Monastery of Monte Cassino

Two hours by rail from Rome on the line to Naples, brings you to the railway station of Monte Cassino. A drive of a half hour up the winding road brings you to the summit and there you are at the famous shrine of the order of St. Benedict, where the Patriarch of Western Monasticism lies buried, and where his sister, St. Scholastica, lies by his side, a saintly writer.

The glorious panoramas from the mount is itself sufficient to repay the journey. And southward stretches Campania, broad fertile level—the spot on which Hannibal's legions took a long and well-earned rest. Farther down lies the city of Naples with its famous bay, with Vesuvius rearing its smoky head beside it like some grim sentinel, with Pompeii and all the little city of the dead stands for. Vineyards, woods and groves stretch out to your feet for a hundred miles around. And if the day is clear and your eyesight sharp, you can see the dome of St. Peter's towering over everything in Rome.

Neater to the mount you gaze at the castle in which St. Thomas Aquinas was born, and on that in which his family imprisoned him with a view to preventing him from becoming a friar.

But it is not for the sake of the panoramas, vast and beautiful though it is, that you are come to the great monastery of Monte Cassino. Fourteen hundred years of ecclesiastical history cover the whole mount, commencing with that day when St. Benedict arrived from Subiaco and chose this place for the greatest of all his foundations. The monastery is a town in itself with its own Ordinary, the Abbot, with its many chapels, its crypts, its spangly churches, its schools of art, its libraries, its observatory, its farmyards, etc. Laborer is a motto followed closely all these centuries by the sons of Benedict. Well, indeed, might the late Pontiff, Pius the Tenth, say in the Apostolic letter to the Abbot of Monte Cassino, the Rt. Rev. Gregorio Diomiro, O. S. B., on the occasion of the restoration of the crypt in 1913:

"That monastery amid the eruptions of barbarism, the overflow of public institutions, the internal discord, revolts, massacres, and pillage was, every evil that harassed not only Italy, but all Europe, offered an asylum to those who sought refuge to religion and the Fine Arts. In that place the light of knowledge through the work of pious monks, who, in the darkness that lay thick on every side, continued to shine upon the people."

"On that spot the venerable sanctity of the Law, divine and human, was guarded, amid the fearful turmoil in which with destructive violence everything was thrown into disorder."

"That which Italy, that which all Europe, owes to the monks of Monte Cassino, the history, the witness of fine and teacher of the events of Monte Cassino, were fused for long years with the history of the Roman Church, that three sons of that monastery raised from the silence of the cloister to the supreme dignity of the Papacy were numbered among our predecessors under the names of Stephen IX, Victor III, and Gelasius II."

THE VISITORS' BOOK.

We take but a bird's eye view of the vast establishment and its long history today. But there is one object that must be mentioned on this occasion, that is the Visitors' Book and the mottoes on its pages written by some of the world's great ones.

In March 2, 1833, Longfellow visited Monte Cassino. Weaving his inspired pen, the Visitors' Book four of his most famous lines:

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

And in 1849 no less a notoriety than Ernest Renan, came to the mount of learning. What did the future free-thinker write? His inscription is:

"One thing is necessary: Mary has chosen the better part."

But more appropriate for the writer is the volume of admiration which the bold hand of Win. Ewart Gladstone indited in a single word—

"Floreat."—May it continue to flourish.

And Newman wrote on leaving the monastery in Sept. 6, 1847, words which show what a debt England owes to the Order of St. Benedict:

"O Holy Monte Cassino, from whence England once drew the saving waters of Catholic teaching, pray for us who are now rising from heresy to our former strength."

The inscription left in the historic book by another great bishop, Dupanloup, is not less striking:

15th February, 1850. Holy Benedict, console the weak, strengthen the tottering, say to the people of Jerusalem: Behold thy God!

But in one way even with more interest one looks to see what impression his stay in Monte Cassino left on Gregorovius the historian, who used his talents to their fullest extent to glory the Vatican.

Troubled With Kidneys For Over Three Years.

WAS CONFINED TO BED.

