BLENHEIM'S ROYAL RECEPTION TO KENT'S NEW MEMBER

Magnificent Demonstration in Honor of Herbert S. Clements—Excellent Banquet, Enthusiastic Parade and Splendid Meeting—The Whole Town En Fete—Mayor Henry's Welcome—Mr. Clements Speaks.

Never in the history of Kent has such a unanimous and enthusiastic reception been given to any man as the magnificent celebration held at Blenheim last evening for Herbert S. Clements, M. P. Mr. Clements must indeed have been a proud and happy man as he gazed over the large throng of people who crowded the streets of the town, velling themselves hoarse and cheering for the young man who so nobly redeemed West Kent in the past Dominion elections. The Blenheim people are proud of their new M. P., and well they may be for they performed their part nobly in assisting so materially in his election.

This celebration was prepared by the Liberal-Conservatives of Blenheim and South Harwich and was held as a means of showing their enthusiasm and joy at Mr. Clements' election. Mr. Clements was invited a couple of days ago and Messrs. Geo. Heyward, J. M. Pike, S. B. Arnold, and Dr. Thornton at once engaged a special train from Chatham and offered tickets for sale. The tickets sold rapidly as the Liberal-Conservatives of Chatham were just as anxious as the Blenheim friends to celebrate the event, which may be called the turning point in the political story of Kent.

The train left the C. P. R. depot at half past seven o'clock and an enormous crowd was waiting for it. The Regiment Band was in attendance and tended to liven matters up considerably. They marched down King Street to the depot and also furnished excellent music during the proceedings at Blenheim. It was not necessary to erect any enthusiasm and while the procession in Blenheim was in progress the band at times could hardly be heard owing to the loud cheering and velling of the immense crowd which lined the main streets on both sides.

CHATHAM'S DELEGATION.

Among those noticed on the train were J. M. Pike, B. E. Branchand, Geo. S. Heyward, M. D. Fraser, A. Ledouche, C. Dunn, R. Knight, W. C. Coupland, R. A. Crothers, Braxton, F. Bennett, J. D. Stewart, J. W. A. Moore, Geo. Rudling, D. McLeod, E. Kemmerville, F. Slocombe, Geo. Fielder, G. D. Huff, Jas. Jenkins, S. Johnson, H. M. Murray, G. B. Brooks, C. A. Rumble, C. F. Smith, F. G. Boushall, H. K. LeQue, L. E. Tillson, and Ex-Ald. Henry Weaver and many others. Upon arriving at the Blenheim station the Chatham crowd was met by the reception Committee, composed of Dr. Story, President, James McVitt, Sec.-Treas., F. Suitor, Ed. Biggers, Norman Clements and C. F. Gibson, and headed by the 24th Regiment Band and a carriage in which were seated Mr. Clements, Mrs. Clements, Mrs. Pike, Mrs. Arnold, and some of the Conservative workers.

SPLENDID BANQUET.

The procession marched from the station to the Opera House, where an excellent banquet had been prepared by E. J. Buzzard, proprietor of the Erie House. This banquet was served from six o'clock until eight, and the room was crowded with visitors during all that time. It was an excellent spread, possibly the finest that has ever been put up in Blenheim. Orlo Coburn, pianist, furnished the music.

When the Chatham crowd arrived the guests were invited to the banquet by Dr. Story. Seated around the guests' table were Mr. and Mrs. Clements, Dr. and Mrs. Story, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pike, Dr. Thornton, George S. Heyward and A. Crow, W. C. White and Everett Toll, of Blenheim, Mayor Henry, of Blenheim, B. W. Willson, of Ridgeway, and Michael Arnold, of Blenheim, father of S. B. Arnold.

The large Opera House, where the banquet and speeches were held, was very beautifully and tastefully decorated with flags, bunting, etc. A large picture of Mr. Clements was hung at the front, all decorated with the Union Jack and the national colors. Another large picture of Mr.

Clements was hung at the rear of the hall, decorated in a similar manner. As Mr. and Mrs. Clements appeared on the platform at the Blenheim station they were greeted with three hearty cheers and more, and from that time on until they left at 12 o'clock the cheering was continued. On entering the banquet hall they were again given three rousing cheers which made the Opera House fairly ring. The young member was a busy man acknowledging congratulations and shaking hands with his hosts of friends.

TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION.

After the banquet an immense torchlight procession was formed, headed by the Regiment Band and a carriage, in which were seated Dr. Story, Geo. S. Heyward, J. M. Pike and Mrs. Pike, Mrs. Clements and Mr. Clements. The procession was an enormous one and a wild one. It was the most enthusiastic procession that Blenheim has ever seen. After passing the most important streets of the town the procession rounded up at the Opera House again and the speaking was commenced.

When Mr. Clements entered the hall, the house was already well filled with people and he was cheered as he reached the platform, where he bowed his acknowledgments. Wm. Featham was master of ceremonies, while Dr. Story acted as chairman of the evening. The ladies who occupied seats on the platform were Miss Tishbourne, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Pike, Mrs. Clements and Mrs. Story. Seated behind them were Herbert S. Clements, Dr. Thornton, Dr. W. R. Hall, Geo. S. Heyward, Rev. R. Holden, Robt. Day, B. W. Willson, Mayor Henry, J. M. Pike, S. B. Arnold and others.

CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME.

Dr. Story opened the meeting with a short chairman's address. "I am pleased to see so many of the town of Blenheim and such a grand representation from Chatham," said he. "It shows that we all have the kindest feeling towards our new member, Mr. Clements.—Cheers. We are full of enthusiasm and the good things of the banquet. In Blenheim, things of the town, we could not be without anything else.—Laughter. We all welcome Mr. and Mrs. Clements to Blenheim and hope we may meet them both on many similar occasions."—Applause.

THE MAYOR'S GREETING.

Mayor Wm. Henry, of Blenheim, was the next speaker. He welcomed the visitors as mayor of the town. "I feel right at home among the Conservatives of Blenheim and Chatham, and I hope they will feel right at home amongst us," said he. "On behalf of the town, I welcome Mr. and Mrs. Clements to their present visit. Mr. Clements has won a splendid victory and should be proud of it. We are proud of him."

KENT'S POPULAR PRESIDENT.

Dr. A. W. Thornton was the next speaker. He made an excellent address. The doctor is an orator of exceptional ability and he never fails to meet with an enthusiastic reception.

"I wish to thank the committee for the splendid banquet I have enjoyed," said he, "and also for the invitation to be present and address you. I congratulate the committee and the people of Blenheim on the magnificent success which has crowned their efforts. You should feel proud of this demonstration. I see the smile on your faces that won't wear off and that looks good enough for me. The people of to-day have in them a large amount of hero worship. A few days ago the name of Dundonald was enough to arouse enthusiasm in any meeting. Shortly before the names of Roberts, Baden Powell, Buller and White would cause similar enthusiasm. To-night in Kent there is one name at the mention of which will call forth cheers and applause and that is the name of the man who so proudly redeemed this constituency—Mr. Herbert S. Clements.—Applause and cheers. He is a young man and deserves great credit for his excellent work. He has no way duty to perform and I know he will perform it."—Applause.

Dr. Thornton closed his excellent address by referring to the Provincial elections, which he expected would come on shortly and urged that the good work commenced would be continued and that the Ross Government would be defeated and that two men from the Kents behind J. P. Whitney would help along the progress and uprightness we have not had for 32 years.

The doctor was greeted with a hearty round of applause as he resumed his seat.

THEY MISSED PHIL.

A letter of regret at his forced absence was read from P. H. Bowyer, editor of the Ridgeway Dominion. His absence was much regretted. Mr. Story—We all like to hear Dr.

A PEOPLE'S CONVENTION

Conservative Executive to Make Announcement Monday.

Date Will Likely Be Fixed For November 24, the Day Following the Liberal Convention in Toronto—What Is in the Air Regarding the Probable Policy to Be Formulated For the Information of Liberal and Conservative M.P.'s.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The Liberal-Conservative of Ontario will hold a convention in this city on Nov. 24, if the opinion expressed at a meeting of prominent Conservatives at the Albany Club last night holds good. The idea of calling a convention of Liberal-Conservatives has been in the air for some time, but had received added force and has been projected into the arena of practical political tactics since Premier Ross issued his call to the Liberals of the Province. The announcement as given out by J. W. St. John, M.P.P., a member of the executive of the party, is both brief and vague. He says a convention will be held and that a public announcement may be expected on Monday. So much is sure.

The General Opinion.

Several prominent members of the party were canvassed last night, when it was known the convention had been called. None desired to be quoted in regard to the policy the party would decide on, or the best time at which to hold the convention. But it was ascertained from a source, hitherto found wholly reliable, that the general and best opinion of the leaders of the party is that the gathering should be called for the day after the Liberal convention, that is, Nov. 24. And this will likely be the convention date.

A Convention of the People.

In speaking of the composition of the convention, one Conservative said: "This gathering will be unique in the history of party conventions. It will be a convention of the people. Every polling subdivision in the Province will have the privilege and the right of being represented and heard in the convention. It will not be a convention of party hacks and party leaders, but a convention of the whole people. And this in my mind is a long step forward in party politics. What the party needs more than anything else, if it needs anything, is to take the people into its confidence, listen to the confidence of the people and formulate a policy that appeals first, last and always to the people and their best interests."

Ross Government Corruption.

It is freely said that the Conservative party believes the main question before the people of the province to-day is the corruption of the Ross Government. That is the great issue that divides the two parties. This will be dealt with at the convention and also in a letter from the executive of the party that may be made public next week. What position the party will take in the matter will be decided by the whole convention.

Public Ownership.

It is understood that the Conservatives are prepared to rise or fall on at least two propositions that have grown immensely in public favor during the past few years, viz., public ownership of public utilities and the nationalization of railways. It is claimed that the party in Ontario is already on record in regard to these, and that that record will be reinforced by further declarations in public and before the convention.

Civil Service Reform.

Civil service reform will be pressed on the party by at least one member of the executive, as a logical remedy for corruption such as has shamed the regime of the Ross Administration.

In short, the Liberal-Conservatives of Ontario aim by the calling of the convention Nov. 24 to formulate a progressive policy in accord with the views of the people and to have a final rally of the party to express condemnation of the corruption of the Ross Government.

In Good Fighting Trim.

It was stated last night that the Liberal-Conservative party was never in better fighting trim. It has promises of allegiance from many who hitherto have been lukewarm, and men of standing have intimated their intention of sacrificing much in order to see the Ross Government ousted. The next few days will be full of political import.

The London Record.

London, Nov. 12.—In the recount of the ballots for the Hon. C. S. Hyman and William Gray, at the recent election, two of the four wards of the city had been completed when an adjournment was made at 1.30 yesterday. The net result so far as that Mr. Hyman's majority of 23 is reduced by one, while several doubtful votes are reserved. The court sat again during the afternoon and concluded that Hyman's majority is 22. Several doubtful ballots are yet to be adjudicated upon.

MEET TO-NIGHT

The Liberal-Conservatives of City Polling Sub-division No. 14, will meet this evening at eight o'clock in the offices of Mr. W. K. Merrifield. Every worker is cordially invited to be present as matters of importance will be discussed. Let there be a large turnout. There is work ahead.

ELOCUTION CONTEST

A unique and delightful entertainment was held last evening in the Lecture Hall of Park Street Methodist Church under the auspices of the Royal Templars.

