest road yesterday by Traffic Officer McArdle of the provincial police paid a fine of $10 and costs in county police court this morning, before Magistrate Hawkshaw.

An Opportunity For Mr. Murdock.

Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, according to an Ottawa despatch, has concluded that in view of the attitude of both parties in the Cape Breton dispute no good purpose would be served by visiting the mining area again.

The real point which Mr. Murdock will have to settle is this: Is the strike more likely to be settled by his remaining at Ottawa, or by being right on the ground, using all the powers at his command, and being ready to follow up any opening that may present itself for a settlement?

Right now when the situation is seemingly hopeless is the time when there is the greatest need for action, and when there is the keenest call for an authoritative voice saying that conditions in Cape Breton are a blot on the name of Canada and must not be continued.

It is not an easy task for Mr. Murdock to face, and he may feel that there are well-defined limits past which he cannot go in trying to bring about a settlement. He may hold that the miners are bent on a continuation of the struggle and that the operating company will not budge from its position, therefore there is nothing to it but a fight to the finish.

But the situation has possibilities that Mr. Murdock should not overlook. He is of the type that does not draw back easily from a difficult or even a dangerous undertaking. The condition in Cape Breton today is that there is fierce hatred between employer and employees; it has found expression in deeds of violence; families are on the point of starvation and industry is stagnant; troops are present, as they have been present before in the only business that has found it necessary to call them.

If that condition is not wrong, then nothing is wrong, and such affairs do not right themselves if left alone to stew in their own fat.

Mr. Murdock might find that he possesses greater authority in such a crisis than he thinks at present attaches to his office. It is certain that some one must step in there and point the way to higher ground, and Mr. Murdock has the qualities for that very important task. There is an opportunity in it for Mr. Murdock to win his spurs in a very real sense, and Cape Breton is better stamping ground for him right now than Ottawa.

A Dangerous Idea.

The Kitchener Record believes that the proper way to avoid glaring headlights on the road is for approaching cars to dim the lights. The Record adds:

"Safety through courtesy is better observed on the great highways of the United States than in Canada. The custom there when two glare conflict is to switch on to dim. Both cars thus pass each other with the road dimly illuminated but plain to be seen. Drivers in Canada who endeavor to make the custom popular in this country generally find that not one driver in ten reciprocates."

All right in theory, but very bad in practice. A driver at night becomes accustomed to the light on the road furnished by his own lights turned on full. To suddenly switch them off to a very dim light is dangerous because it takes some time for the eyes to become accustomed to the lesser light on the road; it is almost the same as turning the lights on entirely. If lights were properly adjusted they would not glare, and that is the cure for the whole trouble. The fact that they are allowed to glare is a poor tribute to our traffic regulations. There should be a provincial law compelling drivers to have this attended to. A local campaign is not sufficient.

Toronto Can't Scare Us.

The Toronto Star advises newspapers in Hamilton and London to forsake any more agitation for new railway stations, because it is thoroughly convinced that the present school of railway magnates do not build stations suddenly or use them quickly.

The Star man has probably been taking a walk around town showing some visiting friend the new union station there; he has done the same thing so often that the joy of the Cook's Tour of Toronto has departed; he has pointed at that union station so often that the first finger of his signalling hand is worn down to the knuckle. So with a despair like unto that of Elijah when he sought refuge in the desert from Jezebel, the wicked wife of Ahab, the Star man turns to Hamilton and London and says "It's no use, boys; save your rocksalt until the apples are ripe."

But the cases are not parallel. Toronto has a station, but can't use it because there are so many other things to do first. It went at it like the mistaken young man who bought a white brick house with a box stove to heat it, only to find after a long courtship that the lady insisted on living in a bungalow that had a fireplace and a dumb waiter.

Toronto finds out now that before it can use its station it must make many changes, so they've had wise men drawing and scratching away at blueprints, more wise men scribbling away at estimates, and their decision is that they'll have to build a great viaduct something like the Chinese wall before they can ever have the fun of carrying their carpet bags and parrots to the new station.

Just because Toronto has itself tied up in knots is no reason why London should despair. We do things differently in this city; our tastes are simple and our wants are few, and we're getting our station by degrees. Just a week or so back Mr. Thornton had a company of his most skilled workers put a couple of rods of fine heavy planks on the platform here, and the boys all say that's a sure sign of a new station.

Reviewing the Bank Verdict.

There have been all varieties of opinion expressed about the decision of the appellate division supreme court of Ontario which quashed the verdicts rendered by the lower courts against directors of the defunct Home Bank. The case was given a long and exhaustive trial in which there were few bright spots, and at the conclusion sentences of varying lengths were passed on the directors, not because they had been found guilty of deliberate fraud, but because they had not exercised the discretionary powers that a directorate is supposed to possess. They had taken too much for granted, and in so doing had failed to provide protection for the depositors.

The Hamilton Spectator thinks the reversal of the verdicts by the supreme court is the best thing that could have happened, and adds:

"The decision of the appeal court is of a nature to restore confidence in the banking institutions of the country. The six directors who had been convicted and sentenced to prison terms were all substantial businessmen, whose reputations were their most-prized possessions. Their only error, the appeal judges have found, was that they took it for granted those upon whom they had to lean were dependable, instead of proving it."

The St. Catharines Standard cannot see it that way at all, and holds that, according to the finding of the supreme court, the position of being a bank director is a very perfunctory affair and not one fraught with grave responsibility. The Standard says in part:

"The decision practically means that directors are not responsible if the president or general manager of a chartered bank brings the institution to ruin. It was held by Judge Coatsworth, at Toronto, that ignorance of the condition of the Home Bank was no excuse on the part of the directors. It was their duty, according to the judge, to have inquired into the state of the bank, and to have known all about its affairs. The decision of the higher court of appeal wipes all this out. A director is not responsible for the proper management of a chartered bank. He is only a dummy figure-head, some one whose name might be useful in connection with the bank's promotion. This seems to be one case in law where ignorance is quite a legitimate excuse, no matter what misery it may cause others."

The Standard concludes its comment with the pungent phrase: "Legally correct it all may be, but lacking in elementary justice."

The Sarnia Canadian-Observer fears that a continuation of such reversal of verdicts will result in the public becoming very much befuddled about the finality of any decision. It cites the case of the Peter Smith-Aemilius Jarvis verdict, where "the finding of the lower court was modified to an extent that drew the teeth of what seemed an exemplary judicial finding." The Sarnia paper fails to see where there is need for a lower court at all if its findings are to be so frequently upset. It says:

"If the appellate division's conclusion is entirely correct then the lower court's finding is notoriously erroneous."

"This is a mildly perplexing to the common people. It tends to induce them to sneer at courts and legal procedure."

"If the authorities and the courts desire that, they are taking a first-class method to bring it about."

"There ought to be a certain standardization of deducting court verdicts, particularly when judges who are trained in their calling have the say."

"Continued upsetting of decisions of the lower courts suggests that these are a fifth wheel. Why not go to the higher court in the first instance and abolish the stupendous outlay of money and time necessary to have the glory of this apparently extraneous procedure?"

The point raised here is pertinent. A court heard the case that was competent to do so; the judge directing it was schooled in the same course of justice as those who threw out his findings. If the supreme court was right in removing the jail sentences, then the lower court was all wrong in imposing them in the first place, and there is nothing to reconcile the two positions because they are diametrically opposed.

As the case stands now directors of a bank are not held responsible for what the managers of the institution may do. If the directors are deceived the blame is on those who deceive them. As the banking circle becomes narrower by reason of amalgamations of banking houses this is not a comforting or a satisfactory conclusion. The need is for directors who will positively and intelligently direct, and the call is for a law that will make them do so.

Note and Comment.

French electors have found that the mayor of Marseilles was elected by counting the votes of 17,000 dead people, and of course it is considered a grave state of affairs.

Some person is always getting the signals mixed. Just when Ontario is ready to try out Alberta coal the Edmonton miners go on strike. It was coal that we were asking for, not a strike.

Niagara fruit belt reports bumper cherry crop, but owing to low prices many farmers may not pick. There's something wrong about that, because consumers will not object to "paying a fair price. Proper distribution and common sense can cure that situation."

Toronto Telegram contends that the Brantford Expositor is not independent, but Liberal, and asks "Since when has Thomas Hiram Preston, three times Liberal member of the legislature, changed his spots?" Those who know T. H. Preston best are certain there are no spots on him and no flies either.

Judging by the number of U. S. cars that are rolling through here for the 4th of July celebration it might be imagined the celebration was being staged in Ontario. But you're doubly welcome just now, because every gallon of gas you buy here means three cents for the provincial government, and we all know how sorely they need the money. So we hope you come often and travel far in cars that are regular bears for gas.

Takin' Off Fat

Wherein Ned Whiskers tells a tale of chasin' after fashion's whim, and of the struggle of his wife to make her framework turn out slim.

Paris reports that it is now considered fashionable for women to be plump.—News note.

So them what's plump will say as how that Paris has a wholesome view, and them what call the changes there have took a wholesome sort of view. Likewise the leans will speak a spell and chant their little hymn of hate, that it should be decreed once more that they look like a figure eight.

It must be tryin', so I think, on them what dance to fashion's whim, to have to carve the sections off a-strivin' quick to turn out slim, and then again a year gone past to read that fat is stylish now, so they must eat cornmeal and hay and carve great slices from a cow.

Ned Whiskers told me how his wife had tried to change with changin' style, and how she well-nigh starved to death and faced the torture with a smile.

"You see," says Ned when him and I was sittin' on his porch last night, "she went a-dietin' a spell to see if she could get more slight. When she was young she used to live upon a farm just north of here, and she was used to hearty meals and livin' where the air was clear."

"So she grew like she ought to grow, a buxom sort of lass you see, and she was night two hundred pound when she was married off to me."

"Well everything was fine a spell, until she met some stylish folk, who seemed to think as how her fat was somethin' of a standin' joke. I found out after how it come, about the trouble and its cause, for someone said she had her meals right close to where a silo was."

"So she set out to shed her beef, and stopped devourin' this and that, and went on pickin' at her meals a-fearin' lest they made her fat."

"There was the deuce to pay," says Ned, "she kept it up for quite a spell, determined how she'd show them folks that she was growin' slim and swell. Most every week we'd take a walk and drop in at the corner store, so she could stand upon the scales and note the fat-reducin' score."

"Well, by the time two months had went and we'd been to the corner store, he blowed if she weren't heftin' more than what she used to do before."

"So we come home that night, I mind, my missus she worked like the deuce, I heard her say reducin' fads they hadn't any sense or use, so she cooked up a T-bone steak and smothered it in onions too, me thankin' all the gods there be as how this fastin' stuff was through. We reckoned them what's fat stays fat, and them what's slim they keep on slim, and how it's best for folks to go and stay on like what they begin."—ARK.

Estate Taxes.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir.—Please answer the following question in your valuable paper: What share does the government take from an estate? Does it take the same amount from an unmarried lady's estate as it does from an unmarried man's estate?
ANXIOUS TO KNOW.

Editor's Note.—If the person sending this query will please forward name and address we will send full particulars by letter.

PITY THE BLIND!

"My poor fellow," said the lady, "there is a quarter for you. Goodness gracious, it must be dreadful to be lame, but just think how much worse it would be if you were blind."
"Yer right, lady," agreed the beggar. "When I was blind I was always getting counterfeit money."

BEECHER UNITED NEW CHURCH NAME

Famous American Preachers, Father and Son, Honored by First Congregational.

Still another of the 21 United churches of Canada in the city of London has changed its name to conform with the new order of things.

This time it is the First Congregational church, Dundas street, which, from now on, will be known as "Beecher United Church of Canada."

The majority of the city churches are continuing the name of their church prefacing the United church, and dropping the old denominational name. Methodist, Presbyterian or Congregational as the case may be.

Other churches which thus far are known to have taken official action to change their names, and in which cases the new name sufficiently resembles the former name to indicate the church concerned are: Hyatt Avenue United church; Knox United church; Colborne Street United church; First Presbyterian United church.

Now comes the First Congregational church linking up a renowned and respected name, Beecher, with that of the new United church. The name Beecher calls to mind work and worth of Dr. Lyman Beecher, and also of his illustrious son, Henry Ward Beecher, great religious leaders of the American continent, for both their writings and their pulpit utterances.

WILL GET POSITION.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, July 3.—Evan Evans, former M.L.A., is to be appointed registrar of Welland county. It was stated at the parliament buildings today. The appointment has not yet been officially ratified.

Prince In Dark On Durban Race

Unable To Favor When Asked For Winner's Name.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, July 3.—Evidently the Prince of Wales, who sometimes backs a winner at the race courses, has received no inside information as to who is likely to win the Durban July handicap, which is to be run tomorrow in South Africa.

An exchange telegraph despatch from Capetown says a Kimberley sportsman, named Nieuwoudt, thinking that H. R. H. probably had obtained a tip, sent him the following telegram: "Be sporty and wire me the winner of the July handicap."

Today Nieuwoudt received the following from Vice-Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, a member of the entourage of the prince, who is now visiting Rhodesia: "The prince wishes he knew."

RACE TRACK REVENUE UP.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, July 3.—Substantial increases over last year's figures are shown in government revenue and betting at the Long Branch race track, during the spring meet ended last Saturday. The amount of the wagers was $1,781,357, an increase of $513,241, over the 1924 meet. The government revenue totalled $182,250. The majority of Canadian tracks this spring have registered decreases in betting from last year.

The Family Budget

WHEN you draw up your family budget, do you set a stated percentage of your income aside for life insurance protection? If so, how much? Is it anywhere near adequate?

Life Insurance should provide protection not only for children while they are dependent but for the assured's old age. It is not an easy matter to determine how much insurance a man should carry in proportion to his income, his expenses and his family responsibilities. That's a matter upon which you may need professional advice. Mutual agents are equipped to give well considered counsel in such matters.

PUDNEY BROTHERS' BUSINESS GROWING

Popular Music Concern Has Expanded Rapidly in Last Three Years.

"Does the hen stop scratching when the worms are scarce?" This is the cryptic piece of philosophy that hangs over the desks of hundreds of Canadian businessmen today—a suggestion placed before their eyes by other businessmen of the enterprising school that finds that business is good when one goes out after it.

In every line is noticeable an outstanding example of optimism and sound prosperity, and behind this shining example in every instance are palpable reasons; a little extra hustle, fair dealing that engenders public confidence and financial resources which provide accommodation for the willing purchaser.

Probably if the average Londoner were asked to scan the musical merchandise field he would instantly cite as a particular instance of this spirit and these characteristics a firm that has gained its good name and fame in three short years—Pudney Brothers, "The Music Store on the Corner," at Waterloo and Dundas.

Three years ago, Harold and John Pudney, both native Londoners, capitalized a rich experience gained with the branch houses of leading Canadian piano manufacturers, and launched into business in their own name. Both brought to the business the benefit of a wide acquaintance and splendid training, backed by a particular talent for music and a love of it.

