After he was received by the the Emperor and with rioting.

The Pope's Health. ROME, Jan. 15.-The Pope is gaining strength daily. To-day he walked in the gardens of the Vatican. His Holiness has sent in confidence separate instructions to each of the Sicilian bishops calling upon them to preach peace to the people of the island and to morally intercene to bring the troubles there to an end without taking any open official stand in favor of the Government.

Off the Skelligs.

QUEENSTOWN, Jan. 15 .- Incoming vessels have experienced terrific weather on the Atlantic and many are seeking refuge here in a crippled condition. The bark Berna, from Jamaica, for Havre, has been towed here as a derelict. She had been beating off the Skelligs for seventeen days, until her riging was carried away and her spars swept overboard. She then became unmanageable and was abandoned by her

A Caravan Attacked.

London, Jan. 15 .- A dispatch from Cape Town says that on Jan. 5 natives in Nyassaiand attacked a caravan of the African Lakes Company near Matope, killing one and capturing three persons. The country generally is in a restless state. The mission station at Mlangi was burned, and the Europeans barely escaped with their lives.

Paris Stirred-Triple Suicide. Paris, Jan. 15 .- This city was stirred to-night by news of the suicides of M. Caubet, brother of the late chief of police, and his wife and daughter. Caubet was 36 years old, his wife was about the same age. His daughter had tried to support the family by giving music lessons, but could not earn enough for them. As matters grew worse all three resolved to die. They sold some of their furniture and used the money to buy a sumptuous dinner. After eating they paid and dismissed their one servant. They signed a paper explaining their troubles and their motives in taking their lives, then pasted papers over the cracks in the doors and windows and lighted two charcoal fires. Each swallowed a vial of laudanum. All three were found dead on the floor. The parents apparently had died painlessly. The daughter, however, had in her paroxysm torn her face with her hands.

Anarchistic Activity.

LONDON, Jan. 15 .- A dispatch received late this evening from Rome says there was much rioting in Leghorn this evening. Mobs stopped the tram cars and other traffic. The police were drawn up in the streets at several points to prevent the different groups of rioters from coalescing, but they were compelled to retreat and troops were ordered out. Hard fighting followed and many were wounded. Shots from the windows of the dwellings occupied by Anarchists wounded several soldiers. The military are patrolling the streets, as a renewal of the rioting is feared. Rome, Jan. 15 .- Minor disturbances are reported from several places. The arrest of Anarchists at Carrara has led to the discovery of an Anarchist plot in which three independent groups were to take part. The first group was to cut the telegraph wires and derail incoming and outgoing trains. The second was to barricade the streets and fight against the advance of troops. The third was to attack the barracks and seize arms enough for all three groups. The Anarchists of the whole district were then to be called out | The premature encounter of a band of Anarchists with the patrols between Massa | effect Dec. 1, 1894. and Carrara on Saturday evening defeated tne plot.

The Canadian Cattle Embargo. London, Jan. 16.-The movement in Scotland to obtain the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle has been quickly noted by the Scotch farmers and breeders, whose organs in the press urge the need of prompt counter demonstration. owing to illness. Romans Laugh at Chauncey.

Rome, Jan. 15 .- Chauncey M. Depew's extraordinary expressions of opinions on view in a New York paper have just reached here, he having flooded the town with marked copies of the journal. It may interest Mr. Depew to know that his utterances, which he seems so proud of and so anxious to disseminate, have not made him popular. Mr. Depew's statement that the Pope gives no private audiences to laymen or to private persons, but made an exception in the case of the great Chauncey, is ridiculous. The Pope receives private persons daily at private audiences. At the same time the Pope had no idea that Mr. Chauncey Depew was going to use the audience to put himself. People in Rome are still laughing at the elation of Chauncey Pope he rushed around, excitedly buttonholed all he met and poured fourth the tale into their ears. He became one of the jokes of the moment.

THE HOLE IN UNCLE SAM'S POCKET

That the Republicans Left for the Democrats to Mend.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15. - Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle, in a letter to Seuator West, chairman of the Senate committee on finance, states that his estimate of the deficiency for the fiscal year ending June 30 next was, as experience proved, too low; that instead of the expenditures being $28,000,000 more than the receipts, they will, at the present rate, be $78,167,-532 more than the receipts.

The secretary, after an extended reference to the condition of the treasury, says that the necessity for relief at this time is so urgent and the prospect of material improvement in the financial condition of the Government is so problematical that he is impelled to exercise the authority vested in him to issue and sell long-term bonds at high interest in order to preserve the credit and honor of the Government, unless Congress gives him special authority speedily to issue and sell shorter bonds or other obligations at a lower rate of interest than that specified in the existing law. NEARLY ASPHYXIATED.

STOPPED BY TORPEDOES. The Dover express, which brings to the city men employed here in business, and who live at Summit, Millburn, Short Hills and Newark, made its last stop at Newark, and then rushed on through the thick fog towards the city. About 200 yards west of the drawbridge over the Hackensack, the train was stopped by torpedoes. The flagman of the train, it is claimed, ran back immediately to flag any train that might be approaching from the west. He had gone but a few yards, he said, when suddenly he saw rushing upon him through the fog the South Orange accommodation. This train was scheduled to leave South Orange at 7:55, but was about three minutes behind time. Aboard it were residents of the Oranges and of Newark, who are in business in New York. The train was running about 30 miles an hour. Before Engineer David Hoffman could discern the express train through the fog or before he had received the warning from the flagman who had been sent back IT WAS TOO LATE to stop his train. He turned on the air brakes, and jumping from the cab rolled over and over down a steep embankment. He was taken up afterwards unconscious and badly bruised and cut about the head and body. Fireman Metz climbed back over the tender, and was found after the collision but slightly injured. The engine struck the express train with terrific force. It plowed its way into a rear car, a combination baggage and smoking car, and caused it to telescope the passenger car next in front. Every seat in the smoking compartment was occupied. The trainmen said that there were about 40 passengers in the car. NOT ONE OF THEM ESCAPED INJURY. They were all men in the smoker, which accounts no doubt for the fact that no women were reported to be among the seriously injured. The force of the collision completely wrecked the engine of the South Orange train. None of the passengers, however, on this train were injured, but all suffered from the effects of the terriffic shock. On the Dover express the last two cars were twisted and turned into a mass of broken iron, wood and glass, over which rolled the clouds of smoke and steam from the engine. From this mass came the screams and cries of the injured.