The principal feature was an elocutionary competition for a silver medal presented by Barrister J. W. White. There were four competitors, Misses Cartier, Morris, Clements, and Dunlop, and the judges were Messrs. Jennings and A. E. White.

The medal was awarded to Miss Dunlop, whose contribution was exceedingly admired.

An excellent musical program was also rendered, embracing contributions from Miss Jackson, Messrs. Horstead, and Flowers and the A. O. F. orchestra.

DISTRICT DOINGS.

DAWN VALLEY.

Election day passed off quietly at Dawn Valley and resulted in a majority of but five for the member elect, Dr. Johnston, Liberal.

Daniel Thompson, an aged colored man, indigent, who resided alone in the farm belonging to Wm. Moulton, and who has been supported by the Council for some time, was conveyed to the House of Refuge in Sarnia on Wednesday.

Mrs. Harry King, concession 1, has been ill for some time with inflammatory rheumatism, and is now suffering from an abscess on her knee. Dr. Shaw, of Tupperville, is in attendance.

Mr. Burwell Unsworth, of Sombra Township, near here, traded his farm for a farm at Inwood. It is now rumored that Mr. Unsworth will trade his Inwood property for Bilton Hooper's threshing outfit.

SOUTH BUXTON.

Mr. Jas. Gihula died on the first of November, at the age of 72 years. He was born on lot 5, con. 11, Raleigh, and purchased property in this village and married Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Wm. King, at the age of 21 and has resided here ever since, and to this union were born nine children, four sons and five daughters.

Mrs. Chas. Woods, of Marlett, Mich.; Mrs. O. F. Bennett, of Detroit; Mrs. Ophee, of Cedar Springs; Mrs. Toll, of Dutton; Mrs. Patterson, of Juddo, Mich.; Wm., of Detroit; James, of St. Louis; and Stephen, and John, at home. In politics Mr. Gihula was a staunch Conservative, and in religion a Roman Catholic. He always took an active part in public affairs and was known as the champion of the rights of the colored man and at all times if a colored man was insulted, Mr. Gihula's sword was unsheathed ready to fight his battles, regardless of who might be his opponent and in consequence he held a warm place in the affections of the colored people. He was a trustee in the public school here for about 15 years and was the champion of fair play in the school and his acts of justice will go down in the history of Buxton and his memory will ever be green with those who knew him. The bereaved widow has the sympathy of the entire community.

His remains were followed to St. Patrick's cemetery by a very lengthy cortege, when Rev. Fr. Wigan paid the last sad rights, and one friend is no more. The family and the school contributed beautiful wreaths.

Most everybody likes it.

CALL OF DEATH

The death occurred Thursday evening of Mrs. Elizabeth Smyth, at her late residence on the corner of Raleigh and Harvey Streets, after an illness of three months. The deceased lady, who was much esteemed by all with whom she was acquainted, was born in Argyle, Scotland, eighty-nine years ago. She married the late Mr. Smyth, who died 19 years ago, in Huntingdon, County, and in 1846 moved to Kent County where she lived until last year, when she moved into Chatham.

Three sons and four daughters mourn her loss—Edward, residing in Michigan; John, at Ottawa; Mrs. J. King, Newbury; Mrs. Timothy O'Neill and Mrs. John McDonald, of Dover township, and Edward and Mary, at home.

The funeral takes place at 9 a. m., to-morrow from St. Joseph's church.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Robert McHardy, evangelist, of Toronto, will assist the pastor, the Rev. E. E. Malott, in the Victoria Avenue Methodist Church, beginning to-morrow, Nov. 13th.

He is one of the best loved and most honored evangelists in Canada to-day and a most attractive speaker. He addresses men as rational beings, convincing the judgment, arousing the conscience, and taking possession of the heart. God has honored him with great success. He began preaching at the age of 19, and a year later had charge of a revival where over one hundred were converted. He spent three years in England and has conducted services in many of the American cities. He is most peculiarly and naturally fitted for the work.

Victoria Ave. Methodist Church is specially fortunate to have secured the services of this reliable and gifted evangelist. Though the meetings will be held in the Methodist Church, they are not for the Methodist Church alone, but for the city and vicinity. All are cordially invited to these services.

BUSINESS COLLEGE NEWS ITEMS

The College Foot Ball team scored the final victory in the Inter-Collegiate series, the teams interested being the C. C. I. City, R. C. I., Ridgetown, and the Business College, City.

We are particularly proud of the record of our boys this year, as they have only lost one goal in the series. The summing up shows 11 goals scored by the College, and only one goal scored against them. The College boys composing the team may, therefore, feel proud of the record.

In yesterday's game with the R. C. I. of Ridgetown the College team was made up as follows—

Goal—Harvey Hicks, Centralia.

Backs—Geo. Spencer, Cochrane, Alta., and Bert Ellison, of Essex.

Half-backs—Reginald Watson, of Belgrave; Chas. Colville, Chesley, and J. L. Campbell, of Kintyre.

Forwards—W. Brownlee and Geo. Love, of Seaford; Rollie West, of Wallaceburg; David Davison, Wingham; Lloyd F. Mills, of Florence.

The same boys composed the team throughout the entire series, played better man positions, and were trained throughout by Mr. Ellison, the assistant shorthand teacher.

The expenses incurred in playing the different games, have been taken care of by the College.

The College boys are, therefore, champions of the Inter-Collegiate League, and the cup will therefore pass to their possession.

There is one thing about the preparation of the College team that is highly satisfactory, and it is this, that they have never lost any time from their school work, either for practices or matches.

We are strong believers in plenty of good healthy out-door exercise for the students. We find that the man who takes care of his body, makes a better student, lasts longer in hard work, and, altogether, turns out a better man.

The final exam, take place. Almost invariably, the young men who take an interest in our athletic sports make the winners in our medal contests.

W. C. Rean, Valetta, is now writing on his final examination of the Business Department.

W. R. Coltart, who was with us last winter, has returned for a more extended course.

W. E. Stewart recently paid a visit to his home in Osborne.

A. W. Waters, of Fingert, is still detained at his home through illness, and will not return for another week or so.

Geo. C. Clarke, of St. Helen's, Huron Co., is expected in the city to-morrow to resume his studies at the College on Monday next.

Dell Brossett, of Dresden, who was with us in the Business Department last winter, has returned to finish his course in that Department, and to take a thorough course of Shorthand training.

Wilbert Huntington, who was with us in the Business Department last year, has returned to take training in Shorthand.

John Collins, of Rochester, N. Y., and also H. C. Lloyd, of Toronto, have registered with us recently—the latter in the Business Department, the former for a course of Shorthand.

Daisy Palmer, of Rondeau, has recently registered for a six months course in the Commercial Department.

Lorne Pangburn, of Selton, commenced a business course with us this week.

John C. Burchiel, of Muirkirk, is one of the recent additions to the Business Department.

Miss Mary Douglass, of Millbrook, Durham Co., registered for a Business Course a short time ago.

Miss Kathryn Beatty, of Pt. Lambton, and Miss Margaret Topliffe, of Wallaceburg, are among the recent additions to the Shorthand Department.

The Wholesale Office this week is manned by Norman McLachlan as Senior, and Miss A. Carnaghan as Junior. This week the Agency Office is in charge of H. C. Beach as Senior, and Harvey G. Hicks as Junior.

In the Bank, Miss Vida Adams is Teller, W. Hughes Ledger Keeper and W. H. Spooner Discount Clerk.

The College is enjoying wide-spread patronage this year. At the present time we have students registered with us from Hatley and St. Hyacinthe, Que.; from Apple Hill, Glen-

Prime Minister's Office,
Ottawa, 7th Nov., 1904.

My Dear Sir,

I write you to tender you the sincere expression of my gratitude and that of the whole party for, at your advanced age, of ninety-four years, going to the poll, six miles away from your place, to cast your ballot for our candidate, Mr. Gordon. With my best best wishes for your continued good-health and many other years of usefulness to others and happiness to yourself, believe me, my dear sir, yours very sincerely, WILFRID LAURIER.

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but the most for the money is Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and from the complexion and the breath, the mouth and throat, I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

Mrs. D. Herkimer, Hall's Bridge, Ont., was Troubled with Weak Heart and Sleeplessness.

How many women are troubled with a weak heart? How many lie, night after night, trying to sleep, and can't? Perhaps you are one of them? If so, read what Mrs. Herkimer says. It may save you years of suffering if you take her advice—

"I am now enjoying the best of health, after having used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart, and was afraid to draw a long breath, for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills; they are the greatest pill I have ever used, and can recommend them to all sufferers."

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box, or 8 boxes for $1.25. For sale by all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Made Occasion of International Amity Demonstration At New York.

New York, Nov. 11.—Last night, under the auspices of the British Schools and Universities' Club, a dinner was held in honor of King Edward's birthday, which developed into a demonstration of international amity. It was a mingling of "America" and "God Save the King," of "Vive la France" and of "Banzai." In turn, there were toasts for the cordial relations between England and America, the Anglo-French entente, the English-Japanese alliance, and all nationalities joined in singing the praise of the newly-elected President of the United States.

In the toast-maker's chair sat the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Judge, president of Bishop's College, Canada. England was represented on the dais by Sir Percy Sanderson, His Majesty's Consul-General; France by Yves Guyot, formerly of the House of Deputies, and Japan by Baron Kentaro Kaneko, formerly Minister of Justice in Japan, and Saduzchi Uchida, the Japanese Consul-General. On the walls of the banquet hall was entwined the flag of the United States with the emblems of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

Cable From the King.

First a cable message was read from the King of England thanking the society for the congratulations sent him through the medium of his secretary. It was greeted with loud cheers.

The President's letter of regret that he could not accept the invitation of the club to be present caused a demonstration for several minutes. The Rev. Dr. Judge extolled the King as a true and real king. Then followed the toast to the President, which was the signal for another ovation.

MR. HAYS HOME AGAIN.

New Railway Building to Be Begun Early Next Spring.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Chas. M. Hays, second vice-president of the Grand Trunk Railway, returned yesterday from a three weeks' trip to England, where he had gone on business connected with the Grand Trunk Pacific. He says that the new railway will be in process of construction from a point near Lake Superior, working westward, as early next spring as the weather will permit. He believes that there should be no trouble in raising money to build the new line because he found that the securities of Canada abroad were placed in the front rank of investments.

Times For Sir Wilfrid.

London, Nov. 11.—(C. A. P.)—The Times says Lord Hugh Cecil's remark that a Canadian and Australian loyalty cannot be bought by two shillings a quarter on corn and a penny a pound on meat, will only provoke irritation and is not the kind of sentiment to prove acceptable in a thorough preferentialist colony like Canada. The British Opposition's efforts to show that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's confidence in power leads only to their contention only reveals its weakness. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who first gave the original preference to the mother country, and then extended it in his electoral speeches, has given the plainest testimony of his willingness to go still further.

Mr. Hill Made Registrar.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—The Cabinet Council yesterday afternoon was somewhat prolonged, and it was nearly six o'clock before the announcement of the appointment of William John Hill, ex-M.P.P., to be registrar of deeds for the East and West Ridings of York, in place of the late James Massie, who died on May 2 last. The fees and emoluments in the registrarship average almost $5,000 a year, out of which deputy registrars and other charges have cost for some years past about $2,350 per year.

