More Lost Than in Whole of Previous War-Bulgarians Claim To Have Gained Several Important Victories—Over Two Hundred Thousand Troops Engaged.

[Canadian Press.] Athens, July 7. - The Greek casualties since the beginning of the fighting against the Bulgarians total 10,000 killed and wounded according to official reports. After the battle for the possession of Kilkish the right wing of the Greek army forced the Bulgarians to retire across the River Struma. The Greek left wing after severe lighting occupied the heights to the south of Lake Dorian, and then pursued the retiring Bulgarians towards Strumnitza capturing twelve field guns and inflicting severe losses on the [Canadian Press.] Austria, July 7. thousand officers and men of the Servian Timok division were killed dur-ing the battle with the Bulgarians, in which it was defeated, according to the Sofia correspondent of the Reichspost. The division consisted of 15,000 men. who were surrounded by a Bulgarian army, which outflanked them. Only 4,000 of the Servians survived, and these were taken prisoners. According to other newspaper reports a Bulgarian column composed of 14,000 troops has succeeded in reaching the Servian town of Vranya, and is threatening the line of retreat of the Servian army. HEARTBREAKING LOSSES. [Canadian Press.] London, July 7. - The Belgrade correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the losses of both Servians and Bulgarians are heartbreaking. There is reason to believe, however, that the Bulgarians suffered most, because throughout they hurled themselves on the Servian positions on close formation with bayonet, regardless of the sacrifices such primitive methods entailed.

"Thus." said the "throughout the sixty miles' front there has been for a whole week a series of desperate night attacks, with the bayonet, resulting in great slaughter. It is easy to understand that the Servians proved more than a match for their formidable enemy, and it is obvious that the Bulgarians underestimated both the valor and skill of their opponents."

The correspondent asserts that Islip has been burned, but not occupied by either side owing to its being sur-rounded by marshes. He thinks a decisive battle will be fought out near Kustendil and around Krivolak.

He also owns a livery stable within the collection zone, on which property he is heavily taxed for he collection service, although he has no garbage, and will not benefit in the slightest from the working of the system. In common with all other citizens who live outside the collection zone he has to pay for the construction of the incinerator. In common with many other property-owners within the colection zone, he has to pay taxes for what does not benefit him in the least But more than this, he owns a house from which he wishes garbage collec ed, but the system as at present an ranged will not do this for him, although he is obliged to pay taxes in two different ways towards the support of the system. Incidentally ther are many other businessmen who pay taxes for the collection service of lowntown properties and places usiness from where no garbage collected and live in parts of the cit; from which no collections are made.

The News printed a dispatch sent from London containing a summary of an interview given out by Mr. Pocock. In view of the fact that every man connected with hydro-electric in Toronto, including the chairman of the local commission and the chairman of the provincial commission, believes that a steam auxiliary plant is necessary, the News evidently not quite understand the situation, and that Toronto will do just about as Toronto pleases whether Mr. Pocock or Mr. Beck says "Yes" or "No." The News says: "Oh, Slush!"

LADY SACKVILLE GETS $5,000,000 LEFT BY WILL

Says She Exercised No Undue Influence or Fraud.

Days Created Furore in London Society.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 7 .- The jury which for eight days has been hearing the suit o break the will made by the late John Murray Scott, by which he left nearly $5,000,000 to Lady Sackville, today sustained the will. They found no undue influence or fraud on the part of Lady Sackville.

Sir Edward Carson declared that Sir John Murray Scott could have changed his will, made twelve years before his death in favor of the Sackvilles, at any time if he had wished to do so. The only hope of the plaintiffs, the members of the Scott family was, he argued, in magnifying and exaggerating the trivial quarrels of a long Detroit at friendship into the appearance of omething important.

Would Be Hounded.

If the charges were true, continued Sir Edward, the Sackvilles would be nounded out of society. They were charged both with a crime against the reedom of an individual who was eaving his property, and with a species of robbery of the relatives to whom he might have left it. Frederick E. Smith, counsel for the plaintiffs, said that the jury had the hoice of two views of the case. "One s Lady Sackville's own view expressed by herself, that she would have liked Sir John just as much if he had not a penny, and the other view is hat she followed up this chance equaintance in order to exploit his realth and to obtain as large a porion of it as possible for herself and er family

PURSE LOOTED

Young English Domestic Victim of Highwayman on Grosvenor Street. TAKES SAVINGS

Helps Himself to Fifty-Three Dollars, Returns Three and Escapes.

