CHURCH POINT, July 31, '08,

Blacking & Mercautile Co.'y, Ltd., Amherst, N.S. Dear Sirs.—Nearly one year ago I had my first order of "Mathieu's Syrup" from you. It was not known in this country, and I gave san ples to several fami-lies whom I knew would use it. After a few weeks I began to have a call for it, and trade has increased wonderfully since. I have not the reast doubt but that it will soon be the best selling remedy for coughs, colds, etc., on the market. In my store here sales are good and our people ask for it. Several stores in this country now keep it in stock and report sales nor asing. I have bought from you since August 16th, 1907, 4 Gross and have only 3 dozen on hand at this date, and which I am holding for retail trade in my store-Yours truly, LOUIS A. McLANSON.

Abruzzi's Story.

The Young Eskimo Who Loved Beautiful Maiden.

The Duke of Abruzzi is one of he most successful of living explorers, in which capacity he has had a air share of adventures and hairbreath escapes. During his North Pole expedition he had his right hand so severely frozen that two of his fingers had to be partially amputated. Another time during an ascent of the Ruwenzori range, as the Duke was making an observation in advance of his party, he slipped on a bank of oose stones and fell to the edge of an immense precipice, where he remained a prisoner for three hours The Duke has picked up many interesting stories in the course of his which he heard in the far North. A oung Eskimo loved a beautiful maidn whose father's hut was near his own, but, as is so often the case, the girl's parents would not hear of the match. One night a great storm ripped up a crevice in the ice, and between the two huts there yawned an abyss bridged only by a slender strip of ice. Here was the chance which the young lover sought. He crossed the frail bridge in the dead of night, and crept to the home of his sweetheart to steal her from her cruel father. The Eskimos sleep in bags of sealskin, and, with bated breath and loudly beating heart, he hoisted on to his back the one in which he thought his lady-love slumbered: He ecrossed the strip of ice, and, safe of the other side, he broke it down with the blow of an axe, so that no one could pursue him save by the aid of a boat. Regaining his own hut he opened the bag to gaze upon the fair one, when, with a cry of horror, he staggered back dumbfounded, for, in his haste to get the affair over, he tacks of Worms, we tried a piece cf2 x 4 Spruce, about two feet in length, by painting one-third with Solignum, leaving the balance clear wood, this we suspended by a wire through the centre, in the water about one foot from the bottom, immediately diately over a pile of stones the remains of a sunken wharf (which is the place where our Wharf Shores are eaten off first) for Three Months. On taking it up at the end of that time we found some half-dezen small holes only a very short distance in the clear part of the wood, which shows the liquid had penetrated through the whole piece and the worms had hardly begun boring before coming in contact with it.

Last year as a test of some brands of Copper Paint we handle, we had a similar piece of wood treated at both ends, leaving the centre third clean; this was in exactly the same place as the piece for the Solignum test for Three Months and Three Days, when taken up the painted ends were perfect but the centre was riddled with worm holes.

Both there pieces of wood are to be seen at our Office by those interested in the preservation of Wharf Piles or any other wood work.
