VIENNA CLAIMS AUSTRIA AND ITS ALLY IS BEGINNING TO STRIKE BACK

Reports Say That the Artillery Action of the Russian Troops is Splendid -- Austrians Underrated Their Enemy -- Panic Among the Austrian Troops at Amazingly Quick Advance.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Berlin, June 13 via Saville wireless -- German and Austro-Hungarian troops delivered a heavy counter-attack on Russian forces advancing in northeastern Bukovina, and drove them back, the official Austrian statement of June 12 says.

The statement follows: "In northeastern Bukovina, Austro-Hungarian troops disengaged themselves from the enemy under heavy rear-guard fighting. German and Austro-Hungarian regiments by a counter-attack drove back a hostile force advancing northwest from Buczacz. Thirteen hundred Russians were captured."

"On the height east of Wisniezzyk, a Russian attack was delivered this morning but it broke down under our artillery fire. East of Kozlow Austro-Hungarian scout detachments captured a Russian advanced post. Violent fighting continues northwest of Tarnopol. The positions near Vorobievka (northwest of Tarnopol) which have been mentioned repeatedly changed hands several times. "Along the Iwra and in Volhynia it was comparatively quiet yesterday. West of Kozlow a Russian sally against our troops. In that region as everywhere, the losses of the Russians corresponded to their reckless use of masses of troops."

Piling Victory Upon Victory

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, June 13 (New York World cable). -- "The Russians are piling victory upon victory," says a Daily News despatch from Petrograd. "Prisoners are pouring through Kieff on the way to the interior. The Russian advance is continuing steadily in spite of the great difficulties of transportation."

"It must be remembered that almost everywhere the Russians have crossed the rivers separating their system of communications from the Austrians. They have had to bridge not merely for infantry, but for heavy gun transport, for the whole fighting force swept forward in pursuit of the Austrians."

"The bridges are built with tree trunks, the axle is the only tool used and the Russian is the only nation which can use the axe with such rapidity and skill. The astonishing speed and development of the original success is largely due to the marvellous axe work of the Russian engineers.

UNDERESTIMATED RUSSIANS. "There is further evidence of the Austrians' miscalculation of the Russian strength."

"The Lutsk environs were heavily fortified and only fell after a twenty hour battle, but the Austrians did not expect the fall of the town. "It has not suffered because after the fortifications were outflanked the Austrians were utterly nonplussed, making to headlong flight, offered no resistance in the town, but fled westward, with the Russians at their heels."

AT 8:30 P.M. "The Russians entered Lutsk at 8:30 in the evening. The Archduke Frederick had dined there at noon. The Archduke Ferdinand, however, more wary, left the day before. "When the pursuers passed through the town and the Russian reserves marched in to music, extraordinary scenes were witnessed in the streets. Men, women and children threw themselves on the necks of the rescuers and the whole town cheered."

"It is evident that the stories of Austrian lack of food were not exaggerated. Great stores of wines and spirits were captured, but absolutely no eatables. The Russian organizations have already opened feeding stations, and these are surrounded by the hungry but pitifully joyful population."

SURPRISED THE AUSTRIANS

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, June 13 (New York World cable). -- "The military correspondent of the Morning Post discussing the present war situation says: "The Russians have shown their usual perspicacity in choosing the time and scene for their new offensive and their customary adroitness in concealing their plans from the Germans and Austrians, who appear to have been taken completely by surprise."

"The country south of the Pripiet Marshes has recovered from the floods following the spring thaw and the roads are in tolerable condition. The Germans are deeply committed

ATTACKING BULGAR COAST.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

PARIS, June 13. -- (12.30 p.m.) -- A Saloniki despatch to the Radio Agency says that allied fleets are bombarding the southern Bulgarian coast from Porto Lagos to Dedeaghat. The population is fleeing inland, the despatch says.

VAST CROWDS OF PEOPLE HEARD MEMORIAL SERVICE TO-DAY TO EARL KITCHENER

Doors of St. Paul's Cathedral Opened Shortly Before 10 o'clock and Building was Quickly Filled -- King, Queen and Dowager Attended.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, June 13. -- Great crowds lined the streets to-day in the vicinity of St. Paul's Cathedral, and stood for hours in the rain awaiting the arrival of King George, Queen Mary, and Dowager Queen Alexandra for the memorial services for Field Marshal Earl Kitchener.

The doors of the cathedral opened shortly after ten o'clock and the vast building was rapidly filled with people who were fortunate enough to have tickets. Thousands of applicants for admission had been refused, and it was stated that a building three times the size of St. Paul's would not hold the army officers who wished to attend the services.

It was announced that the service would be practically divested of any military ceremonial. No troops lined the streets through which the Royal party was to pass, and there was no guard of honor.

A feature of the service was the part taken by the band of the Royal Engineers and the drummers of the Irish Guard, of which corps Lord Kitchener was honorary colonel.

The Dead March was played by the band and the drummers, and after the benediction the guardsmen were scheduled to sound the "Last Post." In addition to the services in St. Paul's, the memory of the dead soldier was honored by a ceremony in Westminster Abbey, while a third service was held in Canterbury Cathedral.

The memorial service to Field Marshal Earl Kitchener held in St. Paul's Cathedral at noon to-day was the greatest ceremonial of national mourning since that for the late King Edward VII. It was attended by 3,000 persons besides members of the royal family, the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and nearly all the high officials of the army and navy not in field or with the fleet, together with many members of parliament and conspicuous figures from all branches of the nation's life. Nearly half of the congregation was representative of the army, all from the king in a field marshal's uniform, to privates, wearing khaki. Black was worn by all others except for a few foreign

SGT. VANDERLIP IS WOUNDED

A Nephew of Rev. John E. Peters Killed in Action.

Sergeant Reginald Vanderlip, son of Peter F. Vanderlip of Cleveland, formerly of Brantford, reported as wounded, enlisted at Kingston. He was born in Brantford, but went and served for three years in the North-west Mounted Police. He is unmarried. He is a cousin of Mr. H. M. Vanderlip of Langford.

Rev. John E. Peters, pastor of the Marlborough St. Church, has been informed by telegram that his nephew, the eldest son of A. M. Peters, manager of the Bank of Montreal at Calgary, had been killed in action. He had enlisted with the University corps in Montreal, but soon after his arrival in England, he volunteered for service with another battalion and went to France.

BRITISH ARE ADVANCING IN YPRES REGION

Local Attacks Against Recently Lost Ground on Since Morning.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Berlin, June 13. -- (via London) -- A further advance on the Verdun front near Fort Douaumont was announced to-day by the war office.

British troops have begun a movement against German positions southeast of Ypres.

On the eastern front the repulse of a Russian attack on the Stripa and on the Divina line is reported. The statement follows:

"Western front: "Local British attacks against a section of our new positions on the heights southeast of Ypres have been in progress since this morning."

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) we pushed further forward our lines on both sides of the 12th and 21st arrived, headed by the band, and leaving a lane clear in the centre, lined up also on Market street, stretching down almost to the court house. All the rest of the spaces on Market street, and about the station was black with people. That was the sight that met Lieut. Colonel Colquhoun, as the train rolled in.

The crowd surged around him and his wife and sons (both in khaki) as they emerged from the train, and followed them as they were taken in triumph down the track to the motor car of Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt of the 21st battalion. If Lt. Col. Colquhoun had any doubt about his being in Canada, he had it dispelled last night. There was little cheering. Only a Canadian crowd can give a man

He will go to his country estate at St. Blasien, in the Black Forest.

LT.-COL. M. A. COLQUHOUN RECEIVED MAGNIFICENT HOME-COMING FROM BRANTFORD

The Man Who Left Brantford as a Captain and Returned as a Battalion Commander Was Greeted by Thousands Upon Thousands of Citizens Proud to Honor One Who Had Served the Empire So Well.

Thousands of people were at the station, lined the route of march and surged upon the Market Square to see "Mac" come home. About 30 or 40 motor cars, gaily decorated, were on hand, carrying the aldermen, returned soldiers, the local members of parliament and friends of Col. Colquhoun.

The 125th and 215th turned out in full force, making a "lane of honor" down Market street, through which "Mac" was motored.

In the car with Col. Colquhoun were his wife, his mother, his two sons, Col. Labatt and Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt.

After a parade, speeches of welcome were delivered by Ald. Dowling, the mayor, Lt. Col. Cutcliffe, Lt. Col. H. Cockshutt, Lt. Col. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., J. H. Ham, M.P.P., Col. Labatt and Col. Colquhoun in reply.

The whole affair was over by 9.30.

The appeal that "home" makes to all men after long absence, must have been strongly before the eyes and mind of Lieut.-Col. M. A. Colquhoun as the G. T. R. train rolled into the station last night. The sun had just come out, and touched with its rays the grass, the buildings and the people. The rain, which had been falling for some hours, was over, and the last dark clouds were drifting away. To a man whose weary eyes had gazed upon the mud and wretchedness of Flanders for over a year, the first sight of Brantford must have been doubly beautiful. Even now Brantford mud must have appealed to him after the clinging substance of the trenches.