OF MANY WEEKS

Seized from behind, gagged, blindfolded and tied to a tree, Edith Bridge, a young English domestic living at the corner of Horton and Clarence streets, was robbed of $50 on Grosvenor street, in front of St. Joseph's Hospital, on Friday night. She never caught a glimpse of the hold-up artist. who walked softly on the grass behind,

Her first intimation of danger was when her arms were seized from behind. Before she could utter a cry. she had been gagged, her eyes blindfolded, and she had been dragged to a tree, where she was tied. Her assailant then leisurely opened her purse, extracted the $53 it contained, peeled $3 from the roll, and returned that amount to the purse. The robbery was evidently carefully planned. It was cool and daringly carried out.

Took All Savings.

Not only did the hold-up man rob the girl of nearly every dollar she possessed, but he prevented her departure for the West yesterday. Miss Bridge was to have gone to Edmonton to join her brother, but fate, in the form of the robber, intervened and temporarily at least, left her stranded in the city, prevented her meeting her sister at Sudbury, and going with her to their brother in the western city.

The money that the robber took represented the girl's savings of months, She had been planning her western trip for some time, and had saved up the money for that object. Several weeks ago her "pile" had mounted till she was in a position to leave her employment in a north end household and move to a boarding-house, where she commenced her preparations for the Seized on Grosvenor Street.

Friday she left her residence to say ood-bye to some of her old friends in the north end of London. She carried her money with her, for she intended to stop at the C. P. R. station on her return and purchase her Edmonton ticket. Leaving a Richmond car at the corner of Grosvenor street, she provas seized and robbed.

Just what actuated the robber to return the $3 is unknown. Whether sudden pangs of conscience overcame him as he rifled the purse of its contents or whether $50 was all he required is but conjecture. The fact only remains that he returned the odd dollars above the half-century mark.

The theft of the roll meant that Miss Bridge was unable to purchase her ticket, was unable to leave yesterday as she intended, and therefore has missed her sister, who was to join her at Sudbury. She is still in London, and will remain here until money has, been forwarded to enable her to purshase her ticket and make her belated trip to the West.

French Secure Plans of New German Gun

Draughtsman Stole Copy of Krupp Weapon To Be Used Against Aeroplanes.

Paris, July 7. - The French army authorities who recently got possession of Germany's airship secrets when the Zeppelin dirigible landed in Luneville, have succeeded in getting the plans devised by the Krupps for a to be used against aeroplanes. While it is not admitted directly by the French minister of war, or by the police, it is clear from the story given out here that the French authorities know all the details of the newest aeroplane gun, and undoubtedly will proceed to manufacture one themelves or improve on it. The fact became public yesterday when the police here told of a Ger-man named Rudowsky who applied at police station for aid in finding friends here, and also for food. The man carried a satchel, and finally, through an interpreter, he admitted he had walked all the way from Ger-many, carrying with him the drawings of the gun. He said he had worked as a draughtsman in the Krupp gun works. He had a companion, he said, who had made $2,000 y selling secrets of the Krupp works, and he thought he might make money himself by selling secrets to the French Government. He said he could not gain admission to the French minister of war, but the impression here is that the Krupp secret is held by the French Government.

CALL FOR HELP WAS FLASHED BY STR. ATHABASCA

Big C. P. R. Steamer Went Aground on Small Island In Lake Huron.

All Passengers Were Taken Off Safely a Few Hours Later.

Owen Sound, July 6. - In a dense early morning fog the Canadian Pacific steamship Athabasca stranded on the Bear's Camp Rump, a small island in the straits between Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. By means of her wireless apparatus she was able to call for assistance and consequently seven hours later her 225 passengers had been transferred by lighter to the Asiniboia, to continue their journey to Port McNicoll.

The vessel struck at about 5 o'clock on Saturday morning when the passengers were in their berths. The lake was calm and the Athabasca remained on an even keel, and no panic ensued. A call for assistance by wireless brought the Assiniboia, belonging to the same line, from Port McNicoll, and the tug Harrison, with lighter, from Owen Sound. At 2:30 p.m. the passengers, among whom were many women and children, were transferred from the Athabasca to the Assinibola without mshap. They arrived in Port McNicoll at 9:15 p.m.

or about nine hours late. The Athabasca was only slightly ut of her course and was easily reeased by the lightering of a scow-oad of the flour, which, with a quantity of grain, formed her cargo. She was then able to run under her own steam to Port McNicoll. Curiously enough the island where the Athabasca stranded is less than a quarter of a mile from Flower Pot ran hard aground, and was seriously to now assumed on all sides that there is no possibility of the Government going to the country this year on the question of the navy. When the Senate held up the contribution bill for public indorsement, most people would naturally take it for granted that an election was coming. Mr. Borden might have been expected to call different. There are no more Goda special, early session of Parliament to pass a redistribution measure, in Methodists. Baptists and Congregaaccordance with the British North America Act, or rather later indeed than the act contemplated, for it is taken. A redistribution act having been put through, dissolution and general elections would then follow.

