HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured of a Serious Disease.

"I was suffering from what is known as Bright's disease for five years, and for days at a time I was in bed for three weeks; during that time I had treated myself with every medicine I could lay my hands on, but without effect. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised in the papers I decided to try a bottle. I found relief before I had finished taking half of a bottle. It got so much help from taking the first bottle that I decided to try another, and since taking the second bottle I feel as well as ever I did in my life." Geo. M. MARRER, Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient, yet easy of action. Sold by all druggists. 25c.

The Holy Ghost's SEVEN GIFTS.—WHAT THEY CONVEY TO OUR SOULS.

The gifts of the Holy Ghost are seven in number: Wisdom, Understanding, Counsel, Fortitude, Knowledge, Piety and the Fear of the Lord. They have been ably defined by Father Anderson, the Jesuit, as follows: "The holy fear of God is an affection of filial reverence towards our Lord as to a most loving mother, infused by the Holy Ghost into the soul of the just man, by which he has a most humble respect for his God, and fears to give him the least offence and to be separated from his love. Hence as St. Bonaventure says, the soul with perfect docility allows herself to be guided by the inspirations of the Holy Ghost, and is so completely subject to him, that in nothing whatever, as far as is possible in this life, does she dare to resist him. This rendered souls fearless of everything else, like the young martyr, St. Sylvanus, who said to the tyrant: 'If we were to fear that peering death of which you speak, we should incur the death which is eternal and the never ending torments of hell.'"

2. Piety is a divine ray by which the minds of the just are enlightened and their hearts inclined to render to God the worship due to so good and loving a father, and to give aid to others as to the image of God himself. So the young brother Donatian and Rogation cried: "We adore Jesus Christ, and we are ready and desirous to suffer any torment for his love." 3. Knowledge is heavenly light, infused by the Holy Ghost, by which the just man knows and judges with certainty what he ought to believe with divine faith, and how he should order his actions to conform himself to its maxims. Through this upright judgment, says St. Bonaventure again, his understanding acquires a quiet constancy in believing, and his heart a joyful facility in doing good; for he knows that the labor undertaken for this end is followed by eternal rest. So St. Epiphanius cried out: "I believe that Jesus Christ is truly God with the Father and the Holy Ghost, and I am bound by duty to give my life willingly for Him who is my Creator and Redeemer." What does it matter to me how and when this frail body is dissolved, which must die some day, if only my soul go happily to heaven, and remain faithful and obedient to Him who created it? 4. Fortitude consists in a powerful impulse given by the Holy Ghost to the will of the just man, by which he meets difficulties and death itself and overcomes all obstacles and hardships in the service of God, even so far as to exert and to rejoice in them as most blessed and desirable. So St. Gordianus said to his persecutor: "Dost thou threaten me with death? I grieve that I can only once die for my Lord Jesus Christ."

Protestants Leaguering in Vain.

It is told of more than one prominent Anglican clergyman of the present century that, after having journeyed to Rome to convert the Pope, he became a Roman Catholic himself. Such, we predicted last week, may be the happy lot of the more earnest and honest among the members of the newly formed League of Catholic Unity, which, in spite of its name, merely aims at the unification of Protestantism against the truly Catholic Church. We need not dwell on the chimerical character of this aim, for disunion and dissensions are as essential to Protestantism as its protest against the supremacy of the Pope. Even in its first principle, the Bible as the only "rule and ultimate standard of faith," it is not merely at fault in rejecting the whole body of Christian tradition, but in that, among those professing to adhere to such a rule by attaching their names to the declaration of principles, are some who have already openly rejected the divine authority and the old-fashioned Protestant view of the inspiration of the Bible. How, then, can such men as Dr. Briggs and Dr. R. Heber Newton bring themselves to declare to be the sole rule and ultimate standard of faith? The former, who is one of the signers, has, as the New York Sun remarks, held that "such acceptance of the Scriptures is mere superstitious delusion," and continues: "If his conclusions are correct the Bible is a book of false pretences; and if that be so, of course it cannot be of Divine authority, or inspired of God in any mode, or to any degree. It must be rejected as a rule of faith if he is right, and any Protestant unity based on belief in it as such will be founded on lies." In reference to the position of the other Agnostic preacher whom we have named the same paper says: "The creeds suggested as a ground of union are built upon the Gospels; but Dr. Heber Newton says that the reports of the Gospels are untrustworthy, as coming from ignorant and narrow-minded men. For instance, he refuses to believe in the story of the Resurrection as it is told by the Evangelists, simply because they are the reporters. They were only men, he says, and they may have been faulty in their observation. If they are looked on in that light, and not as the vehicles used by God for the communication of absolutely infallible truth to men, the whole foundation of these creeds must be rejected. According to human science, the Incarnation itself was impossible, and as our only information respecting it comes from reporters thus discredited by Dr. Newton, the sole reason for faith in it is destroyed by him."

