A Most Extraordinary Cure of Epileptic Fits

Mother Had Appealed to Three Doctors in Vain—Cured Four Months Ago by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This letter from Mrs. Noxel, endorsed by Mr. H. J. Mahaffy, druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., as being true and correct. While it reports a most remarkable cure of epileptic fits by use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, it only goes to corroborate similar cures reported by others.

Mrs. Henrietta M. Noxel, R. R. No. 1, Hamberstone, Ont., writes: "I cannot help writing to you, as I want you to know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills have been to my boy. He was taken with very violent fits, would twitch all over, his eyes would turn towards his nose, his jaws set and his lips turn almost purple. He would clench his fists tightly, become unconscious and then go into a long sleep. After several hours he would wake up sighing and so weak he could not stand. I was afraid he would die and took him to the doctor, who pronounced his case epilepsy. As his medicine was not effective and the fits continued, I took him to another doctor at Pont-hill, but his medicine seemed to make him worse.

"As the boy's nerves were in such a state that he could not sit down or lie down, and the fits continued, I took him to a third doctor, who said that he would not undertake to cure epilepsy, as no doctor could cure it. That night I went home very much discouraged, and when I took my dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I gave my boy a dose, and that was the first night in weeks that he slept well. I kept on giving him the Nerve Food three times a day and occasionally a Kidney-Liver Pill to keep the kidneys and bowels active. I can, with a clear conscience, say that he has not had even one fit since beginning this treatment. I give him no other medicine. He looks and feels well, and as there have been no returns of the old trouble for four months, I believe he has been cured. I can never cease to be grateful to the manufacturers of these medicines, for I am sure I would have lost my boy if it had not been for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Mr. H. J. Mahaffy, druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "This is to certify that I am acquainted with Mrs. Henrietta M. Noxel, and believe that the statement she has made in regard to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is true and correct."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Ed-manson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

IN BED MOST OF TIME

Her Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I was to try your valuable remedy. Mrs. Wm. Green, 332 S. Addison Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

There is hardly a neighborhood in this country, wherein some woman has not found health by using this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy. If there is anything about which you would like special advice, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Ambrose, I suppose if I got found out, they could send me to prison?"

"His face did not alter in the slightest.

"Nonsense!" he said. "Prison! What an absurd notion! Besides, who could find you out? I'm surprised, Lottie, you should hesitate. I thought you were a girl of spirit!"

"I've spirit enough," she said, grimly. "I've spirit enough for most things. For instance, if a man were to throw a glass at me now, I shouldn't faint, but I should throw it back at him. But this—Well, this is quite a different thing."

"It is all in your line," he argued. She remained silent, and he leaned back and shrugged his shoulders.

"Well, I suppose poor Blair will have to drift to the dogs, then?" I'm surprised, Lottie, I must say I am surprised, Lottie. I did think that you were as good and staunch a friend of his as I am, and I thought I'd only to tell you the plight in which he stood, and show you how to help one to save him. I thought you'd jump at it. But never mind, I don't want to persuade you against your will; but I tell you plainly that if you won't help me, I shall go to no one else—I shall let things slide. I'm sorry for Blair; I am, indeed, very sorry, but— He reached for his hat.

"Wait," she said, and her voice sounded dry and troubled, "give me a minute."

He leant back and watched her from under his lowered lids, while she leant her head on her hands, her intelligent face all puckered with thought. Then she looked up suddenly.

"I'll do it," she said, with sharp decision.

Austin Ambrose's eyes flashed, and he smiled coolly.

"Of course you will. I can't think why you should hesitate. Why, my dear Lottie, no woman of spirit could sit down idly and see an old friend picked up by a mere nobody of a girl, a kind of servant—"

"That will do," she broke in, his words affecting her as he intended. "I've said I'll do it, and I will, let the consequences be what they may. But mind, you have promised to stand by me?"

'Margaret,'

The GIRL ARTIST,

OR,

The Countess of Ferrers

Court.

CHAPTER XI.

"I think he is," he said, coolly. "I never saw him so mad. He simply raves about her like a schoolboy. She's everything that is beautiful and angelic. Oh; he is most completely gone, my dear Lottie."

Lottie bit her lip.

"The nicest and handsomest fellow in London," she murmured. "To be picked up by a—by a slave! What a beastly shame it is! What a fool he must be! What's her name?"

"Margaret Hale," said Austin Ambrose, instantly. "You understand, Lottie, that I am telling you what I would tell to no one else."

She nodded.

"And it's about this you came to see me?" she said.

"Yes," he said; "I want you to help me save Blair from this folly. Of course it would ruin him. He would never be able to hold up his head again."

"He'd get tired of her in a week. I know him so well," she said, in a low voice.

"Exactly. In less than a week, perhaps, and then—" he shrugged his shoulders.

"And she would be the Viscountess Leyton, and of course the Countess Ferrers when the old man died?" for Lottie knew her peerage pretty well.

"Yes, and we must prevent that," he said, looking at her.

She made an impatient gesture.

"I don't care about the title and all that," she said. "Why should I? If he had been going to marry Miss Graham, or any other of the swells, why—why it would be all right, and I shouldn't complain; but a servant—Blair, too! Why, he's as proud as Lucifer, really, though people would not think it! He'd be wretched for life! He'd be fit to cut his throat at that sort of thing."

There was a pause. She drank some of the stout, for her lips felt dry, then she said, more to herself than him:

"Yes, he's far too good! Poor Blair! Why, the very first diamonds I ever had he gave me. He'd have given me the top brick off the chimney if I'd asked for it! You won't believe it."

"Too good a gentleman to be wasted on Miss Margaret Hale!" said Austin Ambrose, indignantly.

"Yes!" she assented, as fiercely as before. "What is to be done? I suppose you have got some plan? You generally have your wits about you."

