Which Was The Heir?

CHAPTER XLII.
(Concluded.)

THE earl smiled. "The money does not trouble me," he said. "Do you let it trouble you?" His piercing eyes turned to Geoffrey. "May I ask your name, sir?"

Geoffrey bit his lip. "Geoffrey Bell, my lord," he replied, for he knew it was the earl. "I do not know the name," said the earl, "though your face seems somewhat familiar to me. I presume you are the brother of whom this boy has spoken to me. I hope you will take care of him; he is too young to be wandering about the world alone. Do you intend to remain in England? Pardon my apparently impertinent curiosity; but I am interested in the lad who has been good enough to visit me at the castle occasionally."

"No, my lord," said Geoffrey; "we intend returning to Australia, where we have—property." The earl inclined his head. "I congratulate you," he said. "I believe it is a delightful country and a prosperous one. Some members of my family settled there. I will not intrude upon you any longer. Will you be good enough to tell Mrs. Farren that I called to enquire after her? Stay! I think I hear someone coming; it may be her."

But it was not Mrs. Farren. A thin, emaciated, wild-eyed man stood in the door-way. He was unwashed and unshaven, and his clothes and boots were stained with dust and dirt; he looked like a tramp and half-insane, and his small, bloodshot eyes glanced from one to the other with a questioning, uncertain look and yet with a malignant, vindictive expression in them. He touched his forehead with a gesture half-sullen, half-defiant. "I want Mr. Sidney Bassington," he said in a strained, husky voice.

Before the question had scarcely left his lips, a cry rose from Ronnie. "Sheeney!" she said, and she clung to Geoffrey's arm. Geoffrey would have thrown himself upon the man; but the earl held up his stick with a gesture of command, and the three stood and looked at the man, who seemed fascinated by the earl's glittering, all compelling eyes.

"You want Mr. Sidney Bassington?" said his lordship. "He returned to the castle this morning. He is walking in the grounds somewhere. Is your business with him important?"

As he asked the question, an expression of recognition flashed into his eyes, and the thin lips curved with a cynical smile.

"So you have come back, Lane, have you?" he said.

Lane started, shrank back slightly, and glanced round him suspiciously. His hands went to his grimed forehead, and he plucked at his grizzled hair as if he were trying to collect himself, and he mumbled incoherently for a moment or two. Then he raised his husky voice so that it was audible.

"I want him," he said, with a kind of suppressed fury. "He owes me money—a lot of money."

"Then no doubt, he will repay you," said the earl; "but you can ascertain that for yourself. Mr. Sidney Bassington is outside there."

The earl's sharp eyes had detected Sidney slipping behind the bushes outside the cottage.

"I want him!" the wretched man rambled on, as if he had not heard the earl's rejoinder. "I've seen Rachel—he's got to marry her—marry her at once, or I'll kill him! She doesn't know—she needn't know—he's got to marry her and make an honest woman of her; then all will be right—he'll have the title and the property, and my daughter—yes, my daughter!—will be a countess! I tell you it will be all right; she needn't know—he can make some excuse—say the marriage wasn't regular—she needn't know that her own father let her into the trap."

He looked from one to the other cunningly and with an insane chuckle; then plucking at his hair again, he drew a little near the earl and sneered at him.

"Who are you? You're the earl! And who's that?" his wild eyes wandered to Ronnie. "Why, that's the boy! You two here together!" His voice broke, then, as he went on, rose to something like a scream; his face livid, his hands working convulsively. "So he's been before me, has he? He's been making terms with you behind my back—he's told you that the boy there is Ronald Bassington, the son of Edmund Bassington—the heir to Starborough!"

For a moment they were all too astonished to utter a word; then both Ronnie and Geoffrey uttered an exclamation; but the earl remained stonily silent, and with a gesture, commanded their silence also.

"He's a hound," Lane went on; "a vile, deceitful 'ound. He'd sell his own mother. He's sold me as he thinks; but I'm a match for 'im. Where are his proofs, where are his proofs?" His voice was broken by a wild harsh laugh. "You can't prove anything without me. I've got the evidence here, in my pocket," he struck his breast two or three times. "And I don't part with it unless you come to my terms. He knows what they are, and I don't take less from one or the other of you. It's fifty thousand pounds and five thousand a year, and my daughter she'll be a countess, a real countess—he shall marry her, or I'll kill him!"

As he uttered the threats he drew nearer to the earl, and Geoffrey, fearing that the wretched man, in his madness, might strike the earl, sprang in between and caught Lane by the shoulders. With the yell of a madman, he closed with Geoffrey and tried to get his hands on Geoffrey's throat. The earl was about to go to Geoffrey's aid; but Geoffrey cried:

"No, no, my lord! Don't come near him; he may hurt you; and I can manage him quite easily. Stand back, sir!"

A madman, when his frenzy is at its height, seems possessed of the strength of two ordinary men, and Geoffrey had his work cut out for him. It would have been easier if he had not been weakened by his recent illness. The two men struggled and writhed about the floor; now it seemed as if Geoffrey had overpowered him, then the madman would exert all his abnormal strength and get Geoffrey under. Once Lane got his hand free and whipped out a knife; but at that moment Cottie flung herself on the pair, and wrested the knife from the would-be murderer. This action of her stirred Geoffrey to the core, and, exerting all his strength, he caught the wretched man in his arms and threw him and held him down, kneeling on his chest; Lane ceased to struggle after a moment or two, and his head fell back.

"He has fainted," panted Geoffrey, removing his knee. "Get me some water, Ronnie; open the window wide."

He forced some of the water through the man's foamed-covered lips and bathed his forehead, and presently Lane opened his eyes; but they were absolutely vacant ones, and they looked up with a cunning smile into Geoffrey's face as Geoffrey raised his head upon his knee.

