DESCRIPTIONS OF SCENES IN GAY PARIS

Chathamite's Impressions on Visiting the French Capital
— The Once Terrible Bastille As It Is Today — The Beautiful Tuileries Gardens — The Louvre

The ride from Brussels to Paris is through a beautiful tract of country, but the anxiety of reaching Paris made the time hang heavy on our hands. However, we arrived at Paris about five o'clock in the evening of the 13th of July, the day before their national anniversary. The station was crowded with people coming and going for the holiday, and we had our first experience of a mob. It took us two hours to get out of the station and have our baggage examined. Then we called a carriage and had our first glimpse of the great city of Paris. The streets were crowded with masses of vehicles of all kinds and everybody was in a rush to get ready for a big day on the morrow. We stayed at the grand Hotel de Louvre, situated on the Rue de Rivoli opposite the Louvre, and one block from the Tuileries gardens. After dinner we took a walk in the Place de la Concorde. If there was anything on our trip that surpassed my expectations it was this unparalleled square with its thousands of lights, its smooth pavements, its statues, the wonderfully beautiful boulevards leading up to it, and the whole enlivened by thousands of gay people enjoying themselves riding and walking, making one of the grandest sights imaginable, and we forgot the terrible struggle that has been enacted during the revolution, as this was where Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette, besides thousands of other aristocrats were guillotined and thought only of the beautiful picture it presented. Paris has many beautiful squares, such as the Place Vendôme with the statue of Napoleon I., Place de Victories with its equestrian statue of Louis XIV., Place de la Bastille, where the terrible prison stood and on which now stands the Bastille column, Place de la Republique with the statue of the Republic, Place de Rivoli with the equestrian statue of Joan of Arc and many more smaller squares, but the Place de la Concorde is the grandest and most beautiful of all. The boulevards of Paris are the finest and grandest in the world. They are wide avenues with trees on each side, lots of room for vehicles and passengers, and they are flanked by cafes for miles. This is where the gay Parisians and the merry English come to enjoy and see the life of gay Paris. It is an entrancing sight to stroll along these incomparable promenades and see the beautiful ladies in their smartest gowns, the Parisians know how to wear the bands and orchestras enlivening the scene with music, to listen to the prattle of thousands of pleasure seekers, makes one wish that they might mingle with the merry crowd and catch some of its light-heartedness and gaiety. The morning of the 14th we were up early to see the French soldiers. Thirty thousand were to parade at Longchamp race course. We could not get a glimpse of any kind to go out as we were too late, but we got a good position on the pavement and saw them on their way back after the exercises. Some of the artillery and better regiment made a good showing, but most of the soldiers were undernourished and their magenta pants and blue tunics looked more like a lot of stage soldiers than they did the soldiers of a mighty nation. The 14th was celebrated in right royal style by the dancing of the people. All the theatres are free and of course crowded. The streets were hung with bunting and lanterns, and an over prominent corner was built a band stand, and orchestras were playing music for dancers. There were hundreds of dances held on the pavement of Paris the night of the 13th and 14th and we often stopped in our stroll and watched the dancers; all gaiety, laughter and jollity. Once in a while in the full boys and girls would have a good time and then they would go on with the dance. It amused us very much, but there was no harm done, no one intoxicated, no one fighting, all full of fun and life and all intent on the pleasures of the moment. Then we went up to Montmartre in the evening to the fete, where we saw dozens of merry-go-rounds, Punch and Judy shows, and hundreds of fairs, fortune tellers, jugglers, marionettes, cafe chantants, ring throwing devices and all that goes to make an interesting midway, everyone throwing confetti and flowers, putting off fireworks, sending up balloons and doing everything of this kind to pass away the time. Surely it is a great sight to see Paris on the 14th of July. We went to the Eiffel Tower and took a trip to the top from which we had a magnificent view of Paris and its environs. They say you can see fifty miles. Probably so, as it is the highest point ever built by man in the heart of Paris are situated the gardens of the Tuileries, 74 acres in extent, which are laid out in Parterres and Bosquets and adorned with fountains and statuary. It is bordered along the river and the Place de la Concorde and many beautiful views are obtained from these terraces, notably the one of the Champs Elysees. This masterpiece of street design that runs from the Place de la Concorde to the Arc de Triomphe. It is very wide, flanked with mansions and crowded with sightseers and tourists of the best that money or art can produce. The Arc de Triomphe, an immense and has twelve fine avenues radiating from it, all sloping upwards towards the Arc. It was started by Napoleon I. and finished by Louis Philippe in 1836. It is 160 feet high, 146 feet broad and 122 feet deep, and cost $500,000. On the Champ Elysees, the residence of the President. It is an interesting place from the fact that it has been occupied by Madame de Pompadour, Murat, Napoleon I., Louis Napoleon, Emperor Alexander, Napoleon III., and the German Emperor during the occupation of Paris by the German armies. The Treca-dore Palace and gardens are in the form of a crescent with arcuated edifices, surmounted by a dome 173 feet in diameter. It is a fine piece of architecture and it contains a grand Music Hall and Museum. The Hotel de Invalides, founded by Louis XIV. in 1670, for decayed veterans covers 30 acres, now contains very few veterans and the rooms are filled with museums of the army. The tomb of Napoleon is in the Church of the Invalides. This magnificent memorial, situated under the dome, is surmounted by a circular tower and twelve windows. Immediately beneath the dome is a circular crypt 36 feet in diameter and 20 feet deep. The walls are of polished granite adorned with marble reliefs, and the effect is made more sublime and grand by the stary flood of golden light that comes through the stained windows. The sarcophagus itself is a very large block of Porphyry resting on a Mosaic pavement, representing the names of his great victories. This is one of the finest sights in the world and is simply beyond description.

The Houses of Parliament are fine old buildings and make an impressive sight and have a handsome portico adorned with modern statuary. The Palais Royal, built by Cardinal Richelieu, has had a very historical career. After the Cardinal's death it was occupied by Anne of Austria, then by the Orleans family, who by their fast living became nearly ruined; then they built Arcades on the street front and rented them to shop-keepers. These Arcades were formerly occupied by cafes, but now mostly by jewel and resort for tourists, as every one visits this old historical building. The Jardin de Plantes is one of the finest in the world and contains nearly every known specimen of plant life from every zone. The Palais de Justice has been lately rebuilt and is now a masterpiece of modern architecture, as is also the Hotel de Ville.

We took a look at the old Concierges, that prison of which we have read so much, where Marie Antoinette and her friends and Robespierre and his friends, and thousands and thousands of less famous names spent the last few days of their lives during the terrible revolution.

The Louvre, the most important building in Paris, was started by Chas. V. in 1380, and has been added by nearly every monarch up to Napoleon III. The building has had many narrow escapes from destruction, from fire and mob, but it seems to have borne a charmed life to come through the terrible revolutionary times, and stands today the glory of the Parisians. The miles of sculpture and paintings in this building would take months to see, so we contented ourselves with looking at the best—the incomparable Venus de Milo, the statue of Augustus, the man of the Roman Emperors, etc., and the masterpieces of Murillo, Rubens, and the Greuze, and hundreds of the world-famous artists. We walked and walked through the Louvre Museum, until tired out, and we had to take a cab to our hotel, two blocks away, as we felt we could not walk another step. The Pantheon is a large and imposing structure, built on the style of the Pantheon in Rome. It contains some fine statuary and tombs of many illustrious Frenchmen—Mirabeau, Voltaire, Rousseau, Lafayette, Carnot, and is probably the largest and finest building in the world. The gardens of the Luxembourg are a fine resort for idle Parisians and maids with children. They are adorned with many fountains and statues. The Palais of Luxembourg is full of modern statuary and paintings, and were a great relief to see after the old masters we had been looking at for weeks.

The House is a handsome building with its colonnade and approach, and is one of the busiest spots in Paris. During the open hours the Central Market claimed our attention one morning and we were amply repaid for rising early. The sights in this Paris market are not equalled in the world. The market covers 22 acres and has 1,200 cellars underneath for storage.

The Musee de Cluny, which occupies the site of an old Roman palace, is very interesting and we saw many things in the Cluny Museum which repaid us for our visit.

We visited Pere la Chaise Cemetery, about which we had heard so much. This cemetery contains 20,000 monuments and covers 120 acres. It possesses one of the most interesting tombs, two which attracted us most was that beautiful monument "To the Dead who Have No Burial." The workmanship of which is some of the finest modern sculpture, and then, of course, the tomb of Heloise and Atiland, which is visited by every tourist that goes to Paris.

We visited the Morgue, that sight of Paris, and saw exposed the corpses of unknowns that had been found by the police on the street or in the Seine, murdered or suicided, and we thought what a story it would make if we knew the history of these unfortunates. The bodies are exposed on a marble slab for some days in a refrigerator before a plate glass front, and every one is invited to pay a visit and see if they can identify the remains. There is always a crowd of curious and excited people at the Morgue.

We visited the slums of Paris, walked through the historic Faubourg St. Antoine, and saw many of the meat shops where horse flesh is sold, a nail from the cross, and have a golden horse head hanging in front as a sign of this trade. This business was inaugurated during the siege of Paris, and has continued ever since.

The churches of Paris are many, but only three claimed our attention. They were St. Chapelle, erected in 1248. It is a beautiful gothic edifice with stone tracery and gold stained glass windows. The Church of the Madeleine is a superb classic edifice, built by Louis XV., and is one of the finest types of Pagan architecture in the world; and then Notre Dame, about which we have heard so much, with its square towers, its flying buttresses, its unique gargoyles, its old stone Saints, which had been standing for centuries looking down on the thrilling scenes of French history, makes a great impression on one's memory. The interior, with its grand aisles, the vaulting of which is 110 feet high, the covered choir, the rose windows, and all the beautiful decorations, make Notre Dame one of the grandest churches in the world. The relics of Notre Dame include fragments of the crown of thorns and of the true cross, a nail from the cross, and valuable ecclesiastical vestments. One remarkable thing about the churches of Paris is that Saviour of the Revolution, which is inscribed on all of the portals in large letters— "Liberty," "Equality," "Fraternity."

Paris has many more interesting objects and places of interest, but I have mentioned the most important. One night we went out to see Paris by moonlight, or searchlight. We went to the Jardin de Paris, a fine large garden, capable of accommodating 10,000 people. We saw gay people sipping wine and brandy, cigarettes, watching graceful dancers and listening to good singers, but nothing to find fault with. We visited Maxims, the most noted cafe in Paris, and saw many beautiful and well-gowned ladies and hundreds of gentlemen in evening garments, all drinking and enjoying themselves.