Expectation of an election was based Mr. Borden three years ago in the House of Commons, that if he were put mediately grant him the aid to imperial defence that he asked for, he torate. Later on also, just before the election of 1911, he made it his declared policy to consult the electorate on might adopt. When, therefore, the Senate tried to hold him only one of a chain of right-aboutfaces. Perhaps too much dependence has been placed on Mr. Borden's word. That was quite flagrantly discovered in the closure proceedings last spring. It is true the Premier in 1909 made solemn and almost religious affirmations of his belief in the principle of a Canadian navy, and his desire to lift the defence question out of party politics. It is also true that he repudiated his own words to trim his sails to the Nationalist breeze in Quebec. There should be no amazement over the Premier's omission to hold an election and consult the people as he promised. An eel is a slippery cus-

Apparently the Government is going ahead and will hang on as long as it can. When Mr. Borden says he will pay for the three Dreadnoughts which resources it prospers as it never can it is to be hoped that those members the British Admiralty proposes to begin constructing in September he relies frankly and death to "reform" the Senate before the three years have passed which still remain to the present Government. He intimates plainly that he will stick closer than any rat to the sinking ship as long as it holds up. As for the three Dreadnoughts, they are not yet paid for by Canada. Mr. Borden's allies say they never will are freed from a state church, and be, and his own assurances will not assure anybody.

THE WAR.

The Bulgarians, Greeks and Serrians, lately fighting shoulder to gree. shoulder against their common and hereditary enemy, the Turk, are now rending one another in strife that is almost fratricidal. The Serbs and Bulgarians at least are brethren by blood. Servia and Greece are for the present standing together, though conducting separate military operations. There are stories of fearful fighting and Servian defeats, but prophecy as to the outcome is forbidden by the attitude of Roumania. There is a long-standing territorial dispute between Bulgaria and Roumania, and the latter may decide to take advantage of her neighbor's dilemma. With Roumania on her flanks, Bulgaria would be unable to cope with Servia and Greece. Turkey, too, might be galvanized into ac-

The Concert has evidently determined to let the "allies" ompose their own quarrel, so long as t is confined to the three. Physical and financial exhaustion must soon set in. The sooner the better for the prosperty of Europe and of the world. The effect of the war is unhappily not confined to its participants. It has kept the money market in a state of apprenension, and checked the flow of funds for peaceful industry. The results are felt here as elsewhere. The monetary stringency in Canada is not due chiefto the European situation, as some ankers would try to have it believed, out the war is a great factor in limiting our European borrowings.

GERMANY IS MAKING WONDERFUL PROGRESS

Statistics Prepared in Connection With Kaiser's Jubilee Were Most Encouraging.

Berlin, July 7 .- Germany has made rodigious strides in commerce and indusry since 1888, and much statistical inormation showing these increases has been published in connection with the elebration of Emperor William's quarter century on the throne. It is now claimed that Germany is ahead of England as a producer of merchandise. In the last 25 years Germany's imports have risen from $818,000,000 to $2,541, 000,000, and her exports from $758,000,000 to $2146,000,000. This foreign business affected shipping as follows: Tonnage movement in 1888, 42,000,000 tons; in 1912, 137,000,000. Coal, including lignite, was produced in 1888 to the extent of 81,000,000 tons; in 1912 the figures showed 259,000,000 tons. Crude iron produced in 1888, 4,300,00; in 1912, 17,800,000 tons Imports of raw cotton show equally interesting figures; 913,000 bales in 1888. as against 2,276,000 bales last year. Germany's great electrical industry has al most been created during the past 5 years, and the leading electrical man. afacturing company of the country has increased its capital strength more than twenty-fold since 1888. The general machinery trade has been evolutionized, its product enormously increased, and the efficiency of all the eading industries of the country has been multiplied several times over by the introduction in the past 25 years mproved machinery. While the efficiency of the individual workman has been greatly enhanced by machinery, number of working men and women also has been largely increased, as is evident from a gain of about 19,000,000 in the population of the empire since 1888.

