FIGURES DO LIE.

Prices are only Relative

REGAL ENGINES are the highest priced engines, yet they are the cheapest. They are the highest priced engines because they cost more to build. They are the cheapest engines, because they will last twice as long as any other engine.

They are also the cheapest engines because they save your time, and time is money. If you shut your eyes to this real bargain in engines, you will be the poorest fisherman who ever signed an order.

You will lose more money than you can afford to lose, and your oil bills will be twice as large.

REGAL ENGINES use less oil, have more power, run with less trouble and give more genuine satisfaction than any other engine on the market.

We are, in the near future, going to ask all cash for REGAL ENGINES, so buy one before we make this change, as we intend to make them the "Hall Mark" engines of Newfoundland.

We ship REGAL ENGINES complete with full book of instructions, and when once installed in your boat, any child can run one.

REGAL ENGINES are higher priced than other engines, but are the cheapest in the long run, because they run the longest.

At the foundation of the plot of this exciting mystery story, there is a secret organization in Russia. Then are given glimpses of country house society, the modern boarding-school, the fashionable restaurant, the enterprising twentieth century newspaper reporter, the romance and mystery that may be linked together by two halves of a bracelet, the love of a father for his daughter, the devotion of an old family servant, the intrigues of a band of thieves and blackmailers and plenty of the old love that is always new, not to mention the million dollars about which the whole thing revolves and which, in these times, has an especially pleasing ring. All these result in a story that keeps the reader with pulses tingling.

THE HEIR OF LANCEWOOD

CHAPTER VIII.
"Juno—who is Juno?" she asked. "I have never heard of her."

There was a blank look of surprise on one or two faces, and wonder on all.

"Has your ladyship never heard of Juno?" asked Lord Liston. "I do not remember the name," she said; and Vivien, too much annoyed and mortified for her father's sake to stop and hear more, walked away.

She was bitterly annoyed that Lady Neslie could evince such ignorance. Her love for her father was so great that she could not endure that any ridicule should be cast on him. If he had made a mistake in his marriage, she could not endure that any one should find it out. She determined to speak about it to Lady Neslie for her father's sake, and during the half hour before dinner she for the first time deliberately sought a tete-a-tete with her father's wife.

"I want to tell you, Lady Neslie, what want of knowledge you betrayed this morning. Is it really a fact that you never heard the name 'Juno' before?"

Lady Neslie looked up laughingly. "My dear step-daughter, it is really a fact that I do not know who Juno is. Are you horrified at my ignorance?"

"I am surprised at it," was the calm reply; "and, for your own sake, I advise you not to show more of it than is really needful. Every one who heard you this morning was astonished. I saw people look at each other in wonder."

Miladi blushed slightly and then smiled.

"I was never a very careful student," she said; "history was one of my abominations. Juno was some fearful queen who ordered a massacre or burned a city, I suppose?"

"I will give you a book that will tell you all about her," answered Vivien. "Now, for your own sake, I beg of you, if, as I begin to surmise, your education has been neglected, not to ask questions before visitors. If you wish to know anything wait until you have an opportunity of asking me."

"Why?" said Lady Neslie, shortly. "Because, for my father's sake, I cannot endure that you should expose yourself to ridicule."

"No one will ridicule me," said her ladyship, quickly. "Then they will ridicule my father for having married an uneducated girl—and that would be unendurable to me. I have been accustomed to see him held in high esteem—not laughed at for folly."

Lady Neslie was not well pleased; she began to feel somewhat afraid of the beautiful imperial girl who would shield her father in shielding her. When Vivien told Sir Arthur he laughed carelessly. "It is no laughing matter, papa, for your wife to be so ignorant."

"My dear Vivien, you are hard on her; no one will think any the worse of her because she is not well up in mythology."

"There are some things that every one ought to know," said Vivien, as Sir Arthur turned away.

Miss Neslie had succeeded so far that Lady Neslie was a trifle more careful as to what questions she asked.

They were together one morning when Lady Neslie abruptly inquired— "Why did they call you Vivien? It is a strange name for a young lady."

"Vivian answered her more cordially than usual.

"Now that you bear the name of Neslie," she said, "you should study the annals of the family. Vivien is one of the oldest names we have. There was a Dame Vivien Neslie in the reign of one of our earliest kings."

"Was there? What did she do?"

"She killed herself," replied Vivien, with a shudder, "to avoid a dishonor she read more than death. You must dream the story. Then there was a Diana Vivien, whose husband was a Crusader—a noble woman, who held the Abbey here against a long siege."

"I knew they had all done something or other very famous," observed Lady Neslie, laughing. "Now, when your story comes to be told in those same family annals, what will they say of you?"

"I do not know," replied Miss Neslie.

"I can foretell some part of it. It will read after this fashion—This lady was very beautiful, very accomplished, and is chiefly to be remembered for her great dislike to Valerie Neslie—her father's second wife. That is how it will begin—how will it end? You are a generous foe, Vivien; you would not push me into the mill-dam, like the jealous sister of Birmorie, of whom Colonel Hetley was reading last evening."

"No," replied Vivien. "I should never do anything of that kind. You should not say such things Lady Neslie; they are not only absurd, but wrong."

"Well," said miladi dauntlessly, "you are better than I am. If I had been mistress of a home like this so long as you have been, and a stranger were brought in to take my place, I should hate her with a mortal hatred—I admit that frankly. You do not waste much love upon me, Vivien. I like my name Valerie better than yours; there is something light and fanciful about it. There is as much difference between our names as between ourselves."

But, talk as she would—flatter, cajole, praise, no matter what—Lady Neslie could make no impression on Sir Arthur's daughter. She could not win from her any token of interest, any mark of liking, any sign of esteem.

One day, when they were discussing some invitation which Vivien had advised her father to decline, miladi, on the contrary, was eager to go.

Even one box has brought vigor and renewed health to chronic sufferers, so you owe it to yourself to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills at once; 25c. per box at all dealers.

"You will not enjoy it," said Miss Neslie to her; "they are stiff, formal people, all of them very clever. You would not feel at home with them."

"I suppose the real truth is," observed her ladyship, at the close of the argument, "that you do not wish me to go, because you do not wish them to know me, and you object to their knowing me because you do not think me good enough for Sir Arthur."

"Your ladyship has for once supposed the exact truth," said Vivien, as she turned away.

"I am afraid," remarked her ladyship, looking after her, "that some day I shall forget my good manners, and shake that proud young lady. How astonished she would be!" And Lady Neslie forgot her anger in laughing at the notion.

