ROSES IN HONOR OF QUEEN MOTHER

London Street Sale is Alexandra Day Feature

PERFORMS KINDLY ACT

Distributes Flowers to Poor in Strand as She and Queen Mary Drive Along—Thousands of Dollars Realized For Charity

(Canadian Press)

London, June 26.—In honor of "Alexandra Day," June 26, when all England shows its love for King George's mother, on the anniversary of her arrival in England, a bunch of roses was put up at auction at a sale of the Sir John Murray's Scott collection at Christie's yesterday and was purchased by a Bond Street dealer for $42.

The sale of roses has been a feature of the celebration of "Alexandra Day," scores of perennials being sold in the streets. The money is devoted to the charities in which Queen Alexandra is interested.

London was a garden of artificial wild roses. Aristocrats wore them, hawkers had them in their coats and caps, every vehicle had a pink and white flower stuck somewhere in it. In fact, every man, however humble, wore a rose. Twenty thousand women had covered the city from east to west, and from north to south, and few escaped buying.

The purchase prices varied from one penny to 200. President Poincaré paid 25 at York House for a small garland. More than 25,000 was realized by the sale last year, but the success this year will eclipse this record.

Queen Alexandra, for whose charities the festival was held, drove through the streets during the afternoon, accompanied by Queen Mary, and observed with marked appreciation the success of the day. As Queen Alexandra drove down the Strand, she handed roses, of which her carriage was full, to several poor people who ran out from the curb to receive them.

As the two queens drove without escort, there was no one to hinder the receipt of them. The little incident was noted with much enthusiasm by spectators.

FRIEDMANN IS HOME

German Talks of His Anti-Tuberculosis Work and His Visit to America

Berlin, June 26.—Dr. Friedrich Friedmann has returned to Germany with no talk toward America. On his arrival at Bremen aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, where he met his Berlin partner, Professor Schleich, he said:

"The gratitude of my many American patients helped me over many serious hours. I do not, therefore, for a solitary second, regret having accepted the invitation of many American physicians to visit American soil."

"Doctor Schleich assures me that he has handled hundreds of patients in my absence at our Berlin institute, with brilliant success. This institute, like the American institutes, has as its leading principle free treatment for all poor patients. In view of the terrible misery incurred by tuberculosis among all races and all classes of society, even in a country where such excellent hygienic regulations exist as in the United States, I am irrevocably resolved not to rest a single minute until I have carried the fight I have begun against tuberculosis to a victorious end."

"Victory is certain. I have only one ally, but it is the mightiest of all—truth. To America, I say, farewell and auf wiedersehen."

TRURO TO WINDSOR TRAIN IS DITCHED; ALL ABOARD ESCAPE

Dominion Atlantic Road Bed Torn up and Trains for Today Cancelled

(Special To Times)

Truro, N. S., June 26.—Number one train of the Dominion Atlantic which left Truro this morning at 6.55 for Windsor was derailed about 8 o'clock about a mile and a half east of Kennecott station. The engine did not leave the rails, but the rest of the train, including first class, second class and baggage and refrigerator cars are off the rails.

The passengers and train crew as far as can be learned here sustained no injuries. The train was in charge of Conductor Duncan Goodwin with Engineer Actman and Fireman Roddick. The train was running at a fair speed and it is a source of gratification that no one was hurt. The accident is supposed to be due to the heavily laden refrigerator car, which contained ninety-five barrels of fish from Mulgrave. The roadbed is torn up for a considerable distance and all trains over this line are cancelled today and passengers must go to their destinations via Windsor Junction.

This is the New Observatory to Be Built This Year in Douglas Avenue

The picture of the new observatory for the local branch of the meteorological department, here shown, gives an excellent idea of the handsome structure now. Plans for the building have been prepared by Garnet W. Wilson, architect, of this city, to meet the requirements of D. L. Hutchinson, the director of the St. John observatory.

The new building will afford much better opportunity for scientific observation than the present quarters in the customs house building and everything possible has been provided for the convenience of the officials. The observatory will be located on the northern side of Douglas avenue, adjoining the property of J. Fraser Gray, and will be set back from and elevated above the street.

The construction will be of pressed brick with stone trimmings, copper roof, tower, etc. The offices will be on the main floor where provision will be made, also, for the inside electrical and other recording instruments. The outside instruments will be set up on the grounds surrounding the building. The tower will bear an electrical clock with illuminated dial and, at a considerable distance above the aneroid and wind gauges.

The astronomical meridian room, containing the transit telescope, will be situated in the rear, isolated from the main building but connected with it by a passage. The constant temperature watch room, of special design, will be built in the basement. The laboratories, workroom, furnace room, etc. will be located in the basement also and the attic will be used as a store room.

The cost of the building will be about $25,000 and it will be erected by the British American Construction Co., Ltd.

SERVIANS SAY VICTORY THEIRS

Report of Serious Battle With Bulgars

CASUALTIES MORE THAN 500

Latter Said to Have Made Attack and Been Repulsed—Speculation as to Effect on Peace Plans—Roumania's Position

(Canadian Press)

Belgrade, June 26.—The Bulgarians have been defeated at Zletovo. An official report says that the Servians went into action only when heavy forces of Bulgarians began to come across the river.

After desperate fighting, the Bulgarians broke and fled, leaving behind many dead and wounded and abandoning all the positions they had seized in Servian territory.

According to advices, 1,500 Bulgarian troops with 500 bomb throwers attacked the Servian position at Zletovo yesterday. Eventually the Servians charged with fixed bayonets all along the line and the Bulgarians hurriedly retreated. The combined losses exceeded 500 men.

London, June 26.—What, according to Servian reports, was a serious battle, occurred yesterday at Zletovo near Istip between the Servians and Bulgarians. Whether this outbreak will obstruct the projected Russian arbitration by strengthening the war party in Servia, will be seen when Premier Pachitch with his reconstructed ministry meets the Skupshchina in extraordinary session today. May Be Exaggerated

The rumor gained currency in Belgrade that the Pachitch cabinet had resigned, but this is not confirmed, and it is quite possible that the reports of the Zletovo battle, of which no news has been received from Bulgarians, may be greatly exaggerated.