Never before has the city welcomed home a man in a manner to do him such signal honor as did Brantford receive Lieut.-Col. Colquhoun last night, and perhaps never again.

Thousands upon thousands of people gathered down town, at the station, along the line of march and on the market square. Sharp at 8 o'clock about 20 motor cars containing the aldermen, the soldiers' aid commission, the local members of parliament, returned soldiers and friends of the returning Colonel, left the market square for the station. Each and every car was gaily and profusely decorated with flags and bunting. At the station the cars drew up by the curb in a long line on either side of Market St. A few minutes later the soldiers of the 125th and 21st arrived, headed by the band, and leaving a lane clear in the centre, lined up also on Market street, stretching down almost to the court house. All the rest of the spaces on Market street, and about the station was black with people. That was the sight that met Lieut. Colonel Colquhoun, as the train rolled in.

The crowd surged around him and his wife and sons (both in khaki) as they emerged from the train, and followed them as they were taken in triumph down the track to the motor car of Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt of the 21st battalion. If Lt. Col. Colquhoun had any doubt about his being in Canada, he had it dispelled last night. There was little cheering. Only a Canadian crowd can give a man

WELCOMING SPEECHES ON MARKET SQUARE

Demobilization of the Greek Army Ordered To-day By Its King

King Constantine Issues the Command Following the Blockade by the Allies and the Placing of an Embargo on Greek Ships.

ATHENS, June 12. -- (via London, June 13). -- King Constantine decided to-day to order the complete demobilization of the Greek army. The offices of the newspapers which have supported former Premier Venizelos were made the objects of a hostile demonstration to-day. The demonstrators were composed mainly of those who had been spectators earlier at a horse show in the Stadium which was attended by King Constantine and the royal family.

The demobilization of the Greek army follows the blockade of the ports of Greece by the Allies and placing of an embargo on Greek ships in British and French ports. These steps were taken as a result of the occupation of Greek fortresses in Macedonia by Bulgaria at the end of May. The Allies were aroused by negotiations which were opened with Bulgaria and Germany by Premier Skouloudis, and on June 9 the British Government announced that steps would be taken to prevent Greece from providing the central powers with supplies. The blockade was the result, and on June 10 King Constantine ordered the twelve senior classes of the army to be demobilized.

The demonstrators were not interfered with.

GERMAN TROOPS AGAIN RESUME BOMBARDMENT AND ASSAULTS ON VERDUN

Entered Advanced Trenches at One Point But Elsewhere Were Repulsed -- Unusual Violence of This Attack, the Germans Bringing Up Fresh Men.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Paris, June 13, 11.50 a.m. German troops last night renewed the attack over the whole section of the Verdun front west of Thiaumont Farm. They succeeded in entering some advanced trenches at one point, but were repulsed elsewhere, the French war of five announced today. The French trenches penetrated by the Germans are on the eastern slope of Hill 321, to the west of Thiaumont Farm. West of the Meuse there were no important actions during the night. The bombardment was heavy in the region of Chatouconrard. The battle for Verdun has broken out with unusual violence on the east bank of the Meuse after the lull following the capture of Fort Vaux. The Germans put the respite to good use. They brought up fresh effective, reformed their lines and advanced their artillery to positions from which they have begun a methodical pounding of the main French defences, especially the powerful batteries at Tavannes and Fort Souville. At the same time the French advanced line,

CHANGES IN ALLOWANCES

Two Drivers of Autos in Police Court to Explain Accidents.

Simcoe, June 13.—With the passing of the $75,000 five per cent. 15 year debenture by law on Saturday, Norfolk took on its only debenture debt. There appears to be some delay in getting the new school buildings under way.

The Norfolk Patriotic Association will refuse allowance to wives of soldiers who were not betrothed before their husbands enlisted, and will hold in trust allowances which they consider would be unwisely squandered. The highest allowance to a wife and family will be $25 monthly.

This morning's police court slate contains two cases against auto drivers. Dr. Fitton will answer a charge of careless driving last Thursday when the four year old son of Pte. Robt. Neill was injured, and E. Sutton will appear to explain how he came to run into a man on a wheel near near Dover. Two cases of fighting on the street, one on Saturday evening and one last evening, are expected to require some time.

In each case one of the combatants was a soldier, and in each case the sympathy of the spectators, whether civilian or military, was with the civilian. A place waiting for a new plate glass window at the Melbourne house is the only evidence remaining. Lightning last night at 8 o'clock,

Secrets of Health and Happiness Why a Little Food Often Is Better Than Much Food

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

IN his "Physiology of the Gout" Brillat-Savarin said, "Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are," which has as much truth in it as most smart phrases. It might better be said, "Tell me what, or how, you are, and I'll tell you what you eat."

While it is true that the powers resident in the stomach tissues have much to do with what you are, the digestibility of a ration depends also upon the amount of nourishment which can be digested out of it by the healthy tissues. In the final accounting this is what determines the yield of nutriment to the anatomy.

An alligator pear, a custard pie and a pickle may contain, in chemical parlance, the same quantities of fat, sugar, water and protein, yet the amounts of each capable of extraction by the stomach may differ greatly. Commonly, 9 per cent. of the protein in most foods escapes digestion. Only 2 per cent. of starches and sugars and 1 per cent. of fats are thus lost, although as much as 22 per cent. of protein is undigested in peas and beans, and 15 per cent. in cereals. Only about 75 per cent. of the proteins in potatoes is digested, 85 per cent. in bananas, 88 per cent. in whole wheat, 88 per cent. in white bread. The structure of any particular food may affect its digestibility. Whether fine or compact, coarse or loose, influences its absorption into the blood or its loss through the intestines. Like the foods are such because the coarse materials in them irritate the intestines before they can be absorbed.

Answers to Health Questions
L. C. F. Q.—A member of our family has an invisible cataract of the eye and he cannot see out of the affected eye very well. What do you advise?
2.—Is it dangerous for other members of the family to eat the same food as the person with the cataract uses?
3.—I must always take something with each meal to help digest it. What do you advise to improve the digestion?

A.—An oculist should be consulted at once. Do not trifle with it yourself.
2.—Each individual should have his own wash cloth and towel.
3.—Eat plenty of apples, figs, cereals, prunes, prune juice, green vegetables, fresh fruits and drink plenty of water. Take seven grains of oxide of magnesium before meals and six charcoal tablets after meals. Obtain plenty of fresh air and sunlight and outdoor exercise.

Aids to Digestion.
There are several means whereby these various rations may be better digested. Palatable cooking, not only makes a better stomach mixture, but an appropriate preparation before and during cooking breaks up the food and aids it of germs and poisons that might otherwise retard digestion. Fried foods, however, are difficult to digest, because this food is unbroken and sticks together. Chewed fodder is masticated into favorable states for stomach action. An intelligent combination of foods—by the traditions of most housewives—is necessary for a table where a large number of people are seated. Increase the constipation it is expected to alleviate. It may stretch and weaken the outlet, further fermentation and waste products, and thus curdle the less some people eat the fatter they become, because a little provender is digested and thus changed into flesh when moderate quantities are eaten.

Hunger and Appetite.
Three meals a day—at intervals of about 4 1/2 hours—are enough for a full grown man or woman. Children and youths may demand more because of their growth, play and "animal spirits."

A clear broth, a glass of water, an acid, a sharp food of something sweet will initiate or improve the appetite. Something entirely different from hunger—by excitation of the flow of the digestive juices. The fluids act as siphons, the sugar as a stimulant and the other constituents as whips to the splints of digestion.

Advice to Girls
By ANNIE LAURIE
DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am 13 years of age, and am desperately in love with a young man in our office. Mother thinks I am too young to have anything to do with boys, but this one seems different somehow. Now do you think it is right for me to go with him without mother's consent? The other boys make fun of him, but he is very gentlemanly, and doesn't seem to take any notice of them.

Now do you think it is right for me to encourage him, as I am certainly in love with him?
EVA B.: Are you quite sure that you are "desperately" in love with him?
All you know about him is how he acts at business. You don't know anything about his social manners nor what sort of a companion he would make. Really and truly, my dear, I would not love him so desperately if I were you until after you have learned more about him and found out that he is really more of a man than would seem to be indicated by the fact that the boys in the office make fun of him.

No, I do not think it would be right for you to go out with him without your mother's consent. You see, you are only 13 years old, and your mother is over much better a judge of what will bring happiness to you than even you yourself can be. So trust her, remembering that she wants only happiness for you.

Must Change the Name.
By Special Wire to the Courier. Pembroke, June 13.—Twenty soldiers from the Petawawa military camp who were in town last night took objection to the name "German Post" on a newspaper office here and removed the sign, and also threatened that unless the office, which is run by E. B. Christiansen, a German-Canadian, was closed by June 15, they would return and wreck the plant. When the police arrived the soldiers peacefully went back to Petawawa camp, reiterating their promise as they departed.

WOMEN ON THE LAND.