"So the earl's dead, the old man's dead at last!" he whispered, exultantly, and almost inaudibly. "And you're the earl and Rachel's a countess, eh, my boy? Well, here's the papers—I'm a fish-dealing man. I stand by my word—and she's my daughter, my own daughter, you know."

He fumbled in his pocket and brought out the pocket-book and shook it exultantly and triumphantly; then his head fell back and his eyes closed in a merciful unconsciousness.

Geoffrey stood, gazing at the pocket-book confusedly. The earl's voice broke the silence:

"Give that to me, if you please," he said, sternly, and he took the pocket-book from Geoffrey's hand and opened it.

Afterwards, and indeed, all his life, Geoffrey had a theory that the earl with his extraordinary shrewdness had had some suspicion of the truth of Ronnie's identity; but the earl never by word or look, then or afterwards, confirmed that theory.

"So this is my brother Edmund's son," he said, sternly, to Geoffrey, after he had scanned the certificates and the statement with legal rapidity. "I cannot tell you, sir," said Geoffrey, looking up as he bent over the unconscious man. "I found him in Australia—his name is Ronald Lorton."

"So I see by these papers," but not Lorton; it is Bassington. This is my brother Edmund's son, and, as that man said, he's heir to Starborough! Geoffrey looked at Cottie, who was standing white and bewildered and trembling, not only at the revelation which she heard, but with the consciousness that they were speaking of Ronnie who lay asleep under the Australian pines.

"Why don't you speak, Ronnie?" said Geoffrey. "But never mind now! You must go for a doctor, Ronnie. You know where to find him."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"I declare I'm more tired than if I'd done a hard day's work," said my neighbor, sinking down on my doorstep and glaring at my beautiful pansy bed with an unseeing eye.

"What's the trouble?" I queried.

"That abominable meat man. I simply will not trade with him if I have to turn vegetarian. He will not send me what I ask for. I've talked and talked and talked, and it doesn't do the least bit of good. Yesterday was the climax. I asked him to send me not more than four pounds of the fore quarter of lamb and he sent six pounds of the hind quarter. I went down this morning to blow him up and tell him we wouldn't trade there any longer, and he was so impertinent that I got terribly angry, and now I feel positively done up."

Did it pay?
 Wouldn't it have been better to simply leave off trading with the man but omit the blowing up? Not for his sake but for hers.

Does it ever pay to get angry?
 Not from a moral but from a physical standpoint, I mean.

I know a man who says he is done up for a week if he allows himself to get thoroughly angry, and although that is an extravagant case I don't believe it's a unique one.

If people realized how much vitality they lose by fits of temper, it seems to me they would be more careful how they gave way to them.

No one who has much to do in the world can afford to be angry or to hate, because he needs his energy for other things.

People fancy when they are tired out that their low vitality is all due to overwork, but I have no doubt but that hurry, worry and hate do more to deprive many people's vitality than any output of honest energy.

Never let a child say "I hate" unrebuked.

Explain to him beside the moral objections, the utilitarian one that if he hates anyone he gives that person a power to move and wound him, and thereby exalts him.

Every hate you harbor is a weakness, a chain forged about yourself and the key given over to him you hate.

Teach the child that indifference is a far healthier, saner feeling than hate.

Teach him to say, and try to teach him to feel, the negative "I don't like" instead of the positive "I hate."

And while you are teaching him, suppose you also be your own pupil.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her best and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

Many of the coats to suits, short coats for separate wear and long travelling coats of lightweight fabrics are attractively lined with figured foulard, usually of blue and white.

In place of the narrow stitching characteristic of the short glove of last season, the long silk glove now worn has wide embroidery on the back in self color or in black.

The tied-in effect has given way to the banded-in idea. Wide bands draw in the fulness of tunic or skirt towards the bottom. This is striven for even on the fancy tailored suits.

The vogue of the collarless dress is in a measure responsible for the return of the half-inch velvet ribbon neckband. These come provided with jeweled or metal slides and clasps.

So popular is the frill or plaiting at the left of the front of the shirt-waist that blouses which fasten in the back are given the blouses closing effect by means of dainty accessories.

The prettiest "fad" in Paris is the blisse—the ruff of chiffon with dainty ribbon roses set in to wear over a tailored suit with a collared blouse. It is soft, crisp and becoming to the face.

A very interesting trimming shows unsewn cord balls, strung on heavy soutache, knotted at intervals. This is especially fashionable as an edge, as it simulates the ball fringes without being pendant.

The jabot is a long frill and gives length; the rabat is a flat little tab which lends an air of doctrinal severity to the prettiest face; the plisse is the side frill, the most popular of all this summer.

Little girls are wearing hats that have departed from the simplicity that has been so popular. A mass of lace and frills crowns little ones' heads; no matter how plain the coat and dress may be.

Not only is the Chanticleer coloring seen in everything, in hats, coats and suits, but the form of the bird is also appearing. The latest device is the form woven very black, with a fine mesh face veil.

Motor bonnets are exceedingly picturesque. Straws designated as tulle and as soft, pliable and light as the name indicates are used to drape some charming turbans of the Sultana type which are excellent for motoring.

While the white lingerie or tailored waist is for strictly tailored skirts and coats for ordinary wear, the waist to be used for the dressy suit must match the latter in color and to be perfect should be on the "veiled" order.

Woman Finds Burglar

In Her Room, and Was Smashing Him with Rolling-Pin, When He Topped out of Window, and Fell to His Death.