In time people began to perceive that there were really two parties at the Abbey—one headed by its present mistress, Lady Neslie; the other by the heiress, Miss Neslie. There was no open dispute, no ill-bred wrangling, no strife. Vivien was always proud, calm, and self-possessed; Lady Neslie was always the perfection of good humor. Nevertheless, two parties were formed, and people sided with one or the other, according to their ages and tastes. All the light, frivolous, gay young girls of the neighborhood ranged themselves by Lady Neslie. She was fond of life and gaiety. She loved dancing, flirting, all that they loved; she delighted in frivolity; she was always on the qui vive for amusement; she gloriated in her powers of mimicry; she could keep them laughing for half a day while she imitated Lady Smeaton or the pompous phrasing of Colonel Hetley—nature had endowed her with wonderful powers of mimicry, and she had carefully cultivated them. The more serious part of the neighborhood preferred the future to the present mistress of the Abbey.

Lady Neslie was very happy; her hours passed gayly and brightly; she did not fear that time would ever change her love. But one day she was riding with her husband; he had taken her by the banks of the river Ringe and through Hyde woods. She had never seen so much of the estate before. At the other side of the woods, near the pretty town of Hyde-well, she saw a house almost hidden by the trees—a large, well-built house, very pretty and picturesque.

"What a pretty house," she said; "but, ah me, how dull, how quiet! I should not like to live there, Arthur."

"I hope you never may," he returned. "But, no, I am selfish; I must not say that. I mean that I hope it may be long years before you go there."

"I shall never go there," she said, decidedly. "Do you think I could live there amongst those trees? I should die of ennui in a week."

"Nevertheless, my bright, happy love, you may be compelled some day to go there."

"I would not go—nothing should compel me. But Arthur, you have not told me what house it is."

"We call it the Dower House," he replied.

"And now I am no wiser. What is that?" she asked.

He looked half surprised for a minute, and then he said— "You do not understand English customs—I forgot that. The Dower House was built for the widowed ladies of the family; that is why I say I hope that you may never live there—at least, not for long."

"I do not understand even yet, Arthur," she said, looking up at him gravely. "Do you mean that, if you should die, I must live there?"

"That is the custom," he replied. "When the head of the family dies,

Baseball Game Called Off.

When the ball game yesterday afternoon between the Cubs and Shamrocks had been in progress for half an hour a postponement had to be made owing to the heavy rain shower that prevailed. The Cubs were putting it all over their opponents and for three innings had 5 runs to their credit while the Shamrocks were disposed of for 2 runs after having four innings. The game as far as it went does not count because five innings by any one side were not played and the game will be played later. Those who took part yesterday were:

Cubs: pitcher Shamrocks: Simms Battersby Clouston McLean T. Winter R. Callahan 2nd base W. Callahan Meehan Burrows s. stop Lehr T. Winter R. field Teester Pearce c. field Ellis Ryall O'Neill D. Winter O'Neill Umpires F. V. Chesman A. Montgomerie P. E. Outerbridge A. Hiltz

League Football.

The Collegians and St. Bon's will face each other this evening, and a stiff contest is expected, as both teams are bold bidders for the championship. Should the Collegians come off victors and win their next game with the B.I.S. then the Collegians will be on equal footing for first place. On the other hand if the St. Bon's win and allowing that the Collegians will defeat the B.I.S. they would put the latter and St. Bon's equal. The players for this evening will be:

St. Bon's—Goal, Knight; backs, E. Crawford, Higgins; halves, Power, Hawkins, McGrath; forwards, W. Callahan, Kelly, Furneaux, Smith, Callahan.

Collegians—Goal, Wornell; backs, Heath, Quick; halves, Pike, Burns, Pike; forwards, Ellis, Coultas, Kendrick, Searle, Gear.

Fishery Report.

The Board of Trade is in receipt of the following reports of the fishery up to July 17th:— From D. Blandford (Shoe Cove to Greenspond).—The catch to date is 675 qts. with 200 for last week. Eight traps, 75 dories and skiffs and 3 boats are fishing. Prospects are poor, but there is plenty of capacity out. The traps are doing fairly well but with hook and line, on which nine-tenths of the people are depending, nothing is being done.

From C. Renout, (Bank Head to Highlands).—Prospects are fairly good and herring is obtainable in small quantities. Lobsters are very scarce. Twenty traps are out and 104 dories and skiffs fishing. The total catch is 145 qts. and for last week 250. Hook and liners and trawls are not doing much the bulk of the catch having been taken by traps.

From T. Fitzpatrick, (Aquaforte to Caplin Bay).—Ten whale boats, 44 traps and 65 dories are fishing. Prospects are fair and there is an average supply of caplin bait. The catch to date is 6492 qts. with 1495 for last week. The trawls are doing nothing and practically all the above catch has been taken by 5 of the traps.

From P. L. Fahey, (Western Bay to Grate's Cove).—There is quite a lot of fish at Bay de Verde, Low Point and Caplin Bay, but on the other parts of the district the supply is poor. Prospects however are fairly good. The catch is 13,000 with 9,900 for last week for 300 traps and 450 dories and skiffs.

From T. Fitzpatrick, July 20th. (Branch to Placentia).—Forty traps have landed 1,600 qts.; 100 dories and skiffs, 2,000 and one banker 200, making a total catch of 3,800. Last week's catch was 800. Ten boats are trapping. Prospects are poor but caplin is still plentiful on the Cape Shore grounds. The lobster catch is small. There is a great scarcity of cod. All kinds of gear on the whole east side of Placentia Bay, but on the west side excellent voyages are reported ashore. There are very few signs of squid so far.

The second game in the Mt. Cashel series for the Reid Cup has been postponed until to-morrow night, as some of the baseballers are playing footer this evening. WELSH MINERS AT WORK.

LONDON, To-day.

The French have made another bid for Valley Focht in Vosges. They have delivered several attacks, which have been partially successful, and have captured heights dominating the Valley from the east. About the same time French airmen dropped bombs on Colmar. Beyond this the German attack Argonne, which they claim met with success and another German attack in the Forest of Argonne, which the French assert was repulsed, only artillery engagements occurred along the western front. The Italian offensive on the Isonzo continues. Rome reports further progress particularly on Carzo Plateau. When the South Wales miners learned of the settlement of the strike, thousands of them returned to work last night. All the night shifts were working.

AUSTRIANS ARE WEAKENING.

LONDON, To-day.

A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Milan says: "Along entire Isonzo front a general action is being carried on vigorously, although at some points there are more violent engagements than at others. There are signs that under the continual forward pressure of the Italian Army the Austrians are weakening and their lines are breaking. The vigor of the Italian assault is almost unprecedented."

