MAIL ORDERS

We solicit out of town orders which receive our personal attention. The length of time taken to fill orders is governed very largely by how busy we are in the department of our factory in which the particular goods are made. While we have exceptional facilities for promptly turning out goods, it is important to place orders as far ahead as possible. Orders are filled by us in the rotation in which they are received, and customers can always depend on our doing everything in reason to give prompt despatch.

FERGUSON'S

THE CALL FOR RECRUITS IS INSISTENT

MUSIC REQUIRED FOR THE SOLDIERS

Movement on Foot to Provide a Bugle Band For the 132nd Battalion.

The necessity of a band of some kind has been clearly shown during the past week. The men of the 132nd going and returning from drill to the strains of the bugles, march much better and altogether have a more martial appearance. It is felt by the officers and men that their work would be much lightened if they had a band in the company, and a movement is on foot to provide a bugle band of six instruments and four snare drums and bass drum. The men are willing to help out in this matter themselves and would appreciate the generosity of the public in the way they have always done towards all patriotic and recruiting projects. About $150 would be required and subscriptions may be sent to this office or to the officers in charge, Capt. McKay or Lieut. Archer. There is no doubt that music would do much to draw in recruits and put a lot of spirit in the men when out marching. Now who will help? We have never been behind in any good work. Let us keep up our record.
A start for funds has been made and others are expected to follow. Who will help in this?

Officers Keeping up Their Record and Recruits are Coming Forward in Goodly Numbers.

MORE MEN STILL WANTED

The ranks of the 132nd are still filling up. Every day sees new men coming forward to do their bit for King and Country and from present indications we will not be far behind our schedule by the first of January 1916. The recruiting officers have been sounding the slogan "A battalion in thirty days" and right well have they done their best. Recruits have been coming in on an average of eight per day, the full names of all on the strength appearing on the back of the outside cover of this issue.
We are still behind in our numbers and an earnest appeal is made to our young men to rally to the flag. This is our very own battalion, the 132nd, and we must keep up our record. So far we have led the way for enlistment for the 132nd and we want to have the very best bunch of men in the regiment.

McKAY-HARDY
The marriage of Miss Katie McKay, Escuminac, P. Q., to Mr. Gordon R. Hardy of New Richmond, P. Q., took place at Montreal on Wednesday evening, Dec. 1st. The Rev. I. Adams Montgomery of Knox Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a navy blue velvet costume with hat to match trimmed with white ostrich feathers and black fox furs. She was attended by her sister Miss M. Emma McKay, who wore a brown velvet suit with hat to match and pink fur. After the ceremony a supper was served to a number of guests, at the residence of Mrs. Henry Hardy. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy left for a short trip to western points. Upon their return they will reside in Montreal.

CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR 26TH BATT.

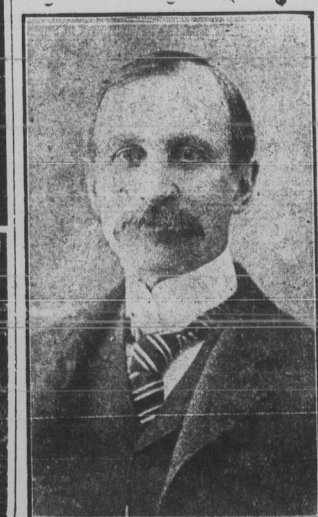

Money Wanted to Purchase Telescopes For Campbellton Boys at Front.

It has come to the ears of some people in town that telescopes would be quite an acquisition to our boys in the 26th Battalion in France. True they are supplied with binoculars by the militia authorities, but with a telescope the officers would be able to take observations through a very small aperture in the trench parapet. Although we were very willing to do something for the boys before they went away, through force of circumstances we were forced to let them go without any official recognition. At this season of the year when our thoughts are more with them perhaps than at other times, it would be a nice Christmas present to send one or two telescopes to the officers from Campbellton, just as a little memento of our regard for them. Subscriptions could be raised publicly or perhaps the Girls' Tipperary Club could make a donation of these articles, seeing they have quite a sum in hand for the use of the soldiers. One thing is certain that with a telescope there would be no need of an officer putting his head above the parapet and there would not be the same chance of casualty.

WELL ATTENDED LIBERAL CONVENTION HELD HERE

Hon. C. H. LaBillois Nominated for Federal Vacancy in County of Restigouche.

LOCAL CANDIDATES.
The Restigouche Liberals met in convention here last evening and chose Hon. C. H. LaBillois for the Federal vacancy and Messrs. A. T. LeBlanc and Wm. Currie for the local fight.
Every parish of the county was well represented, especially large delegations being present from Durham and Colborne.
Mr. F. M. Anderson was chosen chairman and briefly explained the object of the convention.
The delegates retired and took up the matter of naming a candidate for the vacancy created by the death of the late James Reid, also to choose two men to contest the county in the next local election.
After deliberating some time the nominating committee reported as follows:—Recommend Hon. C. H. LaBillois to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late James Reid; Recommend Messrs. Wm. Currie and A. T. LeBlanc as the standard bearers for the liberals in the next local contest.

HON. C. H. LABILLOIS.

This report was received with prolonged applause and calls were made for LaBillois.
Hon. C. H. LaBillois responded and thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him, but on account of family troubles he asked for a few days to consider the nomination and

DOINGS IN POLICE CIRCLES THIS WEEK

Disorderly House Raided and Keepers and Two Inmates are Convicted

During the past week the police court has been kept rather busy, no fewer than seven liquor cases being before the magistrate. These cases were against three parties, five charges being for selling and two for keeping for sale. One case was also heard for permitting card playing on licensed beer premises. The fines imposed totalled $320 and costs. One defendant was absent from court and the fine was not collected, he having left the jurisdiction and is in hiding.
For some time back the police have had a house in the west end of the town under surveillance, and on Thursday evening the officers visited the premises and placed under arrest two women and two men. There was a number of men in the house at the time, and on Saturday the police secured sufficient evidence to prove that the house was a disorderly one. The men were fined $10 each for being inmates and the women were fined $50 or four months in jail. Both of the one of them had two small children who will be looked after by the town. The cleaning out of premises of this kind is a good work and especially at this time we want none of this kind of house about here.
One man was before the court charged with drunkenness. He pleaded guilty and was fined one dollar.

A local merchant who had been getting his monthly account sheets and counter check books printed in Toronto was surprised and delighted when we delivered him a recently completed order. Best I have ever had, was his verdict. We can supply your needs at short notice.

this was granted.

The following resolution was then unanimously adopted:—

RESOLVED, that the liberals of the county of Restigouche assembled in convention at the town of Campbellton on the 15th day of December 1915, wish to convey to James A. Reid, Esq., son of the late James Reid, M. P., for the county of Restigouche and to the family of the said James Reid, their sincere sympathy in the sad bereavement that has befallen them in the demise of the late James Reid, M. P.
A resolution of confidence in the liberal leaders and liberal principles was also passed.
The convention adjourned after singing "God Save the King," and cheers for the candidates.

MEETING OF COUNCIL ON TUESDAY EVENING

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR PATRIOTIC FUND

Message to Municipalities From His Honor the Lieutenant Governor

I believe it is the desire of the people of many of the municipalities throughout the Province to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund. Questions have arisen as to the right of a municipality to levy an assessment for this or similar purposes. In order to remove any doubts that may exist in this regard, I wish to call attention to an Act passed at the last Session of the Legislature, 5 George V. Chapter 10, which reads as follows:—
"1. It shall and may be lawful for any City, Town or Municipal Council to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund created by an Act of Parliament of Canada, 5 Geo. V. Chap. 8, as well as to any other funds, raised or to be raised for the establishment of hospitals, beds, or the assistance generally or particularly of all persons who have suffered or may suffer, by reason of the present war, whether such person shall be within Canada, the United Kingdom, or any of the countries in alliance with Great Britain.
2. All contributions hitherto made, by any City, Town or Municipal Council, to the aforesaid purposes, or any of them, and any assessment heretofore made therefor, are hereby declared to be legal and valid.
Council may apply to any of the aforesaid purposes any of its funds which are otherwise undisposed of, or may assess for such contributions as it shall decide to make."
In directing attention to these provisions of the law, I desire to express my earnest wish that the Municipal Councils throughout the Province, when they next meet, will make generous contributions in order to assist in the great work with which those who are administering the Canadian Patriotic Fund find themselves entrusted.
I am pleased to be able to state that Professor DesBarres of Mount Allison University, has placed his services at my disposal in connection with this work. I have appointed him Organizer of the Fund throughout the Province. He will visit the different localities throughout the Province as soon as possible with a view of meeting the local committees where Organizations exist, and organizing committees in sections where none at present exist, and giving his assistance in any way he can in generally promoting the in-

Short Meeting of City Fathers Who Deal Principally With Routine Matters.

NEW HORSEMAN.

A meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening. His Worship Mayor Andrew presiding. Councillors present Messrs. Alexander, McLean, Goss and Patterson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Communication read from Percy Gagnier, caretaker of the town horses and driver of the Fire team, asking leave of absence for the period of his enlistment. On motion this was granted.

Applications for the position were read from James Parker, Charles T. Parker, Walter Dow, Seth Polley and Ferd. Belliveau. On motion Seth Polley was appointed to the position, and would be associated with Gagnier for two weeks to learn the rounds.

