THE START. Ridgetown, Oct. 17.—About four o'clock this morning fire was discovered on the third floor of the Livingston Block, on the main street here. It had broken out in the tailor shop of Thomas Craig's establishment and had made considerable headway. The fire brigade and citizens immediately turned out to fight the flames but for a long time their efforts were in vain. Downwards and either way the flames spread and fanned by the strong breeze, it looked as if the whole business section of the town was doom-ed. From the Livingstone block the flames spread to the Dart building. These were two of the finest business structures in the town and both were structures in the town and both were destroyed. There seemed to be no hope of saving the Arlington Hotel, and much stuff was removed from it and other buildings. In this way and by water great damage was done. The fire, however, spared the hotef, and crossing the corner to Albert street, commenced work there. The result on Albert street was the destruction of the town hall, and the result on Albert street was the de-struction of the town hall, and the police station, which were separate biuldings, the Salvation Army bar-barracks, and the S. A. officers' resi-

HELP CALLED OUT.

When the fire was at its worst it was decided to call on outside places for help and messages were sent to Blen-heim, Chatham and St. Thomas. The Blenheim detachment was the first on hand arriving at 7.30. They were just in time to give a band in getting the fire under control. At daybreak for-tunately the wind died down and this gave the firemen an opportunity to do

Shortly after the Blenheim brigade a letachment from Chatham came in with hose and an engine. A few min-utes later assistance also arrived from St. Thomas. The men all gave a hand in the work but found it unnecessary to unload the apparatus. LOSS OVER $100,000. It is impossible at present to esti-mate the losses individually. In some cases merchants who were burned out saved goods. In others several who were not burned out damaged their stuff by removal. In the aggregate it is believed the loss will exceed $100,000, which will largely fall on the insurance companies. Most of the destroyed buildings will be put up again.

CHATHAM FIREMEN THERE. The emergency force of the city firemen went to the assistance of the Ridgetown brigade this morning. They took with them the steamer and six men. About six o'clock the local brigade were notified, and by half-past seven the steamer was loaded on a L. E. & D. R. R. special and the train was racing for Ridgetown. In 25 minutes from the time Chatham was left behind, the train stood at the mil in Ridgetown with the engine ready to unload. Firemen Dick Pritchard says he is satisfied next time to go by a freight. Specials on the L. E. & D. R. R. are too fast. General Agent A. R. Patterson was in charge of the train and Engineer Rawlston handled the lever. The contingent from Chat-ham comprised Foreman Rich. Pritch-ard, Frank Crump, George Pritchard, Robt. Wanless, Ed. Jones and Bert

When the Maple City special arrived the Blenheim and Ridgetown firemen had the flames under control.

"It was a good thing they had, too," said Firemen Wanless, "for the water supply had just run out. We would have taken our engine off and helped put out the ruins, but there was no water left."

The fire started about four o'clock, in Craig's store, from a tailor's goose It rapidly gained headwy, and the whole block from the Arlington Hotel to the I.O.O.F. block is a smoulderng mass of ruins. When all dang was over we came home here about

Dr. Rutherford, of this city, owns some property in the next block to the fire, but it fortunately escaped.

GOVERNMENT LOSSES.

Collector of Customs Rufus Stephen on this morning received a telegram from M. G. Hay, collector at Ridge-town, stating that everything in his office had been destroyed but the man-ifest book. Fortunately the weekly returns had been made to the office. returns had been made to the office here yesterday and there was no money loss. Mr. Stephenson forwarded the report to the department at Ottawa and asked for instructions. Mr. Hay's office, as well as that of the division court clerk, A. F. McKinlay, were on the second floor of the block where the fire originated.

PREMIER HARDY RESIGNS.

THE SECOND RACE

Shamrock Loses it at the Start by an Accident.

Topmast Breaks off-Columbia

Sails the Course Alone. New York, Oct. 17 .- The weather this morning turned out, warm, clear and pleasant with a slight breeze, which freshened as the time for the race approached. No bets were recorded this morning on the race, They will probably be about 10 to 8 in Columbia's favor. Last night 2 to 1 was being talked, while some were recorded at 10 to 6.

THE START. There was a good deal of jockeying before the start, of which the Sham rock as usual got the better. The Columbia crossed the line ahead of the Shamrock, but the latter secured the windward position. As the wind rapidly increased the Irish yacht took the lead and appeared to better it, and the excursion fleet began to figure out a reversal of yesterday's victory.

