AN IMPOSING CEREMONY

Consecration of Mgr. Bruchesi, Archbishop of Montreal, at St. James Cathedral.

Nineteen Prelates Occupied Seats in the Sanctuary.

His Grace Archbishop Begin Officiated, Assisted by Mgr. Duhamel of Ottawa and Mgr. Langevin of St. Boniface.

An Eloquent Sermon by Mgr. Emard of Valleyfield.

The Clergy Throughout the Province of Quebec and Representatives of Various Religious Orders Present in Large Numbers.

St. James Cathedral on Sunday morning last witnessed the greatest event in its history. The consecration of His Grace Archbishop Paul Bruchesi is unique in the annals of the Catholic Church of Canada, for to him belongs the honor of being the first prelate consecrated Bishop of Montreal. All his predecessors wore the title transferred from other dioceses. This Mgr. Lartigue was first Bishop of Pleassis, Mgr. Bourget of Telmesse and Archbishop Fabre of Maricopolis and of Montreal in succession to Mgr. Bourget. Mgr. Bruchesi, heretofore Canon, is therefore the first prelate who steps into the charge of the Archdiocese of Montreal as his first episcopal charge, and he is also the first prelate who has been ordained in the great Catholic Cathedral of Canada. The officiating prelates have been already given in the TRUE WITNESSES. Mgr. Begin, the consecrating Bishop, was assisted by Mgrs. Duhamel and Langevin. Rev. Canon Duhamel acted as assistant priest, while Rev. Father Filiatrault, Superior of the Jesuits, and Rev. Abbé Chevrier performed the office of deacon and sub-deacon to Mgr. Begin. Abbé Therien of Mount St. Louis assisted Mgr. Langevin and Rev. Father Lesage, of Chambly, Mgr. Duhamel, Rev. Abbé Perron was master of ceremonies and Rev. Abbé Foucher sub-master of ceremonies.

PROMINENT LAYMEN. Among the laymen present were Sir Adolphe Chapleau, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, with Colonel Drolet and Captain Panet, A.D.C.s; Hon. Felix Marchand, Hon. A. R. Angers, Hon. L. O. Taillon, Justices Wurtele, Baby, Jette, Mathieu, Delormier, Pagnuelo, Loranger, Doherty and Dessecretor and the elect partaking of the Holy Communion together. Archbishop Bruchesi, invested with mitre, staff and ring, was then conducted to the episcopal throne. The Te Deum was intoned, and while its joyful notes were pealing through the church, His Grace stepped from the High Altar to bless the people. The first to receive it and kiss his ring was his mother, who sat near the altar rails during the entire ceremony.

The consecration sermon was delivered by Mgr. Emard, and he chose for his text: "Go, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." His concluding words were: "Long years to your venerable and well beloved Metropolitan Archbishop of Montreal; may your reign be long and prosperous and upon you the plenitude of priesthood, made you the source thereof and confided to you the mission of perpetuating it throughout the world.

Besides the power of jurisdiction, by virtue of which you were already, by your election, pastor and prince of the Church, you now possess, Monsieur, the power of order, you are priest complete, sacrificer par excellence, supreme hierarch. For this reason the members of the chapter of your cathedral and all the clergy of the diocese bow with religious respect before your sacred person, happy to be able to salute, in the well beloved brother of yesterday, in the sympathetic and zealous companion of your labors, the successor of the apostles, the delegate of the Holy regiment of that Church whose glory you promised to obtain and whose interests to defend even to the shedding of your blood. The address from the French Canadian Catholics of the Archdiocese was read by Hon. Judge Loranger and breathed in every word that spirit of devotion to its clergy and its Church which is such a distinguishing attribute of this nation.

