Well Done, Waterdown!

The remarkable record made by Waterdown in the 1919 Victory Loan Campaign is most gratifying. $163,000 being subscribed by the residents of this village, which is over two-thirds of the objective set for the entire Township. The venerable Mr. Reuban Sparks, to whom the credit of this record is due, conducted the canvas in a very thorough and business-like manner, and is deserving of every praise for the able and efficient handling of his duties.

Village Council Meeting Bell-Rasberry Wedding

The village council met on Monday, November 10th at 8 p. m. for general business, the Reeve and all members being present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

It was moved by J. W. Griffin and seconded by J. C. Langford, that the clerk be instructed to write the C. P. R. Co. stating that the water from Dundas street does not run down Board street to the C. P. R. tracks, asking that a representative of the company be sent to meet the village council at a date to be set by the C. P. R. to talk the matter over.

It was moved by R. Smith and seconded by J. V. Markle, that this council submit a by-law to the rate-payers of the village of Waterdown at the January election asking for the issuance of debentures to the amount of $20,000 for the erection of a Memorial Hall in the village of Waterdown in memory of our fallen heroes, and that the clerk be instructed to have the necessary by-law prepared, and notice of the same advertised according to law.

On motion the following accounts were passed and ordered paid. John Mitchell for laying cement sidewalks during 1919, on account $500. Wm. Attridge, secretary High School Board, on acct. H. S. tax for 1919, $680. Hamilton & Toronto Sewer Pipe Co for sewer pipe, $37.80. S. F. Washington, crown attorney fee for counsel in prosecuting an offender of the O. T. A. $5. Waterdown Review for 1919 printing contract, $50, advertising $3.

On motion the council adjourned to Dec. 15th for general business.
J. C. MEDLAR,
Village Clerk.

The Methodist church parsonage was the scene of a very happy event on Friday last when Miss Mona May, youngest daughter of Judson and Mrs. Rasberry, John street, was united in matrimony to Mr. Robert Bell of Montreal, the Rev. R. A. Facey officiating. The young couple were unattended, only immediate relatives witnessing the ceremony, after which a dainty wedding dinner was served at the bride's home. The happy couple leaving shortly afterwards for Montreal and other eastern points. Their future home will be in Montreal. The young bride was one of Waterdown's fairest daughters and was decidedly popular here. We extend to the young couple hearty congratulations and wish them many years of happy married life.

Marshall-McGregor

A pretty wedding took place quietly on Wednesday, November 19th at the home of Mr. Peter McGregor, Main street, when his daughter, Janet Maria, was united in marriage to Mr. James Marshall, of Milton, Ont., the Rev. Mr. Ross of Waldemar, Ont., assisted by Rev. Mr. Wedderburn of Waterdown officiating. The house was tastefully decorated with palms and white chrysanthums. The bride who was unattended was given away by her father. She wore a smart suit of mulberry broadcloth with small black French hat. Her corsage bouquet was orchids. Mrs. Wedderburn played the wedding music. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left for a short honeymoon to points East, and on their return will make their home in Milton. Guests were present from Toronto, Waldemar, Dundalk, Gore Bay, Milton and Zimmerman.

Death of William Spence

After a long and painful illness, Mr. William Spence, an old and highly respected resident of East Flamboro, passed away at his home on Thursday last. Deceased was of a quite and unassuming disposition, and had a host of friends who will deeply regret his death and extend to sorrowing relatives deepest sympathy. The funeral took place from his late home on Tuesday last to Waterdown cemetery, a large number of friends attending to pay a last tribute of respect. Religious services at the house and grave were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wedderburn of Knox church here, of which deceased was a life long and valued member. The pallbearers were J. Duncan, J. Mitchell, T. Radford, Geo. Radford, W. A. Ryckman and Geo. Stock.

Mrs. Julia Crusoe

Mrs. Julia Crusoe, a highly esteemed resident of our village, died on Thursday, Nov. 13th after a lingering illness. Deceased was in her 73rd year at the time of her death, and had been a resident here for the past 50 years and was greatly respected by all. She is survived by one son, John of Waterdown, and two daughters, Mrs. P. Pickard of Hamilton, and Miss Philamena of New York. The funeral took place on Saturday morning last from her late home to St. Thomas church for services, thence to the R. C. cemetery for interment, religious services were conducted by the Rev. Father Becker. The pallbearers were J. C. Langford, C. Emery, P. H. Metzger, J. Scanlon M. Hayes and Mr. Hill.

Charles Tassie

Word was received here on Tuesday last of the death at Dresden of Mr. Charles Tassie, a brother of Miss Mary Tassie at one time a resident of our village. Deceased was born in the Township of Nelson 69 years ago, and of late years has been conducting a general store business in Dresden where he was highly respected and regarded as a man of exceptional ability. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, interment being in the Dresden cemetery. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. McGregor of London, and Miss Blanche of New York.

A Family Treat

A real good treat for every member of one's family would be a year's subscription to the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. It costs only $1.25 and each subscriber receives a handsome souvenir portrait of the Prince of Wales, 16 x 22 in. The portrait alone is well worth the money. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is a credit to Canada. It has over three quarters of a million readers and thousands more are being added each week. It is a wonderful combination of a newspaper, family magazine and agricultural journal, the best of its kind in America. It is well worth a trial for a year. Every member of your family would be benefited by the weekly visit of that great paper.

Explosive Power of Dust.

Dust in almost any form seems to have some explosive possibilities. It has been established in the experimental mine of the Bureau of Mines at Bruceton, Pa., that a mixture of 20-mesh Pittsburgh coal dust with shale dust, in the proportion of 30 per cent. coal to 70 per cent. shale, will propagate an explosion. The volatile content of this mixture is about 12 per cent., nearly 100 per cent. higher than that of gas black. While this coal dust mixture is about 15 per cent. carbon, the gas black is 85 per cent. carbon. It is apparent that if the gas black is explosive, its explosive properties will be due to the finely divided carbon rather than to the volatile content. Generally speaking, the finer a dust, the more easily it is ignited. In connection with certain factory explosions, C. Engler has recorded experiments on the inflammability of soot. He could not explode a mixture of air and soot otherwise non-explosive could be made to explode by introducing a soot cloud.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diptheria

Worth Knowing.

Nuts which have grown stale may be freshened by soaking an hour in milk, then placing in oven to dry.

Such vegetables as cucumbers, radishes and tomatoes should be washed, completely dried and put in the ice box until time of serving.

Until reconstruction work is entirely complete we must not waste one scrap of meat fat. The poorly nourished peoples of Allied and neutral countries need great quantities of fat to build them up again.

Fresh fruit from stores or stands should be wiped, then washed and dried before eating or cooking. It should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place if stored for any time before using.