Yankee Cruiser Goes Ashore.

Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 11.—The big cruiser Columbia, which is to accompany the Panama, went ashore at 8 o'clock yesterday near Pensacola Harbor, and every available tug of the port is now on the scene endeavoring to pull the war vessel into deep water. The effort thus far has proved unsuccessful. It is expected she will be floated without injury at high tide in the morning.

"Policy of a Bagman."

London, Nov. 11.—H. Campbell-Bannerman, speaking at Alloa, denounced Chamberlain's preference policy as a degradation of the Empire, because it endeavored to make it hang upon the squallid body of self-interest. It was the policy of a bagman, not of a statesman and patriot. He had not had a title of evidence to show that such an idea as separation ever entered the mind of any colony.

New Ontario Settler Killed.

New Liskeard, Nov. 11.—Arthur Davey, who was working in the Henderson lumber camps near Milberta, New Ontario, was killed by a falling tree on Friday last. He was using a saw when the tree split and fell back, striking him across the stomach. He only just located land, intending to become a settler in the new district.

Suicide in New Ontario.

Hailbury, Lake Temiskaming, Nov. 11.—Eric Johansen, a settler, committed suicide last Thursday at Tomstown, on the White River, near the height of land, and on the proposed route of the Grand Trunk Pacific. He used a razor, cutting his throat from ear to ear.

Heard in London.

London, Nov. 11.—The King announces that J. C. Forbes will paint a picture of the King to hang in the House of Commons, Ottawa.

THE SON OF U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Pe-ru-na to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Louis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverdy Johnson who was United States Senator from Maryland, also Attorney General under President Johnson, and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 1006 F St., N. W., Washington, D. C., Mr. Johnson says: "No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend its use to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."—Louis E. Johnson.

Catarrh Poisons.

Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into seething fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the places affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, atomizers and inhalants only serve as temporary relief.

There is but one remedy that has the desired effect, and that remedy is Peruna. This remedy strikes at once to the roots of catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels their healthy elasticity. Peruna is not a temporary palliative, but a radical cure.

TUPPERVILLE.

A very pretty wedding took place at six o'clock last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Twaddle, Tupperville, when their only daughter, Miss Rachael A., was united in marriage to Noble B. Lindsay, of Keith, Rev. E. F. Armstrong, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. The house was tastefully decorated with carnations in profusion, ferns and trailing vines. As the bride party approached the altar, which was a bank of green, they entered the drawing room through an aisle of white ribbons to the accompaniment of the wedding march, played by Miss Johnston. The bride was given away by her father and looked very pretty in a gown of blue velvet. The bridesmaid was Miss Annie Coulter, and she was dressed in pink voile, carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Jacques Wilson, of Chatham, was best man. After the ceremony 35 guests sat down to a sumptuous repast. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay will reside in Keith. Then followed a guessing contest on advertisements, the prize for which was awarded to Miss Mary Deacon. Miss Ada Arnold also received a prize for the song guessing contest.

...SOCIETY...

Mrs. Chas. Austin held a charming musical yesterday evening in honor of Mrs. Ross, who is the guest of Mrs. S. F. Gardiner.

Miss Belle Smith, one of Chatham's charming young society ladies, very pleasantly entertained a number of her friends on Monday evening, to euchre. There were eight tables and a most enjoyable time was spent by the guests. Miss Smith makes a splendid hostess.

Mrs. Kingsmill gave two very delightful evenings this week. One on Tuesday evening and one on Thursday. On Tuesday she gave an evening of music to her young friends and on Thursday she entertained the married people with cards. Both were immensely enjoyed by the large number of guests present.

Mrs. Lachin Kennedy, held her reception last Wednesday evening. It was one of the best attended receptions of the year. The guests were very numerous and the gowns worn were very beautiful. Mrs. Kennedy was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. A. Hadley, while Mrs. Fleming, Miss Lucy Gemmill and Miss Marion Fleming assisted in the dining room.

Mrs. Kennedy was robed in her wedding gown, an elaborate and becoming white satin with pearl trimmings, and Mrs. Hadley was dressed in an expensive white tulle. The guests were more than delighted with the reception.

Miss Ethel Brooke Ferguson, who plays Lady Lumley in the Mummy and the Humming Bird Company, announced by Manager Briscoe for Friday evening, Nov. 18, at the Grand, is a direct descendant on her mother's side, of the present Earl of Warwick. Our society people, ever on the alert for events of this kind, have already signified their intention of making the occasion an auspicious one so great has the demand for choice seats been already. Miss Ferguson's gowns are said to be a dream of loveliness.

On Saturday evening last, at his home on Lorne Avenue, Mr. F. H. Briscoe, entertained to a 'delightful' 'bachelor' banquet in honor of Mr. J. W. Young, city editor of The Planet, who was so shortly to enroll with the benedictines. Among the many present were noted Capt. W. A. Coltart, J. W. Plewes, S. A. Reid, John R. Smith, Frank D. Laurie, F. G. Howard, Detroit, Detroit; R. W. Angus, H. W. Anderson, Roy Briscoe and others.

A delightful menu was provided, a unique and pleasing departure being the dainty persons' toast-list cards. In proposing the health of Mr. Young, Mr. F. D. Laurie, made a most felicitous and eloquent address, paying high tribute to his worth and bespeaking universal esteem in which he is held by all who know him. Mr. Laurie also fittingly tendered the good wishes and congratulations of his many friends.

Mr. Young briefly responded expressing his appreciation of the kind words uttered. A young man was indeed fortunate, he was assured, who was surrounded by such a circle of loyal and worthy friends.

The happy gathering broke up at midnight.

Chatham is, on the 25th of this month, to have the privilege of hearing that splendid comic opera Pinafore, put on by a chorus and cast of 150 Maple City children. H. B. Telmann, of Ottawa, is in the city now and is every afternoon conducting rehearsals in Northwood's Hall. A practice was held this morning and the mothers of the many children taking part, were present to hear the rehearsal. Much wonder was expressed everywhere at the splendid progress which is being made by the children of the chorus. They have now been at work for about ten days and they have gone through the entire opera and they sing it remarkably well. A person would be very much surprised at the volume of the chorus. It is simply wonderful.

Next week the stage business will be taken up and the whole opera elegantly costumed, will be ready by the 25th. There will be a surprise in store for many on the night of the performance. Dress rehearsals will be held a week before the production.

The opera is being put on for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society, and the ladies are already canvassing for subscribers. This will be the event of the year in the opera line, and no one should fail to hear it.

Mr. Robert, instructor of physical culture and massage treatment, has moved from his former room, over Dennis' drug store to an excellent suite of rooms opposite W. H. Harper's on King street, where he will be pleased to receive calls from any one interested in his line of work.

SAD DEATH

Word was received in the city to-day of the sad death of Mrs. Hymers, formerly Miss Addie Mains, at the hospital in Fort William. Mrs. Hymers was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Mains, Raleigh St., and her mother is prostrated with grief at the sad news. The remains are now on the way to the Maple City.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Break Into Private Banks At Florence and At Marmora.

Chatham, Nov. 12.—Burglars yesterday morning broke into the private bank of Isaac Unsworth of the Village of Florence, eighteen miles north of this place, and blew up the large safe and rifled the safe and offices for loot. They destroyed a number of valuable papers belonging to Mr. Unsworth, but only succeeded in carrying away a small sum of money. The safe is a total wreck. No clue to the robbers' identity has yet been discovered.

Peterboro, Nov. 12.—The chief was informed by telephone yesterday morning that a robbery was committed at Marmora between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock in the morning, when a vault in the bank of A. W. Carscallen was broken into and $100 in money, a gold nugget valued at $250, and $150,000 in bonds stolen. No trace of the thieves has been discovered.

Confessed to Burglaries.
Brookville, Nov. 12.—In the police court yesterday Martin Lappan, who on his arrest confessed to being the perpetrator of three local burglaries, was sentenced to 15 months in the Central Prison at Toronto. Lappan acknowledged being a party to three other burglaries, but the charges were not pressed.

Committed For Trial.
Schomberg, Nov. 12.—Thomas Gedson, Hamilton Batesman and Susanah Batesman appeared before C. Davis, J.P., yesterday, each one charged with arson. They pleaded not guilty, waived examination, and were sent for trial. All were admitted to bail in $1,000 each and two sureties of $1,000 each.

Wrote Threatening Letters.
Barrie, Nov. 12.—The fall assizes opened here yesterday. Chancellor Boyd presiding and R. D. Gunn, K. C., of Orillia, acting as Crown Prosecutor. Frank Pugh of Orillia Township, was found guilty of writing threatening letters to Mrs. Reid of that township.

Chinamen Were Robbed.
Windsor, Nov. 12.—Two Chinamen arranged with two Windsor men to be rowed over to the Detroit side of the river at night, but the latter, instead of taking the men across made a circuit of the river and returned to the Canadian shore farther down here. They assaulted the Chinamen and after beating them unmercifully robbed them of about $100 each.

Lifer Takes His Life.
Kingston, Nov. 12.—Gustav Mittlestadt, in prison for life for killing an Eganville blacksmith, hung himself in the insane ward yesterday by tying a sheet to the bars in his door. He was an old man.

Murder and Arson.
Auburn, Cal., Nov. 12.—It is now known that Julius Weber, his wife, the 19-year-old daughter, Bertha, and their son, Paul, aged 14 years, were murdered Thursday night by an unknown assassin, who set fire to the home in an endeavor to cover his crime. Before the fire had made any great headway, the bodies of the woman and her two children were rescued from the burning house. An examination of the bodies showed that Mrs. Weber and the children had been shot before the fire had been started. On the boy's head were several deep cuts, and he also had been shot. Julius Weber, the father, too, had been shot.

THE GREAT WORLD'S FAIR.

Rispin, City Ticket Agent, of the Grand Trunk, who will obtain accommodation for you at hotel or boarding house. He will also give you free a copy of the handsome 48 page illustrated folder ever issued, arrange your sleeping car, tickets, etc. Twice daily you can go through without any change in luxurious cars.

Struck By a Train.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—Ed. Stahl of this town, was struck by a G.T.R. train at a crossing about 8:30 last night. He was removed to the General Hospital in the ambulance, where it was found that he had a badly injured foot and some bruises about the head. Drs. Minchin and Cline are in attendance, and they hope to save his foot. This accident shows clearly the great need of gates at this crossing.

SAND BAG MAN AT HAMILTON.

Walter B. Champ, Treasurer of the Bridge Works, Knocked Senseless.

Hamilton, Nov. 12.—An attempted hold-up of unusual daring and boldness took place last evening just at dusk. As Walter B. Champ, treasurer of the Hamilton Bridge Works, stepped out of the superintendent's office on Caroline street, a thug pounced upon him from behind and dealt him a heavy blow on the head.

Mr. Champ shouted for help and the thug struck him again, knocking him senseless to the ground. The men in office heard Mr. Champ's cry for help and they ran out, only to see a man going through Mr. Champ's pockets. Before they could reach him, Mr. Champ's assailant had taken to his heels, and they could not get a good look at him. Mr. Champ was soon brought around, and his injuries are not regarded as being at all serious.

The outrage was evidently the work of some one who knew how things were conducted about the company's office. Mr. Champ had gone into the superintendent's office a short time before with over $1,000 in his pockets, but he had paid it all out in wages to the men before he left the office. The would-be thief was amazingly bold, for he made the attack right outside the works, where several hundred men are employed.