comes interiorly adorned with the most beautiful virtues, takes the side of the good, is full of compassion and of good works, keeps himself in holy simplicity and avoids murmuring. So the holy child martyr Cyril declared he had no love or esteem but for the faith of Jesus Christ. "Greatly do I desire to die," he said, "and to die quickly for Jesus Christ. Far larger and more beautiful than my father's house is that wherein I shall dwell in heaven. Oh, how I desire the immense blessings of Paradise! I come to death as soon as you can, that I may be the sooner obtain the great happiness I am now expecting. You cannot tell how great is the hope and delight that I feel within me. Let me die now, full of joy and die in this manner." May God and the Holy Ghost grant us, in this Pentecostal season to meditate deeply and prayerfully on these things!—Sacred Heart Review.

ideas of self-respect. Although a good housekeeper will, it is true, get out her best china for an "occasion," and a home to let is necessarily less costly and elaborate than a dinner gown, the same care and thought and good taste should be given to both and the smiles and courtesy invariably bestowed upon guests should be equally obligatory at the family table. Why is it that a wonderful change in the home circle? The father of the family ceases to be grumpy and fault-finding and becomes the courteous gentleman he should always be; the children stop their wrangling insistently, and grow suddenly quiet and well behaved; while the house-mistress banishes her usual worried, querulous expression and beams with smiles and good humor—all for a stranger.—Sacred Heart Review.

The Street Railway Company of St. Louis, which was compelled to dismiss seventeen Apait conductors for pilfering, has followed up its action by dismissing all the A. P. A. men who had been employed by it. In doing this they were compelled to dismiss nearly all their conductors, as the A. P. A. had managed to get the railway completely under their control. The cause of this further action of the company was that they discovered that the Apait conductors, having succeeded in having all Catholics dismissed, had next used the machinery of the order to enter undisturbedly among themselves into a conspiracy to defraud the company. This state of affairs is just what might have been expected. Scoundrels who conspire, under pretence of religion, to inflict injury on their fellow-citizens, may be expected to use the same cloak to cover their own financial predations. Other railway corporations through the country have found it necessary to take a course similar to that of the St. Louis Company for similar reasons.—Catholic Record.

The efforts of the Sovereign Pontiff together dissident Christians into the bosom of the Catholic Church are beginning, it would appear, to bear fruit amongst the Copis who since the fifth century have followed, with the exception of a very small minority, the schism of the Greek heresiarch Eutychius and are known as Eutychians, or Monophysites, because they maintain that in our Divine Lord the divine nature absorbed the human nature as the sea a drop of water. This pretty metaphor was condemned by the Council of Chalcedon. The Copis are spread over Upper Egypt, Nubia and Abyssinia, their pursuits being generally commercial. Like most of the Orientals, they follow the ancient practice of circumcision. Their supreme religious authority is a patriarch who dwells at Cairo and is known under the nominal title of the Patriarch of Alexandria and Jerusalem. Ancient Copia, now kept, communicates with the Nile by a canal and for a considerable period has been the centre of extensive commerce. This movement of the Copis towards Catholic unity will in its political aspect affect England more than any other power.—Exchange.

It is true, as the Catholic Standard is, that this long scientific potter about the descent of a man is only a fish story? So says Prof. Edward Drinker Cope, of the University of Pennsylvania, who according to a writer in a daily paper "carries in his head, instantaneously ready for use at any time and under any circumstances a large vocabulary of Latin and Greek scientific proper names of species, hundreds of which he has coined and brought into general use," and claims to have proved, at least to his own satisfaction, that man's remote ancestor was not the monkey, but the fish? Did Darwin, then live in vain? Perhaps, and so, possibly, will Prof. Cope. Our own opinion is that his theory is entirely too fishy," and is destined to join in the rubbish-heap of sciences that monkey-man from Borneo and the Cashmere site of the Garden of Eden.