They opened their first store on Dundas street, in east London, launched into intensive organization work in a manner that yielded astonishing results, and within a few months they were forced to abandon their lease and secure new quarters in larger premises on Dundas street, east of Waterloo. Again they devoted themselves to an intelligent appeal to the needs of the people of London and Western Ontario, and again the public responded in a manner that called for further expansion. Now they are located at Waterloo and Dundas, the geographical centre of London, in a store with facilities for service of the highest order.

Phonograph Sales Large. Approving their enterprise and high code of business ethics, and being well aware of the fact that the discriminating public prefers to patronize a firm so ear-marked, a dozen leading manufacturers have sought them as local representatives. Scores of London and district homes today boast Bell Art and Evans pianos obtained through this popular and reliable store—player-pianos, standard models, apartment types, and grands.

The new Columbia phonographs which they have marketed actually run into the hundreds, and at present they are engaged in a special mid-summer sale that has shaken the music field of Western Ontario out of the doldrums and captured the attention of the public like a quake in California.

With the Pudney Brothers there is no timidity about answering the question, "Is business good?" Of course it's good! It's wonderful. And, best of all, it is not just "appreciable" to use the slang of the day, but bona-fide orders from bona-fide customers who have been scanning the market for special values and who are ready to buy when a live dealer comes through with a hot proposition that is too good to let go by.

It is easy to check up on a piano company, and especially one that does business on a corner, where every article in and out is not slipped through a lane but down the public street. Watch the trucks and lorries bringing in the pianos, phonographs and radio sets from day to day. Watch the delivery trucks rushing them off to the homes, the special sale now in progress, a consignment of 50 new Columbia phonographs, brought through in one order, and at the rate they are going they will all be put out for those who believe in snappy action long before the concluding date in this bargain period.

Easy Payment Terms. The small down payments permitted, the surprisingly easy terms of payment, providing for a spread over 18 months, without addition of interest, the free premium of 40 records, the selection and home demonstrations, all have their part in gaining public favor.

In the radio department Pudney Brothers hold the rights for the world-famous Thompson neodymium, manufactured in Jersey City and distributed by the Columbia Company, and for the equally well-known Chel-sea & Dayton products. This group epitomizes the range in radio, providing purchasers with complete selection, both in type, price and receiving strength. These machines are installed with scientific precision, and are serviced in a manner that guarantees satisfaction. The importance of these factors is well known to many who pioneered the radio field, and who learned that it pays to do business with a firm that makes radio a serious business and not a side line.

The Dayton company specializes in radio units for installation in phonographs. By this means a phonograph may be quickly and conveniently made into a combination apparatus ready at the touch of a button to bring to the family its own choice of entertainment from selected records.

The prominence of the professional field in assurance of what may be expected in the small instrument department at Pudney Brothers stores, Cascher and Connors tell the story. Led by drum outfits tell the story. Led by drum outfits tell the story. Led by drum outfits tell the story.

For anyone who loves the roll of the drums, the blare of brass and the delicate melodies of the wood-winds. The growth of the business in its early stages of the wood-winds. The growth of the business in its early stages of the wood-winds.

WITH THE CIRCUS FOLK.

Under the big top shown at the top of the picture, 15,000 people can be seated during the performance of the Barnum & Bailey circus. The circus will be in London at Military field, Carling Heights, for one day only, Monday, July 6. The big tent incloses five rings, eight stages and the hippodrome track. Urchins are seen peering within the cages of jungle beasts, while the lower picture shows "Old John" leading the herd of forty elephants.

Four Trains Are Required To Transport Big Circus

World's Greatest Show Will Arrive in London at Dawn Sunday.

SHOWS ON MONDAY Tickets To Be On Sale at Dowler's All Day Monday.

The circus comes to London tomorrow—not one of your ordinary circuses, either—but the gigantic affair floating the gonzolas of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, known of all men as the "greatest show on earth," and referred to by show folk throughout the land as the "big show". London youngsters who go to bed tonight dreaming of clowns with funny painted faces, giraffes with necks that reach up into the clouds, elephants with flopping ears and wiggling trunks packed full of ticks, and goodness knows what else will find the dreams come true tomorrow, for a long time before dawn tints the landscape the first of the four long trains of 100 cars will come chugging into town from Kitchener where the circus is exhibiting today.

Urchins that ordinarily kick upon being awakened at a reasonable hour tonight with one eye open to insure their being on hand early in the morning to welcome the first squad of circus folk and they will be on deck as they ever have been upon the arrival of a circus, urchins from the knees past stage of development to youngsters whose recall as among their fondest memories the matter of having toted water to slake the professional entertainer, is now at the head of the phonograph department.

Achieves Fame. The Jack Pudney Orchestra now playing at Port Stanley Casino for the summer has achieved a fame and popularity that one of the high spots in musical experience. This splendid orchestra brought in a veritable tornado of applause on its appearance before the microphone of the London Free Press radio broadcast from this splendid musical organization on "The Midnight Waltz," one of the latest dance hits, and tens of thousands of copies have been distributed throughout the country. Negotiations have just been concluded with the New Columbia Phonograph Company, under which Jack Pudney's orchestra will be recorded and placed on sale throughout Canada, the United States and Great Britain.

During the past season this orchestra was so much in demand within a radius of a hundred miles or more from London, that half a dozen were operating under the direction and management of Jack Pudney simultaneously. Next Wednesday the new Hitchcock and Richardson dance hall in Sarnia, which is under the direction of Ted White of London, will open, featuring a Pudney orchestra of eight pieces.

thirst of the famous Jumbo.

Great Array of Animals. The tents—some thirty of them—will be pitched at Military field, Carling Heights, and there will be performances at 2 and 8 p.m. Monday, doors opened at 1 and 7 o'clock, allowing ample time to view a large collection of natural history types, including 40 elephants, an entire family of giraffes, an armored rhinoceros and more than the usual complement of "cat" animals.

Long before the average breakfast hour in the morning the tented city will have arisen in great part at Military field, although the main tent, or "big top," will not be raised until Monday morning. But the menagerie, stables, dining tents, etc., all of which are required for the circus housekeeping will be erected. As far as possible, however, the circus will rest in negligee tomorrow and visitors to the grounds will have an opportunity of viewing the gigantic affair upon its one day in the week of quasi rest.

The main tent seats 15,000 people and is cooled by monster electric fans. Five rings, eight stages and the hippodrome track are utilized in running off a time to view a large collection of horses and some 800 men and women performers appear.

The circus man says he has no sympathy with the blame person who complains that "all circuses are alike," and remarks that "while there is something of a resemblance, it is also true that each night brings something new, roses, sausages and sunsets are likewise, but this would be a dreary world if there were no joys in repetition."

To the knowing and to those who still have youth in their arteries, the "big top" something more than a tent, it is a wonderland and possesses a kick from the opening pageant down to the last thundering race on the track.

Only the super-optical Col. Argus stands a chance to see all that occurs with this circus when the five rings, eight stages and track get bouncingly busy. The roster of the 100 men and women performers reads like a blue book, and the world of sawdust and spangles. Names that form the warp and woof of circus history are there, and the individual stars include such performers as Lillian Leitzel, super-aerialist; May Wirth, equestrienne, and the entire Wirth family, including Phil Wirth, the sisters Reiffenbach, Hungarian riders; the Nelson family of girl acrobats; Alf Loyal's police dogs and French poodles—the latter in an equi-canine circus, in which the poodles are disguised as miniature horses; Ella Bradna, in the most beautiful act in circusdom; Anna Stess and her score pretty models posing with milk-white animals; and the wonderful Australian Colleano family, including Con Colleano, who accomplishes the hitherto unheard-of feat of throwing forward and backward somersaults upon the high wire; Mijares and Maximo, the great Spanish wire-walkers; Berta Besson, dancer of the high wire; the Siegrist-Silbon and Clarkson-Nelson troupe of aerialists and many others.

150 Horses in Equine Ballet.

One hundred and fifty horses, trained and exhibited by John Christensen, appear in an equine ballet entitled The Fete of the Garlands, while at another time the five rings are filled with superb horses exhibited by the world's foremost horsemen. Five groups of elephants play at London Bridge, and there are four troupes of seals; Bruins who ride bikes and skis around on rollers equal to a Hans Brinker; trained

JAMES GUMB FUNERAL IS HELD AT THORNDALE

Special To The Advertiser.

Thorndale, July 3.—The funeral service for the late James Gumb, Thorndale, was conducted at the family home on Tuesday by the Rev. A. C. Cummer and Rev. Roy Connor. Interment was made at Brown's cemetery. Mr. Gumb was in his 61st year. He was born and lived on the third concession of West Nissouri. Since 1913 he has been a member of the Middlesex county police force. During three years of the war, he was assistant turnkey at the county jail, London. He is survived by the wife, three sons, Edward and Lloyd at home, Lester in London; his mother, at home; one sister, Mrs. Headley of Kingston; and one brother, Thomas, of St. Paul, Minn.

FUNERAL OF DR. J. W. PECK VERY LARGELY ATTENDED

Special To The Advertiser.

Hensall, July 3.—The funeral of the late Dr. J. W. Peck was held from his home here on Tuesday afternoon, and although announced as a private funeral, a very large number from the surrounding country gathered at the residence and on the streets to pay their last tribute of respect. The service at the home was taken by his pastor the Rev. Mr. A. Sinclair, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Colin Fletcher and Rev. H. Naylor, and the service at the grave was taken by the Masons, of which the late Dr. Peck was a past worshipful master. Interment was made at Bayfield cemetery. ## BAYFIELD'S BIGGEST CELEBRATION WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Citizens of This Popular Lake Huron Summer Resort Will Mark Fiftieth Anniversary of Incorporation as Village—Many Novel Features Will Comprise Program.

PIONEERS TELL OF ITS EARLY DAYS

On Wednesday next, Bayfield, celebrated far and wide as the "prettiest spot along Lake Huron's shore," will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its incorporation as a village. The citizens of this popular summer resort are preparing to give their visitors for this event the time of their lives.

The question of marking the half century of incorporation was discussed for some months, and finally when the decision was made it was also decided to make the event one long to be remembered. Bayfield was a thriving and busy spot years before its incorporation as a village. The bylaw of incorporation was passed on Christmas day, 1875, by the Huron county council then in session in Goderich. The first village council consisted of John Key, reeve, and four councillors, W. W. Connor, Caleb McIntosh, John Esson, and Andrew Rutledge. All have been dead for some years.

Comprises 1,760 Acres.

At the time of incorporation it was necessary to take in 1,760 acres to secure the required population of 500. At that time the property assessment was $85,000, compared with the present valuation of $240,000.

In the early days Bayfield was the busiest grain center in Western Ontario. Before the Huron and Bruce branch of the old Grand Trunk was built in 1868 farmers came from as far south as London and from Wingham on the north with grain for shipment by boats to Buffalo. Large warehouses dotted the waterfront, where the grain was stored awaiting transit down the lakes.

At the time of incorporation Bayfield had six hotels, Commercial, Albion, Royal Exchange, Queen's, River House and Red Lion. All carried on a thriving business in those days.

Pioneers of Bayfield. Among the pioneers of Bayfield and those who recall the time of its incorporation are John Pollock, of Irish extraction, born in Stanley township, and came to Bayfield when two years of age; Murdock Ross, a 100 per cent Scotchman, born in Tiverton; James Sturgeon, a thoroughbred Irishman, who came from the village of Lurgan, county Armagh, North Ireland; John Fraser, John Paulkner, a lifelong resident of Bayfield; John Tippet, Capt. John Ferguson, John Gairdner, Richard Smith, Alex. Cameron, Samuel Cleave, Charles Parker, Alfred Irwin, Robert Johnson, Lewis Thompson, William Stinson, Robert McMurray and William Johnson.

The fishing industry has kept the majority of Bayfield residents employed for years and some valuable catches have been made.

Excellent Bass Fishing.

In bass fishing the Bayfield river has a reputation second to none. Some real whoppers have been hooked in the past two weeks. On the first of July a London doctor, fishing off the river bank in a deep hole down by the old grist mill, pulled in a 23-inch specimen, weighing three pounds 14 ounces. He landed this fellow only after a fight of 40 minutes, and then with a broken pole.

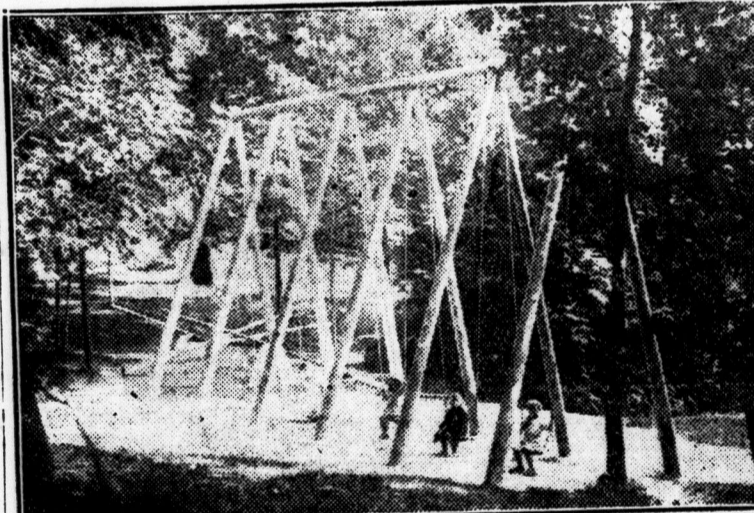

For scenery, Bayfield has a special claim all its own. Bathing and boating can be indulged in under ideal conditions, the beach being one of the best along the lake for bathers. For lovers of natural beauty a Lake Huron sunset, viewed from the high banks at Bayfield, is a scene of beauty. Words are inadequate to describe.

Bayfield residents consequently feel justified in claiming their village the "prettiest spot along Lake Huron's shore."

Roads leading into Bayfield are in excellent condition, and motorists will find it an ideal drive.

From London the route takes one through Lucan, Clonaboy, Centralia, Exeter, Hensall, Kippen and Varna.

Bayfield extends to you a hearty invitation to participate in the fiftieth anniversary of its incorporation.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE CHILDREN.

In Jowett's Grove, Bayfield, there is plenty of amusement for the children. The picture shows a group of swings, and in the background are teeters, which would delight the heart of any kiddie. As a picnic ground, Jowett's Grove is unexcelled.

ASQUITH AND LLOYD GEORGE HAVE BURIED THE HATCHET

Two Liberal Stalwarts Willing To Forget Differences of Past.

LOVE FEAST HELD

Associated Press Despatch.

London, July 3.—A final declaration of peace between Lord Oxford and Asquith and Lloyd George was made last night at a dinner in the famous Eighty club, which is comprised of the strictest Asquithians in the Liberal Party and was born amidst the troubles that threatened to divorce the Lloyd Georgians from the older Liberalism some time ago.

Lord Oxford referred to Lloyd George as possessing some of the methods both of a seer and a skilful politician through his happy endowment of temperament, sleepless interest and unflinching sympathy with needs of the common people.

Lloyd George, on his part referred to the characteristic "warm-hearted and generous tributes of Lord Oxford."

After this handsome hatchet-burying both Liberal leaders passed on to discussing the prospects for the revival of Liberalism. Lord Oxford consoled those present with the reflection that at least twice previously the Liberal party had been in domestic trouble equal to that of the present time.