TROUBLE GROWING BETWEEN GREECE AND TURKEY.

PARIS, To-day.

A Tavas despatch from Athens says the Turkish Military authorities, according to advices received from Curis, a port in Smyrna on the Gulf of Smyrna, have ordered all Christian women and children to leave the town and go into the interior. Many residents refused to obey the order and a struggle followed in which the newspapers are urging the Government to assume an energetic policy in dealing with Turkey.

WASHINGTON, July 21.

Dr. Anton Meyer Gerhardt, who went to Berlin as the personal envoy of the German Ambassador there, before the last German note to the United States, regarding submarine warfare was written, will remain in Europe. Hr. Grace Notes.

A large number of citizens availed of the weekly holiday today to go on the Broad Cove line angling. It is said that the road from Broad Cove to Tilton will soon be condemned and no train will go from here to that point only by way of Bridge Junction. Many people will regret this, as New Harbor Barrens has been the scene of many good days' sport. Trappers on Saturday did well with the fish, some securing as much as 30 qts. at a haul. The fish were very large.

Mrs. W. H. Thompson is in town visiting her friends, all of whom are pleased to see her among them once more.

The harbor ferry is not running today. Many people are wondering if this is on account of the weekly holiday? Surely not.

The present is ideal weather for the farmers, who have at present bright prospects for a rich harvest. Captain struck in yesterday, and were in abundance in the different coves. Fresh herring were also in the market this morning.

In a case in court here the other day, when two men, partners in the fishery, had a grievance and brought it to court a lady was called as a witness and on being asked by the judge to tell the court what she knew about the assault, she exclaimed in a very clear voice: "I know that all the salt in the stage belonged to my man." Even the Court House laughed.

Some of the finest cabbage ever seen in this town at this season of the year is now at the field of Mr. H. H. Archibald, Harvey Street. Mr. A. hopes to have it on the market by the end of the month. He has already sold some to the St. John's market.

A friend of the K. E. Brigade has just acted the part of a friend indeed. We would like to say a few words at present, but will do so when we get permission. All brigades should have more of such good hearted friends.

The Stella Maris Nearly Raised.

The second attempt to raise the submerged Stella Maris was made today under the direction of Capt. H. B. Saunders, and but for the choking of one of the pumps the ship would have been floated by noon today. The pumps were started going at 7 a.m. and after about four hours the test of the bow of the ship was out of water. While everything was pointing to success the main pumps unfortunately became choked and operations had to be temporarily suspended. The coffer-dam worked splendidly, being more solidly constructed than the former and on this account sufficiently strong to withstand the tremendous water pressure. After the breaking down of the pump the steamer fell back, but as operations will be resumed this afternoon it is expected that the ship will be floated this time without any difficulty.

How He "Saved the Situation"—His Own Story.

(Daily Mail, June 15)

Lance-Sergeant Douglas Belcher, of the London Rifle Brigade, one of the new V.C.'s, was, when the war broke out, a salesman in the antique department of Messrs. Waring and Gillow, Oxford Street. He is in his 26th year and lived at 6 St. Andrew's Road, Surbiton, S.W.

In a letter to a friend on Messrs. Waring and Gillow's staff, written on May 16, Sergeant Belcher gave the following account of the deed for which he won the V.C.:—"Three days ago we took up a new position, and I was given eight men and told to hold an advanced post. Well, we were being shelled by blazes, and I got a reprieve. 'Good. Hold on, which I did until reinforcements came up. I had to see the C. O. next morning and he said, 'Sergeant Belcher, allow me to congratulate you on your brilliant yesterday. You saved us. Nearly took my breath away—a bit saucy, wasn't it?—two lost and three were being up the blooming German nothing worse than a bit through my hat and a bit on the chin.' When Sergeant went to the front in his was 10st., 7lb., one of his leagues said yesterday, 'weighs over 13st.'"

MINISTERS INTO CONFERENCE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, July 21.

The Commons to-day, Arthur Balfour, Under Secretary for Colonies, said it was the intention to take responsible Ministers of Overseas into the confidence of the Government, as to every matter that might arise, not only during the war, also as to the question of the settlement of peace. That was the intention, he said, that Premier Borden of Canada, attended a Cabinet meeting July 14. That was not an isolated phenomenon, but part of the general trend of events.

KE MINISTERS INTO CON-FIDENCE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, July 21.
The Commons to-day, Arthur H.
St. Maland, Under Secretary for Colonies, said it was the intention

States into the confidence of the Government, as to every matter that might arise, not only during the war,
but also as to the question of the set-

THE UNITED STATES REPLY.

WASHINGTON, July 21.
The United States has decided to form Germany that further loss of American lives as a result of the German submarine contravention of the principles of international law,
should be regarded as an unfriendly act.
The question of principles is now virtually ended. The American Government warns Germany of the intervention it will make on future infringements of American rights. In the new note, the United States admits that Germany already has admitted the principle that passengers
may be removed to a place of safety
before destroying an unresisting merchantman as a prize. Taking the action, therefore, that the two Governments are agreed in principle, the United States views it as incumbent upon Germany to make submarine practice conform with the accepted principles

"STAFFORD'S DRUG STORE" (Theatre Hill)

Any person or persons calling at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill and asking us to show them orders amounting to over Ten Thousand bottles of Stafford's Liniment sold since January 1st, this year, and by our not being able to produce them, we will gladly forfeit the sum of $1,000. All you have to do is to come in and ask us.

Stafford's Liniment is one of the strongest and most penetrating Liniments that has ever been manufactured.

It cures Rheumatism, Lumbago,
Neuralgia and all Aches and Pains.
Sold everywhere.

Stafford's Liniment is prepared only of international law. Any deviation in actual practice resulting in the loss of American lives, it is then pointed out, will be viewed as an unfriendly act.

The action which the States might subsequently take, is not indicated,
but in diplomatic usage the phrase
"unfriendly act" always carries with it an implication of finally leading often to the severance of friendly relations.

Officials generally are secretive concerning the treatment of the Lusitanian case in the new note, but it was believed that the request for reparation would be renewed, and this issue kept before the two governments, as a subject of first importance to their future relations. The note will reject Germany's proposals that American ships be given complete immunity when not carrying contraband, and for transfer to American registry of four belligerent vessels for trans-Atlantic traffic, provided they did not carry contraband. Again, the States Government will reiterate its willingness to act as intermediary in adjusting the interests of belligerents on the high seas, but will make it clear that so far as American rights are concerned, they are not to be confounded with the practices and requisitions of one belligerent against another. The note probably will be finished to-morrow or Friday.