New York, May 26.—Louis Gratch, 25 years old, painter by day and burglar by night, was discovered by Mrs. Dora Gieteman in her apartment on the third floor of a Delancey street house to-day, and, after beating the man with a cuspidor until he backed against a window with a low sill, was smashing him across the face with a rolling-pin, when he toppled to instant death on the concrete paving 50 feet below. Gratch got into the house by climbing up the fire escape. He was searching Gieteman's clothing for money, when Mrs. Gieteman awoke suddenly and screamed. She leaped out of bed and seized the man. Frightened more than frightened, Mrs. Gieteman pushed him into the kitchen, where she seized an iron cuspidor and struck him over the head and shoulders with it.

The man broke away and made for the parlor window. Mrs. Gieteman

Your Nerves

Your nerves must be fed with pure, rich blood, or there will be trouble. Poorly fed nerves are weak, nervous, and weak nerves mean nervousness, neuralgia, headaches, debility. Weak nerves need good food, fresh air, and Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla.

Makes Hair Grow.

McMurdo & Co. has an invigorator that will grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.

If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.

The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember, it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that seeps the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

SALVIA is sold by McMurdo & Co. under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" (Latin for sage) is on every bottle.

perused him and seized him by the collar. She held him until a boy boarder in the house, who had been aroused, ran up and handed her a rolling-pin. With this she belabored Gratch furiously. Two or three blows were effective, and as the man struggled in front of the window he toppled headlong into the yard. An ambulance surgeon found that Gratch had died of a broken neck, caused by the fall.

Newfoundlander Married in New York.

At the home of the bride, No. 2013 Fifth Avenue, New York City, on the evening of May 26th, at 8.30 p.m., Miss Harriett Newell Andrus, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel H. Andrus, and Benjamin R. Buffett, formerly of Grand Bank, Newfoundland, were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, Pastor of the Metropolitan Temple, New York City. The bride was arrayed in white crepe-de-chene, trimmed with Irish lace, and her bouquet was composed of bride roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Catherine Knapp, who was gowned in pink silk, and her bouquet was pink Killarney roses and sweet peas. Mr. John A. Lawrence, of St. John's, was best man. The parlors were handsomely decorated with a profusion of June roses and the pink, white and green colors of Newfoundland being entwined with the Stars and Stripes. After the ceremony supper was served to fifty guests. The bride received many beautiful presents. The bride and groom left at midnight by train for the Berkshire Mountains, where the honeymoon will be spent. Mr. Buffett is a lawyer located at No. 258 Broadway, New York City, and is a member of the Newfoundland Society in New York. Among the Newfoundlanders present were:—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. W. Buffett and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Finlay and Mr. John A. Lawrence.

Sullivan Criticises Jeffries' Training.

New York, May 28.—"I would like to see Jeffries win, but from the way he is training now he hasn't a chance against Jack Johnson," declared John L. Sullivan, who returned from Europe to-day. "My sympathies are with Jeffries," Sullivan said, "but from his training methods I fear he cannot do so. When a man reaches 35 years of age he never gets better physically. He keeps getting worse, and that very rapidly. Bob Fitzsimmons is the only exception I ever knew. Now a man of thirty-five who wants to get back his speed and stamina should never go out and run a road race or go fishing—Jeffries' favorite training stunts. Those old fellows Jeffries has around his training camp cannot accumulate the speed necessary to give Jeffries the proper amount of training. Jeff ought to see that that decrepit bunch of old men cannot possibly give him the speed he will need when he meets Johnson. How would it look for me to get out and try to polish Jeffries off, and give him speed. It would be a joke. Even at that I wager I could trim some of that bunch of misfits Jeffries has around Rowardennan.

"I am going out to Jeffries' camp, and if that grand fighter doesn't add some good live heavyweights to his training staff, I'm going to give him some fatherly advice."

Famous Pioneer.

Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls Has Made Many Records.

Yesterday Hon. C. S. Rolls added laurels to his many triumphs by his flight from Dover to Calais and back without alighting on the journey. He used a Wright biplane, and made his 21 miles journey to France in the extraordinary short time of 20 minutes.

When we contrast this time with the 37 minutes which Bleriot took to make his pioneer flight from Calais to Dover, we realize how much Rolls has cut down the time.

Hon. C. S. Rolls had a rival in this attempt. About a fortnight ago M. Jacques de Lesseps attempted to fly across the Channel and back. He succeeded in making the trip from Calais to Dover, but was unable to make the return journey.

Both men were competing for a prize of £540 offered by M. M. Pere et Fils of Rheims. The conditions of the competition allowed competitors to alight when the Channel was crossed to make preparations for the return journey and to renew the supply of petrol. Rolls did not avail of this condition but made the double journey without alighting.

This record will save the English pride of pioneering by establishing an English and a world record at the same time. The machine, however, is American, and it is still the ambition of the British to cross in a British machine. Baron de Forest has offered a prize of £2,000 for the first English aviator to fly the Channel in a British aeroplane, to be increased to £4,000 if the Channel is crossed in less time than M. Bleriot did it.

Rolls has the sporting instinct in his blood. He is the third son of a Welsh landowner, Baron Llangloek, soldier, huntsman and yachtsman. At Eton Rolls joined the Volunteer Battalion; at Cambridge he represented his 'Varsity as cyclist and was captain of the University bicycle team. He graduated in the Engineering School, taking his B.A. in 1898 and his M.A. in 1902. Whilst at the University he was the hero of the Red Flag incident, which led to the abolition of the regulation which provided that a man with a red flag should walk before every car propelled by its own power, and was the pioneer of automobilism in England. In 1900 he won a gold medal for a 1,000 mile trial with a motor car. He drove in the Paris to Berlin, Paris to Vienna, Paris to Madrid races. In 1905 he represented England in Gordon Bennett race. In 1906 he broke the Monte Carlo-London record. In the same year he won the International Tourist Trophy at the great meet in the Isle of Man.

