Splendid Progress In Education Made In Many Districts on Gaspé Coast

OPENING OF NEW SCHOOL HOME AT NEW CARLISLE MARKS NEW ERA OF ADVANCEMENT

Gaspé Peninsula Now Has Eight Superior Schools—Consolidated School at Escuminac an Outstanding Success of Last Year's Work—Good Progress New Carlisle High School—New Interest Being Taken by Parents and Scholars.

An investigation into educational matters in Bonaventure and Gaspé Counties by the Graphic's representative has revealed the fact that steady and marked progress is being made in many districts along the Gaspé Coast. The story of this progress even very briefly related, is one of interest and also one of considerable significance for it evidences the birth of a stronger and more wide-spread interest in educational matters in a comparatively new section of the country where, a few years ago the vital importance of advanced education was hardly known.

NEW CARLISLE MARKS NEW ERA OF ADVANCEMENT

The opening of the new school home at New Carlisle marks a new era of advancement in the history of this section of the Gaspé Peninsula. The new school home is a splendid result of efforts to better conditions and is a notable accomplishment on the part of those who were directly instrumental in making it possible.

Has Eight Superior Schools

The Gaspé Peninsula now has, in addition to its elementary schools, eight superior schools. This territory comprises the counties of Bonaventure and Gaspé, extending from Miramichi to the eastern end of the Gaspé Peninsula. These eight superior schools are located at the following places: Matapédia, Escuminac, New Richmond, New Carlisle, Paspébiac, Shigawake, Fort Daniel and Gaspé. These superior schools are divided into two classes—Intermediate, Academy or High Schools.

One Academy on Coast

In the Intermediate schools two teachers are employed and the student is enabled to go to Grade IX, thus preparing for entrance to the Academy or High School. In the High Schools three or more teachers are employed on the teaching staff. Here the student goes to Grade XI preparing for matriculation and entrance to college. The elementary schools have but one teacher and are classified as the ordinary country school. There are now 60 or 61 elementary schools in the Gaspé Peninsula. At New Carlisle, the shire town of Bonaventure county, is located the only High School on the coast. There are now seven teachers on the staff.

Splendid Progress

At New Carlisle most gratifying progress is being made. The condition of this organization once existing there is now a thing of the past and with the addition of the large home for students, the High School is to play a more important part in the life of the country in the future than has been possible in the past. This improvement in conditions has also been noted in other districts along the coast but an account of the work being done in other localities will appear in our outlying or isolated districts is a next issue.

MAKING CHANGES IN RAILWAY YARD

Yard Here to be Enlarged and Main Track Straightened

Extensive improvements are to be made in the Campbellton Railway Yard and a large crew of men are now at work. The main railway track is to be straightened from the depot to the West end of the yard, which will do away with the reverse curves, just West of the depot. The two sidings on the North side of the main track will be extended giving more accommodation for waiting passenger trains, etc. The steam locomotive was working in the yard all last week excavating for the main track, but was taken away on Saturday for a few days, but the crew of men are still at work on the contemplated improvements.

The fire caught in the oil can which exploded, and before the child's mother could rescue her the little girl was enveloped in the flames. She was rushed to the hospital but nothing could be done to avert the tragic climax to the regrettable incident. Mrs. Doucette was also burned about the hands while extinguishing the fire but her injuries are not serious.

Hon. J. B. M. Baxter Discusses Inter-provincial Bridge at Campbellton.

During the consideration of estimates of the Department of Public Works in the House of Commons on Saturday Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Conservative member for St. John, asked whether the principle that the Dominion would provide one-third of the cost of inter-provincial bridges was of general application. If so, he would like at some time to suggest the construction of a bridge between New Brunswick and Quebec at Campbellton.

FOREST FIRES IN ALBERTA CAUSE GREAT DESTRUCTION

Fort McMurray, Alta., June 17.—Fires are blazing all over this country and are burning down the water's edge on various rivers. BRITISH TRADE HAS IMPROVED

May Showed Increase in Both Imports and Exports—More Manufacturing

London, June 17.—The general trade improvement in Britain is becoming more and more apparent every week. Overseas trade returns for May, just published, are most encouraging, although the increase of imports is still much higher than that of exports. The greatest advance is in the imports of raw materials, to the amount of fifteen million pounds, showing that business men are confidently buying in large quantities for the purpose of increasing manufacture.

The jury case is now being heard; it is that of the Provincial Bank of Canada vs. Oliver Pelletier, of Edmundston, on a draft which was accepted but not paid. The defence is that the plaintiff cannot read or write and therefore did not sign any drafts, all the business being done by his wife or clerk.

According to reports received this morning from numerous districts throughout Restigouche and along the Gaspé Coast the crop outlook for 1924 is considered one of the most promising in years. From all appearances the hay crop this year will surpass any of recent summers in this territory, while the grain fields show a most vigorous growth.

Before a large and appreciative audience in the Opera House here on Monday evening the Citizens' Band Dramatic Club made its first theatrical appearance with the presentation of "Wedding Bells" under the capable direction of J. "Wedding Bells" is evidently a vehicle for professionals but the members of the cast all handled their parts in a most admirable manner, and won frequent expressions of hearty applause from the large audience present.

CHEVROLET
A Canadian Car for Canadian Conditions
Few cars can boast of being so thoroughly Canadian-made as Chevrolet. With the exception of certain essential motor car accessories not now made in Canada, Chevrolet cars are built, not merely assembled, in Canada.
Motors, axles and other heavy parts are made in the mammoth General Motors plant at Walkerville; while body-building, top-building, small-parts making, assembling and finishing is done at Oshawa.
Hence, every dollar you pay for Chevrolet helps build up a strong Canadian industry that is giving employment to thousands of Canadian workmen.
There are many other reasons, moreover, why you should investigate Chevrolet.
Chevrolet stands up, winter and summer, under Canadian conditions of road and climate—and delivers quality transportation at a lower cost per mile than any other car.
And Chevrolet price, though it is much lower than you would expect to pay for a car so fine, is the full cost of the car and its equipment—there are no extras to buy.
Before you buy a car at any price, have us demonstrate the superior features and equipment of Chevrolet.

QUEBEC LIQUOR SYSTEM PROVES FLAT FAILURE
GERMAN FOOTWEAR BEING IMPORTED

Stronger Booze Than Beer is Sold in Saloons—Drunkenness Increases—Rubber Sandwich Defeats Law's Purpose.
The province of Quebec, Canada, is frequently referred to by the wets in this country as having successfully solved the prohibition question. Those who advocate the reopening of the breweries and the unrestricted traffic in beer as a means of promoting the cause of sobriety, also point with pride to Quebec. Their argument is that if people can procure high-powered beer by alcoholic thirst will be satisfied and they will not patronize the manufacturers and sellers of illicit distilled liquors.
The following facts therefore concerning the situation in Quebec are worthy of consideration: Quebec is under the government control system. That is to say, the government control and the licensing of province, and under this system beer saloons are numerous. Grocery stores are licensed to sell it and it is also sold in hotels with meals.
The rubber sandwich is a product of the government control system. This is a "make believe" sandwich that is served with the drink and is the property of the so-called hotel, doing constant service. Places licensed to sell beer are selling stronger "wets" without any great danger of detection.
Stronger Booze Sold
The beer saloon is found to possess ideal equipment for handling the stronger beverages. In the old license days in the province of Quebec the saloons had been gradually reduced in number until there were about 400 in the whole province. Now under government control there are 2,000 places where liquor can be procured. In the city of Montreal there are 800 public drinking places, 35 government stores, and 600 grocery stores with licenses to sell beer. This availability of beer has increased drunkenness at an alarming rate.
It is also interesting to note what effect this flood of booze has had upon legitimate business. Here are the facts: Last year one-third of all business failures in all of Canada occurred in Quebec, the western part of Canada's provinces, and the firms failing in this province represented nearly one-half of the total liabilities of the entire Dominion. Drunkenness has had its deleterious working conditions in the factories.
One Montreal firm is reported as having been compelled to discharge workmen at the rate of 12 a week because of intoxication. The reports of the government employment bureau show that workmen are becoming disgusted with the situation and there is a veritable exodus of workmen from wet Quebec to dry United States. The dregs of the province believe that the time is opportune to demand a change. Government control has proved a colossal failure. Drunkenness and crime have increased under it and the province has suffered from a commercial standpoint.
Costs Offset Profits
The profits and revenue derived by the government from the liquor business are more than offset by the cost of caring for booze-made criminals and dependents, and by the business failures. It has been conclusively proved that liquor sold by the government is just as potent in creating disease and poverty and degradation as it has been conclusively proved that licensing beer saloons does not drive the peddler of hooch from the community. In fact it increases his business because the drinking of beer fosters and feeds the alcohol appetite. The dregs of Quebec, both Protestant and Catholic, are organizing with a view to discarding the government control system and establishing in its stead the only remedy for drunkenness, prohibition.
Quebec offers a striking example to the dregs of the United States of the fallacy of the doctrine that government control and licensing of the beer traffic is the solution to the liquor problem.
The only difference a man notices after spring cleaning is that the davenport is against the other wall.