5. Counsel is a divine light by which the Holy Spirit makes known to the just man what he ought to do or omit on certain occasions, to gain eternal salvation, as the boy martyr Louis in Japan, when offered life and liberty if he would renounce the faith, replied: "On so bad a condition I neither accept nor desire life, for it is not a good exchange to give a blessed and eternal life for one that is miserable and transitory." 6. The gift of Understanding is a divine light, by which the just man penetrates deeply, with intense wonder and admiration, the mystery of the faith. This gift so enlightens the mind, says St. Thomas Aquinas, that a man even in this life receives a foretaste of future manifestation and sweetness. So the venerable mother of the martyr Symphonius exclaimed to him as he was led to execution: "My son, my dear son, have always before the eyes of thy soul our immortal God. Be courageous and constant. Remember that we need have no fear of death, which will certainly lead thee to eternal life. Lift up on high thy thoughts, thy affections, and thy whole heart, and look only at him who reigns in heaven. Thy life will not be taken from thee today, it will only be exchanged for one far better. To-day, my son, is a most blessed exchange, thou wilt pass from this world to eternal life."

7. The gift of wisdom is a most clear light infused by the Holy Ghost, by which the just man gains a knowledge and esteem of God and of eternal things beyond what could be imparted to him by the seraphim, and thus enjoys spiritual sweetness that which nothing more like the delights of heaven can be tasted on earth. Knowing that in God alone can true content and happiness be found, he abhors earthly pleasures, and loves only those which are heavenly, and seek always to become pleasing to God by a diligent reformation of himself. This he be-

It must be rejected as a rule of faith if he is right, and any Protestant unity based on belief in it as such will be founded on lies." It is plain, then, in this League of Catholic Unity we are witnessing another "Comedy of Convocation" on a very small scale; for, "until the question of the authority of the Bible is determined, so long as it remains open to debate and controversy inside the Churches themselves, it is vain for Dr. Briggs and his colleagues to attempt to put through their plan of 'catholic unity.'" But the Sun errs in its conclusion that "a genuine unity can have no other basis than the faith in the Bible which the modern Biblical criticism of Dr. Briggs stamps as mere superstition." That is the "orthodox" Protestant view of verbal inspiration, whose absurdity has led to the war waged against Sacred Scriptures by the modern "higher criticism," which had its origin in the bosom of German Protestantism itself. But the leading teaching of the Catholic Church in regard to the Bible remains intact, and only becomes stronger the more the Bible is assailed by the modern critics. This truth some members of the "League of Catholic Unity" cannot fail to find out in the course of their investigations, and, being honest, they will reap the reward of their

It is strange how an apparently well meaning editor of a secular paper keeps on repeating the same old errors about Catholic doctrine after attention has been more than once called to his error. Thus the man who answers questions in the New York Sun told an inquirer last Sunday that "the Hyperbolic, or adoration of the Virgin Mary, dates from about the fifth century, immediately after the downfall of Nestorianism," and that "the title of Mother of God was conferred on Mary by the Council of Ephesus in 431." Now, not only has a Council never made a new doctrine, it simply proclaims as of faith what has long been the belief of the Christian world, but the Church has ever repudiated the idea of adoration being paid to the Blessed Virgin Mother of God, Hyperbolic simply meaning extraordinary veneration.—Catholic Standard

The report of proceedings in the Dominion Parliament shows that since Thursday last, when it became known that the Government had taken into consideration the Manitoba School question, more or less excitement prevailed among the members of the commons in anticipation of what the deliverance of the ministry might be on that important question.

In reply to Mr. Davies the other evening, says the Ottawa Citizen, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper took occasion to point out that claims for damages to Canadian sealers in Behring Sea wrongfully seized by the American authorities in defiance of international law were still unsettled, though the offences were committed in 1886, nine years ago.

