Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Oct. 24.—Ontario's majority for prohibition climbed slowly this morning, increasing a thousand at a time with each revision of the returns as belated records from outlying polls drifted in. There are still a thousand odd of these to hear from, and the extent of the victory for the Ontario temperance act may not be known for days. Based on actual returns available, the majority for a continuance of the present legislation stands at 36,924, with 1,114 polls to hear from. There has been delay in some ridings, owing to the misunderstanding over the method of reporting re-

Some returning officers have declined to reveal these, and have sent their ballot boxes to the government in Toronto without divulging the result. There are also some remote country polls unreported, but the majority are small, and the final result of the plebis-

O.T.A. To Be Rigidly Enforced

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Premier Howard Ferguson, in a atement issued this afterioon, declared in effect that the Ontario temperance act would be rigidly enforced in view of the returns from the lebiscite taken yesterday to determine public sentiment on prohibition legislation.

The premier issued his statement after a protracted meeting of the Ontario cabinet, which lasted from 11:45 a.m. until 2 p.m. He declared that as he had intimated in his pre-plebiscite speeches, he would enforce the O. T. A. to the fullest extent. He added that there would be more difficulty in enforcing the act in view of the increase in "wet" sentiment.

FREER EDUCATION URGED BY DALE

University of Toronto Professor Speaks Before Forest City Teachers.

Attacking the trend of modern edu-cation toward uniformity and stand-ardization, which tends to produce minds of the same type, Prof. J. A. Dale of the University of Toronto made a strong plea last night for freedom in education. Prof. Dale was the speaker at the banquet ar-ranged by the London teachers' institute in the Smallman & Ingram dining-room as part of the institute

"What we want to guard against in our educational system is too great perfection," he declared, sounding a warning note against too great systemizing and standardization.

Against Readers.

"For example, I hope the time will come when there won't be any readers in the schools. I am looking for the day when, instead of a single book in the schoolroom, there will be shelves of books, and each child reading a different book. And there won't be this complaint from the intelligent parent, that his child eagerly absorbs the reader on the day he has purchased it, and then must continue to read it throughout the whole year, or else look to other books for pleasure. He will be able to find his pleasure and his work in the same books.

"It is only natural, however, that in a modern democracy which is essentially industrial in character, the educational system should insist on uniformity.

"In this industrial democracy all the fendency has been to crush the light out of the craftsman. There was a great spiritual beauty in the life of the old-fashioned craftsman. His least has been one of our greatest. His loss has been one of our greatest Teaching Loses Craftsmanship.

"Is not the same thing true of the teaching profession? Has not the teaching profession has lost its craft-manship? Has it lost track of the fact that its business is the recreation of a personality—not merely the filling of a mind with facts?

"The most precious thing to me about education is in the creation of individualities. And that can only be the result of absolute freedom in education. No teaching is quite so perfect as that of a devoted, skilled mother for her child or that of the rural teacher for her few small

"It is inevitable, of course, that we must have an orderly arrange-ment of educational systems, but we should guard against a too perfectly organized educational system which will tend to sacrifice the individual. Systematizing and standardization of education is a violation of its essential freedom."

Enthusiasm in Pupils.

The speaker did not attempt to give any practical advice for the securing of greater freedom in the securing of greater freedom in the educational system, but he did urge the members of the teaching profession to remember not only to instruct, but to kindle life and enthusiasm in their pupils—to give them both food and exercise for the

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, wholtells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no

LONDON GIVES 540 WET MAJORITY OUT OF OVER 23,000 VOTES POLLED BUT IS DRIEST OF FIVE BIG CITIES

Final Results in City Show Wets Gained Majority in Wards Two and Three.

RECORD VOTE CAST

Women of City Went Almost Solid For Continuance of Ontario Temperance Act.

More than twenty-three thousand Londoners in yesterday's ballot battle For a majority of 540 for the west, disproving, as the final swing in the provincial strife established, the Gumpian theory that "As London For goes, so goes the country."

The pivotal point in the fray at large, London proved a dividing line between the preponderantly wet larger communities, such as Toronto, Ottawa and Hamilton, and the emphatically dry constituencies lower down in the scale in point of popula-

No election in recent years in London attracted so great a measure of popular interest, not entirely at the polling places, but unquestionably so in the streets, during the receiving of the returns. Despite the fact that the greatest forenoon balloting on record was re-ported from all parts of the city, the day finished with a total vote of more than 700 short of the number re-corded in the prohibition plebiscite

Women's Vote Big Factor.

