First Hussars Leave Camp-The Murder the Chief Tonic-Divine

Friday night was the last for the First Hussars under canvas, and this morning they deserted the camp. C squadron left on the Grand Trunk for Courtright at 8 o'clock, and D squadron at the same hour on the C. P. R. for Kingsville. A and B squadrons of this city were the last to leave. Major Lessard, inspector of cavalry, yesterday put the regiment through a thorough inspection, and complimented Lieut .-Col. Gartshore on the splendid physique and proficiency of the corps. He expressed his opinion regarding the camp, and said it was the best and cleanest he had yet visited. Lieut.-Col. McLaren, P. M. O., late of Fredericton, made his medical inspec-tion. He stated last night that the physique of the men at this camp was very much better than the last. "The Wellington Rifles and the Huron Battalion have more 'big, little' men than any battalion I ever saw," he said. "They are a plump, harty, sound lot." From the Thirtieth only two were struck from the roll, and these had passed the age limit. Three were struck from the Sixth Field Battery, 1 from the Eleventh Field Battery, 8 from the Thirtythird and four from its band. Only were struck from the roll in the Twenty-second Oxford Rifles and all of these were under age.

LONDON LOST IN THE TENTH. Pent-up enthusism received a chance yesterday for relaxation over the teninnings contest between the Bay City and London teams. For an all-stirring, generally was good, and the game was interesting, although one-sided. Score: uncertain game, it was unexcelled. When Bay City scored the winning run in the tenth with one out, the watches ticked off 6:17. From the third inning, when London scored seven runs, the lead alternated. At the close of the home team's eighth inning they were one run ahead, but Bay City evened

The game was notable for the heavy batting of both clubs. Nothing seemed to stop the fusillade of hits safely placed. Carson held the box for six innings, when Crowe was substituted. In the seventh Crowe was hit for three singles; two in the eighth, and one in the tenth, which brought in the winning run, and which would have been for three bases if necessary. In the eighth Carey, the new fielder, took Grimshaw's place at the bat. The latter had an excellent chance of scoring in the sixth, when with two out and the bases full, he struck out. It was his second strike-out in four times at bat. Carey made a debut which put him in favor with the crowd, as he cracked out a two-bagger to right field, scoring Smith. He secured his second hit in the ninth on the first ball pitched, with a liner to center. Crowe, who was substituted for Carson, batted in two runs after two men were out in the seventh on a long hit to left, which placed him on third. He had a chance to place London's score in the lead in tenth, when Howell was on third, but drove a long fly to Robb. Saunders took Ward's place at short field. Ward was sick, and although Saunders' hits, a double in the third and a single in the seventh, were timely for driving in runs, his errors on slow round hits were very costly, as the batter in both cases reached the plate. Sharp plays abounded throughout the ten innings. Meara's difficult running catch was one of the best he has made this season, and he almost caught the long hit of Nordyke's drive in the tenth. Lowney's acute insight of the game saved his team, especially on one occasion. In the sixth, with two out, Meara on third and Smith on second, he hurriedly ran to Watkins as Keenan went to bat. Sullivan took the cue, and after two pitched balls purposely stepped aside to catch wide balls, sending Keenan to first. Grimshaw, as related above, struck out. Carey should here have been sent to bat. London came near scoring in the first.

Mears hit safely and reached third on bition of bunting by London. Three players purposely attempted to sacrifice, but all reached first through the inability of Bay City to cut off the base runners. They came so fast that Watkins gave a base on balls and hit two players in succession, besides throwing wild to third to head off a runner. Saunders' double sent in two, and Sechrist's single did the same. Eleven men went to bat. The eighth was interesting, as London forged ahead. Five singles and a double made the astonished Watkins wish he was out of the game.

Lowney scored the run in the first on a double, an error and an out. Carson presented Watkins with his base in third. When Lowney hit at his third strike he stepped on to the plate, hindering Ruening from throwing to second. McNierney called him out. Ruening had dropped the third strike, and may not have heard the decision, as he threw badly to Grimshaw. Watkins going to third. Popkay flied to Smith. With two out, Robb and Royce hit safely and Conklin reached first, being hit by a pitched ball. Nordyke cleared the three bags with a beautiful three-bagger to center field. In the sixth Carson was touched up for four singles and a double. Upon Crowe's emtrance into the box in the seventh, Nordyke, Sullivan and Lowney hit out singles, scoring two runs. Score: LONDON.

the close of the inning attempted to vent his spite upon Griffin, making a disgraceful assault upon him. Black is a much larger man than Griffin, but the players prevented him from doing any injury. The assault was entirely unprovoked by Griffin, and the audi-ence hooted Black, making such a demonstration that he asked a policeman to accompany him to the street car after the game.

THE CHATHAM DEAL. Overtures have been made by Chatham sporting men to secure a transfer of the Saginaw team to that place, but Manager Black states that no such pro-position will be considered until it is fully demonstrated that baseball in Saginaw will not pay. The greatest trouble with the team now is the roasting they are frequently subjected to by the grand stand.

SUFFERED FOR YEARS.

Joints and Limbs Were Swollen Three Times Their Natural Size-The Suffer in Bed for a Year and a Half. [From the Echo, Wiarton, Ont.]

Mrs. Wm. Thew, who is well known in the town of Wiarton, was a sufferer from heart trouble and articular rheu-matism for a period of fifteen years. Lately her condition has so much im-proved that a reporter of the Echo call-ed upon her to ascertain to what cause the change was due. Irs. Thew, while the change was due. Zrs. Thew, while not courting publicity, consented to give a brief statement of her case in hope that some other sufferer might be benefited. She said: "My joints were all swollen up to three times their natural size and for a year and a half I was unable to leave my bed. I secured medical treatment and the doctors told me that I would never be able to walk again. I took medicine they prescribed but it failed to give any relief. I took patent medicines but they did not help me. Having noticed an advertisement in a paper for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I concluded to give them a trial and they gave me relief from the time I commenced using them about the first of January last. I have taken ten boxes. I am now able to go round without assistance and do all my housework." Dr. Williams' Jink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is inclosed in a wrapper bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Not only this, but it is much to be hoped that the honorable gentleman will stand firm as well as realize that in spite of the sneers and carping criticisms of 'interested contractors' and their friends, full value for public money expended is best secured through having the work performed by day labor and the payment therefor of fair having the work performed by day labor and the payment therefor of fair wages. The perfection attained in the manufacture of our new Patent Transposing Piano has given this instrument the indorsement of leading musicians, and especially of those who are engaged in vocal music. With this invention one is able to accomplish that which has long been desired by practical men, namely: The adjustability of pitch, especially since the adoption of the French pitch. By its use the performer, while playing the same key, is enabled to render the music in all the different keys with regard to pitch; at the same time the change may be produced by the slightest effort, the keyboard being operated by a lever within reach of the performer and the change of pitch being produced in a second's time. Music played as written may be rendered in any of the various keys desired.

SPANISH LOSSES. Twelve dead Spaniards were found in the bush after the fight, but their loss was doubtless far in excess of that number.

HEARD OF IT AT MADRID. Madrid, June 25 .- It is rumored that the government has received a long dispatch from Cuba, announcing that a battle had occurred near Santiago ed while swimming ashore through the de Cuba by land and sea. It is persistently reported, though the rumor lacks confirmation, that the government has received a further dispatch

AN HOUR'S FIGHTING.

Gen. Young commanded the expedition and was with the regulars, while Col. Wood directed the operations of the rough riders several miles west. Both parties struck the Spaniards about the same time, and the fight lasted an hour. The Spaniards opened fire from the thick brush and had every advantage of numbers and position; but the troops drove them back from the start, stormed the blockhouse, around which they made a final stand and sent them scattering over the mountains. The cavalrymen were afterward reinforced by the Seventh, Twelfth, and Seventeenth Infantry, part of the Ninth Cavalry, the Second Massachusetts and the Seventy-First New York.

On Wednesday afternoon the American flag was flown from the top of Altares Mountains, back of Baiquiri, amid wild enthusiasm.

The Cubans under Gen. Demetrius Caustillo, who entered Baiquiri after the Spaniards had deserted the town, wore little more clothing than rags, many of them two-thirds naked. Some had no trousers and only tattered shirts, while the majority of them were barefooted. They were mostly negroes, some being boys of only 15 years of age. The guns they carried were of many models, ranging from flintlocks to Mausers and Remingtons. All, however, were armed with machetes. The officers rode donkevs and scrub horses. The sun was blazing hot, and a number of the soldiers, prostrated by the intense heat, were taken on board the hospital ships. TALK OF A LONG WAR.