We went to the cabinets of Heaven and Hell, and saw in one place great big, ugly men with wings fastened on, supposed to be angels, serving beer, and in the other we saw the same type of humanity with red masks and pitchforks, supposed to be devils, at the same business, and the two I believe the devils had the best of it in looks; but with all their gaiety and life I believe Paris and the Parisians are full of harmless amusement, and while Paris is not by any means as wicked as some of our American cities.

Next week I will try to describe some of the wonders of Versailles. G. W. SULMAN.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PRODUCES RESULTS.

Oh, billing and cooing is all very nice, As those who have tried it declare, And often it leads to a laudable police With no end of trials and care. If Mary is willing, Then Bill does the billing Without any urging from her. The cooing agreed to, So what should it lead to? But something that's bound to occur!

Alone in the twilight when no one is near Except the mosquitoes and bugs, He whispers a tale to her delicate ear And punctuates often with hugs, And as he grows bolder She leans on his shoulder, A very encouraging sign; It's folly to falter; She lies on the halter, Which seems to fit dandy and fine.

'Tis thus the engagement from nothingness grows, A little flirtation to start, Then later on William makes bold to propose. And nothing can pull them apart. The neighbors may titter, But he is no quitter; He goes to the point and stands pat, And with the fair creature He calls on a preacher. And then they adjourn to a flat.

Accidents Will Happen.

"He was quite badly injured in a French duel."

"Shot by his opponent?"

"No; he slipped on a banana peel that somebody had carelessly left on the field of honor."

Never Grows Old.

A Philadelphia expert who may or may not know what he is talking about claims that the charming members of the female sex cease to be girls at the immature age of thirty-five and straightway become women. This in some parts of the country would be regarded as a base slander. While some enterprising ladies are grandmothers at that age, yet there are others who, while they do not play with dolls, still insist that they are girls and they don't care who knows it. There is no arbitrary rule that may be made to apply in all cases. Much depends on temperament and the charity of the neighbors. But, still, whose business is it anyway if a girl wants to be a girl at fifty? No man of refinement would ask her if she got sea-sick coming over in the Mayflower, even though he wanted to know. The Philadelphia expert might have been in much better business.

Nothing to Fear.

"I think you said that he is a very brainy young man."

"Oh, yes, but he never lets that annoy people when he is in company."

Hard to Overcome.

"There's nothing strong about him."

"Oh, yes, there is."

"What is it?"

"His habit of doing nothing."

Not So Cheap.

He stole a kiss, Then made it twice, But later on He paid the price.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Don't cultivate the acquaintance of a doctor. He may in the goodness of his heart want to practice upon you.

A cold friend isn't acceptable even on a hot day.

Nothing lacerates the self esteem of a small minded man like having to admit that he is in the wrong.

It depends upon whether ingratitude is practiced by you or against you whether it appears loathsome or not.

Hire some one to say good things about you if you can't hear them in any other way.

Nothing hurts a tyrant so much as a dose of his own medicine.

Taking the advice of all your friends is as perilous as having three doctors when you are ill.

People who wear their dispositions wrong side out are more peculiar than pleasant.

The reputation of being a good fellow is pleasant, but you can't run a business without other capital.

When a woman laughs at your funny stories it is a pretty good sign that she thinks you are easily dashed.

In his efforts to do like father the small boy often causes the father to eat the fruit of a tardy repentance.

WIT AND EGGS

The blunt bows of egg spoons

Plunge the eggs into boiling water

Cover the egg-boiler with a cozy

Mrs. Sterling's Ways—No. IX

"SOMEbody—I am glad nobody knows who—put into circulation the proverb, 'There's wit goes to the boiling of eggs.' That's one of the popular sayings—and there are others like unto it—which epitomize the foolishness of a generation. Whereas, proverbial philosophy is supposed to condense the wisdom of the age."

The critic was, of course, Mrs. Greene. A pile of crisp and dainty triangles of toast was on the stand nearest to her. She put out her hand abstractedly for one and nibbled upon it as she went on with the tirade:

"What possible connection even the father of proverbs—Solomon in all his glory—could trace between wit and boiling an egg is beyond my comprehension. Another illustration of what I was saying awhile ago—that we amiably and stupidly follow the fashions of the age—set for us, adopt their principles and echo their sayings to save ourselves the trouble of thinking out creeds and composing speeches for ourselves. So when the anonymous saw-maker harnesses wit and eggs together, we repeat the jingle, apropos of anything or nothing. It sounds wise—somehow. In reality it is—bosh!"

ON HER HIGH HORSE

She was on her high horse and nobody interrupted her canter. Our Virginia woman, Mrs. Martin, who also enjoys hearing herself talk, once said that she "could not imagine Mrs. Greene creaming her tea. It was inevitable that she should take it clear, with a slice of lemon—and the faintest possible suspicion of sugar. The wonder was that she put any in!"

Mrs. Sterling crossed the room to a bookcase and drew out a dictionary:

"Wit"—she read aloud, "knowledge; wisdom; intelligence; sagacity; judgment; sense." She pushed the big book back into its niche, adding quietly—"All of which should go to the boiling of eggs!"

"Dear Mentor of us all!" cried Mrs. Bistre. "What an array of causes, and what a wee snuff effect!"

"Queen Christina's blunderbuss, and the fly she didn't hit!" chimed in Mrs. Greene.

And Mrs. Gray, imploringly—"You have convicted us of ignorance 'in re' tea and toast. Do leave us the modicum of 'knowledge, wisdom,' and the rest of the list necessary for boiling an egg in the shell!"

RAISED A LAUGH

Her tragicomic tone and stare raised a general laugh, led by the hostess, who, however, held her ground.

"Judge for yourself, my dear. The nutritiousness of an egg is in the yolk. So well is this known by students of natural history that it is called the 'food-yolk'—the matter upon which the embryo bird draws for form and life. The albumen is a transparent envelope for this golden heart—a conglomeration of hydrogen, nitrogen, carbon and a dash of sulphur. Heat, if kept up beyond a certain point, changes this harmless envelope into a tough white substance, which Job must have had in mind when he asked contemptuously, 'Is there any taste in the white of an egg?' It did contain nourishing elements when raw. Perhaps it would be better to say that it did not neutralize the nutritive qualities of the food-yolk. When we give hard-boiled eggs to young canaries and chickens, we throw away the white and rub the still nourishing yolks to powder to suit tender digestive organs."

"Good! Now, in the witless boiling of eggs, rapid cooking, in two minutes hardens and toughens the white until it looks like half-fired porcelain, and reduces the yolk to a shapeless, hot, viscous mass, that gushes forth at the crack of knife or spoon, affording all the food-value we get from the egg. This is the four-minute-boil stipulated for by some gourmands. Thirty seconds less will 'form' the white and just heat the yolk, making it a trifle less indigestible than when the four-minute rule is obeyed."

"According to that, it would seem that the raw egg is best of all," commented dauntless Mrs. Greene, "and that most wit goes to not boiling it."

"You are quite right if the testimony of experts in the treatment of anemic, dyspeptic and constipated patients be worthy of confidence. I know one man who was given over by his physicians as hopelessly ill with tuberculosis, who has regained strength, flesh and breathing powers by a daily dietary of two quarts of milk and eight raw eggs. He says he 'doesn't mind the eggs—much!' He breaks them open and tosses them down direct from the shell—two at each time of taking."

ETHICS OF EGGS

"But"—urged Mrs. Greene, swallowing sympathetically, and so involuntarily that we all smiled—"the prejudices of artificial civilization are opposed to gulping down raw eggs—from the shell—at the breakfast table. And you say that we make them indigestible if we cook them! Because you are dietetic are we to have no eggs and bacon?"

This was a neat turn of speech and she knew it. Mrs. Sterling recognized it by a bow and smile.

"With all my heart I allow them, dear child! Provided the bacon be crisp and clear, and every drop of fat be drained from the eggs. Provided, also, that the whites come to table almost translucent, with no dark, greasy hems about the edges, and the yolks are whole and plump. Once in many moons, Ellen O'Brien serves them thus, and fills the morning with satisfaction. In the good old times when I did the 'fancy cooking' with my own glad hands, the 'once' was a regular custom. Heigho!"

"The tender grace of a day that is dead Can never come back to me!"

"And no boiled eggs?—which the soul of my John loveth!" Mrs. Gray echoed the sigh.

"DON'T BOIL THEM"

"Have them every day if you wish. Only—don't boil them! No! that is not a bull—but the statement of a gastronomic possibility. Buy one of the black-tin or plated silver egg-boilers sold in housefurnishing shops, and use it upon the breakfast-table. It consists of a 'well' or pot, with a close cover.

"A frame with holes for four or for six eggs fits easily in this well, the handle passing through a slit in the lid. This lid is hinged in the middle to fit closely about the rod terminating in the handle. Beneath is an alcohol lamp. Fill the well with boiling water, light the lamp to make sure that the boil is real and active, plunge in the frame-filled eggs, close the top, and in twenty seconds—this to reheat the water cooled by the eggs—blow out the light, cover all with a cozy, such as you use for the teapot—and let the 'boiler' alone for five minutes if you wish to have soft eggs. Eight will bring them to a custard-like consistency—even all through—whites and yolks alike."

"Prepared in this way, I find eggs far more palatable than when boiled. They are so much more digestible that physicians prescribe them for young children, and for their elders who have weak stomachs."

"One of my 'ways' is to eat eggs from the shell. They keep hot longer, and have a more delicate flavor than when turned into a cup of glass. I believe that we Americans are the only people who thus 'dump' our boiled eggs."

Advice on Home Nursing

By Mary E. Carter

Copyright, 1906, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

THE first thing to be considered is the bed. A firm hair mattress should always be used, with a thin blanket on covering of some kind under the lower sheet.

After long service all mattresses are inclined to sink in the middle and become very uncomfortable to lie upon for any length of time. A blanket folded lengthwise and placed under the mattress in the middle of the bed, or two flat pillows, will overcome this difficulty.

When there is much fever a hair pillow will be found, though harder, much cooler than a feather one. A number of small pillows of all shapes and sizes, especially during long cases of illness, will prove of the greatest comfort. You can tuck them in at corners, under the back and shoulders, as a help to keep up the knees, and thus take all the strain from the patient.

Three sheets are required in making the bed, also a piece of rubber sheeting, about three-quarters of a yard wide, to be used under the draw sheet. Where there is no danger of the patient soiling the mattress, the rubber sheeting may be dispensed with, as it causes unnecessary perspiration, and if it wrinkles under the patient may even lead to bed-sores.