GERMAN FOOTWEAR BEING IMPORTED
Canadian Manufacturers Cannot Compete Says Toronto Shoe Man
Toronto, June 14.—German-made shoes are being imported in Canada at about half the cost of Canadian-made shoes, according to information given to the special committee of Toronto City Council on employment, on the authority of Roy Weaver, manager of Shoe Manufacturers Association of Canada. Mr. Weaver's letter as read to the committee by W. Varley, ran in part: "Last fall approximately 35,000 pairs of children's shoes of good quality leather and well-made in every respect, were imported into Montreal. These goods were purchased in Germany at the equivalent of 50 to 52 cents a pair. The duty of 30 per cent. was assessed on a valuation of 80 cents a pair. No dumping duty was applied. A Montreal manufacturer who saw these shoes said he could not make similar shoes here for less than $1.25 a pair."
"We understand that at present time there is a further shipment of between 30,000 and 40,000 pair of shoes of German made in warehouse in Montreal, awaiting clearance through customs. These are described as beautiful shoes that could not be made in either the United Kingdom or Canada at less than $1.50 per pair."
The letter goes on to state that the exchange system is responsible. Under the preferential tariff German foot-wear, it says, can be shipped to England, re-invoiced there and sent to Canada to be sold at prices prohibitive to our manufacturers. The association, writes Mr. Weaver, had asked for depleted currency legislation, but all for regular ones that make up the country in which they were made, but the Government would not comply.

Hopetown
Again a few have passed since we have heard from Hopetown. The majority of farmers have finished their crops and are now hauling capital for a fertilizer.
A number of young girls and boys from this place are expected home the last of June to spend a couple of months vacation.
An enjoyable evening was held at the Orange Hall a short time ago. On account of unfavorable weather the crowd was not as large as was anticipated. The sum of $21.50 was realized; the proceeds to "go to the church."
We deeply regret that Miss Winifred Ross, one of our most popular young friends, is ill. She took an attack of gripe about a month ago, but we all hope she will be herself soon again.
Mrs. Parker McRae was also ill a few weeks ago, but we are pleased she has fully recovered.
We notice Mr. Dan McRae is erecting a new building near the road. We hope that there is something in the rumor that there is going to be an ice-cream parlor attached to it.
The sudden death of Donald P. Ross occurred Saturday morning at the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital, Campbellton. He was employed by the Shephard & Morse Lbr., Co., Gaspe. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss and deepest sympathy is extended to them.

CITIZENSHIP

There are three great influences in developing true citizenship, Dr. Michael Clark, of Red Deer, told the Calgary Canadian Club in a recent address, and those influences are the parent, the teacher and the preacher. When he mentioned the preacher, the speaker asked if he might be permitted to add: "When he knows his job and sticks to it."

Dr. Clark said that the obvious and fundamental function of the Canadian Club is to train citizens by teaching them to think of Canada not merely of their own village or town. Patriotism he defined as consisting in part of pride in our country's history, its achievements and conditions and anticipations of its future greatness. In order to have that pride it is necessary that we should know something of the history of our country, and here Dr. Clark suggested that the Canadian Clubs have a fruitful field for activity. He warned his hearers against a too narrow nationalism, and said we might promote some internationalism without peril to our patriotism.

Dr. Clark reminded all that in the reaction which was bound to follow the war we are prone to dwell upon the chaos which still exists. "Who expected anything else?" he asked. "You cannot have five or six monarchs practically falling off their thrones without some disorders following. Some of us are too prone to dwell upon the sufferings which came to us; sufferings which to some were very great indeed; but I prefer for the most part to dwell upon the great accomplishments of the war, and along with the other line of thought which I am trying to give you, in it not of the British Empire in that trying to give a portion of the instrument by which the institutions, which we have enjoyed and achieved for ourselves two and a half centuries ago, were brought to the nations of Europe which unfortunately could not obtain them for themselves. For it is a fact that all free institutions throughout the whole of Europe have emanated from the empire of which we form a part."

"In concluding his address on the Evolution of Citizenship he said: "What then do we need to develop our larger citizenship to the full? Honest hearts in our young people, lined with the other qualities which I have just mentioned, and may I say for all of us, simpler creeds and the simplest creed after all is the shortest and best. No citizenship will be complete, which has not learned at least that creed through its author and founder, which tells us that the first and greatest command of the law is to love God, and the second is like unto it, to love our neighbor as ourselves."

PREPARING FOR TOURISTS

We understand that it is, or was the intention of the Town Council to arrange for a small tourist camping ground here this season. We have been further informed that a suitable site for such a camping ground for summer visitors has been supplied to the town gratis. But so far there is no visible move has been made to effect the necessary arrangements. In Upper Canada the tourist invasion has begun. Hundreds of motorists are coming in from the States a few of them have found their way down across the Northern boundary of New Brunswick. If the weather conditions are at all favorable this summer the tourist season of 1924 should prove the busiest and most profitable on record. If Campbellton is to reap her share of this growing business, the necessary preparations to cater to summer visitors should not be delayed.

One peculiar feature of the tourist business is the wide scope of its Monetary return. Every man woman and child in Campbellton is interested in bringing tourists to this district, because everybody gets a part of the tourist dollar. The hotels, garages, gas station, barber shops, laundries and tailors all get a share. The summer visitors money goes into restaurants and cafes and as a result the farmer, grocer meat merchant, baker and manufacturer all gain through the increased demand for their goods. Besides these, the confectioneer, the clothier the hardware merchant, the drug stores, news stands and theatres invariably get a slice. It is a business that is remarkable in scope in the distribution of its benefits.

REFORESTATION

The Royal Society of Arts was recently addressed on "The Forests and Timber Supply of North America" by Mr. R. L. Robinson. The reading of his paper was followed by a spirited discussion, and Lord Clinton, who occupied the chair, stated that out of the 770 millions of acres of timber in Canada only 164 million acres or one-fifth, were ever likely to reach the market. Lord Clinton asserted that it was perfectly clear to him as a forester that in order to put the future in as good a position as the present, it was essential that the state should continue its forestry operations on a much larger scale than it was doing at present. The oak supply of England was essential to a great number of industries. It could hardly be expected that private individuals would continue planting a tree which owing to the length of its rotation could scarcely turn out in any sense to be profitable. But the state should take a much longer view. The generation of today was depending upon supplies of timber which had been planted by its predecessors a century or a century and a half ago. Without that supply a great deal of the work of the present would be held up. There has been little or no planting for the last seventy years. Mr. Robinson referred to the work of Zon and Sparhawk, "The Forest Resources of the World," as the most important book on the subject. He thought the timber supply question in North America centered round what was happening in the United States. Timber had, in the early days, taken the place of the more durable materials used in Europe. At present the consumption of paper is 150 pounds per capita, or 8,000,000 tons, 90 per cent of which comes out of the forests. The total area of the forests of North America he placed at 1,500 million acres, 770 millions of which are in Canada and Newfoundland.