Every polling station in the city was manned by the rival factions, the women of London for the first time turning out in numbers. Though it is not as yet possible to analyze the result in its relation to women franchise it is the belief of election subdivision 24 136 ranchise it is the belief of election subdivision 25 137 officers that the ladies exceeded th men in the percentage of those wh acceted the responsibilities of citizenship. The vote in the morning in many of the subdivisions was preponderantly that of the women, and on the authority of both wets and drys the women declared with some drys the women declared with something approaching unanimity for "continuance" of the O. T. A.

Examination of the figures reveals the fact that the wets gleaned their rather small majority by dint of conquest in ten of the twenty-five pollular subdivisions in ward 1 bring ing subdivisions in ward 1, lyi south of Dundas street and west wellington street, twelve out of six-teen with one tied in ward, 2, north of Dundas and west of Wellington, fourteen out of nineten in ward, 3, south of Dundas street and east of Wellington, and eight out of twentythree in ward 4. The railway men's subdivision 42 poll was typical of the industrial districts—wet.

A map of London's declared wet and dry territory today shows that the drys achieved their greatest strengh in South London and in a triangular wedge driven down through North London from the city limits, with its point extending to York and Waterloo the city limits, with its point extending to York and Waterlood streets. In East London they held the subdivision in which Queen's Park is located and four others lying immediately north between Subdivision 58 Subdivision 58 Subdivision 59 lying immediately north between Elizabeth and Quebec street and north to Elias street. The South London control of the prohibitionists was not effectively challenged except in the Front street district except in the warm of the prohibition of the prohibi Front street district south of Clark's bridge, in the neighborhood of Carfrae Crescent at the end of Richmond street bridge, and in the extreme southwestern corner of the city.

Divergence of Opinion. South London is traditionally Liberal in its political views, but there is little of a political character perceptible in the results. Even the claim some of the exuberant "wets" that the O. T. A. found greatest favor in the more expensive residential districts is not entirely borne out. It is true that from Victoria Park to Mait-land street and north to the territory overlooking the Western university the drys gave the O. T. A. their most effective support, but it is equally true that the wets, regardless of white collars or overalls, sliced a cross-section that extends in an unbroken swath from West London which is entirely wet, through along the southern tier of subdivisions out into the Ealing annex. There the employees of the larger industries, such as the carshops and the big factories of the south end had been called by the prognosticators to vote 70 per cent wet.

The divergence of opinion between the people of the larger urban centhe people of the larger urban cen-ters and of the rural districts finds a typical instance in both London and its environs. The annexed areas of London, including the suburbs of Knollwood Park, Pottersburg, Ealing and Chelsea Green, are still, for the purposes of provincial elections, a part of the riding of East Middlesex, nected by telephone or telegraph with part of the riding of East Middlesex, which extends back into the country which extends back into the country to include the purely rural areas of the townships of Nissouri, North Dorchester and the outlying portions

Since the war there has been a growing tendency in this country to turn political meetings into rough and tumble fights. Mere heckling, which is time-honored custom, has been perverted into a demonstration of class hatred, accompanied by per-sonal threats and an unbearable din of tinpan beating, bell ringing and horn blowing.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 10

This cross-word puzzle shows all your favorite three-letter words in neat array. With such practice as this one, you will soon have all the ee-letter words in the dictionary at your finger-tips.

"One cross word leads to another" is the slogan of this game, and the key to its solution. All the words in these puzzles, across and up and down, horizontal and vertical, interlock. When you find a word crossways, it helps you at the same time to determine the other, up-and-down, word. Cross-word puzzles form ingenious patterns. You will be fascinated in working them out.

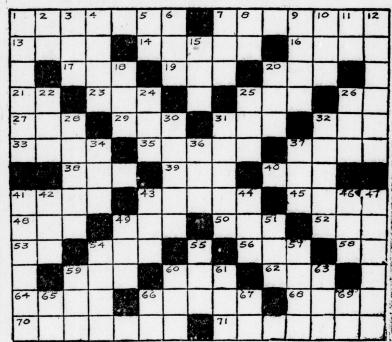

The directions for working out the puzzle are printed below. Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word. Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock.

Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table. Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white spaces allotted to it. Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

The splendid galeasse was moored alongside, and all about her there was great bustle of preparation for departure. Porters moved up and down the gangway that connected her with the shore, carrying bales of provisions, barrels of water, kegs of gunpowder, and other necessaries for the voyage, and even as Asad and his followers reached the head of that gangway four negroes were staggering down it under the load of a huge palmetto bale that was slung from staves yoked to their shoulders.

On the poop stood Sakr-el-Bahr with Others is Jordan and his followers reached the feel of the folly?"

Sakr el-Bahr mode slowly along the vessel's waistdeck to the main mast—for she was rigged with main and foremasts. There he halted again to look into the face of Sakr-el-Bahr who stepped along beside him.

"Why didst thou laugh?" he questioned shortly.

"Why? At the folly of such a proposal," said Sakr-el-Bahr in haste, to much in haste to seek a diplomatic answer.

Darker grew the Basha's frown.

"Folly?" quoth he. "Wherein lies the folly?"

the gangway paced Larocque and Vigitello, two renegade boatswains, e French and the other Italian, who had sailed with him on every voyage for the past two years. Larocque was superintending the loading of the vessel, bawling his orders for the bestowal of provisions here, of water yonder, and of powder about the mainmast. Vigitello was making a final inspection of the slaves at the oars.

As the palmetto pannier was brought aboard, Larocque shouted to the negroes to set it down by the mainmast. But here Sakr-el-Bahr interfered, bidding them, instead, to bring it up to the stern and place it in the poop-house.

Asad had dismounted, and stood with Marzak at his side at the head of the gangway when the youth finally begged his father imself to take command of this expedition,

"A change my lord?"

"But yesterday in the market-place thyself didst urge me to join this expedition and to command it," Asad reminded him speaking with deliberate emphasis. He spread his hands, anger gathered in his eyes. "Whence this change?" he demanded sternly, Sakr-el-Bahr hesitated, caught in his own toils. He looked away from Asad a moment; he had a glimpse of the handsome flushed face of Marzak at his father's elbow, of Biskaine, Tsamanni, and the others all staring at him in amazement, and even of some grimy sunburned faces from the rowers' bench on his left that were looking on with dull curiosity.

He smiled, seeming outwardly to remain entirely unruffled.
"Why—it is that I have come to perceive thy reasons for refusing. For the rest, it is as I say—the quarry is not worthy of the hunter."

What is the most valuable book in your office? THE TELEPHONE DIRECTORY.—Right!

Because it gives the best buyers, the most-often-revised and therefore most complete list of people you could hope to do business with—whether you wish to buy or sell.

You look up customers' names and addresses in the TELE-PHONE DIRECTORY every day.

You compile lists of customers from it-or get someone to do it for you.

If you have goods you must sell in a hurry, you call up possible customers by telephone.

But do you advertise in the TELEPHONE DIRECTORY? Do you make it easy for people who don't know you but want your goods, to get in touch with you?

96% of those who advertise in the TELEPHONE DIREC-TORY continue year after year because it brings them new business. They will tell you so.

Will you give the TELEPHONE DIRECTORY a chance to bring YOU some new business? The cost is surprisingly small.

CLUBS.

A news item reports that there is a considerable decline in men's clubs.

This is as it should be, for a club is about the dreariest place in the world. It has been described as an institution kept up by a thousand men for the benefit of ten bachelors.

The club was doubtless originally designed as a man's refuge from women. As women are becoming more like men, and indulging nowadays in the same callings that men indulge in, men no longer want to escape. They like to have the women always about the place. One cannot imagine why it was the men ever wanted to escape from them.

Men, when they are together, discuss their food, their work, with an unwholesome solemnity it as practical in every way, and as showing the right now before winter sets in. The idea of But to lunch, even in the cheapest hotel or healthiest and most cheerful mood.

Lunch, in a city club, is one of the most and is prepared to do anything that offers is boring and dreary ceremonies imaginable. Men in clubs talk lugubriously in undertones. In restaurants there are laughter and romance. The office is forgotten, the recreation is complete. Staid men and women lose, temporarily, their aging lines and the lack-lustre look in their eyes gives way to a genuine sparkle as they mingle with the fresh faces of young lovers snatching precious moments over their food.