THE WORK OF RESCUE. As soon as the passengers who were uninjured recovered from the shock they piled out of the cars and rushed to the assistance tracks were the bodies of the dead and dying. The bodies of three or four passengers were pulled out of the telescoped car and then the trainmen and the uninjured set to work with axes and saws to reach those who were buried beneath the wreckage. Messages for medical aid and ambulances were sent to Jersey City and Newark. The running of regular trains from the depot in Hoboken was immediately stopped, and all the passengers in the depot hurried to the scene of the accident. A number of the dead and injured were taken to Hoboken, and others were sent back over the road to their homes. Ambulances from St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, and Christ Hospital, Jersey City, were at the station awaiting the arrival of the relief trains. Twenty of the injured were taken to St. Mary's Hossmoker died soon after reaching the hospital.

Another Frightful Accident.

HAVANA, Jan. 15.—A frightful accident has occurred on the Timena-Malanza Railway, eight miles from Cumanayaua, in the Province of Matanzas. A passanger train was going at a good speed when it ran into a cow that had walked suddenly on the track. One of the cars was thrown 200 yards off the track. The engine was derailed and several cars were piled upon each other. Sixteen persons were taken out of the wreck dead. Nine others were badly injured.

Still Another Disaster.

BEVEN MEN DROWNED. SAN RAFAEL, Cal., Jan. 15 .- News has just reached here of a frightful railroad accident at Austin Creek bridge, on the line of the North Pacific Coast Railroad, between the station of Duncan's Mills and Cazadero. As an engine of the North Pacific Coast Railroad was crossing Austin Creek last evening, the bridge gave way and the engine rolled into the creek below. J. The South Orange accommodation ran a distance of 40 feet, drowning seven men. The men were on their way to a washout along the road, and were going at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred. The only man saved was Conductor Brown, who escaped by jumping.

The names of the drowned men are:
Hart, Sabine, Collister, Briggs, Rice,
Bremmer and Gould.

Gave His Sweetheart to a Rich Old Man

to Get Her Back When He Died. CHICAGO, Jan. 15 .- William Gilbert and Martha McBride-Burritt, of Elgin, Ill., were married in the Great Northern Hotel here Saturday. The bride brought to her husband the comfortable sum of $500,000 in real and personal property.

Mr. Gilbert was a news-dealer at Elgin.

Two years ago he was engaged to Miss Mc-Bride. Among his customers was Peter Burritt, seventy years old, ond one of the wealthiest men in Northern Illinois. Burritt met the fair Miss McBride at the news dealer's and fell in love.

One day Miss McBride rushed into Gilbert's store with indignation visible in every line of her countenance. "That horrid old man," she exclaimed. "He wants me to marry him."

"Who?" asked Gilbert, calmly. "Why, that old man, that friend of yours -Mr. Burritt."

"And what if he does? He's got a right to marry if he wants to." "But, William, you're the man I want; I want to marry you.'

"That's all right, too," said Gilbert after a moment's thought. "I am anxious to marry you, but we've both of us out-grown the nonsense of youth and, there's plenty his years the old man was an ardent wooer -the papers announced the wedding of Peter Buritt to Martha McBride. The newly-wedded pair at once started for California. They returned to Elgin seldom. but to their friends there came word of the wife's devotion to her aged husband. The good folk gossipped for a while over the filting of Gilbert, but he continued to prosper in his business and did not seem to worry over his desertion. The aged bridegroom lived but a few months. Now the former Miss McBride has both her lover and Burritt's money.

KENSINGTON ANNIVERSARY.

A Very Successful Service-The Congre gation Prespering. A most successful service was held on Sunday, at the Kensington Methodist Church, it being the third anniversary of the Kensington Sabbath school. The church was filled with the friends and children of the school. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Bishop, of Toronto, and Rev. Mr. Annis and Mr. McVitty, the senior and junior pastors of Queen's Avenue and Kensington circuit. The school is in a most prosperous condition, having made great growth during the past year. The people of Kensington are feeling very thankful to Mr. Thos. Mc-Cornick for giving them their beautiful little church. It has proved a great blessing to them. Last evening the church was filled to overflowing, on the occasion of the children's night. The scholars did themselves great credit in the way they rendered their dialogues and recitations. The singing was simply superb. Those who had the little ones in training for this service deserve great credit. A hearty vote of thanks was passed by the audience for the fine entertainment. Rev.

PRINCE OF WALES GOING AWAY. The Princess of Wales is convalescent after her recent severe illness, but is still very weak and much depressed, and the Princess Maude has also been ill. Sunday was the second anniversary of the death of the Duke of Clarence. Her Royal Highness and her daughter will be away from England until about Whitsuntide. The Prince of Wales intends to be at Cannes during March, and his Royal Highness has ordered the cutter Britannia, which has been laid up at Cowes during the last three months, to fit out at once for the Mediterranean in order that she may take part in the various regattas which are held during the early spring off the Riviera. The Britannia will leave early in February for Marseilles, where the regatta begins on March 4. THE QUEEN'S PRESENT TO HER SON. The Queen has made a formal grant of Clarence House to the Duke and Dachess of Connaught, certain rooms being shut up which are reserved for the exclusive use of the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Cobourg. who retain the right of living there whenever they may happen to visit London. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught always occupied apartments in Buckingham Palace when they were in town, but this was a very inconvenient arrangement, and the Queen has long been anxious to give them a permanent residence in Lon-

A ROYAL BETROTHAL.