"Now I can eat whatever is set before me asking no questions." Those are the words of Mr. R. A. Barton, well known in Toronto business circles, and living at 23 Tyndall avenue, Toronto. But Mr. Barton was not always in this happy state. He says:

"I had indigestion in its worst form. I consulted several doctors. Their treatment did me no good. As a last resort I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I took several boxes before they did me much good, but finally they had the desired effect. I heartily recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to anyone troubled with indigestion."

SNAKE RIVER VALLEY.

The largest irrigation enterprise in America is located in the rich Snake River valley of Idaho which has been silted through man's hand-work.

In this valley which is now partially settled, there remains 100,000 acres of land belonging to the U. S. Government. This land is the richest in the world as experiments proved. Potatoes here yield 200 bushels to the acre with an average weight of 63 pounds per bushel. Three crops of alfalfa are each season in the Snake River valley. The climate is superb and at value as a tonic for mind and body. Homeseekers' low rates to Snake River valley are in effect through Union Pacific, the only direct line. Why not visit this district and fully realize its great one thing? For full information, base on J. O. Goodsell, T. P. A., 14 Muldun, Toronto, Canada; or Oblio Choate, 126 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

THE FAST TRAINS.

Be sure your ticket reads over Union Pacific. Inquire of E. F. Atter, T. P. A., 14 James Building, Toronto, Canada; or F. R. Choate, T. P. A., 126 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

The Baby Sick?

Then probably it's a cold. Babies catch cold so easily and recover so slowly. Not slowly, however, when you use Vapo-Cresolene. Then a single night is all that is necessary for a cure. You just put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, and place near the crib. While baby sleeps he breathes in the healing vapor. Cold loosens, inflamed membranes heal, and all trouble ceases. It's a perfect specific for whooping-cough and croup.

Twenty-Seven Men Were Drowned.

SLIGHT SPRAINS GROW WORSE

Unless promptly treated. The great strength of Nerviline enables it to quickly cure all manner of sprains and strains. "I sprained my wrist," writes Leonard E. Milford, of Rockland, "while working in the mill, but had to lay off, it became so painful and swelled. I rubbed my wrist thoroughly with Nerviline twice a day and put on a bandage. The pain soon went away and frequent rubbing with Nerviline soon cured. Nerviline is undoubtedly an excellent liniment and the best pain reliever I ever used." Nerviline certainly is extra good. Price 25c.

Fever From Ragged Rapids.

HAVE YOU INDIGESTION

And conclude of course that the stomach is at fault. So it is, but there is a cause away back of the stomach that must be reached before the stomach can be made to do its work. The cause is nerve disturbance or nerve debility. First get the nerves in shape and then the stomach will be right also. Ferrozone has accomplished this for thousands of people whose digestion was completely gone. Ferrozone is food for the nerves and works wonders in stomach trouble. Where digestion, appetite and assimilation are faulty just try Ferrozone. It cures thoroughly. Price 50c. at druggists.

WAKEFUL CHILDREN.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

GUY BROS. MINSTRELS—UP-TO-DATE, AND A LITTLE MORE.

Guy Brothers is an organization now in its 33rd year, yet it shows no signs of age. It is not only up-to-date in the splendor of its scenic and electrical effects and in the freshness and excellence of its long list of performers, its singers, dancers, comedians, and acrobats but it is a little more than this. In its display of the Cinematograph wonders it may be said to be "up-to-morrow." For in the moving pictures shown by this costly machine imported newly from Paris will be found not only the humorous dramas of every day life, but vivid representations of scenes from the St. Louis Fair and thrilling sights from the ground in the far East, President of the United States and the crowned heads of Europe. At the Grand Opera House, to-night, Nov. 12th.

"A $10,000.00 PRODUCTION."

"On the Bridge at Midnight," this season's greatest melodramatic triumph, is a play of intense realism in which comedy, with the more serious elements for its success. Scenically, it is far beyond anything imaginable of its kind. Unlike many aggregations traveling to-day, "On the Bridge at Midnight" uses nothing of the house properties but the lights. Klumt has been told in order to attain the highest standard in his field, of action, one must attend to every detail, no matter how small, and in order to make a success of the production, Mr. Klumt found it necessary to carry everything.

Act I, shows the interior of one of those poor but clean homes in Chicago's unfortunate on Christmas Day. Act II, the interior of Germany's Old Curiosity Shop. In this, Mr. Klumt has attended to the smallest detail, and unlike other producers, he could not but clearly show to the audience how a daub of paint suffices. And the Third and feature act is one of the most marvellous and realistic pieces of mechanism ever attempted in stagecraft. It is a fac-simile of the so-called Jack-Knife bridge, which crosses the Chicago River at Halsted Street, in that city. So realistic is this scene that one has only to draw upon his or her imagination to be transported from the theatre to the heart of the Windy City, which could be easily reached by one of the rapidly moving elevated trains which is seen in the distance. This scene is so remarkable that people living in Chicago in the vicinity of the bridge, explained the location of their homes to their immediate neighbors, and looked on with astonishment when expected to see their beloved ones cross at any moment on their way to the store or elsewhere. As a result of this realism, "On the Bridge at Midnight" enjoys the distinction of doing the greatest business of the season in Chicago.

And last but not least, Act IV.—The library of Mrs. Wesley's home, which in magnificence and grandeur surpasses everything of its kind. Mr. Klumt in the role of Germany, discloses that cleverness and versatility, with which he has ever been associated so closely in the past, and in this role he far surpasses anything he has ever attempted.

A unique character is introduced in a most original situation in "The Mummy and Humming Bird." The great New York and London comedy success comes to the Grand on Friday, November 18th. An illiterate Italian organ grinder develops into one of the central figures of the play so naturally that the audience is not at all astonished at the elegant presence of this uncouth figure in all the more stirring scenes. From the moment when he enters the sumptuous dining room of Lord Lumley and sits down to dine with him, the attention as well as the sympathy of the audience is all for the poor Italian; and as, with grimaces and gesticulations—for the organ grinder cannot speak a word of English—he tells the tragic story of the vendetta, the audience feels with a thrill the weight of an impending crisis. Storms of applause always greet this remarkable piece of character work. Mr. W. A. Whittan appears as Lord Lumley.

NOTHING TO RETRACT.

"I suppose it is in order to congratulate you, old chap?"
"On what?"
"On your marriage to Miss Strawberry, of course."

"That was a false alarm. We're engaged, although few people know it, but we are not married yet, by a long shot."

"Not well, I reiterate my congratulations, old chap."

Little Willie—Say pa, why is an amateur speaker called an entertainer?

You cannot feed the soul on frozen truths.

SCIATICA CURED

ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS

Mr. Etsell, of Walkerton, suffered from Sciatica and Got no Relief Until he Began the Use of These Pills.

Of the many employes of R. Trux & Co., Walkerton, Ont., none stands higher in the confidence of his employers than does Mr. Thos. J. Etsell. He is an excellent mechanic and has been in the employ of this firm for upwards of ten years. But although Mr. Etsell now ranks among the few men who are never absent from their post of duty, the time was when he was as often absent as present, all because of physical inability to perform his work. For years Mr. Etsell was a great sufferer from sciatica, and at times the suffering became so intense that for days he was unable to leave the house.

During those years, Mr. Etsell, as may readily be imagined, was continually on the lookout for some remedy that would rid him of the disease, but for a long time without success. Doctors were consulted and although he took the treatment prescribed, it did not help him. Then he tried electric treatment, but this also failed to give relief, and the despair he had about made up his mind that his case was hopeless and that he would be a suffering, helpless cripple to the end of his days. When one day a neighbor advised him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, he at first refused, believing they would prove like other medicines, but the neighbor was so insistent, having himself been greatly benefited by these pills, so that at last he consented. The remainder of the story may best be told in his own words.

"When I began taking these pills," said Mr. Etsell to a reporter of the Telescope, "I had been off work for three months. The cords of my right leg were all drawn up, and I could only limp about with the aid of my stick. The pain I suffered was terrible. I could not sleep at all during the night, and I was in misery both night and day. At first I thought the pills were doing me no good, but after I had taken six boxes I fancied I was feeling better, and was encouraged to continue the treatment. After that I got better every day, and by the time I had taken about fifteen boxes every vestige of pain had disappeared. For over a year," continued Mr. Etsell, "I have not had a twinge of pain, and although I am forty years of age I feel as well as when I was twenty. Pink Pills have cured me, and I have no hesitation in announcing them the best medicine in the world for sciatica."

The cure of Mr. Etsell proves that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not an ordinary medicine, and that their power to cure in all troubles of the blood or nerves places them beyond all other medicines. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. See that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is printed on the wrapper around every box.

The Very Best.

Mr. Nuwed—Gracious, dear! Where did you get these peaches? Mrs. Nuwed—Why? What's the matter? Mr. Nuwed—They don't taste like the best in the world. Mrs. Nuwed—They must be. I picked them out myself. The picture on the can was prettier than any of the others.

BETTER THAN A PLASTER.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back, or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. For sale by all druggists.

DOLL SOLDIERS.

The "doll army" in the Paris Army Museum contains 19,000 figures of soldiers about two inches high in five great cases. The armor and uniform of every branch are represented with the utmost exactitude. The picturesque work occupied the lifetime of an old Alsatian, who fought under the "Little Corporal."

DIZZY HEADACHES ARE CAUSED

Nine times out of ten by constipation, but can be cured quickly by Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterbur. For constipated headache and liver complaint use only Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Price 25c.

The breadth of scandal is the ill-wind that blows nobody good.

Dear Sirs,—I was for seven years a sufferer from bronchial trouble, and would be so hoarse at times that I could scarcely speak above a whisper. I got no relief from anything till I tried your MINARD'S HONEY BALM. Two bottles gave relief and six bottles made a complete cure. I would heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from throat or lung trouble.

BLENHEIM'S RECEPTION

Thornton because he is always full of the subject on which he is speaking.

J. M. Northwood then gave a recitation, "Whitney Will Win," which was warmly received.

CHEERS FOR ARNOLD.

S. B. Arnold was the next speaker and was greeted with applause. Mr. Arnold made a very humorous speech describing several little humorous incidents of the campaign and kept the audience in good humor throughout. "Doc" is a clever speaker and he was right at himself last evening. "We had the whole Reform mania after us," said "Doc," "including the Parrot, the wild man from Borneo-Westman and the 'Kerr,' but we were too much for them all and they didn't have a chance to have a 'show.'"

MR. GANT SINGS.

Geo. Gant was then called upon for a song and he gave a laughing song, which was greatly enjoyed and he was forced to respond to an encore.

THE CONQUERING HERO.

Mr. Clements was then introduced, and as the chairman mentioned his name the audience went wild with applause. As he rose to his feet he was presented with a bouquet of red flowers by little Edith Hanks, and Mrs. Clements received a white bouquet from little Marjorie Spackman, both of which were graciously acknowledged.

Mr. Clements made a manly address, thanking the electors present for his victory and also for the excellent demonstration. He repeated his pledge that he would always work in the interests of the people of his constituency. He was frequently interrupted with "You're one of the boys," "We know you're all right," and "Herb, we're pleased to hear you." He also said that in the coming Provincial election his services belonged to the Conservative Candidates from the time they were nominated up to the time the polls close. He was greeted with round upon round of applause as he resumed his seat.