The Leavenworth prison is filled to verflowing, the Atlanta prison is crowded, and many of the state prisons are having trouble in finding quarters for the many prisoners now in confinement, And the Mann white slave act is responsible to a great extent for the present condition of affairs.

More men have been received at the rison here to serve terms for the violaion of the Mann act than for any other rime in so short a period of time. The ast official report showed that 51 white slavers were in confinement, and during the last 11 months of the 620 men to be received 98 of them were convicted under the Mann act,

AMERICA'S BEST-DRESSED WOMAN KATHERINE LESUES

For a Quarter of a Century Mrs. John Astor's Costumes Have Made Her the "Elegant Woman." Her Clothes May Be Stunning, But They're Always "Sane."

[BY MARY ISABEL BRUSH.]

For twenty-five years the costumes of Mrs. John Astor have been the talked-of features of New York society. After an absence of a long period, she returnd last fall and her outfits were the sensation even more than ever before. To her goes the honor for being the most magnificently, the most expensively, but, withal, the most tastefully costumed woman in America. All of her clothes are costly; few women, comparatively speaking, in the United States, could afford them, and yet they have a quality which every American woman could attain. This quality is obtained by charmingly toned colors, simplicity of line and an absence of all freakish or extreme features.

One is enchant of with the absolute sanity of all of Mrs. Astor's clothes, with the sense which they give of being an essential part of her. In spite of their conspicuous elegance, they are but a contributing part of her personality. One never hears "what beautiful clothes," but "what a stunning-or elegant woman."

One of Mrs. Astor's afternoon gowns consists of an audacious combination of the two fashionable materials of the day-charmeuse and crepe de chine. The ground work of the skirt is purple charmeuse, and it is overdraped in taupe crepe, which also forms a tunio enect in the bodice. The long sleeves are of charmeuse, with point Venice lace slashed in above the elbows and the wrists, and deep folds of the same coming surplice effect over the shoulders and narrowing in the back to the waist line. Numbers of rhinestone buttons are used in this costume. She wears with it a purple hat, garnished in feathers, and an ermine coat of three-quarters length cut away in

For the most part, Mrs. Astor wears gowns of one color, or, if of more, the shades are so quietly blended as to leave the impression of a single shade. A certain afternoon dress of hers. however, is of daringly contrasted colors. It is corn-colored in the bodice and the upper part of the skirt and is framed in a drapery, extending into two shades are delicately frosted together with folds and edgings of pale cream laces. One of the hats she chose for it was of black tulle, long from front to back, and somewhat narrow across the face. It was trimmed in four large plumes, lying flat around it, 'nd black tipped at the ends with gold.

Brantford Secured Early Lead. The Brantford team secured an early lead on London. In the first quarter the lead on London. In the first quarter the visitors outscored the locals by 4 to 1, but the play was more even in the second period, the half-time score being 6 to 2. In the third quarter, the best bit of lacrosse of the afternoon was played. In this period, London simply played the Telephone City stick-handlers to a standstill, and at the end of that quarter the score stood 8 to 7 in favor of the locals.

the locals. Goalkeeper Got Hurt.

The teams were playing 11 men a side ofter half time, owing to the retirement of Hutton, H. Fetterley going off to even up. In the third quarter, Shannon, the Brantford goalkeeper, was hit in the eye by a fast shot, and the optic was closed up, necessitating his retirement. To even up, Manager Brown Jackson, of the London team veteran of many a hard London team, veteran of many a hard lacrosse battle and at one time one of the best lacrosse players in this part of the country, went off, and his absence in the latter part of the game may have had something to do with the poor showing of the London defence in that period.

Hearns Did Some Scoring, When the final quarter opened, Hearns, of Brantford, evened up the score in 21/2 of Brantiord, evened up the scote in 172 minutes. Broley came back a minute later and put London in the lead again, but Hearns, who played a great game for the visitors all through, came back with two more, and put Brantford in London weakened from this time on and Hearns broke through the defence twice more before the game ended and gave Brantford a clear marended and gave Brantford a clear margin of three goals. Twice he broke through the whole London team, drawing Mooney out and then having only the open nets to confront him. The Stars.

