BIG SWING OF VICTORY

Liberal Conservatives Perfecting Organization all Along the Line.

Mr. Whitney is Confident—Dr. Reaume Gets Magnificent Send-Off.

Toronto, April 19.—Mr. J. P. Whitney, leader of the opposition in the Ontario House, returned to the city to-night from Dundas, and when asked what he had to say about the date of the elections, replied that May 29 suited as well as any other day. As far as the opposition were concerned, they were prepared to go to the country at any time, and he was confident that they would have the majority of the voters with them.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE.

Windsor, Ont., April 19.—The utmost enthusiasm and harmony reigned at the convention of North Essex Conservatives yesterday afternoon. Evidently the delegates came to the convention with the idea of selecting the strongest candidate procurable, and all were a unit that Dr. J. O. Reaume, of Windsor, is the man who can give W. J. McKee, the Liberal candidate, the fight of his life. No name but Reaume's was submitted to the convention, and it took but a few minutes to make his nomination unanimous by a standing vote.

It was one of the best attended conventions held by the Conservatives of North Essex in the last twelve years. Every sub-division was represented by a full quota of delegates, and, beside these, there were nearly as many more substitutes who came to the city to attend the gathering. Fully 250 people were present, and the best of good humor prevailed during the entire session.

FATHER TAKES SON'S PLACE.

Dundas, April 19.—At the nomination meeting of North Westworth Conservatives to-day, Mr. A. R. Wardell, father of the last member, was offered the nomination for Legislature, and only accepted on condition that he would not be expected to take any great part in the campaign on account of his recent bereavement. The condition was willingly received by the Conservatives. Mr. Wardell said he would do the best he could under the circumstances. He would not have been there to-day only for the wishes of his friends, and that if elected, it would have to be through their efforts.

The Opposition leader, Mr. Whitney, was present, and spoke feelingly of the death of Mr. Wardell, for whom he always had the highest esteem. Mr. Whitney was presented with a bouquet by Miss Beatrice Miller.

MAJOR FRASER CHOSEN.

Brantford, Ont., April 19.—South Brant Conservatives met in convention here this afternoon, to nominate a candidate for the Legislature. W. A. Hollinshead occupied the chair. Major Fraser, of Brantford, received the unanimous vote of the meeting to be the standard bearer for South Brant. Addresses were delivered by Major Fraser, W. S. Bromster and Z. Cockshutt.

WILL SUPPORT MR. MITCHELL.

Goverich, April 19.—The executive committee of the West Huron Prohibition Alliance met here yesterday, to consider the reports of the committee appointed at the convention of the Prohibitionists of West Huron, held two weeks ago, to wait upon the political conventions held at Duncannon and Smith's Hill. Mr. Mitchell, the Conservative nominee, it was announced, had signed the pledge presented by the committee, but that Mr. Cameron, the Liberal candidate, had failed to do so. The Alliance consequently decided to give its support to Mr. Mitchell.

GEN. WARREN HEARD FROM.

London, April 19.—Gen. Sir Charles Warren gave out a communication to-day in response to General Buller's stinging criticism of his conduct at Spion Kop. This evening, however, he requested the newspapers not to publish the communication. Gen. Warren's statement simply expresses the hope that the Government will publish the complete documents relating to Spion Kop. He asserts that the despatches, as published in the white book, considered by themselves, cause unjust reflections upon himself and his command.

THE SMALL-POX.

Toronto, Ont., April 19.—The small-pox situation in the province is very bright and the disease gives every promise of being entirely cleared out. There are two new cases in Ferris T. which, with the cases reported some time ago which are about recovered, makes eight in all. A new case is reported for Thebeson in the same family as the other one out there. Twelve cases, all old ones, are in the hospital at Otawa. Day township, Peterborough county, Belleville and Brockville have developed nothing new from the cases already reported.

LEUTENANT COLONEL RANKIN COMMANDING 24TH REGIMENT.

THE 24TH KENT REGIMENT ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

Brilliant Street Parade in the Bright Spring Morning—Excellent Sermon and Music—Compliments of the Colonel.

"Some people simply want to study English victories," said Rev. Mr. George in the course of an excellent sermon delivered to the soldiers of the 24th Regiment in the Victoria Avenue Methodist church yesterday, "but I believe in reading English history in detail, reading it till our minds are saturated with it. I believe in reading the story of the ignoble defeats as well as of the glorious victories."

