Truth Is Sometimes Stran-

There has come to light a wonderful case of restoration to health, at Sackville,

Corner, N. B. The particulars were first given out Feb. 3, 1894, and are as follows:

Mrs. K. Upton, of that place, had fits,

five or six a month and sometimes fifteen a day, for five or six years. Five physicians treated her for her chief trouble—severe and chronic indigestion and inability to retain food on her stomach.

In the spring of '93 she commenced to take "Grosier's Syrup." Since then she has had no symptoms of fits, her general health has wonderfully improved and she

"eats anything."

She took five bottles "Grosier's"—and will make oath to the above statements

if necessary. The lady who sold her this sterling medicine, Miss F. L. Tapley, says:

"I have known Mrs. Upton for over fifteen years, and I know the above statements to be true in every particular."

Your health may demand the use of Grosier's Syrup.

SACKVILLE, N. B., JAN. 24, 1895.

P. E. I. ROUTE.

The Summerside Journal has published a number of strong articles advocating the establishment of a winter route between Cape Tormentine and Summerside. The Journal points out the fact that the Northern Light first and then the Stanley have been partially successful in battling with the heavy ice between Pictou and the Eastern part of the Island, and utterly unable to cope with the heavy ice that fills that bight many times during each winter, and consequently resort has to be had every winter to the ice boat service between the Capes. The Journal contends that the government keeps the Stanley at the wrong end of the Island—expects her to perform impossibilities and it wants the Summerside-Tormentine route to be given a fair trial. The Journal cites evidence to show that the ice moving constantly between the Capes, which is "load ice," light drifting pans and "hoar ice." This would be more child's play for the Stanley compared with her work on the Pictou-Georgetown route. It is also pointed out that there is sufficient depth of water, both at Cape Tormentine and at Summerside for the Stanley, and that at no time would she be on this route out of sight of land and that there is not a day, when she could not make the round trip, the distance being only 17 miles.

The Journal contends that while Summerside harbor is good as it is, it could be made perfect, by two breakwaters, one from Indian head to the light house, the other from Welling's Point to the "Sun" wharf, and the Channel. Then little or no ice would form in the Channel and the jelly that forms on the Mi-choigne Shoals would not drift out the harbor to any great extent.

We think this is a matter that demands the attention of the government. In fact, the government has been allowed to neglect too long setting upon the Island terminus of the Cape route. A very large sum of money has been spent in Railways and Wharves, without reaching any definite results or arriving at any fixed policy. If the money was well and judiciously expended, then the delay is not justifiable on any supposition that the public wants are being attended to.

The statements in the Journal as to the advantages of Summerside are plausible and may be proved to be correct on experiment or on investigation; they are anyway entitled to attention.

Some time ago, a survey was made by a government engineer and a report filed. It has not been made public. We have understood, however, that the engineer recommended that, before his report be accepted, his conclusions as to the movements of the ice during the winter and the movements of the sand during summer be investigated by two or more government engineers. This has not been done. In fact nothing has been done.

As Dickson says: "Whatever was required to be done, the Circumlocution Office was beforehand with all the public departments in the act of perceiving how NOT to do it."

Let the circumlocution be abolished; let the engineers investigate; let the Stanley leave the route where she is a failure and try conclusions from Cape Tormentine to Summerside, or to the most favorable place on the other side.

English Politics.

The indications are, that to those who have leisure, the game of English politics will be well worth watching this winter.

The invigorating air of the Riviera, where Mr. Gladstone is staying, has so restored his youthful energy that he can walk four miles an hour, and is a perfect astonishment to his friends. While the statement that the ex-premier intends to appear in the House of Commons is delighting the Liberals, it is having just the opposite effect upon the opposition. It might not be supposed that the political course, pursued by a man who has reached eighty-five years of age, would be the cause of joy to his friends or of terror to his enemies.

Lord Darvane, whose name has been so prominently before the public this year in connection with the international yacht-racing, has decided to take a more active part in the governmental game. Old politicians are already guessing as to just what he will do and where he will come out in this race.

John Redmond, a Parnellite and one of the Irish parliamentary leaders has returned from Cape Town in fine spirits. He has gone to Ireland determined, apparently, to have Home Rule, or the life of the government.