Cabinet officers to-day believed it would be unnecessary to have a collective hearing on the future course of events. The return of ex-Premier Veizelos to Greece, though it has become as yet ineffective in a parliamentary sense, has changed the direction of the wind in the Balkans,
and the strong action of Roumania
in stopping the flow of munitions
from Germany to Turkey is the most decisive evidence there has yet been
of a movement of opinion. Not less important in the frank declaration by
M. Radolavovitch, the Bulgarian Prime Minister, of the terms on which his country is prepared to throw in its
lot with the Allies. The disaffection
of Bulgaria has throughout been the
weak link in the Balkan chain.

ONE SIGNIFICANT PHRASE IN AS- QUITH'S SPEECH.

LONDON, July 21.
There was one very significant phrase, says the Daily News, in Asquith's speech referring to the fact that the country's war expenditure was about fifteen millions daily. He said it was possible that this amount would increase, and added that advances to our Allies might also grow, as adhesions to our cause of those States, which did not take part in the war in its early stages, came forward.
The Prime Minister's careful use of words suggest a confidence as to the developments of the future which cannot be mistaken. It would not be wise, says the Daily News, to inquire too closely as to the nature of these developments, but certain facts are before us which seem to have a collective bearing on the future course
of events. The return of ex-Premier Veizelos to Greece, though it has
become as yet ineffective in a parliamentary sense, has changed the direction of the wind in the Balkans,
and the strong action of Roumania
in stopping the flow of munitions
from Germany to Turkey is the most
decisive evidence there has yet been
of a movement of opinion. Not less
important in the frank declaration by
M. Radolavovitch, the Bulgarian Prime Minister, of the terms on which his
country is prepared to throw in its
lot with the Allies. The disaffection
of Bulgaria has throughout been the
weak link in the Balkan chain.

SOUTH WALES STRIKE ENDED.

LONDON, July 21.
The South Wales coal miners have accepted the terms agreed upon yesterday, and the strike, therefore, is definitely at an end. Throughout the great strike there was an overwhelming majority in favor of settlement.

COMMENDABLE SILENCE.

LONDON, July 21.
The request by Sir William Byles
that Premier Asquith would restate
more definitely the essential objects for which the nation was fighting, in the hope that peaceful influence might result, these objects being attained by other means than warfare, evoked the following response: "I state these objects with as much de-terminateness as I am capable of at the beginning of the war and at the Guild Hall. I am unable to add anything to these statements." Presently to take under consideration the peace movement of the German socialists, Asquith reiterated: "I have nothing to add to the statement I have already made."

MARRIED SOLDIERS.

LONDON, To-day.
Speaking for the Government in the Lords to-day, Lord Newton said that married men at present in the British Army approximated 843,000.
The aggregate cost of separation allowances paid to the wives and children of these men was $28,000,000.

GERMANS DISCUSS PEACE TERMS

NEW YORK, July 21.
A cable from Zurich, dated July 20
to the Tribune says: The ever-increasing volume of the discussion of peace conditions in the Socialist press is embarrassing the German Government, which is taking vigorous measures to stifle it.

A PLAIN INVENTION.

BERLIN, July 21.
The statement attributed to Emperor William, which has appeared in foreign newspapers, that the war would end in October, is stamped by the Tageblatt as a plain invention.

GERMAN INFAMY.

MOSCOW, July 21.
Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian Commander-in-Chief, received a disputation representing the municipality here, to-day. He spoke enthusiastically of the spirit of the Russian soldiers, all of whom, he said, were confident of final and complete victory. The commission appointed to investigate charges of inhuman treatment on the part of the Germans, made their report to-day. They had employed shells with castron tips,
which were filled with prussic acid.

UNREST IN TURKEY.

MILAN, July 21.
A despatch from Saloniki paints in sombre pictures, the conditions in Turkey, particularly in Constantinople.
In Adrianople, sedition is spreading among the regiments of the garrison, which refuse to leave for Constantinople, because they will be sent by the Dardanelles. A reign of terror exists in Adrianople. It is caused by the emissaries of the Young Turk committee. In Constantinople, Adrianople and other towns an Christian agitation is being fomented
by the Young Turks, whose committee is sitting continuously. Greeks and Armenians go about in terror of their lives.

GOOD WORK BY FRENCH AIRMEN

PARIS, via St. Pierre, July 21.
Tuesday night one of our dirigibles dropped 23 bombs on the military station and in the munition depot at Vigneulles, and then returned to our lines. Four of our aviators threw 48 bombs at Challenge Junction. A division composed of 6 aeroplanes
bombed the morning Colmar Station, with eight bombs
of 150 millimetres and eight of 90 millimetres. They were thrown on the railway station, adjoining stores and a train at the station. Important damage was noted on the principal station and at a depot containing merchandise. Not one of the bombs hit the town. Our machines all returned undamaged.

COMMANDER HORTON.

LONDON, July 21.
To Commander Max Horton falls
the credit of having sunk the German battleship which was torpedoed in the Baltic on July 2nd by a British submarine. Secretary Macnamara informed the Commons to-day that a communication to this effect had been received from the Russian Government. The German battleship sunk is believed to have been the Pommern. Horton previously was in command of the submarine which sank a German destroyer off the mouth of the Ems, last October.

SUSPECTED CARGO.

LONDON, July 21.
The British steamer Etruria, from New York for Piræus, Greece, is discharging her cargo of wire tin plate at Malta. It is suspected that the cargo is intended for an enemy of Britain.

PIRATES LAID LOW.

NEW YORK, July 21.
The Scandinavian American liner
Oscar II arrived to-day from Copenhagen with 514 passengers and cargo.
The officers of the ship said that they had passed through the North Sea
without being molested.

ITALY'S MOUNTAIN CAMPAIGN.

UDINE, July 21.
Wounded soldiers and prisoners
arriving from the Italian front, report that the battle which has been in progress in the Isonzo region, is continuing to be waged from east of Gradisca to west of Tolmino. The Italian arrivals report that all along this line of fortifications they are assaulting almost inaccessible positions and great difficulties are being encountered in the efforts to take them.

BRITAIN TO HAVE BIG AIR NAVY.

LONDON, July 21.
Zeppelin raids on her coast, together with the remarkable exploits of airmen at the front, have aroused Enthusiasm on the subject of aerial warfare. Every man available for the work in the country now is busy building aircraft. Probably

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

FOR THE NURSERY.
"The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" could be an adage of every housewife who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-rested, contented household.
Gas Water-Heaters, whether Instantaneous or Circular type, offer
the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber," without any labour at all—independently of the state of the kitchen fire.
The cost is reasonable.