To arrange a bed for a sick person so that it will be both comfortable and free from wrinkles, the under sheet must be drawn very smoothly and well tucked in. If your patient is heavy or inclined to restlessness, you will find it of great advantage to pin the under sheet at the four corners with safety pins. Over the under sheet and across the middle of the bed, lay the rubber sheet, pin it at the corners and cover with the draw sheet, which is a small sheet folded to the width of the rubber sheet and tucked firmly over it on both sides of the bed.

I would here add that an invalid may become so fastidiously clothed for the night and the morning by keeping two nightgowns in use—one always sitting under the other in a weakly case. Quoting from Evelyn Harrison's practical little book: "brushed off after every meal with a little white broom, and the draw sheet pulled tightly and smoothed down three times a day to avoid wrinkles."

Sunlight is one of the necessities for a patient in convalescence. Plenty of sunshine will be of inestimable value, both mentally and physically. Never allow the bed to face a window, as the light falling directly on the eyes is very distressing. At night darken the lamp or gas by means of a shade, and pin-on one side of the globe nearest the patient, answers the purpose. A thermometer must hang near the middle of the room, at some distance from the window or fire, so as to record the exact temperature, which should be carefully regulated. In ordinary cases a temperature of 70 degrees Fahrenheit is the best, but where there is much fever, as in typhoid or scarlet fever, the room should not be warmer than 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

A CHILD'S BREAKFAST

THE simplest of menus—as simple as the "frustration" of the Germans—is usually followed by the modern mother, who looks to the physical well-being of her little ones with the aid of the latest discoveries in scientific circles. A little fruit, a simple cereal, milk and an egg cooked (as described elsewhere on this page) so that both white and yolk are of the consistency of a soft custard comprise the list which is often followed, varying only occasionally, as is the case with the German breakfast of coffee and rolls—and, perhaps, a child whose appetite is the kind that requires constant variety to tempt him to eat. If the breakfast must be varied—if not in the things themselves, then in the way of preparing them. Omelets, scrambled eggs and poached eggs can be substituted for the soft-boiled egg, the very difference in appearance having an even greater effect than the relative difference in taste—a fact which some clever mothers take to account in their methods of serving. Omelets, with bits of bacon beaten in through, make a delicious, appetizing breakfast, with the interest of seeing how many bits of bacon he is adding zest to the appetite. Bread or toast cut into strips and built up something like a log cabin will be eaten by the child who doesn't want his breakfast, but who does want to see the walls go down.

An egg is usually more delicious if thoroughly cooked and milk—any of these may be given for breakfast, only seeing that whichever you serve with, should be avoided—even if the child seems well able to digest such things it is not always the immediate results that count, and your child will be healthier and happier if his digestive organs have no severe tax put upon them. As to the practice of some indulgent mothers of putting a couple of spoonfuls of coffee or tea into the child's glass of milk—for make-believe tea—it is a great mistake. While the amount of coffee or tea is probably not enough to actually hurt the child, the taste for such nerve-stimulating drinks is thus formed at a very early age.

Milk toast may provide a way of persuading a child, who dislikes to drink milk, to take the amount you wish him to. Hominy and milk, mush and milk, graham hasty pudding and milk—any of these may be given for breakfast, only seeing that whichever you serve with, should be avoided—even if the child seems well able to digest such things it is not always the immediate results that count, and your child will be healthier and happier if his digestive organs have no severe tax put upon them.

The Housemothers' Exchange

A BREEZY, helpful letter from an esteemed correspondent, albeit longer than befits our circumstances, is laid on the table. Readers will agree with me after reading it:

The spirit moves me to make a little "arrangement," and so, like the proverbial bad penny, turns up again. I wonder if the "dusters" all realize what fine exercises-housework is if done properly? I would like to tell them what I know about it. Two hours' vigorous work in the morning leaves my body in perfect order and my body in a fine glow, but such work to be beneficial must be done regularly and exactly the same way (a la Chinese), morning and evening. I read of one day and a "lick and a promise" the next will not answer at all. Reach up or bend down, sweep, dust, get down on your knees to clean under the bed. Do it all with enthusiasm and with open windows, and it will not be long before you will welcome the time to take such splendid exercise. Six months of such a course has increased my weight ten pounds and my hip measure three inches.

I know this will not appeal to the stout sisters, but there is an array of thin ones! Well, oh! sisters, if you do not wish to enlarge your waist, also, do not heed the beauty culturists, who advise you to exercise without stays, and always take a brisk walk in the open air, also breathing deeply all the time. To change the subject, here are a few practical hints: When making bread, dry it well by freshening by soaking in cold water and drying slowly. Old alkaline soda makes good dusts when cut up and neatly hemmed. When using baking powder, etc., with flour use two papers, and see how easily the flour can be poured back into the sifter. Never let dishes, etc., accumulate in the sink. Wipe up spills as they come, and, anyway, things are easier to wash when they haven't stood around. Now that is a too long already, so I will close. If you think best, use it to help lift that four-foot washboard. I read of today. B. S. F. (Chicago).

The stalwart four-footer and his trio of satellites have enough to do without swallowing your letter. Judicious sorting of miscellaneous mails and the selection of food convenient for them keeps them busy all the forenoon. I regret to add that much goes into their maws which I would gladly keep out for other purposes—namely, for the enjoyment and edification of my readers.

Home-Made Bluing

Two requests for a formula for home-made bluing having been sent in, and referred to co-workers, a Massachusetts member contributes one, "warranted sound and honey." Get one ounce of oxalic acid, one ounce of Chinese or Prussian blue (either will do one quart of soft water. Put into a bottle and shake well and often for two or three days after mixing it. After this do not shake it at all. If any of it settles to the bottom, you can fill the bottle after using the first water. If when you buy the blue it is not powdered, ask the druggist to powder it in a mortar for you. Unless the Chinese or Prussian blue is pure it will not be a success. Ask the druggist to powder it for you. If it is not powdered, ask the druggist to powder it for you. If it is not powdered, ask the druggist to powder it for you.

How to Make Marshmallows. Will you kindly, through your column, tell me how to make marshmallows? Your "school for housewives" is very interesting to me, and I always look for that page with eager anticipation. A. M. B. (South Bend, Ind.).

Thank you for cheering words. The desired recipe will be found in another column before long.

Are Decorated Linens Washable? Now I have a request. I have learned to paint on linen, and the person who taught me said the piece would "launder" with us. I roll out same as for any pie, put in cornstarch, sugar, then the berries. By using cornstarch instead of flour I find we have a better color and don't boil over. A. MOTHER OF THREE (South Chicago).

Domestic Training. "Some time ago there was a letter in the 'Corner,' written by a wife, asking how to train a child in the knowledge of cooking. It was a home good cooking, a little bit of the art. If the woman whose husband is 'so tired of bakery things' may live without (trained) cooks? For the benefit of those who live with their own hands, I find it well to know that sulphur thrown on the fire when the chimney is ablaze will put out the fire. NEW JERSEY.

So many other communications from housewives have been received to repair the defects in "Mrs. A. B. C.'s" domestic training that your kindly offices will hardly be needed. Your views upon this matter are sound—thoroughly orthodox, in fact.

"DO IT NOW!"

With natural gas at reasonable rates, there should be a great future ahead for Chatham, especially as a desirable place for the establishment of industries. Chatham has, now, a good lot of thriving industrial concerns, but there is always room for more. No city can have too many. They promote prosperity, in every sense of the term. They increase the wealth of the city as regards taxation; they bring in new families, who have to either rent or build houses; they increase the business of the retailer, and through them more money is put in circulation—and everyone wants to be where the most money is passing around.

With natural gas as an asset, Chatham should be in a position to offer inducements to new industries, which cannot be equalled by many cities in the Dominion. If there ever was a time in the history of this city when a strong, united effort should be made to land factories, it is NOW. The only way in which this will be successful is done is through the medium of a real, live, up-to-date Board of Trade. The Council cannot do it all, and if it is worked properly, a Board of Trade could be made to work in conjunction with the Industrial Committee in a most harmonious and profitable manner.

The time for action is not tomorrow. If steps were taken today to wake up the Board of Trade, it could be re-organized and placed in working order by the time that gas for heat, light and fuel, is delivered at our doors, and everything would be in readiness for a flying start.

Other cities are after—and are getting—advantages, and few of them have advantages to offer equal to those possessed by Chatham. Here things seem to be going by default because there is no one to make it a business to advertise Chatham and her exceptional possibilities.

A WRONG RIGHTED.

The Supreme Court has done the country a service by sending back the Halifax, N. S., election petition for trial. The hearing of evidence at Halifax went on long enough to show that the election of Messrs. Carney and Roche, and the defeat of Mr. Borden were accomplished by a perfect carnival of corruption. One of the trial judges stated that enough had been shown in the first few hours to unsettle both members. The common impression was that the evidence placed them in great danger of personal disqualification. When that stage was reached Attorney General Drysdale succeeded in convincing the Court that it had no jurisdiction to try the case. Judge Russell had made an order extending the time of trial beyond the statutory period as the Court is may do in certain circumstances. At the trial, however, he decided that his own order was invalid. The sitting members were thus confirmed in the possession of their ill-gotten seat.

An approval was taken to the Supreme Court of Canada and was then heard on Thursday of this week. Rather it was not heard, for the Supreme Court judges unanimously allowed the appeal on the face of the record without asking the appellant's lawyer to make any argument against the Halifax decision. They heard a long argument in favor of the decision of the trial judges, and without calling upon Mr. Lovitt, counsel for the petitioner to reply, they sent back the case to Nova Scotia to be tried. It is therefore as good as settled that Messrs. Roche and Carney will lose their seats and that another election must take place in Halifax.

The Court also heard the appeal against the decision of the trial judges in the election case against Hon. Mr. Fielding. This appeal asked that the trial Court be ordered to hear the evidence touching the payment made by Mr. Fielding between the last election and the one before it, to reimburse Mr. Farrell, Speaker of the Nova Scotia Legislature, for money which he claimed to have spent in the previous campaign. The purpose of this inquiry was to furnish ground for Mr. Fielding's disqualification. He is already unseated.

Build Up Chatham!

Wake up the Board of Trade!

By the time natural gas is delivered in Chatham for light, heat and fuel, the Board of Trade and the Council should have industrial propositions waiting to be voted upon.

There never was a time when Chatham had such excellent advantages to offer manufacturing concerns. Everybody doesn't know this. Why?

Hon. Mr. Hyman, Minister of Public Works, should visit Jeannette's Creek, and see what a mess was made of the new Government dock, and then he would resign.

The new Government dock at Jeannette's Creek is falling to pieces before it is completed. Work is stopped, for the mere reason that experts say that if the dredging of the channel were continued—even enough to allow a boat to land at the dock—the whole structure would fall into the river. If Mr. Hyman succeeds in convincing himself that it is all right to hold this seat—even if it is stolen—we would like to direct his attention to this matter.