Mr. George Gray, Hopewell Hill, N.B., writes: "I had kidney trouble for over three years and was so bad I was confined to my bed. First I contracted a bad cold and it went to my kidneys, and I suffered dreadfully. I got the doctor, but he did me very little good. I tried all kinds of kidney pills, but got very little help. One of my neighbors came in to see me and told me to get Doan's Kidney Pills and give them a good trial. I used five boxes and they have cured me so that I can sleep at night without being troubled, and I feel better in every way. I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are just what their name implies, a pill for the kidneys and the kidneys only. When you see for "Doan's" see that you get them put up in a strong gray box with our trade-mark "The Maple Leaf." Price 60c. All dealers or mail order on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Being Ladylike

One often hears it said that a business office is not a parlor and that parlor manners cannot be expected, yet the fact remains that where they are practised they are almost invariably appreciated.

"One of the stenographers in a certain large office was distinguished by her charming manners, which were always those of the drawing room and by her sweet womanliness and refinement. She sometimes spoke wonderingly of the unfailing and chivalrous courtesy with which she was treated by her associates in the office, seeming scarcely to realize that she received what she gave and that her attitude called out the best in them. A comment made by the cashier to his assistant indicated the feeling with which she was regarded. The cashier, who usually good-natured and pleasant had times of irritability when he lost his temper easily and was apt to be somewhat disagreeable to those about him. Speaking of the stenographer he said: 'She is the only one in the office that I can't quarrel with.' She was so thoroughly the lady that he would no more have thought of quarreling with her than with the ladies whom he met in his own home or the houses of his friends."

With many young women the business experience lasts only a few years, and then they go back into home life, or into a social life where the sweet, lovable womanly qualities are worth far more to them than the port smartness, which is so easily picked up where one comes into daily contact with all sorts and kinds of people. While free and easy manners may make one seemingly popular with a certain class of people, the admiration that is best and most lasting because it is founded on respects is given to the girl who keeps herself quiet, dignified and ladylike.

Mrs. J. Armstrong, 7 Harris St., St. John's, N.B., writes: "I take pleasure in advising you concerning the good I have derived from using Milburn's Laxative Liver Pills. I had had severe headaches for some time, but after using two boxes of your pills, I can now do my work with comfort and pleasure."

Milburn's Laxative Liver Pills contain simply vegetable matter and do not grip the bowels, mineral purgatives do. Price 50c. All dealers or mail order on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ontario.

At The Federal Capital

The opening of the present Session of the Federal Parliament was anticipated and consummated under circumstances altogether unusual.

During Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the seventeenth,
eighteenth and nineteenth,
Ottawa manifested ample evidence of the mournful event which had just occurred within her boundaries.

The ceremonies attending the opening of Parliament will be essentially plain and simple, and the proceedings will be very brief.

When Honorable Speaker
Rhodes called the House of Commons to order at three o'clock Thursday afternoon, the chamber was arrayed in mourning.

After the return of the Commoners from attendance on His Excellency, who delivered the speech from the Throne in the Senate Chamber, the usual formal proceedings were quickly disposed of.

that the departed statesman be accorded a public funeral. This resolution was unanimously adopted. Mr. Robb, Chief Liberal Whip and Spokesman for the opposition, in the absence of the Leader, expressed grateful thanks to the Government for their kindness in according a public funeral to the late opposition leader, and for anticipating in every way the desires of the opposition under these sad circumstances.

After the House adjourned, the work of transforming the Common Chamber into a mortuary room was immediately commenced, and shortly after six o'clock the mortal remains of Sir Wilfrid were borne thither in funeral order, from his residence. He had been a member of the House of Commons for forty-five years and had not missed the opening of a Session.

The State funeral from the Victoria Museum to the Basilica, on Saturday, was of marvelous proportions, and was in every way indescribably grand and imposing. No such funeral cortege had previously been witnessed here.

eached the Basilica, on Sussex street shortly before 11.
The Basilica was most elaborately draped in mourning colors, black and purple, and presented a grand and solemn appearance. The body was received at the entrance of the church and blessed by Rev. Father Lafamme, P. P. of the Sacred Heart, parish church of the deceased. At 11 o'clock the Solemn Pontifical Mass of Requiem commenced.
His Excellency, most Reverend Mgr. Pietro di Maria, Delegate Apostolic was celebrant, and had for assistants: Rt. Rev. Mgr.
Boutier, V. G. Bastieier, as arch-priest; Very Rev. Canons Campeau and Plantin of the Basilica, deacons of honor, Rev. Father Myraud P. P. St. Anne's Ottawa, deacon of office and the priest representing L'Assomption College, sub-deacon; Rev. Father Martin of the Basilica Master of ceremonies.
The minor offices were filled by Seminarians from the Grand Seminary of Ottawa.
The preschers of the occasion were Most Rev. Archbishop Mathieu of Regina, in French, and Rev. John Burke, Paulist, of Newman Hall, Toronto, in English.