Farm Work amongst peereesses is evidently becoming fashionable. The Dowager Marchioness of Londonderry now publicly declares it to be her intention to qualify for the armet which is to be issued by the President of the Board of Agriculture for women workers in agriculture. The Countess of Feversham, the other day, ploughed a furrow, and is said to have performed her self-imposed task "very well," and other ladies of high rank are taking an interest in this "work on the land" movement.

THE ONION.

The homely onion has been the subject of an inquiry by a committee whose duty it was to go into the matter of its high cost. The report of the committee reveals the fact that the present high rate of the onion is due to the stoppage of the import from Holland and Belgium and to the diminished import from Egypt and Spain. It is pointed out that onions can be grown in England, and to women gardeners of quite amateur experience the contemplative cult of the onion is to be recommended as a real and useful war work. At 4d. a pound it will be profitable and now is the time to sow.

the present high rate of the onion is due to the stoppage of the import from Holland and Belgium and to the diminished import from Egypt and Spain. It is pointed out that onions can be grown in England, and to women gardeners of quite amateur experience the contemplative cult of the onion is to be recommended as a real and useful work. At 4d. a pound it will be profitable and now is the time to sow.

The Situation.

Over the Courier leased wire to-day comes the announcement that King Constantine has ordered the entire demobilization of the Greek army. There is only one way to handle a man like Constantine, and that is to put the thumb-screws on him. This Great Britain did by blockading the Greek ports, and the coon has come down. Everyone is well aware that Constantine is secretly in favor of the Central powers, and had he dared to take the step Greece long ago would have been openly ranged against the Allies.

The marvellous drive on the part of the troops of the Czar continues with unabated success. At last reports they were in the outskirts of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, in Austrian territory. The fact seems to be undoubted that the Russians made their preparations with exceptional secrecy and caught the Austrians absolutely unawares while they were so busy on the Italian front. The Germans have now attempted to create a diversion on the northern end of the Eastern front, but not with any success.

Col. Colquhoun's Reception.

It falls to the lot of very few men to receive such a reception as that accorded last night by the citizens of Brantford to Lieut.-Col. Colquhoun, D.S.O. He left here some eighteen months ago a captain and he comes back for a well-earned furlough with promotion, as commanding officer, won on the field of battle in the mightiest war the world has ever seen. Colonel Labatt, who for a period was on the firing line with "Mac," bore striking testimony to his resource and pluck, a fact still further emphasized by the decoration of the Distinguished Service Order, an honor never lightly bestowed and always given for proved valor and service. Colonel Colquhoun is now, and has been for some months, the head of a regiment nicknamed after the front "the Mad Fourth" because of their initiative and contempt for danger.

And not alone was the demonstration of last evening a tribute to one man. It went much deeper than that. The manifestation was a popular outpouring of the heart-and-soul intensity with which Canadians are with the Mother Land in this great struggle, and of the deep pride felt by them in the glorious record of the boys of the Maple Leaf at St. Julien, Festubert and more recently in the Ypres section. In fact, at every point where they have been called upon.

Lieut.-Colonel Colquhoun is going back after a brief respite. His example and that of a large number of other Brantford boys should be a stirring inspiration to those here who are fit but have not yet donned the khaki.

Roosevelt, Dictator.

Our neighbors have always contended that they would never stand for a dictator, yet they have such a man in Roosevelt. He has far more individual power in the States to-day than any constitutional monarch, and it is still true of him that he can probably dictate the next President, as he did by his well calculated conduct, the last one. No one doubts that by his course in starting the Progressive or Bull Moose party, he made Wilson the occupant of the White House four years ago, and it is equally true that when Taft had previously secured the position, it was on the Colonel's say so. Then for some unknown reason, he decided that Taft had to get out. Out he went. Now it equally rests with him as to whether Judge Hughes shall have a show, or be thrown into the discard. If he gives the Judge genuine support, his chances are excellent; if he doesn't they are practically nil.

tically nil. This uncrowned emperor of the Republic says that he will not accept the Progressive nomination "for the present." Everyone knows what that means. Hughes will have to satisfy this national boss, with regard to various matters, or else in vulgar parlance, get the boot, with a good stout foot inside.

The people across the line can boast of a free and mighty Republic all they like, but the truth remains that a gentleman named Roosevelt is King of their Castle.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Kind of lonesome-like without a few droplets.

The "victorious" German navy is skulking in the Kiel canal harder than ever.

It is not believed that the people of Berlin are likely to adopt Czernowitz for their new title, although it is as good as some of those suggested.

In the church union debate at the Presbyterian Assembly in Winnipeg the spirit of Knox is plainly apparent, although the spelling is different.

to their offensive in France and the Austrians to their operations on the Italian front. It is difficult for either to desist and to withdraw troops with which to reestablish the situation in Russia.

FEW RESERVES LEFT.

"A month ago the case would have been different. The fragmentary way in which the Germans have brought up reinforcements to Verdun and the necessity they have been under of denuding other parts of the front, would seem to indicate that they have few reserves left in hand, while the British force in France has been gaining steadily in strength and efficiency.

ROUMANIA EXCITED

London, June 12 (New York Times cable)—A Petrograd despatch to The Daily Chronicle says an excited Roumanian paper show an excited interest in the Russian progress. Proalys profess to consider Roumanian intervention in the war as inevitable. The Rumanian says:

"It is obvious from the nature of the Russian offensive that the quadruple entente reveals to us the moment when we can realize our national ideals."

RUSSIANS HAVE FINE ARTILLERY

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, June 13.—All the special despatches from Petrograd remark on the fine work of the Russian artillery, to which the recent swift advance is mainly attributed. They contend that the Russian advance proves that the German-constructed field fortresses of steel and concrete, which were supposed to be impregnable, can be taken by assault, despite all the latest scientific devices. The incomparable Russian guns and mining, says one correspondent, made short work of five-fold fortified lines.

12 LINES IN SUCCESSION

It is reported that in some places, where the Austrian preparations were most elaborate, the Russians captured twelve lines of entrenchments in rapid succession while armored motor cars supplemented the cavalry in pursuit of the retreating forces. The pursuit was facilitated by the excellence of the roads which the Austrians had constructed for their own transports.

CAPTURED GAS RESERVOIRS.

Northwest of Tarnopol, the Russians employed gas reservoirs captured from the Austrians, "overwhelming the enemy with his own poisonous fumes."

Lutsck was surrounded by 19 rows of entanglements when the Russians received the word to storm the place at dawn on Wednesday. The issue hung in the balance until noon, then a breach was made in the Austrian position. The town of Dubno, says the despatches, was almost demolished by the Russian artillery fire which preceded its occupation. Before their departure the Austrians removed all the civilians capable of working.

The Man Who Came Home and the Men Who Saw Him Come

To the Editor: Dear Sir,—In reference to the splendid turnout of citizens to extend a welcome home to Lieut.-Colonel (Mac) Colquhoun, last evening, you must have been struck, as I was, with the large number of men apparently quite eligible for active service. A turn in any direction made one feel ashamed that the ranks of both our Brant county battalions were not filled. Young men were to be seen in that crowd, still in civilian clothes, and filling jobs that girls could do just as well, or at least well enough at the present time, when our nation and her allies are going through this time of stress and serious national danger. Others could be picked out who are in comfortable circumstances, with practically no vocation in life, who still prefer to do nothing, except cheer, perhaps when others who are trying to do their bit return for a brief visit home from the front.

I have been an objector to conscription in the past, but am now convinced that such a considerable number of our men are without a conscience in this matter that it appears certain that only conscription will assure an equal bearing of the burden of our nation generally. As it is, we find men who, by family or other ties, should only have to be the last to enlist, going first, because they possess a sense of duty not realized by others without such ties, and in some cases with no ties which should for a moment weigh in the scales as a factor against their decision to jump in like men and bear their share. The shamelessness of it is what strikes me so keenly and makes me wish that, instead of sixty-five, I was forty-five, and so be able to make one more to actively stand in the cause of our dear old land.

panic in the streets, with the soldiers running from house to house and shouting, "The Russians are coming." The officers fled without giving orders. Two companies who attempted to collect their baggage were captured bodily when the Russians poured into the town.

CAVALRY ACTIVE.

"Much is due to the Russian cavalry which destroyed the enemy's communications, and broke through to the rear. In some cases they actually met the Austrians in full retreat. One battery of 4-inch guns was captured with shells lying ready for re-loading. The guns were swiftly swung about and the shells, put into use by the Austrians, were sent shrieking after the men who had been loading them."

COL. COLQUHOUN PAYS TRIBUTE TO CANADIANS

The Best of Fighters, He Says, and Always Are Cheerful.

HAS BEEN AWAY NEARLY TWO YEARS

Major Jones and Captain Miller, He States, Are Two of the Best.

