

GREAT SUCCESS OF THE HOUSE YESTERDAY

Delegates Found Meetings of Interest and Decidedly Profitable.

WINNERS AT THE PROVINCIAL SEED FAIR.

Hon. J. A. Murray to go to Ottawa About Fertilizer Question—May Hold Mid-Summer Meeting.

Fredericton, March 6.—The most successful convention in the history of the Farmers and Dairyman's Association of New Brunswick came to a close here yesterday afternoon. More than two hundred delegates from all parts of the province were in attendance at the sessions and all received great benefit from the inspiring and instructive lectures, as well as from the general discussion that followed the talks. The delegates were fully satisfied that the convention had been the most helpful in the existence of the organization. One farmer from the eastern part of Westmorland county expressed the opinion that he had derived more benefit from the meeting than he had by home study in the last ten years. He said he would never miss another meeting. These were the sentiments expressed by nearly all the delegates.

A new departure this year was the discussions which were open to all members, and full advantage was taken of the opportunity of asking questions and exchanging experiences. Farmers who had much the same manner of soils got together and compared their methods, and in almost every case both improved potatoes which will be put to use in the coming season. Another matter for general satisfaction was the general interest taken in the deliberations of the farmers by the members of the legislature and the officials of the department of agriculture. Everything possible was done by these men to benefit the farmers, and when J. A. Murray, the new minister of agriculture, called the delegates in consultation with him in regard to the live stock question he struck a note that was responded to by every farmer in New Brunswick. Hon. Mr. Murray showed that he wished to benefit the agricultural part of the province, and it was his aim to call in the assistance of the farmers to make New Brunswick the best farming and stock raising part of the Dominion of Canada.

He promised that something would be done immediately for the fostering of the cattle raising industry and the upbuilding of that great source of income to the farmer. The farmers felt that in Mr. Murray they had a true friend who was ready to help their interests in the government of the country.

Hon. Mr. Murray's Prompt Work.

One of the resolutions at the convention was in regard to the inspection of fertilizers and a request for the Dominion government to amend the regulations so that manufacturers would have to state on labels just what plant food was contained in the fertilizers.

Mr. Murray immediately took the matter up and asked the convention to appoint a man to accompany him to Ottawa immediately after the close of the session here, and assist him in presenting the matter to the federal authorities. The request was the representative selected.

Potato Growing.

The last day of the convention was as busy as the others and many important subjects were discussed. Potato culture was treated by Dr. Robert Newton and C. Fred Fawcett, and these men brought many points in regard to the planting, cultivation and harvesting of potatoes.

Dr. Newton explained the best means of culture and advised all farmers to have an experimental plot of his own where he could try out different kinds of seed and methods. He thought this was a good plan for other crops besides potatoes.

The speaker soon had all the delegates interested and there was a discussion that brought out the different phases of the potato business that proved particularly helpful.

New Brunswick he thought presented ideal conditions for potato growing and he urged to farmers to secure as large a yield as possible.

During the meeting it was decided to rearrange the by-laws governing the organization and the following committee was appointed to draw up the new regulations and submit them at the next meeting: W. W. Hubbard, R. O. Murray, S. L. Peters, Thos. Strong and A. R. Wetmore.

In the afternoon R. E. Gorham talked to the delegates and he enumerated the different affections found in New Brunswick and described ways of treating these. He particularly warned the farmers of the powdery mildew infection and urged them to unite with the Department of Agriculture in stamping out this plague.

After the judging of the seeds entered in the provincial seed fair, the meeting adjourned.

It is likely that a mid-summer meeting will be held when the members will assemble at the experimental farms at Doak and besides transacting business will have an opportunity of

APPLICATION FOR AID HAS BEEN RECEIVED

Formal Request for Government Assistance to C. N. T. Presented.

NOT KNOWN WHAT FORM OF HELP ASKED

Mackenzie and Mann Place Request in Premier's Hands—Guarantee of Bonds Probable.

Ottawa, March 6.—A formal application for federal assistance to complete the financing of the Canadian Northern Transcontinental system was placed in Premier Borden's hands today by Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann. It was accompanied by a memorandum setting forth the company's plans, financial requirements, and the expenditures, and obligations incurred to date, with a supplementary statement also as to the amount of public aid which has already been given the road.

Although no specific request as to the character of the aid desired is said to be formally on file, it is understood that what the company is now pressing for is a federal guarantee of a bond issue to the value of $2,000,000 sterling or $55,000,000.

ARMY NEPHEW WANTS TO HEAD A REVOLT AGAINST PRES. HUERTA

Washington, Mar. 6.—Felix Diaz, nephew of Porfirio Diaz, the exiled dictator, and the man who wants the United States to approve a new revolution under his leadership, which, he says, will overthrow Huerta and restore peace in Mexico, waited in the capital today hoping to get a hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Although some senators pronounced his proposals "preposterous," and were against giving him a hearing, others contending the Senate should get all the information available about Mexico were in favor of hearing him.

PROF. CUTTEN SPEAKS AT BIG CONVENTION

New Haven, Conn., Mar. 6.—Address and discussions on child welfare, social hygiene and various phases of the relations between education and religion occupied the attention of delegates at today's sessions of the Religious Education Association Convention.

It was recommended that "child welfare" be the general topic for next year's meeting, which will probably be held at Buffalo, N. Y. Prof. Cutten of Acadia University, Wolfville, N. E., spoke on the "Moral Influence of the Curriculum."

BRIEF SESSION OF THE HOUSE YESTERDAY

Bill Relating to Harbor Fisheries Agreed to With Amendment.

SCHOOL REPORT FOR YEAR PRESENTED.

Moncton Bills Presented by Dr. Price—Several Notices of Inquiry Received—Adjournment Until Monday.

Fredericton, March 6.—The legislature held only a brief session this afternoon and then adjourned until Monday evening. The House met at 3.30 p. m.

Hon. Mr. Fleming presented the annual report of the schools of New Brunswick, 1913-14.

Mr. Young presented the report of the committee on agriculture.

Mr. Baxter presented the report of the committee on standing laws.

Hon. Mr. Wilson introduced a bill to consolidate the law relating to Sewerage and Water Supply in the City of St. John and portions of the Parishes of Lancaster and St. Mary's. Also a bill to amend the Municipalities Act.

Mr. Baxter introduced a bill to make provision for balconies in the General Public Hospital, St. John. Also a bill to amend the act to provide for the government of St. John by an elective commission. Also on behalf of Mr. Carson, a bill to provide for the extension of the St. John Street Railway into the Parish of St. Mary's.

Mr. Tillet introduced a bill to amend the Parish of Lancaster Sewerage Act, 1903.

Woman Franchise.

Hon. Mr. Wilson introduced a bill to provide for the taking of a plebiscite as to whether or not the franchise should be extended to married women in civic elections in the City of St. John. He explained that the bill was promoted by the Common Council of St. John at the instance of the Council of Women, who demanded that married women own property in the city should have the right to vote in civic elections.

Dr. Price presented the petition of the First Moncton United Baptist Church in favor of bill to enable that corporation to issue debentures. Also several petitions from the City Council of Moncton respectively in favor of bills to fix the valuation of industries in the city for taxation purposes; to provide for permanent improvements in the city; for the issue of debentures to enable the construction of permanent streets and sidewalks; to authorize the appointment of a police magistrate for the city of Moncton.

Mr. Dugal gave notice of inquiry with regard to the alleged indebtedness of M. F. Fidler, M.L.A., to the province for unpaid stumpage and other accounts, and also a further inquiry as to the same gentleman's conduct with the fishing, the council had purchased the fishing rights took them subject to any risk of interruption there might be in connection with the construction work. The subject of the bill was to make all this perfectly clear.

The bill was agreed to with a verbal amendment.

The House adjourned at 4.30 p. m. until 8.30 p. m. Monday.

Fisheries Bill.

The House went into committee with Mr. Young in the chair, and took up the consideration of the bill relating to fisheries in the harbor of St. John. Mr. Baxter in explaining same, said that these fisheries were vested in several owners. Those on the east side belong to the Crown; on the west side to the fishermen of St. John, and generally it had been the practice for the council to dispose of the right to fish annually by auction, but owing to the construction work going on at present, which interfered to some extent with the fishing, the council had decided to withdraw the sale for the present of rights over certain parts, and it would be understood with regard to the other parts that the persons purchasing the fishing rights took them subject to any risk of interruption there might be in connection with the construction work. The subject of the bill was to make all this perfectly clear.

The bill was agreed to with a verbal amendment.

The House adjourned at 4.30 p. m. until 8.30 p. m. Monday.

EXTENSION OF VOLUNTEER FIRST STEP IS TAKEN TOWARDS REPEAL OF EXEMPTION CLAUSE

Hon. Dr. Roche's Resolution Passed and Bill Given First Reading.

ST. JOHN CASE IS GIVEN ATTENTION.

Appointment of Mr. McDonald as Inspector of Inland Revenue in New Brunswick Subject of Discussion.

Ottawa, March 6.—Hon. Dr. Roche introduced his resolution providing for an extension of the volunteer bounty act of 1907 so as to enable the surrender of rights in return for the $500 grant to be made until December 31st next.

The minister explained that last session the bill had been extended for filling up the lands but there were quite a few unaware that they had to surrender their certificates before the 31st of October, 1913, to receive the $500 and the present extent was to extend the time to December 31st, 1914.

Hon. Dr. Roche said that it was impossible for anybody to get any more than the $500. This was the only time it would be extended.

Hon. H. R. Cameron thought it should be extended to the 31st of January. They were the only ones that had equities today, the others had merely claims.

After some further discussion along these lines the resolution was passed and the bill based upon it given a first reading.

St. John Case.

The House then went into supply on the estimates of the Minister of Indian Revenue and after some preliminary questions Mr. E. M. MacDonald, Excise Inspector MacDonald, of New Brunswick, the member for Pictou butcher previous to his appointment and that it had been necessary to send another inspector around with him to coach him in his duties.

Mr. Nantel—"I would not have appointed him without very careful inquiry as to his qualifications."

Mr. E. M. MacDonald—"You would not have appointed him if Mr. Hasen had not insisted on it."

Mr. Nantel—"My hon. friend is interested in promotion is very late."

Mr. E. M. MacDonald—"A Conservative."

Mr. Fowler—"Yes, that is a proof of his intelligence."

Mr. MacDonald had urged that an inspector should have been appointed by promotion from those already in the service, and Mr. Fowler went on to chaff the member for Pictou with his new found concern for promotion.

Mr. E. M. MacDonald—"Discuss this case."

Mr. Fowler—"My hon. friend is interested in a score or more of the leading men, but they have declined."