As a putter Ames' creation was no better or worse than the simple straight-faced blade so generally used; but Evans had the happy break used it. Faith whispered: "That's to put like a fiend the first time he uses it. Faith, I thought that the club you have been waiting for" It was. Evans has used it ever since and is now accounted one of the game's surest putters.

St. Octave de Metis

Many people will learn with regret of the sudden death of Mrs. Ed Hodson one of St. Octave's most respected ladies which occurred at 7.00 p. m. Tuesday June 18th. Mrs. Hodson who had attained the age of 64 years had always enjoyed good health until the sad day of the 18th of June. She was a woman who will be greatly missed by her many friends. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, one daughter, Orlina, and seven sons, M. Ed. Train Despatcher, Port Arthur, Ont.; Joseph and L. Georges in Michigan; Anthony at River du Loup; Napoleon at Seybrite Paul A. at St. Moise and Frank at home. The funeral took place on Friday morning and was largely attended. The pall bearers were Nazario Berin, J. B. Fortin, F. B. Balle and J. G. Martin. To the bereaved family we extend our most heartfelt sympathy.

DRIVER KILLED WHEN AUTO DIVED OVER PIER

Coaticook, Que. June 18.—Fred Bouffard, 29, of Compton, was instantly killed on Saturday about midnight and J. Vallancourt suffered fractures to both legs when their automobile, which Bouffard was driving went through the iron-barred rail and over a twelve foot cement bridge on the south side of the town on the Sherbrooke-Coaticook Norton Mills highway about a mile and a half from here. Vallancourt, who jumped from the car, saw Bouffard flying in the air over the pier, landing on the rocks and breaking both legs.

THE PREMIER'S CRITICS

Those of the Hon. MacKenzie King's critics in Canada who fall to appreciate his desire that the Dominions should not be committed to some major issue of foreign policy or to some other critical decision without full knowledge of the facts, the London Times itself admits the London Express, recalling the services of Canada to the Empire during the war regrets sincerely the blunders and the "slights to the Dominion which called out Mr. King's speech—a speech which, it admits, "places the attitude of the British states in an unpleasant light," while the London Times itself admits the difficult position in which Mr. King has been placed owing to the fact that certain parts of his correspondence have been withheld from publication at the request of the British Government.

PEDDLERS AND CATALOGUES

The itinerant peddler who comes into town in competition with the home stores constitutes quite a problem. If possible he escapes paying a license fee and when he does pay the fees oftentimes are ridiculously small. And it often happens that his wares are an inferior quality and the buyer not infrequently is taken in. The peddler is not pleased with the goods he has no opportunity to complain, as he could if he had traded with an established firm, and can obtain no redress. The peddler comes in and with comparative ease disposes of their wares. Little wonder the merchants complain.

FORMER CROWN PRINCE AT POTSDAM UNVEILING

Berlin, June 16.—The unveiling at Potsdam yesterday of a memorial to 8,000 officers and men of the first regiment of Footguards who fell in the war was made the occasion for a striking demonstration. It was attended by the former German Crown Prince, Frederick William, and Prince Eitel Friedrich and numerous other princes and former generals, and officers of the regiment, all in full dress uniforms of peace time. Former soldiers of the regiment and Reichswehr troops marched past Frederick William who took the salute.

DIES SO WIFE MAY SECURE INSURANCE

Detroit, June 18.—Joseph Novicki, 36 years old, instead of poison, self-administered, he said before he died, so his wife might collect his insurance and marry a boarder at their home. Mrs. Taktia Novicki, the wife, 28 years old, admitted, according to authorities, that she was in love with Tony Lanskid, the boarder, and intimated she intends to marry him. Consumption of the domestic crisis came when Novicki came home and found his wife weeping. She told him, the police say she said, that she was in love with Lanskid, but he would not permit her to leave her husband because he was out of work. Novicki went into another room and returned in a few minutes with a bottle of poison. Mrs. Novicki's husband was found dead in a bathtub.

OPPOSED TO HYDRO CONTRACT
Councillor Ramsey of Ward III wishes us to announce that in order that there may be no misunderstanding as to his stand taken in regard to the town's Hydro Contract recently entered into, he voted against it. Mr. Ramsey is of the opinion that this matter should be placed before the ratepayers before definite action is taken.

AN EXCESS OF SCHOOL TEACHERS
The graduating class of the normal school this term will probably be the largest in the history of the Province.

Less than the number of licensed teachers in the province exceeded the number of schools and this year the same disproportion will be very much greater. This condition of affairs is doubtless due in the high salaries now paid teachers compared with the salaries formerly paid. A teacher now receives in many cases more than $3,000 the salary paid 20 years ago.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION
A busy three weeks of conventions lies ahead of Miss H. Middlejohn, director of public health nursing services for the province. She will attend the meeting of the New Brunswick Women's Institutes which opens in Fredericton today and after returning to St. John for a few days will go on to the meeting of the Canadian National Association of Trained Nurses which will be in session in Hamilton from June 23 to June 25 and will then attend the meeting of the Canadian Association of Nursing Education which meets in Hamilton on June 26. Her next convention will be the meeting of the National Conference of Social Work which is to be held in Toronto from June 28 to July 2.

BEST MAN DROPS DEAD AT WEDDING
Orange, N. B., June 17.—As the clergyman uttered the last sentence of the marriage ceremony at the altar of the Orange Methodist Episcopal Church, Thomas J. Nichol, 24 of Kesbury, best man at the wedding of Miss Carolyn Beggart of Orange, and David Bamford of Irvington, dropped dead of heart disease.

It developed later that Nichol had been married in July 16, 1923, but had kept the marriage a secret; that he was to have announced it in this July 16, when the Bamfords would return after their honeymoon. Nichol's bride was in the church when her husband died.

When Nichol collapsed others carried him into the vestry room, where Dr. Dowling, who had witnessed the ceremony, said that death had been caused by a heart attack. Nichol was an accountant for the Chatham Phoenix National Bank, New York.

WEDDINGS

Paré-Lefebvre
Dalhousie, N. B., June 18.—The chapel of the convent of the Sacred Heart, Dalhousie, was the scene of a very interesting event this morning when Rev. J. A. Harst united in marriage Miss Marguerite LeTourneau, to Mr. J. Henri Paré, Adjuvant of the Provincial Bank of Canada, at Snyburn, P. Q.

The chapel was beautifully decorated with abundance of flowers for the occasion. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Councillor Andrew Savoie, of Kedgewick, N. Efforts are being made to obtain repair parts to enable them to resume the journey to Toronto.

One New Fire Reported in Province Over the Week-End

Fredericton, June 15.—Rain which set in Saturday night continued practically all night and for the greater part of Sunday. Great benefit was caused by it in many districts which needed rain greatly and also in the forested districts, where it will tend to check fires now burning and prevent others for a time.

The department of Lands and Mines had a report today of a fire near Sussex in private land Saturday afternoon.

Of Interest to Women

The Bridal Procession at a Home Wedding

Home weddings will always be liked best by those who wish to avoid the expense and ostentation of a church ceremony. Here are some rules for the procedure of the wedding party: If there is a maid of honor and, say, two bridesmaids there will also be a best man and two ushers. The first to come down stairs would be the two ushers, together, the bride on her father's right arm. The groom and his best man are not in the procession but come into the room, preceded by the minister, just before the procession enters, from another direction, if possible. If there is not another door through which to come, they enter and go up the aisle as do the others, but ahead of them. This aisle is formed of white ribbons stretched by four young girls, two standing at the foot of the stairs or the doorway through which the procession is to come, and two carrying the ribbons forward to the improvised altar where the ceremony is to take place.

The usual wedding dress for many generations has been white, and white is the special bridal color. A veil is only customary with a white wedding gown. I think you would like white much better than blue.