For the locals, Penny, Anderson, Mooney, McKay, Holly, Aitchison, Broley and Brown Jackson were the stars, and had the game been played right through with the full twelve men London would have pulled out a victory. Jackson's experience made him a most valuable man on the defence, and with him out of the game, the London team seemed to be disorganized. #### CUBS FORFEIT A GAME

Beat St. Louis in First One, But Stalled to Kill Time in Second One.

Cincinnati, July 6 .- Pittsburg completely outclassed the Cincinnati Reds today, and easily grabbed off a double header from them. Scores were 10 to and 4 to 2. The Pirates hammer Rube Benton, Harter and Johnson a over the lot in the first game, and kept pecking away at Suggs to win handily in the second, aided largely by several "bono" plays. Dodge, the recruit third baseman, let in the first Firate run in the second on an error, then got a home run with one on. Hendrix and Adams were complete masters at all times. Scores:

HOW THE GOALS WERE SCORED. the time. Ht put in pinch hitters when not needed, and in the fourth substituted Reulbach for Overall, who dropped and juggled the first hit, made to him, and deliberately threw it over first base. Umpires Eason and Brennan then declared the game forfeited to St. Louis. Evers rushed the umpires, but did not strike either, and they were applaude for their decision when they left the field. The crowd poured into the field, and jeered the Cubs to the dressingrooms, and halted in front of the of fice of President Murphy, demanding their money back, jeering the Cubs' owner, who did not emerge from office. 'Probably not. You were concerned anly with taking your confederates' money and posing as the clever brain of the outift. But I imagine, and not another word shall I say, that they over-reached you a bit when they knifed Mr. Hunter."

Lamotte, to describe him by the name under which he figured in the annals of under which he figured in the annals o the crime, stretched out his hands in a gesture of emphatic protest.
"No matter what becomes of me," he said out of the country that

No matter what becomes of me, he said eagerly. "I ask you to believe that I did not even know they had killed Mr. Hunter until I saw the blood on the panel when I took them to Market street."
"So. You have been slow to adopt the lead I offered you. But why, in God's name, did they stab the man? That could hardly have been their deliberate.

'It was a sort of accident. So they He hesitated. He had given up hope for himself, but he stopped short of intro-ducing other names into prominence. "Until the Switzerland had reached New York, with Count Ladislas Vassilan and the English lord on board." Then Lamotte yielded.

"You know everything," he said, with a dejected shrug. "Either you are a wizard, or Gregor and Rossi are openmouthed fools."

Steingall smiled inscrutably, but Clancy, who had remained strangely quiet, did not relax the close attention he was giving to the Frenchman's least word or action. to the Frenchman's least word or action it was about this time that Curtis noticed the little detective's air of complete absorption, and he wondered at it, since Clancy and his chief seemed to have unfolded the whole mystery in a way that was at once admirable and bewildering. "Then why don't you exercise your wits, man? I have been candor itself in wits, man? I have been candor itself in my statement, but it is your own words which will be taken down by the police captain here, as you are charged in his presence with complicity in the murder, and they will be on record for or against you when you are brought to trial."

"You want me to admit that what you have said is true?"

"Just as you wish," said Steingall, half contemptuously. "I now charge you formally with taking part in the murder of mally with taking part in the murder of the contemptuously. If you have anything to say Mr. Hunter. If you have anything to say, say it, and it will be written at once, and signed by you, if you choose."

He waited a moment, and then turned reide.

Put him in the cells," he said. "Put him in the cells," he said. "I shall not trouble farther about him now."
"One moment, monsieur," exclaimed Lamotte, evidently thinking that he was seriously jeopardizing his life by not taking the advice given so openly. "I admit that you are well informed, but I must add that I was ignorant of the murder till nearly half an hour after it had occurred."
"Pooh, that's no use! Make a full Pooh, that's no use! Make a ful Steingall's tone was so off-handed that Lamotte was afraid he had lost a good opportunity of saving his neck.

"But what is there to tell?" he cried.

"But what is there to tell?" he cried.

"Just what happened outside the Central Hotel and afterwards."

"I brought Mr. Hunter there, and modded to Martiny and Rossi, who were waiting on the sidewalk, to show that he was inside the car. I remained at the wheel, and anyone can perceive that my position made it impossible to see what was going on when the door opened. Martiny was nearest to me, and I am sure he never used a knife, so it must have been Rossi. Is that correct?"

"I believe so, absolutely. What next?"

"Martiny said 'Vite, allez!' so I shoved in the clutch and made off at top speed.

