THINK FIELDING MAY SEEK NEW PACT WITH U. S.

Political Observers at Ottawa Look For Revival of Reciprocity Plan.

MINISTER HIDES MISSION

Head of Canadian Finance Department Visits Washington and New York.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Political Ottawa is asking today if Hon. W. S. Fielding is going to spring a surprise on the country in the shape of a reciprocity or trade agreement with the United States. Since Thursday the minister of finance has been across the line, having been in both Washington and New York. It is claimed on good authority that Mr. Fielding's visit to the United States capital had no immediate objective, but that he would try to sound out American feeling on the subject of a new trade agreement.

May Remove Duty.

It was learned some time ago that certain United States interests would welcome a lowering, or, perhaps, cancellation, of their dutp on cattle. The information came from such a source that it was thought that perhaps some arrangement could be made with brief negotiation, and that congress would be agreeable. Such a pact would, of course, be of immense benefit to every farmer raising cattle in this country.

There are several other items of the Fordney tariff bill which, it was learned here, might be talked about and an arrangement reached. It is believed here that Mr. Fielding while in Washington, sounded out political opinion, which may, perhaps, lead to an interchange of notes, and then verbal negotiation.

Supports Reciprocity.

Political observers here point out that Mr. Fielding is not the man to spend four days away from his office at this busy time without trying to accomplish something. Just as in 1911, when he went down to defeat on the reciprocity issue, his heart is set on better trade relations with the United States. Such a trade compact is a plank in the Liberal platform, and every Progressive strenuously supports any effort with this end in view. Even last year Mr. Fielding moved an amendment to the budget favoring the reciprocity pact.

In Ottawa it is held that if Canada at this late date passes the treaty it becomes operative in the United States after the proclamation in that country. There is a difference of opinion on this point, however, but Mr. Fielding evidently believes if Canada does her part the United States is also bound to come through.

Keeps Mission Secret.

The minister of finance will say nothing himself of his mission. He is an ardent believer in the premier's theory that nothing in the nature of public policy should be given the country before it is given to parliament. It was stated today that, no matter how much Mr. Fielding has accomplished, there is little chance of the matter being mentioned in the speech from the throne, but it will be brought up as soon as possible. There is no doubt that if Mr. Fielding meets with any degree of success it will mean much to the government, bringing to the government, as it will, the Progressive support and a huge majority in the commons.

Mr. Fielding's mission to New York is in connection with the renewal of the $182,000,000 loan. Canada has shortly to do some new financing in New York, and it is thought the minister is studying market condition, and making his usual careful inquiries.

Canada To Float New Loan in England

New York, Feb. 28.—It is rumored in banking circles here today that the Canadian government is contemplating floating a loan in London instead of this market. Lately it has been said that Canada would be in the New York market for a loan of about $100,000,000. It is now thought that part of the Dominion's requirements will be satisfied by a sterling loan in London.

Strength in sterling is taken to indicate the strong condition of the London money market, and it is quite possible, financiers say, that the other country may offer more attractive terms to the Dominion than could be obtained here.

Await Street Car Wage Cut Tomorrow

UNION MEMBERS PLAN DEFINITE LINE OF ACTION

Men Will Meet Tuesday Night To Consider Question.

STRIKE NOT EXPECTED

John Colbert Expresses Opinion That Legal Advice Will Be Sought.

When the executive committee of the Street Railwaymen's Union meets in special session Tuesday night a definite line of action will be mapped out to combat the action of the London Street Railway Company should the latter carry into effect a proposed three-cent reduction of wages.

C. B. King, general manager of that corporation, informed The Advertiser Tuesday morning that the company proposes to place the new scale of wages in effect Wednesday morning, as stated in the original notification sent to the union officials Jan. 1.

Does Not Expect Strike.

That there is but scant likelihood of a strike is the opinion of John Colbert, president of the union. "There would be no srike right away in any event," he explained Tuesday morning. "I do not believe that the disagreement will reach such proportions. We are not taking any action until tomorrow, except that the executive will meet tonight and consider what to do."

"We must wait until tomorrow. We'll let them go ahead and break the law first. Then it is up to them. We hold that the right is on our side, basing our claim on Bylaw 916 respecting the city of London and the railway company, which provides that neither of the contracting parties can break their agreement without first calling for a board of conciliation."

Board Not Asked.

"As a matter of fact, however, neither party has yet asked for a board. We can yet do so. We have given notice several days ago that we also wanted the agreement quashed April 1. While the company seeks to reduce wages we are asking for certain increases.

"We feel that the company should not effect a reduction at this time. There is no call for it. We contend that the local street railwaymen are the poorest paid in the country, and we have the figures to show for it. In addition to that the company is, we believe, doing the biggest business in its history."

The president was unable to define just what action will result Wednesday, but intimated that in all probability the union will seek by legal means to restrain the company from placing the revised scale into effect until a board of arbitration has been called.

A decision will be made at the meeting Tuesday night, however.

FINDS MUCH SUFFERING PREVALENT IN GERMANY

Writer of Letter to Londoner Says Railroad Strike Aggravated Situation.

A letter just received by Bert Weir from a friend in Germany dated Feb. 4, contains the information that the last strike of the railroad men which was in progress at the time the letter was written, was the worst ever experienced in the city of Berlin.

The writer explains that while the strike lasted they had no gas, no water, no electricity and no coal, although the weather became very cold with snow on the ground.

In the hospitals the doctors had a very difficult time attending the sick because the rooms were cold and the writer states that "men died like flies."

The misery experienced at that time cannot be described, according to the letter, and there is not much improvement to look forward to in the future.

The letter expresses the belief that in a short time if things continue to get more expensive the situation will become similar to that of Russia.

It is only the rich in Germany who have money to buy necessities and most of these are Jews.

The cost of one good cigar in Berlin is now 80 to 90 pfennigs. Before the war such a cigar cost one pfennig, equal to one quarter of a cent.

CONGREGATION BUYS HOME.

Hamilton, Feb. 28. — Centenary Church has purchased 51 Robinson street, formerly the residence of Dr. Weinig, as a parsonage.

DOG SAVES LIVES OF EIGHT PEOPLE

Toronto, Feb. 28.—A dog saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and their six children—three sets of twins—when fire broke out in their home early this morning.

Clothes left hanging over the stove in the kitchen ignited and burning along the line set fire to the curtains. The dog left in the dining-room could not get out.

NAMES CONCILIATION BOARD.

Hamilton, Feb. 28.—Three Toronto men will sit as a conciliation board on the wage dispute between the Dominion Power and Transmission Company and its employees. Fred Bancroft was chosen by the men, F. H. McGuigan by the minister of labor to act for the company, and now the labor minister has appointed J. M. Godfrey, K.C., as chairman.

HAVE LIABILITIES OF $150,000

Monteral, Feb. 28.—Liabilities of about $150,000 and assets of about half that sum are unofficially stated as the figures of the failure of the stock brokerage firm of Tousaw, Hart & Anderson, members of the Montreal Stock Exchange, whose notice of assignment was formerly announced from the rostrum of the stock exchange yesterday.

WINDSOR MAN CHARGED WITH INTENT TO KILL

Russell Drouillard Held In Connection With Tecumseh Mail Robbery.

Windsor, Feb. 28.—Shooting with intent to kill is charged against Russell Drouillard, Windsor, who was arrested by Detectives in Detroit in connection with the Tecumseh mail robbery, the attempt to rob the mails on the Amherstburg car and the Petite Cote bank robbery last July. Police allege that Drouillard is the man who drew a weapon and shot George Meloche, turnkey of the Sandwich jail, when he made an effort to prevent them from carrying out the street car hold-up.

Drouillard is also charged with conspiring to rob the government mails. Police say that they will also charge him with robbery armed, in connection with the Tecumseh holdup and the looting of the Merchants Bank at Petite Cote.

When arraigned before Magistrate Gundy in Windsor police court today, Drouillard was not asked to enter his plea, being remanded to jail eight days without bail. Bernard H. Furlong was present as his counsel. On the attempted manslaughter charge the prisoner must stand trial before a jury. Percy Deneau and Wm. Lesperance, who are also charged with conspiracy to rob the mails on the Amherstburg car, also faced Magistrate Gundy today. At the request of Crown Attorney Geo. Urquhart they were also remanded to jail eight days for trial.

FREE STATERS WIN POINT ON FIRST DIVISION

Appointment of Dail Minister of Agriculture Is Ratified.

CHURCHILL OPTIMISTIC

Secretary of State for Colonies Predicts Early Peace in Erin.

Dublin, Feb. 28.—Shortly after the Dail Eireann reassembled today a division was taken on the ratification of the appointment of Patrick J. Hogan as Dail minister of agriculture. The vote was 56 to 50 in his favor. This was the first show of strength between the republicans and free staters, and it was taken as an indication that the party led by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins had a working majority of six.

CHURCHILL SEES PEACE.

LONDON, Feb. 20. — Winston Spencer Churchill, the secretary of state for the colonies, today told the House of Commons the week-end conferences with representatives of the Irish provisional government had been satisfactory and reassuring.

The Irish ministers had not receded from the provisions of the Anglo-Irish treaty, he said, or weakened in their determination to carry it through. Their opposition to the republican party was unabated, he said.

The Sinn Fein demand that the Irish people should have a constitution before them as well as the treaty when they are called upon to give their votes at an election was acceded to, Mr. Churchill added, and as a result the election was expected to occur early in June.

Mr. Churchill said this would not affect the position of the British government on the treaty, and all that was needed was an amendment to the bill now before the House of Commons to provide that an election should occur within four months.

Meanwhile, the technical committee appointed by the provisional government was understood to be working on the Irish constitution to be submitted to the Irish people with the authority of the provisional government, not with the authority of the Dail Eireann.

The colonial secretary added that the evacuation of British troops from Ireland would continue "stage by stage" and that debate on the Irish bill would be resumed at the earliest convenient moment.

SEES NEED FOR RESEARCH

Hon. W. R. Motherwell Emphasizes Necessity of Technical Knowledge In Agricultural Work.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—"The best technical knowledge was needed to combat the ravages of plant and livestock diseases which were constantly becoming more prevalent," stated Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, speaking last night at the annual banquet of the Eastern Ontario Branch Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists.

Mr. Motherwell impressed on those present the importance in work which was a service to agriculture, of not losing sight of the man on the land whom they were working to help. There was a great need for technical research to supplement the efforts of those who tilled the soil. Difficulties and disease seldom heard of in former years are now becoming common, and could only be checked by careful study and diligent application of the results of research.

CROWDS CHEER AS CEREMONY IS COMPLETED

PERFORMED AT 11:30 A.M.

Entire Royal Household Participate in Brilliant Assemblage.

London, England, Feb. 28.—Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, was married today to Viscount Lascelles, with all the pomp and dignity befitting a royal wedding.

The ceremony began in Westminster Abbey at 11:30 o'clock and soon thereafter the couple were pronounced man and wife, while the chimes of Westminster rang out the happy message and vast crowds gave tumultuous greetings.

The scene of the ceremony, within the historic walls of the abbey, was one of impressive grandeur, with the King and Queen and the entire royal household participating with all ranks represented in the brilliant assemblage, while outside the Abbey enthusiastic popular homage was given the bridal pair.

The long awaited day found London crowded with excursionists from all parts of the Isles and the continent.

Hours before the 2,500 guests began assembling in the abbey there were overflows of humanity in every street transversing the route. Some, bringing blankets and food with them, made certain of seeing their princess by keeping all night possession of carefully chosen positions.

At 8:45 o'clock general vehicular traffic was diverted from the streets between the palace and the abbey by a force of 8,000 blue-coated and white-gloved police, who lined the roadway, crowding watchers back to curbings.

Outside Buckingham Palace and about the abbey, military guards of honor took up their positions, forming a line in front of the police, their tall fur shakos and scarlet and white uniforms making a brilliant spectacle of the mile and a half of thoroughfare.

Parade For Duty.

Two thousand of the King's Life Guardsmen and Territorials were paraded for this duty. With them were their four bands, which entertained the crowds until, at 11 o'clock, trumpeting from the mounted escort heralded the departure of the two carriages from Marlborough House, carrying Queen Mother Alexandra

Premier Drury Cables Congratulations

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—Premier Drury this morning sent the following cablegram to H. R. H. Princess Mary, Buckingham Palace, London.

"On behalf of the government and the people of Ontario, I tender your highness hearty felicitations on this happy occasion and all good wishes to you and your husband."

Things Which Might Be Done With Our World to Make People Everywhere Happier

BY AN APOSTLE OF HAPPINESS.

THE Washington Arms Conference has dispersed, the treaties are signed and sealed, and Paardeburg Day is but yesterday, and the world, having stood still while the diplomatists discussed her destinies, now starts again on her way searching for happiness—that quest which never ends.

History is, after all, like a paper-chase in which the scraps of paper, shed upon tracks true and false, are notes and protocols and agreements dropped by the statesmen as they run ahead but seldom perused or understood by we mortals, who, eking out an existence in Western Ontario, follow the trail laid down but know nothing where it will land us.

Writing and talking have never saved mankind and never will; we now need a program of realities, of things that urgently need to be done—obvious things, though long neglected—things which will keep every idle men in Canada and elsewhere in the empire employed for fifty years—not ideas, not theories, no causes but services—simple, straightforward, international housekeeping. That is today the solution.

For a moment imagine that Intelligence has begun to reign and survey the magic opportunities that beckon to progressive mankind.

In Canada there are more than 40,000 miles of railroads: in England 20,000 miles. Deliberately public opinion has decided that railroads are necessary to the more abundant life of the race. We have men who know how to run railroads. We have bankers who can finance railroads. We have engineers who are able to construct railroads. Yet there are today few countries which do not need railroads.

In Canada and India and China and Russia and Africa hundreds of thousands of miles are needed. The building would bring trade and the railroad, when finished, would develop that trade still further. I would have a grand trunk-line running north from the Cape to Cairo, thence crossing the Nile to Palestine, so into Syria, where there should be a junction, one branch linking through Asia to Vladivostok and the other through Europe to Aberdeen.

I would bridge the Dardanelles, tunnel the English Channel and cut clean through international animosities with straight steel track—the shortest line between any given points.

Hitherto the strategic railway has stopped dead at a frontier. It has emphasized race hatred instead of obliterating it. My strategic railway would connect every friend with every foe.

What will prevent massacres in Armenia is not argument, not protest, but well-organized commerce, conducted under the protection of the police. Railways and all that they bring would render Armenia as safe as Ontario or the Punjab.

Next I would develop ports, canals, rivers, telegraphs, telephones and all other communications. Everything that will bring men together in peace should be encouraged. Follow that policy and not one ship anywhere will lack a cargo.

Every day will witness the evolution of new wants. To win those "wants" people will be ready to work harder and to better advantage. The interchange of ideas will induce the interchange of goods. The old delusion that prosperity is national will disappear. It will be found that prosperity is international and that the true interest of each nation is the common interest of all nations.

No nation can have any wealth, any happiness, which it does not share.

As communications are extended, so will there arise an opportunity for irrigation. What manufactures, what agriculture, needs today is often cold water. In India already 50,000,000 acres have been rendered fertile by canals, and the length of the canals would cross our Dominion twenty times.

In Egypt there are great barrages which change desert into garden, and others are still to be built. But the factory as well as the farm needs irrigation, and for the factory irrigation means water-power. For captains of industry there is in the development of water-power, such as our own Chippawa Canal and the St. Lawrence projects, an inexhaustible field. Such schemes, when properly devised, can scarcely fail to repay the capital invested in the future.

The notion that we need to limit the births of children is geographically absurd. The world is still comparatively empty and its resources are undiscovered or running to waste.

In most countries the methods of agriculture are still primitive. There is a generation of effort needed merely to modernize the tilling of the soil. The output of farmers' implements ought to be colossal. And with every road that is built and safeguarded orders will come in for automobiles. We do not need fewer children but more of them. And what we also need is the wisdom to make the world more fit for children.

Which brings me to education. Even today this planet is peopled by illiterates. A few individual nations here and there can, in part, read and write, but they are all. A city like London, with newspapers and libraries and universities and schools and Dundas street, is quite exceptional.

Schools should be built by hundreds of thousands and teachers trained and enrolled by the millions.

Instead of objecting to children as if they were a nuisance we should set the child in the midst and let all our citizenship be ranged around him.

We should not demand fewer mothers. Rather we should change every mother into a Madonna.

We talk about emancipating nations as if nations consisted solely of men who can make speeches. Over most of the world it is the women within the nation that await emancipation. The Turk locks the door of his harem and then walks forth shouting for freedom.

What has to be said to the Catholic is, "You cannot save the world by ceremonies alone, however solemn and however ancient"; and to the Protestant, "You cannot save the world by sermons, however learned and however eloquent"; and to the Moslem, "You cannot save the world by the sword, however ruthless or fanatic"; and to the Bolshevist, "You cannot save the world by Socialism, however eager and however radical."

There is one, and only one, way to save the world, and that is by service and sacrifice.

Building railways, bridging gulfs, watering deserts—these are not exploitation. They are service, and they involve the sacrifice. The task tears men from home and friends, subjects them to Arctic cold and tropic heat and to a profound loneliness. Commerce, as well as religion and war, has its Calvary.

Among the great tasks there is, finally, the relief of disease. Everywhere there are maladies unhealed.

What use was Egyptian trade forty years ago when a single epidemic of cholera swept away 100,000 lives? For doctors, for dentists, for nurses the world is today a battlefield with the wounded dying because there is no Red Cross.

On the science of healing, therefore, we should spend as many billions of money as we have been spending hitherto on the science of killing. The appropriations for saving life should replace the appropriations for slaughtering life. Instead of barracks there should be hospitals. And instead of the poison gas which gives pain there should be the anaesthetic which changes pain into slumber. Over doctoring as over other matters it is time that we got busy—in the reverse direction.

Today the Anglo-Saxons, as they are inaccurately called, might unite to dominate the world.

We have the raw materials. We have the financial credit. We have the navies, the mercantile marine, the developed citizenship to do it. None can rival the power we might exert.

But it is not by power nor by might, but by the spirit of justice, of mercy, of fair play, that we shall most wisely influence our neighbors.

If we invest capital, say, in China, then it is right that China, using the capital, should pay interest as mutual, and the token of service is money. Capital is merely service accumulated for future use. Interest is the service paid in exchange for capital. In amount it should be reasonable. And it should include amortization of the debt. All nations, all municipalities should be automatically liquidating all their liabilities. For loans as for slaves there should be provision made in the ledger for the year of jubilee.

Therefore, to the diplomatists whose merchandise is mere phrase-making, I say: "Stand aside. Let the world achieve itself. You have had your wars and intrigues. Let us have our turn who want homes and food and gardens and clothing and a touch of pleasure. We have had the force-and-fraud time. Let us now have the good time. Get out of your gold lace and let us get into overalls."

Nationally? Yes, by all means, respect nationality. But bear in mind that Dr. Johnson described patriotism as the last refuge of a scoundrel. In so far as nationality means a flag and a language and a tradition and a religion it is inevitable and it is right. But in so far as it means tariffs and hatred and armies and interrupted rivers and broken railways and innumerable passports it may become a veritable curse.

Because I happen to be an Englishman that is no reason why I should deny myself a Cuban cigar or frish bacon or Michaelangelo's "Last Judgment" or Bach's fugues or a "flivver."

Because he happens to be a Frenchman that is no reason why he should mix up French sympathies with German sausages. On a diet of sauerkraut it should be easier, I should think, to hate than it is on a diet of French rolls. In London during the war we never ceased to play Beethoven. While, as for Wagner, we did worse. Our revenge was to translate him into English.

DEMANDS COURT TEST MERIT OF CATHOLIC PLEA

Dr. J. W. Edwards Claims Present Legislative Grant Favors Separate Schools.

SPEAKER QUOTES FIGURES

Declares Howe Island Grant of $61 Per Pupil Refutes Bishop Fallon's Claim.