Perhaps the most interesting passage in Lloyd George's speech was a veiled challenge to Premier Baldwin to re-introduce the protection issue. He asserted that up to the present Premier Baldwin simply had "mouthed sentimentalism at the head of a government of 'slush'."

CORNERSTONE IS PLACED BY FIELD MARSHAL HAIG

Associated Press Despatch.

Ottawa, July 3.—One of the cornerstones of the huge pillars beneath the soldiers' memorial chamber in the parliamentary tower was placed in position by Field Marshal Lord Haig yesterday afternoon.

The Prime Minister, J. B. Hunter, deputy minister of public works, General MacBrien and a couple of Lord Haig's staff were present, but there was an absence of ceremony.

The other cornerstones of the structure had been laid by His Excellency the Governor-General, Premier King, and Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

ECONOMIC WAR STARTED BY GERMANS AND POLES

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, July 3.—Economic war between Germany and Poland has been declared with the issuance of a decree by the Reichstag imposing prohibitive duties on Poland's main agricultural and industrial exports.

The modus vivendi governing trade relations between Poland and Germany expired on April 1, and no steps have been taken for its renewal. This temporary agreement has been in force since the lapsing of the period provided for in the treaty of Versailles to care for the post-war adjustments.

Negotiations for a regular commercial treaty were begun last autumn, but they were abandoned after lengthy efforts to reconcile the views of the two countries.

DARROW WOULD STOP THE EVOLUTION TRIAL

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, July 3.—Definite announcement was made here today by Clarence Darrow that the Scopes evolution trial, set for hearing at Dayton, Tenn., would be taken into the federal court by the counsel for the defense. The application for a federal injunction to prevent the state authorities from proceeding with the case will be made either Monday or Tuesday at either Knoxville or Chattanooga.

The injunction will take the form of a restraining order to prevent enforcement of the Tennessee anti-evolution law on the ground that it violates the federal constitution.

EASTERN NEWSPAPERS CHANGE OWNERSHIP

BLUE WATERWAY GIVES TOURIST REAL SERVICE

All the Summer Pleasures Go With Magnificent Roads Through Sportsman's Paradise—Sarnia to Bruce Peninsula a Road of Wonderful Beauty.

CAMPING, FISHING AND BATHING LURE TOURIST

What warm weather diversion can equal the joys and thrills of rambling through primeval forests, camping on the banks of wonder streams, unspoiled since the Indian stretched his tepee there a couple of hundred years ago, or fishing in deep pools where game fish lurk ever eager to match their cunning with fishermen's wiles?

Ontario offers the touring motorist all these summer pleasures and many more, besides the prime attraction of magnificent roads to make your holiday smooth and to add to the hours of enjoyment in one of the richest of scenic playgrounds on the continent.

Camping, fishing, tramping, rambling, cool breezes and glorious sunsets, sand beaches and perfect bathing, reach out to entice you as your auto spins along roads skirting the shores of big waters.

It is the call of the famous Blue Water Highway.

Entering at Sarnia, the tourist is greeted with thrills and delights of the great lower blue waters of Lake Huron, which begins to unfold its grandeur at this busy Canadian port. Sarnia is the central gateway to scenic Ontario. All good roads from the west, the east and the south hook up with the great Ontario highway system at Sarnia, within swift ferry distance of Port Huron across the St. Clair river.

In Fine Condition.
The Blue Water highway from Sarnia to Owen Sound and beyond to the great Muskoka country and the big game country of Ontario is in splendid condition for tourists' travel, both from Sarnia northward and from Sarnia southward, down the St. Clair.

Sarnia is the center gateway of this unparalleled tourist highway, which either skirts the shore line of the blue waters and rivers or is within a few minutes' ride of the shore at every point.

Tourists, after spending a day or two in the vicinity of Sarnia or even a week or more along the Sarnia beaches, should plan their trip northward along the Blue Water highway through The Pinery to Grand Bend and thence to Goderich, Kincardine, Port Elgin, Southampton, and to Owen Sound, Meaford, Collingwood, Penetang or Midland, on Georgian Bay.

From Owen Sound or Southampton, a couple of days' motor trip into the Bruce peninsula to Wiarton, Tobermory, and along the shore where camping may be enjoyed in the fullest glory and where bass and trout fishing is of the finest, should be one of your objectives.

Then the tourist can motor on through Meaford, Collingwood, Penetang, Midland, Coldwater and other small places to Orillia, which is on Lake Couchiching. From there the tourist may either motor into the beautiful Muskoka lake district or return south to Toronto, the metropolis of Ontario. In fact, a great many, entering at Sarnia, have made the circle up the shore of Lake Huron, across to the Muskoka country, down to Toronto and back to Sarnia, reaping fine roads and wonderful times.

Good Road in Pinery.
An interesting feature, as the tourist journeys northward from Sarnia, is the famous Pinery, encountered at a point 40 miles above the city. This primeval forest until recently was the haunt of wild deer and other game, and is frequently visited by naturalists in search of primitive conditions. A good motor road has replaced the sand trail of a year ago, and it is being improved all the time.

Tourists will find the road up the Blue Water route marked with Ontario Motor League signs. The roads are in good condition throughout the whole trip, and from Grand Bend north the Blue Water highway is already in excellent motoring condition. Tourists should stop at the tourist information bureau for a detailed direction card, although when travelling in the daytime the roads cannot be missed.

Five big ferries now ply between Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ont.

carrying automobiles across the St. Clair river at a rate of over three hundred cars an hour. New docks built on the Port Huron banks of the river and arrangements for greater space on the Sarnia side make facilities for handling cars at this gateway the best on the border.

The climate of Ontario is little understood by the average tourist from the United States. The prevalent impression that the climate is one of ice and snow and cold is a wrong one. In fact, everything that is grown north of the southern states is also grown in Ontario. All varieties of grain, vegetables, fruits, bulbs, flowers and tobacco are common to Ontario.

Good Tourist Camps.
A string of convenient and well-equipped tourists' camps all along the Blue Water route provides added attraction to the tourist. Usually a small fee is charged for the service and protection provided. All camps are inspected by the provincial board of health.

Camps are located at Clarksburg, Collingwood, Forest, Grand Bend, Goderich, Kincardine, Meaford, Midland, Orillia, Owen Sound, Penetang, Port Elgin, Sarnia, Southampton, Tobermory, Wiarton and other places.

Many and varied are the points of interest along the Blue Water highway. Grand Bend is a summer resort beautifully situated on the shore of Lake Huron 45 miles north of Sarnia. Nestled in a natural grove of pines, oaks and other native trees and famed with fresh, invigorating breezes from the lake, it is one of the most healthful resorts in Canada.

It is reached from Sarnia through Forest and past the famous celery gardens at the entrance to The Pinery. The celery gardens cover many thousands of acres and there are still undeveloped many thousands of acres more of black celery land, which offers wonderful opportunities to industrious persons.

Entering the Bruce peninsula, added beauties are unfolded to the motorist. Wiarton, at the gateway to the peninsula, is set where Georgian Bay and Lake Huron almost meet at the base of the peninsula. It is one day's run from Detroit and boasts of good hotels, garages capable of serving all makes of cars, and good stores and restaurants accustomed to catering to the tourist, camper, fisherman and hunter.

A Sportsman's Paradise.
Perch, bass, brook and rainbow trout for the rod, lake trout for the troll, and rabbit, partridge, bear and deer for the gun, are all in a day's outing by car or motorboat from Wiarton.

With the 1925 season, the Blue Water Highway Association has added a further section to its route in the locality from Collingwood to Orillia. As is true also of the whole Lake Huron and Georgian Bay country, this district is rich in early historical significance.

Georgian Bay, that great arm of Lake Huron, has become a favorite summer playground with residents of Canada and the United States. In this magnificent bay are more than 30,000 islands—lands peeping out of the blue depths of crystal-like water and covered with moss, islands of all shapes and sizes—via the Blue Water highway.

Considering the vastness of the province of Ontario the road system which has been developed is remarkable. It will be interesting for Americans to know that Ontario has approximately 1,000 miles east and west, and approximately 1,000 miles north and south, that there are 49,900 miles of roads already opened, of which nearly 50 per cent have been surfaced with gravel and approximately 4,500 miles have been surfaced with pavement of concrete, asphalt or macadam qualities.

AUSTRALIA UNEASY REGARDING JAPAN

Any Suggestion of Minimizing British Connection Held
As Unwelcome.

Associated Press Despatch.
Honolulu, July 3.—General feeling in Australia is one of marked uneasiness regarding Japan. S. Roberts of Victoria University, told the members of the institute of Pacific relations which opened here yesterday.

The meetings were held in secret, due to the belief that freer and franker discussion may be had than if they were public.

Professor J. B. Condliffe, New Zealand university, said New Zealand's immigration is now viewed mainly as expressing the right to control population.

While increasing friendship and co-operation between the English-speaking peoples is welcome, New Zealand does not look to the United States for either political or economic support. Any suggestion of minimizing the British connection is unwelcome in New Zealand opinion.

GERMAN SPIES ARE SENTENCED TO DIE

Found Guilty by Soviet Court of Plotting Against Leaders' Lives.

Associated Press Despatch.
Moscow, July 3.—The supreme court yesterday sentenced to death Dr. Karl Kindermann, Max von Dittmar and Theodor Voitsch, three Germans charged with plotting against the lives of Leon Trotsky, M. Stalin and other bolshevik leaders.

Kindermann, von Dittmar and Voitsch were arrested nine months ago. They were described as German "commercial agents" and charged with commercial espionage.

The trial started in Moscow June 24. Von Dittmar created a sensation when he took the witness stand and confessed guilt to every count in the indictment against him. He gave a full account of his activities with and detailed the work of the German monarchist society known as "consul."

He said he had learned while in prison the organization was not guided by national patriotic aims, but was merely a weapon in the hands of a group of politicians bent upon promoting selfish ends.

MOTHERS SHINGLE TO AID DAUGHTERS

STARVED HEARTS

MISS 1925 EATS FOOT OF LIPSTICK

By MILDRED BARBOUR.

Suffer Barbers' Scissors To Provide Matching Locks For Debutantes.

Quite a number of Canadian, American and English debutantes are shingling to cover up their shingles, ready because they are tired of the but because it makes a difference. The pliant part about it is that in a good many the mothers are providing hair shingle coverings.

So, according to the fashionable bobbers, they have brought along their mothers (or have those mothers that have so far escaped the bob, bingle or shingle), and have literally seized the locks as they fell. Of course mothers' hair has needed a little attention, (but, oh, not so very much these days), and the next night the debutante can be seen in the ballroom with shingles carefully camouflaged under mother's hair.

The chief motive of this touching piece of maternal sacrifice is that very few debutantes will be seen in formal attire this year with shingles, and mother's hair, newly shorn, possesses more "life" than hair that has been in a beauty salon for a month or two.

The Song of Songs.
"We have met before—somewhere—haven't we?"
Julian Barton's eyes, suddenly grave, questioned Madelon.
"I think not," Madelon shook her head smilingly. "Do I remind you of someone?"
"Yes," she seated himself beside her, his attention as completely focused upon her as though, for him, the rest of the company did not exist.
She waited inquiringly for him to explain, but he only said gravely: "Curious, isn't it, what tricks one's imagination plays? I had a momentary vision of a girl I always wanted to know. I thought you were she, that is all."

"Where did you see this girl?" asked Madelon, idly curious.
"I never saw her. She doesn't exist," he answered briefly, and then, as the victrola blared forth again, "I'm sorry that I don't dance. . . . That's a confession that usually makes girls murmur, 'Excuse me, but I see mother looking for me.' He smiled suddenly, revealing very white teeth, whiter than ever in the bronze of his face. "Are you going to do that, too? I hope not."

tion of strength, of determination about him that told her, even on this short acquaintance, that, as a friend, he would be a tower of refuge.
He made no effort to conceal his ready admiration of her. He was charmingly courteous to the other girls who claimed his attention from time to time, but he always returned to Madelon. His eyes, his manner, were indicative of a suddenly awakened interest.

As for Madelon, she felt herself borne along on a strong current. She was powerless to struggle against the interest which she had felt from the moment she first met his steady gray eyes. She was bewildered to find herself flushing under his gaze. Queer new pulses fluttered in her throat. She was strangely, unaccountably happy.

"When he told her that he was going to drive her home she accepted the statement docilely. It never occurred to her to resent his mastery. It seemed as certain as fate.
With the sense of being carried along unresistingly by a powerful, invisible force, she stepped into his car, waiting outside Ann's door. Barton took his place behind the wheel, and she sat beside him, looking around the park for a bit. I want to talk to you."

She murmured assent.
The car threaded its way through the home-going traffic, up the avenue, where the arc lights were pricking through the November dusk. The strip of sky between the tall buildings was mellow with the afterglow of sunset. The tang of burning leaves drifted in through the opened windows of Barton's car.
Madelon stole a glance at the man beside her. His strong, clear profile was sharply etched in the gloom. The set of his broad shoulders, his lean brown, unclad hand on the wheel, gave her a queer thrill.

She remembered guiltily that she had not given a thought to Duane Farley, who, after afternoon.
But there was no room for regret. Faintly as yet, but none the less inevitably, the eternal melody was ringing in her heart, the song of songs for which some listen in vain. (Copyright, 1923, Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

PATRONIZING AIR REPELS FRIENDS
Person Who Seems To Confer Favor Is Irritating Type.
By JULIA HOYT.
The person who patronizes is one of the most irritating types imaginable. Patronizing under any circumstance. Some people have the misfortune of being unable to do anything for anyone without conveying this impression; other people possess the rare gift of being able to do the most generous and thoughtful things and make the receiver feel as if it is a favor conferred on him. We should all guard very carefully against ever assuming a patronizing attitude toward anyone.

No one needs to be patronized twice; in fact, I might almost say: none of us needs to be patronized even once. We cannot help at times meeting people who have a patronizing manner, but the minute we sense this quality in them we can avoid accepting their patronage by refusing any hospitality or favor at their hands.

Unfortunately I think there are many who almost cater to patronage, provided it comes from a person who has something to offer. In other words, the snob, in the literal sense of the word—the person who glorifies and exaggerates the importance of riches, luxury and material advantages—will glory in accepting the patronage of people who have these assets. Anyone who does this, however, is steadily, though perhaps unconsciously, losing dignity and self-respect. No sensitive person can maintain self-respect if he realizes that he is being patronized.

Gobbles Her Own Height of the Cherry Bloom Every Four Years.

Someone has worked out that Miss 1925 eats her own height in lipstick every four years. Each stick lasts about a month, and though she does not actually dispose of it like candy, there is undoubtedly something in the argument. Anyhow, she has to apply the cherry bloom about half a dozen times a day.

Lady Louise Mountbatten was displaying a new piece of surgical wizardry when she was lunching at the Berkeley with the Duke and Duchess of York this week. She, like a good many other young women today, has had the two top layers of skin removed from her lips, leaving them a lovely, creamy color. They sound tender, but they are not. The beauty wizards have found a preparation that takes away all tenderness and leaves the under tissue of skin permanently strong and bright.