London, June 25 .- The Madrid correspondent of the Times says: American landing at Santiago de Cuba has made little impression here. Nobody doubts the ability of the town to resist for a considerable time, while even if it should be captured, matters will not be advanced much, as the concentration of the American efforts at Santiago will give Gen. Blanco time to complete his preparations for the main struggle. This change in the American plan of campaign is expected rather to prolong than to curtail the duration of the war.

DISPOSITION OF THE FORCES. Off Santiago de Cuba, June 22, by the Associated Press Dispatch Boat to Port Antonio Jamaica. June 24.—The situation as regards the disposition of the American, Spanish and Cuban forces is as follows: Gen. Shafter's army of 16,500 men is massed to the eastward of Santiago de Cuba at Baiquiri and Juragua. Gen. Castillo, with 1,200 men, is at Baiquiri, and Col. Aguero, with 200, at Juragua. These are to be joined by Gen. Garcia with 4,000 men. Three thousand of Gen. Garcia's men hold 12,000 Spaniards in Holguin, and Gen. Rabi, with 1,000, threatens 2,000 Spanish troops at Manzanillo. In Santiago there are believed to be 9,000 Spanish soldiers, with such reinforcements as are had by the concentration movement now in progress.

THE SEAT OF WAR. Baiquiri, where the first landing was made, and Jaragua, where General Lawton's headquarters were Wednesday night, are both small coast towns in the throat of the narrow cuts through a range of low fails fringing all the southern coast. Baiquiri is 12 miles east of Santiago, and Jaragua is 8 miles east of that city by the coast line road which runs behind the hills twice as far. The pioneers report that the trail is practicable for artillery and pack-trains, but it is unspeakably bad for walking, though reasonably even. The American troops have now passed all the small hills intervening between here and Santiago.

PLAIN SAILING. The remaining 12 miles by road is over a practically level country, with more chance for open order. So far, however, the road has been, in most places, through an impregnable junglegrowth, thorns and creepers, smelling like the interior of a fragrant overheated conservatory, and picturesque with splashes of tropical colors in oleanders and other flowers, but terrible for troops. For half a mile, near Demajayaho, a small stream runs in the road, and the men have been compelled to walk in the water frequently. The medical advice about wet feet, night perspiration-soaked bodies. and the necessity of boiling drinkingwater has already been thrown to the winds. Easy as the advice sounds at home, it is almost impossible to follow it

DISTRESSING HEAT. Some of the American officers who are familiar with Arizona say they have never seen soldiers on the plains present such pictures of distress from the heat, and they add that the only wonder is that there are so few prostrations at present. The American stature and apparent stamina are remarkable in comparison with the Cubans and Spaniards. The colored soldiers of the 25th and 10th regiments are uniformly large, and they seem black giants in the jungle beside the tiny negro Cuban guides. Daylight saw the first move of the Americans from Demajayaho, the 22nd infantry passing the 8th infantry on the extreme outpost while the latter breakfasted, the Cubans scouting ahead, beating up the Spanish like partridges and driving them along.

BY RAIL. The Spanish hastily tried to disable a locomotive, standing with steam upon the track, by disconnecting the coupling-rods, throttle lever, and such essential parts, burying some and throwing others into the sea. Two engineers happened to be with the advanced squadron of the 22nd infantry, and the troops went for the locomotive with a yes. The soldiers hunting about for the missing parts found some and improvised others. One engineer acted as fireman and the other at the throttle. In 20 minutes they ran her into Juragua with the tender full of sharpshooters. The engineer remarked: "If the fools had knocked in the cylinder-head we could not fix

Berlin, June 25 .- The results of 54 second ballots in the reichstag elections show the return of 5 Conservatives, 5 Centrists, 4 Fresinge candidates, 11 Socialists, 9 National Liberals, 3 Imperialists, 15 Radicals, 1 anti-Semite candidate, and 1 candidate of the Reform party. Among the most prominent of those elected is Herr Ahlwardt, at Ainswalde; Herr Broemel, of the Rad-ical People's party, at Stettin; Herr Muchjker, another member of the same party at Grunberg, and Herr Richter, at Hagen. The feature of the elections, which everywhere have been orderly, has been the heavy reverse to the Socialists.

SPAIN'S DARK DAY.

New York, June 25 .- A dispatch from Madrid says: "A chapter of surprises and of decisive events in Spain w.ll open with the close of the cortes and the fall of Manila and Santiago. The news from Santiago, especially the distressful telegram from Admiral Cervera, reporting the situation in detail, has caused consternation. The queen burst into tears when the ministers of marine and of war informed her today of the condition of affairs there." The leading generals consider the outlook here very grave. They have offered to protect the cabinet and the diplomatic corps. There is great alarm in financial quarters. Stocks of all kinds are tumbling, and the premium on gold has gone to 95.

Madrid presents a scene of extraordinary excitement. Special editions of the newspapers are bought eagerly and read and commented upon, even in the streets. The naval authorities still have a lingering hope that Admiral Cervera may dash out at night with his four armored cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers, even at order to save the rest of his fleet from inevitable destruction. Gen. Linares, in command of the land forces at Santiago, cables to Gen.

Correa, the war minister, that he will do the best he can, but he frankly says he lacks flour, meat and wine, though he has enough other supplies to enable him to hold out many weeks. The Assassination of Police Constable Toohey.

The assassination of Police Constable Michael Toohey, of the London Police Force while in the discharge of his duty last night, once more emphasizes the dangers which attend the vocation officer of the law. It is but a few years since Detective Phair was fatally shot by a tramp, and now another faithful civic servant is murdered in like manner. The men concerned in the death of Detective Phair got off lightly-with a comparatively term of imprisonment-though Advertiser voiced the belief of a large number of persons when it if the culprits were not hanged they should have been sent to for life. It is hardly probable miscreant who murdered Police Constable Toohey was cognizant the comparatively easy sentence on the slayers of Harry Phair: hut if he were he might be he thought that a policewas of less value to the than that of the ordinary citizen. It is high time that tramps, whether allen or Canadian, were made that these murderous onslaughts on officers of the law will not be tolerated. We have always held, ere repeat, that our judges and magistrates should in every case use the great powers conferred upon | minion. them to put down with the most exemplary punishment the tendency to murder or to do grievous bodily harm en or any other class of the The victim of the assasnight was a faithful police but who knows on whom the deadly weenon might have been turned during the nocturnal wanderitgs of the scoundrel if the policeman had not first crossed his purposes! Probably the most effective way to deal heart, and ready to resort to it so soon as their plans are thwarted, is to hold an offense punishable by imprisonment for life, for any tramp or person with no fixed place of abode to be caught with a loaded revolother deadly weapon in his In our peaceable land, it day. is questionable if any one ordinarily needs to be so armed; but no one will for a moment concede that a vagrant. requires such accoutrement, and if he so outfits himself, it can be taken as the strongest prima facie evidence that he is ready to be a murderer if occasion requires, and he ought to be Another lesson from this tragedy which we would respectfully request the Police Commissioners and the Chief of Police to consider is that of the best method of making arrests of these dangerous casuals. We hold that unless the life of another is in feopardy, it is inadvisable to require that a constable should arrest a man of this description single-handed. In such a case, his instructions should be to first summon the aid of another To do so would be to exhibit of courage, but would only the constable to have that aswhich, in view of the risks, he is surely entitled to obtain. Better a decamped tramp than a dead officer cay day. Besides, the runaway will in any case probably not have long

The New Settlers.

Conservative contemporaries denounce some of the new settlers arriving in the Northwest as "dirty, igporant Galicians." Probably these Opposition grumblers will continue to meer at the new comers as "ignorant and dirty" till the eve of another general election, when those who now profess dislike to them will be coddling them for their votes, and professing to find in them the best of friends and

Such was the attitude of our Conpervative friends with regard to the Mennonite settlers brought into the country when Hon, Alexander Mackenzie was Prime Minister, and such their subsequent attitude when the votes of the new settlers were being looked after. The fact is that the Mennonites have made good farmers, and are recognized as among the bestbehaved of the population on the prairies. As for the Galicians, they are not dudes by any means, but the generation that has come to this continent are stated to be neither better nor worse, in point of cleanliness and habits, than the majority of immigrants from continental nations. What we are impressed with is the "testimony of Rev. Dr. Robertson, superintendent of the Presbyterian authority. Ryan would not plead guil-Church in the Northwest, who has ty to that, and was remanded till Tues-

made an unprejudiced investigation into the question of Galician immigration, who has visited them in their homes, and endeavored to discover the bent of their inclinations. Dr. Robertson's view is that the Galicians are calculated to make good settlers, that after they get a start on their farms their first idea is to have their children brought up as Canadian-born children are, and to have them adapt themselves to English-speaking laws and customs. In other words, while the grown generation of Galicians are scarcely likely to adapt themselves entirely to Canadian ways, their children are pretty certain to become good Canadian settlers. This has been the experience of the Western States with all European continental populations, and it is likely to be the experience of the Canadian Northwest.