The official announcement of the betrothal of the Grand Duke of Hesse and his cousin, Princess Victoria Melita of Cobourg, which took place formally in the Palace of Cobourg on Tuesday afternoon, was delayed until it had been privately communicated to the Emperor and Empress of Russia, the German Emperor and Empress and other relatives. A FAMOUS SILVER CHURN. During his recent visit to the Duke of Rutland at Belvair Castle the Prince of Wales carefully inspected the famous silver churn which was made during the reign of Queen Elizabeth and weighs 2,000 ounces. The superb christening ewer and basin by Benvenuto Cellini were also on view.

MORE MATCH-MAKING. The recent visit of the Duke and Duchess of Chartres to Prince and Princess Waldemar of Denmark at Copenhagen was connected with the project of a marriage between their second daughter, Princess Marguerite, who accompanied them to Copenhagen, and Prince Christian, the eldest son of the Crown Prince of Denmark. In addition to his being the ultimate heir to the Danish throne, Christian will inherit a considerable portion of the immense fortunes which came to his mother, the Crown Princess, from her father, the late King Charles, of Sweden, and her mother, Princess Louise of the Netherlands. Crown Princess Louise, at the time of her marriage in 1869, was the richest heiress in Europe. BOOTLESS RIDICULE.

The Duke of Connaught has been ridiculed for issuing at Aldershot an order relating to bootlaces. He holds the practice of crossing the laces wrong. It is a small matter, perhaps, but the routine of regimental life is made up of small matters. All that the Duke of Connaught has done here is to point out what the right way is for a soldier to deal with bootlaces for the sake of the uniformity which is essential in a well-ordered army.

EGYPT HAS THE YACHTING CRAZE. The Khedive has instructed John Inglis, of the Glasgow ship building firm, who has just returned from Cairo, to design and build a screw steam yacht of 600 tons for his own service in the Mediterranean. The vessel is to be ready by summer.

SWEDEN'S SICK QUEEN. The condition of the Queen of Sweden is causing grave anxiety. Her Majesty is suffering from the after-effects of a severe attack of influenza and a state of extreme weakness. The Crown Princess of Sweden is expected this month at Carlshrue on a visit to her parents, the Grand Duke and Duchess of Baden, and will visit Algiers

A GREAT LAND OWNER. The late Mr. George Rea, of Middleton, Northumberland, was one of the best known and most successful agriculturists in Great Britain, and for many years one of the largest tenant farmers in the kingdom, his rent amounting at one time to £25,000 a year. He was farming nearly 17,000 acres in Northumberland and also held a great sheep farm in Fassifern and about 70,000 acres on the Loch Eli estate in Argyle-

A GIRL AND A WILDCAT.

The Cat Smelled Mince Meat, but Wasn't Permitted to Get It.

SCRANTON, Jan. 16 .- Miss Angie Hosmer, daughter of Elijah Hosmer, of Spruce Hill, Sullivan county, carries a revolver and knows how to handle it. The other morning Miss Hosmer started for the house of her sister, Mrs. Abel Fitch, who lives on the Clark road, three miles west of Mr. Hosmer's. Miss Hosmer had a quantity of mince meat in a basket through the Ames hemlock woods on a short cut to Mr. Fitch's she heard footsteps behind her, and looking back she was startled to see a wildcat following her. The wildcat was working its smellers. Miss Hosmer said, as though it had got a scent of the mince meat, so she struck into a faster walk, thinking to throw the animal off the scent and thereby get rid of it without any trouble. The wildcat also increased its speed, and when Miss Hosmer glanced back again it was closer to her than at first, and was licking its chops as though it imagined it could almost taste the food in the basket. Seeing that the wildcat was bent on following her, Miss Hosmer shouted at it to scare it away; but in that she failed, for the wildcat, instead of turning back, began to lash its tail fiercely and to show by the snapping of its eyes that it was getting angry, and not frightened, at the young

Miss Hosmer came to the conclusion that it wouldn't be safe either to proceed or to shout any more at the wildcat, so she pulled off her mittens, got the revolver from her pocket, and placed the basket on the ground. Hardly had she done so when the wildcat sprang at the basket and started to tear it open. Miss Hosmer then blazed away at the fierce brute, sending a bullet into its head and killing it almost instantly. It had nearly wrecked the basket but it hadn't got at the meat, Miss Hosmer dragged the wildcat's carcass over to her sister's and presented it to Mr. Fitch who is going to have it mounted. It weighed 23½ pounds.

Railway Employes' Wages to be Reduced.

The Employes of J. D. King & Co., Tcronto, Are Out.

There is a general strike at the boot and shoe establishment of J. D. King & Co., Toronto, and about 160 men and girls are out. The employes had demanded the dismissal of certain employes. This was refused, and hence the strike.

A REDUCTION ON THE M. C. R.

Detroit Journal: That the Michigan Central Railroad is to cut the wages of all of $400 if wrongfully refused a ballot. The its employes on all its lines 10 per cent. is the startling rumor that has been flying around. Many of the best posted railroad men agree that it is probable. Such a farreaching cut as this would occasion a conwhich the road must be running. Careful inquiry among the employes of the Michigan Central yesterday failed to find any who had yet been cut in wages, but at the same time there was in some quarters a very general feeling that the reduction was extremely probable, and most of those who looked at it in this way also affirm that there could not be any cause to grumble, as everything How will the property be divided? The subject of unemployed printers was placed in the hands of a committee to learn how many unemployed printers there are in Detroit, and what will be the best plan for their relief. At a meeting of the Central Labor Union, held in Arbeiter Hall, Detroit, on Sunday, a resolution was adopted advocating less hours of work and higher wages as a means of immediate relief, and for a permanent system based on the principles of a cooperative commonwealth. THE BIGGEST FISH THAT SWIMS.