Greens for salads, such as lettuce, endives, celery, watercress and parsley, should be carefully washed and then dried, so that no water remains on the leaves. They should then be tied up in a clean cloth and wrung out of cold water, and put directly on ice. This will render them perfectly crisp and cold, and ready for the dressing just before serving. There is no question as to the health-giving value of salads. They would be more popular in this country if more carefully prepared.

79 NIAGARA SQUARE, BUFFALO, NEW YORK

Men, are You in Doubt

As to your trouble? Have you some skin eruption that is stubborn, has resisted treatment? Is there a nervous condition which does not improve in spite of rest, diet and medicine. Are you going down hill steadily? ARE YOU NERVOUS and despondent, weak and debilitated; tired mornings; no ambition—lifeless; memory gone; easily fatigued; excitable and irritable; lack of energy and confidence? Is there failing power, a drain on the system? Consult the old reliable specialist.

Symptoms of Various Ailments

Weak and relaxed state of the body, nervousness, despondency, poor memory, lack of will power, timid, irritable disposition, diminished power of application, energy and concentration, fear of impending danger or misfortune, drowsiness and tendency to sleep, unrefreshed sleep, dark rings under eyes, weakness or pain in back, lumbar, dyspepsia, constipation, headache, loss of weight, insomnia. Dr. Ward gives you the benefit of 25 years' continuous practice in the treatment of all chronic, nervous, blood and skin diseases. The above symptoms, and many others not mentioned, show plainly that something is wrong with your physical condition and that you need expert attention.

Men, why suffer longer. Let me make you a vigorous man. Let me restore your physical condition to full manhood. Don't be a weakling any longer. Make up your mind to come to me and I will give the best treatment known to science—the one successful treatment based on the experience of 25 years in treating men and their ailments.

Dr. Ward's Methods Unrivalled, Thorough and Permanent

Do you realize that you have only one life to live—do you realize that you are missing most of that life by ill health? A life worth living is a healthy life. Neglect of one's health has put many a man in his grave. I have been telling men these things for many years but still there are thousands of victims who, for various reasons, have not had the good sense to come and get well.

Specialist in the treatment of nervous conditions, nervous exhaustion, backache, lumbago, rheumatism, stomach and liver troubles, acne, skin diseases, catarrh, asthma, rectal troubles, piles, fistula and blood conditions.

SOUR MILK SUGGESTIONS.

Years ago, before the day when nearly every family owned its icebox of some kind, as they do to-day, every good housewife had her own repertoire of sour milk recipes. Grandmother just had to know how to make good cake and puddings with sour milk, and how to use up her cream that had turned.

To-day, even in the best regulated household, there sometimes is sour milk or cream on hand, and a few of grandmother's recipes would be a real asset to every kitchen filing cabinet.

Make a simple white cake after your favorite recipe, bake in layers and put together with sour cream filling, and it will be added at once to your family's list of favorite desserts. It is particularly nice for Sunday night supper.

Whip half a cup of sour cream and sweeten with half a cup of powdered sugar. Then add half a cup of finely chopped almonds and flavor with vanilla.

A very good cake which is usually eaten warm like gingerbread is made by creaming a cup of sugar with a cup of shortening, and adding to it alternately with a cup of sour milk, a cup and a half of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful each of soda, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Chop half a cup of raisins, sprinkle over them another half cup of flour and add last.

GINGER GEMS.

Ginger gems served hot for dessert with whipped cream or a lemon sauce make another good dessert, especially liked by children.

Melt half a cup of shortening and add to half a cup of sugar. Then add an egg, well beaten, and a cup of molasses and a cup of sour milk in which a teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved. Sift into a cup of flour with half a teaspoonful each of cloves, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg, and then add enough more flour to make a stiff batter. Bake in gem pans.

GRANDMOTHER'S HERMITS.

Grandmother's hermits, made with sour milk, will keep a long time. For this reason they are particularly good to send quite some distance, as no matter how long they may be en route, they are sure to be as soft and fresh when they arrive as when sent.

Cream a cup of sugar with half a cup of shortening and add to it one egg, well beaten. Then add half a cup of thick, sour cream, a teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, spice to suit, and half a cup each of chopped walnuts and raisins. Flour to mix soft. Drop from the end of a spoon.

To make a most unusual pie beat two eggs till very light, then add a cup of sugar and a cup of thick, sour cream, half a cup of raisins, and half a teaspoonful of cinnamon and half a teaspoonful of nutmeg. Bake between two crusts.

Cherry pudding. Beat one egg with a third of a cup of sugar. Dissolve a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda in a cup of sour milk, and add to it a teaspoonful of melted butter. Then add a cup of flour and a cup of stoned cherries. Bake in a hot oven and serve with sugar and cream or with a vanilla sauce.

Bird Families

Did you ever stop to think that birds are grouped into families. Just as human beings are; that they have such marked family characteristics and resemblances that, if you see an unfamiliar bird, you may still be able, at a glance, to tell his family name by recalling some of his relatives with whom you are acquainted. Not only is this true, but each bird family has its own habitat or favorite locality, such as high treetops, marshes, deep woods, or orchards; so you may often name a bird by the place, as well as by the company, he keeps.

When you think how many, many birds there are—land birds, water birds, birds of the air, birds of the tropics, of the sea, of the Arctic regions—you may realize how helpful even a slight knowledge of the most important bird families is; for, otherwise, we should never be able to remember them, once identified.

Every one in the northern United States knows our cherry robin redbreast, who is an own cousin to the bluebird, as well as to the thrushes. There is little resemblance among them in dress, but the former two live in much the same localities, and the songs of all three have something of the same loveliness, though that of the thrush is considered the sweetest.

Whether you live in town or country, you have met at least one member of the sparrow family; so you should be able to recognize other sparrows nearly anywhere, for they dress very much alike.

in coat of Quaker brown and gray, with a white vest beneath. The largest member of this family is the fox sparrow, whose coat is sometimes a bright reddish brown, with large red-brown spots along the sides of his vest. This is a large family, including perhaps eighteen different sparrows found in the United States, besides the dear little goldfinches, the bright cardinal of the south, as well as the rose-breasted grosbeak of the north. If you have observed goldfinches closely, you may have noticed that they are seed eaters; so you will not be surprised to learn that other seed-eating birds belong to the big sparrow family—among them a number of our winter birds, such as the purple finches, crossbills, snowbirds, and the quaint little junco.

There is one group which I always call the meadow family, as so many of its members live in grassy fields and meadows. The correct name is Icteriae, and our bobolinks, red winged blackbirds, meadow larks, orioles, and crickets belong here. Of course it is quite proper to call them Icteriae if you can remember it; but, if not, just say the meadow family, and they will not mind. Nearly all of them have some marking or patch of bright color, which harmonizes well with the sunlight and blossoms of their meadow homes and gives the birds a happy, dressed-up feeling.