Major G. W. Stephens rushed back from Europe only to find that he might be disqualified on a residential technicality if he ran. Huntley Drummond, R. C. Smith, E. C. C. Ballantyne, and others equally well known have declined. Two citizens' committees, with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Senator Dundas at the head of one, admittedly have fallen down in their efforts to get the consent of a suitable candidate. Meanwhile, Meaderie Martin, M. P. one of the "23" aldermen secured some years ago in the findings of a royal commission on the city hall, sits back and smiles. He is the only aspirant for the $10,000 job who has definitely made up his mind.

DECREASE DUE TO FALLING OFF IN THE CUSTOMS RECEIPTS

Ottawa, Mar. 6.—The revenue of the Dominion for February, according to the monthly statement of the finance department issued today, was $9,682,130 as against $12,135,870 in February a year ago. The revenue for the eleven months of present fiscal year was $148,799,536 as compared with $151,185,806 during the same period last year, a decrease of $2,386,270.

This decrease is due entirely to the falling off in customs receipts, all other departments of the government such as excise, post office, railroads and canals showing satisfactory increases.

The national debt now stands at $1,765,901. There was an increase of $1,765,901 during February.

FUTURE OF CARRANZA HINGES ON BENTON CASE

Only Clear Explanation and Reparation Can Restore Prestige of Constitutionalists—Otherwise Great Britain Likely to Withhold Recognition.

Washington, Mar. 6.—High officials of the administration believe the fortunes of Carranza hang largely in the balance, and that only a clear explanation of the Benton incident and satisfactory reparations will gain for them the prestige they had acquired as persons desiring the restoration of constitutional government in their country.

Should the Benton case remain unsettled in the event the cause of the constitutionalists is triumphant, their two strongest intimates heard in official circles that Great Britain would refuse to recognize Carranza if he were elected. It is also taken that British influence over other European nations to withhold recognition until reparation is made for injury done to foreigners. Administration officials here, in discussing that phase of the situation today, pointed out that on the Benton case seemed to depend the political future of General Carranza.

The expected discussion in the open senate of the Mexican situation began today with a speech by Senator Works of California, Republican, who arraigned the government's Mexican policy. His words brought no reply from administration senators.

Monday, Senator Fall of New Mexico, proposes to make public a mass of information he has collected with regard to the Mexican situation. Senator Shively plans to reply defending the attitude of the administration. Other senators are planning to open up a floodgate if there is to be a free-for-all discussion which so many times has been threatened in the senate and as often suppressed.

SOLDIERS AND NATIVES OF AFRICA IN SKIRMISH

British Soldiers and Tribesmen in Two Scrimmages—Major Conroy of Connaught Rangers Killed and Another Officer Maimed.

London, March 6.—News has just reached here of two exciting skirmishes by British troops and tribesmen in Africa. In the first of these Major James Daniel Conroy, of the Connaught Rangers, who was awarded the Distinguished Service Order in 1906, was killed in a fight with outlaws near Wadai, in the Sudan. Major Conroy was in charge of a contingent of an Arab battalion of the Egyptian army. The leaders of the outlaws and other members of the band were killed, and the remainder made prisoner.

In the second affair Lt. Jones was shot through both legs during an attack on a stockade by Abyssinian raiders in British East Africa. When Lt. Jones was wounded all his soldiers, except three orderlies, fled. These men at Jones' command re-took the stockade by assault.

Two of the soldiers, both natives, then bore the wounded officer on a stretcher 500 miles to his post. Blood poisoning, meantime, had set in and Jones was conveyed to another post, where a doctor was stationed. His bearers found the doctor absent, however, and a journey to Nairobi was then started. On the way the stretcher was charged by two rhinos which the faithful orderlies killed. At Nyiri a doctor and nurse were found.

The muscles of one of Jones' legs was so shrunken that the leg will always be four inches shorter than the other, and Jones will be a cripple for life. The doctors regard Jones' arrival at the hospital alive as miraculous.

NONE SEEM ANXIOUS FOR THE POSITION

Score of Leading Men Decline Nomination for Mayor of Montreal—Martin the Only Man on Hand.

Montreal, March 6.—"Wanted, an English-speaking candidate for the mayoralty" sums up the present situation in the municipal field in Montreal, where a ten-thousand-dollar-a-year job is going a-begging and the elections are barely four weeks off. An "unwritten law," says that it is the turn of the English citizens to find a candidate, but this they seem utterly unable to do. The honor has been practically offered to a score or more of the leading men, but they have declined.

Major G. W. Stephens rushed back from Europe only to find that he might be disqualified on a residential technicality if he ran. Huntley Drummond, R. C. Smith, E. C. C. Ballantyne, and others equally well known have declined. Two citizens' committees, with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Senator Dundas at the head of one, admittedly have fallen down in their efforts to get the consent of a suitable candidate. Meanwhile, Meaderie Martin, M. P. one of the "23" aldermen secured some years ago in the findings of a royal commission on the city hall, sits back and smiles. He is the only aspirant for the $10,000 job who has definitely made up his mind.

Commissioner Perry's wife stated that Stefansson has started back from the Arctic coast and that the Williams' party left Dawson on Tuesday with letters for him. The mail brought by the patrol will not reach Regina for three or four weeks.

POSED AS FRIEND OF MORGAN, GOT MONEY BY FALSE PRETENCES

London, March 6.—John Archibald Campbell Mason, who represented himself as millionaire and a friend of J. P. Morgan, of New York, and who was accused of securing $2,500 from a Miss Ethel S. Luena, who, it was alleged, he had promised to marry, was sentenced in Old Bailey Criminal Court to three years' imprisonment today and recommended for deportation on a charge of false pretences.

Mason secured membership in the leading clubs here by representing himself as a member of the Knickerbocker Club in New York. Also

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON INTERSTATE COMMERCE BRINGS IN FAVORABLE REPORT.

SENATE WILL DEAL WITH IT NEXT WEEK.

Stands Alone in Its Contentions Against all Other Maritime Nations, Committee Report Says.

Washington, March 6.—Initial steps to repeal the toll exemption clause of the Panama Canal Act as requested by President Wilson were taken in Congress today, when the House Committee on Interstate Commerce reported favorably a bill to strike that provision. In the Senate the committee on Inter-Oceanic Canals decided to meet next week to consider the appeal of the President, for a reversal of policy in the controversy, which involves the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and in the opinion of the President, the general foreign relations policy of the administration.

While the house is debating the issue next week, the Senate committee will consider what course to pursue: whether to recommend a flat repeal bill or to urge the compromise bill offered by Senator Chilton, of West Virginia, a member of the committee which would authorize the President to regulate tolls and assess charges at his discretion, wherever exemption is provided in the Canal Act.

Favorable Response in House. In the house there was quick response to the President's address, the committee voting thirteen to three to report favorably the Sims repeal bill. Absent members who were recorded made the vote seventeen to four.

Chairman Adamson had ready a draft of the report when the committee met for the approval of the Sims bill on the same two broad lines set forth in the President's message and general international policy, and the immediate foreign situation confronting the country.

Representative Knowland of California, who led the opposition in the committee, was given three days to file a minority report, and Chairman Adamson was authorized to urge the rules committee to report a special bill to hasten the bill through the house. The matter will be pressed at once, and it is expected a rule will be brought into the house probably by Thursday of next week.

Representative Adamson will have charge of the situation in the house, as Majority Leader Underwood, for the first time during the administration finds himself on the anti-administration side of the issue.

Maintains Former Stand

In its report today, the committee provided for uniformity of representation, to consider the inter-We deem it proper now," said the representative, "to consider the international situation and our obligations and policy on the relation thereto. There has been a set no friction between our country and other foreign governments, but we are advised that the opposite party to the principal treaty under which the canal was constructed fails to apply section in providing for the exemption or to occur in our construction of the treaty. Other maritime nations hold the same dissonant opinion, and we stand alone in our contentions. In such a situation it is not always necessary or wise to urge our contention, even though convinced of our abstract right. We are not disturbed by the matter made for a purpose that repeal would be truckling and yielding to foreign demands. A similar taunt could be lodged against any man or nation honorable enough to promote friendly relations by accepting respectful consideration to view of the specific party."

After a discussion of the provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and the declaration that the coastwise trade of the United States does not need the assistance of free tolls, the committee report said:

"The foreign governments objecting to our construction of the treaty can find a hundred points in the world's commerce to retaliate and discriminate, where we may blunder into using one. Our resources, genius and geographical position equip us to defy the world to outstrip us on fair and equal terms. As a nation we cannot afford to rest under the imputation, whether just or unjust, of disregarding our pledged honor, nor should we hold a debatable position far enough to arouse friction, resentment or retaliation. It is folly to refuse to do right because a foreign nation, party to a treaty, complains that our course is wrong. We might in any kind of a contest with other nations win by sheer strength and skill, and in winning we might save all except honor. Far better to abolish the canal itself than even to permit our national honor to remain in question."

HAS NO NEWS OF KARLUK

Stefansson Has Started Back from Arctic Coast—Still Knows Nothing of Missing Vessel.

Regina, Sask., Mar. 6.—That Stefansson has no news of the Karluk, lost in the ice of the Arctic ocean, was the word received this morning by Commissioner Perry of the R. N. W. M. P. in a wire from Superintendent McPherson in command at the Dawson station. The patrol which came from Fort McPherson arriving at Dawson yesterday under command of Corporal Hocking, brought an exceptionally heavy mail, containing letters from the explorer and from whaling vessels and others in the north, but Stefansson still knows nothing of the Karluk.

Commissioner Perry's wife stated that Stefansson has started back from the Arctic coast and that the Williams' party left Dawson on Tuesday with letters for him. The mail brought by the patrol will not reach Regina for three or four weeks.

APPOINTMENT WHEN HON. MR. COCHRANE RETURNS

Ottawa, Mar. 6.—The successors to Hon. M. E. Bernier and Dr. Mills, railway commissioners, who have completed their ten years term of office, will not be appointed until after the return of Hon. Frank Cochrane from Europe, two months hence.

Messrs. Bernier and Mills will continue in office until the new commissioners are appointed.

A Year of Wonders In The Picture Business

What One Short Twelve Month has Witnessed in the Development of this Popular Amusement Field.