It is the Basking Shark, and It Grows Thirty-five Feet Long. There was great commotion in the zoological department of the Stanford University on Monday afternoon when President Jordon received a telegram from an Italian fisherman at Monterey saying that he had caught a monster of a basking shark, and inquiring if they wanted it. Did they want it? Well, President Jordan rushed from his office across the quadrangle to the zoological laboratory, where Prof. Gilbert and some other fish sharps were busy with pickled fish, and with dignified excitement flourished the telegram. He jerked out his watch and said there was thirty minutes before the Monterey train would get to Palo Alto, over a mile away, and Prof. Gilbert assistant who could hustle, and the two scientists made that trian. The fisherman soon got his answer. President Jordan would have missed two dinners to go along, but he couldn't. All this haste and interest show how much value a basking shark is to a scientist. He is not of much value to anybody else. His value arises like that of many other things mainly from his rarity, for basking sharks are not seen every day, and ichthyologists find few opportunities to study them. The basking shark is an object of popular as well as scientific interest. It is the largest fish that swims the sea. It isn't as big as a bow-head whale, but the whale is not a fish but a mammal. The specimen captured some-they sometimes grow several feet longer. A reported sea serpent, fifty feet long, stranded at Stronsa in 1808, is supposed to have been a basking shark. This greatest of fishes is also the least ferocious of sharks. It sticks pretty well to the bottom of the ocean, is sluggish in movement, and feeds on crustacea, seaweed, etc., instead of other fishes. It belongs to the northern seas, but in summer descends to middle latitudes. "I do not know what Prof. Gilbert will try to do with the specimen," said President Jordan, "but it is worth going after even to photograph, if nothing else. They are rarely caught, and I have been able to see but one on this coast. That was in 1880 at Monterey. We chopped out a piece of one of its gills, and it was all one man wanted to carry. Pictures of the basking shark are not reliable representations, for there have been few chances to draw them. There are probably but a few hundred in the ocean. The British Museum has a standing offer of $1,000 for the skin of one, | the private and public schools. but a man would earn his money getting it. for it would take two months to skin the fish and care properly for the hide. Prof. Gilbert may try to take the skin and he may only take the head. At any rate, it is a valuable opportunity for study." There are about three hogsheads of oil

DIPHTHERIA'S RAVAGES.

A Skilled Medical Man on the Dangers | The London West Council for 1894 of Delay, of the Home Treatment of the Scourge.

(From a Medical Correspondent.) In your Saturday morning's issue there appears a most dogmatic and harmful article, and I, therefore, ask that you kindly allow me space to answer some of the statements made in that letter. First, as to the death rate: Can your correspondent establish the statement that there has been a death rate of 50 per cent. from diphtheria in this city? Secondly, as to the early recognition of the disease: Your correspondent would have the public believe that it is an easy matter to discriminate between diphtheria and other morbid conditions having similar symptoms. It may appear so on paper, but in actual practice not a few cases remain undetermined throughout the entire illness, and it is only when other members of the household become possessed of a more typical attack that the physician can speak as one having authority.

Thirdly, as to the treatment. Evidently your correspondent believes in treating the disease, not the patient; you cannot treat the disease and neglect the patient. Every one that knows anything about the disease he lieves that it depends on microbes which produce local and constitutional effects; and to treat successfully, it is necessary to begin early and adapt the treatment to the conditions of the case. The age of the patient, the habit of body, the position of the membrane, the type and stage of the disease, the character of the patient and attendants are determining factors in the rational treatment followed by any sensible physician. The use of chloral aconite and arsenite of copper may do no harm in the hands of a careful physician, but THEY ARE DEADLY AGENTS TO ADVISE THE PUBLIC TO USE. I would not use these agents in this disease-not because they are new (the first two are old and discarded remedies). but because chloral favors the spread of the membrane by dessicating sound epithelial tissues and all three are powerful heart depressants -- a tendency of the disitself. The worst feature in advising, the public any form of treatment, is that parents will delay sending for a physician till they have tried their own and your correspondent's remedies (?). By reason of this delay the patient's chances of recovery are often just beyond hope. From extensive reading and considerable observation I am convinced that the mortality is greatly increased by the empirical treatment that is practiced by the laity in the early stages. Nasal and laryngeai diphtheria, especially in young, weak and debilitated subjects will often resist any plan of treatment.

In conclusion, my advice to the public is to send at once for their physician when they suspect diphtheria, and never trust to their own skill and remedies recommended by your correspondents.

LISTOWEL, Jan. 15 .- The North Perth Farmers' Institute held a very successful meeting on Saturday. The president, Mr. James Dickson, of Donegal, presided. Ticket sellers sit in the ticket booths and at regular intervals the great wheel stops and guards open the doors for imaginary passengers to enter. The doors are closed, the wheel starts, revolves twice, making a regular trip, then stops again to let off its imaginary passengers and let other phantoms on. The management is keeping us this show for the purpose, it is said, of making a case for damages against the Exposition Company. Nothing is said about removing the wheel .- [Chicago Record.

-Ald. Parnell made a good move when he gave notice in the London City Council that he would propose that all public bodies and all committees of the council be requested to furnish estimates of their financial requirements for the year not later than the first meeting of March, with the view of having the estimates struck at the first meeting in April. Too often in the past has the striking of the rate been delayed till a great portion of the appropriations was spent by the committees and public boards. Ald. Mr. Ross is a good administrator as well as an orator. He has a clear head, and he knows how to use it. That is why the opponents of the Ministry so frequently pitch into him. As Sir John Macdonald was wont to say, "You always find the most stones under the tree that bears the best spples."

Give it a little time. Meanwhile, note that the intolerant La Minerve is the leading Conservative newspaper in Quebec, and that Senator Tasse, its editor, was chosen by Sir John Thompson chief commissioner we believe that provided a man does so without an ulterior object it should be a matter between himself and his conscience alone when he resolves to change his church, and we do not hesitate to say that the person who attempts to bring obliquy upon such an one is neither more nor less than a firebrand of the worst description. So long as a man is a good citizen he should have perfect freedom to worship his God as to him seems best.

POPULAR ELECTION OF TRUSTEES | authorities might pass a law to go into Under the rather peculiar circumstances exemplified in the report of their proceedings the London City Council, of 1894, through the casting vote of the mayor, began by affirming the view that a defeated candidate for school trustee was to be preferred as a high school trustee to a thoroughly qualified citizen who had not been defeated.