AN ACCIDENT. Suddenly, however, as the Shamrock "It was a good thing they had, too," said Firemen Wanless, "for the water supply had just run out. We would have taken our engine off and helped put out the ruins, but there was no water left."

Fireman George Pritchard said: "We got there in quick time, five minutes ahead of the six men from the St. Thomas fire department. We turned in and assisted all we could. Everybody down the whole street was moving out. All who could get a rig played horse and hauled their stuff away. The fire started about four o'clock, in Christian and the started about four o'clock, in Christian and the started about four o'clock, in Christian and started about four o'clock, in Christian and the started about four o'clock, in Christian a

TO FIND THE LENGTH OF A MAN'S LIFE.

Mr. Schooling says there is an old rule for finding the length of a man's life if the present age lies between twelve years and eighty-six years. Substract the present age from eightysix, and divide the remainder by two the result will give the number of years you have yet to live. This old rule was discovered by the mathematician De Moivre, who emigrated to England from France in 1685, and be came a member of the Royal Society. A diagram given by Mr. Schooling shows the chance that every man has of living one year longer than his present age. At birth this chance is five to one; at five years, one hundred and nineteen to one; at ten years, five hundred and twelve to one; at fifteen years, three hundred and forty-seven to one; at twenty years, two hundred and seven to one; at twenty-five years, one hundred and fifty-six to one; at thirty years, one hundred and twenty to one; at thirty-five years, ninety seven to one; at forty years, seventy eight to one, etc. Mr. Schooling affirms from his calculations that of one thousand individuals of sixty years, five hundred and ninety-nine will live to be seventy years, and seventeen to be ninety years, while of one thousand nonagenarians four will reach their hundredth year. It may be added that for men of sixty-five years the average expectation of life is ten and a

WHAT OTHER POWER COULD DO THIS.

It looks to this great family journal as if the Boer trouble is being very unduly magnified. Like Britain's many other petty wars, the whole affair will probably be over in a few weeks. At this distance it appears on the part of Britain very much like a spectacular display for the benefit of Europe. Contingents are being accepted from the colonies, which are really not needed, while a whole British army corps of 50,000 men, which could have been sent to South Africa long ago by piecemeal; is held back until the last moment and then hurled bodily against a few thousand Boers. All this is evidently calculated to make powers-European or American -pause before looking around for trouble. Fifty thousand armed visitors poured into any country in a week's time would be liable to cause more or less inconvenience to the

The latest despatches from Ottawa indicate that the government is likely to yield to political exigencies and send a Canadian contingent to South Africa. CALLS THE ACTION INFAMCUS. La Verite.

And yet, there is one country in the world which has manifested-timagainst the weak, for the executioner against the victim. It is Canada—not the people, but certain worthless politicians hungering for a caress from Old England as the whitered bound idly it is true-her love for the strong Old England as the whipped hound looks for a caress from his brutal master. In the name of an idiotic loyalty, there is being agitated at the present moment in intriguing circles the question of forming a Canadian corps, tion of forming a Canadian corps, which might go and disembowel the Boer women and children to the cry of "Long live the Queen and Liberty for ever." For the good reputation of our country it is desirable that our French-Canadian brethren should reject with disgust every proposition of this nature, and publicly stigmatize those who have the audacity to propose to them an action odious by its violence and infamous by its cowardice.

Saved by a Tornado.

In 1780 Grenada, in the West Indies was visited by a tornado with singular effects. Unlike similar phenomena this was to the inhabitants a providen. tial deliverance from a pest which threatened their economic ruin. Some time previously the formica saccharivora, a species of ant, appeared in such numbers as to make the annihilation of the sugar cane a question of a few weeks only. After in vain trying many expedients and offering large rewards for a remedy against the plague, the helpless people resolved to abandon their homes in a body and betake themselves to another island. By this famous tempest Providence accomp. lished in a few moments what man, with all his appliances, had failed to overcome. The ant was exterminated.