BY T. R. McLEOD.

That citizens of London are alive to the importance of the demands of Roman Catholics of Ontario for a more favorable division of school taxes, was evidenced by an attendance of approximately 600 people in the Masonic Temple Monday night, when Dr. J. W. Edwards, former M.P. for Frontenac, and minister of public health in the Meighen government, thoroughly discussed the question from every angle.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Public School Defence League, formed to combat further tax concessions to Roman Catholic schools in Ontario, and was enthusiastic throughout. Other speakers included E. T. Essery, K.C., and Rev. N. L. Tucker, dean of Huron.

Rev. Quintin Warner of Cronyn Memorial Church acted as chairman.

In his opening remarks, Dr. Edwards pointed out that he had no intention of making any statement which would offend any member of the audience, regardless of race or creed.

Dr. Edwards first alluded to the speech delivered by His Lordship Bishop M. F. Fallon at Massey Hall, Toronto, recently in his plea for fair play, and all through his address confined his reply to this speech.

Lauds Interest Shown.

"This question must be of interest," began Dr. Edwards, "otherwise you would not be here in such large numbers. The question is growing from day to day. I will endeavor to present facts for your consideration, and arguments for your approval or disapproval, and will not break harshly on any ears here. I entertain no ill will or rancour for those who differ with me. I hold a right for my own opinion and public interest, and I certainly give to those opposed the same right as I hold myself.

"In my early life I spent some time teaching school in Ontario and Quebec, and have perhaps therefore given closer attention to educational problems, and am not disposed to sit back in a controversy of this kind."

Referring to the wish expressed by Bishop Fallon at Toronto that a portion of his audience should be public school supporters, the speaker said: "Well, I can say the same here tonight, that I would like nothing better than to present my views to supporters of His Lordship Bishop Fallon in the hope of convincing them in part that they are wrong. There is a subject not touched upon by Archbishop McNeill and the Bishop of London, and that is legislative grants. I do not understand why they did not touch upon these sources of revenue. There are two sources, namely the grants and the money raised by the taxes on the people in the school sections. It seems quite pertinent to draw your attention to the legislative grants.

Charges Favoritism.

"Bishop Fallon has many complaints of unfair treatment of Roman Catholics in regard to their separate schools. It may be noted, however, that he has nothing whatever to say regarding the favoritism shown to Roman Catholic separate schools in the apportionment of legislative grants, which, it may be remarked, is their chief source of revenue.

"In this connection I would point out that in Middlesex County last year the average legislative grant to each public school was $170.68 and to each separate school was $454.80. On the basis of average daily attendance this amounted to $7.99 for each public school pupil in the county where the Bishop of London resides, and to $33.95 for each separate school pupil. This very obvious injustice does not apparently cause his lordship any concern.

"The separate school grants in the county of Middlesex are roughly double those to public schools. Why should Protestants pay for instruction in separate schools? Are we to conclude that the extra $25.96 per pupil is given in recognition of the fact that the Roman Catholic doctrine is not in public schools? It cannot be because of attendance because the figures show this to be wrong."

Dr. Edwards then quoted the grants given other schools of the province, including Huron County with $8.44 per public school attendant, and $34 to separate schools on the same basis; township of Ellice, with $6.65 to public schools, and $36.83 to separate schools on a similar basis, and Dreaney Township in Perth County with $5.33 for public schools to $36.83 for separate schools.

"Taking the county of Frontenac in Eastern Ontario, I find that the legislative grants in 1921 averaged $815 for each public school and $715 for each separate school, or on the basis of average daily attendance $21.92 for each public school pupil and $53.33 for each separate school pupil.

Cites County of Grey.

"In the township of Glenolg, county of Grey, three Roman Catholic separate schools with an attendance of 39 pupils received over $50 more in legislative grants than nine public schools in the same township with an attendance of 143, or $13.70 for each public school pupil and $54 for each separate school pupil.

"In Howe Island, the three separate schools received in the last two years, enough to pay the salaries of their teachers, and leave them a surplus of over $1,251. Meanwhile the four or five Protestant families on that island, have no school to which they can send their children.

"In Howe Island the Protestants have been placed in this position, although they helped build the schools. They must either send their children to separate schools, where they must hear the Roman Catholic doctrine taught, in which they do not agree, or bring tutors into their families, or send them off the island to friends on the mainland, or they do as thousands of English-speaking Protestants have been forced to do; they may sell their farms and move to other parts of the country."

"This is something that must have been known to his lordship the bishop of London, because it is near his old home, yet it brought from him no protest whatever. The principal business of the ratepayers every annual meeting must be to declare dividends for themselves on the legislative grants to Howe Island. If the reverend bishop is actuated by a desire to remove inequalities and injustice I would respectfully suggest that he might very properly direct some of his fervid eloquence to the wrongs I have alluded to.

Fears Laws Are Elastic.

"The only argument put forward by the honorable minister of education is that there has been no change in the law respecting legislative grants. Well, if the laws and regulations have not changed, they have lately become wonderfully elastic along certain lines, and to show that this elasticity is not general I will refer you to the treatment of six Protestant separate schools on figures furnished me by the deputy minister of education."

The speaker then quoted figures showing a total of 404 in attendance at these schools with average of 314 in 1919, the grant averaging $2.50 per pupil that year. In 1920 it averaged $4.10, and one year later was increased to $4.47.

"Compare that to the separate schools," said the doctor. "Compare it to the $61 per pupil at Howe Island, where there are no educational facilities for Protestant families. These figures indeed manifest an injustice. I judge that his lordship the bishop of London has no complaints whatever to make.

"In 1841, the population of the two provinces of Canada were equally divided along religious lines. In view of this fact one province was overwhelmingly Roman Catholic and the other province was just as overwhelmingly Protestant. In view of this fact the statesmen looked with apprehension on union.

"They came together in an agreement that no government measure would be put through the united parliament without the approval of a majority from the province to which it applied. It was referred to in the records of that time as the 'double majority.' Now that agreement insofar as Lower Canada was concerned was religiously lived up to, but I want to show that insofar as Ontario was concerned it was not.

"Following the Baltimore conference in 1858 there were about 100 separate schools in this province. In 1860 the Senator Scott resolution was defeated, and again in 1861, and 1862 it met the same fate. Again in 1863 he presented his separate school bill which he called the finality act, because it was supposed to be final, as far as separate schools were concerned. It carried in 1863, but I want to point out that three-fifths of the Ontario representation recorded a vote against it.

Ignored People's Will.

All Quebec and some Ontario members voted for it. Separate schools were forced upon the province against the will of the people, as expressed by the majority of their representation in Parliament. Dr. Ryerson obtained the assurance for Senator Scott that the Roman Catholic Church would accept this as the final settlement, and Vicar-General Cazeau of Quebec and Vicar-General Angus McDonald of Ontario accredited representatives of the Roman Catholic Church also gave this assurance, with authority to speak at that time.

"They as representatives of the church agreed to the act of 1863 as final settlement as far as Ontario is concerned. The bill was put through by the government, thereby giving the sanction of the government at the time as a final settlement."

Dr. Edwards quoted Hon. George Brown as stating at that time that the settlement was to be final. He also quoted Thomas D'Arcy Magee, noted statesman and a Roman Catholic at that time as saying, "I think they ought to be satisfied. I will be no party to re-opening the question."

Act Was Accepted.

"The act of 1863 on which Bishop Fallon bases many of his claims was "not only by Senator Scott and Magee but by representatives of the church as final settlement of the vexed question of separate schools in Ontario.

"Notwithstanding that distinct agreement and understanding there have been since 1867 some forty amendments to the separate school act in the province of Ontario extending further privileges to separate schools of the province and apparently the end is not yet.

"Bishop Fallon says the Roman Catholics want only what was given by the separate school act of 1863 and the constitutional guarantees of 1867, 'nothing more and nothing less.' Is he prepared for the sake of peace to submit this act of 1863 to the best legal experts of the land and to the privy council if necessary and accept their decision and wipe every amendment passed since 1867 off the statute books?" (Applause).

Urges Court Ruling.

"I will venture the assertion here that he will not agree. Taking his lordship's own words that he is not a lawyer qualified to speak and neither am I. He thinks one thing and I another. It seems to me that the logical course to have taken would be to have submitted it to the courts and let them determine if he is right in thinking he has a grievance. If they say he is right then the Legislature can remedy his grievance. It seems to me he is going at it backwards."

"I wonder at a man of the admitted intelligence of his lordship the bishop of London should think of carrying a case which he did not feel qualified to speak on to the U. F. O. government" (laughter and applause). "They are supposed to look very coldly on lawyers.

"Bishop Fallon says the Roman Catholics want only what was given by the separate school act of 1863, and the constitutional guarantees of 1867, 'nothing more and nothing les.'

"Let us then take his lordship at his word, and proceed to determine the alleged rights. Where must we begin and end our search for the truth in this controversy? Manifestly the alleged rights must be found within the four corners of the act of 1863, and in the constitutional guarantees of the act of 1867. Well, that is 55 years ago, and the alleged grievances have reposed all that time. Bishop Fallon cannot quote any section or clause of the acts of 1863 or 1867, nor can he refer to practice or usage to justify his claim.

Cites Separate Acts.

"At Confederation the statutes provided for two sets of schools, not by the same, but by separate acts. "The act re separate schools is 26 Victoria—1863; the act re grammar schools is chapter 63, and the act re common schools is chapter 64.

"The common schools of that date did not possess the same powers as the grammar schools. The trustees were different bodies, and the corporations were different.

"It was clearly set forth then, and has ever since been recognized, that Roman Catholics were exempt from paying taxes on common schools, but were liable for grammar schools. All persons between 5 and 21 years have the right to attend the common schools, but none may attend the high school without passing a qualifying examination.

Both the public and the separate school acts make it the duty of the board 'to provide adequate accommodations and qualified teachers for all children between 5 and 21 years of supporters of schools under the control of the board. But the only schools under the control of the board are separate schools.

Recognize Clear Line.

Moreover, a clear line of division between primary and secondary schools has always been and is still recognized by law and practice. The law places a penalty on the parent who does not send his child to primary school, but not so in the case of the secondary school.

But I would give further proof that Bishop Fallon is wrong in his contention that under the act of 1863 and 1867 the Roman Catholics are guaranteed a separate school system from the alphabet to the university. On August 3, 1866, a Mr. R. Bell introduced a separate school bill, which provided for separate higher education. On August 4, Dr. Ryerson wrote the provincial secretary, opposing this bill, which did not pass, and making particular reference to that particular clause. He said this was another of the many futile attempts to drive in the wedge and completely separate the Roman Catholics "as a body," etc. If this provision for separate secondary schools was already in the act of 1863 why insert it as an amendment in this bill of 1866?

"I agree with Archbishop McNeill that there should be unity and mutual trust, but I deplore the means which he takes to bring it about. In London you have separate schools, with a public school across the road, and it is the same all over Ontario. Our boys and girls, from the time they leave the cradle, are brought up in different camps, taught to look at one another with distrust, suspicion and hostility, yet they talk of mutual trust.

Lauds National Plan.

"I ask you, regardless of creed, right now in reason, can you expect boys and girls brought up like that to work shoulder to shoulded for the benefit of this great country as Canada should be? I would like to see a national system of schools, where Roman Catholic children and Protestants could play in the same yard and learn arithmetic together.

"Let them get education side by side," he urged, "and leave it to the Protestant clergy and Roman Catholic priests and parents to give the religious education. We would have more united feeling in this country if we did. What is it that Bishop Fallon asks? That we shall not only have separate public schools, but normal schools and I suppose technical schools."

"Why not carry it to a logical conclusion and have separate workshops, towns, villages and cities?" (Cheers.) "You say that is absurd. Well, I say in so far as it goes now the wedge it is to a certain extent, and he wants it to go further. The bishop cannot quote any of the act of '63 to justify his claim."

Cites Complaints.

Dr. Edwards, referring to the complaint that Roman Catholic teachers are discriminated against in appointments to public school staffs in Ontario, declared that these teachers are crowded out of separate schools by brothers and nuns whose salaries go into the coffers of the church. Since the bishop designates public schools as Protestant schools why should the authorities or same not demand Protestant teachers? he asked.

Regarding taxes of companies the speaker asserted that school taxes on these corporations are divided between separate and public schools at the desire expressed by the shareholders. As for public utilities such as street railways he declared that schools taxes from them should be assigned to public utilities in which category he included public schools.

In conclusion he referred to the fact that Protestant fathers in mixed marriages must pledge to send their offspring to separate school, and if "they gave the poor fellow a chance," there would be no grievance regarding disposition of his school taxes. He mentioned the fact that Bishop Fallon attended public school near Kingston for two years, while very young, yet become a man respected by all his flock.

RETURNS FROM BIER OF MOTHER

Norman A. Roberts has returned from Toronto, having been called away by the sudden death from heart-failure of his mother, Mary A. Roberts, of 305 Margueretta street, Friday morning.

The funeral service was held at the residence Monday afternoon. William Castell of the Catholic Apostolic Church officiated.

Mrs. Charles Berry, a daughter, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Woods, arrived in time for the service from Denver, Colorado.

If Mrs. Roberts had lived until Tuesday, Feb. 28, she would have attained the age of 71, and March 9 would have been the anniversary of her golden wedding.

She is survived by her husband, William Roberts; a daughter, Mrs. Berry, and a son, Norman A. Roberts.

AGED RESIDENT OF LONDON SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Catherine Morley, One of Earliest Pioneers, Passes Away Sunday.

SURVIVED BY CHILDREN

Spent Practically Entire 86 Years of Life In Interests of City.

One of London's oldest citizens, Mrs. Annie Catherine Morley, 354 St. James street, died at her home at an early hour Sunday. Mrs. Morley was born in London 86 years ago at the foot of Dundas street, where the sulphur baths now stand, and spent practically her whole life in London.

Her father, the late Edward Mathews, who came here from Warwickshire, England, in 1825, was an architect, but soon became a government contractor and built the old barracks, the present site of Victoria Park. Mr. Mathews built some of the first houses erected in London, and was one of the original stockholders in the Tecumseh Hotel.

Mrs. Morley was married to the late Samuel Morley, who predeceased her 29 years ago. Like her father, she lived a long and active life, and was perhaps the city's oldest native-born resident.

Mrs. Morley is survived by two daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) H. E. Arkell and Miss Clara Morley, both of London, and six sons who will act as pallbearers at the funeral. They are Edward and Harold of London; Charles of St. Louis; William of New York, and George and Ernest of Chicago. One sister, Mrs. Hugh C. Baker of Hamilton also survives.

The funeral, which is of a private nature, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery. The services at 2:30 o'clock will be conducted by Rev. A. L. G. Clarke of the Church of St. John the Evangelist.

"Building an independent income"

Investing Wisely

"The man who forms wise investment habits early in life rarely needs to face old age with misgiving. It is the speculator who takes a little flier in this or that offering which holds out the lure of a quick return and large profits who finds himself in poverty in his declining years, or absolutely dependent upon others for his sustenance.

"The wise investment of savings is the groundwork in the process of building up an independent income. While to the man of small salary this may seem a tedious course to pursue, yet in his case there is the more reason why he should strictly adhere to such a policy, as he cannot afford to gamble with his means in some unknown and untried project."

WILL CONTEST CATHOLIC PLEA

Ministerial Alliance Pledges Support Against Change in School Taxes Division.

HEAR DR. J. W. EDWARDS

Protestant Clergy of City To Circulate Petitions in Churches.

Co-operation and support on the part of the London Ministerial Alliance were pledged the movement on foot throughout the province opposing the claims of Roman Catholics to further concessions in school taxes in Ontario, at a special meeting Tuesday morning, held at the Y. M. C. A. Members of the alliance agreed to circulate petitions against the Catholic claims through the medium of the local Protestant congregations. Dr. J. W. Edwards of Frontenac, former minister of public health, addressed the meeting.

The petition, which is addressed to the premier and members of the legislature of the province of Ontario, reads as follows:

"Whereas, the Roman Catholic bishops of Ontario have made representations to the government of the province that the assessment of the act should be so amended as to divide the school taxes paid by incorporated companies between public and separate schools on the basis of population, and

"Whereas the granting of such demands would compel Protestant taxpayers to contribute to the Roman Catholic separate schools, and thereby pay for the teaching of Roman Catholic religion, and

"Whereas such division of school taxes as proposed by the Roman Catholic bishops would deprive the public non-sectarian school system of a large portion of its legitimate and necessary revenues, thereby seriously impairing the efficiency of the public school system, and

"Whereas, under the existing act all the school taxes that can be shown to be derived from taxable property in the possession of Roman Catholics now goes to the support of the Roman Catholic separate schools,

Oppose Any Changes.

"Therefore your petitioners humbly pray that no changes be made in the assessment act, and further that no additional concessions of any kind shall be made to sectarian schools in this province.

Dr. Edwards of the Public School Defence League, in addressing the Alliance, vigorously opposed the claims of Bishop Fallon for a system of separate school education which would extend from the alphabet to the university.

"I have never in the course of either public or private speaking made an attack upon any man's religion. That is his concern alone, but when Roman Catholics, as an organized body, interfere in public affairs I will never submit. It has become a habit of long standing with Roman Catholics to attempt to dictate in affairs of state, but I protest that they have no more right to do so than would have Methodists or Presbyterians as an organized body. It is an absolute wrong that any man should be forced to pay any sum, no matter how small, for the teaching of religious doctrines in which he does not believe.

'If such grants were made to the Roman Catholics would there be increased efficiency in the schools? Instead of harmony, would there not be a decided tendency toward suspicion and more or less open hostility? The wedge of isolation would be driven in. As Canadians who look for a united country, should we not protest a course which would drive the wedge of isolation between its peoples and promote racial bitterness?

Take Exception To Claim.

Dr. Edwards took exception to the claims of Bishop Fallon that the desire of Roman Catholics for a system of separate school education extending from the alphabet to the university were provided for by legislation enacted in 1866.

"The proper course for his lordship to have taken in this matter would have been to secure legal advice to determine how far this act provides for a system of separate school education."

Dr. Edwards cited historical facts and the words of Egerton Ryerson and George Brown, which he claimed were conclusive evidence that when the act of 1866 was passed it was with the agreement that it should be absolutely final. Since that time there have been made 42 amendments.

"Bishop Fallon contends that his desire is that the finality act of 1866 be carried out, nothing more, nothing less," he said. "According to that his lordship should be willing to renounce the 42 amendments which have since been made. I for one would be willing that the act be searched by competent legal men and am confident that any interpretation of it could not be construed to provide for a system of separate school education such as his lordship advocates."

Cites County Figures.

Dr. Edwards, in illustration of his claim that separate schools in the province have been receiving more than their fair share of the tax allotments, cited figures, which are obtainable from the treasurers' of the various counties.

"From these figures it is evident that there has been manifest unjustness and unfairness. The only claim put forth by his lordship, with regard to the disproportionate sums allotted separate schools is that the grants are still made on the basis settled in 1921. My contention is that such a condition should be altered.

"In many parts of Ontario, descendants of United Empire Loyalists have been forced to sell their homes and move to other districts, driven by the fact that they could obtain no education for their children except in separate schools.

"Owing to the custom of having monks and nuns as teachers in separate schools the expense of maintaining teachers in these schools is greatly curtailed. The money saved goes straight from the treasury of the province of Ontario into the treasury of the Roman Catholic Church."

Dr. Edwards disclaimed positively any feeling of rancour against Roman Catholicism. "I have been accused of carrying revolvers and bowie knives with the intention of scalping any Roman Catholics who came my way, but that is an absurdity. I respect any man's religion. It is his way of getting to heaven. But I do object, as a Canadian citizen, to any legislation which will further sectarian division in this country, and force any man to pay for the furtherance of doctrines in which he does not believe.

Are Greatest Utility.