The Montenegro premier has arrived at Belgrade, ready to accompany Premier Pachitch to St. Petersburg, where the proposed meeting of the Balkan premiers is to be held, but in view of recent developments, the result of the Skupshchina is awaited.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times learns that, in the event of war, Roumania will take the field in support of Bulgaria.

MORGAN ESTATE IS HUNDRED MILLION

MEDICAL INSPECTION IN SCHOOLS MATTER GOES OVER FOR YEAR

New York State to Get $4,000,000 In Tax

Business at the Canadian Medical Association Meeting—Next Session May Be Here

GREAT MONTH IN WALL STREET

London, Ont., June 26.—At the Canadian Medical Association meeting yesterday, a report was received from a committee named to deal with the question of medical inspection in schools. The chief recommendation was that inspection of children be done by an appointee with the medical officer of health. At the end of a long discussion on this it was decided to leave the matter over for another year, and have it take a prominent place on the programme of the next convention.

A recommendation was passed to the effect that the provincial board of health be asked to have general diseases added to the list classed as reportable infectious diseases. There was some doubt as to the probability of the plans succeeding, but it was felt that a start had to be made some time just as was done with tuberculosis. Though few cases might be reported at first, there would be more in time.

Doctor Halpeny of Winnipeg, saw an advantage in the recommendation that would awaken legislatures to the problem that has arisen in the country, and would probably start them in search of a solution. A final vote on this recommendation was carried 16 to 8.

The Friedman Treatment

The committee on the Friedman tuberculosis treatment reported that upon investigation the committee finds that the results have been disappointing and that the claims made for its remedy by Dr. Friedman, have not been proven, and that nothing has been found to justify any confidence in the remedy.

By a vote of thirteen to twenty the public health section of the Canadian Medical Association decided that doctors be paid for reporting cases of infectious diseases and births and deaths.

A recommendation was sent and accepted by unanimous vote suggesting a unifying of the public health of the various provinces with the appointment of a committee from the association.

It is probable that the next meeting of the Canadian Medical Association will be held in St. John. In that event the new president will be a local man, and the name of Dr. W. W. White, former mayor of the city, is mentioned for the honor.

A symposium on "Diseases of the Stomach, Medical and Surgical Aspects" introduced by Dr. Alexander McPherson of Toronto, occupied the attention of the Canadian Medical Association this morning. It was a meeting of the combined sections and many important points in relation to stomach diseases were brought out. The convention will conclude on Friday afternoon. This evening after an address on "Public Health," by Dr. Helen Macmurech of Toronto, the visiting doctors will be entertained at a smoker.

Decision in Rothesay 'Phone Matter

NOT AT PRESENT, THOUGH

New Conditions Not Until Expiry of Present Contracts, Some of Which Have Nearly a Year to Run

At the expiration of the present contract, nearly a year hence, the Rothesay subscribers of the New Brunswick Telephone Company will have to pay a toll charge of ten cents each time they call the city and same charge will be made for calls from St. John to Rothesay. At the same time they will secure a reduction in their rental charges. This is the decision of the New Brunswick Public Utilities Commission in the protest of the Rothesay subscribers against changes proposed by the company.

The order provides that the Rothesay exchange shall be included in Class D, which means that there will be a reduction of $3 a year on the rental of residence instruments and of a couple of dollars on business phones. The order also provides that the usual schedule of toll charges shall apply on all calls between Rothesay and St. John, which means a charge of ten cents both ways.

LIFE BEHIND BARS NONE TOO MUCH FOR THESE FIENDS

Chicago, June 26.—That a large number of horses in Chicago have been deliberately made blind to make them more easily managed, is the report of agents of the anti-cruelty society, whose curiosity was aroused by the docility of young and apparently normal animals. Warrants will be asked today for horse dealers accused of the mutilations.

"These horses have been blinded by men who guarantee to purchasers that they will not shy and need no blinders," said Hugo Kraus, superintendent of the society. "A needle has been jabbed through each retina. The wound is scarcely noticeable, but a horse so treated never will see again."

They had started to prepare for the blast and just before the time to set off a spark was generated and there was a terrible explosion. Some of the men were literally torn to pieces and others buried under tons of debris.

A TRAGEDY OF PARIS

The Story of Two Girls and Their Struggle to Live

SOUGHT "THE GOLDEN CITY"

One Found it, But Through The Gate of Death, Opened by Starvation—The Two Found Note Which Never Grew

(London Express Correspondent.) Paris, May 14—"The house over there, sir, and the fifth floor. The room door is open, and a girl is dying. Sir, be quick." It was six in the morning, and cold. The girl, who was shaking the policeman's arm as though to try to shake her own anxiety into him, was dressed in a white muslin dress. There was a wreath of artificial flowers in her hair, and she wore white silk gloves. Her face was the color of old ivory, her teeth chattered with fear and with cold, so that she could scarcely speak, and dark blue lines were drawn deep under her eyes. The policeman and the girl in white raced up the five flights of stairs together. There was nothing to be done on the fifth floor. This was the room, and to a shabby little room. Another girl in white clothes lay on the bed.

The policeman had been a soldier and had seen death in Morocco. "There is nothing to do," he said, and the girl who fetched him dropped fainting at his feet. She is at the Hotel Dieu, in the hospital in the northern part of Paris, now, and this afternoon she told a magistrate her story and her friend's.

"We came three months ago to find the golden city," she explained. "We are not sisters, as we told the concierge. We are friends, that's all. We both come from the same town, Lisieux—Lisieux, in Normandy. We came here three months ago."

