Ashton Quits As Labor's Envoy In City Council

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

By JOHN J. McLELLAN.
Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, April 5.—Sometimes a private members' day may be interesting, but other times it is the final word in dullness.

Such a day was Monday. At odd times the members would drift in and, there being nothing to attract their attention, drift out again.

The whole talk during the afternoon hinged on the transfer of fishery rights to the Province of Quebec. There was no interference on the part of the opposition with what was said and done because the leader of the latter declared that the house could express no opinion on the notice of motion of Hon. Charles Marcil, adding that he would not have said anything at all had it not been his desire to make a reservation in the matter.

By that he meant that he set aside the question for the time and merely forewarned the government of future action in the matter. And after he had said "Watch out," he committed himself to the extent of saying that the argument he would bring forward when the psychological moment came would revolve around the constitutionality of the order-in-council bringing about the transfer of the fisheries.

THE passing of the interim bill without a vote is considered a victory of the government. That Hon. W. S. Fielding was aware that the bill would be amended to one-sixth at the whim of Sir Henry Drayton there is small doubt. It is said that the wishes of the government have been fully met in the matter.

Once the estimates are off the board ears will be strained at adjournment each night to catch the answer of the premier to the regular question of the leader of the opposition asking what business will be taken up on the day following. Exigencies may bear somewhat on the prepared program of the administration.

Sometimes things which would cause a little interest in the house are said towards adjournment, and as a result are lost. Such was the remark of Hon. W. R. Motherwell towards adjournment Friday night.

At the time estimates for the civil government of the department of agriculture were being passed, and after a question regarding what the government was going to do to combat an insect attacking the pulp-wood producing trees, he said: " . . . the last four or five years have been so dry, not only in the west, but also in the east, that a lot of new insect enemies have developed that we never heard of before."

At first glance it might be taken that the minister was referring to prohibition and that the new enemies mentioned were of the boot-legger type. But he, continuing, qualified his statement.

He said: "In other words, if you change the climate you change the insect pests." From this it may be inferred that it is a discovery of the department of agriculture that the climate of Canada has changed from coast to coast during the last four or five years.

CONSIDERABLE attention naturally is always directed at a party leader in the house and out of it. But as an army, the lieutenants and principal aide-de-camps play a large part. Political lieutenants are only recognized in a semi-official sort of way. Now, it may be that Arthur Meighen is the leader of the opposition and Sir Henry Drayton is second in command, or it may not be.

They nevertheless sit at the same bench, and both compare notes for their attacks.

So it is in a varying degree all down the line. Grouped about each party leader is his assistants and special aides. Thus may Hon. W. S. Fielding be acclaimed chief lieutenant for the government, and all ex-

ALSO RESIGNS FROM CARMEN'S UNION OFFICE

Claims Party Would Have Him Tied Hand and Foot.

PARTY IS SURPRISED

Censured Ald. Watkinson Also For Voting Against Labor's Expressed Views.

Alderman John Ashton, a member of the executive of the Street Railwaymen's Union, vice-president of the local branch of the Independent Labor Party, and delegate to the London Trades and Labor Council, has officially tendered his resignation as a labor representative on the city council.

It is understood, further, that he has also resigned from the executive of the car men's union. While he has not yet cut adrift from the labor movement, his case will be considered again with that of Alderman Fred Watkinson by the labor party as a body in general session before the close of the week.

"I tendered my resignation last night," Ald. Ashton declared Wednesday morning. "There was nothing left for me to do under the circumstances while this controversy continues. I decided to resign until the affair was straightened out, at least."

Alderman Ashton is one of labor's three representatives on the city council, and his resignation as such is a move of unusual significance.

During the past few weeks the feeling has grown in labor circles, seemingly, that the latter's attitude at the city council table has not always been in the best interests of labor, and at a special meeting of the London Labor Party Sunday last he was censured because he supported Mayor Cameron Wilson's 10 per cent civic salary reduction despite the fact that Alderman Henry B. Ashplant, a labor confrere, had moved a contrary motion.

In general session three weeks ago the labor party bitterly scored their third representative on the council, Alderman Fred Watkinson, basing their grievance upon similar gronnds.

Both Aldermen Ashton and Watkinson voted against their colleague, Alderman Ashplant, when the latter introduced his motion to collect additional school taxes from industrial enterprises which have been located in the annexed districts of East London since 1911.

Although Alderman Watkinson has not been "on the carpet" before the executive of his party, he has to date maintained a strictly non-committal attitude.

It was unofficially announced by labor men Wednesday morning that at the next general meeting of the party, if a special session is not called in the interim, the members will be asked to consider recommendations that both Aldermen Ashton and Watkinson be asked to tender their resignations.

Alderman Ashton's abrupt resignation Tuesday night came as a distinct surprise to the majority of the labor element.

"What else could I do?" Alderman Ashton questioned Wednesday. "Under the present circumstances the party would have me tied hand and foot. I might be bound to support any measure they choose to advocate, right or wrong."

COLCHESTER REEF LIGHT OPERATES

Colchester, April 3.—The light on Colchester Reef was displayed on the evening of Sunday, April 2, for the first time this season. Boats have been running on Lake Erie for the past two weeks.

Come Down To Earth

BY FRANK A. KAPP

FROM an office window in Toronto Tuesday afternoon I saw five men on top of a neighboring building. They were putting on a new tar and gravel roof. One of the men smeared the liquid tar on the roof with a big brush. Another scattered the gravel with his shovel. Two of them were sparring with each other over at one side. The fifth sat on a pile of sacks filled with gravel—to keep them from being blown off the roof, I guess. Five were being paid by someone for the work that two were doing.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

The other day I stopped in at a well-known Yonge street club. Up in a card room seven well-known men were seated around a table playing poker—two presidents, two sales-managers, a vice-president, an advertising manager and a lawyer. It was half-past 2 in the afternoon.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

Across the court from my office, I see a young typewriter salesman sitting with his feet on his desk, and puffing away at a cigarette. He seems to be meditating. He is probably wondering where business has gone to.

My typewriter is about ready for the junk heap. If an aggressive salesman were to call on me today he could probably sell me a new machine.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

There's a bobbed-hair stenographer in somebody's office across from mine. When her employer isn't looking she fusses with her hair, pouts her lips at a little hand mirror, and daubs at her cheeks. When he goes out, she doesn't work, she doesn't read, she doesn't knit. She just sits and sits.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

The day was quite warm. A young man stopped his car out in front to adjust his carburetor to the marked change in temperature. Within five minutes it was necessary to call the police to clear the street and the sidewalk.

Nearly a hundred people were more vitally concerned with watching a young man adjust his carburetor than with going about their business.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

A friend of mine has a patented automobile accessory which everyone says is a "gold mine." For four years now he has been trying to get some manufacturer to adopt it as standard equipment.

When I suggested that there were already 7,000,000 car-owners who were good prospects, many of whom would buy if given the opportunity, he said, "Oh, I know that; but it's too much work!"

CLOSES LEGATION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

Buenos Ayres, April 5.—Laurence Ginnell, who came here last year as an envoy from the Dail Eireann, seeking the recognition of the Irish republic, has closed the "legation" here and sailed for Ireland.

Ginnell issued a long farewell message addressed to "the friends of Ireland in South America," in which he characterized the "fall of the republic" as the greatest Irish disaster since the death of Owen Roe O'Neill in 1649. He regarded this as only temporary, however, and said the Irish nation felt assured that "when, through the revival of our republic, Ireland resumes her ancient place as a sovereign state among the independent nations of the world she will receive from all of South America the practical friendship of prompt recognition and cordial welcome."

COMPROMISE ON DANISH LOCKOUT

Copenhagen, April 5.—Compromise agreement, by which the general lockout would end, subject to the approval of a general meeting on Friday of the trades unions and employers' organizations, has been reached after negotiations lasting sixteen hours. The compromise entails the acceptance by the men of the conditions offered by the employers at the beginning of the lockout on Feb. 15.

The Danish lockout affects 150,000 men and nearly all the country's industries. The trouble began in January when the employers attempted to cut wages 20 per cent and lengthened the working day. Compromise proposals made by official arbitrators were rejected by 21 of the 25 trade unions, following which the lockout was put into effect.

Matron Dismissed By Order-in-Council, Not Sheriff

RUMORS that Sheriff D. A. Graham, of Middlesex County, "fired" Miss Minnie Harris, assistant matron of the jail, on his own responsibility last week, were officially set at rest Wednesday morning, when the sheriff received a copy of an order-in-council passed by the lieutenant-governor in council on March 30, the day that Miss Harris was notified that her services would no longer be required at the jail.

Miss Harris is still in possession of her quarters over the jail kitchen, and has no intention of giving them up at present, neither has the sheriff made any move to have Miss Harris vacate her rooms since he gave her a written order to vacate on April 1.

J. M. McEvoy, K.C., left for Toronto Tuesday night, and it is expected that he will take up Miss Harris' case with Attorney-General Raney.

WILL PROTECT RATEPAYERS

Brockville, Ont., April 5.—In acknowledging receipt of a resolution favoring the settlement of the separate school question in the courts rather than in the Legislature, Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, has informed the board of education that "there will be nothing left undone to protect their (the ratepayers) or the interests of the public schools throughout the province."

REPORT CANADA TRUST COMPANY BILL FAVORABLY

Measure Sponsored by Frank White, M. P., Passes Committee.

ALTERATIONS MADE

Number of Directors and Deposit Clause Subject to Slight Changes.

Special to London Advertiser.

House of Commons, Ottawa, April 5.—The Canada Trust Company bill, brought in by Frank White, M.P. for London, passed the committee on banking and commerce this morning, with a few changes in its form.

Col. A. T. Thompson of Ottawa handled the case for the London Company.

One aim of the measure was to increase the number of directors from nine to twenty-five, but this figure was changed to 21 to bring it within the requirements of the law.

The company also applied for power to receive money on deposit. A slight change was made in this also, and the amended measure will read: "Receive money on deposit in trust and allow interest thereon as may be agreed between the company and the depositor."

When the bill was under consideration, it came to light that three hundred dollars more than was necessary had been paid by the company in applying for the changes in its powers.

The regular private bill fee is two hundred dollars, which was paid. In addition to that, three hundred had been paid, which is the sum necessary where a company seeks to increase its capital, which was not asked in this case.

After some discussion and explanation by Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver, the three hundred was refunded and the bill passed.

LONDON COALMEN NOT WORRYING

London coal dealers are not worrying about the coal strike in the United States, they stated Wednesday. The majority of them have a sufficient supply to last from six weeks to two months. They believe that the strike will be ended by that time.

Officials of the William Heaman & Son concern were of the opinion that the strike would not only be of short duration, but that the miners would be forced to accept the proposed wage cut.

They are not advising their customers as to when to buy their coal. It is their belief, however, that the price of coal will drop from $16 to $13.50 or $13 a ton in the near future. Their reasons are three—a $1.50 cut at the mines, a drop in freight rates, and a lower rate of exchange.

PLOWING TO BEGIN IN WEST SHORTLY

Calgary, April 5.—Farmers arriving in Calgary report that the land is getting into excellent shape for early spring plowing. At Vulcan, it is said operations will begin next week. This also applies to the Brooks and other districts.

Although the moisture on Monday and again on Tuesday morning was more or less of a local character, according to reports received by the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is said the soil south is in much better condition than for years. Farmers generally are taking a hopeful view of things on the splendid moisture now in the ground.

Farmers in the Regina district report that it will be on toward the middle of the month before seeding operations can be commenced there. The land is still too wet for work.

Shillington Confident He'll Win Liberty In London

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. JOHN, April 5.—It was learned here today from overseas police officers who arrived from Glasgow yesterday on the Canadian Pacific Liner Tunisian with Harold R. Shillington, former London, Ontario, bank accountant, charged with the theft of $70,000 in negotiable securities, that the latter confidently expects to regain his liberty soon after arrival in his home city.

Shillington was apprehended a few weeks ago near Edinburgh, Scotland, upon the request of police and bank authorities of London, Ontario.

Met upon arrival here by Inspector A. B. Boyd, of the Ontario Provincial Police, Shillington was hurried first to the immigration shed under close guard, and a few minutes later the party entrained for Montreal on the last lap of the journey back home.

A man of rather prepossessing appearance, tall, dark and smooth-shaven, the prisoner appeared to have suffered little from his long confinement and subsequent trip across the Atlantic. His arrival here attracted no attention, as it was not generally known that he was aboard the Tunisian.

When placed aboard the liner by the British authorities at Glasgow he was booked as a regular steerage passenger, and under the close and constant surveillance of the officers, was accorded the same privileges as other passengers on the same deck.

With the exception of the ship's authorities it appears that none knew the identity of Shillington. He conducted himself as a perfect gentleman throughout the voyage, and his continual good conduct and apparent cheerfulness during the trip was such as to make him a general favorite with fellow travelers, and not once did the information leak out that he was bound for a county jail in Western Ontario.

It is evident that the prisoner determined to take his plight in a philosophical manner, and threw himself with care-free abandon into whatever pleasure the ship afforded.

When the vessel docked here, however, his brief period of freedom terminated, and he was once again a prisoner on his way to stand trial when newspaper representatives endeavored to speak with him.

This they were not permitted to do, and Shillington was whisked away from the immigration depot to catch the first C. P. R. express for Montreal and home.

If regular connections are made Shillington and his escort will arrive in London over the C. P. R. shortly after 10 p.m. Wednesday.

RAIL SHOPMEN TALK STRIKE

Buffalo, N. Y., April 5.—"Grave possibility exists, railroad shopmen throughout the country will be forced to strike to maintain their stand against the practice of 'farming out' shop work to private companies," according to a statement issued last night by delegates of Division No. 2 of the Railway Employees' Union in session here.

The statement condemned the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Erie Railroads for alleged evasion of abrogation of rules, conditions and wage schedules established by the federal railroad board.

MEN CALLED TO MASS MEETING IN EAST LONDON

Admit Aldermen's Aproval of Civic Salaries Cut Halted Negotiations.

NOT STRONG FOR BOARD

Deadlock in Hamilton Situation Forces Workers To Change Opinion.

Obviously considering it of small avail to continue further negotiations with the London Street Railway Company, motormen and conductors employed by that corporation will vote at a special mass meeting Saturday next at midnight upon the suggestion of their executive board that they strike immediately as a protest against the three-cent wage reduction effective since March 1.

At a special session at the Labor Temple Tuesday night, the members of the executive considered the entire situation again, taking into consideration certain developments of the past few days.

More than a week ago, in regular session the greater majority of the members of the union expressed the opinion that an effort should be made first to negotiate with the company. In accordance with this principle they instructed their officers to seek from the federal minister of labor the services of a board.

It was necessary to await the arrival from the Ottawa department of labor of the necessary application papers. In the meanwhile, Mayor Cameron Wilson's proposal to reduce civic salaries by 10 per cent came before the city council, and was supported by two of the three Labor aldermen, John Ashton and Fred Watkinson.

It is freely admitted by officers of the Street Railwaymen's Union that this development halted all negotiations for the moment against the company, it being pointed out that Ald. Ashton while upholding the mayor's contemplated reduction, was a member of a union executive that was battling against a six per cent reduction in wages.

While Tuesday's meeting of the car men's executive was naturally closed to the press, and no detailed report was made public, it is well known that during the past few days the ultimate value of a board of the men have experienced a noticeable change in opinion respecting the ultimate value of a board of conciliation, the point being stressed that either of the contracting parties may adopt a stubborn attitude and decline absolutely to abide by the finding of the board.

The latter's decision is by no means binding, for as an instance, reference was made to the street railway situation in Hamilton, where a deadlock exists despite the efforts of a similar board.

Arrangements will be made to secure if possible the use of the East London Town Hall for the mass meeting early Sunday morning. Every motorman and conductor will attend and voice his opinion, both regular and spare employees.

The east end hall has been selected in lieu of the Labor Temple, in view of its close proximity to the car barns and the fact that the majority of the men live in East London.

Should it transpire that the majority of the workers favor a strike, it is fully expected that the same will take place without further parley.

UNUSUAL STORIES ABOUT UNUSUAL PEOPLE

MEMPHIS, April 5.—"The most cheerful patient we've ever had!" That's how physicians and nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital here describe Mrs. Anita Harbaugh.

Mrs. Harbaugh.

Mrs. Harbaugh is slowly dying in the charity ward. She has been a hopeless cripple for 20 years.

In that time she's never taken a drug to alleviate pain. She's forgotten her own pain by cheering others.

Twenty years ago Mrs. Harbaugh was the pretty, graceful, bespangled aerial queen of one of the world's greatest circuses.

One day on a trapeze she lost her hold and crashed to the ground. She has been paralyzed ever since.

INGENIOUS SCHEMES ADD TO YEARLY COST OF CITY'S CHARITIES

FOR many years Thomas Heard, superintendent of Victoria Hospital, has been wont to welcome sundry aged ones to that institution shortly after the first snow-fall each season. The sufferers were charitably referred to as "indigent sick," but in reality they were charges on the city.

Plans are now under consideration which would deprive these people of the solace and comfort of the warm hospital during the winter, as it is costing the city too much to provide rooms, on a $3 a day basis, for these people. If sickness develops, as it generally does every fall, they will be treated at home.

London has two officials who are constantly beset by folks seeking aid from the city, Relief Inspector J. W. McCallum and Superintendent Heard, of the hospital.

The large percentage of those seeking aid are deserving cases, but interesting are the wiles and methods used by the small percentage who seek succor, and lacking a legitimate claim or excuse, seek by divers methods to gain their ends.

These two officials are in a large measure the guardians of the pocket-book of the city's charities. They must provide against impostors, and in this connection they tell interesting tales of methods employed to "put it over on the city."

Faked Sickness.

Mr. Heard relates an interesting story concerning three men who had spent a pleasant winter season in the hospital. They were not sick, though they all said they had been ill. Mr. Heard told two of the men they would have to go home, and the third man was informed he would have to go to the House of Refuge.

"Utterly preposterous. Why that is the poorhouse," was the indignant reply.

Mr. Heard's assurances to the effect that he would be well cared for, and that since he was a charge on the city, he should go where desired, had no effect.

"Why, my brother, who holds a high position, would be very much displeased," said the patient.

To make a long story short, the morning of the day the men were to leave the hospital, Mr. Heard was informed that the trio were very sick. He went in to look at them, found they had eaten no breakfast and were groaning loudly. He talked seriously about their case in their presence, called the doctor, and in leaving remarked that he would see how they were in three or four days. That night the trio ate a wonderful meal. Their sickness was quickly dispelled on the assurance that they were good for three or four days more in the hospital.

Another old lady, of good family, but at this time a plain "pauper," was informed that she would have to be moved. She insisted that she was most comfortable. In her case she went into the bathroom, and using a nail, inflicted a serious jagged wound down her back, so that it was necessary to keep her at the hospital for treatment for a considerable time.

Charges Increasing.

These charges have been steadily growing and increasing until today, they are a goodly portion of the hospital overhead. "And," said Mr. Heard, "I have seen poor patients come in to whom we had to give medicine, costing $5 a dose."

Mr. McCallum, the relief inspector, has daily callers whose constant endeavor is to get something for nothing from the city. Recently a well-dressed young woman, wearing an $18 pair of spectacles and sporting a gold-headed cane, applied for some coal and groceries. This was a case where a reporter was present, as Mr. McCallum is reluctant to reveal the secrets of those who come to him.

However, there is no more pointed critic of those who try to impose on the city, and when Mr. McCallum finds them out they usually get short shift.

The relief inspector has many calls for groceries. In fact, eatables and coal are in the greatest demand.

In giving orders for groceries on stores the inspector has found it necessary to point on the order just what eatables are to be given with the order and to warn grocers, that if anything else is supplied, they will not be paid for it.

This action was necessary as the inspector found in many cases the people, who obtained orders from him, went to the stores and instead of buying good substantial food, secured luxuries to the full extent of the order. Consequently olives, cooked ham, and other such things come under the ban.

One of the severest beratings, which Mr. McCallum ever received, came from a gentleman whom the inspector promised to send a quarter of a ton of coal. "It was not enough; it was no good sending it. He might as well keep it," declared this man, and Mr. McCallum did not send it.

ACQUITS YOUTH IN THEFT CASE

Judge Ross Claims Tires Alleged Stolen Not Positively Identified.

FREES LELAND STOVER

Defendant Claims Goods Secured in Windsor in Exchange For Cider.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 4.—Leland Stover, a local youth who was charged with breaking and entering Lindsay's garage in Aylmer on the night of January 10, and stealing therefrom seven automobile tires, was acquitted by Judge Ross, Tuesday afternoon, after a trial lasting the whole of the day.

Judge Ross in giving his verdict stated that the whole case rested on a question of identity of the tires. He claimed that the property could not positively be identified as belonging to John Lindsay and therefore he gave Stover the benefit of the doubt.

Found in Cellar.

Stover was arrested on the robbery charge when tires, found in a garage in this city and in a cellar of a house were alleged to have been in his possession at one time. Lindsay afterwards claimed the tires as his.

Detective Joseph McCulley and Sergeant Ketchabaw of the police department, who recovered the tires produced, testified that Stover had told them, after being warned in the regular manner, that he had purchased seven of the tires traced to him from a stranger on the road between this city and London. He had found the stranger stalled with his car on the road and had towed him into London. For this service and $45, the stranger had presented him with the seven tires.

Other witnesses who gave evidence for the prosecution were Mr. Lindsay, W. Millard, his garage assistant; Erie Middleton, who told the court that Stover had brought seven tires to his residence for safe-keeping; and Mr. Brown, who acquired one of the tires from Stover.

Procured In Windsor.

When Stover took the stand he swore that three of the tires discovered were procured in Windsor a week before Christmas from a garage man, whose name he did not know. He claimed that he and his partner, Stanley Wickett, had given two barrels of sweet cider valued at $50 in exchange for them.

On Jan. 19 the accused swore that he had obtained seven other tires produced in court from an unidentified motorist on the road between here and London near Glanworth. He had towed the man's car into London, charging him $20 for the service, and had given him $45 for the tires. William Johnson of this city was present during the entire transaction. Stover also testified he had been at his home in the city on the night the tires are alleged to have been stolen, assisting his mother and wife nurse the baby, who was ill with croup. He remembered the day because it was his baby's birthday.

Support Evidence.

Several witnesses corroborated Stover's evidence.

Crown Attorney Angus McCrimmon raised the ire of C. St. Clair Leitch, K.C., counsel for the defence, when he tried to belittle the evidence given by the defence witnesses, by saying that several of them had police court records.

WORLD NEWS CUT SHORT

ADVERTISER SERVICE

CHERBOURG, France, April 4.—Four-passenger airplane service will be inaugurated at the end of April between Cherbourg and Paris for passengers arriving on steamers from North and South America, it was announced today. The trip by air will take ninety minutes.

BERNE, April 4.—Economic experts of Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Spain and other neutral powers who purpose to attend the Genoa conference will hold a three-day conference here, beginning Wednesday. They will discuss matters of common interest to the various countries.

BELGRADE, April 4.—Queen Marie of Rumania, accompanied by Crown Prince Carol, arrived here today and was received with military honors. The queen went immediately to the palace to confer with King Alexander respecting the plans for his marriage to her daughter, Princess Marie, which has been set for June 4 in Bucharest.

LONDON, April 4.—There have been many persistent rumors, says the Evening Standard, that the government of the Irish Free State has been negotiating with British air transport companies for the running of a regular air service between London and Dublin.

Confirmation cannot be obtained, but those concerned do not definitely contradict it.

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, April 4.—Premier Smuts of the Union of South Africa gave the House of Assembly today the official figures of the losses on both sides during the recent insurrection in the Rand.

The government forces, he stated, lost 50 killed and 237 wounded, while on the other side there were 138 fatalities and 287 wounded. In addition, 98 Indians and natives were killed or wounded.

MADRID, April 4.—The action of the Madrid middlemen in doubling the prices of vegetables caused a riot of street vendors in the Cebada market. Rioting became so intense that foot and mounted police charged into the crowd, which was trying to destroy the stocks held by the middlemen.

MADRID, April 4.—Members of the Spanish Royal Academy are in sharp disagreement on the name to be given to the new national dictionary which the academy is preparing.

The younger Immortals are demanding that the lexicon bear the title "Spanish Dictionary," while the older members are holding out for it to be called the "Castilian Dictionary."

MELILLA, Morocco, April 4.—The commander of the Spanish torpedoboat destroyer Bustamente reports having landed supplies of food, medicines, fire extinguishers and mails on the Island of Alhucemas, the Spanish fortress off the coast of Morocco, without resistance from the Moorish forces on shore, close by the island.

The women on the island declined an offer to take them away with the children to a place of safety, preferring to remain with their husbands, in the belief that the shelters which the island afforded were sufficient to protect them against such bombardments as the Moors have been carrying out.

KIEV, April 4.—The treasures within the Kievo-Pechorskaya Lavra Monastery here, if converted into cash, would buy food sufficient to sustain the entire famine-stricken population of the Ukraine and Black Sea districts for some time, according to information received by Premier Lenine from M. Serafimov, Ukrainian deputy commissar of the interior, who was appointed to superintend the confiscation of the treasures in Kiev's churches and monasteries under the recent soviet decree.

M. Serafimov declares in his report that among the treasures of the monastery are two mitres which were appraised in 1870 at $25,000,000. They are of pure gold, weighing several pounds each, and are studded with large diamonds of exceptional whiteness, and other rare jewels.

RESERVES DECISION IN MOTOR CAR CASE

Judge Macbeth Hears Action Brought by John A. Rose Over Automobile Deal.

ASKS NOTE BE SET ASIDE

Plaintiff Claims He Understood His Other Car Was to Have Been Sold.

After summing up the evidence in the action brought by John A. Rose of this city against the Ontario Garage and Motor Sales Company to have a lien note of $600 set aside, Judge Talbot Macbeth reserved his decision in the case at the afternoon session of the non-jury sittings of the county court Tuesday.

Judge Macbeth stated that the plaintiff's version of the case was most reasonable. He thought that George Ross, salesman, had been sent by the garage people to make the sale, and it was quite clear that Mr. Rowed did not intend to take the Maxwell car owned by Mr. Rose as part payment on the new car purchased by Rose.

Judge Macbeth also stated that he did not think that the plaintiff would have signed any note had he not thought the Maxwell car would have been sold by the garage people in time to meet the note.

MACCABEES WILL HOLD CONVENTION

Members of Order to Gather Wednesday in Sarnia.

WILL CONFER DEGREES

Senator Pardee Greeted by Friends on Return to Home Town.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, April 4.—All arrangements are made for the convention of the Knights and Lady Maccabees, which will be held at Sarnia in the Knights of Columbus Hall, this week. The proceedings open at 2 o'clock on Wednesday with a school of instruction for the hives, followed by a joint class initiation in the evening. On Thursday morning the convention will be called at 10:30 for organization purposes, and at 2 o'clock for business purposes. At 8 o'clock the Sarnia tent will confer the degrees of the order on a large class, and this ceremony will be followed by a banquet in the dining-hall of the Masonic Lodge rooms.

In all 200 delegates are expected to the city, the numbers evenly distributed between Sir Knights and Lady Maccabees. All the local lodges in District No. 1 will be well represented, and word has been received promising representation from the ladies' hives at Walkerville, Windsor, Chatham, Wallaceburg and London, and points outside of District No. 1. Word has also been received that A. W. Fry of Detroit, lieutenant-commander, and Dr. Edmister of Detroit, supreme medical examiner, will arrive tomorrow. Great Commander J. Thompson of Michigan is also expected. Mayor George Crawford will extend an official welcome to the visitors on behalf of the city. E. L. Bates of Sarnia is the convention commander.

SEEK CONTROL OF NATURAL WEALTH

EDMONTON, April 4.—Announcement was made today by Premier Herbert Greenfield of Alberta, that he and Attorney-General Brownlee would go to Ottawa shortly to begin negotiations with the federal authorities for the return of natural resources to the province.

Messages have already been sent to Premiers Martin and Norris of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, asking what course of action they propose taking in the matter. Mr. Greenfield stated this day that Alberta will cooperate with its sister provinces as far as it may be possible, and will be all the better pleased if a common policy can be agreed upon by the three governments.

ARRIVES IN VANCOUVER

Sir Auckland and Lady Geddes Are Greatly Impressed by the Canadian Scenery.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 4.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador at Washington, and Lady Geddes arrived in Vancouver last evening from Victoria. They were greatly impressed by the magnificent scenery through which they sailed on the daylight run between the provincial capital and this city.

Coming through the Narrows, the entrance to Vancouver Harbor, Sir Auckland and his wife stood on the upper deck of the Canadian Pacific coast steamer Princess Adelaide. After the vessel had docked, his excellency sought out Captain Hunter and congratulated him on the fine voyage and the excellent time made.

LOCAL PASTOR TO GET DEGREE

Rev. D. C. Macgregor, M.A., To Receive Title of Doctor of Divinity.

CONFERRED IN TORONTO

Will Attend Convocation Exercises At Knox College, Toronto.

Rev. D. C. MacGregor, M.A., pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, will have the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity conferred upon him at the convocation exercises of Knox College, his Alma Mater on Thursday evening of this week.

Mr. MacGregor will go to Toronto Thursday for the occasion.

The announcement is of great interest, not only to his own congregation and church circles in the city, but throughout the Dominion, in which he is widely known for his connection with social service work, extending over a number of years.