Among the Ecclesiastical dignitaries, in addition to those already mentioned were Rt. Rev.
Bishop Roy of Quebec, and Rt.
Rev. Bishop Breneau of Nicolet.
The music was grand and solemn;
Pereosis Mass being rendered by a choir of about eighty voices.
After Mass Libera and the absolutions, the funeral procession, proceeded in sleighs to Notre Dame cemetery, where interment took place. R. I. P.

The League of Nations.

Montreal Gazette.
The League of Nations is much the most ambitious attempt to regulate mankind that has ever been made. There have been from time immemorial alliances offensive and defensive, and their avowed purpose has always been preparation for war, but never before has a world-wide alliance been set up to perpetuate peace, to erect so formidable a barrier and to create such powerful combinations as will render success in arms by any one or two nations hopeless. The time is ripe for the new experiment, for experiment it must be considered until its effectiveness has had practical demonstration.
The horrors of four years of war, in which not less than twenty-five millions of men were actively engaged, the terrific losses in life, property and capital, the shocking cruelty of it all and its utter futility, have awakened the conscience of the world, and made easy the formation of the League of Peace.
The League at its inception is strong enough to effect its purpose, but cannot be considered complete until, after they have brought forth fruits meet for repentance and have given satisfactory pledges of good faith, Germany, Austria and Russia become parties to the pact.

It might be easy to discover difficulties in the path of the League, to voice suspicions, to speak of the Congress as a distinguished writer has done, as a company of amiable old gentlemen making nervous gestures; but such an attitude no sincere friend of peace will assume.

on behalf of the League. Great Britain will be given the government of most of the former German colonies, either directly or through the South African and Australian Dominions, and Japan will doubtless be entrusted with the care of the islands in the Pacific which she has desired.
The distribution of authority and responsibility has, however, yet to be made, and the United States may be required, in any event requested, to assume the care of countries freed from the Turkish yoke.

Premier Arsenault returned Tuesday night, from Ottawa.

Capt. Stanley Bagnall has been appointed Ordnance Officer at Charlottetown and has entered upon his new duties.

Manila rope has advanced seven cents a pound since December. The reason given is scarcity of hemp.

The steamer Stanley was in Halifax on Friday. She has been breaking up the ice in harbors on the south coast of Nova Scotia.

Potatoes and eggs have taken a decided drop in Ontario. Buyers are offering the producers 90 cents to $1 a bag for potatoes and 40 cents a dozen for eggs.

The Supreme Court opened in Georgetown, Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Justice Hazard presiding. The docket is a small one and there will be no criminal or jury cases.

Major Morgan, of the British naval air service, is at St. John's Nfld, where he is selecting a site for the landing of a British government hydroplane which will soon attempt a flight from Ireland to the ancient colony. It is likely that a plateau at fresh water bay about three miles from city will be selected for the landing.

It is stated that King George is likely to attend a session of the Peace Conference before it closes. The London standard says: "This is only in the fitness of things. The heads of France and the United States, Poincaré and Wilson, have taken an active part in the proceedings, and the British Empire should also be represented by the monarch who personifies all the British protection."

Mr. Otto Campbell who returned from overseas last night and goes to his home at Montague today was one of the leading athletes of Prince of Wales College and of this Province, previous to his enlistment in the 105th Battalion. He was Sergt with the 104th Battalion after the amalgamation and went to France last Spring on draft to the 26th. He was wounded in front of Cambrai and since then has been making the rounds of the hospitals and demobilization camps.

Enquiries are being received every week for cottages of the Charlottetown Summer Resorts at both Holland Cove and Ridgwood. This company which was just beginning to get under way when the war broke out and which has carried on with considerable success during the past four years may be expected now to considerably enlarge its activities.