Dorothy Dix
Can the Woman Who Flouted Convention Go Back Among Her Old Friends?
Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to an unusually fine man, but he never shows me any of the little attentions that women love. He never sends me flowers or candy or any little token of affection; and this is not because he is stingy, but simply because he is careless.
Shall I tell him how I feel about it or just ignore it?
Answer: What do you think of a man who weeps like a woman when his feelings are hurt?
TWENTY-FOUR.

I knew one woman who taught her husband to bring her flowers and remember her birthdays and anniversaries by making such terrific scenes that the poor chap forever afterward kept the proper dates written down on his desk calendar and wore a string around his finger, so to speak, to keep him from forgetting. Further, this determined lady educated her husband into giving her handsome presents, worthy of herself and the occasion, by throwing the cheap remembrances on the floor and dancing a war dance upon them.

So the thing can be done, and the careless husband can be trained into paying his wife the proper attentions; but personally I should not care for a present I had to remind a husband to give me nor would I be flattered by a gift which was nothing but a hold-up.

It is the spontaneity of the gift, the underlying thought of you, to remembrance of your little tastes and whims and interests, that makes the gift valuable. It is not the value of the thing, but the thought of the wife who just as well go and buy herself what she wants and have it charged to her husband's account and save both of them time and trouble and friction.

Of course whether a man remembers his wife's little tastes and pay a woman the little attentions that she sets so much store by is merely a matter of temperament. It is no indication of lack of love when a man fails to do so. He simply says, "I am not a romantic." He is not a romantic, and it is women's misfortune that he feels alone never satisfy them. They always want a flower or so on the side.

I think, in your particular case, Twenty-four, that you might make one effort to reform your sweetheart by explaining to him just how you, and all other women, feel about observing the little graces of life. Perhaps he only needs to have his attitude corrected to the cruelty of his wailing and whining and falls short of being the perfect lover.

If, however, he fails to take your tip, let the matter drop. Just make up your mind to take him as he is, and not to be hurt by his never remembering. After all, it is not a cardinal sin, and when you buy your own birthday present you can always get what you want, instead of having to pretend to be grateful for a gift that husband picked out himself as a surprise.

With Midsummer Brides

FAWCETT-SHEPPARD.
Forest, July 4.—The parsonage of the James' street United church was on Tuesday the scene of a quiet wedding when Rev. J. A. McKelvey united in marriage Zeta Winnifred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheppard of Waukegan, to Wilfred A. Fawcett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fawcett, also of Waukegan.

The bride wore her travelling suit, an ensemble of brown charmeuse, with hat and shoes to match. The attendants were Miss Alma Kennedy and Mr. Earl Fawcett. The happy couple left by motor for Toronto and Niagara Falls.
MCLELLAND-NICHOL.
A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Anglican church, London, on Tuesday, June 30, at 3:30 o'clock, when Elizabeth May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nichol, 63 Weston street, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert McClelland. The Rev. A. L. Beverley officiated in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The bride was becomingly groomed in brown satin crepe with hat to match, and carried Ophele roses.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding supper was served at the home of the bride. The house was nicely decorated with flowers, myrtle and ferns.
Mr. Roy Carrothers and Master Clarence Nichol enlivened the occasion with bagpipe and violin selections.
Mr. and Mrs. McClelland will be at home to their friends at 307 Hale street, London.

Grand Bend Has Everything Needed at Popular Resort for Refreshing Vacation or Holiday

The Buescher Boys' Orchestra, that supplies the music at the Bend, has taken the crowds by storm. They are an extremely high-class band and play all the season's latest hits with a snap and zest that make your feet fairly tingle.

Early visitors have felt with appreciation the efforts of a small band of workers in putting parks in condition. The beach is a picnic park, and outing parties have plenty of space available without trespassing upon each other's goodwill in any way.

FACILITIES FOR SPORT.
There are increased facilities for sport and recreation all around. If seclusion is the wish of summer cottagers they may find rest and quietness, without disturbance.
Weather is bright and sunny. The sunsets are the talk of the contingents who came late in June. Family visitors have been many and from all parts of the province. There are many new cottages and they are being taken up well.

Summer visitors, picnickers or tourists will find a cordial welcome, and the very best treatment and accommodation awaiting them.
Wonderful bathing beach, beautiful parks, magnificent drives, beautiful boating, go to make Grand Bend the resort de luxe on the fresh water lakes of Ontario.
Combined with the natural resources are the dance hall, good hotels, booths, cottages for large or small crowds, playgrounds, in fact, everything that one requires.

Special to The Advertiser.
Innerkip, July 3.—A most enjoyable event took place on July 1 at the beautiful and spacious farm home of Wm. Dibble, 14th line of East Zorra township, when the Hilderley reunion was held. There were ninety relatives present from Bright, Embro, Woodstock, and the surrounding district. Dinner was served at 12:30 in picnic style. Games and other amusements followed. The afternoon hours passed all too quickly. Music and songs were enjoyed by some who had to stay indoors. A peanut scramble for the wee ones and ice-cream being much in evidence, and greatly enjoyed. The reunion will be held in 1926 at the home of Wm. Hilderley, Woodstock.

S. A. GUARDS LEAVE FOR HOLIDAY AT BEACH

Port Frank is the destination of 18 girl guards of the Salvation Army who leave today for a two weeks' vacation. Mrs. (Adj.) Spomer will be in charge of the camp. Brig. Macdonald, chief of staff here together with Lieut. Flowers, Guard Leader Flowers and Capt. F. A. Hawkes will go with the girls and spend the week-end at the holiday resort.

GRACE COUNTRY CLUB.
Ingersoll, July 3.—The regular meeting of the Grace Country club was held at the home of Miss Agnes McKay. Mrs. Roy Sutherland led in prayer, and Miss Helen McKay gave the Bible reading. With regret the members heard that one of their number, Miss Florence Taylor, was leaving. A well-wounded address was read by Mrs. Wilfred Hutchison, while Mrs. Roy Sutherland presented Miss Taylor with a lovely set of book-ends. The rest of the afternoon was spent in quilting. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses at the conclusion of the meeting.

NERVES AND FAINTING SPELLS

Sent Woman to Bed. Great Change After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Sarnia, Ontario.—"After my girlie was born I was a wreck. My nerves were too terrible for words and I simply could not stand or walk without fainting. I suffered with fainting spells until I was no longer any good for my household duties and had to take to my bed. The doctor said I should have an operation, but I was not in a fit condition at that time. My neighbor said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' I am sure it will do you good and will save those doctor's bills." So I was advised by my husband to try it after I told him about it. I am very thankful to say that I was soon able to take a few boarders for a while as rooms were scarce at that time. My baby is 17 months old now and I have not yet had an operation, thanks to your medicine. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to a few people I know and have told them the good it has done me. I know I feel and look a different woman these last few months and I certainly would not be without a bottle of your medicine in the house. You can use this letter as you see fit, as I should be only too glad for those suffering as I have to know what it has done for me."—Mrs. ROBERT G. MACGREGOR, R. R. No. 2, Sarnia, Ontario.

A recent canvass of some users of the Vegetable Compound reports 98 out of 100 received beneficial results.

BROGUES OF LINEN NEWEST STYLE

Latest Foible in Footwear Is Designed To Match Linen Frocks.

By AILEEN LAMONT.
Copyright.

New York, July 4.—Brogues, not a brogue from Ireland, are the latest foible in footwear. The shoes are of homespun linen and are both cool and attractive looking. They are designed especially to accompany the linen frocks now so popular and part of their attractiveness lies in the fact that they can readily be dyed the exact pastel shade of the frock with which they are worn.

The negligee this summer are far more elaborate and voluminous than the frocks. They are long in the skirt, full in the sleeves, and as fluffy as tiered flounces, tucks and pleats can make them. The majority are of the wrap-around type, fastened at the waist only with a narrow girdle.

The range of millinery has suddenly broadened out. There is due to the impetus given the wide, graceful hair hats which were seen in such numbers at the Grand Prix in Paris this week. The black and white combinations are especially smart, although the pastel tints have not been neglected.

The newest summer frocks of printedorgette don't care what time it is. They are appropriate for almost any daytime or summer evening wear. Most of them are flared in back by godets or handkerchief points of the same material and follow the lighter colors, such as white, pink or yellow.

The Riffs are not popular in France just at present, but the burnoose, or cape they wear, is. It has been adopted for many of the kasha ensembles for fall. These are usually made up of broad bands of natural kasha alternating with some darker color. The capes have huge pockets to them and big collars which may be buttoned close.

WEST KENT W. I.

Chatham, July 3.—Officers of the West Kent women's institute were elected as follows: President, Mrs. W. T. Mead, of Blenheim; Vice-President, Mrs. Geo. Brown, Chatham; and Mrs. E. J. ## New Strength For Weak Girls

Can Be Had Through the Rich, Red Blood Made By Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills.

There comes a time in the life of almost every girl when weakness attacks her. The strain upon her blood supply is too great, and there comes headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, attacks of dizziness, heart palpitations, nervousness, and a tendency to a decline. All these symptoms may not be present in any particular case, but the presence of any one of them indicates the necessity for prompt treatment. And the very best treatment is through the blood-making tonic qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are the one thing needed to maintain the health of growing girls and women of mature years.

Here is a bit of strong proof: Miss Matilda Breen, King Highway, Newcastle, N. B., says: "I was in an extremely run-down and nervous condition. I was losing flesh, had a poor appetite, always pale, and suffered frequently from headaches. In fact my condition can best be described as miserable. I had tried several treatments, but they did not help me in the least. Then, reading one day about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I decided to try them. After using three boxes I felt much improved, but continued until I had taken six boxes, with the result that I am now well and strong, with good color and a hearty appetite. In view of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, I cannot recommend them too highly."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

BIG S. O. E. RALLY IS HELD AT TILLSONBURG

Dominion Day Celebration Attended by 500 Visitors—Presentations Made.

Special to The Advertiser.
Tillsonburg, July 3.—Dominion Day will long be remembered by the local Sons of England Lodge. Early in the morning visiting brethren and their families arrived from all over this district, and the following centres sent lodge representatives: Ingersoll, London, St. Thomas, Woodstock and Tillsonburg. The visitors to the town limits met at the northern town limits by several autos of local members. A procession was formed of over 50 raily decorated cars and trucks, which paraded the business section of the town, concluding at the High School campus and Lake Joseph, where a fine program of sports, presentations and family reunions had been arranged. Over 500 outside visitors were in attendance.

Mayor Holler gave an address of welcome. Secretary-Treasurer Harry Jones of the local lodge, presented Mayor Holler with a beautiful gold pen. A hand-made electric lamp, constructed and donated by Brother Brett of Stratford, was presented to the oldest member on the grounds, namely, Bro. Grantham, of St. Thomas. An umbrella was presented to Bro. Hetherington, of Stratford, by the local S. O. E.

The merchants of the town donated the prizes for the sports, resulting as follows:

80 yard dash, girls under 12—Edith Thom. Woodstock; boys—Ben Jones, Tillsonburg.
50 yard dash for girls over 12—Mabel Tucker, Woodstock; boys—W. Metcalf, Woodstock.
Fat ladies' race—Mrs. Jeffries, Woodstock.
Baby show—Gerald Smith, Tillsonburg.

Three-legged race for girls—Edith Thom and Phyllis Hayes, Woodstock. Boys' mixed shoe race—W. Tarrant, Ingersoll.
Open race for men—Mr. Harcourt, Woodstock.
Balloon race for girls—Gladys Kendall, Woodstock.
Three-legged race for boys—Jim

FLORENCE W. I.
Florence, July 3.—The women's institute, Florence branch, met this week in the town hall, with the president, Mrs. Osborne in the chair. Miss M. Drew, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes and gave the financial statement for the past month. All reports were very satisfactory.

Much business was on the table for discussion, and many important matters were decided upon. One or two items, however, were laid over for the next meeting.

For lack of time the district annual report was left over till another meeting.

It was grandmothers' day, and the program was given by them, interspersed with community singing, with Mrs. J. W. Button as pianist.

A "Grandmother's First Bead" was given by Mrs. Wm. Law, and another reading, "Arasthous Johnson's Sunday Pants," was contributed by Mrs. E. Bokard.

Mrs. George Sinclair sang very cleverly a Gaelic solo. Community singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King, closed the program, which was indeed a very interesting one.

Mrs. A. D. Adams of Courtwright, formerly of Florence, was the means of organizing the first W. I. there, and was present at the meeting and gave a very fine address.

The grandmothers, fourteen in number, served a very appetizing lunch, and a good half hour was enjoyed. A vote of appreciation was tendered these ladies for their entertainment and luncheon.

Fifty-seven mothers answered the roll call with "Memories of Grandmother." A snapshot of some of the members was taken.

Mrs. Law, the eldest grandmother present, was presented with a bouquet of roses. The collection for the day amounted to $5.95.

THREE RAIL ISSUES GAIN IN NEW YORK

Pre-Holiday Profit-Taking and Big Failure Hits Some Stock.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, July 3.—A wave of pre-holiday profit-taking and forced liquidation in connection with the failure of a large stock exchange house, caused a large stock market, turning the tide of prices downward. Despite the market's unsettlement, constructive operations continued in a number of popular specialties, lifting them to a new high for the year.

The most severe losses of the day were recorded in the stocks which were subjected to selling "under the rule," following announcement of the failure on the stock exchange of a large member, who had been a member since 1882. The stock of the member, who had been a member since 1882, was sold at 60 cents, but subsequently rallied to 64 1/2 cents in the market.

Other shares, which were depressed by the failure, included Chicago Telephone, United States Steel, Baldwin, Pullman, and American Railway. The stock of the member, who had been a member since 1882, was sold at 60 cents, but subsequently rallied to 64 1/2 cents in the market.

Intermittent rallies took place throughout the day, but in view of the week-end realization, recoveries were not well maintained. The market was characterized by a temporary stabilizing effect, but the buying movement in these issues was not sufficient to sustain the rally.

New York Central was pushed up to 117 1/2, and Southern Railway common to 90. Wash common rose to a new high at 33, closing at 32 1/2. The market was characterized by a temporary stabilizing effect, but the buying movement in these issues was not sufficient to sustain the rally.

The rate for francs, which earlier this week established a low around 44 1/2, today mounted above 47. Italian lire and Belgian francs also recovered. The return rate for francs, after rising to 4 1/2, closed at 4 1/2. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

HOLIDAY HITS TRADE IN N. Y. BOND MARKET

Movement of Prices Narrowed —Price Changes Mainly Fractional.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, July 3.—Pre-holiday dullness settled over the bond market, with only a few fractional changes. The movement of prices was narrow, with only a few fractional changes. The market was characterized by a temporary stabilizing effect, but the buying movement in these issues was not sufficient to sustain the rally.