A Courier man had an interesting chat with Lieut.-Col. Colquhoun this day of August 12. Colquhoun, like all military men he was loath to say much, but the following was the gist of the conversation:

"It will be two years on the 22nd day of August, since I left Brantford. We were in England for some months and left for France on Feb. 9th, 1915. Col. Birchall was then in command of the Fourth Battalion, and the company commanders were No. 1, Maj. Ballantyne, No. 2, myself, No. 3, Major Belson, No. 4, Major Kelly.

"Of the above, Col. Buell severely killed, his second, Col. Birchall was wounded. Major Kelly killed, Major Ballantyne wounded and Major Belson wounded. We were in both the battles of Langemarck and St. Julien.

"I was the only man among those referred to who escaped. T. P. Jones, also of Brantford, then a lieutenant, now a Major and second in command of the fourth, also did not receive a scratch and Lieut. Miller, now staff Captain was wounded in the head.

"At Langemarck on April 23rd the Germans had broken through, aided by their first gas attack, and the 4th Battalion led a frontal attack. This was to prevent the Huns from going round the Canadian left flank (Higgin's naot o' d'oh) and we succeeded. The real hard fighting was on the night of the 22nd, the day and night of the 23rd. Our losses were very heavy. We were also in the trenches in the Neuve Chapelle battle. Likewise Ypres, Festubert, Givenchy and so on."

"How strong did you leave Brantford?"

"How many are now on the firing line?"

"About 25, not counting wounded, who have again returned to the front."

"You have had many narrow escapes?"

"Well, no man can be there without being hit. I have escaped, although buried twice at Festubert, as the result of shell fire."

"The spirit of the Canadian troops," added "Mac," "is throughout splendid. No grumbling, always ready for hardships or fighting, and always cheery." Speaking of his D. S. O., Lt.-Col. Colquhoun said that he and others attended at Buckingham Palace on May 28th, 1916, when the King affixed the order and said a few kindly words to each.

"Mac" has to report in France for duty once more by July 15th, and will have to leave the city again about the first of July.

In speaking in the highest terms of his commanding officers, the Colonel paid a very warm tribute to Major-General Currie, commanding the First Canadian Division and Brigadier-General Garnet Hughes, commanding the First Brigade. "As to Major Jones and Staff Capt. Miller, I want to say that they are the very best at the front."

AERIAL RAID MADE ON VENICE

All Planes Returned Safely, is Report of Berlin.

Berlin, June 13.—(Via Sayville wireless)—A squadron of Austrian aeroplanes attacked Venice on Sunday night. Several other points in northern Italy were bombed. An official Austrian report of June 12 says the raid was successful.

The announcement follows: "A squadron of naval air craft on the night of June 11-12 bombarded extensively and with visible success the railroad tracks on the line between Mestre (five miles northwest of Venice) and San Dona di Piave and the railroad station at Mestre. They obtained several full hits on a locomotive shed. The arsenal at Venice also was bombed."

"Notwithstanding a heavy fire directed at them, all the aeroplanes returned unharmed."

84TH "LOOKED PLEASANT."

The 84th battalion, Lieut. Colonel Stewart, O.C., went for a route march through Toronto yesterday and incidentally had their picture as a battalion taken on the steps of the city hall, an indication that they are going to depart for other scenery soon. The men showed up well as they swung along with their complete equipment strapped to their backs. Their marching pace was excellent and their columns straight as an arrow and as one looked up the street and saw the swaying columns like a sea of khaki one was forced to wonder why they have been kept in Canada for the past eleven months. The fine physique of the men, their splendid marching discipline and steadiness drew comment from thousands who lined the streets. The scouts of the battalion led off, then Col. Stewart and Captain McNaught, mounted with A. B. C. D. Co. and machine gun section with Major Harvey, second in command, bringing up the rear.—Toronto Star.

were never fond of speeches, but to-night several were in store. "I hardly know how to go about extending you a welcome," admitted Aid. Dowling. "I am sure the citizens, one and all, are proud of you and of the promotion you have earned, and that I voice their opinion but feebly when I assure you that Lieut.-Colonel Colquhoun, that you are entirely welcome to the city and to the freedom of the city."

THOSE WHO HAVE DIED

Connected with the return of Lt. Col. Colquhoun was a touch of sadness for many whose loved ones had gone with that officer had since laid down their lives. To them there should be comfort in the fact that the leader had come through safely to the present time, and in the hope that he would do so until the final victory of the allied forces. Of all who welcomed the returning hero, none did so, perhaps, with greater zeal than the city's returned soldiers, many of whom had served under the gallant leader. They had brought such credit upon his country.

WHAT BRANT COUNTY HAS DONE.

To the family of Col. Colquhoun, congratulations were due upon his safe return; the duty of remaining at home, of seeing one's loved ones go off to the front, was no less difficult than to go. While the Colonel was at the front, the city and county had not been forgotten. Aid. Dowling went on to refer to the 125th battalion, its ranks filled and ready for the journey overseas; of the 215th, with nearly 1000 men, already enlisted, seizing the opportunity of supporting Lt. Col. Colquhoun and the others at the front. The speaker made reference to the passing of Lord Kitchener, and his thoughts went to those who would no doubt revert to such leaders as the gallant Colonel and to such soldiers as the Canadians had proved themselves on many a hard won field. Kitchener, finishing his speech, said: "I wish to say that the work he had shown us how the conflict was to be carried on, and for us it was to do this."

LT. COL. CUTCLIFFE.

Lt. Col. Cutcliffe's address stands unequalled, perhaps, for his name and words, "Men of the 125th Battalion," said Col. Cutcliffe, "remove your hats and give three cheers for Col. Colquhoun." And a tiger's roar followed. "Lieutenant Cutcliffe is one who believes in letting his men do the work for him," commented Aid. Dowling. "I next call upon Lt. Col. Cockshutt."

LT. COL. COCKSHUTT

"It is indeed a cause for pride," said Col. Cockshutt, "to reflect upon the shortness of the time since, Capt. Colquhoun left Brantford; to-day he returns, Lt. Col. Colquhoun, rank and name won upon the field of honor. Brantford may well be proud of Lt. Col. Colquhoun.

MR. JOS. HAM, M.L.A.

Mr. Jos. Ham, M.L.A., admitted that he had been called in off the farm to participate in this reception. In the multitude of war news which we read, the name of Col. Colquhoun we encountered many times; every citizen of Brantford should remember that Capt. Colquhoun was the first of our active service; on the field of honor he had risen to be Lt. Col.; from all the forces of Canada, he had been chosen to lead a battalion. To him who had brought honor upon the city, the city was pleased to be able to do him honor in return. Lt. Col. Colquhoun was not returning wounded, but on a well earned furlough; and had he not obtained this furlough when he did, he would, Mr. Ham expressed confidence, have added fresh distinctions to those already earned. Fresh from decoration by the King, for valor upon the field, "Mac" came home to us. Since his departure, the Canadians had added fresh lustre to their laurels. Mr. Ham urged all the eligible men not to be in uniform to have into line to follow Col. Colquhoun back to the trenches in order to help in the work of bringing the struggle to a close.

LT.-COL. W. F. COCKSHUTT

"I have known Capt. Colquhoun for a very long time," said Lt. Col. Cockshutt, M.P., "Lieut.-Colonel Colquhoun, I have known only for a very short time, but I hope to know him much longer. Not only is he Lieut.-Colonel, but he has won from the King's hand the honor of the D.S.O., a distinction attained by few men, and which "Mac," it is safe to say, has earned by true heroism."

belonging to the city which had produced Col. Colquhoun, and a family such as his; he expressed the hope that "Mac" would remain in the city as long as possible, though anxious to return to the front, and would aid in the work of ensuring the completion of the 215th Battalion. "Now is the time to get into the fight," continued the speaker. "Follow such brave leaders as Col. Colquhoun and Col. Labatt. He also paid high tribute to the latter with whom his son, Capt. Ashton Cockshutt, had lain in a field hospital. "All honor and glory," exclaimed Col. Cockshutt, "to the man who has come back, bringing with him a compliment from the King's own hand. Three cheers for Colonel Colquhoun, for Mrs. Colquhoun, senior, for Mrs. Colonel Colquhoun, and for her two sons, both of them wearing the King's uniform."

The cheers were given with a will. Aid. Dowling, after commenting upon the coincidence of the names of so many of the Colonels who spoke, commencing with the letter "C"—Lt. Colonel Cutcliffe, Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt, Lt. Col. W. F. Cockshutt and Lt. Col. Colquhoun himself—called for the last named to reply to the citizens who had assembled in such large numbers to do him honor.

LIEUT.-COL. COLQUHOUN

Cheering, loud and long, greeted "Mac" as he rose to his feet, appearing in the best of health and spirits, and as jovial as ever. "Friends of Brantford," quoth he, "I cannot tell you how I feel at returning to Brantford and meeting with such a hearty, such an unexpected welcome. Though only for a short time, I resolved to come home when I received I have received amply repays me for the long trip. Of course, you are all interested in the Brantford men, than whom no better fellows, without exception, ever fought for the British flag. There are only a few left in the 4th Battalion, you might almost count them on your fingers; but they are made of the real stuff; you can't beat them. I thank you for the magnificent reception you have accorded me; never before had I realized how many people there were in my home city."