Mr. MacGregor graduated from Knox College in 1907, accepting a call from Orillia Presbyterian Church, where he remained until 1911, when he entered the service of the social service department of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. For three years he was engaged largely in field work, traveling throughout the length and breadth of Canada, attracting wide attention for his ability as an organizer and power in creating interest in applied Christianity as manifested in social welfare movements.

In 1914 he was called to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church to succeed the late Rev. Dr. James Ross, and in the years he has been there has ably maintained the splendid pulpit and pastorate traditions of the leading Presbyterian Church of Western Ontario.

Evidence of his power of leadership lies in the fact that he has rallied around him a strong army of earnest workers, men, women, boys and girls, their combined efforts making the year 1921 the most successful in the history of St. Andrew's Church.

Early in his ministry the budget system of giving was introduced in St. Andrew's, largely through his strong recommendation of this business-like method of administration, with the result that each year there has been a marked increase in giving, particularly last year, one of great financial depression in Canada.

Mr. MacGregor has the distinction of being one in just four singled out by the board of Knox College to be honored by the degree of D.D. at the approaching convocation. The others are: Rev. J. D. Cunningham, M.A., Welland; Rev. G. A. Woodside, Zion Church, Brantford, and Rev. W. G. Wilson, Vancouver.

Mrs. MacGregor, as almost everyone knows, is "Marian Keith," the widely-read Canadian writer.

WINDSOR MEN GO TO JAIL FOR RIDING BLIND BAGGAGE

Told to Form Plan for Gaining Wealth While in Cell.

Frank Elgie and Thomas Bicknell of Windsor had their journey via C. P. R. to Toronto interrupted Tuesday night by C. P. R. constables and therefore graced the prisoners' box in police court, Wednesday morning.

Bicknell stated that there was no work in Windsor, so he and his friend thought they would try Toronto.

"It is just like stealing money to steal rides on the train, and it is a very dangerous practice," said Magistrate Graydon.

"I have received circulars requesing that I do all I can to stop this practice of stealing rides on trains. A great many people have been killed and injured in this manner."

Bicknell stated that he came to this country from England more than two years ago.

Elgie told the court that he might just as well be on the road as starving in Windsor.

"I'm going to fine you $10 or 10 days in jail," informed the court, "and while you are in jail you may be able to form some plan of getting work or money.

"Such men as you are a danger to the community. Some people think that there is no harm in stealing from a corporation," concluded the court.

ATTENDING PHYSICIANS reported Wednesday afternoon that there was a slight improvement in the condition of Dr. C. S. Moore, who has been critically ill for the past few days.

RESOLUTIONS condemning Mayor Wilson's "blanket" reduction of civic salaries to be introduced at the regular session of the trades and labor council Wednesday night are expected to precipitate a warm discussion.

MRS. CHAS. TURNER of South London led the discussion on "Problems for Mothers" at the April meeting Tuesday evening of the Ealing Mothers' Club, presided over by Mrs. Timms. Another appreciated feature was a reading by a visitor from the Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club, Mrs. E. Pellow. The refreshments which followed the program were prepared and served by the girls of the domestic science class.

MRS. E. WYATT, Mrs. Ernest Tremeer, Miss Dorinda Abbott and Miss Minnie Ram, vocalists; Mrs. Grant Harris, violinist; Miss Harriet Powell, pianist, and Theodore Gray, accompanist, will take part in the program of the musicale which Miss Minnie Hawkins is holding at her home, 286 Huron street, on Thursday from 3 to 6 o'clock, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid of Robinson Memorial Methodist Church.

THINK AUXILIARY CLASSES GOOD

Holding to their belief that auxiliary classes are of inestimable value, the school trustees have authorized Senior Inspector Greer to bring to London in the near future the board of mental hygiene for Ontario to select sufficient pupils for another class. This undertaking, the school authorities emphasize, will be without cost to the local department. It is intended that the additional class be inaugurated September next.

CONSIDER GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

U. A. Buchner of London, president of the United Telephone Co., of Ilderton, stated Wednesday afternoon that the recent ice storm had done at least $10,000 worth of damage to the 400 miles of wire.

"We are considering the advisability of going out of business altogether," said Mr. Buchner. "A meeting has been called at Ilderton on Friday to discuss the matter.

SCHOOLS TO HELP "BOYS' WEEK" BILL

Board of Education Promises Co-operation With Details Not Yet Completed.

EVERY DAY PLANNED

Tentative Program Ends Sunday With Boys' Day In Churches and Week's Resume.

To the various organizations lending assistance in the proposed "Boys' Week" is now added the board of education. Attending Tuesday's meeting of the latter body, a committee, comprising Lloyd Houlding, George Clark and George Wesley, outlined the aims and objects of the contemplated undertaking, and asked the co-operation of the trustees to insure the success of the same.

After due consideration the members of the board acceded to the request, leaving the matter of detail to a special committee, including the chairman of the various board committees and the principals of the collegiate institute and the technical school.

The school committee will consider with the general committee promoting the "Boys' Week," and arrange for the days when the seventh and eight grade boys of the public schools will be allowed to leave their classes to participate in the program now under consideration.

First year pupils at the collegiate institute will participate with the public and technical school pupils on the day set aside for a trip to several of the manufacturing concerns. A period will also be set aside at all the schools, on a certain day during the week when local speakers will deliver addresses tending to show the advantage of children remaining in school as long as possible.

The following tentative program was submitted to the trustees Tuesday for approval:

Canadian Club Day, Monday, May 1.—General boys' day. A patriotic parade of boys' organizations, parade to be made up of boys' units, boys' bands, floats and demonstrations.

Kiwanis Club Day, Tuesday, May 2.—Boys' day to entertain. Public invited to attend free entertainments given by boy talent everywhere. An opportunity for self-expression in music and dramatics.

Rotary Club Day, Wednesday, May 3.—Boys' day in industry. The dignity of labor emphasized. Employers of boys and teachers co-operating. Vocational training and guidance featured.

Roman Catholic Club Day, Thursday, May 4.—Boys' day in athletics. Indoor meets for boys in every available gymnasium in the city, with uniform programs and standard tests.

Mother's Clubs Day, Friday, May 5.—Boys' day at home. Parents spend this evening with the boy. Programs provided, to be carried out in the homes. Every homeless boy invited to spend the evening in a home.

Lions Club Day, Saturday, May 6.—Boys' day out-of-doors; out-door meets, boy scout demonstrations, woodcraft, planting of trees and shrubs, model gardens, etc. Emphasis on life in the open.

Ministers of City Day, Sunday, May 7.—Boys' day in churches. Every boy in his own church and Sunday school. Sermons, or some part of one service to be devoted to consideration of the week's program.

60 VEGETABLE MEN HOLD MUCH ENJOYED BANQUET

Bankers, Market Clerk, Seedsmen and Vegetable Growers' Organization Subjects of Toasts.

The annual banquet of the London branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, held in the Royal Cafe Tuesday night, was voted the most successful yet put on by the vegetable men. Over 60 were present and enjoyed every minute of the affair.

Eight toasts were proposed and responded to during the evening. The toast to the King was proposed by Chairman E. Davis; "The Ladies" by Walter Davis, and responded to by Mrs. C. Fuller. F. Whitehall extolled the bankers, G. F. Pearson replying.

K. Whitlow looked after the toast to the market, Market Clerk Charles Maker responding in a brillant manner.

The toast to the "Seedsmen" were coupled with the names of W. Fuller and C. W. Baker, while the "Central Organization" was proposed by Fred Fuller, and responded to by George Poad, recently elected president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association.

E. A. Lucas proposed the toast to the department of agriculture, R. A. Finn responding.

The last toast of the evening, "To Our Worthy Secretary, J. Moulton," proposed by George Poad, proved to be the most popular toast on the list. Mr. Moulton responded in a manner that drew rounds of hearty applause.

The Elgar Ladies' Quartet provided a number of selections that were greatly appreciated.

Husband, Charged With Assault, Told He Must Not Speak to Wife on Street

Robert Quigley, charged with assaulting his wife, Catherine Quigley, was allowed to go with a warning when he appeared before Magistrate Graydon in police court Wednesday morning, and was told that he must not molest his wife nor speak to her on the street.

Mrs. Quigley, in the witness box, stated that her husband had come to her place of employment recently and wanted to see the baby.

"He wanted me to go back to him, and I wouldn't," said witness, "and he struck me on the side of the head.

"You told me that you were constantly going to dances, and that was what you and your husband were quarreling about, when you came to see me a few days ago," said the court.

"You are making a mistake," declared witness. "I never go to dances."

The magistrate later apologized, stating that he had mixed Mrs. Quigley up with another woman who had come to complain about her husband.

"I don't want my husband to molest me on the street," continued Mrs. Quigley. "We had a separation on March 12, arranged by Ed. Lance of the Soldiers' Aid Commission.

"I remember all about it now," said Mr. Graydon.

"He grabbed the baby and threw it on top of me," testified witness. "It was a dark night, one of those nights when the power was off."

"I asked to see the baby," said Quigley in defence. "She met me at the G. T. R. station, and I told her she was not to go to a certain house."

"You're not keeping me; I can go where I like," flashed Mrs. Quigley.

"She struck me on the head with an umbrella," continued the husband.

"How could I do that with a baby in my arms?" queried the wife. "He is giving me a bad character, and I'm not bad. My husband is standing on the corner at 6 a.m. when I go to work and at 6 p.m. when I return."

"I want to find out where she is sleeping," defended Quigley.

"You can't do that," said Mr. Graydon. "You can be fined for disorderly conduct. You have nothing to do with that. If the baby is surrounded by immoral conditions it is a matter for the Children's Aid Society."

Mrs. Quigley declared in heated tones that she was staying at a perfectly respectable home.

"Excuse me, can I speak to you," demanded a woman in the spectators' benches.

"No you can't," replied the court.

"I keep a decent and respectable home," continued the woman, "and I'm going to have the law on this man that comes here and says it is not."

She was still murmuring threats of vengeance as she made her way from the courtroom.

STATES UNION OF CHURCHES IS NEAR

Rev. Dr. W. T. Gunn Addresses the Western Congregational Association at London Session.

PICK ASSEMBLY NOMINEE

Members Give President Lorne Johnston of Hamilton Overwhelming Majority.

At the Wednesday morning session of the conference of the Western Association of Congregational churches, J. Lorne Johnston of Hamilton, and a member of the First Congregational church of that city, was by an overwhelming majority elected nominee for the chairmanship of the Congregational Union Assembly, which will meet in Brantford, June 7.

Following the general business of the morning, Rev. Dr. W. T. Gunn of Toronto, the Congregational general secretary, addressed the meeting taking as his subject "Looking Ahead." Dr. Gunn spoke particularly of the problems which face not only Congregationalists but members of every denomination, both in foreign mission fields and in the work in the Dominion. Dr. Gunn also spoke from the Congregational viewpoint of the subject of church union, stating that the Congregational church as a whole was getting ready for the final confirmation of church union, which would in all probability take place during the next two or three years.

Optimism regarding church union also prevailed at the evening session on Tuesday, when Rev. D. C. MacGregor of St. Andrew's Church spoke on "The Message of the Church for Today." It was regarded by many of the delegates as a fact significant of the extreme probability of church union that a clergyman of another denomination should be asked to preach the association sermon at the Congregational Assembly. Mr. MacGregor stressed the need of co-operation on the part of all churches, and emphasized the need of a revival of the New Testament idea of service to one's fellow man. Following Mr. MacGregor's address, the Lord's Supper was celebrated, Rev. W. H. A. Claris officiating. Rev. Matthew Kelly conducted the devotional services of the evening.

Members of the executive committee of the Western Association of Congregational Churches are: President, Lorne Johnston of Hamilton; secretary, Rev. M. T. Walker of Hamilton; treasurer, Arthur Hollinrake, K. C., of Brantford; home missionary representatives, Rev. Frank Sanders, Guelph, and Mr. Fred Robins, London; credentials committee, Rev. T. De Coursey Raynor, Watford, Ont.; registrar, Rev. Andrew Mann, Scotland, Ont.

MALE QUARTET FEATURE CONCERT

A concert of varied offerings, in which a number of local artists took part, delighted a large audience at Wellington Street Methodist Church, Tuesday evening.

The program consisted of solo work by Mrs. Fred Schofield, soprano, and Miss Doris Anundson, contralto, both of whom are well known in the city as singers of ability; selections by Mrs. W. H. R. Smith, elocutionist, and songs by the Harmonic Quartet. The last mentioned number brought such applause from the audience that several encores were given.

At the close of the evening, the Ladies' Aid of Wellington Street Church provided a banquet for those who had taken part in the program.

CONSIDER ONTARIO REFUSAL TO PAY

School Trustees Postpone Action on Reply Regarding Teaching of Soldiers' Children.

TELLS OF PENSION PLAN

Inspector Greer's Scheme Referred Back for Another Month's Consideration.

As anticipated, the school trustees Tuesday considered the communication from the Ontario Department of Education declining to compensate the local educational authorities for the education at Knollwood Park public school of the children of soldiers or others residing upon military reservations. After certain discussion the question was referred to No. 1 committee, and will be further considered Friday next.

W. A. Tanner, secretary of the board, reported that 28 children attend this school under these circumstances, meaning a yearly cost to the city of approximately $1,200.

Changes relative to teachers' superannuations, proposed by Inspector V. K. Greer, were referred back for another month's consideration, Trustee Bryden Campbell raising the point that with the exception of No. 1 committee the trustees were more or less in the dark concerning the same. He feared also that the plan would compel the city to continually pay the maximum of its teachers' salary schedule.

Inspector Greer pointed out that it was intended that his scheme be a temporary one only, and would extend at the most for a period of five years only. The existing provincial superannuation allowance, he said, was quite unfair for those teachers with more than 30 years' service, as their time prior to 1917 is only estimated at half value toward the 40-year retirement pension.

Trustee Thomas Rowe held that in any event the regulation as to the age of retirement must be strictly adhered to, 60 years for female teachers and 65 for males.

Inspector Greer will be instructed at an early date to proceed with a school census to aid in the enforcement of the adolescent school act September next.

SALES TAX LICENSES KEEP CUSTOMS BUSY

Over 500 Wholesalers, Manufacturers and Jobbers in London Must Get Licenses.

The customs house is busy issuing the 1922 sales tax licenses to the wholesale houses, the manufacturing concerns and the jobbers in the London district.

Although several firms have not renewed their license as yet, work is coming fast enough to suit the local staff. Last year application forms were sent out, but this year the merchants are expected to renew their licenses without any hint from the government.

The fiscal year begins April 1, and legally speaking, no merchant or manufacturer is supposed to carry on his business without a sales tax license, but a few days of grace is allowed. The penalty for putting the matter off too long is not to exceed $1,000.

Up till the 10th of May, 1921, the license cost $5, but this year owing to the existing conditions it has been dropped to $2.

There are over 500 wholesale and manufacturing firms, and jobbers in the London district who will require a license this year.

START 6 WEEKS' Y. M. C. A. COURSE

J. Gordon Thompson of this city, who was prominent in Y. M. C. A. work some years ago, is holding a six-weeks' course in apparatus work, beginning at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the local "Y." It is expected that all the old-timers who used to do the giant swing, hand twist, flip over the bar, and other apparatus tricks, will come out of their hiding places and line up with the young fellows, who are interested in such work.

Mr. Thompson can manipulate the "horse" and the "parallel bars" with as much facility as he uses a knife and fork, and a large crowd is expected to watch the first drill.

WANTS COUNCIL TO FIX GAS PRICES

Mayor Wilson Says London Company's Bill Should Have Been Thrown Out By Committee.

WILL COME UP TUESDAY

Legislative Members Contend Citizens Should Vote On Springbank Dam Proposal.

The objection taken by the representatives of the city of London to the increased rates in the City Gas Bill, when it was presented before the private bills committee of the legislature on Tuesday was with the idea that the entire bill would be thrown out and the company would then have to negotiate with the city, according to a story being circulated about the city hall, Wednesday.

"The bill should have been thrown out entirely," said Mayor Wilson, who was back at his desk Wednesday morning. "Mr. Meredith held that it should have been, and I believe that Attorney-General Raney was of the same opinion."

"It was our hope that the committee would throw out the measure entirely, and then the company would have to come to the city to negotiate for a new rate," said Ald. Ashton, one of the city deputation to Toronto, thus outlining the city's plan.

'We want them to come back and deal with the council instead of having the legislature fix a rate which we would have to approve of," said the alderman.

Not the Same Bill.

Mayor Wilson contends that the bill presented by the gas company was not the bill advertised this year. The company claimed that it was advertised last year, but the bill that was presented in 1921 was thrown out, according to the mayor. He contended that the city never saw the bill that was presented until the deputation arrived at Toronto.

The objection to the clause, which would have allowed medical practitioners to stand for the hospital trust, came from the members of the committee. The opinion was expressed that a doctor sitting as a member of the trust would have much more influence than other doctors and might give rise to jealousies. The clause was struck out.

Springbank Dam.

Several members of the Legislative committee contended that the Springbank dam proposal should be submitted to a vote of the people, instead of securing approval to build it through the city of London bill.

This declaration, really a plank in the platform of Mayor Wilson at the last municipal election, came as a result of a large petition, signed by West London residents, and asking the committee to throw out the proposal to erect the dam. Another objection came from Dr. Ross, Hyde Park, who claims that the water rights for his saw mill would be injured. The clause was killed.

The city deputation was told that the city gas bill and the London Street Railway bill will likely be considered at the same time on Tuesday next. This will mean another civic deputation to Toronto.

REV. DR. CODY PRAISES SCHOOLS

"Both schools do credit to the educational progressiveness of the London Board of Education."

Such is the brief but appropriate reference to the city's two new schools, Collegiate Institute and Victoria public, as contained in a communication just received by W. A. Tanner, secretary of the board of education, from Ven. Archdeacon H. J. Cody, Toronto, expressing thanks for the opportunity of being among those in attendance when these institutions were formally opened on Friday last.

G.T.R. AGENTS WILL HOLD CONFERENCE

Charles Forrester, superintendent of the London division of the Grand Trunk Railroad, and Ambrose Birmingham, London claims agent, left Wednesday to attend a conference in St. Catharines of all the company's agents in Western Ontario. The purpose of the meet, is is explained, is to inaugurate a "freight claims prevention campaign."

The various representatives, including those from Toronto and Hamilton, will also discuss ways and means of overcoming damage to freight in transit, with both the company and the shipper as the gainer thereby.

REVISION COURT SITS ON FRIDAY

The court of revision has been called to sit on Friday, and while there are many appeals launched against statute labor and other taxes, the most important matter will be the protest entered by Ald. Ashplant to the city clerk against the method being employed this year in collecting the school taxes in the annex.

An interpretation of the annex agreement will be involved, and there seems some doubt as to whether or not the court will give a decision on such an important point.

Hadn't Called On Judge For Two Years and He Allows Her To Go

PLEADING that she had not appeared in court for almost two years on a charge of being intoxicated, one of the oldtimers at the Carling street mill of justice asked for another chance, when she answered to the charge of drunkenness Wednesday morning.

D. B. Menzies, her counsel, stated that a family in the city was quite willing to give the unfortunate woman employment, and after warning the prisoner that if she appeared again she would be sent to the reformatory, Magistrate Graydon gave her the desired chance to make good.

SPEAKING CLASS IS AID TO BOYS

The Senior Tuxis Boys' public speaking class, which has been conducted by Lloyd Houlding, boys' secretary at the Y. M. C. A., has completed its course.

This class has been held every Tuesday during the past three months, and now the boys are requesting that a couple of oratorical contests be held the latter part of April. In these contests the boys will be given an opportunity to show the benefits they have derived from the course.

Each boy who has completed the course is writing and handing in to Mr. Houlding a record of one or two valuable lessons he has received therefrom.

One boy says: "In the greater number of lessons will-power was the dominant feature. This has helped me to know that if 'I will—I can.' I am now confident in myself, and am satisfied that I can finish anything that I start."

"For the first time, I am not afraid of my own voice," is the opinion of another boy.

PROGRAM IS ARRANGED BY SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL

Brantford Convention Will Deal Particularly With Department of Child Welfare.

A tentative program has been prepared for the conference of the Ontario Social Service Council, which is to be held in Brantford, commencing May 7 and continuing until May 10.

Three divisions have been arranged for the program—general social service work discussion, rural community social service organization, and child welfare work.

Special stress and emphasis is to be laid on the child welfare problem throughout the conference, and every branch of the department of child welfare, of which Rev. Peter Bryce is the head, will be thoroughly considered. Miss Smith, head of child welfare work in the city of London, has been named as one of the speakers on this division of the program, which includes as well prominent welfare workers of Toronto and other community centers.

On Sunday, May 1, Brantford pulpits will be occupied by speakers who are authorities on the work of the social service council.

TWO GANGS START ON CITY WORK

Municipal works opened up Wednesday morning for the season, when two gangs of men, 25 in all, started laying curb, gutters and sidewalks.

The curb and gutter gang started on Lorne avenue, near Elizabeth street and the sidewalk gang started on St. Julien street.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier says that he has enough work ahead that has been authorized to be done by day labor to keep him going a couple of months.

For the other work, preparations are being made to call for tenders, the council having decided that tenders are to be called for all sewers, curb and gutters and walks. The paving is all to be done by day labor, the city owning its own paving plant. This class of work will not be started, however, until the frost is all out of the ground and the roads dry up.

SAPPHIRES AND DIAMONDS THE FAVORITE COMBINATION FOR PRINCESS MARY.

According to the list of personal gifts Princess Mary loved sapphire and diamond combinations. These were given by king, queen, groom and bride's brothers. Combinations of sapphires and diamonds are really beautiful. These are sold by John A. Nash, My Jeweler, 182 Dundas street, "Where you will eventually buy."

THE MONTHLY attendance statement just submitted by W. H. T. Mooney, principal of the collegiate institute, reveals the fact that the pupils of that institution are making a splendid record to date. There are 1,036 students on the roll, with an average attendance in March of 965.

ADVERTISE, BUT FIRST GET IDEA

O. P. Perkins Warns Ad Club Against Blind Methods.

HELP HOSPITAL

Club Will Sell Tickets For Scots Guards Concert in May.

Advertising is a cheap, easy and safe way to get a message to the people, O. P. Perkins, of the Sellers Kitchen Cabinet Company, of Ellwood, Indiana, testified before the Advertising and Sales Club of London in regular session at the Tecumseh House Tuesday evening.

In answer to the question of how much should be spent in advertising, Mr. Perkins stated if a merchant had an idea he should spend enough to put it across. Advertising blindly was not good policy, he stated. One must first have an idea.

Advertising, Mr. Perkins declared, must be supported. Window shows and store meetings of the salesmen were all a support to advertising.

Salesmanship, he remarked though, was principally a self-taught profession.

Speaking of his own firm, he said that it had improved its goods rather than take advantage of the opportunity to reduce prices.

He advised merchants to investigate the advertising, selling and collecting ends of their businesses in order to get results. He even advised the hiring of efficiency men for this purpose.

As a conclusion, he used the quotation, "We can all have prosperity if we are willing to pay the price—faith, work, and co-operation."

On behalf of the Advertising Club, President D. George Clarke assured Mrs. E. B. Smith and Mrs. Greenaway of the Children's Hospital Committee, that the club would aid in the sale of tickets for the Royal Scots' Guard Band concerts, which will be held May 11 and 12 in London.

Two teams composed of G. R. Taggart (American consul), Ed. Hayden, A. R. Malton and Peter Glen, were selected for the work.

Seventy-five per cent of the returns of this project will be devoted to the expenses of the band and to aid the G. W. V. A. in Canada. The other 25 per cent will be donated to the Children's Hospital.

In appreciation of the co-operation promised by the club, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Greenaway offered to sell a number of tickets for the "Prince of Mythland," a musical show, which the Ad Club is staging in aid of charity.

Col. W. M. Gartshore told of the work that had been done to aid the Children's Hospital, of how the Daughters of the Empire had raised $200,000 for the cause, and how this hospital would save many crippled children. He added that the Child Welfare Association, by its efforts during the past few years had reduced the death rate among children under one year old by one-third.

Mrs. Elmo Drake, the soloist of the evening, was well received.

DR. GEORGE S. WEIR, London's public school attendance officer, will attend a meeting in Toronto Easter week, when it is proposed to organize a branch of the Ontario Educational Association for school attendance officers. Dr. Weir has been so instructed by the school trustees, and will travel at the expense of the local board.

Mask of Innocence Doesn't Fool Chief Birrell's Memory For Faces

An innocent-looking maiden of 19 summers, who stated that her home was in Chatham, fell into police toils two days ago in a slightly-intoxicated condition, and was charged with vagrancy, when she appeared before Magistrate Graydon on Wednesday.

She admitted being in police court in Chatham two years ago on a charge of intoxication.

Chief Birrell proved that he has a good memory for faces when he asked the girl if she had not been in the London court last summer. She admitted that he was correct.

Her aunt wished to take her home but Mr. Graydon told the girl that a few days in jail would not do her any harm.

"Won't you let my aunt take me?" asked the prisoner with her first show of emotion.

"No, I'm afraid not," replied the court. "You will have to go back to Chatham to your parents, and they must come for you here. I am certainly not going to expose you to any further temptation."

Chief Birrell stated that he would get in touch with the chief of police at Chatham in the matter.

Looks Like 'Much Ado About Nothing' In Case of School Site Petitions

With 73 names affixed, the local educational department has in its possession a petition protesting "against location of proposed school on Eleanor street, between Florence and Frances streets, East London, as the site is considered to be too close to the railroad tracks."

At the disposal of the trustees is another communication, this from the Hale Street Mothers Club, expressing approval "of the board's site for the proposed school on Eleanor street, between Florence and Frances streets," and explaining further that the petition condemning the same has not even been circulated in the neighborhood of the suggested school site.

Both petitions have been automatically filed until 1923 or thereabouts, the board having eliminated the contemplated purchase of the property during its recent slashing of estimates.

Trustee Thomas Rowe suggests, however, that this would be a proper subject for a debate on the part of the trustees, when they have the time, although all definite action would necessarily have to be deferred for a year or two at the least.

DAKIN SCHOOL RECONSIDERED

Need of Accommodation in Southeastern Section Before Board Again.

COMMITTEE TO DECIDE

Trustees Plan Four-Roomed Edifice On Much-Discussed Site.

Once again the London Board of Education considers the suggestion that further school accommodation be provided for the southeastern section of the city.

Under the guise of new business the trustees in regular session Tuesday considered the urgent appeal from Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer that prompt action be taken, and it was ultimately referred back to No. 1 committee to formulate plans pertaining to a four-room edifice on the Dakin street site.

The board was out to establish a precedent by winding up routine business and adjourning without the customary debate, when Trustee Bryden Campbell introduced the subject as one urged by the school inspector and worthy of immediate and close consideration.

Inspector Greer explained that if the trustees failed to display some speed the problem would be most difficult to handle next September, inasmuch as the Chesley avenue and Ealing public schools were involved. He held that the board had several times committed itself to a new school entirely to relieve the present congestion in these buildings, but, of course, he added, if the trustees were desirous that additions be made to either of the schools it would be certainly helpful.

Commited Already.

While Trustee Thomas Rowe essayed the opinion that the board had already committed itself to a new school, Trustee Campbell held to an opposite interpretation of the debenture clause in the estimates. He claimed that the question had been summed up roughly by "$45,000 for accommodation in the southeastern part of London."

"It is time for action," counselled Trustee Rowe. "If we continue to listen to the whims and dictations of outsiders where will we end? This adding to schools may be all right, but I have failed to find such undertakings advocated by the 'out-and-out' educationalists. If you start this program and that section of the city keeps growing what will be the ultimate result? It may end up like the Grand Trunk carshops, with school additions stretched out for two or three blocks."

Trustee A. N. Udy, chairman of No. 1 committee, also urged that a four-room nucleus be commenced. Inspector Greer stated that apparently an erroneous report had gone the rounds that it would be too costly to undertake such. He had been informed by the architect that the cost for the nucleus would not be any greater, if as great, as it would be for the proposed additions.

Trustee Rowe again called attention to his prior contention that the board had already decided upon a school, Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman, explained that the board had subsequently reconsidered its decision in that respect.

Need Two-Thirds Vote.

"You can't reconsider a question like that," parried Trustee Rowe, "without a notice of motion at a previous meeting and later by a two-thirds majority vote," and added further that in his opinion the board was quite within its rights to proceed with the school. "We can't accede to every beck and call," he opined.

Trustee J. B. Wright vouchsafed the opinion that the proposal to add to either the Chesley avenue or the Ealing school had emanated from Mayor Cameron Wilson in the first place. "It is quite likely," he explained, "that the mayor did not realize that we had already secured the property upon which to build this school."

In conclusion Trustee Campbell urged that Inspector Greer's advice for immediate action be followed.

Day's Legislative Doings at Ottawa

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.
In the Commons.

Wednesday is private members' day at the present stage of the session. If private members' business is exhausted the government will move into committee of supply on civil government estimates. The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen proposes to ask the government whether they intend to bring in a redistribution bill this session.

In the Senate.

The Senate will sit at 3 o'clock. It is expected that the interim supply bill will come up for consideration.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT.
In the Commons.