"The schools are the greatest utility of this country," he said. And as such they should be supported by funds obtained from other utilities, but they should also be schools whose doors are open to children of any denomination or creed. Their object should be, not to the promotion of religious doctrines of any particular sect, but rather the object of training children to become good citizens.

"If the changes of which Bishop Fallon is desirous were effected, we should have separate high schools, separate technical and commercial schools, in short we should have a country divided. And I leave the question with you, "Is that condition desirable and would it tend for peace and harmony in Canada?"

Believe London Flurries "Tail End" of North's Blizzard

THE snow flurry of Monday night and Tuesday morning, which on two occasions tried to work up to a small blizzard, is believed by London weather experts to be the tail end of a terrific blizzard, the worst in years, that has completely tied up Northern Ontario.

Train services and electric lines have been tied up since early on Saturday, and some of them are not expected to be open until the middle of the week, so deep and heavy is the snow.

The zone of the storm in the north seems to have stretched from the Soo north and east to the Quebec boundary. Sudbury reports eight-feet drifts on its main street. Along the T. and N. O. a similar condition prevails. Cobalt is well below a heavy mantle of white.

The Northerners are not displeased. They claim spring is near, despite the snowfall, and the more snow there is on the ground with the spring breakup the more water there will be in the rivers for the log drives and the development of power for the operation of the mines.

FIVE POLICE COURT CASES ADJOURNED

Driver of Truck That Killed Boy Bailed Under Charge of Manslaughter.

LIQUOR ACTION DELAYED

Veterinarian Alleged to Have Procured More Than One Quart at Once.

Tuesday was a "day of adjournments" in police court, no less than five cases being adjourned by Deputy Police Magistrate P. H. Bartlett, at request of counsel.

A. R. Douglas, acting for the crown, asked that the case against Dr. K. L. Hoskin be held over until Friday, on account of the illness of Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop. Dr. Hoskin, a veterinarian, is charged with getting more than one quart of liquor at a time from the licensed vendor.

Mr. Douglas also requested an adjournment in the cases of Wesley Dunseith and James Cadoo, charged with the theft of some harness, valued at $65, from William Daube. Mr. Douglas asked for two weeks' time in which to gather more evidence.

Charles Brooks, 94 Brisbane street, was then asked to step forward on a charge of assault against the son of William Bennett, 91 Brisbane street, on February 27. It is alleged that he struck John Bennett with a stone.

"I am appearing for Mr. Brooks," stated Albert Judd, "and I would like an adjournment in order to get hold of a couple of witnesses."

"Can't we go on with anything this morning?" questioned Mr. Bartlett.

"This is the first adjournment I have asked for," pointed out Mr. Judd. The case will be tried on Saturday.

David Sheppard, the young chauffeur who drove the delivery truck that killed little Frank Christie on February 20, was bailed until a week from Wednesday, on a charge of manslaughter. An inquest into the cause of the boy's death will be held in the police station, Wednesday night.

HEAD TURNKEY AT JAIL TO QUIT POST

After 13 years' service at the county jail, William McLoud, head turnkey, handed in his resignation Monday to take effect March 1. Mr. McLoud entered the employ of the county of Middlesex about the same time that James Carter, the former governor, assumed office. He was appointed to the post of head turnkey almost as soon as he was engaged.

Mr. McLoud stated as his only reason for resigning that he had decided to retire and rest from his arduous duties, which required that he spend many hours each week at the institution.

A. J. Wharton, turnkey at the Middlesex county jail, has been appointed head turnkey and will succeed Wm. McLoud.

Fred Last, an attendant at the Ontario Hospital for the past five years, will assume the present duties of Mr. Wharton on Wednesday.

Chief Birrell Declares Palmer Had Enough Men To Arrest Murrells

"Yes, I talked with Provincial Officer Palmer over the phone late Saturday night regarding a tip he had regarding the whereabouts of the Murrell brothers," stated Chief of Police Robert Birrell Tuesday morning when questioned regarding a report that he had refused aid to the county police in their effort to follow up their clue regarding the youths who escaped from the county jail last September, where they were held on a charge of murder.

"The conversation did not last longer than a minute," continued the chief. "They had enough men, four or five of them, to conduct their own raid without the help of the city police. I was talking to Mr. Palmer Saturday afternoon, and he mentioned nothing about the matter. He called me up about 10:30 on Saturday night and told me of his information.

"I knew when I refused the police car that it would not take long for the information to reach the newspapers. Just suppose that the Murrells were in hiding close to the city, do you think it is good business to have the information published and give them warning?

"I had a short chat with Mr. Palmer and that is all I care to say about the matter."

SPOTTON SUGGESTS TORONTO DEBATE

Editor of Wingham Advance Would Meet Bishops.

SPEAKS IN ST. THOMAS

Will Address Meeting in Interests of School Defence League.

George Spotton, editor of the Wingham Advance, will speak, in company with Dr. J. W. Edwards, at a meeting in the interests of the Public School Defence League Tuesday night in St. Thomas.

Mr. Spotton was in London Tuesday afternoon, and prior to leaving for St. Thomas, stated to The Advertiser that he was in receipt of a telegram from Bishop O'Brien, proposing that the separate school question be placed before two high court judges, each side to state its case to the judges, and let them give a final decision.

This proposal had been met, said Mr. Spotton, with a counter proposal from himself, which suggested that Bishop O'Brien and Bishop M. F. Fallon, meet him and Dr. Edwards in open debate on the platform of Massey Hall, Toronto.

Mr. Spotton intimated that the address, which he would deliver in St. Thomas would contain practically the same substance as the address of Dr. Edwards in the Masonic Temple, London, Monday night.

He was collecting figures during the day, he said, of the amount of the grants given to separate schools in Middlesex and Elgin Counties.

DEATHS INCREASE DURING FEBRUARY

London Statistics For Month Show Fewer Marriages.

RECORDS BUILDING BOOM

Thirty-eight Permits With Value of $33,070 Are Issued.

Deaths in London during February exceeded those of January by 9, which is the first time in the last several years this has happened, with the exception of the bad "Flu" period of 1920.

The total deaths in February were 98, as compared with 87 in January. In February, 1921, there were 82, and in 1920, one of the influenza epidemic months, 182. In February, 1919, there were but 78, while the month before there had been 176.

Marriages fell off materially during the month just ended, there being 35 nuptial knots recorded, as compared with 61 in January, and 55 last February.

Births did well for the short month, the increase over January being 6, to a total of 118, but one less than the same month in 1921. There were six more girls born than there were boys in the month.

Building took quite a spurt during the last couple of days, several permits for new homes being taken out and the month ends with a total of 28 permits, with a value of $33,070, as compared with 47 permits, value $65,460 in February, 1921. The total for the two months of the year reached 76 permits, value $77,500, as compared with 74 permits, value $105,560 for 1921.

During February permits for seven new homes were taken out, the value of them being $23,280.

EARLY OPENING OF HOSPITAL PLANNED

London Citizens Launch Quiet, But Intensive Campaign For Funds.

NEED IS REALIZED

Claim Many Young Lives Lost Through Lack of Proper Treatment.

Every evidence of a strong desire to have the War Memorial Children's Hospital opened for the care of infant patients without delay is being met with in a quiet, intensive drive started this week to secure the amount required to complete the hospital.

London citizens have realized that in the past many young lives have been unnecessarily wasted through lack of the proper equipment to rectify minor defects and malformations which would handicap them during life. The result is everywhere apparent, and those who are devoting time and attention to canvassing the names given to them are meeting with gratifying success. Pledges are being secured from the prominent and active businessmen of the city, pledging payments which will extend, in some cases, over two or even three years, and the results secured to date would indicate that there is no pessimism about the future in the minds of the city's business leaders.

Great credit is due to those who are giving freely of their time in conducting the canvass, and all the more so because their work is done without publicity and the atmoshphere of a city-wide and extensively-advertised campaign.

Col. Gartshore, the honorary chairman; J. J. Foot, campaign chairman, and Mr. Skey, the honorary treasurer, have received pledges for many handsome contributions, which will be acknowledged in due course.

Meanwhile, plans for the out-of-town campaign are progressing under the direction of R. I. Watson. A strong committee, in which the women's organizations are represented, is co-operating with Mr. Watson in this feature.

It is proposed that this effort will culminate in a week to be fixed this spring or early summer to be known as "Children's Hospital Week" throughout the length and breadth of Western Ontario, during which everyone will be given an opportunity to make his or her contribution.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28—An amount estimated as high as $70,000 in cash and checks was obtained by bandits in a spectacular daylight robbery of three employees of the Standard Oil Company here yesterday.

Of the loot, $10,000 was in cash and probably more than $60,000 in checks, according to the police.

Three employees in an automobile were taking the day's receipts to a bank when they encountered another car in which were four unmasked men. Two alighted and forced the Standard Oil men to leave their machine and turn over the money and checks.

MAKE PACT WITH GERMANY

Allies Reach Agreement Providing for Annual Gold Payment.

Berlin, Feb. 28. — A provisional agreement reached between the Allied reparations commission and the German government provides for the annual payment by Germany of 720,000,000 gold marks in cash and 1,450,000,000 gold marks in kind, it was announced today.

Should the deliveries in kind not reach the total fixed, the cash payments will not be increased, under this agreement. Thus, it is pointed out, the Entente should have considerable interest in seeing that the stipulated deliveries of products were duly made.

LIBERALS WILL MEET

Provincial Executive To Hold Gathering March 10.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Canadian Press. —The members of the National Liberal committee executive will hold their first meeting since the election campaign in Ottawa on March 10. The committee is representative of the Liberal party organization in all of the provinces. One of the questions to come before the executive, it is understood, will be that of choosing a new general secretary of the organization, Andrew Haydon, the present secretary, having indicated that he wishes to retire, but that he will carry on in office until a successor is chosen and is ready to take over the work. The whole question of organization, it is understood, will probably be taken up by the committee at their meeting.

Province Makes Offer of Old Bridge To Mayor For Regent Street

THE cost of putting a bridge over the Thames River from the foot of Regent street to the new University property, will be considerably lessened by an offer sent to Mayor Wilson on Tuesday morning by the department of public works, Toronto.

The offer is that of a free donation of the old proof line bridge on Richmond street. This is being torn away and a wider one built as part of the new highway scheme.

The department of works informed the mayor that the steel superstructure would be carefully taken down and might well answer the purpose of the university. The estimated cost of the bridge over the river is about $300,000, and it is believed that the offer of the provincial department will effect a material saving in this amount.

Mayor Wilson has sent the letter on to the university.

MAYOR PRESENTS JEWELS TO OFFICERS OF LODGE

Past Mistresses of Loyal True Blue Society Honored By Members.

A bright night among the meeting nights of Forest City Loyal True Blue Lodge, No. 618, was Monday night, when the members turned out in large numbers to honor two of the past mistresses of the lodge.

A presentation of past mistresses' jewels was made bq Mayor Cameron Wilson, who expressed himself as highly honored in being allowed to present the jewels to the recipients, who, he understood, had proven themselves very worthy while in office, and who had worked tirelessly for the lodge.

"Protestanism" was the subject of a talk by Mr. Wray, who commended the work of the order and hoped for its future success.

The following program was presented during the evening: Chairman's address, Mr. McFadden; opening ode, "The Maple Leaf Forever"; recitation, Mrs. W. Near, "Old Orange"; flue solo, Gordon Knapp; violin selection, Miss Covey; Mrs. Lee and Mr. Graham; solo, Mrs. Hadden.

In addition to the presentation of the past mistresses' jewels, Mrs. W. Near was presented with a silver spoon and butterknife.

The address for this presentation was read by Mrs. W. Hier, worthy mistress of the lodge, and the presentation was made by Mrs. Stewart.

MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE WILL ASSIST RUSSIANS

Pass Resolution At Special Meeting Held Tuesday Morning.

In response to an appeal for aid for the relief of the Russian famine situation, a resolution was passed at the special meeting of the Ministerial Alliance, Tuesday morning, that a collection be taken at an early date, preferably March 12, for this purpose.

The resolution further provided that the brotherhoods of London be asked to undertake the promotion of the collection, and see that funds were sent through a proper medium.

The Chamber of Commerce had been asked to undertake the drive, but since that body is at present engaged with a drive for the Memorial Hospital and intends at the close of it to undertake a campaign for child welfare work, members felt that any further undertaking would be unwise.

It was understood that this resolution would in no way interfere with any plans which may have been already formed in any of the city churches.

WANTS TO KNOW WHERE WIFE IS

McDonald Writes Sister Seeking Information Regarding Family.

CLAIMS LETTERS HELD

County Constable Signs Affidavit Disclosing Identity of Alleged Forger.

William McDonald, the London man now serving five years in Kingston Penitentiary, is wondering where his wife is. His sister received a letter from him on Monday, seeking this information.

In the meantime Mrs. McDonald is in London, working and doing her best for herself and little children, and wondering wny the prison officials at Kingston are witholding her letters.

Mrs. McDonald called on The Advertiser Tuesday afternoon. She is greatly disturbed over the fact that her husband has not received any of her mail.

The last letter she wrote, just three weeks ago, before she broke her wrist, which incapacitated her from further letter writing, she claims she made brief and to the point. She said she noticed that letters from Mr. McDonald were censored and wanted to make sure that he would get her letter.

The letter has yet to reach her husband, Mrs. McDonald claims, and of course, the husband not knowing where his wife is, does not write to her, and this is adding materially to the worries of Mrs. McDonald.

No further word has come from Ottawa in regard to the application for a new trial for McDonald, and his wife believes that the investigation being conducted by the department of justice has not been completed.

It has come to light that one of the main bits of evidence adduced in McDonald's favor is an affidavit signed by Edmond Morand, a county constable and realty dealer of Riverside, Essex

This affidavit is to the effect that the real forger of the check paid over to Ernest Cecile was a man known to Morand as George Gordon. He believes that this man is now somewhere in Michigan.. The forging of this check was one of the charges of which McDonald was convicted.

Morand was present in Cecile's house, and sat there with Gordon before the check in question was handed over. Later he drove home with Gordon.

Afterwards Morand heard that the check was a forgery and that McDonald had been arrested for it. He states positively that McDonald, who is now serving five years in Kingston Penitentiary, is not the man who was present, and named Gordon, and is absolutely innocent of the offence for which he is serving time.

Morand stated that he was called at the time of the trial, and that as soon as he had declared that McDonald was not the man he was not used further.

EXPECT NO DROP IN COAL PRICES

There is small prospect of a drop in coal before the first of April, dealers report in London, despite the fall of the exchange rate between the United States and Canada Monday.

The dealers explain that no immediate effect will be seen, because of the stock now on their hands. Coal is at present $16.50 per ton, and the dealers say that coal usually falls on the first of April. They declare the price will become lower this year on that date, on account of the better exchange situation.

DENIES ALBERTAN CHARGES.

Edmonton, Feb. 28.—A refutation of charges independent auditing firms were reported to have made against the former administration of Alberta estimating that there existed a deficit on provincial income account of $5,010,000, was made in the legislature yesterday afternoon by Hon. C. R. Mitchell, provincial treasurer in the late government. In the course of his address he said that the "deferred or uncollectable revenue of several departments of the province offset the proposed deficit and amounted to $5,200,490.57.

DECLARES FREE TRADE BROUGHT BRITAIN MIGHT

SEES LIBERAL TRIUMPH

Lauds Late Sir Wilfrid Laurier as "a King" Among Mortal Men.

BY R. F. BOYD.

Special to London Advertiser.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—In her characteristic fearless and well-that's-so-and-I-know-it manner, Margot Asquith, wife of the former prime minister of England, declared here today that free trade had proven itself Great Britain's savior and enabled the "tight little isle" to overcome great obstacles which periodically attempted to obstruct the national growth.

She went further than that and ridiculed the very idea of protection, relegating that matter to the realm of things of little import, in her usual inimical style.

"Protection makes for corruption and inefficiency. We have begun to get some of it through the coalition, which is bringing many evils on the land." With this terse but straight-to the-shoulder outburst she dismissed the matter and vanished.

While hundreds preach emigration from the old land, Mrs. Asquith is firmly convinced that they are all wrong and that "there aren't too many people in any country. It is large commercial countries that do well."

Margot Voices Views.

And so Margot Asquith batters down each argument that is presented to her—that is, if it conflicts with her views. And she does it in such a frank way that her statements never fail to leave their impress.

As each great statesman of her time was mentioned, she handed down her judgment on him, never mincing her words nor failing to give him what she thought was his due. Whether it assailed or upholded, she seemed to care not. She spoke, and her remarks were decisive—final—and she could not be shaken from her opinions.

Of the late Liberal chieftain in Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, she said: "Sir Wilfrid was a great friend of ours—a king—with such fine manners, and we all liked him very much."

She never heard, she said, that it was on Sir Wilfrid's advice that the Liberal Government in England decided to give the Transvaal and Orange Free State self-government.

Assails Coalition.

Returning to the subject of the coalition in England today she volunteered: "The Liberals in the coalition do not represent the strength of Liberal feeling in the country. If the general election doesn't come soon their weakness will be shown. Lloyd George has plenty of money but little Liberal following. How could he with his policy of reprisals in Ireland—burning whole villages and that sort of thing? We could never have believed it of him at one time."

She termed Lloyd George as a man without a party, "though he has all the advantages of patronage and plenty of money."

"Where does he get it?" she queried.

"From titles and that sort of thing—not for himself of course, but for election purposes. We didn't have any corruption in English politics until the coalition. When you have a coalition it is a case of 'You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours.'"

Doesn't Flay Titles.

Mrs. Asquith wasn't opposed to titles exactly.

She believed that if a man thought a title would help him in his business or in politics, it was all right for him to have one.

"I think it is silly to want to do away with titles altogether. If people want them why shouldn't they have them? They dont do anybody any harm. I dare say if I were to make my million and give half of it to the party for election purposes, they would want to make me a peeress or something. But I don't want to be a peeress or have any title at all. They don't interest me. But if people want them why deprive them of the pleasure? Lord Astor, the American who became a British subject, paid a million pounds for his title—not his boy of course but his father."

"There must be party government," she continued. We are coming back to it in England, as soon as the coalition finishes its strange career. If the election does not come too quickly there is a chance that the Liberals will come back to power. The Conservatives, though they have accepted the Irish situation, do not believe any more than they formerly did in home rule. They don't see that tightening bonds against people's will always weaken them. If an election comes soon the country will be under the glamor of win-the-war and all that went with it at the end of 1918. But the party system will reassert itself. Group government could have no more permanence than coalition.

Shoots Choice Shells.

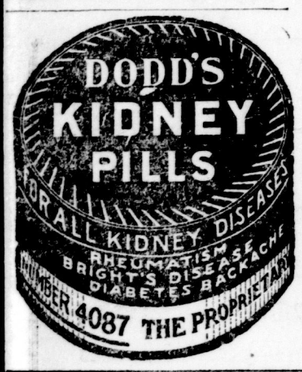

In referring to the Non-Conformists, she brought a few choice shells from her barrage of opinions to bear on Smillie, the labor leader.

"I think Smillie is the strongest labor man in the country; though I don't agree with his socialist views. He is an ignorant man and rather bitter. No wonder, for he has been next door to starvation in his time. He is very keenly alive to the injustices that have been associated with coal mining for many generations. But he is absolutely honest—absolutely. Men of his type do not want to enter politics, because they fear it would cause them to lose touch with their fellow-workmen.

"Clynes in the House of Commons is a very good man, I think. But the ablest men in the Labor party are not at present there. Philip Snowden is a remarkably able man. Ramsay Macdonald, who has the greatest parliamentary aptitude of them all, made the mistake of believing that the war would be unpopular. He was born for Parliament and is ambitious for its life. He isn't truly a Labor man, as Smillie is. He taught school at Elgin."

And so the often-regarded-as-eccentric, much-criticized but above all, outspoken, fearless—fearless almost to the point of being challenging—Margot Asquith, continued to unload to her listeners all that she had on her mind.