FOR THE BATHROOM.
An uncertain supply of hot water
in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance.

Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost!
Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the after labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather!

A Gas Water-Heater is economical,
because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no flues to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove.

The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSE-HOLD.
"When 'Spring cleaning days' engross the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force.

But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes the bill of carrying the water from the wife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.

Later-day domestics are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying the water up or upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes.

The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous.—may121

TURKEY WANTS SEPARATE PEACE.

GENEVA, July 21.
Medjemken Effendi, the Turkish Minister of Justice, accompanied by Fassah Effendi, are expected here tomorrow, from Vienna, for the purpose, it is reported, of opening separate peace negotiations with the Triple Entente. The delegates are said to be invested with official powers.

PIRECE FIGHTING AROUND WAR- SAW.

LONDON, July 21.
A series of great battles, the result of which will see the fate of Warsaw, are now being fought north, west and south of that city. Having successfully retired to positions on the west bank, and being well flanked by fortresses, the Russians have turned, and are fighting desperately to stem the Austro-German onslaught. To the north of the River Naraw they defended yesterday three fierce counter-attacks from the fortresses of Bozan, Pultusk and Novo Georgievsk.
The Germans, who had taken one of the outer works of Bozan, repulsed these counter-attacks, according to the official report received from Berlin to-night, but have apparently been unable to make any further progress southward.

Immediately west of Warsaw on what is known as the Bionde Grojec Line, the Russians suffered a reverse retreating towards the Vistula. Further south the army of General Von Woyrsich is making progress toward the same river which has been reached at one point. To the south of In-vargod Field Marshal Von Mackensen who is directing the offensive between the Vistula and the Bug, have reached the Russian lines. Here the greatest of all the battles is being fought for the possession of Lublin Chaim railway. On the resistance the Russians are able to offer along this front where the Austro-Germans are making their biggest effort probably depends the success or failure of the Austro-German operations. Apparently the Austro-Germans feel pretty certain of the outcome, for it is said that Emperor William, who is at Posen, has sent for the Empress in order to make a state entry into the Polish capital when it falls. Things are moving a little more quickly at Courland where the Germans claim to have met with successes all along the line, bringing them within view of distance of Riga and roads which supply that town from the south.

There is another battle in progress along the borders of Besarabia, but how this is going the official communications do not say.

Their Hereditary Foes

The eyes of the belligerents in the Great War will for the next few months be directed to the Balkans to watch what Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece intend to do in the premises. Outside of the efforts of the Entente Allies to bring them and of the Teutons to keep them out, there are two factors which will govern their course. The first is the adjustment of territory among themselves. After the Balkan war with Turkey, Serbia, Bulgaria and Greece quarreled among themselves about the spoils, and Roumania took a hand in making demands for herself although she was not a member of the Balkan League which had waged war against Turkey, and Bulgaria had to surrender territory to her as well as part of the spoils to Serbia and Greece. This is a sore which has not yet healed and it is on this Germany and Austria are working, and this is the main difficulty which the Entente Allies have to overcome. Roumania has already taken a stand in stopping munition supplies passing from the Huns to the Turks through her territory, and Greece has already by popular vote returned the Liberals to power by a strong majority to Parliament, and Venizelos has resumed the leadership of the Liberal party. The meeting of Parliament has been deferred until the later part of August, when Venizelos will declare the policy of his party and will doubtless obtain the Government. His previous declarations have been in favour of intervention. The other factor which is material is the harvest. The staple industry of these countries is agricultural and horticultural. Roumania is the only country among them which has a large export outside of these, and this consists of petroleum. Roumanian exports are chiefly wheat, barley, maize, petroleum, rock-salt, spirits, hides, wool and cattle. Greece exports currants, figs, olive-oil, wine, cognac, tobacco, hides, etc. Bulgaria exports wheat, live stock, skins, cheese, eggs, timber and tobacco. It is very important to them to gather in their harvests before they call their men to the colors. This was the course pursued in the war against Turkey, and it is most unlikely that any other course would be pursued at this time, should they decide to throw in their lot with the Entente Allies. The dominating influence with them is their hereditary hostility to the Turks. For about five centuries they sustained the horrors and cruelties of the Turks, and their anticipation is so recent even within their present confines, and the call of their Christian brethren in Turkey is so incessant that they will never rest satisfied until the Turk is turned bag and baggage out of Europe. The intensity of this feeling naturally draws them to the Entente, while at the same time it repels them from having anything to do with the Huns who are bolstering up their hereditary enemies.

Amusements.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The high class entertainment which was given at the above popular house of amusement yesterday was hugely enjoyed by most enthusiastic audiences. The three reel feature fully justified all the good things which had been said of it, as it is without any exception the best photo-play of its description ever to have been shown here. The acting of Marc Macdermott and Miriam Nesbitt being beyond reproach. The comedy in which the great John Drew's brother is the comedian made a big hit. It was very funny. Arthur Priestman Cameron sang another new song which was enjoyed immensely. The above with the accompaniment of excellent music and realistic effects most aptly handled by Elsie Tappin and John Cronan, respectively, concluded a most excellent programme with the addition of a good western story, "An Indian's Honour."

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There was a good audience at the popular little theatre last night and they were delighted with the show. The splendid three reel film, "The Spy" charmed all; it is certainly one of the best pictures ever shown in St. John's. To-night the two little singers will be heard in new patriotic songs: "The Klitte Leads." Don't miss hearing this, one of the best songs yet. A splendid selection of pictures and song.

GREAT ATTRACTION AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

It was not surprising that the Nickel Theatre should be crowded yesterday. The fact that the picture of the presentation of the colors at Stots Camp was shown was sufficient to draw large audiences. Greater interest was centred in this film than any other ever shown at the Nickel. Every one will want to see the boys and many will see the picture as often as they can. The boys look well, was the general opinion. They have become splendid types of soldiers. If you were unable to be present yesterday, go to-day. "The Million Dollar Mystery" is good and so are the other subjects. Do not miss to-day's show.

ANOTHER BIG SALT SHIPMENT ARRIVES.

The s.s. Kellerby reached port this morning from Cadiz bringing four thousand tons of salt consigned to Job Bros. & Co. The passage occupied fourteen days, delay being occasioned by fog. The Kellerby was six days longer than the Naoscope coming from Cadiz. The arrival of this large salt shipment will remove the famine that existed.