Bill providing for the amalgamation of the militia department, the department of the naval service, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the air board into one department to be known as the department of national defence, given second reading.

A saving of from $700,000 to a million dollars per annum would be effected by dispensing with temporary employees.

Objection was voiced by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and opposition speakers on the ground that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was a civilian force, which should not be brought under a military department. This view was concurred in by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Progressive leader.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Center Winnipeg) criticized the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force, which, he said, was employed to spy upon labor activities in Canada. The civil government estimates of the department of Indian affairs, amounting to $145,425 for salaries and $19,000 for contingencies, carried. Vote of $508,-162 for salaries and $6,700 for contingencies in the mines department also passed.

Postoffice department civil government estimates, amounting to $1,208,-968, carried. Also $440,020 for department of trade and commerce, $161,532 for the secretary of state and $79,680 for the public archives, all for civil government. The civil government estimates of the public works department were discussed, but stood over.

The house adjourned at 10:50 p.m.

In the Senate.

The Senate did not sit.

TELEPHONES WILL SOON BE WORKING

Official Says Large Squads Of Repairmen Are Out and Temporary Service Will Follow.

RUSHING HYDRO WORK

General Manager of Public Utilities Asks Patience As Many Houses Need Attention.

E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, announced again Wednesday morning that every effort is being made by that department to restore a normal hydro service in the city. Extra men, both experienced and otherwise, are working hard throughout the city, and while many house services are to be repaired yet, he reiterates his declaration that the consumers be patient for a while longer. He points out that somebody's house must be last. No discrimination will be shown, however.

Emphasis is again laid upon the announcement that citizens are free to gather fallen limbs and brush and store the same in their back yards, thus reducing considerably the work of the city employees.

The telephone connections with London are also still severed.

"Every effort is being made to repair the broken lines. We have large squads of repairmen out, and it will not be long before we have at least temporary lines installed," was the statement made by an official of the London Bell Telephone Company Wednesday.

So far, the line to St. Thomas is the only one that is in working order.

The officials estimated that there were 1,100 telephones out of commission in the city immediately after the storm, but further complaints raised the total to 1,500. At present there are about 1,000 phones out of order.

The Jones, Easton & McCallum stock wire was also put out of commission, and linemen are making every endeavor to repair it. It is expected that it will be put into working order by Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

MILK FAMINE HITS LONDON

London, April 5.—(Canadian Press cable.)—There is a milk famine in London, and it is believed to be the result of the recent reduction in price from 9d to 5d per quart. It is thought the farmers are holding up the supplies as they complain of the large margin between the price they receive for milk and the retail price. Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, minister of agriculutre, questioned in the House of Commons on the matter, admitted that the situation was serious, but he said he was unable to fix or control milk prices.

LOOKING AFTER 29 NEEDY FAMILIES

Riverview Mother's Club Find Many Who Would Not Ask For Deserved Assistance.

WIDOW LOSES HOME

Landlord Evicts Woman With Five Children—Rich Man Takes House When Payments Cease.

Keeping a roof over their heads is the outstanding problem of a number of London families at the present time, owing to unusual circumstances of distress, resulting from sickness and unemployment, according to the executive of the Riverview Mothers' Club, which devoted the greater part of a meeting on Tuesday to considering reports on the relief work which the club is carrying on.

Deserving people, it is stated, who never before have been in a position where they have been obliged to accept outside help, are faced with the loss of shelter as well as lack of food, clothing and fuel, and no means in sight of supplying these needs for themselves.

The Riverview Mothers' Club at the present time has 29 most worthy self-respecting families on its list, who would not ask for assistance were their need not discovered. Among these, according to a member of the executive, is a family consisting of a widow and five children. Her landlord is turning her out of her house, and she has no place to go.

Another family has been endeavoring to buy a small property and paid its all on this. Bad times have come to the family, and it was impossible to continue the payments at present. The original owners, people of means and influence, it is stated, owing to the default of payment, have taken away the property.

"These people are not the kind who throw up their hands and make a bid for sympathy," states the press secretary of the Riverview Club.

The executive on Tuesday decided to donate four dozen eggs to the supply to be distributed by the Union Mothers' Club to institutions for children in the city at Easter. A laying hen will also be presented to the Children's Shelter.

CHOIR CELEBRATE WIND-UP OF CONTEST BY BANQUET

Harry Trott's Division Is Best In Choir Attendance At Centennial Methodist.

An enjoyable event of Tuesday evening was the banquet given in Wong's Cafe by the members of the choir of Centennial Methodist Church, who celebrated the winding up of a contest which has been in progress for two or three months past.

The choir has been divided into two divisions, one under the leadership of Mr. Robert Tufts, and the other under the leadership of Mr. Harry Trott, to contest in the matter of regular attendance and choir work. Mr. Trott's division coming out victorious. Prizes, consisting of boxes of bon-bons, were given to those who had helped on the victorious side.

Following the supper a short program of speeches and singing was rendered. The speakers were: the president, W. G. Taylor, Bert Weir, Rev. A. E. Thomson, Robt. Tufts and Harry Trott, each one trying to outwit the other in the humorous nature of his speech. Miss Skinner sang, and a number of songs were given by the Mills Quartet.

Members of the choir, with their wives or friends, were present, the number totalling about a hundred.

PARTIES AGREE IN DAMAGE ACTION

The action of William R. Gleason, a farmer residing near Thorndale, against Mrs. M. J. Levitt, 388 Ridout street, asking $500 damages, was settled out of court Wednesday morning and the case did not come to trial before Judge Talbot Macbeth at the non-jury sittings of the county court in progress at the court house.

Gleason alleged in his statement of claim that Mrs. Levitt claimed to have cured his wife of a cancer after three weks' treatment, in April, 1920. Mrs. Gleason died in March, 1921.

In addressing the court before the arrival of witnesses from Thorndale, U. A. Buchner, counsel for Mrs. Levitt, stated that his client had cured the cancer complained of at the time Mrs. Gleason was admitted to Mrs. Levitt's private hospital.

"A very interesting case," remarked Judge Macbeth.

On arrival of the train from Thorndale Wednesday morning, A. R. Douglas, counsel for Gleason, had a talk with his client, and it was decided to settle the matter out of court, the case being withdrawn.

Would Abolish Senate, Using Upkeep To Aid Child Welfare

CALGARY, Alberta, April 5.—Urgently requesting that Premier King consider the advisability of abolishing the Senate and suggesting that the money thus saved could be used for child welfare work, the Calgary Women's Labor League last night passed a resolution which will be forwarded to the prime minister. This action on the part of the league was evoked by the recent petition of the Montreal Women's Club that women be allowed to enter the Canadian Senate.

LONDON TOWNSHIP COUNCIL MEETS

Decides on Conference With Dominion Abattoir Company Over Taxes Claimed Owing.

MUST COMPLETE DRAIN

Damages Asked Because Work Unfinished and Contractor Will Be Warned.

With a view to making a settlement between the Dominion Abattoir Company and London Township for taxes due for the township, Mr. Greer, a representative of the Abattoir Company, and his solicitor, and E. Douglas, reeve, and W. J. Fuller, deputy reeve, and the township solicitor will confer. This decision was reached at a meeting of the council at St. John's Monday.

A motion that Roy T. Box be paid $10 for one sheep, killed by dogs, as sworn to by the owner and certified by T. N. Talbot, the valuator, was passed. The motion was made by A. C. Hodgins, and was seconded by W. J. Fuller.

The following communication was read from Meredith & Meredith, solicitors for James McGuffin, claiming damages for non-completion of the Risdon outlet drain. It was moved by W. J. Fuller, and seconded by John Marshall, that the township solicitor be instructed to notify contractor Ryan to have the work completed immediately or the council will be obliged to call for new tenders.

A motion that the council examine the gravel pit offered for sale by Warren Decker was passed. The council will examine the gravel pit Wednesday.

An account, tendered the council by Dr. L. M. Jones for $38.80 for medical attendance on a township family who were suffering from diphtheria, was laid over.

SIDELIGHTS AT OTTAWA

cabinet ministers in the opposition special aides.

In the case of the Progressive party it is different. There is not a single member of that party, outside of Hon. T. A. Crerar himself, who has ever occupied a seat in an administration.

T. A. Crerar has no recognized lieutenants. Able as some of them may be, yet no one could be picked on as being equal to his leader. Such a conclusion arises from watching and hearing all the speeches and doings of the Progressive members in the house.

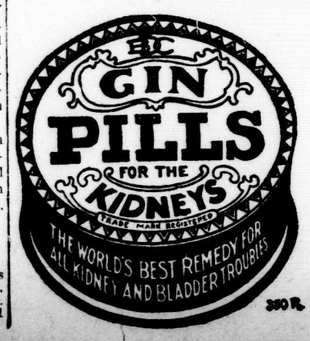
Again whatever true worth political timber is in the party of the farmer bloc it would seem mostly to be from the prairie provinces. The prime causes giving rise to the farmer party are a great deal more accentuated in the west than in Ontario; indeed, the question may be raised if these causes exist at all in Ontario. This is somewhat of a trite statement at the present time, since it has often been noted before, but it is stated to show why the speakers of the west have been so much in the limelight since the session opened.

Every member from the west came east full of "conditions" in the west. There were no "conditions" in Ontario. As a consequence, the Ontario Progressives only are imbued with the more idealistic of the ideas of the Progressives, such ideas being less political strife along party lines, more business, less talk, and so on.

An important point in this connection is that Ontario, with a farmer government, could eliminate for the farmer the problems peculiar to him in Ontario, whereas the western farmer comes to the federal arena to get help for his own province's peculiar problems.

CONGRESS TO ACT.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A congressional effort at settlement of the coal strike, particularly as it involves the bituminous fields, was begun today when Chairman Nolan of the House Labor committee was authorized to telegraph invitations to a number of representative operators and officials of operators' associations in the central competitive field to attend a meeting with the miners' union leaders in Washington, April 10, and attempt to reach an agreement.



HELPED FRIENDS, TO THEIR SORROW

"Spotter," Who Proved Good Fellow, Has His Plan Well Developed and Gains Point.

HAS ABLE ASSISTANT

Customers in Cafe Scramble To Get "Hooch," So Must Face Court.

A number of summonses are being issued today for breaches of the Ontario temperance act as a result of the operations of two "spotters" who have been guests in the city for the past few days.

One of these men visited a local restaurant on Monday evening and immediately began to thrust his genial personality upon the patrons of the "eating house."

Representing himself as a traveler, he began by cracking the usual drummer's jokes.

After putting his hearers in an excellent humor and covertly sounding their opinions on prohibition, he proceeded to be a real "good fellow" and with many a wink and ripple of laughter produced a bottle.

Of course, everyone fell to with a 'heave and a ho' and after all had supped and voted him to be a proper "good sport" the genial stranger departed.

Act 2. Scene 2.—The same locality on the following night.

This time the Good Samaritan brought his "buddy" along, who, because of his friend's stand-in, was at once endeared to the hearts of the crowd.

The traveler was morose, and asked for the reason thereof; he reluctantly admitted that he had the necessary funds but was unable to procure a bottle.

This was followed by a regular avalanche of offers and had the stranger so wished he could have procured a sample of many kinds of vintage.

After buying a bottle or two, he departed. This morning two of London's well-known sleuths were seen eating a dish of beans in the same place.

And a few summonses were issued this morning as well.

FIND MANY USING DIP NETS WITHOUT LICENSES

Game Warden Warns Act Reads Only "Angling or Trolling" Permitted Without Authority.

A large number of farmers and others throughout Western Ontario are still using dip-nets and such methods of catching fish without the necessary license, according to reports received by the London branch of the Ontario Game and Fisheries Department.

Section 4 of the cpecial fishing regulations for the Province of Ontario says: 'No one shall fish by means other than by angling or trolling, exmit from a duly authorized officer of cepting under lease, license or per- the Provincial Government."

"Many people break this law through ignorance," said the warden, "and by placing posters with extracts from this law in the rural grocery stores and postoffices, we are trying to educate the people to the fact that they must procure a license before they can catch fish for home consumption other than by angling or trolling."

"The license only costs two dollars, and applications are coming in every day from all parts of the district, showing that the people are taking more interest in the fish and game laws, although there are some who by making no effort to find out the law regarding this matter, are leaving themselves liable to be penalized by the act."

EXPECTS BUILDING RECORD TO BE SET

Inspector Piper Finds Prices Are Still Fairly High in London.

COMPARES HOUSE COSTS

Issues Eleven Permits for New Residences During Past Three Days.

Building is opening up with a rusa and Building Inspector Piper expresses the opinion that the present month will set a new record for permits for new dwellings in the city.

Eleven permits for new homes have been issued in three days.

"There is a slight shading of prices as compared with a couple of months ago," the inspector says, "although the prices are still fairly high as compared with five and six years ago."

So far this year permits have been issued for 55 new residences and these do not include some extensive alterations to old houses to remodel them into duplex apartments.

Mr. Piper has compiled figures to show how the average cost of houses built in the city has been going up. The figures are: 1914, $1,840; 1915, $1,808; 1916, $1,838; 1917, $1,876; 1918, $1,901; 1919, $2,722; 1920, 2,544; 1921, $3,256. The average cost of 44 homes, built during the first three months of this year was $3,458, a little higher than the 1921 average, but this year's figures contain a couple running into five figures, which makes the average high.

Ald. L. S. Holmes, Queen's avenue, addition to dwelling and alterations, $7,000; W. Sibbold, 987 Ormsby street, brick house, $2,500; M. Wills, Horton street, new veranda, $300; Mrs. R. Meredith, 1154 Bridges street, veranda, $350; H. Wolf & Son, 20 Belgrave Place, garage, $350; Mrs. Brennan, 204 Victoria street, veranda, $200. Other small permits were issued to T. Paradine, 14 Argyle street; R. Atkinson, 650 Piccadilly street. Total for April, 17 permits, $23,355.

CALLS WITNESSES IN STILLMAN CASE

MONTREAL, April 4.—There will assemble in this city next Monday 50 witnesses brought from Three Rivers, La Tuque, Grande Anse, Caughnawaga, and other points in the province of Quebec by Mrs. James A. Stillman.

Eugene H. Godin, K.C., of this city, who has been appointed Canadian commissioner to hear the evidence, stated here today that the hearing will take place here next Monday.

It is stated that Aime Geofrion will examine the witnesses on behalf of Mrs. Stillman, and N. K. Laflamme will act for Mr. Stillman.

HYDRO LOSES ON SALE OF QUARRY

Claimed Property North of Formosa Bought For $600,000 Sold For $85,000.

PAY REDUCED WAGES

Also Alleged That Commission Only Mined Poorer Quality of Rock.

Special to London Advertiser.

FORMOSA, April 3.—It is reported that the hydro quarry, about two miles north of Formosa, which a year or two ago is said to have cost the hydro commission no less than $600,000, has been disposed of to a syndicate of Toronto capitalists for the comparatively small sum of $85,000, thereby losing to the people of this province over a half million dollars by the transaction.

Mined Poorer Rock.

Furthermore, the hydro people are said to have mined largely the poorer rock, which tested but 67 per cent cement, while across the way on the northern part of the gully great beds of rock that tested from 90 to 95 per cent cement have been left untouched, thus leaving the better grade of rock to the new owners, who have organized under the name of The Hanover Cement and Crushed Stone Company.

Pay 25 Cents.

Under hydro management it is understood that a wage of 60 cents an hour was paid to men who could saw a board or drive a nail, while shovelmen drew 50 cents an hour. The new owners, it is reported, are now paying for this class of labor 25 cents an hour, and have opened up with 25 men on the job, and lots more to be had at the same price.

PLAN SHARP WAR ON RUM-RUNNERS

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Swift motor boats will patrol the Niagara River above and below the Falls, as well as the waters of Lake Champlain in a war on Canadian rum-runners, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes announced today on his return from Buffalo, where a comprehensive campaign was planned.

Plans for stopping the flow of illicit liquor into the United States from Canada, Mr. Haynes said, were worked out in Buffalo in conference with Federal Prohibition Officer Day of New York, officials of the customs and immigration services and the district attorney's office.

Liquor smuggling across the Canadian border, he explained, despite the co-operation of Canadian officials, presents a peculiar problem, because of the Canadian law permitting exports, while the American law forbids alcoholic imports.

Will Explore Roof of World In Arctic by Airplane

COPYRIGHT, 1922.

Secrets of the North Pole are to be unlocked by the airplane, the camera and the telephone.

"Modern instruments of science," says Captain Roald Amundsen, "will give to the farmer, the manufacturer and the seafarer information of incalculable value of the Far North's mysterious effect upon conditions here."

Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, is preparing for a four-year historic expedition that will start June 1.

"By ship I shall float with the ice fields over the roof of the world," he said. "Airplanes will take us over the North Pole. With cameras we will get a photographic record that will never perish. And by radio I shall be in daily touch, if necessary, with civilization, relaying reports that otherwise would be hidden for years."

Exploring Made Easy.

Amundsen, in his fifties, with graying hair and face lined by years of battling with the desolate ice fields of both ends of the earth, talks of his remarkable plans as if at last science had made easy the path of the explorer.

"Until we know all about our planet we are like children walking in the dark," said Amundsen. "A million square miles of unknown territory lies within the Arctic Circle."

Amundsen's ship "Maud," lies at Seattle. He estimates it will take four years to float with the ice across the North Pole. But provisions will be taken to last five years.

Ten persons will be in the expedition, including scientists. On the "Maud" will be two airplanes, one an all-metal monoplane. The airplane equipment cost $40,000.

"Hundreds of explorers," Amundsen explained, "have tried to solve the mysteries of the Far North. But they have not been equipped as we will be. We will not be prisoners in the ice as I have been before, and as all Arctic explorers have been.

"From the ship we can sail by airplane over a radius of 100 miles. Observations of upper air conditions and photographic maps will be easily made. Our radio will keep us in constant touch with the world.

"The best of it is that our information will not be stale when we send it back. Our radio will take care of that.

"Our daily radio reports on the weather, the water, the air and the ice of the North Pole may have distinct value to the people of Canada and Europe.

"The weather even as far south as Hamilton is tremendously affected by the Arctic air conditions, just as ocean currents further south are influenced by currents in the Arctic."

Amundsen will occupy the queer double position of leader and chief cook.

"You see," he laughed, "I am a sailor, not a scientist. I am going to take the scientists over the top of the world to study it, and I shall personally see that they do not go hungry while they are doing it."

Amundsen's Record.

Captain Amundsen discovered the South Pole in 1911. Previously, between 1903 and 1906, he traveled through and mapped the long-sought Northwest Passage.

Last year he made a survey of the Arctic regions just above Alaska, preparatory to the trip beginning this summer.

After leaving Seattle the "Maud" will put in at Nome, Alaska, and off Wrangel Island, in the Arctic Circle, the drift with the ice will begin.

Chief of the scientific research work with the expedition will be Dr. H. U. Sverdrop. Aviators and radio operators will be Lieut. Oskar Omdal and Lieut. Udd Dahl, both of the Norwegian navy.

EDITH CAVELL'S BETRAYER TO DIE

BRUSSELS, April 4.—(By Canadian Press).—M. Jeannes, betrayer of Edith Cavell, British war nurse, was today found guilty and sentenced to death.

Miss Cavell was executed by the Germans during their occupation of Belgium, on the ground that she was a spy, and revealed secrets to the Allies.

Your Money Needed.

COLLECTIONS have been taken up in several churches already in London and in other places in this district for the fund raised with the idea of saving the children of Russia. A good response is being made, but it is well that those who have the means to give should realize fully what is before them if this campaign is going to be put on in a big enough way.

Reports from those who are giving all their time to the administration of relief in Russia make it abundantly clear that conditions are not getting better—they are growing worse.

In order that the people in this district may appreciate the size and seriousness of the task and the dramatic awfulness of the situation with which they are trying to cope, we quote from a report just issued by the Leagues of Red Cross Societies at Geneva, the source of the information being sufficient to guarantee its authenticity:

"The districts affected by acute famine conditions are for the most part situated in the valley of the Volga River. They include some 20,000,000 inhabitants, 85 per cent of whom are peasant farmers. They are serious, diligent, sober and frugal people, among whom relatively few are communists, or even understand what is meant of communism or "bolshevism." They are law-abiding people inclined to accept any established government. They regard the present government of Russia as an established government, and anticipate no change.

"The agricultural methods employed by the peasant farmers in this region are backward and inadequate. The old-fashioned three-field system is in general use, and neither proper rotation of crops nor dry farming are practiced. Generally, the farmer possesses no equipment and no agricultural knowledge. The result was that less than a quarter of the soil, exactly 22 per cent, was cultivated in czarist Russia, and that no reserve supplies were collected. When the harvest was good the surplus was sold; when it was fair the people managed with difficulty; when it was bad there was a famine. The 1911 famine affected about a quarter of the whole Russian population.

The drought of 1920 in the Volga region is said to have been as severe as that of 1911, the year of the last great famine. The drought of 1921, however, was severer than has ever been known before. The average rainfall for the past seventeen years in the state of Samara for the three months, April, May and June, was 106.7 millimetres; in 1921 it was 7.1, 15 times less! The results of excessive heat and lack of moisture are obvious to anyone visiting the famine country. All vegetation has been burned up. In the few fields where any grain has appeared at all the sparse and stunted plants would not pay for cutting, save in the event of a desperate lack of food. This year the plants have been carefully cut, even one by one, and what few grains of wheat, rye or barley they bore have been painstakingly harvested by hand."

Reports from many of the workers are so horrible that it is not possible to publish them, neither is it advisable to reproduce many of the photos. they are too awful, too ghastly; too vivid in their terrific appeal.

The big heart of London and of Western Ontario will respond to this call.

Give quickly, and give until it hurts.

Fifty-Five Years Ago.

A COPY of THE LONDON EVENING ADVERTISER of July 29, 1867, has been handed into this office. It is in a remarkably good state of preservation. Evidently the whole centre of interest at that time was in the election that was taking place. One report tells of a meeting that was held in the interests of the Conservative candidate at Strathroy. The late HON. GEORGE W. ROSS was called upon to address the gathering along with three opposing him. When MR. ROSS had got well under way there was a cry from the audience: "This is our meeting," and the interference became so great that the one advocate of Liberal principles had to leave the rest of his address for some more favorable occasion.

Other meetings had been held at Melrose, another in MR. DUNCAN'S schoolhouse in North Dorchester, and the political feeling was running high. So it will be seen that as far back as 1867 the people of London and district were taking their politics very seriously, so it is not to be wondered at if they have retained this characteristic to a considerable degree in the present generation.

In the paper of 28 columns there were over 18 columns of advertising matter, a proportion that would delight the heart and bank account of any publisher at the present time, when the custom is to provide almost as much reading matter as advertising.

THOMAS SWINYARD'S name was attached to an announcement of the Great Western Railway, telling of an excursion from London to Suspension Bridge and back for $2. The announcement also carries this warning: "Passengers are respectfully requested not to stand on the steps or platforms of the cars, nor to attempt to get on or off while the train is in motion." So if some of the young folks of London are reckless now, they have the satisfaction of knowing that their folks before them were equally, or even more reckless, sufficient to call for an official warning from the manager of the road.

The annual Catholic picnic was being held at Port Stanley on the 30th of July, and the fare down and back was 30 cents. Next time you buy a ticket to Port Stanley and back just bear this in mind. The St. Andrew's Society were announcing their picnic to the same place on July 31.

A few of the names in some of the advertising columns were: JOSEPH JEFFREY, who was buying and selling Bank of Upper Canada bills; G. D. SUTHERLAND, London House, merchandise; A. & J. G. MCINTOSH & Co., general merchants; A. GAULD, merchant tailor; GOLDNER'S, ready-made clothing. The postoffice was also represented in the advertising columns, showing the time mails closed and when they were due for delivery at certain points. The advertising department at that time must have been much more aggressive than those who preside over such matters today, as now much of this matter is used in the paper as reading matter, for which the postoffice pays nothing at all. A new medicine was announced for sale at the following stores: FITZGERALD & SCANDRETT, MARTIN MCNAMARA, FRANCIS SMITH & Co., and W. SIMPSON SMITH. H. B. B. ALLEY'S announce muslins and dressgoods and prints at 12½ cents a yard; J. J. HANRATTY & Co. were intending to close out their warehouse in ten days; R. WALKER & SONS were selling millinery, hoop-skirts—"piles of them at cost"; MOUNTJOY'S had oranges, lemons and strawberries; ROBT. MANLEY was handling a general line of merchandise, and had made big reductions in his prices; ANDREW CHISHOLM & Co., drygoods, ready-made clothing, etc., were doing business under the name of the Prince of Wales House; J. BEATTIE & Co. were advertising the fact that they kept no old bankrupt stocks, and used as a slogan: "The best value for your money in London." In another part of the paper are the announcements of R. S. MURRAY, G. W. SMITH & Co., T. E. D'CALLAGHAN, P. MCCANN, GREGSTEN & BROS., W. J. REID & Co. J. ATKINSON made announcement of the fact that his store had received a large assortment of paper collars. Medical cards contain the names of DR. CL. T. CAMPBELL, J. B. SABINE, DR. LANDOR, DR. DEVLIN, G. P. WESTLAND, M.D., L. HARVEY, M.D.

The paper is in a very good state of preservation. The news is nearly all from the city or surrounding district. The printing is well done and clear, and there is much more reading matter in both news and advertising columns than could possibly be put in the same space in the way that these matters are handled at present.

Dies in Exile.

CHARLES, for a short time emperor of a turbulent empire already beginning to shake down in ruins, dies in exile. At thirty-five he had run the gamut of royal birth, a youth of ornamental idleness, a brief reign over a war-worn and decadent nation, defeat, flight and ignominious exile.

In other times CHARLES would have been an ordinarily acceptable figurehead for the government of Austria-Hungary. Not particularly fitted for the tasks of high office, either by inclination or training, he would have put on the usual show of trappings and make-believe, taken his orders from Berlin, lived out his allotted life and been laid down beside his royal forebears.

He would have been neither a very acceptable nor a very unacceptable monarch, as monarchs go. Leaving out of account revolution and assassination, none of his subjects would have dreamed that the good of the state demanded his abdication.

But war came. It had, in fact, been in progress many months before CHARLES came to the throne. It found the prince as unprepared as it did most people. CHARLES had been a sportsman and a driver of fast motor cars.

His people liked him after a fashion, but no one even suggested that he was a statesman or in any sense qualified to meet the crisis that existed when his venerable uncle laid down the burdens of government in the midst of the war. Vienna became simply an echo of Berlin and when the central powers collapsed it could not be said of the young emperor that he had contributed anything either to its stability or its happiness.

Exile is the predestined lot of rulers whose thrones are toppled—exile or assassination. CHARLES was sent to the summerland of Madeira after he had twice violated the confidence of those who were willing that he stay in Europe and tried to snatch back what war had taken from him.

William chops wood in Holland.

The czar fills an unknown grave, the victim of worse than exile.

All of them as dead as the Pharaohs.

In one sense CHARLES was the victim of circumstances. In another sense he was a victim of his own narrowness of vision. He should have known better, but few in his position would have known better.

Lacrosse Then and Now.

IN RECENT editions of several Canadian papers have been printed group pictures of lacrosse teams in England. One can hardly help expressing admiration at the nifty suits these chaps are wearing, and the fine way in which they expose their knees and arms to the butchers who are always to be found on the lacrosse teams of this country.

Today the average lacrosse player in Canada wears quite a set of armor. 'Twas not thus a few years ago. When the lads of Western Ontario took to the game about twenty-five years ago, they used to get rigged out in a pair of short pants, a light sort of a sweater, and some of the more particular had a pair of gloves now and then. But there were bare arms and bare knuckles, and bare legs, and, oh boy! what fine targets they did make. Many a lacrosse player used to nurse a sore and a bruised thumb all through the season. Many of the old-timers preferred the bare hide. They claimed that on a hot day when they had a couple of clashes, and were cut open a bit and had some sand and dirt rubbed into the cuts, they could play a better game than they ever hoped to do in fair weather. It must have been in this state of mind that the grand old saying got its start, "Never hit twice where once will do."

We can well recall lacrosse games in Forest, Exeter, Parkhill, Stratford, St. Marys and other towns around here where the only man on the team who had any extra padding would be when an overly-thoughtful goalkeeper would wear a couple of sweaters or a pair of mitts much the same as a man wears in a harvest field.

Then later on, it must have been when the pros started to get into lacrosse, the armament appeared. First a strip of horse collar padding up and down the arms. Then some more of the same material across the shoulders. Then a pair of gloves that a nine-inch shell couldn't make a scratch on. Followed by a headgear that carried a pad in the top that wouldn't cause the hair of the player to be mussed up if the grandstand toppled over on top of him.

So there you have the lacrosse player of today, armed and decorated so that it takes a mighty good player to figure out where he can hit him to put him out of the game quick.

No doubt these thinly clad Englishmen will come to it some time or other, at least they will if they ever come over the briny and start to play games in this country. Then surely will come the scramble for the tin hats.

EBB TIDE—THE PART THAT DID NOT EBB.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Here We Have Items of Local and District Interest As Recorded in The Advertiser of 1897.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5, 1897.

Weather—Local rains; partly fair and mild.