The Northern Life.

The Northern Life Assurance Company, of which Hon. David Mills. Minister of Justice, is President, has made excellent progress since it began business as will be seen by the financial statement made at the recent meeting of the shareholders, held at the head offices in the Temple building, this city, printed in another column. The directors are all men experienced in business, and they have selected a staff of officers who are experts in life assurance. Setting out with the avowed purpose of building up a strong and popular company, in which the people of Canada would have the utmost confidence, the directorate has had unusual success so far, and the best of indications that the business will continue to be largely augmented year by There is no better investment for a prudent man than ample life insurance, and the Northern Life, being managed so as to obtain and hold the safest risks, is bound to prove profitable to both shareholders and patrons, as it must secure a very ample share of the business done in the Do-

One of the very pleasant events of the Tilsonburg neighborhood is the annual family picnic of the Williams family and connections. It has been held for nearly a quarter of a century. It was held on Thursday in the orchard of Mr. William Scott, in Dereham, and attended by about 200 persons, nearly all of whom were related. The company represented all ages, from Mr. R. down to a sumptuous repast on long tables under the orchard trees. Some of the young people enjoyed themselves in athletic sports, and about 2 o'clock an interesting programme was rendered by members of the company. The chair was ably filled by Mr. Jenvey, who made a neat speech, and a mingled programme of solos, duets and addresses was given. A couple of excellent duets were rendered by Mr. R. Williams and Mr. Josiah Miners. Several excellent addresses were given.

Mr. H. C. Green's Experiences on Street Car-A Complaint That Should be Inquired Into.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE IN OUR SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Now that the subject of introducing the study of Domestic Science into our public schools is claiming the consideration of the Board of Education of our city, I should like, with your kind consent, by quotation or otherwise, to lay a few facts connected therewith before your readers, many of whom may not even be aware that it is already included in the school curriculum in the Province of Ontario, and can be introduced by any board of trustees in every city, town and incorporated village in Ontario. Clause 4, pages 78 and 79 of the re-port for 1897 of the minister of education under the caption "Regulations of the Education Department with respect to the study of Domestic Science in public schools," explains itself, and answers with authority, many of then, if one wishes to criticise political the questions asked in regard to the appointments and be effective, one actual meaning of the term Domestic Reience as used in con them. It is as follows: "The course in domestic science should consist in the making and care of fires, the eco-nomical use of fuel, the polishing of stoves, dish-washing and care of the kitchen sinks; the use of disinfectants, the selection of food material as to quality, value and cost; how to purchase vegetables, meat and fish, the storage of vegetables, meat, bread and fruit. A course of demonstration and practical lessons in plain household cookery, including the cooking of fruit, vegetables, cereals, meat and fish. Easy lessons in the chemistry of food, their nutritive properties and digesti-bility. In the fifth form the course of instruction might include lessons canning fruit, making cake, pies and puddings; lessons in invalid cookery, nacle at Ingersoll, which was lately destroyed by fire, is being rapidly and the setting of tables. Such examinations might be held during the course as the teacher in charge might consider expedient"; (by which your readers will see that the end aimed at is very different from the mere teaching of how to make fancy dishes and prepare tasty sauces). The clause ends with: "The course in sewing shall include plain sewing, hemming, cutting and making simple garments, knitting, darning, etc.," (all of which is surely more practical than ornamental.) The London, England, school board, body composed of thoroughly representative men and women, report that: "After the three elementary subjects and sewing, no subject is of such importance as cooking for the girls, and lessons in it, if properly given, will be found to be not only of practical value, but to have the effect of awakening the intelligence and interest of the children." In order to encourage the study of domestic economy the government allows a grant of 4 shillings ($1) a head for all girls receiving 40 hours instruction in cooking and its attendant branches. Germany, France, Sweden, the States and other countries make also special preparation for this most necessary feature of education, whilst educational authorities of Montreal, Hamilton, St. Thomas, etc., are arranging to fall into line. As so many of the ratepayers of London deprecatingly of the present system of cramming, but also strongly in favor of this most practical branch of education, let us hope that it will not be long before the name of London

True, the boy who has passed through a curriculum which has included a fair measure of technical instruction will make a ter carpenter, metal worker, draughtsman, aye, and a better lawyer, doctor, merchant or teacher than one who has had head lessons only; and the girl who has gone through a judicious course of needle drill and saucepan naneuvers, will become the more capable housewife and the better wife and mother, because of the same.

London, June 24, 1898. COMPLAINT AGAINST A CONDUC-TOR.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Last evening about 7 o'clock I board ed a street car at the corner of Oxford street and the Wharncliffe road, paid my fare, and asked the conductor if the car went east to Adelaide street He replied that it only went to Richmond street, so I asked for a transfer. He replied all right. Several others asked the same question and received the same reply. I soon again asked for a transfer, but the conductor re-plied: "You will all be transferred at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets." The car was crowded. Several asked for tickets. The conductor Williams, who is in his 83rd year, to babies in arms. The large party sat pay the 5-cent fare." The car stopped alongside of another car west of Richmond street, which we all got on When the car started I was surprised at being again asked to pay my fare, and was told that I must pay or get off, which I refused to do. Knowing law, reason, justice and common sens were on my side, I dared the con-ductor to put me off, but he, knowing it was a contemptibly, small, mean swindle the railway were trying to im-pose on the public, and which I resisted, gave in, but I think imposed on all the rest from London West by making them pay an extra fare, Thus swindling in a very small way by a huge, wealthy company. I hope the proper authorities will look into the matter

SIERADZ, in Russian Poland, has been the scene of a strange and suc-cessful strike. The beggars of the town have been in the habit of calling at every door on Friday and receiving a Polish groschen, worth about half a cent. On a recent Friday they omitted their visit, and later sent around a delegate with the notice that, unless they received two groschen from each house, they would emigrate in a body to Czenstochau. As in return for the alms the beggars pray for the souls of the givers at morning mass, the good people of Sieradz yielded to the demand and kept their beggars.

I had the worst hands I have ever seen. At first my hands and fingers broke out in red, watery blisters with terrible itching, so I could nearly twitch the skin off my fingers in agony, then after the watery fluid would come out, there would a scab form with matter under it, which would peel off and come in great cracks, the blood running out in streams.

My finger nails grew out in wrinkles like a cow's horns and the roots of the nails were so affected that I lost six nails, three off each hand, but now they have grown out nice and smooth. I am very thankful to you for Curi-CURA. S. R. MILLER, Robertsdale, Pa.

Those who have used the old fashioned powder dyes will appreciate what the introduction of MAYPOLE SOAP, the modern home-dye, means to the housewife. Where formerly the result of dyeing was attended with grave uncertainty, and often with complete failure, uniform and unvarying success is now assured, if MAYPOLE SOAP be used. Many things about the house one would not wish to risk spoiling may now be treated to a dye bath without any misgivings, furthermore when dyed they will not present that common, dead, re-dred appearance characteristic of the work of powder dyes. The complete daing away with the mess incident to the use of other forms of dyes is in itself sufficient to popularize MAYPOLE SOAP.

Walt Whitman a "Martyr to the Cause of Humanity."

Pathetic References to the Career of the Famous Poet.

ture have been made rapidly in the last year or two, and the end, apparently, is not yet. One of the latest is a volume containing the letters written by Whitman while in hospital service in Washington during the civil war. The letters, most of them, were written to his mother, and are very unpretentious and colloquial in tone. The volume, (which is entitled "The Wound-Dresser," and is edited by R. M. Bucke) is reviewed by The Saturday Review, which recounts the facts of Whitman's hospital service and concludes that "if ever there was. then, a martyr to the cause of humanity, it was this humble and devoted man." The reasons for this con-

when the civil war broke out, Walt Whitman was a man of 43, in the very prime of health and physical strength, who had never consciously suffered from a day's sickness Whitman.
in his life. We say 'consciously,' since "The g there can, in our mind, be no question that Walt Whitman was neurasthenic from the first, and at no period in precisely normal health. But he had, at least, the appearance of unusual ruddy robustness. Toward the close of 1862 the military hospitals in and around Washington became glutted with sick and wounded men: a floating population, amounting at times, to 50,000 souls. The government was not prepared for a calamity on so vast a scale, and could scarcely cope with it. Everything was done that could be contrived to allay the horrible distress; but in spite the involuntary neglect and blundering wear fearful. Walt Whitman was a very poor man, not in any way prominent. He had published 'Leaves of Grass,' but this book had not merely brought him no fame, but no infamy either, since it was not until the preposterous Mr. Secretary Harlan discharged the poet, in 1865, from his little post in the interior department, that people woke up to the nakedness of Whitman's rhapsodies.