Of course you have the swallow family? Some of the swallows do not stop at Florida, but go on to Central America, or even further. They can do this perfectly well, since they have no trunks to pack and no train schedules to consider. However, they have the north beat, and prove it by returning every spring to bring up their children there. They are friendly birds, and all of them—bank, barn, cliff, tree swallow, and purple martin—seem to prefer to nest near human beings, as if they liked company. The purple martin will gladly accept a bird house, if one is put up for him, but the entrance must be so tiny that the quarrelsome English sparrows cannot enter and drive out the pretty martins.

Then there is the warbler family, several of whom you may glimpse during a week or two in the spring and fall. They are even greater travellers than the swallows, as most of them nest in Canada though a few stay in the cool woods of New England all summer. Such tiny birds as most of them are! It seems hardly possible that their small wings can carry them so many hundreds of miles, but they make their journeys leisurely, stopping whenever they choose, to find food and rest. The warblers vary in size from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 inches in length; and, as they flit shyly about high in the leafy treetops, their bright colors blend so well with the foliage and sunshine that many persons are not at all aware of their presence. This is a pity for they are interesting little birds with sweet songs and dainty, attractive ways. In fact, all birds are interesting, once one begins to get acquainted with them. There is no easier way to know them well than to think of them as divided into big, distinct families, like human ones, and then try to group your new bird acquaintances, as you meet them, into the families where they belong.

Back at His Work in Quebec Woods

William H. McDonald Shouts Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

His Troubles Were Not Only Painful but Alarming Till He Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Bury, Que., No. 12th (Special)—William H. McDonald, a young man living near here, is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Rheumatism in his arms, severe pains in his back and head and an alarming pain in the region of his heart rendered him not only helpless but much alarmed as to the future. He found the relief he needed in one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I will recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone with weak kidneys," Mr. McDonald says in telling his story. "I am back at work in the woods feeling as well as ever. What with rheumatism and those pains in the head and near the heart, I was sick and anxious."

"But after a week's illness I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box of them made me as well as ever I was in my life."

TWELVE MISTAKES.

One Dozen Popular Fallacies Regarding Good Values.

Most of us are wont to accept the often-stated as proven truth in dietetic matters. The common fallacies about food are repeated from generation to generation. Scientific analysis disproves many suppositions. Here are instances:—

1. It is often said that beef is more nourishing than bread and cheese. There is, however, far more nutriment in one shilling's worth of bread and cheese than in beef of the value of one shilling. Lean beef is very inferior to cheese as nutriment.

2. Skim milk is supposed to be valueless as food. This is an error. Skim milk taken with bread constitutes a sustaining meal.

3. Most persons imagine that butter is considerably more nourishing than margarine. The fact is that the best fresh butter and the best kinds of margarine contain almost exactly the same amount of nutriment per pound.

4. It is believed that costly cheese is the most nourishing. The cheaper cheeses are mostly richer in protein than the expensive sorts.

5. That potatoes are a cheaper food than bread is incorrect. If potatoes are eaten as substitutes for wheaten bread the quantity must be very large and the cost will not be less than that of bread.

6. We are often told that oatmeal is not so nutritive as wheatmeal. On the contrary, oats contain more fatty

HEALTH FOR THE BABY

The baby of to-day is the man or woman of to-morrow. Thus the success of the future man or woman depends upon the baby's present welfare. If the baby is sickly and ill nourished it is not to be expected that he will grow into a strong, active man who will hold his own in the business world a few years hence. Mothers it is a duty you owe the future to keep your little ones well now. This can be easily done by Baby's Own Tablets which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus make baby healthy and strong. Concerning them Mrs. W. Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes: "I have a fine healthy boy three years and have used Baby's Own Tablets for him ever since he was a small baby. I certainly think them a splendid medicine." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

7. Most people think that rice is indigestible. Experiments prove that well cooked rice is easily digested.

8. Maize is thought to be inferior to wheat as human food. Maize undoubtedly contains more fat than wheat.

9. A Dover sole is esteemed as more valuable food than a dried herring. Generally speaking, cured fish is more nourishing than fresh. A kippered herring is better food than a sole of first quality.

10. Nuts are regarded as desert dishes and not as nourishing food. Brazil nuts, almonds, and walnuts have 50 per cent. of fat and are very good foods. Butter made from nuts is nearly as nourishing as milk butter.

11. It is thought that fruit is not a food. This depends on the kind of fruit. Dates are a staple diet in parts of the east, and figs and raisins in a dry state are very nutritive.

12. Tea and coffee are supposed to be "sustaining." Neither of these beverages contains nutriment. Milk and sugar give a small food value to the ordinary cup of tea or coffee.

UNAPPRECIATED ECONOMY.
"The servant who works for me must be very economical," said the boarding-house mistress to the applicant for work.
"I'm such a one, ma'am," promptly returned the applicant. "Indeed, my last mistress discharged me for being that way."
"For being economical?"
"Yes, with me clothes; I used to wear hers."

DRUMS AND DRUMMERS.

It is said the drum was introduced by the Moors in Europe from the east after the Crusaders, but under various forms it was certainly known to the Greeks and Romans, for the tympanum is frequently alluded to in the classics, which probably included the tambourine and kettle drum.

In the modern orchestra three principal forms of the drum are to be found. The common or side drum, the bass or Turkish drum, and the kettle drum.

The first is usually composed of a cylinder of wood or metal. Each end is covered with vellum or parchment, the tension being regulated by strings. It is worn at the side of the performer who beats the upper end, called the "batter head," with sticks, the under or "snare head," contains a set of cat-gut strings called "snares," which add to the sharp crisp tone of the instrument.

The bass drum is a large instrument of the same kind, the cylinder is of oak, while it is beaten on both ends with drum sticks that are furnished with leather pads. It is considered by the military bands to be one of its most useful instruments, though it is as usefully employed by the modern orchestra, while many recent composers have availed themselves of it in their compositions.

The most important form of drum is, however, the kettle drum in all orchestral or distinct from military music. This instrument is hemispherical in shape, its basin is made of brass or copper, the cover being of vellum attached to an iron tripod. It is turned by screws, though its limits are, of course, narrow. Kettle drums are always used in pairs, one being tuned to the key note, the other a fourth below.

These three drums are essential in every orchestra, while for any special music, the gang, tom tom, or some other similar instrument is used.

It takes years of practice, writes H. H. Kinzett, in the Montreal Star, to acquire the suppleness of wrist required by the side drummer if he wishes to excel, so it is necessary to commence the study early or the labor will be in vain.

GARNISHES

Now that people have learned that plain cooking is every bit as good as the more elaborate sort that we had become more or less accustomed to before the days of Mr. Hoover, and far better for them from the health standpoint, they are loath to return to it, and many housewives are serving simple "one or two-piece meals," and garnishes that will serve as a part of the meal, instead of simply making the dish "look pretty."