The third address, that from the Irish Catholic people of the archdiocese, was read by Hon. Dr. Guerin, and was as follows:— To His Grace, Paul Bruchesi, Archbishop of Montreal. May it please Your Grace:— Who, from the lips of Leo XIII. there came to us, flashing over wires, the great decree there was rejecting in the flock that a Shepherd had been chosen, there was joy among the people that the choice had rested on one so worthy, that you had been named by the Sovereign Pontiff to wear the Mitre and bear the Cross of the Archdiocese of Montreal.

may the Church of Montreal advance under your leadership to the paths of virtue as it did under your predecessors. Long years to you, Archbishop of the City of Mary, the Virgin who loves you and whom you serve with such devotion."

The three congratulatory addresses were then presented to the new Archbishop. The first, that from the clergy of the Archdiocese, was read by Canon Racicot and was as follows:— MONSEIGNEUR—The gorgeous ceremony which the metropolitan church of Mont-

Spirit, invested henceforth with the right to govern them and to rule them. To this sentiment of veneration is added also those of joy, of submission and of hope. Monsignor, the Church of Montreal has been for several months in mourning. The death of the most illustrious Mgr. Edouard-Charles Fabre, of sweet and honored memory, had interrupted the line of pontiffs and cast over all a veil of sadness. But to day that a new pastor is given, that a new chief, chosen by the Vicar of Jesus Christ, takes in hand the direction of affairs, it is with the very ecstasy of sincere joy that this temple is filled with all the splendors of the Catholic cult.

Moreover, the post that is confided to you, Monsignor, is a precious one. The past history of the diocese is not, indeed, without glory and your illustrious predecessors have created illustrious traditions, have been fruitful in good works, have exercised upon all the country an influence often preponderant, sustained at times hard and valiant combats, whether to strengthen the faith in the souls of men or to preserve in their integrity the inalienable rights of Holy Church. Under the pious and sage direction of NN. SS. Lartigue, Bourget and Fabre, the Diocese of Montreal has become one of the most illustrious of the world, and our metropolitan city has deserved to be called the Rome of America.

Called to continue these traditions, to further develop these works, to preserve to Montreal this prestige and this éclat, you have the right, Monsignor, to count upon the co-operation of your chapter and of all your clergy, secular and regular.

In nationally, language and religion, is surely a stupendous work; but the Holy Father has presumed from your past career that you possessed the wisdom and prudence necessary to carry it out with success, and it behooves us to assist you in the execution of your duties by prompt and absolute submission to your instructions and to your advice.

"The eminent part which you have taken in the important work of public instruction is a special guarantee to us that under your administration the cause of education will always find an enlightened protector in the person of the Archbishop of Montreal. Our laws on public instruction as all other human institutions can no doubt be perfected, but they rest upon a just principle and are adapted to the needs of the country. While these laws respond to the legitimate aspirations of the different classes of society they enable all to receive religious education, through the fact that they give to each denomination the control of its own schools. And we make it a duty for us to proclaim earnestly that from the point of view of our national autonomy that control is essential."

fighters for the poor, hospitals for the sick. Learned and holy priests are ever given to us; gentle and devoted nuns walk by our side; and wherever we turn our eyes in our beloved land, they can find rest and refreshment on the shining Cross of a Church spire. We have watched the high aims, the high hopes, the high hearts which have crowned the City of Montreal with this magnificent cathedral, and when we look up to its noble dome, we feel a thrill of pride, for we, too, Irish Catholics, can claim it as our own.

In the elevation of Your Grace to the Episcopal See, there is a feeling of exultation among the younger generation. They delight in your virtues, your piety, your talents and your learning—for has not your boyhood been passed among them? Many have lingered with you in the same college halls, learned the same lessons from the same honored teachers, and knelt daily with you at the same altar. To-day, a reflex of the honor that has come to you falls upon them; and while reverencing you as the chief pastor, they rejoice as brothers to over a brother's high attainments.

With these, Your Grace, and with all the faithful of your diocese, the Irish Catholics unite in praying God that you may be long spared to guide and direct them.

THE PRELATES WHO WERE PRESENT.