Visions of Fortune Alice Jean was eighteen years old, her friend, Camille Liot, is seventeen. Lisieux, which is a big railway junction on the way to Caen, is a very small town. Alice and Camille were pretty girls both, and both were ambitious. Lisieux was dull and commonplace, they thought, and Paris was, they knew, a golden city, where girls who were clever, with their fingers and had nimble brains could speedily make fortunes. Alice and Camille had seen elder sisters of their school friends return beautifully dressed to visit Lisieux. A year before one girl had come to spend an hour or two there, and she had come in a motor-car. All Lisieux talked about it. Alice and Camille made their minds up. They saved and scraped up some money, told their parents fairy-tales about a situation, and came up one day in February to seek their fortunes in the golden city. They were not long in finding them.

These two little girls from Normandy were of the staff of a mother's school, and their countrymen were made over nine hundred years ago. Their trifles did not concern them. They had four pockets between them. Two pounds were carefully hidden in the bottom of the one little trunk which they had taken with them, and they lived on the other two pounds till they found work to do. They found it comparatively easily. A Normandy girl knows all things practical, and these two girls, whose joint funds were not quite thirty-five francs, knew what they could do, and soon found out just how to look for it. Near the Porte Saint Denis, the old gateway through which the kings of France rode into Paris, and through which they were driven out again, felt first, to their last resting place, in search of work, who know where to look, will find little manuscript labels pasted up on the wall.

The Nest Egg It is a cheap method of advertisement for labor, and a good one. Alice and Camille said that a feather and flower warehouse needed apprentices. The two girls went to the address and got employment. They took a tiny room, for which they paid a pound a month, and lived and slept and ate in that small room when they were not at work. They did quite well for a few weeks. In the tiny hotel where they had taken a room they told the landlord that they were sisters. He was a kind man, and his wife took kindly to the two girls.

In the skirt of one of their dresses was a two-pound note—the two girls' nest-egg. "With this," Alice and Camille both agreed, "we shall never come to want," and Camille, who was the more sanguine of the two, used to count up the days till a second two-pound note would join the first, and a four-pound note join them. Then they would go back to Lisieux for a Sunday visit, laden with presents to everybody, and would astonish the family with stories of the golden city and its glories. They never added a second two pounds to the first. Their wages were just enough to keep them alive, and to pay the rent of their room, but they were hopeful still. Then, three weeks ago, they were sent for by the manager of the warehouse. He was extremely sorry, but they were over, the demand for artificial flowers and feathers would not be sufficient for the output again till the autumn, and he was obliged to dismiss half a dozen hands. Alice and Camille did not mind that. They knew there was work for everybody in the golden city, and there was pleasure, too. For a day or two they enjoyed themselves. The Harvest—Lost and Gained The consciousness of that fifty-franc note in the bottom of the trunk made them almost reckless. They would get other work in a few days, and if not—mon Dieu!—the note was always there, and money was made to spend. Work was not easily obtainable. Alice and Camille began to starve themselves a little, and though their landlord never pressed for the rent, they felt unhappy. They sold their little watches and spoke to the policeman at the corner. They were told, "in the autumn."

Meanwhile they had to eat—not much, but even little food cost money. On Saturday they had only a shilling left, and Alice, with a sigh, took her white dress out of the trunk. The note was not there. Camille laughed. "You silly girl, we sewed it into my dress," she said. But it was not there either. They went down to the landlord. He knew nothing. The two girls spent a miserable Sunday, and went out in the evening to buy charcoal. Camille rushed downstairs in her white continuation dress, and spoke to the policeman at the corner. The room was heavy, still, with charcoal fumes, when they got upstairs again. Camille was stronger than her friend. She lives. But Alice Jean has found the golden city.

Daily Hints For the Cook

PLUM TRIFLE Cut large ripe plums in halves and let them simmer until tender in a little sugar syrup; drain, and rub the pulp through a coarse sieve. To a cupful of the chilled pulp add the stiffly whipped whites of four eggs, mixed with two tablespoons of powdered sugar. Make a rich boiled custard with the yolks of the eggs, a pint of milk, a pinch of salt and half cup of sugar. Flavor it with half teaspoon of vanilla, and when it is quite cold half fill glass custard cups with it. Over the custard heap the plum trifle, and serve all very cold.

PRUNE BREAD One heaping cupful of prunes, 1 qt. whole wheat flour, 1 pt. Graham flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoonful sugar, 1 compressed yeast cake, lukewarm milk and lukewarm water. Wash the prunes and soak over night in water to cook, in the morning stone and chop fine. Mix the prunes, flour, salt and sugar together in a basin. Add the yeast cake dissolved in a little lukewarm water, then add enough lukewarm milk to make a soft dough. Allow to rise and when light stir briskly and pour into a buttered bread pan. Allow to rise again and bake in a moderate oven. This bread is both delicious and wholesome.

MISS ABBOT GIVES PRIVATE PERFORMANCE; IS TRULY REMARKABLE The wonderful Georgia Magnet gave a remarkable performance at the Opera House this morning to an invited few of the leading business men of the city.

The wonderful Georgia Magnet gave a remarkable performance at the Opera House this morning to an invited few of the leading business men of the city. To see a small woman of about 120 pounds, hold several men on a pole, and refuse to budge from the floor, despite the combined efforts of ten men, is truly remarkable. It was a surprise for ten men to push her against the wall, although her physical strength is but meagre. Thousands will be asking the reason for it today, and for the two succeeding days of her Opera House engagement. See adv. for particulars.

St. John, N. B., June 26, 1913.

Dear Sir—Having acted upon the invited committee at the Opera House this morning, and thoroughly testing the marvelous power exhibited by Miss Annie Abbott, subjecting her to all the wonderful tests claimed for her, we must admit that we are agreeably surprised. That she possesses some power or force other than those making up the ordinary phenomena of nature, no unprejudiced person can deny. Just what this power is, we like thousands of others, are unable to determine; enough that it is wonderful as well as entertaining, and that she presents all the incredible feats advertised in such a manner as precludes the possibility of trickery. We commend it as a treat to be enjoyed possibly but once in a lifetime.