"I met a man the other day who was carrying a cane made from the gunboat recently exploded from the river. I think the destruction of that gunboat a disgrace. The people of Chatham-like vultures devoured the truth until nothing remains. It is at about once a blot on our patriotism and a blot on our loyalty. It was a heinous crime of the ages past and ought to have been preserved. As I said I met a gentleman with a cane made from the gunboat. A friend took it in his hand and said, 'I never want to see one of these canes. They are emblems of our shame.'"

"I give place to no man in loyalty," forcibly continued Mr. George. "My forefathers have fought for this Canada of ours and my father's blood still runs warm within me and his spirit burns within me, but there was never the dawn of the darkest hour in British history but I want to study it. I want to learn the cause of defeat. England has only failed when she has ceased to be honest and true. When, as at Trafalgar, Inkerman and Lucknow, she unfurled her banner for truth and right, she has stood unconquered. Study England's defeats and learn from them the cause of defeat. The same applies to soldiers of the cross."

Rev. Mr. George closed with this earnest appeal to all, "Be just as true to yourself as to your country and just as true to your country as you are true to your God."

The music at the service was exceptionally good and was much enjoyed by the visiting soldiers. The choir, under the excellent leadership of Miss Blanche Baxter, sang the two anthems, "Great is the Lord," and "Christ is Risen." At the conclusion of the service Miss Baxter rendered the beautiful solo, "Dream of Paradise." Miss Morrison, the organist, played a very appropriate voluntary marches for the entry and exit of the soldiers.

At 10.30 a. m. yesterday the drill shed presented an animated appearance as the soldiers of the 24th filed from their various armories and took their places in line. After a few brief instructions from the Colonel the Regiment, in full marching strength, filed from the hall and preceded by the Band marched over to the Victoria Avenue Methodist church. The Maple City warriors presented a brilliant appearance as they stepped smartly along to the bright military music of the Regimental Band. The officers were out in full force. The return march was made via Head street and the Aberdeen bridge, thence by King street to the drill hall. Before dismissing the soldiers Colonel Rankin regretted the bad condition of the roads which prevented good marching, but complimented the men on their appearance in line and on the street. He also spoke of the good behavior of the men in church, but regretted that they got a little noisy towards the end of the sermon.

CONFER WITH FIGHTING BOERS

Burgher Leaders Leave Pretoria to Meet Followers at Rendezvous.

To Submit British Peace Terms—Transvaals Will Accept but Free Staters Uncertain.

Pretoria, April 19.—The Boer delegates left here at 9 o'clock last night for various destinations to confer with the burghers in the field.

WITH A BRITISH ESCORT.

Balmoral, Cape Colony, Saturday, April 19.—General Lucas Meyer, commander-in-chief of the Orange Free State forces, and late Secretary Reitz, of the Transvaal, and the other members of their party arrived here last night, and this morning proceeded to the north. They were accompanied by a British escort. It is their intention to consult with the Boers in the field.

THEIR DESTINATIONS.

Pretoria, April 20.—General De Wet has gone to Heilbron, Orange River Colony; General Botha, the Transvaal commander-in-chief, has gone to Vryheid, Transvaal, and General De la Rey, together with Mr. Steyn, ex-President of the Orange Free State, have gone to Klerksdorp, Transvaal. They have arranged to meet the burghers at different rendezvous and submit the British terms.

FREE STATERS MAY PROVE STUBBORN.

It is believed the Transvaalers will everywhere accept the terms as they are in no way anxious for a winter campaign. The only difficulty likely to occur will, it is thought, be with Orange Free Staters. In the meantime there will be no cessation of hostilities. The delegates are expected back in Pretoria the middle of May.

A TENTATIVE AGREEMENT.

London, April 20.—Wiring from Pretoria, the correspondent of the Standard says there is good reason to believe that a tentative agreement, which will prove mutually cordial and lead to an early cessation of hostilities, has been made.

KRUGER, ET AL., NO ACCOUNT.

The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Utrecht says it is recognized there that the Boer delegates at Pretoria have full power to negotiate without reference to the Boer leaders in Europe, who have no real influence on the peace negotiations.