"Oh, that's easy enough," she said, with a wave of her hand. "I could play the part well enough! I see myself at it now!" and her face took color and her eyes began to glow.

"It is a part I could do to perfection. And I shouldn't be at a loss for gazing if it were needed, but—"

"But what?" he said, softly.

"But I don't fancy it all the same. It's risky and dangerous, and—"

She stopped for a moment and looked at his cool, set face keenly. "Mr.

because you don't believe anything, Mr. Ambrose, but I tell you I'd do anything for Lord Blair! I never told you when I first met him."

"No," said Austin Ambrose.

Lottie took another draught of the stout, and her color came and went.

"It was when I was singing at the South Audley Music Hall. I wasn't much of a singer, then, and one night I sang worse than usual; I was ill too, and out of sorts, and the people—they aren't the most refined at the South Audley, you know—they cut up rough, and began to hiss and shout. I was only a slip of a girl, and I got frightened—too frightened to run off, and one brute of a fellow took up a wineglass from one of the tables, and flung it at me. I suppose I must have fainted, for the next thing I remember was finding myself in a young gentleman's arms. It was Lord Blair. He'd sprung on the stage, and caught me, and I shall never forget till the day of my death, the look on his face as he looked down at them. I'll give a sovereign to anyone who will keep that fellow in the hall till I come back!" he said, and though he didn't shout it, you could hear his voice all over the hall. Then he carried me into the green-room and got me some wine, and put me into a cab, as if I were a lady! Just as if I was a lady, mind! Then he went back to the hall, and it was a bad time for that brute with the glass, I expect."

She paused a minute and caught her lip between her teeth.

"We didn't meet again for three or four years, and he didn't know me. I was a woman, then, and he had grown into a man. I dare say he'd forgotten all about the girl he protected at South Audley, and I didn't remind him. But I haven't forgotten it. No!" and she made an impatient dash at her eyes, as if ashamed of the moisture which had made them suddenly dim.

Austin Ambrose listened and watched.

"That's like Blair," he said. "He's a good fellow."

"A good fellow!" she exclaimed, almost fiercely; "that's what you say of any man who is free with his money and can make himself pleasant. Blair is more than that; he's—he's—"

she paused for want of a word, then wound up emphatically, "he's a gentleman!"

"Too good a gentleman to be wasted on Miss Margaret Hale!" said Austin Ambrose, indignantly.

"Yes!" she assented, as fiercely as before. "What is to be done? I suppose you have got some plan? You generally have your wits about you."

I'll give a sovereign to anyone who will keep that fellow in the hall till I come back!" he said, and though he didn't shout it, you could hear his voice all over the hall. Then he carried me into the green-room and got me some wine, and put me into a cab, as if I were a lady! Just as if I was a lady, mind! Then he went back to the hall, and it was a bad time for that brute with the glass, I expect."

She paused a minute and caught her lip between her teeth.

"We didn't meet again for three or four years, and he didn't know me. I was a woman, then, and he had grown into a man. I dare say he'd forgotten all about the girl he protected at South Audley, and I didn't remind him. But I haven't forgotten it. No!" and she made an impatient dash at her eyes, as if ashamed of the moisture which had made them suddenly dim.

Austin Ambrose listened and watched.

"That's like Blair," he said. "He's a good fellow."

"A good fellow!" she exclaimed, almost fiercely; "that's what you say of any man who is free with his money and can make himself pleasant. Blair is more than that; he's—he's—"

she paused for want of a word, then wound up emphatically, "he's a gentleman!"

"Too good a gentleman to be wasted on Miss Margaret Hale!" said Austin Ambrose, indignantly.

"Yes!" she assented, as fiercely as before. "What is to be done? I suppose you have got some plan? You generally have your wits about you."

"Oh, that's easy enough," she said, with a wave of her hand. "I could play the part well enough! I see myself at it now!" and her face took color and her eyes began to glow.

"It is a part I could do to perfection. And I shouldn't be at a loss for gazing if it were needed, but—"

"But what?" he said, softly.

"But I don't fancy it all the same. It's risky and dangerous, and—"

She stopped for a moment and looked at his cool, set face keenly. "Mr.

because you don't believe anything, Mr. Ambrose, but I tell you I'd do anything for Lord Blair! I never told you when I first met him."

"No," said Austin Ambrose.

Lottie took another draught of the stout, and her color came and went.

"It was when I was singing at the South Audley Music Hall. I wasn't much of a singer, then, and one night I sang worse than usual; I was ill too, and out of sorts, and the people—they aren't the most refined at the South Audley, you know—they cut up rough, and began to hiss and shout. I was only a slip of a girl, and I got frightened—too frightened to run off, and one brute of a fellow took up a wineglass from one of the tables, and flung it at me. I suppose I must have fainted, for the next thing I remember was finding myself in a young gentleman's arms. It was Lord Blair. He'd sprung on the stage, and caught me, and I shall never forget till the day of my death, the look on his face as he looked down at them. I'll give a sovereign to anyone who will keep that fellow in the hall till I come back!" he said, and though he didn't shout it, you could hear his voice all over the hall. ### LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Feb. 28, 1916.
GENERAL MACREADY.

It is curious that the public do not seem to be more interested in the admirable appointment of Sir C. F. N. Macready to be Adjutant General of the Forces on the War Council, because he is the soldier who, before the war, was entrusted with the most difficult tasks in controlling the troubles when the big labor outbreaks occurred in Liverpool and Manchester. When the crisis of Ulster was at its worst the step was taken of swearing him in and appointing him a resident magistrate in that disturbed part. He has performed admirable service as Adjutant General at the front, and there can be no doubt that he has been brought to the Horse Guards at the urgent request of Sir William Robertson, who is continuing his task of drastic reorganization. General Macready is a descendant of the famous actor. In appearance he is soldierly, with one ear severely maimed by a wound. His brown moustache is becoming silver. In manner he is bluff but sincere. He locks a Highlander, and it was in the Gordon Highlanders that he obtained his regimental experience. He does not care for music, and the pastor of his life is the Service.

