London, March 7.—Up to a late hour this evening the Japanese legation here bad received no official information regarding the bombardment of Vladivostok. It is believed at the legation, however, that the Japanese are now between the Russian cruiser squadron and Vladivostok and there is neason to believe that the Russian squadron is in the vicinity of Possieti Bay.

Russian official despatches do not mention this squadron, and this fact lends color to the belief that Japanese waships have shut it out of Vladivostok. It is pointed out at the legation, tince they must run the gauntlet of the Japanese squadron of the squadron of the Japanese squadron of the squadron of the Japanese squadron of the sq

The landing, says the correspondent, was effected at Tin-King.

The Japanese squadron in the Yellow sea, adds the telegram, still remains before Port Arthur. Three vessels of this squadron, with the cruisers Kasuga and Nishim have been sent to Vladivostock.

It is believed a simultaneous attack will be made at Port Arthur and Vladivostock to-day.

ELECTION PROTEST

Toronto, March 7.—Chief Justice Moss has given judgment on the motion by the respondent to dismiss the North Renfrew election petition. One of the grounds of the motion was set out in affidavits by two of the petitionsers, Wright and Leblanc, that they did not know what they were doing when they signed the petition. The judge finds that the affidavits in reply met this contention fully. Another ground was that Wright is assessed for but $750 in the township of Stafford in which he resides, while the Act requires petitioners assessed for $1,000. Wright's dwelling house is in Stafford, but the main part of his farm is across the road and in another township, and is total assessment in the riding is over $1,000. The judge holds, however, that the words be construed strictly, and that as Wright is not assessed for $1,000 on the roll of nunicipality in which he resides," he is not a competent petitioner.

The petitioners are given until April let to substitute another petitioner. Costs are reserved till that application is made.

JOHN BULL TO THE RESCUE

There are Canadian missionaries in Korea and they would be in great danger but for the fact that John is looking after them.

In response to the request of the Canadian Foreign Missionary Association the Dominion Government wired the British authorities and the Britpromptly did the rest.

After forwarding a message to Ottawa that these workers would be safeguarded, he immediately sent pard to those in the interior, telling arrangements whereby they would the conveyed to the treaty port of Wonsan. Here they will be placed to a friendly place-probably Hong

MR. WHITNEY IS APPRECIATED.

At this juncture, when the ruling faction in Ontario is falling to piece through internal decay, it is natural, says the Oshawa Vindicator, that the alternative which presents itself should be scanned with zealous care, for great responsibilities fall upon the shoulders of any man who is province with two million inhabit-ants. "Will Mr. Whitney fill the bill?" It was comparatively easy for Sir John Macdonald to become enthroned in the affections of the people. His long service and his magnetic personality won for him the energy to go thoroughly into the subject and supinely permit it to rest Mr. Whitiney came to the front until the next general election camwithout any backing other than his paign recalls it from its uneasy grave, the public cannot be blamed own efforts. "He has been for many years under the limelight of public for thinking that there is no 'relief from extortion on either side of the inspection, and he stands to-day before the people with a spotless per-sonal character." He has gathered about him in the House men equally for a long time, of Mr. Ross' chief organ, and apologist for whatever pure and worthy of public confidence men of whom any leaden might ib that statesman did or said, is well proud. While a splendid character qualified to judge of the premier's and good company are excellent fea tures in any public man, "there still remains another test, and it is a that the government would acquire prime consideration in judging any the ownership of the copyrights in fuublic man who seeks the confidence of the people. What public measure has he advanced, and for what features of progress and public welfare does his name stand?" "It can safebe said of Mr. Whitney (that ino man in the public life of this province has advanced so many whole some ideas in the same period of time as has the leader of the Opposithion in the Ontario House." Vindicator points out that Mr. Whitney's policy on education is advanced, so much so that the Governhas had to borrow a sportion of its. His timber policy is so wise that the Minister could pot resist it. In the last sale of limits they appropriated certain of his ideas, with the result that the returns were better than formerly was the ease. His position with regard to water powers and railway grants is and he is to-day advocating great work for like farmer that he may gain a better knowledge of the science he pursues. "Mr. Whitney has run his fingers over the whole gamut of provincial interest, and in every case he has taken a forward stand." He is thus worthy of the confidence of the entire people. It may be added that on the great question of public morality Mr. Whitney is the hope of the province. While he will tonserve the public possessions, administering them in a busimess-like way, and engaging in no such deals as those with which ithe Ross Administration is sullied, he will also disband the machine which the present Administration has created for fraudulent purposes, and will give the people freedom to choose their rulers, and absolute exemption box stuffer and the corruptionist. His will be a new and clean regime the regime for which the province asked at the last election by an almost unprecedented majority, a rene which will drive out evil in high places and restore the good name of the province. We want all the adgislation that a government such as Mr. Whitney will form can give. We need also an absolute clean-ing out of the accumulated wicked-ness, which is a disgrace to Ontario, from the operations of the ballot-

The czar of Russia is said to be nxious to go to the front and get anxious to go to the front and get into the thick of the fight. He's right. Dodd's Kidney Pills Keep Up Their Good Work in .Newtoundland

Christopher Bishop Tells How His Wife and Brother Were Brought Back to Health and Vigor.