Refreshments are served about one half hour after the ceremony. In giving the bride away the father stands where she leaves him before she goes forward to take the arm of the groom—a little at her left. When the minister asks who gives the bride in marriage the father steps forward she turns slightly towards him, gives him her right hand which he puts in that of the clergyman and says, "I do." He then steps back to his own place with her family.

The bride comes down the stairs with her father. He is already in the procession so that they do not have to meet. Before going to the altar the bridegroom is not in the room unless the bride and groom are both there greeting their friends and visiting with them informally. The groom would not appear either, but should come in just before the ceremony from another room in which he has been waiting.

The ushers, who try to make themselves generally useful and are the only members of the bridal party in evidence before the ceremony, go up to the head of the stairs at the proper time, to take their places in the procession. The flower girl and ring bearer walk together, following the maid of honor and immediately preceding the bride. During the ceremony the maid of honor stands a little behind and to the left of the bride, the best man behind and at the right of the groom, the flower girl and ring bearer behind them, then a bridesmaid and an usher behind them or a little to the side, the bridesmaids on the inside. Afterward all move away except the bride and groom, who simply turn in their places to receive the good wishes and congratulations of relatives and friends, after which refreshments are served.

Girl School Head Finds Women are Bedding Better

Educator Foresees Fewer Marriages But Says Wives Will Be Finer Companions

Atlanta, Ga.—The girls of today are not "going to the dogs," so said Dr. J. R. McNair, president of Agnes Scott College, who for years has come in close contact with girls in all walks of life, said recently. "Women will not stop having children, he said, although he does expect a slight decrease in marriage."

"The woman of tomorrow will be a better companion when he deserves," Dr. McNair stated, but it will not be in the form of tea-table gossip. Her breakfast-table conversation will be more enlightening than the newspaper which the husband now reads, and it may be that her information of the day's news will prove far more beneficial than editorials which are prepared on the cause and effect of daily events.

In addition to this, the president said, the girl of tomorrow will not come into this world wishing she

Shopping for the Kitchen Utensils

Shopping for kitchen utensils is quite as fascinating as any other kind of shopping if you are a woman who enjoys an attractive, convenient kitchen and wants everything about it to be efficient.

We all know how much space dishes take up in the refrigerator, and we are often puzzled by the problem of stowing away left-overs. The shops are now offering slender, round pitchers with convenient lips and fitted covers, not larger than a quart milk bottle, which are wonderfully convenient for putting away soups and other liquids, and which take up little room.

Then there are oblong dishes—"narrow nappies" our grandmothers would have called them. Some of them are of white porcelain or common glazed ware. There are also small platters in white enameled ware and small boxes like strawberry boxes in the same ware, which stack away well. These dishes all have covers. Since boards of health in various sections have been so active in disseminating knowledge, women have been demanding covered receptacles for food. Any of these dishes may be placed on the ice if a preserve jar rubber is laid under them to keep them from slipping.

Hot-water platters, plates and covered dishes come now so that foods that must be kept warm for any length of time can be put in them to stand until it is time to serve them. These plates are expensive, but cheaper than they were formerly.

While glass butterjars are not altogether new, those in rectangular shapes are. They come in three sizes and have well-fitted covers with rounded handles at the end. These dishes take less room than round dishes in the icebox, which is a decided point in their favor.

Aluminum covered pudding or stew dishes are new and very convenient in the different sizes they come in. All but acid foods may be cooked in them. There is a variety also in new-shaped strainers, also in aluminum strainers. One variety fits over pitchers, one funnel-shaped strainer is designed to fit bottles or jars, while a round strainer for bowls and a half-moon shaped one with a double handle to place against a pot when straining the water from vegetables, are real labor and time-saving conveniences.

There are a number of novelties that are too expensive for every-day use, but which are wonderfully decorative for the front of the open dresser. They are tea and hot-water pots, double boilers and squat pyramids of heavy aluminum, having fat old blue porcelain or pottery handles. Of course they are imported. Containers for dry foods, spices, coffee tea and sugar are included in the fifteen-piece sets, and an oil and vinegar bottle. They come in cream-colored porcelain with the names of the contents and decorations in blue and other colors. The bottles are square with slender necks and all the other containers have wide and convenient handles on their covers. These dress up a kitchen amazingly and are very convenient to handle.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR HAIR WITH

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulsified cocconut oil shampoo for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats everything else all to pieces.

Slightly moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and even, if it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocconut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

...were a boy, as has been the case for countless years. So desirable will be her position in life that she will not be envious of possibilities now afforded those of the male sex. The world is going through an evolution as far as the woman is concerned, according to him, and woman will emerge much the better for it.

Dr. McNair admitted that she was "old-fashioned" enough not to approve bobbed hair and certain styles which girls and women now persist in wearing, but he pointed out that these characteristics are purely conventional and have no meaning whatsoever.

And the girl of tomorrow will be better prepared to face her husband if she has a physical point of view.

"Little girls, in rompers and with short hair, are developing a degree of freedom in exercise and in growth that only boys have had."

The clothing of young women has been so loose and light as now sex hygiene is being rationally taught by the better colleges and high schools for girls.

And so if you are worrying over the woman of tomorrow, just forget it, advises Dr. McNair.

WOMEN STUDENTS' CLAIMS REJECTED
Women's Emancipation is Condemned by Youths of Cambridge.
London, June 16.—Cambridge University students last night debated the question of their approving of the Oxford University women student's movement, against what the latter regard as excessive restrictions to their social life, but the Cambridge students decided against the larger liberty of the ladies.
"Woman's emancipation spells the doom of civilization," one Cambridge student declared. "Cambridge University," he added, "is the last bulwark against the rising feminine tide."
A motion to assent to the Oxford women's movement was lost by a vote of 211 to 193.

"Now You're Fixed Up for the Summer"

The Battery Man is your best friend when you are getting the car into condition for summer driving. He will advise you, whether it's a new powerful, long-lived Prest-O-Lite or your old battery, overhauled, that you need to make the engine run with perfect rhythm, the starter turn the engine over powerfully and feed lights and horns with abundant current. More than one thousand battery dealers in Canada recommend and sell Prest-O-Lite Storage Batteries because they know that back of every Prest-O-Lite is the largest battery plant in the British Empire, and a nation-wide chain of service stations where owners of a Prest-O-Lite battery can get prompt, courteous service and genuine Prest-O-Lite repair parts.

TRAGIC SUICIDE OF FAMOUS AUTHOR

Peter Clark MacFarlane Ends His Battle with Ill-Health and Brilliant Career by Shooting.

San Francisco, June 10.—Waging a losing battle with ill-health Peter Clark MacFarlane, noted author and former actor and preacher, accepted defeat with stoic philosophy and shot and killed himself here last night.

The final chapter of his long and brilliant career was written with an artist's consummate as any displayed in the tragic termination of one of his novels.

Walking to the steps of the San Francisco morgue, he pulled a pistol from his pocket with coolness and deliberation, fired a bullet into his brain.

Two notes, one addressed to an intimate friend and the other to whom it may concern, recounted the story of his last long battle with a disease of the kidneys, his physical exhaustion and mental turmoil and his eventual surrender to death.

"I have been broken on the wheel of the soul's effort to express itself," said one of the notes, which was found besides the body. "Nothing remains but to dynamite the ruins."

Sole Witness of Dramatic Act Samuel Alden, a special policeman was the sole witness of the dramatic act which terminated the career of the noted author.

Mr. MacFarlane was 53 years old. His career reached from his first position as a railroad clerk to that of a successful author, flickering for a brief period before the footlights when he was an actor and including seven years as a pastor.

Within fifteen years he had written many volumes of fiction and was a frequent contributor to popular publications. He was a resident of Pina Dunes, Cal., where he wrote the long and sombre notes which form the closing chapter of his life. He was borne at St. Clair, Mo. March 8, 1871.

Dicks won the decision and the liquor was ordered returned to him.