At the annual meeting of the Chatham Cricket Club, the election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President, S. J. Sutherland; vice-presidents, W. S. Ireland, J. L. Bray, Wm. Ball, A. Heywood, G. B. Douglas; secretary, F. A. W. Ireland; treasurer, W. F. O'Hara; match committee, W. B. Wells, Dr. I. L. Nichols, J. Horstead.

The regular meeting of the London Dental Association was held at the office of Dr. McDonald on Saturday evening. Dr. H. R. Abbott presented a very interesting paper on "Mistakes That I Have Made." As this was the annual meeting, the election of officers took place with the following results: Dr. H. R. Abbott, president; Dr. S. Woolverton, vice-president; Dr. G. A. Bentley, secretary-treasurer.

The committee on ways and means in connection with the jubilee hospital movement met in the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon. Among those present were: Messrs. Frank Leonard, Col. Gartshore, P. W. D. Brodrick, Dr. Niven, John Bowman, Frank Plant, Mrs. C. B. Hunt, and Mrs. J. A. Murray.

The annual meeting of the London Asylum Cricket Club was held yesterday and the following officers were elected:

Honorary president, Hon. R. Harcourt; honorary vice-presidents, Mr. C. S. Hyman, Mr. T. S. Hobbs, Rev. Canon Dann, Dr. Buchan; president, Dr. Bucke; vice-president, Dr. Sippi; second vice-president, Mr. D. Mackenzie; third vice-president, Mr. I. Flynn; captain, Dr. Hobbs; vice-captain, Mr. M. Walker; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Beemer.

The committee are: James Angus, John Pumphrey, George England, R. Heighway, George Thurling, J. Burnard. The scorer is Mr. G. B. Sippi; the umpire, Mr. George Angus.

The London Zither Club have reorganized and will now be known as the Arion Zither Club. The officers are: Mr. F. Pohs, president; Mrs. F. Pohs, secretary-treasurer; Mr. George Blinkhorn, corresponding-secretary; Mr. M. Schemann, leader.

A determined attempt is being made to restock the shooting preserves in this district. The club under whose management this action was taken comprises some eighteen or twenty Londoners. Messrs. M. Graydon, J. W. Humpidge, W. T. Strong, C. B. Hunt, M. D. Fraser and W. Smith accompanied the birds yesterday.

A social under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society was held in the school room of the First Congregational Church last night. Mr. Albert Bock presided, and introduced the following program: Solo, Miss Nellie Burnip; reading, Miss Emma Moule; solo, Mr. Alf. Anundson; a paper on "Committee Work," Miss Crossin; banjo trio, Messrs. H. and W. Marshall, and A. Bock. Following the program refreshments were served.

In the debate last night between Court Robin Hood and Court Defiance, C. O. F., it was resolved that women had more influence over man than money. For Court Robin Hood (the winners) Bros. Wright, Martindale, Essery and Fox did the talking. Bros. Galpin, Hardy, Reed and Parkinson put up an unsuccessful fight for Court Defiance.

LITTLE 'TISERS

As cities grow larger the businesses in them move in the same direction. Fortunate is that city that has in its midst businessmen who develop in proportion to the size of the city and the size of the business. The late SIR JOHN EATON did this very thing. He was not a man ripe in years—he passed on in his prime—yet it could never be said that the business over which he presided, or the city in which he lived, grew and developed any faster than did his vision and his ability and willingness to meet the demands that his position and means placed upon him.

After all news and views depend largely on location. For instance the Blenheim News-Tribune this week runs the following item:

"The proprietor of the Chinese cafe was at Montreal last week to meet a twelve-year-old cousin, who came from Canton, China, to make his home here. He is a smart-looking boy, in appearance the equal of the ordinary boy of his age in this country."

Whereas if a paper in Vancouver were to use this piece of news with the same wording, the editor of the paper would be taken to the docks and dropped off into the salt water.

EARLY DAYS IN WILLIAMS

From Notes and Letters of the Late ROBERT BURNS, of Sylvan and Latterly of Parkhill.

WITH the exception of a rather narrow strip of land lying between the Adelaide town line and the River Sauble on the south side, which was settled about the same time that the township of Adelaide was settled, the township of West Williams was the latest to be settled of any of the townships with which it is surrounded; so much so that the greater part of the township was still in a state of primeval wilderness when the township of East Williams, was comparatively speaking, an old settlement. The names of some of the early settlers on the south side of the river are Thomas Bartlet, George Fair, David Brock, Henry Saul, Bartlett, the miller and his brother-in-law, old Mr. Cooper and his sons and some others. But I must not forget to mention old Mr. Townsend, who was the earliest settler of all. He was not only the earliest settler in that locality but the earliest settler of nearly all the townships in both the Counties of Middlesex and Lambton. He squatted on the banks of the Sauble in West Williams, near the town line, between that township and the township of Bosanquet. At that time he was the only white settler between where the city of London now stands (where there were only a few settlers located) and the town of Sarnia, where there were only a few French fishermen located. Few of the townships in Middlesex were then surveyed and none in Lambton. The first time that I saw him was in the town of Sarnia in 1849, when I lived there. I soon discovered that he knew some people in Bosanquet with whom I was acquainted. This was our only introduction. He was very chatty and we had a long conversation. He gave me a considerable outline of his extraordinary experience in the far-away backwoods of West Williams. He told me that he was a native of York state, but said he was a born British subject, of which circumstance he seemed to be very proud. On requesting an explanation, he said that he was born the year before the declaration of independence. His father being a staunch U. E. L., or British subject, his property was confiscated by the Yankee rebels and he and his family had to flee to his native land and take shelter in the backwoods of Canada. It may be asked "how did Mr. Townsend obtain his household supplies?" He was ingenious and handy with tools and he built a boat which he rigged with oars and sails and then sailed down the Sauble to Lake Huron and thence down to Detroit where he laid in his year's supply afterward returning to his home in the wilderness. I forgot to mention that he engaged some Indians to assist in navigating his boat.

He cleared up a large farm. In consideration of being a son of a U. E. Loyalist, and an early pioneer the government gave him a grant of 400 acres of land. He built the first grist mill in a large area of country and except the two little rock mill stones the whole structure and machinery was built of wood. He used ropes instead of leather belting for driving his machinery. There was no iron used in the whole concern, not even a nail. This primitive construction seems to have been quite a success and made very good flour, and, of cource, was a great boon to the first early settlers.

Along with his other enterprises he received a government contract for making a road from Lobo village to Sarnia, but the road construction consisted only in brushing out a wagon track and making corduroy bridges over streams and creeks. He employed Indians for workmen on the job, and it was said that he made a good thing out of this contract. There was a deer lick on the side of the river bank on his property and from his circumstance he concluded that there must necessarily be a salt bed beneath, and he thought he possessed something nearly as good as a gold mine, and so commenced to dig. He sank a shaft to a considerable depth, but his appliances were somewhat primitive and defective and his funds ran short, and the old man was reluctantly compelled to relinquish his pet enterprise.

LEGAL QUERIES

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly answer the following question in your legal column?

If a man dies leaving no will, and having property, and no wife or children living, who would claim his property, his brothers or his grandchild? AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—Brothers and the grandchild in equal shares.

Our Own Country.

Question—What is the strength of the Canadian air force?

Answer—The Canadian air force has 407 officers and 840 men in training at Camp Borden in 1921.

Question—Who is the Canadian poet and writer who uses the nom de plume "Fidelis?"

Answer—"Fidelis" is the pen name of Miss Agnes Maule Machar of Kingston, who has written several volumes of poems and fiction.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is PSYCHIC.

It's pronounced —sye-kick, with accent on the first syllable.

It means—pertaining to the mind or soul, having abnormal power, pertaining to the world of spirits.

It comes from—Greek, "psyche," the soul.

It's used like this—"Many supposed psychic manifestations (that is, appearances of ghosts, etc.) can be traced to material causes."

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE:

Infected Wounds

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

WHENEVER we think of wounds most of us think of danger due to great loss of blood. In ninety-nine of one hundred wounds bleeding is not dangerous.

In every wound there is danger of infection.

In every wound one of two things happens. On the one hand, a wound may heal quickly, with no danger to the patient's life or health. In this case the wound has not become infected.

On the other hand, the wound may become red and angry. It will throb with pain and the patient may have chills and fever. This is an infected wound. Blood poisoning may follow.

Germs cause infection. The germs are not the same as in contagious diseases. In wounds they are called pus-forming germs. As in contagious diseases, they do not have it all their own way; the white cells in our blood d[illegible]t some of the pus germs and prev[illegible]nt them from doing harm.

Some germs will undoubtedly be driven into the body in every wound. Our object should be to prevent the introduction of more.

Fortunately pus germs do not float about in the air, so there is no danger in exposing a wound to the air. They are found on our hands, on knives, scissors, clothing and in water.

Surgeons have found a way to kill them, however. Advantage has been taken of this knowledge to prepare surgeons' gauze that is free from germs.

This gauze is simply cheesecloth that has been put through a special process to kill the germs. It can be bought in any drug store. It should be used to cover every wound, and should be kept on hand in every household.

Never wash a wound, for pus germs are found in water.

Instead, put on a pad of gauze at once, being very careful not to touch that part of it which is to go on the wound.

If you have no gauze and cannot procure any quickly you can take a folded towel, recently laundered, and boil it 10 minutes, squeezing out the water, but not touching the surface to go on the wound.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 180—STRONG SELF-CONTROL

How would you measure the self-control of a man or woman without waiting patiently for circumstances to bring about a practical demonstration of it?

Understand, please, that this refers directly to self-discipline, and not to such things as nerves, strength of character, forcefulness of will and the like, though these others are all more or less involved.

The man or woman of complete self-control may or may not have "nerves." If they have them, quite naturally they are not in the habit of letting them break loose—or you couldn't call them self-controlled. They may or may not be naturally impulsive, but in any case they are not in the habit of acting on impulse, but rather upon reason. But always they are of strong character. This also is quite obvious. It is implied by the very self-control, though strength of character, however, is not always applied in the direction of control of self.

You know these people literally by their immovability. Their gestures are few. There is a deliberateness (not a mere slowness) about their movements and their actions. Whether walking, standing or sitting, they seem to plant themselves surely and solidly. You've met lots of them. You may not have noticed that it was their deliberateness which gave you that impression, but you are conscious of an impression of self-confidence and unassumed dignity on their part.

Incidentally, they're bad people to "monkey with." They have a habit of standing "just so much" quite patiently. But when they strike, they strike hard. The trouble is, you can never tell how much the "just so much" they will stand for happens to be.

MOVE BY EXCHANGING.

ADDLESTONE, England — Four residents of Addlestone wanted to move, but there was no place for rent. They exchanged homes.

This boy died four hours after being brought to the feeding station

---not next week
---or next month

but NOW!

ONLY those who have visited Russia can have the faintest conception of the horrors that stalk the famine districts. Except the supplies brought in by the Relief Funds, there is no food—absolutely none of any kind.

Millions of people are reduced to eating grass and sun-blackened straw.

Dr. Nansen says that every time the clock ticks, dozens of wasted skeletons that were once men, women and children, are toppling over dead.

Unless additional relief is sent at once, ten million people—mostly children—will have to be left to starve. Every day of delay exacts a frightful toll of death.

We can save many of the children if you will help now.

Will you send today—something—anything to save some of these pitiful, starving children?

Only—if they are to be saved—do it now.

25c will feed a child for a week.

$1.00 will ensure sufficient food for one child for a month.

$500 will establish a kitchen and feed 100 children until the next harvest.

Cheques and money orders may be forwarded through your bank or local committee or sent direct to Sir George Burn, Treasurer, Save the Children Fund, Elgin Bldg., Ottawa.

"—there was BREAD"

JOSEPH was the first national food administrator. Realizing the nourishment and economy of Bread he advised the Egyptians to store their grain in times of plenty so that when the "lean years" of famine came, Bread might be their resource and salvation.

As a result, we read that all Egypt was happy and well-fed while other nations starved. What Joseph did for Egypt Bread will do for the world to-day.

The food value of Bread is greater than that of any of the foods on the market to-day, at much higher prices.

NEAL'S GOOD WHITE BREAD

Why Spring Brings Out Freckles and Eruptions

The sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines at this season is attributed by scientists to the "actinic ray," which is unusually active during the spring months. Where the skin is so affected by this influence, if one will procure an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, the trouble can easily be overcome. When the wax is washed off next morning, minute flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or two, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles, moth patches, liver spots, pimples, or other cutaneous blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking, youthful. No harm or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.—Advt.

FARMERS HEAR MISS MACPHAIL

Peterboro Agrarians Hold Big Rally Addressed by Woman Member.

DESCRIBES EXPERIENCE

Southeast Grey Representative Pays Warm Tribute To J. J. Morrison.

PETERBORO, April 4.—Lower tariff and transportation charges, a revision of the bank act, and 100 per cent organization among the farmers of the country was offered here tonight by Miss Agnes MacPhail, M. P., as a panacea for the depression that affects the farming industry. Miss MacPhail was addressing a joint meeting in the city of United Farmers and affiliated organizations. The speaker described the Canadian Manufacturers' Association as one of the best-organized industries in the land.

"They tell you they have no representation in the House of Commons," said Miss MacPhail, "but the truth of the matter is they send the other fellow to represent them." The suggestion that the day is near when the Progressives and Liberals will unite as one party was said by the speaker to be a case of the wish being daddy to the thought, but had no foundation in fact.

Describing her experiences in the House of Commons, Miss MacPhail said if ever there was a house of temptation it was the green chamber. "When you fall for all the temptation in the green chamber you go to the red chamber," she said. "When you go to Ottawa you can't do what you want to do or what the people back home want you to do. You do what precedence tells you to do. A spirit of awe and timidity hangs over the house. I have addressed thousands of people without increasing my heart action one beat, yet, when I get up in the house to ask the minister of health one simple question, I am afraid my heart will go out of my mouth.

"I am answerable to Southeast Grey and Southeast Grey only," Miss MacPhail said. "There are some men sitting in the Progressive party who are the best Grits and Tories you ever saw. The sooner you get rid of them the better. Of all the great men in Canada, I think J. J. Morrison is the greatest. He is even greater than the premier of Ontario. Upon him rests the responsibility of piloting the Farmers' movement.

"When I was young and innocent I was led to believe that parliament was created to reform, but now I know that its chief duty is to block reform."

Describing a caucus, Miss MacPhail said it was "a place where the members were told what to do and how to do it. If you don't vote the right way your place is outside the caucus."

Consider Pails To Catch Rain Cheaper Than Repairing Roof of Windsor Hall

Special to London Advertiser.

WINDSOR, April 4.—Something new in economy was offered tonight by two members of the market and property committee of city council when an appropriation of $300 to repair the roof of city hall was cut from the committee's estimates. The committee ruled that pails to catch rain water are cheaper than roofing materials.

Arguing that although rain drops may patter on unprotected heads of aldermen during council sittings, Aldermen A. W. Jackson and Winter, former mayors, contended this would be a small inconvenience compared with threatened record tax rate.

Another item in the committee's budget for $50, covering cost of disinfectants was eliminated, the aldermen believing "such luxuries unnecessary now that police department is out of city hall."

"How about this item for decorating?" Alderman Keyser, chairman, inquired.

"Cut that out too." Tax rate must be reduced at any cost, declared Alderman Winter.

PROPOSE TO ERECT PLANT AT SARNIA

Dominion Steel Alloy Corporation Contemplate Three Million Dollar Factory.

EXPECT OTHER CONCERNS

Delegate Declares Opportunity Good Beginning to Prosperity.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, April 4.—The city fathers of Sarnia held out a welcome hand and promised their full co-operation to the delegates of Dominion Steel Alloy Corporation, B. H. McCreath of Toronto and George A. Simpson of Hamilton, who with A. McKinley, solicitor for the company, waited on the councillors Monday with regards to proposal of the corporation to erect a three-million-dollar alloy steel plant immediately to the south of the city. The confidence of the council in the proposal was evident from the attitude of the individual aldermen, and the bylaw granting the concession required by the company was passed. This provides for the following:

Same Conditions As Residents.

A fixed assessment of $300,000 on 40 acres of land, the actual site for the plant, the opening up of streets and laying of sewers as rapidly as warranted by development of the concern. Annexation of the territory by city water and gas pipe on the same conditions as apply to city residents, the granting of a franchise for extension of street railway to site of factory, benefits of fire protection and schools as afforded residents of city, and assistance to the corporation to procure gravel at most favorable terms.

Geo. A. Simpson of Hamilton, until recently special representative of the Steel Company of Canada, was introduced to the council by B. H. McCreath, a director of the corporation, as the man who would have charge of the erecting and operation of the plant here, and who will take up his residence in the city.

Mr. Simpson gave a general outline of plans of the corporation, and invited questions. He said Hamilton, one of the most stable cities of the Dominion, had not had a more favorable beginning towards prosperity than that which lay within the acceptance of Sarnia, and Hamilton had practically grown around the Steel Company of Canada. He asked the council to meet him on a basis of complete confidence, and to look to the future with faith. With the advent of the Steel Alloy Corporation other industries would follow as a natural sequence in same manner as International Harvester Company followed Steel Company at Hamilton.

He would not promise the growth of a model city around the plant like a mushroom in a night. He would not name the number of men who would be employed in the plant, because the company was building on the assumption that by the time of completion conditions in the country would be at normal and business flourishing, which, however, was an assumption, and not a certainty. He would say, however, it took a large number of men to operate a steel plant. Mr. McCreath, in reply to a question, stated the exact acreage of river front that would be used had not been decided on. The corporaion had obtained surrender of a large tract of land, and the laying out of this land would be made by townsite experts who would, he could assure them, meet the wishes of the people of Sarnia in every way.

Confidence in Proposal.

Ald. Cook in expressing confidence in the proposal, described Sarnia as Moses looking for the promised land, and with the faith given by representatives of the corporation he felt sure the promised land was in sight. The council, he said, was prepared to meet the corporation half way, and deal with it as fairly as it had done with Imperial Oil, Ltd., for 20 years. A proposition to take in an additional area three-quarters the size of the present city area might frighten some, but he felt that the citizens of Sarnia had sufficient confidence in the logical future of their city to tackle the matter in a proper way.

WOMAN CLAIMS SMALL PRISONER IN TORONTO

Thinks Missing Theatrical Magnate Was Betrayed By His Friends.

HAMILTON, April 4.—The sister of A. J. Small, the missing Toronto theatrical millionaire, interviewed Mrs. T. E. Sterling here today. She says she has a clue that will lead to the solution of the Small mystery, and thinks she will win the reward of $50,000.

"Do you think that Mr. Small is dead?" Mrs. Sterling was asked.

"Dead?" she replied; "oh, no, he's not dead. He's hidden in Toronto, 'doped,' and unable to reveal his whereabouts. You know Toronto is a large place, and it would not be difficult to hide anybody there. I have a clue all right, but it has got to be kept 'mum' until the whole thing is out, and then everybody will know. If I said anything now they could easily move him, and then we would not be able to find him at all."

Mrs. Sterling charged that Mr. Small had been betrayed by his supposed friends.

"It was no stranger that did the trick, but friends," she declared.

FORD YOUNGSTER KILLED BY TRAIN

WINDSOR, April 4.—Struck by the Grand Trunk eastbound train leaving Windsor at 12:40 p.m. Monday, seven-year-old George Dragonchuk, 28 Aubin road, Ford, sustained injuries which caused his death at Hotel Dieu shortly before 7 o'clock. The little fellow was playing about the box cars a few steps from his home.

Apparently he did not notice the approaching train. He was standing on the track when the locomotive hit him. His head was pounded against the left rail. The train was brought to an immediate stop, and the injured child was carried to a residence on Aubin avenue.

C. N. R. EARNINGS DECREASE.

TORONTO, April 4.—A decrease of $155,392.72 is shown in the earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the ten-day period ending March 31, this year, compared with the same period a year ago, the figures being respectively $3,244,363 and $3,399,955.72. For the three months period to March 31 a decrease of $5,809,176.65 is recorded, the respective totals being $25,990,451.73 and $31,799,628.38.

TORY MEMBER RAPS INCREASE

W. A. Boys of Simcoe Thinks Amount Voted For Contingencies Too High.

HON. J. H. KING EXPLAINS

OTTAWA, April 4.—(By Canadian Press).—Pending the production of more information civil government estimates of the department of public works were allowed to stand after some discussion, and the introduction of an amendment in the House of Commons this evening.

The amendment was introduced by W. A. Boys, Conservative member for Simcoe, who discovered that the vote for contingencies, clerical and other assistance, this year amounted to $31,000, as compared with $15,000 last year. He could not understand why this increase had been made, so he moved that the amount be reduced by $16,000 to bring it to last year's vote.

Hon. J. H. King, minister in charge of the estimates, explained that thirteen temporary employees who had been cared for under the vote for the engineering branch were to be paid out of the contingencies this year. He drew the attention of Mr. Boys to the fact that the civil government estimate was reduced by about $27,000. This decrease was due partly to the transfer of these employees who last year were paid under the civil government vote.

The opposition members requested more information in regard to the employees mentioned, and on the suggestion of the leader of the opposition the amendment was allowed to stand until this could be procured.

Public archives estimates under civil government of $67,680 salaries tax, the chancellor explained, because it would include the bad year of 1921 in the three-year average on which the tax was assessed, and there was £25,000,000 to find for interest on the United States debt.

The year 1923-24 would be still worse, because there would be two bad years included in the three-year average, and it would be necessary to find £50,000,000 for United States interest, while the income from sales of surplus war stocks would be almost exhausted.

The pensions motion was defeate.

EXCHANGE PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The American Cotton Exchange, recently indicted with six of its directors on a charge of bucketing orders, today entered a plea of "Not guilty," and asked for an early trial on the ground that the case was injuring its business.

Physician Advocates Porridge
As Staple Food for Children

"If I had the feeding of children," said a physician recently, "I'd feed them largely on whole grain foods cooked at home to ensure proper cooking, plenty of raw fruits, vegetables raw and cooked, occasionally eggs, lots of milk, but rarely if ever meat. Milk and porridge made from entire grains would be my staple, and the children would rarely be sick."

ROMAN MEAL is the most nutritious whole grain food known, and makes delicious porridge. It can be cooked as variously as flour and is very economical. All grocers sell it.

The Ideal Bathtub for Baby
EDDY'S Indurated Fibreware Washtub is just the thing for baby's bath. Besides being light, easy to handle and unbreakable, it has a surface which cannot cause injury—no cracks, no joints, no nails or rivets. It is moulded in one piece and unlike wood, it cannot splinter or come apart. It is much superior to metal because it cannot dent or rust. Metal tubs quickly absorb heat and are liable to scald baby's skin, even after cold water is added. In a like manner metal if cold will strike chill to the skin and also cause the water to cool quickly. Eddy's Indurated Fibreware does not radiate heat or cold and is quite safe. For the same reason it keeps the water warm longer.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

AFFILIATES WITH L. C.

The Seventh Regiment Chapter, I. O. D. E., meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the officers' quarters at the armories, decided to hold a tea and sale of home-cooking on Friday, April 21. Sewing will be started immediately for the War Memorial Children's Hospital, members of the chapter to open their homes for sewing meetings. It was decided to affiliate with the Local Council of Women. The chapter has pledged itself to do all in its power to make a great success of the concerts of the Scots Guards, band in London in May in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital. Mrs. F. H. Butler presided, Mrs. W. D. I. Wright and Mrs. W. A. McCrimmon acting as tea hostesses.

PLAN "CHARITY" NIGHT.

Mrs. Robert Heard entertained the Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E., for the April meeting at her home at 546 Adelaide street, on Tuesday afternoon. Further arrangements were made for "charity night" at the Winter Garden on April 21 in co-operation with the Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E., and plans also for a sale of home-cooking in the course of a few days.

BOYLE M. C. CONFERS WITH TEACHERS.

Held regularly the first Tuesday of the month, the April meeting of the Boyle Memorial Mothers' Club has been postponed until Thursday evening, April 6, when it will take the form of a round table conference with the teachers of the staff.

TO HAVE NEW PRESIDENT.

A meeting of the nominating committee of the Woman's Music Club, of which Mrs. Harris Elliott is convener, will immediately precede the annual meeting of the club to be held in the London Institute of Musical Art on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Several changes will be made in the personnel of the executive, it is understood. Mrs. Victor Blackwell, who has filled with greatest ability and tact the office of president for some years, after long experience in the role of secretary, is resigning. Mrs. R. E. Davis, first vice-president, according to precedent, is the logical successor, and has been urged to let her name stand. Others, it is understood, who would grace the position, owing to their executive ability and personal charm as well as musical appreciation, have also been mentioned in connection with the office, owing to the fact that efforts have not yet succeeded to get Mrs. Davis to consider the presidency.

GIVE TO HOSPITAL.

The following contributions to the War Memorial Children's Hospital have been received by Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell, hon. treasurer of the fund; Miss Irene Burns, city, $1; Daughters of Zion City, $25; benefit at Allen's Theatre by Middlesex County, $51; Miss McColl, city, second donation, $5; Mossley Aid Society, Mossley, $160; Kerwood Women's Institute, $50; Mrs. (Dr.) H. Meek, city, $100; St. George's Company of Girl Guides, $50.

HELP GRENFELL BALE.

Perhaps never before in all the history of the Grenfell Mission Auxiliary in London has such keen interest been evinced in preparation of the annual bale for the Labrador folks as at the present time. The following donations are the most recent to be received: Twelve colored wool bonnets from Mrs. Reason, Sr.; $5 from Mrs. Bullen; $2 from Mrs. A. Becher; $2 from Mrs. S. H. Craig; $2 from Mrs. A. G. Hewton.

ST. JOHN'S UNIT MEETS.

The regular meeting of the St. John's Mothers' Unit was held Monday in the school. Mrs. Joseph Leach gave a short address followed by an interesting talk by Rev. Fr. Brisson.

SUPERVISOR TO SPEAK.

Lorne Avenue Mothers' Club is to have the pleasure of hearing Miss Clara Brenton, supervisor of kindergartens, speak at the April meeting which will be held Thursday evening. Miss Brenton's subject will be "The Pre-School Age." Business of the evening will include arrangements for a rummage sale in aid of the club funds. The Lorne Avenue Club has already donated $125 to the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

TRAFALGAR CHAPTER BUSY.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Trafalgar Chapter, I. O. D. E., was held at the home of the regent, Mrs. E. J. Ram, Lorne avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Arrangements were made to hold a rummage sale some time during the coming week, and a sale of home-cooking and aprons later in the month. The chapter decided to commence its share of the sewing for the War Memorial Hospital immediately. Tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. Ram, assisted by Mrs. M. Logan.

EKFRID GIVES $25.

Another township heard from. Monday afternoon, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, honorary secretary of the War Memorial Hospital committee, received a check for $25 from Ekfrid Township council, forwarded by T. L. McTaggart of Appin, towards the hospital fund. This is the fourth township in Middlesex that has sent in a donation in response to letters that have been sent out to all twenty.

Telegram Says "Congratulations"

A TELEGRAM received by Mrs. F. P. Betts, Ontario provincial commissioner of Girl Guides, from Mrs. A. C. Hardy, Toronto, a member of the provincial executive, would indicate that success has crowned the request made some time ago for a government grant to aid in the carrying on and extension of the work. Mrs. Hardy's telegram says, "Congratulations on $2,000 in supplementary estimates."

"This is all I know about the matter," Mrs. Betts said to the Women's Department of The Advertiser on Tuesday afternoon. "So far, I have seen nothing in the press about the passing of the grant, nor have I had any intimation from the department of education."

When approached with regard to the grant some time ago, Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, expressed his sympathy with the guide movement, and, in consequence, a favorable announcement was hoped for, if not expected, after the considering of the supplementary estimates.

MANY COMING FOR GUIDE CAMP

Preparations go merrily on for the Provincial Guide leaders' camp to be held at the Cronyn Farm in London Township in Easter week, numbers of girls and young women having already registered. Among these will be enthusiasts in guide work from Toronto, Niagara Falls, Hamilton, Rodney and other points, Miss Kaye Symes coming from Ottawa as commandant. Miss Riepert, secretary of the Canadian Council, has written that she may possibly be here some time during the week.

A large share of the responsibility for preparation is resting upon the shoulders of the provincial commissioner, Mrs. Betts, the camp to be held at the beautiful old country home of the Cronyn family. One of the latest bits of equipment lined up is a generous store of army blankets.

WRITTEN SPECIALLY

Junior W. A.'s Presenting "Those Strange Ways," Work of Mrs. C. C. Waller.

The renaissance of the drama in London, as evidenced by the number of plays presented during the past winter by girls' and young women's organizations, has had a still further striking manifestation.

Not only have plays been adequately performed, but they have been specially written to fit the occasions by local dramatists. Mrs. C. C. Waller will make her bow as a playwright on April 19, when talented members of the Junior W. A. of London present the work of her pen, "Those Strange Ways," in connection with the annual meeting of the Junior W. A. to be held in Cronyn Hall.

Mrs. R. J. Bowen is Junior W. A. secretary, and is keenly interested with the members of the seven or eight branches in the city in the project.

ST. THOMAS I. O. D. E. FOSTERS ART.

St. Thomas Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, are arranging for an exhibition of paintings, curios and other articles of interest in the drawing-rooms, corridors and McLachlin Hall of Alma College during Easter week. A strong committee from the Women's Art Association will assist in showing the pictures, and will have entire charge of the tea room, the receipts of which will be used to buy some much-needed pictures for Alma College.