The rate for francs, which earlier this week established a low around 44 1/2, today mounted above 47. Italian lire and Belgian francs also recovered. The return rate for francs, after rising to 4 1/2, closed at 4 1/2. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

ITALIAN WHEAT ESTIMATE IS 224,137,000 BUSHELS

Associated Press Despatch.
Ottawa, July 3.—According to a telegram received from Rome, the provisional estimate of the Italian wheat crop for 1925 is 224,137,000 bushels, as compared with 170,145,000 bushels in 1924. The estimate is based on the average yield of 127,760 bushels per acre, against 125,251 bushels per acre in 1924. Canadian Press Despatch.
Welland, July 3.—After visiting the battlefields of the Eastern section of the peninsula yesterday afternoon, the delegates to the Ontario Historical Society settled down today for the final session in the library building here.

At Ridgeway, Col. Cruikshank invited the Welland County representatives to aid in securing a plot of land for a suitable memorial for those who fell in repelling the Fenian invaders in 1866.

Although the Ontario government had failed to make the annual grant it was reported to the association that the financial problem for the year was about solved.

A pleasant event took place at the Log Cabin Inn, Chippawa park, last night, where the delegates had luncheon and where President Brienbaup, of Kitchener, unveiled a tablet recording the fact that this cabin had been first erected in 1851 at Morgan's Point on Lake Erie.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.
Toronto, July 3.—Ontario's shipment of 25,000 tons of Alberta coal should commence to move east today or tomorrow.

Hon. Charles McCrea, minister of mines, stated today that he received word two or three days ago from Alberta that the coal was ready for shipment, but the C. N. R. officials there had not received orders to move it.

Mr. McCrea took the matter up at once with the C. N. R. and found that instructions had been sent. Yesterday the C. N. R. officials in Toronto wired instructions again. Today the Ontario government received information that the railway officials in Alberta had received instructions to move the coal and some of it ought to be on its way now.

The information that the coal is ready for shipment is taken to mean that the coal is mined and ready. In such a case the strike of miners in Alberta will not affect the shipment.

At Loew's

Today—A new and novel picture of mystery, adventure and romance, linked with chains of laughter, 'The Manicure Girl'. Another big Our Gang comedy, Loew's news of current events, and three big, all-star acts of Loew's supreme vaudeville.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday—Bebe Daniels, as a cute little cut-up, 'The Manicure Girl'. Another big Our Gang comedy, Loew's news of current events, and three big, all-star acts of Loew's supreme vaudeville.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Next Week—Ricardo Cortez, Jetta Goudal and Noah Beery in a story more romantic than 'The Sheik' and more exciting than 'Blood and Sand'. See 'The Spaniard'. It's filled to overflowing with thrills. Loew's premier comedy, 'Bad Boy', featuring William Stone; topics of the day; Aesop's Fables, and three all-star acts of vaudeville.

Bebe Daniels and Edmund Burns, who appear at Loew's on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in 'The Manicure Girl'. There is also another big Our Gang comedy appearing on this bill.

MANY GRADS PASS MEDICAL COUNCIL

Young Medicos Successful in June Examinations Qualified As L.M.C.C.

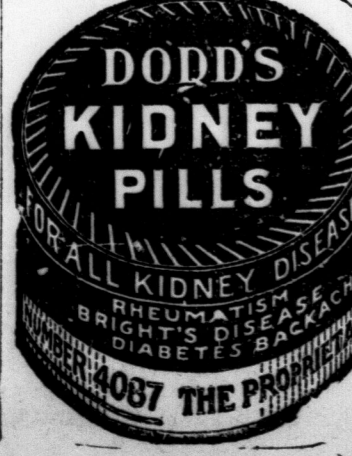

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, July 3.—Many young medicos, recently graduated from Canadian universities have passed the June examinations recently held coincidentally at Montreal, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver by the Medical Council of Canada. Results are announced here this evening by the registrar, Dr. R. W. Powell, of Ottawa. The young graduates are now registered in the Canadian medical register with the qualification of L.M.C.C. They include:

D. Auld, Watford; J. Balfour, London; F. Bateson, London; H. Cave, Dorchester; Jean Duncan, Chatham; J. Ferguson, St. Thomas; G. Gibson, Mount Brydges; H. Gilbert, London; J. Jackson, Auburn; R. Johnston, Perivale.

J. Jose, Kirkton; J. Lindsay, Glasgow; D. L. McLean, Harrison; H. MacMahon, London; W. Maguire, Gorrie; J. Middlebro, Owen Sound; W. Muir, Niagara Falls; G. McGregor, Inglewood; D. McKay, Stuytor; A. Read, London; R. Riley, Welland; C. Taylor, Bolton; L. Sutherland, Holland Centre; B. Webster, Lansdowne; R. Weide, Port Stanley.

Man, 93. Tackles Hike of 18 Miles

Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, July 3.—Jacob Miller, aged 93, an inmate of the house of refuge, escaped from that institution early today, necessitating a search by county police. The old man was located at the Dover-Chatham town-line, hiking to Wallaceburg, which is eighteen miles distant. He was traced in a county institution some weeks after he had given the police some trouble.

KLAN SEEKS LICENSE TO BROADCAST VIEWS

Difficulty of Obtaining Wave Length Caused Dropping Last Year.

By ROBERT MACK.
Copyright, 1925, by the Consolidated Washington, July 3.—The Ku Klux Klan is among the organizations that will seek broadcasting licenses from the Department of Commerce when and if additional wave bands are provided this fall. It was understood here today.

It was reported about a year ago that extensive plans for a system of stations throughout the country were under consideration by the Klan, but the difficulty of obtaining wave lengths caused temporary abandonment of the project. More recently the matter has again come before the Klan, with several of the higher officials strongly supporting it. Among states suggested as possible homes for the Klan stations are New Jersey, Indiana, Texas and several other of the southern commonwealths.

SENATOR UNDERWOOD PLANNING TO RETIRE

Famous Alabama Statesman To Quit Politics At End of Term.

By ROBERT T. SMALL.
Copyright, 1925.
Washington, July 3.—No more will the ratters ring or the loud speakers squawk: "Alabama twenty-four votes for Underwood."

For Oscar W. Underwood, in laying aside his toga at the end of his present term in the United States Senate, is taking himself completely out of politics. He has been voted for at the Democratic National convention for the past twelve or sixteen years with a faithfulness on the part of his followers which has aroused the interest and admiration of the nation. Last year from Madison Square Garden the radio received sets carried the word at the beginning of every roll call that Alabama still stood solid for Underwood. It was a case of Alabama with Underwood—here we rest.

BRAND NEW CAR for MOTORDOM

Chrysler Four Is a Marvel

Far Ahead in Power, Speed, Fuel, Mileage, Beauty and Roadability.

Walter P. Chrysler's manufacturing ability is incontestably proved by the most enthusiastic public endorsement ever given an individual in the motor car industry.

For four years you have seen Chrysler-created products steadily forging forward to the very forefront of the four and six cylinder fields.

You have seen Chrysler engineering, Chrysler manufacturing quality and Chrysler value build up to a production of more than 13,000 cars per month.

Every step of that irresistible advance was part of a process in preparation for the production of the new Chrysler Four.

Throughout these four years, Chrysler standards and Chrysler quality have won the most impressive success in motor car history.

Mr. Chrysler's description of the new Chrysler Four is here given at length.

A good engineer never accepts a fact until he has proved it to be a fact to his own satisfaction," Mr. Chrysler said, "and the engineers who designed the Chrysler Four were themselves amazed at the ease and roadability it displayed in their tests."

"It can and does hold its own on the road with the highest priced; and it can and does leave the ordinary and the average far to the rear."

"It will open any man's eyes at the way it fairly sprints up and over the long, heavy hills."

"And with Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes, which are optional at a small extra cost, it offers a certainty and a safety that have never before been present in cars of its price."

"In the fewest words, it puts a wholly new interpretation on four-cylinder ability and performance, on riding ease and complete and perfect roadability."

"Like the Chrysler Six, it puts a new interpretation on quality by way of the extensive use of fine and costly alloy steels, and with rigid adherence to the highest of manufacturing standards."

"When I say that for the second time—now in the Chrysler Four as notably as in the Chrysler Six—Chrysler engineering has gone far ahead of prevailing practice, this is what I mean, in practical results."

"The new Chrysler Four engine has an official S. A. E. rating of 21.03 horsepower."

"Yet it actually delivers 38.5 horsepower—83 per cent more power—certainty and performance than its official rating."

"Mr. Chrysler, how do you get such extraordinary performance in a four-cylinder car?"

"How is it done? By uniform distribution of the fuel to the cylinders, by complete combustion, by perfect valve action, by providing for the most efficient operating temperature."

"You can drive this car all day long under heavy load, or at top speed, and the engine will not over-heat. The ample capacity of the cooling system, the generous water-jacketing of the cylinder walls and valve ports, are a sure safeguard."

"And for engine lubrication we use the positive, full-force feed which sends a continuous flow of oil under pressure to all main bearings, and through drilled passages in the crankshaft, to the connecting rod bearings."

"We believe it is well worth the cost to have a cushion of oil at these points, rather than the metal to metal contact and the rapid wear, which are the common results of splash oiling."

Walter P. Chrysler's Latest Achievement

Now Ready!

Walter P. Chrysler's full conception of what a four-cylinder car should be has now become a reality.

Mr. Chrysler announces the new Chrysler Four, companion car to the Chrysler Six. It is here, ready for your inspection.

Whether you are a car owner or not, by all means see this new Chrysler creation. Ride in it. Get to know the latest Chrysler achievement which the master car builder identifies with his own name.

It will amaze you, for it is our firm conviction that the new Chrysler Four represents a better and finer combination of power, speed, fuel mileage and charm of appearance than any other four in the world today.

For four years Chrysler-created products have steadily advanced to the very fore-front of the four and six-cylinder fields.

Chrysler engineering, Chrysler manufacturing quality and Chrysler value eclipsed all previous production records for cars that might be considered comparable.

Every step of that irresistible advance was part of the process in preparation for the production of the new Chrysler Four answering the insistent public demand for another Chrysler.

The basis for the beauty of the new Chrysler Four is the dynamic symmetry which Chrysler engineers were first to translate into beautiful motor car design in the Chrysler Six.

The wonderful riding qualities of the new Chrysler Four cannot be described. You must experience them to know what an advance has been made in the four-cylinder field. It is enough to say that a ride will amaze and delight you.

And when you ride you'll notice the absolute quietness of the four-cylinder engine, you'll find no rumble or tremors in the body of the car.

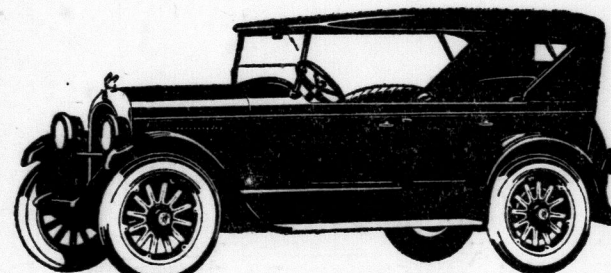

Here is a car you can truly drive all day without fatigue. It is hardly ever necessary to shift gears, except for starting from a dead stop. When shifting is necessary it is made clean and noiselessly by the matched transmission gears and easy clutch action.

There has never been the like of the new Chrysler Four at anywhere near its price. Be prepared for a great revelation.

Far ahead in power, speed, fuel mileage, beauty; in safety, ease and complete and perfect roadability.

First car of its price with the option of hydraulic four-wheel brakes at slight extra cost.

Delivers 38.5 horsepower—83 per cent more power—certainty and performance than its official rating.

Positive full force-feed lubrication, giving far more efficient lubrication with no increase in oil consumption.

Unusually sturdy, rugged frame.

Engine completely isolated from chassis with floating platform spring in front. Rubber bushings and pads in rear—no metal to metal contact.

Steering mechanism designed especially for balloon tires.

Closed bodies Fisher-built.

Proud of New Four As the Six

Chrysler Organization Presents
New Car To Public With Utmost Confidence.

"Nowhere in the Chrysler Four engine is lubrication left to the uncertainty of the older splash method. For example, from the connecting rods, oil is sprayed directly to the piston skirts and cylinder walls—a point which ordinarily is poorly lubricated by oil mist or splash from the crankcase. A special oilproof ring on each piston serves to keep oil out of the combustion chamber. The engine gears are constantly bathed in a positive and direct flow of oil."

"All in all, the engine is far more efficiently lubricated and there is no increase in oil consumption."

"Another important result which has its foundation in the special selection of materials and in fine workmanship, is the very unusual quietness of Chrysler Four engine operation. I believe there has never been a four which delivers its power so smoothly and sweetly."

"How have you disposed of the vibration which many engineers call the bugbear of the four-cylinder engine?"

"We balance all rotating parts, and all reciprocating parts. The crankshaft is heavy and rigid. The pistons and connecting rods are light."

"The parts which revolve—crankshaft, clutch hub and flywheel—are all dynamically balanced to limits of a small fraction of an ounce. Then, the connecting rod and piston assemblies are matched to the hundredth part of an ounce."

"But Chrysler engineers do not stop here. They go full length to isolate even the slightest trace of vibration."

"They mount the front end of the engine on a floating platform spring. The usual rigid bolting of the engine to the chassis frame at the front end is entirely lacking."

"Then the fastenings of the rear engine arms to the chassis have rubber bushings and pads interposed so that there is no metal-to-metal contact, literally cushioning the engine on rubber at that point."

"These two unusual practices mean complete insulation against vibration of the engine in the chassis frame."

"There is no chance for rumble or tremor to reach the body of the car or its occupants; and we are confident that no four-cylinder engine has ever before been so smooth in its operation."

A STRONG FRAME THAT CANNOT WAVE

"We have built, in the Chrysler Four chassis frame, a body foundation that is unusually sturdy. In addition to the customary design of strong, stiff cross members, there is a stout torque tube at the front, and at the rear a wide, strong integral brace of heavy gauge metal. This frame does not weave and distort—and those are the two actions which loosen body bolts and set up squeaks and rattles. The radiator, too, is bolted rigidly to the side members of the chassis frame."

"You can drive the new Chrysler Four all day with hardly a sense of fatigue. It is hardly ever necessary to shift gears, except for starting from a dead stop. When shifting is necessary, it is made clean and noiselessly by the matched transmission gears and easy clutch action."

"Steering on any kind of road and at any speed is but the merest effort. In the Chrysler Four, the steering king pins—which usually have only plain thrust-bearings—are provided with ball thrust-bearings, and the entire steering mechanism is designed especially for balloon tires."

"Any attempt of mine to describe the wonderful riding qualities of this car could not possibly do them justice. It is enough to say that a ride in it will amaze and delight you."

"The dynamic symmetry which Chrysler engineers were first to translate into beautiful motor car design in the Chrysler Six is the basis, of course, for the beauty of the Chrysler Four."

"Height, length, breadth, curves, beading, fender design, even window size, are all calculated and plotted with scientific precision, so that the final result may be beautiful and in good taste. The closed car bodies are built by Fisher."

"The Chrysler organization is just as proud of the Chrysler Four as of the Chrysler Six. It presents this new car as the most modern and soundest expression of the four-cylinder principle in the world, and with the conviction that the Chrysler will have no equal for years to come."