GODDEN—SHAMBLER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the C. of E. Cathedral yesterday morning when Mr. Walter Godden, of the Nova Scotia Steel Co., Sydney, and Miss Ethel Shambler, daughter of Mr. John Bright Shambler, were made man and wife. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. Brinton. The bride was tastefully attired and carried a beautiful bouquet. She was given away by her father, and was attended by Miss Emma Godden, sister of the groom, and her sister, Miss Vera Shambler, the groom being supported by Mr. H. Miller, of Knowlton's. After the ceremony the bridal party with the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties lunched at Woods' West End Restaurant, after which Mr. and Mrs. Godden drove to Waterford Bridge and entrained for Seal Cove, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. The Telegram joins in the felicitations extended and wishes Mr. and Mrs. Godden many years of wedded happiness. The happy couple will reside at Sydney, C.B.

Says Turks Kill German Officers.

British Dardanelles Correspondent Tells of Revenge for Savage Disciplinary Methods.

London, July 9.—The growing discouragement of the Turks, both in the field in the Gallipoli Peninsula and in Constantinople itself, is pictured by the Daily Chronicle correspondent at Mitylene, who sends the following despatch to his paper:

"The recent fighting on the Gallipoli Peninsula has resulted in the capture of a large number of prisoners. I have seen many of them and, though they are not badly clothed and appear to have been fairly well fed, they are all of one mind as to their good fortune in being rescued, as one termed it, from the inferno which their positions on the peninsula have been for some considerable time.

"It is always essential to discount to some extent the statements of Turkish prisoners, as they generally think it necessary to make declarations by which they hope to find favor with their captors; but, allowing for that, there can be no doubt as to the general reliability of what they say. They all agree regarding the flagging spirit of the Turkish Army. They state that the feeling between the Germans and Turks is becoming increasingly bad, and they tell many tales of Germans being shot in the back in return for the frequent emptying of officers' revolvers into wavering or hesitating ranks.

"Men who come from Constantinople give a curious picture of that once busy city. The Galata quays, formerly so densely crowded, are now almost entirely deserted, while the Golden Horn, protected by a boom, is a mass of ships which dare not move. Only at night does an occasional transport or supply ship venture out. The British submarines' work and the Russian blockade have had an extraordinary effect. The city is struck, as it were, with paralysis. There is undoubtedly in the capital a large element favorable to and ready to take part in a revolution to overthrow the military party and its German overlord, while in the province anti-conscription riots have taken place.

"Meanwhile, on the peninsula, trench warfare continues with unabated vigor. The weather is extremely hot, so conditions are trying. The spirit of the Allied forces, however, cannot be too highly praised. Our men are digging and fighting their way toward that important goal, Tree Peak, and the numerous slopes which the Turks have made into an underground fort, something akin to the labyrinth in France. Kithias has for some weeks ceased to be a village at all. In all this destructive war never, perhaps, has a village been so completely battered to bits. The Turks in the neighborhood of the site of the piped-out village tried new strategy. Four lines of their trenches faced on the ground sloping northward, the position held by our troops. In a dashing night attack the Allied forces carried the first two lines. Suddenly, just at dawn, the sides of the captured trenches, skillfully mined, crumbled away, exposing the defenders in front. Our men found themselves in the dim light being raked by machine gun fire from two lines of the enemy's trenches before them. In an instant they were up and at them, and after ten minutes' desperate hand-to-hand fighting the second line trenches remained in our possession."

Italy's Kitchener.

Stories of General Luigi Cadorno.

The son of a famous soldier, General Raphael Cadorno, who fought for his country in her great struggles of 1848-9 and earned the reputation of being one of Italy's military leaders, General Luigi Cadorno, Commander of the First Italian Army, has proved himself a military genius in every sense of the term. For he is not only a great soldier, but is a recognized authority on the wars of the past four decades, and a fine strategist and tactician, his war treatises and manuals being the guide books of every Italian officer.

The Austrians are well aware that they have fighting against them a man who knows every inch of the north and north-east frontiers of Italy, and one whose lightning strategy is proverbial in military circles throughout Europe. General Cadorno's thoroughness is illustrated by the fact that for six years he tramped the passes of the Carinthian and Tyrolean Alps, notebook in hand, marking a vantage point here and a death-trap there. And it was the knowledge thus gained which enabled him at ultimate manoeuvres to out-general everybody and led to rapid promotion.

It is related that in the manoeuvres of 1911 he set himself to play the part of a defeated general. Orders miscarried, reinforcements came late, general confusion set in, and Cadorno's troops were surrounded. Then he set himself to extricate them, and carried out a retreat which was the marvel of the Italian tacticians. One great advantage General Cadorno possesses is his prodigious memory. He never wants a map, and there is scarcely a path or village, however small, on the Italian frontier with which he is unacquainted.

Since he was a boy of ten—he is now sixty-five years of age—General Cadorno has been learning soldiering, and he is rather fond of saying that he has scarcely passed the elementary stages. A silent martinet, he never forgives incompetence in his officers. At the same time he is the friend of every man, for he loves them all, and is ever considerate of their welfare.

In 1881 General Cadorno married, and he has a son and three daughters, two of whom are nuns.

The Youngest M.P. is Irish Soldier.

The youngest member of Parliament, Mr. John Esmond, took his seat in the House of Commons at Westminster a fortnight ago. He wore khaki.

Mr. Esmond was elected as Nationalist M.P. for North Tipperary, in succession to his father, who died. He is twenty-one years old, and takes the place, as the youngest M.P. of Mr. W. C. G. Gladstone, who was killed in battle a little while ago.

Mr. Esmond is a lieutenant in the Tyneside Irish (27th Northumberland Fusiliers). He is by profession an engineer, and was trained in the shipbuilding yard of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Belfast.

The oldest M.P. is also an Irish Nationalist—Mr. Samuel Young, a Belfast distiller, who is eighty-three years old, and sits for East Cavan.

TWELVE MEN KILLED IN PIT CAGE ACCIDENT.

A pit cage accident, in which 12 men were killed and seven injured, took place at Beantick Colliery, Kirkby, near Mansfield, Nottinghamshire, on June 30th.

Two hundred yards from the surface a descending cage, in which were fourteen men, collided violently with an ascending cage containing five men. Part of the floor of the descending cage fell out, and ten men fell 600 feet to the bottom of the shaft and were dashed to pieces. Two other men who were in the cage were killed. One of them was hanging by his clothes to a piece of broken iron, and he called to the survivors: "Take me off; I can't hold." They lifted him down, but he died immediately.