The Mongolian Arrives

The s.s. Mongolian, Capt. Tannock, arrived here early this morning from Liverpool after a rather eventful voyage. She left there on Tuesday week, the 24th ult., and the weather crossing the "herring pond" was fine and clear up to 3 days ago, when the vessel in making its towards Cape Race encountered dense fog, which continued until early this morning. Since Tuesday not a glimpse of the land or a look at the sun could be had, and though it was calm, there were heavy showers of rain. For two days at least the vessel was running either dead slow or the engines were stopped altogether, it being dangerous to run in the fog with any degree of speed. The whistles of other steamers could be heard continuously, but who they were could not be ascertained. The chief steward, Mr. Thos. Owens, died on the voyage out at 5.50 a.m. on Monday last. He had only been 4 days ill of pneumonia when the end came. The body was buried at sea at 4 p.m. that day. The ship was stopped and the body sewed up in canvas was lowered into the sea from the starboard side while Capt. Tannock read the prayers prescribed for the burial service. The ship's stewards in uniform, with the officers, crew and passengers, stood round about and the moment was a solemn one when the officer was consigned to the deep. Mr. Owens was well liked by all on board, and when ill the ship's doctor did everything possible to preserve his life, but without avail. The ship has in transit for Halifax 10 saloon and 26 cabin passengers with 157 orphan children and 400 emigrants—English, Irish, Scotch, Poles, Russians, Germans and Armenians. The passengers for this port were Capt. W. T. McCowan, Judge and Mrs. Emerson, Miss M. Hubert, W. H. Taylor and wife, Mrs. C. P. Ayre, Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin, Miss M. Dowe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Huntress, Otto Oppelt, J. H. Andrews, Mr. E. Ballantyne-Dykes, R. Bourke, J. Watson, W. Warrick, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lebau and infant, six second cabin and seven steerage. She sails for Halifax to-morrow afternoon. The ship has for here 700 tons cargo. Her passengers outward are: J. H. Bradford, S. Keener, and Miss Marion Chaplin for Halifax, and for Philadelphia, Mrs. and Miss Campbell, Mrs. A. D. Brown and 14 steerage.

More Small Pox.

Mr. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, had the following telegram from Magistrate Tuff of Old Perican last night: "Dr. Dunn just reported case of small pox at Gull Island; house and family quarantined. Every means being used to prevent possible spread of disease." We learn from Dr. Evesham that the person afflicted with it is Patk. Doyle, who lived in a shack in Reserve Mine at Sydney and arrived home not long ago. He had been under observation, so that the outbreak was not unexpected. Drs. Ferguson and Dunn are in the district and can, of course, cope with it. The disease is of a mild type.

Death of Mrs. Charles Prowse.

Mrs. Charles Prowse passed away at her home, Allandale Road, this morning. Mrs. Prowse underwent a serious operation at the General Hospital two years ago. Disease so sapied her strength that she never regained her former health. Two sons and a daughter mourn the loss of a true and affectionate mother. Mrs. Prowse lived for many years with her husband at the offer Wadham light-house and was ever noted for her faith and good works.

Upper Island Cove Notes

The public wharf, which had been in part demolished by the gales of the past winter, has now been repaired and put in good condition. This will be a great benefit to all parties particularly to the shore fishermen.

Llewellyn Jones, son of George Jones Jr., who went to the Hospital on Monday last, has since been operated on for appendicitis, and is now on the road to recovery.

Rev. C. Carpenter of Harbor Grace South, and Miss Hayward of St. John's paid a flying visit to Mr. and Mrs. Rusted on Monday.

Quite a number of men have left for the Labrador and the remainder will be leaving in a few days. We wish all a prosperous voyage.

In common with other churches throughout the Diocese, memorial service was held on May 29th in St. Peter's Church. Rev. E. E. Rusted the incumbent being the preacher.

The burial service was the form used throughout being interspersed with the following hymns, 165, 231, 399, 537. The preacher then ascended the pulpit, reading for his text, "Blasphemy is the 13th verse." "They may rest from their labours and their words do follow them."

In a few well chosen words he delivered a sermon which could not fail to impress his hearers and made them feel that they had not only lost a great and good King but also a personal friend. He also read the letter of Queen Alexandra which was very touching. After singing hymn 264, the congregation stood while the Dead March in Saul was being played, which brought this memorable and solemn service to a close.

The L. O. A. was in attendance to pay their last respects to the memory of Edward the Peacemaker. May 31st, 1910. CORRESPONDENT

Schooner Ashore. Where Are the Crew?

Assistant Collector of Customs LeMessurier had the following message from Channel this morning:

"Schooner La France, about 80 tons, general cargo, ashore at Rocky Barchoix, 6 miles west of here (Channel); no news of crew. Boat and compass gone. Schooner supposed to belong to Bay of Islands."

Mr. LeMessurier thinks that the vessel is owned by Samuel Ballam of Bay of Islands, that she was bound to Bay of Islands from Halifax and more than likely struck in a dense fog. It seems to be an ominous circumstance that there is no sign of the crew, but Mr. LeMessurier believes they landed at Butter Bay, an uninhabited place nearby.

More Small Pox.

Mr. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, had the following telegram from Magistrate Tuff of Old Perican last night: "Dr. Dunn just reported case of small pox at Gull Island; house and family quarantined. Every means being used to prevent possible spread of disease." We learn from Dr. Evesham that the person afflicted with it is Patk. Doyle, who lived in a shack in Reserve Mine at Sydney and arrived home not long ago. He had been under observation, so that the outbreak was not unexpected. Drs. Ferguson and Dunn are in the district and can, of course, cope with it. The disease is of a mild type.

Death of Mrs. Charles Prowse.