A fine collection of pictures, china and homespuns will be sent from Toronto. A short program will be provided each afternoon and in the evening by well-known artists.

KINTORE W. I. AIDS RUSSIA.

The Kintore Women's Institute, at the meeting held last week, decided to aid Russian relief by forwarding the funds in the treasury at the time, Mrs. Chalmers making a motion to this effect, seconded by Mrs. R. A. McDonald. The institute branch has been one of the first to take up sewing for the War Memorial Children's Hospital, and made-up goods were brought in at the meeting, including 56 towels, 36 each of dressing, towel and glove covers, and about 100 hot water bottle covers. Seventy-eight bed jackets were taken away to be made up by the members.

Forty were present at the meeting, and the program was of exceptional interest, including a paper by Mrs. A. McMillan on "Filling Our Niche in Life"; a paper by Mrs. F. Lovett, "The Home Circle"; poems by Mrs. Dunlop and Miss Bernice Quinn, songs by Miss Grace Dunstar and a violin selection by Miss M. McPherson, accompanied on the piano by Miss E. Rutledge. Refreshments were served at the close.

Mrs. J. Henderson, Mrs. J. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. Yake and Lenora Armstrong will have charge of the meeting on April 26.

Can't Attend Dominion W. A. Executive "Snapshots" Personalities Present

There is one important gathering of women in London this week, from which the "mere reporter," even if she be a woman herself, is hopelessly barred. Lacking the necessary qualifications, she can't possibly beg, borrow, or even steal her way in. Still more amazing, she cannot extort a shred of news with regard to what is passing behind closed doors.

And the session isn't one of a secret society, either. It is the half-yearly meeting of a most august body, the Dominion executive of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada.

All day long the 30 or more members of the executive, who have come from the four corners of Canada to attend, discuss business affecting the welfare of the work at home and abroad, very much behind closed doors in Cronyn Hall. They are shaping policies, getting business in form to present to the annual meeting of the board, and until it is given out there no announcements will be given to the public.

"Nothing to give out?" asked the Women's Department of The Advertiser of the Dominion president, Mrs. Patterson Hall of Montreal on Tuesday.

"Not a word," said the Dominion president. But her graciousness and the twinkle in her eye made the "letting down' a pleasant process, an honor to be refused.

"Then there's nothing to do but write about the personalities of those present for the thousands of W. A. women in the city and Western Ontario who are interested in the Dominion executive, not to mention all the other people," said The Advertiser.

"But you don't know anything about our personalities," laughingly replied the Dominion president.

"Wait and see," said the audacious reporter.

Presenting the President.

First and foremost among "personalities" there's Mrs. Patterson Hall, Dominion president, and a very important personage.

She is not tall, judging by the standards of newspaper people who tower above her, but she has a commanding presence just the same.

The opportunity hasn't been afforded, for obvious reasons, of seeing her preside, but it is easy to imagine her as businesslike and parliamentary in her methods, and at the same time tactful and considerate for the opinions of others. She has the saving sense of humor, undoubtedly, and a glance only at her is needed to feel assured the administration of big affairs is safe in her hands.

Capable as they are in a business way, as evidenced by the magnificent work they achieve and direct, the members of the Dominion executive evoke admiration, as well, for their social ease and charm of manner. Prominent among these is Mrs. F. C. Donaldson of Toronto, Dominion treasurer, in her smart suit and becoming hat. She can tell to a fraction how much exchange has cost the treasury of the W. A. after only a very brief period for consideration, and she is a striking illustration of the fact that a woman can be very womanly and at the same time very mathematical.

Mrs. Du Pencier, Dominion vice-president, wife of the Bishop of New Westminster, has brought from the far western province of British Columbia a wholesome breeziness and whole-souled enthusiasm that are refreshing. She has brought as well a fine grasp of the work and broad vision of its possibilities that must be invaluable to her executive.

Mrs. Stringer, wife of the famous bishop of the Yukon, has known many hardships in the far north land, but there isn't a woman on the whole executive who takes her place with greater distinction in the world of affairs.

Miss Halson of Toronto, Dominion Dorcas secretary, creates an atmosphere of confidence. Things will surely get done if she undertakes them, and she will inspire others to real practical service.

Miss Waud of Montreal, recording secretary, judging by appearance, has a fine grasp of details. Her work requires quickness and accuracy, and she manages to be enthusiastic over it, too.

Misses Old Friend.

Probably no member of the Dominion executive is more widely known outside her own church than Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, the editor of the Letter Leaflet. By the way, isn't she a D. C. L.? And doesn't that stand for Doctor of Common Laws?

In any case, Mrs. Cummings is particularly well known in London for her association with the National Council of Women. At the present time, in addition to her responsibilities in connection with the Dominion executive of the W. A. and editorial work, she is shouldering the task of substituting for the national council president, Mrs. W. E. Sandford, in making preparations for the annual meeting of the National Council of Women in June. Through it all she manages to look serene, and as if the world is a very good place in live in.

She sorely misses an old friend during this visit to London, however. She speaks with deep feeling of Mrs. Harriet A. Boomer, leader in national and local council work and in the W. A. as well, through long years.

"I cannot realize London without her," she says. "It seems that her presence is still here."

Mrs. D. H. Andress of Sudbury, Dominion secretary of the junior department, is all, in appearance, that a leader of young people should be. She's among the younger women of the executive, possessed of personal charm. And, of course, young people want that in a leader.

And these are only a few of the members of the Dominion executive, of whom the newspaper woman availed herself of the opportunity of taking mental "snapshots" when she couldn't possibly furnish the magic pass-word to get into the meetings.

Personals

Mrs. Ronald Bennett of Fairport, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. Robert Heard, 546 Adelaide street.

Mrs. T. P. McCormick has returned from Toronto after a delightful visit with her son, Bland McCormick.

Miss Elizabeth Auld, formerly of London, who is now living in Guelph, is spending a few days in town.

Mrs. Porterfield of Ridgetown is spending several days in London the guest of her daughter, Mrs. John Daly.

Miss Grace Blackburn is addressing the Women's Canadian Club Thursday in Chatham, and while there will be the guest of Mrs. Oliver.

Mrs. T. L. Irwin and daughter Betty have returned home after a short visit in Chatham, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Irwin.

Miss Edith Greer of Detroit, and Mrs. R. S. Grindley of Chicago, arrived in town Monday to attend the Kippen—Croden wedding this week.

Mrs. Rhoda Stoneman of Dundas, high chief companion, Ancient Order of Foresters, spent the week-end with Mrs. Cassin, 133 Duchess avenue.

While in Brantford last week attending the Little Symphony concert, Mrs. A. D. Jordan was the guest of Mrs. H. K. Jordan, also spending a few days with Mrs. W. S. Brewster.

Mrs. Randle Brown entertained this week in honor of Miss Gladys Croden, giving a bridge Monday evening at her home, Marley Place. Following cards the guests enjoyed dancing.

Mrs. D. R. Harrison of Port Arthur, Ontario, is visiting relatives in the city. Prior to her return to Port Arthur, she will visit Glencoe, Thamesville and many other points in Western Ontario.

Mrs. W. C. Falls was the hostess of a luncheon Tuesday at the Kennels, given in honor of Miss Gladys Croden, whose marriage takes place this week, also in honor of her matron of honor, Mrs. R. S. Grindley, and Miss Edith Greer of Detroit.

Mrs. C. R. Eberhard is receiving informally on Thursday afternoon, April 6, for the first time in her new home at 521 Dufferin avenue. Her mother, Mrs. Steele of Toronto, will receive with her.

Among the many delightful affairs in honor of Miss Gladys Croden was the Winter Garden party given by Mrs. Wilson Purdom on Tuesday evening. Following an enjoyable dance the hostess took her guests on to her home, where supper was served.

Miss Kathleen Smith, Huron street, was the hostess on Monday evening of the meeting of the Girls' Social Service Club. Plans were discussed for raising funds to carry on the work of the club, but nothing definite was decided. Following the business part of the meeting supper was served by the hostess.

A wedding of interest to many Londoners took place on March 11 at the First Presbyterian Church, Detroit, when Florence M. Atmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Atmore, was married to Robert E. Mouselle of Detroit, Rev. C. E. Mieras officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Mouselle will reside in the Colonial Apartments, Canfield street east, Detroit.

Mrs. Riley of Argyle street was the hostess of a kitchen shower last week given in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Nellie Digby, whose marriage to Mr. Sydney Hollsworth, both the London, England, takes place early this month.

About 30 guests were present and enjoyed a musical evening, after which a buffet supper was served. The bride-elect was the recipient of many useful gifts.

Another smart affair of Tuesday, in honor of Miss Gladys Croden, Mrs. R. S. Grindley and Miss Edith Greer, was the bridge given by Mrs. John Daly at her home in Princess avenue. Eight tables of bridge were in play, followed by tea, with Mrs. John Croden and Mrs. A. B. Greer doing the honors. The tea table was very attractive decorated with yellow roses and sweet peas, and centered with a miniature bridal party, surrounded by fluffy tulle shading from yellow to deep red.

An extra special treat for the members of the Woman's Music Club, in addition to the season's program, is the recital which will be given by artists of the St. Thomas Woman's Music Club on Thursday afternoon in the Normal School, supplemented by a couple of numbers by London musicians. The program will begin, it is stated, at 3:45 o'clock sharp, and the public will be welcome on this occasion. The St. Thomas visitors taking part are Mrs. Hindley, Mrs. Latornell, Mrs. Henry Roe and Miss Miriam Edmison. Miss Ulah Kennedy, soprano, will sing, and a concerto by Antonio Vivaldi for three violins and piano will be presented by Mrs. Charles Ivey, Miss Gurli Hausch and Mrs. Harry Carson, with Mrs. Harris Elliott at the piano.

Hospitable Bishopstowe extended a cordial welcome on Tuesday evening to the members of the Dominion executive of the Woman's Auxiliary to the M. S. C. C., when the Bishop of Huron and Mrs. Williams held a reception in their honor. Mrs. Williams greeted guests, wearing a smart black gown, Mrs. Patterson Hall of Montreal, president of the Dominion W. A., receiving with her. Privileged to meet the interesting visitors were the hostesses of the delegates, members of the Huron Diocesan W. A. executive, and the city clergy and their wives. Mrs. E. B. Smith and Mrs. H. W. Auden presided over the pretty supper table, centered with a great cluster of snapdragon. Misses Gwynneth and Doris Auden, Helen Boughner and Gwenno Williams assisted in serving.

WITH THE BRIDES

LEACH—SLATER.

The marriage of Ethel May, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Slater, 607 Maitland street, to George Bernard Leach of 856 William street, took place Monday afternoon at the home of the bride's brother, Alvin Slater, 156 High street, Rev. Judson Kelly officiating. The wedding march was played by Miss Lulu Leach, Fred Leach singing "I Love You Truly." The young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Chicago and other western points.

FEATHERSTONE—DUNCAN.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan at Dobbington on Wednesday, March 22, when their daughter Susan was married to Edward Featherstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Featherstone of Tara. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Wilson of Dobbington in the presence of the immediate relatives. The young couple took the afternoon train for London, Ont., Brooklyn, Mich., and other points. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Allenford.

MURCAR—BERESFORD.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Beresford, Southampton, on Wednesday evening, March 22, when their daughter Sarah became the bride of Mrs. John Murcar of Paisley. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Gravenor of the Baptist Church, Southampton. Mr. and Mrs. Murcar will reside in Paisley.

Open Headquarters For Hospital Sewing

Room 214, Royal Bank Building, for the immediate future, and for quite a long time possibly, will have a special interest and significance for people of the city and Western Ontario.

Tuesday afternoon it was thrown open for the first time as the official headquarters for sewing for the War Memorial Children's Hospital. Members of the Hugh Niven Chapter, I. O. D. E., which has accepted the responsibility for purchasing supplies and giving out and receiving finished work, were in charge during the afternoon from 2:30 o'clock to 5 o'clock. Busy and happy hours were spent, and a large amount of "cutting out" was accomplished by Mrs. H. J. Sutherland, acting regent, and Mrs. Frank Ashplant, the members of the cutting committee.

Among organizations applying for work to take away were the Wortley Road and Hale Street Mothers' Clubs and the Sir George Ross Chapter, I. O. D. E.

The headquarters will be open each Tuesday afternoon, and, it is stated, the committee in charge will be delighted to welcome all visitors who are interested in taking away material to make up supplies.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

ZIMMIE'S BACK AGAIN.

Dear Miss Grey,—Who's this? Oh, it's just Zimmie. He's back again. He just simply can't stay away from the Mail-Box. He's as fond of the box as he is of the candy stores. So our corner is becoming a place of gathering for musicians. Please send me Jes' Sal's address. As I pretend to be a musician, I would enjoy Jes' Sal's correspondence. I have got several correspondents from the box, and they prove to be very nice. Well, I guess I'm wanted elsewhere.

ZIMMIE.

The Mail-Box certainly holds attractions for you, Zimmie. Jes' Sal's address is on its way to you, and I hope she proves to be as interesting as your former correspondents.

MAKES UP HER MIND.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first letter to you, but I have been an interested reader of your wonderful Mail-Box for some time. And I made up my mind that this year I would help any Boxites when I could. I see where Somebody's Sweetheart has offered the words of some songs. I would like to have the words of "Tuck Me to Sleep" and "My Sunny Tennessee." Hoping I can be of some service to someone another time. Inclosed find mite for S. C. H. It is a wonderful work.

PINE LAWN.

What a splendid resolution to make, Pine Lawn. I am sure many of the Boxites will benefit by it. I have placed your envelope on file, and if the words are sent in I shall forward them to you.

SOMEBODY'S SWEETHEART, ATTENTION!

Dear Miss Grey,—As this is my first letter to your Box, I will not take up much room. If Somebody's Sweetheart would send me the songs she spoke of I would be very much pleased, and would also like to correspond with her. I am 16 years of age. I will close, wishing the Box much success.

DIXIE NO. 2.

You will have to be Dixie No. 2, as we already have a Dixie on our family list. If Somebody's Sweetheart sees your letter I am sure she will write to you.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have never written the Mail-Box before, although I enjoy it very much. I wonder if Violet No. 2 got the coat she wanted. If not I have one she can have, if she will pay postage. It is a large size, 42 or 44, I don't just remember. I wonder if anyone has any girls' shoes I could get, size 13 and 2, good enough to wear to school in the country. The children have two miles to walk and they take so many. I am inclosing a small mite for the children's hospital. Will sign,

EARLY MORN.

Maybe if Violet No. 2 has received a coat there may be some other needy boxite who would like yours. I have placed your name on file, and if any reader would like to give you shoes for your little girls they may have your address. Many thanks for the mite.

SAYS THANKS TO Q. E. E.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you please let me have Q. E. E.'s address, as I would very much like to write and thank her, as she sent me a lovely parcel, and I am so thankful to her. I have been to see Mother Pearl, and she has been a dear, good friend to my children. Will you please let me have Fly Blister's address?

APPLE FACE.

It is a long time since we heard from you last, Apple Face, but am pleased to see you still belong to the Mail-Box corner. The addresses you asked for are already on their way to you. Q. E. E. certainly has been good to all the needy Boxites.

SENDS THANKS.

Dear Miss Grey.—Just a line to thank you and Q. E. E. for the parcel, which I received O.K., and was very pleased with, and if the lady has any other pieces of clothing I would be glad to receive them. ROSE BUD NO. 2

Q. E. E. wrote quite a while ago saying that all the clothes had been sent out, but maybe some of the other Boxites have a few articles they could spare you, if so, they may have your address from the Mail-Box.

Remembers Thirty-Seven.

Dear Miss Grey,—In reading your Mail-Box, I see where Thirty-Seven is in need of help. Wishing she may receive speedy help through the readers of the Mail-Box, I am sending a small donation of a dollar. Hope it may help her, and that her husband and children may be restored to health soon. Please forward to Thirty-Seven and oblige, MRS. H. F. M.

Many thanks, Mrs. H. F. M., for your gift of a dollar, which has been forwarded to Thirty-Seven. Won't you write again soon?

No Other Like It

EVERY time you buy a hat you ask the same question—"Have you others like this?"

When you buy a Gainsborough the milliner can truthfully answer—"No—it is a Gainsborough—and no one in town can get another like it."

What a satisfaction to know that you have found a hat that will be yours alone—a hat that enthusiastic admirers simply will not be able to duplicate.

Especially so, considering the smartness, the dignity, the beautiful lines of Gainsborough models. They are made the more irresistibly alluring because of the exquisite handiwork and superb quality of materials employed in their making.

Look for the Gainsborough label—it is in the lining of every Gainsborough Model.

Gainsborough Millinery

His head was not aching; but there throbbed within his head, ceaselessly and enormously, a pulse that seemed to shake him at its every beat. It was going knock, knock, knock! He began to have the feeling that if this frightful knocking continued it would beat its way out. Something would give way. He was the father of Effie's child; he was the murderer of Effie and her child! He was neither; but the crimes were fastened upon him as ineradicable pigment upon his skin. He was a betrayer and a murderer, and every refutation that he could produce turned to a brand in his hands, and branded him yet more deeply. He writhed in torment. Forever, he would carry the memory of that fierce and sweating face pressing towards him across the table in that court. No! It was another face that stood like flame before his eyes. Twyning! Twyning, Twyning! The prompter, the goader of that passionate man's passion, the instigator and instrument of this his utter, and appalling destruction. Twyning, Twyning, Twyning! He ground his teeth upon the name. He twisted in his chair upon the thought. Twyning, Twyning, Twyning.' Knock, knock, knock! Ah, that knocking, knocking. Something was going to give way in a minute. It must be abated. A feverish desire to smoke came upon him. He felt in his pockets for his cigaret case. He had not got it. He remembered that he had started for Brighton without it, discovered there that he had left it behind. He started to hunt for it. He remembered a previous occasion of searching for it like this. When? Ah, when Effie had told him she had found it lying about and had put it—of all a bsurd places for a cigaret case—in the back of the clock. Effie! He went quickly to the clock and opened it. Good! It was there. He snatched it up. Something else there. A folded paper. His name penciled on it: Mr. Sabre.

She had left a message for him! That cigarette case business had been deliberately done!

He began to read. Tears stood in his eyes. Pitiful, oh, pitiful. He turned the page—knock, knock, knock! The knocking suddenly ceased. He threw up his hand. He gave a very loud cry. A single note. A note of extraordinary exultation: "Ha!"

He crushed the paper between his hands. He cried aloud: "Into my hands! Into my hands thou hast delivered him!"

He opened the paper and read again, his hand shaking, and now a most terrible trembling upon him. Dear Mr. Sabre.

I wanted you to go to Brighton so I could be alone to do what I am just going to do. You see they won't let me keep my little baby and now I have made things too terrible for you. So I see the only thing to do is to take myself out of it all and take my little baby with me. Soon I shall explain things to God and then I think it will be quite all right. My heart is filled with gratitude to you. I cannot express it; but I shall tell God when I explain everything to Him; and my one hope is that after I have been punished I shall be allowed to meet you again, and thank you—there, where everything will be understood.

He turned over:

I feel I ought to tell you now, before I leave this world, what I never was able to tell you or anyone. The father of my little baby was Harold Twyning who used to be in your office. We had been secretly engaged a very, very long time and then he was in an officers' training camp at Bournemouth where I was, and I don't think I quite understood. We were going to be married and then he had to go suddenly, and then he was afraid to tell his father and then this happened and he was more afraid. So that was how it all was. I do want you, please, to tell Harold that I quite forgive him, only I can't quite write to him. And dear Mr. Sabre, I do trust you to be with Harold what you have always been with me and with everybody—gentle, and understanding things. Goodby and may God bless and reward you for ever and ever. EFFIE.

II

He shouted again, "Ha!" He cried again. "Into my hands! Into my hands!"

He abandoned himself to a rather horrible ecstasy of hate and passion. His face became rather horrible to see. His face became purple and black and knotted, and the veins on his forehead black. He cried aloud, "Harold! Harold! Twyning! Twynings!" He rather horribly mimicked Twyning. "Harold's such a good boy! Harold's such a good Christian model boy! Harold's never said a bad word or had a bad thought. Harold's such a good boy." He cried out: "Harold's such a blackguard! Harold's such a blackguard! A blackguard, and the son of a vile, infamous, lying, perjured blackguard."

His passion and his hate surmounted his voice. He choked. He picked up his stick and went with frantic hops to the door. He cried aloud, gritting his teeth upon it, "I'll cram the letter down his throat. I'll cram the letter down his throat. I'll take him by the neck, I'll bash him across the face. And I'll cram the letter down his throat."

The cab driver was resting on his box with purposeful and luxurious rest. Sabre waved his stick at him, and shouted to him, "Fortune's office in Tidborough. Hard as you can." He wrenched open the door and got in. In a moment the startled horse scarcely put into motion by its startled driver, he put his head and arm from the window and was out on the step. "Stop! Stop! Let me out, I've something to get."

He ran again into the house and bundled himself up the stairs and into his room. At his bureau he took a drawer and wrenched it open so that it came out in his hand, swung on the sockets of its handle, and scattered its contents upon the floor. One article fell heavily. His service revolver. He grabbed it up and dropped on his hands and knees, padding eagerly about after scattered cartridges. As he searched his voice went harshly, "He's hounded me to hell. At the very gates of hell I've got him, got him, and I'll have him by the throat and hurl him in!" He broke open the breech and jammed the cartridges in, counting them. "One, two, three, four, five, six!" He snapped up the breech and jammed the revolver in his jacket pocket. He went scrambling again down the stairs, and as he scrambled down he cried, "I'll cram the letter down his throat. When he's sprawling, when he's looking, perhaps I'll out with my gun and drill him, drill him for the dog, the dog that he is."

He was arrived! He was here! "Into my hands! Into my hands!" He passed into the office and swiftly as he could go up the stairs. He encountered no one. He came to Twyning's door and put his hand upon the latch. Immediately, and enormously, so that for a moment he was forced to pause, the pulse broke out anew in his head. Knock, knock, knock. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing! Never mind. In! In! At him!

"HARD AS YOU CAN," WERE SABRE'S ORDERS.

He went in.

III

On the left, at the far end of the room. Twyning sat at his desk. He was crouched at his desk. His head was buried in his hands. At his elbows, vivid upon the black expanse of the table, lay a torn envelope, dull red.

Sabre shut the door and leant his stick against the wall by the fire. He took the letter from his pocket and walked across and stood over Twyning. Twyning had not heard him. He stood over him and looked down upon him. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing. There was Twyning's neck, that brown strip between his collar and his head, that in a minute he would catch him by . . . No, seated thus he would catch his hair and wrench him back and cram his meal upon him. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing!

He said heavily. "Twyning, Twyning. I've come to speak to you about your son."

Twyning slightly twisted his face in his hands so as to glance up at Sabre. His face was red. He said in an odd, thick voice, "Oh, Sabre, Sabre, have you heard?"

Sabre said, Heard?"

"He's killed. My Harold. My boy. My boy, Harold, Oh, Sabre, Sabre, my boy, my boy, my Harold!"

He began to sob; his shoulders heaving.

Sabre gave a sound that was just a whimper. Oh, irony of fate! Oh, cynicism incredible in its malignancy! Oh, cumulative touch! To deliver him this his enemy to strike, and to present him for the knife, thus already stricken.

No sound in all the range of sounds whereby man can express emotion was possible to express this emotion that now surcharged him. This was no pain of man's devising. This was a special and a private agony of the gods reserved for victims approved for very nice and exquisite experiment. He felt himself squeezed right down beneath a pressure squeezing to his vitals; and there was squeezed out of him just a whimper.

Twyning was brokenly saying, "It's good of you to come, Sabre. I feel it. After that business. I'm sorry about it, Sabre. I feel your goodness coming to me like this. But you know, you always knew, what my boy was to me. My Harold. My Harold. Such a good boy, Sabre. Such a good, Christian boy. And now he's gone, he's gone. Never to see him again. My boy. My son. My son!"

Oh, dreadful!

And he went on, distraught and pitiable. "My boy, My Harold. Such a good boy, Sabre. Such a perfect boy. My Harold!"

The letter was crumpled in Sabre's right hand. He was constricting it in his hand and knocking his clenched knuckles on the marble.

"My boy. My dear, good boy. Oh, Sabre, Sabre."

He dropped his right arm and swung it by his side, to and fro, over the fender—over the fire; over the hearth—over the flames.

"My Harold. Never to see his face again! My Harold!"

He stopped his swinging arm, holding his hand above the flames. "He that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him; for God is love." He opened his fingers, and the crumpled letter fell and was consumed. He pushed himself up from the mantelpiece and turned and went over to Twyning and stood over him again. He patted Twyning's heaving shoulders. "There, there, Twyning. Bad luck. Bad luck. Hard. Hard. Bear up, Twyning. Soldier's death . . . . Finest death . . . Died for his country . . . Fine boy . . . Soldier's death . . . Bad luck. Bad luck, Twyning . . ."

Twyning, inarticulate, pushed up his hand and felt for Sabre's hand and clutched it and squeezed it convulsively.

Sabre said again. "There, there, Twyning. Hard, Hard, Fine death . . . Brave boy . . ." He disengaged his hand and turned and walked very slowly from the room.

He went along the passage, past Mr. Fortune's door towards that which had been his own, still walking very slowly and with his hand against the wall to steady himself. He felt deathly ill . . .

He went into his own room, unentered by him for many months, now his own room no more, and dropped heavily into the familiar chair at the familiar desk. He put his arms out along the desk and laid his head upon them. Oh, cumulative touch! He began to be shaken with onsets of emotion, as with sobs. Oh, cumulative touch!

The communicating door opened and Mr. Fortune appeared. He stared at Sabre in astounded indignation, "Sabre! You here! I must say—I must admit—"

Sabre clutched up his dry and terrible sobbing. He turned swiftly to Mr. Fortune and put his hands on the arm of the chair to rise.

A curious look came upon his face. He said, "I say, I'm sorry. I'm sorry. I—I can't get up."

Mr. Fortune boomed, "Can't get up!"

"I say—No. I say, I think something's happened to me. I can't get up."

The door opened. Hapgood came in, and Nona.

Sabre said, "I say, Hapgood—Nona—Nona! I say, Nona, I think something's happened to me. I can't get up."

A change came over his face. He collapsed back in the chair.

"Marko! Marko!"

She who thus cried ran forward and threw herself on her knees beside him, her hands stretched up to him.

Hapgood turned furiously on Mr. Fortune. "Go for a doctor! Go like hell! Sabre! Sabre, old man!"

"Hemorrhage on the brain," said the doctor. ". . . Well, if there's no more effusion of blood. You quite understand me. I say if there isn't . . . Has he been through any kind of strain?"

"Trouble," said Hapgood. "Strain. He's been in hell—right in."

When he was removed and they had left him, Nona said to Hapgood, as they came down the steps of the County Hospital, "There was a thing he was so fond of, Mr. Hapgood:

". . . O Wind,
If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?

"It comes to me now. There must be a turning now. If he dies . . . still, a turning."

CHAPTER VIII

I

HAPGOOD across the coffee cups, the liqueur glass es and the cigarettes, wagged a solemn head at that friend of his, newly returned from a long visit to America. He wagged a solemn head:

"She's got her divorce, that wife of his . . .

"I've told you in my letters how he went on after that collapse, that brain hemorrhage. I told you we got Ormond Clive on to him. Clive was a friend of that Lady Tybar. She was with Sabre all the time. Pretty well every day I'd look in. Every day Ormond Clive would come. Time and again we'd stand around the bed, we three—watching. Impenetrable and extraordinary business! There was his body, alive, breathing. His mind, his consciousness, his ego, his self, his whatever you like to call it—not there. Away. Absent. Not in that place.

"Yesterday Ormond Clive said Sabre might be cautiously approached about things. For three weeks past Clive's not let us—me or that Lady Tybar—see him. Yesterday we were permitted again; and I took steps to be there first. 'You know, you're wife's divorced you, old man?' He said painfully. 'Yes, I know. I remember that.'

"Of course it will come back to him in time that the business hadn't happened before his illness. In time he'll begin to grope after detailed recollection, and he'll begin to realize that he never did go through it and that it must have happened while he was ill. There'll be another thing, too. He'll find his wife has married again. Yes, fact! I heard in a roundabout way that she's going to marry an old neighbor of theirs, chap called Major Millet, Hopscotch Millet, old Sabre used to call him. However, that's not the thing—that will have happened and will make him thank God. What do I mean? Well, that's telling: and I don't feel it's quite mine to tell. Tell you what, you come around and have a look at the old chap tomorrow. I dare bet he'll be on the road towards it by then and perhaps tell us himself."

II

Sabre was sitting propped up in bed awaiting who next might come. The nurse had told him he was to have visitors that morning.

The door opened and one came in. Nona.

She said to him, "Marko!"

He had no reply that he could make.

She slipped off a fur that she was wearing and came and sat down beside him. She wore what he would have thought of as a kind of waistcoat thing, cut like his own waistcoat but short; and opened above like a waistcoat but turned back in a white rolled edging, revealing all her throat. She had a little close-fitting hat banded with flowers and a loose veil depended from it. She put back the veil. Beauty abode in her face as the scent within the rose. Hapgood had said, and, as perfume deeply inhaled, her serene and tender beauty penetrated Sabre's senses, propped up, watching her. He had something to say to her.

