and everything just as we had left it, and no disorder or disturbers could not be

And overnight when my engagements kept me from home, my wife was disturbed by a return of the noise in the kitchen; the noise was louder than ever before; she lay silent until she could endure it no longer; and suddenly dressing herself, she boldly resolved to see what was the matter; cheering herself with the assurance that the "wicked fellow" would not harm her, while the righteous angels were upon her, she descended the stairs and entered the kitchen, when oh, horrible! her earthly eyes flashed upon her from the recess in the wall; she started, and something moved from the recess to the door, and disappeared without the door opening. Staggered, she retreated to another part of the room, where a similar view burst upon her view, and in the same mysterious way disappeared; near fainting, she was about sinking down, when she heard a faint thud time she was met by those terrible eyes that flashed so brightly in the dark, but that time accompanied with a noise that revealed to her the objects of her terror,—they were cats! This revived her drooping spirits, and following her retreating foes to the door, she found that the old oak door sill, which had rotted at each end, had been moved sufficient to admit of the ingress and egress of several vermin.

the spirits that had been holding their midnight revels in our kitchen. A new door slid these ghosts for ever.

Some-time after that we moved the bedstead from the old stone wall to another part of the room against a modern brick wall that had been built to separate one part of the Hall from the other, and we heard no more the handswoman's stroke, but frequently the loud and

After the old gentlemen's clock strike the midnight hour. The following spring there was a trespass; part of our premises were flooded, and we found that there was a covered drain by the foundation of our house, which ran under a footway, some distance in the rear of the hall: this accounted for the footpools we had heard of.

ANTTIQUITIES,
ANCIENT RUINS OF THE AMERICAN CONTINENT.—Dark and mysterious is the early history of man on this continent. It is enveloped in thick darkness, never, it may be presumed, to be penetrated by human research. And yet the ruins of ancient cities are frequently discovered, which tell of a fact has long since passed away, probably exterminated by the ancestors of our present Indians, who are also fast departing from the human family—fairly dying out before the ever advancing influence of the pale faces. But these monumental cities indicate great populations, and prove the existence of mighty men of old. A new stimulus is likely to be given to American archaeology by a discovery recently made, some ninety

The plain, upon which lie the massive relics of gorgeous temples and magnificent halls, slopes gradually eastward towards the river Pecos, and is very fertile, crossed by a gurgling stream of the purest water, that not only sustains a rich vegetation, but perhaps furnished with this necessary article the thousands who once inhabited the present wilderness. The city was probably built by a well-kne race, and it is quadrangular, and arranged with skill, to afford the highest protection against an exterior foe, many of the buildings on the outer lines being pierced with loopholes, as though calculated for the use of weapons. Several of the buildings are of vase-line, and built of massive blocks of granite rock, which could have been thought to their condition only by a vast amount of labor. There are the ruins of three noble edifices, each present a front of three hundred feet, made of ponderous blocks of stone, and the dilapidated walls are everywhere over thirty six feet high. There are no pillars in the area of the middle (supposed) temple, so that the room must have been very large. There are also carvings in the bas-reliefs and fresco work. Appearances

Arrival of the Prince at Boston.

The Prince of Wales arrived at Boston on Wednesday last, after a pleasant journey from Albany, having on Tuesday been the guest of Gov. Morgan of New York, who gave a supper that evening at Congress Hall in honor of H. R. H.

Boston, Oct. 18.—Yesterday morning the Prince and his suite left Albany for this city. They were escorted to Greenbush by the Albany Burgess Corps, which turned out with full ranks. They took passage in a special train over the Western Railroad. The train consisted of the grand saloon car fitted up expressly for his accommodation, a passenger car for the use of the attendants upon the Prince, members of the press and officers of the road, and a baggage car.

At Springfield Colonel Newell A. Thompson and H. B. Fargent, of the staff of Gov. Banks, commissioned by His Excellency to extend to the Prince a welcome on behalf of the State, which Col. Thompson did in an easy and gentlemanly manner.

The train left Springfield at 25 minutes past 12, amid the cheers of the multitude. As the train passed the residence of Mr. Conductor Adams, a salute was fired, and again in passing the United States Arsenal the Prince was honored with a salute by Col. Wright, the Superintendent.