The prelates who took part in the solemn function were: Mgr. Begin, titular Archbishop of Cyrene and administrator of the Diocese of Quebec; Mgr. Duhamel, Archbishop of Ottawa; Mgr. Langevin, Archbishop of St. Boniface; Mgr. Laflèche, Bishop of Three Rivers; Mgr. Moreau, Bishop of St. Hyacinthe; Mgr. Clut, titular Bishop of Arindelle and vicar-apostolic of the North-West Territories; Mgr. Loraine, Bishop of Pembroke; Mgr. Gravel, Bishop of Nicolet; Mgr. Ludden, Bishop of Syracuse; Mgr. Dowling, Bishop of Hamilton; Mgr. McDonald, Bishop of Charlottetown; Mgr. Emard, Bishop of Valleyfield, Mgr. Michaud, Bishop of Burlington, Vt.; Mgr. Decelles, titular Bishop of Druzipara and co-adjutor Bishop of St. Hyacinthe; Mgr. Labrecque, Bishop of Chicoutimi; Mgr. Larocque, Bishop of Sherbrooke; Mgr. Macdonnell, Bishop of Alexandria; Mgr. Gabriels, of Ogdensburg, and Dom Antoine, Mitred Abbot of the Trappist Monastery, Oka; Mgr. Tanguay, Mgr. Gaay, Mgr. Marois, Mgr. Champoux, Mgr. Ritchot, Mgr. McEvoy and Mgr. Hamel. Archbishop Cleary of Kingston was represented by Vicar General Gauthier and Rev. Father Bayard the Bishop of London, Bishop Blais of Rimouki was present in the person of the Rev. Father Vézina.

THE CLERGY WHO ATTENDED.

Never before in the history of the city was there such a gathering of clergy as that which attended the consecration ceremony. Not only was every priest of the diocese who could possibly be spared from his parish in attendance, but there were hundreds from Western and Eastern Canada and the States. Among those best known to the readers of the TRUE WITNESSES were noticed the following:—Rev. Abbé Colin, Superior of Seminary of St. Sulpice; Rev. Abbé Troie, curé of Notre Dame; Rev. Abbé Larocque, curé of St. Louis de France; Rev. Father Quiniyan, parish priest of St. Patrick's; Rev. Father O'Donnell, parish priest of St. Mary's; Rev. Father Donnelly, parish priest of St. Anthony's; Rev. Father Schaffault, C.S.S.R., parish priest of St. Ann's; Rev. W. O'Meara, parish priest, St. Gabriel's; Rev. Father

His Grace's replies to all the addresses were peculiarly touching and the one spoken more particularly to the Irish race was one which appeal directly to the heart of the Catholic Irishman. He said:— Honorable sir,—Grateful, indeed, am I for this kind tribute of loyalty and affection on the part of the English-speaking portion of that flock which God has entrusted to my spiritual guidance. BLAKE IN THE BREACH.

He Relates the Old Slanderous Charge of Intemperance.

Some Interesting Statistics—Ireland (compared With Britain) is a Sober Country.

Canadian Irishmen, and Irishmen the world over, ought to hold in high esteem the name of Edward Blake, the member for Longford. Every recurring day brings proof of his uncompromising championship of our race, and he is ever in the breach to beat back to the vile sea of slander from which they emanate the lies and calumnies which our enemies seek to prevent that justice being rendered us which our rights as a nation demand.

Such heartfelt utterances are the ray of sunshine that glids with divine hope my future labors in your midst. The expression of your love may be different from that of my mother-tongue, but the common bond of our dear faith has made us all kin.

He believed there was no danger to American institutions. The crisis for democracy, he said, will come when comes the crisis for religion, because morals are most closely connected with religion.

said that the press is the modern established church. A fearful responsibility rests upon the press. Oh, for a moral press, that will record virtues and admire them; that will never pander to depraved taste, either in the kind of news which is published, or the manner in which it is published.

PHILADELPHIA, August 9, 1897.—One of the most expensive, most uncomfortable and most delightful of books is a good atlas. No matter how you place it, no matter what sort of table, desk or support is invented and experimented with, it is a difficult matter to study it without a back-breaking weariness for the student and a gradual dislocation for the atlas.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE FASHIONS.