Mrs. Charles Prowse passed away at her home, Allandale Road, this morning. Mrs. Prowse underwent a serious operation at the General Hospital two years ago. Disease so sapied her strength that she never regained her former health. Two sons and a daughter mourn the loss of a true and affectionate mother. Mrs. Prowse lived for many years with her husband at the offer Wadham light-house and was ever noted for her faith and good works.

Upper Island Cove Notes

The public wharf, which had been in part demolished by the gales of the past winter, has now been repaired and put in good condition. This will be a great benefit to all parties particularly to the shore fishermen.

Llewellyn Jones, son of George Jones Jr., who went to the Hospital on Monday last, has since been operated on for appendicitis, and is now on the road to recovery.

Rev. C. Carpenter of Harbor Grace South, and Miss Hayward of St. John's paid a flying visit to Mr. and Mrs. Rusted on Monday.

Quite a number of men have left for the Labrador and the remainder will be leaving in a few days. We wish all a prosperous voyage.

In common with other churches throughout the Diocese, memorial service was held on May 29th in St. Peter's Church. Rev. E. E. Rusted the incumbent being the preacher.

The burial service was the form used throughout being interspersed with the following hymns, 165, 231, 399, 537. The preacher then ascended the pulpit, reading for his text, "Blasphemy is the 13th verse." "They may rest from their labours and their words do follow them."

In a few well chosen words he delivered a sermon which could not fail to impress his hearers and made them feel that they had not only lost a great and good King but also a personal friend. He also read the letter of Queen Alexandra which was very touching. After singing hymn 264, the congregation stood while the Dead March in Saul was being played, which brought this memorable and solemn service to a close.

Hurt at the Dock.

Shortly before 6 o'clock last evening Samuel Brushett, working on the s.s. Louisburg, struck his foot with a 28 lb. maul and had to be taken home in a carriage. He was engaged coupling bolts in a crank shaft when his foot slipped and the maul came down on it with full force. The member was badly crushed and began to swell, and caused him so much pain that the boot had to be cut off his foot. He was unable to walk. Mr. Bradley of the dock office procured a carriage and the man was driven to his home on Brazil's Field. He will not be able to get to work for several days.

As they filed past the place each little one received free a big juicy orange. There were in the gathering 102 boys and 55 girls, and they were marshaled by Miss Middlemore and two other matrons, Misses Herons and Jeans. These children, all healthy English boys and girls, came from the children's Emigration Home of Birmingham, England. They will be given homes with farmers in the North-western Provinces of Canada.

IN HONOR OF KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Flags are flying on all the public buildings and on the shipping in the harbor to-day in honor of the birthday of His Majesty King George the V.

CODLIVER OIL.—The price of refined codliver oil which had been stationary at 50 cents a gallon for a long time is now advancing and it is expected that the price will be a paying one for the fishermen again this summer. Five men at Petty Harbor are making preparations to refine codliver oil this summer.

STRATHCONA HERE.—The Strathcona, Dr. Grenfell's mission ship arrived here from St. Anthony via Sedom Come Bye last night. The crew report a very foggy and tedious passage. The fishery had not yet begun on the North coast. There is a good sign about Foggo and Tilling.

Laborers Very Scarce.

When the Mongolian started to discharge her cargo this morning there was found to be an insufficiency of laborers, fully forty men being required to form a force adequate to do the work. The Laborers' Union people were asked to supply the deficiency, but few if any laborers could be found. Indeed, though Delegate McGrath searched everywhere for them, a request was made to the Union to allow the ship's crew perform the work, but this the Union was not inclined to do. The matter will likely be adjusted this afternoon.

Contemplated Burglary

When Mr. P. J. Shea, wine dealer, opened his premises this morning he was surprised to notice that some person had tried during the night to force open one of the windows in Williams' Lane and thereby gain an entrance to the office. The window is guarded by four iron bars, and one of these had been drawn outwards and bent a good deal in the middle. Even if he wrenched the outer bars off he could not get in, because four stouter bars ran across the window inside. Four months ago the place was entered and all the cash in the till and some spirits was stolen.

Lloyds and the King.

Many underwriters at Lloyd's are now engaged in settling claims on policies which have matured on the demise of the Sovereign. Although the great bulk of this business was placed with the marine insurance companies, a good deal of it was done by means of contingency policies at Lloyd's on the part of tradesmen in the West End and others who had the necessary interests at stake. When the first news of King Edward's illness became known premiums advanced from five guineas to twenty guineas per cent, covering the risk of his death within a fortnight, but on the last day this advanced to seventy guineas. It would be interesting to know all the curious instances of foresight involved in these contingency policies. I have heard of a big insurance of prayer books against the risk of their being useless through the accession of a new Sovereign, and that insurance now matures.—Manchester Guardian.

GOOD CAPE FISHING.—The sch. Bridie M. Power, Peter Comerford, master, arrived from the Cape at St. Mary's Monday with 80 qts. of fish for a week's work. The Clara F. Herring bait is abundant and the fishery is far ahead of last year to date.

SAILED FOR LABRADOR.—Five Carbonear schooners sailed for Labrador on Wednesday.

An Easy Victory.

How an Obstinate English Lord Was Outwitted in Naples.

Lord Charles Hamilton used to go about Naples attended by a large, ferocious bulldog. Having decided upon going to Rome, he proceeded to the station and took his place in a first class carriage, the "dawg" taking up a position on a seat opposite his master. The platform inspector, with many gesticulations, declared that the bulldog should not travel in a passenger carriage.

"Very well, then; take him out," said Lord Charles' rejoinder. In vain the official expostulated. He merely reiterated his former reply, a piece of advice it is needless to say which was not followed, and Lord Charles, apparently master of the situation, threw himself back in his seat and calmly lighted a cigar.

But the Italians were not to be outdone, and, quietly detaching the carriage in which the English "milord" was seated, they made up the train with another compartment and started it off.