Riot in Boston

The Fourth of July parade of societies of Boston and vicinity, in East Boston, ended in a pitched battle between some of the paraders and the spectators, in which sticks, stones and revolvers were used with fatal effect. John T. Willis, a laborer of East Boston, one of the spectators, was shot and instantly killed; Michael Doyle of East Boston had his head split open by a club and now lies at the city hospital. A young man named Andrews had his nose cut off with a sabre in the hands of one of the paraders. Patrick Kelly sustained a severe scalp wound, whether from a club or a bullet is not known, and Officer A. S. Bates was hit in the mouth by a brick thrown by an unknown person, and lost several teeth, besides suffering from several lacerations. The trouble all resulted from the persistence of those who managed the parade in introducing as a feature a float presenting "The Little Red School House," the emblem of the American Protective Association. The Fourth of July committee refused to permit this feature to appear in the parade and those desiring to present it tried to have an order passed by the board of aldermen, but failed. So great was the interest excited by this controversy and the expressed determination of the paraders to display the school house, that fully 50,000 visitors gathered at East Boston. The police officials detailed a special squad of 550 men, in addition to the East Boston force on duty, but they marched at the head of the procession. At several points the feeling of the crowd gave vent in hisses at the fifteen hundred paraders and the school house but no further demonstration was made until the rear of the parade had reached "T" street, when the crowd tried to overturn the last carriage. Word was sent to the front for police assistance, and a squad of 200 officers was sent back. A skirmish followed between the crowd and the officers, and Michael Doyle of 21 Norris street received a fractured skull. He was taken to the city hospital. A man named Stewart, of Brock street, had his nose cut off by a sabre in the hands of Albert E. Andrews of Everett, a private in the Roxbury Horse Guards, who was in full uniform, and who went to the assistance of the occupants of the carriage. By this incident excitement was intensified, and those who had participated in the parade left for the ferry in order to reach the city. A group of between sixty and seventy persons was surrounded on Board street by a crowd who commenced shouting and throwing stones. It is said that a number of the paraders became frightened and lost their heads. A dozen revolvers were drawn, and in response to the fusillade of stones, shots were fired. The firing of the revolvers brought a large body of police to the spot and the mob was soon dispersed. As the scene was cleared the officials found J. W. Willis dead in the street, with a bullet hole in his left side, and Patrick A. Kelly lying seriously wounded about the head. It was learned later that several other persons had been slightly injured, all of whom were taken away by their friends. The police arrested Harold Brown, of 467 Dudley street, Roxbury district, and John Ross, of 69 Beach street, as the principals who, it is alleged, did the shooting. It is claimed by six witnesses who were taken to the stationhouse that Brown did the shooting which killed Willis and wounded Kelly. Ross is said to have injured several others, who were taken away by their friends. Willis, the murdered man, was a laborer by occupation, and leaves a wife and six children. His home was at Webster avenue. Kelly was a single man living at 2 Tremont court.

Trade and Commerce

The annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce was submitted to the Dominion Parliament a few days ago. In his report the Deputy Minister says: In submitting this, the second annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce, I have the honor to call attention to the fact that notwithstanding the world-wide commercial depression which has continued during the year covered by the report it is gratifying to observe that its effect upon Canadian trade has been less marked than has been shown by the figures of almost any other country, that while there has been a falling off in the total value there has been but little reduction in the volume of trade, and that notwithstanding the unprecedented low prices which have prevailed during the year, as respects the products which Canada has exported, the total value of such exports has fallen below that of the previous year only to the extent of $1,000,000 and still stands higher than in any other year in the history of the country; that the purchasing capacity of the country as shown by a comparison of exports and imports has been fully equal to that of the previous year, the estimated percentage of the general decline in prices of such goods as are imported exceeding the actual percentage of decline in the value of imports; that the prices of the twofold items of exports, viz., lumber and cheese, have been rather more than the average since Confederation; that while there has been a serious decline in the prices of cereals there has been a compensating factor in the prices of several leading articles necessarily imported. As an illustration, take extremes, the average price of wheat as exported in 1873 (the year of extreme high prices) was $1.37 a bushel; in 1894 it averaged only 66 c. In the same year the average price of sugar as imported was 53 c. and 23 c. as the bushel of soy, at Newport Corner, N. S. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause in both cases.

JAMES A. GARFIELD, second son of the murdered President, of that name, has been nominated as State Senator for Ohio, in the same district which elected his father to a similar office in 1859. THE train arrangements in connection with the people's tea at Misconche, on Tuesday, will be found advertised in this issue of the HERALD. The extremely low fares, as well as the many other inducements offered should ensure an immense crowd. On Sunday last a young man named Rodd, accompanied by a little boy, was out sailing. When off Rocky Point wharf, Rodd was struck by the boom, and knocked overboard. The young lad, not knowing what to do, let the boat take her course, and she finally drifted ashore. Meantime Rodd was struggling in the water. Fortunately for him, two men, who happened to be on the wharf, noticed what had happened, and procuring a boat came to the rescue. When they reached the scene of the accident, only Rodd's hands were visible, as he was sinking for the last time. He was rescued, and seemed to suffer no ill effects from his forced bath.

Plan for Fraternity.