"Personal vanity or public encouragement, therefore, had absolutely nothing to do with the step which Whitman took on Dec. 19, 1862, when, unable to endure any longer the misery of reading in the newspapers about

He missionary to with no society but a was connected with no society, but a few friends at home contributed small sums which he expended on little comforts for the men, supporting himself meanwhile, through the exercise of a Spartan economy, by odd jobs of copy-ing and reporting. Here he stayed for nearly two years, until his magnificent bodily health was completely broken down by hospital malaria and the poison absorbed from gangrenous wounds. During all this time his never received any public or official terrible Washington hospitals, but attack on attack left him more and more reduced in health until they culminated in 1872 in the stroke of paralysis which never left him and from the indirect effects of which he died in 1892.' As to the nature of his assumed duties in the hospitals, we are given the following description: "He slipped into the wards laden with oranges, with licorice, with tobacco, with raspberry vinegar. To this man he brought a book, to another man candy, to another a pipe.

Observing that these country lads Observing that these country were very slow in formulating their wishes, and were frightened out of their wits by the doctors and servants, he would hang about and chat with them, until he discovered what little things would give relief; one had a longing for pickles, one wanted a toothpick, another yearned to write home to his people; and each requirement was met, without discussion, by critique as follows: "We can give no idea of the pathos and the touching ache of sympathy which runs through this beautiful, melancholy book from end to end. There is here not one touch of affectation, of false sentiment, of parade, or artificiality of any kind, but a very strong and tender nature, face to face with an awful visitation of national suffering, quietly sets to work to do as much as in it lies to alleviate its fiercest pangs. > A letter was received from Engineer Graydon in reply to a communication from the council re sewer work. The letter was received, and the secretary instructed to acknowledge its receipt. The council authorized the secretary to write to the Ontario department of agriculture, asking for a number of copies of the factory act. Some complaints regarding violations of the factory act were reported, some of which were referred to the inspector, and others referred for more in formation. The Labor Day committee reported that arrangements were progressing favorably. On motion the newly appointed delegates of the Building Laborers' Union were added to the committee. The municipal committee reported that the city council had filed the protest of the T. and L. Council against fixed assessments. A suggestiton was made that petitions against fixed assessments be circulated for signatures. One member stated names could be secured to such a petition without the least difficulty. The matter was deferred for the present.

The council adjourned for two weeks. At the next meeting the election of officers will be held. The iron molders of the city are very busy. It is a long time since it could be reported that all were employed, as

There has been a split in the ranks of the Social Democracy, which held its second convention a short time ago. Paul J. Maas, writing in the Chicago Times-Herald, has this to say in connection with the dissensions in the Social Democracy: "That it would re-sult sooner or later no thinking man in the labor movement doubted for a moment, because Mr. Debs has never been considered a safe leader, and for advisers and counselors has always surrounded himself with an aggregation of misfits gathered from all the "isms" known to mankind. This, more than anything else, is the reason than everything Eugene V. Debs has touched since he quit the editorial chair of the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine in 1892 has been a failure. Since then Mr. Debs has many times demonstrated that vague theories and hobbies have had their sway long enough, but when the Social Democracy, on the fourth day of its convention, indorsed the trade union plan of benefiting the skin clear, while and healthy. Its laboring classes, many a fond hope great healing and curative powers are laboring classes, many a fond hope

One year's experience had shown him that the colonization scheme which he had fathered was chimerical and that political action was necessary, so he had led a bolt from the Social Democracy convention, with a few other political acrobats, who were, like himself, adepte ningwike rapidity, and in the dark hours of the night they hied themselves to another hall and formed that which is the last resort of every man who is a failure in life-a political party-and now he heads the Social Democratic party of America, which he will endeavor to steer through the political swamps.' The membership of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is now voting on propositions whether or not to establish uniform initiation dues in all unions and to make the president of the organization a paid officer and under salary the entire year. The brotherhood is endeavoring to bring about uniform conditions for the carpenters all over the country Established in 1881, it has reduced the hours of labor to eight per day in 88 cities, not to speak of the many cities which have eight and nine hour sys-tems or half-holidays on Saturday. By this means 12.500 of its members have secured employment. It has raised the wages in hundreds of cities, and placed fully $5,500,000 more wages annually into the pockets of its members than these same men received before they became members. The Carpenters' Union had 453 local unions in 406 cities in this country and a membership of about 46,000, and pays a death benefit of $100 to $200, $25 to $50 in case a member's wife dies and $100 to $400 in case of disability of one of its members. HIS NAME A LOAD.

Speaking of his name, General Fitzhugh Lee said not long ago:"It has been a heavy load. I have had the reputation of a lot of ancestors as well as my own to look after. Whatever good I have done has been credited to them, and whatever of evil has been charged to me and magnified, because some people said they had a right to expect much better things of a man of my blood and breeding. When I was running for at my store, and the only governor of Virginia, John Wise said that if my name had been Fitzhugh Smith I never would have secured the nomination. I replied that I had known a good many men named Smith, and would have been as proud of that name as of the one I bore. The New York Sun recently received the following letter, which is not without its pathos: "To the Editor: I am 32 years old and not deformed. I live alone and have to work for my living. I should like to get married, not for the saks of being supported, for I should expect to work after marriage, but for the sake of loving and being loved. Do you think I am too old? Agatha." The Sun made the following answer: "Why, you poor child, of course you are not too old. What do you call old?' To a youth of 19 you may seem old, just as he is looked upon as a monument of antiquity by little Tommy spinning his top on the sidewalk there. Age is a thoroughly relative term, but we have pleasure in assuring you that, save in the eyes of the law, you are a good deal of an infant yet, with your best years before you, please God! "You have passed the days of giggling and gushing. Without being a bit of a prig or stiff or dried up or vinegary, you raw ccumulated tact and knowledge. Your sympathies and affectations are infinitely deeper than they were at 18. Do you remember what a shallow little chit you were then compared with what you are? "We don't know you, but we have seen you. We see you in your letter, industrious, patient, cheerful, affectionate, watching with wistful eyes the years that scurry by and bring no fairy prince. Good eyes, we'll be bound, whatever be their color; eyes soft with kindness, and that need to be lighted up with happiness. "No, Agatha, you are at the age of

He charged Senor Conzales with becoming the advocate of the United States against the Latin races, and classed the Cubans, who are anxious for annexation to the United States, as being madmen. Great Britain May Buy the Philippine Islands.

London, June 25.—If reports in circulation upon the London Stock Exchange are to be relied upon, the key to British sympathy with the United States in her struggle with Spain has at last been discovered. It is perfectly well understood in English diplomatic circles that suspending the cortes, to be read at President McKinley and the most influential members of his cabinet, backed by the more sterling portion of the nation, are strongly opposed to any departure on the part of the United States from her traditional policy of "no foreign territory," and that there is not the remotest chance of any Constipation a Fruitful Source of Death -But It Vanishes When Dodd's Dys-World's Greatest Cure of Constipation.

People often say: "Oh, Constipation doesn't amount to anything. It cures itself if you leave it alone. But they make a terrible mistake. There is no more fruitful source of death than constipation. And the evils it always bring cause the most agon-

It causes irritation, inflammation and death. Again, with much matter decaying in the bowels, the liver and kidneys become diseased, the blood poisoned, heart disease and death result. We see, therefore, how vitally im-for Land.

The sewerage committee discussed sewage until 11 o'clock last night, and then Ald. Dreaney registered a vigorous kick against so much talk and so little business. He made a bee line for the door, but Ald. Douglass finally induced him to return under protest. Ald. Dreaney said he had heard the same arguments for two years, and was weary of them.