Clark's Beach, Nfld., March 7.— (Special).—Among the splendid cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills in New-foundland is that of Mrs. Christopher Bishop, of this place. The story of her suffering and cure is told by her husband as follows:

her suffering and husband as follows:
"My wife suffered for three years with a weakness in the lower part of her back followed by a shivering causing weakness. Her legs were taken the feet.

with a weakness in the lower part of her back followed by a shivering causing weakness. Her legs were swollen from her kness to the deet and she had a pain in the lieft side just under the ribs.

"Two doctors attended her, but failled to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. The results were wonderful and now after using five boxes, the swelling and weakness are gone and the pain is gone with them.

"My brother, too, suffered from a heavy pain in the back and four doctors failed to give him relief. Eight boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made him a new man."

If you don't cure the pain in your back by using Dodd's Kidney Pills it will grow into something worse—Dropsy or Rheumatism or Bright's Disease.

It must be borne in mind that our intellectual as well as our moral na-ture is ever liable to be powerfully affected by habits previously formed.

A WARNING.

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is anoth-Don't say the latter is lazineas—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarragarilla.

Frequent

Throbbing

Headache.

There's many a cause for headache, Men are not often troubled by headaches. When they are it is generally due to biliousness or indigestion. But women have headaches which seem peculiar to their sex, frequent nervous throbbing headaches. Does it not seem as if such headaches peculiar to women must be at once related to womanly disease? Women who suffer with diseases peculiar to the sex do not reslize the drain of vital strength and nerve force they undergo as a consequence of disease. It is this which causes the familiar headaches of sick women.

AN OLD INDIAN LEGEND.

Tradition of the Origin of Wheat, bacco, Indian corn and wheat, which, although you may have seen it before, I shall relate," said the poet laureate of all the Pascagoulas.

"At some distant period two Indian youths, pursuing the pleasures of the chase, were led to a remote and unfrequented part of the forest, where, being fatigued and hungry, they sat down to rest themselves and to dress being ratigued and nungry, they sat down to rest themselves and to dress their victuals. While they were thus employed the spirit of the woods, at-tracted as it is supposed by the un-usal and savory smell of the ventson, approached them in the form of a beautiful female and seated herself beside them. The youths, awed by the presence of so superior a being and struck with gratifude for the condebecoming their guest, presented to her in the most respectful manner a share of their repast, which she was pleased to accept and upon which she regaled with seeming satisfaction.

"The repast being finished, the female spirit, having thanked them corrected and informed them." dian corn had sprung up, under her growing a flourishing plant of tobac-

NEW YEAR'S CUSTOMS.

French families always make a sp cial point of being reunited at the New Year.

The Romans always make it a practice to appear in new clothing on New The peasants of Italy hall the New Year by beating wildly on frying pans and shovels. The custom of making gifts at the New Year is supposed to have originated with the ancient Romans. On New Year's eve Chinese mer-chants pull down their old advertising posters and put up new ones.

In Greece the father of a family, how ever poor, must give his wife and each child a New Year present of money.

Scotsmen regard the taking of mon ey on New Year's day as a very risky proceeding, even though it be in pay-ment of a debt. In Germany if millet and herrings only be eaten on New Year's day it is believed that money will be plentiful all through the year.

In Japan at the New Year business generally is suspended, both private and public. The jinrikisha cooly is the only man who works.

Coal In Folklore. Probably most policemen could have answered the question of the magis-trate who asked a burglar in court why he carried about pieces of coal. Among other coal folklore is the burglar's firm faith that the possession of a piece confers good luck, and when searched in the police station it is usually found in his pocket. A belief in coal as a talisman is said to have been held by the early Britons, and it is certainly frequently found in their burial places converted into personal ornaments, such as beads, etc. Believers in dreams maintain that to dream of coal is a certain sign of coming riches. Then, too, there is the speculum or mirror of divination—that caused such a sensation in the sixteenth century—of Dr. Dee, which subsequently formed part of the Strawberry Hill collection. It was formed of cannel coal, though the doctor pretended to have received it from the angels.— London Chronicle. Struck Him Unfavorably. Mr. Gaswell, who had come recently into the possession of a considerable fortune, had decided to erect a large

"I don't know about that," responded Mr. Gaswell, dublously scratching his jaw. "I hain't got any prejudice against Moses as a man, and he certainly knowed a good deal about law, but when it comes to laying floors it kind o' seems to me I'd ruther have 'em unsectarian-like. An Incident of the Childhood of the Master Ole Bull.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath,

Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription cures such headaches by curing the cause—irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration or female weakeness. "Pavorite Prescription" invigorates and tones up the entire system, encourages the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep.