His Worship read letter from Mayor Frink of St. John, acknowledging receipt of Belgian Relief cheque.

Accounts from the Board of Health amounting to $130.60 were on motion ordered paid.

The following reports from committees recommending payment of accounts were on motion received and adopted:—

Public Property and Streets $128.80
Fire Protection 36.25
Police and License 149.60
Water and Sewerage 110.71

On motion G. G. McKenzie was granted a license to do business in the town of Campbellton for a fee of $20.00.

Councillor Goss brought up the matter of having a telephone in the fire station. This was rendered necessary owing to the fire alarm system going out of business occasionally and after discussion permission to have this installed was granted.
Council then adjourned.

MATAPEDIA WEST

A good selected programme consisting chiefly of recitations, dialogues and songs, followed by a beautiful Xmas tree, will be held in the Matapedia West school house, Thursday, Dec. 23rd, 1915. A dialogue entitled, "Trouble in the Mommend Family" will be worth seeing. Some of the newest songs will be sung by Mrs. Timothy Soyker of Squash Hollow, Alberta. Admission for adults, .25c, children .10c. Everybody is welcome. Doors opened at 7.30 p. m.

You still have a week to get that photo. Arrange to have your sitting now and don't wait for a bright day. Come any time it makes no difference. Get it done now so that you will not be disappointed for Christmas. MERSEREAU'S STUDIO.

PLAYS IN CHURCH

Owing to the illness of the organist last Sunday, Mrs. H. Lunam presided at the organ in St. Andrew's church very acceptably.

FUNERAL ON MONDAY

The funeral of the late Wm. Payne who died as the result of an accident recently reported was held on Monday. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

DON'T FORGET

The Northern Lights Mission Band will hold a sale of fancy work and home cooking in St. Andrew's hall on Friday evening, Dec. 17 at 7.30. Admission 15 cents, including tea.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

If you are thinking of a Xmas gift for your wife, daughter, sister or sweetheart, you should give your attention to Gallagher's adv. on page five of this issue.

FOR BELGIAN RELIEF

A contribution of $2,404.58 from the citizens of Campbellton for the Belgian Relief Fund was received by His Worship Mayor Frink this morning, sent per the Mayor of Campbellton, Mr. A. A. Andrew.—Globe.

AUTOMOBILE ARRIVES

A recent cable to Mrs. E. A. Smith, regent of Royal Standard Chapter, conveys the information that the automobile purchased for the 55th Battalion through the efforts of the chapter, had arrived safely in London on the steamer Rappahannock so that it is by now likely in use at Bramshot Camp.

LUCKY WINNERS

Mrs. McLeod, of Tracadie, Gloucester county, holding ticket No. 749, was the winner of the Queen Mary petticoat in the drawing in which many ladies of the province were interested and which realized $629.59 for the patriotic work in connection with Queen Mary's Needlework Guild.

GIRLS FILLING GAPS

The local branches of the different banks are filling up the gaps in their clerical staffs owing to enlistments by young ladies. One of the local branches has already five girls in its employ. The other banks are rapidly falling in line and more and more girls are being added as the young men join the colors. This is in concurrence with the scheme which is everywhere in vogue in the old country, where women have even become conductors on the railroads and work on the lighter operations in munition factories.—Telegraph.

WHIST PARTY

A Whist Party and Basket Social will be held on December 28th, 1915, in Nash's Creek Hall at eight o'clock p. m., in aid of the Parochial school. Come and encourage a good work.

THE LADIES' CHRISTMAS

At Christmas the ladies will find at our store many lines which will interest them and we are sure they can procure just what they are looking for as a remembrance to their friends. We invite you all to call.

SECOND IN COMMAND

Newcastle, Dec. 15th.—Major L. D. Jones, who came here from Dalhousie on Dec. 15, 1914, and has been in charge of the Wireless Garrison ever since, has been removed to the Staff of the 132nd in Chatham, of which Battalion he is second in command.

GLAD TO GO.

In an address at a reception tendered Corporal Manderson, who returned disabled from the war, Major Jones of the 132nd said:—"He was glad at last to have a chance to go to the front. He was leaving loved ones, but the place to defend them was in France. Not great guns but the spirit of sacrifice would win this war. The more casualties reported, the more recruits were coming in. The 132nd already had over 300. The men who went first were brave. And brave men were needed to fill the gaps. They were coming. The mother who held back her son was checking in him the same self-sacrificing spirit she herself had so often shown. Such men as Dawson Winchester of Restigouche, who gave all for his country would be remembered for ages."

S. S. SENLAC BURNED

TO THE WATER'S EDGE
Snyder, N. S., Dec. 14.—Coastal steamer Senlac, owned at this port, with cargo from Charlottetown for St. John's, Nfld., caught fire this morning and was burned to the water's edge. Part of cargo saved. Crew rescued. The Senlac served the Gaspe coast in 1909-10.

OBITUARY

On Dec. 6th, Mrs. Alex. Calder of Kempt Road, P. Q., passed away to her home above in the 68th year of her age. Mrs. Calder had been a patient sufferer for the last thirteen years of her life. During the greater part of that time she was completely helpless and was nursed by a devoted daughter, Mrs. John Fraser, whose untiring attention helped to soothe and comfort many a weary and restless hour. Mrs. Calder's patience and cheerfulness during the long years of her affliction were the wonder of all who knew her; but the secret of her strength lay in her trust in the Saviour who has promised, "I will come to you." During the last few years of her life she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Fraser in Tide Head. The funeral service was held there on Dec. 8th and was largely attended. Mrs. Calder leaves a husband, two daughters and six sons to mourn her loss. Of the daughters, Mrs. Bruce McBeath lives in Campbellton and Mrs. Fraser in Tide Head. The eldest son Alexander lives in Vancouver, B. C.; Harry and John in Campbellton; Stanley and Gordon at home; while Lindsay has recently joined the volunteer forces in Campbellton.

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR BUGLE BAND

Mr. Ed. Sullivan Challenges Mr. Henry Cormier to Horse Race on Christmas Day

Some sport is promised for Christmas afternoon on the race track here as Mr. Ed. Sullivan has challenged and does hereby challenge Mr. Henry Cormier to a matched race, Sullivan's Nora Brazilian against Cormier's horse, for $25.

If Mr. Sullivan's challenge is accepted, tickets will be sold for the event, the proceeds to go towards the purchase of a bugle band for the 132nd battalion stationed here.

It is probable that other race events will be on the cards for that day, and a good afternoon sport is assured. "Ned" is keen for having the race and considers his mare in good shape to win.

Should the match materialise it is said that a number of outside sportsmen are willing to come in and make up a good drawing cards of races. The object is one of the best and should be well patronized by the many horsemen round the district.

QUEEN MARY PETTICOAT

COMES TO TRACADIE

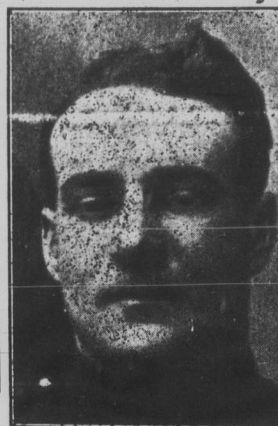

Mrs. W. D. McLeod of Tracadie was the winner of the Queen Mary Petticoat recently lotteried by the Queen Mary Needlework Guild of St. John.

The winning ticket was No. 749. This is a great honor for Gloucester County, as this petticoat was made by Queen Mary herself, and there was keen competition for the tickets in connection with it, and Mrs. McLeod is heartily congratulated on her good fortune in securing such a notable prize.

PTE. HENRY DELANEY, 44th Battalion.

Private John S. McDavid, formerly of Matapedia, but for the last seven or eight years a resident of British Columbia, passed through here on one of the military trains Sunday evening, the 21st inst.

Private McDavid is a member of the 54th Battalion, which comes from Vernon, B. C. Sunday morning about eleven o'clock his friends in Matapedia received a wire that Jack was coming and a general rush was made to Campbellton, as it was understood the trains would make a brief stop there, and before the train which he was travelling on pulled in, a host of relatives and friends had collected on the platform to give him a hearty welcome.

Touching indeed was the meeting between mother and son, but faith in the justness of our cause, love of country and pride of race, in a great measure eliminates the sting of parting, and day mother might well be proud of such a son as Private McDavid, who standing over six feet in his stockings, looked what he really is, every inch a soldier.

Over an hour was spent in this happy reunion and after many hearty hand shakes from the boys and several hugs and kisses from the ladies, Jack again boarded the moving train with good luck and a safe return from all who saw him.

Private Bruce McDonald of Matapedia and a son of the late William McDonald of Des Side, Que., passed through on the same train on his way to the front. Bruce also comes from the coast, where he went after his father's death, along with his mother and other members of the family, except his brother Angus, who remained in Matapedia, and enlisted from here in the 26th Battalion, and is now in the trenches in France. Bruce's many friends were both pleased and proud to see him going to do his bit like a man, where danger and duty calls him.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR TEACHERS' COURSE

Mr. R. P. Steeves, Director of Agricultural Education, writes that more than twice the number of applications than can be accommodated for the Teachers' Short Course have been received. It is therefore requested that if any teachers whose applications have been accepted find it impossible to attend, they will notify Mr. Steeves,

PTE. CHAS. A. GRAY, Railway Construction Corps.

so that others may receive their reservations.