A pot roast, or a steak on a large platter with a row of stuffed peppers or onions around it, needs no other accompaniment than a dish of baked or mashed potatoes, bread and butter and a light dessert to make a well-rounded meal. Fill cup-shaped leaves of crisp lettuce with cold left-over peas with a bit of French dressing over them, and put them around a platter of cold sliced lamb, and your family will think you are getting ready for real company. Nothing is better with boiled fish, cold or hot, than rounds of tomatoes with a spoonful of tartare sauce in the middle of each slice. To make the sauce simply add a spoonful of chopped pickle, another of capers and a teaspoonful of grated onion to a cup of your own favorite mayonnaise, which-er it be home-made or purchased from the store.

RICE OR HOMINY BALLS.
Rice or hominy made into little balls and fried a golden brown in deep fat make a delightful garnish for fried chicken.

If you want to glorify a common or garden stew, cut the potatoes into balls with the little cutter that comes for the purpose, and when you put your stew on the platter arrange the balls in a border around the meat, sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika, and pour the gravy over it. Or you can make the border of mashed potato or rice. Mash the potatoes as for ordinary mashed potatoes, adding the yolk of one egg and beating until very light and fluffy. Pile as an oval on your platter, shaping it nicely with a spoon, then brush over with the white of the egg. Brown in a hot oven and put the stew in the centre.

If you have a little left-over fish or meat that you want to use up, combine it with an appropriate vegetable, make a cream sauce and serve it at the main course of your meal in little croquettes made by cutting out circles of stale bread, hollowing out the centres and frying in deep fat a delicate brown. Or you can make shells for it by covering patty pans with pastry and baking them.

Mount Ararat Now a Republic.

The announcement of the formation of "The Independent Republic of Ararat" will brush away the fallacy which regards Ararat as just a mountain instead of a country, albeit the very mountain on which the ark rested when the waters of the Deluge began to abate. Genesis is explicit enough to have presented the mistake, it might be thought; he says quite distinctly: "The ark rested upon the mountains of Ararat." In its day, Ararat was a great power, holding sway far to the east and to the west. But to western Europe Ararat has long been known as the place where the dove first plucked the olive branch and returned with her message of hope to the Ark.

LOCAL MENTION

Miss Mayda McBride, of Tottenham, spent the week end with Miss Cawsey.

Miss Mary Mason of Seaforth was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Richards.

While playing at school on Wednesday, Edward Eager fell and broke his wrist.

Herb Slater had the misfortune to fall and break his arm, on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Blessinger of Burlington was the guest of Miss Halliburton on Tuesday last.

Mrs. Jas. Johnson, of Underwood, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Drummond this week.

Miss Bell Drummond, who has been visiting relatives in Bruce county, has returned to her home here.

Mrs. T. G. Ramshaw and father, Mr. W. W. Foster, of Milton, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. A. De Long.

Mrs. A. Donaldson and daughter left for Calgary Alta. on Tuesday last, where they will make their future home.

Miss Irene Gunshoner entertained a number of her friends last week. The evening being spent at cards, and other games.

The annual bazaar in connection with Grace church will be held in Mr. Gallaghers building, Dundas street, on Wednesday, Dec. 3rd.

Mr. H. DeLong and wife of Oregon are visiting his father, Mr. A. DeLong, and his sister Mrs. E. H. Slater, after an absence of 21 years.

At the services in Knox church next Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Wedderburn will give his second sermon on the Way of the Cross and the Crown.

Anniversary services will be held in the Methodist church next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Rev. H. L. Merner, Ph. B., B. D. of Freeman will occupy the pulpit.

A visit to the plant of the Crown Manufacturing Co. will convince the most skeptical that Waterdown has a real factory. The large number of orders being received for a "real kiddie car" has made it necessary to put on a night shift, and the plant is now running practically 24 hours a day. An average of 300 cars a day is being turned out and the firm is making every effort to double this this output in order to keep up with their orders. The limited space now at the disposal of the company is a serious handicap, making it impossible to instal the much needed machinery.

Millgrove

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John McArthur one week before the regular date on account of business to be done for the debate. After the usual opening, Mrs. C. W. King was appointed delegate to the Provincial convention. It was also decided to send $10 to the Navy League, and the same amount to the Blind Institute, Toronto. A committee was appointed to interview the trustees concerning a resolution sent in to them last May from the W. I. Mrs. King gave an interesting paper on Conservation of Child Welfare. All ladies interested in home nursing and first aid should send in their names as soon as possible to the president, Mrs. Markle or to the secretary. The meeting closed with a solo by Miss Leta Carey and singing God save the King. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McIntyre when a report will be heard from the convention and will have a demonstration on home made buns and rolls.

Methodist Choir Old Time Concert

The "Olde Tyme Concerte" was repeated last Friday evening in the Methodist Sunday School to another large and appreciative audience, the different numbers being given with even better effect than on the previous occasion. Again the singing lesson and mortgaging the farm drew much well deserved applause, and special mention should be made of the exquisite piano solo given by Miss Ruby Church which was much enjoyed, also the readings by Mrs. W. Pearson and Miss Ruth Weaver. The duet "Larboard Watch" by Messrs. Sawell and Sparks was another good number. Mr. Norman Langton on the violin, and the solo by Mr. Thos. Allen were most enjoyable. The chorus singing was marked by precision of attack and good shading, the solo parts being very sweetly taken by Mrs. Fred Thomas and Miss Mary Featherston. Two favorites, as on many past occasions, where Mrs. A. Robson and Mrs. J. Prudham who sang a charming duet. The platform presented a most homelike appearance with its glowing grate and arm chairs all eligible in point of age to vie with the costumes worn. The quaint baby-chair owned by Mrs. R. Sparks being one presented to her when she was but nine months old, and the table in its nineties being at present owned by Mrs. Prudham. The woven rugs on the floor and the huge bowls of cedar and spruce added the old-time touch and much beauty to the general effect.

Greenville

Mr. Geo. Surerus, Mr. and Mrs. John Surerus spent Sunday with friends in Copetown and Lynden.

Mr. O'Regan is quite ill and under the doctor's care we are sorry to say.

The Euchre Club spent a very enjoyable evening last Friday at the home of Mr. R. Surerus.

Wesley Grightmire has returned from his hunting trip with a deer (a four legged one).

The funeral of Mrs. Fred James, whose death occurred last Thursday, took place last Saturday afternoon from the home of Mr. Philip Binkley to Bullock's Corners cemetery.

BEST ESSAY IN FOURTH BOOK
By Sears McNeill.

This wins the medal offered by the Fire Prevention League of Ontario.

FIRE PREVENTION

Certain rules put into effect by fire underwriters, working in conjunction with insurance companies, have made it necessary to adopt various ways of fire prevention in the home, in the factory, and elsewhere.