LENT 1914 finds the motion picture houses of entertainment in St. John throughout the world supplied with a wealth of program matter which one short year ago was not dreamed of. Producers, literary men and those in control of the business policies of the great enterprise have so thoroughly prosecuted their work of refinement and elaboration that the public as a whole look upon their indulgence in the movies as a regular course of everyday existence. The day of the cheap, inconsistent story is past. Film productions of the hour—while of carrying quality betimes, are the work of specially trained writers, players of repute and the output of studios and laboratories, equipped with facilities invented to meet the most advanced demands of photographic art. Twelve months has worked wonders and the people of St. John have only to turn back their thoughts a few months in order to carry out this statement. The photoplay, in literary sense of the word, has arrived and is being enjoyed regularly. The miscellaneous program, while still very enjoyable, is giving way to features of two, three, four, and five reel length. The topical or news picture, is coming into great demand; the exaggerated melodrama having dropped into disuse, and unless a western story, usually calculated to cause excitement, is well written and consistent in story-value, the intelligent watcher does not enjoy it. These are the things the ablest minds predicted a few years ago and the conversion of scores of metropolitan play houses into exclusive motion picture theatres is proving that the electric age of entertainment is here in very truth. It must be a matter of much satisfaction to the people of St. John to know that they have at their very doors, a combination of picture theatres using the cream of the world's output warranted to suit every taste and handled by local men of experience, who enjoy the confidence and respect of the community as a whole.

CURTAIN GOSSIP

Mary Pickford, Vivian Prescott and Lillian Gish all worked together once as stage children, and this gives you the clew as to the aces of all, because you know that Little Mary is nineteen.

While harnessing his saddle-horse last month, Wallie Van of the Vitagraph, the horse, believing that "all flesh is grass," took a nip, and the doctors are now trying to save the rest of the finger.

And now they are saying that the "Thanhouse" Company have the latest and best collection of child players on the screen, the Turner twins, from the musical comedy stage, being the latest.

William Faversham has consented to do Julius Caesar for the screen this spring.

Hall Caine's "The Christian" (Vitagraph) is claimed to be the finest thing ever done in pictures by anybody, and that nearly every scene contains either a painting or a fine example of the historic art.

Robert Thornby is now engaged in directing Keystone comedies, and the Vitagraph hoboes are now no more.

Picture Chatter Generally

A photoplay theatre for New York like London's film house de luxe, the New Gallery Kinema, is among the plans of the recently organized Anglo-American Film Corporation. At the head of the new corporation are Mr. George Lederer, of Casino fame, and Mr. Edward Laurillard, owner of the London New Gallery Kinema, and, in conjunction with Horace Sedger, controlling sixteen other theatres in the British capital.

The playgoers' Film Company has induced Lina Cavalieri, the famous opera star, who has been widely advertised as "the most beautiful woman in the world," to appear in a six-reel feature film. The story will be that of her famous love affairs and will support the prima donna.

Martin Leonard, who has delighted picture goers for several years, is recovering from an attack of peritonitis which almost proved fatal. Miss Leonard has been confined in her apartments for several weeks and all work at the studios has been suspended, but it is expected that production will be resumed shortly.

UNIQUE THEATRE WILL HAVE KIDDIE SPECIAL

Fine Story For Saturday of Next Week.

The young business man, who lived in a suburban town near New York was not wealthy himself, but had expectations in the shape of a wealthy older brother who lived in England. This brother wrote that if the American's first child was a boy, and was named after him, he, the wealthy bachelor uncle would give $5,000 and make his namesake his heir. As matters turned out, the American's "first child" was a girl, and both of them girls, but being resourceful, the happy father called his brother, whose name was John Henry Carson, that the twins were boys and he had managed to name both of them after the wealthy bachelor, by calling one John, and the other Henry. He got the $10,000 he asked for, and for years his deception was not discovered, as the ocean divided the two brothers. Then one day the brother in England was enlightened and he determined upon a novel revenge, and sent word that he was coming to America to see his heirs and what he had expected, happened. The parents hid the secret, dressed the little girls up as boys and the uncle had a high old time teaching them how to box, play baseball and indulge in other rough sports that boys enjoy. They were also little girls, however, that uncle could not really be harsh with them, and in the end they won his love, and he admitted that he was glad that his namesake was a girl, and that he would have been little girls instead of rough and rude little boys.

IMPERIAL THEATRE'S BIG WEEK AHEAD
Keith House Offers Strong Attractions Commencing Next Monday.

The Imperial Theatre has an alluring list of entertaining features for the week following.

In the vaudeville department none other than those champion midgets, Queen Mad and Mr. Weiss, will be glad to appear as equally as popular, as the mentioned.

Miss Betty Donn, whose artistic singing has been a great success, especially her rendering of the French novelty, "Just a Little Love, A Little Kiss"—will remain another week and has several more numbers well supported by the orchestra.

But it is upon the film section of the Imperial's bills that the management places greatest emphasis. On Monday and Tuesday, a splendid Vitagraph entitled "The Ancient Order of Goodfellow's" will be put on in two reels, which is a masterpiece offering with a broad strain of human interest. Big, fat Huggie Mack is a tender-hearted but honest policeman and his work among criminals and crippled children keep the watcher sobbing and smiling. Of course there will be two other pictures to fill out this early part of the week, a machine feature on Wednesday and Thursday, little Mary Pickford will return to the Keith screen after an absence of months, during which time she has been assuming stellar roles for the renowned David Belasco in his wonderful metropolitan productions. The film number will be "The Bishop's Carriage," which is a most beautiful and touching story, that the Imperial, as Miriam Michelson's dramatized novel, "In the Bishop's Carriage." Most book-lovers are familiar with the story, that of a young girl, who is abandoned by her father and her mother, and who is taken in by a kind-hearted man, who is a well-to-do merchant. The girl, who is named Nell, is a beautiful and noble life found in a well-to-do home. Miss Pickford is a completely charming in the play, and is well supported by the Famous Player Co. of stars.

Coming to the end of the week, the Imperial will supply the patrons with a dash of melodrama, rather out of the ordinary in quality. This will be found in Kale's two-part story, "The Expanding Madcap Races on a Railroad." In whirling, madcap races on a railroad, the week the various features will be supported with additional films including Pathé's Weekly, a much enjoyed feature.

Eddie, the brave fire laddie, looking out through the window of the firehouse, the villain abducts the guileless maiden and takes her to his den of crime. Eddie wades through blood and fire in a fight his way into the villain's lair. He is overpowered by the outthrusts while the villain snarls: "The cur up, boys, while I go and marry the girl."
The outthrusts drag the girl downstairs; Eddie bursts his bonds, and from the window he throws a rope to the sidewalk and lassoes the villain's revolver. He then shoots six blocks down the street, and each of his five shots strike the gong in the fire department and sound the alarm. In the meantime, the Justice of the Peace, at the point of a revolver, is marrying the villain and the innocent girl. The hero escapes from the den and joins the fire department when the villain is rescued in the neck of time. However, the wicked villain outwits the hero. He jumps into a cab and blows himself up with a dynamite bomb.

two major parts. In the first, the happy people dwell in Arcadian simplicity and love about their settlement of Grand-père, and a good part of the poem is devoted to the scenes describing the life in the different seasons of this loving people. This part of the poem contains but very little action and the question that first arrests itself is, how can the motion picture interpret atmosphere; how can they picture the different seasons and the simple character of the people, how can they differentiate them from the everyday people on the screen? The second division of the poem represents the wanderings of the heart-seekers. This part of the poem represents action, but the interest would naturally be diffuse. The producers, therefore, have wisely confined themselves to the part of the poem that is the most dramatic and the most interesting to the people.

BIBLE STUDENTS SEE "CREATION"

The International Bible Students' Association, which has for its object the stimulation of Bible study, presents daily at the Temple of Creation, in Sixty-third street near Broadway, in New York, a four part motion-picture drama entitled "Creation." The spectacle is offered to the public free of charge and is of non-sectarian character. It seeks to furnish by means of motion conception of the creation of the world from the nebulous period to the coming of the Messiah.

And Still Another!

And in dear old London, they are all fussed up about the danger of Sadler's Wells Theatre's going over to the cinema. It is the oldest survivor of the famous London playhouses. Here Grimaldi and Macklin and Edmund Kean trod the historic boards. And why shouldn't it brush aside its cobwebs, scour its moth-eaten stage and get into a business that appeals to the people?

Abernethy sank back in his armchair, pondering over scenes of the past twenty years which had centered about that cheerful open fire. In middle life, he had been left alone on the farm—all his kith and kin were dead—and when Ned, a waif of twelve, asked him for shelter and work, he had taken him in eagerly—and a few years after a little orphan girl, Nell, the two young people filled his days with happiness—until the coming of the stranger, a handsome, well-to-do man, who knew the world, and he captured Nell's imagination at first meeting. When Abernethy instinctively believed the man to be unworthy—he refused his consent to their marriage, the stranger easily persuaded Nell to elope with him. On the farm, now lonely and grief-stricken, he vainly vainly for some word from the runaway. At last, Ned set out to find her. In the city, fifty miles distant, he met the stranger, who told him the young man—on promise of money—Ned—into a cafe and "treated." Until Ned was left in a drunken stupor. That same night, he deserted the girl, of whom he was never to hear again. Ned and Nell to one another, and the boy took her home to Abernethy. Not an unusual story, perhaps—but one that told all of tragedy and beauty, and the deepest emotions and memories, for Abernethy, musing in the firelight.

Officer John Donovan's Ward.

Kind and good natured, Policeman John Donovan is a great favorite. He has one son, Ted, a boy of about 17, of whom he is very fond. Ted is a wild sort of fellow. In a quarrel over some cards one night, he imagines he has killed one of the players. He steps town, leaving a note, saying he will not come back until he has made good.

Lawton, a gambler, deserts Marion Grey, a young country girl. They have one child, a little baby. Marion secretes the baby to come home. She goes, first leaving her child on a doorstep, afraid to let her father see it. The baby is found by Officer Donovan, who takes it to the Sisters of Mercy, where it is kindly cared for. Donovan becomes attached to it and goes often to see it. The years go by and the child grows up to a beautiful young girl, Donovan takes Daisy from the Sisters' home and gives her a home with him.

As Donovan is getting old, Richard, a political boss, who wishes to get some of his friends on the force, has Donovan put on the pension list and retired. Daisy, his ward, goes to the Mayor and has her guardian appointed doorkeeper at one of the stations.

Remembering John Dove, a noted counterfeiter, Donovan is appointed a special detective to capture the criminal's accomplices. By posing as a peddler, he is admitted into the stronghold of the crooks. His son Ted, now a fine young fellow, comes home. Thinking that he may have

It is gratifying to photoplay devotees—and their name is legion—to note that the musical accompaniment to the Motion Picture is at last being given its rightful place. Not one of the magnificent, new photoplay features being constructed all over the country—veritable monuments to the permanency of the new art—overlooks this important adjunct for the success of the photoplay in projection.