It is necessary for the teachers to reach Sussex on Saturday, as the course opens on Monday morning, Jan. 2nd., and no travelling expenses will be allowed for that day.

A spring campaign on a large scale can only be made possible through the enlistment of every man of fighting age. The sooner a man enlists the sooner he will be ready for the task overseas.

THE BETTER GROCERY

MILLER-MAIR.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mair on Wednesday evening, December 15th, when Ethel Ogilvie, their youngest daughter was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas George Miller of the firm of W. H. Miller Co., Ltd., of Campbellton. Rev. W. G. Firth officiated at the service. The bride looked very charming in a dress of silk crepe de chene with shadow lace and fur trimmings and wore the conventional veil with orange blossoms. Miss Greta Adams presided at the organ and to the strains of Wagner's Bridal Chorus the bride entered on the arm of her father. The bride couple stood under a spacious arch of evergreens and were unattended, except for the two little nieces of the bride, who by their dainty appearance and ingenious manner gave added beauty to the occasion. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, among which may be mentioned the groom's gift of a gold bracelet watch and a purse of gold from the Tide Head congregation. Various musical selections were rendered during the evening and a dainty lunch was served after which the bride couple departed for their future home in Campbellton, amid showers of rice and the good wishes of all. Mrs. Miller was one of Tide Head's most popular young ladies and will be greatly missed in church and social circles. A host of friends unite in wishing her and her husband many long years of health and happiness.

TEA AND SALE

The ladies of the Methodist church will hold a tea and sale at the Dimock Tea Rooms Tuesday evening from 5 to 8.30. A hot supper will be served. Home cooking and candy as well as fancy work will be offered for sale. Supper tickets 35c. No admission fee will be charged.

PROVINCIAL INSTITUTE HELD IN QUEBEC CITY

Interesting Report of the Proceedings Read at New Carlisle

SOME SUGGESTIONS

The fifty-first convention of Protestant teachers of Province of Quebec. Read at Teachers' Conference, New Carlisle, Dec. 8rd, 1915.

The Protestant teachers of Province Quebec held their 51st Convention in the Assembly Hall of the High School, Westmount, on the 14th, 15th and 16th of October. The attendance was the largest on record, as 1000 teachers registered. They were interesting, interested, and earnest, of all ages and grades of Diploma, from the humble country teacher to the learned principals of the high schools and academies, school inspectors, the Inspector General and College Professors.

Notwithstanding some friction over the change and price of school books, good-will and fellowship were characteristic of the Convention.

Westmount is a very beautiful and tasteful city. There are many trees, clean streets, comfortable brick and stone residences, a beautiful park, library and churches. The schools are numerous and well equipped, there are 100 teachers in Westmount alone. The new, recently finished high school has all the modern improvements, library, assembly hall, gymnasium, etc., etc.

The Convention was convened on Thursday A. M. with Mr. McBurney of Lachute Academy in the chair. By the way Lachute Academy has the enviable reputation of having the largest percentage in Pro. Que., of successful candidates taking the government examinations.

Mr. Campbell, representing the Protestant Committee, presented his report, which was received.

The question whether Latin should be compulsory for entrance to a Model School Diploma was moved by Prof. Kneeland, and seconded by Inspector McElat. After some discussion the vote was taken, resulting in 319 for, and 40 against the motion.

The Protestant Committee at its meeting held in Quebec on Nov. 30th, decided by a narrow majority that Latin will continue to be required for entrance to the Model School Class of the school for teachers.

The reports of the Pension Commissioners and of Text Books were received and adopted. Considerable time was taken up with options of school studies, and criticisms of Dr. Hamilton's Book on "Nature Study".

In the afternoon a motion suggesting that women should hold a place on school-boards was carried.

Later the superior school section met in another room, while the Elementary teachers received a rare treat, the illustrated lecture on "Westminster Abbey" by Mr. Holmes was both interesting and instructive.

In a splendid opening speech, Mr. McBurney explained that in English the studies set apart for discussion were intended chiefly to be read out of school, while those mentioned for "close study" were intended for examination.

It is pointed out that it is a necessity to have English Literature well taught in our schools. Several persons took part in the discussion. It was remarked that the lesson should be responsible for the plot, character of plot, and criticism. Some time was taken up with discussion re literature, teaching of Agriculture in superior schools and the indirect method in French. Among others taking part in the discussion was Prof. Robert, French Inspector. There was also considerable discussion concerning the school leaving examinations.

The evening session opened with music by St. Andrew's Male Quartette. This was followed by an address of welcome by His Worship the Mayor of Westmount. He spoke most enthusiastically of the beautiful view and splendid electric light. He pointed out that Westmount is unique in its position, surrounded as it is by the City of Montreal. It is a model city—the only complaint made by the parents of Westmount related to the change in school books. The citizens are a peaceful people, but much engaged in helping in the war. The teachers are employed, placing before their pupils high ideals. They point out the wrong of the detestable thought that "might is right," and inculcate the duty to help and protect the weak, while they instill noble thoughts, and strive to train them to become manly and sturdy boys, as opposed to milk and water boys—the girls are also trained to be noble and womanly. Life is not worth living, unless we have liberty. In answer to the question—Why is Westmount peaceful? He replied that they had a good police force by whom clubs were used when necessary. In illustration he mentioned that last summer there were 600 vacant houses and not one was broken into—still care must be taken that they be always prepared. Cordially he bade the Convention welcome to Westmount.

Mr. McBurney replied to the Mayor's address of welcome, thanking him for the honour conferred in the "freedom of the city," and remarked that the Convention would have come sooner had they been invited. On behalf of the School Commissioners Mr. Nicholson presented the address of welcome. He bade the visitors welcome to the school grounds, remarking that there was nobody of people more deserving of welcome. The teachers laid the foundation work, their work was at the base of all prosperity. The nation had never fully discharged its duty to the teacher. After the war would be the teacher's day. For 18 years he had been a member of the profession, thus he had experienced both the encouragements and discouragements of a teacher's life. They had the knowledge that they were not serving self, but endeavouring to make the world better at the cost of sacrifice. He optimistically remarked that the school board of Westmount was as near perfection as possible. He pointed out that rural school boards are in danger of being one-man boards, and remarked that the worst member for a school-board, is a progressive community is an old teacher, who is not able to get away from old ways. Referring to a moment to the crisis of our country, he observed that not many had enlisted from the school ranks. Education cannot, should not be neglected, but rather than have freedom banished from our fair land, everything must come to a halt. He trusted that the deliberations and discussions of the teachers would result in much good. In closing he asked, "Will we no come back again?" Cordial invitations to visit the Technical schools of Montreal were given.

After a solo and encore came a great literary and educational treat, when Madame Beiler, daughter of D' Aubigny, the Historian of the Reformation read a paper. Her address was most inspiring, and was received with rapt attention. She pointed out the necessity of discipline in the home, school and church, but discipline must never crush the conscience. She pointed out the methods used by the Swiss, how they were characterized by patience, hygienic principles, moral energy and in born allegiance to conscience. The Anglo-Saxon or British motive (in time of war) was more complex, the love of adventure, change and chivalry were all intermingled. The German watchword was discipline. It was arranged that Madame Beiler's admirable address is to appear in the "Educational Record."

The President's address was given by the chairman, Mr. McBurney. He observed that the object of the Convention was to render themselves better fitted to do good work.

He also remarked, (and no doubt the older teachers agreed with him), that teachers were very opinionated—observing also that the war was the fruit of the school system in Germany. The standard by which we measure people is the most important work of our teachers. It is necessary to get back to a sound set of standards. We cannot live without ideals. What is our function on the earth? Is it wealth, honour, social distinction? Touching on children he said: Children are fairlike and enthusiastic. The crisis comes to a child when the mind no longer accepts the fairy in the old dress. He believed in Santa Claus: it was the spirit of kindness and beneficence. The teacher's aim is to set up in the children standards of truth and honour. The address was a splendid, earnest, urgent appeal to teachers to instil right views of truth, honour, and righteousness in the hearts and minds of the rising generations.

On Friday A. M., was given an opportunity to the visiting teachers to visit the schools of Westmount, which were open for the purpose. I visited King's school, and was present during parts of two French lessons, a dictation and a lesson in geography. The subject was England. In the latter the teacher wished to draw upon the thinking abilities of her pupils, as well as their memory, for a blank outline map of England and Wales was ready on the black-board. The schools are

BAZAAR AT NEW CARLISLE HELD FOR RED CROSS SOCIETY

Ladies of Bonaventure Co. Raise Large Sum for Work of the Local Society

RECEIPTS NEARLY $500

It would be difficult to find a more energetic, persevering and enthusiastic Red Cross Society than the branch located in New Carlisle, P. Q. When the size of the place and the number of citizens are considered the results accomplished are wonderful.

The officers and Executive are: President—Mrs. George Kempfer. Vice-Pres.—Mrs. F. Bigeaud. Sec'y.—Mrs. Mousseau. Other members of Executive are Mrs. John Hall Kelly, Mrs. J. M. Sutherland, Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. Couillard, Mrs. P. LeBel, Mrs. Scates.