MONDAY, APRIL 21.

A FAIR FIGHT.

Several citizens—the most of them, of course, identified with the Liberal party—have been good enough to communicate to this journal their commendation of the full and accurate report of the recent East Kent Liberal convention—the major portion of which was given to them, as usual, a day ahead of our Liberal contemporary—and of other Liberal meetings held recently.

These kind words are appreciated, but The Planet would desert its ideals of journalism were its conduct not such as warranted them. The days of that school of abortive political journalism, where statements were colored, men misquoted and opponents misrepresented, are fortunately past. There may be some so-called newspapers which still cling to these tactics that bring into disrepute and destroy usefulness—but it does them small credit with an intelligent public. The Planet lays claim to a higher standard. While this journal is, in the general acceptance of the term, a party paper and deems it a privilege to support such political principles as it believes are conducive to the public welfare and to fight vigorously for them, yet, in our opinion, not even the exigencies of a bitter campaign can condone the use of untruthful, misleading and unwarranted statements or abusive personalities.

At the outset let us all, Conservatives and Liberals, set the standard for a clean campaign. It need be none the less vigorous and telling. It will be more so.

The Planet believes that in supporting the candidature of John S. Fraser and John Davidson as members for Kent it is furthering the cause of good government and the best interests of the people. This journal intends to fight for its principles and fight hard. But it will fight fairly. It may be that The Planet will be called upon to deal some hard blows in the political arena, but they will land above the belt. We have a good cause—the people's cause—and we could not afford to tarnish it with offensive and disreputable methods.

In our opinion, both East and West Kent can be won, and we realize the advantages to our constituencies of being represented in Mr. Whitney's Government—a Government which is practically assured and which will be a credit and an impetus to our magnificent Province. And, in so far as may lie in our power, we shall endeavor by fair and straight-forward means to bring about that desirable end.

DISCREDITABLE METHODS.

The Prohibitionists are certainly under the bitter ban of the Liberals. Not satisfied with breaking their pledges to the temperance people and saddling them with a loaded referendum Ross and his colleagues in the late Ontario Legislature are evidently keeping their benches now at work to prevent the wronged Prohibitionists from obtaining the redress their provincial executive sought to secure by representation in the next Parliament.

This was evidenced locally in connection with the recent Prohibition convention at Ridgeway, of which the Ridgeway Dominion in a vigorous article says:

"From the start the meeting was captured by Liberal politicians, and as the bulk of those present were of the same political persuasion the farcical nature of the proceedings can well be understood. The honest, sincere prohibitionists present, and some of them have been life-long Liberals, were completely outnumbered and left the meeting at the close in anything but a comfortable state of mind."

"The game continued after the meeting, for the report sent out to the Globe from Chatham was one calculated to serve Liberal ends, and was read with amazement by the people of Kent who know the gentlemen mentioned in it as taking part in the meeting. It concludes by saying that only sixteen voted for the motion to put a prohibitionist candidate in the field, but fails to say that only twenty-two voted against it, including several zealous workers in the Liberal vineyard.

"Neither does the Banner-News give the figures, although it was represented at the meeting. It also says that 'only sixteen' voted for the motion. The deliberate intention of these reports was to make readers believe that a big majority voted the other way."

"Again, although not one single word was said by any speaker in favor of the Government or the referendum, but, on the other hand, several speakers strongly denounced G. W. Ross, the Government, the referendum and the Liberal party as a party, not one word of it finds its way into the reports appearing in either the Globe or the Chatham Banner-News."

"In conclusion let us say that from a Conservative point of view, that party stood to lose by a prohibitionist candidate taking the field. A third candidate would poll the votes of the sincere temperance men and they would be lost, for such a candidate would have no possible show of winning. With but two candidates in the field these votes, by far the most of them cast in the past for the Liberal party, will not be cast at all or will go against the party of broken temperance pledges and the 'loaded' referendum."

Whitney will win!

The two Jacks—Fraser and Davidson.

The opinions of Dr. McCully, George Johns and their friends of the old Liberal guard, upon the new "Liberal" machine, would prove interesting reading just now.

John Lee and his coterie are doubtless chuckling over the little game they put up on the Harwich and Blenheim Liberals.