The film drama, it may be claimed, is independent of any other art. True, but music which subordinates itself to the picture, and never attempts to dominate the situation, provides an atmosphere which enhances the musical effect of its presentation.

One need not possess the finest musical ear of a musical critic to realize that the photoplay is not always given its proper musical companionship. Who has not occasionally gone to a photo show only to find with everything else dead, these two branches of the fine arts—music and the photoplay—widely at variance with each other? When music clamors loudly for attention, photoplay masterpieces are certain to lose much of their dramatic appeal. But the effect of your drama or comedy is heightened thereby when an artistic musical score is interpreted by sympathetic musicians—Stanley Todd in The Motion Picture Magazine.

Mr. Cowden of the Crowdens, seen at the Lyric the first three days of this week, was especially wise in his business Tuesday evening, he bravely faced the flashlight and gave his usual performance. Thinking that he may have

A "FRIEND" OF LABOR.

The attempt of certain Liberal members of the House of Commons, seconded by the editors of Liberal newspapers, to attack working men against Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor, cannot thrive because it must lack the nourishment of facts. Instead of Mr. Crothers being indifferent to the interests of Canadian labor men, he has accomplished much that must be of benefit to them, whereas his attackers, Mr. Carvell of Carleton, Mr. Macdonald of Pictou and even Mr. Verville, the alleged labor representative from Maisonneuve, have interested themselves in working men only so far as it did not interfere with their political affiliations.

Question as to the actions of the Minister of Labor was raised during debate in the House of Commons, on Tuesday, and the Junior Pugsley organ in this city was quick to catch the cue. On Wednesday that newspaper gave prominence, on its first page, to an alleged despatch from Ottawa in which an attempt was made to convey the impression that Premier Borden was so far from being satisfied with the achievements of his Minister of Labor that he was looking for a new man for the position. Editorially the despatch furnished inspiration for an attack upon Mr. Crothers in which much stress was placed upon the allegation that one of his statements had been contradicted by the member for Maisonneuve.

The Standard has already given its readers a truthful accounting of some of the achievements of the Minister of Labor, and as a man's intentions are best shown by his deeds, the Minister's record is sufficient evidence that he has labored zealously and effectively for the benefit of the working men of Canada. Meanwhile what has Mr. Verville done that he should be reckoned as labor's only champion? Mr. Verville poses in the House as the only Simon-pure representative of labor and the Liberal newspapers take delight in referring to him as a single-minded, independent stalwart, whose sole desire and aim in life is to accomplish some good for the largely thwarted through the attitude and actions of the present government.

The Standard submits that Alphonse Verville, M. P. for Maisonneuve, although prominent, has comported himself since his return to the House of Commons as a dead-in-the-wool Grit, rather than as an independent member of Parliament working solely for the labor party.

Backed by those eminent but noisy lightweights, F. B. Carvell of Carleton, and E. M. Macdonald of Pictou, both members of the notorious blockers brigade, Mr. Verville, on Tuesday, was prompt to move a resolution of censure of the Minister of Labor as follows:

"That Mr. Speaker do not now leave the chair for the House to go into Committee of Supply, but that it be resolved that the whole conduct of the Minister of Labor in regard to the claims and the rights of the coal miners on the Island of Vancouver was marked by persistent negligence and absolute indifference and deserves the censure of this House."

The foregoing resolution was moved on motion to go into supply on Tuesday afternoon, and debated until early the following morning, when, on division, it was defeated by a vote of 80 to 48.

If Mr. Verville's activity is to be received at the value the Liberal newspapers put upon it, it would appear that his resolution was put forward solely because he believed a Minister of the Crown had been guilty of an action injurious to the interests of labor and was therefore worthy of the condemnation of all labor men. This is the impression the Liberal newspapers attempt to convey. This is the motive beneath and behind the attacks of the Junior Pugsley organ.

If the facts could be made to bear out the charge it would be worthy of consideration, but the facts not only show that the Minister of Labor has been ever alert to guard the interests of the men for whom his department was organized, but also that his accuser, the alleged labor representative, never permits his affection for the working man to interfere with his stalwart adherence to the Liberal party, and this being the case, his motion of censure was intended merely for political effect and for no other.

Mr. Verville was a member of the House of Commons while the Laurier Government was in power. Though then posing as a labor man he was always with the government. Labor men will remember that on the occasion of the disturbances at Buckingham, Quebec, when organized labor had a grievance, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government, through his Minister of Labor, refused to recognize Mr. Verville as a member of the government at that time, and that he was in no record that he rose in his place to move a vote of censure of the then Minister of Labor. He was also a member of the House when the strikes in Nova Scotia were going on, and when Mr. E. M. Macdonald intimated that the strikers, all union men, should be in jail and offered to secure evidence against them to assist in placing them there, Mr. Verville had no protest to make, but by his silence, gave consent to the whole proceeding.

His affection for the working men of the country now appears to have experienced a new birth, for although for years he sat in the House a blind and subservient follower of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he had no complaint to make when his party government refused requests from labor men, but upheld every government action. With his party in opposition, Mr. Verville is active in attack. This is the man the Grit newspapers attempt to parade before the people as the only friend of labor in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Verville may be deeply interested in the cause of labor, but from his record it must be patent that he is still more deeply interested in the cause of the Liberal party. And his desire to advance party, not labor, interests, was the actuating force behind the motion of censure of Hon. Thomas W. Crothers for which he attempted to secure the sanction of Parliament. Sincere labor men who put the interests of labor ahead of party politics will not be deceived by Grit attempts to enlarge the member for Maisonneuve or by his own professions.

THE BIRTH OF PROTECTION.

The people of Canada might well celebrate today as the anniversary of an event which has had an important bearing upon the prosperity of this country. It was thirty-seven years ago today, or on March 7th, 1877 that Sir John A. Macdonald introduced his famous resolution declaring for a national policy of protection. In his resolution Sir John asserted "that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a national policy which, by a judicious readjustment of the tariff, will benefit and foster the agricultural, the mining, the manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion."

As there was a Liberal government in power at the time the proposal was of course voted down by a government majority of 49 but it served as the principal plank in the platform of the following party in the elections of the following year. "Canada for Canadians" was the watchword of Sir John and his followers and, after a spirited contest the Liberals were swept from power and Sir John Macdonald for the second time became premier.

Since that time there has been many attacks upon the good old "National Policy," but it has well stood the test of time, and Canada's place today stands as a monument to the wisdom and statesmanlike foresight of the man who conceived it and whose memory all Canadians delight to honor.

MURPHY MUST GO.

Mr. Charles F. Murphy, boss of Tammany Hall has read aright the signs of the times, and consented to his own elimination and that of his organization from the Democratic machine of New York State. Possibly he thinks that, having lost the mayoralty of New York and the city patronage, he had better "lie low" for a while, live economically, and attempt no ambitious political fights. At any rate, he has ceased to be chairman of the state Democratic committee, and co-operated in the election of William C. Osborn to that position.

The New York Sun says: "The explanation given today was that Tammany was tired of running up-state politics. In the prospect of a particularly expensive campaign next fall, when direct primaries will put new difficulties and heavy expenses in the way of party officers, Tammany is willing to let some one else do it. The leaders said that Murphy had learned his lesson through the Sulzer incident, and realize that it was a mistake for Tammany to take the lead in state politics. So they were willing to let Governor Glynn have his way, and let Mr. Osborn and his friends pay the bill. On the anti-Tammany side it was said that Murphy did not want to face a fight for state control—that he will have his hands full keeping the lines tight in New York city. By the way, former Boss Croker now thinks "Murphy must go" even in city affairs."

THE FARMER'S CONVENTION.

The convention of the Farmers and Dairy-men's Association, which closed in Fredericton, yesterday, was the most successful ever held in this province. There was a large attendance and the agriculturists were impressed throughout with the very evident disposition of the Provincial Agricultural Department to do everything possible to improve the conditions of the men who till the soil and get results from the greatest of all industries.

The new Secretary for Agriculture, Hon. James H. Murray, has made a decidedly favorable impression upon all with whom his departmental duties have brought him in contact. There was never a time in the history of the province when the interests of the agriculturists were more carefully looked after than at present, and the farmers and dairymen realize it.

Diary of Events

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

70TH BIRTHDAY OF COMSTOCK.

America is notoriously short on saints. Those human qualities which lead to successful life seem to thrive in this climate. Therefore Americans should honor and treasure the few saints they have, and celebrate today with eclat and enthusiasm the seventy birthday of the venerable Rev. Mr. Comstock. It is true that the chief of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, who was born in New Canaan, Conn., three score and ten years ago today, has had saithood thrust upon him, not by any regularly qualified religious body authorized to distribute halos, but by the facetious gentlemen of the press. Long ago, when Mr. Comstock was beginning his career as the foe of "moral cancer planters," the American newspapers unanimously conferred upon him the titular attribute of canonization, and he has worn it ever since.

Mr. Comstock's latest activities in behalf of the purity of the home and the sanctity of the hearth have been very successful. He raised the specter of drive from shop windows that shrinking beauty, "September Morn," and his recent attempt to bring about the suppression of the "Hagar Revelry" and the conviction of its publisher, was equally futile.

Since the day he landed in New York with $2.50 in his pocket, which was some forty-five years ago, Mr. Comstock has devoted his efforts to upholding the ideal of Puritanism. In this he has received the moral and financial support of thousands, but has also won the bitter condemnation of many others, who hold that the suppression of vice should be a function of the state, and not the work of an individual, privately paid. The latter view of Mr. Comstock's activities was recently well expressed by Vance Thompson in the New York Sun. "A fat and hairy man," an "obese private citizen," he has come up like a toad, in the shade of the Puritan principle, and "arrogated to himself that power which in every other civilized country is kept carefully in the hands of the law." Thus, said Mr. Thompson, he is "permitted to carry on his trade of private scavenger"—"an unscrubbed sordid on the fair body of the Puritan ideal." "No one," Mr. Thompson thinks, "unless he is a great and hopeless idiot, is willing to give this monstrous power to a self-appointed censor, who makes a living at the game," no matter how "fat and hairy" he may be.

A PAIR FROM MISSOURI.

Two eminent Missourians, Speaker Champ Clark and "Baron" William Rockhill Nelson, editor and publisher of that great newspaper, the Kansas City Star, will pass milestones today. The Honorable Champ was born in Anderson county, Ky., sixty-four years ago today, and Nelson arrived in the world at Fort Wayne, Ind., seventy-three years ago. James Beauchamp Clark was the original name of the Missouri statesman who in 1912 had a narrow escape from becoming President of the United States. He started life as president of a little freshwater college in West Virginia, but later studied law, and a year later, in the little Pike county, Mo., city which he still calls home, Mr. Nelson, surnamed "the Baron," founded a little one-horse sheet called the Star in the little one-horse town of Columbia City back in 1880. Since then the Missouri municipality has become a metropolis, but the Star has more than kept pace with its growth, and has gained a national influence and an international reputation as one of the great newspapers of the North American continent.