HUMILIATION DAY FOR CHINESE

Chinese Residents of Canada Indignant Over Recent Regulation

Victoria, B. C., June 16.—While Canadian flags flutter gaily from the masts in commemoration of Canada's birthday, July 1, Chinese flags in the city will fly at half mast and Chinese homes will be festooned with wreaths of mourning, for, smarting under a deep sense of insult offered them by the recent immigration regulations, the Chinese residents here have designated July 1st as "Humiliation Day."

The offending regulations require that everyone in Canada of Chinese origin, regardless of birthplace, age or sex, must report to the immigration officials before June 30 for registration. They must give the salient facts of their personal history and present the department with photographs of themselves, bought at their own expense.

Fines, imprisonment and deportation are the penalties awaiting non-observance of the regulations. According to the last census 38,000 people are affected by the order.

Resentment which began to glow about a year ago, has been fanned after the regulations were announced into flame with Chinatown indignant at what is considered an unwarranted affront to the dignity of the Chinese race. Humiliation Day will yet be confined to Victoria.

It will be observed in every city in Canada where Chinese reside, local Chinese say. It will not be observed this year alone, but every year hereafter. Memory of their humiliation, the Chinese assert will not be allowed to fade.

CAPITAL COMING

British Money For Mining Development in Canada, Says Sir John Aird.

Quebec, June 16.—Sir John Aird, who arrived in the C. P. R. steamship Empress of France, from Southampton and Cherbourg, said that he had made a short trip to England, where he had endeavored to interest British capitalists in the development of Canada's mineral resources, and that this effort had been rewarded by a promise that enough capital would be available to develop the mining regions of Northern Quebec and Ontario.

The Minister of Mines of the latter province, Hon. Charles McRae, who was on an official mission for his Government, reported that his mission had also been very successful, and would have an important influence in mining activities in the near future.

Automobile Highways in Wisconsin Patrolled by Posses Seeking Man Who is Believed To Be Murderer.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 17.—Every automobile highway in Wisconsin, north of Milwaukee was patrolled today by sheriff's posses seeking a man who fled from a tourist camp at Wittenberg shortly before the body of his bride of a week was found in a shallow grave. The man gave the name of George P. Cummings, of Grand Rapids, Mich. The couple appeared at the tourist camp Saturday with equipment for a long stay in the north woods. The woman appeared to be ten or fifteen years older than her husband and told some tourists they had been married just a week.

Yesterday morning the man appeared alone about their tent and was seen only to appeal to a farmer a little later for assistance in getting his automobile out of a roadside ditch, excitedly offering $25.

Several hours later the farmer returned to the scene of the incident saying that he had reflected upon the tourist's excitement and the fact that he was unaccompanied. Examination of a small mound revealed the body of Mrs. Cummings wrapped in

On Bailey Island, 250 miles east of the mouth of the Mackenzie river, since 1917 the wind blows, he averred, at a speed fit to make Alaska's winter blasts seem summer zephyrs. Nevertheless he was of the opinion that a dirigible like the Shenandoah would be able to reach the North Pole by flying over his territory in summer.

Leaving the island with its 20 inhabitants, Wyrant made the voyage in three months. He was here on his way "mushing" overland, he expected that supplies which he had bought to last several years would arrive next August by water.

When one travels in this neighborhood, Wyrant related, one never has a quiet moment. One never hears the "ur turned out and one with the fur

Ontario Man Lauds The Maritime Provinces
 Says People Don't Seem to Realize the Glorious Possibilities of This Great Rich Country, on Recent Visit Here—Urges Us to Forget Outside World And Boost Our Own Country.

PLAN AN EXCHANGE OF TEACHERS
 Exchange of Professors and Other Educators Between Canada and Britain Likely

"For Heaven's Sake, you people of the Maritimes, boost your country. Do you not realize what a great country it is or are you just indifferent? Why don't you boost? Forget Boston and New York and other places and think more about your own rich territory. You surely have something here. Boost it; for goodness sake boost."

These are the words of an Ontario man who, representing a large firm of the middle west, stopped over in Campbellton last week and took the opportunity to tell our representative what he thought of Campbellton and the Maritime Provinces.

"I am an Ontario man and Ontario is my home and always will be. I am proud of the old province and with me it comes first always; but I can't help realizing what a great future these Maritime provinces have ahead of them. This is a great land and it strikes me as queer that the people down here don't seem a bit enthusiastic over the glorious possibilities of the future.

Consider the wealth of this territory. You have a hundred fortunes in its land—the agricultural opportunities and yet the farmers don't seem to be aware of this. Then look at your vast forest resources and your fisheries. Apart from these things there are the commercial possibilities of these Maritime Provinces. Why, they are inestimable. People may talk about busy American districts but I tell you there is no territory more rich in possibilities for commercial enterprise than this part of the Dominion right here. It is one of the finest regions on the continent. Why on earth don't you people get busy and work more energetically and with more co-operation for the advancement of the Maritime Provinces. Forget the outside world and talk, think and dream about this wonderful country by the sea.

"Your town" was the reply to our question, is, without a doubt, a leader among the best towns of these provinces and I am not sure but what it is the leading town in New Brunswick for commercial activity. It seems to be making good progress in the right direction but how much that development could be hastened if you people would only work up more enthusiasm and boost. You have something here. For goodness sake tell the other fellow about it."

Such statements as the above, made in unmistakable sincerity by a resident of another part of Canada should surely impress the people of this part of the country. There is at least a medium of logic in this stranger's remarks and much that should furnish food for thought.

WILL CELEBRATE ON JULY 12th
N. B. Orangemen Prepare to Observe Occasion of 100th Anniversary

St. John, June 14—Preparations for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Orangemen in New Brunswick on July 12, are well advanced. A meeting of the St. John County East and West L. O. L. was held on Friday evening in Orange Hall, German street. There was a large attendance and matters connected with the celebration on July 12 were discussed.

The celebration this year will mark the 100th anniversary of Orangemen in the Province of New Brunswick, a warrant being brought here by the 74th Regiment of the Imperial troops. On their removal to the West India Islands the warrant was left in the hands of citizens who had, during the regiment's stay here, become members of the order.

The present Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick will act as King William during the celebration. There will be a parade of Orangemen from all parts of the province, an estimated number of 5,000. The parade will assemble at the Barrack Green, whence the members will march through the principal streets of the city. In addition to three local bands with the parade, it is expected that various "out-of-town" lodges will bring their bands with them, and it is expected that in all there will be about seven bands in the city in the line of march that day.

Special trains will be run from St. Stephen, Woodstock, Fredericton and Moncton. Where these special trains touch special rates will be arranged for other lodges throughout the province.

ALGARY SWEEP BY SEVERE STORM
 Number of Persons Injured and Considerable Damage Done to Property—Worst in Years.

Calgary, June 17—One of the worst rain, thunder and electrical storms of the last few years struck Calgary and district in the early hours of Sunday morning, causing damage to property, injuring residents, endangering life, uprooting telephone poles, felling trees temporarily extinguishing lightning power in the city and interfering with telegraphic and telephonic communication.

H. Hannah, a farmer, living eighteen miles southeast of Calgary, was struck by lightning and probably fatally burned while standing in the doorway of a barn. His clothing was stripped from his body and he was knocked unconscious. The barn caught fire and was destroyed.

The storm was general all over the Calgary district and cut a path southeast of Gleichen.

The storm was of a freakish and peculiar nature, striking one spot with swift intensity and missing nearby localities.

The total precipitation over the week-end amounted to more than an inch.

Heavy Death Toll
 St. Paul, Minn., June 15—At least fourteen persons are reported dead and more than a score injured as the result of tornadoes, wind storms and heavy hail and rain in the northwest section of the United States Saturday night.

Eight persons were reported dead at Bijou Hills, Brule County, two at White Lake, Aurora County, one at Pierre, and one at Blunt, in South Dakota, while two men were reported swept into Mississippi River at St. Paul, Glad Valley in Seibach County, South Dakota, was reported virtually wiped out when a tornado struck over a territory swarta three miles long and of fifty miles square, and caused possibly a score of injuries and property damage which may run over $100,000.