"How long is it since I have seen you, Nona?"

"It's a month since I was here, Marko."

"I don't remember it."

"You've been very ill; oh, so ill."

He said slowly, "Yes, I think I've been down in a pretty deep place."

"You're going to be splendid now, Marko."

He did not respond to her tone. He said, "I've come on a lot in the last few weeks. I'd an idea you'd been about me before that. I'd an idea you'd be coming again. There's a thing I've been thinking out to tell you."

She breathed, "Yes, tell me, Marko."

But he did not answer.

She said, "Have you been thinking, in these weeks, while you've been coming on, what you are going to do?"

His hands, that had been crumpling up the sheet, were now laid flat before him. His eyes, that had been regarding her, were now averted

"IT GRIEVES ME, MARKO,55 SHE SAID. "BUT I UNDERSTAND."

from her, fixed ahead. "There is nothing I can do, in the way you mean."

She was silent a little time.

"Marko, we've not talked at all about the greatest thing—of course they've told you?—the Armistice, the war won. England, your England that you loved so, at peace, victorious; those dark years done. England her own again. Your dear England, Marko."

He said, "It's no more to do with me. Frightful things have happened to me. Frightful things."

She went on. "There's your book—your 'England.' You have that to go to now. And all your plans—do you remember telling me all your plans? Such splendid plans. And first of all your 'England' that you loved writing so."

He said, "It can't be. It can't be."

She began again to speak. He said, "I don't want to hear those things. They have nothing to do with me."

He then aroused himself and spoke and had a firmness in his voice. "And I'll tell you this," he said. "This was what I said I had to tell you. When you go, you are not to return. I don't want to see you again."

She drew a breath, steadying herself, "Why not, Marko?"

"Because what's been has been. Done. I've been through frightful things. They're on me still. They always will be on me. But from everything that belongs to them, I want to get right away. And I'm going to."

"What are you going to do?"

"I don't know. Only get right away."

She got up. "Very well. I understand." She turned away. "It grieves me, Marko. But I understand. I've always understood you." She turned again and came close to him. "That's what you're going to do. Do you know what I'm going to do?"

He shook his head. He was breathing deeply.

"I'm going to do what I ought to have done the minute I came into the room. I hadn't quite the courage. This."

She suddenly stooped over him. She encircled him with her arms and slightly raised him to her. She put her lips to his and kissed him and and held him so.

"You are never going to leave me, Marko. Never, never, never, till death."

He cried, "Beloved. Beloved," and clung to her. "Beloved. Beloved!" and clung to her . . .

THE END.

BURBANK'S BETTER GARDEN TIPS

MORE FLOWER HINTS

Article No. 11.

LUTHER BURBANK'S HOTHOUSE, WHERE HUNDREDS OF NEW PLANT CREATIONS HAVE BEEN DISCOVERED.

BY LUTHER BURBANK,
World's Greatest Scientific Agriculturist.

AMONG other flowers needing some special attention is the petunia, though a lovely bed will reward good care.

BURBANK

In preparing your seedbed mix leafmold and sand with your soil, unless the earth already is sandy. Fill the seedpans with this mixture and give it a good watering. After the water has seeped in well sprinkle the seed evenly over the surface. The seeds need not be covered with soil. To insure protection a pane of glass may be placed over the beds, and they should be protected from the sun for a time. When the seeds sprout, which should be within two weeks if kept in a temperature of about 60 degrees, take off the glass and transplant, spacing about an inch apart.

A general list of flowers for a larger garden might also include cannas, foxglove, cosmos, Canterbury bells, verbenas and Shasta daisies—but in most of these flowers the use of seedbeds is likely to give best results.

Of course, whether the beginner wishes to attempt flowers that need special attention is a question he alone can determine. As has been said previously, he cannot go wrong on hardy annuals and with the use of seedbeds, with leafmold and sometimes sand mixed in the soil, and with some care given to protection against the sun and against pests, he is likely to get results from the less hardy flowers.

(In his last article tomorrow Burbank gives directions for crossing.)

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

OYSTER DISHES

S long as names of the months are spelled with an "r" oysters are in season. Use them as often as possible, for their food value is great and they are very easily digested.

Oysters should never be overcooked. Heat them thoroughly and let the edges curl. Long cooking makes oysters tough and indigestible.

These recipes are a bit different and are nice to serve at luncheon or to men at a little supper party after cards.

Oysters in Ramikins.

One quart oysters, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 canned pimento, ½ teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons flour, milk, 2 tablespoons grated cheese.

Clean oysters. Put in saucepan, cover with boiling water and simmer 10 minutes or until the oysters are plump and the edges curl. Drain and save liquor. Add enough milk to make two cups of liquid. Melt butter, add pimento minced and onion.

Simmer for five minutes. Add flour, salt and paprika. Stir and cook until smooth and well blended. Slowly add liquid and bring to the boiling point. Add lemon juice slowly, beating well. This makes a thick sauce. Put oysters in well buttered ramikins, pour over sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese and put under the flame for just a minute to melt the cheese.

If large oyster or scallop shells are at hand they should be used in place of ramikins. This dish may be used as the first course of a luncheon or dinner.

Oysters en Brochette.

One quart large oysters (about two dozen), thinly cut bacon, lengths of toast, lemon slices.

Clean and drain oysters. Cut bacon the same size as the oysters and have the same number of pieces. Alternate an oyster and a piece of bacon on a skewer. Baste each oyster with a little melted butter to start, then the bacon furnishes the oil.

Put the skewers over or across a narrow baking pan and cook in a very hot oven or under the flame. It will take about 15 minutes to cook the oysters and bacon. Put each skewer on a narrow strip of toast and garnish with slices of lemon and serve at once.

Any drippings in the pan should be poured over the oysters after they are put on the toast. Allow four oysters for each serving.

Oysters With Rice.

One-half cup rice, 1 quart boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 pint oysters, 1 cup white sauce, salt, paprika, mustard, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons grated cheese.

Wash rice through several waters. Drain and add slowly to rapidly boiling water. Add salt to water just before adding rice. Let boil 20 minutes. Drain and pour cold water through.

Then pour boiling water through rice. Melt butter in a pan with a cover, add rice and shake over fire. Cover and let stand in a warm oven until needed. Clean and drain oysters.

Put a layer of rice in a well-buttered baking dish, add half the oysters, sprinkle with salt, paprika and a tiny bit of mustard, and lemon juice. Pour over half the white sauce. Cover with a layer of rice, add another layer of oysters and white sauce.

Cover with rice, sprinkle with grated cheese and bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

Capes Are Now Winning Great Favor

EVEN the coats of some suits, and little separate sports coats have lately formed a habit of masquerading as capes by taking unto themselves cape sleeves or cape backs. Many wearers like these cape-coats better because they button snugly over the chest and afford more warmth on blustery spring days when winter chill is yet in the air.

Instead of regular collars, the scarf finish for the neck is increasingly used. This may dangle down the wearer's back and still be quite smart, or, if she prefers, the two ends, or only one, may be wrapped about her throat.

Many smart capes are made of rough sport fabrics with self frings for finish. Others are made of double-faced cloth which requires no lining. But when linings are used, as with many of the lighter woolen materials, you may be sure that they are very gay.

Navy blue, always a favorite for the tailored garment, achieves a most piquant effect when combined with the brilliant red which London is calling "lip-stick red." This navy and bright red combination was seen in dozens of models for daytime at the Jenny opening in Paris, with the red used generously.

Crepe linings are being used extensively and are much liked, not only as being newer than satin and shining silks, but because of their softness.

At a smart showing of London-made sport togs an interesting black and white shepherd's plaid in large bold checks was noted. Lined with brilliant red or vivid green, this plaid was very youthful and gay.

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER LXIV.—The Quest Goes On.

By Zoe Beckley

ONE could not have told which came first—the sound of the pistol shot or the cat-like leap of Paul upon the footpad's back. The man let out a snarl of rage, as both of them went down together to the pavement. Paul felt as though he were fighting a threshing machine. Flail-like the fellow's arms and legs flew round, without skill, but with the force of oaken bars.

Meantime Barray, playing for a chance to land a blow on the footpad without striking Paul, felt Violet lurch heavily against him. He turned just in time to catch her as she was falling. In his arms she fainted dead away. . . . And on his hands was—blood.

Managing somehow to hold her, he tore off his coat and propped her against it on a step. At the motion she revived a little, opened her eyes—

"Violet! Oh, ma chere—" burst from Barray.

"Hush—it's nothing, only a tiny hurt. Help him!"

A swift glance at the two men in their desperate clasp showed Barray that the robber still had hold of the gun and that only Paul's fast slipping grasp of his wrist kept him from firing. Barray made a swoop, grabbed the fellow's arm and twisted it behind his back until with a groan of pain he dropped the weapon.

Barray's shouts and whistles at last attracted attention, and from somewhere came the sound of running feet—a few frightened citizens and a pair of gendarmes.

The rat-eyed man seemed well known to them. "Jack, the Foreigner," he was called, and voluble were the expressions of satisfaction at getting him.

A cab was found and Violet taken by Barray and Paul to a doctor a few streets off.

The bullet had evidently passed between her arm and body, hardly more than grazing the latter.

Relief at learning she was only slightly hurt released Paul's thoughts with sharp agony to his own problem.

"Violet," he spoke gently, but it was plain he was half mad with anxiety, "I've not time now to talk as I would want to you. But I must demand a disavowal of—of what you said about my wife. I didn't believe you. But when I find Polly I want to tell her you didn't believe it either."

"No—I didn't believe it, not really! I was—hysterical. Distraught with—But I can't tell you now. Some time I will. I only hope I've done no harm."

Paul flung up his head in a gesture of bitterness and despair.

Violet and Barray, left alone, fell silent.

The cab still waited outside. Its thrumming suddenly broke the tension between them.

"Take me home, George."

"You feel able, cherie?"

"Perfectly, I want to go."

When she was settled in the taxi—gamely erect in her corner—Barray regarded her with a queer, analytical smile.

"He was right, the little doctor—you are brave beyond words. But it was mad of you, Vi, to risk your life just to save us from being robbed of a few dollars, a jewel or two."

She looked at him with a puzzled expression. And again her laugh—a hard laugh, that turned the indrawn breath into a sigh. She leaned her head back, closing her eyes as if with as much weariness of spirit as of body.

"Violet—" Barray's tone was gentler, "You did it for some—other reason?"

She opened her eyes and looked at him dully.

"Perhaps. . . . You wouldn't understand. It is impossible to make men understand things. I have always known it. Yet I always keep hoping, woman-like, that they will. How— How silly women are." She caught her lip between her teeth and closed her eyes again.

"Men," said Barray slowly, "are more so. They go on living their lonely, empty lives, and call it being independent. They become selfish and set in their ways, calling it comfort, not knowing that real comfort is sharing things with others, having a companion to laugh with, or weep with—even though the companionship is imperfect, for there is no such thing as the perfect companion at all times.

"In many moods, through many problems and fights, one has to be—alone. Many men confuse being footloose with being solitary. One can be footloose without being solitary, is it not so, Vi?"

"I think so," she answered quietly.

They were drawing near to Violet's little flat.

"Maybe it's because this little nest of yours lures a chap like the call from the Lorelei rock," said Barray. "Or because the sun flashed into my brain. Or because I understand you better, Vi, than I ever did before. But if you'll put up with me— Oh, come, Vi, I'm no poet, but I want you to marry me. Say you will!"

Violet's smile was wan, but her eyes met his with game good humor:

"If the 'light' lasts till tonight, George, and you don't have a relapse into darkness—come back. I'll give you my answer then."

Early morning baker boys stared in wonderment at the handsome gentleman strolling the streets at that hour, swinging his stick and smiling into the sunshine. . .

EDITED BY CABR

SHE BLOWS! AND SPARM AT THAT! By William John Hopkins. Illustrated from paintings by Clifford W. Ashley. Bostons Houghton Milflin Company. $2.50.

A NOTEWORTHY story of the sea is this novel, and one so circumstantial in its realism, so ingenuous in its style and so apparently artless in its cleverly concealed artistry that if one did not know better it might readily be mistaken for what it purports to be, the reminiscent tale by an elderly man of his first whaling cruise.

It is told in the first person by Timmie Taycox, son of Big Timmie Taycox, carpenter. When he was fifteen, in the early 1870s, young Timmie had it suddenly born in his mind, as he watched the Clearchus preparing, for her next whaling cruise, that the one thing of all possible things that he wanted to do was to go on a whaling ship to the South Seas.

And so Big Timmie Taycox, who knew all the sea captains, fixed it up with Captain Nelson, of the Clearchus, and within twenty-four hours young Timmie was headed southward as cabin-boy on a whaling trip that lasted three years and carried him round about the whaling grounds off Cape Hatteras down to the South Atlantic, off the coasts of Argentina and Patagonia, across the South Pacific to Zanzibar and New Zealand, and other far places as the ship nosed her way to various whale resorts known to astute sea captains.

Young Timmie had a very interesting and a very happy time. He suffered practically none of the appalling hardships told of in so many accounts of seafaring life.

The ship's officers and men were kindly hearted folk, even if discipline was stiff and unyielding, and they had a paternal eye out for the welfare of the cabin-boy.

One of them gave him lessons in navigation; he learned all about the work of chasing, killing, capturing and cutting-up whales and trying out their oil; he was inducted into all the sea-lore about the creatures of the sea and the circling sea birds and the ways of storms and of currents that circulated about the ship; he had instruction and practice in the art of making curious trinkets out of whales' teeth.

There was plenty of adventure and excitement, too, and not only when the call of "B-l-o-w-s!" came down from the lookout and every man rushed to his boat and every nerve tingled and every faculty was tense until the chase was over.

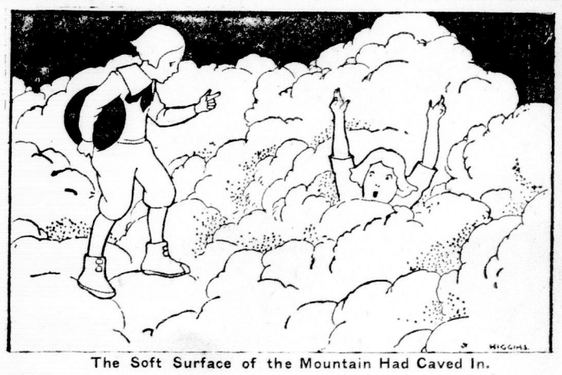
There were some thrilling experiences ashore in Zanzibar with an expert knife thrower, and as a result, there was, some months later, an incipient mutiny, which the captain had to quell by shooting one of his seamen.

It is a good sea story, sometimes a bit leisurely and garrulous, it is true, but gaining thereby in atmosphere and the seeming of reality, and while both younger and older readers will find in it much enjoyment and much accurate information about the one-time great business of whale fishing and the ways of sailing craft and of sea creatures, it is a particularly good story for lads in their teens.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

EIDERDOWN MOUNTAIN

[By Olive Roberts Barton]



The Soft Surface of the Mountain Had Caved In.

NANCY and Nick bade the Squeedillums goodby and started up the Eiderdown Mountain. It was the middle one of the Seven Mountains.

"My!" said Nancy, looking all around. "It's all blue plush and as soft as a pillow. This will be an easy mountain, Nick."

But no sooner had she spoken than she disappeared. The soft blue surface of the mountain had caved in, like a snow drift does when you step on it, and closed over the top of Nancy's head.

Nick stood stalk-still, not daring to move or breathe scarcely, for fear of going under, too! "Oh!" he whispered. "Oh, oh, goodness!" He clutched the record tightly as though it might save him.

Suddenly the magic paper jumped out of his pocket and spread itself out flat against the record.

Then the red feather pen jumped out of his other pocket and began to write on the paper.

"Turn around and run down the mountain the way you came," wrote the pen. "Nancy will come up on top again in a minute, and you must call to her to follow you. Then wish yourselves up to the Weather Man's Star. Tell Mr. Sprinkle Blow, the Weather Man, to send a hard rain. When the Eiderdown Mountain gets wet it will go flat, for it is stuffed with feathers. Wish yourselves back to the same spot and try it again."

When the magic pen had ceased writing it jumped back into Nick's pocket and the magic paper followed.

Nick obeyed instructions and ran down to the foot of the soft blue-plush mountain, which kept caving in at every step.

Relieved of Nick's weight, the mountain sprang into place again, and Nancy appeared. "My, I'm nearly dead," she coughed, "I thought I was gone for sure."

"Come on down," called Nick. "We can't cross the mountain till it gets wet. We have to see Mr. Sprinkle Blow."

BASEBALL and LATE SPORTING NEWS

TEC ROOKIES SHOW PLENTY OF PEP

Rain Failed To Materialize, But Workout Did on Town Diamond.

MEET COLLEGE TWICE

Two Clashes Planned For Wednesday and Thursday Nights With Wesleyan.

BY G. H. TOWNSLEY.

DELAWARE, O., April 4.—It did not rain. The trunks of equipment arrived and the aspiring young ball players were all in a peppery mood, and Manager Buzz Wetzel felt good himself, all because everything started off in fine shape here today.

The college diamond was a little wet yet from showers last night, so the club went to the town field at Lincoln Park, where they had a good workout in all the rudimentary features of the pastime.

As the crowd flocked across town today they showed eagerness to pass the old pill and swing a timber.

They went along throwing a club and joking with one another, as if they had been playing together for years.

The spirit of the rookie aggregation is fine, and it bids fair to form a good element in the molding of the new Tecumseh club.

Manager Wetzel limbered himself up and led the pack in doing some light calisthentic work, as a sort of a bracer. This was followed by passing the horsehide, and then they got some batting practice. The various candidates for the hurling staff worked out with the catchers.

The Ohio Wesleyan squad was out in full force, and after each club passed off the early numbers of the program outlined by the coaches the two clubs mixed 'em up and did a few joint exercises.

They did not attempt any real game, because Wesleyan has a big game Saturday.

As the opening fracas of the season, the coaches of the college squad and Wetzel plan to match the clubs on Wednesday evening in a short round and again on Thursday evening in a seven-frame setto as the last preparation of the college team for their game.

Wetzel will begin Wednesday arranging the most formidable combination to be used Sunday against the Toledo Mud Hens, when they come to Delaware for a battle royal.

GIVE KIDS 350 LACROSSE STICKS

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, April 4.—The Chatham Lacrosse Club is supplying lacrosse sticks to the boys in the city schools at a nominal cost price. As far as could be learned today nearly 350 sticks will be supplied to the boys.

At a meeting on Saturday last members of the club went on record, stating that lacrosse will be boosted in the city and county this year above all other games, and every effort will be tried to bring back Canada's national game in this part of the province.

Tentative plans for the lacrosse season and a schedule of games for the boys in the public and separate schools were discussed at an important meeting of the schools sports committee last evening. A committee was appointed to draw up the schedule for the lacrosse games and submit them for approval at the next meeting of the general committee. Rev. Father Maurice Sullivan is the chairman of the schedule committee, and is assisted by Messrs. Hadyn, Fuller and Dr. C. C. Bell.

MURRAY SHOE 9 IS ORGANIZED

The Murray Shoes are organized for the baseball season, whether the team gets a berth in the Manufacturers' League this season of not.

Bob Donahue has been appointed manager, and the trilby-fitters promise to trot out a strong team.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, A. M. Jarvis; vice-president, W. Conley; secretary-treasurer, F. R. Emery; manager, R. Donahue. The executive committee comprises the following: Messrs. A. Henderson, H. Willson, B. Green and J. Self.

CHICAGO, April 4.—While the Chicago Nationals continued their ride back to the Middle West from California, the scene of their spring training activities the Americans were in Knoxville, Tenn., ready to resume hostilities with the New York Giants.

The White Sox played a listless exhibition game yetserday with Chattanooga and won, 8 to 3.

* * *

BOSTON, April 4.—The Braves turned on their foes at Charleston, S.C., yesterday and defeated the Washington Americans, 3 to 2. The Senators had won five of the previous seven games. Oeschger and Watson held Washington to four hits while their teammates were hitting Phillips and Zachary hard. Four hits and two runs were made against the former and four hits and one run against the latter.

Playing faultlessly in the field, and doing some timely hitting against Smallwood and McGraw, the Red Sox won an easy victory over the Minneapolis American Association team at Dyersburg, Tenn. Myers, who pitched six innings, was a puzzle to the Millers, who went scoreless until the eighth when Russell was hit hard.

* * *

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—The one soggy sector in the New York Yankees' battle front is the outfield, and this is rated as weak only because Babe Ruth of Bobbie Meusel are under suspension for violations of the anti-barnstorming rule last fall. They will not be eligible to play until the 20th of May.

This means that Huggins will have to start the season with a makeshift outfield which may or may not be up to major league standard. Certainly it will not possess the offensive punch which the great Bambino and the languid Californian gave to the picket line trio of last year.

Elmer Miller, acquired in trade from the St. Paul club of the American Association last summer, will again play center field, with Wilson (Chick) Fewster in left and Camp Skinner, from the Dallas club of the Texas League, or Hinkey Haines, former Penn State football star, in right.

This arrangement is neither notably weak nor is it very strong. It seems to be the best that the outfield material at Manager Miller Huggins's disposal permits.

Miller is a splendid fielder, but an uncertain hitter, and Fewster and Skinner are good hitters but erratic fielders. Haines is a wonderful defensive man, quite as effective in this respect as Elmer Miller himself. However, it is a question whether he will ever be able to hit up to major league requirements.

Haines is naturally a right-handed batter, but seems to be muscle-bound in his right shoulder, and cannot get a good, free swing from his normal stance.

Manager Miller Huggins has him batting left-handed this spring, and the results to date have been most encouraging. But whether he will continue to hit when the pitchers get good is another thing again.

* * *

One big reason why Connie Mack hopes to make considerable trouble this year lies in his pitching staff.

In addition to his regulars—Harris, Hasty Rommel, Naylor and Moore—he believes three of the youngsters taken south will prove valuable second string men.

Heimach, a left-hander, tried out last spring and then sent to Moline, Ill., is certain to stick.

He helped Earl Mack win a pennant in the Three-I League, where he won 24 and lost 8 games. He also is a good hitter, and Connie expects some help from him.

Bryan Yarrison, with Rocky Mount last year, is a pitcher of the Carl Mays type. He uses an underhand delivery that is very effective. Yarrison is a graduate of Gettysburg College.

* * *

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 4.—The Braves are banking a great deal on the return of Pitcher Frank Miller to baseball.

Miller was purchased two years ago from Pittsburg.

Due to business and family pressure he retired from the diamond at the close of the 1919 season.

Despite his absence from the game, Miller has kept himself fit physically.

He comes back with a new viewpoint, refreshed interest and a desire to prove that he is as good as ever.

During his last year with the Pirates Miller was ranked among the first twelve pitchers of the National League in point of effectiveness.

* * *

Glenn Killinger, highly touted college recruit, has failed to make the big league grade. He has been sent to Jersey City, in the International League.

Killinger at the present time is far removed from major league class in the opinion of Manager Huggins.

The Penn State star, however, must be carried by the New York club for one year. When he signed with the Yankees a number of major league clubs were dickering for his services.

Hugo Bezdek, who handled his affairs with the major league clubs, naturally arranged a contract that protected the youngster.

Killinger received a fancy sum for signing. In addition, his contract is of such a nature that he is certain of one year's retention by the New York club.

The gratest weakness of Killinger is at the bat. It doesn't seem as if he would ever be able to hit major league pitching.

Killinger came to the Yankees highly touted. Coach Bezdek said he was ready for the majors. It seems as if Bezdek was either spoofing somebody or was carried away by his great interest in the youngster.

On the other hand, Hinky Haines, who was also a star at Penn State, but who came to the Yankees unheralded, has an excellent chance to make good.

* * *

"Doc" Johnston, who was almost waived out of the American League, will start the season as the regular first baseman of the Philadelphia Americans.

Joe Hauser, the much-touted first sacker from Milwaukee, will be forced to bide his time.

Mack secured Hauser in a deal that took several players to Milwaukee plus some money. Because of a grievance he believed he had against Milwaukee over his sale he was the last man to report at Eagle Pass, the training camp of the Athletics.

It was a bad move on Hauser's part. Johnston, anxious to stick in the big show, reported in fine shape, worked hard, and is certain to start the season.

Since Johnston always goes big guns for the first half of the season, it may be around July before Hauser gets a real chance to show his worth.

Jimmy Dykes will play second, Chick Galloway third, and either Calloway or Barrett short.

Mack is confident this infield will be a big improvement over last year.

That is one reason why he expects is win more games, a stronger defence.

* *

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 4.—Manager Fred Mitchell of the Braves has done practically everything during his baseball career.

He came to the majors as a pitcher. Then he decided to take up catching. He has been a scout and has acted as assistant to several major league managers.

In addition to his duties in professional baseball circles, Mitchell spent a couple of years coaching the Harvard University baseball candidates.

Perhaps his connection with college baseball has had much to do with the fact that Mitchell likes the collegians, and has a number of them in the present Braves squad.

While they may need a few years of experience, Mitchell is already convinced that O'Regan, who caught for Boston College last year, has the makings. In addition, Infielder Dooley, from Georgetown, and Frank Putnam, former Exeter Academy captain, are regarded as excellent prospects for the Braves' inner defence.

REDS HAVE NO PENNANT HOPES

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 30.—Pat Moran this year is attempting to get back in the National League pennant race with a bunch of new ball players and a few of his old ones sprinkled in.

At this date it is impossible to foretell what success the Cincinnati skipper will enjoy. He has an outside chance.

Pat Moran, always optimistic, is exceedingly proud of his crop of young players, and his rather high hopes for his team. However, he is making no predictions as to where his club will finish.

Pennant ideas are not buzzing in his head, nor in the heads of his players. Moran has simply tried to impress on his players that he wants everyone to give him his best efforts, and that he will be satisfied with the results.

Right off the reel Moran is forced to build his new team without counting on the punch of his club, Eddie Roush.

The National League's best outfielder is having his annual salary argument with the club officials. He wants considerably more money than Garry Herrmann believes he is worth.

If Roush reports he will be warmly welcomed by Moran. However, the Cincinnati leader is not figuring on Eddie. Incidentally, if the salary difference is patched up, it is questionable if Roush will be in condition to start the season in his best form.

Whether or not Roush reports, the Reds will start the season with a mighty good outfield. The trade which brought George Burns from the New York Giants in exchange for Heine Groh has made it possible.

The Reds will open the season with Pat Duncan in weft, George Burns in center and Neale in right. In addition Moran has two promising youngsters in George Harper and Ed Hock.

Harper, who was bought from the Oklahoma City club for a fancy price, has a great chance of breaking into the Cincinnati outfield.

He contracted pneumonia shortly after the training season started, which has held him back. Harper is not a kid, having tarried with the Detroit club for several years.

Moran is perfectly satisfied with his catching staff of Wingo and Hargrave.

The Cincinnati leader figures his catching staff up to major league standard. Despite the absence of Roush he is satisfied with his outfield.

Moran's problem is his infield and pitching.

Will Jimmy Caveney be able to fill the bill at short. Will Babe Pinelli deliver at third Cincinnati's chances in a measure hinge on Caveney and Pinelli. On spring form the odds are in favor of them coming through.

Pitching is Moran's other worry. He has two worth-while veterans in Eppa Rixey and Adolpho Luque. Pete Donohue, the Texas collegian, seems capable of taking his regular turn. John Scott, secured from Boston, is his only hope to complete the quartet.

Cincinnati appears to have pretty fair batting strength, plenty of speed on the bases, good catching and an average infield. The club must get pitching to be anywhere.

It does not appear to be a pennant-winning combination. Yet it should prove to be a troublesome aggregation.

SPORT a la CARTE

By C. S. G.

Titles are no good these days unless they are labeled "Dominion." The amateur baseball people are seriously suggesting a Dominion play-off between East and West and now comes the offer of the Edmonton girls to play for the basketball championship of Canada, as the latest and most unique of all Canadian titular clashes.

* * * * *

Amateur baseball played on a Dominion status would be the one big boost the pastime needs. There are now Dominion championships in hockey, lacrosse, soccer and rugby and the broader field opened out by these competitions has done a great deal toward stimulating each sport.

* * * * *

It's possible that the Manufacturers' Baseball League will have to change its name to "Commercial League." The M. A. A. A. claims the title for itself, though what it's going to do with it hasn't been made known yet.

* * * * *

Shamrocks estimate the cost of a trip to Winnipeg to play for the title, at approximately $1,000, and no sidebets. It's an affair that probably won't be made an annual event and the team that won this, might be the first and last winners of such a title.

Soldier Jones is said to have broken Joe Beckett's nose while working out with the British heavyweight champ, so that it wasn't influenza which prevented him meeting Cook. Many think Jones can beat Beckett and a match is being clamored for. Jones thinks he can too, but then he was always optimistic.

Babe Ruth struck a batting slump. He's bound to be more or less in a slump until May 1, financial, and batting as well.

REVIVE CRICKET IN WOODSTOCK

WOODSTOCK, April 4.—The good old game of cricket is to be revived in Woodstock. The club is to be known as the Oxford Cricket Club. Several well-attended meetings have already been held. William Potter, an old English cricketer, is the president. A successful canvas has already been made for finances, which shows that there is a genuine body of cricket supporters in the city.

NO LONGER OTTAWA CLUB.