THE PASSING DAY

"THE FATHER OF MORAL PHILOSOPHY."

In the calendar of saints today is dedicated to the memory of St. Thomas Aquinas, who was one of the greatest scholars of the church and "the father of moral philosophy." Thomas of Aquino died on March 7, 1274, just 640 years ago today, and he was canonized by Pope John XXII, in 1323, since which date the anniversary of his death has been annually observed. The saint was of the family of the Counts of Aquino, Italy. His birthplace was the castle of Rocca Secca, near Aquino, about midway between Rome and Naples, which is today a place of pious pilgrimage. He took the Dominican habit at Naples at the age of 19 but his determination to devote his life to religion was bitterly opposed by his family. For two years they held him a prisoner in the castle of Rocca Secca, but neither the caresses of his mother and sisters, nor the threats, stratagems and entreaties of his brothers introduced into Thomas's chamber a fair woman, but he snatched from the hearth a burning brand and drove the naked girls from his room. It was this incident that gave rise to the Contraternity of the Angelic Warfare, for the preservation of the virtue of chastity. Escaping at length from his relatives, St. Thomas made his way to Cologne where he studied under Blessed Albert the Great, and after that to Paris, where he taught philosophy and theology. He treated Christian morals according to an arrangement of his own and with a power and comprehensiveness that was for him the title of "father of moral philosophy." The Catholic church has always venerated his numerous writings as a treasure-house of sacred doctrine and precept. In 1879 Pope Pius V. proclaimed the saint a "Doctor of the Church," thus indicating the belief that his science is more divine than human in its inspiration. St. Thomas Aquinas was an illustrious scholar and statesman, a teacher and philosopher, but he often declared that prayer had taught him more than study.

The Secret of Good Digestion

In perfect health, with regular and healthful action of the liver and kidneys, you need not know there is such a thing as digestion or indigestion. Unfortunately, however, modern life is artificial, and not many people avoid suffering more or less from troubles of this nature.

The great secret lies in keeping the liver and kidneys in health and vigor, for then the food is passed quickly along the alimentary canal, the nutritive portions being assimilated in the blood stream and the poisonous waste materials are passed out of the body.

When the liver and kidneys get wrong you will obtain relief most promptly and effectively by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If chronic indigestion is to be cured it must be by salivating the action of these filtering and excretory organs. To persons who have thought only of the stomach as being the offending organ it may seem strange, but any competent physician will tell you this is correct.

Do You Realize The Risk?

The proportion of people wearing glasses whose eyes are alike is one in fifteen. That ratio is at best the chance you stand of getting right glasses when you buy glasses without having your eyes properly examined, for all glasses sold "complete" or "ready-made" have the lenses alike in both eyes.

But in three-fourths of the cases of defective vision, Astigmatism is present and its correction requires always lenses ground specially for the individual.

This means that only one person in sixty can wear ready-made glasses and have them right. Are you willing to take the chance? Would it not be easier and better to have us examine your eyes. There is no guesswork about our methods.

LA GRIPPE'S VICTIMS
You Can Only Recover From Its After effects by Enriching the Blood.

Few diseases so shatter the health as la grippe, or influenza. Its victims all tell the same story. They are left despondent, tired, weak and wretched in every way. They have no appetite, ambition or strength; cannot sleep and suffer from headaches, back aches and nervousness. In this weakened condition lies the real danger. The body falls an easy prey to bronchitis, pneumonia, and even to consumption. Nearly every form of nervous trouble has been known to follow an attack of la grippe. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give the quickest and most thorough relief from the after effects of this trouble. They build up and purify the blood, drive the poisons out of the system and give strength and tone to the whole body. The following is an example of the power in cases of this kind. Mrs. E. McLean, Wentworth Station, N.S., says: "Two years ago Herbert E. Freeman, a young boy living with us, was attacked with la grippe. At the time he did not have a strong constitution, and we feared the trouble was settling on his lungs. He was not able to walk fifty yards without being out of breath, and his general vitality was very low. For months he continued in this position, notwithstanding all we did for him, and it was at this crisis that we got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for him. By the time he had used three boxes there was a noticeable improvement, and this was followed by his being able to do light work, and later he had all the strength of a growing boy. His cure was looked up on as remarkable by all who knew him, and I am giving the result in the hope that it may be of benefit to someone else."

Whirlwind Campaign, For the New Metropole

Prominent Citizens Met Yesterday, in Mayor's Office, and Selected Committee to Organize Campaign to Raise $20,000—Build on Old Site.

At a meeting of citizens held in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon at the request of officials of the Salvation Army, a committee was appointed to organize a campaign to raise $20,000 for the erection of a new Metropole. Mayor Frink was appointed chairman of the committee with T. H. Estabrook, P. H. Bullock and W. S. Fisher as vice-presidents, W. J. S. Miles as secretary and R. G. Haley as treasurer. Following the meeting of the committee a meeting of the citizens was held at which it was decided to make arrangements for putting in the field ten teams of ten men each to take charge of the work of collecting the money. This committee will meet again next Tuesday, and in the meantime officers of the Salvation Army will busy themselves with the work of securing the names of men willing to serve on the collecting force, and to help perfect the organization generally.

Among those who were present at the meeting besides his worship were Hon. E. McLeod, James Harding, T. H. Estabrook, T. H. Bullock, R. J. Ritchie, R. Morton, R. G. Haley, A. M. Belding, James Gilchrist, W. J. S. Miles, F. W. Daniel, W. Hawker, E. L. Risling. Major Moore of the Salvation Army introduced the question of aid for the erection of a new Metropole and gave an account of the purposes which these institutions served as a modern city, and the protection they afforded citizens. After his address there was some discussion on the question of where the new Metropole should be located, and it was decided to adopt the plan that appeared that the site of the old building was about the best adapted for the purpose that could be secured, and a motion was adopted that in view of the service rendered by the Metropole they felt justified in asking the citizens to contribute to the cost of the erection of a new Metropole to raise the sum of $20,000 for this purpose among the citizens of St. John.

Emmott told the police that when he was leaving the car at North street, three men, one of whom he stated they robbed him as he stepped from the car to the platform in the station. The Commissioner said the men of Amherst appeared to be of an open mind, and are anxious to get the best form of government provided for in the new charter, for which they intended to apply. She Got So She Was Almost Insane
And Then Found a Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

That's Why Mrs. Wellington Dunlop Says Dodd's Kidney Pills are the Best of All Medicines.
South Waterbury, York Co., N. B., March 6.—(Special.) Mrs. Wellington Dunlop, an estimable resident of this place, has given an interview in which she states that she believes Dodd's Kidney Pills to be the best of all medicines. Mrs. Dunlop says: "When I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, I would get some better and then get just as bad as ever. I had been sick for over a year and had paid out more than one hundred and thirty dollars for doctors and medicine. I would get some better and then get just as bad as ever. The doctor said my trouble came from my stomach. His medicine relieved me for only a few minutes after I had taken it, and I got so that I was nearly insane. I had not seen Dodd's Kidney Pills two days till I was some better. I took twelve boxes in all, and I can truly say they have done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. Dodd's Kidney Pills are suffering woman's best friend. If you haven't tried them yourself, ask your neighbors."

TEA CULTURE DESCRIBED AND PICTURED

Interesting Lecture in Bickmore Course, Read by E. A. Smith, under Women's Canadian Club Auspices.

The history and production of tea was the subject of an interesting lecture in the Bickmore course delivered before a meeting in the High School auditorium under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club last evening. E. A. Smith, the lecturer, dealt with various phases of the subject from a local point of view based on his own experiences as well as the main points in the Bickmore paper. Among the matters dealt with were the picking, curing, packing, and shipping of tea. It was pointed out that owing to government supervision a good quality of tea was usually sold in Canada. In addition to China and Japan, tea was cultivated in Natal, Ceylon and other places. For forty years tea has been grown in South Carolina, but owing to the cost of labor it has not figured in the markets of the world to any extent. Most of the tea used in Canada comes from Ceylon and other parts of the British East Indies. Interesting descriptions were given of the proper methods to draw tea.

The lecture was illustrated by many striking views. Mrs. G. A. Kuhring presided at the meeting which was well attended.

VILLA DEMANDS FORTUNE AS BOY'S RANSOM

Quarter Million Dollars Must be Paid before Tomorrow, by Gen. Terrazas, to Save Son's Life.

El Paso, Texas, March 6.—General Terrazas has until next Sunday to pay the 500,000 pesos ransom for his son Luis, who is held by the rebel general Villa at Chihuahua. This sum is equal to $250,000, but the once multi-millionaire of Mexico has not that much money left according to his friends. The letter demanding the money was dated March third, and stated that if the ransom were not paid within five days Luis would be "taken south," with General Villa. This threat, General Terrazas construed in only one way, and that is that his son will fall a victim to the notorious fugitive of law if the money is not forthcoming. Under the convenient provisions of "Ley Fura," the prisoner is always shot "while trying to escape."

D.D.D. Prescription for 15 Years The Standard Skin Brandy to Cure Catarrh
Recent experiments have proved conclusively that catarrh is a constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the disease, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle, yet effective tonic that would dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system. The result is given in the following formula, which has been found to produce most surprising results in an incredibly short time.
From your druggist obtain one oz. of Parment. Take this home and add to it one-quarter pint of hot water and two table-spoonsful of brandy and stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.
The first dose promptly ends the most miserable headache, dullness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal discharges, and other loathsome symptoms that always accompany this disgusting disease.
Loss of smell, defective hearing, and mucus dripping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrh, and which are quickly overcome by the use of this simple treatment.
Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.
Important—In ordering Parment always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c. to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine street, Montreal, P. Q., who make a specialty of it.

Today, will be continued daily hereafter, in The Standard, until finished.

Blake, the Second Deputy, raised his gloomy hood's eyes as the door opened and a woman stepped in. Then she dropped them again.

"Hello, Elsie!" he said, without looking at her.

The woman stood a moment staring at him. Then she advanced thoughtfully toward his table desk.

"Hello, Jim!" she answered, as she sank into the empty chair at the desk. The rustling of silk suddenly ceased.

"You sent for me," the woman finally said. It was more a reminder than a question.

Blake himself, for all his devious and his two hundred pounds of lethargic beefiness, felt a vague and inward stirring as he finally lifted his head and looked at her.