Ole Bull, the great violinist, was born with a genius for music. To him the swaying of bluebells, the wind and swaying of bluebels, the music of birds and bees—all these were the voices of nature, and he tried to reproduce them on his violin.

It is said that the musician's first violin was given him by an uncle when he was but four years old, and his de-light at the present knew no bounds.

"My father wanted me to be a minis "My father wanted he to be a himself ter." said he in telling the story many years after, "and I thought I must do as he wished. But when I was eight years old he bought me a new violing. and arranged to have me study under a teacher, 'for,' he said, 'a minister ought to know a little about music.' ought to know a little about music. That night I could not sleep. I rose in the night to get a peep at the precious violin. It was so red, and the pretty pearl screws did smile at me so! I pinched the strings just a little with my fingers, and it smiled at me more and more. I took up the bow and looked at it. It said to me it would be pleased to have me try it across the pleased to have me try it across the strings. So I did try it just a very, very little, and it did play so softly. I forgot that it was midnight and everybody asleep, and the next minute I felt my father's whip across my shoulders.

"Hungry," was the laconic reply.

Thrifty Mother. "She named her baby after all four of its rich uncles."

"What good will that do? None of them will feel complimented when they know the others have been so remembered."

"Oh, but she has trained the child to answer only to the name of the uncle who happens to be around."

Argument Was Useless "But," protested the loving wife, "be fore I was married I always had a new bonnet every time I wanted one."
"Yes," answered the brutal husband without looking up from his paper, "and I put fresh cheese in the mouse trap every night until I had caught that mouse in the pantry."—Judge.

Parental Solicitude.

The Mother—Don't you think the baby had better go to kindergarten, dear? Father—Isn't he too young? The Mother—Yes. But he never sees either of us long enough to learn how to talk. And don't you think he ought to know how?

My maternal great-grandfather, Van der Meerschaut, had a little Cossack horse captured from the Russian invaders in 1814. The old gentieman was lame in one leg as the result of a hunting accident, but withal a good horseman when once in the saddle. When out on his trips in the country on business and coming home at night, he would frequently fall asleep in his commodious Cossack saddle. The horse would make a bee line for home at an easy but swift pace. Arriving there, it easy but swift pace. Arriving there, it would rap at the front door with its foot until the watchman would open the porch and take the old gentleman out of the saddle. My grandmother told me this happened almost every week. Horse and master understoo each other. Not being able to walk very well, he would hunt from horse-back, the horse following the setters and coming to a standstill when one of them was on a point, the old gen-tleman guiding him entirely by pressure of the knees and voice and having both hands free for his fowling piece. The horse died of old age on the place, as most of our servants. Peace to his ashes!-Forest and Stream.

Humiliating a Bull.

A magnificent red bull owned by an English farmer had an unpleasant notoriety as a man killer. A strip of oak board had therefore been bound firmly across his forehead, and on this as an added insult to the monarch of the herd was painted, "Dangerous." the heast held his muzzle to the sky he could see in front of him, but the moment he lowered his head for mischief or grazing all view except of his own forefeet was cut off. "Clambering one day down a tor near his haunts," says a writer, "I came on a stretch of level green. In the center of this sat an imerturbable artist painting, and round him in furious tangents charged the ineffectual bull. Up went the beast's head while aim was taken under the board at this disturber of the solitude, but then, with lowered horns, the plank again shut the bull into a mistaken memory of where his target was. The painter said he had spent half a morning in flight and the next half in laughter."

Beefsteak Variations.
A traveler on the continent of Europe eceived the following bill of fare at a hotel in Versailles: Soup with very tle—i. e., read turtle; lobster's salad with sharp sauce, according to the bigness (suivant la grosseur); shies (filets) of sole; one's muttons chops with spar-agus tops; pickled pork with younk cabage; fish—fish—dabs of different dimensions; lamb epigrams with vegets bles: muscles fricasseed: rumsteak with the tumled potatoes (sautees); Strasburg's ple of livers; surfine liquors and of islands (et des iles); gelly with punch." The traveler gives the followng variations of the word "beefsteak" which he has noted on his travels in Relgium: "Bifstek, bifstik, bifstick, biftek, bifteek, befstick, beefstick, beef-steek, bifsteeck, beefstake, beefsteack, bufsteks, biefsteaks, bifsteack, bouef-staecks, beefteacks, bifsteecks and even

The "Weeping Willow" Song.
Some people have heard of the ballad containing the words "I'll hang my harp on a weeping willow tree," but perhaps it is not generally known that the author was a young man who fell desperately in love with Queen Victoria, at that time a girl of seventeen. This young lover was heir to a baronet cy, but baronets cannot approach royal-ty in the guise of a suitor, though it took some time before the romantic youth could be brought to understand this fact. When at last he did so, he sat down in despair and wrote the now well known ballad, which was at that time published in a London paper, and then he emigrated to Australia.