She talked of the book she was writing in bed, and even deviated her path of thought a bit to praise a former employee, a Miss Way. And all the time she held the strict attention of her audience, seemingly delighting in delving into the inner secrets of a state for gratification of a mere interviewer whom she had not seen before and probably would not see again.

Puslinch Township Farmer Receives Fatal Injuries While Felling Trees

GUELPH, Feb. 27.—Robert Evans, a well-known farmer of Puslinch Township, was fatally injured this morning while engaged in felling a tree in a woods near his home. His death took place four hours later. Mr. Evans had just completed felling a large tree, which lodged in another as it was dropping, and it was while endeavoring to cut down the smaller tree that the unfortunate man sustained injuries that caused his death. The large tree broke loose and struck him on the head as it fell to the ground.

Evans had apparently noticed the dangerous predicament he was in, for as the tree was about to fall he called to his hired man to run out of danger.

The ice-covered ground prevented him from getting from under the heavy object in time.

Harry Enrhardt and John Eggert, two neighbors, were called to the assistance of the injured man, and he was rushed to his home where his injuries were dressed.

He was 40 years old, born in Puslinch, and lived all his life on the homestead with his aged mother and one sister, besides whom another sister, Mrs. Oswald Sorby of Guelph, who is at present in Florida, survives.

He was a son of the late Smith Evans and was unmarried.

JAILED FEW DAYS TO DECIDE NAME

St. Thomas Russian Answers To "Peter" On Two Charges, But Balks On Third.

CLAIMS "LUDWIG" RIGHT

Claims Cousin Is Man Police Want On Charge of Violating O. T. A.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 27.—Peter Yanski, whichever it may be, was was willing enough to answer to the name of Peter on two charges in police court on Monday but when under that ill-fated name the police attempted to accuse him of a third misdemeanor, Peter rebelled and insisted in being called his right name which he claimed was Ludwig.

Yanski is a Russian. Sunday he met a friend in a washroom of a hotel and he was treated to several drinks which sent him on the warpath. The trail led to Center street where he met J. A. Raney of this city who was in the company of a young woman. According to Raney, Yanski attempted to add to the glory of Russia by monopolizing the whole sidewalk and war resulted. Judging from the appearance of Yanski as he sat in the prisoners' dock, he came out a bad second.

Through swollen lips Yanski admitted he was guilty when he was questioned by Magistrate Maxwell. He was fined $15 and costs or two months in jail.

"Peter Yanski, you are also charged with assaulting J. A. Raney, January 26."

"Guilty," the prisoner muttered.

"Ten dollars and costs or one month in jail."

"Peter Yanski, you are also charged with selling intoxicating liquor contrary to law, in January, three years ago. What do you say to that?"

"That I am not Peter at all," replied the prisoner, evidently believing that things were going too far. "Peter my cousin. I am Ludwig."

All the persuasion of Chief Armstrong failed to convince Ludwig that he was Peter.

"Take the prisoner downstairs and let him think the matter over a few days," said the magistrate in conclusion.

DENOUNCES IMMIGRATION SYSTEM AS TREASONABLE

Rev. S. D. Chown Describes Problem As More Acute Than Railway Question.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—Declaring that the "open door" immigration policy for all sorts of people to enter Canada was treason to this country and to the British empire, Rev. S. D. Chown, of Toronto, general superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, described the problem as one much more acute tran the railway problem, in addressing a gathering of ministers, students and church board officials at the Wesleyan Theological College here last night.

Dr. Chown declared that in some parts of the west the newcomers were learning anything but English sentiment, and there were people, he said, whose interest lay in bringing such immigrants here. They made four European voters for one English-speaking voter, and in one locality they found sixty children in a foreign school with only fifteen in an English school. At that rate it would not be long before foreigners would govern Canada.

No Appetite

Nervous exhaustion leads to distaste for food. The nerves of the stomach are weak, digestion fails and you become generally upset and out of sorts.

The secret of complete restoration is in getting the nervous system fully built up.

Mrs. R. Cheney, 208 Richmond St., Chatham, Ont., writes:

"I was troubled with indigestion, which caused me many sleepless nights. I would be in terrible distress at times, and would get no relief for two or three hours. For sixteen months I ate nothing but Shredded Wheat biscuits, as I dare not eat anything else. I did not know what to do, as I had tried so many different remedies, as well as doctors' medicines, without gaining permanent relief. Finally I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and while on the second box noticed that I was improving. I continued the treatment until I am now fully restored, and have returned to my regular diet. My husband has also taken Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with splendid results, so we are glad to recommend it to others."

WINS APPROVAL OF BIG GRAND CROWD

Sterling Vaudeville Bill Measures Up To Standard of Most Particular Theatregoer.

FEATURE FILM ENTHRALS

"Song of the Soul," Starring Vivian Martin, Reveals Acme of Dramatic Achievement.

A splendid evening's entertainment was provided the large crowd of movie fans that filled the Grand Opera House Monday night. Not only was every vaudeville act of high calibre, but the feature picture, "The Song of the Soul," starring Vivian Martin, was well worth seeing and can be classed as one of the best screen offerings seen in London for a long time.

Miss Martin has to a large extent taken the place of Mary Pickford, as far as London theatregoers are concerned, as the "sweetest of the screen" and her work in "The Song of the Soul" might be classed as almost perfect.

Piquant and pretty, Miss Martin plays the role of a blind girl, whom life has thrust to the backwater of the Florida swamps where she meets a young man who was terribly burned about the face in his boyhood days when he rescued a little girl from a fire. This makes a fine setting for the romance that inevitably follows. However it is not all plain sailing for the young couple and there are some distinctly dramatic moments that held Monday night's crowd enthralled. It would hardly be fair to elaborate on these in a criticism of the picture.

Fritz Leiber who plays opposite Miss Martin, has a difficult role, but plays it with much ability. The scenery is especially fine.

The vaudeville bill is what is known in theatrical circles as "well balanced," that is to say there is a little bit of almost everything, everything being good.

Jimmy Dunn, billed as a mimic and a whistling comedian, lived up to his advance notices. He was encored so often that in desperation he had to point at his name signifying that he was through for the evening. His interpretation of a little 6-year-old girl singing "Katy" was an undoubted hit, as were his imitations of all the animals "down on the farm."

George and Ivy Wheeler have a musical offering that is slightly more than a wee bit better than is usually seen here. Their rendition of "Tales of Hoffman" on "bottles filled to various heights" was highly pleasing to the audience.

The three Ricas, in a song and dance revue, provided the surprise of the evening. These three young "ladies" proved to be highly entertaining, especially to those gentlemen occupying the "bald-headed row," who received the shock of their lives when the "girls" doffed their wigs, proving that they were young men, despite their high soprano voices.

Louis and Bly have an original comedy skit entitled "Mr. and Mrs." that took well with the crowd, while the two Chesters put on a balancing act that is deserving of mention.

Announcement of George Sleman Terminates Supposed Sensational Guelph Liquor Case.

COURTROOM CROWDED

License Board Chairman Declares Department Indorses Fair Methods Only In Enforcing Act.

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, Feb. 27.—A complete withdrawal of the charges laid by George Sleeman against a "spotter" in the employ of the Ontario license board in connection with an O. T. A. conviction against the Springbank Beverages, of which Sleeman is proprietor, and in which case bribery was alleged, brought the investigation of the charges to a sudden termination at the court house this morning.

Everything was set for what was believed would prove an interesting hearing, and rumors were current that spectacular revelations would come out of the inquiry, but the opposite resulted, and the large crowds seemed disappointed when George A. Drew, acting for Sleeman, made the announcement that his client desired to withdraw the charges. Drew explained that the information regarding the alleged bribery was only of a second-hand nature and could not be substantiated.

The inquiry got under way at 10:30 before James Hales, chairman of the Ontario license board, and Major-General H. Mellott, commissioner of provincial police.

Nicol Jeffrey, K.C., of Guelph, appeared for the license department.

Chairman Hales said that the findings of the investigation would be to the effect that Drew having withdrawn the charges, there would be no use in trying to contradict them.

"The department," he said, "wants to be fair, and there will be no tolerance of officers who seek to get liquor by unfair means, and an officer who does will be fired. Some strategy is necessary, but as long as it is fair no person can complain. There has been much fault-finding and criticism of the men called 'spotters,' but the department is not willing to employ men who have not a good record or who have had jail sentences, and I think that the records of the men employed compare very favorably with any other set of men."

LAUD PLAYERS IN LATEST VEHICLE

Majestic Audience Pleased With Farce Comedy, "Facing the Music."

The Popular Players, under the management of Messrs. Secrest and Penwarden, are meeting with highly appreciative audiences. Their latest vehicle, "Facing the Music," presented Monday evening at the Majestic Theatre, departs in no manner from their usual excellent performance, but is perhaps one of the best in which the company has yet been seen.

It is a farce in which, from commencement to finish, everyone labors under a misapprehension, getting deeper and deeper into a maze of misunderstanding until the situation finally becomes so drastic that it appears nothing short of the police court will serve to extricate each one from his particular plight.

Fortunately all ends well. The question of the identity of Saintly Sam and the Duchess of Piccadilly is solved. The fog has lifted. The lost lamb is returned to her own husband and incidentally someone else's husband to his reason. Out of this extremely complicated plot there is evolved a comedy which is not without a touch of tragic.

The honors go to Mr. Richey Secrest. He displays some very clever acting as a distracted husband, whose act of kindness in rescuing a lonely maiden from the toils of a foggy night brings down upon him a veritable avalanche of trouble and misunderstanding. One feature of the performance occurred when the bewildered husband loses his reason and imagines himself as again enduring the harrowing events of the past few hours. Mr. Secrest's acting at this juncture was well worth seeing.

Duncan Penwarden takes the part of Dick Desmond, a guest of "the other Mr. John Smith," is chiefly engaged in laughing at the predicament in which his friend finds himself, but Mr. Penwarden does this extremely well. His acting is quite up to the high standard which audiences have come to expect of him.

Other roles are excellently cast. Miss Gustin is particularly good as Mrs. John Smith, who is accused of being several people, but who can find no one to believe that she is really Mrs. Smith, except her much-worried husband, whom she herself believes to be faithless.

Repeated bursts of applause testified to the manner in which "Facing the Music" was received at its first performance. It should not be missed.

A Better Way Than Diets and Exercise For Reducing

Diets and exercise are sometimes helpful for reducing. But they are inconvenient and unpleasant, and usually produce only temporary results. Then, too, they are merely corrective measures. A better way is to aid the digestive organs to turn food into muscle, bone, and sinew, and not into corpulent tissue. This method allows you to eat many kinds of food which others eat and does not require strenuous exercise.

Thousands have found that Marmola Tablets give relief from obesity in just this way. Marmola Tablets are made from the same formula as the famous Marmola Prescription If taken after meals and at bedtime, they retard the development of fat by helping the digestive system to obtain full nutriment from food. When the accumulation of fat is checked, reduction to normal, healthy weight soon follows.

All good drug stores the world over sell Marmola Tablets at one dollar per box. Ask your druggist for them, or order them direct and they will be sent in plain wrapper, postpaid.

WOULD AMEND PROVISIONS OF MUNICIPAL ACT

Labor Member for S. Waterloo Would Allow Property Owners But One Vote.

BACK FREIGHT RATE CUT

Nickle Wants Railroad Reductions Made Slowly and With Great Care.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—The bill moved by K. K. Homuth, Labor member for South Waterloo, to amend the municipal act so that property owners in any town or city would have only one vote on money bylaws instead of a vote in every ward in which they possess property, proved the most contentious feature of this afternoon's session of the Provincial Legislature.

It was finally decided, however, to allow the bill to go to the committee.

Hon. Manning Doherty's resolution putting the house on record as urging the Dominion Railway Commission to take steps to reduce the freight rates led to considerable discussion, although there was no direct opposition to it.

A number of questions were answered by the ministers at the opening of the session. These included the following:

Shirley Denison representing the government before the timber commission had received $4,000 in fees, $401 in disbursements, and $2,598 accountable; R. T. Harding, who assisted Mr. Denison, received $2,000 on account of the Shevlin-Clarke trial with expenses, and on the timber commission hearing, $7,845 in fees and expenses of $609.36; N. W. Rowell was paid $3,500 in fees for his part in the action against Shevlin-Clarke

Renew Debate On Reply.

F. G. Sandy, U. F. O. (Victoria South) and W. A. Crockett (Wentworth South) continued the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. Sandy complimented the government on its accomplishments during the last year, paying particular attention to the assistance given to education and to agriculture.

Mr. Crockett indorsed public ownership, and maintained that the stand taken by the government as regards the hydro, the Chippawa project and hydro radials was in the best interests of public ownership and met with his support.

Hon. George S. Henry, Conservative, will continue the debate tomorrow.

In support of his bill that ratepayers be given only one vote each on money bylaws, Mr. Homuth said it was unfair on the face of it that a man who owned four small pieces of property in different wards should have four votes on a bylaw and the owner of a $100,000 building should have only one vote because his holding was all in one ward. He thought the only fair way was one owner, one vote.

M. M. MacBride (Brantford) suggested that the bill go further and provide that the ratepayer should only have one vote for alderman instead of one in each ward in which he had property. The member for Brantford was informed that he could bring in such an amendment when the bill is before the committee.

Objects to Bill.

Hon. Thomas Crawford, Conservative (Northwest Toronto), took strong exception to the bill. He said he did not believe the house had any intention of limiting the voting power of ratepayers and of taking away from them the right to express their desires in every ward in which they held property whether it should be encumbered as a bylaw might provide. He was opposed to the bill going to the committee.

Wellington Hay, Liberal party leader, also opposed the bill, pointing out that the present conditions had been in vogue for a long time and this was a big far-reaching change which should not be taken until it had been given a great deal of consideration.

Hon. Mr. Raney was in favor of the bill going to the committee, as it seemed to be much fairer than the present system. The speaker declared the "yeas" in the majority when a vote was called and the bill goes on.

Hon. Manning Doherty, in presenting his resolution for lower freight rates, gave a statement of the difficulties agriculture labored under because of the high cost of transporting their produce to the markets. He laid particular emphasis on the livestock industry and said that last summer the government got behind the dairymen's association and was successful when appearing before the railway commission in having the rates reduced 25 per cent on livestock. However, there was still a very heavy burden which was strangling the farming industry.

Cites $500,000 Saving.

He estimated that the reduction of 25 per cent had made a saving of $500,000 in the livestock business in Ontario alone since it came into force. He questioned the wisdom of holding up freight rates until the government railroads were paying their way, when to do so agriculture was being crippled.

When the farmers were losing thousands and thousands of dollars surely it was no time to protect the dividends of shareholders in railways by keeping freight rates up. He estimated that in shipping to the stockyards and back to places for fattening and then back to abattoirs again, freight charges on an average were paid three times on every animal slaughtered in Toronto.

W. F. Nickle, the newly-elected member for Kingston, outlined the railway problem Canada was facing, and while he supported the resolution he emphasized that this was an economic question rather than a political or partisan one. There were three parties concerned—the shipper, capital and the railway—and the railway commission must be fair to all three. It should not, in cutting freight rates, cut the wages to a point where the employees on the roads would be made to suffer discomforts. The reductions, he said, should be made slowly and with great care. The resolution was adopted without division.

Break New Ground.

The government had broken into new ground, Mr. Sandy said in continuing the debate on the reply. Increased grants to continuation classes was an example of this and had been of great benefit. The school at Monteith, in New Ontario, was another evidence of the progressiveness of the administration. The government was living up to the plank of the U. F. O. platform which stood for providing education to all classes.

He complimented Hon. Manning Doherty on his fight to have the embargo in England against Canadian cattle removed, and while it had not yet been successful he believed greater progress had been obtained than ever before and eventually the ban would be lifted. He pointed to the co-operative movements among fruit growers and the cold storage plants as other successful undertakings of the government.

W. A. Crockett spoke of the good roads program of the government, and believed that the government was today more popular than ever with the people of the province. He came out in vigorous support of Premier Drury's stand in connection with the Chippawa project, giving instances in which he claimed money had been wasted in connection with that undertaking, and took the position that a commission which had been so far astray as to its estimates on this work should not be allowed to jump into the hydro radials.

Cites "Irregularities."

Turning to the last federal election he narrated a long list of what he termed "irregularities" in the handling of ballots in Wentworth after that election, including the shipping of the ballots to Ottawa and back again, the finding of ballots of polling sub-divisions eight miles apart in one envlope and ballots without the stamp of the deputy returning officers. These, he said, were brought out in the recount.

"Is it any wonder," he continued, "that fewer U. F. O. members were elected than had been expected?"

He said, however, that he was not prepared to go so far as to say that there was any criminal intent.

WOULD RETIRE PRESENT CHIEF

Brantford Police Probe Witness Favors Increasing Number of Commissioners.

BARRISTER TAKES STAND

Declares Too Much Weight Should Not Be Attached to "Parson's" Suspicions.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, Ontario, Feb. 27.—Called by W. Ross MacDonald, Mr. Middlemiss when the police probe recommenced here Monday afternoon recalled an instance during a strike in the city years ago at the Buck Stove Works when a man named Farr was accused of striking another man. When the case came up in police court, Magistrate Livingston fined Farr, who appealed the case and was upheld by Judge Hardy.

Middlemiss didn't consider Magistrate Lvingston's decision in the matter had been a fair one in view of the circumstances of the case. On another occasion Middlemiss complained of a case where the magistrate reversed his decision in a picketing case.

Middlemiss was emphatic about bootlegging operations in the city.

"Was bootlegging carried on in the open?" asked Commissioner Gregory.

"Yes, it was," replied Middlemiss.

The witness complained that the magistrate had adjourned the McCarthur perjury case, which he thought was a sign of weakness.

Mr. Brewster pointed out that the case was adjourned from time to time at the request of the attorney-general and that it couldn't therefore be the magistrate's fault.

Favors New Commission.

Mr. Kellett, again called by MacDonald, gave the opinions of the citizens' committee. They thought real safety for the future lay in a police commission of five members, two of whom could be appointed through a recommendation by the city council to serve a term of two years.

He referred to the recent civic election where a majority of 2,600 favored adding two new members to the police commission.

As a suggestion for the remedy of conditions in the police force and the police station, the committee would have Chief Slemin retire on a pension and would give the new chief absolute power to employ and discharge his own men. Then the three suspended police officers could be brought up before the new police commission of five members and their case could be heard and disposed of.

"This reorganization should take place from the top," remarked Mr. Kellett, as he pointed out that the commission of five members could not be influenced where a smaller commission might be.

Clergyman Testifies.

Rev. G. A. Woodside told Commissioner Gregory that his evidence could be only of a very general nature because several of the matters which he might have been able to make public he felt he could not, because the details had been given to him in confidence, and he had been asked by people not to make their names public.

"Regarding the police magistrate himself, is there complete confidence in him?" Commissioner Gregory inquired.

"That is a hard thing to say, Sir," replied Rev. Mr. Woodside.

So far as Chief Slemin was concerned, Rev. Mr. Woodside said he was regarded as being inefficient. People felt that his hands were tied. He intimated that he thought it was a peculiar thing that Chief Slemin, who prided himself on being a good detective, had not been aware of Louis Stander's activities.

Taking the stand voluntary, Mr. Bowlby, K.C., said that he had known Magistrate Livingston for a long number of years, and that he believed that he was more than ordinarily an efficient public servant.

Commends Schuler.

Mr. Bowlby came out as a strong supporter for Detective Schuler. He said that he recommended Detective Schuler to his present position on the police force. This was because the detective had proved his efficiency as a Grand Trunk detective.

Kind words for Sergt. Wallace and Detective Boylan were put in by Mr. Bowlby. He said that he believed that Detective Schuler had been singled out for attack in the present inquiry because of his activity against lawbreakers. Mr. Bowlby said he could not believe any of the charges brought up against the detective.