Fighting, apparently, is more in Col. Colquhoun's line than in talking," observed Aid. Dowling. "After fighting for a year and a half, he declines to speak for more than two minutes. I now call upon Colonel Labatt, a former commanding officer of the 4th Battalion."

LT.-COL. LABATT.

"It is now about a year," said Lt. Col. Labatt, "since I said good-bye to Mac, whom I learned to honor as a brother, and whom I am delighted to welcome back." He went on to give a number of reminiscences of life at the front, incidents which illustrated the sang froid and absolute fearlessness of Col. Colquhoun, as wit-

FORMER COURIER REPORTER AT FRONT WRITES HOME TELLING OF EXPERIENCES

Sergeant Jennings Says Boys at the Front Kept Posted on Brantford Doings by the Courier, and That Pictures of the 125th and 215th Adorn Their Dugouts—Story of a Man Who Tried to "Flop" When Suffering From Lumbago.

The following interesting letter has been received by the Courier from Sergt. Jennings, who was for some time on the reportorial staff of this paper. He enlisted as a private and has now won his three stripes. "Reg" is a son of Mr. Hudson Jennings, a prominent resident of the County.

"In the Field. Although it is a long time since you last saw me, no doubt you will remember me as one of your former 'Cubs' for it was with the Brantford Courier I made my debut in newspaper work. For the past sixteen months I have been in the service and of that time five months in action at the front. The Brantford Daily Courier comes regularly and its columns give many an hour's enjoyment when things are quiet and time passes slowly.

Sixteen months in the service—five months in action has almost made me a soldier. I enlisted as a gunner with the 25th Battery, C.F.A., Ottawa, and have been with the same Battery ever since. Since coming over here I have received first one, then two and finally three stripes. I am in charge of the Battery staff of 21 men, including Signallers, range finders, direction men, telephonists and linemen. My work has been very interesting taking me from the first line as far back as the horse lines—with the Battery my headquarters.

I doubt if there are any men in any branch of the service, now at the front, who see and hear more, or who have many more exciting experiences than the signallers, linemen, etc., attached to field artillery batteries. They go everywhere, in the trenches and out of them, are always on the lookout for new observation posts. Quite often they have to dodge whizzbangs and if the "Yuks" think they can make a good bag, they toss one a "coal-box" or a "rum jar". Very often we have to take cover in a mighty big hurry. Direct hits are few but it is the shrapnel and flying pieces of shell cases that get a fellow.

To actually see a shell whizzing through the air is rather hard to believe, I suppose? I have seen them by day or night. Of course it is not always possible. On a real dark night a bead of fire speeding through the air. In daylight I have seen shells against a red sunset. The other evening a couple of us were out "calling out" a couple of old friends in a small town near here. We hadn't seen these chaps for quite a while. Everything was quiet but we had no sooner exchanged greetings when we heard a rumble, then a swish-whizz and looking up we saw

ACADEMY RECITAL AGAIN SCORES A FINE SUCCESS

Piano and Vocal Selections Given by Advanced Pupils.

The second of the series of Closing Recitals of the Academy of Music was held last night in Victoria Hall.

The piano solo part of the program was in the hands of more advanced pupils and the teachers of the Academy, and seldom has a more beautiful selection of piano numbers been given in Brantford than the program so well rendered last night. Mention might especially be made of the work of Misses Z. Perry, Gertrude McCombe, Mary Cooper, Leone Bremner, Mary McIntyre and Grace Chave for well rounded technique and artistic finish of their playing; the ensemble quartette numbers were exceptionally well given.

The Misses Edna Kay and Iola Daniels of Paris and Miss Kathleen Keen of the city gave the vocal part of the programme and as all three are the possessors of bright soprano voices, their numbers gave great pleasure and added lightness to the evening.

Miss Margaret Hargreaves in her reading gave a very dramatic and realistic representation of the pathos and grief of an Indian chieftain's daughter. Miss Hargreaves gives much promise as a coming elocutionist.

The last of the series will be given to-night.

The programme in full was as follows: "The March of the Priests" (Mendelssohn), Misses M. O'Grady, B. Brigham, P. Keen and Mr. Wright.

"The Two Larks" (Tschetetzky), Miss Gertrude Perry.

Soldier Writing Home Says Germans Will Never Get Through.

CANADIANS ARE SOME FIGHTERS

Germans Dropped Them a Note, "We Will Wipe You Off the Earth."

Trooper Chas. Dowling, 22 Lorne Crescent, has written home from Somewhere in France and tells some of the life at the front. Trooper Dowling enlisted with the 4th C.M.R. but subsequently was transferred to the Tunnelling corps. He probably is near the big fighting taking place now. His letter follows:

Somewhere in France. Dear Mother: Well here I am away down at the base far from harm. We draw our envelopes from our own unit and I found difficulty in getting one here, which accounts for not writing sooner.

I ran into a shell hole up near the line nearly two weeks ago and have been laid up for repairs. May be here for a week yet and I won't be sorry, as this is better than dodging German shells up at the front. The people here are French and very hospitable. Two of us go over to a farm house every morning with a rum jar and get a gallon of fresh buttermilk for three cents, which does us for the day.

It has got very warm here now, but is better than the cold wet weather. Since writing you last two more of our drivers have gone brightly so I am just enjoying myself fine away down here. We are about half a mile from a large city, and about twice a week walk in for the evening.

I was in the military cemetery there last Sunday and saw over 2,000 graves—British, Canadian, French, Belgian and a few Germans. Quite a few weeks ago, was up in trenches at a place called St. Eloi and saw a terrific bombardment. I had no idea artillery could do such damage. The German trenches were knocked to pieces and one could not see by them for dust. There has been a Canadian fighting in that section, one Canadian man in one night. I saw the roll called next morning and they looked just about all in, but after a few days rest went back in as usual.

There are an awful bunch of Canadians here and also Australians and New Zealanders. The Canadians are on the warmest part of the line. The Germans dropped a note from an aeroplane about a month ago, saying that in a few days they were coming over to wipe the Canadians off the map.

If they make a offensive here it is for Calais and they will be met by those who ask or give no quarter. There is not one chance in a million of them getting through. They could not get through at Verdun, and this place is nothing to this, if we ever open up, if Germany tries to break for Calais, it would be the biggest slaughter in the war, and would, I believe, end it.

Now, with very best wishes to yourself and my old friends on the Courier staff, I am,

Yours sincerely,
REG. H. JENNINGS.

215TH RETAINS ITS IDENTITY

In the London Free Press there appeared recently an announcement to the effect that the 215th Brant County Battalion was to be amalgamated with the 133rd. This report is absolutely refuted by the officers of the 215th, who state that there is no foundation for such a rumor. The foundation is said to have only 300 men, whereas its present strength is approximately 500. The 215th will not be amalgamated, it will remain a separate unit. The 215th Brant County Battalion, provided 600 men are obtained by Aug. 1st, a number which from present showing will be reached before July 1. During the three months that the 215th Battalion has been engaged in recruiting, a total of 820 men were examined by the medical officer. Of this number 58 per cent. were accepted and 42 per cent. rejected. In the past two weeks over 100 rejection buttons have been issued.

Soldiers Not Dying.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Kingston, Ont., June 13.—A rumor having been started that several soldiers had died at Barrieffield camp, inquiries have been pouring in from all over the province. One report stated that 18 soldiers had died last week and that several had been poisoned. These stories are emphatically denied at the camp. There has not been one death since the camp opened; the health of the camp is excellent and the sanitary work could not be better.

Wedding Bells.

PELLING—M'CAFFREY

A very pretty June wedding occurred at four o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 277 Park Ave., when Miss Laura McCaffrey became the wife of Mr. Fred Pelling, of the staff of the Watrous Engine Works.

Dr. Henderson, of Wellington St. Church, officiated at the marriage, assisted by Rev. E. Robinson, brother-in-law of the groom. The bride looked lovely, gowned in white voile with veil and carrying a shower bouquet of orchids and roses. Mrs. Robinson, sister of the groom, played the wedding march. The bride was unattended.

After the guests had expressed their good wishes to the popular young couple, a delicious luncheon was served, and at 7 Mr. and Mrs. Pelling left for a two weeks' wedding trip to Montreal and other points. The bride's going away suit was brown with white gifts and hat. Many beautiful gifts evidenced the good will of a host of friends. On their return to the city, Mr. and Mrs. Pelling will reside at 71 Arthur St.

CZAR'S TROOPS NOW BATTLE WITH AUSTRIANS CLOSE TO CZERNOWITZ

Everywhere Between Pripet Marshes and the Roumanian Border Russians Continue Their Drive With Great Impetuosity and Valor—Hun Counter-Attacks in the North Repulsed.