One of the men was saved through his clothes catching on a piece of iron. He swung for some time and then caught hold of an iron rail at the bottom of the cage and pulled himself up. The other survivors escaped by clinging to the sides of the cage.

THE OLDEST VESSEL AFLOAT.

Some discussion has recently taken place as to which is the oldest vessel afloat. The Ceres, built in 1811, is said to be the oldest British steamer. She is still sailing in and about the Bristol Channel. But the Jenny, which was built 128 years ago, with timbers of the old wooden wall type, i.e. British oak, is regarded as the oldest steamer trading under the Board of Trade regulations. Her certificate of registry shows that she was built at Newry, Carnarvonshire, in 1787. This ancient craft has withstood many a storm. More than once she has been driven ashore, but she is so stoutly built that she never sustained serious damage.

Nasturtiums and Handicaps.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

When is a handicap not a handicap? Between two rows of nasturtium plantings in my garden I set a row of inverted flower pots to mark the division. Two unfortunate seeds happened to have strayed from the straight row and came up under the flower pots. What did they do when they reached the surface of the earth and found that they were still some inches away from the open sunlight? Did they give up the struggle? No. On the contrary, they grew so much faster than the other seeds that while the open air nasturtiums were only about two inches high, the two little imprisoned plants, with only the ray of sunlight to live by, had climbed up the four or five inches to the opening and pushed their heads through, thus depriving me of their imprisonment and winning their instant release.

A Very Far Seeing Nasturtium. Incidentally, although it is aside from the moral of my tale, I must record my admiration of their wisdom in growing leaves small enough to be pushed through the tiny opening while the other plants were sprouting much bigger leaves. How wise nature is, after all! Might we not be better off if we trusted her more and tried to improve on her less?

The other day I was visiting one of the most wonderful institutions I know, a world-famous home for the education of the blind. The head of the institution was telling me about some of his notable people. One was a girl who at the age of fourteen had her eyes put out by a boy who was shooting rabbits. She was just entering high school and was an indifferent student. She went to this institution, learned to be blind (as they say there) and developed into an excellent student, especially in mathematics. Furthermore she also developed a splendid pluck which made her willing to go back among the seeing and compete with them. She had lost two years of high school, but despite the handicap of blindness she did the three years' work in two and graduated well up in her class.

The Pluck That Transforms a Handicap.

That's what a handicap did to a character with pluck enough to make it into a stimulus.

Would Demosthenes have been so great an orator if he had not had a handicap to spur him into efforts that carried him on and on to a shining goal? Probably not?

Nobody welcomes handicaps, but many of us must have some sort or another thrust upon us. Whether we accept them as justifications for inferiority or use them as a stimulus to make us fight the harder shows the stuff of which we are made.

Question—I am going to announce my engagement in a few days. My fiancé is willing to give me a diamond ring, but we have not a great deal of money and I wish the $100 he would spend could be put into the house furnishings. I am afraid people will think it's queer if I don't have a ring. What would you do?—Fiancee.

Answer—I'd try to have the courage not to care what people thought about something that was distinctly my business. I know one woman who has always regretted that she didn't have that courage. Personally, I think the disproportionate sums young people spending on engagement rings get them into the false and foolish habit of spending to impress rather than to enjoy.

THE DIZZY DAUGHTER.

MARY JANE

Mary Jane, you dizzy daisy, what a mess you always make! Are you careless or just lazy? Is your intellect a fake? All your traps, you headless critter, I see strewn around the floors; Ma will come and clean the litter, when she's done her other chores. Always counting on another to do things you ought to do, always waiting for your mother to come toiling after you! Ma will all this mess abolish, when she's dusted forty chairs, when she's put a coat of polish on the furniture upstairs; when she's cleaned and scaled some fishes, when she's pored a pair of spuds, when she's washed the dinner dishes, when she's parched a heap of beans, when she's so dogged and weary that her work-worn soul is frayed, she'll come toiling round you, dearie, cleaning up the mess you've made. Mary Jane, your mother's older than she was when she was young; she has stitches in her shoulder, and the asthma in her lung; every step she takes is harder than the step she took before, as she wanders from the ladder to the well or henhouse door. Some sad day we shall have laid her to her rest, her labors through; white she's with us you should aid her, not make work for her to do.

Letter From the Trenches.

FRANCE, June 25, '15.
C Company, 2nd Battalion,
1st Inf. Brigade,
1st Canadian Contingent.

Dear Brother—I am writing you this short letter, hoping it will reach you in good health as it leaves me at present. I must say we are having a pretty good time here just at present. Since I wrote you last we have been in the trenches twice and we have done some pretty severe fighting. The first time we were in for nine days and the last seven, and I must say it was pretty hot for a while, as it was nothing but a continual roar of artillery, but I am glad to say this time the odds were on our side, as far as artillery was concerned. My! but you should have heard those big guns of ours going, it would just do you good to listen to them, but of course the Germans have their guns, too, and when they all get going, they can do some damage. I believe it will be some time before we do any more fighting of a serious nature, for you may guess after two or three months fighting, what the Canadian Division is like, and I tell you when we go to the trenches, it is always to one of the most important places on the line, but I guess we will soon be having the Second Canadian Division out here, and then more than likely we will get a rest. I consider myself lucky to get through so far, for you know when I left Ottawa there was twenty others who enlisted from the same Company of the Guards as myself, and I am the only one left of the twenty. One of them has been transferred. All the others are either killed, wounded or prisoners, so you see I have nothing to complain about so far. Of course it will be a long while before the fighting will be over, for they have a long way to go to get to Germany, and so they must be there and of the war. I don't think any one in the Canadian Contingent will want to quit before that time, even if it had lasted two years, which I don't think it will, for I don't think Germany can stand it. I was surprised to hear that Bob had enlisted. I think he should have remained at home, as he is the only one left to support father, but, of course, if he insisted on going to fight, he should have remained at home. Anyway I am not sorry that I enlisted myself. I would not have missed the experience of the last six months for anything I could think of, and if I live to get back I will certainly have something to remember all my life. I don't think there was ever a contingent so well as the Canadians, for we got everything we want. Tell mother not to send me any more socks as we are simply loaded with them here and I have received several packages from Newfoundland, and a whole lot from Ottawa, besides we get issued with them nearly every week. Everybody seems to think we need socks, so we would only get them so often. We get clean underwear every time we come out of the trenches, and we have a bath every day, when we are not in the trenches. So far you can see active service is not so bad after all. Don't forget to answer this letter and let me know if you received those photographs yet. Of course if I ever get back to London I will be able to see about them myself. I have written a longer letter than I intended and will now close with love to all at home.