Referring to police court conditions, Mr. Bowlby criticized the fact that Chief Slemin acted as prosecutor in some cases and that his son defended. A state of things like this was bound to arouse criticism. He was not prepared to say whether this criticism was justified or not.

Mr. Bowlby, with regard to the evidence of Rev. Mr. Woodside, said that he respected the latter.

"He is a very decent man, and all that, but he is a parson, and you know what a parson's suspicions are worth," he remarked.

"You think they are impracticable?" Mr. Gregory asked.

Mr. Bowlby said that he did. He also opposed the five men police commission idea as proposed by Mr. Kellett, and favored by Mr. Woodside.

National Executive Sympathetic With Memorial For Mrs. H. A. Boomer

Mrs. Gordon Wright, vice-president, who represented the London Local Council of Women at the National Council executive meeting in Ottawa last week for the very special purpose of presenting a resolution with regard to a memorial for the late Mrs. H. A. Boomer, has returned home much gratified by the sympathetic interest of the 40 or 50 representatives of the national body present, including executive members from as far east as Nova Scotia, and as far west as Calgary. In addition, she has brought back with her subscriptions to the memorial and endowment for the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

Referring to the matter in an interview with The Advertiser Monday, Mrs. Wright said: "It was deemed advisable to somewhat change the form of the resolution before presenting it. As submitted by myself, and seconded by Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen, Ontario provincial president, it read as follows:

"The London Local Council of Women, desiring to honor the memory of dear Mrs. Boomer, unanimously carried a resolution to the effect that the London Council should endeavor to endow a room in the War Memorial Children's Hospital, London, in which she was so deeply interested, but, realizing that Mrs. Boomer's activities and interests were in no sense confined to the city, but stretched from ocean to ocean, therefore it was further resolved that this undertaking should be brought to the attention of the National Council, in which, for many years, Mrs. Boomer played a most important part, in order that Mrs. Boomer's old friends and fellow-workers, desiring to co-operate in the laudable enterprise might have the privilege of so doing."

"The resolution," continued Mrs. Wright, "was indorsed by a standing, silent vote, which was also a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Boomer."

Backs Up Iceland.

Concerning the big grist of resolutions dealt with by the national executive, Mrs. Wright commented specially on two or three.

"One which naturally interested me very much was a resolution that takes into account the part of the League of Nations in seeing that small nations are not permitted to receive injustice from larger and stronger nations. The resolution appeals to the Dominion government, through the imperial government, to make request for interference with Spain in forcing liquor on Iceland, which is a prohibition country. Spain is Iceland's largest customer for export trade, and Spain is endeavoring, as I understand it, to take advantage of the situation to force Iceland to accept liquor.

"Sir Robert Borden had just returned home, and when the matter was brought to his attention his comment was that the Icelanders were among our best settlers, and all possible should be done to safeguard the nation."

Mrs. Wright was a member of a delegation, headed by Judge Margaret Patterson of Toronto, that waited upon Sir Lomer Gouin with regard to amendments in the criminal code, among these making adultery a crime. "We had a most sympathetic hearing from the minister of justice," she states.

"Her resignation was received with unfeigned regret by all present," said London's representative.

With regard to a successor, Mrs. Wright stated that it was impossible to make a forecast. Several names had been mentioned, all apparently about equally favored.

Was Mrs. Willoughby Cummings among them?

Mrs. Wright replied that it was, also Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen's, as well as several others.

Mrs. Sandford is leaving for The Hague in March to attend a meeting of the international executive, and Mrs. Cummings will have on her shoulders the responsibility for carrying on for the president in preparing for the annual meeting of the National Council as a whole in Port Arthur in June.

PIONEER CHAPTER HAS FINE RECORD

Most gratifying reports of the past year's activities were presented Monday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Lord Roberts Chapter, I. O. D. E., one of London's pioneer chapters, held at "Lenmore" the King street residence of the Y. W C. A.

Mrs. E. W. Scatcherd, honorary treasurer, stated that the total receipts for the past year amounted to $2,515.95. Last April the chapter turned over $1,500 to the War Memorial Hospital committee, and last October, the Lambeth Red Cross and Cheerio Club, through Mrs. G. A. Routledge, made the chapter a medium for donating $1,272 to the Children's Hospital. Mrs. E. N. King, a member, subscribed $20 to the same object, making it possible for the chapter to reach its objective for the year of $2,500 to the cause. In all, in the past two years the chapter, through its members and friends, has sent to the Children's Hospital committee $5,522.

Mrs. Scatcherd further reported that the proceeds from two bridge parties, one held in the home of Mrs. W. J. Robinson in October, and the other in the home of Mrs. John Weld in February amounted to about $300. By coincidence, $143 on each occasion. Proceeds from luncheon and tea served at the Western Fair netted $161.62. The sum of $54 was given to the Child Welfare Association work, and $65 for the Princess Mary Wedding Gift fund.

All officers of the Lord Roberts' Chapter were re-elected by acclamation at the nomination meeting in January, making the formality of an election unnecessary at the annual meeting. Mrs. E. H. Johnston, regent, presided.

New work undertaken for the coming year will be sewing for the Child Welfare Association, the members to hold house meetings for the purpose.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

WANTS BOOKS.

Dear Miss Grey:

I have been reading your page with great interest and now I too come to ask a very great favor. Would any of the kind readers have an old copy of "Evangeline" or "The Vicar of Wakefield" they would care to give to a poor girl, who is alone with an invalid mother, and wants to read to her mother? She would be very grateful for the same and would give in return some Red Poppy seed.

I wonder if any of the boxites know this method of preserving eggs: Have eggs fresh, put a little melted butter in the palm of your hand and rub over each egg. Have a box (wood or tin), place a layer of bran in the bottom, stand eggs in the bran with small end down. Then another layer of bran; then another layer of eggs, and so on till box is filled. Cover top of box with a board and put away in a cool place, but where it does not freeze. Eggs have kept this way, fresh for one year. T. W.

I have named you T. W. as you did not sign a pen-name. I hope some one will fill your request for you, as you are so anxious to receive the selections. Won't you write again some time? Many thanks for sending the inclosed seeds and for the advice regarding the keeping of eggs.

Purses Now Play Big Part

BY MARIAN HALE.

London, Feb. 27.—Purses and bags have come to mean a tremendous lot in the making of Milady Lovely! With the trim suit she wears for calling or tea she couldn't begin to carry the bag which goes with her about her morning errands!

And quite the most fascinating things in the way of new "dress" purses are the black moire envelope cases, beautiful, slim and trim. In the very flat and very small compartments within are places for coin purse, puff and cards. Quite enough for calling or tea! And very often the envelope flap sports its owner's initial in rhinestones.

Bead bags of the drawstring type are seen much for the more practical purposes. Like this Nouveaute purse they are roomy and convenient.

And then there are the handy little bags of fabric with gayly colored embroideries! Those are usually the purses which go about a morning's shopping.

FAMOUS SCOTTISH BAND COMING HERE IN MAY

Children's Hospital Committee and G. W.V.A. Plan Joint Responsibility For Presentation.

It is practically assured that the band of the famous Royal Scots Guards will pay a visit to London and give one or more concerts here the middle of May. For the first time in the history of the regiment permission has been granted by the king for the band to go outside the British Isles on tour, and that permission has been secured by Dr. C. A. E. Harriss of Ernescliffe, Ottawa, one of Canada's distinguished musicians.

Dr. Harriss was a visitor in London Saturday evening in connection with arrangements for including this city in the Canadian tour. The Children's War Memorial Hospital committee and Great War Veterans' Association are considering joint responsibility for the local presentation, with joint share in the proceeds.

Scottish dancers and pipers are accompanying the band, and will take part in the programs. It is a foregone conclusion that the armories will be the auditorium.

Provided the plans carry through, the Lord Roberts Chapter, I.O.D.E., meeting on Monday afternoon decided to take advantage of the occasion to raise a still further amount for the Children's Hospital by serving afternoon tea at the armories. Permission for the use of one of the armories for a tea room will be asked of Lieut.-Col. Reid.

HOLD PAARDEBURG BALL

South African Veterans and Friends Commemorate Victory.

For the first time since before the world war, Paardeburg Day, Feb. 27, standing for a great victory in which Londoners figured so conspicuously in the South African war, was commemorated by a ball in this city on Monday evening.

The event, planned by the non-commissioned officers and men of B. Company, M.D. No. 1, took the form of an informal benefit dance in the Winter Garden, the proceeds to go to purchase treats for the soldier patients in the various military hospitals in London and other institutions.

Quantities of flags and greenery formed effective decoration, and an inspiriting program of dance music was provided by the augmented orchestra of the Winter Garden from 9 until 2 o'clock.

A tempting buffet supper was served continuously.

In the receiving line were the Misses Macbeth, whose brother, the late George Macbeth, was senior non-commissioned officer of B. Company; Charles R. Scott, secretary of the ball committee, and officers and men of the company who did their gallant bit in saving the veldt land to be a loyal member of the empire's family of overseas dominions.

Sisters in beauty

Two pretty girls, sharing the same beauty secret, although one lived 3,000 years ago. Girls who both know that a fresh, smooth, radiant skin is not only woman's greatest charm, but one within the reach of every woman.

For pretty girls used Palmolive in the days of ancient Egypt, just as they do today. The crude combination of palm and olive oils which served as beautifying cleanser was the inspiration of the familiar Palmolive cake, famous for its mildness the world over.

Modern science, with all its progress, can find no milder, more soothing cleansers than these two ancient oils. It can only perfect their combination and offer it in the most efficient and convenient form.

Gives a perfect skin

To state that just washing your face every day will give you that all-desired, fresh, smooth skin may sound too simple to be true. But such cleanliness is the foundation of complexion beauty, for this reason:

The accumulations of dirt, oil and perspiration, cold cream and powder must be removed or they will collect and clog the tiny pores which compose the surface of the skin.

Such clogging enlarges, which soon results in coarse texture, and the imbedded dirt causes blackheads, and when it carries infection, eruptions follow.

There is no beauty in such a neglected skin, which repels when it should attract, and prevents popularity and social success,

Soothes while it cleanses

Some women will complain that soap is too harsh, that it ages and dries their skins. This proves they are using the wrong soap.

The smooth, creamy lather of Palmolive soothes while it cleanses. It removes every trace of injurious dirt and skin accumulations and secretions, leaving the face becomingly soft and smooth, with radiant freshness and natural color.

The use of cosmetics isn't harmful if the basis is a skin that is thoroughly, healthfully clean. In case of dryness, apply your favorite cold cream both before and after washing.

Not for face alone

Don't forget that your neck and throat are also conspicuous for skin beauty or the lack of it, and that this is where age first shows.

Arms and shoulders should be kept smooth and white and hands must be beautified.

Use Palmolive for bathing and these results are insured, with the comfort of a skin which always feels luxuriously smooth.

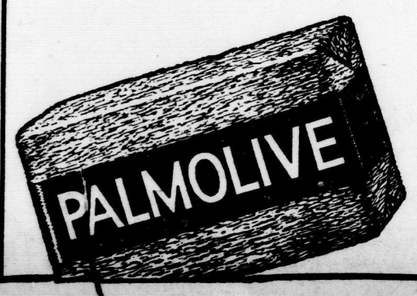

Not extravagant at the price

If Palmolive was a very expensive soap, such advice would mean extravagance. But the firm, long wearing cake of generous size costs but a modest price.

The reason is gigantic production which keeps the Palmolive factories working day and night and the importation of the bland, mild oils in the vast volume which reduces cost.

Thus this finest facial soap, which if made in small quantities would cost at least 25 cents, is offered at the popular price which all can afford for every toilet purpose.

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER XXXIII.—IN THE TREETOPS.

By Zoe Beckley

"WHAT an adorable place!" cried Polly, as their walk from the tram-line ended and the big elm trees of "Robinson" came into view. "Could anybody but a Frenchman think up such a thing as building dining-rooms in treetops! Oh, Paul, let's hurry and grab one at the very top."

They climbed the rustic ladder, up, up and up. Polly squealed with delight as they reached the last platform, where a little table was laid with plates, glasses and silver. The red-gold sunset dappled the white cloth; birds chirruped their evensong for orchestra.

Rustic benches were their chairs and all about them was a swaying curtain of branches lush with summer leaves. From below came the cheerful clatter of dinner being served to the deuxieme etage and presently the smiling waiter appeared to take their order.

"I never in all my life," she rhapsodized for the dozenth time, "saw anything so cunning! Look, Paul, at those people over there in the other tree—no, this way; you can just barely catch a glimpse through the leaves."

"Oooh, let me look!" Polly left her cutlet and peered across through the whispering branches. "They're sure having a wonderful time—Why, Paul, I do believe—yes, it certainly is Monsieur Barray—"

"Gee"—Paul gazed, his mouth full of salad, "if it isn't, I'll eat the whole tree!"

What the Glands Are---And What They Do

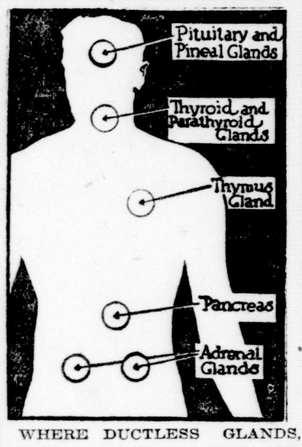

BY HEREWARD CARRINGTON.

Experiments with ductless glands have convinced scientists that youth can be prolonged and death staved off by simple operations on these glands, while other scientists declare that substitution of glands can cure confirmed criminals. In this article Hereward Carrington, in simple language, unravels the gland mystery.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 27.—Almost nothing was known about the most important parts of our bodies—the ductless glands—until 30 years ago.

These glands are so tiny and apparently insignificant that no anatomist even bothered to discover their functions or uses. And yet we now know that small as they are, without them life is extinguished and one dies within a few days!

Ordinary glands are provided with a canal ((or duct) which leads either out of the body, or into its interior. The ductless glands have no obvious ducts or canals and their secretions are poured into the general blood stream directly and carried to the various organs and parts of the body.

WHERE DUCTLESS GLANDS, RULERS OF YOUR BODY, ARE LOCATED.

What Glands Do.

These glands are:

Thyroid gland in the neck, which controls the growth of brain, organs and tissues, and regulates energy production in the body.

Pituitary, which is divided into two parts, anterior and posterior. This is a tiny gland in the center of the brain. The secretion of the anterior portion controls the growth of the bones in the body; while that of the latter or posterior portion regulates the nerve cells, the involuntary muscles and brain.

Adrenals, above the kidneys, are again divided into two portions, known as the "cortex" and the "medulla." The secretion of the cortex regulates brain growth and the sexual glands; while that of the medulla attends to the energy required for sudden emergencies, as combat or fear.

Pineal gland is in the brain and attends to brain and sex development, and the development of adolescence and maturity. It is because of the action of this tiny gland that we "grow up."

Thymus gland, just over the heart, is the gland of childhood. It keeps us children, and sees that we do not grow up too fast.

Gonads, or sexual glands, peculiar to male and female, determine the differing qualities of men and women.

Parathyroids, behind the thyroid glands in the neck, control the lime metabolism (changes) in the body, and the degree of excitability of nerve and muscle.

Pancreas controls the sugar metabolism in the body—its mal-functioning giving rise to "diabetes."

Rule Whole Body.

Every part and organ in the body is controlled by these glands. We depend upon them for our life, our bodies and even our minds, for it has been proved that if these glands are destroyed, the mind also withers and is destroyed.

Differing types of character and temperament, moods, emotions, facial characteristics, teeth, hair, eyes, hands, form, all are dependent upon the functioning of these ductless glands.

Our personality seems to depend upon them also. So that each type of person represents a certain type of gland activity.

Even the character and composition of our minds seem to be determined by their subtle activities.

IF WINTER COMES

The Greatest Novel of the Present Decade

BY A. S. M. HUTCHINSON

(Copyright, 1922, Little, Brown & Co.)

Mabel was two years younger than Sabre, twenty-five at the time of her marriage and just past her thirtieth birthday when the separate rooms were first occupied. Her habit of sudden laughter, rather loud, which Sabre first noticed in connection with their differing views on the mean streets visit, was rather characteristic of her. Her laugh came suddenly, and very heartily, at anything that amused her and without her first smiling or suggesting by any other sign than she was amused. And it came thus abruptly out of a face whose expression was normally rather severe. Probably of the same mentality was her habit of what Sabre called "flying up." She "flew up" without her speech first warming up; but of her flying up, unlike her sudden burst of laughter, Sabre came to know certain premonitory symptoms in her face. Her face what he called "tightened." In particular he used to notice a curious little constriction of the sides of her nose, rather as though invisible tweezers were pressing it.

She had rather a long nose, and this pleased her, for she once read somewhere that long noses were aristocratic.

Her complexion was pale, though this was perhaps exaggerated by her coloring, which was dark. Her features were noticeably regular and noticeably refined, though her eyes were the least little bit inclined to be prominent; when Sabre married the Dean of Tidborough's only daughter, it was said that he had married "a good-looking girl"; also that he had married "a very nice girl"; those were the expressions used. She liked the company of men and she was much liked by men (the opinion of the garrulous Hapgood may be recalled in this connection). She was very much liked by the society of women of her own age or older than herself, and she was very popular with such. She did not like girls, married or unmarried.

Mabel belonged to that considerable class of persons who, in conversation, begin half their sentences with "And just imagine—"; or "And only fancy—"; or "And do you know—." These exclamations, delivered with much excitement, are introductory to matters considered extraordinary. Their users might therefore be imagined somewhat easily astonished. But they have a compensatory steadiness of mind in regard to much that mystifies other people. To Mabel there was nothing mysterious in birth, or in living, or in death. She simply would not have understood had she been told there was any mystery in these things. One was born, one lived, one died. What was there odd about it? Nor did she see anything mysterious in the intense preoccupation of an insect, or the astounding placidity of a primrose growing at the foot of a tree. An insect—you plucked it. What's the mystery?

Mabel was not demonstrative. She had no enthusiasms and no sympathies. Enthusiasms and sympathies in other people made her laugh with her characteristic burst of sudden laughter. It was not, as with some persons, that matters calling for sympathy made her impatient,—as very robust people are often intensely impatient with sickness and infirmity. She never would say, "I have no patience with such and such or so and so." She had plenty of patience. It was simply that she had no imagination whatsoever. Whatever she saw or heard or read, she saw or heard or read exactly as the thing presented itself. If she saw a door she saw merely a piece of wood with a handle and a keyhole. To Mabel nothing was on the other side of anything she saw and nothing went on behind it.

A person or a creature in pain was to Mabel a person or a creature "laid up." Laid up — out of action — not working properly: like a pencil without a point. A picture was a decoration in paint and was either a pretty decoration in paint or a not pretty decoration in paint. Music was a tune, and was either a tune or merely music. A book was a story, and if it was not a story it was simply a book. A flower was a decoration.

A fine deed was fine precisely in proportion to the social position of the person who performed it. Scott's death at the South Pole, when that was announced in 1913, was fine because he was a gentleman. The disaster of the colliers entombed in the Welsh Senghenydd mine which happened in the same year, was sad. She read the account, on the first day, with the paper held up wide open and said, "How sad!" and turned on to something for which the paper might be folded back at the place and read comfortably.

She was never particularly grateful for anything given to her or done for her; not because she was not pleased and glad, but because she could invest a gift with no imagination of the feelings of the giver. The thing was a present just as a pound of bacon was a pound of bacon. You said thank you for the present just as you ate the bacon. What more was to be said?

CHAPTER V.

The Penny Green Garden House Development Scheme was begun in 1910. In 1908, the year of the measles and the separated bedrooms, no shadow of it had yet been thrown. It never occurred to anyone that a railway would one day link Penny Green with Tidborough and all the rest of the surrounding world, or that a railway to Tidborough was desirable. Sabre bicycled in daily to Fortune, East and Sabre's, and the daily ride to and fro had become a curious pleasure to him.