Japanese Do Not Swear. Many good things can be said of Japan and the Japanese; but nothing reflects more credit upon that people than the fact that profanity is a vice entirely unknown among them. In answer to an inquiry on this subject. the Ram's Horn gives this interesting information: "Very high and competent authority asserts that it is true A writer in the Evangelist asserts that there is in the Japanese language no word that is equivalent to an eath. Not only is there no native word in which profanity may take refuge, but there is no imported word. During the last ten years, foreigners have thousands of new words to the language; but not one profane word has been incorporated. In this respect Japan is believed to stand alone among the nations.

Sprains, Strains and Injuries of the Back Often Cause Kidney Trouble. LUAN'S KILNEY PILLS THE CURE

Here is the Proof: -

Mrs. S. Horning, Glasgow street, Guelph, Ont., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are grand. I have not been ill since taking them, which was over a year ago last winter, and can give them my warmest praise; for they restored no to health after 25 years of suffering. Twenty-five years ago I sprained my back severely, and ever since my kidney's have been in a very bad state. The Doctors told me that my left kidney sepecially was in a very bad condition. A terrible burning pain was always present, and I suffered terribly from lumbago, and pain in the small of my back, together with other painful and distressing symptoms, common in kidney complaints. I could not sleep, and suffered much from saut rheum.

When I first commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills I had little or no faith in them, but I thought I would try them; and it proved the best experiment I ever made. I had only taken two boxes when the pain left my back entirely. Three boxes more, or five in all, made a complete cure.

He Changed His Mind as to the Disposition of His Property.

Abel Mitchell called to his type writer. "You may go, Miss Morris," he said He did not look up from the papers he fore him. The young woman turned to the clock with a little start of surprise It was only 4:30. But she quietly put on her hat and with a murmured good night left the room. Abel listened to the departing rustle of her skirts with a thoughtful expres sion. There was a sensible girl, a girl who never grated on his feelings, a girl who asked no useless questions. She had reached an age of discretion If Jim was determined to marry a poor girl, why couldn't he have taken one like Emma Morris? Abel opened a heavy envelope and drew forth a folded paper. "Jim never was confidential with me," he grumbled. "Perhaps I didn't invite his confidence. I don't know. Now he has disobeyed my direct com-That can't be overlooked. mand. When he told me about this girl, It said wait. 'How long?' he asked. 'Until you reach years of discretion? 1 cried and turned away. Jim is 24. Twenty-four. And I married at 21. Yes, and ran away too. But it was different with me. My father had nothing to give me. I was quite independent. He was glad to have me shift for myself. Jim's father is a rich man. Jim's father has given him dollars where my father begrudged me pennies. Jim owes me filial obedience. He has disobeyed me to his bitter cost.' He unfolded the paper that he had taken from the envelope and ran his keen gray eye down the closely written

"He has given up his father for a pretty face," he murmured. "Let him stand by the consequences. Who is she? What is she? It matters not. No doubt they trapped him into this marriage. 'A rich man's son,' they chuckled. But they'll find they're fooled. 'Father,' he said, 'I am to be married tomorrow night. Will you come me to the wedding? I turned on my heel. Then I looked back. 'You know the price you may pay? I cried. 'Yes, father.' he said, with his head high up. know. Goodby, and God bless you.' He asked a blessing on me! Ha, ha, ha; that's too rich! But he'll get evil for good this time. I'll cut him off 15 a dollar. Let him sup on herbs awhile. That'll take the veneer font love's young dream. I'll draw up a new will at home tonight and have it witnessed before I sleep. And to let him know what his foolish fancy has cost him I'll write him a letter-a letter he can show to his new relatives.

That's the thing-the letter." He ben't down with his head upon his hand and his eyes upon the paper. A rustle of skirts in the doorway drew his attention. He did not look up. It was a way he had.

"Ah. Miss Morris," he said, "back again?" He had quite forgotten that he had sent her home. The young girl in the doorway did not answer. Her bright eyes were fixed upon the old man. She expected him to look up. If he had done so, he would have seen a charming vision. She was a very pretty girl-dainty and neat from the tip of her new hat to the tips of her new shoes. But he did not look

"Just in time," he added. "I want to dictate a letter before you go.' He paused, and the young girl, as if seized with a sudden fancy, quietly stepped into the room and seated herself at the typewriter.