In the home generally very little fire prevention apparatus is installed.
Only such precautions are taken as are necessary to prevent a fire from starting by an overheated stove or furnace.
In many cases sheet asbestos is used to wrap the smoke pipes leading from the furnace to the chimney, to prevent fire. Sheet metal mats are placed under stoves, and receivers are used where the pipe goes into the chimney.
When electric lights are used the wiring and fixtures are subject to rigid inspection. On city dwellings slate roofs are often used as a fire prevention.

In the factory the methods employed and the apparatus used for fighting fire varies to conform with the rules enforced by fire underwriters in different cities and towns. In some factories automatic fire extinguishers are used to fight fire.

These tanks are placed about the factories in such places as to be within easy reach at all times. In other factories, and usually in small plants, water barrels are used, centrally located in each department. They are kept constantly filled, and one or more pails hanging above each barrel on an iron hook.

The sand pail is a fire prevention which the manufacturer uses in many cases. These pails filled with sand are hung from iron hooks attached to posts within easy reach of the employees. The number of pails used is governed by the size of the plant, the nature of the business, and other conditions reported by the fire inspector.

In other factories the sprinkler system is used. Water pipes lead off from the main and into every department of the building. Jets, or valves, are attached to these pipes, and are controlled by rheostats. The rheostat consists of two resistive pieces of metal, so arranged as to open the valve when affected by the heat. The room is at once drenched with water and the fire put out.

In garages automatic fire extinguishers are most generally used. Water should never be used to put out a fire started by gasoline, as it simply adds fuel to the flames. Gasoline is highly flammable, but not combustible in its liquid state, as is generally supposed. Road dirt is commonly used to extinguish a fire started by gasoline.

A great many ways and means have been invented and employed to fight and prevent fire, but to my mind there would be very little need for these devices, and fire insurance rates would be much lower, if a law were put into force prohibiting the manufacturing and use of matches.

BEST ESSAY IN THIRD BOOK
By Dorothea Green.

FIRE PREVENTION

I'm going to tell you a few things
on how to prevent unnecessary fires.
In the first place, a little caution and cool headedness would prevent at least 80 per cent. of all the destructive fires we read or hear about. How often we hear of some dreadful fires where much valuable property, and often precious lives, are lost, when it all could have been avoided if those concerned in the disaster had known a little about fire prevention.

Some people really know the necessary caution to use, but are careless or indifferent, and in that way cause
others as well as themselves to suffer.
Again, when a fire has started it could often be overcome if those who are near would only use a little speed and common sense. Quick action is what counts, but folks get excited and waste time till the fire is beyond control.

Fire in the proper place and under human control is one of our best friends. It keeps us warm in cold weather, it cooks our food for us, it makes the steam to run large manufacturing plants, and it also runs the most of our railroad trains. We harness horses and train them to work, and thus they are valuable to us, but they become unruly and run away.
They usually do much harm. So it is with fire. And fire is much easier to manage than animals if we keep it in the proper surroundings. Even small bonfires will, if not watched, do a great deal of harm by spreading to fences or buildings, or by following a strip of dry grass to a woods, and thus causing great forest fires, which mean an immense loss to the country, besides the danger to life.

Wet clothing should never be hung to dry close to a stove or an open fire place, unless it is watched.

Never pour oil in a stove in which there is a spark of fire, nor should it be used in a stove in which the fire is out, but in which parts of the stove is still warm. Just because you didn't have trouble the first time you did such a foolish trick, it does not follow that you never will have an accident.

Fires are sometimes caused by electricity, but there is no need of such fires if caution be used. Never overload a circuit. See that your wiring is properly done and inspected, turning on the current, and that switches are carefully enclosed in iron clad boxes (which are operated from outside), in barns or other dusty places.
Have building carefully rodged to protect from the danger of lightning.
Another source of danger is spontaneous combustion. Stacks of hay or straw should be built so as to shed the rain, because when the hay or straw becomes wet after being tightly packed it heats and finally burns.

Heaps of rags or oily waste should not be allowed around buildings for the same reason. Fires are often caused by careless smokers throwing cigar or cigarette stubs down while lighted.

When you smell gas never light a match to find the leak, because when it finds it you will regret it. Never use gasoline in a room where there is an open fire.

Do not allow children to play with matches, and, if possible, use "strike on the box" matches.

If every boy and girl in Canada would do his or her part in helping to prevent fires, this would be a safe and prosperous country in which to live, because when we prevent fires we save food and clothing as well as much valuable property.

SECOND IN FOURTH BOOK
By Clement Crusoe.

FIRE PREVENTION

The Ontario Fire Prevention League,
in connection with the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, was organized in Toronto, with Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario, as honorable president, and many other prominent people as officers. The object of this Fire Prevention League is to work jointly with the Government and the Ontario Fire Marshal's office for the purpose of improving the methods for fire prevention, and also to distribute literature containing information on these subjects, to help in securing good protection against loss of life and property by fire, and especially to impress upon the mind of the child that it is a duty he owes his country to prevent the destruction of life and property by fire, which in a great many cases is due to carelessness of both old and young.

Carelessness in doing our daily work about our homes, such as quickening a slow fire with coal oil, and lighting them also, has often caused loss of life. We are told the only safe way is not to use it.

By filling a lamp too full has caused the lamp to explode, as there was not room enough for expansion. Another cause for explosion of lamps is, that the tiny air holes in the burners are allowed to become clogged. This can be overcome by boiling the lamp burners in a solution of Sal Soda and water.
Lamps made of heavy metal bases are safer than glass lamps.

The coal oil can should never be used for a gasoline can, nor a gasoline can used for coal oil. A safe plan is to paint the gasoline can "red," as red means danger.

Smoking in the barn is responsible for many fires which are often reported "cause unknown." A match may be easily dropped in the hay or straw, and if stepped on cause fire. The best preventative is not to carry loose matches.

Rubbish should not be burned near the house or barn, and never, when there is a high wind. We also shouldn't store oily rags, papers and other rubbish in our cellars, attics, or store rooms.

It is advisable to have chemical fire extinguishers in our houses and farm buildings, and many people are forming the habit of having fire buckets filled with water in readiness. In many well-equipped factories there are pipes along the ceiling filled with water, and when it gets so hot as to produce fire the wax that fills the holes melts and the water rushes down in torrents and puts out the fire.

Threshing machines were the cause of a great many fires. Sparks were blown from the engine, which set fire to any inflammable material within reach. A preventative for this was a spark arrester, which must be used while in working order.

One very important thing to learn, in case you are unfortunate enough to be the cause of a fire, or to be present at one, is not to get excited, and attack the seat of the fire at once. If your clothes should catch fire do not run into the open air, but smother it out with damp cloths or carpets.

Spontaneous combustion in the last few years has caused many barn fires.
The reason is that hay has been stored away in the mow before it is properly dried or cured. The hay becomes heated, and if it is packed tightly it will ignite and burst into flames. We are told the cells continue to live and breathe after the hay is cut, and they heat the hay to a high degree of temperature, and this, together with the heat of the sun on the roof, causes spontaneous combustion.