The Arrangements For The High School Closing-Grade 12-List

At the High School closing tomorrow morning the graduation diplomas will be presented by Dr. H. S. Bridges. W. J. S. Myles will present the honor certificates and R. B. Emerson, chairman of the school board, the Grade XII diplomas.

The assembly hall has been very prettily decorated by the graduating class. A network of red, white and blue has been draped from the ceiling. The platform, upon which only members of the graduating class will be seated, will be decorated in front with an abundance of ferns and palms. The coat of arms of the city has been drawn in color on the board at the rear of the platform and with the class motto "Fides Sine Fortuna" makes an excellent background. The botany specimens which have been collected by various members of the graduating class are on exhibition in one of the class rooms. They are exceptionally good this year, some of the students have made up their full number of specimens—twenty-five are required.

Diplomas will be given to seven students of Grade XII this year. Their names follow in the order of merit: Harold Manning, Blanche Beatty, Arthur Hickson, Harold Drummie, George Estabrooks, W. Leigh Warming and Harry McGee.

The graduating exercises include essays and musical selections by the High School orchestra. A declamation from Cicero will be given by Cecil J. Markham. The full programme is as follows: Music—High School Orchestra March, Hildebr. Entrance of graduating class. Essay—Jessie Jamieson "Virtues of the Early Romans." Essay—Ruth Coster, "In Quest of Ferns." Music—High School Orchestra, "Soldat de Bois," Bratton. Shakespeare—"As You Like It." Chorus—"It was a Lover and His Lass." II—"The Forest of Arden. FORMULA FROM BIRDS FOR PROBLEMS OF AIR French Scientist Says He Has Key to Aeronautical Puzzles

Paris, June 26.—The director of a French Technical College, M. A. Magnan, has announced before the Academy of Science the discovery of a formula by means of which he expects to solve many of the remaining puzzling problems of aeronautics.

Up to the present, says M. Magnan, aeroplanes have been constructed practically without reference to nature's own principles as exemplified in the flight of birds. It has been thought that the great relative difference in weight between a bird and an aeroplane made the fundamental principles of bird flight inapplicable to the man-made machine.

M. Magnan declares his formula solves this difficulty. By means of it he is now able, for the first time, to give the dimensions, curves and other figures of a man-lifting machine constructed on the principles of bird flight. It is simply a question, he declares, of magnifying the bird measurements according to a formula which will scientifically adjust the various parts as the human machine increases in size.

INVITED TO CANADA

The effort to provide the United States with a banking and currency system adequate to the needs of modern business is meeting with stubborn opposition on the part of the Wall street brokers.

There has already been made the big national banks will surrender their charters and contract the currency of the country by retiring their circulation.

The fact that the deadlock which has so long restrained effort to improve financial machinery has at last been broken, has placed the money trust in a state of great unrest, and it talks loudly of floating the national authority. The Toronto World, Conservative, asks why it does not move to Canada where the policy of the government is to guard the "interests."

"In the bracing atmosphere of this fortunate land," says the World, "the banks, the trusts and the mergers will find a terrestrial paradise. No impertinent grand juries, no busy attorney-generals, no progressive presidents will here disturb their sweet repose. They can gamble on Wall street as much as ever, but they will not be annoyed by taxation and other nonsense of that kind. Let them leave that feverish country of theirs, where they are not appreciated, and come to this favored land, where they can print their own money, form all the mergers they like and have a good time generally."

The World might have added that under present conditions it seems to be easy for the "interests" to negotiate at Ottawa loans of huge dimensions. Certainly, the Democratic party is to be congratulated on its opportunity and on the courage which the Administration at Washington is displaying in undertaking the task of inaugurating a great and needed reform.

CAPTAIN SCOTT'S STORY

The thrillingly impressive and subtly touching story of the trials and sufferings of the leader of the Scott and Amundsen expeditions and of his companions who perished in the great Southern ice barrier, now being published in Everybody's Magazine, recalls again the courage, devotion to duty and unselfishness of these brave explorers.

The modestly prepared diary of Captain Scott, almost a message from the tomb, is a tale of hardship and disappointment along unknown and trackless, highways remote from home and kindred. But although the loss of life was terrible, and the honor of being the first to reach the pole was attained, the harvest of scientific results was rich, and the study of southern geology, volcanic areas, heat and cold records, air pressure and currents, atmospheric electricity and magnetism, the formation and movement of ice, the life-history of birds, fish, seals and their parasites, will be of the greatest value to the scientific world.

Captain Scott, again and again, explains that "from the first the expedition had more than its due share of ill-fortune"; but everything possible was done "to keep mentally and physically fit." His experiment, and, as it turned out, a fatal one. Scott and his companions perished almost in sight of food and shelter as a result of "the ease with which the ponies sank in the soft snow."

What a tale of ill-fortune! Their bodies lie frozen in the eternal antarctic ice, but the world will not forget their heroism.

This is forest fire weather, and a word of warning is needed everywhere.

The world has no weather wealth like the glorious New Brunswick summer, and the finest example of the New Brunswick summer is to be seen in St. John.

The increased freight rates on milk and cream along the I. C. R. are not making the government and the I. C. R. management deliciously popular. If you do not think so, ask anyone who knows the facts.

The United States treasurer says that thousands of persons hide their money in stores, thoughtlessly start fires, and then send in the charred bills for redemption. There are even sillier ways of burning up money than that.

A two-pound red trout was caught in Loch Lomond the other day. And yet the average citizen stays in town and toils along in the hope of accumulating money enough to pay his taxes!

The first thing to be done is to comply with the law which provides for public meetings at City Hall. If the electors decide to change the law, that is their privilege; but the mayor and commissioners can neither change the law nor be permitted long to ignore it.