On the afternoon and evening of Nov. 26th, the Society held a Bazaar or sale in the Parish Hall. Although the articles were nearly all handmade and worth much more than the prices asked, no article was sold for more than fifty cents.

The proceeds amounted to the neat sum of $485.97.

One hundred and sixty dollars of this amount were taken on a water colour painting (a beautifully executed landscape) by Mrs. John Hall Kelly, richly framed.

The picture was placed on exhibition at the upper end of the hall in order that all might see it. The fortunate winner was Mr. Percy LeGallais, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Rev. Mr. Vibert drew the lucky ticket on behalf of Mr. LeGallais.

Acting on the suggestion of one of the Red Cross ladies, a very amusing and lucrative feature of the entertainment was the treatment awarded to a large portrait of the Kaiser. The operations were in charge of Mrs. Sutherland. Brass tacks were provided and the price ten cents per tack. Thus an opportunity was afforded to every one to tack the enemy. The unrecognisable features of the Emperor William II. testify to the heartiness with which the task was performed.

Refreshments, including ice cream, cake, tea and coffee were available. These were all donated by the citizens. The musical instruments included a piano, gramophone, violins, accordions, and mouth organs; and so dancing was a part of the programme.

The hall and the special tables were tastefully decorated with the flags of the nations.

The refreshment tables were in charge of two efficient ladies—Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. Shepard, who deserve and receive credit for their faithful work. These ladies were kept busily at work all the afternoon and evening, as supper was supplied to all those who came from a distance.

The sales' tables were in charge of Mrs. J. H. Kelly, Mrs. Philip LeBel, Mrs. F. Bigeaud and Mrs. Mousseau, the indefatigable cashier. All the committee were in uniform.

The young ladies were a pretty sight. They were distinguished from the others by their dress, which was white with white caps and Red Cross badges on cap and arm.

There were two special doll tables in charge of the Misses Lizzie Sutherland and Maguire. The dolls were dressed by the willing hands of the young ladies of New Carlisle.

Among the dolls was one dressed as a bride, with veil and orange blossoms. This was won by Mr. Raymond Seuller. Another doll "Guess my name," ("Eva") was won by Mrs. Maguire.

A lady generously donated a gold watch and chain. Throws were taken under the efficient management of Misses Rosalie Hamilton and Grace Kempfer. The watch was won by Mr. Willie Luce.

A pretty hand-painted picture frame was won by Mr. P. Bourdage of Bonaventure.

Quite considerable interest was excited by the fortunes of the immense, beautifully frosted and decorated four-story cake presented by Mrs. Couillard. The first purchase was Dr. Cates, who generously returned it. At the second sale it was purchased by Mr. Percy LeGallais, who followed the example of the first purchaser; and finally it was bought by Miss Sutherland, realizing in all $10.75.

A special train was kindly provided by Hon. John Hall Kelly for the return the same evening of friends from the west, as far as New Richmond.

At the close of the main sale Hon. John Hall Kelly, in an impressive and eloquent address, while promising them a good time, asked them not to forget the goldfish and the object of the sale.

The balance of goods and refreshments were sold at auction. Hon. John Hall Kelly and Mr. R. N. LeBlanc being auctioneers, and Mr. F. Blois book-keeper during the auction. It was well that the grandeur of the hall were present, as in their enthusiasm the auctioneers might have cleared the floor of all goods and dishes as effectually as they did of Red Cross articles. Nothing was left. At the close of the auction, hearty cheers were given in honour of the ladies who helped the President and Treasurer Mrs. J. H. Kelly, Red Cross Committee, Hon. John Hall Kelly, the men, the King. The entertainment closed with the National Anthem.

The Bazaar was a great success and much credit is due to the indefatigable President, Mrs. George Kempfer for her faithful house-to-house visitation for contributions, and credit is equally due to the people who so willingly and generously responded to this solicitation.

Although not President at present, Mrs. John Hall Kelly will never be forgotten for her hearty co-operation with every effort made on behalf of Red Cross work, and all public work. She and Mrs. Mousseau as well as all the members of the Executive have worked, faithfully and willingly to push the good work, and it has been in vain.

It is impossible to thank personally all by name who helped with money, gifts, time and influence attended, bought and sold, who prepared tea and coffee warm and in condition, who prepared sandwiches and upheld the hands of the Committee, and to whom the Committee extends grateful thanks.

A cheque for $100.00 was at once sent to Hon. Walter Mitchell for the Imperial Red Cross.

In addition to the above the Committee is also sending twenty-seven Christmas boxes for Rev. Mr. Buckland and the New Carlisle boys at the front.

Each box contains socks, gloves, handkerchiefs, raincoats, a cake of chocolate, chewing gum, Oxo cubes, tobacco, cigarettes, writing paper, pencils, Talcum Powder, soap, pins and a picture post card of New Carlisle with greetings written thereon. All is neatly tied with Christmas ribbon. They are enclosed in strong cotton bags. These boxes were packed at the home of the President, Mrs. Kempfer.

A Christmas box is also being sent to Nurse Ida Smith of New Carlisle, now superintendent of a hospital in the Dardanelles filled with hospitable supplies and dainties for sick persons. Fully realizing the great need, the Society is already planning their winter's work. May God bless the willing hearts and capable hands of the Red Cross Society of New Carlisle.

In connection with the above, an anonymous friend of the cause donated a gold watch which was sold by ticket. The drawing was skillfully conducted by the Misses Grace Kempfer and Kitty Hamilton and won by Mr. Willie Luce.

Superlative Quality plus the money-back guarantee

WHEN KING COLE TEA first issued its protective guarantee to the purchaser, three years ago, offering to refund the whole of the purchase money for any package of KING COLE returned, there was a very good reason for this radical departure from usual sales methods.

We greatly desired a very general trial of KING COLE TEA. Our faith in its quality was unbounded, for we knew the constant care given to its preparation, but we realized the possible doubt the public might have of a TEA then comparatively new, and so we decided to assume the risk of every trial, and pay back the full purchase price of every package of KING COLE that failed to please. No stronger surety of our good faith could be offered, and we felt confident because of the quality of KING COLE TEA that practically every trial would bring us a permanent customer.

Things have turned out just as we expected. Not one package has been returned. We have never had a request for "Money Back"—we have never heard of a complaint of "King Cole" quality, while "King Cole" sales have been growing steadily larger year by year.

Only exceptional quality could have made such a record, and to-day with more confidence than ever, we invite you to give this tea a test.

The "Money Back" offer is still open; every package is sold on that understanding. What better assurance of Tea value could you have, and what better encouragement to buy your first package of KING COLE TEA?

REVERIE

A feverish day has just expired with the setting of the sun, darkness is silently creeping everywhere, and the rapidly approaching night threatens to wrap me in its gloomy cloak. Sitting alone by my wide-open window, I let the soft breeze bathe my burning brow, while I gaze out on sleeping nature which the slowly arising moon dimly illuminates. How peaceful and still everything around me is! Not a sound, not a movement, except a few last dead leaves shivering in the cold air, and, struggling faintly with the breeze for a moment, hopelessly fall on the damp, cold earth.

Poor little leaves! your mission is already over. How many have understood the sermon you have preached during your brief sojourn among us? As a gust of wind sweeps you away, I cannot help murmuring in my inmost heart: "Everything must wither and die."

With these thoughts wandering in my mind, I let my spirit fly over those many mountains and hills which separate me from the loved ones I have left behind; and there, in the deepest silence, I again witness the last memorable scenes which preceded my departure, this time a few years ago. The last farewell is sadly said, the last sound of familiar footsteps dies away in the cold autumn air, and the last strain of music still lingers in my ear. Every fall brings back the same old memories; every falling leaf reopens the still bleeding wounds of my heart; every fall of the cold wind recalls the sad stories of the past.

The frosty zephyr interrupts me in my dream and softly murmurs the time for retiring.

ONE CHRISTMAS EVE.

By Harry T. Barker.

He was grinning like a schoolboy at the gyrations of a mechanical clown. His bluff hearty laugh seemed to come straight from his heart. His long white whiskers, bearskin coat, merry eyes and full-round figure—suggested the veritable Kris Kringle to a T.

Men, women and children were all smiles as they looked him over, but too polite to linger and embarrass him. The proprietor of the store, observing the slight halt in the passing procession, beckoned to the stranger.

"My friend," he spoke rapidly, "could I have a word with you?"

"A dozen, if it suits you," responded the other heartily, and followed his interviewer inside the store.

"It's just this," explained the store man: "we've got a Santa Claus—see him yonder, in that booth, shaking hands with the children?"

"I see him," nodded the Westerner. "He is on till midnight and I can't spare him. A family here—the Moodys—best people in town—want me to send them up a Santa. You're just made for it. Come—ten dollars cash and it won't take you an hour. I'll furnish the robe and cape."

The Westerner smiled queerly. "I'll take the job," he replied.

Directed by a lad from the store, he was piloted to the Moody mansion, admitted and shown into a room off the main parlor, where a Christmas tree stood, loaded and ablaze.

All around it the hired Santy gazed keenly, almost eagerly. He appeared to be scanning the various framed portraits on the wall and seemed disappointed, as if in that inspection he missed something he had expected to find.