Up to the time of going to press the local Liberal organ had not apologized to the prohibitionists of Kent for applauding the nasty designations "moonshine and rot," which were applied to their opinions in its columns.

James Rutherford is too straightforward and honest a man, anyway, for new "Liberal" politics. He and his friends took John Lee at his word.

The Banner-News has every reason to fear the action of the West Kent prohibitionists. It is now down on knees begging for mercy—Ridgeway Dominion.

The Banner is not likely to be taken seriously by conscientious prohibitionists. To help Ross out it placed itself on record as a vigorous opponent of prohibition principles. It is no wonder then, that the prohibitionists have no faith in its sincerity when it pretends to be friendly and counsels them against any endeavor to secure representation in the Legislature. The advice of a pronounced enemy is best left alone. The prohibitionists got some idea of the Banner's sentiments when, in an apparently unguarded moment it secured the anonymity of a "ministerial prohibitionist" to label their opinions "moonshine and rot," and added its own endorsement to the effect that the epithets were sensibly used in that relation.

SCROFULA.

"Scattered consumption" is a good way of describing this disease. It is in fact a real consumption of the little glands under the skin.

Scott's Emulsion cures it. Scott's Emulsion is good for all kinds of consumption but especially good for scrofula.

It heals the sores—but doesn't stop there for the weakness and loss of flesh is the worst part of scrofula.

Scott's Emulsion feeds and strengthens scrofulous children.

No minister of the Laurier government can be small enough to criticize the action of Lord Minto in giving the speediest and widest publicity to the casualty list from South Africa.

It is scarcely conceivable that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would allow such news to be treated as one of the spoils which belong to the victors, or in other words, the party organs.

AN ECONOMICAL DODO BIRD.

Free trade is not an eternal truth. The truth of to-day becomes the falsehood of to-morrow in the sphere of economics. Free trade may have been good for Britain when Britain adopted free trade. Free trade has possibly outlived its usefulness in Britain, and may be shelved until another turn of the wheel restores its power to advance the interests of the country.

MADE A HIT

Miss Eida Idle and her Coterie of Maple City Vocalists astonish Eastern Audience

The Chatham vocalists have taken the city of Wilmington, Del., by storm. The following is taken from the account in The Morning News of a concert recently given by Miss Idle in the eastern city.

Grace Methodist Episcopal Sunday school hall was filled with music lovers last night, when the introductory concert of Miss Eida Idle, director of the choir of Grace Church, was given. Miss Idle was assisted by Miss Allie Humphrey, soprano; Frank H. Mason, bass; Robert Knight, tenor; LaMert Guyer, soprano; W. E. Douglas, electrician; and Miss Martha Bradford, accompanist, and Grace Sunday school orchestra, under the direction of John D. Taylor.

It was the initial bow of Miss Idle in concert selections to Wilmingtonians, and in the audience were men and women at the fore in matters musical in this city. The reputation of Miss Idle had preceded her, and she fully sustained the high standard that naturally was expected of her. Her enunciation was very clear, her voice powerful, and her expression and interpretation were all that could be desired of an artist such as she.

Miss Idle made a very favorable impression, and her selection were classed among the best ever heard in this city. Miss Idle's introductory solos were "Staccato Polka," by Mulder; "Sing, Sweet Bird," by Ganz, and they were so pleasingly given that Miss Idle had to respond to encores after the applause had subsided.

Miss Allie Humphrey, of Grace choir, a pupil of Miss Idle, gave evidence of great ability in her rendition of "For All Eternity," by Marchioni. Miss Humphrey has a rich soprano voice, of which she has excellent control. Robert Knight, also a member of Grace choir, contributed to the order of their vocal turn-out and their excellent appearance. He also spoke very highly of the rules of the order and of its object and work.

ATTEND CHURCH

St. Joseph's Church, C. O. F. E., paraded to St. Joseph's Church last evening. There was a very large turnout, about 150 attending. The parade was in charge of Hy. E. Gerber, Sr., conductor. The new parade badges were worn for the first time and the members presented a very neat appearance as they marched to and from church.

Father Herman preached their annual sermon and delivered a very eloquent address, and commended the order of their vocal turn-out and their excellent appearance. He also spoke very highly of the rules of the order and of its object and work.