MR. PIKE'S FINE ADDRESS.

J. M. Pike was then called upon. Although Mr. Pike is suffering from a severe cold caused by speaking so much during the past campaign, he made a masterly address. He told a few incidents of the campaign, one of them being how Mr. Clements, in order to keep his appointment at Bagnell's school house just before the close of the campaign, had to cross the River Thames in a fish box, using a board for a paddle and had to wade a part of the way in the water—but he kept his appointment. Applause. He also urged them to support the Conservative candidate in the next campaign.

B. W. Willson, Conservative candidate in East Kent, was the next speaker, and he was followed by Robert Day and Dr. Hall, who all made excellent addresses, which were much enjoyed.

The train returning left Blenheim about half past twelve and arriving in Chatham Mr. Clements was escorted to his home, followed by the band and a procession of people. And thus ended one of the best celebrations ever held for a member of Parliament in West Kent.

TO SERVE KENT

Mr. Clements Visiting the People Ere He Goes to Parliament—Will also Assist in Coming Campaign.

Herbert S. Clements, M. P., left this morning for Coatsworth and will spend a few days in Romney Town-shire.

Mr. Clements is anxious to see as many of the good people of Kent County as possible to extend to them personally his appreciation of their splendid vote of confidence, and is anxious to learn just as fully as possible the needs and desires of his constituents that he may the better be able to present them and urge them upon the parliament.

In addition Mr. Clements has generously undertaken to assist in the organization for the coming battle for a purer and better administration of Provincial affairs and will devote his time and efforts heartily towards this end.

There is no man to-day in closer personal contact with the people of West Kent, and it will be Mr. Clements' earnest effort to cultivate and enlarge that confidence and acquaintance, not only at election time but at all times.

King's Daughters will hold a sale of home-made cooking at Mr. G. S. Heyward's store, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 15th and 16th.

SATCHEL OF THE SATELLITE

Well, those Blenheimites do a thing right when they go about it.

So Messrs. Pardo and Lee are leaving the sinking ship.

I'll be sorry for Ross when the Blenheim and Harwich vote is counted.

If the election was to be held over again I'd bet that majority would be doubled.

Long-Lived Clothes for Boys

If you have a boy that knocks his clothes to pieces and gets them out of shape a month or so after you buy them, don't blame the boy. It's the fault of the clothes.

It's a poor sort of boy that will stand up along the fence to keep his clothes in good order, when the rest of the boys are playing leapfrog or having a wrestling match.

We pick cloths that will stand the racket, made of good long yarns that give strength and "stay right" to the suit.

If your boy has a T. & D. Suit you do not need to worry about the fun he may be having.

All sizes at all prices from $2.00 to $7.50.

THORNTON & DOUGLAS

Once again, keep that ear to the ground for there's something more a-coming.

It's no wonder that Herb won. I never realized how enthusiastic the country was.

I'll bet Blenheim will make it 55 next time, although the 35 it gave this time was quite sufficient.

Come, gentlemen, you who have municipal aspirations, don't be bashful about mentioning the matter.

And Herb and the buckskin are off to Romney again. Well, as I said before, keep your eyes on the townships.

Hurrah for Blenheim and Harwich! They certainly know how to entertain and celebrate in right royal style.

I'm not overlooking that market building, either. Monday night's Council meeting should decide on something.

It does my heart good to see the local men getting after the corrupt politicians already. It's hard work that tells every time.

No one seems particularly anxious to jeopardize his reputation by championing the cause of Stratton, Sullivan and Ross.

If there are any Kent delegates at the Sullivan-Stratton-Ross white-washing convention, I shall watch their course with interest.

Every friend of good clean provincial government in city polling subdivision No. 14 should attend that meeting to-night. It will be a rouser.

Next Saturday—just a week from to-day—the good people of West Kent will choose a champion of clean and upright Provincial Government. And he'll be supported by the worthy men of both parties.

We extend the glad hand to the Conservatives of West Kent and congratulate Mr. H. S. Clements, the member elect, and his band of workers upon their splendid victory. Well done, Herb!—Ridgeway Dominion.

Evangelist Hunter, who is in Hamilton, declares that there are 30,000 people in that city in need of the light. I think he does the Mountaineers an injustice. Zimmerman and Eastwood both together didn't get anything like that many votes.

ROOM-MAKING SALE!

One of the largest wholesale houses burnt out at the big fire in Toronto last Spring contracted for a fine new warehouse to be completed in November, but owing to the strikes in Toronto lately, they will not secure full possession of their new premises until January, consequently they had not room for the hundreds of tons of dry goods continually pouring in their present crowded quarters, and had to unload at reduced prices. We took advantage of it, and are offering you the result of our fortunate purchase. Below we give you a few items as an indication of the bargains you may secure.

The presentation was a recognition of valuable services in the church.

Paris was astonished not long ago by the sight of a carriage propelled by neither steam nor gas going with such amazing swiftness as far behind the four-in-hand carriages of the jockey club, which endeavor in vain to keep up with it. The inventor it is said, to be a poor man, who has constructed the vehicle himself and will not disclose the secret until he is properly secured by patents.

From the London Free Press of the 26th, we learn that during the latter portion of last week and up to Tuesday Lake Erie was visited by a severe storm in one of which the brig, Ocean, of Chatham, unable to reach port became water-logged at about fifteen miles from Port Stanley. The consequences was that her deck blew up and floated while the remainder of the vessel went to pieces. To that portion of the wreck the crew betook themselves where they remained until Sunday, without any food. A determined effort was then made by two of them to reach the shore, there being no vessels to be seen. To effect this they sat themselves astride of two planks and after passing through a very severe trial, a storm raging all the time, they reached Port Burwell, on Monday. Others of the crew clinging to the deck were able to get to shore about the same time at some distance from Port Burwell.

Under the heading "What About Those Pistols?" the following is published:-

It seems that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was persuaded to deviate from his original program and to stop at Chatham for the purpose of receiving a pair of Derringer pistols as a present from the inhabitants of Chatham and that after all, these pistols were never presented.

No doubt much to the astonishment of His Royal Highness. All this seems most unaccountably strange. Not only were the pistols all ready and the requisite amount to pay for them subscribed yet the Prince of Wales was kept fully ten minutes standing on the platform of the Royal ear, awaiting the pistols and was compelled to go without them.

We are informed that Mr. McKellar had intended to have presented the pistols but from the fact of a warm personal and political friend stating that his subscription was asked for and received for the avowed purpose of purchasing materials for an illumination and not for the purpose of buying a pair of pistols, the whole thing was allowed by Mr. McKellar to fall through. The fact that the pistols were made by Mr. Jones, a colored man, is also said to have had something to do with preventing Mr. McKellar making the presentation, according to the original design.

EBERLY'S FAIR YOUNG BRIDE.

Oh, The Sauntering Sue fell into the squalls

A-blowing from Portsmouth town; She was loaded with pork and cannon balls,

So it's natural she went down,

And the sea it riz with a terrible sizz,

And The Sue on the rocks she scarpied;

And of all the crew that her anchor drew

Not more than a thousand escap- ed,

And when the sailors had waded to shore

And their feet on the hearth-stone dried,

They hated to think of Eberly Moore,

Or Eberly's fair young bride,

With The Sauntering Sue on the ocean floor

And them cannon balls rolling in- side,

They hated to think of Eberly Moore,

Or Eberly's fair young bride,

So they talked in whispers of euche games,

Of ladies and Eskimo,

Of vulgar fractions and proper nam- es,

And the works of Byron and Poe,

And some of 'em shuddered and look- ed at the door

With a sort of nervous pride;

But they never referred to Eberly Moore,

Or Eberly's fair young bride,

In a neat little Kansas grocery store,

Far leagues from the turbulent tide,

Sat the thoughtful grocer, Eberly Moore,

Along of his fair young bride,

And Eberly says to his bride, says he,

"You cannot deny it's so

That we ain't been on the bounding sea,

And far away, on the wreck-strewn shore

Where the crew of The Sue re- side,

They never refer to Eberly Moore,

Or Eberly's fair young bride.

JOKE ON NAT GOODWIN.

A friend of "Nat" Goodwin the actor, who is a confirmed practical joker, says that some fellow players last winter managed to "get even."

A common friend in San Francisco had been written to forward to Mr. Goodwin the following telegram:-

"Would you take $100,000 for River- side Drive house."

Now, although Mr. Goodwin is much attached to his house in the locality mentioned, he felt that he could more than duplicate it at the price named. The bargain struck him as being too good, to lose, so he hastened to reply, "I will!"

"I thought you would," was the response that came over the wires.

THE QUESTION- IS

LOVE A DISEASE

The London Lancet, the most conservative medical journal of the most conservative people on earth, has been gravely discussing the question whether the love of the sexes is a disease.

A contributor takes a hand by marshalling all the medical authorities from Galen to Horatius, and even the painters of the seventeenth century, who delighted in portraying lovesickness as an anaemic young woman.

There has been in times past some irresponsible and facetious talk about love being due to a germ supposed to be transmitted in the kiss. The first symptoms are quickened heart action and inflammation of the mind.

But that this derangement should develop into the high fever called love and become an actual disease has never before been admitted by sober medical authorities to be possible.

That kissing leads to love even the unlearned general public has long and deeply realized. But to make out a case satisfactory to high medical authority it must be shown that the kissing always precedes the love.

This is awkward, in view of the fact that many an unloved maid is in love with love, though lovelier.

It is she who furnishes the anaemic examples of the seventeenth century and of all centuries. The man and maid who love and are loved and the course of whose love runs smooth do not pine or complain.

Indeed, it may be stated as a gen-

BURIED CITIES IN

ANCIENT LANDS

Buried cities abound in many an ancient land. The sands of Egypt have covered with their grey pall cities, temples and tombs without number. The soil of Palestine also hides its evidences of a past civilization, while the valley of the Euphrates is rich in discoveries made by the explorer and archaeologist.

Carthage of old, once a mighty centre of power and trade, to-day reveals a score of cities piled on top of each other as war and disaster destroyed them. So one may stand on the Roman Forum and behold on every hand the centuries unfolded in the burial of imperial and republican Rome.

Certain parts of Asia are so many graveyards for buried cities, swallowed up by the all-engulfing oceans of sand. Ser Hedin, the great Swedish explorer, who traveled across the barren waste of South Asia, tells many a thrilling story of his discovery and excavations of these ancient centres. The natives called the desert "Dekken-dekka," because a thousand and one towns are buried under its sand.

They have a legend that every time the natives try to dig the sand away from the hidden treasure a violent wind arises, setting up whirlwinds of smoke and a thick mist, which sweeps away the path and leads the workmen astray into the desert. Hedin found this to be practically true, inasmuch as the sand would sweep in and fill up his excavations Separate waist of Paris lawn with band of fine needlework. The entire waist, with the exception of the lower part of the sleeves, is a series of tucks. The insertion is used to define the yoke, and reaches around the upper part of the sleeve, making the effect of yoke and sleeve tops one piece.

eral truth that the chief pain of love is experienced by people who are not in love. The great burden of the complaint about it comes from bachelors and spinsters.

The nature of love has baffled the wise of all ages, but the realization of it has sweetened all time. Philosophers have sought to analyze it, poets to describe it, artists to picture it, since philosophy and art began. But in an ardent lover's look and a willing maiden's soul-lit eyes there is more meaning than all philosophy, all poetry and all art of all the ages can portray or understand.