"You have been with us so long, Miss Morris," the old man continued, "that we view you as a confidential agent. Besides, this will be public property very soon. I am going to write to my son. Last night he married an unknown girl against my wishes. I am going to tell him that I wash my hands of him and his; that tonight I change my will, cutting him off with a solitary dollar. Are you ready?" The girl at the typewriter gave the instrument a preliminary click or two.

"James Mitchell," began the old man, "as you have seen fit to disobey me, to cast my fatherly wishes in my teeth, I desire you to know that I have no wish to hold further communication with you. While I cherish the impression that you were lured into this unhappy marriage"-

The typewriter stopped. "Unhappy marriage," the old man repeated, and the clicking recommenced "yet I cannot accept this as any excuse for your undutiful conduct. Tonight I change my will, and you may rest assured that your name will be passed ever with the smallest possible finan-cial consideration. I prefer to have you understand this here and now. It will prevent you and your new friends from cherishing any false hopes. This

At the End of the Ceremony the Groom Approached and Placed a Spotless White Envelope in the Clergyman's Hand.

A clergyman, speaking of wedding fees, said: "About a month ago a couple came to my church to get married in accordance with arrangements made with me. The church was opened and lighted up brilliantly, and the organist played the regulation marches. The nuptial knot being tied, the smiling groom approached me and placed a spotless white envelope in my hands. It was heavy, and a touch showed that it contained a coin. I concluded that it was a $10 goldpiece. After the bridal party had departed I opened the envelope. What do you suppose it contained? R. Young to act in concert with commissioner appointed by council of township of Howard, if any.—Carried. Moved by Young and Morrison, that this council request our solicitor to take such action as will prevent our municipality from being drawn into any litigation in connection with the difficulty that now exists in S.S. No. 1, and that the reeve sign this request and Grand Duke Adelph, of Lux m burg, is now 82 Years of Age

He is the Rightful Owner of the Name Being the Most Aged of all Rulers.

In connection, with the eighty-second birthday, which took place on the 24th of July, the oldest sovereign in Europe, H. R. H. the Grand Duke of Luxemburg, we publish portrait specially taken for this occasion. Among most people the be-lief has prevailed that the Queen of England or the King of Denmark is the oldest sovereign, but the Grand Duke of Luxemburg and Duke of Nassau is now 82, whilst King Christian attained his eighty-first birthday on April 8, the Queen having been 80

GRAND DUKE OF LUXEMBURG. May 24. But, on the other hand, the Grand Duke was one of the last sovereigns to ascend the throne; in fact, when he did so, seven years ago last November, the Queen of England had reigned 55 years. However, Prince Adolph had ascended the throne of Nassau as far back as 1839, but was driven therefrom by the victorious Prussians in 1866. The then Duke of Nassau married, in 1844, Grand Duchess Elizabeth Michaelowna of Russia, who died in the following year, and, secondly, the present Grand Duchess, Princess Adelaide of Anhalt, in 1851. Of the latter marriage there are two chil-dren, the hereditary Grand Duke Wil-liam and Princess Hilda. The latter is the wife of the hereditary Grand Duke of Baden, and-childless; the former married, in 1894, Infanta Maria Anna of Braganza, and of this marriage there are three daughters. It would therefore seem that by some strange irony of fate the crown and splendid domains of Luxemburg may at some future time revert to the Dutch crown, whence they were separated on the accession of Queen Wilhelmina in 1890; for, whilst a woman may reign in Holland, she can-not do so in Luxemburg. During the seven years of the Grand Duke's reign he has done much to embellish reign he has done much to embelish his quaint capital of Luxemburg, which had been so sadly neglected by the Dutch kings; and the Luxemburgers, who have little in common with the D. h, are charmed at having their own sovereign and being an "independent nation." before. "Weth the business ain't generally known to the public, but nowadays the horse colorer is the whole thing in rac-ing circles. For some time there has been an opening for a clever horse colorer, and the man who just went out has made a good many thousand dollars during the past few years working around race tracks. "Of course, you know that the outlawing rules on the race track are pretty strict, and it has become very difficult to start a 'ringer' on any track. A 'ringer,' you know, is a good horse made to appear like an old skate, so that he can be entered in the slower races. "This professional colorer is nothing less than a 'ringer preparer,' and he's got the slickest methods you can imagine. He can take a bay mare into his barn and within 24 hours bring her out as white as snow or jet black, just as you please. The old fashioned way of coloring horses was done by a liberal use of paint, but I've known it to go pretty hard with own ers when their colored horses happen ed to be caught in a shower.