AN OLD CASE

E. R. Brown, the colored man charged with getting money under false pretences, appeared before Judge Houston this morning. In January, 1899, Brown was alleged to have got all of the 25 cents in money from J. E. Thomas, under pretence of collecting money to pay the mortgage of the church. This morning Mr. Thomas could only remember that he gave 25 cents to some man three years ago, but he couldn't identify Brown as the man. In which he differed from P. C. Dodson. Dodson had not seen the man since he skipped out on being released on his own recognizances after being arrested on the charge of getting the 25 cents. Dodson saw the man for the first time last week, recognized and arrested him. This morning the case against Brown was dismissed.

AN OLD WARRIOR

The following from the London Times interest many Chatham people, especially the older men, who have read Sir William Russell's despatches:

"To-day congratulations fall to Sir William Russell, the Doyen of war correspondents, on his eighty-second birthday. He was born on March 28, 1820, and his numberless friends will be glad to hear that notwithstanding his years he is in the enjoyment of fair health."

Sir William Russell is a second cousin of Mrs. D. McGarvin, Victoria avenue, and of Miss Margaret Macdonald. He was their mother's first cousin.

SAD DEATH

A very sad death occurred in the city this morning when Margaret Gordon, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Everett, of this city, passed peacefully away at her father's home, Hyslop street. Deceased has been ill for only a short time and her death, while not entirely unexpected, has come as a sad blow to her parents and her bereaved husband who survive her.

After her marriage to Chas. Gordon, deceased resided in Sturgis, Mich. About nine weeks ago she was taken seriously ill and removed to Detroit, where she underwent an operation. The operation, however, gave her but little relief and she was almost immediately removed to her home in this city, where everything possible was done to relieve her suffering. A few weeks ago she was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for another operation, but it was found that she was not physically strong enough to withstand the shock of a second operation and she was taken back to her father's home, where she died.

During all of her illness deceased has borne herself with Christian fortitude and patience, and when the last summons came she was entirely prepared to go. She was deeply beloved by all with whom she came in personal contact, and her death is deeply regretted by her many friends and acquaintances. The family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Deceased was 36 years of age and has been married but a few years, and her husband is prostrated with grief.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of her father, Hyslop street, to the William street Baptist church, and thence to the Maple Leaf cemetery.

DRUGGISTS,

JAMES' NEGLECT

The Oxendines, husband and wife, were to have appeared to answer to charges of assault, preferred each against the other. Selma, the wife, was on hand, but James, the husband, was wanting. The Judge told James when he let him out on bail two weeks ago that he never wanted to see him again, and Jimmie is doing his best towards fulfilling the court's wishes. On Friday, James called on the Judge and requested Mr. Houston as follows:

"Judge, will you remove my disability? I want to stay home. I can get a good, steady job for all summer with Leithbridge Bros."

The Judge told the colored man that he had better come to court on Monday if he wanted his case disposed of. James, however, didn't appear this morning, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

PULP AND PAPER.

Canada is Pre-eminently the Greatest Pulp Wood Producing Country in the World.

The prospectus of the Atlantic Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, just issued by the brokers, Messrs. Sutherland & Cameron, Ottawa, contains some interesting reading matter. The mill of the company will be situated on the Little Cascapedia River, at New Richmond, on the Baie des Chaleurs, where it is proposed to erect a paper mill with a daily capacity of 54 tons, a ground wood pulp mill with a daily capacity of fifty tons and a sulphite pulp mill with a daily capacity of forty tons. The wood used will be principally spruce and it is believed that pulp and paper can be more economically manufactured there than at any other place in America. The properties and limits acquired by the company are about 300 square miles. The company has reports on the property, made by five different rangers, whose reports show that there is sufficient wood to afford a perpetual supply of timber. One of the rangers, who has travelled and examined limits in the State of Maine, New Brunswick and Quebec and worked in Wisconsin and Minnesota, says it is the best pulp limit he has ever seen or travelled.

The water which will be used in the manufacture of paper is pure and clean, the Little Cascapedia River being fed by springs and is suitable for making the finest grades of paper without the expense of filtering.