Talk is heard on the street today about another delegation to wait upon Hon. Mr. Hazen in regard to the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Valley railway, and kindred matters. What is needed is definite information. The day the ferry at Quebec is ready the Transcontinental should have a short and direct connection with St. John, and there should be facilities here to handle the traffic expeditiously. Yet even the route of the Valley railway below Gagetown is unsettled. Surely these are matters concerning which the government of the day should speak at once and clearly.

I. C. R. rates on coal have gone up, to correspond with the recent increase on lumber and general freight. In spite of the big surplus recently announced the government continues to impose these new taxes on the people along the Intercolonial. Why? Are they going to make the road so unpopular that it can be given away to one of the corporations? The people will not permit any government to carry out that policy.

Rockwood Park was never more attractive than it is just now, but a great many people thoughtlessly litter the walks and driveways, and the grassy plots, with scraps of paper and fruit peelings. While the authorities do their share in maintaining the park in an orderly condition, their work can be greatly facilitated by the co-operation of visitors, for whose benefit tidiness is aimed at. The less park attendants are forced to remove litter of this kind, the more time will they have to make the place attractive in other ways.

Several years ago, when the University of Chicago held its decennial celebration, John D. Rockefeller was its guest for several days. A bewildering succession of functions followed one another in such quick succession that each affair was from one to four hours late. At the great banquet on the closing day Mr. Rockefeller, in his after-dinner speech, told the following story:

"I have felt for the last twenty-four hours like the business man who lived in the suburbs and came in to his office every day at seven o'clock. One morning he took the train for his home, but a terrific snowstorm was raging, and about half-way to his suburb the train was snowed in. All night the passengers were imprisoned, but early in the morning they managed to reach a nearby telegraph station. The man sent the following dispatch to his office: 'Will not be in the office today. Have not got home yesterday yet.'"

"Doesn't it humiliate you to have to nounce the government continues to impose these new taxes on the people along the Intercolonial. Why? A FARMER IN ONE OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNSHIPS WHO HAD GONE INTO SCIENTIFIC POULTRY RAISING HAD FOR SEVERAL DAYS MARKING EACH EGG WITH CERTAIN DATA IN INDELIBLE INK.

His idea was to find which variety of chickens laid best, and then, when the eggs were hatched, attach a tag to the chicken's legs. He soon found that his hired man was negligent about properly incubating the eggs. One day not an egg was marked and the farmer read him the riot act.

The hired man listened in sullen silence until the boss finished. Then he said: "See here. You'll have to get another man."

"Why, Jim, you're not going to leave me after working for me six years?"

"Yes, I am," returned the hired man. "I've done all sorts of odd chores for you without a whimper, but I'm durned if I'm going to stay here and be secretary to any durned hen!"

It is rare to find men of seventy in the American political arena—they are not, indeed, very numerous even in private life. But what a difference when we turn to Canada! Octogenarians, and even nonagenarians still dispute the political leadership with middle-aged men. The Talk of The Town!

Such crowds as attended Union and Mill Street Stores yesterday.

All day long the sidewalks were lined up with an anxious, good natured crowd. The people inside simply helped themselves and handed over the price, departing sometimes by the rear entrance, bubbling with excitement and pleasure. Such bargains. Not for many years were shoes sold as cheaply. How patiently the crowd outside awaited their chance to get in. We knew beforehand that there would be a rush but never imagined anything so immense. More sales-people were added today and every effort will be made to give all a chance to share in the tremendous bargains.

EIGHT DEAD AND MANY INJURED

C. P. R. Winnipeg Express Derailed Near Ottawa — Two Colonist Cars Plunge Into River

Ottawa, June 25—Eight dead and over fifty injured, two probably fatally, is the toll of a railway accident, three miles from Ottawa this afternoon, when the C. P. R. Winnipeg train left the track. All the dead and practically all the injured are immigrants, principally from the British Isles. The cause of the wreck is not known, but it is thought to have been either a loose rail or what is known in railway parlance as a "sun kink."

The Dead.
Patrick Mulvanna, of County Antrim, Ireland, aged 25, single, passenger to Winnipeg.
John Moodie, of Sanday, or Kenny, Scotland, aged 17, single, passenger to Calgary.
John Hogg, of County Derry, Ireland, aged 30, single, passenger to Calgary.
Mrs. Jane McNealy, of Glasgow, Scotland, aged 40, passenger to Edmonton.
John Pease, of Glasgow, aged 21, single, passenger to Edmonton.
Unidentified woman, apparently a Jewess, aged about 45, believed to be going to Mrs. Bunting, 368 Broadway, Winnipeg.
Unidentified boy, aged about eight, no particulars known.
Unidentified female child, about six months old, believed to be grandchild of unidentified woman.

The train left here at 1.30 and consisted of baggage and mail cars, three colonist, one first class, two tourist, a diner and a Pullman car. Two of the colonist cars turned completely over and lay on their sides in the Ottawa river, which is skirted by the C. P. R. track for some distance. It was from these two cars that the dead were taken.

From the stories told by passengers on the train and by eye witnesses who reside at the McKellar townsite, the rural subdivision, just in the rear of which the accident happened, the train was travelling at the rate of about twenty-five miles an hour. Children and women in the cars were waving to people along the track when suddenly they were hurled into the air and fell into the river. The next two cars were derailed and the rest of the train left the rails and then the cries of the injured and dying.

The engine, baggage and mail cars, with one of the colonist cars remained on the rails. The next two cars were colonist and both toppled into the river, one turning over twice while the second simply shot off its trucks and fell on its side.

These two cars broke from the others, the first class, which followed remaining partly on the railroad bed with its nose pointed towards the river. The tourist cars, which were next went to the side farther from the river and remained tilted at an angle about forty-five degrees.

The dining car left the rails but remained practically in a straight line, while the Pullman car, which was last, had only its front trucks off the rails.

Most of the deaths were caused by the people being hurled against the sides of the cars when they toppled over, but a couple met their deaths by drowning. One little baby was drowned, having been hurled through a window into the river. One woman and a boy, who were apparently leaning out of the window, were caught underneath and their bodies were the last to be recovered. While the two colonist cars are still lying in about three feet of water where they fell, it is not thought there are any bodies which have not yet been recovered.