"The new method is fully known only to this one man, but he says that he uses some kind of chemicals and can give any color to any horse. He can give a black horse white feet and turn a sorrel into a dapple gray on very short notice. In another 24 hours he can bring back the original color of the horse. He charges $25 a transformation."

MR. STONE DEAD.

The Maple City's Oldest Merchant Passes Away

Was ill Only Three Days-A Brief Sketch of his Career.

The Maple City mourns the loss of one of her most highly respected and universally esteemed citizens This morning, but one short hour after daybreak, Thomas Stone passed peacefully away at his residence on Queen St., after an illness extending over only the past three days.

The sad news created a profound sorrow throughout the entire community. Mr. Stone's demise is mourned not alone by the bereaved family and relatives. There was no citizen of Chatham more universally beloved nd respected than he. A bright, vigorous enthusiasm, deep, clear-cut religious convictions and a tenderly sympathetic nature endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. As a merchant and a citizen he enjoyed universal esteem and confidence, while as a friend-and hundreds were honored with the distinction of friendship-he was loyal, generous and zealous. Few there are who enjoyed the The first number on the program was the anthem "Jubilate Deo" by the wide-spread influence Mr. Stone's sterling qualities won for him, and none choir. But one short week ago Mr. Stone acted in the capacity of pall-bearer as the Maple City gathered, monening, to lay to rest another of her esteemed sons in the person of John E. Brooke, and none thought as the sorrowing citizen assisted in lowering the casket to the tomb that the next call from the silent tomb that the next call from the silent spectre would be his own. Bright and spectre would be his own. Bright and cheerful, apparently in the best of health, Mr. Stone attended the myriad duties of his large establishment during last week, and it was not unfil Friday evening that sickness laid its hard grown him. Mr. Stone came to Chatham in 1847, in his 21st year, entering the employ of his uncle, James Burns, with whom he remained for five years, his diligence and ability being responsible for a very rapid promotion. At this time he formed a partnership with his uncle and George Turnbull. After two years the uncle retired from the business, which was carried on as the firm of Stone & Turnbull until February, 1858, when Mr. Stone took entire control. Two years ago his son Spencer was admitted to partnership and the firm is now known as Stone & Son.

The deceased held a commission as captain of the militia. He served for many years upon the Public school board in this city. In politics he was a Liberal. Mr. Stone joined the Presbyterian church as a member of the Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is good for the complexion because it makes the whole body healthy — because it clears and purifies the blood, makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds. By increasing the ability to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients it enriches the blood and so makes solid, healthy flesh. It cures diseases of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels, skin and scalp,

COOKING VS MORALS. BEAUTIFUL

Perfect Meals are a Saving Grace to Many Men

RESULT OF

When a Man Doss not get the Stimulating Nourishmenthis Nature Craves he Drinks Liquor

When a man does not get the stimulating nourishment which his nature craves, he resorts to liquor to supply the want. With this fact staring one in the face, is it not wise to teach that unfailingly good food, with all the ele-ments that stimulate and nourish the body and the brain, has its moral as well as its physical benefits?

There are cases on record proving the benefits of public school cooking, where the domestic sky has been perfectly cleared of clouds because good food was offered where before it had been badly cooked, and consequently did not properly nourish. In one home the substitution of a well cooked cup of cocoa for the sloppy, herby tea that had become a component part of every morning meal, and a nice Indian cake or plate of muffins for the dry baker's loaf, began a work of reform. The father was proud of the daughter's skill as a cook; the mother, who had grown careless and shiftless and indifferent, was shamed by it. The cousequence was better provision on the part of one or more care in preparation on the part of the other.

The mother was by no means above turning to account some of the practical knowledge the daughter had acquired under such competent training, and she began also to brush up her own knowledge that she had carelessly allowed to fall into disuse. The result is a happy home, a united family, a cheerful, contented, busy wife, and a man who puts into the family, larder what formerly went to the saloon .-Baltimore News.

Broaden it by Letting him Look Into Every Phrase of Life

Development in this Line will Prove in valuable to a Successful Career.