Canada's Third Division will start homewards on Saturday next. The initial shipload will embark at Liverpool on the Adriatic. Advice to this effect have been received at the Militia Department. There are about twenty-two thousand men in the division, and the fact that it is the first to come is because it was in England, when demobilization was ordered.

At the Supreme Court in Georgetown yesterday, Mr. Justice Hazard presided. In the course of his address to the Grand Jury he made a fitting reference to the death of Canada's great statesman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. There were no criminal cases and His Lordship was presented with a pair of white gloves. He congratulated the County on the satisfactory condition of affairs in the County with respect to the absence of crime.

An eloquent appreciation of the British fleet, which he said had saved civilization, of the British Empire and of the Canadians in the great war, was delivered by General Paul Pau following a reception in the Manitoba legislature on Friday afternoon. He spoke of the part the empire had played in helping to achieve a glorious victory and declared that nothing else would ensure for humanity a long and, if possible, everlasting peace as that union which had been cemented between the British and French peoples.

A British airship, according to General Seeley, recently remained in the air for more than 100 hours. At an average speed of 50 miles an hour, the Under-Secretary added, the airship must have covered more than 5,000 miles. It was possible that the airship could have continued longer in the air, the speaker declared, notwithstanding the fact that it encountered considerable wind.

Extreme Protectionism In Britain

With industry disorganized by the war, the British people show a readiness to go to the extreme of protectionism to give their workmen a chance to prosper. The British embargo which has been announced against many classes of imports constitutes the highest possible measure of protection.

The following are among manufactures which are forbidden to be imported into Britain after March 1, except under special license:—

"Machines—tools and machinery for working in both metal and wood, stoves, manufactures of aluminum, wearing apparel, baskets and basketware, metal baths, cartridges, cement, fatty acids, fire-extinguishers, guns, carbines, rifles, hats, bonnets, lawn-mowers, linen yarns, manufactures thereof, mats, matting, mops, oil-cloth, perfumery and toilet preparations photographic apparatus, pictures, engravings, photographs, plated and gilt ware, revolvers, pistols, salt, sewing-machines, skins, furs, soap, spectacles, eye-glasses, clocks, watches or time-recording instruments of all kinds, and parts thereof, wringers, mangles, weighing-machines, scales, balances of all descriptions vacuum cleaners.

After July 1 a considerable additional list of prohibitions will come into force. British lion tail-twisting politicians of the flannel-mouth variety still exists at Washington, although in but limited number now, praise be to glory; and an assault by one of these upon the British announcement produced an intelligent and kindly defence by the United States War Trade Board. Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts. Republican, was one kicker. He declared that the British embargo would be "detrimental to the employment at their full capacity of our manufacturing industries."

Senator Weeks would naturally rather see American mechanics busy than British workmen; still, the protest is rather funny coming from a man who is a protectionist himself for the United States. Another Senator, Lewis, of Illinois, the Democratic whip, roared. "Great Britain! No one had she succeeded in extricating her two hands from the mouth of the German war-monster, but she proceeds selfishly to put up the bars of her trade against the very race and the very nation that went to her rescue."

He warned Great Britain not to arouse "the spirit of 1812"—a reference to the last war between the English speaking races, the United States, by the way, got the worst of that, though, obviously Senator Lewis does not know it. Another Democratic Senator, Reed, of Missouri threatened that there would be bloody reprisal" if the embargo were kept up long.

Whereupon the U. S. War Board issued a statement which in part is as follows: "The reason for such action on the part of Great Britain are not hard to understand, nor do they require anything in the nature of justification. For over four years, Great Britain has been subject to the shock and strain of a war which not only required the sacrifice of life and intense human energy, but also necessitated the most stringent economic readjustment and the sacrifice of private business."

"It is not strange, therefore, that Great Britain should today wish to make every legitimate effort to keep her commercial and economic status from falling into chaos and instead to restore it to a state of equilibrium. In fact, to do anything else would be strange."

"As a natural result of such a normal, patriotic aspiration, in order to bring her own population to a state of stability approaching that of pre-war days, Great Britain finds it necessary to impose such import restrictions on a normal basis."

And, naturally, the query suggests itself, "if Protection, even to the extreme of prohibition of imports, is a good thing for domestic industry in time of business disturbances, why is the principle of Protection not suitable for use more or less to promote domestic industry at any time?" Ottawa Journal Press.