In the meantime Lord Rosebery speaks and speaks and keeps on in the even tenor of his way. The "World's" correspondent says that in English politics the Tories seem so confident of winning the coming elections that their leaders are prodding out the spuds already and an interesting story comes to us that Lord Salisbury had to intervene in a bitter contest between Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Goschen, as to who shall be chancellor of the exchequer. The place has been promised the Birmingham gentleman and Mr. Goschen is to go to the House of Lords.

If the above is correct there are some things common to all oppositions.

The Editor of the Transcript has an article in a recent paper, headed, "The fruits of Protection." The article contains the address of the unemployed to the mayor of Montreal. The writer of the article has sought to make capital for the liberals out of the fact that there are so many men out of work in that city.

Now if our contemporary knows anything, and we have always given him credit for knowing something, he knows that protection has not been the means of throwing those men out of work. The grist argument is however we can get the public to believe this, they will help to turn out the government and to put us in their place. There is no sympathy expressed for the men who are suffering. There is not a hint that thought has been given to the best way in which these men can be relieved. On the contrary the misery is rather held up and gloated over, because it may be used as a factor to advance party interests.

This is a kind of journalism that leads one to say, "Woe unto you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, you make clean the outside of the cup, etc. There are some modern representatives of the men who are so carefully minded to make clean even the outside of the cup."

Note.—Mr. A. B. Copp blameth the Post for the slight attendance at the Liberal meeting at Port Elgin Monday evening but he has no reason to do so. The item of news announcing the meeting would have appeared had not Mr. Copp himself requested our foreman not to insert it. The Post is always ready to give publicity to opinions which may aid in bringing out the truth and Mr. Copp had been specially invited to make use of our columns in the interests of the Young Liberals. Our readers will find above a full and fair report of the meeting at Port Elgin. We have not even suppressed Mr. Grant's denunciation of the duty on tea.

The Liberal Meeting.

MAD WEATHER INTERFERES. SPEECHES BY MESSRS WELLS, LOGAN, SWEENEY, MCCLURE, GRANT, AND MCQUEEN.

PORT ELGIN, JAN. 30TH.—The weather was against a successful meeting of the Liberals here on Monday evening. The train was blocked up here and the speakers were obliged to travel by sleigh. The road was in good condition. Messrs McKenna and Carleton were prevented from attending but speeches were made by Messrs. W. Wells, M. P., P. H. J. Logan of Amherst, F. J. Sweeney of Moncton, F. McLure of Truro, D. Grant of Moncton, and Joseph McQueen. In the afternoon a meeting of the Eastern Provincial Liberal Association was held and was largely attended, representatives being present from all parts of the province. The organizing of polling divisions in the parish of Botsford was attended to.

The meeting in the evening was not attended well but the management could have wished. Mr. A. B. Copp of Sackville president of the Young Liberals Association was chairman. Mr. Copp said that the CHIGNECTO Post was responsible for the slight attendance as the managers of that paper had not advertised the meeting, as they had promised. He introduced Mr. W. Wells, M. P., who said that he did not intend to make a speech. The Tories charged the liberals with having no platform Mr. Wells claimed the liberals had a platform which was directly opposed to that of the Tories. It was the platform they formed in '93. He would read the platform. It included: Reciprocity of trade with our neighbors; tariff for revenue only; doing away with corruption in politics; senate reform; and temperance for the ladies. Mr. Wells stated that it would be out of place for him to tell the election how to vote. Let them hear the liberal side and weigh it with the other and he had no fear of the result. He had waited sixteen years to satisfy his mind whether the National Policy was going to benefit Canada. He was ready to prove that New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, P. E. Island, Quebec, and Ontario, had not increased as rapidly in the past ten years as in the ten years previous and produced statistics to that effect. He would admit that the North West territories have prospered but taken as a whole Canada had not. He would admit that the National Policy had gathered the people into towns and villages but what about the country? He would admit the census shows 25,000 new manufactures in Canada within the last ten years but this included dressmaking shops, shoemakers shops, and every other shop giving one man employment. The census did not say how many more farmers there were. The blue books showed that 800,000 immigrants had been brought to Canada. Now at the end of ten years there was only 508,000. The government had not retained all they had brought out. Where had they gone? Wells to the United States. For a while Wells claimed that the people of Canada were raising children for Uncle Sam. In conclusion Mr. Wells stated he had given only facts. If after consideration the election concluded this state of affairs was not right they must vote for the liberals.

F. J. Sweeney followed Mr. Wells. He said this was his first attempt at speaking. He believed in free trade. Our farmers had to pay the duty both to and from United States. If he sends produce he must pay the same. The farmer had to pay the road. What he would advise was a change and there was no doubt we would have it.