Expand the child's mind by showing him from time to time scenes from all sides of life. Take him today to studios and let him see how pictures are made; next week to silk factories, to learn the poetry of labor, and afterward to a brick-yard and an iron-foundry, not forgetting the claims of great churches and monuments upon an elevating education. The alternation of city and courty is a delightful stimulant. When travel is possible we should give the child glimpses of mountains and sights of the sea, and let him become acquainted with mountaineers and fishermen, even as he ought in town to know something of the ways and thoughts of the workmen, so that he may come to feel sy thy with all sorts of people and un-derstand the merit of labor. Actual experience of this kind is worth infinitely more than the theorizing in school-books. It is not particularly interesting to a child to read that he should be garteful to all the people who supply him with his daily comforts; to the farmer, the baker, the manufacturer, the builder. But when he sees how grain grows and is converted into flour; how furniture is wrought from blocks of wood, and threads woven into cloth, the whole history of the objects about him is revealed. The different parts of life become connected and he gets a sense of the thread of harmony that runs through it all. And he has a moment of satisfaction, coming through feeling of kinship with the world, which is more useful than gratitude upon general principles. - Florence Hull Winterburn, in Woman's . Home Companion.

Den't Werry About Salaries.

What salaries are paid in different ousiness callings is a question often asked by young men, and one which enter into their deliberations as a qualifying factor as whether they shall enter certain trades or professions. I never could quite see the point of this, nor the reason for it. What are the salaries which are paid to others to you or to me? They signify nothing. If the highest salary paid to the foremost man in a certain profession is $10,-600 a year, what does it prove or signify? There is no obstacle to some one's else going into that same profession and earning $25,000. The first step in going into business is to find out not which special line is most profitable, but which line you are most interested in and are best fitted for. Then drive ahead and the salary will take care of itself. When a young man thinks too much of nis salary it is pretty good proof that he is not of very superior make. Ability commands income. But you must start with ability; not with salary.

Another Industrial Revelution.

Another revolution has arrived. Everybody knows glass is made in part of melted sand. The other day, an Anderson, Ind., chimney manufacturer in passing through his shops noticed a globe on an arc light break, and a piece of the glass hitting on a carbon, instantly melted. Here was an idea. He built a vat with sides and bottom composed of carbons and forced sand through it. The result exceeded his expectations. He made glass in as many seconds as he had made in hours before. It is bound to clean out the old methods.

The Dirty Brook Should be Them for Thought.

Dairymen Should Never Fail to Have

Good Water for the Cows The dirty brook should be a theme for thought by more than one dairyman. The man that has no running brook on his farm is more likely to have good water for his cows than the man that thinks he is blessed by a stream of running water. Where the stream is rapid moving and fairly deep it may serve for a drinking place the year round, but in most of our western states the conformation of the land is not such that a stream is either swift sell or give away tobacco to a minor under sixteen years of age unless on a written order from his or her guaror deep or clear. In states that are filled with mountains and hills and forests the streams to a large extent remain pure the year round. The soil on their banks is held in place by a multitude of vegetable growths. Freently they run over a bed of stones and are little exposed to impurities treatment calculated to cure a vast number of diseases. Their suggestions from the immediate banks. the cattle most of the year or until the summer drought renders them stagnant. But in this great level country of the west conditions are different. The ordinary brook should never be depended on as the water supply for the cattle. There are few times in the ver when it is safe for them to drink from it if the dairyman wants to keep both animals and animal products pure. In the midsummer especially it is a positive detriment to the dairy business. The man with the slimy, muddy brooks too often neglects to have a pure water supply, which his brother farmer, who has no brook, is compelled to supply. We have seen such streams in summer become muddy wallows where the cows both stood and drauk There is no doubt that animals, like humans, contract many diseases solely through bad drinking water. On many farms the conformation of the land is such that shallow streams may be made sanitary by deepening the central channel and sinking a few shallow wells in their beds at various places if the pasture is so large that the cattle would have to travel a great distance on a hot day to mst season, when the price for calves went skyward, many farmers who had patronized the creamery and raised the calves on skimmilk thought they could see more money and less bother in letting the calves suck the cows. The indications are that this year calves will not be worth as much money, and as the cattle stock of the country increases to the normal calves will further decrease in value. Those DON'T HELP BEING CRANKS.