At Mitchell, four persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, and property damage estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

Johnston City, Tenn., June 16—

BANDIT PROVES TO BE EX-CONVICT
 Auto Thief Arrested at Newcastle is Native of New York

Newcastle, N. B., June 19—Chief of Police Hopkins and Deputy Sheriff Doran returned early this morning from Bathurst whence they went to bring back a suspect who was thought to be Jack Edwards, escaped convict charged with many crimes and who had an exciting brush with local police during the week-end.

Instead of Edwards they brought two other; one is Bill LaFrette, a former convict at Dorchester, who had been beating his way towards Montreal on freight trains, and Tom Galley, wanted here for abandonment of his wife and four children, who have been in the Municipal Home.

Upon his return Chief Hopkins received complete and definite word as to Edwards' identity from Dorchester penitentiary, where he served two terms of two years each. His right name is Daniel O'Brien and he is a native of New York and an engineer trade. He is between 26 and 27 years of age, stands 5 feet 9 1/2 inches in height, weighs 185 pounds, has brown hair and brown eyes; has light complexion and carries his head on one side with his eyes squinting. His side teeth are gone and his arms are tattooed. Among the places where he is wanted is Edmundston, where a warrant for theft of a car is held.

Chief Hopkins said this afternoon that the man was believed to be on his way to Fredericton now, enroute to the Maine border.

Wins Restigouche County Prize.
 The winners in the Essay Competition throughout New Brunswick for the best Essay on "Our New Brunswick Forests and Why We Should Protect Them from Fire" have just been announced. The competition was open to all school children, and a prize was awarded for the best essay from each county. Myra J. Wallace, age 16, Dalhousie High School, Grade X, was awarded the prize $5.00— for Restigouche County.

Twelve known dead, four seriously injured, more than a dozen houses barns and mills demolished, twenty miles of the Appalachian divisions of the Southern Railway made impassable with parts washed away and thousands of acres of farm land ruined, constituted the toll of the most disastrous cloud-burst ever recalled in this section. It appeared to have its centre near Hunter and Garden's Bluff and on Little Stone Creek and Blue Springs Creek where a house in which two families went to pieces, taking nine lives.

Four dwellings, a store and a mill with considerable livestock were washed away in the vicinity of Stiam and four small houses at Fish Springs went with the tide.

The Great Impersonation

A stirring story of love and adventure. By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM. One of the famous author's best. Published by arrangement with The British & Colonial Press Limited.

Leaving ENGLAND under suspicion as a murderer, Sir Everard Dominey, after ten years of wandering, turns up in German East Africa and is rescued from death in the jungle by the German Commandant, Baron Ragastein, a former fellow-student at Oxford.

Realizing that the remarkable resemblance which existed between them during college days still persists, von Ragastein, who has been ordered to London by the Wilhelmstrasse, decides to send Dominey to certain death in the jungle, assume his identity, and enter London in the guise of Sir Everard Dominey.

(The story continues)

"I am glad that you are still here," he said heartily. "Excuse me while I bathe and change. We will dine a little earlier. So far I have not eaten today."

"A long trek?" Dominey asked curiously.

"I have trekked far," was the quiet reply.

At dinner time, von Ragastein was once more himself, immaculate in white duck, with clean lines, shaved, and with little left of his fatigue. There was something different in his manner, however, some change which puzzled Dominey. He was at once more attentive to his guest, yet further removed from him in spirit and sympathy. He kept his conversation with curious insistence upon incidents of their school and college days, upon the subject of Dominey's friends and relations, and the later episodes of his life. Dominey felt himself all the time encouraged to talk about his earlier life, and all the time he was conscious that for some reason or other his host's closest and most minute attention was being given to his slightest word. Champagne had been served freely, and Dominey, up to the very gates of that one secret chamber, talked volubly and without reserve. After the meal was over, their chairs were dragged as before into the open. The silent orderly produced even larger cigars, and Dominey found his glass filled once more with the wonderful brandy. The doctor had left them to visit the native camp nearly a quarter of a mile away, and the orderly was busy inside, clearing the table. Only the black shapes of the servants were dimly visible as they twisted their faces—shut overhead the leaning stars. They were alone.

"I've been talking an awful lot of rot about myself," Dominey said. "Tell me a little about your career now and your life in Germany before you came out here?"

Von Ragastein made no immediate reply, and a curious silence ebbed and flowed between the two men. Every now and then a star shot across the sky. The red rim of the moon rose a little higher from stillness, always the most mysterious of silences, seemed gradually to become charged with unvoiced passion. Soon the animals began to call around them, creeping nearer to the fire which burned at the end of the open space.

"My friend," von Ragastein said at last, speaking with the air of a man who has spent much time in deliberation, "you speak to me of Germany, of my homeland. Perhaps you have guessed that it is not duty alone which has brought me here to these wild places. I, too, left behind me a tragedy."

"What?" she ery (hmm)

Dominey's quick impulse of sympathy was smothered by the stern, harsh repression of the other's manner. The words seemed to have been torn from his throat. There was no spark of tenderness or regret in his set face.

"Since the day of my banishment," he went on, "no word of this matter has passed my lips. To-night it is not weakness which assails me, but a desire to yield to the strange arm of coincidence. You and I, schoolmates and college friends, though sons of a different country, with the iron in our souls, I shall tell you the thing which happened to me, and you shall speak to me of your own course."

"I cannot," Dominey groaned.

"But you will," was the stern reply. "Listen."

An hour passed, and the voices of the two men had ceased. The howling of the animals had lessened with the palling of the fires, and a slow, melancholy ripple of breeze was passing through the bush and lapping the surface of the river. It was von Ragastein who broke through what might almost have seemed a trance. He rose to his feet, vanished inside the banda, and reappeared a moment or two later with two tumblers. One he set down in the space provided for it in the arm of his guest's chair.

"To-night I break what has become a rule with me," he announced. "I shall drink a whisky and soda. I shall drink to the new things that may yet come to both of us."

"You are giving up your work here?" Dominey asked curiously.

"I am a part of a great machine," was the somewhat evasive reply. "I have nothing to do but obey."

A flicker of passion distorted Dominey's face, flamed for a moment in his tone.

"Are you content to live and die like this?" he demanded. "Don't you want to get back where a different sort of sun will warm your heart and fill your pulses? This primitive world is in its way colorful, but it isn't human, it isn't a life for humans. We want the streets, von Ragastein, you and I. We want the tide of people flowing around us, the roar of wheels and the hum of human voices. Curse these animals! If I live in this country much longer, I shall go on all fours."

"You yield too much to environment," his companion observed. "In the life of the cities you would be a sentimentalist."

"No city nor any civilized country will ever claim me," Dominey sighed. "I should never have the courage to face what might come."

Von Ragastein rose to his feet. The dim outline of his erect form was in a way majestic. He seemed to tower over the man who lounged in the chair below him.

"Finish our whisky and soda to our next meeting, friend of my school days," he begged. "Tomorrow, before you awake, I shall be gone."

"No wife?"

"By to-morrow night," von Ragastein replied, "I must be on the other side of those mountains. This must be our farewell, almost pathetic. He had a sudden hatred of solitude."

"I must trek westward myself directly," he protested. "or eastward, or northward—it doesn't so much matter. Can't we travel together?"

Von Ragastein shook his head.

"I travel officially and I must travel alone," he replied. "As for myself, they will be breaking up here to-morrow, but they will lend you an escort and you will go in the direction you wish to take. This, alas, is as much as I can do for you. For us it must be farewell."

"Well, I can't force upon you," Dominey said a little wistfully. "It seems strange, though, to meet right here, far away from the by-ways of life, just to shake hands and pass on to death of strangers and animals."

"It is fate," von Ragastein decided. "Where I go, I must go alone. Farewell, dear friend. We shall drink the toast of the night in your rooms at Magdalen. That Sanscrit man translated it for us: 'May each find what he seeks!'"