The New York Post says: There is a persistent effort in certain fashionable quarters to carry on the rather feeble revival of early Victorian fashions.

The dominant note of Parisian fashions is the lavish use of transparent textiles of every color, wave, and design.

Finest French organdie in Marie Antoinette devices is decidedly one of the marked favorites of fashion, and has this summer a prominent place among her chosen materials.

Sleeves of diaphanous gowns are still very elaborately frilled, tucked, shirred, wrinkled, etc., from wrist to puff.

Flemish lace wrought on delicate net grounds are much used to trim mulls, organdies, ceru lawns, and similar transparent fabrics.

Three light puffs of hair deftly arranged around a bunch of short, airy curls is gaining favor both here and abroad among evening coiffures and also for fashionable afternoon entertainments.

White mohair still holds its own among favored summer textiles. A white mohair gown worn upon the beach by a very pretty young lady from Philadelphia is made with a blouse bodice, the front in pleats, but not at all baggy.

The favor which the new double-faced French cashmere textiles received last spring will be greatly increased the coming season. This fabric, like all soft wools, lends itself most admirably to the making of gowns as they are now fashioned.

Isabel A. Mallon writes of "A Bride's Moderate Trousseau" in the August Ladies' Home Journal. "The girl who has a fortune at her command needs no suggestions," she says, "but the girl who has to think out the wisdom of every dollar spent on her trousseau is the one who asks for advice."

There are two new coffee pots for next season's campaign, and to the delight of housekeepers and coffee drinkers, both pots are good.

The German pot is of copper, an egg-shaped affair, swinging in an oval frame, with an alcohol lamp beneath.

Those pots made after the French model are especially desirable for making black coffee. They are more ornamental than the German model, and can be had in copper, brass, or nickel plated.

Nothing is more delightful or more appetizing than a meal out of doors; that is, the right sort of meal spread in the right sort of place, which does not mean, for very often, picnic hard-boiled eggs and equally hard-rock seats.

RUSSIA'S POPULATION.

A census has been taken of the population of Russia. It shows that that country is the most populous of any in Europe. Still it does not overbalance the rest of the continent.

A PECULIAR INCIDENT.

A Convict's Qu-er Attempt to Escape—Escorted by Marshals, He Paddled His Sepulchral Canoe.

Some curious details of the life of the French convicts at Cayenne, Guyane, and the Safety Islands are given by M. Paul Mirmade in a volume which he has just published in Paris, entitled "Forcats et Procrits."

Perhaps the most remarkable of them all is that of the assassin Lupi, who went to sea in a coffin. He managed to get some nails, tar, and cotton, and one dark night he got into the coffin shed.

Now, 150 nautical miles in a coffin did not constitute a very tempting enterprise, but Lupi was full of confidence. At the penitentiary it was soon discovered that he was missing.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, for Lupi, the steamer Abeille, returning from the Antilles, off Paramaribo, came close to him. The Captain noticed an object that looked like a piece of wreckage around which a flock of seagulls were circling and screaming.

The thing which at first he took to be a piece of wreckage turned out to be a coffin, and in addition to its noisy winged escort it was accompanied by two guards that travelled on either side of it like mounted escorts at the doors of an official carriage.

Unseaworthy boats are sometimes called coffins, but Lupi is perhaps the only man who ever went to sea in a genuine coffin.

THE AMERICAN HAY CROP.

The New York hay crop is larger than that of any other State in the Union, but this year the recent heavy rains have damaged part of it.

New York State hay always has the commercial advantage of access to market. The value of the New York hay crop is $50,000,000 a year, and what is called "State hay" (New York State hay) is placed on the same common rail plane as Kentucky whiskey, Maryland tobacco and Vermont maple sugar.

In 1898 the total American product of hay was 65,000,000 tons, and the average price by the ton was $8.68. In 1894 the product was 54,000,000 tons, of a value of $3.54, or 14 cents a ton less.