The club is an excrescence of the class idea. It is the endeavor of one kind of people to get away from the other kind. It is a phase of the instinct to escape from humanity. But there is no real joy that is not a part of humanity, and a man finds out, sooner or later, that happiness runs vertically through all strata and is not confined to a single class.

Girls Plan Bazaar To Be Held in December at Home of Lucile Hayman.

A new organization comes to public notice. It is the Blue guild, an enterprising little society of ten girls, whose president is Miss Lucile Hayman, daughter of Mrs. E. C. Hayman, Kensington apartments. And their chief concern just now is a small girl of the Ronald-Roy Gray home whom they have adopted. In their own way they are trying to make up to her the lack of father and mother and they are seeing that she has warm, comfortable clothing and a jolly treat now and then.

They have even gone so far as to make some of the clothing, dresses and sweaters, with their own hands. And now they are raising money for more by giving a bazaar in December Kensington apartments.

The Best Advertisement Any Man Can Have Is a Wife Who Is His Loyal Press Agent Twenty-Four Hours Every Day.

One of the most curious things about women is that they can never resist posing as martyrs. They simply revel in being pitied and "poor thinged," and it is meat and drink to them to be regarded as one who endures a secret sorrow and smiles above an aching heart.

This morbid craving for sympathy leads them to do many queer It makes mothers reveal their children's shortcomings to strangers and tell shameful secrets that would otherwise never be known. And, in particular, it makes complaining about their husbands the favorite indoor

It is very rarely that you hear a woman admit that she is happily married, that she loves and admires the man to whom she is united, and that she considers that he does his duty quite as well as a husband as she does hers as a wife. On the contrary, most wives assume in public a meek, patient-Griselda attitude, as of one who bears a heavy cross with an almost superhuman courage, and when they speak of their husbands they are more prone to dwell on hubby's faults than his virtues.

Now, the funny part of all of this is that these women do not mean a word of what they say. They are not really dissatisfied with their husbands. You couldn't get one of them to take a divorce if you offered it to her on a silver salver garnished with alimony. Not one of them would trade off the faulty he-man she has got for an impeccable saint.

When a wife recites the litany of her husband's weakness and failings she is just indulging herself in an orgy of self-pity and striking what she considers a romantic note—that of the misunderstood woman who is bound to one who can never really appreciate

It does not occur to her that she is doing the man to whom she is married a deadly wrong, and that she is putting a spoke in the wheel of her own fortune, which is, after all, his fortune. For the outside world takes a man very much at his wife's valuation, and she either bulls or bears his stock.

Reputation is an intangible thing that is made up of whispers, and careless words, and shrugs, and intimations of things not really told. But these make or mar us, and nearly always go straight back home. It is the people who are nearest to us who write our price tags.

So when a woman whines that she can't have an automobile because her husband doesn't know how to get along in business, we jump to the conclusion that he is lacking in energy and enterprise, and we pass him by if we are looking for a good man for a big job. Or if a woman complains that her husband is grouchy and grumpy, and hard to get along with, he registers in our minds as a surly brute, with whom we want to have no dealings. We might know him for an expert in a certain line for which we needed a man, but we would avoid employing a man who was so ill-tempered that even his own wife could hardly endure him.

Nor would we care to patronize the man who was such a tightwad that his wife had to screw every penny out of him, nor the one who bullied and browbeat a poor, little woman and never showed her any kindness or We all have a natural, kindly, human prejudice against the man who is mean enough to mistreat a defenceless wife and we don't want anything to do with him.

On the contrary, we warm up to the man who is a good family man, who is kind and affectionate to his wife and children, and whose wife goes about singing his praises. In fact, a happy wife is just about the best advertisement a man can have. Between the wife who is a booster and the wife who is a knocker lies success or failure for her husband in many a case.

Why do we buy our groceries of A and our drugs of B? Simply and by the Municipal chapter, I. O. D. E. solely because Mrs. A and Mrs. B are such nice little women, and they are so fond of their husbands, and are always telling us what wonderful stocks the Provincial chapter meeting herof goods they keep, and how enterprising they are.