Dominey laughed a little bitterly. He pointed to a light glowing fitfully in the bush.

"My will-o'-the-wisp," he muttered. "I shall follow—into the swamps!"

A few minutes later Dominey threw himself upon his couch, curiously watching the doctor's movements. Von Ragastein, who had come in to wish him good night, stood looking down at him for several moments with significant intensity. Then, satisfied that his guest really slept, he turned and passed through the hanging curtain of dried grasses in to the next banda, where the doctor still fully rested.

He spoke together in German and with lowered voices. Von Ragastein had lost something of his imperturbability.

"Everything progresses according to my orders," he demanded.

"Everything, Excellency! The boys are being loaded, and a runner has gone on to Wadhwan for ponies to be prepared."

"They know that I wish to start at dawn?" he prepared, Excellency?"

Von Ragastein laid his hand upon the doctor's shoulder.

"Come outside, Schmidt," he said. "I have something to tell you of my plans."

The two men seated themselves in the long, wicker chairs, the doctor in an attitude of strict attention. Von Ragastein turned his head and listened from Dominey's quarters came the sound of deep regular breathing.

"I have formed a great plan, Schmidt," von Ragastein proceeded. "You know what news has come to Berlin?"

"Your Excellency has told me a little, the doctor reminded him. "The day arrives. Von Ragastein pronounced, his voice shaking with deep emotion. He paused a moment in thought and continued, "the time, even the month, is fixed. I am recalled from here to take the place for which I was destined. You know what that place is? You know why I was sent as an English public school and college?"

"I can guess."

"I am to take up my residence in England. I am to have a special mission, that is to find a place for myself there as an Englishman. The means are left to my ingenuity. Listen, Schmidt. A great idea has come to me."

The doctor lit a cigar.

Von Ragastein rose to his feet. Not content with the sound of that regular breathing, he made his way to the opening of the opening of the banda and gazed in at Dominey's slumbering form. Then he returned.

"It is something which you do not wish the Englishman to hear?" the doctor asked.

"It is,"

"I speak in German."

"I speak in German," was the caution reply, "happen to be that man's only German friend. If you speak to me, that, however is of no consequence. He sleeps and he will continue to sleep. I mixed him a sleeping draught with his whisky and soda."

"Ah!" the doctor groaned.

"My principal need in England is an identity," von Ragastein pointed out. "I have made up my mind. I shall return to England as Sir Everard Dominey."

pleasure—most unexpected! Such a pity, too, that we only posted a draft for your allowance a few days ago. Dear me—your forgiveness—how well you look!"

Dominey smiled as he accepted an easy chair.

"Africa is a wonderful country," Mangan remarked, with just that faint note of patronage in his tone which took his listener back to the days of his present client's father.

"It—pardon my remarking it—has done wonderful things for you, Sir Everard. Let me see, it must be eleven years since we met."

Sir Everard tapped the toes of his carefully polished brown shoes with the end of his walking stick.

"I left London," he murmured, "in April, nineteen hundred and two. Yes, eleven years, Mr. Mangan. It seems queer to find myself in London again, as I dare say you can understand."

"Precisely," the lawyer murmured. "I was just wondering—I think that last remittance I sent to you could be stopped. I have no doubt you will be glad of a little ready money," he added, with a confident smile.

"Thanks, I don't think I need any just at present," was the amazing answer. "We'll talk about financial affairs a little later on."

Mr. Mangan metaphorically pinched himself. He had known his present client even during his school days, had received a great many visits from him at different times, and could not remember one in which the question of finance had been dismissed in so casual a manner.

"I trust," he observed, sitting for the sake of saying something, "that you are thinking of settling down here for a time now?"

"I have finished with Africa, if that is what you mean," was the patient reply. "As to settling down here well, that depends a little upon what you have to tell me."

The lawyer nodded.

"I think," he said, "that you may make yourself quite easy as regards the matter of Roger Unthank. Nothing has ever been heard of him since he left England."

"His—body has not been found?"

"Nor any trace of it."

There was a brief silence. The lawyer looked hard at Dominey, and Dominey scowlingly back again at the lawyer.

"And Lady Dominey?" the former asked at length.

"My lady's condition is, I believe, unchanged," was the somewhat guarded reply.

"If the circumstances are favourable," Dominey continued, "after another month's pause, I think it very likely that I may decide to settle down in Dominey Hall."

The lawyer appeared doubtful.

"You are perhaps, to have your very disappointed with the condition of the estate, Sir Everard. As I have repeatedly told you in our correspondence, the rent roll, after payments had reached you upon Lady Dominey, has at no time reached the interest on the mortgage, and we have had to make up the difference," he murmured, "since the out of the proceeds of the outlying timber."

"That is a pity," Dominey replied. "It is a pity, perhaps, to have taken you more into my confidence. By the way, when did you receive my last letter?"

"Your last letter," Mr. Mangan repeated. "We have not had the privilege of hearing from you, Sir Everard, for over four years. The only intimation I have had that our payments had reached you was the exceedingly prompt debit of the South African bank."

"I have certainly been to blame," that's neither here nor there, "the business object of my visit to you this morning is to ask you to make arrangements as quickly as possible for paying off the mortgage on the Dominey estate."

Mr. Mangan was a lawyer of the Cambridge, the Bath Club, ragged and free, rather than gold and lawn, and very much absorbed. If you haven't happened to hear any South African gossip lately, Mangan, I suppose it will be a surprise to you to hear that I have been making a good deal of money."

"Making money?" the lawyer snapped. "You making money, Sir Everard?"

"I thought you'd be surprised," Dominey observed coolly. "However, that's neither here nor there. The business object of my visit to you this morning is to ask you to make arrangements as quickly as possible for paying off the mortgage on the Dominey estate."

AMERICAN THRIFT

That the people of the United States saved during 1923 more than they earned during 1920 constitutes a remarkable index to the general prosperity of the country, and the nation as a whole is at the present time putting aside one-sixth of its income as a subject for hearty congratulation. These two facts are brought to light by the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York in its monthly review, and show clearly that the American public has learned well the great lessons of thrift and economy so eloquently preached in late years. If only some method could be worked out, however, to save-guard these savings from the army of fraudulent stock promoters and others of that ilk, who, like vultures swoop down upon their victim as soon as they will make good picking, the situation would be a whole lot more promising. As it is, every year thousands of those who have saved so praiseworthy find themselves with nothing but a lot of worthless paper to show for it.

"BUY AT HOME" IS BACKED BY PREMIER
 Hon. P. J. Veniot, in a communication to the secretary of the "Buy at Home and Maritime Made" campaign, states that he heartily approves of the movement, and adds, that things should have been started long ago.

The Premier's letter comes as a rally to a communication calling his attention to the campaign, and suggesting that the departments of the Government give a fair consideration to all lines of maritime manufacture. Hon. Mr. Veniot goes on to state that for the last four or five years it has been the policy of the Government to look first for goods of local manufacture, and that this principle of home buying will be continued.

VALUE OF PROPERTY EMIGRANTS TO U. S. IN DRY U. S. COMING BACK

Statistics Show That More Than 9,000 Returned in April-May

Quebec, June 17.—The last three passenger liners of the seven comprising the last week's flotilla arrived in port from Saturday afternoon to yesterday morning. They were the C. P. S. Marburn from Glasgow and Belfast with 875 passengers. This steamer arrived shortly before three o'clock on Saturday afternoon and after disembarking her third class passengers, left up for Montreal at five o'clock. She was followed by the Anchor-Donaldson liner Sarnia from Glasgow and Montreal at three o'clock yesterday morning. 266 passengers, and the Cunard liner Anania from Cherbourg and Southampton at half-past four o'clock in the morning with 185 cabin and 240 third-class passengers. The latter two steamers left up for Montreal at 8:15 and 9:45 a. m. yesterday respectively.