OTTAWA, April 4.—The Ottawa Lacrosse Club passed out of existence last night when it was decided that the Gunners' Club would take over the team. A number of the members of the lacrosse aggregation gathered in the Gunners' rooms and were unanimous in stating that they would appear this season with the artillery squad.

ENGLISH LACROSSE TEAM WINS.

STATE COLLEGE, Penn., April 4.—The Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team won its second victory in its American invasion by defeating Pennsylvania State College 6 to 0.

GALT C. I. GIRLS BEAT KITCHENER

GALT, April 4.—The G. C. I. girls' basketball team swamped the Kitchener girls at the local Y. M. C. A. 46 to 4, thus winning the round, and will not enter the tournament to be held in London about the middle of the month to decide the championship of the Western Ontario League.

EQUALLED COURSE RECORD.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Equalling the course record in his first round with a card of 69, John Farrell of Hollywood led a field of 42 professional golfers in the spring open tournament of the Columbia Country Club here today, his total for the first 36 holes being 144.

Three shots behind Farrell came Jock Hutchison, British open champion, who had a 36-hole total of 147. Hutchison led Mike Brady by three shots.

WON GOLF GOLD MEDAL.

PINEHURST, April 4.—Arthur Yates of the Oak Hill Club of Rochester won the gold medal in his third consecutive Pinehurst tournament when he led the field in the 36-hole qualifying round of the north and south amateur golf championship with rounds today of 74-76—150.

E. L. Schofield of Pinehurst was a shot behind with 74-77—151.

SOCCER RUMORS ARE UNFOUNDED

L. and D. Not Likely To Put Team in Provincial League, Say Officials.

ARRANGE SCHEDULES

Councillors Meet Tonight at Y To Get Details of Season Straightened Out.

The possibility of the 1st W. O. R. or a representative team from the London and District taking the place in the Provincial Soccer League left vacant by Public Utilities withdrawal has been discussed by soccer fans for several days, and it may come up for discussion at tonight's meeting of the local senior organization to be held at the "Y."

However, nothing is likely to be done in this direction, even though the idea may be toyed with a bit.

The Provincial Soccer League didn't have a large sized "Welcome" on the doormat for London in the first instance, considering the jump here, too far, and it was only after considerable urging, London's entry was accepted.

The L. and D. will arrange schedules tonight for the first competition of the season, it is expected, and there is a lot of routine business to be disposed of by the councillors.

"BISCUITS" WON FIRST.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 4.—Charles Rentrop, claimant of the middleweight wrestling championship, lost a handicap match from S. Zbyszko, former heavyweight champion, last night. The Pole agreed to win two falls within 75 minutes. Zbyszko won a fall in 53 minutes. They will wrestle two weeks hence in a final match, two falls out of three.

WRESTLED 12 ROUNDS.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Johnny Myers of Chicago, claimant of the middleweight wrestling championship of the world, was given the referee's decision after twelve rounds of wrestling here last night with Ralph Parcout of Spencer, Iowa. The match was slow.

Walsh As Ump

ED. WALSH.

Walsh is to make his debut as an American League umpire this year.

He has been working out in the south, umpiring the games between Washington and the Boston Braves.

HALLIGAN SIGNS UP EIGHT UMPS

Brichter and Bill Crystall, Formerly Wolves' Manager, Are Well Known.

President Halligan hasn't been idle since he became head of the Mint League as evidenced by his frequent visits to the various cities and by the way he has handled the umpire problem. Eight umps have been signed up already, and from their records, should fill the bill. Three are known to Mint League fans, Brichter from two seasons of work; Bill Crystall as manager of the Bay City Wolves the first year out, and Griffin, who worked half of last season.

The umps signed up, and their pedigrees are:

Emil Brichter of Detroit has been in the M.-O. League two years, and as the fans are acquainted with his work no more need be said in his case.

James Griffin, Buffalo, N.Y., joined the M.-O. League staff middle of last season, and was termed one of the best arbiters in the league.

Roy Van Graflan, Rochester, N.Y., who has had no professional experience, but comes highly recommended through umpiring college games in the east.

A. A. Murphy, Cleveland, Ohio, has had no professional experience, but come very highly recommended through having umpired in industrial baseball organizations of his home city.

Chas. A. Jensen, Terre Haute, Ind., no professional experience, but has handled many games for colleges in Indiana, and he comes with the very best of recommendations.

Robert Corkhill, Chicago, Ill., experienced professional umpire, 1919-1920, with the Texas League, and has filed satisfactory references in this office.

Harry A. Hines, Chicago, Ill., also is an experienced professional umpire, and comes from the Texas League in which his services were highly commended.

W. Crystall, Toronto, Ont., Canada, was manager of the Bay City Baseball Club in 1919, and professional umpire in the International League in 1920-1921.

TY COBB TWISTS RIGHT ANKLE

AMERICUS, Ga., April 4.—Ty Cobb twisted his right ankle sliding into third base today in a game between the Rochester Internationals and Detroit. He had to be carried from the field, and it was said tonight he probably would be out of the game for several days.

The score:	R.
Rochester (I. L.)	3
Detroit (A. L.)	10

PEP YOUNG GOES.

DETROIT, April 4. — Waivers have been asked by Manager Cobb of the Detroit American on Pep Young, veteran second baseman.

In announcing his decision to drop Young, Cobb said he wished to fill the place at second permanently, and was doubtful whether the veteran would regain his old-time form. Young's erratic throwing last season caused him to be dropped for a time from the regular line-up.

RICKARD CALLED AGAIN.

NEW YORK, April 4. — George L. (Tex) Rickard, sports promoter, who several days ago was acquitted on a charge of having assaulted a 15-year-old school girl, today was summoned to the district attorney's office to give further information in connection with his declaration that agents of the Children's Society had attempted to blackmail him.

Opportunities are not measured by a time clock, nor are birthdays the diploma of wisdom. Knowing an opportunity before it knocks you over is wisdom, and the key to a world of opportunities is the Want Ad.

BILLY KELLY WAS WISEST MOUNT

Johnny Loftus, Ex-Jockey, in Reminiscent Mood on Brilliant Career.

MAN O' WAR IS BEST

Picks Shadrach As Meanest Ride He Ever Took Out—Training Now.

JOHNNY LOFTUS at one time was considered the best jockey in the world.

His name ranks with such great jockeys as Tod Sloan and Snapper Garrison.

Loftus is now seeking new racing laurels as trainer of thoroughbreds.

Perhaps no rider of the present day is in a better position to discuss the merits of many of the leading horses of the American turf.

Loftus has ridden most of the great horses of the last 15 years. Here is what he thinks of them:

"The best horse I ever rode was undoubtedly Man o' War.

Was Meanest.

"I think that Shadrach was about the meanest. Shadrach was a 2-year-old, racing at Juarez, Mex. He had started before with other boys up, but coming out of the chute he would turn the wrong way of the track.

"His owner asked me to try him. I made up my mind that Shadrach wouldn't take the wrong way of the track with me. He didn't. He took the fence, and dropped me off going over.

"The smartest race horse that I ever rode was Billy Kelly.

"Billy didn't need a rider. I believe that if you tied a sack of oats to his saddle he would go to the post, wait the springing of the barrier, get off and lay just back of the pace, and when they straightened out in the stretch he would make his move, and probably win going away."

Looks For Big Season.

Loftus has 17 horses in training at Belmont Park for C. J. Ryan, among them Sea Mint, who was such a disappointment last year, 12 3-year-olds and four youngsters.

Loftus considers Northcliffe of the 3-year-olds as the best prospect for the coming season, last year he had hard luck, but showed amazing speed in his trials.

Of the 2-year-olds Drogheda, a chestnut colt, gives the most promise.

Whether Loftus will have the same success as a trainer as he did as a jockey only the future can tell.

But if hard work and a thorough knowledge of horses count for anything Loftus should put the Ryan colors in the forefront of the racing stables this year.

JOHNNIE DUNDEE BEATS GOODRICH

TORONTO, April 4.—Johnny Dundee of New York, junior lightweight champion, received the decision in a ten-round bout here tonight from Jimmy Goodrich to Buffalo. The judges disagreed, and the referee awarded the bout to the New York boxer. The match was scheduled to be a championship affair, but Goodrich was one pound over weight, and consequently the title was not at stake.

The awarding of the decision to Dundee was received by a demonstration of disapproval by a considerable portion of the record-breaking crowd present.

The Buffalo lad had failed to make the necessary 130 pounds at 2 o'clock, tipping at 131 to Dundee's 129, although both boys entered the ring at 133 pounds.

In everything but the name the bout was a championship affair. It was a real battle from start to finish.

In the early part of the fight Dundee relied mainly on a left that had Goodrich baffled, and for the first three rounds the New Yorker kept on even terms with Goodrich by means of this method of attack. Goodrich was unable to solve it until the bout was nearly half completed, but when he did, he did it thoroughly. Dundee was then called upon to use everything he had and he needed it. Goodrich showed that he was no respecter of persons or reputation and stepped into Dundee. He did not suffer in comparison with his better-known opponent. In fact, Goodrich looked as good as the champion in many departments of the game and in some had a slight edge.

HOUSE VOTES TO UNITE CANADA'S DEFENCE UNITS

Bill Based On Graham's Resolution Given First and Second Readings.

INVOLVED LONG DEBATE

Minister of Militia Claims Plan Will Promote Economy and Efficiency.

OTTAWA, April 4.—(By Canadian Press.)—Measures to create a department of national defence gave rise to extended debate in the house today. A few days ago when the bill was first before the house objections were made and sustained that it should have been preceded by resolutions. Today the resolution was carried and a bill based thereon received first and second reading.

On the idea of unifying defence forces—the military and naval and air force—there was general agreement; but over inclusion therein of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police there was some sharp differences of opinion. Both the leader of the opposition and the leader of the Progressives took the view that the mounted police was a civilian force and should not be brought under the new department—a view which was promised consideration by Hon. George P. Graham, who had charge of the bill.

The debate was marked by a strong attack on the Royal Northwest Mounted Police (now the Canadian Mounted Police) by J. B. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg Center), and one of the principals in the Winnipeg strike.

Hon. George P. Graham, minister of militia and defence, in the House of Commons this afternoon moved the adoption of his resolution providing for the creation of the department of national defence. He explained that the resolution was to form the basis of a bill which would bring under one ministerial head the departments of militia, the naval service, the air service and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Objects of Legislation.

The object of this proposed legislation was to increase the efficiency and promote economy in the administration and operation of these departments. It was hoped that the amalgamation of the departments would make unnecessary the services of a large number of temporary employees now employed by the various departments.

The permanent staff would probably be able to carry on the work after the amalgamation took place. After dispensing with the temporary employees a saving of $700,000 to $1,000,000 per annum would be affected. It was the hope of the government that the business of the new department could be carried on with fewer executive officers than were required in the four separate departments.

One difficulty following on the amalgamation was that of placing some of the high officials in the departments to be amalgamated. Mr. Graham would try to see that the amalgamation entailed no injustice to any of these officials who had given so many years to the service of their country.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, former minister of militia, thought members of the house were agreed that the amalgamation would be to the advantage of the country. The minister of militia could not be given the credit for originating the idea of amalgamation, but should be given full credit for bringing down the first proposal for its accomplishment. As long ago as the year 1909, when Sir Frederick Borden was minister of militia, the idea of amalgamation had been under consideration. Lord French had also suggested it in a report.

Mr. Guthrie feared from what he read and heard that there would be a severe cut in the militia estimates. He was gratified, however, to find that this was not the case, and that the expenditures this year would be practically the same as last.

Guthrie Defends Plan.

No one knew better than the minister that the mounted police force was established as a distinctly civil body. Their duties and functions were civil as apart from military. One of the chief advantages of the mounted police force was that it was a civil body and did civil work. It was engaged in the preservation of law and order. If it were turned into a military force it would be robbed of the civil character which had made it so useful.

Mr. Guthrie was satisfied that the resolution and the bill which would be based on it were mere skletons. The whole machinery for carrying on of the work of the amalgamated department was left to the governor-in-council. Anyone who heard the present government when in opposition condemn in season and out of season what they called "government by order-in-council" would be surprised that the details of the defence amalgamation were to be worked out by the governor-in-council.

It was gratifying to hear Mr. Graham say that the experienced members of the militia staff would be taken care of, although some of them might not be required.

Canada possessed the most experienced and highly-trained military staff of its history. The men were all trained in the great war. Major-Gen. Sir Henry Burstall was one of the ablest soldiers Canada had ever produced, and with Major-Gen. J. H. MacBrien, Major-Gen. Sir E. W. B. Morrison, Major-Gen. Elmsley and Major-Gen. Ashton formed a group of men who had been splendid commanders in time of trouble, and first-class administrators in times of peace. To some extent they were trained at the expense of Canada, and all were yet of military age. If the present bill was approved some of them would probably have to leave the service. It was questionable whether such a course was in the best interests of Canada. Their services should be retained. If any of them were retired they should be generously dealt with.

Premier Explains Powers.

Thomas Vien (Liberal, Lotbiniere) asked if the militia affairs of Canada required seventeen generals to manage.

Mr. Guthrie retorted that the generals did not number seventeen prior to the war, and that the men who were now on the military staff were those whose ranks were won by hard work and excellent service overseas.

The prime minister said there was a great difference between orders-in-council, the power for which was provided by parliament and the passage of orders-in-council, which afterwards required parliamentary action to legalize them. The objection in the past had been to orders of this class. In one case the late government had brought down 108 orders-in-council dealing with coal mining regulations, and after these had been in effect for some time asked parliament to ratify them. In some cases the orders were not produced and they were only referred to by number. What the Liberals had objected to was usurpation by the governor-in-council of the powers and rights of parliament.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen said before dealing with the bill he intended to make reference to "the monthly sermon of the prime minister." He did not know what was in Mr. King's mind when he referred to government by order-in-council. There were times when the government must anticipate the will of parliament. The late government very frequently had to pass orders-in-council to deal with situations which could not await the meeting of parliament. Conditions during that period had been far from normal and the government had acted under the war measures act. At the same time the British government had been governing by orders-in-council passed under the defence of the realm act. The Canadian war measures act had expired before the British act. As to orders affecting coal mining, these were passed when the government appointed a controller of coal operations in Alberta. The coal supply of the Prairie Provinces was in peril, and the director issued certain orders which the government afterwards felt should be authorized by parliament. There would have been chaos had all action been suspended until parliament met.

Meighen Enters Debate.

Mr. Meighen said that the record of the government dealing with the prices in the Alberta coal fields would stand comparison with the action of the present government in dealing or refusing to act in connection with the present crisis in the Nova Scotia fields.

Dealing with the solution before the house, Mr. Meighen said this had been heralded with the beating of drums and sounding of trumpets. What it meant was a division of the responsibility amongst the ministers of the government. It was not an outstanding piece of legislation. The late government had brought departments together without coming to the house for special legislation. This bill would not reduce the number of ministers over the departments in questions. The six departments concerned, marine and fisheries, naval services, air board, militia and defence, mounted police, and external affairs, had been administered by three cabinet ministers. When the changes were made as proposed by this bill the six departments would still be under three ministers. It was simply a re-arrangement of responsibility.

Mr. Meighen's chief objection was to bringing the Royal Canadian Mounted Police into the militia department. The mounted police were a civilian force, and to bring them under militia would destroy much of their value in the country. A further reason for maintaining them as a civilian body was that the Dominion police and mounted police had been amalgamated within recent years. The Dominion police was a distinctly civilian body and could not be looked upon as a part of the defence system.

Major-General S. C. Mewburn (Conservative, Hamilton East) regretted that the prime minister and the leader of the opposition had been sparring about post-mortems on orders-in-council instead of getting down to the meat of the resolution. He felt very strongly that the mounted police should be left under the charge of the prime minister rather than placed under the minister of militia. The Royal Northwest Mounted Police had a world-wide reputation, and every man was a trained constable whose influence was worth much more than a dozen militia men owing to its moral worth. He also defended staff officers who, he said, instead of being taunted with the nickname of "brass hats" should get the gratitude of all good citizens. Mr. Mewburn did not think so many deputy ministers were required. One man, the deputy minister of militia, could do the work of both his own and three or four other similar departments now that the war was over.

King Does Not Agree.

The prime minister did not agree that the presence of mounted policemen prevented trouble; on the other hand, the government, when a request was made for them to be sent into the mine fields of Nova Scotia, some two months ago, decided that the best way to bring on trouble was to send the mounted police there. He absolutely refused to send the police into this or any other industrial trouble. The government told the people who asked for police to be sent to Nova Scotia that they could call on the militia for help if it was absolutely necessary, and that even then they would have to pay the cost and be responsible for all damages.

"If you once open the door to have mounted police available when asked for by municipal authorities in places where they have become alarmed then in a very short time you would have the force doing work for which it was never intended," he said, adding that he thought that under the late government the mounted police had been called into disputes wrongly.

General Mewburn replied that the mounted police would never be sent into a disturbed area except at request, and he hoped that the prime minister would never send them unless it was necessary. But he thought that the day might come when the prime minister would be glad to have such a force at his disposal.

Hon. T. A. Crerar said he sympathized with the broad ideas underlying the bill. He believed the unification of the naval service and the militia department should bring about greater efficiency with greater economy. However, he was inclined to agree with Mr. Meighen that it was undesirable to put the mounted police in the department of defence. Either the mounted police was a defence arm or it was not. If it was, then it should be included in the co-ordination. If the mounted police, however, was a civil force intended for the administration of the civil law, then it was not sound policy to include it in the department of defence. His own view was that the mounted police was a civil force, and should be kept separate from the department of defence.

Crerar Doubts Wisdom of Plan.

Mr. Crerar took second place to no one in regard to the service performed by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, the forerunners of the present force, but he was doubtful of the wisdom of creating the present Royal Canadian Police Force. Civil order was a function that properly belonged to the province. (Liberal and Progressive cheers). In early days the Royal Northwest Mounted Police was essential, but he doubted whether one could justify, from the point of view of economy or efficiency, the maintenance of a federal police force with headquarters at the capital, sending its officers out into all parts of the country. He thought that the force might have been reduced to the dimensions necessary for the policing of unorganized territory only.

Mr. Graham said what he desired to accomplish was that Canada should have a concrete, snappy, defence force that would be a credit to the country without being too expensive.

He paid a tribute to General Burstall, General Gwatkin and to Commissioner Perry who, he said, had served the country well, and brought distinction upon it. The government was granting these men a year's leave of absence in acknowledgment of their services. No successor would be appointed to Commissioner Perry until his year's leave of absence was up.

Mr. Crerar had asked whether the time had not come when the responsibility for civil order was to be placed on the provinces. In the main the provinces were responsible, but the unorganized territories required federal supervision. The Dominion police had been in existence since 1846, and had carried on their work splendidly, including secret service work. Personally, he was disposed to advise the government that secret service work should be placed under the department of justice. However, all these were details which could be discussed in committee.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg Centre) referred to the good work which had been done by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in the early days when the West was very sparsely settled. He ventured to say that the last few years had witnessed a complete change in the work of this body now known as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He was very doubtful if the honor which once attached itself to this force remained with it today. The work which it had performed in the last few years had been instrumental in causing friction rather than removing it.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police was now reduced, in a considerable degree, to a secret service department. The services of the mounted police were employed to spy upon labor activities, both in Canada and the United States.

The report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police emphasized the tact of the men in avoiding friction. As a matter of fact, their presence was a decided irritant.

Mr. Woodsworth declared that there would in all probability have been a peaceful settlement of the Winnipeg strike had not the mounted police been ordered out and the crowd irritated by their presence.

J. G. LETHBRIDGE SEEKS INFORMATION ON BECK

West Middlesex M. L. A. Submits Pertinent Questions to Legislature.

TORONTO, April 4.—John G. Lethbridge, farmer M. L. A. for Middlesex West, apparently has some misgivings concerning the status of Sir Adam Beck as an arbitrator for the City of Toronto on the Toronto Street Railway arbitration and as chairman of the Hydro commission, for on today's order paper he has the following question:

"What salary is being paid to Sir Adam Beck as chairman of the Hydro commission? By whom is such salary paid and by what authority? Is the government aware that Sir Adam Beck is at present employed as an arbitrator in the settlement of the amount to be paid by the City of Toronto to the Toronto Street Railway Company; did he obtain leave of absence from the government for the purpose of this arbitradition. Is the government aware that Sir Adam Beck is being paid at the rate of $250 per day for his services as arbitrator? Who is acting chairman of the H. E. C. while Sir Adam is so employed?

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1895 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them 70 to 80 years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment," for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it, and it has proven itself to be that long-looked for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, One Dollar, but understand I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free. Don't delay. Write today.

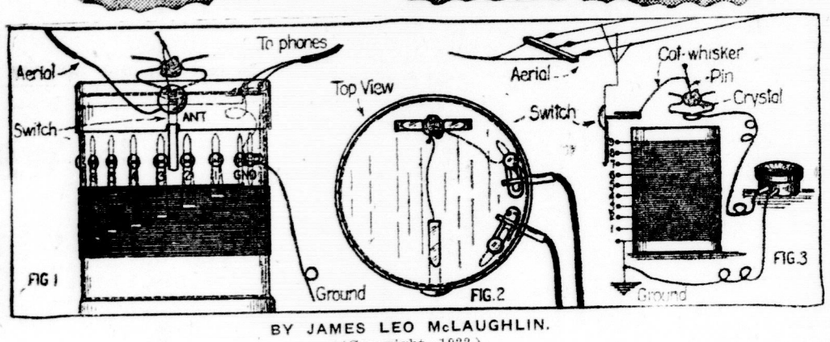
How To Build a Radiophone Receiver For Four Dollars



BY JAMES LEO McLAUGHLIN.
(Copyright, 1922.)

The outfit described in this article will bring in radiophone music and radiophone entertainment from broadcasting stations 15 or 20 miles distant. Spark signals can, however, be received at a far greater distance.

James Leo McLaughlin, 16 years of age, is the originator of this set. As the builder of it, we will let him tell his own story.

The important features of this set are its simple construction and operation and its adaptability for experimental purposes. With it a fellow can look inside, break the whole thing up and put it together again, and learn so much in doing it that he will not ruin the better set that he will buy for a lot of money later on.

The only tools required are a razor blade and a small nail. The whole set, including the phone and aerial, should cost less than $4, the set itself costing me only 22 cents. It is as efficient, and in most cases superior, to crystal sets now being sold.

Materials Required.

1 Paper container four inches in diameter.
13 Paper fasteners (small size.)
2 Paper fasteners (large size.)
3 Paper clips.
2 Ounce No. 26 enameled copper wire.
1 small piece galena silicon.
1 Common pin.

How to Assemble Them.

Punch nine holes in the container one inch down from the top and about one inch apart. Use a small nail for the operation. Into each hole push one of the small paper fasteners. Number each fastener consecutively from right to left. If you have followed the instructions carefully you will have nine fasteners.

To the right of number one push two fasteners with a paper clip underneath them. Mark this "ground." One half inch down from the ground punch a small hole. This is the starting point of the coil.

The Coil Winding.

Push one end of the wire through this hole and fasten it to one of the paper fasteners inside of the container. Be sure to scrape the enamel from the wire where it touches the fastener. This assures a good connection.

The next operation is the winding. Pull the wire taut and commence winding. The total number of turns is 70, and a tap or connection, is taken off at each of the following turns: 15, 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45, 55 and 70.

Figure 1 shows how to tap the coil. The important things to be sure of are that the wire has been wound as tight as possible, and that the enamel has been scraped off at all points that make connections with the fasteners. The 15th turn is contact 1, the 20th number 2, and so on, each tap being connected with the clip corresponding to its tap number.

The Contact Switch.

The next operation is to build the switch that operates over the contacts. Figure 2 shows how this is made. Push the ends of one of the large fasteners through the side of the container cover, close to the lid. Bend one end down flush with the side and push the other end through the top and bend over.

Push the cover back on the container and bend the end of the fasteners so that it rides easily over the contacts when the cover is turned. Care should be taken that it makes a good contact with each. The surplus end can then be cut off with a pair of shears.

The Detector.

The other large clip should be pushed through the lid opposite the switch and bent as shown in figure 2, so that it can hold a small crystal. A short piece of bare wire (No. 24 will do) acts as the cat whisker. A pin if fastened to one end, the other end is wrapped around the end of the switch—the part that is bent over (See Fig. 2).

Other Parts of the Set.

The telephone receiver is a single Murdock without a head band and can be purchased for about $2. Any other kind may be substituted.

One-half pound of No. 18 bare copper wire will do. This will be about 100 feet of wire. Two porcelain cleats will also be necessary and should cost about five cents.

For the aerial string the wire the greatest length possible, attach to a tree, pole, chimney or other elevation at least 30 feet high (See Fig. 4). The other end of the wire enters the house, and is attached to the switch button on the set marked ANT. A short piece of rubber tubing should be placed on the wire where it passes into the building. This will keep the fire engines away.

The ground connection may be made to the nearest water or gas pipe, preferably the former, or to a copper plate buried in the ground. The pipe should be well scraped before this connection is made.

How To Operate It.

Bend the cat whisker wire so that the pin rests on the crystal. Move the pin over the surface until a signal is heard. At the same time move the switch over the contacts and leave it on the one that brings the station in the loudest. This often requires a great deal of patience, but if these instructions have been followed carefully the set will work and work well. On the original set the broadcasted music could be heard well with the receiver six inches from the ear.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months could not turn in Bed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Wash.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

RECOMMEND WAGE CUT OF 4 PER CENT

Arbitrators Hand In Finding Regarding Dominion Power and Transmission Company Dispute.

TO TAKE EFFECT APRIL 1

Disagree With Action Reducing Men's Pay Pending Investigation.

HAMILTON, April 4.—The majority report of the board of conciliation reached the Dominion Power and Transmission Company and officials of the various unions involved in the wage dispute. Chairman Godfrey and Fred Bancroft, who represented the men, recommended a wage reduction of approximately 4 per cent, commencing April 1. The majority report of F. H. McGuigan, who was named by Hon. James Murdock to represent the company, has not yet reached here. While disappointed, Dominion Power officials say they are not surprised at the finding.

Messrs. Godfrey and Bancroft in their report say that in their opinion they do not agree with the action of the company in reducing the men's pay pending an investigation by the arbitrators. The reduction was made by the company on Feb. 15, and the board recommends that the rate paid prior to the reduction be paid until April 1. The award may mean that there will be no strike. It will be accepted by the men, and the only question is whether it will be accepted by the company. It is doubtful, according to the officials of the company, whether the company will accept the award. The scale awarded for the street railway and suburban lines was from 38½ to 50 cents an hour, shopmen, 40 to 55, and engineers $103 a month upwards to $170. The linemen and wiremen had previously reached an agreement continuing the old rate for another six months.

SUBMITS NEW MOTION

Brome Member Again Protests Against Ministers Holding Directorships.

OTTAWA, April 4.—(By Canadian Press.)—Andrew R. McMaster, M. P. for Brome, is renewing this session his demand that ministers of the crown should not hold directorships in big corporations. Last session he introduced a bill to prohibit the holding of directorships by ministers, and it was the occasion of lively debate, but the measure was defeated.

This year he has substituted a motion for the bill, contenting himself with asserting the principle rather than prohibiting the practice.

Mr. McMaster's resolution draws a distinction between banks, trust companies, insurance companies, transportation companies and large public utilities companies on the one hand, and other companies on the other. It declares definitely that ministers should resign all directorships in the first group of companies, and provides that, if ministers retain their directorships in the latter group, such companies shall have no business dealings with the government, or with any department of it, or with any railway or ship owned by it, except by way of using the service of such ship or railway.

FORD BAKER PAYS $1,000 LIQUOR FINE

WINDSOR, April 4.—A fine of $1,000 and costs, with the option of serving three months in jail, was imposed on Jake Temperman, baker, of Ford, when he was convicted by Magistrate Gundy in Windsor police court late Monday afternoon on a charge of keeping liquor for sale.

License department officers raided his bakery ten days ago, seizing five bottles of moonshine whiskey, which they found hidden beneath a baking pan.

Temperman denied knowledge of the liquor being there, asserting that it was a "frame-up" to have him prosecuted.

EXPECT CATTLE EMBARGO TO END

LONDON, Eng., April 4. — The Daily Express regards the announcemen of Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain, government leader in the House of Commons, yesterday, in reply to a question in the house, that he would try to arrange for an opportunity to discuss the Canadian cattle embargo question soon after the Easter recess, and that the government would leave the decision as to the lifting or continuing of the embargo to the free vote of the members as foreshadowing the doom of the cattle embargo.

The Express says this momentous decision is really a victory for Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies, who had expressed the opinion to the minister of agriculture, Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, that the embargo should be raised.

GREAT BRITAIN WARNS ALLIES ON WAR DEBT

Reserves Right To Collect Interest Due From Allies, As She Must Pay U. S.

FRANCE MAKES REPLY

Coalition Unionists To Move Amendment To Motion Against Government.

London, April 5.—The British Government has addressed a note to the allies declaring that, owing to the fact that Great Britain has to pay the interest on her debt to the United States, she reserves to herself the right to call upon the allies in turn to pay the interest on their war debts to Great Britain.

In this connection it is pointed out that Great Britain is now fully prepared to pay the interest due the United States.

QUESTION TIED UP.