OLD GENERALS AND NEW BROOMS
There can be no doubt that just as no British General feels he has any fifty of tenure. One young brigadier general returning to the front recently, when parting from his brother at Victoria Station, in reply to the remark "Well, I suppose in three months you'll get another ten years' leave," answered: "Yes, if I am not recalled or receive a big promotion. You know it is one error, one objection nowadays, and the authorities are quite right." As a matter of fact, quite a number of the older generals are being quietly brought home, the staffs at the front are divided in opinion whether more advances and conveniences to their own routine is caused by generals being put up or sent away. It is also understood at the front, however, that the authorities have already tabulated their changes, and mean to have them completed before the spring campaign—indeed, the majority have already been quietly effected.

"MEET ME BY MOONLIGHT"
One effect of the war in changing various aspects of London's social life will be to omit the last word of the first line of the popular mid-Victorian ballad, "Meet Me by Moonlight Alone." The injunction which generally now given is "meet me by moonlight by all means, but not alone," and the almanacks are being published on this head at the present time with a closeness never before known. I have received two invitations to very diverse social functions which strikingly illustrate this point. In both cases are included in the invitation. In that for a pleasant dinner on Saturday, March 18th, it said that "one of the considerations which influenced the fixing of the date is the fact that the moon will be at its full on the following day, the difficulties of coming and returning being thus reduced to a minimum." The other, which is for a concert on the following Monday, March 20th, said of a fund to assist wounded officers and soldiers in London hospitals, emphasizes the fact that "the moon will be at the full on the previous night." There is no need now to tell England's East and Middle districts why these precautions are taken.

YOUR BRONCHIAL TUBES
When a cold settles in the bronchial tubes, with that weakening, tickling cough, immediate treatment is very important. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present, your head aches, your cough and your chest may ache. This is no time for experimenting or delay—you must get Scott's Emulsion once to drive out the cold which started the trouble, and it will check the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes. If you have any symptoms of bronchitis, or even a stubborn cold, always remember that Scott's Emulsion has been relieving this trouble for forty years. It is free from harmful drugs, and safe substitutes.

Dramatics at Marystown.

The popular Irish drama of "Kathleen Mavourneen" was very pleasingly presented on St. Patrick's Day, afternoon and evening, by a local amateur combination organized by Rev. Father Wilson, the esteemed priest.

In the afternoon the school children of the various denominations were treated to a free entertainment, whilst in the evening the Star of the Sea Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, standing room being at a discount. As for the performance itself, it certainly reflected the utmost credit on the organizer and performers considering their very short term of preparation, want of scenic effects and other handicapped circumstances, and whilst all acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner, we cannot refrain from making special mention of the heroine (Miss Walsh) who proved herself as having a thorough conception of the part of "Kathleen" and one who would shine amongst our St. John's amateurs; also of "Black Roddy" (Mr. John Burritt), who starred as a cat-throat of the first water. A word of praise is also due Mrs. Harding who acted as accompanist for the occasion. Before singing the National Anthem Rev. Father Wilson thanked the audience for their generous patronage and announced that the proceeds amounting to $55.00 were for the building fund of a new hall and, that all being well, on Easter Monday they hoped to reproduce the drama on behalf of a motor boat fund for the mission. A social dance then took place which terminated at the midnight hour when all wended their homeward way having spent a very pleasant St. Patrick's night together.

Now She's Glad She Took Advice

AND FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. Patrick Williams Tells Why She is Advising Women Who Suffer to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Adamsville, St. Sostime, Kent Co., N. B. March 28th. (Special.)—Mrs. Patrick Williams, well known here, is advising her numerous friends to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been far from well for about two years," Mrs. Williams says. "My troubles started with a cold. I never seemed to get over the effects of it. I had cramps in my muscles and my joints were stiff. There were dark circles under my eyes, which were puffed and swollen. I had a bitter taste in my mouth, and I suffered from severe headaches.

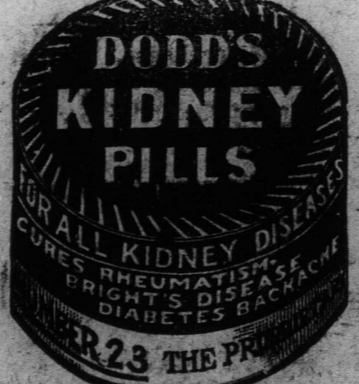

"I felt heavy and sleepy after meals and had attacks of neuralgia. Heart flutterings added to my anxiety, and finally rheumatism set in.

"It was then I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I cannot be too glad I did so. I took just three boxes, but they did me much good. I feel I can recommend them to every woman who suffers."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Every one of Mrs. Williams' ailments was a symptom of disordered kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them all by curing the kidneys.

Obituary.

MRS. MARGARET MORRIS.
H. C. Morris, 28 Morris Street, this city, received a despatch on Thursday night from St. John's, Newfoundland, conveying to him the sad intelligence of the death of his mother, at the advanced age of 86 years. Until quite recently the deceased lady had been busily engaged attending to the comforts of our soldiers in the trenches, doing her patriotic work knitting and forwarding to them socks of that quality and workmanship which is peculiar only to those ladies of the old school.

Her powers of healing were indeed marvellous. Men and women high and low, rich and poor, objects of pity and those abandoned by doctors as hopelessly incurable, were taken in hand by the venerable lady, their sores and wounds cleansed, mollified and healed.

In every case she used her own concoctions and compoundings, the application of which was never complete, and no patient was permitted to leave her house until she had said her own special "word of Prayer" the efficacy of which not one of her hundreds of patients ever doubted. For sailors and fishermen she carried a special devotion, and to alleviate their sufferings, arising from sore and festering fingers, necks encircled with bolts and carbuncles, she spared neither time, care nor attention. To administer to the needs of the sick and dying her services were always available. She was just as ready and willing in the dead hour of night to render service as at noonday; and in such cases, the inclemency of the weather was not considered or the conditions consulted.