A servant came and helped him on with his costume, directing him in what he should do when the children entered the festive room. An admirable Santy he made. He went through his part in a merry heartsome way, then quietly slipped out through the side door and proceeded down the street. He seemed to have been over the ground before, for he reached his destination by pursuing lanes and byways where he would not be observed in the costume he still retained.

It was in the snow-drifted garden of a neat but humble little cottage that he finally halted.

"I'll do it," he spoke to himself, "if I can work it. Maybe I'm not forgotten here!" He knocked on the door and a woman opened it.

"Don't be scared, ma'am," spoke the Westerner. "You see, I've just been up to the Moodys—relatives of yours, I believe—acting Santa Claus. Knew that you had a little one here, saw the tree and thought maybe I could make her happier by going through my act."

"Oh, would you?" cried the lady in quick delight. "Indeed, it would cap the climax of all her Christmas eve joys."

"Smuggle me into the room with the Christmas tree," suggested the Westerner buoyantly. "I'll do the rest."

It was passing strange, but, conducted into the apartment and half hiding behind a screen, the Westerner studied the walls of the room circumspectly, just as he had done at the Moody mansion. A great glow spread over his face as he noticed a portrait over the piano, in the special place of honor. It was wreathed with holly and evergreen.

"No, not forgotten; that's certain," he uttered in an intense tone. "I guess I've landed in a real home spot." The little one of the household came in, leading the children of some poor neighbors. They screamed and then flattered with delight as Santy came into view. Then their eyes danced as his jolly manner restored confidence. He handed out the presents from the tree. The air quivered with the joyful shouts of the happy little ones.

"For Uncle Reuben," he read the card pinned onto an old worn woolen stocking. "Where's he? Come on, Uncle Reuben!" he shouted into space, and his tone was a sob.

"Oh, he isn't here," prattled little Esther, stepping forward. "He hasn't been for two Christmases. That's him," and she pointed to the holly-wreathed portrait. "He'll come back some time, though. Mamma says so, don't you, mamma? And every Christmas I put a nice card in his old stocking, and then I save them all up, to give to him when he comes back."

A choking sound came from the throat of the Westerner. He turned aside and reached under his robe. It was to unclasp a great belt buckle, a belt-bulging with gold.

"Your Christmas gift, Mary!" he cried to the mother of little Esther. "Only a trifle out of a whole mine—it's full of the stuff," and he threw it into her lap.

Then off went costume and cap. "Don't you know me, Mary?"

"Uncle Reuben!" she gasped. "Uncle Reuben and Santa Claus, both in one!" shouted the Westerner hilariously. "Little Esther—come!" And Esther bounded into his arms in a wild transport of recognition and delight.

LOVE'S SACRIFICE.

(By Ella O'Donnell.)

The glorious moon was shining On an old and pretty sight, It was a man and maiden fair, Seen 'neath its silvery light. Her lovely face was beaming As he whispered soft her name, And told her how he loved her, And always would the same.

He had met her in September, As the flowers bade adieu, And as he held her in his arms He knew she would be true. For he had won this maiden's heart And ere the month had flown He hoped to gaze with loving eyes Upon his bride, his own.

So tenderly he guarded her From every thought of care And as the fragrant breeze swept by It bore a silent prayer To Him, who sits upon His throne In majesty on high, Yet graciously descends to earth And answers when we cry.

The little stars were twinkling, And each one seemed to know That life was very sweet to-night To those two down below; For as they planned their future home She blushing turned away; And with a radiant face, she talked Of that dear future day.

Together dreaming love's young dream They planned it all with pride: The little vine-clad cottage Down by the river-side. Where love should reign forever Aye; God's own love divine, Sealing their hearts together Making their home a shrine.

Such joy; oh, pitying Heaven Would that it might last, But sorrow, deep, heart-rending sorrow Came ere a year was past, To arms! the call was sounded! Taking our boys away From homes of love and safety To fight in a deadly fray.

Who will go? Is there one who would falter When the Motherland calls for aid? No! not though live be the ransom Though life's blood the price to be paid.

To the rescue then boys! Briton calls thee! And our colours with pride will be—speak,— That Canadians ever are ready To help the down-trodden and weak!

Boys! fight to the end for your colours, And for them, if needs be—die, And prove that Canadian honour Is something that Germans can't buy. And if, when the battle is raging, On the fields of Old Flanders—you fall— We will grieve—yet be proud of our heroes, Who died at their Country's call.

This call, by each must be answered, Though it means the giving of lives, But harder, far harder its coming, To the sweethearts, the mothers and wives. But you'll answer: yes, bravely you'll answer Though in anguish you suffer alone, Only God hears the cry, "Can I give him?"

Oh! God keep him save is your moan. Brave mothers, who've sacrificed loved ones On this altar of greed (loss for gain) You have given your boys for your country.

Think not they are lives lent in vain. They are fighting for God, King and Freedom For a cause that is noble and grand, For the honour of Britain, Our Mother, In defence our own dear own Homeland!

E'en to the little vine-clad cottage Nestled close by the river-side Came the call, causing pain and anguish In the life of our little bride. But although her heart was aching She bravely bade him go: For she felt that she dare not hold him, When his Country needed him so.

Oh little wife heroic, Have you thought of the days so drear, When your heart will yearn for its loved one And you'll long for his presence near? Will you show to the world that is watching The same bright face as of yore? Will your smile be quite as cheery As his regiment leaves the shore?

Though bowed 'neath the crushing sorrow She gave; though she gave—her all—For next to God, she held sacred Her duty to Canada's call. But peace, the balm for suffering Will steal o'er her troubled breast, For she gave of her life—the greatest Love's noblest gift, her best.

The calm of even'g was o'er the world And the summer's day far spent When from the cottage, side by side The same young couple went.

PROVINCIAL INSTITUTE HELD IN WESTMONT

bright, new, and of course fully equipped, and as the teachers are enthusiastic, it would be strange if much progress is not effected.

In the early P. M. the photographer sent by the "Montreal Standard" took the picture of members of convention. A short address by Miss Smith preceded the prescribed work of the programme. Her address had to do with books for children as aids to the better understanding of history, and thus helping in the improvement of composition.

Dr. Hamilton's address on "Nature Study" was apt and witty. His introductory remarks showed that he had been informed of the criticism to which his book had been subjected, and he remarked that Nature Study was simple observation of the things about each person.

The course was to suggest lessons for each month—at the rate of two lessons per week. It was not however necessary to fully follow the Consecutive Order, so that the pupils might be brought to do practical work. He urged that the teachers do the best they can to prepare themselves. His work was merely intended as a syllabus.

Dr. Hamilton is engaged upon four books, treating with the aim, method, materials and helps.

These books will be published cheaply, but will not be out for some little time. In the meantime he would suggest as aids:

"Comstock's Manual of Nature Study," which could be obtained postpaid, direct from Comstock Pub. Co., Ithaca, N. Y., for $2.75.

With regard to animals: The Dominion Book Co. of Toronto publish a set of books at $1.00 a set, or $1.50 for 2 sets. He suggested that any one ordering these books should mention the name, and thus receive wholesale prices. In conclusion he again urged all to do the best they could, and warned against attempting too much, pointing out that the best results would be obtained through contact with nature. He also expressed himself as pleased to give help to any one, who should write him concerning any difficulty which should arise in the teaching of the subject. He would be glad to consider any hints which any teacher should send, and if suitable, would be glad to incorporate such in his books.

Most interesting was Prof. Stanton's address on music. He pointed out that musical appreciation was the capacity for the intelligent appreciation of beauty in sound. He emphasized the necessity of teaching the child to reason and think, and the cultivation of real, practical work. Three topics required attention: tone, sight-seeing, and the recreative side in songs, etc. Attention must be paid to good breath control, voice cultivation, the taking in and releasing of breath, and retention of breath. He emphasized the thought that the aim primarily should be for beauty of tone—and gave examples.

School songs should possess good sentiment, and good music: namely, songs of patriotism, contentment, and legend, should be included in the school song book.

Prin. Petersen of McGill gave an address on "Poetry in the School". He objected to the mechanical side of education—the things of the mind requires to be exalted. He suggested that it was vain to try to examine pupils in poetry. Poetry stimulates the imagination. He told the caustic answer given to Harold Bacon: that it had taken 300 years since Shakespeare to produce Harold Bacon.

He also pointed out the educational value of poetry on the moral and spiritual. His address was illustrated by extracts from a book of poetry compiled by himself.

A very pleasant hour was spent in the Assembly Hall and Class Rooms, while ice cream, coffee and cake were served by the School Commissioners of Westmont.

The evening session began with instrumental music, admirably rendered by Miss Dewey. This was followed by an address "Training for Citizenship" by Dean Coleman of Queen's University. His address began with the definition of citizen—a dweller in a city. He pointed out that the task of the teacher was to teach children to think outside of their own little environment. He spoke of the problem of good-will, and also the duty a man owes his fellow men to earn his own living. He remarked the necessity of new schools, new methods, better teachers, better salaries, righteousness, peace and joy. He said that since the state supports the school, it has a right to expect some return in the training of citizenship. He pointed out that knowledge is one element of right living, and is more easily acquired in youth. Good habits are initiative. It is not only what we teach, but the influence of our lives, still there is a danger of over-estimating the teacher's influence.

Then touching on active, energetic patriotism, he showed that the higher patriotism finds its justification in human welfare.