They have queer ideas of justice across the lines. Negroes are permitted to pass the examinations for the bar, but are not protected in their rights in court. A case in point: Miss Annie Thomas, said to be a cousin of the president, was fined $10 in a Washington city court for refusing to answer the questions of a negro lawyer. She said that she would not reply to a darkey, and after paying the fine left the courtroom laughing. The negro was a duly qualified attorney, and the girl should have been kept on the stand until she answered him. —Straitsford Bessons.

Mr. R. L. Borden has written the Ottawa Free Press, one of the few Liberal newspapers, that have connected his name with the western land deal, in the following emphatic terms: "The statement or suggestion that I had any connection with, or that I benefited by the alleged arrangement between Mr. Fowler and Mr. Ryan is an unqualified falsehood, and there is not one word in the evidence which would warrant your correspondent in making any such assertion. I never heard of that arrangement until it was recently mentioned in the public press. Your statement that I received a check from Mr. Fowler for $1,000 is also untrue. I never received any such sum from that gentleman nor any sum whatever for my personal use or benefit."

AULD LANG SYNE

FROM PLANET FILES OF HALF A CENTURY AGO.

From The Planet files from Aug. 17, 1865, to Aug. 24, 1865.

"We observe that Mr. Nelson Killam, son of Mr. Killam, of the Township of Chatham, formerly printer in this town, is associated with Mr. S. Robinson, dealer in fancy and staple dry goods, etc., Clarkburg, West Va."

"A. T. Stewart has pulled down one of the finest residences on Fifth avenue, New York, and is replacing it with another, which the New York Herald says is to cost $1,200,000, and is destined to be one of the finest, most perfect residences in the world."

Horace Greeley was reported to have no longer any control over the New York Tribune. In an evil hour he transformed it into a joint stock company, and he was afterwards crowded out by outside influences, said the report.

The program for the Chatham fall races was published. The racing events were to take place in the Mineral Springs Driving Park. Sheriff John Rogers issued the regulations governing the various events, and the following were the stewards: Messrs. David Walker, A. G. Mess and T. R. G. Ratley. Among the trainers who were preparing the horses for the track were Mr. Seth Blair, Mr. W. McQuigan, and Mr. Bryan Brady. For the convenience of the public arrangements had been made to run a steamer from Rankin's dock to the race course on both days of the races.

An old prophet wrote a letter to The Planet stating that there would never be any oil found up London way and that there was no use in drilling for the fluid in that direction. He said that the best oil land would be found from the vicinity of McKays Corners, and on towards the lake, and along each side of the town line between Howard and Harwich.

The steamer Meteor of the Lake

Superior line took fire and was scuttled and sunk.

"The Oil Springs Gazette says that good laborers can make $1.16 a day in Enniskillen, C. W., and mechanics are not to be had at any price."

"By the arrival of the steamer Moravian we have European dates to the 14th inst. This latest news from the telegraph cable is to the 2nd inst. at noon. The Great Eastern had paid out 1,200 miles of cable when communication with Valencia was again broken. She had proceeded two-thirds of the distance to Newfoundland—1,050 miles—and at the time her signals ceased to reach the shore, was in the deepest part of the ocean."

A Planet representative paid a visit to the Bothwell, of fields, and an enthusiastic article on the future of the oil industry in this county appeared in the G. H. J.

"Troops have been sent from Halifax to Charlottetown to enforce submission among the tenantry of Prince Edward Island."

"He'll Never Set The Tenase on Fire"—Very few know the origin of this common phrase. Many years ago before machinery was introduced into flour mills for the purpose of sifting flour it was the custom of the miller to set the tenase on fire. The tenase or sieve, which was provided with a rim, which projected from the bottom of it, was worked over the mouth of a barrel into which the flour was sifted. An active fellow set the rim of the tenase on fire, by force of the friction against the rim of the flour barrel; so that in fact this department of domestic employment became a standard by which to test a man's will or capacity to work hard, and thus of the fellow, or one deficient in strength, it was said, "He will never set the tenase on fire."

NEARLY BURNT OUT

Fifty Houses, Two Churches and Public Building At Summerside, P. E. I., Go Up In Flames—Loss $200,000.

Summerside, P. E. I., Oct. 12.—Fire did $200,000 damage here yesterday, and insurance only $50,000. The electric light station, jail, court house and 50 residences were destroyed, besides the Episcopal and Baptist churches. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary, and cut a path through the town a hundred yards wide and a mile long.

The fire began in a railway shed, and was fanned by the heavy gale. The town had only two hand engines and one steamer to fight the fire. The firemen and engine from Charlottetown saved the Presbyterian church. Summerside has a population of 3,000; has a cabinet factory, three saw mills and several shipyards. Eggs, oysters, produce and sheep are exported largely.

Of the population of 4,000 many would be homeless were it not for the hospitality of those who fortunately escaped the destroying flames. The whole town had a narrow escape from destruction. A fortunate change in the wind saved it. There were no fatal accidents, but James Kenny had his arm broken by being run over by a team.

WHAT COULD CANADA DO?

Lord Dundonald Asks Question in Writing On Imperial Defence.

London, Oct. 12.—(C.A.P.)—Commenting on A. B. Carman's article in "Canada" on Canada and Imperial Defence, Lord Dundonald, in a letter to "Canada," says: "If anything in this world is worth doing well, if it is at any rate worth doing well, if the empire, therefore, is worth defending, it is necessary to inform those specialists who are entrusted with the preparation of schemes for its defence, exactly how many troops will be available on the outbreak of war."

"These troops, if they are to be of real value, must be ready, not only in willingness to serve the empire, as every Canadian is ready, but only in spirit, courage and endurance, qualities which, from having had Canadian troops under my command in war time, I know them to possess to the fullest possible extent; but ready in arms, equipment, in food, in the supply of ammunition and material of war, with a personnel under the command of highly-trained leaders."

"How many men Canada could, at once on the declaration of war, put into the field under this latter condition is known to those who are responsible for her military defences and her place amongst the nations, and should be known and considered by every patriotic Canadian."

DISQUALIFIED FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Supreme Court Dismisses Mr. Dan Gallery's Appeal With Costs.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—The Supreme Court yesterday gave judgment in the St. Anne's case in dismissing the appeal of Mr. Dan Gallery, ex-M. P. for St. Anne's Division of Montreal, against the judgment of the court below. This confirms the disqualification of Gallery for seven years from sitting in the Dominion Parliament, or voting or holding any office in connection therewith. The statute does not disqualify as far as provincial or municipal affairs.

When the Supreme Court met, Chief Justice Fitzpatrick said that the judgment of the court was that the appeal should be dismissed with costs.

WAS INACCURATE

Desires Mr. Wilson, K. C. Before Insurance Commission—Altogether "Have to Get After Somebody."

Toronto, Oct. 12.—The story unfolded by Matthew Wilson, K. C. before the Insurance Commission yesterday, of the sale of the Union Trust Co. last June to himself, E. E. A. DuVermet, acting for English capitalists, and Messrs. Gurney and O'Grady, of the Crown Bank, was the distinct feature of the sitting.

Mr. Wilson, together with Mr. DuVermet, took $500,000 worth of stock in the new Trust Co. of Lake Ontario, understanding that this block was to be distributed among English capitalists at a profit of $25,000 to him.

A mysterious cheque given to Mr. Wilson, and the gift of $2500 to him by Mr. DuVermet, was the subject of earnest examination by Mr. Shepley. Mr. Wilson could not remember who signed the cheque, and whether he had been given the $2500 the same day as he endorsed the cheque.

Mr. Wilson had not yet put up any money for his stock, and does not know who is financing the game. He had been offered the management of the company at $10,000 per annum, but did not want it and took the presidency at $5,000 salary with $2500 extra that Mr. DuVermet was putting out of his own pocket. Mr. Wilson was asked to produce the cheque and other documents.

Pope and Fowler Option.

Mr. Shepley, when the session opened, took up the Pope and Fowler option. Mr. Wilson explained that the syndicate first bought a one-half undivided interest, the other half to be financed by a syndicate composed of Pope and Fowler and some others. This would not work for the other syndicate could not get together on certain points, with the result that the Foster syndicate took over the whole option. Mr. Wilson objected strenuously to assuming any more liability, but Mr. McGilivray suggested that the Union Trust Co. finance the whole business, and Mr. Foster said that if it was a good thing the Union Trust ought to get a chance to make some money out of it.

Commissioner Kent asked the witness if he thought when a trust company borrows from a bank it would make any difference if a majority of the directors of the Trust Co. were also directors of the bank.

"If the transactions were above board and concurred in by the other directors it would make no difference," was the witness' answer.

The Chancellor Inaccurate.

Counsel dealt with Chancellor Boyd's version, that he was given to understand that the members of the syndicate, including Wilson, were putting up equal shares, and that the Union Trust Co. was only a partner.

Mr. Wilson said that Sir John Boyd's recollection was inaccurate. He had explained the transaction in full to him twice.

The land transactions were gone into briefly. Witness said that he was very much surprised that Pope and Fowler had retained 7,000 acres of the selected land, and that the Great West Land Co. had bought an additional 9,000 acres to make up the 200,000.

"I do not say that Mr. Fowler is a dishonest man, but he should have given up all the lands selected under the option. If that statement is correct we ought to have that 7,000 acres, and we will have to get after somebody and get them back," he said.

Mr. Shepley questioned Mr. Wilson further on the negotiations that resulted in the formation of the Great West Land Co. at the afternoon session.

Mr. Fowler Has Arrived.

(King's and Albert) has arrived. He reached the city last night from Winnipeg. No sooner had he registered at the hotel than Mr. Ross, secretary of the Insurance Commission, advanced and served him with a formidable legal document, which required him to appear and testify before the Insurance Commission this morning, and also to show cause why he should not be fined or imprisoned for contempt.

"Isn't it cheap?" was Mr. Fowler's rejoinder.

His Promotion.

A somewhat turbulent private wrote to his mother: "I am sorry you had no letter last week, but I am a defaulter, and it gives me a heap of extra work." The good woman in reply begged him not to be too hard on the others, but to remember he had been a private himself. I regret to say that he roared with laughter and read the letter aloud for the benefit of all who shared his room.—Miss M. Loane, a Queen's Nurse, in Contemporary Review.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 12.—Mary Harriet Forrester, wife of E. L. ## Killed by Rejected Lover.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 12.—In the presence of 40 pupils in the South Euclid School Wednesday afternoon, Harry Smith, 25 years old, shot and killed Miss Mary Shepard, a teacher, aged 22 years. Brought to bay behind the barn in the rear of his home in Warrensville, two hours later, Smith shot himself through the head, dying instantly. Disappointment in love is said to have been the motive. Smith, who was a fourth cousin of Miss Shepard, had wooed her for some time, and recently was rejected.