In conclusion, I think the Fire Prevention League is doing a great work, and each of us, by example, should follow the good instructions and precautions given in the book entitled
Fire Prevention.

The Englishman Won.

A good story concerning a conversation between an American and an Englishman, in which the latter scored, was told by General Pershing while he was in London recently. "My countryman (said Pershing) was telling me of yours a tall story about the wonderful sausage-making machines they had in Chicago. "It's a big affair," he explained, "but quite simple. All you have to do is to drive a pig up a plank, through a hole in a machine, and five minutes later out come thousands of sausages." "What becomes of the hide?" queries the Englishman. "The hide, sir?" retorted the American. "Oh, that falls out of another slot in the machine, and out comes portmanteaux, purses, or if you like, shoes or saddles—merely a matter of turning a screw." "Oh, is that all?" said the Englishman. "We've used that machine in England for the last thirty-five years. What's more, we've improved on it. Sometimes we found the sausages not up to the standard. Well, what happened? All we had to do was to put them back in the machine, reverse the engine—" "Go on!" cried the American. "What happens?" "Out walks the pig as fit as a fiddle!"

AFRICAN STYLES.

Natives of Rhodesia Show Striking Variety.

Although we have not thought the people of Africa to be much concerned about clothes and fashions, yet styles, such as they are, have entered the villages of the dark continent and are beginning to cause the people much anxiety. Miss Pearl Mulliken, Methodist missionary to Rhodesia, writes of the African dress as seen in a day school, according to the Centenary Bulletin.

"Many of the pupils, who range from the kindergarten age to grandparents, are dressed in store clothes. Their store clothes, however, have largely lost their

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well. My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARY BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service.

identity beneath a covering of many colored patches. Weather has nothing to do with clothes in this part of Africa. It may be a real summer day and you are wondering how you can keep cool, but not so those boys who have been to town to work and have clothes to exhibit to their less fortunate brothers. If these riches consist of somebody's cast-off overcoat he is sure to have it on and perhaps a bath towel around his neck, while most of the small boys are content with a yard of unbleached cotton for their entire outfit. But sometimes the big boys are quite generous with their little brothers and divide with them; such is the case of one little fellow who is the proud possessor of a vest which about covers him. Two or three others wear their brother's shirts, which is quite sufficient for all purposes.

"Some of the girls are dressed principally in beads, brass bracelets and anklets; while others have cloth draped around them forming a skirt and they are without a waist. One girl wears a silk waist with a dirty calico skirt. They often appear in evening dresses, the cast-off finery of the town women, and they may be seen digging in their gardens with these on. One came to school draped in a white bedspread."

Styves in names changing as well as in clothing. The following are some of the names which the African mothers have given their children: Spoon, Sauceman, Hotel, Pumpkin, Gingerbeer, Cigarette, Shilling, Spence, Penny, Coffee, Sweet Pudding, Very Nice, Office, Tomato, Fifteen, Vinegar, Sugar.

"Gee-Whiz! How it Hurts—
—The Pain in My Foot!"

"Sometimes it is in my arm. Merciful Heaven, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is "keep the kidneys in good order." "Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric." This can be obtained at almost any drug store.

Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, take heed, before too late. Get Anuric (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package.

Military Searchlights.

The military searchlight has proved of enormous usefulness during the war for a great variety of purposes, and, as a result, it has undergone very important development.

There has appeared, as one product of its evolution, a portable electric searchlight, weighing only 143 pounds, which can easily be carried by a couple of men or by a mule. Provided with a powerful arc-light, it throws, with the help of a bowl-shaped mirror or glass, a beam of brilliant intensity.

There is a tendency, however, to get rid of glass mirrors for war searchlights. They have two important disadvantages. One is that a chance bullet will put them all out of commission; the other, that properly made glass reflectors cannot be quickly, or easily obtained. Nothing short of a first-class mirror-making plant is capable of turning them out.

Accordingly, since we entered the war, our army has taken to using reflectors which are simply shallow bowls of thin sheet iron plated on the inside with silver. They are not equal to mirrors, but they can be turned out quickly in indefinite numbers anywhere that silver plating is done. A rifle bullet will not break them, and they have the additional advantage of cheapness. Glass reflectors are very expensive.

The French during the war have been making trial of searchlight reflectors plated with gold, which, it is claimed, have great brilliancy. They are most costly, of course, but do not require daily polishing.

When Nature Was Timekeeper.

In the British museum is a large stone composed of carbonate of lime, which would serve perfectly as a day laborer's calendar, inasmuch as it would indicate to him every Sunday and holiday of the year, though not the day of the month. Moreover, the stone is an actual time record of the work done for a long period in an English coal mine.

The "Sunday stone," as it is called, was removed from a colliery drain. When the miners were at work the water running through the drain left a deposit colored black by the coal dust, but when no work was being done the water ran down clear and left a white deposit. These deposits in the course of time built up a black streak, immediately followed by a wide white streak during the night. Wide white streaks indicate the holidays and Sundays.

Gifted Idiots.

Idiots have been known whose memory for names and words was so retentive that they could repeat verbatim and indicate where the preacher blew his nose and coughed in his delivery. Dr. Moffat, the distinguished African missionary and father-in-law of Dr. Livingstone, once preached a long sermon to a crowd of negroes. Shortly after he had finished he saw a number of negroes gather about a simple minded young savage. He went to them and discovered that the savage was preaching his sermon over again. Not only was he reproducing the precise words but imitating the manner and gestures of the white preacher.—London Tit-Bits.

Specially Good Sandwiches.

Try mint and cucumber sandwiches. Dip thin slices of cucumber in French dressing.

Put these on slices of buttered bread; sprinkle with chopped fresh mint.

Fig sandwiches are tasty and wholesome and may be made with fig paste. To prepare the paste, use one-half pound of chopped figs and one-quarter cup of granulated sugar.

And water barely sufficient to cover; cook in a double boiler, and when done add one tablespoon lemon juice.

Delicious fillings for sandwiches are made by mixing orange marmalade, chopped nuts and cream cheese; or by chopping a small bottle of stuffed olives, two sweet peppers and one-quarter pound English walnut meat, and adding to cream cheese.

If Breath Comes Hard if Nose is Plugged You Have Catarrh

Perhaps you haven't heard of the new remedy—it's so pleasant to use—fills the nose, throat and lungs with a healing balsamic vapor like the air of the pine woods. It's really a wonderful remedy—utilizes that marvelous antiseptic only found in the Blue Gum tree of Australia.

The name of this grand specific is Catarrhazone, and you can't find it equal on earth for coughs, colds, catarrh or throat trouble. You see it's no longer necessary to drug the stomach—that spoils digestion—just simply inhale the balsamic essences of Catarrhazone, which are so rich in healing that they drive out every trace of Catarrh in no time.