Then Blake looked at the woman's hair. It was abundant and nut-brown, and artfully and scrupulously interwoven and twisted in a coil.

He remembered, too, the day when he had first seen her. That was at the time of "The Sick Millionaire" case, when he had first met her.

CHAPTER I.--As she stumbled forward and caught at his arm her huge plaited ropes of hair had fallen down.

travelling ignorant of both figure-eight and spica bandaging, and Blake, finally satisfied as to the imposture, carried on his investigation, showed "Doctor Callahan" to be Connie Binhart, the con-man and bank thief, and sent the two adventurers scurrying away to shelter.

He remembered, too, how seven months after that first meeting Blinson of the Central Office brought her to Headquarters, fresh from Paris, involved in some undecipherable way in an Aix-les-Bains diamond robbery.

The Sheldon wire-tapping coup. This Montreal banker named Sheldon, from whom nearly two hundred thousand dollars had been wrested, put a bullet through his head rather than go home disgraced, and she had straightaway been brought down to Blake, for until the autopsy and the production of her dupes' letters, Sheldon's death had been looked upon as a murder.

Blake had looked himself in with the white-faced Miss Elsie Verrier, alias Charley Cravat, alias Charlotte Carruthers, and for three long hours he had pitted his dynamic brute force against her flashing and snake-like swiftness.

It arose from, he could not say. But in the flood of his own tumultuous conquest he had watched her abandoned weeping, and her tumbled brown hair. And as he watched, a vague and troubling thing sped like a fuse-sparker along his limbs, and fired something dormant and dangerous in the great bulk of a body which had never before been stirred by its explosion of emotion.

She had stared, weary and wide-eyed, as his head had bent closer down over her. She had looked at him, bewildered, an unresponsive, as his heavy lips had closed on hers that were still wet and salty with tears.

BY ARTHUR STRINGER DON'T FAIL TO READ THE OPENING CHAPTERS

Two weeks later she startled her with the declaration that he wanted to marry her. He didn't care about her past. She'd been dragged into the thing she'd done without understanding them, at first, and she'd kept on because there'd been no one to help her away from them.

A little frightened, she tried to explain that she was not the marrying kind. Then, blurted and blurted, she tried to tell her in his groping Celtic way that he wanted children, that she meant a lot to him, that he was going to try and make her the happiest woman south of Harlem.

"You're not tied up already, are you?" he had hesitated to demand. "You're not married?"

"No, I'm single," she answered promptly and fiercely responded. "My life's my own--my own!"

"Then why can't you marry me?" he asked. "I could give you a home, a life, a future."

"I was, in fact, Blake himself who went away. After nine weeks of alternating suspense and happiness that seemed nine weeks of inebriation to him, he was called out of the city to complete the investigation on a series of iron-workers' dynamite outrages.

Blake moved his heavy body, as though to shoulder away any claim as to her complicity. "I know that," he acknowledged. "And you went north to Paris on the twenty-ninth of November. And on the third of December you went to Cherbourg, and on the ninth you landed in New York. I know all that."

Yet it was good to remember that Connie Binhart was going to be ground in the wheels of the law, and ground fine, and ground to a finish.

Blake, as he spoke, continued to look heavily down at his desk top. "Yes," she answered cautiously, watching herself as carefully as an actress with a role to sustain, a role in which she could never be quite letter-perfect.

DEEDS THAT WON THE EMPIRE--Historic Battle Scenes

(Continued from last Saturday) The share of the British in the fight consisted of three great attacks de Soult's overwhelming rush on the hill held by Blake. The first attack was delivered by the second division, under Colborne, led by General Stewart in person.

At this moment a wild tempest of rain was sweeping over the British as at the double, they came up the hill; the eddying fog, thick and slab with the smoke of powder, hid everything twenty yards from the assaulting soldiers. Suddenly the wall of eddying fog to their right sparkled into swiftness, for to their right sparkled into swiftness, for to their right sparkled into swiftness.

The first English counter-stroke had failed, but the second followed swiftly. The furious rain and fog which had proved so fatal to Colborne's men for a moment, was in favor of Beresford. South, though eagerly watching the conflict, could not see the ruin into which the British had fallen, and hesitated to launch his reserves into the fight.

musketry on their flank. The men fell fast, but fought as they fell. Stewart was twice wounded; Colonel Dutrieux, of the 48th, slain; of the 57th, out of 570 men, 430, with their colonel, Inglis, fell. The men, after the battle, were found lying dead in ranks exactly as they fought. "Die hard! my men, die hard!" said Inglis when the bullet struck him; and the 57th have borne the name of "Die hard" ever since.

Colborne's brigade, he ordered him to sweep round the flank of the hill. Beresford, on learning of this movement, accepted it, and sent back Allen's men to retake the bridge which they had abandoned.

At this moment the French reserves were coming on, the fragments of Houghton's brigade were falling back, the field was beset with carcasses, the lancers were riding furiously about the captured artillery, and with a storm of exultant shouts the French were sweeping on to assured victory. It was the dramatic moment of the fight. Suddenly through the fog, coming rapidly on with stern faces and flashing volleys, appeared the long line of Cole's fusiliers on the right of Houghton's staggered groups, while at the same exact moment Abercrombie's line broke through the mist on their left. As these grim and threatening lines became visible, the French shouts suddenly died down. It was the old contest of the British line--the "thin red line"--against the favorite French attack in column, and the story can only be told in Napier's resonant prose.

The passage which describes the attack of the fusiliers is one of the classic passages of English battle literature, and in its syllables can still almost be heard the tread of marching feet, the shrill clangour of smitten steel, and the thunder of the musketry volleys. (Continued next, Saturday)

ORIGIN AND CONTENTS OF THE BOOK OF MORMON

Historic Part Written by Solomon Spaulding as Romance under Title of "Manuscript Found"—Religious Part Taken from the Bible.

By Rev. W. G. Mahon, Chesham, B. C.

It is said by the Mormons that in 1820, their prophet, Joseph Smith, while praying in the woods near Manchester, New York, was surrounded by a great light and in it he saw two persons. One of them spoke to him, calling him by name, and said, pointing to the other, "This is my beloved Son, hear him." These persons told him not to join any of the sects then organized for they were all wrong.

On September 21, 1823, Smith claimed that an angel, whose name was Moroni, had visited him and told him that he had written on gold plates, and that there was deposited in a stone box, but was forbidden to move them for four years. At last, on the 22nd September, 1827, the angel delivered the plates to Joseph Smith, who, by means of certain spectacles, began to translate the Reformed Egyptian of the plates into English. With Oliver Cowdery as his scribe, the work was finished and the Book of Mormon was published in 1830.

But while the above account, which is set forth by the Latter Day Saints, may satisfy many ignorant persons, it cannot satisfy those who have a knowledge of the real origin of the Book of Mormon. It has been clearly proven, time and again, that the Book of Mormon is an imposture. The historic part was written by Solomon Spaulding, a romance under the title of "Manuscript Found" and is not much changed in its supposed facts. The religious part was taken from the Bible, one eighth was taken by chapters, one twelfth by paragraphs, and one-eighth by phrases. To this some was added by Joseph Smith as authority for many of his views and crimes. Solomon Spaulding, to whom I have referred, had been educated for the Presbyterian ministry, but owing to ill health, he retired from preaching and gave some time to the writing of essays and romances. He began to speculate on the origin of the great mounds in the Mississippi Valley, and once conceived the idea that a people of civilized habits had at one time lived in the Valley, and had built these mounds. He further conceived that this mound-building race had been descended from the early Jews, and had come across the Pacific in a miraculous ship some centuries before the birth of Christ. The early Indian races of the continent were also of the same stock, inspired by his new theory, Mr. Spaulding wrote in the form of a romance and called his novel "Manuscript Found," that is, a written history of a people, which history was found in an earth mound. Spaulding had remarked to his neighbor, Mr. Howard, that perhaps in a hundred years his account of the early inhabitants of America would be accepted as true history. Little did he think he was laying the foundation of one of the most unscrupulous frauds of the age. From Mr. Spaulding's knowledge of the ancient history and classics he was able to introduce such names as Moroni, Lamoni, Nephi, etc. The word "Mormon" is of Greek derivation and according to Liddell and Scott's large unabridged Greek English lexicon, means "bobgoblin," "bugbear," "hideous monster." It does not mean, as some would tell us, a sacred name.

While Mr. Spaulding's novel was at a printing office in Pittsburgh, Sidney Rigdon, an idle young fellow, made a copy of it. He met with Joseph Smith some time afterward. Smith had heard of "Manuscript Found" in 1827 when he had his first pretended revelation, but as he could not get it he had to wait four years and then in 1831 he secured Rigdon's copy. Chapters, paragraphs, phrases and facts were added from the Bible to give the work the appearance of truth. Smith and Rigdon planned the work, and Oliver Cowdery wrote it out for them. This done, a rather green farmer by the name of Martin Harris was induced to sell his farm for $3000, which sum was handed over to pay for the printing of the Book of Mormon.

If we might examine some evidence of authority the origin of this wonderful book would soon be clear. John Spaulding, brother of Solomon Spaulding, testified: "The 'Manuscript Found' was an historical romance of the first settlers of America, endeavoring to show that the American Indians are descended from the Jews, or lost tribes. It gave a detailed account of their journey from Jerusalem by land and sea, till they arrived in America, under the command of Nephi and Lehi. They afterwards had contentions and quarrels and separated into two distinct nations, the Nephites and the Lamanites. Cruel and bloody wars ensued, in which great multitudes were slain. They buried their dead in great heaps, which caused the mounds so common in this country. Their arts, sciences and civilization were brought into view, in order to account for all the curious antiquities found in various parts of North and South America. I have recently read the Book of Mormon and to my great surprise I find nearly the same history with 'And it came to pass' or 'Now it came to pass' the same as in the Book of Mormon, and according to the best of my recollection and belief it is the same as my brother Solomon's work." Mrs. Solomon Spaulding and Mrs. John Spaulding make similar statements. Aaron Wright, J. N. Miller, Nathan Howard and many others of Spaulding's neighbors made admissions to the same effect.

Comparing the Book of Mormon with the original "Manuscript Found" we find that they correspond in very many features.

1. The plot of the novel and the Book of Mormon is the same.
2. Both purport to give history of the aborigines of America.
3. Both attempt to account for the antiquities of America.

4. Both teach that the Israelites were the ancestors of the North American Indians.
5. Both claim that the Israelites left Jerusalem to escape divine punishment.
6. Both claim that these people journeyed through Southern Asia by land and sea.
7. In both the leaders are Nephi and Lehi.
8. Both record a quarrel between the Nephites and the Lamanites.
9. In both they buried their dead beneath great mounds.
10. Both agree that two wars ended in the total annihilation of all but one, who escaped to record the event.
11. The names in both books are the same.
12. Both give the story of the red cross and the battle of Cumorah.