An Umbrella Trick.

"That's no way to put on an umbrel-la cover, my dear," remarked the man to his wife, who was preparing to go out one cloudy day.

"Don't fuss at it like that. No; you don't want to turn the cover right side out. Leave it as it is and put the ferrule out. Leave it as it is and put the ferrule of the umbrella through the little tin top, so. Now take hold of the top of the case and pull it right up over the umbrella, just as you stripped it off. See? It doesn't take half a minute and is much easier than laboriously turning the narrow case right side out."

Felt His Importance A boy, having left school, started to work in a factory. At the end of his first day's work he returned home, evidently feeling quite a man. Taking off his hat and coat, he threw them on the floor, with a meaning look at his sister.
"Look here, Jim," said she; "hang

How Iron-ox Tablets Cured a Well-Known Guelph Man of Catarrh of the Stomach.

The Guelph Waterproof Clothing Co., Guelph, Ont. December 12, 1902.

Through your Iron-ox Tablets I have received a great blessing. For years I was troubled with my stomach. I doctored with several good doctors and they told me I had dyspepsia, but I was sure it was not that which ailed me. At last I found out it was catarrh of the stomach, and they told me I could not be cured. It got so bad at last that my stomach had ulcers, and I suffered something awful. Being a commercial traveler I received a box of your Iron-ox Tablets free last winter. I took them right along and I noticed, when away from home and staying at hotels, eating different food, it did not hurt me as it always did before; so when that box was empty I bought two more and have since had two more, and I must say my stomach is fully restored to its old-time work. I never leave home without a box of Iron-ox Tablets with me, as I believe them to be the best thing for the stomach ever made. I have recommended them to a very great number of people. As I travel from one end of the country to the other I am well known. I am a member of the above firm and do the travelling for them, and everyone that knows how I suffered with my stomach knows the difference now. I would have written sooner, but waited to make sure it was lasting, and I feel sure it is. I must say it is the best remedy I have ever used, and I would not be with-

JUDGESHIP FOR

Said to Have Recieved the Middlesex Appointment---Other Aspirants Interviewed

(Special to The Planet.)

London, Ont., March 8, 3 p. m .-It is reported that George B. Dougas, of Chatham, has been appointed judge in this (Middlesex) county.

It was impossible to verify the information in this despatch up to the time of going to press. If Mr. Douglas has received the London appointment be becomes senior judge of Middlesex county.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe, the official Government organ, to-day contains the following :-

"The Government's recent prognos tication in regard to gentlemen who were marked out for elevation to the Bench received confirmation to-day, when the following were appointed County Court Judges:-Messrs. E. C. S. Huycke, Cobourg; Talbot Macbeth, London; George B. Douglas, Chatham; J. D. Donahue, St. Thomas; J.

J. O'Meara, Pembroke, and J. L. Dowling, Ottawa. Mr. O'Meara takes the place of the late Judge Mosgrove in Carleton County, while Mr. Dowling succeeds the late Judge Deacon in Renfrew County. The districts over which the other gentlemen named will preside could not be learned this even-

The news of Mr. Douglas' Elevation will be somewhat of a surprise locally. While it was known that he was Mr. Stephens' personal nominee, the active workers in the Liberal par ty and many representative citizens held that the appointment would go elsewhere on its merits. The ap-pointment is occasioning much com-

The Planet this afternoon interviewed several of the gentlemen who are reported to be interested in the Fred Stone was his same old goodnatured self this morning—"I hadn't heard anything about the appointment," he said, smiling, "and I have nothing to say until I hear that the report is confirmed.

"So George is judge," was the com-ment of John A. Walker, when he learned that Mr. Douglas had been appointed Junior Judge for Kent. "I felt that I couldn't get it from the time that I learned that Mr. Ste-phers for some reason, was coupsed phens, for some reason, was opposed to me. The Government has acted contrary to their principles if they have appointed a member of the lo-cal bar to the judgeship in Kent. Mr. Douglas is a good man and I think will make a good judge."