SUES YOUNG HOE FOR DAMAGES OF $225,000

New York, June 26—Charging that he failed to keep a promise to make her his wife and further declaring he violated an agreement to give her a life annuity of $80,000, Mae A. Sullivan, daughter of the late Patrick H. Sullivan, once register of deeds and prominent in the city's political life, has brought two suits for damages, aggregating $225,000, against Arthur Ingersoll Hoe, son of the late Robert Hoe, printing press manufacturer.

Miss Sullivan, petite, twenty, and unusually beautiful, alleges she met Mr. Hoe months after he had married Evelyn Perry, an actress, and that a few weeks later Hoe proposed and was accepted. Wealthy in her own right, her father having left an estate of upward of $1,000,000, she had just been graduated from a fashionable school and was unfamiliar with the ways of the world.

She alleges that upon Hoe's protestations of love and the declaration that he was unmarried she allowed him to establish her in a handsome apartment and permitted him to spend $1,000 a week in maintaining her. Although she had been brought up in luxury the magnificence of the presents showered upon her quite turned her head, and she declares she is now entirely unattached to live in the manner she did before she made his acquaintance.

Furthermore, she declared, both her parents are dead and her course has estranged her from the remaining members of her family.

Mr. Hoe, a graduate of Harvard, is in his early 30's. He received $5,000,000 under the will of his father and is prominent. Upon his father's death, Robert, the elder son, became president of R. Hoe & Co., while he became interested in the steel liner tube concern.

On May 10, 1910, Arthur J. Hoe, then six years out of Harvard, announced that on the previous April 23 he had been married in Washington to Miss Perry, a chorus girl. The engagement, kept a profound secret, had been of

LEAPS TO WATER FROM LINER ON VOYAGE TO CANADA; IS DROWNED

Montreal, June 26—First laying his money on the deck, C. R. Barnes, a cabin passenger on the Cunard steamer "Ascania," dashed across the deck to the starboard side and jumped to death into the Atlantic ocean on the night of June 17. One of the officers who was more than a year's duration. Members of the Hoe family attended the wedding.

on duty at the time attempted to stop the man and even succeeded in holding on to one of his legs, as Barnes hung over the side. The weight was too much, however, and the officer was compelled to let go to save himself. The liner stopped and lowered a life boat within three minutes of the alarm being raised.

That the deed was premeditated there can be no doubt, for the day before Barnes told a stevedore passenger that he could stand it no longer and if anything happened to break it to his sister gently.

Barnes was a retired army officer bound for Edmonton, where he was going to take up farming. His sister, Miss Barnes, was waiting on the deck at Quebec to greet him when the "Ascania" arrived, and when the news was told her she fainted. Fifty-five dollars in English money was found on the deck near where Barnes jumped overboard. The dead man lived in London, and before leaving wrote to his sister, enclosing $50 and saying he would be with her very soon. Barnes served in India for several years.

WILL GREAT IMPERATOR PAY? London Times Has Figured It Out

How can a great steamship like the Emperor, costing probably $7,500,000 all told, in which also and luxurious appointments rather than in the highest speed are prime considerations, be made to pay as a commercial investment?

The London Times has worked out the problem with satisfactory results. If Atlantic liners always ran with a full complement of passengers at full rate, it says, the profits from the Emperor would be truly magnificent.

Carpentier, Who Defeated Wells, Not Champion of Europe

The sporting men of France are having a great time parading Georges Carpentier as heavy weight champion of Europe. Carpentier, who recently scored a sensational win in four rounds over Bombardier Wells, is acclaimed everywhere on the other side of the Atlantic as the heavy weight champion; in fact, the Ghent contest was advertised as being for the title, but such is not the case. It has been overlooked that there is a big fellow named Marthain, who held the title of French champion until last week, when he was beaten at Bordeaux by a local champion named Albert Lurie in a furious 20-round battle, during which the fortunes wavered and it was only in the last two rounds that Lurie could claim an advantage. The fight fans of Bordeaux consider Lurie a world beater, but he will have to improve on his Marthain performance if he wants to retain his title. So confident are the supporters of Lurie, that they have matched him with Georges Carpentier for June 29. A defeat of Lurie will put the popular Parisian into undisputed possession of the heavy weight title of Europe and he will be in the proud position of being able to boast of having been champion of France at every weight from bantam weight upwards; all this in three years. The advancement of Carpentier, even with the numerous setbacks he has had, has been remarkable. However he needs more weight to carry him successfully through a campaign among the big fellows, and the chances are that he will take on considerable flesh within the next year or two, as he is twenty years of age now. It is also possible that Carpentier will be obliged to serve his three years time in the army, although if he does he will be given every privilege by the officers to train during that time with competent boxers, as the Frenchmen are wildly enthusiastic over the young boxer and want to see him at the top of the list. Bombardier Wells, British champion, is also working to get on another match with the French boy, for he realizes that his hopes have been shattered unless he can wipe out the defeat at the hands of Monsieur Carpentier.

Those who attended in support of Mr. Pebo on laying the petition before the president of the Board of Trade were Captain T. V. Walker, chairman, and Captain A. E. FREE SUGAR AND WOOL

Washington, June 25—Free sugar in 1914 and free raw wool are now established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved late today by the Democratic caucus of the senate after a two days' fight. The sugar schedule as reported by the majority members of the finance committee and practically as it passed the house, was approved by a vote of 40 to 6. Free raw wool, as submitted by the majority, and just as it passed the house, swept the senate caucus by a vote of 41 to 6. When sugar and wool had been disposed of the caucus ratified the committee amendment placing that of the Anglo-gona got on the free list. Consideration of the agriculture schedule was then resumed and a dispute arose over the committee's amendment putting a countervailing duty on wheat and flour. As the discussion developed, the opposition grew and the decision of the question went over until tomorrow. Senate Democrats asserted following the adjournment, that the countervailing duty would be stricken off, leaving wheat and flour on the unrestricted free list on a parity with cattle and meats.