Then, to my annoyance, when I got down to help carry in Mr. Hunter, I found blood on the step and the panel, and the idiots told me what they had done. It is only fair to say that De Silva is innocent of any part in the affair. He didn't even know that we were bringing anyone to cossi's room, and we took care that he should be out at the time we counted on the striving at Market street."

"You didn't attack Mr. Hunter sooner

You didn't attack Mr. Hunter sooner ause your orders were to wait until last possible moment?" "That is so."

Devai was unaware of any change in he manner of either of the detectives, because he was watching Lamotte's livid face with a species of fascinated horror, but Curtis, who had often been compelled to hold similar inquiries into cold-blooded crimes committed by Chinese coolies, found greater interest in observing Clancy. A subtle exultation had suddenly Clancy. A subtle exultation had suddenly danced into the diminutive Franco-Irishman's expressive features when Market street was first mentioned, and his coalblack eyes blazed in their slits at the sound of that name, De Silva.

A queer thought flitted through Curtis's mind, but he put it aside, because Steingall was speaking again.

"Well, you got rid of your friends. Then what did you do?"

"The rest was simple. I cleaned the car in a hurry with a bit of oily waste, took it to a yard which I have used at times, at an address which I beg you to

"You're taking a note of this?" he added, glancing at Police Captain Evans.

"Got it," was the laconic reply.

"There is nothing else," said Lamotte.

Devar produced a case, and in response to Steingall's nod, offered its con-cents to the prisoner, who took two digarettes; nor could he be prevailed on to accept more. Despite his hangdog looks yet some streak of a nobler heredity had ruggled to exert its influence, only to

SUNDAY IN THE LONDON PULPITS

PREACH CHRIST PREACHER'S DUTY

First Sermons of the Rev. A. J. Johnston.

JESUS REVEALS

Mission of Church Is to Make the Almighty Vivid and Real to Mankind.

Large congregations heard Rev. A J. Johnston, B.A., open his pasterate Sunday. In the morning he preached from the text, Acts, i., 1: "The former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and to teach."

The "former treatise" Rev. Mr. Johnston pointed out was the gospel of St. Luke, which gave the teachings of Jesus during his lifetime, and His work, which the apostles continued af ter His death.

Mission of Preacher.

"The mission of the preacher," said Mr. Johnston, "is to tell the story of Christ over and over again until al men know it. In this age men are tempted to forget Christ for rituals, for pleasures, from intellectual laziness and moral cowardice, and through absorption and interest in a thousand other things. The preacher's business is to stop this drift away from Christ. Jesus embodied in the lives of men and women the power that has transformed and is transforming the world. Jesus attracted the multitude, because the multitude attracted Jesus. Jesus was sympathetic towards people. He loved men, and more especially sinful men. Today, as then, wherever there is need

Jesus is ready to help men.
"The church must taken an interes in all that makes for the good health the clean living, the vigorous body, the steady hand and the clear eye and brain of men. These things the church must further.

Reveals God. "Jesus revealed God to men, he re vealed men to themselves, and he revealed the devil to men. It is the business of the church to make God vivid and real in the lives of men. This is the supreme business of the preacher.

"And it is also the business of the church to reveal to man his potency his destiny intended by God, to tel men that their progress is upward and to teach them how to live. And it is also the business of the church to reveal the devil to men. Garfield once said that the world needs to look the devil in the face and call him the devil There is the drink devil, the devil of lust, the devil of business dishonesty and political rascality, and the devil of jealousy and envy. 'It is the duty of the minister to

Large Majority of Englishmen Are Not in Favor Abolishing Office.

POET LAUREATE

John Masefield and William Watson Are In Line for the Position.

London, July 7.-Much interest is eing taken in the question of the tureateship. Some authorities are n favor of the abolition of the office, ut it is generally believed that King George will continue it, as his love for ncient institutions is well known. "Jeremiah," writing in the Throne presses a very general view. He says Abolish the poet laureateship? istory of this country is founded and uilt on poetry. When song dies in he hesperides of Europe, manhood lies. . . . The laureateship is offiial recognition by our Government of he power of the poet. It is our intination to the world that poetry-which s life—is yet in use

A Bad Sign. "If we abandon our poet laureate for measly saving of £200 a year, it will e a sign of the times — and a bac ne. It will not be for lack of suitable en to hold the post with honor; i ill be because hearts have grown old-because decay is setting in in utrid body corporate. This, however, is digression. oint which I am supposed to be disussing—a point which may not have come very apparent so far-is the aportance of maintaining our subsiized chief minstrel, and the import nce of getting hold of the right mar or the job. This second consideration my opinion excludes Robert Bridges r. Bridges is entirely classical—exotia brilliant poet, but not a reflection the national character. It also exides Mr. Stephen Phillips-equally orilliant, but too didactic—and Mrs. Meynell. The last-named can see as ir into a brick wall as most poets, but, oman like, is delightfully vague as to that she actually has seen on her re- d'Ortega.