He closed with a plea for humanity. Mrs. Anderson gave a musical selection.

Prof. Dale gave an address: "Education and National Character."

He asked what can we do? He said we see the idol (Germany) fallen to the ground. Have we over-estimated our influence over our children? To be a citizen is a matter of life and death. It is our duty to defend our fatherland against those who break her laws, and against our enemies. War is selfish and covetous. There is the danger of dishonesty and deceit. Re history—its direct value is not so much in point. But fair-play is most needful, also sympathetic justice. Never let us shut our eyes to any trickery or unfairness.

On Saturday the reports of the various committees were received. After the vacancies had been filled by the Executive, the officers are as follows: President—Miss A. Norris. Vice-presidents—Mr. E. M. Campbell, Dean Sinclair Laird and Mrs. Irwin. Recording secretary—Mr. A. Walsh. Corresponding secretary—Mr. I. O. Vincent.

Treasurer—Miss A. Winn. Curator of library—Mr. I. Gammell. Pension commissioners—Mr. H. M. Cockfield and Mr. M. C. Hopkins.

Representative on Protestant Committee—Miss Brittain. Executive committee—Miss E. Binmore, Mr. C. McBurney, Mr. H. J. Silver, Mr. W. Chalk, Inspector J. W. McQuat, Inspector J. Parker, Miss S. Francis, Miss Agnes James, Mr. W. A. Kneeland, Mr. T. I. Pollock, Inspector Honeyman, Mr. C. A. Adams, Miss Drummond, Miss Taylor and Miss E. M. Gale.

Mr. J. C. Sutherland and Inspector McQuat spoke on the course of study, and the supplementary memoranda.

The Convention voted $100.00 towards the library fund.

Mr. Walsh of Strathcona Academy introduced a motion calling for an enquiry into the reason why the text books in Province Quebec are so much more expensive than the books of Ontario. A discussion followed, participated in by Inspector General Sutherland, Inspector McQuat, Mr. Percival, Dean Laird, Mr. Walsh and others. Mr. Walsh's motion was carried by a large majority.

Re. Examinations the Convention confirmed the step taken by the Superior School Section.

Prof. Leacock of McGill refused to lecture on "Civics", giving instead an address on "English" in his usual witty, happy manner, which was frequently applauded. He touched on phonetic spelling, Grammar Rhetoric. How to teach English? How to write? It was necessary to find something to say. How to introduce young people to the world's best books? Seek to unlock the way to literature. The address was of course very pleasing and interesting, but also full of earnest thought and suggestions.

Perhaps it would be well to read here the report of this address, which was read by Mr. Walsh. It is the copy of the manuscript, which was really the text of his address.

Shakespeare scarcely knew enough of what is called English by education departments to get beyond a kindergarten, according to Prof. Stephen Leacock, of McGill University, speaking on "The Teaching of English," this morning before the annual convention of the Protestant teachers of Quebec. "It is an amazing fact but it is nevertheless true," said Professor Leacock "that Mr. Rudyard Kipling and Sir James Barrie would fail hopelessly in English if they tried to have the entrance examination of any Canadian university. King George, from whom presumably the King's English flows as from its fountain source, might get perhaps half way through a Canadian high school in the subject.

"As for Shakespeare, I doubt if he knew enough of what is called English by our education departments to get beyond a kindergarten. As to passing an examination on one of his plays, such as is set for a Canadian matriculation, he couldn't have done it; he hadn't the brains,—at least not the kind of brains that are need for it.

NOT EXAGGERATIONS.

"These are not exaggerations, they are facts. I admit that when the facts are not good enough, I always exaggerate them. This time they don't need it.

"Our study of English—not merely in this province but all over North America except in happy Mexico,—begins with years and years of the silly stuff called grammar and rhetoric. All the grammar that any human being ever needs or that is of any use as intellectual training, can be learned in a few weeks from a little book as thin as a Ritz-Carlton sandwich. All the rest of the solid manuals on the subject is mere stodge. It serves no other purpose than to put royalties into the pockets of the dull pedants who elaborate it.

"Rhetoric is worse. It lays down laws for the writing of sentences and paragraphs about as reasonable and as useful as a set of directions telling how to be a gentleman, or how to have a taste for tomatoes.

THE LAST STAGE.

"Then comes English Literature. This is the last stage, open only to minds that have already been debilitated by grammar and rhetoric.

"We actually proceed on the silly supposition that you can 'examine' a person in English literature, torture it out of him so to speak in the course of a two hours' inquisition. We ask him to distinguish the 'styles' of different authors as he would the color of their whiskers. We expect him to divide up authors into 'schools' and to sort them out as easily as a produce-merchant classifies fish.

"The truth is that you cannot examine in English in this way, or only at the cost of killing the very thing you wish to create. The only examination in the subject I can think of would be to say to the pupil, 'Have you read Charles Dickens and do you like it?'; and answered that he didn't care, but that his uncle read it all the time and sent a R.A. degree to his uncle.

"We make our pupils spend two hours a day for ten years, silly pursuit of what we call English, and yet at the end of it we have that our students have less real appreciation of literature in them than they read a half dime novel for artistic joy of it."

The Convention was over, and has only eternity can tell the result of earnest noble men and women with lofty ideals, met together to discuss and plan the best methods of training the boys and girls coming to their care.

This particular teacher has always realized the honour of being a public school teacher, and although the profession has its discouragements and hardships, it has its compensations—the privilege of training the boys and girls is not to be lightly esteemed. Under the teacher's influence from day to day pass the men and women of the future, who will yet make history, therefore they need to see that the train for truth and righteousness is

POSTAL RATES ON

PARCELS FOR SOLDIER

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—The Honourable T. Chase Casgrain, Postmaster General of Canada, has been successful, as a result of negotiations entered into with the Imperial Postal Authorities in effecting an arrangement with the British Government whereby parcels from Canada for Canadian soldiers in France and Flanders will be carried at the same rate of postage as applies to parcels from the United Kingdom for the Expeditionary Forces on the Continent; that is,

For parcels weighing up to three pounds, 24 cents.

For parcels weighing over three pounds and not more than seven pounds, 32 cents.

For parcels weighing over seven pounds and not more than eleven pounds, 38 cents.

This means a material reduction on the cost of parcels, and it is hoped it will be a source of satisfaction to the Canadian public. This reduction has been brought about by Canada foregoing all postal charges for the conveyance of these parcels in Canada and on the Atlantic.

The public are reminded, however, in accordance with the circular issued by the Department recently, that until further notice, no parcel can be sent weighing over seven pounds.

THE SPINNER

A Christmas Story

by JEAN BLEWETT

"I hate country cousins, and poor relations," burst out the exasperated Mabel Halliday as she tied on her veil before the mirror, preparatory to going out. "Here am I up to my eyes in work for this bazaar the Patriotic League are giving to-night, and along comes Cousin Sally Arthurs and lands herself unasked on me. No wonder I'm upset."

"The holiday rates tempted Sally to come up and have her voice tested," said Grandmother Blake. "What business has she with a voice?" protested the only daughter of the house of Halliday. "Why isn't she content to milk the cows, feed the chickens, and—"

"Of course, he did that same," agreed the old lady. "But how comes it she never let on to know him when she passed him in the hall this morning?"

"The bright old eyes were fixed keenly on the girl's face."

"Oh, there was some falling out," laughed Mabel. "And now, here she is with her ambitions, her old-fashioned ways and a suit on her that would make you look dowdy."

"Listen, grandmother, no more of the country cousin for me. I wouldn't take her to the bazaar for anything. Keep her home with you."

"But I'm going. You selfish little bit of pride and vanity, why don't you see to it that the poor thing has a good time on this holiday?" pleaded Grandmother Blake.

"The veil was tied. 'Bye-bye,' called Mabel from the door. 'I'm going now in the motor to collect some contributions to my booth. At 1 o'clock I lunch with the committee, at 2 I'm due at the hair-dressers, and until 11 to-night duty will keep me in my booth at the bazaar. No Cousin Sally, thank you. It is going to be a strenuous day with me.'"

Grandmother Blake shook her head sadly. All at once her wrinkled face was illuminated. She put on her very best cloak and bonnet, and sallied forth.

"It is going to be a strenuous day with more than you, my pretty Mabel," she muttered ominously.

Her visit was to Mrs. Clyde, the manager of the bazaar, a lady noted for her benevolence, also for her business ability. Grandmother Blake talked for ten minutes. At first Mrs. Clyde looked doubtful.

"It is kind of you to offer us the old wheel and reel, especially so, seeing that your husband made them for you with his own hands so many years ago," she said, "but they would take up quite a lot of room, and, after all, they are no longer a rarity—we've dragged them into our drawing-rooms and—"

"Ah, but a spinner would be the rarity, Mrs. Clyde dear," broke in the other. "You see it's this way. Here's my poor granddaughter, Sally Arthurs—but there, I'll tell you the whole story, for certain I am yours in the kind heart that will make her happy and win you more dollars than a few for your poor little Belgian children."

"The reference to the dollars stimulated Mrs. Clyde's interest. 'Oh, if you can help us make this bazaar a success I'll be grateful! We have made so many calls on the public that I fear—'

"Fear nothing, my dear," cried the old lady with fine optimism. "My spinner will draw the money from the stingiest. She'll stir their interest up fresh, and soften the hearts of 'em. You'll see."