The feature of the meeting was another sewerage plant offer from the Amercian Sanitary Engineering Company, of Detroit, represented by Mr. McDougall. They offered to erect a chemical precipitation plant capable of handling 1,000,000 gallons per day for $35,000, or if the buildings were cov-ered, $37,600. The cost, if the sludge pressing machinery was added, would be $41,800. The company was willing to give a guarantee bond of 20 per cent be subject to the approval of the plant by the Provincial Board of Health, six months after operations were begun. 'The annual expenses would be $2,400, or if the sludge were pressed, $3,800. The plant could be matter had been handed to the completed by Dec. 1. The company's classification committee. previous offer was $57,000 for a 2,000,000 gallon plant. Since then they had as-certained that the average flow of sewage was only 1,000,000.

The city engineer also submitted a report on the system proposed. He said he had no doubt that the purification of the sewage could be effected by the plant. Nowhere was the cost the system as low as was promised in London. He had no data of the cost beyond what the company set forth. and it would be well to obtain fuller and more detailed information. He understood that Mr. Chipman was now corresponding with some parties on this matter. Mr. Graydon, therefore, recommended that action be deferred. A suitable place for the proposed plant would be between the two coves. The estimated cost of laying a siphon to the point was $9,600. He recommended that tenders for section "B" be called for. This would afford an outlet in the river. Meanwhile the question of a precipitation plant or sewage farm could be investigated. He urged that the right of way along section "B" be acquirer at once.

Ald Carrothers said he would not consent to the plant being placed between the two coves. It had to be taken farther down.

Ald. Cooper agreed that it would never pass the council. Mr. McDougall gave a detailed ex-planation of the system, claiming it was superior to the sewage farm plan, which was not a success in Berlin. The International system had never been officially before the city of London pre vious to this year. One of the city's consulting engineers had applied for the agency of it and was refused, else he would have recommended it. Mr. McDougall said that the company would not object to increasing the guarantee bond to 30 per cent. Several members asked the engineer's name, but Mr. McDougall would only say that none of the local engineers was the man. Mr. Skinner said that the city had hitherto been guided by four practical engineers, who said the sewage farm system was a perfect one, and now it was proposed to upset It. Ald. Greenlees was not prepared to vote down at once the scheme approved by four noted engineers. They should slow, until they saw the chemical system tried at some other place, where they could inspect it. He moved to that effect

A letter from the secretary of the London Exhibitions (Limited) pointed out that the space set aside for colonial exhibits by the Royal Commission, renders it almost impossible that a comprehensive display of products and manufactures of the British colonies should be made at Paris. Canada alone asks 60,000 square feet-the total space for colonial exhibits-and other colonies make the total demand, 200,000 feet. The communication was referred to the council. The secretary of the minister of public works wrote, stating that $11,000 has been appropriated for expenditure during 1898-99, on repairs to piers and dredging at Port Stanley. Some of the members thought the amount appropriated was much too small, and said $50,000 would be required to cut out a proper harbor at the mouth of the creek. The matter was laid over, and the secretary instructed to write another letter to the Hon. Mr. Tarte, urging that permanent improvements be made to the harbor.

PETS IN THE HOME

Comfort and Educational Value to Children

Childhood, Like Every Age, Needs Its Duties; Animals Happily pply Them.

Civilizing Influence of Feathers and

[The Outlook.] Perhaps the sweetest recollections of childhood are those connected with pets, with some frisky, affectionate little animal or gay little bird loved and tended in the far away golden days. Pets are an endless joy to children. They lend themselves readily to every kind of make-believe, and are always available as playthings and consolers of woe. Talking it over with the cat, the dog, the bird has a soothing power not at all times attainable through human agencies. "My pony is so sympathetic," said a little girl, "and has such a sense of humor." The pure delight afforded by these cherished friends in teathers and fur is sufficient reason for their presence in every household. Parents sometimes complain that they are such a trouble, are in the way and require so much care. Could they realize thoroughly their value as a source of happiness and a means of education, the objections would forever cease. Childhood without pets is bleak and barren and altogether incomplete. Like a vine in the desert, with tendrils blown in every direction because there is no object to cling to, to twine around, and thus be lifted up, the child without some dumb creature to love and protect finds its bubbling impulses and loving longings crushed to earth. It needs to lavish its growing and expansive affection upon some suitable object, otherwise it loses more than can be counted and weighed.

What the child loves he will most observe and study. Soon knowledge comes concerning the habits and ways of the little creatures that share his life; and personal affairs are insensibly arranged so that there will be time for everything—for play, for stories and for duties. Birds must be fed regularly, rain or shine, no matter how tempting the invitations of playmates or the latest fairy tale. The dog must be washed and kept in the house until thoroughly dried. If the kitten is stupid and duli, its little owner must see that its food is more carefully selected, that it does not have too much meat. Perhaps his small savings will have to be expended in The playful puppy must be trained with infinite patience not to trample on the flower-beds, not to bite furniture, nor tear holes in clothes. An-1mals must also be taught to avoid danger, even if pain has to be inflicted to insure their future self-preservation. Attention to these details influences the mind and character, leading to firmness without harshness, to economy of lime, to order, method and regularity.

Children, like most savages, are naturally cruel. But theirs is the cruelty of ignorance, not of malice. Animals that are dependent, have a civilizing influence upon the child. Their many wants necessities, their helplessness, awaken a sense of moral responsibility. A living creature cannot be neglected without pain and suffering fol-Sometimes death results from neglect. Very different is the condition of the book or toy that is forgot and left It is spoiled and the loss is the child's own. In a measure, he is responsible only to himself for the welfare of inanimate possessions. But a sentient being who can repay love with love has a deeper claim. Things that feel have rights. Even young children recognize this, and learn through affection for their four-footed friends to recognize this claim to health and happiness. A boy of seven that I knew found for a time his chief amusement in shooting stray animals with a shotgun, declaring it good sport. One day he knocked a cat off a fence, breaking its leg. As the creature writhed upon grass, he seemed to consider the result of his conduct both righteous and amusing. A friend who had witnessed the incident called him to her; and after a little conversation he saw the matter in a different light. Willingly he offered to pay for having the cat's But the veterinary's fee was a dollar, and the boy had not so much money. The sum needed to make up the amount was advanced to him, and he paid it back gradually out of his small allowance. With the greatest tenderness he cared for the cat until she was able to walk, and to this day she is a cherished pet. It needed but a few words to open the fountain of love and pity in his heart, and to make the little lad see that his wanton cruelty had not only brought suffering on a is not alone in exceptional recreations nerves, strong muscles and a healthy, vigorous constitution. She needs them in her every day duties and pleasures. Recently a Buffalo lady called upon Dr. R. V. Pierce of that city and stated that she was so nervents that other months of the court ous that after months of trial she could not learn to ride a bicycle.

She was put under a scientific course of treatment, consisting of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery before meals and his "Favorite Prescription" after meals. The "Favorite Prescription" promptly cured the weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine, from which she suffered and restored strength and steadiness to the nerves. The "Golden Medical Discovery" cleansed the blood, making it pure, rich and invigorating, and built up solid, mus-cular flesh. The lady now rides her bicycle with grace and ease and without trepida-tion. Both medicines are for sale by medicine dealers. Dr. Pierce answers letters from ailing women without charge.

"I suffered with a bearing down pain in my pelvis and a hurting in my back and loins," writes Mrs. Tillie Cunningham, of Weir, Choctaw Co., Miss. "Whenever I would take a walk or ride very far it would always make me sick. After using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medica! Discovery' for three months I can ride or walk and feel well afterwards. My appetite is good all of my had feel.

Pets also have a hygienic value, many of them requiring fresh air and exer-oise at regular intervals. This necessity takes the child out of doors, in sun-shine, on dark days, and in all sorts of weather except during extremes of heat, cold and wet. It gives an object reat, cold and wet. It gives an object of interest to what would otherwise be a duil performance. Many a listless girl who would rebel at waterproof and rubbers, glides into them smillingly when it is a question of a walk for Flitters. Ruffles or a pretty little Fido. How willingly these burdens are borne for a dumb friend! Who gains most in the frolic? Perhaps the one who gives Childhood, like every age, needs its duties. These must be simple and gen-uine, not tasks imposed arbitrarily child's duties should be definite and inexorable, not done at all if he forgets or neglects them. Through protection, nurture and ownership of living things inexorable duties are best presented. The child secures in this way some of his best development, for he learns many lessons in self-denial and selfcontrol, acquires a sense of personal responsibility and wise restraint, and is unconsciously, to appreciate the rights of others, even the humblest, and to respect them always. More than this, by doing deeds that merit gratitude, children begin to dimly understand how much they owe to the loving hearts and hands forever busy in their behalf.

NOVEL AND USEFUL.

