Lieut. Governor Todd Urges Full Use of Canadian Ports

CLASIFIED AT OKLAHOMA

ENGINEERS WELCOMED TO ST. JOHN

Lieut. Gov. Todd Urges Full Development of Canadian Ports.

REFERS TO LUMBER

Large Attendance at Annual Meeting — Dry Dock Attracts Many.

Sounding a note of optimism for Canada and urging full use of the ports of the Dominion for transport of the products of the country, His Honor Lieut. Governor Todd welcomed to St. John today an important body of men, members of the engineering profession, in maritime conference.

An interesting illustrated paper on the new St. John dry dock — largest in the world — which will be opened next month, was delivered by E. G. Cameron, A. M. E. I. C., chief engineer of the St. John Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co., and also was a feature of the opening session of the Maritime professional meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Immediately after the presentation of this paper the delegates went to the site of the dry dock where its construction and workings were explained by Mr. Cameron. The visitors were guests of the Company at luncheon.

Nearly 100 delegates from all parts of the Dominion were present at the first session which was held in the rooms of the St. John Board of Trade. The president, Walter J. Francis, of Montreal, was in the chair and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors.

The president, in opening the meeting expressed satisfaction at the excellent attendance. He introduced His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. F. Todd of N. B.

The Lieutenant-Governor. His Honor first voiced his pleasure in attending the large gathering of engineers. He paid a high tribute to the standing of the profession and the good work it was doing in the country.

Referring to unemployment he said he felt that there was hope that the tide would soon turn and an era of prosperity would follow throughout Canada.

Canada, he said, was rich in natural resources and he felt that in the future a great deal of the wealth of the United States would find an opportunity of investment in Canada and help to develop the natural resources, which would make for a greater Canada.

Canada's western crop this year was estimated at 450,000,000 bushels. He anticipated that it would not be many years until the crop was a billion bushels, and this country would become the granary of the world. Immigration was needed to carry out these hopes and Canada should welcome immigrants.

Use Own Ports. A great part of Canada's wheat was shipped through U. S. ports, taking away revenue from Canadian workers and railways. He felt that the ports of Canada should be developed as they ought to be, that the great Transcontinental Railway should be used to the fullest so that the crops of Canada could be shipped through the country's own ports. It was the duty and obligation of the whole country, he said, that these products should be shipped through Canadian ports.

Canadian fisheries, he said, had no superior in the world. The wealth of lumber in New Brunswick. The proposed embargo on pulpwood from Canada would likely be followed by the erection of paper mills in the province. A large amount of the acreage here belonged to private companies. Should paper mills be built here the likelihood would be a combination to reduce costs of material. Legislation, he thought would be necessary to provide a fair price to private owners of lumber properties for their products.

He urged the engineers to base their decisions in the matter of public works for the different sections of the country on the actual needs of the work proposed.

Alfonso Moves The Primo-Rivera's Heart

Paris, Sept. 26.—"I am leaving for Madrid. Thou art responsible for order." This was the telegram received by General Primo-Rivera, the president of the Military Directorate in Spain, on September 13, after Primo-Rivera, at the head of the Barcelona garrison, had overthrown the local authorities and demanded the resignation of the Madrid Cabinet.

The telegram was dated San Sebastian and signed "Alfonso, King of Spain." The intimate appellation "Alfonso" which in the Latin language is bestowed only upon bosom friends, is said to have gone direct to Captain General Primo-Rivera's heart, and he took a solemn oath to maintain law and order at all costs.

LLOYD GEORGE IS SCORED FOR TRIP

Letter to Press Charges Leader With Leaving on Eve of Campaign. London, Sept. 26.—Now on the threshold of the fall, when other political parties are preparing for extensive campaigns, we are charged to find our leader going on a holiday across the Atlantic.

This cry, from the heart, is contained in a letter written to the press by a Georgian, who expressed wonder how Lloyd George can welcome the prospect of being acclaimed in a remote country while his political followers are left marooned on this side of the ocean.

The object of the letter was to induce H. H. Asquith, who is organizing a gigantic autumn campaign, to throw open his fold to dissatisfied Georgians. To some extent this has been successful. It has evoked the reply from the Liberal headquarters in London that will be found at a great meeting to be held today for all who desire to participate in the forthcoming Liberal drive.