"A Plan for Fraternity," is the title of an article in the Incedent, by the Very Rev. James C. Byrne, President of St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minn. This is what Father Byrne writes: "Nature and grace demand that Christians of all denominations forsake their prejudices and antipathies and come together in closer bonds of sympathy and love. Nature speaks to us in the workings of time, which softens the hardest sayings and mitigates the most grievous wrongs. It appeals to us in children, who feel far less the bitterness of their sires; in grandchildren, who do not feel it at all. There is, by the way, a certain literal meaning in the divine saying, 'Except a man be born anew he cannot see the Kingdom of God.'" Again, nature appeals to us in the ever-widening horizon of our thoughts. The more we know of the present, the deeper our forecast into the future, the less we are concerned with the past and its wretched legacy of ill-will. Above all, nature appeals to us in our own reason by showing the utter groundlessness of harboring resentment.

A Reminiscence
(Held over from last week.)

The reading of the lines published in your last issue on the death of Father McElness, suggested the writing of the following lines which I have attempted to do to the air of "Believe me if all those endearing young charms," which was one of Father McElness's favorite airs, in the sweet rendering of which he oft delighted his friends:

Believe me if all those endearing young charms,
Oh! sweet are the moments when loved ones are sigh,
And we revel together in sunshine and song,
But sad is the hour, when we bid them good bye,
To wearily journey Life's pathway along;
And sad 'tis to hear Death's cold, icy knock
But sadder, ah! sadder, the day
When he spares the weak lambs and ripe ones of the flock,
And bears the Good Shepherd away.
Sad, lonely St. Joseph's no more there will hear,
The voice of thy Pastor, ah! no,
That 'er to the weak and the erring brought cheer,
And guided the young in the way they should go;
Now sealed are the lips that these truths did impart,
Now no more we may hear the sweet strains,
That wakened and warmed into life the cold heart
And raised it in prayer to the Saviour again.
Ah! dearly loved Pastor, how can we forget,
The Feast, or the Home, or the Hall?
Where oft it sweetly conversed, and pleasure we met,
Thy speech and loved presence illuminating all;
Ah! no, these are memories we'll ever hold dear,
Though a halo of glory now hides thee from view,
Each kind, gentle word and sweet strain that we hear,
We'll think it a message, loved Soggarth, from you.

Oh! I dwell what a piteous tyrant thou art!
In a cold, cruel way all thine own
Thou snatched the fair victim, and stilled the warm heart
That throbb'd for his people alone;
But thought him thou pierc'd with thy venomous sting,
Thou dar'st not claim the fair prize,
Whilst thou watch'd by his bed his pure spirit took wing.
And guard'd to its home in the skies.

Ah! is ever thus in this changeable sphere,
The happy'st hours quicken'd fly,
And the flowers and the friends that we love the most dear,
Are soonest to fade and earliest to die,
But there is a fair and bright happy land,
Where sorrow and partings unknown,
The dwellers a happy and glorious band,
Oh! may we all meet in that beautiful Home.

which nature so forcibly suggests, grace through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit demands. God's Holy Spirit dwells in hearts which pour forth their burnings in the Protestant hymn or thrill with emotion before the mysteries of the Catholic altar. Such hearts will ever tend to beat in unison whatever clashing churchmen may say or do. When divisions come, it is the ones who really suffer, and they are the first to be reconciled, the healing of the wounds by reunion. The history of Christianity is the history of turbulent divisions caused by turbulent men, sometimes in the right, more frequently in the wrong, and of reunions worked out almost without the external aid of man through the cementing influence of the Holy Spirit. May the same Holy Spirit who makes us yearn to be united and at peace point out the way and give us courage to enter upon it.

Kensington Notes.

Kensington is a neat little village on the P. E. R., between S'ide and Charlottetown. Its buildings are with one exception quite new, the house being built since the railroad passed there.

Foremost among its merchants is the firm of Ruben Tujlin & Co. They have one of the finest stores in the province, fitted up since the last destructive fire. Equally enterprising is the firm of Anderson Bros. There may be had any of the latest and best goods at lowest prices. The firm of R. H. Beer & Co is always alive to business as may be seen by the large stock they have. Quick sales and small profits is their motto. There are no combines here, business is not run more economically at any centre on P. E. Island, nor at any place do the merchants sell nearer cost prices. No need for buyers to seek larger towns and cities to get better value for their money.