The idea of protecting buildings against fire from without by means of a water curtain, to be made to fall be gaining favor, having the indorsement of some of the most experienced professional experts in this line, and the plan is exciting special attention in Chicago, where it is being applied to the great public library building. The arrangement is extremely simple. A seven-inch steel water main is laid around the top of the structure, upon the broad stone table formed by the top of the coping, this pipe having connection with force pumps situated in the basement, and through perforations properly arranged, insure the introduction of a substantial sheet of water from cornice to pavement, around the whole or any imperiled portion of the building. The arrange-ment of the system of piping is such as to enable operating in prescribed sections; additional relays of smaller pipe are also placed in position above windows and doors, in order to complete the curtain of those points in the most serviceable manner, should the curtain in the main be broken by wind impingement against the build-

An interesting report has been issued by the officials of the Grand Ducal Ob-servatory at Heidelberg concerning the late red and yellow snowfalls which excited so much attention. A fall of yellow snow occurred in the Engadine on March 3, and red snow fell to a depth of eight centimetres on the same day at Kardi, in Kaernten province: also all over the plateau on which the Konigsstuhl stands: on the Odenwald too, colored snow fell, the wind driving it into every nook and corner, so that the drifts presented a color varying from rosewood to that of brown. An examination showed that the tint exhibited was due to mineral dust, and though the latter has not been finally investigated, it reveals the presence of chalk elements—this, too, notwith-standing the fact of there being no chalk in existence for a long distance from the places where the snowfall was deepest. Of course, this phenomenon is well known to naturalists, snow of a really red color having been found occasionally in polar and Alpine regions. some of the chemical experiments revealing the presence of a certain vegetable substance, like the pollen of a plant.

The value or harmfulness of chemical adjuncts in the treatment of edible substances has led to much discussion, and in England especially the public mind has been more than ever stirred by disclosures lately made by scientific experts. The official analyst for Marylebone, for example, in a report just issued, dwells emphatically upon the practice of coloring margarine with aniline dye so as to resemble butter. and urges the importance of making it an offense to color foods with aniline dye unless the purchaser is informed of the fact. Investigation shows that aniline dyes possess such great tinctorial power that, even with those that are poisonous, the quantity taken in the consumption of any one ordinary colored article is most minute, so that in few cases could really decided symptoms be produced; on the other hand. when sugar, butter, milk, cream, sausages, confectionery, and a number of other things all have a small trace of aniline, these traces in a day add up. Observation and experiment have shown that the aniline dyes in small doses interfere with digestion-indeed. scientific opinion is that the increase of maladies of the digestive organs is aniline dyes in fruit products.

A striking example, as it may well be regarded, of the utilization of water exhibited for the first time power, made possible by means of wheels of the impulse type, is said to cently made for power in the well-Benoist Cadet, fils, at La Batisde, a will be prepared by the same ma steam engine, which formerly was in service to furnish power for the entire operations of the establishment, is now held in reserve for periods of low water, and the greater part of the time power is furnished by a 36-inch impulse wheel, working under a head of 128 feet at 285 revolutions per minute, and fur-nishing some 40 horse-power in the whole. Furthermore, in this arrangement the use of contracting nozzles renders a high efficiency possible with the varying loads, which is a practical point of much importance.

GLADSTONE AS A SIGNALMAN. During Mr. Gladstone's illness the Irish express going to Holyhead was several times stopped at Sandyford in order to put down the doctors. There is a Harwarden tradition, related by the London Daily Chronicle, to the effect that Mr. Gladstone once stopped this express by pulling the signal against it with his own hand. The narrative is that Mr. Gladstone had been hurriedly summoned south by the

He drove over to Sandyford-the date is supposed to be years and years ago-and asked the official there to have the train stopped. "No, sir," was the timorous reply, "I cannot stop the Irish ex-press without orders, and as she is almost due, there is no time to tele-graph for them." Well," quoth Mr. Gladstone, "I understand your position, and appreciate it. But in the interests nation I must get to London with the least loss of time. Therefore I shall take the responsibility of stopping the train myself." With that he went to the lever and pulled it, saying:

WONDERFUL!

Another Great Invention by the Telectroscope's Maker.

Herr Sscsepanik Contrives to Do in Few Minutes for the Jaquard Loom What It Has Taken Designers Years to Accomplish.

A London correspondent writes: Another great invention, which is already perfected into one of the marvels of the age, is announced from Vienna. The inventor is Herr Jan Szczepanik, whose new wonder, the telectroscope, I described briefly a few weeks ago. His newest discovery, or application of well-known scientific discoveries, is an invention which will revolutionize an important branch of the textile industry. By utilizing photography and electricity he is able to accomplish, in a quarter of an hour, the work taught in the most natural way, and all of designers which heretofore has occupied months or years, according to the size of the design. A correspondent of the Chronicle sends an interesting description of the device, which is easily comprehensible by everybody. All who have ever seen a loom know that a design to be woven must first be resolved into tiny squares. In the case of a large gobelin the designer United States and Canada, 25c., 50c. and $1 has at present to fill up millions of a bottle; in England, 1s. 2d., 2s. 3d. and 4s. 6d. such little squares before it is possible to punch the stencil plates which are indispensable in the Jacquard loom, and are consequently absolutely necessary for the production of figured texall around the structure, appears to tile goods. Herr Szczepanik totally abolishes the designer, and more than supplies his place by photography.

The focusing screen is 1½ meters square and the beliews draw out to a length of 20 meters, while the immense lens had to be made expressly by Zeiss of Jena. Next he employs prepared by photoare the largest photonegatives ever made, measscreen contains 1,000,000 squares corresponding with those which hitherto the designer, with infinite labor, has filled in in the course of as much as two or three years. Herr Szczepanik oes away with this whole tedious neess.

Ving chosen the pattern, say a

Or less ti-

neither more nor less time than the other, and causes no more trouble. The next thing is to insert a suitable ruled screen immediately in front of the sensitive plate-i. e., the silver bromide paper. Two minutes' exposure suffices to produce an image on the sensitized paper showing the points of intersection needed; develing and fixing occupy a quarte an hour, and then the design is finished. The different colors the web is to have are represented by different signs or figures, squares, etc., which are produced by means of correspond-ing stops in the objective.

The second process is punching the Jacquard stencils. Hitherto this has been a slow operation, carried on with the help of a machine, each square having to be cut out separately. Now Herr Szczepanik, by means of the carbon process, transfers the design on to a thin sheet of metal, thus obviating the necessity for making the Jacquard stencil on silver bromide paper. The procedure is the same as in zinc etching; the parts of the design exposed to the light are covered with gelatine, while in the non-exposed ones the bare metal appears. The result is that good and bad electric conductors are formed, and all those points on this metal plate which represent holes on the ruled screen conduct the electric current. This plate is then put into a machine specially constructed for the purpose of punching it. Automatically it passes under a row of contacts which are connected with electro-magnets that set in motion levers which punch the plate.

But the inventor goes a step further yet. With a similar contrivance attached not to the punching machine, but to the Jacquard loom, he sets in motion not only the punching levers. but also the threads in the loom itself; in short, he weaves direct from the original design-plate (as we may name this substitute for the Jacquard stencil) by means of electricity.

The punching machine is really superfluous, inasmuch as the weaving can be done direct from the original design plate, and it is introduced by the inventor only temporarily for economic reasons. He wishes to avoid the sudden doing away of the looms of the present style. Eventually he expects electric booms will supplant the present machine. In a few days in part due to the increasing use of the Szczepanik's first electric loom will arrive in Vienna from Germany, where it has been made. It will be publicly Paris Exhibition, where it will weave silk handkerchiefs. In three minutes be presented in the arrangements re- the purchaser of such a handkerchief will be photographed by an apparatus known textile goods manufactory of M. in the loom itself, the design plate town south of Bordeaux. with his own inwoven portrait, and all for a mere bagatelle. At the Jubilee Exhibition now open in Vienna for the present only two gobelins woven by Szczepanik's new loom will be shown. One of them contains Mark Twain's portrait. some time the great humorist has been giving the well-known Polish painter, Henryk Rauchinger, almost daily sittings for a portrait for the gobelin. It will be the best of Mark Twain ever F. C. CALVERT & CO., Manchester. painted. The second gobelin will con-tain the portrait of the Emperor Francis Joseph, in his magnificent robes of state and surrounded by allegorical figures, and this portrait will also be from Rauchinger's brush. Herr Szczepanik showed small landscapes woven in silk. They are of wonderful beauty and of course more exact than anything manufactured from hand-made Jacquard cards. They have been made on his present

Boys and Girls. What "Sing a Song of Sixpence"

Means. You all know this rhyme, but have you ever heard what it really means? The four-and-twenty blackbirls represented the twenty-four hours. The bottom of the pie is the world, while the top crust is the sky that overarches it. The opening of the pie is the day dawn, when the birds begin to

The king, who is represented as sitting in his parlor counting out his money, is the sun, while the gold pieces that slip through his fingers, as he counts them, are the golden sunbeams. The queen, who sits in the dark kitchen, is the moon, and the honey with which she regales herself is the moon-

The industrious maid, who is in the garden at work before her king—the sun-has risen, is day dawn, and the lothes she hangs out are the clouds. The birds, who so tragically end the song by "nipping off her nose" is the sunset. So we have the whole day, if not in a nutshell, in a pie.