For speakers and singers and persons troubled with an irritable throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh or la grippe, Catarrhazone is of inestimable value.

The inhaler can be carried in your pocket, and may be used at any time or in any place.

Large size, guaranteed, and sufficient for two months' use, costs $1; smaller size, 50c; sample size, 25c. Sold by all storekeepers and druggists.

Lawyers On Strike.

Lawyers, as well as policemen, have been known to strike. Some years ago the barristers practicing in Sierra Leone were so dissatisfied with the judge who was acting as substitute for the chief justice while the latter was on leave that they unanimously elected to give up pleading before him. Legal business in the colony was, therefore, at a standstill until the chief justice returned. France, too, affords an instance of a legal strike. One of the judges at St. Amant accused the local lawyers of deliberately promoting disputes in order to fill their pockets with fees. Thereupon all the lawyers in court departed in a body, declaring that they would not return until this insulting statement had been withdrawn. Eventually the judge apologized, and the lawyers resumed practice.—London Daily News.

Canadians Have Absurd Notion That They Are Opposite China.

On the other side of the world, exactly opposite to the spot where you happen to be at the present moment, is a geographical point very interesting for that if for no other reason.

Supposing that from where you are standing or sitting a hole was bored straight down through the centre of the earth, and that you could drop through to the other side. Where would you come out?

Most people, in response to that question, would say China; but that is absurd when you come to think of it. Often one hears China spoken of as the "antipodes." But how could that be the case for anybody in Canada, considering the fact that both countries are in the Northern Hemisphere?

Nobody is walking about just opposite you on the other side of the earth. If any one tried it he would certainly get his feet wet, for he would be in the midst of the Indian ocean. Transfer Canada to the opposite side of the world, and the entire country would form an island in that vast expanse of sea.

London and Paris, if similarly transferred, would be in the Southern Pacific, south of New Zealand. Denver would be near the middle of Behring Strait would be in the far South Atlantic. The Panama Canal would find itself near the west coast of Sumatra. The Straits of Magellan would be in the neighborhood of Lake Baikal, across which the trains of the Siberian Railroad are ferried.

Australia would be in an island in the Atlantic ocean, with Bermuda off its northwest coast and the Azores off its southeast coast. The city of Shanghai would be in the Andes, between Chile and Argentine. Peking would be south of Buenos Aires. The Philippines would be in the heart of Brazil. Cape Horn would be in the region of the Himalayas.

The whole of Africa, if transplanted to the opposite side of the globe, would be in the Pacific ocean. The once-mysterious city of Timbuktu would discover itself to be surrounded by the Fiji Islands, inhabited by people blacker than its own. The Sahara, if one drew upon it a map of its antipodes, would be sprinkled with many of the island group of Polynesia.

SIR WILLIAM'S
WILL

She told her some of her little troubles in connection with the management of the estate, plainly revealing her newly found interest; and they talked for some time, Hesketh giving her the benefit of his advice. The tea came in while they were still talking, and he reached for his hat; but Clytie pressed him to stay, and, after a glance at his watch, he yielded.

There was the usual dish of tempting but, it is to be feared, indigestible hot scones; and Clytie, having poured out the tea, rose to put the dish of cakes within the fender.

"Oh, pray, allow me!" said Hesketh, rising quickly.

"Oh, don't trouble," she said. "It is better to keep them warm, isn't it?"

She knelt beside the fire and moved the old-fashioned fire-irons to make a place for her back and a sudden pallor in his face, Hesketh's hand went quickly to his breast pocket; then it hovered for a second over the tea-tray and returned to his pocket. When she had returned to her place, he was leaning back in his chair some little distance from the table and regarding a memorandum he had made of some of the things they had been discussing. Their conversation took a lighter turn, and he laughed quite lightly when she repeated one or two of Mollie's quaint and sharp remarks; indeed, when he had gone she reflected that he had seemed brighter and more cheerful than she had ever seen him; it was evident that he was not brooding over her refusal of him.

She was at the piano, playing, when Mollie came in, splashed with mud but brimming over with high spirits.

"Have you enjoyed yourself, dear?" asked Clytie over her shoulder. "But it is scarcely necessary to ask."

"Oh, yes; I've had a high old time—as Lord Stanton would say," she added quickly. "We've been playing billiards. And Lady Mervyn marked for us. If I thought I should be as charming as she is at her age, Clytie, I don't think I should object to growing old. They talk of going up to her house in Grafton street for a few weeks, and—what do you think, Clytie?"

"She has asked you to go with her?" replied Clytie, promptly.

"Ah! you're getting too clever to live," said Mollie. "You've guessed right the very first time, with the exception of one word. She has asked us; you don't suppose she would leave you out, leave you here alone?"

"It is very good of her," said Clytie. "You will like to go, dear?"

"Rather!" responded Mollie, joyfully. "Lady Mervyn is going to write to you or come over to-morrow. Won't it be delightful, Clytie! Think of a time in London, in a jolly little house in Mayfair, with theatres and concerts and shopping, and a carriage to take us about, instead of the useful but promiscuous penny bus we used to patronize! It will do you all the good in the world, Clytie; not that there is anything the matter with you," she added, putting her arm around Clytie's neck and bunching up her cheeks.

"You appear to be in what the old-fashioned authors used to call rude health; your cheeks are absolutely blooming—that sounds like slang, doesn't it? I wonder what we should say if a modern poet talked about a 'blooming girl' as the old ones were fond of doing—and your eyes are as bright as—Polly's when she is munching chocolate. I can't imagine any one coming near you without wanting to kiss you. Yes, my dear, you are a very satisfactory sister. Any one been here this afternoon?"

"Only Mr. Carton," replied Clytie, resuming her playing.

Mollie made a grimace. "You are right to say only Mr. Carton; he does not count. Strange how I dislike that man! All right—all right; I'm not going to enlarge upon it! And I suppose he stayed to tea and purred like a cat? Thank Evings, I was out!" She waltzed to the door; but as she passed out she looked over her shoulder and said:

"Oh, Percy asked me—"

"Who?" demanded Clytie, with raised eyebrows.

Mollie blushed, but shrugged her shoulders defiantly. "Sorry, Clytie! Caught it from Lady Mervyn. But you must admit he's just the kind of boy to answer to Percy." She mimicked Lady Mervyn's affectionate way of pronouncing the name. "Well, Lord Stanton, if you insist upon it, asked me to tell you that there is no news of Jack Douglas."

Clytie looked straight at the piano. "Oh," she said, quietly, "did he expect any?"

"I don't know," replied Mollie. "If he did, he was doomed to disappointment. That remarkable young man has vanished into the Ewigkeit. Do you know what that means?"

"Yes," replied Clytie, rather gravely. "Well, I don't; and I don't want to know. Good-by, Miss Bluestocking."