And if the doctors dissect the riddle, what can they do about it? Though love be a disease, they who have loved will not want to be cured. The nasty nostrums would be left to old bachelors and spinsters as preventives.

Love has been with us from the beginning and it will stay to the end, for the end of love is the end of all. It is the sunshine of the wilderness that mankind treads from Eden to heaven.

If it should disappear there would disappear with it the drama, the novel, the poem and almost the entire romantic element in life. With it would disappear comprehension of the Scriptures and all interpretation of the meaning of existence. -Syracuse Journal.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

A girl is an awful nice thing not to reason with.

Sometimes a man never has a cent without even being married.

A man lives about how big his income is, and a woman about how little her outgo is.

A married woman can be very happy by thinking how happy she was before she was married.

If women were in politics there would be some fine crying matches when the candidates began to pass around the charges. -New York Sun.

in an incredibly short space of time. A native further told the traveler that once he had found a buried city in the desert and in the houses there were dead bodies of people in position which seemed to prove that they had been overtaken by death suddenly, in some such manner as the inhabitants of Pompeii were smothered in ashes. All these tales, Hedin declares, rest on an actual substratum of truth, for he discovered several Buddhist cities buried in the sand where the process of sanding-up must have gone on for thousands of years. The whole region was once undoubtedly the seat of a very ancient civilization, as shown by the coins, jewelry and vessels laid bare, as well as the ruins of the great Temples of Buddha.

This old world is a great graveyard for cities as well as men and the passing away of the work of men's hands, whether by the tooth of time or the war of the elements, or whether caused by man's own destructiveness, serves to emphasize the mutability of all things earthly and human. All these shall pass away as certainly as submerged or buried cities and that which will abide will be eternal.

WARNED BY A PHOTO.

Here is a curious little story told by a solicitor. He had among his clients a few years ago a notorious company promoter whose financial affairs came to grief. One day happening to pass by a stationer's shop his attention was attracted by a portrait of Mr. —, the well known barrister. Mr. — was attired in wig and gown, and in his hand he held a paper on which the solicitor's sharp eyes caught the name of his client. His curiosity aroused, he purchased the photo and proceeded to decipher the words of Mr. —'s brief, speedily discovering that they indicated that a warrant was "out" for the arrest of his client. In a few hours the man of finance was out of England, to which country he has not since returned. -London Globe.

Russian Man of the Hour

Something About Rojestvensky, the Commander of the Unlucky Baltic Squadron—His Record on Land and Sea.

Never has an armada started for war with such an ominous presage of disaster as has descended upon Russia's Baltic squadron on its emergence into the open sea. The man of the hour is emphatically its commander, Rear Admiral Z. P. Rojestvensky, who is now conducting his three months voyage to the Pacific with death in his rear and the menace of irremediable ruin in front.

Incensed as it is at the North Sea tragedy, English public opinion is too just to assign personally the Russian Admiral before determining how far he and how far some of his reckless or "panicky" subordinates are responsible. The restraint is creditable, and will certainly be justified, Rojestvensky is the last Russian on earth to fight an imaginary danger by wreaking indiscriminate destruction. When the facts come out it will probably be found that certain Russian officers' nerves were too much for them, that they acted without orders, and that so far from the timing beginning through the Admiral's orders, it ceased as soon as his flagship became aware of the facts.

For a few weeks to come Rojestvensky's name will be associated exclusively with the North Sea blunder. But this is not his position in history. As Commander in Chief of what Russians denominate the "second Pacific squadron," his future is bound up with bloodier, if less exceptional, events. His heterogeneous fleet is Russia's last hope, and he himself is an essential part of that hope.

A TACITURN ADMIRAL.

Rojestvensky is a comparatively young man. He was born near Moscow in 1848, and after getting the theoretical, impractical education of a Russian naval officer, blossomed out suddenly as a hero. For two unexampled feats of bravery in the war of 1877-78 he gained the St. George's Cross. He served in the Black and Baltic Seas, gaining a high reputation as a seaman, and in 1903 abandoned sea-going for the post of Chief of Staff at the Ministry of Marine. In a year he made a reputation. He had fought well with his sword, but fought a much harder battle for efficiency. Had that battle been decided before February, 1904, Russia's naval disasters before Port Arthur would probably never have taken place.

Rojestvensky is a typical Russian and a typical naval officer. His men call him "Admiral Moltchali," the silent admiral, and taciturnity goes well with the reserved expression and manners of the Russian aristocrat. The naval man shows himself in his tastes, for he is devoted to the sea, not merely as a profession, but also as a left-passion. Rojestvensky is always at sea. When tied to the Ministry of Marine he spent his leisure navigating experimental craft and tiny sailing boats in the Gulf of Finland; he has written of the sea, and that his society friends dreaded him because he insisted on talking of nothing but the sea. Such a man ought to prove a good sailor, and, in fact, as a sailor and navigator, not even Makaroff surpassed him.

STERN DISCIPLINARIAN.

Rojestvensky is a stern disciplinarian, but he differs from all disciplinarians, past and present. Blame in the form of a string of anathemas might be expected from a "Silent Admiral." Rojestvensky, however, is a humorist, and during the past six months he has been worrying his flummoxed officers and men into efficiency by characteristic methods. Instead of storming and reprimanding, he issued periodically "general orders," holding up a carrot and ignorant officers, to the derision of the fleet. "The Commander-in-Chief of the second Pacific squadron," runs one of these, "has to inform the fleet that study was the purpose for which Cadets D. and F. were appointed to the cruiser Aurora. These young gentlemen have been wrongly given excessive leave, and the Commander-in-Chief now proposes to extend their holidays for such a lengthy period that they will be as weary of play as they now are of work." A whole series of similar orders was issued, with the result that shirkers were terrified into hard work, and ignoramuses into acquiring knowledge. If the Baltic fleet has been able to start at all, it is due to Rojestvensky, and to no one else.

Whether the Admiral will prove as good in fighting as he has proved in organization and discipline, remains to be seen. His opinions are definite enough. He is an enthusiastic believer in the big battleship, likening each armored vessel to a separate army corps, a unit in itself, which retains its value through the fleet of which it formed part may have been destroyed or dispersed. When St. Petersburg vacillated about the despatches of the squadron, on the ground that a fleet without torpedo boats and scouting ships was useless, Rojestvensky replied that he wanted only battleships and armored cruisers. "A fleet gains in mobility by not being hampered with small craft," is one of his dicta. He declared that the Japanese successes at Port Arthur were not gained really by torpedo boats and destroyers, but by the battleships behind them. His whole conception of a naval battle is a fight between big ships until the bigger and more powerful destroy the smaller and weaker.

NOT LOVED BY HIS OFFICERS.

Among his officers the Russian Admiral is not a favorite. They declare that they never know his mind and that he springs surprises of blame upon them without warning. Many an officer whose work has been inspected without comment by the admiral has afterwards found his name quoted in an ironical reprimand addressed to negligent officers generally. Rojestvensky has none of the bluff heartiness of manner associated usually with such genuine seamen. He is said never to express approval, and he always issues blame in such a way as to make the culprit feel it most. His men, however, like him. To them also he is reserved and apparently unapproachable. But he is a redeemer of grievances, and had he lived on the lower deck instead of in the admiral's stateroom, would have made an excellent "sea lawyer." He examines the sailor's clothes, eats their food, and tests their hammocks; and if anything is wrong never ceases until he has got St. Petersburg to set it right. He never expresses comradeship with or affection for his men. They are there, he implies, to do their duty; and he looks after their welfare only because it facilitates the doing of duty.

Rojestvensky, nevertheless, has his human side. Neatness of person and irreproachable uniforms he regards almost as important as gunnery and seamanship. His own appearance is not distinguished, though his features are regular, and he has a life-long wart over the nose which is the subject of much joking among irreverent "mitchmen." The admiral, however, is invariably uniformed like an emperor, and in this condition he will grub in grimy stokeholds, and pick his way among greasy cases of beef for hours in the hope of discovering something wrong. He is intensely punctilious and is responsible for the paraphrase of Bacon, "Manners make seamen." Another foible is his love of pretty surroundings. His office under the gilt spire of the St. Petersburg "Admiral's Club" was adorned with photographs, mirrors, relics of old friendships, and cozy furniture, and resembled a lady's boudoir rather than a place of work. Apparently these harmless luxuries in no way demoralized his tough character; for his long swims and solitary cruises in single-handed yachts are constantly referred to in the Russian press.

Rojestvensky did not want the command of the Baltic fleet, though, once appointed, he never wavered in his belief that it should be sent. The terrible omen which has accompanied his departure has probably cost him in moral fighting power one of his best battleships. If he ever reaches the Far East he will certainly do his best and there is no living Russian sailor whose best is likely to be better. -London Chronicle.

A VALET'S VENGEANCE.

A cook and a valet, employed in a house in Paris, had quarreled so frequently that their employer discharged the valet. Attributing the loss of his position to the cook, the valet determined to be revenged, and in order to carry out his plan, pretended to be reconciled to his former enemy. So well did he succeed that the cook having received orders to tap a cask of wine, invited her whimsical enemy to the cellar to help her. After boring a hole in the barrel, the valet suddenly recollected that he had left the tap on the kitchen table upstairs, and telling the cook to prevent the wine from running out with her finger, he started to fetch it. The cook waited half an hour for the return of the valet, and realizing that she had been sold called for assistance. Her cries attracted the attention of the other occupants of the house, who jumped to the conclusion that the valet was attempting to murder the cook, and after collecting every conceivable weapon, and warning the police, a descent was made to the cellar, where the unfortunate cook was found half drowned in wine, but still holding gallantly on the barrel.

THREADING NEEDLES BY WHOLESALE.

My mother's sight has failed so that threading a needle is a task almost beyond her. After an absence of some time I learned that a young friend had helped her over this difficulty by threading her needles for her. I simply took the spool of thread, paper of needles, and without boring the thread, threaded the wad of paper of needles as one would thread beads. When a needleful of thread was desired all that was necessary was to take the first needle, draw as long a thread as desired, and the outside needle to the spool, leaving it ready for next time. -National Magazine.

SOME SENSIBLE ADVICE

The following sensible and timely advice is given by The Colborne Express to the rising generation of this great and growing country: "To those of our young men who may be contemplating a move to the neighboring Republic we would direct attention to the daily reports of the industrial stagnation coming from that country. In all the large cities of the United States thousands of able-bodied men are walking the streets unable to obtain employment, while the wages to the employed have decreased from five to thirty per cent. Under the present favorable conditions, there is no need of any industrious young man going outside in search of work at fair remuneration. But if your inclinations are for other fields, go out towards the Canadian West. Our own land is extensive enough and offers enough attractions to appease any appetite for travel. The attractions of Canadian life are much less expensive, more enduring and far healthier than those of the United States, while the opportunities for employment and advancement are one hundred per cent. ahead of those of Cousin Jonathan."

MR. STRATTON IN THE SENATE

If, when Liberalism was enjoying its careless youth, it had been proposed to translate Mr. Stratton to the Senate, it is to be feared that the jests would have bordered upon irreverence. Mr. Stratton, according to his chief, has been singularly successful in his management of institutions for the care of the mentally defective, and this would have been mentioned as a reason why he should assume a commanding position in the Upper Chamber.