There has been a tendency in recent years to give solace to defeated candidates for municipal office by electing them to positions in the gift of one or other of the municipal bodies.

The present arrangement is unsatis-

At the next session of the Legislature, some one could serve the cities a good turn by proposing that the high school trustees, at present annually selected by the aldermen, should be elected by the whole people as the water commissioners and hospital trustees are.

Let us have popular elections as often as possible, and the people will then be responsible if any mistake is made.

LET NO FALSE STEP BE TAKEN In view of the grave question regarding the legal rights of the Governments to deal with prohibitory enactments, either in whole or in part, the Western Ontario Prohibition Union takes a very proper step when it makes the demand that there shall be concurrent legislation, as far as their powers go, by both Governments.

Those amateur lawyers and legislative tyros who have so readily expressed their belief that both the Governments have prohibitory powers should study up the opinions of the Supreme Court and of the British Privy Council with regard to the points in dispute, and they will see the necessity of avoiding expensive and prolonged legal struggles by the agency so readily adopted by Sir Oliver Mowat when he sent for settlement in the highest court in the land every question regarding the jurisdiction of the respective Parliaments. That decision will not be long delayed, and then the course will be clear. Just now, let it be remembered, that Chief Justice Ritchie, of the Dominion Supreme Court, has already put himself on record with regard to this question in these clear and emphatic terms:

"I think it equally clear that the Local Legislatures have not the power to prohibit, the Dominion Parliament having not only the general powers of legislation, but also the sole power of regulating as well internal as external trade and commerce, and of imposing duties of customs and excise; and having by law authorized the importation and facture of alcoholic liquors, and exacted such duties thereon, and so far legalized the trade and traffic therein, to allow the Local Legislatures-under pretense of police regulation, on grounds of general public policy and utility-by prohibitory laws to annihilate such trade and traffic, and practically deprive the Dominion Government of a branch of trade and commerce from which so large a part of the public revenue was at the time of Confederation raised in all the Provinces-and has since been raised in the Dominionnever could have been contemplated by the framers of the British North America

The Lords of the British Privy Councils when dealing with the Canada Temperance

"The act is not a fiscal law-a law for raising revenue; on the contrary, the effect of it may be to destroy or diminish revenue and consequently could not have been passed by the Provincial Legislature by virtue of any authority conferred upon it

The section here referred to affirms that n each Province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to "shop, saloon, tavern, auctioneer and other licenses in order to the raising of a revenue for provincial, local or municipal purposes." This statement goes to prove that the highest court in the British realm holds to the view that the Legislatures cannot legislate to destroy or diminish revenue. Further explanations on this subject show where the British Privy Council stands. The same decision says:

"And suppose the effect of the act to be prejudicial to the revenue derived by the municipality from licences, it does not follow that the Dominion Parliament might not pass it by virtue of its general authority 'to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Canada.' The act does not properly belong to the class of subjects, 'property and civil rights.' It has in its legal aspect an obvious and close similarity to laws which place restrictions on the sale or custody of poisonous drugs, or of dangerously explosive substances. The primary matter dealt with is the public order and safety. Upon the same consideration the act cannot be regarded as legislation in relation to civil rights. Laws designed for the promotion of public order, safety or morals, and which subject those who contravene them to criminal procedure and punishment, belong to the subject of public wrongs rather than to that of civil rights. They are of a nature which ment to make laws for the order and good government of Canada, and have direct reation to criminal law, which is one of the enumerated classes of subjects assigned exclusively to the Parliament of Canada," It is undoubtedly made clear that prohibition of the liquor traffic is well within the powers of the Dominion Parliament, to the Chicago exposition. For our part, but the question that meets us is, Do the same arguments sustain the view that the Provinces have the right to pass a prohibitory act? What powers to restrict the traffic the Legislatures have cugit to be exercised to the full, in view of the verdict at the polls, but it would be against the best interests of the Province if any illegal stand were taken by the Legislature while a speedy decision of the whole question is being obtained from those authorities that alone can settle it. The Provincial force, say next year, subject to its being found that the enactment was declared valid by the Privy Council, but it would not be wise, in the best interests of temperance, to take any haphazard course that would have the effect, as in the case of local option, of indefinitely postponing a settle-

REVIVAL OF BUSINESS.

A January thaw without anything to thaw is not a very reassuring time in which to talk about a revival of business, and the uncertainties with regard to the tariff changes so long delayed, and yet not in sight, add to the difficulty of prognosticat. ing an improvement in buying and selling. Nevertheless there comes from the United States various reports that give hopes of better times at an early date. Henry Clews, the well-known financier, in his last weekly review points out the circumstances that favor this view. 'Such a paralysis of production as has Clews, "is entirely incompatible with supplying the current wants of consumption. Carefully compiled information gathered by one of the commercial agencies from thousands of firms and corporations show that for the last six months action, and perform their required functhe contraction of sales by manufacturers has been more than double that of merchants, and that, in some important branches of trade, the curtailment of retail sales has been comparatively nominal. The amount of imported merchandise going into consumption at New York during the last of the truth. half of 1893 was $84,000,000 less than for the same time or 1892, which amounts to a decrease of 30 per cent.; while, for the last wo months, the reduction averaged 36 per cent. These facts show that, though the reduction in the supply of goods coming through importation has not quite equaled that which has occurred in domestic sources of supply, yet the curtailment even in this department is nearly double the ratio of the decline that is shown by Dun's statistics to have occurred in the sales direct to consumers. This process of contraction at the sources of supply, to an extent so entirely disproportioned to the actual consumption, and extending over more than six months, cannot fail to have produced a depletion of stocks and merchandise virtually unprecedented. Merchants whose opinion is entitled to respect, tell us that, in the leading branches of trade, the stocks of to-day do not exceed a three weeks' consumption at the present curtailed rate. These facts have certainly this much significance-whatever else they may imply-that there must be an immediate considerable resumption of production; and that such a resumption, if conservatively adjusted to the demand, can be undertaken with a reasonable prospect of profit-for the relation of supply and demand is en- Sick Headache, Female Comtirely in favor of the manufacturer. This conclusion is borne out by the process of resumption of work in iron works, in textile factories and in other industries, which is becoming more marked every day. This resumption is also evidence that manufacturers have at last reached a point as which they can approximately estimate the conditions in which they will be placed under the new duties, and that consequently they feel it safe to undertake production to an extent compatible with their being able to control prices, leaving the ultimate rate of output to be determined by the new duties finally established by Congress. This puts a more hopeful aspect upon the prospects of labor, which is now suffering from idleness and has lost much of its purchasing ability. In this matter also there has been an exaggerated misapprehension. Estimates have been published of an extent of unemployed labor which even largely exceeds the entire number of operatives employed in the trades referred to. The more exact inquiry has been instituted the more it has become evident that the estimates of unemployed throughout the country have been exaggerated in many cases two-fold or even three-fold. These are discoveries of fact which are calculated to produce a juster conception of the real condition of business affairs. Wall street observers have an eye upon this process of correction of estimates, and there are those who look at it