W. C. Edwards, M. P., of W. C. Edwards & Co., Limited, lumbermen, Ottawa, is the president of the company; R. Y. Ellis, director of P. W. Ellis & Co., Limited, manufacturing jewelers, is the vice-president, and the other directors are: Charles H. Waterous, president of the Waterous Engine Works Company, Limited, Brantford; R. H. IN THE ROGUES' GALLERY...

Copyright, 1902, by A. S. Richardson

When Aunt Milly returned from her visit to Boston, she was a changed woman. She had gone away a staid old maid of thirty-seven, with never a bit of nonsense about her, and she had returned frustrated—that is, she simpered and giggled and acted "girly." She took to wearing bows and jewelry, and she was anxious about her eyebrows and the mole on her chin. Her sister Florence, a widow and the head of the house, noticed these things with something like astonishment, but reserved comment. She argued that they were the legitimate results of a woman getting away from the sober influences of her country home and that they would soon wear off. Her daughter, Susie Warden, was the third member of the household. Susie had been denounced as worldly by the old maid. She had also been charged with coquetry. It had even been hinted that she cared more about her horses than for the young men who bowed to her good looks and her future financial prospects and because she preferred a walk through the woods with a gun in her hands and a dog at her heels to sitting on a rustic bench and flirting with a fellow youth.

Susie had never been in love or anywhere near it, but Aunt Milly's symptoms did not escape or deceive her. She judged them to be symptoms of love, and her curiosity was aroused. What manner of man could have touched this old maid's heart? All sorts of men might fall in love with a girl; but, according to Susie's reasoning, only one or two sorts would fall in love with an old maid, and especially a homely one. She thought things over until she felt in a measure responsible for the aunt who knew nothing of the pitfalls of the world, and then she tackled her one day with:

"Look here, Aunt Milly, you are in love, and I want to know all about it."

"My dear child, but what can you mean?" gasped the aunt as she blushed as hard as she could and bit her finger nails.

"I mean that you fell in with some man in Boston who talked soft to you and that you are getting two letters a week from him and answering them with exceeding promptness. It is no

"I DON'T LIKE THE LOOKS OF THAT MAN," use to try to deceive me, for you can't do it. This giggling and simpering around and writing for hair dyes and complexion powders mean love. Who is the man?"

Aunt Milly blushed some more and fended some more and then owned up. It was a relief to own up and have somebody to share her joys and anticipations, and she was glad of the opportunity. Yes, she was in love. It wasn't the wishy washy love of a young girl, but a strong, deep feeling, founded on respect, admiration and friendship. She had been introduced to a professor, Dr. B. in Boston. Professor Holden. He wasn't connected with any college, but was "professing" on his own hook and delivering interesting lectures on physiology. He hadn't called her an angel and fallen in love at first sight. On the contrary, it had taken him five or six days to discover that he had at last met his affinity, and he had skipped her face entirely in summing up her graces. All this and much more the blushing aunt related to the inquiring niece, and the latter finally demanded:

"Now show me this man's photograph. I know you've got it."

Aunt Milly almost lied about it, but finally produced a cabinet photograph. She was of course wearing it over her heart. It was the typical "professor" or rather more so, and after a long look at the picture Susie handed it back with the remark:

"I don't like the looks of that man, and I'm going to keep an eye on things. If he doesn't know more about corn cures than physiology, then his photograph is way off."

Aunt Milly was shocked, upset and angry, and her defense of the professor was vigorous and decisive. They were not actually engaged as yet, she admitted, but he was coming on soon for a visit and would then doubtless propose for her hand. His letters were beautiful, and no woman could read them without almost reverencing the writer. She refused to exhibit them, but a few hours later Susie had the meanness to steal and read every one. She saw that the professor had neglected orthography and grammar in his schooling, and the only beautiful thing she could discover about the epistles was his statement that he sought for a "harte" to beat responsive to his own. It was no use to say anything further to Aunt Milly. She was "set" in the matter and loyal to the absent one. A week later Professor Holden arrived. He was a distinguished looking man. As Susie looked him over she believed she could distinguish him from most fakirs by the grease on his hair and the set of his ready made coat. He was a fairly agreeable man of big words and eccentric ways. He hadn't come to propose a secret marriage or an elopement, but to boldly declare his love in the face of everybody and ask for Aunt Milly's hand. Aunt Florence was inclined to be neutral, and Susie had nothing to say. So it came about that the lovers plighted themselves, and the marriage day was set for three months ahead. Susie's seeming indifference was annoying to the happy hearted old maid, who wanted everybody to rejoice with her, but the only explanation she received was:

"I'm doing a lot of thinking just now, and you wait till I get through, and I'll congratulate you."