Lord Charles sat quietly smoking for about a quarter of an hour and then, surprised at the delay, thrust his head out of the window and demanded when the train was going to start. His feelings when the situation was described to him may be imagined.—London Tit-Bits.

JOURNEYMEN COOPERS.—The regular quarterly meeting of the Coopers' Union took place at the British Hall last evening when the business of revising the rules was taken up and considerable progress was made.

The Old-Time Game.

Fond memory often wanders back To days now long since gone— To the cricket-ground at Pleasantville, Near Quidi Vidl pond, Where we gathered in our hundreds, To watch the game and chat, Or view the splendid scenery "Til "the boys" began to bat.

The young, the old, would gather there, And here and there between Would be a blue-eyed youngster To cheer the lads in green; For Demos held them favorite, And never once did cease To cheer them on to victory When fighting round the crease.

Many of our Willow Warriors, Alas! are dead and gone— Kearney, Blundon, Dr. Stabb, And Nichols, at long field on, Each and all true cricketers, But to one we'd doff our hat, For fielders were kept busy When Tom Bates began to bat.

But we yet have "Stonewall" Parker, John Keating and Will Job, Each can yet knock wickets down And cause the balls to rove— Charlie Ryan—king "stumper," With others known to fame, And the genial Jerry Savage— All dearly love the game.

Come now, gents, revive the sport, And gird your armour on; Play the game yet once again At Peter's, near the pond, We'll assemble in our hundreds— Stay with you until night; And wish you health and happiness And sunshine for the fight. JAY EN.

The acme of achievement in high class theatrical stock organization is represented in Charles H. Ross Kam's famous Chicago Stock Company which opens an engagement of four weeks' duration at the People's Theatre on Thursday evening, June 9th. The bill for the inaugural performance will be Grace George's greatest New York success, "Clothes," a masterly drama which handles the problems it illustrates in an exceedingly interesting manner. The company is headed by Norbert E. Dorente and Clara Bell Prae, and every member of the cast has been selected with a view by Mr. Ross Kam of obtaining a well balanced organization, capable of presenting a variety of plays in a complete and artistic manner. Other well known successes to be produced during the engagement include "The Straight Road," "The Scarlet Letter," "Neil Gwynn of Old Drury," "Genevieve of the Hills," "St. Elmo," "The Missourians," "The Little Grey Lady," "An Enemy to the King," and "The Royal Box." Mr. Ross Kam is one of the most enterprising theatrical managers on the road, and presents each play in thoroughly perfect manner, for which purpose he carries a separate scenic equipment for each production. Job's Cove Notes.

A football match, the first for this season, was played here on Friday, May 27th, between the Comet Club, of Western Bay, and the Shamrocks, of this place. The game was well contested and resulted in a victory for the Shamrocks by two goals to nil. The evening was an ideal one and a large crowd of spectators was present. Last year the Shamrocks played several matches without a goal scored against them, they bid fair to keep up their record. Western Bay has a good team; we expect the Comet Club to give a better showing before the season closes. After the match an enjoyable time was held by both teams in the school. Songs and speeches were given, and a dance concluded the evening's sport.

Our people are at present busy preparing for the summer fishery. Very little fish has been taken up to date; salmon are also scarce. It is rumored that there will be work on the iron deposits in this locality the coming summer. Without doubt a plentiful supply of mineral will be found.

Boy Seriously Injured.

Yesterday afternoon as Jos. Parrell, a lad of 10 years, son of Mr. Jas. Parrell, of Kickham Place, was playing around Harvey & Co's premises at the western end, he amused himself for a while by sliding over the rail of the gallery there. As he came down over the railing he suddenly slipped and fell to the wharf, a distance of about 14 feet, and struck on his head. He was rendered unconscious and boys who were with him summoned his father, who had the lad conveyed home. Dr. Macpherson was hastily summoned, found the lad to be in a bad way with his skull fractured and suffering from concussion of the brain. The lad was unconscious all night and it is feared the accident will have a fatal outcome.

Last evening a cablegram was received by Mr. H. D. Reid informing him that his mother, Lady Reid, was fast sinking. A special car—Terra Nova—was got ready and attached to the express, and Mr. H. Labor Day Sports.

A meeting that was convened by the Trades and Labor Council in the British Hall last night to make arrangements for Labor Day had to be put off, as the attendance was not large enough. There will be another meeting on Tuesday evening. The sports will take place on July 5th on St. George's Field. Besides a one mile Marathon Race, there will be 100 yards dash, putting the shot, football, five high jump, relay race, half mile race, one mile walk and one mile run.

Playing on the Parade Ground.

Yesterday afternoon boys could be seen playing cricket and football and otherwise amusing themselves on the Parade Ground. It is quite a while since such a sight was witnessed on the ground, before, and now that they have broken the ice the place should be put in order for the lads. Certainly the old delapidated wire fence could be cleared away and other little improvements effected so that it could be generally utilized by the boys of the city.

Bornu's Experience.

The Red Cross liner Bornu, which arrived here at 1.30 p.m. yesterday, left New York Friday last and had excellent weather to Halifax, where she arrived Sunday evening. She left there Monday evening and had it fine to Cape Race, when dense fog with heavy rain was the experience, and she had to run at very slow speed. Wednesday night she was off this port but so thick was the fog that nothing could be seen, though the sound of several steamers' whistles could be heard. The ship sailed again to-morrow for Halifax and New York.

THIEVES STEALING HENS—In the West End of late several people who go in for poultry raising have had hens stolen from their places at night. One gentleman had two hens of a valuable Spanish breed taken from the henery at the rear of his dwelling Tuesday night, and if the thief again appears he will get a hot reception.