How is it that Dr. C and Lawyer D climb so quickly to the head of their professions? Mainly because Mrs. C and Mrs. D never weary of telling what great students their husbands are, and exploiting their wonderful skill and eloquence, and telling about their big cases, and of how wept up they are in their work. That's the kind of a person we want to doctor us when we are sick and to handle our cases when we go to law, and we feel that we have got an inside tip on them, because the women who know them best have told us all about them.

Why is it that we all look up to E as such an oracle? Because his wife does. We know he must be simply wonderful because his wife has told us how profound he is, and what deep books he reads, and how noble and conscientious he is. We would never have found out these things for ourselves, but when a wife feels that way about her husband we take it as proof

Far more important than what we think about a man is what his children think about him, and they take their opinion from their mother. If she is always pointing out their father's weaknesses to them they grow up with a contempt for him; but if she holds up his virtues for their admiration, they revere him and he has authority and influence over them.

Every woman should be her husband's press agent, for she can make him or run him with her propaganda. DOROTHY DIX.

Several New Plays Added To Repertoire of Locals

London Intermediates in Good Shape For Battle in Sarnia.

BEARD IS OUT

Last night Coach Doug Huestis put the London intermediate squad through the stiffest gruelling it's had as the final punch in preparation for the game in Sarnia on Saturday.

Two scrimmage lines were formed for warming up purposes, and they worked themselves into a fighting pitch and more than a fine trickle of perspiration. Then the linesmen were sent through their paces. They put real punch into everything they did, even to the grunts. Everything was there except the sound of heavy body impacts, and anybody with a four-tubed imagination could imagine they were tuning in on the thuds, Just by way of variety Huestis has introduced several new plays into the front end of the local machine, not highly complicated affairs, but ones which will serve to puzzle the Sarnians when they are called up.

The nalves got plenty of catching practice last night against three and four tackles sent at them. Lawrence and Wanless will probably both be started Saturday with Ernie Dennis held in reserve. Dennis is booting the ball a mile, and it's probably that London will change halves frequently around Goodman, who will play the greatest part of the game.

Goldman, who will play the greatest part of the game.

Gillies Shows Form.

Huestis put the halves through some opening field running practice last night and told the tacklers to hit them hard. They did—and the ground, just as often. Art Gillies, who last year showed great promise as an open field runner, this year shows the same natural instinct for pivoting and dodging, and a good many of the tackles missed him cleanly. Beard probably the most deadly lackler of the bunch, to which Red Wilson and Had Karn would have oftered direct testimony after the last game, will not be in the game Saturday. He has a charleyhorse in his arm and has been carrying it strapped in the last few days, though still turning out to practices. Though the Londoners have lost both their wings through injury in Loveless and Beard, there are capable reserves who will annoy the Sarnia halves aplenty. It is safe to predict that nearly alther esserves will be thrown into Saturday's affray. So far as the casualties have been light these youngsters haven't had their chance. Ted Johnston's work has been particularly outstanding, and Meikle and Hill have also done some fine work in the drills and shown more than enough outside ent angle. Last week at Youngstown, on the plan of campaign for Saturday's game against the Londoners here.

The players have at last come to the realization that London has a team that is strong enough to cause any team in the intermediate series a lot of worry and this is an asset. The blue and white know now that to win Saturday they must put their best foot forward and snap into the fray with some fight.

The scrimmage drills, which were avoided at the start because of danger of injury, have been revived this week, and while the athletes are carting around a brand new bunch of bruises as a result of their strenuous going, they are showing a decided improvement in their defensive play, although it is still far from perfect. The London steam roller will not find the the athletes are the play at the peppery little New Yorker, who handled that sturdy bantating Mike Yorker, who handled that sturdy bantating Mike Yorker, who handled that sturdy bantating Mike Sold Midget's contract for $2,000. He would hardly be available for Saturday's game, because of lack of the hard conditioning the squad has gone through but he'd be a might big help with a good hard week. As a matter of fact, there will be two weeks between the game, as London does not play the second game here until Nov. 8. Willoughby could toughen up to his great form of last year in that time.