The large majority of the third class passengers on the three steamers were future settlers on the land in Ontario and the prairie provinces, with British and American immigrants from the Marburn left Quebec on a special Canadian Pacific train, while those from the Sarnia and Anania were accommodated on special Canadian National trains for Montreal and points west. There was a large special party of settlers on the Marburn who came out under the auspices of the Ontario Government. These were looked after by Mr. R. A. Jones, Agent at this port, and are all going to secured employment in the winter provinces. Previous to train time, and while the immigrants were quartered down stairs following their examination, they took advantage of the popular canteen prevailing at the government station to make many purchases of necessary articles of food and various utensils, while in the meantime the little ones travelling in company with their parents, were looked after by the young ladies engaged in social service work at the big building, these activities being especially evident at the Red Cross Nursery.

GAME PLENTIFUL
 Motoring parties are reporting evidence of unusual numbers of game animals in all sections of New Brunswick this year and guides declare there is evidence of an increasing number of moose and deer while caribou have been reported in New Brunswick recently.

REPORTS OF MOOSE
 Reports of moose killing automobiles have been frequent and are becoming frequent in many instances both deer and moose have been sighted in fields close to the roads.

RABBITS APPEAR TO BE MORE NUMEROUS
 Rabbits appear to be more numerous than usual and large numbers have been killed along the roads by passing automobiles, the lights of the machines bewildering them at night. Particularly is this true of central New Brunswick, while reports from the north say that woodchucks are as numerous there as rabbits in the central and southern districts of the province.

The Toy Canoe

When at Christmas time we turn into a toy store or in a large department store toward the toy counter, we are apt to see in our minds' eye only the toy and the child. Some of us see and feel, and in spirit go back to the days when toys were to us, as they are to children, the embodiment of the imagination. The tangible form of our dreams! Sight of the toys, the touch of them, is a magic wand restoring our lost childhood. And so we really are in buying the thing that we like, the thing that takes our fancy. That is, if we have a choice, and are not forced by circumstances of limited stock or limited means to take what we can get.

But the toy reaches further back than this. Behind each is the toy-maker. The man or woman whose deft fingers shape the thing of art and life out of unpromising and wholly unsuggestive raw material. Thus Canada has men, art-craftsmen, who see in the forest-log lumber, figures of saints, windmills, weather-vanes, miniature castles, legends of Mother Hubbard.

Take the part-French, part-Indian, maker of the toy-canoe that so delights the hearts of little boys even when for lack of lake, river or sea in their neighborhood they are forced to sail it in the bath-tub, or just carry it to bed clasped in chubby arms, at night, as a sort of galleon whereon to sail away to the land of dreams. Is there not in the canoe, a spirit of race? The French trait of "sculpture," as the wood-carver calls himself down in Quebec, and the elemental knowledge and association of the canoe that in the Indian reaches back to prehistoric days in this great stretch of country that is Canada.

It would be difficult to say which side of him aids the other more, but it is true that in combination, he is something more of an artist than the United States or Mexico to the South, without such combination, "can boat." A born toy-maker. Someone who gets into the toy that present something which is of the spirit and of life, and which makes it art-products rather than a mere thing of wood. So fine in its lines that it is no mere substitute but a miniature of the larger canoe—the boat of a race. No less than the Viking ship or the gondola is the boat of a race and a people.

Did we see the artistry and human interest, not to speak of the nationality, the true Canadianism in such toys, we would select them and put them more in the hands of children than we do. Even in giving the purely mechanical toy to the child the youngster not having matured, the age of mechanism proceeds by the suggestion, the romance, the story, the association. As to the "tin-chip" toys, rather than the mechanism, the parts, which are far too small to interest the mind at that stage.

And when you happen upon the canoe-carver at work out-of-doors in one of those many quaint and historic villages along the St. Lawrence between Montreal and Quebec, his own child seated on the logs, one of the rough canoes in his little hand, how sweetly it makes you feel for the city child. For the toy-maker and his carving is a plant of village growth. The big log still, as it were, touches the forest. And all these things, too, are in the tiny canoe over which the mind of childhood dreams. —Victoria Hayward.

QUEBEC LIQUOR LAW AT WORK

Much has been said and circulated to lead the public to believe that Prohibition increases, and Government Control decreases, the "Drug Traffic." Authoritative reports show the reverse to be the case. Last year on the floor of Parliament Hon. Dr. Beland stated the following figures as to arrests for illicit traffic in drugs:

British Columbia 215, Alberta 91, Saskatchewan 88, Manitoba 15, Ontario 66, New Brunswick 14, Nova Scotia 6, Prince Edward Island 0, Quebec 27.

The two provinces then, under Government Control, supplied 558 arrests out of 334, or 66 per cent. Or to look at it another way, dry Ontario, with a population of 2,938,062, supplied 66 arrests, and the two wet provinces, Quebec and British Columbia, with almost equal population, 2,944,838, show 562 arrests. Quite recently Prof. Moore, of McGill, stated publicly that there are at least 7,000 drug addicts in Montreal and the use of drugs is rapidly increasing. No matter what other factors may be in the situation, the stubborn fact remains that the drug traffic is least in the dry areas and startlingly worse in the wet provinces.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Your Committee, therefore, having given careful consideration to the Quebec liquor situation, recognizing that our Provincial Government and the Quebec Liquor Commission have done their utmost to give a fair and impartial enforcement of the Act, with a knowledge of the alarming conditions prevailing in many parts of our Province attributable directly and indirectly to the Quebec Liquor Act, your Committee begs to recommend:

(1) That this Presbytery warmly urge fellow workers in the cause of reform throughout Canada against believing that Government control eliminates the evils associated with the liquor traffic. That we request in a patriotic duty to make it known that the drug traffic flourishes here as never before and is on the increase, bootlegging flourishing in and from this Province as never before; that drunkenness is on the increase, and that the Quebec system of Government Control is socially injurious and not a success.

(2) That the Presbytery's Committee on Social Services be instructed to inform the people of the Province of our order within our bounds as to the present situation in Quebec regards the evils accompanying the operation of the Quebec Liquor Act.

(3) That Ministers and Sessions be urged to further in every legitimate way a continuous policy of education commensurate with the need for reform, and to foster within their sphere of influence an alert and vigilant temperance sentiment, and that this Presbytery declares its determination to support local temperance organizations seeking the improvement of conditions.

(4) That this Presbytery endorse and pledges itself to loyally support the policy of the General Assembly of our Church, namely, the total prohibition of the liquor traffic for beverage purposes, and can accept nothing less as an ideal in legislation, than the total prohibition of the manufacture, importation and of intoxicating liquor as a beverage through Federal action.

PROMINENT BOXER KILLED IN N. Y.

Bill Brennan, Shot to Death in Cabaret Fight on Sunday

New York, June 15.—William (Bill) Brennan, prominent heavyweight boxer, was shot and killed today in the 'Tia Juana' cabaret, of which he was the proprietor. James Cullen, a state trooper, was shot in the neck as he ran to Brennan's rescue. James Hughes and Frank Rassi, believed to be two of a band of five who committed the killing, are under arrest.

Brennan was chatting with friends when Hughes, who is described as an unkempt individual with a prison record, asked the pugilist to step outside for a moment. Shots were heard almost immediately afterwards.

Brennan's sister, known on the stage as Shirley Sherman, told the police she ran outside and saw five men, all of whom ran away when she appeared. She seized Hughes by the arm as she screamed for help. Hughes however, threw her to the floor. A bullet halted Cullen who was close behind the girl. He staggered back into the cabaret and fell unconscious.

Hughes and Rassi became separated from their companions, and turned up a corridor, the door of which was closed. Breaking the glass of the door with the butts of their pistols they walked into the arms of police lieutenant John Hagarty. They beat Hagarty into unconsciousness, commanded a taxi-cab, and the firing took up the chase in another taxi and captured the pair after a breakneck drive. Both have served terms in prison, the police said. The taxi, according to the police, are members of a "hell's kitchen" gang who have apparently borne a grudge. Starting his professional career in 1914, Brennan earned in 1921, four better score books.