Haig, Turned Down Because of Eyes, Nearly Missed the Army Future Field Marshal's Military Fate Hung on Slim Thread

Close-Up By a Canadian War Correspondent of The Man Who Commanded British Army in The War and Who Is Now Visiting The Dominion — A Man Who Looks Like The Popular Conception of a Military Hero, He Is "Every Inch a Soldier"

By FRED JAMES

WHAT sort of man is Haig, who is at present in Canada? About all the average person knows of him is that he was commander-in-chief of the British armies in the world war, from the time in 1915 when the late Lord French relinquished the command until the signing of the peace treaty in 1919.

It would be interesting, no doubt, to most people to get what the motion picture folk describe as a "close-up" of this remarkable man, who for nearly four years had virtually supreme command of the millions of men who comprised the British armies of which the Canadian forces were a part. No man in the history of the world has been clothed with more direct authority than he. No living man has controlled such a colossal organization of such extensive ramifications of men and materials as Haig, for the British armies formed the largest unit of the allied forces. There are comparatively few of us living to-day whose destiny either directly or indirectly has not to some extent been vested in Haig. And yet, despite all the power that has been his, he is the personification of personal modesty. No man shuns the limelight or is more averse to publicity than he.

As to the kind of man he really is, what is better evidence than his present mission to Canada? It is in the interests of the rank and file of the men he served within the war. Since peace was declared he has devoted his influence and energy largely in behalf of his former comrades. Among them he prefers to be known merely as "Comrade" Haig. During the war comparatively few of the troops saw him, but by all he was affectionately referred to as "Doug," for then he was Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig. His elevation to the peerage was a post-war honor.

The Ideal Type of Hero

THIS desire to be of service to the ex-soldier of the British Empire is an abiding passion with the field marshal. He is a doer, not a talker. He is a Scotsman from Fife, and he has in him a marked strain of the evangelical piety of his race, so one writer has averred. He is sombre rather than dashing, but he has humor, nevertheless. In appearance he rather suggests the popular conception of the military hero, though he is not as tall as his photographs would indicate. His complexion is swarthy, due to his outdoor life and the African and Indian suns. His bluish-grey eyes are fairly large and are one of the chief attractions of a fine, handsome face. The hair is grizzled, like the mustache. But the most compelling feature of the face is the strong, square chin. The figure is clean cut, the build comparatively slight, though the chest is broad and deep. He walks with a rather rangy, swinging stride, so common to men who ride a good deal. By his walk one sees Haig's cavalry training revealed. During his student days at Oxford he was a famous fox hunter and he does not like to go without his daily gallop whenever possible. To him the motor car is a business vehicle. In Haig one sees a man who is the literal personification of what is meant by the phrase "Every inch a soldier."

It has been the writer's privilege to meet Earl Haig personally on one occasion. This was on the Hohenzollern bridge at Cologne, Germany. It was a murky day in December, 1918. He had sent word that he would like to meet the correspondents there. Punctually, at the time set for the appointment, he arrived. In a low, well-modulated voice, and in the most sincere and courteous terms, he thanked us for the work we had done as chroniclers of the previous operations, and to each of us he gave a small Union Jack as a souvenir. I have that flag among my few treasured relics of the war. Those who were at that meeting were impressed with the modesty of the commander-in-chief. He had, as we well knew, an appreciation of the value and importance of correspondents in the war. The old-time notion that they were a nuisance and more harmful than helpful Haig did not entertain. Any act of discourtesy shown to a war correspondent of the British forces was quickly investigated by G.H.Q., under his special instructions.

I saw him several times along the front before the armistice and sometimes leaving or entering his chateau on the outskirts of Montreuil, France, near Boulogne, where general headquarters of the British armies were for the greater part of the war period.

Earl Haig comes of a race of fighting men. Any Scotsman will avow that there is no

Field-Marshal Earl Haig as Commander-in-Chief in war time finer race of fighters than the Haigs of Bemeyside. There were Haigs who covered themselves with glory at Bannockburn and there were Haigs with Bonnie Prince Charlie. There have been few notable battles these several centuries but that the Haigs were on hand. The present Earl Haig, who, by the way, is the first Earl and Baron of Bemeyside, was born on June 19, 1861, at Cameronbridge, Fife. He is the youngest son of John Haig, J.P., and Rachel Veitch, of Stewartfield, Midlothian.

The first serious period of his education was at Clifton College. There he was described as "a sturdy, muscular, fresh-faced Scots laddie, the strongest and most athletic boy in the school, a terror to the bullies and the champion of the smaller boys. One of the most amiable of good-natured fellows, as straight as a gun and the very soul of frankness and candor." He was immensely popular and many of the friendships he then formed still survive as strong as ever.

From Clifton young Haig went to Brasenose College, Oxford. When he had passed his twenty-fourth birthday he began his career as a soldier. Had it not been for the kindly influence of the late Duke of Cambridge, Haig would have been lost to the British army, and the destiny of the empire might have been changed.

On a silk-hat visit to Wembley with one of his daughters

He was physically as "fit as a fiddle" when he presented himself at the staff college, but the medical examiners there discovered he was color blind and forthwith turned him down. His chances of getting into the army looked slim until the Duke of Cambridge, who was a field marshal, gave him a special order admitting him to the college. This was in 1885. He was given a commission in the 7th Hussars. His first active service was in the Sudan campaign in 1898. There he took a conspicuous part in the fighting at Atbara and Khartoum, and so distinguished himself that he was singled out for specially high praise in despatches, and returned home a brevet major.

The following year he was in the South African War as chief staff officer to General French. When Haig came back from South Africa at the end of that war he had established his reputation as one of the ablest and most brilliant soldiers in the British army. Despatch after despatch had made his name universally known.

In 1901 he was given command of the famous 17th Lancers and two years later was appointed inspector-general of Indian cavalry. At the age of 43 he was a major-general, and at 45 was director of military training.

Long before this Haig had won the friendship of the late King Edward, who had the greatest admiration for this clever and genial Scotsman. It is said that Queen Alexandra had a hand in the romance that blossomed into his marriage in 1905 to Hon. Dorothy Vivian, one of the most charming and pretty of the maids of honor of the Queen, and one of the most devoted to his charming wife as she is to her soldier husband. He has

When the great war broke in 1914 Haig went with the "old contemptibles" to France in command of the First British Army. Space forbids giving a detailed recital as to his ability and gallantry in those eventful early days of the war and since. The British army was always holding on; every extraction from the German envelopment was like a forlorn hope.

The first battle of Ypres was a touch-and-go business as anything experienced in the retreat from Mons. The 7th Division, 12,000 strong when it left England, lost 336 officers out of 400 and 9,664 men. On the darkest day, when all seemed lost, down the Menin road galloped Haig and his smart escort of the 17th Lancers, shells falling thick about them, to encourage the faltering troops—for no other reason, the general's place being behind the line. On another day—it was at Gheluvelt—he stood on a road in consultation with Sir John French, who had given an order for the army to fall back, when a courier rode up to say that the Germans were retreating. Sir Charles Fitzclarence, an Irish soldier, had thrown a Norfolk battalion into a breach in the enemy's line and turned the tide of battle. So critical was all the Ypres fighting, so suddenly did shafts of success pierce the pall of defeat.

Haig was Sir John French's right arm, and when the veteran retired the government, in naming the Scotsman for supreme command, reflected the hope of the army. Upon the battle of the Somme, which he fought himself with tried and with green troops, Haig's fame will mainly rest. It was the hardest and the longest battle ever recorded. The enemy had to be pried out of one Gibraltair after another, driven from one Plevna under another, but ever the British army, under the tireless and patient Haig, moved relentlessly forward. British losses were 500,000, the German losses much greater. If the commanding general ever showed a trace of the tremendous strain nobody has made mention of the fact. The whole year of 1917, up to November, when Haig was in front of Cambrai, he pressed his advantage. Then came a loss of ground in a surprise attack. In August of 1918 began the chief allied offensive which was to end the war.

Haig's character is the chief factor in all that he undertakes. He is a staunch Presbyterian. He does not swear or gamble, for he is a godly man. The most striking quality of his mind is a fundamental truthfulness. Not the least of his assets is the extraordinary affection he inspires in all around him. He is a great soldier and a great gentleman. He is worthy of the highest esteem and honor Canada can pay to him and to his gracious wife.

A GOLD bracelet inlaid with diamonds, lying neglected on the sidewalk of the Champs-Elysees, was the happy sight which greeted young Mlle. Sylvaine Bouillotte, as she promenaded one morning on the daily search for work which had been occupying her for more than two months. She picked up the bracelet and without hesitation went to the Association of Stenographers, of which she was a member, and asked what should be done when an almost penniless young girl, out of a job, found on the Champs-Elysees a gold bracelet, sparkling with diamonds.

She was directed to the police, and there surrendered the bracelet. It was traced to an American woman, who, on hearing that it had been found, sent a servant with a reward of $10 to the young stenographer. "I did not think I would recover the bracelet," said the rich American, "but it doesn't matter anyway. It was insured."

Making the World Safe for Robins

cats mysteriously missing around our place. So I've got to . . .

"I'll call tonight for him," said we.

The boys were paid off. Spike was loosed in his new home not ten minutes after the first and boldest of the robings had floundered tremendously out of the pine tree into the garden.

And within one minute of being given the freedom of the garden, Spike had chased an astonished cat from under a heavy hollyhock towards which the speckly robbing was slowly and uncertainly heading.

With a stick, we waited to see what Spike's attitude towards little birds was to be. With his absurd asthmatic growl, he was telling the cat to come back and do battle. But the cat, defier of boys with stones and hoses, was sitting with an injured air on his proper back step. Spike came back with the manner of one who was going to like his new surroundings. We showed him the little robin, with its large beak and still beady eyes. It didn't flee. Spike stuck his stubby snout within one inch of the wobbling little creature and breathed out so suddenly and forcefully that the robin lost its balance and sat down. Spike turned from it with indifference and cast a cock-headed glance upward at us.

"Mustn't touch that!" we threatened, pointing to the baby bird. "But MEEOW—ssssicem!"

And Spike at once raced away for a furious investigation of the garden's shadowy places, with eager whimpers.

Each birding, as it descended from the tree, with a sudden fluttering and a rather sickening bump, was welcomed by Spike. He would rush up to it, open his mouth as if to gulp it down with one scrunch, and then scamper around in an ecstasy of renunciation. Then he would make a furious search of the garden for cats. There is no doubt he understood what the problem was.

Four robins and five chipping sparrows made their debut under Spike's guardianship. Through the wire fences of neighbor yards, one of the chipping sparrows ventured into broader fields. Spike sat with his face pressed against the wire, watching it as it hopped leisurely and flutteringly away from him. Suddenly he set up a fearful clamor. A cat, with the drowsy manner of the deceitful, was sitting on the distant fence. Its eyes were closed, its head was turned away, it blinked sleepily now and again, and twitched its ears in the most absent and guileless manner. But Spike knew. Spike knew that for that cat, there was nothing in the world but the tiny birdling hopping nearer and nearer.

Spike raced from one end of the fence to the long as no cats are visible as far as one can see from Spike's yard. When a cat appears loose and free, Spike is to be unleashed.

Spike, his chops slavered and his whole wiry body trembling violently, discovered the third dimension.

What jumping he had done was merely in the course of progressing straight ahead or sideways. Now he studied the three-foot wire fence with bloodshot eye. The tragedy was imminent. No hero ever heard the engine's approaching whistle with such dread. He made two abortive leaps that threw him back in a tumble. Then he raced back, wheeled and made the three-foot jump so smoothly, so powerfully, that two rubbery leaps carried him to the corner where the cat sat, with eyes wide open.

It was nine o'clock that night when we got Spike back. Wet, trembling, tired to death, his tongue out an extraordinary length, he was retrieved by a cat owning gentleman two blocks away, who handed him over with the remark:

"I've a good mind to hand him over to the police. Will you tie him up if I give him back to you?"

"Will you tie up your cat if I do?" we demanded with equal heat.

The discovery of the third dimension, in that mad leap over the wire fence, had been the greatest moment in Spike's life. He chased that astounded cat through three yards until he treed it. Rather than waste time on a treed cat, he went wild on the hunt in his new freedom. Fences were nothing to him, such fences as we have in all our neighborhood. Over fences, through side drives, over six city blocks, Spike hunted his quarry. Whether he killed any has not come out.

But every cat owner knows our point of view with regard to cats and nestling birds now. The agreement stands that Spike is to be tied up so long as no cats are visible as far as one can see from Spike's yard. When a cat appears loose and free, Spike is to be unleashed.

And this rule is to hold good until Spike goes north to Muskoka in July.

Earl Haig's Distinguished Fellow-Fife-men—Churchill Knows What's Wrong With the World

EARL HAIG'S visit to the dominion brings Fife into the spotlight. Britain's war leader is a Fife man and a purely casual investigation shows that he is one of a great number of illustrious individuals hailing from that portion of Scotland.

Andrew Carnegie, steel magnate and philanthropist, was born in Fife. Sir Roslyn Wemyss, a sea lord during the war, names that district as his homeland. Fife has given the world two great painters, Sir David Wilkie and Sir Noel Paton; two notable churchmen, Ralph Erskine and Dr. Chalmers; a famous writer, Andrew Lang; Tennant, the poet; Goodall, the outstanding anatomist, and a host of others.

Politically, Earl Haig will always be remembered as the constituency which for thirty-two years sent H. H. Asquith, now Earl of Oxford and Asquith, to parliament as its representative. West Fife was for years the seat of the late Augustine Birrell, whose birrelling still continues to echo throughout the world of literature.

In addition, the kingdom of Fife was closely connected with the reformation, and it was at Craill that John Knox preached his famous "idolatrous" sermon.

Finally, Fife has one more claim to fame. It is the original home of the royal and ancient game of golf.

Earl Haig, himself, incidentally, is no mean exponent of the game, and last year occupied the distinguished position of captain of the also royal and also ancient club of St. Andrews.

"COFFEE," argues Dean Henry H. Rusby, of the Columbia College of Pharmacy, "is a great stimulant, a true stimulant, and not a harmful one. Alcohol is depressing. Men under its influence can do more work, but they do it poorly. Coffee enables a man to work beyond his normal strength."

There may be something deep and subtle about the dean's remarks. It must be remembered that only a few weeks ago the public prints carried numbers of stories declaring that coffee was the great national drink of the people of the United States, that these neighbors of ours averaged about ten cups a day in some sections and that the daily consumption was increasing.

Is the dean merely pointing out in a sly and roundabout way that his fellow-countrymen are a smart aggregation?

How Can He Beard the Railway Board Now?

YES. Yes. This is him, though you wouldn't know it.

It is none other than the great politician of the west coast, an Englishman by birth and a farmer by instinct, a solid business man and a solid agriculturist, big-hearted and good-natured, the trade mark of British Columbia, a vigorous two-fisted speaker with a great gift of repartee, the man who gained fame by arriving to take up the duties of premier of his province wearing home-knit red mitts, the man who has declared on several occasions that one of the troubles with this country is that it has too many white collar boys, a man who was dubbed a hayseed by his opponents when he first stepped into politics but who turned the tables on his tormentors with a vengeance and was soon dubbed Hon. John Oliver.