She had a dim remembrance of having seen a photograph of the professor before. She goggled her brains for a week, and she still doubted as she took the train for New York one morning. On reaching the city she took a cab to police headquarters, in Mulberry street, and when finally ushered into the detective department she astonished the inspector in charge by asking to look at the rogues' gallery.

"Any particular picture?" he queried.

"Yes, sir; I want to find the photograph of the man who is going to marry my aunt if I don't stop him, though it just occurs to me that you can't have pictures of professors here."

"Oh, yes, we have, scores of them," he replied. "Here's Professor Marshall, who delivered lectures on astronomy and robbed postoffices the same night; here's Professor Massaria, who made a study of plant life and worked the gold brick racket at the same time; here's Professor Du Bois, the eminent student of geology, who went about New Hampshire studying rocks in the daytime and stealing horses at night; here also—"

"You needn't go any further," interrupted Susie as she turned away. "Are you looking for Professor Du Bois?"

"I'd give $500 to see him on a little matter of business."

Susie said nothing on her return home. It was only when the newspapers containing an account of the arrest of the professor arrived by post that she took Aunt Milly out into the orchard and handed them to her to read and asked:

"What are you going to do about it?"

"Why—why," answered the dazed woman as she let the papers fall from her hands and looked about her in a pitiful way, "I—I ought to faint away, oughtn't I?"

"Yes, I think that would be the proper caper."

"Then I will!"

And she did, and when she returned to consciousness her romance was ended.

Discipline Among Ants.

The region of the Amazon is overrun by an interesting species of ants known as saubas. They are represented as the cures of the country because of their social and military organization. Some observations upon the discipline maintained by them were made by C. Barrington Brown:

We were greatly amused by a singular struggle going on between a soldier ant and his working fellows at the mouth of their underground nest. Some eight or ten of the workers clung on to his legs and antennae and tried to drag him back as he endeavored to come out of the hole.

Although he was furnished with huge mandibles, he did not lose his temper nor try to bite them, and it was evident that, although they detained him by force, they never nipped him hard.

During the struggle they allowed two or three other soldiers to saunter out past them and go roaming by themselves. It appeared as if this particular individual had behaved badly, was under arrest and was now being prevented from breaking barracks. The end of the struggle was not witnessed by us, and it will never be known who gained the day, but from all appearances it went against the soldier.

Nature's Use For the Mole.

When nature wants something done, she is apt to inveigle an animal into doing it. The mole is bent only on catching earthworms. He makes his long burrow near the surface and then traveling up and down its length, he picks up all the worms that stumble into his way, his slender nose serving as an effective instrument for withdrawing them from their burrows. I think, too, he eats the beetles and cutworms that lie in his path.

But while he is intent on his own work he is at the same time loosening up the soil and letting the air through it and mixing up the leaf mold with the earth, thus enriching the land. It is aggravating to see the ridges that mar the surface of our lawns and gardens, but we must put up with that for the sake of the good of the soil. Besides, I suspect his claim to the land is an earlier one than ours—Ladies' Home Journal.

Amplified.

"I see," said the young woman who had called to apply for a position, "you want a girl in your grocery department. I think I'd like the place."

"Have you had any experience in that line?" asked the manager of the department store.

"Yes, sir," she replied. "I can write 'one pound granulated sugar' with three scratches and a flourish."

She got the place.—Chicago Tribune.

Notes for Beekeepers.

If honey is overhauled both color and transparency is injured. Keep bees to make your own honey. Begin with a few hives. Strong colonies protect themselves against robbers and bee moths.

It is quite an item to breed the hive full of bees just before winter. Never leave a newly-hived swarm near the place where it clustered.

Bees generally require about 30 pounds of honey on which to winter. Thick, well-ripened honey will not granulate so readily as that which is thin.

In rendering beeswax use a tin, brass or copper vessel. An iron one will darken it.

It is a good plan to do what feeding is necessary at night, so as not to excite robbing.