There had once occurred to him as he rode, and thereafter had persisted and accumulated, the feeling that, on the daily solitary passage between Tidborough and Penny Green he was mysteriously detached from, mysteriously suspended between, the two centers that were his two worlds—his business world and his home world.

He was not in the least aware that so simple, so practical and so obviously essential a thing as his daily ride—as simple, practical and obviously essential as getting out of bed in the morning and returning to bed at night—was molding a mind always prone to develop meditative grooves.

Mark Sabre was not in the least aware of any steadily permeating influence from his sense of detachment on this daily habit of years. But he was influenced. On entering his Penny Green world on the return home, or on entering his Tidborough office world, on the way out, he had sometimes a curious feeling of descending into this odd affair of life to which he did not really belong. And for the few moments while the feeling persisted he sometimes, more or less unconsciously, took towards affairs a rather whimsical attitude, as though they did not really matter: an irritating attitude; unpractical, it was sometimes hinted by his partners; an irritating attitude—"You really are very difficult to understand sometimes"—it was often told him by Mabel.

This very matter of the bicycle ride, indeed, apart altogether from its effect upon his mood, supplied an instance of the kind of thing Mabel found it so difficult to understand in her husband.

He made what she called a childish game of it. Every day on the ride home, Sabre ceased pedalling at precisely the same point on the slope down into Penny Green and coasted until the machine came to a standstill within a few yards of his own gate. This point of cessation was never twice in a week at the same spot; and Sabre found great interest in seeing every day exactly where it would be, and by intense wriggling of his front wheel and prodigious feats of balancing, squeezing out of the machine's momentum the last possible fraction of an inch. There was a magnificent distance record when, on one single occasion only, he had been deposited plumb in line with his own gate; and there was a divertingly lamentable shortage record, touched on more than one occasion, when he had come to ground plumb in line with the gate of Mr. Fargus, his neighbor on that side.

Each of these records, though marked by the gates, was also and more exactly marked by a peg hammered into the edge of the Green.

This was childish; and Mabel said it was childish when her attention was drawn to the diversion. On the day the great distance record was created he came rather animatedly into the kitchen where she happened to be. "I say, what's happened to that small wood axe? Is it in here?"

Mabel followed the direction of the convulsive start made by Low Jinks and produced the small wood axe from under the dresser, also directing at Low Jinks a glance which told Low Jinks what she perfectly well knew: namely, that under the dresser was not the place for the small wood axe. "Whatever do you want it for all of a sudden?" Mabel asked.

He felt the edge with his thumb. "Low"—Mabel's face twitched. He had persisted in the idiotic and indecorous names, and her face always twitched when he used them—"Low, do you keep my axe for chopping coal or what?" And he addressed Mabel. "I'm getting fat, I think. I don't want the axe to cut lumps off myself, though. I'm going to chop a marking peg. I've done a heavy-weight world's record on that run in on my bike—"

"Oh, that!" said Mabel.

And when he had gone out into the woodyard, Low Jinks staring after him with the uplifted eyebrows with which both sisters, the glum and the grim, commonly received the master's "ways," Mabel said in the gently pained way which was her admirable method of administering rebukes in the kitchen: "The woodshed is the place for the small wood axe, Rebecca."

Rebecca promptly unsmirked her smirk. "Yes, m'm."

A little later the sound of loud hammering took Mabel to the gate. Across the road, at the edge of the Green, Sabre was energetically driving in the peg with the back of the axe. He was squatting and he looked up highly pleased with himself and his words implied, with her "Come to see it? Good! How's that for an effort, eh? Look here now. Yesterday I only got as far as here," and he walked some paces towards Mr. Fargus's gate and struck his heel in the ground and looked at her, smiling. "Absolutely the same conditions, mind you. No wind. And I always start from the top practically at rest; and yet always finish up different. Jolly funny, eh?"

She opened the gate for him. "What you can see in it!" she murmured.

He said, "Oh, well!"

But on the following day he was surprised and intensely pleased to see his champion peg gleaming white in the sunshine. Mabel was in the morning room, sewing.

"Hullo, sewing? I say, did you paint my peg? How jolly nice of you!"

She looked up. "Your peg? Whatever do you mean?"

"That record distance peg of mine. Painted it white, haven't you?"

"No, I didn't paint it!"

"Who the dickens—? Well, I'll just wash my hands. Not had tea, have you? Good."

When Low Jinks came to his room with hot water—a detail of the perfect appointment of the house under Mabel's management was her rule that Rebecca always came to the door for the master's bicycle, handed him the brush for his shoes and trousers, and then took hot water to his room—he asked her, "I say, Low Jinks, did you paint that peg of mine?"

Low Jinks colored and spoke apologetically: "Well, I thought it would show up better, sir. There was a drop of whitewash in—"

"By Jove, it does. It looks like a regular winning-post. Jolly nice of you, Low."

Two months afterwards the bicycle did the worst on record. This was a surprising affair; the runs had recently been excitingly good; and when Low Jinks came out to take the bicycle he greeted her: "I say, Low Jinks, I only got just up to Mr. Fargus's gate just now. Worst I've ever done."

Low Jinks was enormously concerned. "Well! I never did!" exclaimed Low Jinks. "If those bicycles aren't just things! You'll want a peg for that, sir. Like you had one for the best."

"That's an idea, Low. What about painting it?"

"Oh, I will, sir!"

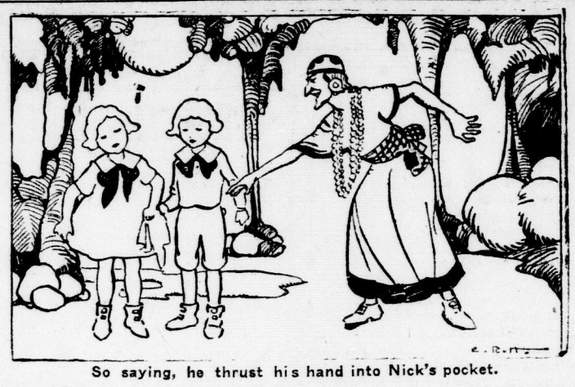

But he did not mention the new record to Mabel.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS.

STOLEN MAGIC

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

So saying, he thrust his hand into Nick's pocket.

"NOW, then," said Twelve Toes the Sorcerer to himself when Nancy and Nick had entered the cave, holding tight to the Cloth of Dreams which made them forget everything. "Now then, before I change from a gypsy woman back to the form I most prefer, a fiery dragon, I shall see what magic these young travelers have with them. The Fairy Queen would scarcely send them on such a dangerous errand without plenty of help."

So saying, he thrust his hand into Nick's pocket and there found the magic paper on which the Twins received their messages from the Mushroom.

"I thought so!" he cried in glee. "This paper is made from the wings of a thousand humming birds. The only ink that can write on it is made from gnats' ears and the only pen that can make a mark on it is from the wing of the furious falcon that guards the palace of King Indig of the Diddevvers. Now I wonder where the pen can be."

Again the gypsy reached into Nick's pocket and this time out came the red feather.

"What luck!" he screamed, waving it over his head. "I have been wishing for this feather for a hundred years. Whoever possesses it can get past the furious falcon and into King Indig's palace."

"And now, my beauties," turning to the Twins, who gazed at him stupidly, "before I leave you I'll give you a task that will keep you busy. Besides, you may have more magic along, who knows. Come here."

He led them toward a dark spot in the cave, the icing she had spilled from the cake. Instantly their feet stuck like feathers to tar. Not a step could they take in their goloshes.

The Sorcerer waved a huge pair of scissors, with one motion cut the cloth in half. "Now scrub," he commanded, pushing them to their knees.

BOOKS

EDITED BY CABR.

MORAL EMBLEMS. By Robert Louis Stevenson. With Nineteen Woodcuts by the Author and a Preface by Lloyd Osbourne. London: Chatto & Windus. 5s. net.

Unlike the common run of men,
I wield a double power to please,
And use the GRAVER and the PEN
With equal aptitude and ease.

SO wrote Robert Louis Stevenson, in the third of the illustrated booklets, printed and published in the eighties, at Davos-Platz, by the young and enterprising firm, "S. L. Osbourne & Co."

The "Davos-Platz booklets" have been among the rarest of the prizes sought by collectors.

They were printed in editions severely limited to fifty, ninety or one hundred copies, and, although facsimile reprints were published in "A Stevenson Medley" (1899) and the booklets were well known to the instructed inner circle of Stevensonians whose shelves held the Edinburgh edition of the author's works, they remained unknown to the equally admiring public, which has to be content with books borrowed from the circulating library or bought in cheap reprints.

This large public will welcome the appearance of the complete contents of the booklets, further enriched by two delightful, longer "moral tales," "The Pirate and the Apothecary" and "The Builder's Doom," and prefaced by an account of the genesis of the rhymes and pictures, which all lovers of Stevenson's charming genius and character will find of the highest interest.

Very skillfully Mr. Lloyd Osbourne shows us how the anxieties which beset Stevenson, during his difficult sojourn at Davos-Platz, were reflected in the preoccupations of his small stepson, happy though the boy was in the enjoyment of perennial skating and tobogganing and the manipulation of a toy theatre and printing press.

Westminster Abbey: Its Memories and Its Message. By Mary Sturgeon. New York: Frederick A. Stokes Company. $7.50.

SOME things are so great that interest in them is "new every morning and fresh every evening." When that something is a fine old building around which have clustered for centuries historical, literary and political associations, there will appear at intervals someone who views it all from a different angle and discovers some way to present familiar material in a new guise.

In referring to the many preceding books on the Abbey in which, by the way, Princess Mary of England becomes the bride of Viscount Lascelles today, the author says in her preface: "They usually stress either history or architecture."

She has done neither, although it has been attempted in both directions to place with sufficient accuracy the different architectural periods represented, while the history of the Abbey is well sketched. There are already scholarly books for the special student in these lines. The author here is seeking to represent something quite apart. To quote again from her preface:

"But what springs to the mind more and more clearly as one thinks about the Abbey and perceives its significance is the amazing way it has come to represent the spirit of our race in all its various activities. *. We find living here our patriotism, our poetry, our statecraft, and our science, our philosophy and our art, our courage, our adventure, and romance."

The etched frontispiece and the 15 full-page drawings by Louis Weirter, R. B. A., illustrate the volume in the spirit of the author. In a charming manner the artist has put into his pictures the soul of the Abbey, making them something more than architectural drawings.

The reproduction of the drawings is also in harmony with the other work. There is an undertone of color which flushes to the surface, like vermilion under black.

As a piece of bookmaking, the large type, well-placed as to margins on an ample page of good paper, is most attractive.

The reader regrets, however, that titles to the illustrations do not accompany them, that the reader might not be compelled to turn to the list in front of the book.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

CONCERNING COFFEE

WHILE the goodness of a cup of coffee depends much on the brand, the best brand of coffee in the world can be spoiled in the making.

Choose the brand, then the way you want to make the beverages and see that the berry is ground to conform with the making. If you use a percolator the coffee should be ground "medium," filter or "drip" coffee pots require pulverized coffee and the old-fashioned "pot on the stove" takes a medium-coarse ground berry.

The most delicious, healthful and, in the end, economical coffee is made with a pulverized berry by the drip method. There are specially constructed pots on the market, but you can construct your own. A wire strainer four or five inches in diameter is lined with firm, but not too heavy cotton cloth and placed over an enamel or earthenware utensil to drip.

Be sure that the water is boiling hard before pouring through the grounds. Be sure that the utensil in which the coffee drips is as hot as boiling water can make it before using.

Be sure that the filter has been thoroughly saturated with cold water and the muslin is still wet before putting the pulverized coffee in it. Be sure that the coffee pot that finally receives the finished coffee is scalded and heated through. Chilling spoils the infusion.

To make filtered coffee allow one tablespoon pulverized coffee for each measuring cupful of boiling water. Put the coffee in the filter and pour the water through. Keep hot by surrounding the pot with boiling water. Four cups of boiling water and four tablespoons of pulverized coffee will make enough beverage to serve six persons.

This is not the rule for the very strong after-dinner coffee served in "demitasse" cups. The water should be freshly boiled and should not be cooked after it reaches the hard boil stage.

The care given the coffee utensils greatly affects the beverage. The pot in which the drink is made must be carefully washed and thoroughly scalded after each using. It should be perfectly dry before putting away.

This is equally true of the pot used for serving. The filter muslin should be emptied and rinsed out in clear cold water. Then put in cold sterilized water in a covered glass until needed. This sterilized water should be changed daily.

Never dry a filter muslin. Keep it wet and use it wet. The strainer should be washed, scalded and dried after each using.

Coffee is more popular with men than tea or chocolate and a cup of perfect coffee with a sandwich or cruller is ideal for a hostess to offer an evening caller.

Perfect coffee adds much to the dessert at dinner if the sweet is cake or pastry. One crust custardy pies are specially good with coffee.

If you try the drip coffee the change alone will be welcome and make the percolated taste good again if you go back to it.

Spare Time Jobs for Father—

YOUNGSTERS have a habit of taking playthings into the front room. Then someone calls and mother has to rush them all out into the playroom or bedroom.

The task is made easier if a box, on wheels, is made for moving toys. Take any fair-sized box and make large spool wheels for it. Tie a piece of rope to it and the children themselves can load it up and pull the toys out of the way.

DISCUSS PLAYER LIMIT

L. and D. Executive Slated To Meet Wednesday Night.

A meeting of the executive of the London and District is scheduled for the armories on Wednesday night sharp at 8 o'clock.

The biggest item slated for discussion, and a very important one for the association this year, will be the player limit. The clubs seem evenly divided in sentiment, and the outcome is of real interest to every club, hence the urgent request that all members of the executive make a point of attending.

DUNN SIGNS BATTERY.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 27.—Manager Jack Dunn of the Baltimore Orioles has signed up the battery of last year's Thorold, Ont., team in the Niagara District League, Paul Herb, pitcher, and Eddie Manley, catcher. Both are now attending the Niagara University, Niagara Falls, N.Y. Their homes are in Thorold.

That the Detroit club is hard pressed for infield material is proved by the fact the Tigers claimed the veteran George Cutshaw for second, after all the other National League clubs had waived on him. Cutshaw had a pretty fair year with the Pirates in 1921.

TERRIERS HOLD TIGERS

Galt and Hamilton Battle 70 Minutes to 4—4 Tie.

GALT, Feb. 27.— The local Terriers battled 70 minutes with the Hamilton Tigers (seniors) to a tie of 4 to 4 in an exhibition game here tonight. The Galt boys had the best of the play, and while missing some nice chances, Stewart saved two goals by throwing himself on ice. Jack Brown, a local player, was on the ice only five minutes in the second period when in turning to get a loose puck he slipped and in the fall broke his left collar bone. He was removed to the hospital. The locals led in first period, 3 to 1; at the end of the second, 3 to 2, but in the final the visitors, not only tied the count, but took the lead, and with only half a minute to go Punch George evened the score.

Two five-minute periods were played, but without scoring.

Catcher Eddie Gharrity of the Washington club has developed into one of the most dangerous batters in the American League. He is noted for his extra base hits.

PRESTON RUSHED INDIANS

Came Back With Big Bid For Game In Tihrd Period.

EXETER, Feb. 27.—The Exeter-Zurich combination took a fall out of Lucknow here tonight, beating them 5 to 1 in the opening N. H. L. game. The smallest crowd of the season witnessed a remarkable demonstration of goal-minding on the part of the visitors' goalie. Reid, after the first two goals were scored, tightened up like a drum. Exeter camped on his doorstep and gave him a cloudburst of pucks, in both the second and third periods. He was the whole Lucknow team.

There was a number of penalties in the game.

The line-up:

Exeter-Zurich.		Lucknow.
Cook	Goal	Reid
Hindmarsh	Defence	Johnston
Hoffman	Defence	Reid
Hoffman	Center	McDonald
Siebert	Wing	Agnew
McKinnon	Wing	McCoy
Robinson	Sub	Gordon

Referee—Corker Legg, London.

STRATFORD, Feb. 27.—In a game that presented some excitement, even if lacking in some of the finer points of the game, Stratford defeated Preston Senior N. H. L. team 7 to 5. The locals ran up a lead of six goals in the first two periods, but fell back badly in the third, and had a close call from a trimming on the play in the last period. Preston would have won out had there been longer time. Kelterborne carried off the honors for the Indians, scoring five of the seven goals, and Morenz got the other two. For Preston, Schleigel and Clark did the scoring. A free-for-all was nearly precipitated in the second period. A Preston player struck Norfolk, the local goalie. Berger came to Norfolk's rescue, and soon the fourteen players and some of the fans were in a heap on the ice. Order was finally restored and a few penalties, with an odd black eye, were reminders of the melee.

The line-up:

Stratford.		Preston.
Norfolk	Goal	Blum
Berger	Defence	Schleigel
Richards	Defence	Kelly
Morenz	Center	Clark
Carson	R. W.	Woodley
Kelterborne	L. W.	Kreason
Tripp	Sub	Roth

Referee—Ken Crane, Stratford.

In the Stove League

WITHOUT a good infield a ball club hasn't much chance to get anywhere.

* * *

* * *

The Detroit team had trouble with those two spots last year, and as a result the Tigers didn't do very well.

* * *

All of which leads us up to the question as to which club in the major leagues has the best infield defence.

* * *

The addition of Heine Groh to the New York Giants just about brings that honor to McGraw's aggregation.

* * *

The coming of Groh gives McGraw the two leading third sackers in the National League. Slce both of them cannot be used at that position, McGraw will be forced to make a shift.

* * *

Groh is a veteran, and has played third base for such a long time that McGraw will undoubtedly do his experimenting with Frisch. No doubt Frisch will prove to be as valuable a second baseman as he was on third.

* * *

An infield made up of Groh at third, Bancroft at short, Frisch at second and Kelly on first is a mighty fine combination. There are other first basemen who are perhaps more flashy than Kelly, but the big fellow plays a mighty acceptable first.

* * *

In addition, McGraw has Rawlings in reserve. Rawlings is a mighty good man to have around, as he can fill in anywhere on the infield with the exception of first base. He is the aggressive type so much in favor with McGraw.

* * *

There are a number of other good infields in the two leagues, but it is doubtful if any of them will quite measure up to the standard set by the Giants.

* * *

The addition of McInnes to Cleveland will greatly strengthen the Indians' defence. His presence will do much to steady Sewell and Wambsganss.

* * *

The Washington infield is a real combination now that the Nationals have acquired Peckinpaugh. Joe Judge at first, the brilliant Harris at second, Shanks at third and Peck at short make a great defence.

* * *

There have been few great ball teams that have lacked high-class men at short and second.

* * *

Pitching is conceded by most experts to be 70 per cent of a team's strength. There is no denying the great value of pitching.

* * *

Pitching, however, doesn't get very far without a good inner defence. Such a defence is impossible without crack men at short and second.

* * *

The Cubs, in the days of Frank Chance, had Tinker at short and Evers at second. That was some pair around the keystone sack. The Chicago Cubs was one of the greatest teams of all time.

* * *

Take the Philadelphia Athletics when that team was at its best. Jack Barry was doing the shortstopping, Eddie Collins was at second. No two players ever worked together better than Barry and Collins.

* * *

Without a question shortstop is the most difficult position on the ball field. A good shortstop must not only have ability but brains as well. There was never a great shortstop who couldn't think.

* * *

A majority of the plays on the infield have the shortstop figuring in their execution. Little things often lose ball games. Many a game is lost because of the failure to properly execute double plays.

* * *

The double play feature is what makes the positions of shortstop and second base so important. Last summer I saw a score of games lost because of the failure to complete a double play that would have retired the side.

* * *

All of which leads up to the reason why the Washington club should be a factor in the American League race this season. It is strong at short and second.

* * *

The acquisition of Peckinpaugh makes Washigton a contender. There is no better shortstop in either major league than Peckinpaugh. Stanley Harris at second need bow to no one but Eddie Collins.