This feeling, however, has now passed away, the care of office having produced their usual sobering effect. The Senate, too, has been reformed. The worn out political hacks of another era and another party, have been replaced by veterans, who, having borne the heat and burden of the day, are now enjoying well-earned repose and dignity in the night's balmy prime. The place of the plutocrats have been taken by men of great wealth and high standing in the financial world.

The true functions of the Senate are now more clearly perceived. A second chamber is necessary to delay or revise hasty or ill-considered legislation, and to check the rash impulses of the multitude—to save the people, so to speak, from themselves. Mr. Stratton has been engaged for several years in checking the ill-considered impulse of the people of Ontario to upset the Government. The Government in this respect has performed to a certain extent the duties of a second chamber. The people wanted them to go, but they felt that if they obeyed this hasty impulse they would be acting the part of demagogues; and, with admirable firmness and constancy, they remained at their posts, smiling at the tempest.

Yet it must be a relief to Mr. Stratton to go to a place where he can perform this duty without any suspicion of partisanship. There were, we are forced to admit, some of his colleagues who had given ground for that suspicion. The Globe has several times hinted at such a reconstruction of the Cabinet as would enable Mr. Stratton to carry out his policy free from the influence of his wicked partners. But it was all in vain. The barnacles would not be removed with an iron hand or any other instrument. Finally Mr. Stratton has been impelled to come out from among them, and to find a place where the fiery impulses of the people can be checked under happier conditions, and where the ashes of partisanship repose in the bosom of each Senator as in an urn.—Toronto News.

Bystander in Weekly Sun.
Every citizen ought to have full liberty of presenting himself to the electors. An obvious remedy has already been suggested. Let there be two ballots; the first to sift the list of candidates; the second to elect. For the first ballot let everybody be free to name his name. By the vote upon that ballot the relative strength and growth of opinions would appear.

PARROTS FOR THE ABBEY.

Pall Mall Magazine.
To be a verger in Westminster Abbey—what life could be more unutterably tragic? We are, all of us, more or less enslaved to sameness; but not all of us are saying, every day, hour after hour, exactly the same thing, in exactly the same place, in exactly the same tone of voice. In the name of humanity, I suggest to the dean and chapter that they should relieve these sad-faced men of their intolerable mission, and purchase parrots.

"GRAY'S SPLENDID FIGHT."

Stratford Herald.
Why in the world did London monkey with Dr. Montague when it had a local man who in ten days' contest could bring a cabinet minister down to 18 majority? Gray's splendid fight is one of the notable features of the whole campaign. To outsiders it looked bad that a candidature of a city like London should go a-begging to Hamilton. But the Conservatives redeemed themselves and rallied around Gray in a manner that showed that if he had been in the field a month he would have won. Perhaps he will yet, for 18 is small enough majority to upset when rejected and tendered ballots are looked into. The whole of Western Ontario was interested in the London contest, and Mr. Gray is to be congratulated on the magnificent result.

What Sulphur Does

FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall. It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit. The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect. Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur. In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form. Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health. Sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material. Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with syrup and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated Stuart's Calcium Wafers, which are undoubtedly the best and most widely needed. They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike. Dr. B. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says "For liver, kidney and blood troubles especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been

A thoroughly amiable spirit marks every page of Mr. Justin McCarthy's "An Irishman's Story," (New York, the Macmillan Company; Toronto, Murray & Company.) The account, in his own words, is "more of what I saw and heard than of what I felt." There is no anxiety to give the exact date for any happening; and the author, having already written a book of "Reminiscences," gives here rather an easy, uncondensed narrative of the course of a lifetime than a regular autobiography. The record of his youth in Ireland is pleasantly indefinite, but leaves a charming picture of the City of Cork, the River Lee, and a closely knit together band of young people, who read and sang and went sailing out from the harbor of Queenstown with all the happiness of idealists. "My boat, the broad river, the rough west wind the broken waves, and the heart at rest," is a sentence Mr. McCarthy borrows from an Irish novel, "The Collegians," as one full of the joys of his youth; and then adds in the words of Lord Granville, "No one ever was so young as we were then."

His father, who was clerk to the city magistrates of Cork, had a turn for writing, but slight aptitude apparently, for making a success of life, at least financially. Instead of continuing the study of law, Justin McCarthy became a reporter at a pound a week on the Cork Examiner. This was about the time of the great famine. He soon began to dream of living in London as a man of letters, and in 1860, after two short visits to the city, as well as a period spent in Liverpool as a reporter, he obtained a position on the Morning Star, a journal begun to advocate the principles of Cobden and Bright. Mr. S. Lucas, a brother-in-law of John Bright, was its editor; and Mr. Alfred Hutchinson Dymond, "who afterwards won a distinguished position in the Canadian Parliament, and finally became the head of a great State institution in Brantford, Canada, for the education of the deaf and dumb," held the position of business manager. Subsequently Mr. McCarthy became editor of the Star, and in 1868, on his leaving for America, was succeeded by Mr. John Morley. "Nothing in my occupation of the editorial chair seemed to bring me so much honor as the fact that he succeeded in it by so great an author and statesman as John Morley." Mr. McCarthy's amiability is never more clearly shown than in his account of the conduct of a newspaper. The Morning Star was edited regularly by Mr. Bright and Mr. Cobden; among his associates were Mr. William Black, who began his work as a writer on this paper; Mr. Archibald Forbes, another of the Star's discoverers, and Mr. Richard Whiting, whose "O. 5 John Street," published years afterwards, had been long confidently expected by the other members of the staff. "We used to have as a regular institution an afternoon tea at 5 o'clock in the editorial rooms of The Star, and show the slightest signs of illness. BIRD THAT REMEMBERS.
The homing instinct lasts for life, and a bird sometimes attains the age of sixteen years, says a writer in Country Life in America. I have known of p'gons imported from Belgium and kept prisoners for years, which, when liberated, struck out for home, only to be drowned in the Atlantic or picked up by some ship out at sea. This proves that no distance appalls them. During the Franco-Prussian war the French caught a homing pigeon which was being sent to transmit information out of the besieged city of Paris. The bird was made a prisoner of war and kept in confinement for ten years. When given its liberty it at once returned to its old home, showing that ten years was not sufficient to drive from its mind the memory of home.

No Longer Needs Crutches

"Hello, old man! What have you done with your prop?"
"Oh, I carry them in my pocket now in the form of a box of Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill."

"Why, I thought you were troubled with Rheumatism."

"And so I was, and I wasted valuable time rubbing myself with liniments instead of getting at the root of the evil, for I found the whole trouble was caused by disordered kidneys—too much uric acid in the blood; my kidneys were sick and needed medicine. Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, restored the kidneys to their normal condition; then the rheumatism disappeared, and I am strong and well as ever. Thousands of people are suffering from one malady or another, the direct result of disordered kidneys. If they would use Bu-Ju, the natural remedy for disordered kidneys, they would be restored to health, strength and activity, just as I am."

Such is the evidence of thousands of people who have used Bu-Ju and have been cured by it. Why delay? You take no chances—

LIKE AN AUTUMN LEAF

LESSON ON THE SHORTNESS OF HUMAN LIFE.

WE ALL DO FADE AS THE LEAF

Like the Life of a Leaf, Man's Cradle and Grave, Are Not Very Far Apart—Most Beautiful Time in Christian's Life Is When the Autumnal Frosts of the Tomb Have Touched His Cheek.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1904, by William Bailey, of Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—From the autumnal frosts, the stripping of forest verdure and the woods now carpeted with the falling leaves the preacher in this sermon draws a lesson on the shortness of human life. The text is Isaiah lxxiv., 6, "We all do fade as a leaf."

Is there any time in all the year more delightful for a vacation in the country than the "Indian summer"? Of course to the lover of nature the valleys and the mountains have their fascinations at all seasons. Winter—cold, bleak, growing, freezing winter—has her months of glory. Then the trees, with their long, outstretched branches, are like the vestal virgins of old, robed in spotless white. Then the stars, through the keen, biting January nights, gleam brighter than any other time of the year. Then the country roads are echoing with the merry makings of the sleigh-bells, and the lights from the farmhouses are the beacons to signal friends to enter the home where "Welcome" is written over every door.

Springtime in the country also has her months of glory. That is the time we hear the woollings of bird mating with bird. That is the time when the winds are tossing the white blossoms every whither. That is the time of the seed plantings and of the plowings, the time when the brooks are rippled with the trout's fins, while summer has her glory of the haymakers and the harvestings and the vineyards and the orchards in which we all have revelled year by year when off for the August vacations. But, though winter, spring and summer may come to us, each with special forms of enjoyment, the most rapturous time of all the year in which to spend a few weeks in the country is during the autumn, for then the glory of October's pride is the fading leaf. No artist's studio was so many gorgeous colors mixed together as God pictures on his canvases of the autumn foliage.

Here the trees look like a mighty "river of blood," as though their arteries had been opened by the Mosaic rod which incarnadined the river of Egypt. The leaves have blushed a deep crimson, as did the water at the wedding feast at Cana when, at our Lord's word, it was borne as new made wine to the governor at the feast.

Oh, the beauty of the autumnal foliage! The fading leaves of the Indian summer fascinate the eye and woo plauditory exclamations from all lips. As we go forth to-day to catalogue some of them we find that there are big leaves and small leaves, long leaves and narrow leaves, rough leaves and smooth leaves, thick leaves and thin leaves. There are leaves that are yellow, and red, and brown, and crimson, and green, and saffron. There are leaves like those which the tired travelers twist into cups and dip into the cool waters and lift to their parched lips. There are leaves like the fresh emerald ones which the picnickers use for platters when the merry makers are banqueting in the woods and leaves like those the field laborers wet when they place them in their straw hats to cool their aching brows. There are leaves which the little children gather and press straight between the school-book pages. There are leaves which the maidens collect to fill the jars and vases and to decorate the halls, parlors and bedrooms of the home. There are leaves which the florist cuts to give an added beauty to the flowers he is clustering together for assemblages of joy and also for assemblages of sorrow. There are leaves which have hidden the nests of the birds while they were rearing their young. Leaves upon the tree branches, leaves in the flower gardens, leaves which have been tossed by the winds into the dusty road, leaves overhead, leaves under foot. There are a hundred and forty and four thousand varieties of them and thousands upon thousands. Lo, this autumn day, there is a host of falling leaves which no man can number. They have lived their short lives, they have faded beautifully and at last have fallen off and fluttered silently to the ground. The ancient Hebrew prophet, watching them as they fell, sees in them a symbol of the falling of human lives. As the leaves fall and die, so man falls and dies. "We all do fade as the leaf" is the overwhelming and incontrovertible statement of my text.

Like the fading leaf, man's cradle and grave are not very far apart. Like the life of a leaf, our earthly existence springs into budding life, has its short season of glorious maturity, and then fades and falls with a rapidity that startles us. Though we may live our three-score years, and ten, or even four-score years, how soon those years slip away. As the months of the spring quickly change themselves into the months of the summer, and the months of the summer change into the frosts of the autumn, we can see our lives slipping away. We can see them go as the sands of an hour-glass run away before your eyes. God puts upon one side of the leaf the snow-bank and upon the other side of the leaf the iceberg of another winter. He then says to the embryo of the leaf: "You must not begin to sprout before the whistling winds of March have died away. You must, on the other hand, be ready to surrender your life before the December storms have trampled all the tapestries of the forests under foot, making the bare trees look like the dismantled and ruined palaces of a king. So God says to man: 'Your earthly life is to be very short. You are to spend your earthly days as the life of a leaf. Therefore, what you are to do for me and for the world you must do quickly. Hear ye not in the sighing of the autumnal winds the forth-coming summons that you must soon fade away as the leaf, as the dying autumnal leaf!'