RUHR ZONE PLACARDED BY GERMANS

Proclamation in Connection With Abandonment of Passive Resistance.

PATIENCE IS ASKED

Cabinet Determines Method to Withdraw Railway and Other Agents.

(Canadian Press) Berlin, Sept. 26.—An official proclamation signed by President Ebert, Chancellor Stresemann and all the cabinet members, announcing the German Government's abandonment of passive resistance in the Ruhr, will be placarded throughout Germany today. It will set forth the reasons which make the surrender imperative and also admonish the nation to bear with the government in the present critical period.

At the session of the cabinet which continued until after midnight, the government discussed the question of its decision to definitively formulate the formula adopted and also constitute the crux of the statement to be made to Reichstag by the Chancellor Thursday afternoon.

The cabinet also determined the manner in which the existing orders to the railway, telegraph and postal employees and the fiscal agents in the occupied areas will be withdrawn.

Surrender Important. London, Sept. 26.—Germany's unconditional surrender in the Ruhr, today's meeting of the British cabinet with additional importance. It is the first cabinet council in several weeks, during which time events of great moment directly affecting British interests have happened. The usual, and no official report of them is to be expected.

It is taken for granted that the foremost subject of the meeting will be foreign affairs, and that before the close of the meeting the ministers will be in possession of a full account from Premier Baldwin of his much discussed conversation with Premier Poincare. It is not supposed, however, that the cabinet members will be called upon to decide any important point of policy in view of the present uncertainty in the situation all around.

To Make Concessions. The political writers in the morning press for the most part refrain from speculation as to the future. The Daily Telegraph's expert, however, is confident that France will waive any tactical advantage she may have obtained over Great Britain in consequence of her success in the Ruhr, that Premier Baldwin is ready to make concessions to the Germans when the time comes, and that the practical aim at the present stage of Anglo-French negotiations is to ensure a united allied front in the dealings with Germany begin in earnest, as must happen in a few days. Poincare is waiting.

Paris, Sept. 26.—Premier Poincare, who returned to the foreign office this morning from a couple of days rest at his summer home in Sampringy, is awaiting the actual cessation of resistance in the Ruhr and the completion of the industrial interests there with the orders of the authorities of occupation, before forming an opinion as to the significance of political events in Germany.

This was made public today by a high official close to the Premier.

Teeth and Specs Gone Workhouse For Him. New York, Sept. 26.—Minus a nose, his front teeth gone, his watch and glasses stolen, William Schmidt, 52, pleaded with Magistrate Barrett in Essex Market Court to be sent back to the workhouse after a month's sentence for intoxication.

Schmidt was contented when he left the workhouse on Friday, because he had new glasses and new teeth. He drew $25 he had left in a bank to celebrate and was found drunk at Fourth Street and the Bowery.

"I'm in hard luck, Your Honor," he told the court. "I don't know what became of my teeth. And my watch and glasses are gone, too. Please send me to the workhouse again." The court complied.

The ten banks which were represented by messengers had a dozen guards at the Clearing House, and there were altogether 26 messengers. Each bank also had guards at its doors.

REVOLUTION IS NOT CONFIRMED

Sensational Report From Belgrade Is Not Substantiated, London Reports.

London, Sept. 26.—The sensational report printed here yesterday of the complete success of the revolutionary movement in Bulgaria receives no confirmation in later despatches from any source.

The Morning Post, which carried the story on Tuesday, does not attempt to substantiate it, and the brief telegram from the same correspondent that appears this morning contains no mention of the Belgrade rumor.

These other newspapers have detailed despatches from their special correspondents in Sofia under date of Tuesday. Even if these are completely correct, they do not mention that communication with the Bulgarian capital is still open, and that the Government is functioning.

J. N. GOLDING'S DEAD AT AGE 84

Good Citizen, Who Leaves Record of Life Well Spent.

John Nelson Golding, aged eighty-four years, died at the home of his son, Walter H. Golding, 38 Sydney street, early last evening after confinement to his bed for three weeks, rounding out a fruitful life of kindly useful citizenship, enjoying the respect and friendship of all who knew him and leaving to those of his immediate family a legacy not of worldly wealth but of unflinching example in the better things of life.