Mr. Logan of Amherst next spoke. He said he had three things in his favor: he was a young man; he was a lawyer; and he was a liberal. He said Canada was a great country. He had no doubt it would some day be a nation itself. He hoped to see it one of the leading nations. What we wanted was free trade. We wanted a change. In 1878 the Tories told us the National Policy would turn all these small villages into cities. Look at Pugwash, Wallace, and other small villages that were then thriving towns. Today Pugwash was a dismal town. There was something wrong in Denmark. Why had the value of land decreased so rapidly. He had sold his farm a few days before which cost $2,100 and had had a good house and fine barn put on it for 1,300 and he man who bought it paid immediately afterward that he would have given fifty dollars if he had never seen the farm. There was something wrong in Denmark. He knew more sugar and more flour could be bought for $1.10 than ten years ago, but this was due to the National Policy. The demand for sugar and flour was greater. The National Policy does not protect these articles in the least. He said the Tories wanted us to be thankful for what we have. Dalton McCarthy who was the brain of the conservative party in 1878 said if the liberals had cried protection at that election the Tories were going to cry free trade. Mr. Laurier had said he was a Frenchman but he was an Englishman as well. If he wanted good government he would go to England. Mr. Logan said Mr. Laurier was just such a man as Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, to see him was to love him, to know him was to trust him. Mr. Laurier had said he would not be discouraged if the next election did not bring victory, but would fight on to the end.

Firman McClure discussed the tariff question. He said the liberals believed in tariff for revenue; they did not want free trade yet. The country could not stand it at present. It would nip our industries in their infancy. It would be fifteen years before Canada could stand free trade. He said he would agree with the liberals in their demand for reform in the Senate. The Senate should be done away with altogether.

The chairman then said Mr. D. Grant of Moncton would address them a few minutes on organization.

Mr. Grant said: The chairman said I was going to talk a few minutes on organization. The gentleman did not know what he was talking about any more than the man in the moon. I cannot say anywhere from 15 minutes to three hours. I want one half hour to begin, one half hour to speak and one half hour to wind up. On Mr. Grant then discussed the tariff question in a very able manner. He said: "People do not know how much they are paying in duty. Why gentlemen the women crying for tea alone the national policy would not last ten minutes. Canada sinks in the nostril of the world. He referred to Sir Charles Tupper as the champion liar of the Maritime provinces and handed in general writs in general with out gloves."

J. A. McQueen took up the national question. He said it would take Mr. Wells' train carrying three cars a day one year to carry the national debt from the Atlantic to the Bay of Fundy. The meeting closed with three cheers for the Queen and Laurier.

ISLAND COMMUNICATION.

The Summerside Journal of 23rd inst. has an article on communication between P. E. I. and the mainland. After reviewing the history of this communication it contends that the Stanley is at present running at the wrong end of the Island. Periodical Liberator's Association was held and was largely attended, representatives being present from all parts of the province. The organizing of polling divisions in the parish of Botsford was attended to.

The meeting in the evening was not attended well but the management could have wished. Mr. A. B. Copp of Sackville president of the Young Liberals Association was chairman. Mr. Copp said that the CHIGNECTO Post was responsible for the slight attendance as the managers of that paper had not advertised the meeting, as they had promised. He introduced Mr. W. Wells, M. Cumberland News.

The Amherst civic elections take place next Tuesday and excitement though it does not run so high as last year is not wanting. The Amherst Council consists of six men of whom three are elected each year and hold office two years. The Mayor is elected yearly. This year the retiring Mayor is Messrs C. S. Chapman, J. A. Christie, and John Bryanton of whom the first named again enters the civic contest. Mayor Curry goes in by acclamation. There are two chances for the vacant positions on the Board, as mentioned in last week's Post. One consists of C. S. Chapman, mentioned above, and Isaac J. Shipley of the firm of Davis & Shipley, grocers. The other chance is for a policy this one favors more economy in public matters and less outlay on improvements in the town. Consequently this ticket will largely command the vote of the outlying districts. This ticket also declares itself strong for temperance and so for the matter of that does the other ticket. Messrs D. T. Chapman of the dry goods firm of Chapman Bros.; W. C. Harper, grocer; and John A. Laws of Crossman and Holmes are however looked upon as representing the central part of the town, and will naturally therefore favor the ticket for improvements. The result is very uncertain as there is no direct question of sufficient moment before the electors to cause them to vote a straight ticket. Messrs D. T. Chapman and Holmes are however looked upon as some as likely to get there whoever they may be left.