London, June 13.—Fighting on with great impetuosity and valor, the Russians are continuing their offensive in the big stretch of country between the Pripet marshes and the Roumanian border. They increased the number of prisoners taken to 1700 officers and 113,000 men, a gain of 6,700 since the preceding day. Petrograd says that owing to storms in southern Russia and the consequent rupture of telegraphic communication reports from this front are delayed and news of the armies is restricted, but it is established that in many sectors of the front Gen. Brusiloff, the Russians are still pursuing the defeated enemy and that they have attacked him hotly in some places. He has also counter-attacked his pursuers with desperation.

IN CZERNOWITZ SUBURBS.

In the region south of the Dniester the Russians were yesterday already fighting for the suburbs of Czernowitz. They observed heavy explosions in the town, indicating that the Austrians were preparing to abandon it. The enemy blew up a bridge near Mahaly Village east of Czernowitz, while the Russians were already near the Zalesky bridgehead. In this section of the front Gen. Lechitzky had taken a total of 20,000 prisoners, all of the Hungarian infantry and cavalry, an increase of 2,000 since yesterday's report.

South of Lutsk on the Ikwa front, the enemy beat a hasty retreat and the Russians are pressing him closely.

FOE FINALLY REPULSED.

In the region of Gladki and Verobieka villages in Galicia, north of Tarnopol, where desperate fighting has been proceeding for the past two days the enemy attacked the Russians repeatedly and furiously, but he was finally repulsed Sunday morning. The Russian artillery here did great service by throwing sustained gusts of fire which checked all the attacks of the enemy.

North of Ruzozac which the Russians entered yesterday, the Austrians receiving reinforcements of German troops brought to this region, desperately opposed the Russian advance by opening a series of counter-attacks. The Russians replied to this move by further attacks, but they had to give ground a little at this point. The battle here is being continued with increasing desperation.

FOE ATTACKS ON DWINA.

In an attempt to relieve the pressure against the hard-pressed Austrians and Germans in the south, Von Hindenburg is launching a great many desperate attacks on the Dwina front in the north and the Russians have not only generally held their ground, but have advanced in one

Comedy of Errors Gave Royals Game

Toronto, June 13.—Toronto's quiet Sunday has its bad effects. The Leafs were so lulled to peaceful rest on the Sabbath that they forgot to wake up and in the second innings of yesterday's contest at the island they handed Montreal a ball game. The score was 5 to 3, and three Montreal runs were a gift.

SUPERVISOR FOR BOY WORKERS

New Problem Brought About by Minors Working at Munition Making.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, June 13.—A new boy problem brought about by the war, has created a field for male experts in social work in England—that of acting as supervisors for the thousands of boys employed on munitions work throughout the country. The sudden rise in the economic value of the boy, and the competition for his services and the high wages he is paid, have made many of his kind less amenable to discipline than ever.

The Workers' Welfare Department of the Ministry of Munitions which has been studying the boy problem in its new phases finds that the chief complaints are these: Feeling certain of easily finding another job, a boy readily leaves a workshop because of some slight misunderstanding or seeming injustice; and his high wages tend to make him independent of home control, and extravagant and thriftless in spending them.

Believing that the boy needs, aside from the formal factory control, kindly supervision and guidance, it has been decided to appoint supervisors to be paid by the management of each of the 3,000-odd munitions factories.

It is proposed that the supervisor shall look after the general working conditions so far as they affect the health and comfort of the boys. Before any boy is dismissed or given his discharge the case is to be turned over to the supervisor so that by an interview with the boy, or a visit to his home, he may be able to remove the cause of the trouble.

It is intended also that the supervisor shall be told the wages each boy earns, which will enable him to appreciate the boy's financial position in his home, and devise the best means for encouraging him to save.

CITY TEMPLE SERVICES ARE FALLING OFF

No Successor Yet Chosen to Rev. R. J. Campbell.

LATTER TO MAKE STATEMENT

Will Tell Why He Left Non-conformity for Establishment.

London, June 12.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Opinion as to the choice of a successor to the Rev. R. J. Campbell as pastor of the City Temple appears to be about equally divided among the members of the congregation between Dr. J. H. Jowett, of New York, and Dr. Joseph Font Newton of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The deacons have recommended Dr. Jowett. Dr. Newton is to preach at the temple during the month of July.

Whoever is chosen will be warmly welcomed, both as a mark of gratification at seeing the pulpit filled once more and because of the final breaking of the protracted deadlock as to a successor to Mr. Campbell.

Since the latter's departure congregations have fallen off by 80 per cent, and the famous Thursday midday service has been abandoned.

Meanwhile genuine interest has been aroused in ecclesiastical circles throughout the country by Mr. Campbell's announcement that he will state his reasons for leaving non-conformity to re-enter the Church of England.

Since re-entering the Church of England he has privately and publicly refused to be drawn into any sort of statement of his reasons for so doing. In maintaining silence he has given as a reason his reluctance to provoke acute difference of opinion.

It was a recent episode at a session of the Congregational Union which prompted Mr. Campbell's determination to make a statement. The subject of the validity of the Congregational ministry was under discussion and Dr. J. D. Jones, now the recognized leader of British Congregationalism, suggested that Mr. Campbell's action had been construed as a reflection upon the status of Congregational ministries. At the same time he hinted to Mr. Campbell that it was expected of him to affirm frankly that joining the Anglican Church and submitting to the ordination did not imply any doubt as to the validity of his former Congregational orders.

Mr. Campbell forthwith announced his intention to issue an explanation.

"In an encounter with the enemy in the region of Schemdinan we annihilated a cavalry force, numbering 1,000. We captured great quantities of cattle, telephone and bridge building materials, rifles and ammunition.

"Caucasian front.—There is no change.

They were brought to Banff from the experimental farm at Brandon, and are now in a healthy and flourishing condition. Their quaint appearance, causing them to be objects of much interest. ## In a Message to the Men of the Fleet He Gives His Thanks to Them for the Worthy and Valiant Manner in Which They Upheld the Traditions of the Navy.

London, June 13.—In a message to the men of the British fleet, which was given out here officially last night, Admiral Jellicoe expressed appreciation of the manner in which the ships of the fleet had fought during the Jutland sea fight of May 31. "At this stage, when full information is unavailable," said the admiral, "it is impossible to enter into details, but quite sufficient is known for me to state definitely that the glorious traditions handed down to us by generations of gallant seamen were most worthily upheld.

"Weather conditions that were highly unfavorable robbed the fleet of the complete victory expected by all ranks. Our losses were heavy.

HOUSE OF GRENFELL HAS SUFFERED MUCH IN THE GREAT WAR

Lord Desborough Has Lost Both of His Older Sons.

Few houses of the English peerage have suffered more in connection with the war than that of Grenfell, which is represented by several members in the Upper House of Parliament.

Thus, Lord Desborough, the famous athlete, who has twice swum the Niagara, has lost both of his older sons, and is now left with a fourteen-year-old boy to succeed to his honors and estates. His young kinsman, Captain Francis Grenfell, of the Ninth Lancers, the first officer of the British army to receive the Victoria Cross in the present war, for heroism on the battlefield, was killed in action in France after having been twice invalided home for wounds. His twin brother, Capt. Riversdale Grenfell, of the same regiment, and so well known as a crack polo player, lost his life in the fighting in France against Christmas time, and from that time forth Frank Grenfell felt that he would not outlive the war.

The Grenfell twins were so intimately associated in sport, in business affairs in all their interests, in their likes and dislikes, that no one ever thought of them singly, but always as the pair. When "Rivy" fell in the battle of Mons it did not seem quite natural that Frank should remain behind. In fact he was so convinced himself that he was destined to rejoin his twin brother at an early date in the Great Hereafter that on the day before he was killed he attended divine service and received communion, as a sort of Viaticum.

The cases of Frank and Rivy Grenfell is only one of many in the present war. In all the belligerent armies there have been instances of the same kind—that is to say, if one of the twins fell the other's death was certain to follow not long afterward. Sometimes, even, they were killed on the same day, and the Vienna newspaper officer recording the death of an Austrian officer fighting in Poland against the Russians and of his twin brother fighting in Alsac against the French, on the same date, nay, almost at the very same hour.

Of the physical resemblance between twins everybody is aware. But the mental and moral likeness and sympathy are full of mystery, originating, as they do, in early infancy, and extending to the grave. The experiences of the present war in the matter are of a nature to still further emphasize both this mystery and the popular superstitious and folklore which exist in all countries, civilized and uncivilized, on the subject of twins.

STERN BATTLE AGAINST UNION

Struggle Begins at General Assembly in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 13.—The militant spirit of Presbyterianism was on exhibition in Winnipeg yesterday, when 600 commissioners of the General Assembly began the consideration of church union. Probably 2,000 adherents of other churches occupied seats in the auditorium to witness the great Church drama. One outstanding factor of the situation which impresses even the casual observer is the stalwart, uncompromising forces arrayed against what they term the "organized effort to destroy Presbyterianism."