A KING OF THE TURF SPORT NEWS OF A DAY; AT HOME AND ABROAD

Last Duke of Queensbury Was Popular Idol

SOME AMAZING WAGERS

Before Days of Steam Bet He Could Send Letter Fifty Miles an Hour and He Did It

(Pearson's Weekly)

James Douglas, fourth and last Duke of Queensbury, was not exactly a saint. Indeed, under his universally known nickname of "Old Q," he figured in possibly more scandalous stories than any other man of his day and generation, which is saying a good deal, for his Grace lived in an age when men drank deeply, loved lightly, fought fiercely and gambled recklessly.

But whatever might be said against his fair fame in other directions, no one ever whispered a word against him as an owner of racehorses. For years he made it a practice to ride his own mounts, and he rode them straight. This may not seem much of a distinction nowadays, but the standard of honor was lower then than it is at present. Even the holders of old and honored names were not always free from suspicion of "jockeying" the public.

James Douglas, however, was known to be averse from even the appearance of trickery, and he was in consequence the idol of the racing public whenever he appeared on the course, and such strange wagers, too, in which he figured as one of the principals, he always found plenty of followers, for people knew that he betted to win, if winning were humanly possible.

An Amazing Wager

Thus, when at the age of twenty-five he laid a wager of one thousand guineas that he would produce a carriage that could be driven sixteen miles in one hour, the public showed its faith in him by backing him to the tune of £20,000, at odds on that averaged something like three to one.

By the terms of the bet he was to have the carriage ready on Newmarket Heath on August 29th, 1876, and such was the public interest in the event that a crowd estimated to number over 100,000 persons assembled there on that day, people coming from all parts of England on foot, on horseback, and in vehicles of every description.

The carriage, when uncovered, proved to be an extraordinary contrivance. It was, indeed, not so much a carriage as the framework of the carriage, made principally of whalebone, steel springs, and leather straps. It was drawn by four horses, each ridden by a jockey armed with whip and spur.

The seat for the driver was placed very low in the rear, and consisted of leather straps padded with velvet. Ball bearings were not then invented, of course, but the ends of the axles revolved in brass sockets fitted with the old-time equivalent of the modern oil-bath. The whole weighed less than one and a half hundredweight.

Letter in a Cricket Ball

Before this carriage was decided on several others had been tried, about £700 having been spent in preliminary experiments. Douglas won his wager, however, together with about £10,000 in side bets, for the carriage averaged the distance in fifty-three minutes twenty-two seconds, leaving fully five minutes to spare.

Soon after this he made a series of bets, aggregating some thousands of guineas, that he would average a letter conveyed fifty miles within an hour. As this was long before the days of steam, the feat was looked upon as an impossible one. But "Old Q," successfully accomplished it by enclosing the missive in a cricket ball, which was thrown from hand to hand by relays of expert catchers.

About this time he fell in love with Miss Pellham, the ravishingly beautiful daughter of the then secretary of state and niece of the Duke of Newcastle. The Duke of Hamilton was also a suitor for the lady's hand, and to settle which of them was to retire in favor of the other, the two noblemen agreed to race against one another, each to ride his own horse. A wager of one thousand guineas also depended on the result.

Queensbury showed superb jockeyship, and won by a short head. The lady does not seem to have taken amiss this summary method of disposing of her person, and soon afterwards the couple became engaged.

Almost on the eve of the wedding, however, the engagement was officially declared "off" and though the reason was never made public, it is fairly certain that the couple were genuinely in love with one another, and anxious to be married, and that the opposition came from the young lady's relatives. It is a noteworthy fact that both the lovers

WAS WEAK AND RUN DOWN. NOT ABLE TO DO HER WORK.

Many women get run down, and are unable to look after their household duties, owing to their nervous system becoming unstrung. Day in and day out they have to go through the same routine of work, sweeping, dusting, cooking, etc. No wonder their work gets on the nerves and they become run down.

When a woman gets into this state there is only one thing for her to do, and that is, to get something that will build up her system.

For this purpose there is not an equal to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Their restorative action is felt on every organ and tissue of the body, and in a short time the weakness will give place to strength and vitality, and make life worth living.

Mrs. Henry McIntosh, Oliver, N.S., writes: "I would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to anyone who is weak and run down. I was not able to do my work, nor rest at night for four years. After taking seven boxes, I am entirely cured, and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heart or nerve trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box; 5 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

To Live for Pleasure Alone

The disappointment had probably much to do with launching "Old Q," on that career of fashionable dissipation which was afterwards to make his name a by-word even amongst the notorious lay set in which he moved. Not that he ever did anything dishonorable according to his code of morality. In other words he remained to the end of his life a gentleman, as the term "gentleman" was understood in those days.

But he openly avowed that henceforth he meant to live for pleasure alone, and as a first step towards the attainment of his object he had built for him at Richmond a villa which was a marvel of splendour.

Here his amours, however, exposed him to the vengeance of men whom he had supplanted, or whose wives and daughters he had played fast and loose with, and he was several times challenged to fight duels. "Old Q," however, although not exactly a coward, seems to have had a constitutional aversion to meeting an adversary in mortal combat.

"Most of his affairs of honour," he managed to compromise, either by a money payment or an apology, or both combined. But on one occasion the aggrieved party, a well-known free-trading Irish nobleman, would take no denial and insisted on the duel, the weapon to be pistols.

Bought a Coffin for "Old Q."

On the morning appointed for the meeting the interest appeared on the ground somewhat late followed by a closed carriage of hearse-like appearance, whence two men presently withdrew a coffin, which they laid upon the grass. Considerably agitated, "Old Q," demanded of his antagonist what he meant by this strange proceeding.