One daughter, Miss Eteln, a son, George, in H. M. Customs, in St. John's, Newfoundland and H. C. Morris, city weigher, Halifax, survive the venerable and respected lady, whose remains were laid in the family burial place, deservedly and deeply regretted by all who knew her. ### Dogs—The St. Bernard

By FORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slawsh."

The St. Bernard is the noblest of all dogs. He is not only huge and handsome, with an irreproachable character, but is much more. He is a whole life-saving station in himself.

The St. Bernard was originally designed by the monks of St. Bernard's monastery of Switzerland, long before railroads and interurbans were invented. The monastery was located at the top of a mountain pass where it began to snow in July and quit the last of June. Transportation facilities were only sketchy and often the traveller in attempting to wade over the pass got buried in snow to his neck or farther, and was dug out in a beautiful state of preservation the next spring. To prevent these delays the monks trained the St. Bernard dog to roam the mountainside after each heavy snowstorm and prospect for travellers. Armed with a small barrel of stimulants slung from his neck, the faithful animal, guided by his unerring nose, rooted out the traveller, and pointing to the barrel as best he could, said with his tail: "Have one on me." Then he escorted the cheerful victim to the monastery and filed his application for another Carnegie medal.

In consequence of this beautiful custom, travel over the pass became so enormous that the monks were compelled to decline to rescue any traveller more than once a day. Vast numbers of dogs were kept constantly employed, while the breeding of these animals for use in Mathe, Kansas and other regions, where it is necessary to be snowed in on a mountain pass to prevent death from thirst, became a very profitable side line.

The world is now full of St. Bernard dogs, but owing to the perfection of the interurban and the ordinary red-light drugstore, they are not used as much as formerly for life-saving purposes.

The St. Bernard has long, thick hair and a face which fits well in almost any padding. He is easily domesticated, and can be taught many clever tricks, such as pushing over the piano, or standing on his hind legs and licking the clock's face. A small barn makes a very nice kennel for a medium-sized specimen. Some people keep a St. Bernard and others keep an automobile, while captains of industry and owners of corner lots on Fifth Avenue, New York, are able to support both.

Education Bill. There is now in Committee in the House of Assembly a Bill to codify and consolidate the Educational Statutes. This work has been done by the Superintendent of Education and appears to have been done well. There is one distinctly hopeful sign in the consolidation. It appears in Section 45, where the Governor in Council is empowered on the recommendation of the heads of the denominations directly concerned, to grant authority to two or more Boards of Examiners to work conjointly. The plain meaning of that is two or more denominations may unite to establish a school for the professional training of teachers. This is our most urgent need, and it will require additional aid from the Government, but the professional training of teachers is well worth the money which might be spent on it. Money for education is the chief need. The schools at present are much understaffed and under-equipped to give the education which is needed. By placing one or two teachers in one room with one hundred children, the teachers' labor is too much divided and his mind is too distracted to give the attention the individual pupils need. In order that one class may not interrupt another an iron discipline of silence and repression must prevail, which causes the faculties of the child and represses that activity, curiosity and talkativeness which Nature itself has implanted in the child to be the chief agencies of education. With teachers trained, schools properly staffed and equipped, there would be a chance of co-ordinating in the school that natural education which the boy and girl receives in taking part in what is going on around him. These would be directed to give the child physical, mental and moral strength, and a sufficiency of that knowledge which would enable him to do his part in the vocation to which he is called.

S.S. Teachers Meet. Last Monday night at Canon Wood Hall the Sunday School Teachers' Association of St. Thomas' Church, over 30 in number, and each bringing a friend, held a social gathering with the object of discussing important matters pertaining to Sunday School work. The Rev. presided and opened the meeting with hymn and prayer. Following the Superintendents of the senior and junior schools, Rev. W. E. R. Cracknell and Mr. H. Y. Mott, gave short addresses. The main speaker of the evening was Mr. Arthur Barnes, who in a very able manner outlined the art and successful manner of teaching young children. His remarks were appreciated by those present and good results are sure to follow. Songs and recitations were given, after which tea was served. The gathering marked an important period in St. Thomas' Sunday School work.

At the House.

TUESDAY, March 28, 1916. Petitions were presented by Mr. Lloyd respecting the Bill to Incorporate the Union Electric Light and Power Company which is being referred to the Committee of the Whole House; by Mr. CHH asking for repairs to a wharf at Harry's Harbor and for repairs to a road at Indian Bight; also by Mr. Jennings for road repairs. The Bills "An Act to amend the Bank Fishery" and "An Act to amend Chapter 115 of the Consolidated Statutes (second series) entitled: "Of Passenger Accommodation on Steamers and Sailing Vessels" were introduced by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and read a first time. The House then went into Committee on Supply and discussion on the Estimates was continued.

A Sad Case. Yesterday afternoon in an old stable near Mundy's Pond James Griffin, aged 84 years, was found dying and is now in the hospital and will undergo an operation with the hopes of saving his life. The police were informed yesterday afternoon that the unfortunate man was seen some days ago in the vicinity of Murphy's stable on Mundy Pond Road. Head Constable Peet and Constable Emberley took the case in hand, and on visiting the stable found the poor old man in a helpless condition. Seeing there was no time to lose, as the man was sinking fast, the officers quickly procured a sleigh and drove him to the Police Station. Dr. Cowperthwaite was called and immediately ordered the sufferer to the hospital, as the lower parts of his body were badly frostbitten and there is evidence of gangrene, the toes being so long affected that amputation is necessary. The old man told the police that he was a native of Hr. Grace but for the past forty years a resident of this city, and without a single relative or friend. On St. Patrick's Day he became despondent and entered the hospital, where he died of a lingering death from hunger and exposure.