Stock Exchange." This is a significant statement, It will be interesting to observe how far it may be verified. Canadians enjoy so intimate trade relations with their neighbors, in spite of high tariff walls, and are so affected by the conditions over the border, that no wellwisher of the Dominion can help rejoicing to know that there is a prospect of improvement in trade.

Mr. Joseph Hemmerich, an old soldier, 529 E. 145th St., N. Y. City, writes us voluntarily. In 1862, at the battle of Fair Oaks, he was stricken with typhoid fever, and after a long struggle in hospitals, lasting several years, was discharged as incurable with Consumption.

Doctors said both lungs were affected and he could not live long, but a comrade urged him to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before he had finished one bottle his cough began to get loose, the choking sensation left, and night sweats grew less and less. He is now in good health and cordially recommends urday and many on Sunday. Two serious iceboat accidents occurred on Hamilton Bay, one Saturday and the other Sunday. A lad named Clive Walker, son of James Walker, Hunter street, was on the bay, when an iceboat ran into him, and the result was a terrible cut on his head. The lad was carried to the G. T. R. depot, and from there taken home and two doctors called, who dressed and sewed up the wound. Sunday morning, Mr. Noyes, of Duke street, in company with Mr. R. T. Steele, of Jackson street, were taking a morning walk on the bay ice, when an iceboat struck Mr. Noyes, cutting into the calf of his leg nearly to the bone. Mr. Steele escaped. A cab was called and Mr. Noyes taken home, when medical aid was called and the wound sewn up.

Adolph Norseng, who is matched to skate a series of races with Joe Donohue at Manhattan Field as soon as there is ice there, met with an accident the other day, while training near Fishkill, that came very near resulting fatally. As the ice was not very 'good on the Hudson Norseng selected a small pond alongside of the New York Central Railroad and with his trainer began skating. Suddenly the ice gave way Norseng disappeared in fifteen feet of water. When he came to the surface he grabbed the ice, which broke again, and he sank back a second time. The trainer now pulled off his coat and holding on to one sleeve threw it so that Norseng caught hold of the other. Then, as the trainer began hauling the skater out of the water, the ice began to crack and give way all around them. After a great bit of hustling both men finally succeeded in getting out of danger. Norseng went to his quarters, where he was threatened with pneumonia for two days. Of course he broke training and wrote to Donohue and Receiver Freed. man, asking that the races be postponed a bit. Since then he has resumed regular

"No injunction shall hereafter be granted in any suit in equity brought to restrain the infringement of any patent for invention when it shall appear that the patent sued upon is owned or controlled by or used in aid of any combination in the form of a trust or otherwise, or of any conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations, or when it shall appear that such suit is brought by, or in aid of, or at the expense of such combination.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruise, cuts and sores succumb to its action. Drunkenness is the most common offense in Russia.

The great lung healer is found in the exsellent medicine sold as Pickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It scothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarnemess. pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

SHE WANTS A DIVORCE.

Two Former Londoners the Principals-Charges on Both Sider.

The Toronto Empire says: George E. Driffill, a Canadian, who with his wife resided in this city until two years ago, has been sued by Mrs. Driffill for "a decree of divorce, the restoration of her maiden name and a monthly allowance of $100."

The Driffills came here from London Ont. Mr. Driffil was a stereotyper, and the inventor of a paste valuable in his own business. Upon making the invention Mr. Driffill removed from Toronto to Detroit, and subsequently decided that Cleveland, Ohio, afforded a better market for his invention. He accordingly established a business in that city, where he has lived since. The action is to be tried in Cleveland. Mrs. Driffill, in her petition, alleges cruelty and non-support and claims that her husband induced her to sign over to him a property in Detroit. She also claims that after they had separated Driffil and his sister wrote a letter reflecting on her character to a Cleveland firm by whom she was employed, thereby causing her dismissal. She also claims that he hired disreputable persons to follow her about the streets of Cleveland, causing her to be disgraced in the eyes of the public. Mr. Driffill denies the several charges, and makes a plea of infidelity. He has engaged a Cleveland detective agency to discover the writer of the letter referred to in Mrs. Driffill's petition and to hunt up his wife's record. A Cleveland detective has been in Toronto for the past few days for this purpose. He claims that there is a deep conspiracy at the bottom of the letter incident, by which certain people hope to deprive his client of his business in Cleveland. The alleged interested parties are a couple of Cleveland lawyers. The detective's theory is that these lawyers wrote the letter and then induced Mrs. Driffill to take action.