The late Mr. Golding moved about in his accustomed circle of limited activity up to the first of the month. Gradual decline in strength then forced him to forego his daily walks and rides, this decline finally taking him to his chair and bed.

Mr. Golding was the only son of John Nelson Golding, grandson of a Loyalist, and was a native of this city. His whole life was devoted to the printing and publishing business, first with the late Roger Hunter and then for a full half century with J. & J. McMillan, having served faithfully under three generations of that firm, a service gratefully recognized in his ten years of retirement.

Through his long connection with the publishing and book manufacturing trade, Mr. Golding saw Canada go forward in this branch of enterprise from the primitive hand-made processes to the mechanical devices which have revolutionized the art.

A quiet-mannered gentleman of enterprising spirit coupled with domestic tastes, the late Mr. Golding lived as all good citizens do and was held in high esteem for it all. He was once active in Oddfellowship, a Conservative in politics, a Baptist in religious denomination. Mrs. Golding died in 1911. The family surviving are: John N. Golding, Jr., and Walter H., of the Imperial Theatre staff, and Mrs. Charles H. (Olive) Coburn, of United States. There are twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mrs. Ruth Mookler, of Medford, Mass., is a sister and in Boston and vicinity there are numerous nieces and nephews with their families of young men and women.

The death of Mr. Golding removes a familiar figure in the busy places of St. John and further thins out the once one line of close-up Loyalist descendants. Fidelity to business associates and a deep love of home and country were the only barriers to Mr. Golding's merited success in his line of work in larger fields.

Mrs. Coburn has been in the city for a fortnight assisting in the care of her father.

Business Conditions

Increase in British Foreign Trade—Less Activity in Belgium.

Washington, Sept. 26.—European cables to the Department of Commerce report a decided increase in British foreign trade; slightly less commercial and industrial activity in Belgium; considerable improvement in Norway; moderate activity in Denmark and Finland; dullness in Holland; and depression in Poland and Rumania. Unemployment is serious in Holland and Poland, but has decreased in Norway and Finland, and is negligible in Belgium. British exports increased $11,000,000 in August, exports declined $600,000 and re-exports $2,670,000. Exports from Finland and Norway increased and Poland's trade balance for the first six months of 1923 was reported favorable. Crop conditions generally are good except in Norway, where the Far East show some improvement in the Philippines, where increased prices for native products has caused a slight revival of commercial buying and heavily increased Australian imports, notably of motor vehicles. Basic conditions in Australia are reported sound. Depression due mainly to high prices and fluctuating exchange continues in Java and India.

Defence In Ward Murder Trial Ends

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 26.—A sensational equal to that of yesterday when the state abruptly ended the prosecution came today at the trial of Walter S. Ward, charged with murdering Clarence Peters, of Haverhill, Mass., when the defense announced by the jury that it rested its case without submitting any testimony.

After announcing that the defense rested, L. N. Mills, attorney counsel for the defense, renewed his motion that the indictment be dismissed and the jury be instructed to return a verdict of acquittal but Justice Wagner again denied all motions.

This Suite "Stumps" The Ad Writer

To pick out any one of its fresh points of interest and put it in the headline would fall far to do justice to the entirety of beauty and special construction. To report it in large type as one having two wing-backed Fireside Chairs means losing sight of the hand-blended Silk Plush Mohair, the colorings of which are so appealing.

To announce it simply as something wonderful means running to vague claims—contrary to Marcus policy. To refer to the thorough hair and moss packing is but to touch on one strong point among many. And likewise to say the Chesterfield proper is eight feet long is also reporting but one advantage.

The figuring of lily-like blooms in a riot of Purple and Rose and Taupe—all accomplished by hand blocking on expensive plush—occurs on front, sides and rear. The modified back wings, the enduring comfort and the various points of distinction can only be grasped by a glance at the real thing in our middle window.

The first man to take off his coat and get to work in 1920 happened to be a Republican, Maj. Frank Knox of Manchester, editor and publisher of the state's largest newspaper.