Here and There. ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—George Knowling wishes to acknowledge the receipt of $20. Conscience money, received this morning.—adv11. GOES TO HOSPITAL.—A man from Salvage Bay came in on last night's train to enter hospital and was met at the station by Mr. Bill Whiteaway.

Major Bauld Wounded. According to Halifax papers, Mr. H. G. Bauld recently received a cablegram from Colonel Fletcher, 25th Nova Scotia Battalion, stating that his son Major D. Stanley Bauld had been wounded in action but "not fatally." The news of his wounding was received with deep feeling in Halifax, as he is one of our most popular young men. Since his departure from his native city, he has been promoted for merited work as a company commander to that of second in command of the Battalion. Mr. Bauld has cabled to the front to ascertain the nature of his son's wounds. Mrs. (Major) Bauld is going to England, via New York, on Wednesday, accompanied by Miss Rita Bauld, sister of Major Bauld, as they planned some weeks ago. Major Bauld had written that since his wife came he hoped to obtain leave to go to London to meet her. Mrs. Bauld is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh William Hawkins, of St. John's.

Amusements. AT THE CRESCENT. The Crescent Picture Palace presents for the mid-week show "The Missing Man" a two act modern drama by the Kalem Company. This is a remarkable story and is well worth seeing. "His Ward's Scheme," a splendid Biograph comedy. Broncho Billy Well Repaid, an Essanay drama featuring G. M. Anderson. "Just Like Kids" a great Latin comedy featuring Billie Reeves, the scream of the season. Don't miss this show to-day at the popular Crescent.

Exploits of Elaine at Nickel Theatre. The thrilling serial "The Exploits of Elaine" will be continued at the Nickel Theatre this afternoon and evening. Thousands of citizens are keenly interested in this wonderful story and are anxious to see to-day's episode. It is entitled "Spontaneous Combustion" and is one of the most thrilling pictures ever shown on the canvas in St. John's. This picture by itself is well worth the admission fee. "The Bachelor's Boy" is a drama of modern life by the S. and A. Co. "Street Fakers" is a mirth-provoking comedy. "The Mystery of Mary" is a beautiful three-part social drama by the Broadway Star artists. Betty Gray and Anders Randolph are featured in the excellent drama. The whole programme to-day of the highest class and all lovers of good pictures should attend.

Mrs. (Major) Bauld is going to England, via New York, on Wednesday, accompanied by Miss Rita Bauld, sister of Major Bauld, as they planned some weeks ago. Major Bauld had written that since his wife came he hoped to obtain leave to go to London to meet her. Mrs. Bauld is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh William Hawkins, of St. John's.

Major Bauld Wounded. According to Halifax papers, Mr. H. G. Bauld recently received a cablegram from Colonel Fletcher, 25th Nova Scotia Battalion, stating that his son Major D. Stanley Bauld had been wounded in action but "not fatally." The news of his wounding was received with deep feeling in Halifax, as he is one of our most popular young men. Since his departure from his native city, he has been promoted for merited work as a company commander to that of second in command of the Battalion. Mr. Bauld has cabled to the front to ascertain the nature of his son's wounds. Self Help For Nervous Persons. Can often be achieved by a simple change of food and drink. Much nervousness is caused by tea and coffee drinking—ominent medical authorities having demonstrated that the drug, caffeine, in these beverages is a definite nerve poison to many persons. Tea and coffee have no food value whatever, and are deceitful friends. Under their use the nerves first become irritated; then so sensitive and "on edge" that a slight variation from natural health often appears most serious to the victim. However, Nature responds quickly to common-sense treatment, and right living frequently does more than medicine. So, if you value peace and comfort, try this easy experiment. Stop both tea and coffee entirely and in their place use hot, well-made POSTUM. This pure food-drink made from prime wheat and a little wholesome molasses has a delicious snappy flavour and contains the genuine nourishing elements of the grain, but is absolutely free from the drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, or any other harmful ingredient. Postum comes in two forms: The original Postum Cereal must be well-boiled; 15c and 25c packages. Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a very palatable beverage instantly; 30c and 50c tins. Both forms are equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same. Thousands have been wonderfully benefited by using Postum instead of tea and coffee.

One of the worst blizzards experienced in the British Isles in a century, raged last night and morning. In the Midlands and parts of England, and in Wales, there were heavy falls of snow, and many lagers were cut off from the main world. Railway traffic was severely delayed, and on some lines completely interrupted. As it is thought that stocks have suffered, the number of casualties has been reported. ALLIES REPLY TO THE STATE... WASHINGTON, March 28. Replies from the States against the protests of the Allies regarding interference of mails, have reached Embassies here, and will be presented to the State Department. Asserting the right of supervision of mails passing through their territory, and also the right to exclude hand letters for the enemy, the Allies demand that there should be no reduction of the complaint of detention of mail, and that the Allies should speedily up the handling of such matter. In all cases it is contended that there has been violation of treaties guaranteeing the violation of mails. GREEK DYNASTY IN DANGER... AMERICAN CITIZENS MAKE AFFIDAVITS.

LONDON, March 28. Two American citizens, Arthur MacKenzie, of Savannah, and Tom Fifer, of Delaware, who were on board the British steamer Manchester Engineer, have made affidavits before the States' Consul, that the steamer was torpedoed without notice, according to the Central News' despatch from Queenstown to-day.

STILL STANDING BY.

WASHINGTON, March 28. Although twenty-four hours have passed since the coastguard cutter Seneca reported the wreck of the Norwegian ship Svaland adrift with a crew of about thirty, 250 miles off Halifax, a gale prevented the cutter from taking the ship in tow.

BRITISH AEROPLANES OUTCLASSED BY ENEMYS.