"The appointment is made now, and I don't want to say anything," said Barrister Geo. W. Sayer. "Anything I might say would only be taken as coming from one whose feelings had been hurt. The appointment was apparently not made in consideration of political services, but for social reasons. I have always advocated that an outside man should be sent here but in return a Kent man should be but in return a Kent man should be given the outside appointment. When I first put forward my claim to the appointment, I said this was right, and had I received a judge-ship I would have been quite willing to go to some other county. If an outsider were sent here, then a Kent man, hot necessarily myself, should have been given one of the other appointments.

have been given one of the other appointments.

"It would be impossible for a local man to do justice to his position for a number of years at least. He would have his political friends and relatives and, no matter how he might want to do what was right, they would exert a certain influence over him. I don't want to sav inything about my own claims, but I don't think that the appointment is by any means backed up by the people.

"There won't be much said just now, but when the time comes when the party needs workers to go out, there is likely to be a whole lot doing, and they will find out their mistake."

"I prefer to let the public criticize.

"I prefer to let the public criticize the appointment," said J. W. White, "I was a candidate and so I would rather not say anything. I think that is the wisest course for me to take."

THE NEW JUDGE.

George B. Douglas was born in East Northumberland, in November, 1856. He was a son of the late John Douglas, and a nephew of the late William Douglas, Crown Attorney of Kent for over 30 years. He came to Chatham first in 1876, Later, he studied at the University of Toronto and graduated a Bachelor of Arts in 1879. Then he was articled with his uncle William Douglas and for a year and a half studied law in Ohatham, and afterwards with D'Arcy Bolton, Toronto. He was called to the bar in November, 1882. About three months afterwards, he began the practice of law associated with his uncle. John A. Walker was later taken into the firm. In the year 1889 John Coults was also admitted. To the Edition of The Planet:

Dear Six,—Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to state a fact that is not very generally known, and it is this, that March and April are two of the best months in the year for commencing our work.

The reason is, that we have our heaviest inflow of new students in Lanuary and as these are now all heaviest inflow of new students in January, and as these are now all well started in the work they do not require so much individual attention as does the beginner, and as our registration of new students is never wery large during March or April, those who can make it convenient to enter during either of these two months would be assured of more individual attention from the lieaplers than if they were enterof more individual attention from the tleachers than if they were entering at a time of the year when a large number of others are also entering. The new registration for January alone, apart from previous attendance usually runs close to 100 additional students, while the registrations for March or April will not likely exceed twenty for either month and we are only closed for two days at Easter, Good Friday and Easter Monday.

By bringing this metter prominently before your readers you would be doing those a favor whose circumstances will allow them to take advantage of the suggestion.

Thanking you for the space, we are,

MUNICIPAL DEPUTATION

The municipal argument against the asphalt block is that we do not know from experience how long it will last. What the pommittees have seen and examined have been laid only four or five years. Mr. Bangham, bf the Asphalt Block Company, of Walkerville, wishes to convince the Chatham people that the asphalt block will last from 30 to 50 years, and he has requested the Meyor and the Board of Works to accompany him to Baltimore where he will point out to them asphalt block laid over twenty years, and which shows very little signs of wear and no decay. Alderman Mocog is unable to give up the time, having farmers sales every day this week, but the Mayor and Alderman Mounteer and Piggott have arranged to go, and leave to-day for Baltimore.

SILENT FAMOUS MEN

CELEBRITIES THAT HAVE BEEN NOTED AS MISERS OF WORDS

ne of the World's Greatest Char acters Have Been as Sparing of Language as They Have Been Prod igal of Deeds of Renown.

It is a curious and interesting fact that many of the world's greatest men have been as sparing of words as they have been prodigal of deeds.

It is doubtful if there ever lived a ore taciturn man than Wallenstein, the famous commander of the Austrian army during the thirty years' war. It is said of Wallenstein that he "lived in an atmosphere of silence" and never uttered a word that was not absolutely necessary, nor would he permit others to speak in his presence more than was essential. One of his chamberlains was essential. One of his chamberiains was hanged for waking Wallenstein with needless noise. His servants were so many mutes, not daring to open their lips in his presence, and he was surrounded by patrols, and the approaches to his house were herrieaded by obeing to his house were barricaded by chains to preserve him from the least disturbance. In comparison with Wallenstein, it has been recorded, Diogenes would have been a chatterbox and William the Silent a brawler.

But silence is a characteristic of many of the world's most famous soldiers. Napoleon boasted that in his dealings with men he never wasted a word and made monosyllables answer n poses. But nothing escaped his eyes, and he could compress more within a sentence than most men could convey in a quarter of an hour.

The great Duke of Marlborough when receiving reports from his generals would produce his watch and say, "I will give you a minute." And it was likely to go hard with the officer who did not observe the limitation. To his staff the Duke of Wellington was always more or less a sphinx. A nod or a shake of the head was often the only response they could get from him, and when once he was asked what he considered the best equipment of a commander he answered, "A long head and a silent tongue."