A close study of the Book of Mormon reveals the fact that many chapters were stolen from the Bible in their entirety: Isa. 11, 14, 21, 48, 59, 62, 64; Mal. 3; Matt. 5, 6, 7; 2 Cor. 13. In many other chapters it is interesting to notice just here, that while the Book of Mormon dates back to 430 B.C. it contains over 300 quotations from the present authorized English Bible, which was not translated till 1611 A.D. It also contains one or two peculiar expressions of Shakespeare.

Where are the plates now? Were there ever any outside of the Spaulding manuscript? Oliver Cowdery, David Whitmer and Martin Harris solemnly declared in a formal statement that the angel showed them the plates; but all three, some years afterward, quarreled with Smith, renounced Mormonism and declared as solemnly as before that they never saw either the plates or the angel.

Joe Smith gave Martin Harris what he said was fac-simile of the writing on the plates. Harris innocently took it to Prof. Anthon, the great Classic Scholar of New York, and the professor describes it in the following words:

"It was indeed a singular scrawl. It consisted of all kinds of crooked characters, disposed in columns, and had evidently been prepared by some persons who had before him at the time a book containing various alphabets, Greek and Hebrew letters, crosses and flourishes. Roman letters inverted or placed sideways, were arranged in perpendicular columns, and the whole enclosed in a rude delineation of a circle divided in various compartments, decked with various strange marks, evidently copied after the Mexican calendar, or 'Hambolt.' Such is Prof. Anthon's description of Joe Smith's scrawl.

The statement that Book of Mormon is of divine authority has no other foundation than that of Joe Smith and his gang. Neither Joe Smith nor the Book of Mormon are mentioned in the Bible, and though the professor should quote the whole Bible from first to last they cannot introduce into it either Smith or his Book. Paul distinctly told the Galatians (Gal. 1:8), that even if an angel did come with a new gospel he should be accursed.

But may we believe the story of Joseph Smith? Is he characterized as he is believed? Let us look for some evidence. Taking a perusal of Encyclopaedia Britannica, Vol. 16, we learn that Joseph Smith was brought up poor and shiftless, with the following record:

1. In 1830 he claimed to have a revelation. He led some thirty followers to Kirtland, Ohio, where he directed them to consecrate all their property and start a bank, with himself as president. He flooded the church with worthless notes and so enraged the people that he was tarred and feathered.
2. In 1838 he carried things as far as to fortify a town in Missouri and backed by 15,000 men, he defied the legal officers. The State Militia were called out and Smith surrendered and was imprisoned on a charge of murder or treason and felony. He next broke jail and escaped to Illinois.
3. One other dark stain on his character is the founding of system of polygamy. Encyclopaedia Britannica says that "in order to pacify his lawful wife and silence the objections of the saints he had a revelation, 12th July, 1843, expressly establishing and approving polygamy.

The same fact (as to his establishing polygamy) is attested by the People's Cyclopaedia, Vol. 4, by Dr. J. T. Crane in his History of Religious Denominations, and particularly in a chapter from the pen of Francis D. Richards, one of the Twelve Apostles, and Assistant Historian of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Mr. Richards relates how shocked and annoyed the people were when Joseph Smith began to establish polygamy in 1843 under the name of "Celestial Marriage." The leading of wives and spiritual wifery, are a result of Smith's invention. To give my readers an idea of the life of Joseph Smith in relation to polygamy I will give them the testimony of Mrs. Mary Ralph, sworn before W. J. Curtis, Notary Public in and for San Bernardino Co., California, 31st day of December, 1883. She says, on oath: "I lived in Nauvoo, Ill., close to the house of Joseph Smith, just across the road some time. I also was present at public meetings, and heard the preaching of Joseph Smith as well as he preached. Here is Bro. Brigham, if he ever leads this church he will lead it to hell, and he loved her as a true prophet of God. I was well acquainted with the two Partridge girls, and the two Walker girls, and their two brothers, William and Lorrin Walker; they were orphans and lived in the family of Joseph Smith, but I never knew there were any of them his wives; he called Susan Walker 1847. She had a young baby in her arms; she told me she had been soled to Joseph for eternity and to Heber C. Simball freed on them from Heber, was acting proxy for Bro. Joseph. Dianthy Parr told me she was sealed in the same way. Wm. Clayton was acting proxy for Mary Heber, and I saw the first I ever heard of the proxy and sealing business was in 1846. Bathsheba Smith, wife of George A. told me of it then, and Bro. Heber was expelled and his office destroyed. Foster got a warrant for Smith's arrest. Smith resisted and the militia were called on. Smith finally surrendered and was placed with his brother Hyrum in Carthage jail in 1844. A mob went to the jail at night and broke in through a window and in the skirmish Joseph and Hyrum Smith were killed. Such is the black and vile character of his who professes to be the founder of the character of the chief witness to the divine authority of the Book of Mormon. Such is the character of the man who claims to be the founder of all organized and reorganized Mormon Churches.

As March winds, flying dust and dirt, are apt to injure any complexion, this information will be of special value right now. If you have any cutaneous blemishes, don't use soap, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides it is much easier to remove the disturbance with ordinary mercurized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, moths, patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches or any surface eruption. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for one ounce of mercurized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with a wash lotion made by dissolving one ounce powdered azolette in 1-2 pt. with hazel will prove wonderfully effective.

Boy of Two Enlivened Crew of the William P. Frye for 160 Days—Men Have Holiday Celebrations, Catch Jew Shark and Walk Plank.

New York, Mar. 5.—After being out for 160 days, the crew of the William P. Frye, a two-masted American ship, arrived here yesterday and were welcomed by a large party.

Good weather favored the voyage of the Frye and her crew and those on board the sailing vessel, which is one of the remaining few that round the Horn, enjoyed many interesting incidents on the trip.

Great Christmas for Baby. The vessel had passed around the Horn and was out of the ice, or "Santa Claus" region, but the sailors created a Yuletide spirit of their own.

AND THE END IS NOT YET

Relations between Austria Hungary and Russia are not Improving—Suspicion Mutual—Peace in Balkans Depends on Settlement of Squabble.

Vienna, Mar. 6.—The relations between Austria-Hungary and Russia do not seem to be improving. The irritation shown since short time ago is apparently increasing.

While Russia has no very definite grounds for her suspicion that the triple alliance is increasing troops unduly, at present, Austria has just learned that Russia is spending 75,000,000 roubles on new railways.

The immediate outcome of this has lately been seen in the behavior of Serbia in connection with the question of the Orient railway.

It is clear that the triple alliance is increasing troops unduly, at present, Austria has just learned that Russia is spending 75,000,000 roubles on new railways.

THOUSAND MILES FROM CALCUTTA

Busy Men Can't Afford to Travel so far to Attend Sessions of the Parliament.

(Christian Science Monitor. Calcutta, India, March 2.—Commenting upon a telegram from a Delhi correspondent to the effect that the various select committees on bills which are appointed during the past fortnight are now sitting at Delhi, but a regrettable feature is that most of the non-official members of these committees are absent.

Delhi is 1,000 miles from Calcutta and Bombay, the principal commercial centers from which the most influential non-official members come. It is a little nearer to Cawnpore, Allahabad and Lahore, but none of these places can compare with the presidency capitals in size and importance.

Great prominence has recently been given in the Anglo-Indian press to Ramsay MacDonald's reflections upon the legislative council.

WAS TROUBLED WITH BOILS AND CARBUNCLES.

There is no more frequent source of illness than that arising from bad blood, for when the blood becomes impure, it is only natural that boils, pimples or some other indication of bad blood should break out of the system.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still at the same time are very painful, and the only way to get rid of them is to cleanse the blood of the impurities.

Billie Purke

By Billie Purke.
FIRST WORD.—Train your eyes to see only the best.
 I wonder if you realize that your eyes are being trained all the while to pick out certain things which form the every day pictures of life about you. Two people will go along the same road and see totally different things. One will pick out the best and the other the worst.
 One of the greatest illustrations of this eye training is in the way in which we first dislike a fashion and then after seeing it on our friend come to like it and at last reluctantly put it aside for something new. You can remember how you laughed the first time you tried on one of the hats that came down over your head. You would probably laugh just as heartily today if you should find one of your old head covers and perch it up on your crown. Your eyes have become accustomed to the hat which covers the head and they like it.
 It is said that people with starred and marked faces become so accustomed to them that they have no idea of how the sight of them affect others, and it is very probable that we become so accustomed to our small imperfections of physique that we forget about them.
 Once in a while when I am shopping I take a little time and study the faces of the women about me, for you know it is much easier to see a fault in others than in yourself, and after you have found it in the other woman you can look over your own face to see if you have it or not.
 One of the things which girls and women neglect more than almost anything else is their eyebrows, and yet, nothing will mar a face more than ugly eyebrows.
 Eyebrows to be fine, should curve slightly over the eyes and have plenty of space between them over the nose. This hair should be of uniform length and dark in color. Every woman in the land can have nice eyebrows if she wants them, but only about one woman in ten does have them, consequently she must look at them with unseeing eyes many times a day. The ugliest eyebrows, are those which meet over the nose, as they make one look very hard. This can be easily be obviated by pulling out the hair with tweezers and dabbing the place with ammonia and peroxide of hydrogen. If this smarta use a little cold cream afterward. While you are about it pull out all the straggly hairs and shape your eyebrows to a pretty crescent, beginning wide near the nose and trailing off to a point near the temples.

 In the larger cities there are men who do nothing else than shape the eyebrows of society women and actresses. They do it with a razor and until the desired shape is reached. A friend of mine who found this rather expensive, does it for herself, using one of her brother's safety razor blades. She cuts the hairs off one by one, using no soap and water, for, that she only has to do this about once a month, and her eyebrows are very much admired.
 I do not blame any girl who has very thick, scraggly eyebrows for darkening them. The best thing to use for this is mascara, a water color. Put it on very carefully, using the little brush that comes in the box with the color. This is perfectly harmless and if used with discretion cannot be detected, but you must train your eyes to detect the first bit of paint on your skin. Just lightly darken each hair.

JUST ONE LAST WORD.—It is the little details which make great beauty.
BEAUTY HINTS.
 THE matter of the proper creams and soaps you use on your face is really one of grave importance, and different skins need different treatments. How many women wash their faces and go right out into the cold blasts of winter winds, all because they "have no time" to rub a cream into the flesh. Did you know there is a cream made that you do not have to rub in? It literally vanishes when applied because the skin absorbs it at once. I suppose you had not time to even find that out? But the point is that there is such a cream and the busy woman will find it a great protection against the chapped skin and cracked lips of last winter. It is a cream—not a grease, and therefore can be applied as liberally as you like. In summer time this cream is almost a life saver, for it will cure sunburn with just one or two applications.