LONDON, March 28. Noel Pemberton Billing's, formerly of the Royal Naval Air Service, who was elected to the Commons recently on a platform calling for improving the country's air fighting forces, said in the Commons to-day that a series of casualties with a total of 150 dead, 150 wounded and 150 missing, was due to sending up British aeroplanes which were outclassed hopelessly by German machines.

THE ENTENTE CONFERENCE.

PARIS, To-day. The Conference of the Entente at Paris affirmed the community of views and solidarity of the Allies. The Conference decided to take steps to realize their views by establishing a permanent committee at Paris.

TREASONABLE STRIKING.

LONDON, To-day. Dr. Christopher Addison, Parliamentary Under Secretary for Munitions, revealed to the Commons to-day the grave condition of strike promotion and what he described as a deliberate organized policy of holding up munitions of war, which in the opinion of Sir Edward Carson, who followed him in debate, might justify a deliberate organized policy of holding up munitions of war.

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL.

LONDON, March 28. An official German statement yesterday told of the loss of a German torpedo boat during the encounter on the North Frisian coast. The statement said that two armed fishing steamers had been sunk and that one torpedo boat had failed to return.

HECKLED ABOUT AIR SERVICE.

LONDON, To-day. The Government was again heckled in the Commons last night in the efficiency of British Air Service defence against Zeppelins by Noel Pemberton Billing, recently elected member, by the question of air preparedness and by other members, who accused the Ministers of parsimony and neglect of valuable inventions offered them, and declared the public interests were being sacrificed to ignorance and intrigue among higher officials.

CENSORSHIP NOT MISUSED.

LONDON, To-day. Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War, denied in the Commons to-day that the British Mail Censorship is being used to steal American trade. A fringe among higher officials, drew the attention of Lord Robert Cecil to a speech of Senator Hitchcock in the United States Senate of January 20 to the effect that censors Don't Scold, Mother!

The Cross Child Is Bilious, Feverish. Look at tongue! If coated, clean little stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath had, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again.

Children love this harmless "fruit-laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Fault-Finding at Table.

By RUTH CAMERON.

In a remarkable school for girls where the science of home-making—not housekeeping—mind you, but the bigger, more beautiful science of making a home with all that goes with it—laugh, the girls are given a chance to practise the theories they learn in school, by living in groups in homes managed by themselves.

Each girl in turn holds the position of homemaker for the little family. There are many rules to be observed by the groups and one of the most interesting is this:

"If there is individual dissatisfaction with meals or any other part of the housekeeping, it must be expressed in private to the homemaker. It must not be the subject of conversation at the table."

Isn't that a fine rule?

Wouldn't it lift a burden off your hearts, homemakers everywhere, if that rule could be put into effect in your homes?

It Takes Mother's Appetite All Away.

"To a sensitive woman there is nothing more depressing than to prepare a meal, bring it to the table and then have it subjected to a running fire of criticism."

"Can't you get any tenderer beef than that?" questions the father, irritably.

"This is the second time this week you've had carrots," complains the daughter.

"Why do you always have sour pickles?" growls the son. "You know I like sweet ones."

When one prepares a meal one seldom has as much relish for it as when one comes in from outside and finds it on the table. And whatever relish the housemother would have is taken away by these criticisms.

She Is Anxious to Please Everyone.

She tries to find a tender piece of beef for the complaining husband. She rummages the pantry for a bottle of

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"Please tell me the proper positions for the persons in the receiving line at a reception after a wedding," asked a bride-to-be.

"The bride and groom stand side by side, the bride on the groom's right, between him and her maid of honor. The bridesmaids may stand half on the right and half on the left of the couple and the bride's parents usually stand near the door to welcome the guests," her aunt informed her.

Aching Bones and Sore Joints Cured All Rheumatic Tendencies Destroyed

Away Go the Crutches, Every Sufferer Made Well Quickly.

Old age is usually afflicted with rheumatism. Very few past fifty escape its tortures.

Many it bends and deforms. Upon the countenances of others it marks the effects of its awful suffering. Nerviline will cure rheumatism. It takes the pain out of throbbing muscles and swollen joints. It untwists gnarled knuckles. It does this quickly and surely.

Nerviline is not used internally. You just rub it on—lots of hard rubbing is required for a minute or two, and then you feel Nerviline penetrate through the tissues; you feel it drawing out the congestion, feel it sink in deeper and deeper till at last it touches the core of the joint or the heart of the muscle affected.

You won't stay in pain with Nerviline—no one ever does. Just try it—you will be amazed at its magical power over pain, a power it gets from the extracts and juices of certain rare herbs and roots it contains. It's harmless—any child can use Nerviline, can rub it on for a sore throat, for a bad cold, for stiff neck, for earache. No family remedy half so useful.

The large 50 cent bottle is the most economical; trial size 25 cents. All dealers.

Interesting Notes on Hall's Bay.

A few days since we brought to the notice of the general public the fact that we have for operation or for sale a splendid property at Hall's Bay. A few further notes may be of interest. We set out by saying that it is now ready for immediate occupation and operation, for the erection of mills, for cutting and manufacturing pine, fir, spruce, juniper, birch and numerous other trees. We may say the mills were operated for a few years only, but, owing to the very Low Price Then Existing, and very little demand at that, the mills were closed down, and with the exception of the few logs near to the sea coast the original forests remain the same. The great highways to the country and to the interior are well kept up and travelling and work of all kinds may be looked upon as quite easy and inexpensive. Good roads, each two and a quarter miles long, were made from the mills and leading piers to the seaside, to the lakes up to West and South Rivers; they are in good repair, and up them opens to one the whole country, leading to the railway, the Famous White Hills, to Deer Lake, the Hamlet and to Bay of Islands. When Sir Francis Eyke left our homestead the party took the route across the country going up Indian Brook, they had planker built boats, and their attendants from the MicMac settlement had canvas; there was no difficulty whatever on the way across, and they were in communication with us pretty well all across the country; they had the very best of sport, fishing and shooting all the way through. It is considered the most fertile valley in the country, the Timber Limit Area is One Hundred and Sixty-Five Miles in extent. It has the most and largest tree notably pine (original forest). The pine trees give a first log of twelve feet, squaring twenty-eight inches; second log of eighteen feet, squaring eighteen inches; and a third log of twenty-two feet, squaring ten inches at the top; good, sound, clear timber and of great value now. At the foot of West Lake and two and a half miles from the sea side the famous Barneys River enters it.