Rolls Makes Round Trip Between Dover and Calais With-

Special to Evening Telegram.
DOVER, Eng., June 2.
The Hon. Chas. Stewart Rolls, captain in the London section of the army motor service, driving a Wright biplane, vindicated Anglo-Saxon aeronautics by crossing the English Channel twice this evening without alighting. He made the trip between Dover and Calais in twenty minutes. While two Frenchmen have crossed the Channel, it remains for an Englishman in an American machine to perform the double feat. The distance across the two points named is 21 miles, so that this overwater flight of 42 miles without a stop establishes a new record. Capt. Rolls left Dover at six-thirty. The atmosphere conditions were excellent. He lost no time in manoeuvring. After describing a circle he headed towards the French Coast. In anticipation of the flight torpedo boats steamed at full speed across the Channel. The pace of the aeroplane was much swifter.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BERLIN, June 2.
The civil list of the Kaiser, as King of Prussia, is soon to be increased probably to about five million dollars. This was agreed upon to-day by the leaders of the Conservative National Liberal and Radical parties of the Prussian Parliament. A bill embodying the necessary legislation will be introduced by the Government shortly. The restoration or repairs upon His Majesty's numerous castles are said to be part responsible for the royal need, but besides these expenditures the Emperor is a generous supporter of the opera and the royal theatre of Berlin, having for some years made up an annual deficit in the totalling somewhere about seventy-five thousand dollars. He also maintains about fifty-two town and country residences, some of which he has not visited since the beginning of his reign.

Colonel Roosevelt and Lord Cromer are believed to be perfectly agreed on Egyptian policies, and that the former complains of sentimental tendencies which he voiced at the Guild Hall having arisen after Lord Cromer's administration.

Killed by a Fall.

Mr. John Boyde fell from a ladder on Monday while engaged in painting his house, dying on Wednesday either from the fall or as a result of a stroke which caused him to fall from the ladder.

Deceased was to have sailed for the French Shore on Monday but the time not being favorable he mounted the ladder to finish some painting in which he had been engaged.

While thus engaged he suddenly became unconscious falling from the ladder a distance of 10 or 12 feet to the ground. He recovered consciousness after half an hour, but was unable to give any account of his fall. There were no bruises on him and he was lying face downward when picked up. Wednesday he passed away, leaving a wife and four children, one adopted, to mourn his loss.

The deceased was 43 years of age and had been master of the schooner Exe for some time.—Twillingate Sun.

THE COUNCIL'S EXCUSES.
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—It is easy to pardon a Municipal Council which fails to embrace a good opportunity of doing the city a service, for we are not exacting in the demands which we make upon its efficiency or public spirit of our servants. It is not, perhaps, so easy to forgive a wanton injury inflicted upon the public without excuse and in mere recklessness of our interests. We, therefore, do not so much blame the Council for neglecting the opportunity which offered to purchase out Mrs. Torphy's for allowing that person to protect herself from ever being bought out in future. It is reasonable to complain when the elected guardians of our rights sacrifice them without necessity, without compunction and, apparently, without shame or remorse. These Councilors found themselves confronted with an admitted evil which cried aloud for redress, yet so far were they from amending it that they gave it a wider scope and made it eternal. And now when they have done us this injury they do not think it worth their while even to excuse themselves or plead for an indulgent judgment upon their conduct. They disdain or fear to publish the reasons which guided their action, but they do NOT disdain to allow others to publish excuses on their behalf whose falsity and absurdity they know, or could discover with the least possible trouble. The first excuse which was urged for their conduct was that, though the Council had power to prevent any new erection going up, it had no authority to interfere with an alteration to a building already erected. This excuse was promptly abandoned when it became known that the old building was being almost wholly removed, and that a new one was being erected on foundations of wider extent than the old ones. When the Council itself forbade Mr. Gosling to alter a building standing on the Golf-links it was seen that THIS excuse had no longer any vitality in it. For days and weeks the Council found itself in the unenviable position of being censured by every one of the newspapers of the town and by a great majority of the citizens without having the least rag of an excuse to offer on its own behalf. Then the "Herald" good naturedly made a suggestion. This suggestion was evidently made quite gratuitously and without the smallest pretence of authority, for a moment's investigation would have led to the discovery that there was nothing in it. The suggestion was that the Torphy property stands on Water Street, over which the Council has no power of pre-empting land for street-widening purposes. Here is a famous excuse indeed and one to be hugged to the breast of these gentlemen in trouble. It does not matter much, it would seem, that this excuse never entered their minds when they came to the decision which has caused them so much perturbation. It does not matter much, either, that the excuse should be a valid one. But it curiously enough happens that an opinion sustaining this suggestion should be offered to at least one Councilor. That decides the matter—whatever idea of re-opening the question or even of giving an explanation to the public in official form is now abandoned, and we are to believe that the Municipal Act itself prevents this property from being dealt with because it is situated on Water Street. One would think that before such an excuse was accepted some one would take the trouble to enquire whether it could hold water, but nobody apparently did. It is worth while seeing that this precious excuse is groundless. The words in the Municipal Act which define the boundaries of Water Street are as follows:—"Water Street shall extend from the Eastern side of Temperance Street on the East, to the JUNCTION OF THE TOPSAIL AND WATERFORD BRIDGE ROADS on the West." Now the junction of these roads is, as everybody knows, at the point where they meet several yards to the Eastward of Torphy's house. Water St., therefore, ends at the point of the jib where the fence stands, and the land which was sought to be pre-empted stands upon and between the Topsail and Waterford Bridge Roads, and not on Water Street at all. If this land were on Water Street, the junction of the roads should be at the rear of Torphy's, which is so evidently an absurdity that nobody should be taken in by the contention. Besides, if evidence of the fact that Water St. ends at the jib were wanted, it is furnished by the action of the Council itself, which some few years ago took land belonging to Mr. John Ayre and Mr. C. P. Ayre exactly opposite Torphy's and threw it into the public road. So much, then, for the validity of the excuses which members of the Council are willing to pawn off upon the public.