The train reached Worcester at 2:10, and passed through a dense mass of people—computed at from five to ten thousand—who were assembled on both sides of the track, on the platform of the depot and on the roof, the whole presenting an animated scene.

At Longwood the city authorities received the Prince. Mayor Lincoln entered the saloon car, and being at once recognized by the Prince, His Royal Highness came quickly forward, extending his hand to the Mayor, who greeted him with warmth of an old friend. The two had previously met in Halifax.

The Prince and suite, the Committee of the City Government and others, then ascended the steps and took the carriages in waiting for them. The scene about the station was animated by the presence of a large brilliant assemblage of the ladies of Longwood, Brookline and the vicinity, besides many who had rode out from the city to meet the Prince. These waved him a cheerful welcome.

If Boston was all a blaze with political jubilation on Tuesday evening the metropolis was certainly all excitement to obtain a sight of the Prince. The scene on Washington street, above Chester Park, and again near Canton street, was magnificent, and at different points along the route the exhibition of ladies, the handkerchiefs and flags, produced a splendid effect. As the procession neared the Revere House, the crowd formed a solid phalanx, through which the procession found it difficult to force a passage.

The number of the dresses, the richness and variety of the dresses, the enthusiastic welcome which greeted the Prince, combined to produce an effect never to be forgotten.

The Prince reached the Revere House at half past 5 o'clock, and passed at once to his apartments.

REVERED SHIPWRECK AND LOSS OF LIFE

The painful intelligence was received in town yesterday of the supposed loss of the brig Caroline Schenck, belonging to the firm of Housnell & Co. of this port with it is feared, all hands. The supposed disaster must have occurred somewhere in the neighborhood of Petty Harbour during the storm of Saturday night last. Yesterday morning a man found a ship's sail, upon the shore, and Mr. Jacob Chaffee, of Petty Harbour, fearing some disaster must have occurred, went down to the beach, and there found a portion of the vessel with the name upon it, together with the two boats belonging to the Caroline Schenck and a couple of empty boxes, all of which were washed ashore. The Caroline Schenck was on a return trip from the Brazils, in ballast and a crew of ten men on board, many of whom were men of family resident here. She was commanded by Capt. Wm. Bond, of Dartmouth, Eng.—quite a young man, and only recently married.

Though there can be little doubt as to the loss of all hands, yet it is hoped that some of them may have clung to the boats, and thus escaped. It is supposed the vessel must have struck somewhere in the neighborhood of Petty Harbour; but this mere conjecture. Beyond the remains spoken of above, nothing further has been discovered as we can learn, in the shape of wreck upon the shore not even a spar to mark the place of the unfortunate disaster.—St. John's N. F. Daily News.

A ROGUE AT LARGE.—A very suspicious character, calling himself Nelson, paid a visit to Kempf a few days since. He engaged Mr. McKay, at Clyde River, to conduct him through the forest from that place to Kempf representing himself as having been employed by the British Government to survey a tract of land in that direction. After spending a day Kempf, he bargained with another person to accompany him back to Shelburne County by another route, informing Mr. McKay that he would pay him on his return to Clyde. Before the family awoke on the following morning however, he slipped off in his precipitate flight neglecting a shirt and pair of pants, marked with different names, (neither being Nelson), and after travelling some distance, engaged one of the inhabitants to convey him a few miles in a wagon, in the direction of New Tuskot, appearing to be uneasy and in a hurry. He seemed to have a considerable amount of money in his pockets, and at New Tuskot, where we last heard of him, two pistols were seen about his person. He was evidently desirous of avoiding the post roads, and at Kempf made particular enquiries with regard to the distance from the nearest town to the Telegraph office, &c. At New Tuskot he stated that he was on a moose hunt. Altogether, his conduct was extremely suspicious, leading to the supposition that he was a fugitive from justice. If a culprit is missing anywhere in the Province, these particulars may be of service in tracing his whereabouts.—Yarmouth Herald.

GARIBALDI.