Tree Planting Long Ago.

(By Fannie L. Brent.) Every summer of Johnny's life, and he had seen seven summers, he had gone with his father and mother to spend three months at his grandfather's farm.

Papa had lived there all the year round when he was a boy, and so had grandpa in those far-away days when was a little boy, when big forests shut in the lonely farm on every side, and Indians and bears and wolves

For instance, who would ever have thought that the big oak tree at the gate had a story, any more than the story of rain and sunshine, wind and storm, fresh green leaves in the pring, and shiny brown ones and ripe acorns in the fall-the story that every

But when Johnny came to the old farm for the eighth time, he had been In school a whole year, and on Arbor Day the boys from his room at school set out a young oak tree in front of the building, and, of course, he must tell grandpa all about it. "I don't suppose that you kept Arbor when you were little." Johnny said, and grandpa laughed. " he said. "we had to cut trees down then instead of planting them. I ember, though, the very first feaf of this tree," he went on, touching the trunk of the big oak.

"Did you plant it?" asked Johnny. "No." said grandpa, with a mystericus smile. "A squirrel did."
"A squirrel!" was all that Johnny could say for a minute. Then-"Oh, grandpa, that's a story you never told "Well, I'll tell it now," grandpa said. "The fall that I was six years old, a family of gray squirrels came and took possession of a hollow tree just over there; and began to lay up their winter store of acorns. "There was not an oak tree on this side of the river, for miles around, but we had built a rough bridge across the river and the squirrels used to cross over and get a large store of their favorite food. They went over a mile for every acorn they brought home, carrying them one by one and burying them in the ground, each in a little hole by itself.'

"Why, grandpa," Johnny broke in, "I thought they always put great hoards of them away in hollow trees." 'These did not. We often wondered how they could find the acorns again, but they never seemed to forget where the little holes were, and many a time, during that long, snowy winter, I saw one of them come out of his tree, run across the snow, dive down, scratch a minute, and run quickly back to the tree with the acorn in his mouth. But there was one buried In the spring, when the rain and sun-

When people "get out of the wrong side of the bed" in the morning-that is to say, to begin the day in a cross fashion—the difficulty can generally be remedied by self-applied moral means. A story is told which suggests a cure for this tendency to get up "wrong side out," as it is sometimes called.

Bathing a Prince. George IV., while prince and residing in his Brighton palace, kept in his bedroom a portrait of Mrs. Gunn, dip him into the sea when he was the little Prince of Wales. A picture-book, much prized by children, showed the old lady bathing the little fellow. Beneath the picture was this stanza:

"To Brighton came he, Came George the Third's son; To be dipped in the sea By the famed Martha Gunn."

A companion portrait to Martha Gunn's was that of Thomas Smoaker, who had charge of the horse which drew the bathing-machines into and out of the sea. One day the little royal highness, having learned to swim, swam out further than Thomas judged to be safe. He called to him to come back, but the self-willed boy struck out with more vigor.

Thomas went after the prince, overtook him, seized him by an ear, and "Do you think," he replied to the boy's angry words, "I'm a-going to get myself hanged for letting the king's heir drown hisself just to please a young-

Trevoled Extensively Throughout the Provinces - Interesting Statements Concerning His Experience.

STELLARTON, N. S.—James R. Murray, e well known violinist, of this place, who has traveled extensively throughout the Provinces, makes this statement:

"I was running down in health and my weight fell off from 175 to 150 pounds. Prescriptions did me but little good. My trouble was called nervous dyspepsia. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking five bottles I was greatly benefited. I feel as well now as ever in my life, and have increased in flesh so that I now weigh 177 pounds. I am well known in this part of the country, having followed my profession, that of a violin musician for the last 26 years. I gladly tell my friends what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Before I began taking the medicine I did not have any ambition, but now all is changed and my dyspeptic trouble perfectly cured." JAMES R. MURRAY.

The new arrivals were carrots, cabbages and currents. Strawberries were small-sized, the price was steady. General sales were made at the follow-

Cold-Blooded Affair-The First Bullet Struck Toohey's Watch-The Tramp Has a Peg-Leg and Can Easily Be Identified-The Deceased a Very Popular and Estimable Official.

Another foul crime, one of the most deliberate and cold-blooded murders in the criminal annals of the Forest City, took place at 9:30 last night, when Policeman Michael Toohey was shot in the head and killed while arresting a peg-legged tramp for a brutal assault upon Mr. James Ross, an aged watchman at the G. T. R. crossing at Adelaide street.

HOW THE CRIME ORIGINATED. At 7 o'clock a hard-looking individual with a wooden leg was walking along general run of prices was from $3 50 to $4 25 and $4 30. who lives a short distance away, was the first to notice the watchman. He communicated at once with Mr. W. D. Willis, at the corner of King and Adelaide streets. The ambulance was tele-phoned for, and Messrs. Nulty and Willis carried the unconscious watchman to his shanty, where they did their best to make him comfortable. soon recovered, and seemed little the worse a short time afterwards, except for the bruise and cut. The tramp was seen making his escape east, and the patrol, containing Policemen Monaghan, Morgan and Rowell, was sent to arrest him. They failed to connect with the wooden-legged man, and the officers on the different beats were notified to be on the lookout. P. C. Toohey, who was on duty on Dundas street, between Adelaide and Ontario, was told of the occurrence, and also that the man had gone in the direction of his beat. Inquiries were made by the constable. who ascertained that a man with a peg-leg, dressed in a light suit of clothes and wearing a soft felt hat, had been seen on Ontario street. FOLLOWED THE TRAMP on this route north, and having been made aware that a one-legged man was only a short distance ahead of him on the same street, the policeman set off on the run. The small boys in the vicinity scattered in all directions, as hey were under the impression that policeman was after them. He continued on the run to the corner of Elias street, on Ontario, where he stop-ped for a moment. The officer sighted his man on the west side of the street a hundred vards ahead, and was soon upon the tramp, whom he attempted to place under arrest. Charles Mc-Indoe, son of Mr. James McIndoe, of Elias street, was the last to see him start after the tramp. When prisoner and officer got close enough together were well beyond the electric light's rays, and in the dark. There was a scuffling sound, and

A DEATH STRUGGLE ensued. It was of short duration. The tramp resisted. There was a flash, and a pistol shot rang out in the darkness. The first bullet was aimed at the policeman's heart, but was obstructed in its course by a large open-faced watch, which it struck squarely, and transformed into a veritable wreck The broken works rolled out into the pocket, and then the bullet, which was flattened and cone-shaped. The struggle must have been desperate and was ended when the tramp fired the second

BREAKING THE NEWS.

P. C. Toohey had a charming home at 499 Oxford street. The house, garden and lawn are models of neatness, and testify to the pride and care he bestowed upon them. He was devotedly fond of his wife and family, and enjoyed the utmost domestic bliss. When he left last night to report for duty at 7:45 p.m., he kissed his loving wife and three little children, and departed in a cheerful mood. At ten o'clock the family was plunged from happiness into unspeakable sorrow. The wife became almost frantic, when the news of the tragedy was broken to her by the clergy. No one else had dared to tell her. It was a heartrending scene, and will never be forgotten by those who witnessed it. The deepest sympathy is expressed for the widow and childre in their affliction. The eldest child is only 7 years old. THE DEAD MAN'S RECORD.

No officer on the force had a cleaner or more honorable record than Michael Toohey. At the age of 28 years, on June he joined and for eleven years had been a superior man in his calling. He and was 39 years of age, and of fine physique, over six feet tall, and weighed about 190 pounds. He was a man of good judgment, and no indiscreet arrest was ever recorded against him. He was popular with everybody, and was widely known. He was a member of the Roman Catholic Church, and lived a most consistent life. In politics he was a Liberal. He was born in Biddulph 39 years ago, and came to London when he joined the force. THE MURDERER.