The two girls chatted brightly through the dinner, Mollie revelling in the anticipatory joy of their visit to London, and planning with minute detail a large amount of theatregoing and shopping.

"It's a fact, my dear Clytie," she remarked, "we will, as Per—I mean Lord Stanton said, paint the gay little village a brilliant red."

They went into the drawing-room with Mollie's arm round Clytie's waist; and Mollie indulged in a few waltz turns before she released Clytie and playfully thrust her into a chair. Then she went to the piano and rattled off a waltz, humming the air in her thin, clear voice.

"I suppose it's too soon to have a dance here. Oh, yes; of course it is," she said. "But we will have one in the not far distant future. I don't know whether Lord Stanton can dance. It is to be hoped so; there are not too many young men in the locality. We might have one in the spring; it's not far off now. I suppose it's a long time since the Hall resounded with the music of the harp and the loud bassoon. We might have a fancy-dress dance," she went on, gaily, still strumming, her head on one side, her lips parted with a smile of prospective enjoyment. "You'd look stunning as—let's see—Dawn, or the Rising Star, or the White Lily and I could dress as the Daughter of the Regiment, or Mary, Queen of Scots; carrot hair, you know; and Lord Stanton could make up as a Monkey at the Zoo or the Little Boy Blue. Mr. Hesketh Carton could come as the Assassin of the Period; he'd look the part. What?"

Clytie did not answer, and, after a moment or two, Mollie looked round. Clytie was lying back in her chair, with her hands hanging limply by her side. Her eyes were closed, her face—which only a few hours ago Mollie had declared to be blooming—was very pale.

"Clytie!" cried Mollie. "Are you asleep?"

No answer came; Clytie did not stir. Mollie swung off the stool and stood looking at her sister for a moment with some surprise, for Clytie was not given to falling asleep after dinner; then she went to her and shook her gently by the shoulder; but Clytie did not wake, and Mollie, with a vague fear, bent over her and called to her loudly. After a moment or two, Clytie seemed to hear, and, opening her eyes, gazed vacantly up at Mollie's now anxious face. Mollie drew a breath of relief.

"Why, Clytie, you deserve to be called the Eighth Sleeper. I never saw any one sleep so soundly!"

Clytie smiled, but her face was still pale and her eyes looked heavy. She rose, but staggered slightly and fell back into the chair again with a deep sigh.

"What's the matter? Are you ill?" demanded Mollie, with a poor attempt at a laugh.

"Ill? No," replied Clytie. "I am only sleepy. And my head aches a little." She passed her hand languidly over her brow and closed her eyes, but opened them again and tried to laugh. "I feel so strange, as if—as if I had suddenly lost all my strength."

"You've got indigestion," said Mollie, with a brusqueness which only partially concealed her anxiety. "It must have been something we had for dinner; or did you eat some of those hideous scones for tea?"

Clytie laughed; but it was a faint and wavering laugh.

"As it happens, I did not," she said. "I wasn't hungry. So they are blameless. Have the lights gone down; the room seems darker."

"The lights are all right," said Mollie, curtly. "What is the matter with you? I shall send for Doctor Merton."

"You will do nothing of the kind," said Clytie, forcing a smile. "I shall be all right in a minute. Ring for a glass of water for me, dear."

Mollie rang, and the footman brought the water; and Clytie drank some and nodded at Mollie reassuringly.

"I'm quite all right now," she said. "I can't think what was the matter with me."

"You are still pale; and your hands are quite cold," said Mollie, taking them in her own warm ones and rubbing them tenderly. "You'd better go to bed."

"I think I had," assented Clytie, laughingly. "It is the best place for a person who is behaving so ridiculously as I am."

Mollie went up with her, and, dismissing the maid, helped Clytie to undress; and, despite Clytie's remonstrances, insisted upon sitting beside her until she fell asleep. It was some time before Clytie awoke; and at first time sleep was broken by fits of starting and difficulties of breathing; but at last she fell into a profound sleep. But Mollie would not leave her, and presently crept softly beside her and took her in her arms.

Clytie woke in the morning apparently little the worse for her temporary fit of indisposition.

"You seem all right this morning," said Mollie, as she bent over her; "but don't you do it again, young lady, or I shall send for Doctor Merton, on the instant."

Clytie laughed. "I am not at all likely to do it again," she said. "I am not one of the fainting sisterhood; I suppose I must have fainted?"

Mollie regarded her thoughtfully. "Yes, I suppose it was a faint," she said; "but whatever it was, don't you do it again, for I don't like it. Oh, no, you won't get up. You'll have breakfast in bed as a punishment for frightening your little sister."

Clytie laughed, but sank down on her pillow again resignedly; for her head still ached, and she felt strangely limp and weak.

TONIC TREATMENT FOR THE NERVES

Neuralgia and Other Severe Nervous Disorders Cured Through the Blood.

In many severe nervous disorders the best remedy is often a tonic. The most active tonic treatment is recommended by the highest medical authority to arrest the progress of such disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic that acts on the nerves through the blood, which carries to the nerves the elements needed to build them up and restore them to a normal condition.

Neuralgia, sciatica, nervous headaches and a number of more-severe nervous troubles are properly treated by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are often entirely cured in this way. If you are nervous you can help yourself by refusing to worry, by taking proper rest and sleep, by avoiding excesses and by taking out-of-door exercise. For medicine take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will soon notice the beneficial effect of this tonic in every part of the system. Miss Anne L. Johnston, R.R. No. 1, Listowel, Ont., is one of the numerous sufferers from nervous troubles who has found a cure through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Miss Johnston says: "For a long time I was a severe sufferer from nervous troubles, with the result that I grew very pale and weak. Medical treatment did not help me, and various medicines had no beneficial effect, until finally a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began their use and took the pills regularly for several months, with the result that I not only gained in weight, but have recovered my full health and strength. I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly for what they have done for me."

To build up the blood there is one remedy that has been a household word for a generation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks and lips and drive away that unattractive tired feeling. Plenty of sunlight, good wholesome food and fresh air will do the rest. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

McClary's Kootenay

TOP, bottom and all four sides of the Kootenay oven are evenly heated. That is why it is so famous as a dependable baker. There is a thermometer, too, to tell whether the heat is right or not.

No range is quite so easily managed. Duplex grates clear the ashes at a single turn. Burnished cooking-top never needs blacklead. Nickered steel oven walls are kept clean with a damp cloth. Well-fitted joints and dampers hold the fire—and the oven heat—for hours.

Let us show you the Kootenay.

A group of housewives were having tea together at a restaurant and talking over the events of the day. The question under discussion was as to who had done most to win the war. Some said Haig, others Beatty, others Foch.

At last one woman chirped in.

"I don't know who's done most to win the war," she said, "but I know who's been most talked about."

"Who's that?" came a chorus.

"Why, this 'ere Alice Lorraine that the French and Germans came to blows over!"