Von Moltke almost rivaled Wallen-

stein in taciturnity. He never opened his mouth if a gesture would suffice, and when the news was brought to him that the French had declared war he simply said to the aid-de-camp, "Seconhole on the right, first tier," and turned round to sleep again. But he had said all that was necessary, for in the pigeonhole indicated were com-plete plans for the campaign which closed in brilliant victory. Von Moltke used to say that one verb in the Ger man language was worth all the others put together, and that was "thun"

The worst thing his enemies could say of President Grant was, "He won't talk because he has so much to conceal," and yet it was precisely in this silence that Grant's real strength lay. His orders and dispatches were the briefest ever penned, and when once a charming young lady playfully asked him why he would not talk to her he answered, "My dear, don't you know that silence is one of the greatest aru of conversation?" But it has been the same in all ages But it has been the same in all ages. Charlemagne was a perfect miser of words, holding, with Confucius, that "silence is a friend that will never betray;" Hannibal was a "man of monosyllables," and Julius Cæsar was nicknemed by his soldiers "The Ovacle". named by his soldiers "The Oracle."

Even great statesmen and writers who cannot suffer from any lack of words have often been among the most reserved of men. Of Addison, John-son says, "Of his external manners son says, "Of his external manners nothing is so often mentioned as that timorous or sullen tacturnity which his friends called modesty by too mild a name." According to Chesterfield, he was "the most timorous and awkward man I ever saw," and even Ad-dison himself, speaking of his own deficiency in conversation, used to say, "I can draw bills for a thousand pounds, though I haven't a guinea in my pocket."

Dryden was unutterably dreary as a companion. "My conversation is slow," he once wrote, "my humor saturnine and reserved, and I am none of those and reserved, and I am none of those who endeavor to break jests in com-pany and make repartees." And Shad-well tells how he once dined with Dry-den, and from the beginning to the end of the meal the poet "never opened his lips except to eat." Thomas Carlyle was a "hoarder of the gold of silence" and would sit for hours, puffing away at his pipe, withhours, puffing away at his pipe, without uttering more than a grunt or a gruff monosyllable. Leigh Hunt, his neighbor and intimate, once wrote to a friend: "Have just spent a pleasant hour with Carlyle. When I went in he growled, 'Halloa; here again?' and at parting he snapped out, 'Good day!'

and that is the sum of the conversation he honored me with. But how eloquent his silence is! I just sat and looked at him and came away strengthlooked at him and came away strength-ened for fresh struggle."

A Blustering King.

Of King George IV. Thomas Creevey, who lived in the early part of the vey, who lived in the early part of the nineteenth century, tells this story:

The king had appointed the bishop of Winchester to administer to him the sacrament on one of the Sundays about Easter. The bishop was not punctual to his time, and when he arrived the king, in a great passion at having been kept waiting, abused and even swore at him in the most indecent manner, on which the bishop very coolly said he must be permitted to withdraw, as he perceived his majesty was not then in a fit state of mind to receive the sacrament, and should be ready to attend on some future day, when he hoped to find his majesty in a better state of preparation. tor Minard's and take no other,

The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:— I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restful sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was highly recommended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. Stery of Queen's Park, Toronto

It is not strange, perhaps, that Toronto's most valuable park should Toronto's most variety more trouble have given the city more trouble than all the others put together. than all the others put together. Queen's Park was the cause of much put ween the Toronto than all the others put together. Queen's Park was the cause of much bad feeling between the Toronto University authorities and the citizens, but the park was worth it all. The property was, 'a the first place, acquired by King's College (the forerunner of 'Varsity) from D'Arcy Boulton, William Dummer Powell, and Jo'an Beverley Robinson. The first transaction was between the college and Boulton, in 1828, the latter receiving £1.300. The land acquired from Messrs. Powell and Robinson was more in the nature of a presentation on the part of the latter gentlemen. All sorts of conditions and agreements hedged the gift, and these became a source of difficulty later on. The university found the park something of a white elephant on its hands, for in 1859 it was quite willing to lease it to the city. The park had been neglected, and in promising to put the property in proper condition, and keep it so, the city was giving value. There was always trouble, however, about the conditions imposed by Messrs. Powell and Robinson, both of whom had insisted that only certain streets should lead into the park, that houses should not front and the conditions to the country and the conditions the trouble be-Messrs. of whom had insisted that only certain streets should lead into the park, that houses should not front on it, etc. In 1883 the trouble became acute, the bursar of the university protesting against boys playing ball in the park, and against citizens treating it as though it were an ordinary thoroughfare. The city had plainly failed to keep its agreement, so, on January 31, 1883, after years of bickering and litigation, Mr. Justice Street declared the lease void, and the park was once more in the possession of the university. This cleared the air, and soon negotiations were under years for a fresh understanding. The for a fresh understanding. The result was that the city finally secured a perpetual lease of the park and avenue by paying $6,000 a year to endow two chairs at the university. At the time of the conferences it was estimated by the ple that the whole property was worth half a million dollars. Whether at home or abroad the

FISHING IN FORMOSA.