Daily the opposition commissioners have held secret sessions since the assembly convened, and yesterday morning Captain C. N. Mitchell, the veteran anti-unionist of Winnipeg, was on guard at the committee-room of the minority, admitting none but known adherents to Presbyterianism as it is to-day. As the debate was being adjourned yesterday afternoon, Dr. Brown, of Red Deer, Alberta, jumped to his feet and proclaimed in a ringing voice: "All those who favor preserving the Presbyterian Church will meet in committee at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning."

This defiant note followed three hours of initial debate, in which both sides displayed a high order of organized points by their partisans with repeated hand-clapping. Many "noes" and "ayes" resounded through the hall as the speakers concluded well-rounded periods.

Responsibility for the collision on the Third avenue elevated, New York, in which one man was killed, was placed upon the shoulders of Frank Kerigan, the dead motorman of one of the wrecked trains, by representatives of the road.

Why You Are Asked to Vote For The Hospital By-Law!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:
In view of the fact that voting will take place on Monday, June 26th, in connection with a by-law authorizing the sum of $58,000 for hospital purposes, the Board of Directors take this opportunity to place the facts before the public.

The need for providing increased accommodation became an imperative duty, and under a money by-law, authorized by the electors, the work was proceeded with, and the outlay, to make a complete job, exceeded the moneys available. Your Governors felt, however, that the public would not desire the needed work to be either skimped, or halted, and therefore completed the necessary improvements, secure in the knowledge of public approval.

Disbursements made up to May 31st last, and liabilities due at that date in connection with new hospital buildings and furnishings, new operating rooms and furnishings, the Nurses' Home, the acquiring of additional land, elevators, etc., etc., represented an outlay of the sum of.....	$128,448

Towards this sum the receipts have been as follows:
City.....	$85,000
County.....	15,000
County.....	1,290
W. H. A. for Nurses' Home (exclusive of payments for other things).....	20,715
Sundries and bequests.....	6,076
Balance due.....	128,081
Required to complete buildings and equipment, etc.....	54,367
Total required.....	$ 65,000

Of this amount the County has generously agreed to contribute the sum of.....$ 7,000
Contingent upon the City passing a By-law for..... 58,000

Citizens are cordially invited to visit the Hospital and to see for themselves that there has been no extravagance.

The buildings, although of an attractive appearance, are plain in design and finish, and there has not been one dollar of outlay except for value received, and in accordance with the Hospital needs of the City and County.

The cost of sinking fund and interest during each of the 20 years of the debentures will be 17.9 cents per head of population.

Trusting that this By-Law will meet with the cordial support of all classes of Ratepayers.
Signed on behalf of the Board of Governors.
C. H. WATEROUS, President.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The Stencilled Skin Fad

HAVE you got a crocodile on your shoulder—or a snake around your neck—or a rat cuddled cozily under your right arm—or a lizard making itself quite at home in the nape of your neck?

It's the latest fad—the stencilled skin. The bigger the stencil and the queerer the subjects the "smarter" you are. You have them traced, after you've taken your bath, on your knees or on your arm or, oh, anywhere, and then you talk about it and hint and whisper and giggle.

And you can drag your brother in or, if you haven't got a brother, your grandfather is all right, or your uncle, but you see your father is likely to be quite busy with some other personal lizard fights of his own, and it really isn't quite the thing to crowd him too fast—

What Do You Expect?

People will think unkind things about you. They'll say you're bold and vulgar and crude. They'll say you'd run down Broadway in a pair of pink pajamas with a dinner bell in each hand, rather than to stay at home and not have people look at you.

I guess if you want to go to a ball in your nightie you have a perfect right to do it, haven't you dear? And you also have a perfect right to be furious if people have their opinions of you for doing it.

What is it you want to be, anyway, some day, when the debutante days are over?

A ballet dancer? You'll have to work hard to be that. A show girl? That doesn't last long, that trade, when the first bloom of youth is over.

A left-over, a has-been, a faded caricature of what you once were, going to parties in a frock that your little sixteen-year-old sister ought to wear?

What? You hope some day to be somebody's wife and somebody's mother? Tut, tut, little girl! Haven't you learned better than that yet?

Never Attracts a Man.

Men don't marry girls who tattoo snakes around their necks or stencil them either, or, if they do marry them, there's a fuss at home about it and the first thing you know there's a divorce.

Men are not so very wise about women, but they do still cling to a few little old-fashioned prejudices.

They want one sort of girl for that sort of flirtation and another sort—oh, quite, quite another—for a real wife and the real mother to their children?

He could be a man ever believe that he was the only man you had ever told about the snake or the lizard or the hippopotamus or the rhinoceros, or whatever it happened to be you fancied?

Men are such sceptical creatures—they always insist on taking so much for granted.

And what man would dare face what would look to him like such a past he'd have to walk backward to get away from the future?

Lizards, snakes, crocodiles—for goodness sake, little Sweet and Silly, why don't you choose something agreeable, if you must choose anything, for such a purpose?

An angel, say, or a cupid, or at least, at very least, a cherub. Now, if you had a wreath of roses or a garland of lilies—but, no, the whole idea is too disagreeable.

Do tell us you don't really do it—you just talk about it. Deny even that, and say you never thought of such an idea and wouldn't listen if some one tried to suggest it to you.

We really do want to believe in you, Sweet and Twenty. Won't you please give us a chance?

Diary of a Well-Dressed Girl

How She Made an Up-to-the-Instant Blouse from a Russian Model.

Ken, though half of his audience had departed, continued to bemoan his fate that it was impossible to find a girl who could "match" him, since he'd rather play with a good-looking girl than with a fellow.

This was too much for me, so I excused myself for a minute and hunted womanhood take the wind out of Ken's sails. He doesn't know a thing about tennis, but you know anything about tennis. You can beat him easily.

Cicely firmly refused to waste her time with such a "concocted dud," so I had to bribe her to play three sets with him by promising to make her a Russian blouse like Jane Fulton's.

She went out and calmly informed Ken that she wouldn't mind trying to play with him, but she had nothing more exciting to do that morning. He went with her to the court, because it pleased him to humiliate her whim, but at her first serve he "sat up and took notice."

She played like a little devil, and beat him badly. I bought the materials for her Russian blouse that afternoon. She chose a lovely tone of Joffre blue

FEMININE FOIBLES

"I think I'll have to give up golf. You've no idea how terribly I look in a golf suit—it just isn't my sport!"

What Charm Really Means to Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

EVERY wise person has said: "All perfect beauty, like all good, is divided into three parts—health, dress and winsomeness."

It is all very well to have perfect features, but they amount to nothing unless the body is in a normal, healthy condition. Then of what advantage is physical beauty if you do not give it the proper setting by dressing in good taste?

You have frequently noticed a woman who is really lovely, but whose appearance is marred by wearing the wrong clothes and by arranging her coiffure in an unbecoming manner. A woman must be of surpassing loveliness and fashionably dressed in excellent taste, but if she lacks that indefinable something called "charm," she will never know what it is to be surrounded by a host of admiring friends, and will, therefore, miss many of the greatest joys of life.

Charm, after all, is the greatest of the three. No matter if you are as unattractive as a "hind fence stuck full of bristles," and as lacking in style as Mrs. Noah would be at a modern summer resort, "you should worry" if you possess charm, for you will be well liked wherever you go.

But do not think because you have this priceless gift that you may neglect your personal appearance. Remember that "first impressions" count for a great deal, and that charm cannot be seen at a glance. Make up your mind to have at least a little of each of the "three parts of beauty," but make a charming personality the greatest portion.

I cannot make an analysis of "charm," but I do know that a great many lovely feminine qualities are summed up in this one small word. One of the most important of these is the desire to please others. But it must be a spontaneous thoughtfulness of others, not an effort to shower them with unnecessary attentions. There are women who would do anything to be thought charming, but instead they create the impression of being stilted, gushing and void of tact.

Aim to be one of those women whose unflattering graciousness and sincere interest in their fellow-beings make them beloved by all who know them. Adapt yourself readily to all circumstances and from what you come in contact will feel "perfectly at home" with you the moment they are introduced.

It requires no small amount of vital energy to preserve this gracious personality if you are called upon to mingle extensively in the social or business world you will find that things you move along much more smoothly if you are liked for your charming manner rather than disliked for your arrogance and hauteur.

Act—the ability to do the right thing at the right moment and to make it appear to be the only natural thing to do—is one of the invaluable qualities that go to make up "charm." To put people at their ease, and to make them enjoy themselves is a delightful service for any woman to perform. You should be proud to have friends say to you: "She is so gracious and tactful" than to have them admire your physical beauty.

If you want to know the direct route to people's hearts it is to show them that you like them and are sincerely interested in each one personally. But you cannot succeed in doing this unless you are in the form of a beauty, spontaneously in your own heart. Spontaneity is the parent of charm.

As he is about to drink the deadly mixture he hears a song of life and love sung by village maidens. His heart is dead to such sentiments, and again he raises the poison to his lips. Then he hears the laborers singing on their way to the fields. "Faust" remains in God, youth, full of hope and trust in God, and as his wasted life spreads before him he calls upon the king of the infernal regions.