This River is Seven Miles Long, right straight from the Barneys Lake, and, situated about the centre of the property, here is a clear forest of dry pine trees of large size, and in good condition ready for the axe. It is a very sheltered place, quite free from the force of the very high winds, enabling the verdure and trees of all kinds to come to their full growth; the value of the pines on this property is immense.

Thousands of Men Could be Placed on this and the Hat peninsula between it and the West Lake. A clear unbroken waterway of about three miles from the working camps to the piers or loam, at the water side, affording splendid facilities for the cutting and floating out an immense output of merchantable pulp-props for export. The operation of same would enhance the value of the property, for the great reason that the removal of these smaller trees would give light and the necessary Sunshine for the better growing of trees; they are now too thick, and the clearings would certainly afford a better growth. The soil needs all the air and sunshine for growing purposes that it is possible to give it.

For Farming Purposes this Valley is Unique.

The soil is deep and rich, plenty of lime-stone is to be had for labor of taking it from the quarries. We have had good samples of it and can confidently speak of its good qualities. Another reason we may testify as to its good growing qualities is from our own experiences of five years' continuous living on the property. The formation of the valley and its great distance from the sea, gives to it warm southwest winds coming from the interior, with sunshine, when at the same time, and for weeks a few miles down Hall's Bay, cold east winds prevailed, and altogether the very opposite temperate existing. Often in the spring of the year, we have seen boats coming up the bay (and about seven miles down) as the term is "goose-wing," and then taking the wind down from the southwest, and had to beat up from there. On arrival at our pier we have mentioned the fact, and the crews reply invariably was, "Oh, we have nothing else as a rain but easterly winds for the past two or three weeks," while at the mills and away back in the country the warm southwest breezes prevailed and foliage-blooming all over the country.

It's a Fact Beyond Question There is no Trouble Whatever in Growing Anything You Desire on this Property.

Round the South Lake similar conditions exist, and operations are even on a larger scale, for the export of pit-props may be commenced immediately; all easy, inexpensive labor with a good water-way of a short distance to the piers or boom. At the head of this lake the waters from Rowse's Lake and from the Gull Lakes flow into it, easily opening up the whole limit to its extreme end. Along those water-ways there are large original forests of pine of the best quality; the same may be said of the limit inside of the head of the West Lake, and here I want to put on record that the navigation of the river flowing into the West Lake cost me a large sum of money in clearing the river of wind-falls, roots, trees and other obstructions that had gathered there and became embedded to the bottom of the river's bed. It probably had been gathering for a great number of years.

As a Pulp and Paper Proposition it is par-excellence for numerous reasons, viz: It has in it plenty of the most suitable timber, spruce and fir, etc., and by care in cutting over the various sections it can never be exhausted, not to speak of all of re-foresting. There is a splendid seaside property with the very best facilities for shipping, etc: This fee-simple waterside property was purchased in 1850 by Thomas Knight by public auction at the Colonial Secretary's Office. It consists of about twenty-two acres on both sides of the West River, and forty-four acres on the South River.

And With all its Appurtenances. Another reason for its being a good proposition for a pulp and paper concern is its near connection to the railway communication in winter, and splendid shipping facilities by the sea. We found during the whole year round no difficulty in getting plenty of help, owing to the very short and smooth distances by water to the harbor of Notre Dame Bay, and to the Treaty Coast. There was a constant stream of people coming up to the mills, to the dock, and large numbers to the Mic-Mac settlement to be cured of their various ills.

Manuels Notes.

Winter with its silvery coat has nearly disappeared, but not before each of our men had a sufficient supply of fuel drawn from the country and deposited in his wood-house. The vernal season as we welcome its approach makes each man use his elastic force by springing towards his farming occupation, so as to enable him to reap the fruits of his work in the coming harvest.

A cloud of anxiety is resting over our little village just now. Two of our men, namely Menoah Smith and William Eason of the Lake Simcoe. As nothing has been heard of her, it is feared that she is lost. Menoah Smith has a wife and two children. He is the son of Mr. John Smith who had the misfortune to lose his youngest son on the Southern Cross. Both of the men are well known. We hope that the cloud of sorrow may disappear and sunshine take its place.

At the C. of E. school on the 15th inst., prayers were conducted by Rev. Canon Newton, Pastor. He was ever mindful of the Lenten season and gave a splendid delivery on the same. His comings are looked forward to as he is loved by all.

school namely Master Allan Smith, after school hours went trouting in our well known "Manuels River." He captured many trout among which he had one weighing four lbs. He was quite proud of his luck; who wouldn't?

The W.P.A. of Manuels, under its worthy President, Mrs. Edward Smith is progressing favorably. Numbers of women may be seen wending their way to the C. of E. School every Tuesday night. There they knit, knit, knit, and plan some way to enable them to help our boys. Thirty pairs of socks have already been sent to St. John's, and they are still knitting.

Misses Annie Squires and Phoebe Porter volunteered to collect in aid of the Association. They did good work and feel grateful to those who helped. At the beginning of the Association a splendid donation was given by Mrs. (Capt.) Noble, Fair Haven. The women of Manuels are very thankful to receive any donations as all they want to furnish socks's money.

About three weeks ago a concert was held in the Star Hall, under the supervision of Miss Gladney, R. C. teacher. The little ones did excellent work. Both Miss Gladney and her pupils are to be congratulated.

Fads and Fashions.