The fading autumnal leaf, the symbol of the passing away of the human generations! Can you not see it? Can you not feel it? To me it is the most startling symbol of earth, for, as I go out in the autumn and look off upon the hillsides and see the vineyards with their dying leaves, the most overwhelming fact thrusts itself upon me is the rapidity with which generations go. Aye, the members of the generation which preceded us as well as many members of our own generation seem to have disappeared as the mists at the sunrise, as the dewdrops are kissed off the lips of the leaves, as the tears on the cheek of a little child are wiped away by a sympathetic mother.

But though the span of life may be very short as a whole, yet, after all, when death comes to most of us it will come as to the leaf, gradually. Death, as a rule, does not spring out upon his victims suddenly. Like a loved friend traveling abroad, he sends message after message that he is coming. He sends notice after notice. He sends word to you just the same as the soldiers fighting in the United States army during the Civil War sent messages to their children at home. At night the mother used to read those letters to her babies. Then she would say: "Papa is coming. Yes, some day papa is going to come." Then when the surrender at Appomattox came the mother sang a new song. "Now, children," said she, "papa will soon be here." Then came the preparation for meeting the train. Then came the expected parent. Death comes to most not as a thief in the night. As a rule, death comes to us as he comes to a leaf, gradually, very gradually.

Did I say death is coming to you gradually? Oh, yes, he has sent message after message to notify you of his early arrival. The first message came to you when you were about twenty years of age. You had a fearful attack of pneumonia. For days and days they thought you could not get well. You recovered partially, but your lungs since then have never been strong. Every winter you catch a cold. Each year the cough is harder to get rid of. Or years ago when a child you had an attack of diphtheria. The nurse laid you sit up too soon, and the strain was too great upon the heart. It left it weak. For years you did not mind, but now the old trouble has come back. Or the message came to you that death was on his way to your home in failing eyesight. You have to put on glasses now when you read the Bible or the evening paper. Or you can hear his footsteps in your dulled hearing. You find out that people do not talk as loud as they used to do. You keep asking them the irritating question, "Why do you not speak more distinctly than you do?" Or it came to you last week in a startling way. You had your picture taken to please the children. When the photograph came home you were shocked. Why when you placed that picture alongside of the last photograph of your father or mother you found that you looked just as old as they were when they died. Yes, like the leaf, an average man dies gradually. He begins to die first at the extremities. His hair whitens. His skin wrinkles. His hand trembles. The once steady beat of the heart becomes unsteady. The windows of his eyesight are bedimmed. He has pain at the base of the brain because the circulation is poor. God gives to almost every man thousands of warnings instead of one warning that he is fading away as the leaf, as the autumnal leaf.

Is not the figure of the leaf dying gradually the symbol of the average man's death? Of course some leaves do meet a violent and a quick death, as nearly all wild beasts in their wintertime haunts and their lives by a sudden tragedy. A mischievous squirrel may climb a tree and jerk a leaf from its moorings and toss it to the ground. The tall antlers of the deer may be the pruning hook to lay bare a branch. The sullen blizzard, sulking behind an Arctic iceberg, may decide to make a spring journey back to the place where it has tried in vain to batter down the doors of a summer cottage during the past winter months, and in one night destroy all the sprouting leaves. A forest fire may allow the flames to feed upon the tender foliage which has been exposed by nature for a few weeks to be colored by the light of the sun. Some men in their youth or in strong middle age, in full health, may be struck down by some accident or contagious disease as quickly as a soldier upon a battlefield may have a bullet pierce his heart and instantly drop dead. And some men may instantly exterminate their lives by the evil effects of sin.

But, after all, most leaves do not die a sudden death. They live on through the summer. They live until the cold of oncoming winter makes dormant the wonderful forces which give life to the tree. They die as gradually as the summer days slip into the fall days; as gradually as the ebbing tide, each wave of which is a little lower down the beach than the preceding wave; as gradually as the twilight slowly grows dimmer, as gradually as the echoes in the mountain ravine become softer and softer. Man dies as the leaf, gradually. It is sickness after sickness. It is fewer walks, less work, less physical energy. It is a gradual benumbing of the mental and physical faculties. You know you are not as strong as you used to be. What is the matter? We are all fading away as the leaf, as the autumnal leaf.

But this autumn day, as the leaves are everywhere falling from the trees, I know God has a purpose in their death as well as in their life. One reason why God every fall strips the trees of their leaves is that the next year the forests may be robbed with another covering of green. And one reason why God makes one generation of human beings pass away from earth is that another generation might be born and live and have the opportunity to do the work which is necessary for them to do and then pass on to the eternal life beyond the grave, as past generations have done and as we must do.

Did you ever stop to consider from an earthly standpoint the blessings of death as well as the blessings of life? Every year in order to make the fruit trees and vineyards bear well the farmer with his pruning hook has to go among them and ruthlessly destroy hundreds of buds in order that the other buds might have enough nourishment to grow and do their work. In order that the human race might be strong and physically well God has to keep his pruning hook busy or else this old earth would soon be over-populated, and there would not be room for man to live by the side of man. "So great are the possibilities of growth," said the old sage, Benjamin Franklin, "that the productiveness of the vegetable and animal life is incalculable and almost without limit."

The span of human life on earth is very short, yet like that of the leaf God does not permit man's life, short as it is, to end until his work has been fully accomplished. The Bible tells us that man's earthly "days are as grass, as the flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it and it is gone, and the place thereof shall know it no more." But though the life of the grass or the leaf may be short as that of an insect, yet its life is absolutely vital to this country. Once destroy the vegetation of a land and you turn that land into a Sahara. Leaves are reservoirs for water. They decide whether a country is to be fertile or not. Once destroy the forest with its leaves and the orchards with their leaves and you change the whole atmospheric condition of the country as parts of Spain and Portugal have been robbed of all moisture by the destruction of the leaves. Thus each generation's spiritual life is absolutely necessary to the matured and developed for the spiritual life of the generation which is to follow. Your spiritual life decides what is to be the spiritual life of your children and your children's children.

She banqueted and feted them. At end of the feast, however, she would arise, wave over her assembled guests her magic wand, and her guests would be changed into repulsive four footed beasts, who would be driven by the attendant out to the swine troughs. After Ulysses' fellow voyagers had been thus metamorphosed the hero went to their rescue. In his hand he held the fabulous herb which was given to him by the god Hermes. Never for an instant did he let those leaves drop from his hand. By their power he was able to break the fatal spell of the destroyer and make her beg for mercy and restore to him his helpless and suffering companions.

This was a heathen poet's idea of the power of evil being overcome by the mighty and supernatural power of a few leaves given to his hero by a heathen god. Cannot we use to-day our lives as the symbol of healing leaves? Then cannot we further believe that the healing and saving power of the gospel which we have received from Christ we can impart to those dear ones who draw their earthly life from our life? As we have been saved by the blood of Christ, cannot we offer that atoning blood to those who love us and who are dependent upon us for temporal as well as spiritual life?

And is there a time in all his earthly career when a Christian's life is so beautiful as after the autumnal frosts of the tomb have touched his cheek? Then the physical force of the life may be gone. He may not have the strength he once had, but in his eye there will come a softer look, in the touch of his hand there will come a gentler sympathy, in the sound of voice there will be a holier prayer, in the movement of his heart there will be a gentler yearning. Thus the aged Christian, like the last leaf left upon the tree branch, may seem to be alone as all the leaves of his generation have fallen, yet people will love him for his noble life, mellowed by many a stinging frost. They will love him for what he has been, for what he is, and for what he is to be. Oh, my dear friends, by the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, as a Christian, your last days on earth may become your best days. Would you not have them a foretaste of the best of all days, which shall come to all of Christ's dear ones in heaven?

NO ARGUMENT NEEDED

EVERY SUFFERER FROM CATARRH KNOWS THAT SALVES, LOTIONS, WASHES, AND SPRAYS AND DOUCHES DO NOT CURE.

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhalers cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and local applications, if they accomplish anything at all simply give transient relief.

The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and trachea tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucus, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eustachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of stomach or serious throat and lung troubles.

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an internal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion from the mucous membrane.

The best and most modern remedies for this purpose are antiseptics scientifically known as Red Gum, Blood Root, and Hydrastin, and while each of these have been successfully used separately, yet it has been difficult to get them all combined in one palatable, convenient and efficient form.

The manufacturers of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, have succeeded admirably in accomplishing this result. They are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, to be dissolved in the mouth, thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane of the throat and finally the stomach. Unlike many catarrh remedies, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, opiate or any injurious drug whatever and are equally beneficial for little children and adults.

Mr. C. B. Rembrandt, of Rochester, N. Y., says: "I know of few people who have suffered as much as I from Catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I used sprays, inhalers, and powders for months at a time with only slight relief and had no hope of cure. I had not the means to make a change of climate, which seemed my only chance of cure."

"Last spring I read an account of some remarkable cures made by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and promptly bought a fifty cent box from my druggist and obtained such positive benefit from that one package that I continued to use them daily until I now consider myself entirely free from the disgusting annoyance of catarrh: my head is clear, my digestion all I could ask and my hearing, which had begun to fail as a result of the catarrh, had greatly improved until I feel I can hear as well as ever. They are a household necessity in my family."

The oven of an Imperial Oxford Range and the old-fashioned spit before an open fireplace do better roasting than any other cooking apparatus invented. In the olden days the spit had to be kept turning to get all sides of a roast cooked. It is much the same with the ordinary cook-stove. The heat of the oven is greatest on the fire side—roasts, bread, pies, cakes, etc., have to be turned and twisted to get them cooked at all. The result is uneven, unsatisfactory cooking—good food ruined. The diffusive fire construction of the draws fresh air into the fire chamber, super-heats it and diffuses it evenly over the oven, thus heating it quickly, thoroughly and uniformly—back, front and sides are at the same equal temperature. The result is juicy, tender roasts, light, dainty pastry, evenly raised bread—successful cooking. When you buy an Imperial Oxford Range you get the result of over sixty years' thought and experience in scientific construction of cooking apparatus.

LIKE BOYS

In the days when a brown-skinned man from the front was regarded as the outer and visible sign of "gentility," and when the men of New York were there lived in one of the orthodox mansions a certain highly respectable maiden lady and two nephews, to whom she was granddame.

A classmate and chum of the elderly boy had become the happy possessor of a joystick which the seller, assured of a market, offered by his "match," and boys were wild for a "match," and they purchase an antagonist, they put their hands together to compass the borrowing of one, and with the following results:

The Rev. Dr. Watson — Ian MacLaren — in his famous novel, "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush"—which was also one of his first books—mentioned certain poor students at the Scottish universities. I asked him a number of questions concerning these enterprising seekers after knowledge, and the famous Scots author replied:

The boundary-riders of the great Australian sheep-ranches have each a district to look after, in which one must keep the wire fences in repair and see that the sheep come to no harm. It is a hard and lonely life living, as each boundary-rider does, quite alone in the wilderness.