Mephistopheles immediately appears and promises the astounded Faust youth, strength and the pleasures of life if he will sign a contract to serve him after death. Faust wavers in his decision, and the fiend taunts the vision of Marguerite, a beautiful village maiden, to appear, promising her, to the philosopher if he will sell his soul. Faust signs the contract. The Evil One hands him the cup of poison, and the aged man immediately becomes a handsome youth.

In an open square of the village a festival is in progress, and students, soldiers and villagers congregate to make merry. Among them is Siebel, a young man who is in love with Marguerite. Valentine, Marguerite's lover, enters and is dispirited. He has enlisted as a soldier, and dislikes the thought of leaving his sister alone and unprotected. He commends her to the care of Siebel, who gladly promises to guard her.

Mephistopheles, who the group of merry-makers, and interests them by telling fortune. He jests lightly, with Siebel about Marguerite and Valentine, and his friends draw their swords to threaten the fiend. The fiend reacts to the threat about him which none are able to elude about him, and he departs to seek the fiend. The fiend reacts to the threat about him, and he departs to seek the fiend.

Then Valentine, realizing that the stranger is evil, reverses his sword, and the fiend, seeing the flowers, departs to get his basket of jewels, which he places before the fiend.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why You Like Some Foods and Dislike Certain Others

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

FOODS are the sinews of life. The larger your reserves of ammunition for the tissues, the better is your chance to survive, and to exist efficiently.

If you are one who cannot abide meats or whose stomach turns turtle at the very sight or smell of a pineapple, you are perhaps just that much less successful than those whose gastronomic vigor is as cosmopolitan as the proverbial orator.

The amount and the variety of food a man's stomach can decently care for has an intimate relationship to his growth and vigor. But, though this is a physiologic truth, many exceptions are to be found. Some persons have a native revulsion—an idiosyncrasy—toward some well-rounded knightly table. True enough, nearly every one has some pet food dislike. Many have the horrors at the thought of an olive, James leaves the table when onions are served, and little Willie refuses eggs. Each has an idiosyncrasy for some edible.

Qualities Rarely Considered. Strange as it may sound, there are persons who fail to agree with the individual that he likes and dislikes fail to indicate. Just as such chronic maladies as tuberculosis and syphilis creep secretly and progressively into your vitals for months and years, just as chronic lead, phosphorus or arsenical poisoning insinuate their hidden iniquities into your tissues, there are foods which you may eat day by day that really play a part of the Borgias and other secret poisoners.

One of the curiously ignored actions of foods is their stimulating and restorative powers. Dietitians and food sharks commonly emphasize that most palatable, most healthful, and most nutritious bit of food furnished to a man more quickly than medicines or strong drink. The nutritive properties of some foods are not more important than the way they increase vitality and restore power to the individual.

On the other hand, some foods—each person perhaps differs in this respect—repress and check vitality. Joint pains of a terror-like quality occur in Mrs. X, every time she eats cane sugar or sweets.

Another patient, Mrs. M., has a mysterious (?) attack of migraine or hemicrania whenever she eats lettuce. The headache is limited either to the left half or to the right half of her anatomy.

Unless some infants and children are steadily and carefully trained to become immune to eggs, berries and other varieties of food, they may become super-sensitive to one or another article of the diet and suffer accordingly in their future days. Eggs and strawberries are by no means easy for babies of 3 years of age to eat. But by babies of 3 years of age to eat. But by babies of 3 years of age to eat.

Problems of Immunizing. Unless some infants and children are steadily and carefully trained to become immune to eggs, berries and other varieties of food, they may become super-sensitive to one or another article of the diet and suffer accordingly in their future days.

Babies should not as a rule be given eggs before they are 18 to 24 months old. There are exceptions, of course. Sickly and accident-prone children, such as a child. Often, however, children vomit eggs or refuse to take them, because the illness have experienced untoward effects after eating them.

Dr. Louis Faust, a student of the Fordham University school of medicine, ascribes to unacclimated food poisoning a prevalent ailment as hardening of the arteries. There is much to confirm the other frank manifestations of food poisoning.

Stories of the Operas

Condensed by ADRIEN TOURNIER

When the others leave the square Mephistopheles reappears with Faust, who is impatient to see Marguerite. Siebel enters to await the maiden's return from church. As she approaches the fiend engages Siebel in conversation while Faust speaks to Marguerite and not to keep the pretty ornaments.

The Evil One and Faust return. The demon makes love to the old serving woman, while Faust wooes Marguerite. He is so ardent in his pledges of devotion that the maiden yields to his desire.

Within her garden Marguerite broods over her sorrow. Siebel comes to her and vows to avenger her wrong. Still loving Faust, Marguerite begs Siebel not to harm him.

The soldiers return from the war, and Valentine's joy at seeing his sister is changed to fury when he learns that she has been betrayed.

That evening Faust and Mephistopheles come before Marguerite's home, and the fiend sings a haunting serenade. Valentine rushes from the house and crosses swords with Faust, but the latter, aided by the demon, deals the young man his death blow. The villagers rush in, as Marguerite bends over her dying brother, who curses her with his last breath.

The unfortunate girl goes to the church to pray, but the mocking demon meets her on the threshold and tells her that she is damned forever. But though her reason is tottering she collects strength enough to break away from the Evil One and rush into the city.

Mephistopheles takes Faust to the witches' revels on Walpurgis night. In the midst of the mad gypsy Faust sees Marguerite despairing and almost dying, and commands the fiend to take him to her.

Within a prison cell, ill and half-mad, Marguerite is awaiting trial for the murder of her child. Mephistopheles visits Faust, and he urges her to flee with him. She is about to consent when she catches a glimpse of the Evil One. She falls upon her knees and begins to pray. The prison walls disappear and angels welcome the repentant woman.

Then the fiend climaxes Faust, and they sink through the earth surrounded by flames.

The Tempting of Marguerite. Siebel offers her arms: She repulses him and goes on her way. Siebel comes to the enclosed garden before Marguerite's home to serenade her. He begins to gather a bouquet, but finds that on account of the evil spell cast upon him by the stranger that the flowers wither as fast as he picks them. Then noticing the font of holy water—she dips his hands into it and picks more flowers. Much to his delight he finds that these blossoms retain their beauty and freshness, and these he saves on the doctored for Marguerite.

Faust and the Evil One enter, and the fiend, seeing the flowers, departs to get his handsome gift. He returns with a basket of jewels, which he places before the fiend.

Music and Drama

Heading the excellent bill at the Colonial this week is Harry Lewis' laughable musical mix-up, "A Night in a Parisian Garden," one of the most pretentious vaudeville productions ever seen here. The act is more of a musical extravaganza. Headed by clever comedians—George Rehn as Mike Hogan and Tim Lester as Heinz Snitzel—the production runs over an hour.

Rehn and Lester are of the type of comedians that do not depend upon "slapstick" work to get their laughs. They are artists as fun-provokers. The quartet is expected to respond to repeated encores. Bert Beyerstedt and his violin practically "stopped the show." Seldom has a clever violinist been seen on a local vaudeville stage.

"THE RACE"

Victor Moore, the clever Lasky comedian, will be seen at the Brant Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, supported by Anita King, the Paramount Girl, in the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company's production of "The Race," a thrilling comedy drama founded upon Miss King's recent transcontinental automobile trip, which she made absolutely alone.

"The Race," a Paramount picture, has to do with the adventures of Jimmie Grayson, the frivolous son of a wealthy automobile manufacturer. Jimmie loses ten thousand dollars in gambling and is disowned by his stern father. While standing in the street wondering what he should do next, he is run into by an automobile driven by a beautiful young chauffeur. The owner of the car secures Jimmie employment as a mechanic in a garage, and since he has no money, the attractive young "chauffeures" takes him to her father at their home.

Mr. Van Dyke is a clerk in Grayson's office, and to obtain money to make models of a new carburetor he has invented, has stolen nine thousand dollars from the firm. Grace, his daughter, working as a chauffeur, is ignorant of this theft until it is finally discovered and he is forced to confess to her. Jimmie and Van Dyke have perfected the carburetor and have offered it for sale, but are unable to secure the money immediately.

Jimmie and Grace, each unknown to the other, start out on their long transcontinental flight. Each automobile firm, through its agent does its best to delay the other. Garages are burned and obstacles of every description are placed in the way. Finally the Grayson agents send Grace over the wrong road and her car plunges over a bank. There she is found by Jimmie and the reason of her making the trip is explained. Jimmie decides that trip is his chance. He goes to jail, and deliberately breaks his machine. Grace tows Jimmie's car through the cheering throngs in front of the New York city hall. As Jimmie is arrested for the gambling debt, while the triumphant rival automobile manufacturer hands Grace a check for the ten thousand dollars. Grace then goes to a hotel room where she is waiting for a telegram from her father stating that he has received twenty-five thousand dollars as advance royalty on the carburetor. She hastens to the jail and turns the ten thousand over to Jimmie. Jimmie's arms reach through the iron bars towards her and the jailer discreetly turns his back.