"That leaves us with four Brith poets who may be considered nake Mr. Kipling laureate of these British Isles?

"We might do worse. There is nearty paganism about most of Mr. Kipling's versification that is lamentably, markedly national. He tried to be otherwise, but his ultimate attitude that of the first Saxon converts-a respect for rather than a perception of, the religion which has made the race. n failing to grasp this, he has failed to understand the motive force behind our greatest men. He has seen the resultant courage, before which he is nisled to bow the knee, but not the reating Faith. In consequence, Mr. Kipling only represents a part of the British people. It is by far the largest part, but yet only a part. He repre-

Alfred Noyes. "Alfred Noves is a truer poet than Kipling is this respect. He can probe the hidden beauties out of the mind of a tramp; but at the same time h can write of matters like that tale of a hungry little boy kneeling under the arches of London Bridge. . . This particular poet has seen very far and very clearly into the brick wall. The worst indictment against Noyes is that his hatred of warfare once caused him to become vulgar and untrue upon the subject. I had almost said he became blasphemousbut that is a dangerous epithet to apply. The word blasphemy has caused fanatical - beastly word. It has no proper place in Christianity. I refuse to have any truck with it. Two Others Left.

"Remain in the ranks of 'pos-sibles,' Mr. John Masefield and Mr William Watson. The first-mentioned has a defective ear, or else I havequite likely the latter case. His insight and sympathy impress me, but his lines and his rhymes depress meeven as this sentence does. Also imagine he is sometimes a little overbitter against the Philistine. This in a national poet would not do. Under the present Government the Philistines are predominant and rampant all over the country. They are a part, indeed, of our existence.

"Mr. William Watson should perhaps take precedence of him. poems of Watson are British in the highest sense-in fact, he and Noyes are in strong rivalry. Both write boldly, with a scornful and outspoken intolerance of anything in the nature of a dirty trick; both read the story of the waves and the winds and the whispering trees with equal facility; and both can, on occasions, nierce been analyzed, complete returns from the mists of doubt and unfaith to the every one of the roads of the system guiding light which has led the men

"As a precautionary measure the garrisons in Southern and Southwestern Russia are being mobilized with view to eventualities arising out of the Balkan war."

Heaviest Fighting. London, July 7.—After ten days of fighting more severe and deadly character than anything in the last Balkan war, a little light begins to break upon the hitherto obscure operation. In the first place, the Servians have lost more men than in the whole previous campaign, and semiofficial statements issued at Belgrade have the appearance of an intention to prepare the public for news of a Desperate fighting, with fluctuating fortunes, is proceeding along the Vardar and Bregalinitza Rivers, which seems to be in favor of the Bulgarians. Important news has been received of the Bulgarian invasion Servia through Belogradchyk, about 45 miles northeast of Nish, Servia's most important fortified town.

Claim Victory,

indication is given of the strength of the Bulgarian column at this point, but the Bulgarians claim to have defeated the Servians and captured five guns and a quantity of other war material, and, by the occupation of the passes, to have opened the road to Nish.

There is heavy fighting also between the Servians and Bulgarians to borhood of Kotchana. About 200,-000 men are engaged and the losses on both sides appear to be terrible. Buigaria's strategy appears to be to hold the Greeks in check, probably with comparatively small forces, while she deals with Servia. This assumption, if correct, would explain the victorious advance of the Greek army.

Servians Won. Unconfirmed reports credit the Bulgarians with victories near Koprili, giving them the key to Uskub, with an outflanking movement from south of Tahynos Lake, which would cut off the Greek retreat. Saloniki dispatches continue to report Greek victories. The Greeks are said to have captured sixteen guns at Doiran. Evidence of desperate fighting is found in the arrival of 8,000 to the uttermost. Forty Thousand Killed. A conservative estimate of the disabled in last week's fighting fixes the number at from 30,000 to 40,000. Thousands of destitute refugees from the scene of the fighting are pouring The Greeks have made wholesale harges against the Bulgarians of urning and pillaging all the villages they abandoned, and of committing murders, mutilations and other horrors. More than 4,000 refugees are concentrated at Nigrita and adjacent villages. Four Thousand Surrender.