In the line of drugs and medicines one can be well supplied at Dr. Darach's drug store. Here is also the telephone office, both under the courteous management of Mr. Miller. Mr. Millipant's meat stall the finest cuts may be obtained at the lowest prices. Mr. Millipant's is a man who will understand his business, having more than a provincial experience. He benefits those from whom he buys the best of the system by making buying and selling prices come as possible. Those in need of furniture should go to H. A. Compton's store, in charge of James R. McArthur, where they will be fully convinced that the purchasing power of a dollar is much greater now than formerly. Anyone in need of a good set of furniture can be satisfied by calling on R. T. Moase. He keeps constantly on hand a fine lot of goods. Schurman, Clark & Co. are ever ready to supply materials for building and furnishing homes. They will also supply the best of coal. The furniture store of Mr. E. H. Beer & Co. is a first-class work, and has a large cut-out. At the Commercial Hotel one will find the best attention and accommodation. In connection therewith are first-class sample rooms; and should one wish to go on a visit, Mr. Leslie will furnish you with a first-class room out. Clark's Hotel is ever ready to make the traveller comfortable. There may be had the neatest and most commodious rooms, a first-class table and the greatest courtesy. E. R. Moase attends to the wants of the people in the forging of iron. He does a good job at short notice. Edmund-Proctor is renowned in the art as being a worker of the mind as well as of the hand. His potato diggers are the best. R. Murphy is a young man and bound to make his mark in the world. If you want your horse shod at short notice go to him. Dr. McNeill looks after the health of the community. Through his skill, courtesy and strict attention to business, the people are well attended and wish for none better. He has a large practice, and he deserves to have. The school is under the direction of James Landrigan and his efficient staff of assistants. The support given education by the ratepayers is a good basis to work on. One of the most courteous and efficient Postmasters on P. E. Island is Mr. Gordon Glover. Long may he continue to serve her Majesty. A. H. Love represents the Railway department here, and keeps the station and railway premises in good order.

Electric Winnipeg.

A very odd thing, and one that not only astonishes, but startles the stranger, is the peculiar electrical condition of everything in Winnipeg during the winter. If you reach out to touch an electric bell, before your finger is within three inches of the enunciator there is a flash of lightning that goes up through your arm and will probably make you jump six feet. If you touch any metallic substance there is a flash of lightning; when you get into bed the clothing crackles, and one would think that the landlord had provided you with a blanket adorned with fireflies. After a while one gets so nervous one is afraid to touch anything. I have stumbled around my room and bruised my shins rather than take chances lighting the gas or turning on the electric current. If you reach for the gas jet, "crack" it goes. If you shuffle your feet along the carpet you can light the gas with your finger. It is really one of the most startling phenomena in the whole Northwest. Imagine turning over in one's bed and having the quilts emit sparks, or reaching for a bell and being immediately answered by a flash that is apt to make one howl. I saw my traveling companion who had grown somewhat careless, wrap his finger up in a piece of paper to touch the bell. He jumped back with a shriek, and the whole paper seemed to be on fire. The people of the effete East wanting to become electrified and have their system fixed with electricity should go up north; they will get it in proper shape and will learn to avoid radiators and every other metallic substance. The fact remains, however, that in that climate one feels wonderfully hopeful and able to work, and no task seems too hard to be undertaken, and I am firmly convinced that the great men of Canada will be developed there. It is a remarkable fact that Ontario, the most blessed of all the sections of Canada, has developed proportionately to its population fewer business and energetic politicians and businessmen than the provinces by the sea or the great western stretch of land with the wonderful electricity in the air and the great difficulties of money making in the climate.—Saturday Night.

A Bogus Agent

The firm of T. Milburn & Co., Toronto manufacturers of proprietary medicine, have for some time past being in receipt of letters from correspondents in and about Orangeville and Meadville, stating that a man had been operating in those districts, representing himself as their agent, and had been peddling medicine from house to house offering them as the medicine—Burdock Blood Bitters. It is very clearly well-known and reliable firm. A Globe reporter, having been placed in possession of these statements called at the office of Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., on Colborne street, and was shown a number of communications from merchants in the locality indicated, all of which confirmed the information at first received, and as given above. Not only had his name been in receipt of communications, Mr. Milburn said, but some of his customers from Peel County had called at the office in Toronto and had informed him that this bogus agent had sold stuff at several houses which had necessitated the calling in of the doctor to treat the members of the families who had used his compounds. In connection with the interview, Mr. Milburn, the head of the firm said: "We have no such agent, nor do we sell our medicine through peddlers or agents other than druggists and general merchants, and on this account we are desirous that farmers and others buying our remedies should understand that any person peddling from house to house or representing as our agent, is not of our manufacture. I may say that we are willing to defray any expense incident to the detection and conviction of this man, or of anyone falsely representing himself as our agent."

Eastern Notes

Just now it is impossible to make any forecast with regard to crop prospects, all we have to say is, we hope that those germs, which have been entrusted to the care of Mother Earth, shall bloom into an abundant harvest. The potato bug is reported as being everywhere as thick as "leaves in Valambona." They have been in operation much earlier than usual, and are apparently in the pristine vigor of a youthful prime and "aimed to the teeth" for their destructive work.