Paris, April 5.—The French reply to the British note concerning payment of interest on war loans by England is likely to be that the question is bound up with that of the inter-allied debt which must be dealt with as a whole, says the Echo de Paris, quoting a well informed source. Piecemeal payment would only hamper the settlement, the reply will say.

The British communication notified France that the three years' convention, expiring at an early date, would not be renewed.

ANOTHER HOSTILE MOTION.

London, April 5.—The motion attacking the coalition, to be presented in the House of Commons tonight by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Unionist, has attracted considerable attention in political and newspaper circles, but it is not considered likely to cause serious trouble for the Government.

This motion is, however, a clear indication of the continued hostile attitude of a considerable section of the Conservatives toward the coalition, notwithstanding the big parliamentary majority by which the Government's policy toward the Genoa conference was indorsed on Monday. The Government has decided to treat the motion seriously and the whips are seeking to insure a full attendance of the Government supporters.

It is not certain whether a decision will be taken, it being thought most probable that the motion will be talked out. Even if there is a vote, it is expected the "die hards" will be unable to muster any greater strength than on former occasions.

To Propose Amendment.

The Coalition Unionists have given notice of an amendment to the Joynson-Hicks motion. The original reads: "In the opinion of this house, lack of definite and coherent principle in the policy of the present coalition government can be remedied only by the establishment of a ministry composed of men united by identity of political principles." The amendment would change the words after "coalition government" to "is a myth engendered by misunderstanding and misrepresentation," and urge the co-operation of all members for the common good.

FINED $2,000 AND COSTS OF COURT

Windsor, April 5.—Joseph A. St. Louis, aged 65, of 366 Moy avenue, convicted in Windsor police court one week ago on a charge of keeping liquor for sale, was fined $2,000 and costs by Magistrate Gundy today. In passing sentence, the magistrate stated that he had at first intended imposing a jail term in addition to the fine, but that on the plea made by defendant's attorney because of the defendant's age, and his family responsibilities, he confined the sentence to the payment of a fine with the alternative of serving three months in jail. The fine was immediately paid.

REPORT AMBROSE SMALL LOCATED

Toronto, April 5.—Rumors were thick in Hamilton and Toronto today to the effect that Ambrose Small, theatrical millionaire, mysteriously missing for more than two years, had been found. There seemed to be no basis for it. Miss Small, one of the sisters of the missing man, went to Hamilton to interview a Mrs. T. E. Sterling, who was reported last night to have ventured some definite opinions regarding Mr. Small's whereabouts. About noon today, Miss Small telephoned to relatives here that she had seen Mrs. Sterling, but ascertained "Nothing of importance."

FIRE ON ISLAND DESTROYS STORES

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 5.—(By Canadian Press.)—Fire at Rickard's Landing, St. Joseph's Island, Ontario, 25 miles south of here, today destroyed the postoffice, the Armstrong general store, the Lipman store and the store of Allen Campbell, together with a major part of the contents of each place. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Mortuary Chamber Has Mighty Little On U. S. Blue Law District

Zion, Ill., April 5.—Stricter blue law enforcement, with a continuation of bans on smoking, dancing, swearing, gambling, and a censorship of women's clothes, was indorsed by the voters of Benton Township, which includes Zion, yesterday.

The Liberals were defeated by a majority of 700 votes at the polls when the Theocratic party, indorsed by Wilburg Glenn Volivia, overseer of Zion, elected all of its candidates.

DIRECT STRIKE FROM NEW YORK

Union Headquarters Will Consider Small Independent Operators' Offers.

750 GO OUT IN ALBERTA

Blue Diamond Is Largest Non-Union Mine in District 18.

New York, April 5.—Headquarters of the coal strike were transferred to New York today, upon the expected arrival of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America. Union leaders predicted that Mr. Lewis would use every effort to speed up the anthracite wage negotiations.

International and district members of the anthracite general policies committee, forty strong, already have begun to arrive in response to a call issued by Thomas Kennedy, president of the committee. They, with Mr. Lewis, will discuss emergencies which have arisen since the strike was called last Saturday, it was announced at union headquarters.

One of the chief problems confronting the committee, it was said, was whether it would accept the alleged offers of several small independent companies to comply with the miners' 19 demands if the men would return to work. Members of the committee yesterday expressed doubt that such offers could be considered because they would necessitate negotiation of separate contracts a policy heretofore disapproved by the international organization, they said.

750 VOTE STRIKE IN ALBERTA.

Calgary, Alta., April 5.—Seven hundred and fifty miners employed in the Blue Diamond mine in Brule, Alberta, have voted unanimously to go on strike. This is the largest non-union mine in district 18.

Chita Trade Delegation Warns U. S. of Possible Designs On Siberia.

Mikado's Government Making Insistent Demands For Special Rights.

Washington, April 5.—The declaration that the clash Monday between Japanese and Chita forces in the vicinity of Vladivostok was the outcome of a deliberate policy of Japan, which presages an advance in Siberia, was made yesterday in a formal statement issued by the special trade delegation of far eastern republic to the United States.

"The Japanese are trying to represent the government of the far eastern republic as the aggressor and the Japanese as innocent victims of a wanton attack," the statement said, "but they do not mention that the troops of the republic are operating upon their own territory and are only pursuing the bandits, whom the Japanese armed, and permitted to pass into the same territory in order to attack the peaceful population.

"Past experiences show that whenever the Japanese were getting ready to start some new trouble in Siberia they have announced the coming withdrawal of their troops. The action of the Japanese since the Washington conference, such as the arming of bandits and insistent demands for special rights, prove this statement."

Royal Commissioner Advises Dismissals From Brantford Police Force.

CASTIGATES INTERPRETER

Exonerates Magistrate Livingstone and Condemns Wide-Openness of City.

Toronto, April 5.—By the Canadian Press.—W. D. Gregory, the royal commissioner who recently investigated the organization, discipline, administration and efficiency of the police force of the city of Brantford, presented his report to the lieutenant-governor of the province today. He fully exonerates the Brantford police magistrate, W. Churchill Livingstone, from all charges of corrupt dealings with Louis Stander, the court interpreter, or any other person, but advances the opinion that his borrowing money from Stander was "very wrong under existing conditions."

Dealing further with the police magistrate, Commissioner Gregory states: "He seems to have been, wilfully, both blind and deaf to any charge against Stander, and to any proof of his manifold wrongdoings. His indiscretions were great and fatal. But that Stander "greased" him, or that he took favors from Stander with any thought of giving decisions of his court in return, I do not for a moment believe." The commissioner states that Mr. Livingstone is qualified to perform the duties of many offices under the government, and significantly adds: "I hope that in the event of his ceasing to be police magistrate, he may at the first opportunity be apointed to one of these offices."

Slashes Record.

As to Louis Stander, Commissioner Gregory recommends that "Stander should not be permitted to serve in the police court again in any capacity whatever," and adds:

"He has left there a record upon which the citizens of Brantford can look back only with shame."

Stander and his wife acted as interpreters at the Brantford police court for about twelve years. Stander is a native of Eastern Europe.

Commissioner Gregory states: Sometimes he (Stander) laid an information against a person, gave bail for him when arrested, acted as his interpreter when the case was heard in court, and paid the fine imposed, if fine there was. He is said to have been instrumental in having one man convicted and sent to Kingston penitentiary. Men testified before me that they were told that if they did not do as Stander said they would go to Kingston, too. Foreigners believed that their liberty and their lives were in his hands."

Extorted Toll.

The royal commissioner finds that Stander's influence with the foreigners "was, to some extent, due to the intimacy between him and the magistrate and the chief of police, Charles Slemin." Stander often sat in the magistrate's office while others were there, and he drove the magistrate around in his car. Foreigners had testified at the investigation to oppression and extortion by Stander. "He levied toll alike on the innocent and the guilty," the commissioner states, based on evidence given before him. He instances a number of cases, one being where a foreigner, who was regarded as a dangerous man, was let out on bail after his friends had paid Stander money, and thus the foreigners of Brantford got the impression that Stander controlled the police court.

Chief Should Retire.

As to Chief Charles Slemin, who has been eighteen years chief of police in Brantford, and is 66 years of age, Commissioner Gregory says he has no doubt that the chief has done much good work, "but neither the chief, nor the force, measures up to the standard of usefulness and efficiency that the citizens of Brantford have the right to expect." The commissioner has no hesitancy in recommending Chief Slemin's retirement. "Chief Slemin should be retired by the board of police commissioners." The fact that his two sons, lawyers, had a large proportion of the criminal practice in connection with the police court is animadverted upon by Commissioner Gregory, though he admits the sons' right to practice their profession at the police court.

Gambling Rampant.

Wide open gambling houses have been running in Brantford for years, the commissioner finds, and he quotes witnesses as saying it was "as easy to place a bet in Brantford as to buy a cigar." Bootlegging also was carried on most flagrantly, and the police did little to check it, according to evidence tendered to Commissioner Gregory, and commented upon adversely in his report.

Dealing with the question of railway passes, on which evidence was given at the investigation before Commissioner Gregory, the commissioner finds that Chief Slemin, Inspector Chapman and Detective Schuler, of the Brantford police force, all having been sworn in as railway constables, had annual passes over the railway lines in Ontario, west of Toronto and North Bay, and the chief had a pass over the Canadian Pacific Railway and other railroads. Prior to the act of 1919 Magistrate Livingstone had passes over the Grand Trunk Railway and C. P. R. Both the issuing of passes to and the acceptance by magistrates and police, the commissioner says, is, in my opinion, improper. Further, he says, "the railways do not give favors unless they expect favors in return."

Would Dismiss Officers.

Commissioner Gregory recommends the dismissal from the police force of the following, who have been under suspension: Inspector Jas. A. Chapman, Detective F. Lincoln Schuler and Constable Alex. Stewart. He finds, from the evidence, that Inspector Chapman frequented a betting house, that Detective Schuler had improper relations with certain women in Brantford, and that Constable Stewart, in connection with bootleggers, was "guilty of conduct unbecoming to a police officer."

The commissioner refers to the Brantford police station as needing improvements, and intimates that a new building should be erected when the city feels financially able to undertake it. The police court records are not properly kept, he states.

FAVORS PRESENT SCHOOLS SYSTEM

Hon. Jacob Nicol Expresses Sentiment of Quebec on Schools at Joint Luncheon.

MINORITY LOOKED AFTER

Speaker Shows by Figures That Protestants Get More Than Proportion for Education.

Expressing himself as opposed to national schools, Hon. Jacob Nicol, B. A., addressing members of the Canadian Club and Chamber of Commerce at luncheon Wednesday declared that the people of his province, both Catholic and Protestant are satisfied with the present system of education.

"There is talk of national schools all over the province," he said, "but I do not think people would say that if they understood conditions. The state of affairs in Quebec today did not come in a day. It came from the French regime. In 1841 the basis of our present system was formed.

"As representative of the Protestant minority it is my duty to see that they get their share, and they do get their share. Grants this year to McGill, Laval and Montreal universities from the province were one million dollars each. That is to say, the money was divided between Roman Catholics and the Protestant institutions on a basis of two to one.

"As a matter of fact, the population is on a basis of eight Roman Catholics to one Protestant in Quebec, so we cannot complain of that. There were grants of $10,000 each made to nineteen classical colleges in the province, and $40,000 to the Protestant institutions as a compensation for this $190,000. That is a little more than one-fifth instead of between one-eighth and one-ninth; in this way we are satisfied with the treatment meted us. That is the way we carry on."

In his opening remarks the speaker mentioned the fact that in the luncheon hall he had met an old college tutor who remarked to him that wit characterized his manner during the days at university.

Need Grit.

"In the province of Quebec we do not require wit," he said with a smile. "We require grit to hold the purse strings. It is very easy to make surpluses. This year we have a surplus of $1,500,000. We make surpluses by spending less than we have, and I do not know of any other way."

Mr. Nicol explained the system of government in Quebec with 81 counties divided into parishes corresponding to townships in Ontario. Government is divided into an upper and lower house, with the former body appointed by the lieutenant-governor.

"It was created more or less as a protection to the Protestant minority of the province of Quebec," he explained. Continuing, Mr. Nicol pointed out that each parish is governed by religious, civil and school authority, with the civil authority the most dominant. School administrators are elected by the people, and hence a French majority elects French trustees and an English-speaking population would elect its own representatives.

Referring to the statement often made that the church ruled in Quebec, Mr. Nicol branded it as a falsehood, asserting that the ptople vote for all church expenditures, and at times the voting is marked by much excitement.

No Minister of Education.

There is no minister of education in Quebec, and schools are under the control of a council of public education. This council is directed by a superintendent, and two secretaries, who act as his deputies. In this council art two committees representing the Roman Catholic and Protestant populations.

"The two committees can come together and discuss matters," he explained, "but as a matter of practice they sit separately. They are cide all matters pertaining to the the best men on both committees, including Sir Arthur Currie. They decommittees. The cabinet or house has nothing to do with it. It is not within our domain."

Mr. Nicol pointed out that the funds for schools are derived from direct assessment of Roman Catholic and Protestant citizens, with the taxes alloted to schools according to religious proportions of ratepayers.

"We of the minority of the province are satisfied that it is the best system for us," he concluded.

During the luncheon, Prof. N. C. Hart, of Western University, and secretary of the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association, presented the Canadian Club trophy for oratory to Ted Newton, of Sarnia Collegiate Institute. This trophy was won by the recipient in the Western Ontario secondary schools' oratorical contest, staged at Brantford last February. Mr. Newton responded suitably.

Introducing the provincial treasurer of Quebec, Prof. S. Fox, dean of the college of arts of Western University, mentioned the fact that he was an old classmate of Mr. Nichol at McMaster College, although the latter is a native of Quebec.

E. W. Quantz asked the Canadian Club and Chamber of Commerce members to lend their support to the visit of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra to London, in view of the fact that one of the concerts will be given gratis by the orchestra in order that the nucleus of a fund for orchestral instruments in the public schools of London may be created.

John Bridge of the Chamber of Commerce presided at the luncheon.

MONTREAL STOCKS

Montreal, April 5.—Trading on the local stock market this forenoon was practically a dplication of that of yesterday afternoon. There were heavy buying orders at the opening for a number of stocks, and these sent prices kiting. New high records were made by several issues, among which paper stocks were prominent. Included in these were Abitibi at 45, Laurentide at 84½, Price Bros. at 39¾c, Spanish preferred at 85⅜, Steel of Canada at 67½, Brazilain at 39⅞. The market was strong all the way around.

GRAIN

Winnipeg, April 5.—Opening futures: Wheat—May, ¾c to ⅞c lower at $1 32¾@1 33⅜; July, ⅝c to ¾c lower at $1 30⅜@1 31⅛.

Oats—May unchanged to ½c higher at 46⅝@46⅞c; July unchanged at 46¾c.

Barley—May, ⅛c lower at 65½c.

Flax—May, ¾c lower at $2 21½.

Rye—May unchanged at $1.

Chicago, April 5.—Opening: Wheat—May, $1 32¼; July, $1 19¼.

Corn—May, 58¼c; July, 61⅝c.

Oats—May, 36c; July, 39c.

Chicago, April 5.—Selling of May against purchases of July led to an early decline today in value of nearby delivery of wheat, and to an upturn in the price of later months. The selling of May was due more or less to reports of Liberal quantities of wheat being brought to Chicago to fill May contracts. On the other hand, some uncertainty prevailed as to crop conditions for winter wheat, and ni particular regarding the extent of planted acreage likely to be abandoned. The opening, which varied from ⅛c off to 1c advance, was followed by a material further setback for March, and continued relative strength in July and September.

Heavy stocks of corn and oats at northwestern terminals had a bearish influence here on both cereals. After opening unchanged to ¼c lower, the corn market underwent a moderate general sag.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c up, and later showed signs of lack of support.

Liverpool, April 5.—Wheat—Spot, 11s 10d; No. 1 northern, 14s; No. 2, 13s 4d; No. 3, 11s 6d.

Corn—Spot, American mixed, 6s 7½d.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 5.—The movement in Brazilian that was inaugurated yesterday on the local stock exchange received additional impetus today, and trading in this stock far outdistanced the rest of the market. Close to 3,000 shares changed hands during the morning session, and prices reached a new high level, with sales as high as 39¾. The close at 39¼ showed a net gain of 1¼ points from yesterday. Gains throughout the list were numerous but restricted in scope. Mines quiet; banks dull; some inquiry for government loans noted.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, April 5—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Prices moved irregularly upward at the opening of today's stock market, but the variety of issues traded in indicated another active session. Leaders of the railway and industrial groups were not materially changed, speculative interest centering in the sugars, cheap oils and specialties. Bransdall A rose 1 point with Pierce Oil preferred, and Manati Sugar, Cuban Cane preferred, Allied Chemical and Davison Chemical were better by 1 to 1¼ points. United States Steel and related shares made fractional gains. The only prominent stock to show heaviness was United Fruit, which declined 1 point.

1:30 p.m.—Renewed accumulation of representative shares like Baldwin, Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum and United States Steel caused another outburst of buying, which carried up numerous stocks anywhere from 1 to 4 points above the prevoius close. Special issues were influenced by favorable news and pool operations, but the general movement had its basis to a large extent in a growing belief that fundamental conditions warranted a higher range of values.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS their Excellencies General the Right Honorable Lord Byng of Vimy, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., M.V.O., and Lady Byng of Vimy have decided to honor the City of London with an official visit on Saturday, April 15th, 1922, at 2 o'clock.

AND WHEREAS it is the duty and pleasure of the citizens of this city to extend a loyal and hearty welcome to the Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada as the representative of His Majesty King George V.; and in response to a resolution of the council requesting that a proclamation be issued declaring that Saturday afternoon shall be a public half holiday, and calling upon citizens to suitably decorate their dwellings and places of business;

THESE PRESENTS ARE TO MAKE KNOWN THAT I, J. Cameron Wilson, Mayor of the City of London, do declare Saturday afternoon, April 15th, 1922, a public half holiday, and request the citizens to make every effort to welcome their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Byng of Vimy, and to suitably decorate their residences and places of business.

GIVEN at the City Hall, London, this 30th day of March, A.D., 1922.

ASK SETTING OF 5-MILE FISHING LIMIT

Gill Net Fishermen of Port Stanley Make Representation to Government.

CIRCULATE PETITION

Declare Establishment of Two Limits Is Unnecessary.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 4.—Believing that the establishment of two fishing limit distances on the north shore of Lake Erie, with Port Stanley as the division between the two limits, is both unnecessary and entirely without a parallel, the gill-net fishermen of Port Stanley have organized themselves into the Gill-Net Fishermen's Association, and have selected Ex-Warden N. S. Cornell to wait upon the fish and game committee of the Legislative Assembly, which meets on Wednesday, and ask why the alleged discrimination against the Port Stanley fishermen is maintained.

Backed by Petition.

Mr. Cornell, who was chosen at a meeting of the members of the gill-net association Monday afternoon, will be backed up by a petition signed by every gill-net fisherman in Port Stanley, asking that a five-mile limit be established for gill-net fishermen along the entire north shore of Lake Erie and the unpopular ten-mile limit removed.

East of Port Stanley to Port Maitland a five-mile shore limit has been established by the Ontario department of fisheries. West of Port Stanley a ten-mile limit is the rule. The bulk of the fall fishing is done west of Port Stanley, on account of the prevailing winds being from the northwest, and thus affording the fishermen more protection than at the eastern end of the lake.

East of Port Stanley, between Port Stanley and Port Maitland, there are four shelters for fishing tugs, Port Burwell, Port Dover, Port Rowan and Long Point. West of Port Stanley, the distance is 45 miles to the first shelter, Rondeau. And yet the fishermen are not permitted to come within ten miles of the shore on this end of the lake.

Unable To Explain.

Just why a difference was made in the fishing limits on the eastern and western ends of the lake, none of the fishermen was able to explain, although the fixing of the ten-mile limit occurred about the same time that the gill net fishermen were allowed the open lake for fishing. In the prosperous year the ten-mile limit was not such an industrial handicap, but last year it increased the daily losses for many a fisherman as well as increased the dangers attendant his daily work. Fishing ten miles out from shore in variable fall weather is no attractive job, especially with shelters 45 miles apart.

The gill-net fishermen on the American side of Lake Erie have no fishing restrictions placed upon them, except that they are not allowed to fish within one mile of a harbor. Otherwise the whole south side of Lake Erie is open water to them, and in consequence they have a huge advantage over the Canadian fishermen.

M'GREGOR ESTATE TOTALS $1,069,045

Canadian Motor King of Windsor Leaves Bulk of Property to Widow.

WILLS SECRETARY $500

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Remembered by Bequest of $3,000.

Special to London Advertiser.

WINDSOR, April 4.—Gordon H. McGregor, former vice-president of the Ford Motor Company, who died March 11, left an estate valued at $1,069,045.05, of which $819,294.68 is his personal estate and effects, and $294,750.35 in real estate, according to the statement accompanying the application of probate filed in the office of the surrogate court clerk, Sandwich, today.

The bulk of the estate was left to McGregor's widow, Mrs. Harriett McGregor. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was willed $3,000; Mrs. Clara E. Dodds, Detroit, mother-in-law of Mr. McGregor, was willed her home in Detroit.

Miss Grace E. Falconer, for many years Mr. McGregor's private secretary, was willed $500, and servants at the McGregor homestead, who had been in the employ of the McGregor family for more than two years were willed sums ranging from $100 to $300 by the late mortor king.

In his will Mr. McGregor stated that he had often during his life given sums of money for religious and charitable purposes, and asked that his wife continue to do so whenever she saw fit.

FRANCE ALARMED OVER BIRTHRATE

London, April 5.—(Canadian Press cable.)—Reuter's Paris correspondent states that the national alliance for increasing the population of France, in its campaign, declared that if the birthrate continues to decline as at present, France will have only 25,000,000 population by 1965. Births and marriages have greatly declined in the past year. The population, according to the statistics, is falling 200,000 yearly.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE
It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.
Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids, and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.
But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.
Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.
You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.—Advt.

MACBRIDE RAPS GOVERNMENT IN WARM ATTACK

Blames Drury Administration For Failure To Solve Unemployment Problem.

URGES BUILDING PROGRAM

Brant Member Also Claims Mothers' Allowances Act Too Costly.

TORONTO, April 4.—M. M. MacBride (South Brant) continued the debate on the budget in the Legislature this afternoon following the second reading of two more or less contentious bills, one aiming at the consolidation of the offices of high chief constables and sheriffs and the other making provision for the appointment of probation officers by the provincial government.

Mr. MacBride's speech proved an attack on the government for what he termed its failure to aid in the solution of the unemployment situation, and advocated a building campaign as the best means of starting the province on the pathway of better times.

At the evening session Mr. MacBride criticized the administration expenses of the mothers' allowance act, though he favored the act itself. He said the expenses of various departments of the government were increasing too much. He took a stand against the appointment of any more commissions, and called upon the government to appoint a committee of the house to investigate hydro, as the premier had promised.

Defends Record.

J. C. Brown, North Middlesex, made a general defence of the government's record. Alluding to the things that had been said about the Liberals "coming over to the Farmers," he said he did not believe for an instant that the leaders of the Liberal party ever had any intention of selling out to his side of the house. "Neither had I any intention of co-operating with the Liberals if they had come over."

Coming to hydro matters, Mr. Brown said the farmers were not getting their share of hydro-electric energy. The power of the province should be distributed so that the east and west would get equitable shares, and a more equitable rate should be struck.

R. R. Hall, Parry Sound, who opened his speech tonight, will continue the budget debate tomorrow.

Attorney-General W. E. Raney introduced a bill which he explained was a start in the consolidation of the offices of sheriff and high chief constable, in that it provides that where a county council does not appoint a high chief constable the sheriff ex-officio will hold that position. It is intended to acquaint the sheriffs more particularly with this work.

Eliminate Appeals.

The debate on the bill to eliminate appeals direct from the Ontario courts to the privy council will not be taken up this week, the premier announced, in view of the pressure of other business and the discussions scheduled outside the house on this question.

Attorney-General Raney moved the second reading of a bill to amend the insurance act. He explained that it was an "omnibus" act, gathering in all the loose ends left over from the several insurance bills already discussed in the house, much of the legislative amendments being made necessary by the former bills. He thought it should pass the second reading with that general explanation and be dealt with clause by clause in committee of the house. However, H. H. Dewart (Toronto S. more thoroughly explained by the principle of the bill until it had been more thoroughly explained by the Government.

After a great deal of argument on this point, Mr. Raney took up in detail the effect of each of the several clauses, and the bill passed on to the committee.

The second reading of Mr. Raney's bill to make provision for the appointment of probation officers came in for even more objection. It provides that there shall be an officer specially appointed in each county of the province to whom convicted persons let out on probation as a result of suspended sentences shall report at set intervals. The salaries of these officers under the bill would be paid for largely by the municipalities in which they act as well as being called upon to furnish offices and office assistants.

Objects to Bill.

H. H. Dewart strongly objected to the bill on the ground that it was saddling on municipalities expenditures when there had been no demand for such officials, that the police commissions were the proper bodies to name probation officers, and they could do it without causing any additional expense in the municipalities.

Hon. Howard Ferguson took a similar view. R. L. Brackin (Kent West) took the position that such officers should be appointed only when a municipality asked for them.

W. F. Nickle supported the bill in that the persons let on probation should not be put under the control of the police, whose chief business was to apprehend criminals, but that probation officers should be persons of entirely different outlook and sympathy, men who would be anxious to lend a helping hand to the fallen, ready to guide and counsel the unfortunate.

However, he did not think the whole cost should be borne by the province. He said he was prepared to go almost as far as to say that "we are making more criminals in sending men to penitentiaries than in any other way."

Premier Drury and Major Tolmie took a similar view that probation officers should not be police officers, the premier suggesting that it would probably be wise to pass the bill and take up in committee whether the province bear the whole cost of probation officers or it would be left entirely with the municipality to appoint the officers and pay a considerable proportion of the cost entailed. Major Tolmie claimed that if the municipality had to pay the salaries of these officers they should make the appointments. The bill passed the second reading on the understanding that these points would be further considered, the six months' hoist moved by H. H. Dewart being defeated.

BELIEVE FANATIC BURNED CHURCH

MONTREAL, April 4.—It is now authoritatively stated that the fire which yesterday destroyed the Church of the Sacred Heart was started by a fire-bug harboring a violent prejudice against Catholic institutions.

The fire department has made a report to the police that a man was heard by a member of the fire brigade to say: "St. Bridget's will be next and then I'll get the rest." He fled before the firemen could seize him.

It has been ascertained that a man answering the same description attempted to burn down the St. Vincent De Paul refuge two weeks ago. The police are firmly convinced that this man crossed the organ wires in the Church of the Sacred Heart with yesterday's disastrous result.

AVIATOR KILLED BY OIL OPERATOR

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 4.—Lieut.-Col. Paul W. Beck, commandant of Post Field, the aviation section of Fort Sill, Okla., was shot to death here early today in the fashionable residence of Jean P. Day, widely-known oil operator. Day is held at his home in custody of a sheriff pending an investigation.

According to a statement issued by R. W. Dick, Day returned to his house after escorting home a number of guests which his wife earlier had entertained at cards, and found Mrs. Day struggling in the arms of the army officer. Dick, who is an intimate acquaintance of the family, said Day authorized the statement.

DRURY TO SPEAK AT CHICAGO RALLY

TORONTO, April 4.—Premier E. C. Drury today finally accepted an invitation to address the mammoth mass meeting being held on Friday evening in Chicago in connection with the celebration of the 104th anniversary of the consummation of the Rush-Bogart treaty. The invitation was tendered in person by J. F. Cornelius, president of the All-Chicago Kiwanis Council.

ASKS RETURN OF $250 DEPOSIT PAID

A. C. Brown, Port Stanley Fisher, Claims Game Warden Exacted Payment.

COMPLAINS TO TORONTO

Money Given as Guarantee Against Use of Undersized Twine in Fishing.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 4.—In an effort to secure the return of $250, which he claimed he was unjustly required to pay to the district game warden as a guarantee that he would not use undersized twine while fishing before he received his license, A. C. Brown of Port Stanley is taking the matter up with the department at Toronto.

Mr. Brown claims that he applied for his 1922 commercial license in the regular way in March, but on March 17 received a letter from Col. Emmerton stating that information had been obtained that Mr. Brown had purchased 100 pounds of undersized twine since April 30, 1921, and advising Mr. Brown that unless he was prepared to furnish the Ontario Fisheries Department with a bond for $250 as a guarantee that the twine would not be used in the waters of Lake Erie, the department could not see its way clear to issue the desired 1922 license.

Mr. Brown sent the demanded $250 guarantee to Col. Emmerton in the form of a check, and at the same time procured a verified statement from the firm of John Leckie & Co., Toronto, from whom he had bought his twine for years, to the effect that no undersized mesh had been sold Mr. Brown since April 30, 1921, as charged. This declaration was sent to Col. Emmerton with a request that the guarantee check be returned. Mr. Brown visited County Police Magistrate Hunt Tuesday and made affidavit before the squire that he had not purchased nor had in his possession any undersized twine, as charged. This affidavit will be taken to Toronto Wednesday by ex-Warden N. S. Cornell of Port Stanley, and presented to Hon. Harry Mills, minister of mines and fisheries, with a request that Mr. Brown's guarantee money be refunded, and that the whole matter be investigated.