Their Rods Superb, but Their Hooks Are Without Barbs. Three of us, two Americans and one Japanese, started out in jinrikishas from Taipeh, the modern capital of Formosa, or Taiwan, to go to the house of a wealthy gentleman about eight miles up the river which runs through the valley of Taipeh. The way led through a beautiful and fertile country. the valley covered with the second crop of rice and the hills with the famous of rice and the hills with the ramous. Formosa tea shrub. After luncheon and after photographing some head hunting savages we found there we proposed to fish for salmon trout at an altitude less than 250 feet above sea level and in latitude about 24 degrees to make the proposition with the contraction of the contrac 40 minutes north, practically in the tropics. The temperature of the stream was about 70 degrees or higher, and the water was well aerated. This stream, from 60 to 100 yards wide, is clear and full of rapids and riffles.

We used Japanese tackle—horsehair line and horsehair leader, the latter consisting of one strand only; a bamboo rod and a most delicate palmer tied on a small barbless hook. The rod is de-cidedly good and, weight for weight, cidedly good and, weight for weight, is stronger and a better caster than our jointed rod. It rarely weighs over four ounces (mine weighed about two), but the line is practically worthless for casting as we understand the term.
The ny is perfect, but the hook lacks strength, and the fish when hooked may easily detach himself in a curren or an eddy or by fouling the line. We all know how it is done from our experience with pin hook and thread in the brooks at home.

The Japanese, however, have another method of fishing which may be as new to some of our readers as it was to me. It is quite successful. They catch one fish in any way they can and then fasten the line securely through its upper jaw, passing it through the roof of the mouth and out at the top of the upper jaw well in front of the eyes and then attach through the body of the fish not far in front of the tail a porsehair to which is tied a three pronged barbless book, which trails in line with the fish and a few inches behind, while it is slowly worked up the stream by the fisherman. The theory is that other fishes, seeing the captive moving along as though feeding or perhaps spawning, will pursue it and be-come impaled on the hooks. In point of fact that does happen, as I saw a Chinaman take two fine trout in this manner.

Our success with the files was poor, We got thirteen or fourteen fingerlings, but we saw the fish we wished to identify caught in fairly good numbers by the Chinese fishing with decoys.

Weman's Aversion to Indexes. "Talk about the inclination to study the envelope to discover the sender in stead of opening the letter being a trait of womanhood," said a Brooklyn man the other day, "it isn't in it with a woman's averaion to indexes. Give a woman a book of poems like those Burns, for instance, and she'll turn the pages for twenty minutes or more to find the piece she is really after rather than look in the index. Suggest the in-dex to her and she'll say, 'Oh, I'll find it in a second,' and away she'll go, turning the pages again.

"The other night by actual timing it took my wife twenty-two minutes took my wife twenty-two minutes to find 'Mary In Heaven' in a copy of Burns, for not only did she lose actual time turning the pages, but if she'd come to anything she liked, such as 'Holy Wille's Prayer' and 'Polly Stewart,' she'd dally over them awhile. The first Rarely do men do that. thing they go for is the index."

An Actor's Blunder. A theatrical manager tells of an amus-ing and ludicrous mistake made by a actor in a play.

The young actor had up to this time employed his talents in enacting such roles as called for no speech on his part. But in this play he was intrusted with the following line, the only words to be spoken by him during the entire play: "The king is dead! Long live the

The critical time arriving, it was observed by other players that the young man who was to acclaim the new monman who was to acciain the new mon-arch in the words just quoted was suf-fering from a dreadful attack of stage fright. His cue came, but no words could he speak, so frightened was he. Finally, however, he pulled himself together and in desperation shouted at the top of his voice:
"Long live the king; he's dead!"

An instance of legal courtesy occurred in a courtroom not very long ago.

A lawyer with Mac prefaced to his name and a brother lawyer engaged in a heated discussion. The latter maintained his recommendations of the latter maintained his recommendations. a heated discussion. The latter mani-tained his position, claiming he could find his authority and turning over to the pages of the statute book, when, quick as a flash, Mac said, "You will find what you want on page —, sec-

"Why." said the punctilious person,
"I got a letter from the person you have been praising, and there was actually a capital in the wrong place!"
"May be so," answered Mr. Cumrox.
"But he never gets his capital in the wrong place in the market. And that's more important."