Willoughly who made good last year, turned out last night and says he may be in the city from now on. He would not suit Dunn, who demanded the pound of flesh and gave Schafer until 6 o'clock to get down to the stipulated poundage. He did so after going through a strenuous form of reducing and the result was that when he entered the ring he was so waskened that he was unable to give anything near his best. But at that he knew days ahead what was expected of him and he should have made the weight or let it be known in that if they could find room to take a player or two with them the committee would appreciate the lift.

Purple and White Should Be Step Nearer Title at Finish.

STILL DRILL HARD

Western U broke all records for attendance at Intercollegiate games here on Saturday last, but it is expected new mark will be set this week, who they meet Guelph Aggies a second time within the week. Victory for the purple within the week. Victory for the purple and white will put them a long way on the road to the Intercollegiate title which Western supporters are beginning to see loom up on the horizon for the first time in a good many years of patient peering.

They ran Aggles into the ground Wednesday, but this doesn't mean that they'll go on a juggernaut joy ride at the Farmers' expense Saturday. Farmers are apt to provide stiff opposition but hardly a win. St. Mikes already having beaten Varsity, should repeat, and this would mean that St. Mikes and Western would still be tied. If Varsity should reverse the decision, Western's win here Saturday would just about cinch matters. At least Western couldn't do much worse than get a tie out of the remaining games.

clinch matters. At least Western couldn't do much worse than get a tie out of the remaining games.

Shows Real Edge.

Conservative supporters of Western are wondering if the fact that they beat the Aggies by greater scores than St. Mikes or Varsity managed to do, is a sure indication of the purple and white's superiority over these rivals, because Aggies were undoubtedly weaker than when they engaged in the other battles, but the team officials say that it is. Western, it is believed, would have been in better position to score more points but for decisions they believed were off color.

They further point out that Aggies were not quite so weak as represented, and displayed as much fightling spirit as any team they've met.

Because of the confidence abounding in the Western camp. Coach Fickley has introduced several new plays for Saturday. They'll be needed against St. Mikes and Varsity, and Fickley believes his charges can absorb them the way they are going at their drills. Fickley has a clear, incisive way of getting the ideas of the play home to the players, and that makes execution much more simple. There is something of the drillmaster's methods about Fickley's afternoon's work, but there is nothing mechanical in the way the sorting decisions they be an additional to do not sort in this city. They will have the privilege of hearing him again in St. Andrew's church at 11 o'clock on Sun day morning. The cheer section Saturday will be a special feature again this week-end. Something of the spirit of the team has spread to the strong-lunged, shrill-volced squad of co-eds and students who supply the vocal encouragement, and there will be real effort in this part of the program Saturday.

Refuses Comment On Possible Effect of Result of Liquor

WILL BE DISCUSSED

Dry Leaders Ask Stricter Enforcement-Wets Want Local Option. Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Oct. 23.-Premier G.

Howard Ferguson said that he would await final returns before making any announcement as to the government's policy. The vote in its various aspects would have to be the subject of discussion and consideration by the government, he said. He declined to say whether the government might make any discrimination between the country and the city in the handling of the liquor problem.

Asked if the case of the cities would be considered apart, the pre-mier replied: "I would not even say In a statement issued after midnight Rev. Ben Spence, on behalf of the prohibition forces, announced that his program would be "On to Ottawa" to secure dominion-wide prohibition of importation and manufacture of liquor. The fact that the majority for the O. T. A. has dropped from the 407 000 majority. dropped from the 407,000 majority given by the electors in 1919 did not signify, Mr. Spence thought. The onus of proving that the province did not want the O. T. A. was on the opponents of the act, "They have failed to prove their case," said Mr.

A., the substantial majority cast 668 commented on, and local option was 52 suggested as the only equitable means of securing to townspeople the form of liquor legislation they desired. Otherwise, it was pointed out, the country people would be in the position of forcing on city dwellers a system they did not want.

I. F. Hellmuth, president of the 264 Moderation league, expressed the 574 opinion that in the light of the result it seemed as if it were going to be impossible to enforce the O. T. A

358 mittee last night "slow up" signs were recommended for two streets in the east end. At the corner of York and Adelaide and at the corner of King and Adelaide boulevard signs will be placed this autumn, and in the spring pavement signs will be painted.

The committee was well represented at its brief meeting and much sented at its brief meeting and much comment was expressed on the suc-fees of the "stop" street at Pipe Line road and Wharncliffe.