They will find that their cows are not nearly as good milkers as they were before, and it wifl take them several years to build up an efficient dairy herd again. If there is any one thing about dairying that has been thoroughly and completely demonstrated, it is that milking makes milkers. The best cow in the world can be ruined as a milker in a comparatively short time by simply letting the calf suck her or by carelessness in milking. The poorest cow can be improved by continued and persistent milking. The man who has 10 or 12 or more cows and milks them year in and year out, keeps right at it and practices improved methods of feeding will get ahead right along. It don't pay to milk the cows one year and let the calves suck the next .-Creamery Gazette.

SHE WAS NEVER IN IT FROM THE START-FIRST CONTEST TO THE AMERICAN YACHT.

New York, Oct. 17 .- The cup which the old schooner America won so commandingly against all comers over the ourse around the Isle of Wight in 1851, and brought back across the seas, may possibly remain here another year. In a glorious breeze, over a windward and leeward course of 30 miles, the Columbia scored against the Shamrock yesterday in the first race of the 1899 series for the trophy. She bounded across the finish line fully a mile and a half ahead of the challenger, defeating her by ten minutes and fourteen seconds in actual time, or ten minutes and eight seconds corrected time, allowing the six seconds handicap, which the Columbia must concede to the challenger on account of her longer water line.

It was a decisive contest, a magnificent race, magnificently sailed and nificent race, magnificently sailed and magnificently won. Opinion as to the merits of the two boats had been somewhat divided as a result of the flukes during the past two weeks. Although the preponderance of expert opinion never wavered in its loyalty to the wonderful speed and ability of the white fiver, no nautical sharp exwonderful speed and ability of the white flyer, no nautical sharp expected the Shamrock would be so overwhelmingly vanquished as she was in this royal struggle. The Yankee boat outgeneralled her at the start, beat her hopelessly in windward work to her hopelessly in windward work to the outer mark, and gained twentytwo seconds in the run home before

There was a good strong, ten to twelve knot breeze, and it held throughout the race. It is undoubtedly a bitter blow, because the English hopes of lifting the cup have never the beautiful the process to the cup have never lish hopes of lifting the cup have never been higher since the Thistle met, the Volunteer in 1887. Like the Shamrock, she was decisively defeated in the first hour's sailing. The regatta committee, as a result of the showing made by the Columbia, are convinced that the cup is safe. Blow high or low, the Columbia, it is believed by her manager, Mr. Iselin, can beat the Shamrock. Sir Thomas, like the true sportsman that he is, confessed after Shamrock. Sir Thomas, like the true sportsman that he is, confessed after the race that he had been fairly beat-en. He had no apologies to make. THE START.

There was some lively jockeying behind the line before the start and Columbia got the better of it. She clearly outmaneeuvered her rival, eventuring the start was a start of the start of ally forcing her over the line first by half a length, but leaving Columbia in the weather position.

Close hauled on the starboard tack the yachts plunged seaward, heeling to the 12-knot breeze. The first few minutes of the race were most inter-They made a beautiful picture as they raced away like hounds. Their sails to the nautical eye were perfection in fit. They looked as if they might uave been curved out of labaster, so firm and faultless were the white flyer was forging shead. The clear water began to show between them. The Columbia not only seemed to outfoot the the chal-lenger, but the experts saw that she pointed higher. It was astonishing pointed higher. It was astonishing how she sliced her way up into the wind. Within fifteen minutes she had lead of five lengths and from that

The patriots were jubilant and the bands, which began playing, never stopped until the race was over. The Columbia seemed more tender than the foreigner, showing yards of her bronze underbody, as she leaned away with her lee rail almost awash. Steadily she continued to draw ahead until within half an hour, having unequivocally demonstrated her super-iority in windward work, it became only a question of how far the white flyer would beat her rival to the outer mark.

The Shamrock footed valiantly, but neither in speed nor in pointing could she compare with the Columbia. Then neither in speed nor in pointing could she compare with the Columbia. Then the three skippers on the Shamrock put their heads together and tried new tactics. The Shamrock made a dozen short beats. Evidently her skippers were under the impression that she was quicker on her heel and better at fore-reaching than the Yankee boat, but the Columbia proved quite as nimble as the Shamrock.