The tramp who did the deed was seen by many people in the vicinity. His peg-leg renders his identification unmistakable. He carried his coat on his arm when going up Ontario street, He is a man of about 180 pounds, and 5 feet 9 inches in height. His vest and trousers were of a light color. People noticed him particularly Lecause the neighborhood in which the horrible affair took place has been infested with tramps, who have carried off many valuable articles from the clotheslines The shots were heard by many, who knew that there was trouble, but who disliked the idea of being mixed up with it. So far as known there were the stranger's intention he received a only two or three persons who saw the

THE SEARCH. Many citizens volunteered to assist the police in the search for the murderer. While standing round the body a voungster rushed in and said that while crossing a field he had heard groans, as though from a wounded man. This frightened the life nearly out of him, but he accompanied P. C. Campbell and several volunteers to the ield. It was at first thought that the ramp, fearing escape impossible, had done away with himself. No trace of the fellow was found and no groans heard. All night long in the drizzling rain, the greater part of the police force searched in vain for the slayer of their beloved comrade. Detective Nickle and P. C. Ralph drove many miles round the outlying portions of the town, but could find not trace of Word was sent to the police that the tramp had gone east, and about 4 o'clock this morning a onelegged man had been seen at Kelly's siding a few miles northeast of the city on the Grand Trunk. After the shooting the murderer is supposed to have made through the fields to the asylum grounds, then through them and out on the track, which he followed east to the diamond on the C. P. R.; then turning northeast along the Grand Trunk. Men were sent out in that direction, and the tramp's description telegraphed to all points.

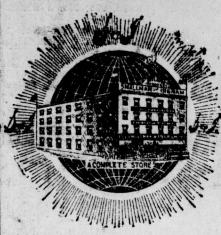

THE SHOOTING OF PHAIR. The last police officer to meet an untimely end was Detective Harry Phair, who was shot while arresting two tramps on Richmond street openite St Peter's Cathedral, on Oct. 13, 1892. The two men, Wilson and Burke, were arrested after a short chase in the park, tried before Mr. Justice Street, and sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

A SLEEPLESS SEARCH. The unfortunate affair has cast a gloom over the whole community, and especially over the London force. His comrades have scoured the country for miles around looking for the tramp. Many have had no sleep since early yesterday morning. They did duty all day, searched all last night without food, and were all at it again this morning. The police will not rest until the villain is caught. There is considerable speculation going the rounds as to whether or not the framp did not board the C. P. R. fast freight for the east that pulled out about twenty minutes after the shooting. If he did, in all probability he was seen by some of the train crew, who have not as yet been heard from. The story that the one-legged tramp was seen near Kelly's siding is not credited, as Detective Rider and another constable were there at an early hour, and could hear nothing of him. The fields in the vicinity of the C. P. R. were searched for marks of

he peg leg, but the rain had destroyed them if there were any. THE PLACE OF THE MURDER. Today many hundreds of people vis-Today many hundreds of people visited the spot where the terrible affair occurred. All kinds of rumors are affoat regarding the possible hiding place of the prisoner. There are few who visited the scene who relish the idea of hunting the fugitive, as they are impressed with the notion that he will, if he can replenish his stock of cartridges, make it lively for those who attempt to arrest him. They can fully realize the peril in which a constable is constantly placed, and that he takes his life in his hands every time he goes on a beat. Last week Constable Toohey had a scuffle on Dundas street with a man named Brown, whom the crowd sought to release from the clutches of the law, but the policeman held his prisoner, though the pair rolled on the pave-

CLOSING EXERCISES

Of the London Conservatory of Music in the Auditorium-An Excellent Programme by Talented Artists.

At the Auditorium last evening, the first closing exercise of a series of five was presented to a large and cultured audience by the London Conservatory of Music and School of Elocution, under the able direction of Mr. Barron. The programme embraced oratorio, operatic and ballad music, and some of the numbers were exceedingly difficult, but their execution was highly creditable. The talented artists' mastery of the technical parts revealed careful tuition. Among the good qualities noticed were that the notes delightfully clear, the voices being flexible and uniform, and enunciation distinct. The piano performances were especially fine. Some remarkable exhibitions of fingering were given. The following artists contributed to the programme: Misses E. Kent, M. programme: Misses E. Kent, M. Smith, A. Leonard, M. Mathewson, M. LAST NIGHT'S SHOOTING.

Young Charles McIndoe, who is reported as having seen the shooting last night, told an Advertiser reporter that he had not seen it, but got all that he knew of the affair from some of the boys who hid behind the bush in the vicinity.

Mr. Geo. The latter then threw the coat he held in his arms into the policeman's face, and then fired the two shots.

Dr. Edward Seaborn examined the wounds and found that the bullet that entered the head coursed through the Inquiry along the C. P. R. line this morning revealed no trace of the murderer. Many of the men saw the peglegged man around the yard three or four days ago, in company with several other tramps, who were thought at the

"How is Burton?" Valeria asked, as they went toward the door. "I suppose he is helping you to set your house in order? I should be glad to see him if he has ever a minute to spare me."

Burton was a young painter, and Miss Cromo's factorum. She had sometimes been useful to him, and he was far more useful to her. He was her escort, her errand boy, her agent, her slave, and she led him a dog's life from which he could not escape. Perhaps he did not wish to escape, and had be-come so accustomed to his bondage that he would have been lost without it; but he had had his moments of rebellion when the rein had been too tightly drawn. On such occasions her complaints had been loud and long to all her friends. Valeria had herself been wearied by them, for she liked Burton, and considered him to be far more a gentleman than Miss Cromo was a lady. He was a good fellow when not influenced by her. "A perfect boor, my dear," she would

"I really shall have to turn him off, for I cannot bear any longer his 'grand, gloomy and peculiar' ways. Mrs. Polo asked me the other day how I could permit him to speak to me so impudently, and said that I ought to exact more respect. But he is poor, and that is all that you can say of him." Then, if a service were wanted from the young man, who so good as he? Nor was this a mere selfish and ungrateful caprice, which, being understood, could harm no one. For Burton's reputation for manliness had suffered with his well-wishers, who looked on him as rather a poor-spirited fellow, while those who were indifferent to believed the evil that Miss Cromo said, paid no attention to her sweeter moods. The last that Valeria had heard from him in the spring had excited her compassion. "Burton cannot show any more of his airs," Miss Cromo had said to her, gleefully. "He is poor now, completely out of money, and I have got him under my thumb."

She had made no comment on the coarseness of feeling which had dictated this speech, and had checked an impulse to remind the speaker of a bitter time when she had herself been poor, and in need of friendly help.

She would have thought him an idiot.

She had, then, made no pretense of penitence, but had merely become pru-dent. Her family suspected her, she said. They had put a young man in the garden on purpose to watch her. She dropped all that wild, adventurous spirit which had at first made her prepare for and baffle every suspicion. She was afraid. She explained and sought to conciliate Vittorio. Sometimes she had moments of haughty impatience with him: and then afterward she humbled herself. She was a hypocrite, year are hopeful. and he knew it. He knew that she was tired of him, and also that she was afraid of him. What he did not know, what he was wild to know, was if someone else had taken his place. Neither has the collapse of the wheat speculation caused the expected decrease of shipments, as exports continue remarkably large. Wheat ceases to fall and begins to rise in price because foreign needs are not yet satisfied. Atlantic exports for the week were, flour included as wheat, 3,246,205 bushels, against 1,445,947 bushels last year, and Pacific exports, 517,153 bushels, against 87,089 bushels last year, and the demand is not of a speculative character. DIARRHEA.

Many Speakers, Actors, Singers and Clergymen Suffer From Diarrhea When They Appear in Public.

It Can Be Prevented by Taking a Few Doses of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There are many people whom nervous excitement of any kind affects in a remarkable manner, causing diarrhea. I knew an estimable clergyman who was afflicted every time he appeared in public. He could get nothing to check this distressing condition of the bowels, until he tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It acted like a charm in his case, and he always carried a bottle of the remedy with him afterwards. Some men have had to retire from public life altogether on account of their trouble becoming chronic. There is no need of this, however, as Dr. Fowler's Strawberry can control and cure the severest cases. It is not a new or untried remedy, as it has a record of over forty years of cures to its credit, and is recognized on all hands as the only reliable remedy ever offered to the public as a safe and certain cure for diarrhea, dysentery, colic, cramps, cholera, cholera morbus and summer complaint, whether of children or adults.

The price of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is 25 cents a bottle, and we would warn you against accepting any substitute or imitation. Many of these are positively dangerous, and you are risking your life when you take them.