A new school building is in course of erection on South Line Road which is partially finished exteriorly; it occupies a picturesque situation on a slight knoll between two larger elevations. Close by is babbling brook. Quite near here a man named Harty, whose name is gone down in our Island history in connection with the evictor rebellion of 1843, had "his daily walks, and ancient neighborhood."

The lobster fisheries have fallen off considerably along the whole coast. Messrs. McDonald & McEachern who operate an extensive establishment at Black Bush, have made a large pack. We understand some concerns east have closed for the season. The Owanas Brook Drying Station opened under favorable auspices. All the expenses have been reduced to a minimum, and the quantity of mill received is much larger than at any corresponding period. Mr. Beaton of Inverness C. B. has recently had a series of entertainments at Glenorroak, Granville, Milton, Black Bush and Rock Barras. We are in no wise inclined to pass such elaborate eulogium on his musical abilities as some recent correspondents. Possibly as a performer on the Pibroch caed moir he may not have a peer in the Province, at the same time we feel sure he is a little less than the angels.—Com.

But it is not the real or imaginary wrongs of our own ancestors alone that religion has to deal with; we require our brethren of to-day, but the real or imaginary wrongs also of everybody's else ancestors. English, Irish, French, German, Spanish, every history according to its interpretation, furnishes fuel for the fires of Catholic, Protestant, and every other religion. Yet it is not only for Americans who are generally less impulsive than other people, who could fight bravely for a principle and, when that principle was vindicated, clap hands around the bloody chasm, is it not folly for Americans, to take up irrational strifes of obstructions and make them a source of division and a cause of contention? We may certainly feel righteous indignation at wanton insult, and we are justified in feeling keenly a profanation of that which we hold most sacred, even when the insult and the profanation happened long ago. But if the rein must be given to passion, so as to accentuate a principle, let passion seek the right victim. As a sympathizer with down-trodden Ireland I may hate Cromwell; but how can I hate the author of the "Christian Year"? As a sympathizer with the exiled Huguenots I may hate Louis XIV.; but how can I fail to admire the founder of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul? The men of a few centuries ago were in some respects semi-barbarians, tainted with the Christian faith, which they had faith to honor, their barbarism or their Christianity? Or let us say that they were men, victims of ignorance often, always subject to passion, who, nevertheless were the channels of religion to us; which do we desire to emulate, their human frailty or their divine faith? Or were they martyrs; with a prayer on their lips for their persecutors they gave up their lives for their sacred convictions; shall we do their honor by hating the descendants of those for whom they prayed? If Christians would extend to Christians one-half the love they lavish on idolaters they would be much more Christlike. If a Chinaman asks for bread, we give him bread; if a Christian asks for bread, why do we give him a stone? But not only the wrongs of religion of all times and places move us but we feel called upon to vindicate the fancied wrongs of science, of art and of liberty, as if these were not the overtopped and spoiled children of Christians in general.

Let us grant that some Catholics persecuted Galileo, that some Protestants persecuted Kepler, that the knowledge of the solar system was delayed a few months until the bearings of the question were cleared up, what is this to the long delays for recognition which one school of science or art has caused? What is this to the relentless war waged between philosophers, scientists and artists; what new discovery even down to our own times has received immediate and universal recognition? Again, the deepest science is reverential, the highest art is chaste, and true liberty is law. By clinging overmuch to these ideals, at times Christians may have indirectly raised their hand against a lower representation of them; but it will always be a question whether they are to be censured therefor or not. That unanimity

John Noonan is always prepared to give the best of satisfaction. His clothes make people happy. His Morison well to understand his art, and can make one look 100 per cent. better with a suit of his make. The young ladies who wish to look well at the tea parties this season should call on Mrs. Profit. She has quite a number of hands employed. Miss Mill, who dresses with connection with the store of E. H. Beer & Co., has a first-class work, and has a large cut-out. At the Commercial Hotel one will find the best attention and accommodation. In connection therewith are first-class sample rooms; and should one wish to go on a visit, Mr. Leslie will furnish you with a first-class room out. Clark's Hotel is ever ready to make the traveller comfortable. There may be had the neatest and most commodious rooms, a first-class table and the greatest courtesy. E. R. Moase attends to the wants of the people in the forging of iron. He does a good job at short notice. Edmund-Proctor is renowned in the art as being a worker of the mind as well as of the hand. His potato diggers are the best. R. Murphy is a young man and bound to make his mark in the world. If you want your horse shod at short notice go to him. Dr. McNeill looks after the health of the community. Through his skill, courtesy and strict attention to business, the people are well attended and wish for none better. He has a large practice, and he deserves to have. The school is under the direction of James Landrigan and his efficient staff of assistants. The support given education by the ratepayers is a good basis to work on. One of the most courteous and efficient Postmasters on P. E. Island is Mr. Gordon Glover. Long may he continue to serve her Majesty. A. H. Love represents the Railway department here, and keeps the station and railway premises in good order.

Coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, Bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagar's Pectoral Balsam.

PRAISE, ONLY,
AYER'S
Hair Vigor

"Ayer's preparations are too well known to need any commendation from me; but I feel compelled to state, for the benefit of others, that six years ago, I lost nearly half of my hair, and what was left turned gray. After using Ayer's Hair Vigor several months, my hair began to grow again, and with the natural color restored. I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. E. Young and Old

Can be properly suited at our establishment. We never had a greater variety of superior cloths than we are showing to-day. The man who can't find exactly what he wants must be very hard to please. By the way, do you know why the clothing made by us looks so well and wears so well? It is because we employ none but the best skilled workmen, who have orders to skirt nothing. An inferior workman or one who puts inferior work on a garment, does not stay long at work for us.

"LIKE PRODUCES LIKE."

The Reason Why Carter's Hazard's Improved Turnip Seed is the Best:

Our supply of Hazard's Improved Turnip Seed is grown exclusively for our own trade by Messrs. James Carter & Co., the Queen's Seedmen, London. This is the leading seed growing establishment of Great Britain. We supply to this firm yearly a few pounds of the true genuine stock of Hazard's Improved Turnip Seed, contracting for the growth from this stock of a certain specified quantity, and when harvested we take the whole of it. No other firm in Canada can buy a pound of this seed except from us.

OUR HAZARD'S IMPROVED STOCKS ARE MORE THAN ORDINARY STOCKS. A firm of world-wide reputation, such as James Carter & Co., of London, does not need to contract at low prices; their prices are high but they are experts in seed growing, and we can depend on having the best that can be produced.

We cannot risk our business reputation by handling doubtful seed, however cheap; and no farmer can afford to risk his valuable acres by sowing doubtful seeds, however cheap. Buy Hazard's Improved Turnip Seed in our sealed packets, and you have the best in Canada. The price is 40 cents per lb.

HOME GROWN HAZARD'S IMPROVED.—We have had grown for the past two years near Charlottetown some choice seed of the true Hazard's Improved, and we believe it is better than even our English stock. We call it "Carter's Home-grown Hazard's Improved." It is sold only in sealed packages at 50 cents per lb.

The above named strains of Turnip Seed, and also Carter's Prize Winner Swede (40 c per lb.), are put up only in sealed cardboard packages, 1 lb., 1/2 lb. and 1/4 lb. sizes, and each package bears our name and address.

For sale by our authorized Agents in all the leading trade centres of P. E. Island, and at our Seed Store, or will be sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of Price.

Sweet is Thy Name.

By REV. C. W. BARBER, S. J.

Sweet is thy name, O Mary,
To the poor exile's heart;
Rest to the limbs that are weary,
Balm to the wounds that smart;
Sunshine so bright in our gladness,
Bidding the clouds depart;
But in our woe, in our sadness,
Who shall say what thou art?

Sweet is thy name, O Mary,
Joy of our joy, sweet maiden,
Joy of all joys art thou;
No other bark joy-laden
But wears some grief! 't' the prow,
No other tree bears for us
All blossom and no blight;
No other star shines o'er us,
Never to lose its light;
Sweet is thy name, O Mary!

What would the world be without thee,
Star of the temper-tossed main?
But for the splendour about thee,
Who would not sunder life's chain?

Who would be patient in sorrow,
Who would bear up for one day,
Who would dare think of the morrow,
But for thy kindly ray?

Sweet is thy name, O Mary,
Blessed are they who forever
Swell the great psalm on high,
Anger thee never, and sever
Bring a sad tear to thine eye.
Blessed the angels around thee,
Who gaze on thy beautiful face,
Praising His might who hath Crowned thee.

Sweet is thy name, O Mary,
Blessed on earth and in heaven
All who revere thy sweet name!
Blessed to whom it is given
Humbly to add to thy fame.
Blessed are we, dearest mother,
Exiled from God though we be,
Exiled from Jesus, our Brother—
Blessed in loving thee.

Sweet is thy name, O Mary