 In using creams on the face for massage it is well to get a reputable make which contains no animal fat, for that is what induces hair to grow where it is not wanted. Creams which have vegetable oils as a basis are safe at all times. Our grandmothers were famous for a cream they made with milk fat as the chief ingredient. Undoubtedly it had healing qualities, but it is an animal fat and will surely induce a growth of hair on the skin. Creams made from the products of the soil rather than the flesh will be found safer in the long run.
 It is likewise impossible to tell the whole world to use a certain kind of soap, but there are so many good soaps on the market you can find out the special brand that best agrees with your skin. A very good test for a pure soap is to taste it—just with the tip of the tongue. If it does not bite the tongue it is a sure sign that it contains no strong alkali and will not injure the skin in any way.
Powder Essential for Oily Skins.
 In selecting a powder to put on the face you should match the tone of your skin as nearly as possible. I have heard women brag "I never use powder on my face." Well, honestly, it was to their credit, for a shiny face is not a thing of beauty unless you eyes deceive me. A good powder dusted on the face during the day and washed off at night to allow the pores to open will never harm any one, and it will help a great many who have oily skins. Face powders come in three shades—pink, white and brunette. If you are a dark girl with an olive skin the brunette shade will look best. Blondes with high color will do well to select pink and the very pale girl should buy the white.
 A few minutes taken every night to put your hair up on patent curlers will soften the hair about the face and make you look much younger, and if you have not time to take deep breathing exercises to make you stand up straight, you can buy a shoulder brace that will help along wonderfully. If you have no bust, you will find ready-made garments that are covered with ruffles which will improve the effects of your figure. These garments can be laundered.
 If you find yourself all tired and fagged at night, and your husband wants you to go out with him, you can take a bit of renewed vigor using an electric vibrator for a few minutes. You can even sit down in a rocking chair and apply this device, and you will feel as gay as can be, ready to

CLABBY TO UPSET OLD RING THEORY, GOOD BIG MAN IS BEST

Otto Fletch writing for a western paper talks on the theory that "good big man is best" he says: Jimmy Clabby, of Hammond, Indiana, to the fore. That's an awful name, rumbling on its way from Los Angeles which tells us that Clabby is ready, willing and ambitious to meet "Dumbbell" Smith at catchweight, in olden times, the audacity of the thing would have staggered us. The idea of a waterweight tackling the best of our heavyweights—well, the thought in itself is most amazing. And what more are we forced to take stock in the pronouncement Clabby has issued and place faith in it because of the terrible poor lot now representing the heavier division of the fighting game. Where, oh, where has vanished old saying that a good big man always can beat a good smaller man? We still believe it to be the case, but the small men have all the class that pugilism boasts of, while the "bees" that founder about the ringed canvas in an attempt to fight are like so much stew dished out to the railroad laborers at meal time, and we can reverse the saying by quoting it, "A good small man can beat a poor big man every time."

"Well, we know of a man where a small man beat a big man." Grant you, I'll add, because there is always the happy exception that proves the rule. The fight they have in mind, for the fact, the two battles most prominent, are when Jack Dempsey defeated Dominick McCaffrey, and the other when Fitzsimmons defeated Jim Corbett. In the first instance, Dempsey only gained the decision over McCaffrey after six rounds and to over which officiated Jerry Dunne as referee, and if there was any man more friendly towards Dempsey than Dunne we are not aware of. Mind, we do not want to accuse Dunne of rendering a decision not in accordance with the facts. At the same time, Jack was in pretty safe hands. At the end of the bout McCaffrey was unharmed, only he had been outpointed. In the case of Fitzsimmons, the "exception" is proven, for the redoubtable fighter from Australia did defeat Jim Corbett most decisively in a manner which left little room for argument. We can also furnish another argument that takes in both sides of the question. Remember how Kid McCoy was meeting all the big fellows, including Peter Maher? How by him certain New Year's afternoon? But when the same McCoy stacked up against Tom Sharkey there was a different tale to relate. Sharkey was a "good big man," and while McCoy, a "good small man," was able to make his cleverness count in the early rounds, and Sharkey was at a loss, soon the weight began to tell and McCoy was undone in quick fashion. Recall that scolding between Jeffries and Fitzsimmons? Recall the battle do you? How for eight rounds Fitz bumped his horny-handed fists off of Jeff's map until his frontispiece resembled the popular hamburger steak in its raw state? Then Mother Nature stepped in and cried "halt." The smaller "good man" had spent all the ingredients that nature bestowed on him in an endeavor to overcome his handicap, said handicap being the "good big man." The big mountain of flesh that without the assistance without apparent effort was bound to come into its own. All that was required was to allow the storm to spend its fury against the ramparts until, exhausted by its own efforts, it must naturally crumble and be subdued. Such was Fitz's finish on the occasion of his second meeting with Jim Jeffries. The "good little man" wasn't quite "good" enough to beat the "good big man." It will ever be thus. If Dumbbell Smith should prove himself a "good big man," Jimmy Clabby wouldn't have the same chance that a snowball has in the place Bob Ingersoll said about it on a boxing ring, a dog or cock fight, a horse race, or any other sporting event. He always had a stable of boxers under his financial wing, but he was chiefly famous as the backer of Charley Mitchell and Jim Hall. Mitchell is still living, and is said to be the richest ex-pugilist in the world. On one occasion Mitchell beat up an enemy of Squire Abingdon's, for which little trick he did a year in goal, and the Squire rewarded him with a little gift of $100,000. Mitchell and Hall were close friends, and the Australian was often Charley's sparring partner. When Squire Abingdon came over to America in 1892 to accompany Mitchell and Hall on an exhibition tour of the continent, he was induced to back Hall against Fitzsimmons. The Squire looked after the financial arrangements, and got the Crescent Athletic Club of New Orleans to hang up $40,000 for the bout, the biggest pugilistic purse ever offered in America up to that time. The purse was to be divided $35,000 to the winner and $5,000 to the loser, an arrangement that suited Abingdon, because he felt sure that Hall would win. Hall was a favorite with the betters, although a California contingent backed Fitz heavily. Abingdon, however, backed Mitchell and Johnny Kline inhabited Hall's corner during the brief battle. It was a severe fight while it lasted, but Hall soon coughed up without hitting an eye. A game "un" was the Squire.

MANY INNOVATIONS FOR THE SPORTSMEN'S SHOW

Abingdon, Baker of Hall and Mitchell, was "One Game Guy."

It will be twenty-one years tomorrow since Bob Fitzsimmons clinched his right to the world's middle weight championship by knocking out his old enemy, Jim Hall, in four rounds at New Orleans. The trucked fellow had previously fought a fake scrap with Hall in Australia, but in the Crescent City, he was on the square, and Jim didn't stand a chance. Old Ruby Robert is still alive and kicking, and talking about coming back, but poor Jim Hall is dead, and so, too, is his wealthy backer, Squire Abingdon, the English sportsman who lost a small fortune on the result of the Fitz-Hall battle—lost it without batting an eye. "One game guy" was Abingdon, known to the sporting men of both continents as Squire Abingdon—gamer of all the brave bunch of betting giants who flourished in the last century. Possessed of vast wealth, Abingdon was always ready to wager any part of it on a boxing match, a dog or cock fight, a horse race, or any other sporting event. He always had a stable of boxers under his financial wing, but he was chiefly famous as the backer of Charley Mitchell and Jim Hall. Mitchell is still living, and is said to be the richest ex-pugilist in the world. On one occasion Mitchell beat up an enemy of Squire Abingdon's, for which little trick he did a year in goal, and the Squire rewarded him with a little gift of $100,000. Halifax, March 6.—Fifteen hundred people saw Sydney defeat the Socials four goals to two in one of the most strenuous games played here this season. In the first period the score was one all. In the second period Sydney led two goals to one. In the third period the Socials tied the score, but from then until the finish Sydney outplayed the Socials. WORLD'S SERIES ARRANGED

Montreal, Mar. 6.—At a meeting between Frank Patrick, representing the Pacific Coast Hockey League and President Quinn of the N. H. A. the dates for the world's series were arranged. Should the Canadians win Saturday the championship, the first game will be played at the Arena on March 14 and the second match will be played on March 17. The following matches will be played on March 19, 21 and 23. Due to the lateness in the season it is more than likely that the final two games will have to be played at Toronto as there is not likely to be any ice in Montreal on that date. Should the Toronto win the championship the first game will be played on March 14, while the other games necessarily will be played on the other date arranged.

To The Music. An Englishman sat at a New York boarding house table. One of the boarders was telling a story in which a "dachshund" figured. She was unable for a moment to think of the word. "It was one of these—what do you call them—one of those long German dogs." The Englishman dropped his fork; his face beamed. "Frankfurter!" Lippincott's.

THIS DATE IN RING ANNALS

1906—Jack (Twin) Sullivan and Tommy Burns fought 20-round draw at Spokane. Later in the same year the famous "Twin" whipped the Canadian in a 20-round battle at Los Angeles, and only a few months after that Burns claimed the heavyweight championship of the world. Jack Sullivan never held a title, yet the record proves pretty conclusively that he was a better man than Burns when the latter was beginning his championship career. He came just as close to grabbing the middleweight crown, without ever actually wearing it. Jack began his ring career in 1898, and in fifteen years fought over 300 battles.

1900—Jack Sullivan outpointed Jim Stewart in 10 rounds at New York. 1913—Fackey McFarland defeated Jack Britton in 10 rounds at New York. Playgrounds Executive. At a meeting of the executive of the Playgrounds Association yesterday a committee was appointed to consider and report on the best methods of forwarding the social centre movement and organizing work in this connection for next winter. It was said that little could be done at the present time, but that if the matter was taken up now something could be started in the fall. A letter was received from Miss Mabel Peters thanking the association for electing her honorary president, and wishing the association success in its future work. In reply to a question the treasurer stated that the sum of $1,727.34 was expended last year, for permanent apparatus. W. S. Gaulty, the new president, was in the chair, and among those present were Mrs. T. H. B. Mack, Miss Grace Leavitt, George H. Brown, W. S. Gaulty, George E. DeWitt, William Sawyer, Frank deL. Montreal, Mar. 6.—The box office for the sale of seats for the Toronto-Canadiens game here tomorrow had only been open just an hour when it was announced that every one of the 5,000 reserve seats in the Arena had been disposed of.