"You're sure the girl can spin?" Mrs. Clyde inquired anxiously.

"Only last winter she spun yarn enough to make six pairs of blankets. Hist, a secret, besides the spinning—"

Here ensued a whispering.

"What will she wear?" Mrs. Clyde was quite excited.

"And what should she wear but my own wedding dress! Oh, I've the proper outfit ready! She'll look—ah, ye'll see for yourself the fresh sweetness of her, the country prettiness of her. Faith, she'll be as like to what I was at her age as—is it laughing at an old woman's vanity ye are? Never mind, I'm off to get my spinner ready for to-night. Not a word to anyone, mind; it's to be a surprise. Certainly you can't tell Mabel; it's to be her surprise, specially."

It was Mabel's surprise specially. The country cousin looked a picture in Grandmother Blake's dress of beflowered, be-ruffled wool delaine, with its long pointed waist and billowing skirt. The wide, flowing sleeves with under-sleeves of white mull showed off Sally's shapely arms as she put the soft wool rolls to the spindle and turned her wheel with familiar hand. Her hair,

VIOLENT ATTACKS OF DYSPEPSIA

Suffered Tortures Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

St. JEAN DE MATHA, Jan. 27th, 1914.

"After suffering for a long time with Dyspepsia, I have been made well by 'Fruit-a-tives.' I suffered so much that at last I would not dare to eat for I was afraid of dying. Five years ago, I received samples of 'Fruit-a-tives,' and after taking them I felt relief. Then I sent for three boxes and I kept improving until I was well. I quickly regained my lost weight, and now I eat, sleep and digest well. I am fully recovered, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives.'" the color of ripened grain, was wound in two big braids about her head, her eyes were starry with excitement.

No wonder. The prophecy of Grandmother Blake had come true. Already the spinner's work was selling at outrageous prices. The girl was so quaint and so busy filling the spindle, winding the yarn on the great oak reel which "clacked" each knot off. It was like a breath from some far-off yesterday. And as looking back softens the heart and wakes the sympathies it was all good for the bazaar.

Among the throng, greatest at the spinner's booth—or, to speak more correctly, the booth for the Belgian babies, which claimed the spinner for its own—were big-hearted men and women who had given freely to all patriotic work and would continue to give, but there were, too, men and women extra canny in their benevolence. A couple of the last-named stood watching Sally.

"It calls up old times," said the man. "In our house the wheel was seldom still. With so many of us to be clothed in good homespun, it had little chance for idleness. I remember how light my mother's foot was as she kept time to the singing of the wheel."

"I like the croon of it," came the response from his companion. "It sets me thinking of the innkeeper—Oh, the girl is singing!"

It had taken all of Grandmother Blake's oratory to persuade Sally to break into song. She had pleaded fear of her voice, fear of folks, fear of—fear of the Rev. Adrian Monroe.

But the old lady in return had pleaded the dire need of the poor Belgian children until, with tears of pity filling her eyes, Sally had cried:

"Oh, how selfish I am to think of myself! I will do anything—anything."

Her voice was full and sweet in spite of the tremble in it and other sounds seemed to die out. There was just the spinner, utterly free from self-consciousness, the country girl, with a passion of pity swelling her heart to bursting, singing a ballad sweet enough and old enough to ring familiar in every ear.

A storm of applause, cries of "Encore, encore!" Sally responded with what in the old singing book is entitled "The Hymn for Little Children."

"When mothers of Salem their children brought to Jesus, The stern disciples drove them back, and bade them depart; But Jesus saw them ere they fled and sweetly smiled and kindly said: 'Suffer little children to come unto Me.'"

And all at once the throng knew that this was Christmas Eve, and that the Christ child had sent a message of tenderness to every heart. The old lady who had refused in the beginning to contribute to the funds—under the excuse that there was altogether too much money, clothes and provisions going out of the country, and that it was better to have foreign folk hungry than home folk hungry—came forward holding out a bill.

"For the Belgian babies. God bless them!" she said with feeling.

So many followed her example that a fine-looking fellow, who was no other than Adrian Monroe, jumped on a chair and held out his silk hat. It was a collection worth while. The happy Mrs. Clyde announced the sum total realized for the Belgian children, and the committee, largely reinforced by the crowd, gave three cheers for the spinner.

"I'll buy that skein you're reeling off," called the man who, earlier in the evening, had spoken of the spinning-wheel in his old home and the light step of his mother as she followed her homely task. "Watching you turn those rolls to yarn has taken ten years off me. A dollar a year is little enough. Here's an 'X.'"

"There is still half a skein. Dare we auction it off?" Mrs. Clyde appealed to the young minister.

He frowned on her. "I do not like the idea," he said, with stern voice, though his blue eyes twinkled. "I offer five dollars. If anyone wants to get it from me he has to offer more."

MANNER OF GIVING PRESENTS

Simple Little Embellishments Such as Ribbons, Seals and Holly Count For Much

At no time does the manner of doing a thing count for so much as at the time of Christmas giving; and while in a few instances there are those who overlook the outward embellishment of gifts, none of us now like to offer the simplest little remembrance unless wrapped in spotless paper, tied with gay ribbons and adorned with bright seals expressing merry greetings.

And this is as it should be for the holiday season gains a great deal of cheeriness and zest from the multiplicity of beribboned white parcels whisking to and fro, and we do not regret the passing of the yellow paper bundle of our grandmother's day.

But the attractive appearance of the gift is not all that counts; we must be careful of the how and when and where of presenting it.

The time that custom more and more sets apart for the exchanging of gifts among friends is Christmas eve, any time from dusk to midnight; but Christmas day itself is sacred to presenting gifts within the family circle.

Some families put all the gifts in the library or living room, in separate piles, and then, after a deliberate breakfast, they all walk in and open the packages in the presence of each other.

Never give a gift in person if you can contrive to send it or put it where it will be found waiting the recipient when he or she is alone, for when received in this way the gift makes its strongest appeal to one's appreciation.

In giving money, even to near relatives, the utmost care should be taken to give it in the most delicate way possible; especially if you know the money is needed.

One of the cleverest ways is to take a tiny Japanese umbrella, place the money in a paper bag, and after rolling and tying the bag around the upper part of the handle underneath, close the umbrella over it and tie with narrow ribbon.

Another good way is to present an attractive little booklet with a check or a greenback for a bookmark, writing on the flyleaf, "note page 14". Turning to see what is noted, the Fresh new paper money is seen and the recipient appreciates the manner of its presentation no less than the material benefit.

WHY YOU HANG STOCKINGS

Popular Christmas Custom Said to Have Come Down to Us From Old Italian Practices

There is a story from Italy which some suppose to be the beginning of the present idea of the Christmas stocking. Years ago good old St. Nicholas of Padua used to throw knitted purses with money in them in at the windows of the poor. These knitted purses were not unlike a stocking without a foot, and later it became the custom of the people to hang this knitted sack just inside the window that St. Nicholas might put something in as he passed. When these purses went out of use the stockings were substituted. In the northern part of Italy is was a little too chilly to leave the windows open and the stockings were hung by the mantel place so that they might be filled from the chimney.

Christmas Spirit

Too many of us take mean things on faith and demand proof of good things.

IF YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children need to be treated to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

They saw, and the sale went merrily on. A little later a radiant Sally Arthurs and a good-looking youth in a high silk hat approached Grandmother Blake.

"We're going home," she whispered. "Will you come with us, Granny?"

"That worthy lady looked from one happy face to the other. "Run along," she said. "I'm guarding people in search of presents away from this broken brass jug. Nobody has a right to work off on charity a jug that'll neither stand up or sit down, now, have they? Run away home, children, and very softly in her broadest Irish, "God's sunshine go wid ye, this Christmas Eve."

"So that my executors may have ready money."

The following extract is from the will, recently probated, of a keen, successful, and, as the will proves, thoughtful business man.

Among the insurance policies on my life which are now payable to my children in equal shares, I am endeavoring to arrange that these policies shall be made payable to my estate so that my executors may have ready money for the payment of my debts, and I desire my children to release their interest in the policies and let the executors have the money.

The $27,847 life insurance prevented the sale of property which would otherwise have had to be disposed of at a great sacrifice.

The moral is plain. There is no estate, be it large or small, but should be covered by life insurance. A policy would prevent losses to your widow or your children that could not otherwise be averted, because it spells "ready money," especially if placed with

UNDER THE MISTLETOE

By M. P. Heatherington.

It was an ideal Yuletide. The sweet notes of church chimes throbbing out melodiously, "Peace on earth, good will to men," announced it; laughter, smiles, gay greetings among the street crowds emphasized it. Two men going in the same direction, strangers one to the other, yet oddly mutually involved in a fateful circumstance of the hour, unconsciously lessened their gait to catch the final notes from the distant belfry.

He in advance, swarthy, evil-eyed, bearing a neatly covered box under his arm, uttered an ugly, sinister chuckle.

"This!" he hissed malevolently rather than uttered, and he tapped the box and strode on, grim with some profound purpose.

The man ten paces behind him,
young handsome, neat, but none too fashionably clad, carried a thin, square package suggesting a canvas, for his was an artist's face, and he was an artist—Chase Merwyn.