Joseph Garibaldi, the champion of Italy and of freedom, was born at Nice on the 4th of July, 1807, and consequently is now 53 years old, though he is described as not appearing to be more than forty. He sprang from a family which had been for several generations devoted to the sea, a fact which explains his early and ardent attachment to a nautical life. In early boyhood he displayed two characteristics, by which he has ever since been distinguished, a taste for mathematics, and a most undaunted courage.

When about 13 years of age, he saved a party of young friends, who, sailing in their yacht near the port, were caught in a squall and in imminent danger of destruction from their inability to manage the boat. The brave boy unhesitatingly swam out to their assistance and by his skill and courage, succeeded in bringing them safe to shore. Soon after this he entered on board a merchantman bound for the Levant, and during one of his voyages in this service, the vessel having put in to Civita Vecchia, the young Garibaldi took the opportunity of paying a flying visit to Rome. There is little doubt that the abuses witnessed by him then left a deep impression on his ardent heart. When he was twenty-six years old, the patriotic conspiracy, of which Mazzini was the leader broke out, and was the occasion of bringing Garibaldi for the first time upon the stage of political life. The treachery of Lamorini aptly styled the "Italian George," put a sudden and effectual stop to the rising hopes of Italy, and it was not without difficulty and danger that Garibaldi effected his escape from the disastrous affair of San Jovino.

After this he entered the service of the Bey of Tunis, in which however, he was speedily so disgusted by its "supineness, sloth, and peculation," that he sailed for America and offered his services to the Republic of Rio Grande. A brilliant, but yet disastrous career, attended him in the new world.

The Naples correspondent of the London Times sends the following proclamation issued by Garibaldi as a significant indication of the intention which now governs his actions:

NAPLES, Sept. 19.—Noble Citizens.—The present war, made solely by the arms of the people, is the only national one that can give us a country. Our battles are so many stations of our march to the Alps, on the summit of which we will only halt. Will you feel it, O noble Venetians who here propose collecting means for the war, and who publish in a journal called Il Corriero di Venezia such a proclamation as will call entire Italy to fight on the Venetian lands. I praise you in this patriotic intention and incite you in the work which will complete and hasten the victory of all.

I authorize you, then, in writing, as I did yesterday by word of mouth, to form a Patriotic Venetian Commission, for the object of collecting aid of all sorts in the neighborhood of Italy for the advantage of the insurrectional war that we are making for the common liberty. I need not control your enterprise by sending persons in my confidence to direct you; such persons you have and worthy both of the undertaking and of the illustrious name you have placed at your head.

You will find here, for certain, a fellow-feeling equal to yours.

The Dictator, J. GARIBALDI.

Having a leisure hour in St. John last week, we devoted it to a visit to the Lunatic Asylum, and found, as we have ever done on similar occasions, the medical superintendent Dr. Waddell, ready to show us over the whole establishment. The number of inmates under treatment in the Asylum is, we understand, one hundred and seventy, which with the same staff kept as attendants, makes about two hundred. The first thing which impressed us, was the extraordinary cleanliness and quiet maintained throughout the whole place, and we are sure of being within the strict bounds of truth when we say, that with an equal number of sane persons in the same bounds, it would be next to impossible to secure a similar point of silence and order. Both within the walls and also outside, number of the lunatics are industriously employed; and all seem to be perfectly pleased with the different departments which they occupy. The Dr. who during the few years which have elapsed since his appointment to the establishment, has been ceaselessly employed upon the extensive improvements which have been made, is at present engaged in superintending the approach from the Suspension Bridge to the Asylum, with the double view of obviating a disagreeable curve in the road, and of securing the addition of a picturesque part of the ground, which has hitherto been worse than useless. Upon the whole we cannot help regarding the arrangements of the place as eminently calculated to secure the humane object which applies to such public money annually, for the benefit of that unfortunate class of our fellow-creatures who suffer for their own immediate sins, or from the inscrutable visitations of Heaven.—Fifth's Reporter.

PROVINCIAL APPOINTMENTS.—The Hon

Neville Parker, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court, to be Judge of the Court of Divorce and Matrimonial causes, under the act 23d Victoria, Cap. 37.

The Hon. the Chief Commissioner of Works, to be Commissioner for opening, cutting, finishing and maintaining a canal across Grimross Neck, in Queen's County.