Austria's Offer to Roumania.

Bucharest, July 13.—The Austro-Hungarian minister here on Wednesday last presented to the Prime Minister proposals offering Roumania certain concessions in exchange for definite neutrality and facilities for supplying Turkey with munitions of war.

She offers to cede to Roumania part of Bukovina as far north as Sereth, and at the same time ameliorate the treatment of Roumanians in the monarchy, granting a university to Braşov, large admission of Roumanians in Hungary to the public service, and greater liberty of administration to the Roumanian churches.

An alternative proposal affects the entry of Roumania into the field of action on the side of the Germanic powers. In this event the ceded territory would be extended to Carrowitz, and the line of the Pruth and the frontier on the Danube would be extended beyond the Iron Gates. The undertaking mentioned above in regard to the situation of Roumanians in Hungary would also apply, but allowing complete autonomy to Transylvania. There was also an undertaking that the Austro-German armies will occupy Bessarabia and hand it over immediately to Roumania. Germany guarantees the execution of these proposals.

The significant point is that they have fixed the term of one month in which either alternative arrangement must be agreed to. This is the time the Germans hope that the Turks will be able to hold out in the Dardanelles. The proposals are being considered by the King and Prime Minister. In political circles they are regarded as a manoeuvre to delay diplomatic action by Roumania.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggist's."
Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

The Right Spirit.

In their eagerness to enlist J. S. Blackall and P. G. Smith, employees of the Hudson Bay Co. at Cartwright and N. W. River, Hamilton Inlet, respectively, came from Labrador in the hold of the Erik rather than wait for the Sagona, the regular passenger ship plying on the coast. As will be remembered the Erik was only chartered to take the fishermen of the northern base to their stations on the Labrador and was not fitted for passenger accommodation on the return trip. When the young men returned to boarded the ship on her last trip from north they were told that they had better wait for the Sagona, as the Erik had no accommodation for them. They insisted on securing passage in the hold of the ship, and cooked their own meals on the way to this port rather than wait.

John S. Blackall is a native of Peterhead, Scotland, and the other, Peter G. Smith, is also a Scotchman, and comes from Lumsdon, Aberdeen. Both enlisted with the Reserve Force of the No. 8 Regiment on Tuesday last.

Ge mans Despair of Zeppelin War.

Belgium Now Cleared of Count Zeppelin's Aerial Craft and the Enemy Are Panic-Stricken by Triumphs of British Airlighters.

London, July 15.—The Daily Chronicle prints an article which, it says in an editorial note, contains "inner knowledge of the change which has come over the German disposition with regard to Zeppelins. It is stated definitely that since the triumphs of Lieutenant Warnford, V.C., and the destruction of the air shed near Brussels, Belgium has been cleared of Zeppelins and the ascendancy of Britain's aerial armadas is connoted by the suspension of Zeppelin raids on the east coast."

The article says that over a month has passed since the LZ-38 was destroyed in its shed at Evere, and the LZ-37 was brought to the ground by Lieutenant Warnford. The writer adds:

"The aerial offensive of the Zeppelin, in short, has been broken. I do not pretend that there will be no more raids while the war lasts. To suppose that argues a very poor understanding of German determination. Yet it does remain a remarkable fact that just at the time of the year when, according to experts, weather conditions are most favorable for aerial activity, the enemy has been paralyzed by the discovery that he has now to face a new British war organization, only recently established yet marvellously efficient, as already proved by the inflicting on Germany of the most absolute check she has experienced for ten months."

"Information which has reached me from divers sources in Belgium, and upon which I have complete reliance, not a single Zeppelin has been left in Belgium save one, which was so seriously damaged on June 7, and which the Germans are trying to repair as best they can at Namur."

"All the giant steel and concrete sheds built at great pains and great expense within the occupied territory to shelter Count Zeppelin's famed air fleet are now empty. Some of them are vast enough to accommodate three of these huge destructive engines. They are now mere deserted halls. The fright—sheer, blanched fright—that followed the drama of the LZ-37 and the LZ-38 sent the wave of aerial invasion receding into Germany."

"It would be quite impossible to exaggerate the panic accompanied by the fall of the blazing carcass of the Zeppelin destroyed by Lieutenant Warnford and the blowing up of the Evere hangar and its contents. What perhaps most affected the morale of the enemy was the fact that the LZ-37, Lieutenant Warnford's victim, was a brand new Zeppelin, which was undergoing its first tests and had on board several of Count Zeppelin's chief engineers."

The LZ-38, according to the Chronicle's correspondent, was the most famous of all the Zeppelins. It was the LZ-38 which bombarded Ramsgate and Southend and part of the London area. He adds: "It had therefore a pretty busy lease of life before it blew up in the shed at Evere on June 7. Then fifty men were burned to death."

"Naturally the Germans have done their utmost to belittle and confuse the news of its destruction and have started a report that it was a Parseval and not this famous Zeppelin that was in the shed at Evere. Nothing can be further from the truth. I have talked with folk from Brussels who saw the LZ-38 come from its shed at 8.30 p.m. on June 7 and re-enter it, never to come out again, at 9.30 p.m., after a brief flight."

"There is no room for doubt, taking into account the Zeppelins destroyed by British bombs or by accidents of all kinds on the one hand, and on the other those that have been recently built under more or less secrecy, that we are justified in concluding that the German air fleet at this moment cannot possess more than fifteen Zeppelins capable of taking the air. This calculation is supplied by expert authority."

TO SHAVING—£2,000,000

The cost to the community of shaving was calculated some years ago by an ingenious statistician, who estimated that there were 7,000,000 shavers in the United Kingdom of three classes—those who shave themselves, but still have to purchase razors, straps, etc.; those who are shaved daily by a barber; and those, like the majority of the working classes, who submit themselves to the razor only once or twice a week. Charges for shaving range from 1d. to 8d. or 1s.; and the final calculation was that our average yearly expenditure on shaving must reach £2,000,000.

(By Harold McGrath)
Cloth 60c, if mailed, 75c.
At the foundation of the most exciting mystery story, there is a great organization in Russia, which has given glimpses of country and society, the modern boarding-school, the fashionable restaurant, the big twentieth century motor car, the romance and mystery may be linked together by the story of a bracelet, the love of a big daughter, the devotion of a family servant, the intrigues of thieves and blackmailers, the story of the million dollar which the whole thing hinges upon, in these times, has a sally pleasing ring. All these are a story that keeps the reader's pulses tingling.