REDMEN WIN 6—5

Paisley Victims of Northerners In Senior N. H. L. Clash.

PAISLEY, Feb. 27.—Wiarton Northern League Seniors beat the locals 6 to 5 in the semi-final fixture here tonight. The men from the Georgian Bay were 3 to 0 to the bad at the end of the first period. The Redmen pulled up in the second, though, and had the count 4 to 2, and sailed in winners in the third with something of their real form.

Matheson of Owen Sound refereed the game.

IMPS ARE SURPRISE

Gave Thistles Hard 15—12 Game In Y. W. C. A. League.

The Y. W. C. A. Girls' League staged two good games at the Western U. gym last night.

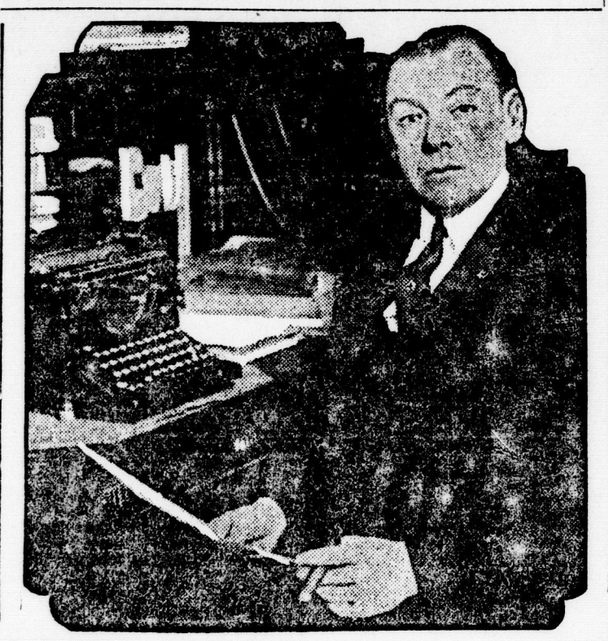

Smallman & Ingram Imps furnished a surprise when they held the fast Thistles to a close 15 to 12 verdict in the first game, and this game goes down as the best of the season so far.

Western U. Co-eds beat Y. W. C. A. girls 13 to 4, but the game was closer than the score would indicate.

J. Lightfoot handled both games.

Since Frank Baker will soon permanently retire from the majors, the New York Americans intend to give Glenn Killinger, the famous Penn State star, every chance to make good at that position.

Gibson Piloted Leonard to a Title

BILLY GIBSON, who directs the destinies of Champion Benny Leonard, is one of the wisest managers in the fight game.

Gibson, by excellent judgment in handling the affairs of Leonard, getting a top-notch price for every bout, has made a fortune for the fighter and himself.

Gibson took Leonard long before he reached the championship class. He saw great possibilities in him, however, brought him along slowly and made a champion out of him.

Gibson picked on Champion Freddy Welsh at a time when Welsh was slipping rapidly. For a year prior to the bout with Welsh, promoters had tried to match Leonard and the champions.

The dates selected for such bouts, it happened, never suited Gibson. They always seemed to interfere with some other bout that Gibson had planned.

As a matter of fact Gibson was really biding his time, waiting for the logical spot to arrange the match that carried with it the championship.

Johnny Kilbane's fight with Welsh decided Gibson. Kilbane gave Welsh a stiff battle. Welsh's showing convinced Gibson that Leonard was his master. He arranged the bout, Leonard knocked Welsh out in the ninth round, winning the championship.

Every player in the two major leagues is now enxiously awaiting the arrival of his contract. It is needless to say that all of them expect a raise. The fancy prices paid to minor league clubs for recruit players is the cause. "If the club owners are paying such prices merely to beat the income tax, why not share some of it with the players, who would be perfectly willing to slip a little of it to the government," is the way one of the stars puts it.

The play-off series arranged for the Manufacturers' will be continued again tonight with the regular draw being adhered to. London Six meet McClarys, league leaders, in the first game, and Bell Telephone clash with Perrins in the second.

Last Thursday night's games, which were postponed because of soft weather, will be played this Thursday.

These tag-end affairs have brought interest in the Manufacturers' League season to a high pitch of excitement, and some upsets are in order.

Second Division.

Dumbarton 0; St. Mirren 2.

In a Rugby Union match played today, Watsonians defeated the North of Ireland, 9 to 6.

Eddie Foster is slated to play third base for the Boston Red Sox by Manager Duffy. Joe Dugan is being banked on to fill the position made vacant by the sale of Shortstop Scott to New York. Dugan doesn't like to play short. In fact, doesn't play a very good game at that position. It is possible that Duffy may be compelled to shift his present plans. Dugan is the greatest young third sacker in the American League. Third base, however, isn't shortstop.

TECKS ARE PUT OUT

Defeated By Woodstock College 5—2 Yesterday In Final.

Woodstock College repeated their win over Technical School in the final of the W. O. S. S. A. play-offs here yesterday, registering a 5 to 2 victory this trip, which gave them the round, 14 to 2.

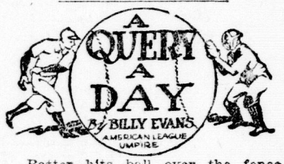

The game was clean throughout, but Tecs were never at all dangerous for the Collegians.

The score by periods was 2 to 0 and 3 to 0. Johnny Burgess refereed the affair.

Woodstock College will either meet Simcoe or Tillsonburg High Schools next.

Batter hits ball over the fence and makes the circuit of the bases on his drive. In rounding third base the coacher slaps him on the back. It was merely a slap of praise, as the ball had passed out of playing territory when the coacher so performed. A claims the runner should be called out for the coacher's interference, while B claims he is entitled to a home run.

B IS right, the batsman who hit the ball over the fence is entitled to a home run regardless of the action of the coacher in slapping him on the back.

The rule governing such a play, says no penalty should be inflicted when there is no chance to make a play on the base runner. When a batter hits the ball over the fence or into the stand the presumption is that no play is possible and he is entitled to a home run.

The coaching rule was made with the intent to inflict a penalty when the action of the coacher had a direct bearing on the play.

CLASSICS of the DIAMOND

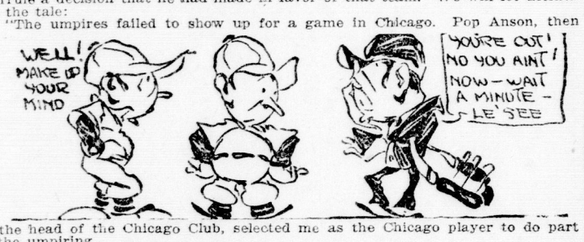

IT isn't generally known, but Clarke Griffith, now president of the Washington American League Club, was a big league umpire for one game.

Incidentally, "Griff" believes he established a record in his one and only experience as an arbitrator.

During his days as manager Griffith protested many a play, but he never managed to make an umpire change his decision.

In the only game he ever worked, Griffith had the leader of the home team overrule a decision that he had made in favor of that team. We will let Griffith tell the tale:

"The umpires failed to show up for a game in Chicago. Pop Anson, then at the head of the Chicago Club, selected me as the Chicago player to do part of the umpiring.

"A play came up at first base in which I declared the visiting batter out. It was a close decision, but I thought I had rendered the correct ruling.

"All the visiting players had a different opinion. They kicked long and loud. It looked as if they intended forfeiting the game rather than accept the ruling.

"Then to my great surprise I heard Cap Anson say: "Come on, quit kicking, and start the game. The man was safe. I know it, because my foot was off the bag. He is going to stay there.'

"Since Anson was running the ball club, I considered myself overruled, and changed the decision. It cost us the game.

"I think that is a record. I don't believe any other major league umpire ever changed a ruling. However, I am not saying that some of them shouldn't every now and then."

PRUDHOLME IS PRO

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—Art Prudholme, the Princess Pat boxer, is now out of the army and is going into boxing as a profession. He is being managed by Capt. S. Woodhouse, under whom he served in France. His first bout will be at Sarnia March 16, when he meets McGuigan, a Marysville heavyweight. The same night Norman Cave of Toronto, who also served with Woodhouse, will box Young Otto, while Bill McCarthy of Galt will meet a Yankee boxer. Prudholme may also box in Windsor shortly, and wants a bout here with Moe Herscovitch. Roddy McDonald, Frank Barrieau or Johnny Klesch, and with Eddie Beattie of Hamilton, in Hamilton. Sergt. Alexander, the St. Catharines middleweight, is also looking for bouts. He is physical instructor at Ridley College.

PROS LINING UP FOR PLAY-OFF

Coming Week Will Tell Story In Several Hockey Leagues.

CHASE EDMONTON HARD

Western Canada League Leaves Most Uncertainty In Prospect.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27. — Championship contests in the various Canadian professional hockey associations are now down to the acute stages, and it is probable that the coming week will tell the story in several of the races.

In the National League Torontos come to Ottawa Wednesday, and Canadiens invade Hamilton. On Saturday Ottawas go to Montreal, and Hamilton play Toronto. If Toronto win, they will be in the play-off. If they lose to Ottawa they will have to trim Hamilton next Saturday and then defeat Canadiens at Toronto the following Tuesday. Canadiens, to overtake Toronto, must win all their remaining games, which they are likely to do. Ottawas, after the defeat they got on Saturday, will be determined to turn the tables on Toronto here, and the mid-week match may be charged up as a defeat for Toronto. Ottawa may also upset the dope by defeating Canadiens at Montreal next Saturday. They cannot possibly keep Ottawa out of the play-off, but unless Ottawas trim Toronto Wednesday night, the Senators may be hauled out of first place.

Thursday, March 9, and Saturday, March 11, are the play-off dates favored by the Ottawas, but Torontos want to wait and play Saturday, March 11, and Monday, March 13. This would be crowding too much into the world's series, which is slated to start in the east on Wednesday, March 15.

Vancouver and Seattle have qualified for the Pacific Coast play-off.

Edmonton are now leading the Western Canada League and will likely win out, though Regina and Calgary are right at their heels. The winner of the Seattle-Vancouver series will play the prairie champions home and home games, after which the survivors will leave for the east to play for the Stanley Cup. Whether their destination will be Ottawa, Toronto or Montreal, will not be known until the National League play-off has been decided.

Ed Rommel of the Athletics says he is tired of playing in the major leagues for a minor league salary. Whereupon Connie Mack replies that Rommel is merely a minor league pitcher.

A Danger Warning —Bleeding Gums

Are your gums tender? Do they bleed when brushed? If so—watch out for Pyorrhea.

This disease of the gums, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, not only destroys the teeth, but often wrecks the health.

In Pyorrhea, the gums become spongy, then recede; the teeth decay, loosen and fall out—or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about them. These germs lower the body's vitality and cause many diseases.

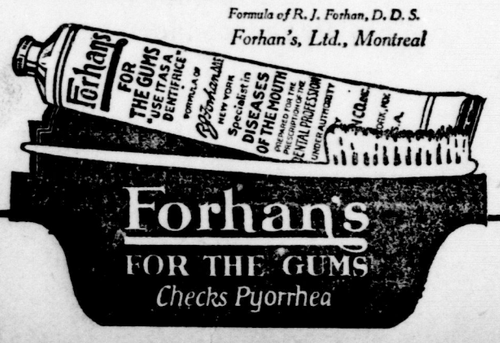

You can keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums prevents Pyorrhea—or checks its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean.

Start using it today. If your gums have receded, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

FAVOR BROCADE FOR MARRIAGE

Participants at Royal Ceremony Show Preference For Dress Material.

ORDERS HATS BE WORN

State Chamberlain Ruled Out All Wearing of Veils, Plumes and Trains.

London, England, Feb. 28.—(The Associated Press)—About 1,000 women and girls were among the elect made happy by receipt of invitations to Princess Mary's wedding to Viscount Lascelles at Westminster Abbey today. With them the all-important questions were, "What shall I wear?" and "What will the bridal party wear?"

Within certain limits, the State Chamberlain, who designates the form of apparel for state occasions, settled the matter. He prescribed "morning dress with hats, also orders and decorations." Dressmakers carried the thing a bit further by announcing that it would be a "brocade" wedding, that material being favored by several of those socially prominent women whose selections usually govern.

The State Chamberlain's ukase ruled out the wearing of veils, plumes and trains. In the interests of economy, this had been the rule at the Court of St. James since early in the war. The result was some diminution of brilliancy, but the sacrifice contributed to the comfort of the feminine part of the wedding congregation as Westminster Abbey has long been termed "a vast collection of draughts."

The choice of morning dress was made "in view of probable cold weather and the continued prevalence of the influenza epidemic." It is recalled that many women who attended the wedding of Princess Patricia at the Abbey, three years ago, when more elaborate and less protective "court" dress was worn, were almost blue with cold before the two hours' ceremony ended.

Wore Full Dress.

"Morning" dress, of course, necessitates the wearing of cloaks and furs. Officers of the army, navy and air force wore full dress uniform, with orders and decorations. For civilians, court dress was prescribed. Swords were a part of this attire. Soldiers without dress uniform were permitted to use service kit.

Brocade has been increasing in popularity for some time. Now it is all the rage and the wedding party afforded a gorgeous display of this material in all its rich variety. There were brocades of misty blue, of dull gold and shimmering silver. The pattern, in most cases, was Elizabethan, and the effect one of rare splendor.

Some of the materials displayed at exhibitions held in west end modistes' salons before the wedding were marvellous examples of weaving. To vary the plain gold or silver figuring, delicate hydrangea colorings were introduced and pretty "shot" effects achieved. Here and there stronger colors were seen—true jade, for instance, and aquamarine—an approximate definition, for this particular shading is so subtle as to defy accurate classification.

One classically draped model in crepe-faced silver cloth was festooned from the shoulders with chains of large cut jet beads. A jet girdle set with brilliants was looped round the hips and trailing clouds of black tulle served as transparent substitutes for sleeves.

Classic in Outline.

Many of the frocks were classic in outline, long waisted and with fairly full skirts reaching nearly to the ankles, according to one autocrat of the dress world.

As to the extent of the decolletage permissible, no specific instructions were issued, but it was well known that Queen Mary disliked exaggeration in any particular of feminine attire.

A gown of handsome silver lace, with the necessary mat surface, was sewn with pearls—festooned with them—this magnificent overdress being imposed on a foundation of silver tissue.

Yet another had a surface of platinum paillettes with lapis lazuli paillettes used to give a mosaic effect, the whole being partially veiled in moonlight-blue tulle.

But satin was not altogether ruled out. A frock of jade "satin Anglais" with a sparkling diamond and pearl corselet hung with chains of diamonds was shown.

As to sleeves, the edict declared that a revival of sleeves was certain. This, it is understood, was in deference to a wish expressed by Queen Mary, and pertained to court dress more especially than to gowns for the princess' wedding.

Design Special Hats.

Inclusion of the words "with hats" in the state chamberlain's dress specifications, was perhaps more welcome news to milliners than to those attending the abbey service—certainly the male contingent was not overjoyed. Most of them, and many women, were fearful the hats in front of them at the abbey would obstruct their view. This consideration, apparently, was taken into account at most shops and a variety of specially designed small hats and toques was displayed to minimize this disadvantage.

Many attractive alternatives to what the modern woman terms a "hat" were suggested. The jeweled caul of the 14th century might be revived, its sponsors directing attention to its opportunities it afforded for displaying beautiful jewels. It was also suggested that tiaras might be "roofed" with tulle or chiffon in order to qualify as suitable headgear.

Toques of Russian satin, gauze, lace, chenille and silk straw were trimmed with ribbons, embroideries and flowers, and many of them have long pendants of beads, ribbons or semi-precious stones hanging down on one or both sides.

Adopt Turban Modes.

Adoption of the turban modes of the late 18th and early 19th centuries—flashing affairs of gold and silver trimmed, perhaps, with a paradise plume held by a jeweled clasp—add to the general gorgeousness of the scene. These turbans accord with the popular gold and silver dress materials.

As fur coats, or cloaks with furs, were to be generally worn, a problem with milliners was to create headwear that would harmonize not only with brilliant dress, but with a wrap of sable or moleskin.

Furriers and cloak-makers shared in the fillip given London's dressmaking industry by the wedding and the season of social functions which will be incidental. Model cloaks of apricot velvet embroidered in diamonds and jet, and collared with white fox; of black velvet trimmed with kolinsky; of ermine allied with sable; of mole anl gold brocade, with a flounce of fluffy marabout strands, and collars of the same material, are exhibited.

But with gown, headdress and cloak, milady must have a handbag in keeping with the rest of her toilette. Bond street shops showed some of these of 18th century letter-case inspiration, plus a handle. Exquisite bags of flat gold beads worked in satin topazes encrusting the stud fasteners, and others entirely of tiny flat beads in a vivid rose color, the snap-fasteners being mother-of-pearl dyed to match, have been thrust forward as the latest cry.

Even in shoes the vogue of brocade was evidenced. Dainty bits of silver and gold tissue with graceful, but unexaggerated heels, and buckles enhanced with whisps of fluffy materials embroidered with seed pearls, were especially designed for some of the women wedding attendants.

Alfred Lindsay Confesses To Swindling American Society Women.

WAS PAYING MONEY BACK

Denies Any Knowledge of Alleged Domino Club.

New York, Feb. 28.—Alfred E. Lindsay, accused of swindling society women out of nearly $1,000,000 in fake stock deals, today confessed that many of the charges against him were true, according to Richard C. Murphy, assistant district attorney. Lindsay, a former stock broker and strike breaker, was arrested last night at Overbrook, Pa., following an indictment charging grand larceny and brought to New York this morning by detectives.

Lindsay accepted all blame for the alleged transactions, Mr. Murphy said, and declared that when he was exposed in the newspapers he and his wife discussed the possibilities of a double suicide. He broke down and sobbed while dictating his alleged confession to a stenographer in the presence of detectives and others in the district attorney's office, according to Murphy.

Mr. Murphy said he frankly admitted taking money from Mrs. W. H. Arnold and Mrs. Dorothy Atwood which he was unable to pay back, and also said he had received large sums from Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, divorced wife of Benj. B. Duke, "the tobacco king."

He declared, however, according to Mr. Murphy, that the amounts he is alleged to have received were "grossly excessive."

Lindsay, according to Mr. Murphy, said he had been paying the money back to some of the women in weekly installments. Lindsay is said to have denied that he ever heard of the "Domino Club" until he read in the newspapers about it, and denied that he had ever told his victims that there was such a club or that he belonged to it, according to Mr. Murphy.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief, its harmlessness, its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large, sixty-cent case from any drug store, and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with you, if what you eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It is the most efficient antacid known—the certainty and ease with which it overcomes stomach and digestive disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Advt.

and Princess Victoria, with the Queen's suite.

Alexandra was accorded a modicum of applause and cheering which the crowds were reserving for the bride. As the carriage rolled by to the jangle of spurs and the clatter of hoofs, the guardsmen snapped to "present," giving the royal salute, and the bands blared the Queen Mother's anthem.

There was a one-minute interlude; then from Buckingham Palace at the end of the Mall trundled three carriages of Queen Mary, the Duke of York and Princes Henry and George with their equerries and attendants.

Cheers for these members of the royal family had scarcely abated along the elbowing masses now tiptoeing in their eagerness and expectancy, when from that portion of the route nearest the palace dooryard they swelled to a deafening crescendo as the gilded glass coach bearing the Princess Mary and her father rumbled through the bronze gates.

Before the coach and the two trailing carriages bearing the princess' ladies-in-waiting and the King's attendants had reached the main entrance to the Mall the cheering had spread half way down the troop-lined avenue. The bands' rendition of "God Save the King" was unheard in the wild tumult. The sounds of the hoofs of the team of bays drawing the historic Irish state coach and those of the sovereign's mounted escort were also drowned in the cries and applause.

Easily Discern Bride.