By His Excellency's Command. S. L. TILLEY, Secretary's Office, 16th Oct. 1860.

SIR GEORGE GREY'S TROUBLE.—We announced some time since that Prince Alfred was received handsomely in the various colonies where the vessel visited in which he sails. According to all accounts he is a more lively and mischievous character than his brother. The Cape "Monitor" tells the following story of his doings:

"The bedchamber of the young Prince and his two companions, Mr. Gray and Mr. Jocelyn, both of the Euryalus, was in an opposite part of the building to Sir G. Grey's. His Excellency, being fatigued, retired early, but it was not to immediate rest. His Excellency was about to make himself comfortable for the night—when instead of lying upon feathers, he found force knobs indenting his ribs. Turning from one side to the other afforded no relief. There was nothing left but to remove the bed linen, when a good sprinkling of smart-jacks and walnuts was found beneath the sheets—placed there it was generally believed, by the young prince and his middies."

ST. ANDREWS, OCT. 24, 1860.

Charlotte County, Agricultural Society.

We last week briefly alluded to the Cattle

Show and Fair of this Society; since then we have received a list of the premiums,— which will be found below. Within a few months, the President and Directors, purchased suitable and extensive grounds in the most central locality in the Parish, near the Post Office, Bay Side, where farmers can

at a trifling expense bring their cattle, produce, &c., for exhibition, and return to their homes the same day, a great accommodation

to them, and one which will prove beneficial to the Society, which is already apparent—

from the fact of the large increase of members, and that this year's show was not only the largest but the best held for many years.

It is estimated that there were not less than five hundred persons on the grounds, from the surrounding Parishes and the state of Maine. As an instance of the increased interest in the Society's operations, and the judicious change of place for holding the exhibition, we may here mention that fourteen teams were entered for competition at the ploughing match, and on the show grounds

there were ninety head of cattle, forty horses,

one hundred and twenty samples of grain

and roots, twenty of butter, fifty of potatoes, some weighing 14 lbs. an extensive

variety of cloths, mittens, socks, yarns, &c.

In fact, great credit is due the officers of the Society, for the extraordinary exertions made by them to increase the usefulness of the oldest Agricultural Society in the Province.

We hope that a large number of agriculturists will attend the annual meeting of the Society

in January next, and take part in the proceedings, and also evince their interest by tending the annual dinner—were they will enjoy a substantial repast, obtain information

useful to them—and become better acquainted with each other.

The following is the official statement of the premiums awarded:—

THE PLOUGHING MATCH, advertised to take place on the 15th instant, under the management of the Charlotte County Agricultural Society, came off upon that day in a field belonging to Mr. John Curry, and an adjoining field belonging to Messrs. J. R. &

F. W. Bradford on the Bay Side, in the Parish of Saint Andrews.

In the first class, with horses, seven teams

in the second class, with horses, three teams

and of oxen four teams were entered.

After completing their work allotted to each, the teams were driven out of the field,

and the ground examined by the judges,

who awarded the premiums as follow, viz:

First class—with horses—

Owner. Ploughman. Plow. 1st pm.

J. Edwards, John Dolby, Dublin, 1st pm.

Mr. Young has discharged the duty of deputy Sheriff for nearly twenty years, to the satisfaction of the Sheriff.

The past season was one of unparalleled dullness; but we are pleased to notice the gradual and marked improvement which has taken place within a few weeks. The farmers have been blessed with bountiful crops; the mechanic are employed; the merchants are receiving their full supplies of goods and provisions, with a prospect of a fair winter's business; and last but not the least, the works on the Railway are affording employment to a large number of men, and more are wanted by Messrs. Walker and Johnston, the contractors, who it will be seen are offering five shillings a day for men.

These immunities were secured for him by the payment of royal prices.

EARTHQUAKE.—On Wednesday morning last, about 6 o'clock, a shock of an earthquake was felt in town, accompanied by a low rumbling sound. The vibrations of the earth lasted but a few seconds, but were so perceptible as to awaken several from their slumbers. In several parts of the Province, and the United States, we learn from our exchanges, similar shocks were felt.