Mr. Driffill and his sister were arrested charged with criminal libel. The case has not yet been disposed of. The detective hopes that at the trial he will be able to show who wrote the letter. Should he do so the writers will be indicted for conspiracy. Besides the two lawyers already mentioned he claims that a Cleveland detective agency will also be involved. One of their operatives, he claims, took the letter to Chicago and posted it. The detective states that the writing of this letter is only part of the plot. The remainder is yet to come. He also claims to have obtained sufficient evidence in Cleveland to defeat Mrs. Driffill's peti-

Plot to Burn an Italian City Discovered

-Spreading Terror. ROME, Jan. 16-(Copyright). - There is considerable excitement to-day in Carrara. The discovery Saturday night of an Anarchist plot to loot and burn the city of Carrara, led the police and military authorities to take extraordinary precautions to prevent any attempt to carry out the plans of the conspirators. Early today a number of conspirators from the adjoining districts sought to enter the city, but were prevented by the military. A number of shots were exchanged by the rioters and the troops, but so far as known nobody was hurt. Finding it was impossible for them to get into the clty, where they intended to join the Anarchists resident in this city, the mob scattered in different directions. They are now scouring the country, carrying terror to the quiet people living there. They go to every house and demand of the occupants

Depositors Will Get Nothing From the

Wrecked Milwaukee Bank. MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 16 .- Falsified books, inflated assets, worthless securities, bad loans and nothing or next to nothing for the depositors is the history of the financiering which caused the wreck of the South Side Saving Bank, according to the testimony of expert August R. Conrad, who testified in the case of Banker John B. Koetting to-day. He swore that on the morning of July 21, 1893, when the bank closed there were in the bank $224,000 of assets to meet liabilities of $1,620,038 31, or an actual deficiency of $1,230.000. Mr. Conrad swore that he found that according to the official published statements of the bank there should have been a capital of $100,000, but he found no mention of it in the books and did not put in his statement of liability. He searched the books as far back as they go and found a statement in mentioned as $25,000, and this was the only reference. This statement caused a sensation in the crowded court room, and the penniless depositors had heard what they expected-that every hope was gone.

"Yes, I had hoped that you had changed your mind, Zenobia," he said, gravely.

She laughed.

"Why should I? What have you left me but this? You have ruined me utterly, and, of course, I fly, where all wives should fly for comfort, to my husband!"

Still he stood regarding her.

"Is there anything I see."

Still he stood regarding her.

"Is there anything I can say lhat would persuade you to alter your determination, Zenobia?" he said quietly, almost sadiy.

"Think well before you take this desperate step, for it is desperate. What but misery of the deepest kind can spring from it! Think well! I am going to the uttermost end of the earth, far from England and civilization. I shall never return—never! Are you prepared to embark on such a life, life that will be a daily torture to you? Think, Zenobia! I will give you more than sufficient for your needs. I am a rich man, but I will share half of all I possess—I will give you the greater part of it—if you will leave me to go my way in peace. It is all I ask! You think to torture me, but will you not also suffer? Will not your misery be greater than mine?"

"I know that you hate me," she sald; "I know that I hate you, and it is because of that knowledge that I have resolved to accompany you, my dear Gerald. Love!" she laughed, a hard, cruel laugh. "I have never believed in it; the ambition I lived for you have rendered impossible; but there is still revenge; you cannot rob me of that! My revenge; you cannot rob me of that! My dear Gerald, I am your wife—and you would send me away from you!" and she smited into his pale, haggard face.

He hesitated no longer; he knew that he might as well have addressed his pleading to the stones on the beach. With a gesture of solemn acquiescence he drew his whistle from his pocket and gave the signal.

The boat put off from the yacht and came swiftly to the shore, and, without a word, he helped her into it. As he did so he remembered how, a few hours ago, he had membered now, a few hours ago, he had gently and tenderly placed Carrie where this woman—his wife—now sat, and his face worked with anguish at the recollection.

In silence they sat side by side, in silence he assisted her to gain the deck. The skipper stared a little at the sight of a lady, but instantly thread away to his duties.

With a gesture of weariness and contempt, Zenobia sank on to the cushioned seat, and looked round, Gerald Moore took the key from the door and placed it on the table.

"This is your cabin," he said; here is the key. You will ring the bell," and he pointed to an electric bell, "when you require anything. At the next port I will endeavor to engage a maid for you. Is there anything you wish for now?" She looked at him silently.

The skipper awaited him. "I don't like the look of the weather, sir," he said, glancing at the sky. "There will be a storm."

Gerald Moore smiled wearily.
"It will not be the first time the Falcon has lived through, Williams!"
"No, sir; but I was thinking of the lady." "She is a good sailor," said Gerald

The skipper touched his hat. "Of course there is no danger—that is if we get out into the open and keep in the wind," he said, and walked off.

Gerald Moore paced the deck, lost in gloomy thought. The sky darkened; a heavy mass of clouds rose as it seemed all round them: every now and then a flash of lightning lit up the sky, and made the darkness it momentarily dispelled all the darker for its visit. But he did not seem to notice it. Against such a storm as raged within his breast the anger of the elements were as nothing.

Zenobia lay crouched on the settee, her hands clasped on her lap, her eyes gleaming from her white face, her whole attitude like that of a panther at bay. She had lit a lamp, and by its light he saw that she was trembling and quivering from head to foot. With a spring she rose to her feet, her hands clutching spasmodically at her cloak.

"I have changed my mind," she said. and her voice seemed hoarse and harsh. "I will go back. Do you hear? I will go back! Why do you stare at me? Do you not understand! You were anxious enough to get rid of me an hour ago; you shall have your wish! I will go back!"

He saw what had happened. The intense quietude of the cabin, the solitude, had told people of this thriving village now freely | lages and towns, know the enterprising and heartily discuss a subject that has interested thousands in other parts of the Dominion.

The popular subject in the quiet and wellordered homes of this place has nothing to do with politics, religion or foreign matters; even local subjects pertaining to improvements are lost sight of, while the more weighty one-that of relieving pain, curing disease and bringing back lost health, by he use of Paine's celery compound, is spoken of by young and old.

The record of wonderful cares effected in large centers of population hes reached this town, situated on the Mad River, and has developed an interest, especially amongst the sick and their friends, that cannot easily die out or fade from memory.

Residents here have heard how their relatives and triends in other places were cured by Paine's celery compound, and have used the great life-giver themselves; no instance of failure or disappointment has been re-ported; all rejoice because of the banishment of old and dangerous maladies.