There is a man in the state today who are unsparing in their praise for what Knox has done and who are convinced that he was not actuated by a selfish motive. There are others, whom Knox's aggressive editorial policy has offended, who have never lost a chance to ask what political office he was going to seek as a reward for what he had done. To an impartial observer it appears as if Knox's activity was a combination of selfishness and "unselfishness. He had invested the savings of a lifetime and a dozen years of hard work into building up his newspaper properties. Their future depended on the success of the state which they served. Knox was a good enough business man to realize that a decadent New Hampshire would inevitably mean a decadent Manchester Union, and to this extent at least there was selfishness in what he did. On the other hand, Knox is a fairly natural sort of human being, of the type we had pleased to call red-blooded, and he had been up and down the state enough to work up a sympathy for the farmer who was fighting a losing game. He had often enjoyed the thrill which comes from writing an editorial which set the whole state talking, and his sporting blood wondered if there were not a thrill of the same sort in performing an unselfish task for a fellow man. Half a dozen years before, Knox would probably have written a few editorials, made a few speeches and then sat back to await results. But he had been through the war, as a major of artillery. He was fed up on speeches. While in Europe he had heard of the tremendous prosperity which the little nation of Denmark had attained by scientific methods, so he packed a bag, hopped aboard a transatlantic liner, and went to Denmark to get ideas. He brought back with him the experience of that country, which a half century before had faced ruin because it was wasting itself raising the wrong crops, but which had set out to make itself the greatest dairying nation in the world, and had succeeded beyond the wildest dreams of its citizens. He brought back also the Danish scheme of co-operative marketing, originally borrowed from our own Wisconsin, but developed there to an unparalleled efficiency. Out of the trip came a co-operative marketing movement in New Hampshire.

In the meantime Commissioner Felker, noting that at the peak of wartime prices the farmer was paying a tax of $15 to $20 per ton on his grain to middlemen, organized Farmers' Exchanges in seven of the largest counties in the State, through which the man who needs seed or machinery gets it at rock-bottom prices. These agencies, co-operative marketing and Farmers' Exchanges, have brought about an agricultural revival.

The leaders in the movement realized, however, that they must not only have remedies but men and women whom to apply them. Sons and daughters of New Hampshire are scattered

N. Y. Irish Crowd Battle Police And Court Attendants

Melee Followed Republican
Meeting In Which Speaker Was Arrested.

New York, Sept. 26.—A crowd of 280 Irish fought court attendants and the reserves of two precincts in the corridors of the men's night court, in West 84th street, following the arrest of John J. Shea, a speaker at an Irish meeting late last Saturday night. After the doors of the court had been barred, and shields, night sticks and axes torn from the policemen, seven of the participants were arrested. The Irish meeting was held in West 97th street, and Policeman Barnet Ruditsky, of the West 100th street station, and Mrs. Mary Minor, 16 West 64th street, who had charge of the decorations, got into an argument about the hunting Shea, then speaking, asked for the officer's shield number. The outcome was the arrest of Shea for disorderly conduct, and 1,000 persons trailing back of him to the station. Shea told the desk lieutenant that he was an officer of the Archbishop Plunkett Council of the Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, and an attendance officer for the board of education. He was bailed out, but 250 of the crowd outside had started for the night court to give Shea their moral support on his arraignment. Arriving at the court the crowd inquired for Shea. Court attendants told them that he had been released at the station house, but they refused to leave the corridor, and when the court attendants insisted, there was a clash. According to the policemen, the men in the crowd punched and kicked, while the women fought with umbrellas and fists. In wedge formation the ten court defenders charged the attacking force and drove it to the sidewalks. Then calls for help were sent to the West 47th street and West 68th street stations. The reinforcements arrived in automobiles and afoot, and a ten minute battle in the street ensued. Twenty-seven of the attacking contingent were taken into the court building, but only seven were arrested. According to Mrs. Minor she was on her way from the court when Policeman Edward Sands, of the 68th street station, seized the Irish republican flag she was carrying. Sympathizers singled Sands out for special attention, and he was being roughly handled when, according to Mrs. Minor, he drew his revolver and managed to get back into the court building. When the seven prisoners were arraigned before Magistrate Corrigan, Shea was also lined up. After listening to the evidence, the magistrate discharged the group. Mrs. McCarthy then demanded that Policeman Sands return a silk umbrella that he had seized. The court directed Sands to comply, but when he failed to do so fast enough for Mrs. McCarthy, she grabbed it and made an uncomplimentary remark. Magistrate Corrigan heard the remark and directed that a complaint of disorderly conduct be lodged against the woman. She was fined $10, which friends paid.