It is not what a man earns, not the amount of his income, but the relation of his expenditures to his receipts that determines his poverty or wealth.

minent English Physician Gives Definite Makes the Startling Announcement That the Age of 100 Years Might Be Attained by Most People-The Week

Sir Hermann Weber, M.D., F.R.C. P., the distinguished English medical authority, in a recent lecture before the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons made the somewhat start-ling announcement that the age of 100 years might be attained by most people.

He proceeded to lay down many definite rules covering the food and exercise to be taken to accomplish this end. Coming from an authority so highly esteemed the advice cannot be taken too seriously. In discussing the problem Dr. Weber said:

Subject a Large One. "The subject of the prolongation of life is a very large one, especially if considered with regard to the whole population from infancy on-ward. The diminution of infant morward. The diminution of infant mortality and the improvement of the hygienic conditions of towns and houses have raised and will continue to raise the average duration of life. Here is a wide field of usefulness, and one of the most important sections of it will be the combat with the various forms of pathogenia the various forms of pathogenic microbes, in which men have rendered microbes, in which men have rendered immortal services to humanity. And, besides, the physical education of the entire population, which ought to commence in the nursery and ought to be insisted upon at all schools, public and private, will not only contribute to the prolongation of life but improve the whole race. The Week-End Heliday.

The Week-Evd Heilday.

"It is of great use for those who are still in fair vigor to take regularly, once a week, a day of more prolonged exercise up to four and six hours, and those who live in town ought to spend this day of extra exercise in the country, if possible, on account of the purer air and the change of scene. The benefit of such a long walk is increased if only a very small quantity of fluid and food be taken during the walk-for instance, a sandwich or a few biscuits and an apple or an orange. One of the visible effects of such a walk, combined with a very restricted taking in, is that the body loses mostly between two and sevea pounds during the walk. The weight lost on the long walk is usually regained within two or three days.

"One of the great advantages of several hours' exercise in the country is the exposure to the open air, which is scarcely to be overrated it strengthens the skin and the nervous system and the whole organism; it cheers the mind; it increases the resisting power to meteorological infinences, and diminishes the tendency to chills and other morbid affections, and this resisting power is one of the great factors of longevity. Life in the open air, by itself, without

"Great moderation in the amount of food, and especially of the most nourishing articles (flesh food and pulses), ought to be practiced by everybody, particularly by old people, and is a great aid to longevity. Almost all authorities are agreed on the subject that in old age the amount of food ought to be very limited. Dr. George Cheyne, for instance, says in one of his rules, "The aged should lessen the quantity and lower the quality of their food giadually as they grow older, even before a manifest decay of appetite forces them to it." An important subject constantly preached but almost as constantly preached 'Great moderation in the amount

"A very prevalent idea with regard to alcohol is that it is most useful to aged people, in fact that wine is the milk of old people," warful to aged people, in fact that 'wine is the milk of old people,' that it does for them what milk does for children. Alcohol taken in any large quantities diminishes the resisting power of the organism against chills, microbes, and other causes of disease, and this resisting power is one of the great agents in the prolongation of life, and ought to be strengthened in every possible way, not weakened.

"Tobacco is to many persons a means of enjoyment and is well borne by them if they take it in moderation. It soothes nervous irritability and makes many men look more contentedly on their troubles. On the other hand, excessive smoking is decidedly injurious to the great majority of people by affecting the heart, the nerves and the throat. In many cases diminution of the amount of smoking or taking a milder form of tobacco remedies the bad effect, while others must give it up entirely.

"A further point of self-education is the restraint of our passions; not only that we must not allow ourselves to become furious if anything displeases us, but we must also con-quer our ambition, our avarice, our jealousy, our sexual desires, which often become the sources not only of unhappiness, but as you know, of bodily and mental disease, premature death or 'miserable' old age. Door Covered With Buman Skin Door Covered With Human Skin.

The historic Pyx Chapel, in Westminster Abbey, the massive door of which is a familiar object in the dark cloisters, is about to be lighted by electricity and thrown open to the public. The chapel is now under the control of the office of works. At one time it was the depository of the regalia of the Scottish kings, and it was here that the famous robbery of the £100,000 which had been collected for the Scotch wars by Edward I. took place.

Stotch wars by Edward I. took place.

The nature of the concession to the public may be inferred from the fact that access to this remarkable apartment, with its double doors of oak, has hitherto been possible only by the aid of seven keys in the possession of as many officials of the Exclequer. In former times the Government standards and assays of gold were deposited here.

Among the other contents of the place are a curious stone altar and some ancient chests, in which State documents, exchequer tally sticks and other things are stored. The woodwork of the inner door was formerly covered with human skin, a warning, no doubt, to the burglariously inclined, but little, if indeed any, of this gruesome covering remains.