There are quaintly picturesque shoulder capes of narababu. There will be a great wave of pompadour silks this season.

We may still have pockets to our skirts and be fashionable.

Big Black Hatters are the sole trimming of many of the new hats.

Lingerie, with a touch of Chinese embroidery, is new and very rich.

Most of the new fashions have suggestions of the days of long ago.

The semi-tailored suit promises to be the most fashionable this spring.

The new hats almost command the hair to be worn high on the head.

New parasols are striped in colors to match the trimming in the gown.

Quillings and ruffles are the quaint trimmings adopted for tulle frocks.

Ribbon is used as a trimming on voiles, marquisettes and chiffon frocks.

Serbia Has Fifth of

The Remaining 4,000,000 Face Station, Declares the Prince-gent, Alexander—Typhus Added Horrors of Massacre and Exile.

Rome, March 29.—Serbia has nearly 1,900,000 of her 5,000,000 people through death by the sword, starvation, or in the recent epidemic, the Prince Regent, Alexander, informed the United Press today. The remaining 4,000,000 are starving.

It is to save them from the present calamity in history that Prince Alexander, the Prime Minister, M. P.itch, and the Foreign Minister Jovanovitch, have begun a tour of Allied capitals. They hope to secure military action in the Balkans that will insure the restoration of native country.

"Americans can only form an idea of the conditions in Serbia by gaining the situation in Belgium, not America undertaken to feed a civilian population," said the Prince Regent.

"Even this picture is inadequate because Serbia was not nearly so productive, prosperous country as Belgium was before the war."

Civil Losses Greater.

"Terrible as have been the losses in our army, they have been less than our civil losses. During the first two Austrian invasions, 1914, practically the entire Serbian population in the devastated districts was either massacred or carried into captivity in Austria."

"Then came the typhus epidemic carrying off more than 100,000. It had this been overcome, when the Germans invaded last October, hundreds of thousands more citizens before the invaders or fled to other countries, hoping to escape the war. Our population has been diminished by at least one-fifth, a greater percentage than has been suffered by any other nation involved in the war."

Prince Alexander realized, however, that only by keeping intact Serbian fighting forces could he hope to redeem his country from its captivity. For this reason everything else was abandoned during the disastrous retreat through Albania.

Stuck to His Men.

The aged King Peter, suffering intensely from the hardships of retreat through the mountains, his armed forces in command, refused to leave the Albanian coast until the last Serbian soldier had been transported to Corfu or elsewhere in organization. The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured.

Serbia Has Lost One-Fifth of its Population.

The Remaining 4,000,000 Face Starvation, Declares the Prince Regent, Alexander—Typhus Added to Horrors of Massacre and Exile.

Rome, March 29.—Serbia has lost nearly 1,900,000 of her 5,000,000 people through death by the sword, by starvation, or in the recent typhus epidemic, the Prince Regent, Alexander, informed the United Press today.

Stuck to His Men. The aged King Peter, suffering intensely from the hardships of the retreat through the mountains, left his armed forces in command of his son, Prince Alexander, refused to leave the Albanian coast until the last Serbian soldier had been transported to Corfu or elsewhere, for reorganization. He has himself just recovered from the sufferings he shared with his men in the Albanian retreat.

"With the Serbian army which retreated before the combined German, Austrian and Bulgarian forces vastly superior in number and equipment to their own, they retreated thousands upon thousands of women, children and old men," said Prince Alexander. "Remembering the atrocities committed by the Austro-Hungarians during the invasions of August, September and October, 1914, I am bitterly ashamed to admit it," she said, "but whenever trouble started we began to hunt for a Union Jack. It was by no means a bullet-proof shield, but it was the only flag I ever saw that the Mexicans paid any deference to."

LOCAL HANDICRAFT.—Mr. S. G. Collier has just completed a new hearse of the latest design, which embodies several new features. Its artistic finish proves beyond doubt that our local craftsmen need not fear foreign competition.

BAD WEATHER HAMPERS FISHERY. The S. S. Prospero, Capt. J. Keane, returned from the western route last night, bringing a full freight and the following passengers in saloon: Rev. Fr. O'Flaherty, J. Walsh, P. Bona, Miss F. Gushue and 70 in steerage.

Dense fog prevailed for practically the entire trip. We learn from those who came on the ship that fishery operations on the Western Banks were seriously hampered by adverse weather and that only about one hundred quintals of cod were taken during that period. Fish are reported to be plentiful on the grounds and good catches would likely result if the weather was favourable.

HAIR COMING OUT? Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of "Danderrin" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

Our Latest in Springs.

Strong, Durable. Very Convenient to Handle.

Made right into the Bed. Will not sag.

The above Spring is made right into the Bed, thus doing away with all wood, which makes it vermin-proof. Will not sag as it is fastened to sides as well as ends with stretcher in centre to keep the bed secure, thus ensuring stability and makes a perfect level Bed. Made right in our building and cost $1.00 less than with wood frame. Can be unhooked and rolled up very small, a great convenience when removing. We can also fit it to any bed now in use as we have the machines to punch and bore the holes. So we say patronize the store that is always economizing for you, and might add that despite the serious advances in prices on everything else, our prices have remained the same the past two years, which the public should appreciate these days of high prices.

Canadian Girl's Puddings Were Good Medicine.

New York, March 21.—(Mail and Empire)—Miss Gertrude Macaulay, society girl of Montreal, daughter of a life insurance president, who won the cuisine cross of pudding, the highest military honor conferred on civilians by inviolated British soldiers at present, here's diet. She said she made 180 puddings a day.

Miss Macaulay grew mysterious when asked about the secret process of her puddings that robbed war of its trench stings. Those puddings did everything for the convalescents but replace lost legs and arms. All the charming she would tell the epicurean ship's newsmen was that her puddings were Canadian Indian corn and rice.

"GOOD CLOTHES."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." Now good clothes are costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.