This whole business has been an unfortunate one for the city up to this date, but perhaps a moral or two may be drawn from it which may be of value to us in the future. With your permission, I shall endeavour to point one or two of these morals in a future issue.

Yours truly,

REFORM.

$50,000 for a Violin.

Late George Haddock's Sale Will Reveal Some Beautiful Instruments.

The announcement that the collection of violins which belonged to the late Mr. George Haddock, the famous musician, is to be sold has aroused the keenest interest amongst dealers and collectors. The Haddock fiddles are reputed to be the finest private collection in existence, the gem being the "Emperor Stradivarius," pronounced by Joachim to be the finest violin he had ever seen, and which is stated to be worth $50,000. It is nearly two hundred years old, and notwithstanding its great age looks as fresh as if it had been but yesterday left the hands of Antonio Stradivari, the famed violin maker of Cremona.

This is a somewhat exceptional value to be placed on a violin, the price of each of the 600 Strads which are known to be in existence ranging from $2,500 to $6,500. Perhaps the only violin which can be compared with the "Emperor Stradivarius" of the Haddock collection is the one which Paganini left to the city of Genoa, for which as much as $50,000 has been offered. The Strad presented to the late Dr. Joachim on the occasion of his jubilee cost $6,000, while that presented to Lady Halle by the Duke of Edinburgh, the late Earl of Dudley, and the late Lord Hardwicke cost $5,000.

When Sarasate's will was proved two years ago it was found that he had bequeathed $20,000 and a Strad each to the Conservatoires of Paris and Madrid, the money being for the purpose of founding prizes bearing his name. Each of the violins were valued at about $10,000, one of the instruments having been discovered in a very romantic manner. At one time it was the property of a Genevan blacksmith, to whom it had been given by a traveller who could not pay for the shoeing of his horse. For years it hung on the wall of the blacksmith's house, until after many years another horseman, M. Boisier, who was also a violinist and a collector of violins, came along. The blacksmith asked M. Boisier to buy the violin from him at his own price, or else to find him a purchaser. M. Boisier carried it away, cleaned off the smoke, discovered the Strad mark—and did not defraud the blacksmith.

Twice at least $10,000 has been paid by private treaty for Strads, and $7,000 was paid for a "Betts' Strad," the title which it gained from the following incident. Betts was a music seller in London some sixty years ago, and one day a stranger entered his shop offering a violin for sale at the low sum of one guinea. The dealer at once jumped at the bargain, put down his guinea and secured the instrument. He retained it in his family for a number of years, and, after changing hands several times, it was bought at the figure named by a foreign nobleman.

Five years ago $3,000 was paid for a Strad which for years was played upon by a strolling musician in the Notting Hill and Marylebone districts of London; while some time ago $8,000 was paid for a fiddle which had previously been knocked down at an auction sale to a laborer for $1.50. Fortunately for him, the laborer knew something of the value of fiddles, and a few days later sold his treasure to a dealer in curls for $3,000. Ultimately the latter sold it for $8,000—truly a record bargain.

The St. Bon's team in their innings scored up 28 when the rain came pouring and it was deemed wise to put an end to the game for the time being. It will be continued to-morrow and played to a finish, weather permitting. The batting and fielding gave promise of a lively season amongst the College boys. Tait scored 19 runs for the B. F. C. team, and Smith for St. Bon's made 12; Leseman 7 and Crawford 7 not out. The bowling of Knight, Rawlins and Keough was very fair, and J. Fox did beautiful wicket keeping. The umpires were C. W. Ryan and C. S. Pinsent.

Dandy Bank Clerks.

Those of a Century Ago Were Beau Brummels Gloriously Appareled. Some interesting reminiscences were given by Mr. Baberley Phillips in an address before the Institute of Bankers. In the old picturesque days bank clerks were gloriously arrayed in knee-breeches and silk stockings. They wore tail-coats and white neckties, and their shoes were adorned with silver buckles. Strict orders from headquarters for many years forbade the wearing of beards or moustaches.

Nearly everyone walked to and from business at that time, three, four or five miles being no uncommon distance, said Mr. Phillips. He knew one gentleman who lived in Friday Street, Cheapside. He used to saunter down to the bank about half-past eight in dressing-gown and slippers, sign the "appearance book," and then return home to shave and breakfast at his leisure. Personally, he did a "four miles' walk." Add to that a heavy morning on the out-telling, by twelve or one o'clock one could eat anything. Political economy had to be called in, and where to get the best food at the smallest cost was the problem. In his opinion, nothing surpassed a butcher's shop somewhere at the back of Cophthall Court; here one purchased a grand chop or steak for 5½d. or 6d., that was sent to the public-house next door, and beautifully cooked for 1d. Potatoes (in their jackets), bread, half of stout, and waiter, each another 1d. For 11d. one got a capital meal. Tradition had it that at one time a notice was posted outside the Bank of England saying that clerks were wanted—Inquire within. When his father entered the Bank of England in 1818 the examination was to count 100 pounds of silver. The money was spread out in front of him, and he diligently started to stack it up in single pounds. After he had labored some little time the kindly examiner whispered to him, "Never mind, my lad, so long as you have twenty shillings in the last pound."

Some uniform plan of examination prior to election was now adopted by many of the London joint stocks, but a flocal bank manager, recently said to him: "A new junior is a perfect terror. He has a smattering of Latin, French, and German, can do a simple sum in algebra or a problem in Euclid, but he cannot write a decent hand, he cannot spell, he cannot add a column of figures correctly, he has doubts whether Berlin is in France or Ireland, and he has no idea how to address an envelope."