When the Shamrock got through with this line of tactics, the Columbia had increased her lead until she was half a mile ahead. At the end of another half hour, as the wind continued to freshen, the Shamrock took in her baby jib topsail, figuring that without this light headsail she might be able to hug the wind closer. The Columbia held on to hers, and as the Shamrock did not improve her position at the end of ten minutes, her skippers at the end of ten minutes, her skippers again set the sail. By 1 o'clock the Shamrock was fully a mile and a half astern and the Columbia was a winner all over.

THE RUN HOME.

THE RUN HOME.

As the Columbia swung around the outer mark she eased off her main boom, let mer spinnaker pole drop to port and breaking out the cloud of canvas, fled homeward like a scared deer. Her big balloon jib blossomed out 48 seconds later. The ships of the excursion fleet at the outer mark, gave her a rousing reception.

The Shamrock was already hopelessly beaten. A quarter of a mile from the home run the Columbia crossed the path of the Shamrock still beating to windward and robbed her of the wind for a minute or two as she went past. windward, and robbed her of the wind for a minute or two as she went past. It was nine minutes and forty seconds later when the Shamrock swung round the mark and squared away for the finish. From that time on it was simply a procession, the Columbia re-ceiving a great ovation as she crossed the finish line. When the Colum-How the Shamrock bia swept across the finish line, the Shamrock was hardly visible astern, only the outlines of her sails being seen. Ten minutes and eleven seconds seen. Ten minutes and eleven seconds in time elapsed between the finish of Columbia and Shamrock, which meant in distance about a mile and a half.

The official time was: Columbia 3.54.

summary is: Start, Firish, Time, Time, Columbia, 11,01.06 3,54 59 4,53,53 4,53,58 Shanrock, 11,01.03 4,05,10 5,04.07 5,04.01 Thus, the Columbia wins by ten minutes and 11 seconds actual time and 10 minutes 8 seconds corrected time. The elapsed time of the Columbia from the outer mark to the finish was two

The elapsed time of the Columbia from the outer mark to the finish was two hours 6 minutes and 40 seconds; Shamrock, 2 hours, 7 minutes 2 seconds, showing that in the fifteen mile run before the wind Columbia had gained 22 seconds.

After the race, while the yachts were being towed back to their moorings, Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Erin ranged up alongside Columbia. The Erin's officers and men, led by Sir Thomas Lipton, 'gave three cheers, They were quickly responded to with three cheers from the Columbia's men led by Oliver Iselin. led by Oliver Iselin.

In St. Peter's church, Raleigh, and the Tilbury Roman Catholic church statues are being erected to St. An-thony. The Rev. Fr. De Paul, of St. Joseph's parish, has been selected to deliver the discouse at the dedication of both statues. Lajoie's Annual, a compendium of moders medicine, pays a tribute to one of Chatham's medical men, Dr. McKeough, in that it quotes his writings as authority on several medical topics. This is an honor of which Dr. McKeough and his friends should feel justly proud.

Peter Doyle, of Chatham township, and Miss Elsie, daughter of Jos. Woods, of the same township, were united it marriage at St. Joseph's church this morning. The bride was supported by Miss Annie Gallagher, and the best man was John McCart, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father de Paul. Miss Woods is a recent convert.

Before marriage most men are far-sighted. They see good qualities that their sweetheats don't possess. Then they become near-sighted by fail ing to see the good qualities their wives possess after marriage. Near-sighted, far-sighted, before and after marriage, if you need glasses call on E. J. MacIntyre, leading optician, opposite Grand Opera House, Ohatham "The first thing the civic manufacturing committee should take up, if they want to boom this city is the question of natural gas," said Detec-tive Archie Skirving. "Now I have been talking to the experts down at Ruthven, and they tell me there is no question of natural gas being found here. They say you can get it without fail by boring anywhere in Chatham or about it. Now, what puzzles me is why don't the citizens take the matter up. Get your natural gas and the things will come themselves.

THE MALARIAL MOSQUITO Remarkable Results of the Investigations in Africa

London, Oct. 15. — Major Ross, the discoverer of the malarial mosquito, who has just returned from Africa, says that although his investigations only proceeded six weeks, the results were remarkable. The authorities in were remarkable. The authorities in Sierra Leone, acting on his advice, are now destroying the virulent mosquito by every means in their power. In the judgment of Major Ross, the future of the West Coast will be assured as soon as the colonial authorities take similar steps in the neighborhood of the principal towns, although years must elapse before the inland stations are improved.