The coach, which derives its name from the place where it was built, has a high seat with spacious plate glass sides, through which the features of the princess and the King were easily discernible, even to those at a considerable distance, and is surmounted by a gilded crown.

Members of the royal family who were not included in the carriage processions assembled outside the Abbey shortly after 11 o'clock, where they greeted Alexandra and, a few minutes later, the second party consisting of the Duke of York and Princes Henry and George.

The Dean of Westminster received them, and to the strains of "Sir Hubert Parry's Bridal March," faintly heard from the interior of the Abbey, they were conducted by gentlemen ushers down the aisle and around the unknown warrior's grave, between rows of guests standing in phalanxes, tier above tier, on either side, to their places in the sacrarium.

Officials of the royal house headed this procession, followed by the Marquis and Marchioness of Cambridge, Lord Leopold of Mountbatten, with the Marquis and Marchioness Carisbrooke, the Princess Royal Marie Louis, Princess Helena Victoria, Lady Patricia Ramsay, the Earl and Countess of Athlone, the Duchess of Albany, Princess Beatrice, Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyle, Princess Christian and the Princess Royal Victoria, the Lord Steward and Lord Chamberlain; then came Prince Henry, Queen Mother Alexandra, King George, Queen Mary and the Duke of York, followed by eleven other household officials, the attendants bringing up the rear.

Bridegroom Arrives.

Viscount Lascelles, accompanied by his groomsman, Major Sir Victor Audley MacKenzie, D.S.O., arrived at the Poets' Corner door of the Abbey and was conducted to the seat reserved for him at the south side of the steps leading to the sacrarium by one of their majesties' gentlemen ushers. He, with the rest of the assemblage, stood until the royal party reached the places assigned them.

The officiating clergymen — the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Bishops of London and Oxford, and Canon Maurice Lascelles, the bridegroom's uncle—wearing copes, assembled in the Jerusalem Chamber of the abbey and moved to their places in the sacrarium, the voluntary being played as they proceeded up the nave.

Meanwhile a storm of cheering outside proclaimed the arrival of the bride and the king. Mary stepped from her coach—truly a princess in her fairy-like gown, combining the sheen of silver, the filmy down of tulle, the sparkle of beads, the dull sheen of pearls and the exquisite colorings of satin and old lace, against which contrasted the wonderful four-and-a-half-yard train, with its silk embroidery and crystal work.

The pearl-hemmed veil, thrown back from her face over a triple diadem of twisted silver and orange blossoms, revealed the demure features of the princess. On her drive from the palace the bridal gown had been cloaked in a rich ermine wrap.

The dean received the party. "Lead us, Heavenly Father," was played as the bridal procession moved up the nave, headed by household officials, the state chamberlain, the dean, canons and choir, the latter comprising 44 boys and 22 men. Then came the bride leaning on the king's arm, followed by the bridesmaids, the ladies-in-waiting and the king's suite.

Begin Solemn Service.

It was about 11:30 o'clock when the solemn service, performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Archbishop of York and the dean and precentor of the abbey, began.

The sixty-seventh Psalm was chanted, and the anthem, "Beloved, Let Us Love One Another," was sung during the service. During the ceremony the bride carried an exquisitely-bound pink service book, a gift from the queen. The royal bridesmaids were: Princess Maud, Lady Rachel Cavendish, Lady Mary Thynne, Lady Victoria May Cambridge, Lady Doris Gordon - Lennox, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, Lady Diana Bridgeman and Lady May Cambridge.

"It seems probable that no daughter of a reigning king was ever until today married in the abbey. Certainly no marriage ever occurred here under conditions quite like yours. The war time partly created them.

"Each of you in the grim war years found new opportunities and used them. When the fibre of British manhood was being tested day by day in shell-swept trench and on bare hillside, yours, my brother, did much more than stand the test.

"Such testing, such equipment can make good its outcome in the quieter after years. No call of that kind, no necessity on that scale, please God, will come again in your lifetime. To those who are worthy of it, peace, too, brings its privileges in central places. Our central homes can bestow on English life an inestimable boon. If the fierce light which beats in such a home reveal there what is honorable and pure, the gain is far-reaching; it spreads. There lies the opportunity for both; you are going to use it.

"To you, my child, the war days of your girlhood brought occasion for glad service. Experiences, however simple, in a hospital ward can give an abiding stimulus to one who cares. In that effort, as also in the leadership of disciplined English girlhood, you have gained thought and knowledge which you will now contribute to securing the strength, orderliness and sunshine of a great English home.

"Together you will set yourselves to this. Happiness in home life, even when it is blessed like yours with high traditions, is not a matter of course. It has its roots in a mutual love, which is tender and thoughtful in resource, unselfish in devotion, but brave and unreserved in its honesty of mutual counsel. So you may together go from strength to strength.

"The power so to do must come from on high. We are here this morning as Christians; our fealty and your fealty are pledged to the living Lord. The center, the inspiration, the master in the home is Jesus Christ our Lord. It is in His name that with gladness of heart and buoyancy of hope we today, on behalf of the whole empire and people, bid you Godspeed."

Sign Royal Register.

The bride and bridegroom then passed to Edward the Confessor chapel, where the registers were signed—one known as the royal register, in which the entry of today's ceremony occupied six pages, and the other the abbey register, which is signed alike by royalty and subjects. Mary used a gold quill pen, one of her wedding gifts.

The signing completed, the bridal march from "Romeo and Juliet" and Mendelssohn's wedding march were played. The bride and bridegroom stepped down the abbey to the west door, preceded by the choir and clergy, and followed by the bridesmaids. The clergy moved off to the Jerusalem chamber as cheers, re-awakened by the appearance of the united couple in the doorway, reverberated through the edifice.

The King and Queen and other members of the royal family moved toward the door, and the new viscountess and her husband began their triumphal return through the tumultuous street throngs, using this time the carriage in which Queen Mary went to the abbey. The route was varied, to give other crowds an opportunity to see the couple.

At the Mall the carriage turned through the Marlborough gate and went past St. James' Palace into St. James street, thence proceeding through Piccadilly and Hyde Park to the corner of Constitution Hill, and thus to Buckingham Palace.

Thousands Cheer As Procession Passes

London, Feb. 28.—Special trains from the suburbs and the provinces, as well as charabancs, trams and buses this morning hrought to the already crowded city thousands of persons anxious to catch a glimpse of Princess Mary on her wedding morn.

These took their places along the sidewalks and in other vantage points, where they were welcomed by the cold but cheery ones who had kept an all-night vigil in the most sheltered spots along the route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey.

Long before the time for the royal processions there was hardly standing room in Whitehall and on the Mall. There was plenty to occupy the time in watching the movements of the troops, listening to the street musicians and in buying flowers and souvenirs from the numerous peddlers.

Rain had fallen throughout the night, seeming to bear out the gloomy forecasts of the weather experts, but the morning broke brightly, the heavy rain clouds scurrying across the sky before a strong west wind. The sun shone brilliantly.

Just before the bride arrived at the abbey the crowds became so dense in Parliament street that the police had great difficulty in maintaining their cordon. Dozens of women and children fainted and had to be carried to safety, afterward being removed from the scene in ambulances.

As she passed the cenotaph in Whitehall on the return from Westminster Abbey after the ceremony, Princess Mary reached from the carriage window and handed out a bouquet, which a sergeant-major grasped and placed on the cenotaph as a tribute from the princess to Great Britain's dead in the war.

Soon after their return to Buckingham Palace, Princess Mary and her husband appeared on the balcony over the central arch of the palace, to the delight of the enormous crowd gathered there, which cheered the pair for several minutes and waved hats and handkerchiefs in salutation.

As they smiled and bowed repeatedly in acknowledgment of the demonstration, the couple were joined by King George, Queen Mary and Queen-Mother Alexandra, upon which the cheering broke out afresh.

The royal party remained on the balcony for some minutes, withdrawing then to resume the carrying out of the remaining wedding arrangements.

The appearance of a black cat under the gates of Buckingham Palace early this morning was hailed as an omen of good luck for the Princess Mary by the people assembled there. The crowd, consisting mainly of women with their children, cheered the animal lustily.

GRAIN

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Opening: Wheat—May, $1 47½; July, $1 25¼.

Corn—May, 67⅞c; July, 70¼c.

Oats—May, 43c; July, 44⅝c.

Winnipeg, Feb. 28.—Opening: Wheat—May unchanged to ⅜c lower at $1 44¾@1 43⅜; July, ¼c lower at $1 37⅜.

Barley—May unchanged at 69¼c.

Flax—May, ⅜c lower to unchanged at $2 42@2 42⅜; July, ½c lower at $2 39½.

Rye—May unchanged at $1 09⅞.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Wheat had an upward slant in price today during the early trading, influenced by higher quotations at Liverpool. Offerings became more liberal in extent as the market advanced. At first they were readily taken, but they continued in volume and soon caused a reaction. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to ¾c higher, were followed by moderate gains all around, though for the most part of a transient character.

Corn and oats were governed in the main by the action of wheat. After opening ⅛c off to ¼c higher, the corn market scored a general advance and then underwent something of a setback.

Oats started ⅛c off to a like advance, and later averaged considerably higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Feb. 28—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Encouraged by yesterday's sharp reversal, shorts extended their contracts at the opening of today's session. Leaders of the steel, motor, oil, tobacco and textile groups gave way from fractions to 1 point. Gulf States Steel and Baldwin Locomotive were among the few exceptions, showing pood support. Dealings in rails were light at nominal gains and loses. Preliminary foreign exchange quotations eased from yesterday's best quotations.

Noon.—Call money opened at 4¾ per cent, a fraction under yesterday's first quotation, regardless of the heavy transfer of funds in anticipation of March payments. Trading fell considerably under yesterday's active forenoon, running more to specialties. Rails and favorite industrials were neglected, their places being taken by motors and affiliated shares, also shippings, sugars, tobaccos and merchandising issues. Oils were firm, but California Petroleum extended its intitial loss. eHaviness of Pressed Steel Car, Cast Iron Pipe preferred and Nova Scotia Steel caused other independent issues of that group to sag.

CONDEMNED MAN ASKS NEW TRIAL

TWO MEN WERE HANGED

Appellant and Little George Genowski Arrested Twelve Months Later.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—The tragic story of Big Mike Prosco and Little George Genowski came before the supreme court this morning on an appeal by Big Mike. The proceedings are an echo of a lumber camp murder on July 27, 1919, when a Swede by the name of Kostinian was murdered at Kenogami, Lake St. John, Quebec.

Twelve months later, two men were hanged in Quebec. Subsequently Big Mike was arrested also on the murder charge, at Windsor, and Little George was arrested at Sarnia.

Big Mike and Little George were tried together for murder and sentenced to death. On appeal to the court of king's bench, Little George was granted a separate trial, but in the case of Big Mike a new trial was refused. Today Big Mike appealed to the supreme court and, through his counsel, claimed that he, too, was entitled to a separate trial.

Big Mike was first detained at Detroit. There, while in charge of American immigration officers, Big Mike made the statement that if sent back to Canada he was just as good as dead. He was deported and then arrested on the Canadian side on the murder charge. His statement at Detroit was used in the subsequent joint trial and, largely on this ground, the Quebec court of king's bench granted a new trial to Little George.

Allyn Taschereau of Quebec, arguing the case for Big Mike this morning, took the view that if Big Mike were given a separate trial Little George would become a compellable witness.

Mr. Justice Anglin observed that the reason why the Quebec court had granted Little George a new trial was because the admissions of Big Mike had prejudiced his case.

"And that has been removed," remarked Justice Idington.

Judge Anglin added that it would be necessary to show that Big Mike had been prejudiced by not having a separate trial.

Liver Trouble

Is Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, there is not enough lubricant produced by your system to keep the food waste soft. Doctors prescribe Nujol because its action is so close to this natural lubricant.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

FIFTEEN BOILS ON NECK AT ONE TIME

There was no Burdock Blood Bitters in those days, so Job had to suffer in silence. Now-a-days no one need endure the misery of boils.

Boils are simply evidences of the bad blood within coming to the surface and just when you get rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not stop more coming.

What you have to do is take

and the blood will be cleansed of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.

Mr. Roy McSwain, High Bank, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with boils for some time, and had as many as fifteen on my neck at once. After taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters they commenced to get better, and after I had taken two bottles I was relieved of them and felt much better. I think B. B. B. is a grand blood medicine, and can recommend it highly."

For the past 45 years B. B. B. has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont. —Advt.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Back hurts you? Can't straighten up without sudden pain, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica, or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil. Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back, and out comes the pain. It is harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil from any drug store, and after using it just once you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt, or cause any more misery. It never disappoints, and has been recommended for 60 years.—Advt.

HE DARKENED HIS GRAY HAIR

Tells How He Did It.

Mr. J. A. McCrea, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Advt.

Life and Character Reading

FEBRUARY 28.

The governing sign of this birthdate is Pisces. The governing planets Jupiter and Neptune and the birthstone a chrysolite.

People of this birthdate are rarely satisfied with giving. They will empty their pockets and spend all the vital force they have on hand, and then fret because they have not more.

Many active and prosperous men have taken their own lives due to the three faults which seem to govern their lives. These are undue worry, anxiety and diseased imagination. They have gloomy forebodings of failure and this causes them to destroy themselves when they are absolutely wrong.

Watch the Want Ads carefully this coming week for sales in household furniture and the renting of homes and apartments.

AUTOMOBILES

Needless Expenditure

is invariably SAVED by a comparison being made of PRICE and QUALITY when selecting a second-hand car. A car is not always cheap because the price is low, and some second-hand cars are not cheap at any price. We steer clear of this class, because a GOOD REPUTATION takes YEARS TO BUILD, but can be lost in a day. Our second-hand cars have all been THOROUGHLY OVERHAULED and absolutely guaranteed by us to be in A1 mechanical condition, besides being AWAY BELOW market value. BACK HAY AS LEADER

Listowel Liberals Hold Enthusiastic Meeting.

LISTOWEL, Feb. 27.—At a representative and enthusiastic meeting of Liberals of Listowel held in McDonald's Hall tonight, the selection of Mr. F. Wellington Hay as leader of the Liberal party in Ontario was strongly advocated.

The chair was occupied by Mr. George E. Harron, vice-president of the association for Listowel. A resolution carried asking the delegates from his riding to stand solid in Mr. Hay's support, and to urge his claims with delegates from the other parts of the province as the strongest and by far the best candidate in the party.

SEEK TO INSURE WATER SUPPLY

STRATFORD, Feb. 27.—At a meeting of the board of health, Secretary W. H. Dorland was instructed to draft a resolution from the board to the public utilities commission suggesting that steps be taken to install necessary machinery to insure pure water for the citizens in case of any future breakdown in hydro power. The recent storm interfered with Stratford's general water supply, necessitating the use of river water.

WEATHERS HEAVY ATLANTIC STORM

ST. JOHN, N. B., Feb. 27.—After being buffeted about fourteen days by mountainous seas and high winds, the Canadian Pacific steamship liner Minnedosa arrived in port this morning from Liverpool and docked at Sand Point.

Passengers said that from the time they left the Irish Sea until they reached Sable Island the seas were mountain-high, and some of the largest combers swept over the decks.

Declares Province Has Provided Sufficient Mileage of New Highways.

DEFENDS DRAINAGE NEED

Charles Talbot of London Suggests Repeal of Section of Road Law.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—"Last year was undoubtedly not a year of least performance or of least improvement," said Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways for the Province of Ontario, in addressing the eighth annual conference of country road superintendents and engineers at the Parliament buildings today.

"A great work has been carried forward by the Province, the counties and the townships, and the reports which are coming in indicate the progress that has been made," he declared.

Mr. Biggs' address was chiefly devoted to describing the importance of county and township roads as distinct from the provincial system to the country at large, and the refutation of certain criticisms which had been made that the Province was not providing sufficient mileage of good main roads.

"Up till two or three years ago," he said, "township roads were an unknown quantity. Today they are coming into prominence. The motor car was given credit for bringing about the change.

Defends Permanency.

"We must try to keep the amount of work that is undertaken within the proper bounds of the taxpayer at present. Above all, always look to the permanency of the road." To this end he said it was becoming more apparent that the one great essential to road permanency was adequate drainage.

Turning again to the prevalent impression that moneys expended by the provincial department were all devoted to the provincial system, Mr. Biggs denied this.

"You will imagine, from some reports that appear in the press," he said, "that all road expenditures are made on provincial roads. The impression is wrong. More money was spent last year on the construction of county roads than was spent on the construction of the provincial system."

McLean Lauds Work.

A. W. McLean, deputy minister of highways, expressed pride in the work of the highway engineers in Ontario and the system of roads that was being worked out.

Charles Talbot, London, suggested a repeal of the section of the provincial law prohibiting the distribution of road-making material during the winter. He said that if it had not been for this section, Middlesex county would have been able to do a great deal of preparatory work during the winter and so alleviate much of the unemployment during the winter. The deputy minister replied that he thought the section was designed to prevent the spoiling of winter snow roads by the dumping of gravel.

During the day papers were read as follows:

"Road Drainage"—by George McCubbin, county engineer of Lambton.

"The Beautifying of Our Highways"—By H. J. Moore, forester, department of public highways.

"Concrete Bridges and Culverts"—By W. J. Moore, county engineer of Renfrew.

Meighen Reticent As To Procedure At Conservative Conference March 6

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—(By Canadian Press.)—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, when asked this evening regarding the party conference which has been called for Monday, March 6, stated that it would be in the nature of a caucus.

'Conservative members of the present Parliament, and former members who were defeated at the general election have been invited to attend.

Mr. Meighen had no announcement to make as to the matters which would be taken up at the conference, beyond saying that subjects of interest to the Conservative party would be discussed.

Mr. Meighen's leadership of the party will probably be confirmed, and the lines to be followed during the session laid down in a general way. It has been suggested that the conference will consider the advisability of calling a convention of supporters of the Conservative party at some date subsequent to the closing of Parliament.

LAKE LARSEN TEAMSTER'S IDENTITY IS DISCOVERED

George Sears Is Man Who Risked Own Life To Save Periled Horses.

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 27.—George Sears is the name of the man who dived into the icy water of Lake Larsen two weeks ago to rescue a team of horses which had broken through the ice.

Sears' act of bravery has been noted in newspapers from one end of the Dominion to the other.

He is a young Canadian and a teamster for the New Ontario Construction Company, and while crossing Lake Larsen with a load of logs the ice gave way and the horses were carried beneath the surface. Removing his machinaw coat, Sears plunged into the water and succeeded in unhooking the heel chain which held the horses to the sleigh and brought them to the surface, retaining their heads above water until assistance arrived.

It is understood the company will give Sears a bonus, and that his meritorious act will be reported to the Royal Humane Society.

EXPECT TO FREE BULLOCK FRIDAY

CITE JUDICIAL QUESTION

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 27. — The extradition from Canada of Matthew Bullock, negro, wanted in Norlina, N.C., on a charge of attempted murder, is "a judicial question and in contested cases state authorities not infrequently employ counsel in Canada," acting secretary of the state department, today informed Governor Morrison.

Secretary Fletcher's telegram, which was in reply to a wire from the governor, stating that the state would not send witnesses to Canada to testify in the hearing an extradition of Bullock, was made public today.

The reply which was dated February 25, follows:

"You may desire to take into consideration that by treaty with Great Britain, which is applicable to Canada, it is provided that extradition shall be granted only upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive, or person so charged, shall be found, would justify his apprehension and committment for trial if the crime or offense had there been committed.

"This, of course, raises a judicial question and in contested cases state authorities not infrequently employ counsel in Canada as do likewise Canadian authorities in the United States, where occasionally extradition cases go so far as the United States Supreme Court."

Department officials said that the case of Bullock was in the same situation as last Friday when the message from Governor Morrison stating his refusal to send witnesses to Canada was received and that Bullock will be released by the Canadian authorities Friday morning unless witnesses appear against him from this country.