For these reasons the people of this village and surrounding country are ready to testify regarding the merits of Paine's celery compound, its worth to the afflicted and its superiority over all other preparations.

At the present time it will suffice to mention the name of one prominent family here who have truly tested and tried the efficacy of Paine's celery compound and derived results that are wonderful.

-The sale of the stock of E. L. Cleveland, of Alvinston, which was advertised for yesterday by Mr. J. W. Jones, was withdrawn, a settlement having been reached. The stock comprised boots and shoes, glassware and groceries and was valued at $1,226 69.

-The King's Daughters in connection with Christ Church held their monthly meeting last evening. An excellent address was given by Mrs. Tilley, which was of a very encouraging character, and no doubt proved helpful as well as extremely interesting to the members.

-According to a dispatch received the Alert Baseball Club, of this city, will not have the services of that crack first baseman, "Doc" Sippi, next year. He has signed a contract to play with the Grand Rapids team in the Western League. "Doc" will be a hard man to replace and the lovers of baseball will be sorry to hear of his signing elsewhere. Joe Knight, the left fielder of the old London club, has also signed with Grand Rapids.

-Mr. Pendergast denies some of the statements in the paragraph copied yesterday from the Detroit News. He writes: "In regard to the article published that the Navins did not withdraw the non-support case against Pendergast, the latter did not have a change of heart, nor change of purse, as the statement is correct that they withdrew the charge, paying all costs. He (Pendergast) is not looking for newspaper notoriety, but would like true statements. The action was brought against Pendergast by Navin, and therefore he had no action to drop."

-St. Thomas Journal: Very general regret will be felt at the death of Miss Mary Roe, daughter of Mr. Charles Roe, which sad event took place yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital. London. The deceased has been ailing for a year and went over to London to have an operation performed, which was successfully accomplished on Friday, but she had not the strength to recuperate from the shock, and passed away 48 hours afterwards. The deceased lady, who was 32 years of age, was a member of Trinity Church, and took a prominent part in Sunday school and church work, being a teacher in the Sunday school.

Keep At It. A leading American advertiser recently wrote as follows: "A man eats a bucketful of food a week. Make him eat a halfbucketful on Monday and a half on Wednesday, and nothing between and he'll starve to death or die of the stomach-ache. In the continuity of everything is the success of it, particularly advertising."

Came Home to Die. Mr. Alfred J. Webster, formerly of this city, but who had lived in Detroit for the past six or seven years, died yesterday at the residence of his mother, 232 Queen's avenue, in the 44th year of his age. Deceased came home to spend the Christmas holidays and was taken ill with typhoid fever, from which he never rallied. He was at one time in business here and was much esteemed. The funeral will be private.

An Enjoyable Concert. night with an audience which had assembled to listen to one of the best concerts ever given in the city Rev. Dean Innes presided. A glance at the programme indicated what proved to be a fact-that all who took part were artists, and judging is $422,861 19. The total assessment is from the numerous encores demanded the vast audience were highly delighted with the selections given. That favorite with Lon-doners, Mr. Harold Jarvis, of Detroit, was present, and sang in his usual fine voice, and with the pleasing expression and ease which is so characteristic of his performance. In the solos, "Bay of Biscay" and "The Holy City" (which was given by request), he displayed his abilities in a wonderful manner and received a rousing encore, to which nothing but a response would satisfy the audience. It was, indeed, a fitting climax to the evening's enjoyment. Mr. Thomas Martin pleased his hearers with a pianot solo equally as well as on previous occasions; while Mrs. Moore, in giving a selection of her own composition, was loudly applauded. Major Denison, Miss Grace Blackburn and Miss Oakley, in recitations; Miss Ashby, in a piano solo, and Miss Quita Moore and Miss Hamilton Moore, in solos, were also well received. Owing to illness Dr. Sippi was unable to be present. The following is the programme:

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC. Wilson Barrett To-Night in "Othello"-

"The Irish Statesman."

WILSON BARRETT TO-NIGHT. Wilson Barrett, the renowned English actor, will appear at the Grand Opera House to-night in "Othello." The play needs no commendation; neither does the actor. Mr. Barrett's fame has preceded him from across the water, and his American tour has crowned him with fresh laurels. His Othello is a magnificent impersonation. Miss Maud Jeffries is said to be the sweetest Desdemona on the stage, and Franklin McLeay, the Canadian, a brilliant Iago. The stage mountings are To-morrow (Wednesday) night "Claudian," a melodrama new to Canada, will be presented, earthquake and all. The latter is described as marvelous. The story of 'Claudian" is a unique one and abounds in thrilling situations. Mr. Barrett's engagement will be an event extraordinary. "THE IRISH STATESMAN."

A poor house greeted Carroll Johnston in "The Irish Statesman" at the Grand last night. Those who were there appeared well pleased with the performance. The show is a new departure in Irish drama. The curtain generally rolls down finally when the oppressed hero and the persecuted heroine find all the obstacles to their union removed. But in "The Irish Stateman" the play goes further, and the hero becomes one of the leading statemen of the American Republic, while the heroine, supposedly an American heiress, turns out to be an adopted Irish orphan girl. But that does not interfere with the fortune. The last act is laid in the year 1900, and Ireland is then supposed to be a nation. Carroll Johnston fully sustained the rollicking part of Osmonde O'Sullivan, and Miss Clara Knott did fequally well as Annabel Lovelace, the heroine.

BARRETT'S POPULARITY. A Hamilton dispatch of last night's date says: "Wilson Barrett's 'Hamlet' tonight drew the largest and most fashionable audience ever in the Grand Opera House. Saturday's houses in Toronto were the greatest in the history of that house."

It first made definite inroads in this country three years ago, and this year it seems to have returned in a more virulent form, pro-ducing effects far-reaching and uniformly demoralizing to the system, and it becomes absolutely necessary that the system should be kept in a state of perfect health in order to withstand and combat this terrible disease.