on the train enthralled with the magnificent picture presented before them. Those that have gone to Woodstock declare that if anything the scenery is still more attractive. At this season of the year, the scene presented is simply gorgeous, as added to the usual picturesque view, there are the trees, with the leaves in their autumn tint, in a regular riot of colors, all that fairly holds the onlookers as they observe a scene of nature that eclipses the handiwork of any artist. There are many people who travel thousands of miles on this Continent, and even to Europe, to gaze upon the scenic attractions of those countries, who have never seen those in the Maritime Provinces, who practically are unaware what we have at home and they can not fail to have tastes fully gratified in making a trip on the St. John Valley railroad, along the St. John River.

A Wonderful Variety Of Women's Winter Coats

Excellent Value and Style Variety Distinguish the Smart Coats in this important showing.

Timely buying enables us to present this attractive group of coats just when every woman is thinking about a cooler weather wrap. It will take but a glance at the many fine models assembled here to prove that prices are right and in many cases the values offer you extra special buying opportunities.

Collars of Kit Fox, Beaver and soft, long haired furs of various kinds add greatly to coats of gerona cloth, marvela or Bolivia. These materials are soft, lustrous and velvety and are fashioned with such new style details as, side-tie sashes, set in sleeves, loose cuffs and sometimes circular skirts.

Plain coats without fur collars are also showing extensively and may be found in the plainer tailored models with belts, pockets and raglan sleeves; or in styles similar to fur-collared models. Rich Hindoo browns, blueish greys and navy blue are fashion's favorites, however, many other colors are showing. Among them, heathers, plaids and stripes. Prices in most cases are very moderate.

Trade Conditions Show Improvement

(Ottawa Journal)
The coming of autumn weather has tended to stimulate trade in Canada and a more optimistic sentiment prevails in most centres of activity. The public is reported to be easing up on its propensity to save, and is becoming more liberal in the matter of spending money. Collections have consequently shown a slight improvement, but remittances on the whole are still much below the average. The demand for goods at retail houses has indicated an encouraging increase, with the enquiry extending to all departments without discrimination.

Quiet confidence prevails in wholesale circles in Toronto, accompanied by a fair demand for goods, but advice from Montreal are to the effect that orders are still marked by moderation and are hardly up to the figures of a year ago. Buying is usually for immediate delivery. Orders, while comparatively numerous, are not as large as they were wont to be at this season. The fact of the matter would appear to be that buying in small lots has become so well established among retailers that it has now come to be regarded as a normal condition.

Wool prices, according to reports emanating from British depots, have increased, despite the fact that knitting industries in this country were only occasionally active, and the cloth were purchasing cautionary tactics. Tailors note a slightly better demand for men's clothing. Salesmen for dry goods houses have been receiving liberal orders for bedding and seasonal requisites for home comfort. The demand for sugar is now better than it was in midsummer, but still not as heavy as it usually is at this season. American sugar can be brought into the country at prices below the list quotations of Canadian refiners. General groceries are in good demand, and there have been no noteworthy changes in values. The tea market continues to show all the strength noted for some months past.

Manufacturing plants, excepting in a few instances, are well employed, especially those engaged in the making of products from artificial silk. With the demoralization of the silk market assured for some months to come, fibre busy, while a steady demand for all staple lines of lumber is anticipated. Business in Winnipeg, both wholesale and retail, has shown a moderate improvement. It is felt that, while the prices of wheat are not at present as good as they should be, they may be better before many months go by, while the new crop money in any case is bound to bring in better buying of seasonal lines of goods. Advice from the farmers will be much improved as a result of the good crop in the province of Alberta. The lumber trade in British Columbia is becoming more active, and it is expected that that province will be called upon to supply a large part of the needs of Japan for reconstruction work.