Woman is Often Referred to by man as "doubbling his joys and halving his sorrows."

That may be complimentary, but it would seem to be rather hard on the woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects his wife to share half his burden. And there's more truth than platitude in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Most don't appeal to the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is a burden bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife grow thin, pale, nervous and worn, and they think of it as a mere burden. Among the faint letters received by Dr. Pierce are those of a husband who has walked up before it was too late to the crashing burdens I lay upon the wife, and in the search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative, which has given back to the mother the health of the maiden and the maiden's happiness. "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety-eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with diseases peculiar to women.

Mr. Jones Says This Is The Only Way Out Of Electric Light Trouble

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

There has been a serious breakdown at the Electric Light Power House, which accounts for the lack of light in the city. Engineer E. B. Jones called at The Planet Editorial rooms this morning and explained fully the cause of the trouble.

“We found on Thursday that the cause of the trouble was that a wrist pin had become heated and the habit metal had melted and run down into the oil holes. We drilled out the holes and were all ready at six o'clock to run the engine. Right after supper I got a telephone message to go to the station at once, as the cross-head of the engine was knocking. I examined it, and started it up again. It commenced to knock when it got to a high rate of speed, and the top cross-head broke in the middle, and fell down between the cross-head and the cylinder head, and bent the piston rod. We have telephoned to London for a new cross-head, and we expect to have lights to-night.

“While we were examining the cross-head, we heard a terrific noise in the keeper's house, which was caused by the explosion of a radiator, at a pressure of 110 pounds, caused no doubt by a stoppage in the drain pipe. The force of the explosion blew out the windows, tore up the carpet, and drove a chair through a partition. It lifted a bedboard clear from the floor and when the whole thing was over not one of the dishes was broken. The women rushed from the room, and when they went back they found Mr. Leacock sitting in the room reading The Planet. He hardly knew there was an explosion.”

Engineer Jones reported the state of the engine to Aid. Potter, who will call a meeting shortly to face the situation. There is only one thing to do, and that is to purchase a new engine, as the present one is overloaded, and it is this circumstance which caused the breakdown. It is likely that a new house will have to be built to receive the new engine.

Engineer Jones also reports that it will be up to the Water Commissioners to purchase a new filter in the near future, as the present ones are now overtaxed.

More Voters Tell Of Receiving Ten Dollar Bribes

A GAME OF GRAFT

Toronto, Oct. 13.—While the evidence brought out in the London bribery investigation proceedings yesterday was less sensational than that of Thursday, when J. G. Pritchett told his round, unvarnished tale of rascality in elections, the prosecution rolled up a number of added points from the testimony of a witness of witnesses who had “voted right” and received pecuniary reward. Mr. Robinson was, as usual, at particular pains to bring out that the votes had not been bargained for, and that they would have been recorded for Hyman without the soft persuasion of lucre, but in this, he was not uniformly successful.

A Game of Graft.
J. F. Ellis, ex-president of the Toronto Board of Trade, testified that John O'Gorman had come to him for figures on tendering for envelopes for the Grand Trunk Pacific, and that, on receiving a cheque, he found that $70 or $80 had been added on for, as O'Gorman explained, his commission. Mr. Ellis had returned the extra money, as he did not like O'Gorman's tactics. Magistrate Daniels asked, when this evidence had to do with the case, and Mr. DuVernet replied that it showed how money was collected, and connected Mr. Reid, a brother of the defendant, Reid, who he declared, the evidence showed, had sent Pritchett into West End for “voting right.”

Brooch Fowler of London had received $10 for voting “right” on the suggestion of Tom Lewis. In the previous election he had received $5 from Jerry Collins for a supposed Hyman vote, which he had really given to O'Gorman.

Charles Howse had also voted for Gray, he said, though given $10 the day before the election by Sifton.

Thomas Vanstone said he had been solicited by Collins to vote for Hyman, and had been handed $10 at the Lewis Hotel by Collins. Witness signed a receipt.

Joseph Tait had been promised $10 by Collins to “vote right.” John A. Norman had been canvassed about his vote by Serviss, Collins and another man. He was told, “If you vote for Hyman, there is $10 in it for you.” The money was given to witness' father, who also received some for himself. He would not have voted without inducement.

Collins Would Know How He Voted.
John H. Andrews testified that Hardy had told him Collins wanted to see him at Lewis hotel, where he met Mulloy also. Collins said he would know how he voted. Three weeks later, he called for his envelope, which was given him by a man named Donahue.

James Bone said he was promised $10 by Lewis to switch from voting for Gray. He got $10 from Collins in Lewis' hotel.

Oscar Monton, who is employed in Mr. Hyman's tannery, had seen Sifton.

Arly and Mine in 'one commiserate' room. Witness was appointed a deputy returning officer. The magistrate remarked that the appointment of a worker in this way would hardly conduce to a fair election.

Jones Admitted It.
Charles White identified Francis Jones, chairman of the Hyman committee in Division 8, as a man to whom Collins had handed an envelope containing $10, that was to be paid to the witness.

Jones admitted holding the envelope, but swore that he had no knowledge of its contents. He was simply told to give it to White, and he did not give it to him on the spot, because White was then going out of the door. Jones wouldn't swear that more was not told him. He was asked if he knew what Collins and Mulloy were doing with electors in the other room, and his reply was that he surmised. He told the court that it was a recognized fact that in every election there were people looking for what they could get, and they usually got it. He had objected to Collins “having anything to do” with one, Gatliff, a Conservative, who “might squeal.”

MR. JEWETT WINS

Former Chathamite Will Be Paid $1,400 A Year As Science Master In A Toronto Collegiate

Toronto, Oct. 12.—A heated discussion took place yesterday at the meeting of the Management committee of the Board of Education as to whether it would recommend an increase from $1,100 to $1,400 in the salary of Mr. Jewett, who claims he was induced to resign his post at Chatham High School under the representation that he would receive the latter sum. Mr. Jewett is science teacher in Jameson avenue Collegiate Institute. The members of the sub-committee to report on the question were Trustees Shaw, Parkin, and Leves, and Mr. Shaw took a decided stand against the teacher's request, affirming that Mr. Jewett well understood that he was to receive $1,100 a year. The fact that Mr. Jewett, in his report of the facts, had been consistent throughout, as argued by Trustee Parkin, appeared to be the strong point in Mr. Jewett's favor.

Principal Shaw first presented his minority report, in which he detailed from beginning to end the circumstances connected with the appointment. The majority report, dated Oct. 10, says:

"That as the Board of Education failed to make clear to Mr. Jewett that his appointment was to a position as assistant at salary of $1,100, and that as it would seem clear that Mr. Jewett understood his appointment to be a position at a salary of $1,400, in accordance with his application, and he having moved to Chatham on that understanding, we recommend that he be paid the latter salary."

The Country Young Man As Compared With The One Reared In The City

To the Editor of The Planet:
Dear Sir,—I have written you a number of letters on previous occasions regarding the advantages that are offered to the young man or woman who is the possessor of a good commercial education.

As stated in my last letter to you, Canada is rapidly growing, and a few years hence will see wonderful changes. Business houses are keenly on the watch for bright, brainy young men and women who have prepared themselves for choice positions, and who are ready to render their best service.

I do not know whether there is anything in town life that interferes with a young man's ambition, or whether it is that there may be too much else to take his attention, but in my thirty-four years' experience in dealing with young men, I have found that the young man and woman from the country, as a whole, make better use of their time and chances than those brought up in the city. This should not be so, but nevertheless it is.

In conversation with other parties who have to do with training young men, I learn that this seems to be the general experience of those who are engaged in this way.
Possibly it is because those growing up in the city have nothing special to occupy their time outside of school hours, while the country boy is usually put to work immediately after coming home from school, and again, works in the morning until the time for leaving, and is frequently kept away from school during the busiest seasons on the farm.

Possibly it is the habits of industry that the young man from the country gets at his home that makes him a stronger and harder worker when he gets the privilege of leaving home and attending school in the city. To him it is almost like a holiday, but not in the usual acceptance of that word. He enjoys his school work, but is determined to make the most of it, and usually every hour is well occupied.

There are, of course, exceptions in the case of young men brought up in the city, but the exceptions are few. I remember an occasion when Judge Bell was presenting medals when in handing a medal to a young man from the country, who had won it, he made a remark something like the following: "I do not think it were not for the brawn and brain that we get from the country." The statement tallied so closely with my own experience that I have never forgotten it.

I would like to see our city young men and women awakened to the possibilities that are before them and to take advantage of them. We offer medals every year, and we see by referring back to the winners, that almost invariably, the winners come from the country places. This should not be, yet it is, nevertheless, a fact.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, and hoping that these letters may have the effect of making our young men alive to the opportunities that are within their reach, I am, Yours sincerely,
D. McLAHLAN.

WANTS A SETTLEMENT

Sir. Wilfrid's Views On The Conference Of Premiers

"A REGULAR LOVE FEAST"

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—"There is nothing to give out," said Chairman Gouin of the conference of Provincial Premiers last evening.

"You can say," said another of the delegates, "that we are making progress, but no decision has been arrived at."

The delegates were particularly reticent yesterday, and it is concluded that the situation is scarcely as harmonious as it was.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said yesterday morning: "Just say that everything is lovely," adding that it was a "regular love feast."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Aylesworth, Mr. Fielding and Mr. Lemieux were present at the conference yesterday morning, but not present in the afternoon, and it is believed that Sir Wilfrid has given his final regarding the subsidy issue.

Sir Wilfrid Wants Finality.

The Prime Minister is known to favor a settlement which will have the element of finality, and, accordingly, he is said to have made it clear to the conference, pointing out the importance of determining the subsidy issue once and for all, and impressing upon the provincial delegates the inadvisability of reserving certain unsatisfied claims for future adjustment.

To accomplish a complete adjustment, Sir Wilfrid is believed to have agreed to the demand for a straight increase, but to have submitted a proposition in amendment to the resolution embodying his views as to the finality of the arrangement.

Consider But Do Not Conclude.

The provincial representatives took this suggestion into consideration yesterday afternoon, but no decision was arrived at, according to one of the representatives, and the discussion will be continued today.

The compromise proposed by the Prime Minister is said to be acceptable to the representatives of all but one of the older provinces.

MAY KILL VALLILEE.

Trouble Expected When the Military Leave Buckingham, Que.—Public Opinion Veers to Strikers.

Buckingham, Que., Oct. 12.—Matters have now quieted down in connection with the strike, and there will probably be no more developments until Monday, when the inquest opens.