A little pine tar smeared on a board and put next the hive will drive away ants.

In making candy to feed to bees be careful not to burn it. Burnt candy will kill bees.

In cold weather when bees are quiet is when they are doing best, do not disturb them.

There are three personages in the beehive proper—the queen, the worker bee and the drone.

Unite weak colonies and their stores. They will winter better together than separately.

Besides losing its beauty and fine appearance, honey kept in a cellar gets watery and its flavor is lost.

THE PARK CANNON

Speaking of the cannon on the Park, John Carpenter said:

"Yes, I got that cannon for the city. There were three of them lying half buried up Port Edwards, and the city could have had the whole three by paying the freight from Sarnia here, but the City Council then would only pay the freight on one. John A. Walker and I were appointed a committee to get the one and we secured the cannon on the Park. Some other places got the other two cannons. The cannon had been on the Park a little over a year when that serious accident occurred which maimed Murdoch, the blacksmith, for ever and almost cost him his life. This happened on the afternoon of June 9, 1891, while the cannon was being fired as a last tribute to the late Sir John A. Macdonald, whose burial took place that afternoon. The day following the accident the late W. A. Campbell went over and spiked the cannon. I was Mayor in that year and I just told the Chief of Police to prosecute Mr. Campbell unless he removed the file. I considered that Mr. Campbell had no more right to injure public property than I or any other citizen had. Mr. Campbell paid $5 and Supl. James of the Waterworks, took the file out. I have fired the cannon quite often on celebration days without an accident. The only time anything happened was the afternoon of Sir John A. Macdonald's funeral, and I wasn't firing the cannon then."

Liquidation Sale of Clothing

First a word of explanation. Pursuant to the death of our senior partner certain forms prescribed by law must be carried out until arrangements can be made for the continuance of the business. This is all that is meant by the term "liquidation", and the solvency and standing of the house are no way effected.

Some ten days ago we announced that many lines of goods would be reduced for clearance as soon as our liquidation inventory was completed. The task has taken longer than we counted on, but stock taking in our three stores is now finished and the bargains are ready.

A large cash amount will be required for the closing out of the old firm's affairs, and we provide inducements that should throng the store some weeks to come. Wanted goods every one. We need not dwell on their excellence; people know the T. & D. standard pretty well. To-day we tell of clothing bargains; they're all ready—come when you will.

Among the first bodies recovered were those of Capt. Wesley Doss, of Cincinnati, and Miss Mary D. Tassin, of Cannelton, Ind. There were seventy passengers and seventy all told in the crew. The captain and clerk late to-night claim in all eighty persons have been accounted for, leaving sixty people lost or unaccounted for.

When the City of Pittsburg left Cincinnati last Wednesday night for Memphis, she had thirty-one passengers and a crew of more than sixty. The local officers of the packet company say that some of these passengers have since reached their destination and others had been taken aboard during the past three days at points down the river. Some of the passengers were from Pittsburg and other up-the-river points. Even the names of the passengers who started from Cincinnati are not obtainable, as the only register kept was in the purser's office on the steamer.

The Pittsburg was built at Marietta in 1899 and was valued at $80,000. She was 300 feet long and 80 feet wide, and was owned by John M. Phillips and Abraham of Pittsburg, and Dams Scott, of Zanesville. Mrs. Phillips, wife of the commander of the steamer, and her son remained here this trip. She received a telegram from her husband to-night that he was not seriously hurt during the fire.

The disaster was one of the worst disasters in the history of the Ohio River navigation. The loss of over $80,000 on the steamer does not include the cargo, both being a total loss. The latest estimates are that 150 persons were aboard and that not more than half of them were saved. Many of the latter were burned or injured. As the register of the steamer was burned, no list can be given, either of the victims or of the survivors, and in the confusion it has been impossible to get complete lists. Capt. Phillips admits that the death list may reach sixty.

RESPONSIBILITY!

It is said that the reason the Anglo-Saxon race leads the world is because they are willing to shoulder responsibility.

Sit to us for your portrait and your responsibility ceases—until time for payment comes.

We will take all responsibility. If we do not produce thoroughly first-class work, payable never comes, for we will not accept money for poor work.

All we ask is a chance to show you what we have already shown others—that we CAN and WILL do good work—if you let us!