"Well, my dear fellow," was the reply, "you know of course, what I never miss any man, and as I feel in excellent form today I make no doubt but you will need a coffin before many more minutes are over, and so you see, I have had the consideration and forethought to bring one along with me, in order to save your friends trouble."

This cold-blooded speech, delivered with the most perfect nonchalance of manner, was too much for Queensbury's nerves. He turned deadly pale, dropped his pistol, and bolted from the spot. Milk and Brandy Bath.

Nevertheless, up to almost the day of his death, which took place at the advanced age of eighty-six, "Old Q," continued to scandalize the Mrs. Grundies of his day by all sorts of mad tricks and wild pranks. "Country cousins," up in London for a holiday, would be escorted down Fleetly in order to have the "wicked old duke" pointed out to them, sitting, as was his custom, on the balcony of his club, dressed in a blue coat and yellow breeches.

Then, too, would be told with bated breath wonderful stories of how he sustained his flagging energies, and practically defied old age, with all kinds of wonderful restoratives, notably milk-and-brandy baths followed by copious draughts of his world-famous Tokay wine, the remnants of which sold, after his death, for one hundred guineas a dozen.

ATHLETIC

Aged Walker Taken Ill. Stamford, Conn., June 24—John E. Walker, a local athlete who started out some days ago to defeat Edward Payson Weston, the veteran walker of the hike from New York to Minneapolis, is seriously ill of stomach trouble at his home here. Physicians fear that he may not recover. He is seventy years old. Although Ennis started a day after Weston he was several miles ahead of him when he was taken ill near Millville, Pa. Ennis was brought to his home here on Monday night.

Canadian Champion Wins. Toronto, June 26—Only a small crowd journeyed to Hamilton's Point yesterday to see Walter Knox, Canadian 20-round professional athletic champion, add more prestige to his fame by defeating J. A. Macdonald of Boston, United States professional champion, in a series of field events. The loser started nicely but after that, with the exception of the hammer throw, the Canuck had no difficulty in disposing of his opponent.

The only event in which the visitor, outclassed Knox was in the throwing of the 36 pound weight for distance. In actual competition, he threw 26 feet 3 inches, but in an exhibition throw, he tossed the big weight 28 feet, 9 inches. It was in the field events that Knox outclassed Macdonald. In the pole vault, the visitor cleared at 9 feet 6 inches, while Knox stopped the bar at 11 feet 3 inches.

NEW MANAGER AND HIGH HOPES FOR BANGOR TEAM

(Bangor Commercial) Frank H. Connaughton, a New England lawyer who played all last season with New Bedford, has been engaged by the directors of the Bangor Baseball association to succeed George Magoun as player manager of the Bangor baseball team. Connaughton is here and signed a contract with the local association on Wednesday, satisfactory terms having been agreed upon.

He will take the team in hand and is expected to develop a winning aggregation. Judging from the success that he has met with elsewhere his appearance on the Bangor team means a great deal.

Connaughton was second baseman on the New Bedford team last year, during 113 games. He had a batting average of .347, and a batting average of .348.

He knows the game of baseball from start to finish and the directors believe that when he takes charge of the team who are on the way to wood individual players, will steady down and develop some team work that will land a few victories this way.

His coming to Bangor is significant. He says that there is every reason to believe that Bangor will have a chance to get a franchise in the New England league next season. This ought to make the baseball fans sit right up and take notice.

He is going to try to develop the interest in the game here as well as the team, and this is with particular reference to next year's plans, when, if Bangor gets into the fast New England company, the fans will have some sport that this city has not seen since the old baseball days.

For the purpose of giving Connaughton a line on his players and for giving the players a chance to practice a little before the Fredericton games this week there is to be a game Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock with the Easterns at South River. This time the Bangor team is going out to win, and will not lend the opposing team any pitchers.

Need More Money. There is an opportunity at the present time for the lovers of the city to show whether they want baseball to continue in this city during the season. Money is now being raised to keep things running and now is the time for the fans to come across with a little of the long green if they want to see things run along as they have been.

Bangor has been up against it. The cost of constantly shifting players, for the sake of going the way of the team, was expensive. It must be taken into consideration that of the first eight games scheduled for the season, five were postponed on account of rain, including Memorial day, which ought to have been a big day for the team from a financial standpoint.

There are several men who are associated with the game here who are putting time and not a small sum of money, into baseball, simply for the love of the sport, and not for any hope of remuneration. They are waiting for the verdict of the jury the death-knell of prize-fighting has been sounded in the minds of these men.

In this connection both Justice Harvey and James Short, king's counsel, said the only desire in prosecuting had been to define a prize fight, and that if Pelkey had been convicted he would have been released from suspension.

SEND IN MORE NAMES TO PETITION AGAINST NEW BUILDING LAW

More Than 300 Submitted to Make Up For These Struck Off Original List

Additional lists with more than 300 signatures to be added to the petition for the repeal of the by-law limiting the construction of wooden buildings to two stories in all parts of the city except Stanley ward, were filed at City Hall this afternoon by H. McInerney. The number of signatures to the original petition was far in excess of the number required, but so many of them were ruled out that it fell below the required number. Something less than 300 additional were needed, but in order to allow a safe margin, this number has been exceeded. If the petition is found to fulfill the requirements of the provisions of the new city charter it will be necessary for the commissioner to repeal the law or to take a special vote of the electors on the matter.

THE AUTO AND THE HORSE

A Complaint of Danger at Night on the Roads

A complaint that drivers of automobiles do not keep to their own side of the road has been made to the Times by a gentleman who does considerable driving around the city and outskirts. His chief complaint is that at night, the cars with blinding headlights sweep along the middle or even on the wrong side of the road and will not turn out until they are within a few yards of a carriage coming in the opposite direction. He has found this rather hard on horses, even those which are accustomed to automobiles, and when ladies are driving it is always a terrifying experience for them. He said that if this is the general practice the steps should be taken to stop it and he would like to know if other persons driving in carriages have had the same experience.