Another fatal accident occurred at Springhill Saturday at 11 o'clock. While William Brown was cutting coal in the east slope, he was buried beneath a fall of stone. His head was fearfully cut, one eye was out and his lower jaw shattered. At 4.15 he died. He leaves a wife and one young child.

George Horton of Springhill while engaged loading hay at Macdonald's farm morning fell from the load and broke his arm.

Messrs. Rhodes, Curry & Co. have been awarded a contract embracing 300 cars, including coal hoppers, flats, and box cars and one first class passenger coach and one combination first class and baggage car from the Dominion Coal Company, Cape Breton. They have also been awarded a contract for the Atlantic railway for 13 box cars the latest pattern. These cars will be fitted with the latest improvements in architecture and will be well supplied with air brakes. It is a good news for during the past few months the works have not been pushed to their utmost capacity. The above order ensures four months of busy work.

The Robb Engineering company shipped a Monarch Economic boiler and a compound Robb-Armstrong engine for the electric light station at Dartmouth.

WESTBROOK.

Rev. Mr. Anthony exchanged pulpits with Mr. Sanford, the Mr. Allen student who is supplying in River. He, on Sabbath last. Rev. Mr. Howe, Baptist, of Parrisboro will preach here on the 2nd inst. Rev. Mr. Allen, Methodist, is concerned, there has been a famine in the land for about fifteen months, interrupted only by four months service in the summer. Mr. Miner, one of your New Brunswick boys who is studying at Acadia, spent his vacation with this church. Rev. Mr. Weston $200 aged and infirm pastor, so long connected with this church, still continues his pastorate in Halfway River.

Roads are in excellent condition, and getting in full time. The road is being actively pressed, and the highways show rapid increase in the hundreds of valuable pieces.

A recent visitor to this vicinity, Mr. J. R. friend King Grippie, Northway the less tenacious in the friendship than in former years. Whole families are stricken at once, and the midnight hours are as tedious as the hard dry cough that invariably accompanies the disease. Among the serious ill is Albert Reid of Athol, who has a dangerous attack of pneumonia. Mr. Reid has had this disease several times, narrowly escaping death.

A quiet, but interesting wedding took place at Mrs. Sprague's parsonage recently, when her sister Miss Anna and Mr. T. J. Pugwash were united. Mr. Pugwash, a well known resident of Truro, resigned there, to accept a situation in St. John's, Newfoundland. He had spent the last few years in the United States, and was stationed in British Columbia in the Chinese girls' school. There he remained five years, and then returned home, and at the time of the wedding was in the Columbia Exposition. She visited Chicago and spent the remainder of a year in the different States where she has been visiting. The wedding was held at the parsonage, and was a most happy occasion. The bride and groom were both well known in the community, and the wedding was a most interesting event.

Upper Cape.

The storm that swept here Saturday afternoon last was the most violent this winter. The wind blew a perfect gale. After snowing for about four hours it turned soft and then froze making a stiff crust. The roads were bad. The train did not get through on Monday and there was no mail.

It is reported here that Jonas W. Allen lost his trotting mare, called Benny, a valuable beast on the ice in Saturday's storm and come near being lost himself.

On Thursday evening last 24th, the hall was well filled with men and women to hear an address given by Duncan Marshall, Bruce County, Ontario, on behalf of the Patrons of Industry. Alfred Raworth Esq. was called to chair and introduced the speaker asking for him a good hearing however they notwithstanding an opinion as he was representative of the old Province of Ontario the largest and most influential province in this Dominion. The speaker said the object that he had in view was to explain to the people what the order of Patrons had done and was doing to benefit the farmers and laboring classes. The government was charged with robbing and starving the farmer and laboring classes. His denunciations were very broad reaching against both local and Dominion legislators. He predicted that they must soon give way to a better state of government when the Patrons become the governing power. In a speech of one and one half hours Lewis laid out a plan of a farm school platform were discussed. Mr. Marshall is a fluent speaker. A lodge was organized with the following officers: Robert K. Raworth, Pres.; Harry Allen, Vice Pres.; Bolivar Raworth, Treasurer; Tilly Tuttle, Sec.; John Main, Amos Main, and Mr. Chas. Raworth, minor officers.