All of these he is but he is no longer the bearded prophet of the west.

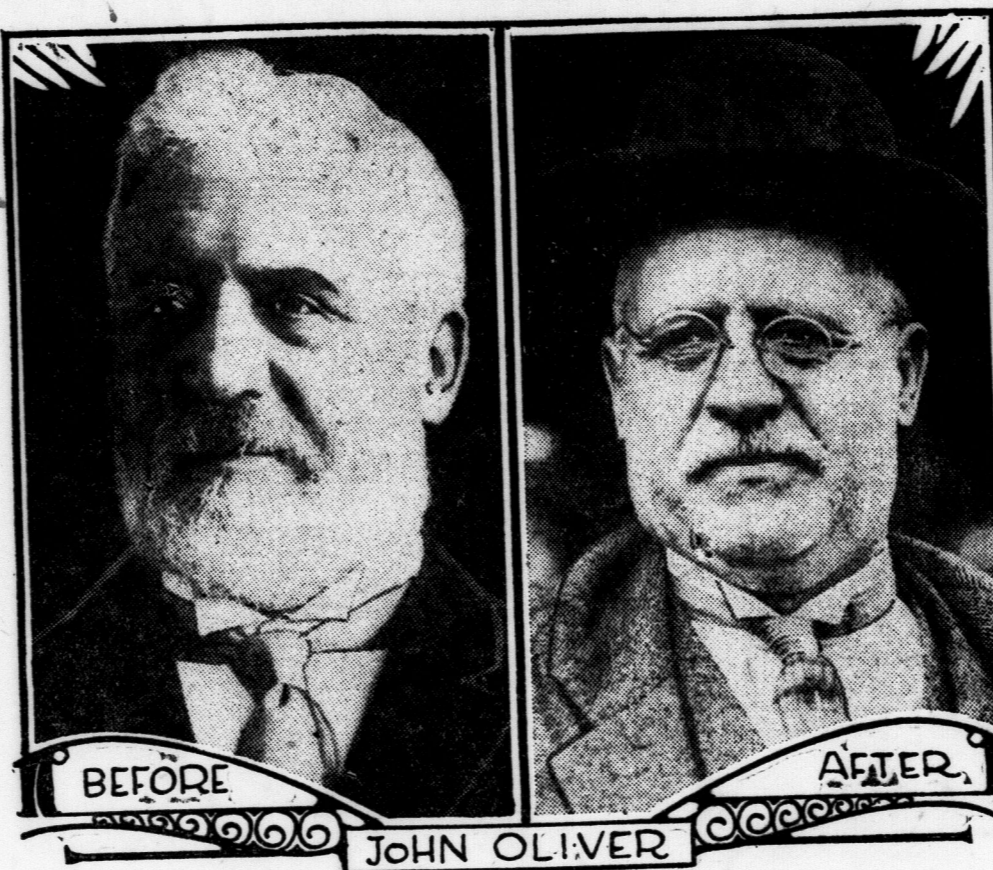

For years and years he has mounted the public platform with a beard that carried conviction. But all that is no more.

But beardless as he is, Hon. John Oliver is now on his way east to take a hand in the freight rates fight at Ottawa.

Recently, acting on a sudden impulse as he passed a barber shop, he dodged in and in a few minutes his chin was exposed to the whole world for the first time in thirty years.

Members of the cabinet, strong on dignity, have frowned on the change, but what can be done?

As one minister put it: "You cannot raise beards by order-in-council."

House of Commons Receives Some Pithy Advice From Canada's New Privy Councillor

HON. GEORGE P. GRAHAM, well known as the jokemith of the cabinet, as well as his handy man, enlivened the House of Commons not long ago with a story which he held was applicable to those who ascribe ulterior motives to people with whom they do not agree. A horse trader had a deal on. He was asked to oversee another transaction without being apparently interested. So he stood in the stall of the barn, and the chap who came in, the one who wanted to trade his horse, commenced to feel around the spavin joints of the horse in the barn, and he felt down to where there might possibly be a ringbone on the horse. Not satisfied with investigating the hind legs he went to the front legs and looked for splints. The adviser called to the man that owned the horse and said "Do not trade horses with that fellow," and added, "Any man that looks at another fellow's horse for ringbones, spavins and splints—sure his horse has got some of them."

ACTORS and actresses can always be relied upon for a good story, and Betty Compton is no exception to the rule. Here is one she has been relating for some time with great success.

A smart young lady entered a tramcar. There was no seat vacant at all, and it was a case of standing—until an elderly gentleman got to his feet.

"Oh, don't get up," the girl cried. "I can stand quite well, thanks."

But the old gentleman was not to be put off. "I—" he began.

The young lady, however, was going to have her own way, and interrupting him, she gently pressed him back into the seat.

"I—" again began the man, getting up, but once more she interrupted him.

"Look here," he burst out at last, "let me get up. I want to get out."

But the boy was not responsive. Try as Mr. Porter would, he could not get him to talk, and finally came to the conclusion that the boy, who was a faultless caddy, could not speak English.

One bright afternoon, Mr. Porter made a long drive, which went astray. He just happened to turn around. Silence had been broken by the caddy at last.

Alas, the Eskimo is Being Civilized He Dances and Likes Alarm Clocks

Hon. Charles Stewart Reveals Some Startling Facts—Radio Is Making the Wild Regions Tame—But the Eskimo Has Just as Much Right to Enjoy the Luxuries as Anyone Else

CIVILIZATION is getting in its fine work in the far north. Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, is authority for the statement that traders going into the Akklavik region find that the Eskimos have high-powered motors—simple motor products are not good enough for them—that gramophones are being used by the people, that the girls are able to dance the modern dances, and that in the one or two places where radio has penetrated dances are held during the long winter nights and sometimes during the nightless days of summer to the strains of orchestras playing thousands of miles to the south.

Not only are the girls civilized, but the men are getting there also. A Church of England missionary told Mr. Stewart that once he threw away an ordinary alarm clock because he could not make it go, but that when he returned to his camp four weeks later he found the discarded clock hanging in an Eskimo's camp, running well and keeping good time. Moreover, that same missionary says that he prefers to get an Eskimo when he wants a man to take charge of his motor boat.

Much of this progress in civilized habits, with perhaps the exception of the dancing, is due to the labors of the missionaries in the far north, whose ranks have recently been augmented by four young students from Wyckville College, Toronto, Messrs. A. C. McCullum of Toronto, Murray Hathaway of St. John, N.B., Cecil Jenkins of Winnipeg and F. H. Gibbs, an Englishman.

The Bishop of Mackenzie River, who went north a few weeks ago, took with him a powerful radio receiving set so that in the coming winter the Christians of Northern Canada will be able to keep in touch with the outside world as they have never done before.

Much of this progress in civilized habits, with perhaps the exception of the dancing, is due to the labors of the missionaries in the far north, whose ranks have recently been augmented by four young students from Wyckville College, Toronto, Messrs. A. C. McCullum of Toronto, Murray Hathaway of St. John, N.B., Cecil Jenkins of Winnipeg and F. H. Gibbs, an Englishman.

A Woman in Politics Is Not Petticoat Rule

Germany's Powerful Katinka Lost Her Nomination Because of This Subtle Distinction

SHE is indeed Germany's powerful Katinka. All people of any consequence in German politics know Katinka—if she lets them. Die schone Katinka von Oheimb, she is the most active woman in Germany and certainly the most powerful.

Clasped in her long slim fingers are a great many strings. And she pulls them—regularly. One of the strings leads to the ministry of the German Reichswehr, to the office of the minister, Herr Gessler, the strong man. Another leads to Herr Stresemann, the minister of foreign affairs. There are a great variety of others and rumors of many more than that. Altogether, her influence is tremendous.

Nor is it confined solely to politics. She controls and directs the large industries in the Hartz mountains which were left her by her second husband. But she does not now sit as a deputy in the reichstag as she did before the last election. She was not even nominated, and her failure to gain a seat was the result of antagonism towards her among women voters.

Women, as a rule, are not a success in German politics. Germany's women voters are a conservative lot. They much prefer to vote for a man than one of their own sex. They are fearful of what a woman might do and confident that a man is not likely to do a great deal. That is their point of view.

Up until the elections of 1924, Katinka was a deputy representing the people's party. She was ultra-fashionable, well-dressed, beautiful, outspoken and broad-minded. A clash with the conservative Germans was inevitable.

Shortly before the May elections a writer in a Conservative journal taunted her party with indulging in "petticoat politics." Katinka, in a characteristic reply, poked fun at the Conservatives on the ground that they knew as little about women's clothes as they did about anything else. Petticoats, she declared, had been abolished these many years.

But alas for Katinka, the constituency which she represented was the constituency of Magdeburg, where the stolid frau wears not only petticoats but even flannel ones with red trimming. And the old ladies of Magdeburg, scandalized, saw that Katinka did not get the nomination but put forward instead a straw-haired, eyeglassed teacher who looked like everything German respectability could possibly desire.

Still Katinka's power has been in no way lessened. Her beauty, her wealth and the influence of her salon are potent factors in every political question. She brings into German politics no great learning, but one gift that is as rare as radium in her homeland—common-sense.

She preaches peace and amity. "We are a beaten people," she says, "and we must pay." She is not like the politician who firmly believes it possible to convince the world that the lion of 1914 has turned lamb.

HERE'S THE ODYSSEY OF WANDERING TISCHENKOS

Zoy, Though Born in Canada, Couldn't Speak a Word of English at Fourteen

ZOY TISCHENKO is a 16-year-old Canadian girl whose wanderings have resulted in one of the most peculiar educational mix-ups since the days of Dickens.

Zoy was born in Toronto, a god-daughter of the artist, John Thanko, and a highly clever girl since the time she first said, "Da," but when she went to Wichita, Kansas, two years ago, she could not speak, read or write a word of the English language.

That was two years ago. At the wind-up of the present school season she completed an eight-year course in a Kansas public school with honors from start to finish. This record left her American neighbors quite speechless.

She started out at the age of fourteen under the handicap of complete ignorance of the language spoken on all sides of her, and did a year's work every three months while the little Kansans sat back and gaped.

The explanation of one part of the phenomenon, however, is a simple one. When Zoy was a bit of a baby, her parents moved back to Russia, before she had had time to become Canadian in anything more than name. Her father then emigrated for the second time. He went to Kansas, leaving his wife and four children, including Zoy, in Russia.

The father worked as a tool-maker, laying by every possible dollar to save sufficient funds for passages for the rest of their Tischenkos. Before the money was obtained, the war had intervened and finally communication with Russia was completely cut off. For four years the husband and father heard not a word of his wife or his young Canadian daughter, that a great famine was sweeping Russia and taking its toll of thousands of lives did not lessen his worries.

For a long time, when no news of any kind, good or bad, reached him, he was convinced that his family must have been victims.

Both Safe and Well

FINALLY, in the spring of 1922, it was with a great deal of perturbation that he opened a letter bearing a Russian postmark. His fears, he quickly learned, had been groundless. His family was not only safe but also well. He hurried to a downtown bank and cabled money for their passage to America.

Talbot Street Firm Guarantees Complete Satisfaction on All Work.

A few years ago, when an engineer produced an automobile engine that would run, and a designer had built a couple of seats that at least would keep one from falling out, they believed that the objective which had been aimed at had been achieved. In those days, headlights, windshields, horns, etc., were accessories, and to have a top on a car was the height of folly! Who would ever want to ride in a car with a top on it? Why the machine would not be used in the rain and anyway an umbrella could be used.

But things have changed since then. Now you would hardly be seen riding in a car that did not have a top on it. Today the owner wants his machine to look the very best, and above all he doesn't want to ride in one that has great holes in the top with flying and flapping pieces declaring to all and sundry that something is amiss.

The best thing to do in such an instance is to take your car to M. Wilson & Sons, 339 Talbot Street, and have the much needed repairs carried out. In taking your car to the Wilson shop, you make no mistake for the work is backed by many years of experience gained in actual work, the importance of which has been evident for the past few years.

Wilson's work embraces all repairs, etc., having to do with building tops, (California and open), slide covers, engine covers, tire covers, etc., etc. A specialty of the shop is the construction of glass enclosures for open cars. With such an arrangement it is possible to secure closed car comfort at one-quarter the price of a regularly built closed car.

Double diamond glass is used and this is so arranged that perfect ventilation may be secured when desired. As in this work the Wilson plant is particularly efficient, the work that has been turned out is most satisfactory in every way.

If you have any repairs to be made to your motor car top, etc., or need any new slip covers, tire covers, etc., now is the time to have it done. It is a good tip to ask for information, etc., which will gladly be given by London Auto Top.

Summer Roofing Lessens Expense
 Time and Money Can Be Saved Now, Says Mould.

In the opinion of Arthur Mould, London's roofing contractor, "procrastination is the thief of time, and when one defers fixing his roof until the snow and ice of winter have made it almost impossible, procrastination then becomes also the thief of money."

"You will realize a little spent on the roof now will save a lot of expense for plastering and decorating," says Mr. Mould. "You expect your wife to keep the home nice, then give her a chance by keeping the roof tight, or if it be your factory or warehouse, do not spoil your stock or ruin your belts and machinery, short circuit your electric motors and end up with a fire. Some day the insurance companies are going to make it a condition of insurance that you keep your roof watertight."

"Save your time and money now by calling Arthur Mould, 7891W. He will make your roof watertight, whatever condition it may be in."

"Service in roofing is his motto, and his satisfied customers are proof that his motto is sound. He has many years experience under varied conditions, and his work stands the test. This work is known as well in Western Ontario as in London, with numerous testimonials in London for service rendered outside."

"Save your roof and you save all."

Reliance Garage Recognized As Reliable Establishment

Service all the time, repairs that can be relied upon and a constant effort to see that all customers receive real satisfaction have been the reasons for the success of the Reliance garage on Dundas street. This establishment, because it has built up its reputation on these principles, is now recognized by the motorists of the city and surrounding districts as a place where the owner may leave his machine, safe in the knowledge that what he wants done will be done and done right, that he will receive the car back in a remarkably short time and that he will not be forced to pay an exorbitant price for the repairs made.

The service truck of this garage is well known on all the roads for fifteen or twenty miles around London as it is constantly being called into use to tow wrecked or crippled cars into the city.

Bert Cane, manager of the growing concern has had many years experience in handling automobiles and he employs men thoroughly acquainted with all phases of repair work.

Books Audited Every Month Keep Profit At High Point

Six years' work in London has earned for Alex. R. Morrison, public accountant and auditor, with offices in the Westervelt building, Richmond street, a most enviable reputation among business houses throughout the London district.

During the past few years campaigns have been carried on to show the importance of industries, stores, business houses, etc., taking stock more than once a year. Twice a year, it is considered by one authority, is fairly good; once every three months is better, but the best of all is to have auditors tell you the state of your business every month. In that way it is possible to check up and be constantly up-to-date. And, when the end of the fiscal year arrives, it is a simple matter to get a statement covering a year's activities.