Public opinion is very strong regarding the attitude assumed by the MacLaren party and Henry Aylen, K. C., their counsel. They took Charette out of the funeral procession and improvised court, Mr. Aylen, without any authority and though only private counsel for the MacLaren family, assuming the roll of crown prosecutor, and refusing to adjourn the court until they had heard evidence from one side only.

Mayor Vallilee is MacLaren's manager, and he has filed the town with armed police and military. The fact that he made an attempt to read the Riot Act, but merely turned the police in line, is also causing opinion to veer round to the side of the strikers.

It is expected that there will be trouble whenever the military leave. It is feared that an attempt will be made on the life of Mayor Vallilee. The strikers are buying ammunition.

An immense throng attended the funeral yesterday of the two dead strikers.

Detective Warner is dying.

King's Daughters' Convention.

Ingersoll, Oct. 12.—The closing session of the provincial convention of the King's Daughters was held last evening, when addresses were given by Rev. R. J. M. Perkins, rector of St. James' Church; Mrs. I. C. Davis and Mrs. Savage, provincial secretary. Officers as follows were elected in the afternoon: Provincial secretary, Mrs. Wallace, Cornwall; executive committee, Mrs. Austin (Toronto), Dr. Bertha Dymond (Toronto), Miss Hishop (Stratford), Mrs. W. G. Burton (Ingersoll), Mrs. Coulson (Ingersoll), Miss Strange (Kingston), Mrs. Palkett (Ottawa), Mrs. Biggar (Ottawa), Miss Wilson (Hamilton).

Students Fined $5 Each.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—President Hutton announced yesterday that the university caput had decided to fine each of the 26 students engaged in the medical "hustle" last Monday, $5 each.

The caput also called the attention of the students to section 4 on page 116 of the present calendar, which provides for expulsion for such doing, with the intimation that it would in future be enforced.

Tunnel Explosion.

New York, Oct. 12.—Three men were killed and a dozen others rendered unconscious by an explosion and fire in the Pennsylvania tunnel under Long Island City yesterday. The cause of the explosion is unknown. At one time 15 of the rescuers were stretched out on the sidewalks under treatment to resuscitate them after vainly attempting the rescue.

Brouwer Wanted Divorce.

Toms River, N. J., Oct. 12.—At the trial of Dr. Brouwer, charged with the murder of his wife, Miss Elizabeth Hyer, sister of the dead woman, testified that she was called to Dr. Brouwer's house several times during her sister's illness, and Dr. Brouwer told her that he was going to get a divorce.

AN UNLUCKY SHIP.

341. Achieved the Grandest Exploit in Naval History.

The Bonhomme Richard was an unlucky ship. Paul Jones himself or taking command of her at Lorient, France, wrote a most doleful letter about her to one of his aristocratic patronesses in Paris. She was "a worn-out old Indian," and "her forecastle is a babel."

"Fourteen different languages are spoken in my forecastle," said Jones, dismayed at the appearance of his motley crew.

Two days out at sea the Bonhomme Richard was fouled by her consort, the Alliance, and had her jib boom and foremast carried away. Jones then put back to Lorient, perfectly convinced of the unlikelihood of his ship.

But through that accident he found 114 American seamen who had just been released from English prisons by exchange. Among them was Richard Dale, whom Jones at once appointed first lieutenant. These all volunteered into the Richard, Jones promptly discharging enough of his polyglots to make way for them. Prior to that he had only about forty Americans.

This addition made 154 fighting Yankee seamen, and they were the men who made the Serapis sick a few weeks later off the east coast of England.

Thus it happened that the grandest exploit in naval history was achieved by an unlucky ship, and she obtained the means of achieving it through a distressing accident.

Fruit Trees Damaged.

Strathroy, Oct. 12.—This locality has been visited by one of the heaviest and most destructive snowstorms ever known here. It started snowing about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and kept it up all night, during which time fully 15 or 16 inches of snow fell.

Yesterday morning some streets were almost impassable with broken branches, a great many beautiful shade trees being ruined. Reports from the country state that fruit trees are destroyed and some orchards with the apples still on the trees are utterly ruined.

Sleighting at Barnia.

Barnia, Oct. 12.—A foot of snow fell between four and eight o'clock yesterday morning, and oldest settlers are raking their memories for an earlier record. A stiff northwest wind is blowing, and cutter riding is in order. It was a very stormy morning on Lake Huron and many vessels sheltered here.

Snow at Kingston.

Kingston, Oct. 12.—A rare snowstorm prevailed in the city yesterday. It began early in the morning and continued far into the day. It came from the north. Probably two or three inches fell, but when it struck the warm earth it rapidly melted.

Frozen to Death.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 12.—The storm continued unabated yesterday, heavy snow falling steadily. John Reese, 65 years of age, was found frozen to death in his home yesterday. He lived alone.

Records Broken.

Pittsburg, Oct. 12.—All records for low temperature in October since that was established in 1871 were broken yesterday when the mercury dropped to 28 degrees. Up to 9 o'clock yesterday morning six inches of snow had fallen in Corry, Pa.

Fourteen Inches of Snow.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Snow, which melted almost as fast as it fell, began falling here about 4:30 Wednesday and continued throughout the night. Had it been dry, the weather bureau estimates there would have been about 14 inches upon the ground.

Monks Haven Total Loss.

Port William, Oct. 12.—The Canadian steamer Monks Haven, which was recently released from Angus Island after lying on the rocks at that point since the big storm of last November, was washed from her moorings by the storm on Tuesday and so badly battered against the rocks that she is now almost a total loss. The work of saving the boat had been under way all summer. The Monks Haven was a steel steamer, built in Scotland, and was valued at $70,000.

Captain Was Saved.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 12.—The fishing schooner Julia struck a shoal in Codroy River during a gale Wednesday night, and went down. Four men were drowned, but the captain succeeded in reaching the shore. The fishing schooner Helena is missing, and it is feared she and her crew have been lost.

FRUIT IS DAMAGED

Peach Orchards Are Ruined And Acres Of Trees Destroyed

A MILLION DOLLAR LOSS

St. Catharines, Oct. 12.—It is estimated that over a million dollars' loss has been sustained in the Niagara district by the heavy rain, snow and sleet storm of the past few days.

There will be no loss to fruit-growers so far as crops are concerned, as the fruit season is practically finished, except for apples, and that fruit when blown from trees can be utilized. The damage to fruit trees, however, will be very heavy, as there is scarcely an orchard that has not suffered the loss of many trees.

Electric railway, telephone and telegraph wires were down in every direction, and the city was shut up from communication until night, when it has been partially resumed.

Ruin at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 12.—From all parts of Stamford and Niagara townships come reports of wreck and ruin, and the fruit growers count their loss in thousands of dollars.

The peach orchards were still in full leaf, after a series of heavy rains during the past week. A snowstorm set in Wednesday evening, probably a foot of snow having fallen, and half of it has melted.

The fruit trees caught the snow and were soon loaded beyond their strength. When morning broke great peach orchards had been converted into acres of stumps and brush. The brittle limbs of the trees snapped under the load of snow and trunks were split to the ground.

Apples, pears, cherries, plum and other fruit trees suffered severely, but the peach trees are damaged most. A lot of late fruit was lost. It will take years to repair the damage, for new trees will have to be grown.

In the city the damage is great, the Bell Telephone Co. being the heaviest loser. On Victoria avenue every pole for 2,000 feet of the main trunk line is broken, and the wreckage blocks the street from West avenue to Morrison street.

The street railway is tied up and the fire alarm and electric light system paralyzed. Several factories are tied up for lack of power. Residential streets which boasted fine-shaped trees are filled with brush and the trees are ruined.

Take the Cast Iron Combustion Chamber, for instance.

I make it heavily corrugated (or fluted). This almost doubles the heating surface—enables practically twice as much air to be heated with the same amount of coal or wood.

As the combustion chamber is really a continuation of the fire-box, I make it of extra heavy iron, corrugated to allow for the contraction and expansion and to ensure greater durability.

Messengers of God Who Brought Joy to Abraham's Household.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dyer, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 7.—In this sermon the preacher uttered a whole-
some warning against the common sin
of uncharitable judgment of others,
lest we, by such means, miss the blessing that comes of "entertaining angels
unawares." The text is Genesis xviii, 2,
"And, lo, three men stood by him, and he recognized them as messengers of God. When a gentleman travels in the far east he does not stop at a public inn,
but lodges with the people he meets on the way. Thus one day Abraham was sitting at the door of his tent. Off in the distance he sees three travel-stained men approaching. At once, according to the social customs then practiced
and with the cordial hospitality of the east, Abraham runs toward these three travelers and kneels at their feet and says: "Come and lodge with me. Tarry and rest yourselves and eat of my bread. After refreshing yourselves you can continue on your journey." The three travelers accepted this kind invitation. Abraham spread before his guests the best food he had. He killed a calf. His wife baked for them some hot bread. After the meal was over one of the strangers said, "Where is thy wife?" Abraham went and called Sarah. Then, as the three men were about to go, they said practically these words: "Oh, ye aged and childless ones,
the dearest wish of our hearts is about to be fulfilled. In your old age you shall have a son." To make the story short, Abraham and Sarah found out that their guests in human form
were not simply three men, but three angelic messengers of God. What an inconceivable privilege that was! Let us think about it this morning, remembering that we, too, can entertain angelic messengers almost every day if we will. We can entertain them, as did Abraham, when strange travelers approach our dwelling and perhaps knock at the door for admittance. You may think these strangers are men, as did Abraham, but they are not. They are messengers of God. Thus the questions which now confront us all are:
"Will we let in these angelic visitors?
Will we receive from them the spiritual blessings which God intends us to get?"

"Shall we, in the first place, receive
the angelic visitors who come from God dressed in the rough garments of poor men? These messengers come to us almost daily, as the three strangers came to Abraham in olden time. As we approach the Hebrew patriarch's
tent we see him sitting under the shadow. It is almost noon. Like a wise master he had seen that his herdsmen and shepherds had cared well for his stock.
Then when the hot sun begins to beat down he goes back to his tent to prepare for dinner and take a rest and have a quiet chat with his dear wife, Sarah, for though Abraham, at this time was over ninety years of age and Sarah had passed her threescore years
and ten, yet they were still lovers as when in their youth they had taken a journey into far-off Egypt, and the king's messenger wanted to select Sarah for Pharaoh's bride.