Had he spoken his heart's thought he would have whispered softly:
"Before this hour strikes again I shall have said good-by to all I love."
He of the sinister semblance strode

Hear him saying "Boys, you're needed!"
Come along, and help us out!"
Harriet Lena Haggdon.

ENVIOUS.

"Do you ever wish you were a girl?"
asked the victor.

"Only at Christmas time," answered the boy.

"Why do you wish it then?"

"Because of the stockings they wear."

on and turned into a fashionable residence "thoroughfare." Unconsciously like a shadow, the other kept almost even pace with him. Under an arc lamp Chase Merwyn paused to look over the package he carried. His objective point was a mansion, a dazzling place of light and luxury, and before it the sinister-looking man had halted a poorly-dressed fellow struggling along without an overcoat, and blue and pinched with the cold.

The twins was conversing and the man with the box handed it to the other, pointed to the doorway of the mansion and passed on. His messenger proceeded up the steps, which Mer-wyn mounted also. It was in time to see a servant open the door and to hear the other say:

"A present for Mr. Worthington; to be opened tomorrow."

"Oh, of course that," smiled the servant, taking the box. "I will place it with the other gifts. Ah, Mr. Mer-wyn," and the servant stepped aside to admit him.

"For Miss Worthington," said Mer-wyn, handing his gift to the other.
His gift was a picture he had painted,
and with it was a letter.

Slowly Merwyn descended the steps.
He paused for a few moments on the pavement to take a last look at the house that held so much for him. A sinking figure approached him from the shadows.

"Mister," he stammered, "I'm poor and I need the gold coin a man gave me for delivering a box to that house tonight, but—"

"Ah, I remember!" observed Mer-wyn, recalling man and circumstance.
"A gold coin is so rare for a trifling service," resumed the other, "that I was suspicious. Then again I didn't like the face of the man who gave it to me; I followed him. He met some others like himself. I heard him laugh over an explosion about midnight."

"Great heavens!" ejaculated Mer-wyn, comprehending, and was up the steps in a flash. "Quick! Quick!— open!" he cried to the servant, just settling the chain on the inside.

"The music room!" uttered Merwyn excitedly and hurried thither, turned on the light switch and made a dash for the table. He remembered the shape and size of the box. His eyes met out one corresponding to it.

Merwyn gave it a fling through the

The Sweeping Problem Solved
BY
The SWEEPER-VAC, Vacuum Cleaner
A no cost demonstration for the asking. Prove for yourself how the "Sweeper-Vac" can thoroughly cleanse your carpets and rugs every day and do away with spring and fall cleaning.
Soon pays for itself. Requires no electricity. It is the only Vacuum Sweeper that combines two complete machines in one, a complete Carpet Sweeper and complete Vacuum Cleaner.
It is not a question of "Can I afford it?" but rather the question is "Can I afford to be without it?"

A detonation that shook the house.
Some flying object thudded against his head and he fell to the floor.
It was Christmas day when he opened his eyes. He lay upon a couch pulled directly under the chandelier. Daylight was streaming into the room. The wrecked window frame was barricaded. His head was bandaged, and seated at a little distance was Esther.
"Oh, I am so glad!" she cried as she noticed that his eyes had opened.

"The surgeon has just left, and papa—he says you saved us all and that you are a hero! And the beautiful picture you intended for me—it was riddled with window glass, but—I found the letter. Why did you write so sadly?"
"Because—because I feared to write all the truth," Merwyn confessed.
"The man who turned you told us enough to have us guess the truth," spoke Ethel, confusedly changing the subject, and then she followed the Christmas morn—under the mistletoe.

LIEUT. COL. G. W. MERSEREAU

LIEUT. COL. MERSEREAU.

Lieut. Col. W. Mersereau, officer commanding the 132nd Battalion, has been prominent in military and educational work for over thirty years. He is a native of the Parish of Blissfield, Northumberland county, and has resided there nearly all his life. He graduated from the U.N.B. in 1876 and followed teaching successfully until his appointment as school inspector about thirty years ago. He was long connected with the 73rd Northumberland Regiment, and on completing his tenure of command a few years ago, was appointed to the reserve of officers. He was appointed brigadier of the 16th Brigade a short time ago.

Col. Mersereau has three sons and all are serving in khaki. His eldest son, Captain Fred Mersereau, formerly of the Mounted Police, went to England with the 12th Battalion, but upon his corps being made a reserve battalion he pitched his job and returned home. The second son, Major C. Jack Mersereau, who has always taken a keen interest in military matters, was in command of a corps of guides when the war broke out. He at once offered his services and was accepted and received the appointment of brigade major with the first contingent. He was severely wounded while fighting in Flanders and is now recuperating at his old home in Doaktown and will report for duty in London in February. Another son, Captain Harry C. Mersereau, a clever young doctor of Montreal, went to England in command of an ambulance corps and is now with a reserve detachment.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V.

WHAT CAMPBELLTON HAS DONE

Since the opening of the great war, there is not a community that has done more for patriotic work than has the little town of Campbellton. In all patriotic endeavours who have borne more than our share, while as a recruiting centre we are away out of sight, with the rest of the province tagging behind.

The following letter from Mayor Frink of St. John explains itself.

Mayors Office,

St. John, 13th Dec., 1915.

A. A. Andrew, Esq.,

Campbellton.

Your Worship:

I beg to acknowledge your letter Dec. 10th enclosing bank draft $2404.58, amount collected in Campbellton for the Belgian Relief Fund. This is a very handsome contribution and speaks well for the generosity and patriotism of the citizens of Campbellton. When it is considered for a moment that Campbellton, according to population has contributed more men for overseas service than any other city or town in New Brunswick or probably Canada, it is not so difficult to realize that the generosity to the Belgian sufferers has been so well marked.

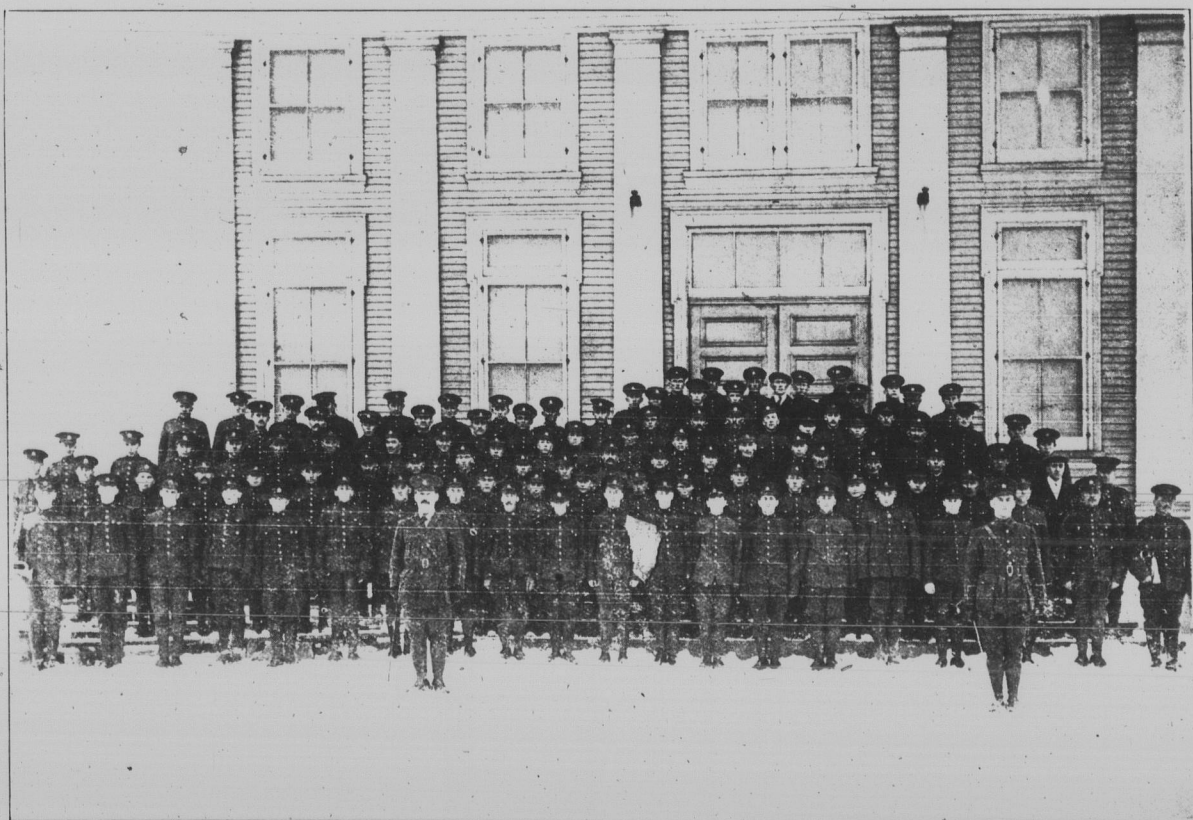

Yours truly,

JAMES H. FRINK,

Mayor.

ST. JOHN AND ALL MARITIME PROVINCE TOWNS PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

The names which appear on this page as having enlisted in the 132nd, are the names of recruits only up to and including Tuesday the 14th of December.

CAPT. N. C. McKAY.

LIEUT. CHAS. ARCHER.