The Bulgarian legation received last night official confirmation of the surrender of Servian Timok division numberng 4,000. Six machine guns, 27 quick-firers and a complete commissariat train also were captured. ening weather, a charming country resort, hidden picturesquely away amid green country fields, a fine program of sports and amusements, and comfort able railway accommodation going and Housewives Are All Anxiously coming, united to make the first annual picnic of the British Social Union at Lakeside Saturday afternoon about as delightful an afternoon's outing as one could imagine.

Three Hundred There. A special train of four coaches carried three hundred excursionists over the C. P. R., by way of Ingersoll June Rooseveltian gallery of nature fakirs by pointing out - big field of milkweeds, in which some mild-mannered bossies were pastured as the source of ondon's milk Good Music Galore. Some of the excursionists rode to the grounds in the band wagon, an ordinary farm wagon and havrack which came down to carry the bass drums and paraphernalia of the First Hussars' Band which, under Mr. Roselle Pocock's direction, provided an abundance of good music for the afternson and evening. The birds sang sweetly, the horses whinneyed greetings from the woodland and pasture the little colts came up to be petted, and all nature gave the happy pic nickers a whole-hearted welcome

The Western Ontario Boys' Camr and the Ingersoll Boy Scouts turned out en masse, and with a lusty camp yell informed the newcomers that they had at length reached the picnic grounds.

Boy Scouts' Exhibit. During the afternoon the Ingersol Boy Scouts gave exhibitions of signalling and drill work that many of the picnickers watched with interest and appreciation.

Boating, foot races, football and other sports provided an enjoyable afternoon's recreation and entertainment. In the pavilion there dancing and the First Hussars' Band gave a really excellent program at he band concert in the evening.

Mr. William Heaman, the president of the British Social Union, was a busy man, and to him and his associates, Lieut.-Col. Hobbs, the honrary president, the other officers, the members of the executive, the special ommittees and the judges, starters. and other officers of the afternoon, great credit is due for the unqualified uccess of the outing. Baby Show a Feature.

As might be expected the baby how was one of the best features of he program. And how the brightocking, rosy-cheeked, blue-eyed, and chubby-limbed little Britishers cooed nd smiled at the admiring judges, Or. H. A. Stevenson and Mrs. H. Rob. ertson. The tiny tots' race in which every contestant won a prize—what do you suppose—a big box of candy was probably the most popular event n the list of competitions. Only few yards were marked off for the race but the little fairies in blue same as last year by London and Lake rompers and smiles, lace, lingerie and Eric Railway. Also on Wednesday and nodding curls, entered into the contest with the greatest enthusiasm and beat the dandelions with their tiny eet to a lively pace.

There were no accident or mishaps o mar the day, beyond the shock and right which one lady received when football was kicked into a crowd around the judges' stand. She had a tle rains. baby in her arms at the time, and the ball struck her in the face and also hit the baby. Neither were seriously hurt, however.

The Tug-of-War. The tug-of-war was lustily contested as befitted Britons proud of their niembership in a race that gave the world Nelson and Wellington. Mr Mark Quinney captained the winning ace and the egg and spoon race drew pected, large number of competitors from the fair sex. One certainly could not accuse them of nerves so cleverly did

Doctors' Opinions About POSTUM

Are best expressed in their own words

Writing under date of May 13, 1913, one physician says:

"From past experience I have become a strong friend of Postum. I am now advising its use over that of tea and coffee altogether, and find that most of those who give Postum a trial become users of it. "It is however sometimes very hard or impossible to get folks to purchase something when they 'don't know anything about it,' and 'don't want to throw away money on a chance of liking it." Now, it occurs to me these people are not to be criticized for such feelings, but at the same time

I am sure many of them would become friends of Postum if they could but have a sample of it placed in their hands.

"If you think this is a good suggestion, and will send me samples from time to time, I will see that they are placed among my patients where they will do the most good, for I believe it is to their interest to drink Postum rather than tea or coffee. Postum is used in our home, but we buy it of our grocer, and we expect to keep right on doing so.

Thousands of tea and coffee drinkers are victims of headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart trouble and indigestion, without knowing the cause.

More and more, physicians are naming tea and coffee as a common cause of these ills. Not every physician, however, finds time to send a sample following his prescrip-