While the busy Sarah is preparing the midnoon meal Abraham, sitting by his tent, suddenly puts his hand over his brow and begins to look. He seems to be watching something afar off.
"What is it, Abraham?" says his wife.
"Do you see any one coming?" "Yes,"
answers the aged lover. "I think I see three travelers. They are strangers to me. They must be poor men. They are coming afoot. In this country horses are so cheap that all except the poorest can own one. These men have not even a donkey with them. They must truly be very poor. I wonder if they have enough food along. Poor fellows! See how tired and hungry
they look. Sarah, we have so much;
let us give them a good meal and start them on their journey a fresh. No man ought to be traveling in this awful heat." "All right, Abraham," I think I hear Sarah say. "All right. You go and ask them to tarry. I will hurry up and prepare some meal, and you send
and kill a calf, and we will give them
a feast fit for a king." Thus Abraham runs and salutes these strangers who are traveling afoot. He says, "Strangers, will you come and lodge with me?" Lesson the first. These three angelic messengers came to Abraham's tent afoot. They came as poor men.
They came as God's messengers often come to us, when they look up into our faces and pitiously beg: "Will thou feed me? Will thou clothe me? I am God's poor. Will thou care for me?"

"Oh, no," you answer; "that cannot
be. You are only making a pretty figure of speech. An angelic messenger never comes clothed in rags. He may have come to an Abraham's tent afoot,
but he certainly never comes to me as one of those dirty, filthy beggars who knock at my back door. He cannot come as the poor man with that sick
wife and a large brood of children who live in our back street. Why, that man and his wife do not believe in God.
They never read the Bible. They never pray. The angel of God never comes as a tramp or a pauper." Does he not, my brother? Does he not? Do not speak too quickly. What says Christ in the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew? Does he say: "If you would find my messengers, you should seek them among the palaces and in the king's throne rooms? You should seek them clothed in purple and fine linen?"
Nay, that is not Christ's command. He says, "If you would seek my messengers, you shall find them clothed in rags and with the pinched cheeks of want and wandering around from street to street as did John Howard Payne, pitiously looking at the fire-side
of happy homes and yet with no homes
of their own." Have you not read the parable: "When saw we thee an-hungered and fed thee or thirsty and gave thee drink? When saw we thee a stranger and took thee in or naked and clothed thee?" And the King shall answer and say unto you, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Does not Christ

mean by these words that when you look after the poor you are looking after his messengers and caring for him?

But when this noble Hebrew herds-
man runs forward to prostrate himself at the feet of the three strangers I
see him sharply scrutinize their faces.
He not only sees that they wear the travel-stained garments of poor men,
but methinks I hear him mutter: "Poor fellows! Poor fellows! Perhaps they are exiles from their own country. Perhaps on account of a king's hatred they are fleeing for their lives. Perhaps they once had sheep and oxen and horses and manseverals, as I have, but
now, on account of bitter persecution,
they have lost all. I must be especially kind to these poor fellows who are fleeing for their lives." Cannot you imagine such thought passing through Abraham's mind as he runs forward to greet the three strangers? I can. And I firmly believe that when any man goes to the help of the persecuted and
the unjustly treated he is welcoming
to his home "angelic visitors," who will always bring to him a spiritual blessing
from God.

How many people there are who are being unjustly persecuted! How many there are who are being lied about and misrepresented! Like the devils that were torturing the poor martyr's body,
who was running naked among the tombs of the Gadara dead, their names seem to be legion. Many of these poor fellows who are being unjustly treated are dying of broken hearts, as did the late Daniel D. Tompkins, who was one of the most pathetic characters of American history. In his prime no name was more powerful in the political world than his. He rose from office to office. At last he became governor of New York State and then
vice-president of the United States.
The White House was almost his. But suddenly his enemies were able to head him off. Though his whole life
stood for honesty and purity and truth,
his political foes charged him with mis-
appropriating some of the public funds
when he was chief executive of New York State. He indignantly denied the charge, but he could not produce evidence to vindicate himself. His enemies had stolen it. His forehead, like that of Cain, had a black mark of guilt
placed upon it, and he was shunned by his fellow men as an embezzler of public funds. Thus Daniel D. Tompkins was compelled to retire from public life and went down into a dishonored grave. Hardly had the grave closed over his body when vouchers were discovered which proved not only that Daniel D. Tompkins had used the public funds aright, but that he had spent

COULD NOT REST
NIGHT OR DAY

With Irritating Skin Humour—
Whole Body Affected—Scalp
Itched All the Time and Hair Began
to Fall Out—Wonderful Result From

APPLICATION OF CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am never without Cuticura Soap
and Cuticura Ointment since I tried them last summer. About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy
and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors, but it became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body
would begin to itch and my finger nails
would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day.
A friend asked me to try the Cuticura
Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body,
and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out, but I continue to use the Cuticura on my scalp. It keeps all dandruft out and scalp is always healthy.
I always use Cuticura Ointment on my face after shaving, and have found nothing to equal it. I will never be without it." D. E. Blankenship,

RECOMMENDED TO ALL MOTHERS

"I have used Cuticura Ointment for chafing of infants, and as they grew older all skin diseases were given treatment with that and the Cuticura Soap.
I never found it necessary to call a doctor, as these Remedies are a sure cure,
if used as directed. I am glad to recommend them to all mothers." Sincerely
yours, Mrs. F. A. Kennard,
June 21, 1905, St. Paul, Park, Minn.

a large part of his own private fortune
for the public good.

Furthermore, if you and I are only willing to go to the aid of those who are being persecuted God will not only personally bless us, but we will save many men and women who are being unjustly treated from entering a life of sin and crime. I was never more impressed with this fact than some time ago, when I was visiting an old Missourian. He was telling me the history of his life. But it was the thieves and the libertines who pretended they were regular soldiers that they feared.
We were simply helpless in their hands."

Then he described how one night a lot of thieves clothed as soldiers came to his father's house and literally took everything away. They drove his mother out in the winter's cold, and
she died as a result of the exposure.
They put a rope about his father's neck and dragged him about and threatened to kill him. With the butt end of a gun they mashed one of his feet so that he was a cripple for life. Then they drove away every horse and cow and pig and chicken
and burned up all the grain and the fences and the outhouses and left only the bare fields. "What did you do?"
I asked. "Well," he said, "I was only a boy of fourteen. But my brother and myself joined the bushwhackers.
We each took a gun and vowed that we would kill every northern man we met." "What then happened?" I asked. "Then the old man looked at me
and answered: 'The most important part of my life. In St. Charles county
there lived an old minister by the name of Rev. Mr. Blackwell. He was a northern man and a Republican. He heard what we two boys had done, and
he knew that if we continued as bushwhackers we would end up in a life of crime, as did the James boys, who started out as criminals because their fathers had been treated as my father had been treated. I used to know Jesse James and his gang, and I know that what I say is true. So the risk of his own life Rev. Mr. Blackwell, a Republican and northerner,
went into the mountains and hunted
out our camp and said: 'Boys, I have come to save you. Come back and live with me. Because thieves and scound-rels have robbed your parents and killed your mother do not become criminals yourselves and die at the end of a hangman's noose.' And, sir, as the result of his plea we went back to Blackwell's house and went back to honesty and truth and right."

But, stepping out into the broader interpretation of my text, we assert that angelic messengers can approach our homes with the scowling visage of hate
and with the clinched fist of anger, as well as in the fluttering rags of the pauper and the distorted, terror-struck countenances of the persecuted.
"Oh, no," you answer; "that cannot be.
An angel is not a demon. An angel
is one who would lead us to the higher life. How can the sullen brow of an enemy do this?" Well, my friend, let us go again to the Bible and read the most powerful and the most familiar sermon ever delivered—namely, the sermon on the mount, spoken at a short distance from Lake Galilee.
What did Christ say? Did he lay down the doctrine that we should be kind to others just in proportion as others are kind to us? Did he say: "Men, be just to friends and foes. Now forgive a kindness which a neighbor does you and
never forget the injury of a treacherous foe?" Did he say, "Build a wall, in castle. Have the most deep and wide. Have watch-towers above the walls, where you can always keep a lookout to lower the bridges for your allies, and have spears and swords
and bows and arrows and slings with which to drive back those who have betrayed your trust?" No. That is not Christ's command. Listen how he describes the way in which you should welcome some of your angelic visitors.
These are Christ's words, not mine:
"Love your enemies." That means give them the best places at your table and your warmest welcome. "Bless them that curse you." That means go out of your way to speak a kind word for those who are denouncing you and seeking to undermine your character. "Do good to them who hate you and pray
for them which despitefully use you."
Do you hear it? My Lord and my God, have we read thy words aright? How few, how very few of us have welcomed at our doors those who have reviled us and persecuted us and have said all manner of evil things against us!

Now, you have read many essays and heard many sermons upon the theme,
"The Blessings of Having Enemies,"
but I want to tell you that the greatest blessing of an enemy after all is to teach us to forgive those people who have trespassed against us as we expect God to forgive our trespasses.
Unless we can learn to live as like
Christians we can never learn to be like Christ. Are you willing to live as that famous Irishman lived who recently passed away? Did you read the last will and testament of Michael Davitt?
He did not have any money to give,
for he spent most of his life in the struggle of home rule for the Emerald Island. So he made up his last will and testament thus—wise. I do wish I had it verbatim. He said in part:
"This is my last will and testament. I have not any money to give, but I leave my blessing to all mankind. My first act of forgiveness from all those whom I may have injured in life or toward whom I have acted unjustly.
Then I leave my forgiveness to all those who have done me any injury.
Then I ask that when my literary executor publishes hereafter any of my
works he will cull from them any bitter words which might wound the heart of any living man or the hearts
of the loved ones of any of my political foes. Did you ever read a sentiment more beneficent and Christlike than that? My brother, you have greeted many friends in your home.
They have dined with you and you
with them. But have you ever spoken

the words of a Davitt? Alas, if not,
then I fear you have shut out "angelic
visitors," who, if they should enter your home, would bring to you the greatest of spiritual blessings. These angelic messengers may be men who have spitefully used you. Cannot you give them a loving welcome for Christ's sake, as Abraham asked the three strangers to rest with him under the shadow of his eastern tent?

But should our hospitality end here?
Oh, no. If you turn to the fourteenth chapter of Luke you find these words:
"When thou makest a feast or a supper, call not thy friends nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen nor thy rich
neighbors, lest they also bid thee again
and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a feast call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind."
Now, who are the maimed and the lame and the blind? Are they simply the poor who go around on crutches or feel their way with a staff? I think not. Christ would not here say "the poor and the maimed and the halt and
the blind," that would be the same as I think the maimed and the halt and the blind mean the moral cripples. I think these words to a great extent mean the spiritual outcasts. I think they mean those who are like the seven devils Mary and Zachariah, whom honest people shun as the healthy
physical man would run from a lazaretto
or a loathsome plague. Yes, we are to give a cordial welcome even to the vilest of sinners, such a welcome
as Abraham gave the three strangers
at his home.