The monthly auditing system makes it possible to detect small leaks, and it is therefore much easier to check the accounts every month they have been keeping their profits at the highest possible point. Losses are kept down to a minimum and the financial standing of the enterprise is known at all times.

HOME MADE BEAUTIFUL BY QUICK'S HANDIWORK

Artistic Furniture Is Product of Popular Richmond Street Concern.

In hundreds of London homes the handwork of Charles M. Quick, upholsterer, holds a prominent place in drawing and living rooms.

For 25 years Mr. Quick has been giving individual service in making upholstered furniture and in re-upholstering work. His first premises were at 725 Richmond street, but the business outgrew the original shop and Mr. Quick bought the property at 523 Richmond street, near the center of the city, where he is now located.

Furniture making and upholstering constitute one of the oldest crafts and it has been Mr. Quick's aspiration to have those associated with him worthy of the title of "master craftsmen." The aim has been to provide absolutely dependable workmanship and materials, rather than to attract trade with the appeal of cheapness; and on this policy the largest upholstering business in Western Ontario has been built. An exceptionally rich stock of furniture coverings is carried. This includes tapestries, velours, and the famous Lister's English mohair, in all their beautiful shadings.

Chesterfield sofas are built up piece by piece on the premises and nothing but the best wood and filling is utilized. Real curled hair and moss, along with the famous Marshall springs, are used for filling.

All work that comes from the shop of Quick, the upholsterer, is guaranteed. Service there is prompt, and all work has the personal inspection of the proprietor before it leaves the plant.

MURDER AND SUICIDE OCCUR IN WINNIPEG

Fatal Injuries Received by Carnival Employee—Police—man Kills Self.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, July 3.—An alleged murderer, a suicide and a shooting which may prove fatal, occupied the attention of the city police last night. J. Murphy of Vernon, Mich., an employee of the Sheesley shows, playing at the summer exhibition, died in a hospital as a result of injuries received in a fight with Harry Illions, also employed by the show. Illions will be charged with murder, the police say.

Provincial Police Constable Holmes who recently brought an alleged murderer named Stanton back from Indiana, was found dead in his room on Carlton street, with a bullet wound in his head. Police are inclined to believe it a case of suicide. He was 45 years old, and single. A revolver was found beside the body.

Peter Bignick, age and occupation unknown, was shot and probably fatally wounded in a railway yard last night. C. P. R. Constable Bond was arrested. The constable stated that he was patrolling the yards when he saw Bignick taking goods from a car. When he ordered the man away he was threatened with a brick and forced to fire in self defence. The shot struck Bignick in the stomach.

FIRE LOSSES INCREASE.
 Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 3.—Fire losses in Canada during the week ended July 1 are estimated by the Monetary Times at $489,000, compared with $133,000 the previous week and with $706,700 the corresponding week of last year.

ENGLISH CHAMPION IN ACTION.

The loss that sent the shot flying for a new record at the English championship meet. Miss F. Birchmore retained the title she won last year by her long heave of 55 feet 2 1/2 inches.

On the Side Lines
With C.S.G.

Sandy Somerville—Don Carrick—Canadians both, but there's a hurry-rush sound to the names. Golf refuses to become either American or Canadianized in the main with, of course, the few exceptions like the Hagens and Sarazens.

YOUTH TRIUMPHS.
The meeting of Sandy Somerville and Don Carrick in the Dominion amateur golf championship finals today is a victory for youth in golf. It is one of the few youth has registered in the ancient game, more and sweeter flashed across the horizon in a brief space, but more settled golfers have since held the spot.

THE SILVER LINING.
There is hope for bowling yet, despite the inroads golf is making. The O. B. A. tourney at Niagara has drawn a large crowd, and it is claimed, by the growing use of the running shot, but the O. B. A. tourney, as it is elimination, demolishes one of the possible causes of few entries.

LOCAL INTEREST.
The victory of Norman Gratton Fraser in the first division of the 2:16 pace at North Randall may not have spelled local interest to the lovers of harness horse races in this district. Fraser, however, was a winner of the race, and his owner took the unusual course of buying him on the big circuit without campaigning the small tracks and getting him there by degrees. Several of the Eel's get made the big circuit since the late Dan McEwen was driving.

STRATFORD A. A. NAMES NEW SPORTS PROMOTER.
Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, July 3.—Ralph J. Smith, who recently returned from Springfield, Mass., where he was taking a course in physical education, has been appointed sports promoter of the Stratford amateur athletic association.

A. H. WILSON'S RINK WINS WOODSTOCK TOURNAMENT.
Special to The Advertiser. Woodstock, July 3.—The postponed final game in the association series of the bowling tournament carried over from Wednesday was played last night, and resulted in the rink skipped by A. H. Wilson winning by a large margin from A. N. Longstreet's rink.

DEMPESEY TAKES ON THREE.
Associated Press Despatch. London, July 3.—Jack Dempsey is to spar nine rounds tomorrow night at Brighton as the feature of a boxing tournament, the proceeds of which will go to the Royal Sussex hospital. The champion will go three rounds each with Phil Scott, who is considered a likely future heavyweight contender of England, Eddie Egan, of Oxford, Rhodes scholar, and Olympic heavyweight champion, and Captain Ernest Chandler, former amateur heavyweight title holder.

SOMERVILLE'S VICTIM.
Jack Cameron is the spare goal tender who made the trip with the world's champion Olympics. He fared very badly against the Londoner in yesterday's semi-final of the dominion golf championship.

English Trip Incentive To Feverish Revival of Girls' Track Athletics Here

Test Girl Athletes July 11 For Invasion of Europe

All Provinces Invited To Send Competitors To Trials.

SAIL ON JULY 17

Track and field events for girls, which fell off locally with the discontinuance of the Manufacturers' A. A. meet, may experience a quick revival in view of the fact that dominion trials are to be held at Toronto on July 11 to choose a team of ten to compete at the Stamford Bridge championships in England on Aug. 1.

Every province has been notified that selection trials will be held at Toronto on this date, and it is expected that a big entry will be made, despite the short notice.

Toronto and Hamilton girls, who have staged several inter-city meets, naturally have the edge in the selection trials, but it is not always a matter of education and dark horses have as much chance as the favorites in sport as any other. The times and distances made by local girls when competing in the events which are down for the trials compare very favorably with any hung up at the Toronto and Hamilton meets.

There are perhaps eight girls in London several at the playgrounds who could make a showing at the trials. Chief Supervisor Goodman of the playgrounds would be available as coach and although the time of preparation is short, it is possible that the sensation might be uncovered here.

Several track enthusiasts discussed the possibility of sending a girls' team down from London and district last evening. Any girls who feel they might make good at the events are requested to write this department, and local tests will be arranged.

The events are: 100-metre run, 250-metre run, 100-yard hurdles, 880-yard run, running broad jump, 8-pound shot, running broad jump, relay, 100-yard dash, 55-yard relay.

St. Martins came through with their fifth win of the season at Sunshine Park last night by defeating St. Marys 4-3. Although they had five errors to the losers' one, the southerners' mistakes, with the exception of E. Brennan each let in a run by dropping the ball when trying to tag the runner coming home.

Joe Fitzmaurice, St. Marys' third baseman, had the only bobbie chalked up against the winners, but he made a try for this at bat by whirling out a triple and a double in four trips.

On Monday night at 8:30 St. Martins will meet Marconia in a postponed game.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL STONE IS PLACED

County Day of Reunion Attended by Huge Crowds—Enthusiasm Holds.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent.

Petrolia, July 3.—Despite an all-night demonstration which ended at dawn this morning, the enthusiasm today was not in the least dampened, and the county day of the old boys' reunion proved to be as successful as the former.

Crowds gathered from all over Lambton to help the boys and girls celebrate. Bands began parading the streets about eight o'clock this morning, and the crowds were marching late at night.

Once again the school bell was rung promptly at 9 o'clock this morning, and all the old boys and girls returned to the school of their youth. The Central school was crowded, and the studies lasted but one hour. The old girls present were requested by their old-time teacher, Mrs. J. A. Lancaster, to give their names, age, and address, while the men were allowed to keep their age a secret. Excuses for being late, and notes were much in prominence. School out, the crowd, headed by the local band, made their way to the $30,000 new high school grounds. Here they gathered to witness the laying of the corner stone of the new school.

Premier's Regrets.

The corner stone was declared to be well and truly laid by Neil McDougall, of the provincial board of education, Toronto, former school inspector in this district. In a splendid address, Mr. McDougall conveyed the regrets of Premier Ferguson, who is in England.

He spoke on the great influence of education, and stated that the ideal of the department was to give both poor and rich boys and girls the advantage of a good education.

He reviewed the strenuous efforts

New Taxes Net Govt. $4,000,000

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, July 3.—There is every evidence that the provincial tax on beer, wine and soft drinks will reach two million dollars for the nearly eight months of operation this year. No official figures are available, however, until the returns for the month are given.

It looks as though the Ontario government will get close to $2,000,000 also from the 3c per gallon gasoline tax this year.

of all nations to advance education. "Education should not consist of the three R's, reading, writing and arithmetic," he said, but should be made up of the three H's, "head, heart and hands," as well.

He also spoke of the principals of the old school since its erection in 1884. The first principal was S. Phillips, who created a record for the school in those days. He was followed by John Bell, who was principal for over twenty years.

Mr. McDougall was himself a student when the building was first erected over forty years ago. He told of men who graduated from the school, and what important places they have filled in the world. He mentioned Sherman Swift, of Toronto, as one of the most brilliant students that ever graduated from the school. Wm. Clyde followed Mr. Bell as principal, and he was on the staff of the school for thirty years.

Silver Trowel Presented.

At the mention of these well-known names, the crowd cheered and cheered them to an echo, and memories of the old school days were recalled.

Bruce Leckie was the next principal, and he was followed by the present principal, Peter McKichan, who is still carrying on the splendid work that was started so many years before.

Mayor Drummond, in a short but befitting address, welcomed the Old Boys and Girls, and he told the advantages of the new school. The chairman, R. Kilpatrick, called on the Sherman Swift for a few words, and the renowned old boy told of his boyhood days in the old school.

The crowd was informed about the new building by the architect, D. C. Franklin, Toronto, who outlined how the school would be constructed.

The ceremony was brought to a close by the presentation of a silver trowel to Mr. McDougall by R. Kilpatrick on behalf of the Board of Education.

The rest of the morning was spent in parades, and the attendance of the Strathroy Regimental band, the Sarnia Klippers, and the local band helped put pep into the crowd.

Evening Carnival.

Last night proved the slogan of No Sleep, No Rest. There was no let-up until early dawn, and the crowd cut loose. Tinklers, confetti, and fireworks were much in evidence, and the crowd paraded in their night shirts the entire night. Never before has such a celebration been staged in these parts, and no accidents happened to mar the pleasure of those present.

Tonight promised to be another all-night affair, with the crowd estimated at nine thousand, going strong all night.

A large crowd attended the sport program at Greenwood Driving Park this afternoon, which was the main attraction. The evening's large carnival has been in prominence. The Toronto Old Boys and Girls paraded the street, and were given a rousing reception by the petroliaans. The traffic was closed on Main street at 10 o'clock so as to allow street dancing, while the Taylor Novelty Entertainers gave a two-hour performance.

Tomorrow will break all attendance records as the American contingent from Detroit and all over Michigan will be here. A hilarious old-time welcome has been arranged, and from all appearances tomorrow will outdo all previous days.

PROVINCE OPPOSES CATHOLIC CLAIMS

Nickle Files Defence Against Move To Collect High School Taxes.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, July 3.—The Attorney-General of Ontario, through counsel, has filed at Osgoode Hall a defence statement against the claim of the separate schools of the province to certain grants, to a declaration that provincial legislation on education is ultra vires, and to the declaration that the separate school supporters are wrongfully taxed to support continuation schools and colleges.

The supreme court will try action next fall. The action was taken by the separate schools in a test case from the township of Tiny, Simcoe county. The separate schools challenge the basis of grants. At present all unearned grants lapse back into the consolidated revenue fund instead of being distributed pro rata to these schools which conform with the regulations.

The separate schools claim that the act gives them power to conduct secondary schools such as high schools and collegiate institutes, and to collect the taxes for such education from separate school supporters.

The statement of defence submits that all legislation is within the competence of the province. The statement further argues that colleges and continuation schools do not come under the provisions mentioned by the separate school supporters, and cannot be regarded as "common schools."

The attorney-general denies that the board of trustees of Roman Catholic separate schools (urban) are entitled to establish and conduct in separate schools the courses of study and grades of education that are carried on in continuation schools, collegiate institutes and high schools, or any other, and also denies that such courses of study and grades of education were ever established by law in connection with the Roman Catholic separate schools prior to the first of July, 1867.

The statement which was prepared by W. N. Tilley, K.C.

Canada-W. Indies Agree on Treaty To Be Signed Monday—Freight Service Provided For by Pact.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, July 3.—A new trade agreement between Canada and the West Indies is now in the course of preparation, and, according to present plans, will be executed here on Monday next. The principles of the treaty were fully agreed to late this afternoon by representatives of the two countries, who have been in conference for over a week.

The details, principally surrounding the question of respective contributions of the colonies towards a better steamship service between the dominion and the islands are now being worked out by several committees. These details will be embodied in a draft pact, which will be submitted to the cabinet tomorrow for approval.

The new agreement, it is believed, will provide for a weekly service between the Maritime provinces and the West Indies during the winter months, and a fortnightly service between Quebec and the islands and the Maritime provinces and the West Indies during the summer. Adequate cold storage facilities will be guaranteed on all vessels.

While no official statement has been made, favorable tariffs, it is understood, will be extended to this country by the West Indies on agricultural products, particularly in flour. On the other hand, Canada, it is believed, will grant reciprocal preferences on certain commodities coming from the islands, chiefly on cocoa, and probably bananas and sugar.

WHISKEY EXPORTS TO U. S. TOTAL $7,645,890 IN MAY.

Ottawa, July 3.—Exports of 463,632 gallons of whiskey from Canada to the United States during the twelve months ending May, are shown in official trade returns issued by the dominion bureau of statistics today.

The whiskey is valued at $7,645,890. Ale and beer to the value of $4,883,377 was exported to the United States during the same period. The value of ale and beer was practically the same in the year previous. Whiskey exports to the United States were 268,623 gallons, $4,162,803 in the year previous.

DAD, THE RESULTS ARE OUT, AND I PASSED—

Gee—But I'm Glad It Was A "Red Bird" You Promised Me

I could hardly believe it was true when you said: "Pass your exam and I'll give you a 'Red Bird' Bicycle."

Did I settle down to real study? I'll say I did. I did extra work all right—and better still, I passed.

Now, as we kids say, it's certainly up to you. Are you going to come through in a hurry as you've always done?

I do want that "Red Bird," dad, so why not get it for me now.

There isn't any obstacle to the purchase of a "Red Bird" Bicycle—Any good citizen can get one any time. Just a few dollars down and then small weekly payments.

If you don't want to get that kiddie of yours a "Red Bird" Bicycle, say so, but don't tell him you can't get him one. That wouldn't be true.