And, my friends, a sinner can never
sink so low but in that sinful degradation the true Christian may see the infinite possibilities of glory that will rebaptize to Christ if his redemption could only enter that sinful soul. It is said that when the great prime minister of France, Cardinal de Bois, was about to undergo a serious operation he said
to the noted surgeon, Dr. Boudon,
"Doctor, be careful and don't treat me
as you would one of those poor miserable wretches at your hospital of Hotel Dieu." With that the famous surgeon
proudly lifted his head as he replied,
"My lord, every one of those miserable
wretches, as your eminence is pleased to call them, is a prime minister in my eyes." Oh, cannot we act so in our Christian work? Even among the lowest and the vilest cannot we see a possible king of heaven saved by grace?
If we do this every immoral and sinful
leper with whom we come in contact will be an angelic visitor, bringing us a spiritual message from Christ.

"But," you say, "I never have the poor and the maimed and the halt
and the blind coming to my door. Why,
I live a most secluded life. Once in awhile the doorbell rings and the maid
brings me a card, but that is all—now a friend, then another. I do my fall and winter shopping. I have a car about returning these calls, but I cannot help my friends much. Most of them seem to have everything they want and much more than I do." Is that so? Well, I am not surprised at your attitude of course you do not have any angelic visitors coming to your house, as Abraham did.

Friend, how is it with thy Christian life? Art thou opening wide thy doors?
Art thou looking for the coming angelic messengers? Art thou trying to spy out these visitors from God when they are in the far distance? Art thou willing to run to them and greet them?
Canst thou not see them? There they are in that dark alley. There they come down the street. Do you not see them? Why, they are by your side
now. Will you turn and go after them in the name of Christ?

Mayor Judd Stops Traffic.

London, Oct. 12.—Mayor Judd a day
or two ago engaged Engineer J. M.
Moyes of Toronto to inspect the street railway plant and the siting of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Police which began yesterday. Mr. Moyes' report stated that the Wellington street
bridge was entirely unsafe for traffic,
nearly half of the ties were rotting or
rotten, as well as numerous guard railings. The mayor immediately ordered traffic to cease on the bridge, and the company agreed. The commission visited the bridge, and confirmed the report of its unsafe condition.

Canadian Governor of Hudson Bay, 18
Northwest Mounted Police and supplies for the Canadian Government
posts there, returned yesterday a month

RED ROSE
TEA

"IS GOOD TEA"

I wish you could pay a visit to the Red Rose Tea
warehouse—the largest in Canada—and see for yourself
the great skill and care that is given to the blending
and packing of this famous Tea. The testing room and the packing room (where automatic electric machines, which seem almost human, are used)
would interest you greatly.

If you ever visit St. John, it will be a pleasure to show you through; and after you see the care and cleanliness with which it is prepared, Red Rose Tea
will taste even better than before.

The Blue Label is especially recommended.

days with his friend, Ernest Eberlee, Dresden.

Friday was the last day for chopping at Gilbert's mill. Mr. Gilbert found that he could not make profit enough by it. The farmers around here will be sorry to hear this, for
it was very convenient for them.

Mr. James Outhouse moved into
Mrs. William Lidster's vacant house on the 6th, this week.

J. W. Vanhorn is spending the latter part of this week on his farm near Chatham.

Mr. H. H. Eberlee is the guest of his son, Charles, of Dresden.

Mr. Mr. M. B. B. of London,
called on friends here last week.

Careful Investments

The London Life Insurance Company has had only four mortgage sales
since it was incorporated 31 years ago,
and in all four cases the property was
disposed of without loss.

This remarkable record is only one evidence of the careful management of this Company—one reason why the profits to policy-holders are larger than
those paid by most companies.

You should investigate our policies
before taking any other, and be sure of value as Good as Gold.

CANADA'S BEST PIANO
THE NORDHEIMER

Supremacy in the art of piano making can only be obtained by a combination of age, experience, capital intelligently applied, ambition to produce something better than has been made, and that care o-
minute detail, guaranteeing permanent satisfaction to the performer.
More than the allotted span of life has been devoted by The House of Nordheimer towards developing the Nordheimer Piano to its present high state of mechanical and artistic perfection.

Mr. R. Victor Carter, our travelling representative, will visit Chatham regularly in our interests and will be pleased to give intending piano purchasers the benefit of his musical knowledge by making personal selection of pianos for all who entrust their order to him. Correspondence addressed to Mr. Carter at the Carner House, will receive his best attention.

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora" and it burns a ton, or only half a ton of coal more in a year, what do you gain? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

THE MAGIC DIAL.

A Puzzling Past That Seems Akin to Mind-Reading.

Ask any of your playmates to think of some hour of the day. Tell him to deduct it from 20 and remember the remainder. You produce your big clock dial and inform him that you are going to count around on the dial and that when you have counted the number corresponding with the remainder that he must remember, he must stop you.

Suppose he thought of 5 o'clock. Five taken from 20 leaves 15 remainder. You now count promiscuously (mentally, not orally), pointing at each count with a pencil to one of the hours on the dial (which must be provided in advance and is made by cutting out a circle of cardboard and marking on it with ink the twelve figures of the clock face).

Be sure when you make the eighth count to point to the "12" and thence in regular rotation backward toward the left. When you come to the figure "5" you will be stopped, as this will be the fifteenth count, corresponding to calomel, cascara, salts, strong liver pills and purging mineral waters won't do any permanent good.

When the Liver is out of Order

When a person is bilious, the liver is not giving up enough bile to move the bowels regularly—and some of the bile is being absorbed by the blood. In other words, the liver is in a weakened, unhealthy condition.

Now, purgatives don't act on the liver at all. They merely irritate the bowels, and afford only temporary relief. But FRUIT-A-TIVES are the one true LIVER TONIC. They act directly on the liver—strengthen and invigorate this vital organ—and put it in a normal, healthy condition.

FRUIT-A-TIVES also stimulate the glands of the skin—and regulate the kidneys and sweeten the stomach. When skin, liver and kidneys are normally healthy, there can be no biliousness, no constipation, no kidney trouble, no impure blood, no headaches.

No other medicine known to science is so reliable and so effective in curing Biliousness as these fruit liver tablets.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices with tonics added—and are free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. See a box or 6 for $2

LEAVING THE CITY

Last evening the friends of Mr. Vincent Bosworth met at the home of Miss Mary Kerr, and after a social evening presented him with a gold watch and fob.

Vincent is leaving Monday for Stratford, where he has accepted a position with Thornton & Douglas of that city. His many friends wish him every success in his new home.

DROVE HORSE TO DEATH?

Ridgeway, Oct. 11.—Tuesday night at seven o'clock a man by the name of Edmunds pulled up at the door of the Anderson Hotel, having driven in the day from London. He had only left the rig a minute when the horse fell dead. The man refused to say in what time he had driven the distance.

Industry is the mother of good luck.

OVERCOATS!

The Overcoat is the distinguishing feature of a Man's attire. It proclaims him careful or careless of his dress and it is always the thermometer of his wardrobe.

If there is one thing in which we excel, it is Overcoats.

Nothing but the Best Makers' best productions are good enough for us and, even then, the coats must be made to conform to our ideas.

It seems almost useless to quote a price on an Overcoat without showing the Coat at the price.

The price means nothing, while the Coat means everything.

We've good Overcoats for as moderate a price as $5.00 or $7.50. Fabric and tailoring, of course, improve at $10.00 or $12.00, and after leaving these prices we come to Overcoat elegance and luxury at $15.00 or $20.00.

There's nothing wanting here to fill any man's fondest expectations in an Overcoat.

THE STAGE

ANNOUNCEMENTS
(Supplied to The Planet by Press Agents.)

At the Brisco Opera House—
On the Bridge at Midnight — Oct. 13.

"ON THE BRIDGE AT MIDNIGHT." The great scenic production, "On the Bridge at Midnight," which is to appear at the Brisco Theatre to-night, has many other remarkable scenes besides the celebrated reproduction of the Jack-knife bridge over the Chicago River. Every act has a most interesting setting and is a fitting compliment for a most interesting story in which the love and devotion of a blind mother and a stolen child play very important parts. For years the mother searches and is about to yield to adversity when she is unexpectedly successful. An exceptionally strong company have been provided, and the management's well known reputation as a producer has made "On the Bridge at Midnight" one of the best attractions on this season.

(Prices—15, 25, 35, 50, and a few at 75 cents.)

SUPERIOR ATTRACTIONS

Chatham Lyceum Course
This Year Will Excel
All Others

SOMETHING ABOUT THEM

The many patrons of the Chatham Lyceum Course, who were so delighted with the entertainments and lectures provided for them last season, will be pleased to learn that Mr. D. S. Patterson, the manager of the course, has decided to again present three star attractions for their approval, this year.

This course, under the management of Mr. Patterson, has been one of the best educational influences in the city, and they are at the same time bright and interesting. Last year they were most successful in every way, and this year the entertainments are far in excess of the others, both in quality and popularity.

The attractions this year are:—
Strickland W. Gilliam, of Baltimore, Humorist and Poet; The Famous Cleveland Orchestra; and Hon. Walter M. Chandler, of the New York Bar, in a lecture, "The Trial of Jesus, from a Lawyer's Standpoint." The first one comes on Oct. 26, the second on January 4, and the third on April 1.

All of the attractions are presented by the highest press notices. The Miamiburg, Ont. News says of Mr. Chandler: "Since the days when George R. Wendling lectured in Miamiburg no lecturer has equaled Hon. Walter M. Chandler, who was here Tuesday evening. His subject was 'The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint,' and the able lawyer and fine orator held the large audience spellbound as he elucidated the Jewish and Roman law and narrated the events and incidents of that most memorable of all trials."

Of Mr. Gilliam, equally high praise is given. Of him the Bellevue Gazette says: "He is irresistibly funny. You are compelled to laugh whether he says anything or not."

The Cleveland Ladies' Orchestra will be the musical event. They are accompanied by Frederic Irving, the Bass-Baritone. They carry a violin soloist, a trombone soloist, a cornet soloist and a brass quartette.

Mr. Patterson is to be complimented for securing such worthy entertainments, and there is no doubt that the course will be the most popular thing in its line this winter.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S ALLEGED HOLD-UP

horse's head did not come to his partner's rescue? The assailants seem to have got cold feet directly after they had discovered that Gore was seriously and perhaps fatally injured. The Planet has since been informed that Gore made the statement later that no whip was used. If Gore and Lague really think that they were held up as reported, they should certainly lay an information with the County Police, and have assailants brought to justice.
